

THE CITY OF NEW YORK
OFFICE OF THE MAYOR
NEW YORK, NY 10007

September 27, 2018

Dear Requester,

This letter is in response to requests pursuant to the Freedom of Information Law received by this Office, seeking generally the following records:

Correspondence between the Office of the Mayor and Hilltop Public Solutions, AKPD Message & Media and Patrick Gaspard.

Due to the number of FOIL requests the Mayor's Office has received for similar communications, the documents being disclosed to you today may include materials that are outside the scope of your request.

The responsive records comprise:

- A. Material previously withheld in full or in part pursuant to the inter-agency exemption §87(2)(g).
 - Range: January 1, 2014 to December 31, 2016.
- B. Material previously produced in full or in part, or withheld in full.
 - Range: January 1, 2014 to December 31, 2016.
- C. Material responsive to requests not yet fulfilled, and thus not produced previously.
 - Range: January 1, 2017 to December 31, 2017.

Please note that some responsive materials have been redacted in part and several emails have been withheld in their entirety pursuant to Public Officers Law §87(2)(b). Some schedules have been redacted pursuant to Public Officers Law §87(2)(b). Please also note that some responsive material has been redacted in part pursuant to §87(2)(f).

Additionally, you will find a table containing the identities of those whose personal email addresses were redacted pursuant to Public Officers Law §87(2)(b), effectively concealing the identities of the senders and/or recipients. Please note that the Mayor's Office is not aware of all identities of email recipients and senders. Those email senders and recipients who could not be identified are marked as “Unknown” on the attached table.

You may appeal the determination with regard to this production in writing within thirty days by addressing such an appeal to foilappeal@cityhall.nyc.gov.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read "Katherine Cocklin". The signature is written in a cursive style with a large initial "K" and "C".

Katherine Cocklin
Associate Counsel
Records Access Officer

Page No.	AKPD
1	Mayor, Peter Ragone, Lindsay Scola
4	Laura Santucci
69	Peter Ragone
91	Emma Wolfe
125	Mayor
127	Mayor
128	Mayor
129	Mayor
130	Mayor
134	Mayor, Ben Furnas
135	Mayor
138	Mayor
139	Peter Ragone
157	Mayor
178	Peter Ragone
181	Peter Ragone
216	Patrick Gaspard
223	Daniel Goldstein; Unknown
249	Daniel Goldstein; Unknown
270	Bill Hyers
271	Bill Hyers
275	Daniel Goldstein
277	Daniel Goldstein
278	Daniel Goldstein
288	Patrick Gaspard
289	Patrick Gaspard
290	Patrick Gaspard
312	Emma Wolfe
313	Emma Wolfe
315	Mayor
316	Mayor
324	Mayor
332	Mayor
355	Emma Wolfe
356	Emma Wolfe
358	Emma Wolfe
363	Emma Wolfe
367	Emma Wolfe
413	Mayor
418	Mayor
419	Bill Hyers
443	Dominic Williams, Peter Ragone
448	Adam Cohen
450	Laura Santucci, Dominic Williams, Mahen Gunaratna, Patrick Gaspard, Adam Cohen
452	Adam Cohen

Page No.	AKPD
456	Adam Cohen
460	Adam Cohen
461	Patrick Gaspard, Laura Santucci, Dominic Williams, Mahen Gunaratna, Adam Cohen
476	Dominic Williams
477	Adam Cohen
478	Adam Cohen
479	Adam Cohen
480	Adam Cohen
481	Adam Cohen
484	Mahen Gunaratna, Adam Cohen, Laura Santucci, Dominic Williams
485	Patrick Gaspard, Laura Santucci, Dominic Williams, Adam Cohen
486	Adam Cohen
487	Patrick Gaspard, Laura Santucci, Dominic Williams, Adam Cohen
491	Adam Cohen
492	Patrick Gaspard, Laura Santucci, Dominic Williams, Adam Cohen
499	Adam Cohen
555	Adam Cohen
577	Patrick Gaspard
579	Patrick Gaspard
581	Patrick Gaspard
583	Patrick Gaspard
585	Patrick Gaspard
600	Gabriel Schnake-Mahl
629	Maria Gindler
746	Jon Fromowitz
758	Jon Fromowitz
784	Jon Fromowitz
882	Monica Hanley, Elana Leopold
883	Monica Hanley, Elana Leopold
925	Monica Hanley, Elana Leopold
1418	Mayor
1420	Mayor
1821	Mayor
1828	Mayor
1860	James Patchett, Alicia Glen, Dominic Williams
1862	Gabriel Schnake-Mahl
1863	James Patchett, Alicia Glen, Dominic Williams
1987	Mayor
1988	Mayor
1989	Robert Hunter, Mayor
2092	Emma Wolfe

Page No.	AKPD
2118	Alicia Glen
2191	Mayor, Emma Wolfe
2213	Anthony Shorris, Andrea Hagelgans
2214	Anthony Shorris, Andrea Hagelgans
2216	Anthony Shorris, Andrea Hagelgans
2218	Anthony Shorris, Andrea Hagelgans
2410	Elana Leopold, Andrea Hagelgans, Mahen Gunaratna
2411	Elana Leopold
2419	Elana Leopold
2420	Elana Leopold
2424	Elana Leopold, Michael Carey
2438	Mayor
2453	Pamela Stamoulis
2502	Mayor
2539	Ross Offinger
2540	Elana Leopold, Aaron Pickrell
2541	Aaron Pickrell
2563	Roxanne John
2565	Roxanne John
2568	Elana Leopold
2569	Elana Leopold
2571	Roxanne John
2584	Aaron Pickrell
2586	Roxanne John
2616	Aaron Pickrell, Stephanie Yazgi
2630	Mayor
2632	Mayor
2634	Aaron Pickrell
2639	Stephanie Yazgi, Aaron Pickrell
2640	Aaron Pickrell
2655	Aaron Pickrell
2656	Aaron Pickrell
2763	Aaron Pickrell
2860	Aaron Pickrell
2899	Stephanie Yazgi
2906	Aaron Pickrell
2936	Aaron Pickrell
2958	Stephanie Yazgi
2995	Mayor
3001	Mayor
3044	Hayley Prim
3063	Alicia Glen
3072	Alicia Glen, Dean Fuleihan
3073	Alicia Glen, Dean Fuleihan, Dominic Williams
3074	Alicia Glen

Page No.	AKPD
3086	Alicia Glen, Dean Fuleihan
3087	Alicia Glen, Dean Fuleihan, Dominic Williams
3088	Alicia Glen
3089	Alicia Glen
3107	Alicia Glen, Dean Fuleihan, Dominic Williams
3109	Alicia Glen, Dean Fuleihan, Dominic Williams
3110	Alicia Glen
3149	Mayor
3202	Hayley Prim
3203	Mahen Gunaratna
3208	Aaron Pickrell
3213	Hayley Prim, Aaron Pickrell, John Davis
3215	Aaron Pickrell
3238	Aaron Pickrell, John Davis
3248	Aaron Pickrell, John Davis
3277	John Davis, Hayley Prim
3288	Aaron Pickrell, Hayley Prim
3310	John Davis, Hayley Prim
3321	Hayley Prim
3347	John Davis, Hayley Prim
3349	Hayley Prim
3351	Aaron Pickrell, John Davis
3354	Hayley Prim, Aaron Pickrell, John Davis, Jeani Murray
3361	Hayley Prim, Aaron Pickrell, John Davis
3364	Hayley Prim, Aaron Pickrell, John Davis
3367	Hayley Prim, Aaron Pickrell, John Davis, Jeani Murray
3370	Hayley Prim, Aaron Pickrell
3371	Aaron Pickrell, John Davis, Jeani Murray
3375	Hayley Prim, Aaron Pickrell, John Davis
3378	Jeani Murray, Aaron Pickrell, John Davis, Hayley Prim
3383	Jeani Murray, Aaron Pickrell, John Davis, Hayley Prim
3388	Jeani Murray, Aaron Pickrell, John Davis, Hayley Prim
3389	Jeani Murray, Aaron Pickrell, John Davis, Hayley Prim
3394	Hayley Prim
3398	Hayley Prim
3405	Hayley Prim
3407	Hayley Prim
3413	Jeani Murray, Aaron Pickrell, John Davis, Hayley Prim
3419	Hayley Prim

Page No.	AKPD
3424	Jeani Murray, Aaron Pickrell, John Davis, Hayley Prim
3427	Jeani Murray
3436	Jeani Murray, Aaron Pickrell, John Davis, Hayley Prim
3439	John Davis, Aaron Pickrell, Jeani Murray
3444	Aaron Pickrell
3449	Aaron Pickrell, John Davis, Jeani Murray
3452	Hayley Prim
3472	Jeani Murray, Aaron Pickrell, John Davis, Hayley Prim
3479	Hayley Prim
3518	Rebecca Katz
3525	Rebecca Katz
3551	Hayley Prim, Elana Leopold
3564	Hayley Prim
3565	Hayley Prim
3571	Hayley Prim
3573	Hayley Prim
3576	Hayley Prim
3577	Hayley Prim
3579	Jeani Murray, Aaron Pickrell, John Davis, Hayley Prim
3580	Jeani Murray, Aaron Pickrell, John Davis, Hayley Prim
3589	Hayley Prim
3592	Hayley Prim
3593	Hayley Prim
3594	Hayley Prim
3602	Aaron Pickrell
3615	Aaron Pickrell
3636	Ross Offinger, Chrystia Freeland
3640	Jeani Murray, Aaron Pickrell, John Davis, Hayley Prim
3646	Rebecca Katz
3656	Jeani Murray, Aaron Pickrell, John Davis, Hayley Prim
3688	Hayley Prim
3691	Hayley Prim
3694	Hayley Prim
3736	Hayley Prim
3739	Rebecca Katz
3743	Hayley Prim
3750	Rebecca Katz
3754	Hayley Prim
3764	Hayley Prim

Page No.	AKPD
3769	Hayley Prim
3770	Hayley Prim
3779	Jeani Murray, John Davis, Hayley Prim, Aaron Pickrell
3780	Jeani Murray, Aaron Pickrell, John Davis
3781	Hayley Prim, Elana Leopold
3795	Jeani Murray, John Davis, Hayley Prim, Aaron Pickrell
3796	Jeani Murray, Aaron Pickrell, John Davis
3797	Aaron Pickrell, John Davis, Hayley Prim, Elana Leopold
3816	Hayley Prim
3838	Hayley Prim
3945	Hayley Prim
3967	Jeani Murray
3987	Hayley Prim
3988	Hayley Prim
3989	Hayley Prim
3991	Hayley Prim
4024	Hayley Prim
4063	Aaron Pickrell
4070	Hayley Prim
4072	Hayley Prim, John Davis, Jeani Murray, Aaron Pickrell
4073	Hayley Prim, John Davis, Jeani Murray, Aaron Pickrell
4074	Aaron Pickrell, John Davis, Hayley Prim, Elana Leopold
4083	Aaron Pickrell
4097	Aaron Pickrell
4098	Aaron Pickrell
4103	Aaron Pickrell
4123	Jeani Murray
4128	Jeani Murray
4129	Jeani Murray
4130	Jeani Murray
4141	Aaron Pickrell, Hayley Prim, Jeani Murray, John Davis, Rebecca Katz
4143	Hayley Prim
4144	Jeani Murray
4159	Hayley Prim
4173	Hayley Prim
4190	Hayley Prim
4192	Hayley Prim
4194	Hayley Prim
4202	Hayley Prim

Page No.	AKPD
4203	Hayley Prim
4214	Hayley Prim
4246	Hayley Prim
4247	Hayley Prim
4248	Hayley Prim
4310	Hayley Prim
4312	Hayley Prim
4407	Peter Ragone
4422	Peter Ragone
4463	Peter Ragone
4484	Hayley Prim
4486	Hayley Prim
4489	Hayley Prim
4512	Hayley Prim
4523	Hayley Prim
4540	Stephen Lerner
4555	Hayley Prim
4607	Hayley Prim
4608	Hayley Prim
4610	Hayley Prim
4656	Aaron Pickrell
4657	Aaron Pickrell, Hayley Prim
4658	Aaron Pickrell, Hayley Prim
4660	Aaron Pickrell, Hayley Prim
4738	Hayley Prim
4823	Stephen Lerner
5083	John Del Cecato
5090	John Del Cecato
5188	John Del Cecato
5264	Aaron Pickrell
5267	Ronalie de Alwis, Aaron Pickrell
5596	John Del Cecato
5597	John Del Cecato
5664	John Del Cecato
5665	John Del Cecato
5668	John Del Cecato
5953	Hayley Prim
6069	Tom Harkin
6070	Tom Harkin
6201	Karen Hinton
6204	Karen Hinton
6206	Karen Hinton
6207	Karen Hinton
6210	Karen Hinton
6211	Karen Hinton
6214	Mayor

Page No.	AKPD
6215	Mayor
6396	Geri Prado
6398	Geri Prado
6400	Geri Prado
6403	Geri Prado
6405	Geri Prado
6407	Geri Prado
6408	Geri Prado
6490	Geri Prado
6614	Geri Prado
6642	Mayor
6653	Geri Prado
6748	Geri Prado
6749	Geri Prado
6802	Geri Prado
6964	Javier Gonzales
6988	Geri Prado
7004	Geri Prado
7102	Maureen Salter
7112	Maureen Salter
7179	Gabrielle Fialkoff
7181	Gabrielle Fialkoff
7183	Gabrielle Fialkoff
7192	Maureen Salter
7197	Gabrielle Fialkoff
7208	Gabrielle Fialkoff
7231	Gabrielle Fialkoff
7249	Emma Wolfe
7252	Mayor
7266	Emma Wolfe
7270	Emma Wolfe
7279	Maureen Salter
7317	Emma Wolfe
7789	Geri Prado
8234	Maya Wiley
8280	John Del Cecato
8331	John Del Cecato
8569	Geri Prado
8628	Geri Prado
8668	Geri Prado
8669	Geri Prado
8676	Geri Prado
8677	Geri Prado
8678	Geri Prado
8685	Geri Prado
8686	Geri Prado

Page No.	AKPD
8689	Geri Prado
8690	Geri Prado
8691	Geri Prado
8694	Geri Prado
8695	Geri Prado
8696	Geri Prado
8719	Geri Prado
8720	Geri Prado
8725	Geri Prado
8726	Geri Prado
8731	Geri Prado
8732	Geri Prado
8738	Geri Prado
8739	Geri Prado
8740	Geri Prado
9023	Geri Prado, Ariel Hayes
9029	Geri Prado, Ariel Hayes
9051	Ariel Hayes
9052	Ariel Hayes
9053	Ariel Hayes
9119	Unknown
9461	Andrea Hagelgans
9464	John Del Cecato
9588	Kayla Arslanian
9623	Ariel Hayes
9906	Geri Prado
10092	Mayor
10115	Maya Wiley
10119	Geri Prado
10127	Geri Prado
10129	Maya Wiley
10139	Geri Prado
10140	Geri Prado
10344	Geri Prado
10350	Geri Prado
10375	Mayor
10376	Unknown
10426	Geri Prado
10427	Geri Prado
10428	Geri Prado
10429	Geri Prado
10430	Geri Prado
10431	Geri Prado
10466	Geri Prado
10473	Geri Prado
10487	Geri Prado

Page No.	AKPD
10488	Geri Prado
10505	Ross Offinger
10582	Geri Prado
10614	Geri Prado
10633	Geri Prado
10685	Geri Prado
10686	Geri Prado
10687	Geri Prado
10765	Geri Prado
10979	Mayor
11052	Kaja Trime, Kevin O'Brien, Mike Casca, Andrea Hagelgans, Dominic Williams, Jonathan Fromowitz, Eric Phillips, Emma Wolfe
11053	Marti Adams Baker

From: John Del Cecato
To: Santucci, Laura; [REDACTED] Peter Ragone; Lindsay Scola
Cc: Chirlane McCray
Subject: Re: NYC Mayor
Date: Monday, January 06, 2014 12:51:36 PM
Attachments: image001.png
image002.png
image003.png

hmm... fine with most of that... ohio – gotta think about that one... yes, very important state... but i worry a bit about the optics

From: <Santucci>, Laura <LSantucci@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Monday, January 6, 2014 at 12:32 PM
To: "[REDACTED]" <[REDACTED]> Peter Ragone
<[REDACTED]> John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, Lindsay Scola
<[REDACTED]>
Cc: Chirlane McCray <[REDACTED]>
Subject: RE: NYC Mayor

Projecting the progressive agenda on national stage is important. We'll map out.

From: Bill de Blasio [[mailto:\[REDACTED\]](mailto:[REDACTED])]
Sent: Monday, January 06, 2014 12:29 PM
To: Peter Ragone; John Del Cecato; Santucci, Laura; Lindsay Scola
Cc: Chirlane McCray
Subject: Fw: NYC Mayor

This intrigues me, although I'm generally going to be VERY modest, local and travel-adverse this year. But Ohio is the center of the political universe and I love it there. And from time to time, I do want to project the progressive message nationally to reinforce my fellow progressives. So this appeals to me, as does 3 other things for the first half of the year -- and several could be conveniently grouped together:

1. Next US conf of mayors mtg -- want to show nyc with humbly be a team player with other mayors
2. I happily promised Axelrod I would speak at his center in Chicago at some point
3. I happily promised jim crouse I would speak at U of Nebraska/Lincoln where he has run an annual speakers series

All very flexible, but wanted to offer a starting point for discussion. Let's talk thru soon

Sent via BlackBerry by AT&T

From: "Gregory Atkins" <greg.atkins@v3hotels.com>
Date: Mon, 6 Jan 2014 11:50:54 -0500
To: <[REDACTED]>

Subject: FW: NYC Mayor

Mr. Mayor,

I hope you are having fun so far. You will be happy to hear that in my 20 years living in NYC, I have never had a Democratic Mayor, OR seen a mayor shovel his own sidewalk. ;)

The email below is an invitation from the Ohio Democratic Party for you to speak at their annual dinner. My friend is the ED there and wanted me to forward this to you. His name is Bill Demora and you can have your scheduler reach out to him directly if you are interested.

G

Gregory D. Atkins

Brooklyn Hotel Group, LLC

Partner

ga@brooklynhotelgroup.com

www.brooklynhotelgroup.com

V3 Hotels

President

greg.atkins@v3hotels.com

www.v3hotels.com

mobile 917.971.5749

Follow me @gregory_atkins

Think Green; do you really need to print this email?

NOTICE: This E-mail (including attachments) is covered by the Electronic Communications Privacy Act, 18 U.S.C. §§ 2510-2521, is confidential, and may be legally privileged. The information is solely for the use of the addressee named above. If you are not the intended recipient, any disclosure, copying, distribution or other use of the contents of this information is strictly prohibited. If you have received this e-mail in error, please notify us by return e-mail and delete this message.

From: Bill DeMora [<mailto:> [REDACTED]]

Sent: Monday, January 06, 2014 11:43 AM

To: greg.atkins@v3hotels.com

Subject: NYC Mayor

Greg,

I hope this message finds you well...

I wanted to follow up with you about contacting your Mayor to speak in Ohio in March for our State Dem Party Spring Dinner.

I am the contact person at my cell number [REDACTED] or this email.

Bill

From: Katz, Rebecca
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Re: Planning Meeting for Mayor de Blasio tomorrow
Date: Sunday, January 12, 2014 10:27:09 AM

It's a whole different ballgame now. Working out of City Hall is surreal.

----- Original Message -----

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Sunday, January 12, 2014 10:18 AM
To: Katz, Rebecca
Subject: Re: Planning Meeting for Mayor de Blasio tomorrow

Now my mental-ness over missing the meeting has been replaced by mental-ness over looking like I'm assshole. [REDACTED]

> On Jan 12, 2014, at 10:10 AM, "Katz, Rebecca" <RKKatz@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>
> Hahah

>
> ----- Original Message -----
> From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
> Sent: Sunday, January 12, 2014 10:03 AM
> To: Katz, Rebecca
> Subject: Re: Planning Meeting for Mayor de Blasio tomorrow

>
> That's what I was led to believe!! I'm not being full of myself - I swear!

>
>> On Jan 12, 2014, at 9:57 AM, "Katz, Rebecca" <RKKatz@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>>
>> Is that really the whole point of the meeting, John?

>>
>>
>> ----- Original Message -----
>> From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
>> Sent: Sunday, January 12, 2014 09:11 AM
>> To: Katz, Rebecca
>> Subject: Re: Planning Meeting for Mayor de Blasio tomorrow

>>
>> Hahaha. I feel bad but if the whole point of the meeting is for BDB to tell me what he wants, shouldn't they check with me before they invite a dozen people and decide this is happening? I have other clients who are like "okay, you know de Blasio - great. How about MY RACE?!"

>>
>>> On Jan 12, 2014, at 6:51 AM, "Katz, Rebecca" <RKKatz@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>>>
>>> This email is hilarious. I think you forgot the whole he-is-mayor-now thing.

>>>
>>> ----- Original Message -----
>>> From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
>>> Sent: Saturday, January 11, 2014 11:09 PM
>>> To: Scola, Lindsay
>>> Cc: jonathan@berlinrosen.com <jonathan@berlinrosen.com>; Wolfe, Emma; Williams, Dominic; Katz, Rebecca; [REDACTED] <[REDACTED]>; Ragone, Peter; Shorris, Anthony; Grybauskas, Stefan
>>> Subject: Re: Planning Meeting for Mayor de Blasio tomorrow

>>>

>>> I can't tomorrow at that time but free Mon

>>>

>>>> On Jan 11, 2014, at 8:05 PM, "Scola, Lindsay" <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>>>>

>>>> Please join a planning meeting with Mayor de Blasio from 5:15pm to 7:00pm tomorrow, Sunday January 12th.

>>>>

>>>> The meeting will take place in the Mayor's conference room.

>>>>

>>>> For those of you joining from outside the building please check in at the Security desk and you will be escorted to the office.

>>>>

>>>> Let me know if you have any questions.

>>>>

>>>> Best,

>>>> Lindsay

From: Banks, Angela
To: "Robert Munoz"
Subject: RE: Getting into city hall
Date: Thursday, January 16, 2014 2:43:35 PM

Thank you for writing.

Please send your request to the office at pressoffice@cityhall.nyc.gov.

Thank you.

Angela Banks
Mayor's Press Office

From: Robert Munoz [<mailto:rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Thursday, January 16, 2014 1:07 PM
To: Banks, Angela
Subject: RE: Getting into city hall

Hey Angela, just following up. Any way you can help with this?

From: Mahen Gunaratna [<mailto:> [REDACTED]]
Sent: Wednesday, January 15, 2014 1:56 PM
To: Robert Munoz
Cc: Banks, Angela
Subject: Re: Getting into city hall

Looping Angela, our Director of Press Operations

On Wed, Jan 15, 2014 at 1:54 PM, Robert Munoz <rmunoz@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

Hey Mahen I sent this to Monica earlier, but maybe you can help

Crain's wants to do an article on AKPD and Del Cecato, but they want to take the pictures in front of city hall(as a backdrop). The photographer said he and his crew need to get on the list the guards have, so they can bring their equipment. Would you know how we could do that ?

Sent from my iPhone

From: Mayor's Press Office
To: "Robert Munoz"; Banks, Angela
Subject: RE: Crain's NY Photography at City Hall Monday the 20th at 1PM
Date: Friday, January 17, 2014 12:37:42 PM

Rob, looping you with Angela who will give the names below to the guards. Pls let her know when this shoot will be and anything you need from our staff, and whether this will be indoor or out.

Ty!

From: Robert Munoz [<mailto:rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Friday, January 17, 2014 11:05 AM
To: Mayor's Press Office
Subject: Re: Crain's NY Photography at City Hall Monday the 20th at 1PM

Hey Monica,

Any updates on this? JDC wants to email Phil, but I told him you had it covered.

Sent from my iPhone

On Jan 16, 2014, at 3:05 PM, "Robert Munoz" <rmunoz@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

Hey Monica,

The photographers names are: Buck Ennis and Duncan Hall from Crain's. I don't think anyone on the City Hall side is handling it. They just wanted to be able to get past the guards so they can take a pic on the city hall grounds. Don't think they're going to be covering BDB or anything related to the admin aside from the biographical relation he has to JDC.

From: Mayor's Press Office [<mailto:pressoffice@cityhall.nyc.gov>]
Sent: Thursday, January 16, 2014 3:00 PM
To: Robert Munoz; Mayor's Press Office
Subject: RE: Crain's NY Photography at City Hall Monday the 20th at 1PM

Hey Rob it's Monica. Looping Angela.

RM – can you give us the names from the photog? Also who is handling this photo shoot on the City Hall side?

If you give names to Angela she can add to guard's list

From: Robert Munoz [<mailto:rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Thursday, January 16, 2014 2:58 PM
To: Mayor's Press Office
Subject: Crain's NY Photography at City Hall Monday the 20th at 1PM

Angela Banks told me to e-mail this address, so hopefully this gets through:

Crain's wants to do an article on AKPD Message and Media and John Del Cecato, but they want to take the pictures in front of city hall(as a backdrop). The photographer said he and his crew need to get on the list the guards have, so they can bring their equipment. Is there any way this can be done for nMonday at 1PM?

The names of the photographers are: Buck Ennis and Duncan Ball. Thanks for the help!

From: Banks, Angela
To: "Robert Munoz"
Cc: Mayor's Press Office
Subject: RE: Crain's NY Photography at City Hall Monday the 20th at 1PM
Date: Friday, January 17, 2014 1:14:19 PM

Hi Rob,

It is my understanding that all you need is permission to shoot in the Plaza of City Hall at 1pm - 2pm. The photographers are Buck Ennis and Duncan Hall from Crain's. It is all that you need?

-

Angela Banks
Mayor's Press Office
212-788-2958

From: Mayor's Press Office
Sent: Friday, January 17, 2014 12:38 PM
To: 'Robert Munoz'; Banks, Angela
Subject: RE: Crain's NY Photography at City Hall Monday the 20th at 1PM

Rob, looping you with Angela who will give the names below to the guards. Pls let her know when this shoot will be and anything you need from our staff, and whether this will be indoor or out.

Ty!

From: Banks, Angela
To: "Robert Munoz"
Subject: RE: please submit cell numbers for the 2 photographers, and email addresses, and your cell.
Date: Friday, January 17, 2014 2:54:50 PM

Okay, thanks.

From: Robert Munoz [<mailto:rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Friday, January 17, 2014 2:54 PM
To: Banks, Angela
Subject: Re: please submit cell numbers for the 2 photographers, and email addresses, and your cell.

Woops made a slight mistake on that email. The number for Buck Ennis and Duncan Ball is [REDACTED].

Sent from my iPhone

On Jan 17, 2014, at 2:48 PM, "Banks, Angela" <abanks@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

GREAT. Thanks.

From: Robert Munoz [<mailto:rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Friday, January 17, 2014 2:46 PM
To: Banks, Angela
Subject: RE: please submit cell numbers for the 2 photographers, and email addresses, and your cell.

My info:
Robert Munoz
rmunoz@akpdmedia.com
[REDACTED]

John Del Cecato
jfdc@akpdmedia.com
[REDACTED]

Photographers:
Buck Ennis and Duncan Ball
[REDACTED]
Bennis@crainsnewyork.com

From: Banks, Angela [<mailto:abanks@cityhall.nyc.gov>]
Sent: Friday, January 17, 2014 2:07 PM
To: Robert Munoz

Subject: please submit cell numbers for the 2 photographers, and email addresses, and your cell.

Thanks.

Angela Banks
Mayor's Press Office
Director of Operations
abanks@cityhall.nyc.gov
212-788-2958 - Main
212-788-4878 - Direct

From: Banks, Angela
To: Police Desk
Cc: Robert Munoz \(rmunoz@akpdmedia.com\); Mayor's Press Office
Subject: Crain's NY Photography will be shooting inside City Hall in the Rotunda on Monday, 1/20 at 1PM - 3PM
Date: Friday, January 17, 2014 2:55:08 PM

ATTN: Police Desk,

Please be advised, the Mayor's Press Office has granted permission for Crain's NY Photography to hold a photo shoot inside City Hall in the Rotunda AND outside on the City Hall Steps and the Plaza on Monday, 1/20 at 1PM - 3PM.

This shoot was set up by:

Robert Munoz

rmunoz@akpdmedia.com

[REDACTED]

The photographers are Buck Ennis and Duncan Hall from Crain's.

Buck Ennis and Duncan Ball

[REDACTED]

Bennis@crainsnewyork.com

The subject of the shoot is John Del Cecato.

John Del Cecato

jfdc@akpdmedia.com

[REDACTED]

Any issues, please email the Mayor's Press Office at pressoffice@cityhall.nyc.gov AND Robert Munoz, rmunoz@akpdmedia.com.

Thank you.

Angela Banks
Mayor's Press Office
Director of Operations
abanks@cityhall.nyc.gov
212-788-2958 - Main
212-788-4878 - Direct

From: Scola, Lindsay
To: Raymond Chao; John Del Cecato
Cc: Grybauskas, Stefan; Robert Munoz; Katz, Rebecca
Subject: RE: Time with the Mayor
Date: Friday, January 24, 2014 1:22:00 PM

John,

I think speech prep might get pulled down. Will make a call here by 1:30.

From: Raymond Chao
Sent: Friday, January 24, 2014 1:16 PM
To: John Del Cecato; Scola, Lindsay
Cc: Grybauskas, Stefan; Robert Munoz; Katz, Rebecca
Subject: RE: Time with the Mayor

Hey John,

Just wanted to let you know the Mayor is running behind schedule and may start to eat into the allotted speech prep time.

You should be on standby to come in and we should have a better sense in the hour.

But Lindsay suggests you should still meet with Peter, regardless if the Mayor can attend or not.

Raymond Chao
Scheduling Coordinator
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: (212)-788-7565
Cell: (347)-607-8325

From: Raymond Chao
Sent: Thursday, January 23, 2014 3:36 PM
To: 'John Del Cecato'; Scola, Lindsay
Cc: Grybauskas, Stefan; 'Robert Munoz'
Subject: RE: Time with the Mayor

Hi all,

The Daily Show prep for tomorrow has been canceled but we still have State of the City speech prep slotted at 2PM-3:30PM at City Hall.

Rob,
Does this work on John's calendar?

Please let me know if you have any issues.

Thanks,

Raymond Chao
Scheduling Coordinator
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: (212)-788-7565
Cell: (347)-607-8325

From: Raymond Chao
Sent: Wednesday, January 22, 2014 1:37 PM
To: 'John Del Cecato'; Scola, Lindsay
Cc: Grybauskas, Stefan; Robert Munoz
Subject: RE: Time with the Mayor

Hi John,

You guys are slotted for:

Friday 1/24 -

Daily Show prep: 3:00PM – 4:00PM
Speech prep: 7:30PM – 9:00PM

Thanks,

Raymond Chao
Scheduling Coordinator
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: (212)-788-7565
Cell: (347)-607-8325

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, January 21, 2014 9:10 PM
To: Scola, Lindsay
Cc: Raymond Chao; Grybauskas, Stefan; Robert Munoz
Subject: Re: Time with the Mayor

Ok thanks.. Rob - if we have to move the Brooklyn deal, so be it

From: <Scola>, Lindsay <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Tuesday, January 21, 2014 at 8:56 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: Raymond Chao <rchao@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Grybauskas, Stefan"

<SGrybauskas@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Robert Munoz <rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>

Subject: RE: Time with the Mayor

Think the timing will be 3-4 and 7:30 – 8:00pm

Confirmed times tomorrow

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, January 21, 2014 8:55 PM
To: Scola, Lindsay
Cc: Raymond Chao; Grybauskas, Stefan; Robert Munoz
Subject: Re: Time with the Mayor

Sounds good... All I have is a 3pm meeting in Brooklyn - is that right Rob? And I can move that if need be

From: <Scola>, Lindsay <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Tuesday, January 21, 2014 at 8:44 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: Raymond Chao <rchao@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Grybauskas, Stefan" <SGrybauskas@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Robert Munoz <rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: Time with the Mayor

I am moving speech prep to Friday as well. We will get you updated times. There will likely be a 2hr gap between them so please let us know if you need space to work here/ wifi etc.

Thanks,
Lindsay

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, January 21, 2014 7:12 PM
To: Scola, Lindsay
Cc: Raymond Chao; Grybauskas, Stefan; Robert Munoz
Subject: Re: Time with the Mayor

Yes... Peter gave me some direction, but I don't want to go too far down the wrong road if you guys have specific goals beyond what I've been given...

But I'm also happy to just complete a draft as a working document & then the Mayor & Peter & the team can just hack it up & tell me what to change, if that's best

From: <Scola>, Lindsay <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Tuesday, January 21, 2014 at 7:07 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: Raymond Chao <rchao@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Grybauskas, Stefan" <SGrybauskas@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Robert Munoz <rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Time with the Mayor

Draft for speech? Ill connect with Peter.

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, January 21, 2014 07:05 PM
To: Scola, Lindsay
Cc: Raymond Chao; Grybauskas, Stefan; Robert Munoz <rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Time with the Mayor

Thanks Lindsay... I'm scheduled to be in Philly for a client tomorrow night, but Friday & Sunday are free...

Still working on first draft ... Should I have that ready in advance of Friday - or are you thinking the Mayor wants to talk it through first?

From: <Scola>, Lindsay <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Tuesday, January 21, 2014 at 7:00 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: Raymond Chao <rchao@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Grybauskas, Stefan" <SGrybauskas@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Time with the Mayor

Hi Jon,

I have a few things for you this week.

We are going to do speech prep from 6:00 – 7:30 tomorrow at City Hall or the State of the City.

We are going to do Daily Show Prep from 6:00 – 7:00pm on Friday.

And TBD Planning meeting with the Mayor on Sunday.

My team will get you finalized times.

Best,
Lindsay

Lindsay Scola
Director of Scheduling
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212.788.2962
Cell: 917.513.1690

From: John Del Cecato
To: Raymond Chao; Scola, Lindsay
Cc: Grybauskas, Stefan; Robert Munoz; Katz, Rebecca
Subject: Re: Time with the Mayor
Date: Friday, January 24, 2014 7:32:39 PM

Sounds good

From: Raymond Chao <rchao@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Friday, January 24, 2014 at 1:16 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmmedia.com>, "Scola, Lindsay" <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: "Grybauskas, Stefan" <SGrybauskas@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Robert Munoz <rmunoz@akpdmmedia.com>, Rebecca Katz <RKKatz@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: RE: Time with the Mayor

Hey John,

Just wanted to let you know the Mayor is running behind schedule and may start to eat into the allotted speech prep time.

You should be on standby to come in and we should have a better sense in the hour.

But Lindsay suggests you should still meet with Peter, regardless if the Mayor can attend or not.

Raymond Chao
Scheduling Coordinator
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: (212)-788-7565
Cell: (347)-607-8325

From: Raymond Chao
Sent: Thursday, January 23, 2014 3:36 PM
To: 'John Del Cecato'; Scola, Lindsay
Cc: Grybauskas, Stefan; 'Robert Munoz'
Subject: RE: Time with the Mayor

Hi all,

The Daily Show prep for tomorrow has been canceled but we still have State of the City speech prep slotted at 2PM-3:30PM at City Hall.

Rob,
Does this work on John's calendar?

Please let me know if you have any issues.

Thanks,

Raymond Chao
Scheduling Coordinator
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: (212)-788-7565
Cell: (347)-607-8325

From: Raymond Chao
Sent: Wednesday, January 22, 2014 1:37 PM
To: 'John Del Cecato'; Scola, Lindsay
Cc: Grybauskas, Stefan; Robert Munoz
Subject: RE: Time with the Mayor

Hi John,

You guys are slotted for:

Friday 1/24 -

Daily Show prep: 3:00PM – 4:00PM
Speech prep: 7:30PM – 9:00PM

Thanks,

Raymond Chao
Scheduling Coordinator
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: (212)-788-7565
Cell: (347)-607-8325

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, January 21, 2014 9:10 PM
To: Scola, Lindsay
Cc: Raymond Chao; Grybauskas, Stefan; Robert Munoz
Subject: Re: Time with the Mayor

Ok thanks.. Rob - if we have to move the Brooklyn deal, so be it

From: <Scola>, Lindsay <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Tuesday, January 21, 2014 at 8:56 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: Raymond Chao <rchao@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Grybauskas, Stefan" <SGrybauskas@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Robert Munoz <rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: Time with the Mayor

Think the timing will be 3-4 and 7:30 – 8:00pm

Confirmed times tomorrow

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, January 21, 2014 8:55 PM
To: Scola, Lindsay
Cc: Raymond Chao; Grybauskas, Stefan; Robert Munoz
Subject: Re: Time with the Mayor

Sounds good... All I have is a 3pm meeting in Brooklyn - is that right Rob? And I can move that if need be

From: <Scola>, Lindsay <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Tuesday, January 21, 2014 at 8:44 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: Raymond Chao <rchao@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Grybauskas, Stefan" <SGrybauskas@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Robert Munoz <rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: Time with the Mayor

I am moving speech prep to Friday as well. We will get you updated times. There will likely be a 2hr gap between them so please let us know if you need space to work here/ wifi etc.

Thanks,
Lindsay

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, January 21, 2014 7:12 PM
To: Scola, Lindsay
Cc: Raymond Chao; Grybauskas, Stefan; Robert Munoz
Subject: Re: Time with the Mayor

Yes... Peter gave me some direction, but I don't want to go too far down the wrong road if you guys have specific goals beyond what I've been given...

But I'm also happy to just complete a draft as a working document & then the Mayor & Peter & the team can just hack it up & tell me what to change, if that's best

From: <Scola>, Lindsay <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Tuesday, January 21, 2014 at 7:07 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: Raymond Chao <rchao@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Grybauskas, Stefan" <SGrybauskas@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Robert Munoz <rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Time with the Mayor

Draft for speech? Ill connect with Peter.

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, January 21, 2014 07:05 PM
To: Scola, Lindsay
Cc: Raymond Chao; Grybauskas, Stefan; Robert Munoz <rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Time with the Mayor

Thanks Lindsay... I'm scheduled to be in Philly for a client tomorrow night, but Friday & Sunday are free...

Still working on first draft ... Should I have that ready in advance of Friday - or are you thinking the Mayor wants to talk it through first?

From: <Scola>, Lindsay <L.Scola@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Tuesday, January 21, 2014 at 7:00 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: Raymond Chao <rchao@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Grybauskas, Stefan" <SGrybauskas@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Time with the Mayor

Hi Jon,

I have a few things for you this week.

We are going to do speech prep from 6:00 – 7:30 tomorrow at City Hall or the State of the City.

We are going to do Daily Show Prep from 6:00 – 7:00pm on Friday.

And TBD Planning meeting with the Mayor on Sunday.

My team will get you finalized times.

Best,
Lindsay

Lindsay Scola
Director of Scheduling
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212.788.2962
Cell: 917.513.1690

From: Raymond Chao
To: Santucci, Laura; Shorris, Anthony; Ragone, Peter; Wolfe, Emma; Williams, Dominic; Katz, Rebecca; jonathan@berlinrosen.com; jfdc@akpdmedia.com
Cc: Shapiro, Leigh; Griffith, Chantell; Seignious, Sandy; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; rmunoz@akpdmedia.com
Subject: RE: TIME CHANGE Planning Meeting 1/26 - 12:30-2:00PM
Date: Friday, January 24, 2014 9:11:00 PM

Hi,

Please note that the Planning Meeting in the Mayor's Office on Sunday 1/26 has a time change:

It will now take place 12:30PM – 2:00PM.

Please let me know of any issues.

Thanks,

Raymond Chao
Scheduling Coordinator
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: (212)-788-7565
Cell: (347)-607-8325

From: Raymond Chao
Sent: Friday, January 24, 2014 3:22 PM
To: Santucci, Laura; Shorris, Anthony; Ragone, Peter; Wolfe, Emma; Williams, Dominic; Katz, Rebecca; 'jonathan@berlinrosen.com'; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'
Cc: Shapiro, Leigh; Griffith, Chantell; Seignious, Sandy; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; 'rmunoz@akpdmedia.com'
Subject: Planning Meeting

Hi,

There will be a Planning Meeting in the Outer Ceremonial room on Sunday 1/26 at 1:15PM.

Thank you,

Raymond Chao
Scheduling Coordinator
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: (212)-788-7565
Cell: (347)-607-8325

From: Raymond Chao
To: Santucci, Laura; Shorris, Anthony; Ragone, Peter; Wolfe, Emma; Williams, Dominic; Katz, Rebecca; jonathan@berlinrosen.com; jfdc@akpdmedia.com
Cc: Shapiro, Leigh; Griffith, Chantell; Seignious, Sandy; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; rmunoz@akpdmedia.com
Subject: RE: TIME CHANGE Planning Meeting 1/26 - 1:15-3:00PM
Date: Saturday, January 25, 2014 10:49:00 AM

Hi,

The Planning Meeting in the Outer Ceremonial room on Sunday 1/26 has been changed back to the original time.

The meeting will be 1:15 – 3:00 PM.

Thank you,

Raymond Chao
Scheduling Coordinator
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: (212)-788-7565
Cell: (347)-607-8325

From: Raymond Chao
Sent: Friday, January 24, 2014 9:12 PM
To: Santucci, Laura; Shorris, Anthony; Ragone, Peter; Wolfe, Emma; Williams, Dominic; Katz, Rebecca; 'jonathan@berlinrosen.com'; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'
Cc: Shapiro, Leigh; Griffith, Chantell; Seignious, Sandy; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; 'rmunoz@akpdmedia.com'
Subject: RE: TIME CHANGE Planning Meeting 1/26 - 12:30-2:00PM

Hi,

Please note that the Planning Meeting in the Mayor's Office on Sunday 1/26 has a time change:

It will now take place 12:30PM – 2:00PM.

Please let me know of any issues.

Thanks,

Raymond Chao
Scheduling Coordinator
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: (212)-788-7565
Cell: (347)-607-8325

From: Raymond Chao
Sent: Friday, January 24, 2014 3:22 PM
To: Santucci, Laura; Shorris, Anthony; Ragone, Peter; Wolfe, Emma; Williams, Dominic; Katz, Rebecca; 'jonathan@berlinrosen.com'; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'
Cc: Shapiro, Leigh; Griffith, Chantell; Seignious, Sandy; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; 'rmunoz@akpdmedia.com'
Subject: Planning Meeting

Hi,

There will be a Planning Meeting in the Outer Ceremonial room on Sunday 1/26 at 1:15PM.

Thank you,

Raymond Chao
Scheduling Coordinator
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: (212)-788-7565
Cell: (347)-607-8325

From: Grybauskas, Stefan
To: "John Del Cecato"
Subject: RE: Planning Meeting- Moved to 1:45pm
Date: Sunday, January 26, 2014 1:08:08 PM

No it is still here. I will let security know

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Sunday, January 26, 2014 1:07 PM
To: Grybauskas, Stefan
Cc: Santucci, Laura; Shorris, Anthony; Ragone, Peter; Wolfe, Emma; Williams, Dominic; jonathan@berlinrosen.com; Katz, Rebecca; Shapiro, Leigh; Griffith, Chantell; Seignious, Sandy; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel
Subject: Re: Planning Meeting- Moved to 1:45pm

Has it also been moved to 250 Broadway? The guard at the gate told me that - won't let me in

On Jan 26, 2014, at 12:49 PM, "Grybauskas, Stefan" <SGrybauskas@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Hello all,

The 1:15pm Planning Meeting with the Mayor in the COW has been pushed back to 1:45pm. Let me know if you have any questions.

Thanks,

Stefan Grybauskas
Deputy Director of Scheduling
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212-788-3180
Cell: 347-515-5874

From: Grybauskas, Stefan
To: "John Del Cecato"
Subject: RE: Planning Meeting- Moved to 1:45pm
Date: Sunday, January 26, 2014 1:10:43 PM

I let the guards know. They will let you in.

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Sunday, January 26, 2014 1:07 PM
To: Grybauskas, Stefan
Cc: Santucci, Laura; Shorris, Anthony; Ragone, Peter; Wolfe, Emma; Williams, Dominic; jonathan@berlinrosen.com; Katz, Rebecca; Shapiro, Leigh; Griffith, Chantell; Seignious, Sandy; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel
Subject: Re: Planning Meeting- Moved to 1:45pm

Has it also been moved to 250 Broadway? The guard at the gate told me that - won't let me in

On Jan 26, 2014, at 12:49 PM, "Grybauskas, Stefan" <SGrybauskas@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Hello all,

The 1:15pm Planning Meeting with the Mayor in the COW has been pushed back to 1:45pm. Let me know if you have any questions.

Thanks,

Stefan Grybauskas
Deputy Director of Scheduling
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212-788-3180
Cell: 347-515-5874

From: Raymond Chao
To: Santucci, Laura; Shorris, Anthony; Ragone, Peter; Wolfe, Emma; Williams, Dominic; Katz, Rebecca; jonathan@berlinrosen.com; jfdc@akpdmedia.com
Cc: Shapiro, Leigh; Griffith, Chantell; Seignious, Sandy; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; rmunoz@akpdmedia.com
Subject: Planning Meeting starting at 1:55PM in Outer Ceremonial
Date: Sunday, January 26, 2014 1:45:00 PM

The Planning meeting will start at 1:55PM in the Outer Ceremonial.

Thanks

Raymond Chao
Scheduling Coordinator
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: (212)-788-7565
Cell: (347)-607-8325

From: Raymond Chao
Sent: Saturday, January 25, 2014 10:49 AM
To: Santucci, Laura; Shorris, Anthony; Ragone, Peter; Wolfe, Emma; Williams, Dominic; Katz, Rebecca; 'jonathan@berlinrosen.com'; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'
Cc: Shapiro, Leigh; Griffith, Chantell; Seignious, Sandy; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; 'rmunoz@akpdmedia.com'
Subject: RE: TIME CHANGE Planning Meeting 1/26 - 1:15-3:00PM

Hi,

The Planning Meeting in the Outer Ceremonial room on Sunday 1/26 has been changed back to the original time.

The meeting will be 1:15 – 3:00 PM.

Thank you,

Raymond Chao
Scheduling Coordinator
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: (212)-788-7565
Cell: (347)-607-8325

From: Raymond Chao
Sent: Friday, January 24, 2014 9:12 PM
To: Santucci, Laura; Shorris, Anthony; Ragone, Peter; Wolfe, Emma; Williams, Dominic; Katz, Rebecca; 'jonathan@berlinrosen.com'; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'
Cc: Shapiro, Leigh; Griffith, Chantell; Seignious, Sandy; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; 'rmunoz@akpdmedia.com'

Subject: RE: TIME CHANGE Planning Meeting 1/26 - 12:30-2:00PM

Hi,

Please note that the Planning Meeting in the Mayor's Office on Sunday 1/26 has a time change:

It will now take place 12:30PM – 2:00PM.

Please let me know of any issues.

Thanks,

Raymond Chao
Scheduling Coordinator
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: (212)-788-7565
Cell: (347)-607-8325

From: Raymond Chao
Sent: Friday, January 24, 2014 3:22 PM
To: Santucci, Laura; Shorris, Anthony; Ragone, Peter; Wolfe, Emma; Williams, Dominic; Katz, Rebecca; 'jonathan@berlinrosen.com'; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'
Cc: Shapiro, Leigh; Griffith, Chantell; Seignious, Sandy; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; 'rmunoz@akpdmedia.com'
Subject: Planning Meeting

Hi,

There will be a Planning Meeting in the Outer Ceremonial room on Sunday 1/26 at 1:15PM.

Thank you,

Raymond Chao
Scheduling Coordinator
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: (212)-788-7565
Cell: (347)-607-8325

From: Robert Munoz
To: Raymond Chao
Subject: Re: Daily Show prep tomorrow night, 6PM
Date: Monday, January 27, 2014 10:44:44 AM

Yep it's good, thanks

Sent from my iPhone

On Jan 27, 2014, at 10:43 AM, "Raymond Chao" <rchao@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Hey Rob,

Is John free tomorrow night at 6PM for Daily Show prep?

Just checking with you before I send the invite out.

Tx,

Raymond Chao
Scheduling Coordinator
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: (212)-788-7565
Cell: (347)-607-8325

From: Katz, Rebecca
To: Ragone, Peter; jfdc@akpdmedia.com
Subject: Daily Show
Date: Tuesday, January 28, 2014 4:02:12 PM
Attachments: 012813.workingdoc.DailyShow.docx

Rough sketch to get ideas going.

Thoughts welcome

Previous Daily Show Interviews

Successful Interviews:

Condoleeza Rice: Rice told funny, anecdotal stories in a light tone without attempting to make jokes of her own. When Stewart was critical of her, she calmly and humbly responded with her talking points.

Austan Goolsbee: Goolsbee maintained a lively and light demeanor. He didn't take himself too seriously and made self-deprecating jokes about the government while acknowledging it was tough. He smiled throughout, sat up straight, and didn't get defensive when Stewart was critical.

Elizabeth Warren: Warren didn't attempt to lighten what's at stake for comedic purposes or riff off of Stewart's jokes and consistently went straight back to her message with every response.

Chuck Schumer: Schumer laughed heartily at Jon Stewart's jokes and avoided his own additional wisecracks. He kept pivoting back to his message.

Flat Interviews:

Mike Huckabee: Huckabee attempted to make jokes both on his own and in response to Stewart, and they generally fell flat and Stewart and the audience both did not respond positively.

President Obama: Stewart was tough on Obama. Obama stuck to his message, but almost robotically and without the emotion/humility of what's at stake, which made him come off arrogantly. He was also slouching and looking down a lot throughout the interview. He didn't smile enough.

Chris Matthews: Matthews was too aggressive and defensive and almost hyper in an attempt to try to be funny when Stewart was critical of him.

Jon Stewart's previous statements on New York City/Policy Areas

Jon Stewart on ForkGate:

Aside from the piece on Stewart getting angry at the idea of NYC Mayor eating pizza with a fork, Stewart has a history of being a “pizza purist,” attacking Trump for eating Pizza with a fork and mocking Chicago deep-dish pizzas, calling them casseroles, since they are eaten with a fork and knife.

Jon Stewart after BdB Primary Win:

Stewart asked to be adopted by the de Blasio family and did a Dante riff where he wore an afro wig. He also gushed over the smackdown.

Jon Stewart on Pre-K:

After last year's State of the Union, Stewart mocked Republicans for not supporting UPK and wanting to spend money on the military over the obvious choice of education.

Stewart on Bloomberg:

- Stewart has mocked Bloomberg for the Soda Ban on multiple episodes.
- Stewart commended Bloomberg and Cuomo's leadership during Sandy.

Stewart on Stop and Frisk:

Stewart didn't challenge Ray Kelly on merits of Stop and Frisk and noted that it's tough to tread boundaries on policing with respect to public safety. He also noted that NYC currently feels safer than it used to.

Q&A

Q: Why do you hate rich people?

A: I have so much faith in New York City's wealthy residents that I'm trusting them with our city's future – they're about to make sure every New York City four-year-olds gets access to pre-k!

Q: Do you hate the Upper East Side?

A: I'm about to move up there, so I hope I can fit in.

Q: What is the secret behind Dante's afro?

A:

Q: Who came up with the smackdown? Will you perform it right now?

A: My Cousin Vinnie came up with it and he and Chiara taught it to me at the West Indian Day Parade. Do you want me to teach you how to do it?

Q: Can you please defend eating pizza with a fork and knife?

A: [Take out pizza + fork and knife?] In fact, I can demonstrate it for you right now.

Q: Sandinistas

A:

Q: What's up with your bromance with the Governor? Do you secretly really hate him? You can tell me.

A:

Q: Are you and Gov. Christie secretly besties?

Do's and Don'ts

Do:

- Make self-deprecating jokes
- Smile throughout the interview
- Laugh at Jon Stewart's jokes
- Make eye contact with both Jon Stewart and audience
- Pivot to your message with a smile when Jon Stewart is critical of you Don't:

- Wisecrack off of Jon Stewart's jokes
- Lean into the table between you and Jon Stewart
- Take yourself too seriously

Brainstorming Ideas:

- Bring pizza
- Bring fork and knife in pocket to eat a pizza in case Jon Stewart provides one
- Demonstrate shoveling technique
- Make Jon Stewart learn/perform smackdown with you if he asks you to perform
- Self deprecating jokes –
 - o “All the people on my payroll think I'm hilarious”
 - o “I'm the funniest person in my household, my wife tells me that everyday”
 - o “Dante doesn't get up before 10, I guess he learned that from me”
 - o Joke about being late –
 - Announce the Mayor and he doesn't come out?
 - Or note that he's actually on time when he gets on stage
 - o Only walk out to Royals?

From: Raymond Chao
To: Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; Katz, Rebecca; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; "lee@sunshinesachs.com"
Cc: Seignious, Sandy; "rmunoz@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Reminder: Daily Show prep in the Mayor's Office - 6PM
Date: Tuesday, January 28, 2014 4:29:00 PM

Hi all,

Just a reminder that the Daily Show prep will be in the Mayor's Office at 6PM.

For Ken:

Dial-in Number: [REDACTED] Code: [REDACTED]

If we are running behind schedule, I will let you know.

Thank you,

Raymond Chao
Scheduling Coordinator
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: (212)-788-7565
Cell: (347)-607-8325
rchao@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Raymond Chao
To: Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; John Del Cecato
Cc: rmunoz@akpdmedia.com; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Wolfe, Emma; Lopez, Adriana \(OMB\); Fuleihan, Dean \(OMB\); Seignious, Sandy
Subject: Reminder: Speech prep in the Mayor's Office - 7PM
Date: Tuesday, January 28, 2014 4:34:00 PM

Hi all,

Just a reminder that the Speech prep meeting will be in the Mayor's Office at 7PM.

If you need to dial in, please notify me and I will send the information for the phone line and code.

Thank you,

Raymond Chao
Scheduling Coordinator
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: (212)-788-7565
Cell: (347)-607-8325
rchao@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Raymond Chao
To: Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; Katz, Rebecca; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; "lee@sunshinesachs.com"
Cc: Seignious, Sandy; "rmunoz@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Re: Reminder: Daily Show prep in the Mayor's Office - 6:15PM
Date: Tuesday, January 28, 2014 5:56:47 PM

Looking to start at 6:15PM.

Sent from mobile device, pardon any errors.

From: Raymond Chao
Sent: Tuesday, January 28, 2014 04:29 PM
To: Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; Katz, Rebecca; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; 'lee@sunshinesachs.com' <lee@sunshinesachs.com>
Cc: Seignious, Sandy; 'rmunoz@akpdmedia.com' <rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Reminder: Daily Show prep in the Mayor's Office - 6PM

Hi all,

Just a reminder that the Daily Show prep will be in the Mayor's Office at 6PM.

For Ken:

Dial-in Number: [REDACTED] Code: [REDACTED]

If we are running behind schedule, I will let you know.

Thank you,

Raymond Chao
Scheduling Coordinator
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: (212)-788-7565
Cell: (347)-607-8325
rchao@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Ragone, Peter
To: Grybauskas, Stefan; "jonathan@berlinrosen.com"; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Williams, Dominic; Santucci, Laura; Katz, Rebecca; Shorris, Anthony
Cc: Griffith, Chantell
Subject: Re: 2/2 Planning Meeting with the Mayor
Date: Wednesday, January 29, 2014 7:01:57 PM

I might be flying then. Still working on flights.

From: Grybauskas, Stefan
Sent: Wednesday, January 29, 2014 07:01 PM
To: jonathan@berlinrosen.com <jonathan@berlinrosen.com>; John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> (jfdc@akpdmedia.com) <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Williams, Dominic; Santucci, Laura; Katz, Rebecca; Ragone, Peter; Shorris, Anthony
Cc: Griffith, Chantell
Subject: 2/2 Planning Meeting with the Mayor

Hello all,

There will be a Planning Meeting with the Mayor on Sunday, February 2nd from 4:00pm-5:30pm in the Mayor's Outer-Ceremonial Office at City Hall. Please let me know if this time doesn't work for you.

Thanks,

Stefan Grybauskas
Deputy Director of Scheduling
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212-788-3180
Cell: 347-515-5874

From: John Del Cecato
To: Grybauskas, Stefan; jonathan@berlinrosen.com; Williams, Dominic; Santucci, Laura; Katz, Rebecca; Ragone, Peter; Shorris, Anthony
Cc: Griffith, Chantell
Subject: Re: 2/2 Planning Meeting with the Mayor
Date: Wednesday, January 29, 2014 7:13:20 PM

i'll be out of the country so won't be able to join for this one

From: <Grybauskas>, Stefan <SGrybauskas@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Wednesday, January 29, 2014 at 7:01 PM
To: Jonathan Rosen <jonathan@berlinrosen.com>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, Dom Williams <DWilliams@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Santucci, Laura" <LSantucci@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Rebecca Katz <RKKatz@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Peter Ragone <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Anthony Shorris <AShorris@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: "Griffith, Chantell" <CGriffith@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: 2/2 Planning Meeting with the Mayor

Hello all,

There will be a Planning Meeting with the Mayor on Sunday, February 2nd from 4:00pm-5:30pm in the Mayor's Outer-Ceremonial Office at City Hall. Please let me know if this time doesn't work for you.

Thanks,

Stefan Grybauskas
Deputy Director of Scheduling
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212-788-3180
Cell: 347-515-5874

From: Ragone, Peter
To: Grybauskas, Stefan; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Katz, Rebecca; "lee@sunshinesachs.com"; Chao, Raymond; Seignious, Sandy; Scola, Lindsay; "rmunoz@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Re: 1/31 and 2/3 Daily Show Prep Sessions with the Mayor
Date: Saturday, February 01, 2014 11:46:00 AM

Please send a planner

From: Grybauskas, Stefan
Sent: Saturday, February 01, 2014 08:37 AM
To: Ragone, Peter; 'John Del Cecato' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Katz, Rebecca; 'lee@sunshinesachs.com' <lee@sunshinesachs.com>; Chao, Raymond; Seignious, Sandy; Scola, Lindsay; Scola, Lindsay; Robert Munoz <rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: 1/31 and 2/3 Daily Show Prep Sessions with the Mayor

Hello,

We are adding a Daily Show prep session tomorrow from 5pm-6pm at City Hall. We will conclude promptly at 6pm so everyone can make it home for the Super Bowl. Please let me know if you can make it or dial in.

Thanks,

Stefan

From: Grybauskas, Stefan
Sent: Thursday, January 30, 2014 12:42 PM
To: Ragone, Peter; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Katz, Rebecca; 'rmunoz@akpdmedia.com'; 'lee@sunshinesachs.com'; Chao, Raymond; Seignious, Sandy; Scola, Lindsay; Scola, Lindsay
Subject: RE: 1/31 and 2/3 Daily Show Prep Sessions with the Mayor

Adding Lindsay onto this thread.

From: Ragone, Peter
Sent: Thursday, January 30, 2014 12:41 PM
To: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; Grybauskas, Stefan
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Katz, Rebecca; 'rmunoz@akpdmedia.com'; 'lee@sunshinesachs.com'; Chao, Raymond; Seignious, Sandy
Subject: Re: 1/31 and 2/3 Daily Show Prep Sessions with the Mayor

We can go forward with daily show prep. Ken if you can join for daily show that would be great.

JDC I will circle back with you on SoC. Lindsay, we might use the time for policy prep/teleprompter and we get back to written speech on Tuesday.

Ill call you when I land.

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Thursday, January 30, 2014 12:35 PM
To: Grybauskas, Stefan
Cc: Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; Katz, Rebecca; Robert Munoz <rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>; lee@sunshinesachs.com <lee@sunshinesachs.com>; Chao, Raymond; Seignious, Sandy; Robert Munoz <rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: 1/31 and 2/3 Daily Show Prep Sessions with the Mayor

I'll be out of the country from Fri til Mon so I can't make either -and those are my travel days so can't call in

On Jan 30, 2014, at 12:33 PM, "Grybauskas, Stefan" <SGrybauskas@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Hello,

There will be two prep sessions with the Mayor in anticipation of his appearance on the Daily Show with Jon Stewart (2/3/13). Please let me know if you cannot make these sessions. Both sessions will be held at City Hall. If you are unable to make it but can dial in, please let me know and I will provide a dial in.

Friday 1/31:
1:00pm-2:00pm

Monday 2/3:
12:30pm-2:30pm

Thanks,

Stefan Grybauskas
Deputy Director of Scheduling
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212-788-3180
Cell: 347-515-5874

From: John Del Cecato
To: Scola, Lindsay
Cc: Grybauskas, Stefan; Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; Katz, Rebecca; lee@sunshinesachs.com; Chao, Raymond; Seignious, Sandy; Robert Munoz
Subject: Re: 1/31 and 2/3 Daily Show Prep Sessions with the Mayor
Date: Saturday, February 01, 2014 3:26:04 PM

:D

On Feb 1, 2014, at 3:25 PM, "Scola, Lindsay" <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

That's just mean!

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Saturday, February 01, 2014 03:12 PM
To: Grybauskas, Stefan
Cc: Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; Katz, Rebecca; lee@sunshinesachs.com <lee@sunshinesachs.com>; Chao, Raymond; Seignious, Sandy; Scola, Lindsay; Robert Munoz <rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: 1/31 and 2/3 Daily Show Prep Sessions with the Mayor

Well in that case, I'm gonna cancel my flight back and stay in Turks and Caicos!

On Feb 1, 2014, at 3:06 PM, "Grybauskas, Stefan" <SGrybauskas@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Hello,

Sorry this prep session is now cancelled for tomorrow. Thanks and enjoy your weekend.

Best,

Stefan

From: Grybauskas, Stefan
Sent: Saturday, February 01, 2014 11:37 AM
To: Ragone, Peter; 'John Del Cecato'
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Katz, Rebecca; 'lee@sunshinesachs.com'; Chao, Raymond; Seignious, Sandy; Scola, Lindsay; Scola, Lindsay; Robert Munoz
Subject: RE: 1/31 and 2/3 Daily Show Prep Sessions with the Mayor

Hello,

We are adding a Daily Show prep session tomorrow from 5pm-6pm at City Hall. We will conclude promptly at 6pm so everyone can make it home for the Super Bowl. Please let me know if you can make it or dial in.

Thanks,

Stefan

From: Grybauskas, Stefan
Sent: Thursday, January 30, 2014 12:42 PM
To: Ragone, Peter; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Katz, Rebecca; 'rmunoz@akpdmedia.com'; 'lee@sunshinesachs.com'; Chao, Raymond; Seignious, Sandy; Scola, Lindsay; Scola, Lindsay
Subject: RE: 1/31 and 2/3 Daily Show Prep Sessions with the Mayor

Adding Lindsay onto this thread.

From: Ragone, Peter
Sent: Thursday, January 30, 2014 12:41 PM
To: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; Grybauskas, Stefan
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Katz, Rebecca; 'rmunoz@akpdmedia.com'; 'lee@sunshinesachs.com'; Chao, Raymond; Seignious, Sandy
Subject: Re: 1/31 and 2/3 Daily Show Prep Sessions with the Mayor

We can go forward with daily show prep. Ken if you can join for daily show that would be great.

JDC I will circle back with you on SoC. Lindsay, we might use the time for policy prep/teleprompter and we get back to written speech on Tuesday.

Ill call you when I land.

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Thursday, January 30, 2014 12:35 PM
To: Grybauskas, Stefan
Cc: Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; Katz, Rebecca; Robert Munoz <rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>; lee@sunshinesachs.com <lee@sunshinesachs.com>; Chao, Raymond; Seignious, Sandy; Robert Munoz <rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: 1/31 and 2/3 Daily Show Prep Sessions with the Mayor

I'll be out of the country from Fri til Mon so I can't make either -and those are my travel days so can't call in

On Jan 30, 2014, at 12:33 PM, "Grybauskas, Stefan" <SGrybauskas@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Hello,

There will be two prep sessions with the Mayor in anticipation of his appearance on the Daily Show with Jon Stewart (2/3/13). Please let me know if you cannot make these sessions. Both sessions will be held at City Hall. If you are unable to make it but can dial in, please let me know and I will provide a dial in.

Friday 1/31:
1:00pm-2:00pm

Monday 2/3:
12:30pm-2:30pm

Thanks,

Stefan Grybauskas
Deputy Director of Scheduling
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212-788-3180
Cell: 347-515-5874

From: Scola, Lindsay
To: Santucci, Laura; Jonathan@berlinrosen.com; jon \(jfdc@akpdmedia.com\); Wolfe, Emma; Williams, Dominic; Katz, Rebecca; Ragone, Peter; Shorris, Anthony
Subject: Planning Meeting Wednesday Evening
Date: Monday, February 03, 2014 11:33:09 AM

All-

Please hold 6:30 – 8:30pm on Wednesday for a planning meeting with BdB, this will make up for the cancelled meeting on Sunday. We are going to do it in a nearby restaurant, will have the details to you shortly.

Please let me know if you cannot not attend.

Thanks,
Lindsay

Lindsay Scola
Director of Scheduling
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212.788.2962
Cell: 917.513.1690

From: Grybauskas, Stefan
To: "Robert Munoz"
Cc: John Del Cecato
Subject: RE: Speech Prep Tomorrow- Tuesday February 4th
Date: Monday, February 03, 2014 7:23:40 PM

Great thank you Rob.

From: Robert Munoz [mailto:rmunoz@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Monday, February 03, 2014 7:23 PM
To: Grybauskas, Stefan
Cc: John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: Speech Prep Tomorrow- Tuesday February 4th

Yes this works for John

Sent from my iPhone

On Feb 3, 2014, at 6:48 PM, "Grybauskas, Stefan" <SGrybauskas@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

John,

Please see below. Does this work on your schedule tomorrow?

Thanks!

Stefan Grybauskas
Deputy Director of Scheduling
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212-788-3180
Cell: 347-515-5874

From: Grybauskas, Stefan
Sent: Monday, February 03, 2014 6:31 PM
To: Ragone, Peter; Fuleihan, Dean (OMB); Walzak, Phil; Wolfe, Emma
Cc: Seignious, Sandy; Lopez, Adriana (OMB); Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Scola, Lindsay; Grybauskas, Stefan; Fuleihan, Dean (OMB)
Subject: Speech Prep Tomorrow- Tuesday February 4th

Hello,

We are tentatively scheduling speech prep for tomorrow with the Mayor at 6:00pm in the Mayor's office. Please let me know if this time doesn't work for you.

Thanks,

Stefan Grybauskas
Deputy Director of Scheduling
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212-788-3180
Cell: 347-515-5874

From: Katz, Rebecca
To: ifdc@akpdmedia.com; sunshine@sunshinesachs.com
Subject: FW: Pool Report PART 1 of 2
Date: Monday, February 03, 2014 7:52:31 PM

Good stuff

From: Mayor's Press Office
Sent: Monday, February 03, 2014 7:05 PM
To: Mayor's Press Office
Subject: FW: Pool Report PART 1 of 2

From: Grynbaum, Michael [<mailto:grynbaum@nytimes.com>]
Sent: Monday, February 03, 2014 6:56 PM
To: Katz, Rebecca
Cc: Walzak, Phil
Subject: Pool Report PART 1 of 2

Mr. de Blasio Goes to The Daily Show: A Pool Report.
Your Pooler for tonight: Mike Grynbaum, NY Times.
Questions? Comments? 917-484-2422. grynbaum@nytimes.com.

Setting: Daily Show studios, West 52nd Street and 11th Avenue, Manhattan.

BDB arrived unseen around 5:45. At 6, Dante de Blasio and Chirlane McCray walked into the studios with an aide. Both were smiling. Backstage, staffers appeared to be preparing for a pizza gag: there was a delivery of a steaming cheese pie and a last-minute purchase of a pizza knife. Inside the studio, Dante and Chirlane were standing next to the audience risers, with a direct view to the set. The taping began at 6:06.

Jon Stewart [hereafter "Jon"] opened the show with a few jokes about his notable guest:

"The mayor, Bill de Blasio, is here apparently with a shovel." Today's storm, Jon adds, "has provided the mayor with a chance for some snow removal redemption."

[cut to: clip of Ch. 2 coverage of today's snowstorm]

Jon: "De Blasio got an earful from the tony East Side residents used to Mayor Bloomberg carrying them individually from their apartments to the chopper. ... So did de Blasio handle today's snowstorm better?"

[cut to: Samantha Bee, ostensibly reporting from Times Square. She said "business is booming" in what she called a "landmark district," including places like "ye olde Disney store."]

Jon asks: How'd it go out in Brooklyn today?

"Looking pretty good, Jon," replied correspondent Jessica Williams, in beach clothes standing in front of a beach backdrop. "There are no traffic problems. In fact, it's 82 degrees and it's sunny."

Jon: "Mayor de Blasio made it summer in Brooklyn? How is that possible?"

Jessica: "I don't know, but the only snow in sight is right here." She proceeds to eat a snow-cone. "The man loves Brooklyn, so, stay cool!"

Now onto Aasif Mandvi, who is "on" the Upper East Side.

"Not good, Jon," he says, buried in a snowbank, only his head showing. "It seems de Blasio's plows are actively bringing snow in."

Jon: "Aasif, are you completely buried in a snowbank?"

Aasif: "I can't move my legs, Jon. But hey, that's life in de Blasio's New York. He's hellbent on making the city unlivable for the rich!" He adds, "Everyone's so covered in snow that the Barneys security guards don't even know who to detain anymore!"

Jon: "Everybody looks white, who do you hold?"

[There are machine gun sounds]

Aasif: "That's the Somali warlords. They've kind of taken over Park Avenue."

Jon asks why the Upper East Siders don't just go downtown.

Aasif: "Downtown? No, no, Jon. They're not going downtown."

NEXT SEGMENT:

At 6:20pm, BDB came onstage in a red-and-white striped tie and grey suit. He is cheered by audience and greeted by Jon, who asks how the mayor is feeling.

BDB: "I'm feeling good. I just wish we'd done a better job getting that snow up to the Upper East Side."

Jon notes that it has been snowing a lot since he was inaugurated. "I remember Bloomberg. 12 years. It never snowed once."

BDB: "I think he paid the right guy. I mean, he had the money."

Jon asks what it's like to succeed Bloomberg: "How is it stepping into his tiny, tiny shoes?" He says the city is accustomed to Giuliani and Bloomberg, whereas with de Blasio, "You come in, you put up all the posters of Lenin, Stalin, whatever you've got in the office."

BDB: "The Che Guevara posters are very popular, they really are."

Jon: "Has it been overwhelming?"

BDB: "It's nonstop. It's 24-7. It's the ultimate 24-7 job. But I love this place. I really love this place. And it's endlessly fascinating to me, but I'd like the snow to end. I've done the snow experience, I'd like to try something else now."

Jon: "What else could we do to the Upper East Side?"

BDB: "We have an experimental effort to get locusts in up there." [audience cheered]

JON SWITCHES GEARS TO FORKGATE.

Jon: "Now Bloomberg, as you know, used to have his food chewed and put back into his mouth, like a baby bird. But this is unacceptable." [Jon takes out a pizza box from John's, sausage-and-mushroom, along with paper plates and a cake slice-serving utensil. The crowd enjoyed this.]

“I would love a slice,” said BDB, who picks up the slice utensil. Jon swats his hand: “What are you doing? I got to teach you everything?”

BDB: “As mayor of Napoli - I mean New York City -- we are always ready for our pizza.”
[BDB took out a knife and fork apparently planted in his jacket.]

Jon demonstrates the method of eating a pizza with his hands, then adds, mischievously: “Hey, Bloomberg’s gone, right?” Jon takes out an enormous 7-Up Double Gulp filled with soda. Loud cheers. BDB then chomped into a big slice of the pizza with his hands. The audience cheered.

Jon says he brought a super-sized soda for BDB, too. BDB picks it up -- it’s a small soda cup.

“Oh, you are gigantic,” says Jon. “In his hands, it looks like a regular soda.”

From: Katz, Rebecca
To: jfdc@akpdmedia.com; sunshine@sunshinesachs.com
Subject: FW: Pool Report PART 2 of 2
Date: Monday, February 03, 2014 7:52:51 PM

From: Mayor's Press Office
Sent: Monday, February 03, 2014 7:21 PM
To: Mayor's Press Office
Subject: FW: Pool Report PART 2 of 2

From: Grynbaum, Michael [<mailto:grynbaum@nytimes.com>]
Sent: Monday, February 03, 2014 7:14 PM
To: Katz, Rebecca
Cc: Walzak, Phil
Subject: Pool Report PART 2 of 2

Your Pooler for tonight: Mike Grynbaum, NY Times.
Questions? Comments? 917-484-2422. grynbaum@nytimes.com.

FINAL SEGMENT (a bit more serious):

Jon asks about the carriage horses. "Will this be your Gitmo?" he asks BDB. "We are in this neighborhood and I hear their plaintive cries."

BDB: "The waterboarding of the horses has to end." He adds, "Horses do not belong in the middle of traffic in New York City. They do not belong in an urban environment like this. It's not safe for them, it's not fair when you think about what their lives should be and what our society is like."

Jon: "That brings up an interesting point. Should we even be living here?" [BDB smiled at this]

Jon and BDB spoke about stop-and-frisk. BDB talked about the settlement announced last week. "You can't break the law to enforce the law, as simple as that." He added, "I would argue that public safety and civil liberties have to march hand in hand. You cannot separate or oppose the two. And in the stop and frisk era, we had two different forms of policing, that's the reality, depending on the color of your skin."

Jon: "How frightened are people when you walk in, because they must think now, you are coming in there and turning everything upside down, the uncertainty must be palpable.

BDB: "I don't wear the Che Guevara T-shirt at work. I have thought about that." He added, "I'm blessed to have a very strong mandate from the people to make some real progressive change." He added, "This is all about acknowledging the inequalities that become very fundamental and unfortunately growing in our city." He added, "Yes, there are some bureaucrats and others who are hesitant. But I know that the popular support is there."

Jon pushed BDB about the battle over funding Pre-K, asking why the state and the city could not split the bill. "Why can't we go 50-50 on this bad boy?" Jon asked.

BDB: "You know, I like the way you think." He laughed, then went back to his traditional arguments: "Because we need to know the money is going to be there year after year."

Jon notes that, as a wealthy person, he would potentially be funding the program. “Can I go to the Pre-K and be like, ‘You’re mine. And so you better those grades up. Because I’m on your ass.’” BDB: “We’re going to create a program for you.”

Jon asks if Bloomberg could have just paid for Pre-K thing himself, “thrown that in to a pot?” BDB: “It could have been a gratuity.”

Jon asks about fears that city could go back to a time “when it was less orderly and things were more chaotic and how do you tell people that is not the case?”

BDB: “Whenever you see a progressive moment, whenever you see progressive leaders come in to office, that charge is thrown in one way or another.” He adds: “It’s specious. It’s not true. The bottom line is, we know the great threat to this country is inequality, the great threat to this city is inequality.” He adds: “People need a core hope in our society. They need a core amount of visible opportunity. And that’s been slipping away. So if you want to talk about destabilizing realities in our society, talk about inequality. But progressives can run governments effectively, progressives can be fiscally responsible, progressives can focus on public safety, but we’re going to do it in a way that respects people’s rights.”

Jon nods and takes a bit bite of pizza. BDB gave a big smiled back at him. Jon: “I’ll have you back in three years, we’ll talk about it.”

From: Prim, Hayley
To: Ragone, Peter; Wolfe, Emma; Walzak, Phil; Fuleihan, Dean \(OMB\); "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Cc: Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Owens, Cynthia \(OMB\)
Subject: Speech Prep Dinner
Date: Tuesday, February 04, 2014 8:58:34 AM
Attachments: Dig Inn.docx

Hi all—For speech prep tonight at night at 6:45, I wanted to offer to coordinate dinner for all of you. Each member of the meeting will need to pay for their own meal, but I will take care of placing the order and making sure it gets here on time.

Last night for the budget meeting, we brought in Dig Inn, attached here, enough options to accommodate most—but if you have a strong preference for something else let me know.

If you would like me to order something for you tonight, please let me know by 4pm.

Thanks so much,
Hayley

Hayley Prim
Front Desk Office Manager
Office of the Mayor
(212) 341-5009

Back to Main Menu

Build your own Marketplate

Please follow the instructions below to build your plate. Some quick tips:

- Click on the item name to pull up nutritional info and a bigger pic.
- Click anywhere else on the item to add it to your plate.
- Add more than 1 serving by clicking on an item more than once.
- To remove an item from your plate, just click the red remove link.

PLEASE NOTE: We'll be adding nutritional information for the new items on the menu in the coming days. Thanks for your patience!

Choose a plate size

Click a plate name to see what comes in each size.

- Big Plate

- Small Plate

Choose a quality meat, baked tofu, or a veggie plate

You can select a second protein for $3.69 (big plates only).

- Lemon Herb Chicken

$10.30

- Spicy Meatballs

$11.09

- Braised Beef

$11.61

- Rosemary Turkey

$11.09

- Tofu Salad

$9.77

- Wild Salmon Salad

$11.09

- Veggie Platter

$8.72

Choose a whole grain or fresh salad

Select 1 grain or salad or skip this step entirely.

- Un-Fried Veggie Rice

- Baby Arugula

- Baby Spinach

Add some fresh sides

Big plates come with 3 sides. Add up to 2 more for $0.79 each.

- Roasted Brussels Sprouts

- Sautéed Kale w/ Purple Potato

- Roasted Carrots & Cranberries

- Roasted Sweet Potatoes

- Tuscan White Bean Seasoned w/ Ham

- Roasted Local Beets w/ Pumpkin Seeds

- Broccoli w/ Roasted Garlic & Almonds

- Mediterranean Two Bean Salad

- Beets & Cucumber Salad

- Kale & Apple Salad

- Quinoa & Roasted Butternut Squash

- Baby Spinach & Mandarin Salad

- Roasted Cauliflower Salad

- Red Lentil & Edamame Salad

Add a house-made sauce or spread

1 sauce is included. Add extra sauces or spreads for an extra charge.

- Roasted Red Pepper

- House Hot Sauce

- House Balsamic

- Lemon Wedge

- Guacamole

$1.59

Further customize your order (totally optional)

Made for name (for group orders)

Special instructions

Total cost of your plate = $0.00

From: John Del Cecato
To: Prim, Hayley
Subject: Re: Speech Prep Dinner
Date: Tuesday, February 04, 2014 1:14:02 PM

Thanks for the offer but i'll brown bag!

From: <Prim>, Hayley <HPrim@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Tuesday, February 4, 2014 at 8:58 AM
To: Peter Ragone <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Wolfe, Emma" <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Walzak, Phil" <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Fuleihan, Dean (OMB)" <fuleihand@omb.nyc.gov>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: "Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel" <GSchnakeMahl@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Owens, Cynthia (OMB)" <owensc@omb.nyc.gov>
Subject: Speech Prep Dinner

Hi all—For speech prep tonight at night at 6:45, I wanted to offer to coordinate dinner for all of you. Each member of the meeting will need to pay for their own meal, but I will take care of placing the order and making sure it gets here on time.

Last night for the budget meeting, we brought in Dig Inn, attached here, enough options to accommodate most—but if you have a strong preference for something else let me know.

If you would like me to order something for you tonight, please let me know by 4pm.

Thanks so much,
Hayley

Hayley Prim
Front Desk Office Manager
Office of the Mayor
(212) 341-5009

From: John Del Cecato
To: Ragone, Peter
Subject: Re: Living Wage
Date: Tuesday, February 04, 2014 2:39:21 PM

I like the news on living wageŠ

I'm intrigued by the min wage increase authority for its political value - but i worry a bit about clouding our message on UPK/a-schoolŠ Won't Cuomo come back & say "they said they just wanted UPK, and now they want home rule on min wage too??"

On 2/4/14, 1:48 PM, "Ragone, Peter" <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>See below!

>

>----- Original Message -----

>From: Shorris, Anthony

>Sent: Tuesday, February 04, 2014 01:44 PM

>To: Williams, Dominic; Ragone, Peter; Glen, Alicia

>Cc: Wolfe, Emma; Carter, Zach (Law); Zachary Carter

>Subject: RE: Living Wage

>

>Can we raise the issue of asking for the right to set a NYC minimum wage...

>

>-----Original Message-----

>From: Williams, Dominic

>Sent: Tuesday, February 04, 2014 1:43 PM

>To: Ragone, Peter; Shorris, Anthony; Glen, Alicia

>Cc: Wolfe, Emma; Carter, Zach (Law); Zachary Carter

>Subject: RE: Living Wage

>

>I am - here's the status.

>

>Law Department has drafted an Executive Order

>

>EDC, HPD, and DM Glen all have the Executive Order for review

>

>There is a lawsuit that the City filed, against the living wage and prevailing wage laws. The Law Department is working on a memo outlining options on if/how to drop those lawsuits for the end of today.

>

>The SOC language should articulate extending the reach of living wages, by dropping the litigation so the current law stands, and by Mayoral Order pushing agencies to further demand living wages when doing econ development deals. If there are hiccups with stating intent to drop the litigation, should just note executive action to extend the reach of living wages.

>

>-----Original Message-----

>From: Ragone, Peter

>Sent: Tuesday, February 04, 2014 1:33 PM

>To: Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic; Glen, Alicia

>Cc: Wolfe, Emma

>Subject: Living Wage

>

>Living wage is in state of city. Who is responsible for the policy >outline of this?

>

From: Scola, Lindsay
To: Ragone, Peter; Grybauskas, Stefan; Fuleihan, Dean \(OMB\); Walzak, Phil; Wolfe, Emma; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Cc: Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Santucci, Laura
Subject: RE: Speech Prep Tomorrow- Tuesday February 4th
Date: Tuesday, February 04, 2014 6:59:53 PM

This will be rescheduled for 90 mins tomorrow. Stefan is sending new timing shortly.

Lindsay Scola
Director of Scheduling
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212.788.2962
Cell: 917.513.1690

From: Ragone, Peter
Sent: Tuesday, February 04, 2014 6:45 PM
To: Grybauskas, Stefan; Fuleihan, Dean (OMB); Walzak, Phil; Wolfe, Emma; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'
Cc: Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Scola, Lindsay
Subject: Re: Speech Prep Tomorrow- Tuesday February 4th

Are you out of your minds? The speech is Monday.

From: Grybauskas, Stefan
Sent: Tuesday, February 04, 2014 06:33 PM
To: Ragone, Peter; Fuleihan, Dean (OMB); Walzak, Phil; Wolfe, Emma; John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> (jfdc@akpdmedia.com) <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Robert Munoz (rmunoz@akpdmedia.com) <rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: Seignious, Sandy; Lopez, Adriana (OMB); Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Scola, Lindsay; Fuleihan, Dean (OMB); Scola, Lindsay
Subject: RE: Speech Prep Tomorrow- Tuesday February 4th

Hello,

Sorry for the late notice. Speech prep has been cancelled tonight. We will be in touch shortly with a new time in the next few days.

Thanks

Stefan Grybauskas
Deputy Director of Scheduling
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212-788-3180
Cell: 347-515-5874

From: Grybauskas, Stefan
Sent: Monday, February 03, 2014 6:31 PM
To: Ragone, Peter; Fuleihan, Dean (OMB); Walzak, Phil; Wolfe, Emma
Cc: Seignious, Sandy; Lopez, Adriana (OMB); Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Scola, Lindsay; Grybauskas, Stefan; Fuleihan, Dean (OMB)
Subject: Speech Prep Tomorrow- Tuesday February 4th

Hello,

We are tentatively scheduling speech prep for tomorrow with the Mayor at 6:00pm in the Mayor's office. Please let me know if this time doesn't work for you.

Thanks,

Stefan Grybauskas
Deputy Director of Scheduling
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212-788-3180
Cell: 347-515-5874

From: Scola, Lindsay
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Re: Speech Prep Tomorrow- Tuesday February 4th
Date: Tuesday, February 04, 2014 7:34:43 PM

Truth

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, February 04, 2014 07:32 PM
To: Scola, Lindsay
Subject: Re: Speech Prep Tomorrow- Tuesday February 4th

Someone doesn't mince words

On Feb 4, 2014, at 6:59 PM, "Scola, Lindsay" <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

This will be rescheduled for 90 mins tomorrow. Stefan is sending new timing shortly.

Lindsay Scola
Director of Scheduling
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212.788.2962
Cell: 917.513.1690

From: Ragone, Peter
Sent: Tuesday, February 04, 2014 6:45 PM
To: Grybauskas, Stefan; Fuleihan, Dean (OMB); Walzak, Phil; Wolfe, Emma; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'
Cc: Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Scola, Lindsay
Subject: Re: Speech Prep Tomorrow- Tuesday February 4th

Are you out of your minds? The speech is Monday.

From: Grybauskas, Stefan
Sent: Tuesday, February 04, 2014 06:33 PM
To: Ragone, Peter; Fuleihan, Dean (OMB); Walzak, Phil; Wolfe, Emma; John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> (jfdc@akpdmedia.com) <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Robert Munoz (rmunoz@akpdmedia.com) <rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: Seignious, Sandy; Lopez, Adriana (OMB); Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Scola, Lindsay; Fuleihan, Dean (OMB); Scola, Lindsay
Subject: RE: Speech Prep Tomorrow- Tuesday February 4th

Hello,

Sorry for the late notice. Speech prep has been cancelled tonight. We will be in touch shortly with a new time in the next few days.

Thanks

Stefan Grybauskas
Deputy Director of Scheduling
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212-788-3180
Cell: 347-515-5874

From: Grybauskas, Stefan
Sent: Monday, February 03, 2014 6:31 PM
To: Ragone, Peter; Fuleihan, Dean (OMB); Walzak, Phil; Wolfe, Emma
Cc: Seignious, Sandy; Lopez, Adriana (OMB); Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Scola, Lindsay; Grybauskas, Stefan; Fuleihan, Dean (OMB)
Subject: Speech Prep Tomorrow- Tuesday February 4th

Hello,

We are tentatively scheduling speech prep for tomorrow with the Mayor at 6:00pm in the Mayor's office. Please let me know if this time doesn't work for you.

Thanks,

Stefan Grybauskas
Deputy Director of Scheduling
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212-788-3180
Cell: 347-515-5874

From: Chao, Raymond
To: Santucci, Laura; Shorris, Anthony; Ragone, Peter; Wolfe, Emma; Williams, Dominic; Rebecca Katz \(rkkatz@cityhall.nyc.gov\); Noerdlinger, Rachel; jonathan@berlinrosen.com; John Del Cecato \(jfdc@akpdmedia.com\)
Cc: Shapiro, Leigh; Griffith, Chantell; Seignious, Sandy; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Robert Munoz \(rmunoz@akpdmedia.com\); Eunice Ko; Hayley Prim \(hprim@cityhall.nyc.gov\)
Subject: Planning Meeting: Wednesday 2/5 @ 7PM
Date: Tuesday, February 04, 2014 8:02:00 PM

Hi all,

The planning meeting for tomorrow night will be at Pepolino Italian restaurant (281 West Broadway) @ 7PM.

Here is the link to the dinner menu:

http://www.restaurantpassion.com/external_pages/ny/pepolino03/menu.aspx

Please make a selection for what you will want for dinner to eat during the meeting.

E-mail me the order by 4PM so that we can submit the order to the restaurant in advance.

Also, please respond to the calendar invite and confirm your attendance.

Thank you.

Raymond Chao
Scheduling Coordinator
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: (212)-788-7565
Cell: (347)-607-8325
rchao@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: John Del Cecato
To: Chao, Raymond; Santucci, Laura; Shorris, Anthony; Ragone, Peter; Wolfe, Emma; Williams, Dominic; Katz, Rebecca; Noerdlinger, Rachel; Jonathan@berlinrosen.com
Cc: Shapiro, Leigh; Griffith, Chantell; Seignious, Sandy; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Robert Munoz; Ko, Eunice; Prim, Hayley
Subject: Re: Planning Meeting
Date: Wednesday, February 05, 2014 11:10:17 AM

Hey gang.. I'm feeling under the weather today - [REDACTED] Please make the snow go away immediately..

I'll try my best to pound cold medicine & make it tonight - but I'm iffy at the moment

From: "Chao, Raymond" <rchao@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Tuesday, February 4, 2014 at 8:02 PM
To: "Santucci, Laura" <LSantucci@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Anthony Shorris <AShorris@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Peter Ragone <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Wolfe, Emma" <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Dom Williams <DWilliams@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Rebecca Katz <RKKatz@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Noerdlinger, Rachel" <RNoerdlinger@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Jonathan Rosen <jonathan@berlinrosen.com>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: "Shapiro, Leigh" <LShapiro@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Griffith, Chantell" <CGriffith@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Seignious, Sandy" <sseignious@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel" <GSchnakeMahl@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "rmunoz@akpdmedia.com" <rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>, "Ko, Eunice" <EKo@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Prim, Hayley" <HPrim@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Planning Meeting

Hi all,

The planning meeting for tomorrow night will be at Pepolino Italian restaurant (281 West Broadway).

Here is the link to the dinner menu:

http://www.restaurantpassion.com/external_pages/ny/pepolino03/menu.aspx

Please make a selection for what you will want for dinner to eat during the meeting.

E-mail me the order by 4PM so that we can submit the order to the restaurant in advance.

Please respond to this calendar invite and confirm your attendance.

Thank you.

From: Prim, Hayley
To: "John Del Cecato"; Chao, Raymond; Santucci, Laura; Shorris, Anthony; Ragone, Peter; Wolfe, Emma; Williams, Dominic; Katz, Rebecca; Noerdlinger, Rachel; Jonathan@berlinrosen.com
Cc: Shapiro, Leigh; Griffith, Chantell; Seignious, Sandy; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Robert Munoz; Ko, Eunice; Coney, Javon; Sharp, Edie
Subject: Dinner Tonight for the Planning Meeting
Date: Wednesday, February 05, 2014 12:10:34 PM
Attachments: Pepolino Dinner Menu.pdf

Hi All—

Please see the attached and updated dinner menu for tonight's planning meeting. In order to be efficient, we are ordering the food early so it will be ready when you arrive.

Please let me know what you would like as soon as possible today, (definitely by 4pm) and let me know if you have any questions. You will each be paying with separate checks this evening.

JDC, I hope you are recovering and will be able to join!

Thanks so much,
Hayley

Hayley Prim
Front Desk Office Manager
Office of the Mayor
(212) 341-5009

To: STEPHAN
From: ENZO

Pepolino Dinner Menu

Minestre e Insalate

- Ribollita fiorentina Tuscan bread soup with black cabbage, mixed vegetables, & fresh thyme 13.00
Passato di fagioli bianchi Cannellini beans pure' with shrimp & croutons 14.50
Passato di zucca Butter nut squash soup with crumbled amaretto cookies 12.00
Le tre zuppe Taste of three soups 15.00
Mista verde Mixed salad with sweet grape tomato in balsamic dressing 11.00
Indivia & pere Endive salad with pears, walnuts & pecorino cheese in a lemon dressing 13.50
Insalata de' Medici Red beets with mixed greens, orange zest, pine nuts in a gorgonzola dressing 13.50

Antipasti

- Polenta con tartufo Polenta mousse with cheese fondue & black truffles 17.50
Cozze al burro Steamed mussels out of the shell in a butter, garlic & parsley with toasted bread 14.50
Crostini Salsiccia Crostini with italian sausage & stracchino cheese 16.50
Crespelle di castagne Chestnuts crepes filled with assorted wild mushroom & padano gratin 15.50
Antipasto toscano Assortment of prosciutto, salame, cheeses, olives & bruschette 17.00
Tripa alla Fiorentina Florentine style tripe with toasted bread & padano cheese gratin 16.00
Carpaccio di Manzo Warm Beef carpaccio with garlic & rosemary Porcini mushroom & padano cheese 18.50
Melanzane grigliate Thin slice grilled eggplant with smoked mozzarella gratin 14.50
Sformato di spinaci Spinach soufflé with tomato coulis, light butter, & padano cheese 16.50
Fois gras alla Fiorentina Seared with black figs & vinsanto reduction served with passito wine 28.00
Baccala' mantecato Baccala mantecato over potatoes tortino with sweet onions quenelle 17.50

Pasta

- Pappardelle al pepolino Pappardelle with pepolino tomato sauce & fresh thyme 18.50
Tagliolini Gratinati Tagliolini with italian ham, fontina & padano cheese gratin 22.50
Malfatti burro e salvia Spinach & ricotta gnocchi in a butter & sage sauce 21.00
Linguine nere di mare Homemade black linguine with seafood in a spicy tomato sauce 22.00
Farroto del di' Farroto (like risotto) of the day
Ravioli del di' Home made Ravioli or Tortelloni of the day
Spaghettini porri e padano Spaghettini with braised leeks & padano cheese 19.50
Maltagliati al ragu' di vitella Maltagliati with florentine veal ragu' 22.00
Fettuccine al coniglio Fettuccine with braised rabbit & slow oven roasted tomato 22.50
Paccheri alla Carlona Home made Paccheri with sausage, tomato sauce & balsamic reduction 20.50
Penne con zucca e ricotta Penne with butter nut squash & fresh ricotta 19.50
Spaghetti chitarra cacio e pepe Home made square spaghetti with melted pecorino toscano & black pepper 21.00
Spaghettoni al pomodoro Home made spaghettoni with fresh tomato & basil 19.00
Tagliatelle al cinghiale Home made tagliatelle with wild boar ragu & juniper berries 23.00

Secondi

- La Fiorentina Typical Florentine Prime Porter House 22 oz. served with spinach & beans 38.50
Polpette di vitella Veal & ricotta meatballs with tomato & basil coulis served with veggies 27.00
Pollo alla buca Sliced chicken breast sautéed in red wine with pears & pecorino cheese gratin 27.00
Porchetta Toscana Tuscan roasted Porchetta in lemon gremolade served with grilled polenta 27.50
Tagliata di manzo Seared sliced Angus steak with garlic & rosemary served with potato, onions & pepper 32.00
Cinghiale alla maremmana Maremmana style wild boar served with carasau bread & pumpkin quenelle 30.50
Stinco di agnello al forno Lamb shank stew in a red wine and soffritto over vegetable Farroto 27.50
Brodetto di pesce Assortment seafood d over garlic Fettunta & lobster bisquet 32.50
Baccala' alla livornese Filet of cod fish in a light livornese sauce with dloes potato & chickpeas 28.50
Inzimino di calamari Calamari stewed with spinach, swiss chard, red wine served with toasted bread 26.50
Pesce del giorno Fish of the day

Buon Appetito

From: John Del Cecato
Sent: Tuesday, February 4, 2014 6:37 PM
To: [REDACTED] Emma Wolfe; Dom Williams; Mahen Gunaratna; Laura Santucci; Jonathan Rosen
Cc: Jon Fromowitz; Robert Munoz
Subject: Re: State of the City - JDC's Nine Needs

Here's what I've got at the moment

From: Peter <[REDACTED]>
Date: Friday, January 31, 2014 at 4:12 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, Emma Wolfe <[REDACTED]> Dom Williams <[REDACTED]> Mahen Gunaratna <[REDACTED]> Jonathan Rosen <jonathan@berlinrosen.com>
Cc: Jon Fromowitz <jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>, Robert Munoz <rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: State of the City - JDC's Nine Needs

Hey John, so we'll have those stories coming up. We're set for LaGuardia college.

The 4 main policy proposals will be some variation of :

200K new units plan
Muni ID's
Living Wage executive order
New approach to funding CUNY with re doing deals/fed/state money.

Peter Ragone/[REDACTED]

From: John Del Cecato
Sent: Wednesday, January 29, 2014 3:31 PM
To: Peter; Emma Wolfe; Dom Williams; Mahen Gunaratna; Laura Santucci <[REDACTED]> Jonathan Rosen
Cc: Jon Fromowitz; Robert Munoz
Subject: State of the City - JDC's Nine Needs

Peter may have already hit you up for some of this, but I meant to download from our talk with the Mayor the other day... Here's what I'm in need of - policy-wise & stat-wise...

1. Can we say that we had zero loss of life during the two snow storms on our watch?

2. Need 1-2 stories on who's benefitting from what BDB did on paid sick leave expansion - preferably a woman & a parent...
3. Are we able to get NYC resident ID (as opposed to NYS drivers' licenses) done pretty easily this year?
4. What about doing DREAM Act stuff this year?
5. What are the prospects for NYS driver's licenses?
6. FreshDirect tax break - are we able to undo it?
7. Need some stories of one New York family who would benefit from our Pre-K plan, and one working parent who would benefit from our after school plan.
8. What "Promises Kept" can we say that we've accomplished in the first month (or by the time we give the speech) that I haven't already mentioned in the draft (attached)
9. Think of all of this stuff in terms of THIS YEAR - stuff we legitimately can make progress on or complete THIS YEAR.

State of the City – DRAFT 7
DRAFT AS OF: 2/4/14

Thank you, Madam Speaker. Thank you Members of the City Council. And thank you to everyday New Yorkers watching from their living rooms or laptops.

We are here to discuss the New York City that we live in today, and lay out our vision for where we will take it in the weeks and months to come.

For some, the state of our City couldn't be stronger.

On Wall Street, the stock market continues to hover near record highs. In a handful of our wealthiest zip codes, residents are blessed with high-paying jobs, excellent schools, well-appointed homes, quality medical care, safe streets, and cultural offerings unrivaled anywhere on the planet.

And that is a GOOD thing. We celebrate that success, and we commit ourselves to creating the conditions to keep it going.

But for too many – millions and millions of New Yorkers in neighborhoods spanning all five boroughs – the good life isn't just out of reach; it's out of sight. Good jobs that pay decent wages are shamefully scarce. Access to the best health care seems to many a privilege that cannot be earned. Affordable housing is an oxymoron. Police-community relations are stained by a history of discrimination. And a quality education – the most powerful tool we know for lifting one's life chances – is a promise broken too many times to count.

For THOSE New Yorkers – the OTHER New York -- the state of our City...is discouraging.

And today, they look to US – their duly elected representatives in city government – to lift the floor on New York's standard of living...to level the field that is weighted so powerfully against them.

And that is what we resolve to do.

In just one month's time, our city has weathered two major snowstorms – not without mistakes, but in a way that maintained a level of basic safety and minimized the risk of serious injury for our residents; we've played regional host to the nation's biggest sporting event without incident; and through Vision Zero, we've put ambitious new policies in place to END the tragic and unacceptable rash of traffic deaths on our city streets.

Of course, none of this would be possible without the bravery, dedication and sheer grit of the men and women of the NYPD. The hard work they do – not just as part of big events and new programs, but every single day in neighborhoods across New York – is why we remain the safest big city in America. They deserve our deep gratitude and respect.

New York's drive and diversity are unparalleled, and we have appointed a City Administration that represents that – putting our best women and men in charge of delivering city services with efficiency and integrity.

And we worked through the first City Hall transition in 12 years without an interruption to our basic duties – patrolling the streets, collecting the trash, and getting New Yorkers where they need to go.

At the very same time, we have not lost sight of our core mission...our obligation to tackle the inequality crisis that grips New York...to begin the hard work of ENDING the Tale of Two Cities that threatens our progress as One New York.

We've begun that effort by fighting to lift the floor...to improve the life conditions of those who scrape and toil not to get ahead, but merely to keep their heads above water. And at the very same time, we're fighting to level the field, so that city government doesn't set its compass by the rhythms of those at the very top while ignoring the struggle of those born under a less lucky star.

We've already begun to lift the floor.

In the first month of this Administration, we have enacted into law a critically important measure passed by this City Council to expand Paid Sick Leave to 500,000 additional New Yorkers. New Yorkers like ██████████

Because of our efforts, [REDACTED] lives his home in [REDACTED] that if he suffers a mind-numbing migraine, he won't lose a crucial day's pay. [REDACTED] has more confidence that if she comes down with the stomach flu, she won't be forced to choose between staying home to protect herself and her coworkers...and going to work to protect her paycheck.

But expanding Paid Sick Leave is just one part of our effort to lift the floor for our city's middle class and working poor. This month, we will – by executive order -- expand the reach of living wages – ending a city lawsuit against that expansion, so that New Yorkers aren't relegated to the ranks of the poor when putting in a full week's work. And we will ask Albany to give New York City the power to raise the minimum wage in all five boroughs. In the process, we will send a powerful signal to the private sector – that we honor work...and we will reward it. We will make it know that New York City is committed to making work pay.

We will lift the floor...

For small business owners...who will no longer be targeted by a ticket blitz that unfairly deploys arbitrary city regulations as a weapon for generating revenue.

We will lift the floor...

For those New Yorkers crushed by skyrocketing rents...requiring developers, for the very first time, to build affordable homes for everyday people rather than just multi-million dollar high rises for the most fortunate among us. In total, we pledge to preserve or construct 190,000 units of affordable housing – to lift the floor for working people by literally putting a roof over their heads.

And while we lift the floor, we will also level the field.

Police Commissioner Bratton has already taken bold new steps to strip away the specter of racial profiling from a stop-and-frisk policy that denied dignity to so many young men of color. We continue working to repair the broken bond of trust between law enforcement and the communities they are sworn to serve...to ensure that ALL New Yorkers see their safety AND their rights protected.

We will level the field...

Just over a week ago, we announced a settlement in the case of Floyd versus the City of New York – an acknowledgement of the wrongs spurred by a broken policing policy...and a message to New Yorkers of every background that we will respect equal protection under the law.

We will level the field...

For those who count on our community hospitals – so that developers understand the central role these centers of health play in the security and wellbeing of our neighborhoods. We will fight with everything we've got to reverse the tide of closures, and put the health of our people ahead of profits.

We will level the field...

For our undocumented immigrants -- issuing municipal ID cards this year -- so that no daughter or son of our city goes without the health care or housing support they desperately need simply because they are without a state driver's license. New York City is your home too, and we will not force ANY of our residents to live their lives in the shadows.
(REPEAT IN SPANISH)

We will level the field...

For the workforce of tomorrow...changing a mindset that has showered tax breaks on big corporations while the soaring cost of CUNY makes higher education harder and harder for everyday New Yorkers to afford.
(INSERT LINE ON CUNY BUDGET FUNDING PROPOSAL HERE)

We will level the field...

We will forgo big giveaways to a few select companies – like the reckless $130 million giveaway to FreshDirect enacted last year – and will instead pursue a city economic strategy that grows whole sectors of small businesses in emerging industries – from green jobs, to food exports, to advanced manufacturing – companies that can generate good jobs at decent wages in all five boroughs. We will propose an expanded revolving loan fund for start-ups of $100 million from incentive subsidy reform, and a new NYC Innovation Equity Fund for entrepreneurs. We'll put boots on the ground to work with local businesses and immigrant entrepreneurs to coordinate local job creation efforts, and help small business flourish.

We will level the field...

We'll create jobs for young people who are growing up in this city... who have always called this home. And here's how.

First, will advance a dedicated Science, Technology, Engineering, and Math – or STEM program -- at CUNY – to start preparing more graduates of our public high schools for jobs in the city's tech industry. To that end, our aim is that within eight years, the majority of skilled technology-related jobs in New York City are being filled by those educated in New York City schools.

Second, as our health sector continues to rapidly grow, we will prepare more of our unemployed, and our young people, for middle-skill, middle-class jobs...by scaling-up innovative programs like the Bronx's Health Education and Research Occupations High School that connects New Yorkers to CUNY and to relevant work experience at Montefiore hospital. And we will train New Yorkers to fill the thousands of registered nurse jobs that are currently held by temporary foreign guest workers.

Third, for people without a college degree, we will reinvent our maze of overlapping and ineffective job training programs --- and invest in industry-linked apprenticeship programs that directly connect New Yorkers to jobs in emerging industries such as green building technology, information technology, and telecommunications.

Fourth, we will connect every city high school to a college, apprenticeship program, or industry that corresponds to the skills our students learn. We will reverse the trend of importing engineers, nurses, and other skilled workers to fill New York City jobs -- and start in-sourcing good jobs for those who live here now, and are desperate for work.

We will level the field...

We will increase the number of contracts going to Minority and Women Owned Businesses -- which are far more likely to be located in our lowest income communities -- to create jobs for those who desperately need them. And we will offer low-income New Yorkers new pathways to jobs in the building trades -- requiring public construction projects funded by the City to train and hire residents of public housing and hard-pressed neighborhoods.

And most of all, we WILL level the field for those who deserve it most -- our children -- ALL of them.

We will offer every child from every borough of this city truly universal Pre-K. We will provide quality after-school programs for every middle schooler. And we will do this by asking those who make more than a half-million dollars a year to pay a little more in taxes.

For those making between $500,000 and a million dollars a year, that will mean an average of about 900 bucks a year. But to the young minds that we help shape...the pre-teen lives that we keep safe...the generation of working New Yorkers that we put on a path to success...it will be an investment too valuable to put into numbers.

Now, I know that last part has been the subject of some debate in recent weeks. And I know that people of good conscience can have different plans for how to achieve better outcomes for our kids. So let me take just a moment to make MY case for why our plan is the way to make that promise to our young people a reality.

Let's start by debunking some of the myths surrounding our proposal.

First, there are some who say that Albany shouldn't approve our plan because the STATE GOVERNMENT simply cannot raise ANY taxes right now. But that is NOT the debate. We're not asking Albany to raise the state income tax by a penny to pay for universal Pre-K and after-school programs here in New York City. We're simply asking Albany to allow

New York City to tax itself – its wealthiest residents...those making a half-million or more a year.

And if you think about it, Albany should really be rushing to accommodate us on this count. If New York City gets the state's blessing to raise our OWN income tax on the wealthy, it frees up more money for Albany to fund education in other parts of the state – or give property tax relief to New Yorkers in all 62 counties.

Second, there are some who suggest that we can fund universal Pre-K and after-school programs with existing state dollars. But remember this: there is no secret pot of money. If the state spends tax dollars, those tax dollars have to come from somewhere. And while educating our kids is our top priority, we must not rob Peter to pay Paul. Raising taxes on the rich makes our commitment to our kids more than just words. It makes that commitment REAL. It makes that commitment FAIR. And it offers a promise to our kids that they can COUNT ON.

Now, if there ARE extra resources in the state budget...IF there are hundreds of millions of dollars that are being considered for the purpose of funding Pre-K and after-school in New York City...don't get me wrong. New York City could USE that money! In fact, the courts have ruled that we are currently being short-changed on our OVERALL state education budget...to the tune of several BILLION dollars.

So let's not let this critically important debate become mired in the classic Albany shell game. Let's dedicated the funding we need to do what New York City must do – and let's tap the wealthiest New Yorkers to do so.

Third, it's been said that our plan is somehow a vehicle for transferring tax dollars to labor unions. So to the conspiracy theorists, let me say this as plainly as I can. The money we raise by taxing our wealthiest residents will go in a LOCK BOX – with EVERY dollar going to Pre-K and after-school programs...programs set up right here in New York City. That's it.

Finally, there are some who whisper that our drive to tax the rich to fund Pre-K and after-school is just political posturing – an effort to heap scorn on the wealthy to win an election. But the election in New York City is OVER – and the time for politics is over, too. This isn't about different philosophies or ideologies. This is about THE CHILDREN OF NEW YORK, and just how strong of a commitment we are willing to make to THEIR futures...and OUR OWN.

And that is a commitment I hear every day -- not just from middle class, working class, and low-income New Yorkers – but from good people from EVERY income bracket – people who know that for New York to move forward, we must ask those who have achieved great success to give a little back...to ensure that stories like theirs are possible for the next generation.

We don't make call for this plan out of anger or envy. And, as I said in my inaugural address, we do not do it to punish success. We do it to create more success stories.

And offering universal Pre-K isn't an untested theory. The science backs our proposal up. Studies have consistently shown that putting our kids on the right path BEFORE their first day of Kindergarten significantly raise their prospects of succeeding in school; of living healthier lives; and of landing a good job once their schooling is complete.

The data shows that after-school programs ease the daily anxiety of working parents who worry about their youngsters' whereabouts in the early evening, and give those parents the capacity to be more productive at work.

And let us never forget the public safety good in each of these measures.

Children who access Pre-K programs are more likely to stay out of jail and on the path to a productive life. Middle-schoolers who access after-school programs are less likely to fall victim to gangs and street violence...to graduate and go on to college or the world of work...to have hope for lifting themselves out of a cycle of poverty and into a world of possibility.

(INSERT STORY ABOUT A NEW YORKER WHO WOULD BENEFIT FROM PRE-K, AND ANOTHER ONE OF A NEW YORKER WHO'D BENEFIT FROM AFTER-SCHOOL. NAME THEM!)

These are the things we wish for New York City...our guiding light for City government in 2014.

Lifting the floor.

Leveling the field.

Fighting to END the Tale of Two Cities.

In his first radio address as Mayor, Fiorella LaGuardia, for whom the college we gather in today was proudly named, said this:

“Our city does not belong to any individual or set of individuals. It belongs to all the people.”

ALL the people.

From the South Bronx to the North Shore...from the Upper West Side to the Lower East Side...from Bayside to Brighton Beach.

We are ALL New Yorkers...united in purpose...joined by our faith in our future.

That is the City we set out to lead.

And together, we will rise as ONE CITY, and make it stronger and fairer and more filled with hope that it has ever been before.

Thank you, and God bless New York!

###

From: Robert Munoz
To: Chao, Raymond
Subject: Re: Speech prep: Wednesday 2/5 @ 2PM
Date: Wednesday, February 05, 2014 12:56:17 PM

Yeah just call him # is [REDACTED]

Sent from my iPhone

On Feb 5, 2014, at 12:55 PM, "Chao, Raymond" <rchao@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Actually, probably better for you to give me JDC's cell since he will be the only one dialing in.

Let me know at 1:50pm if we should call him or not.

Thanks,

Raymond Chao
Scheduling Coordinator
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: (212)-788-7565
Cell: (347)-607-8325
rchao@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Robert Munoz [<mailto:rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, February 05, 2014 12:51 PM
To: Chao, Raymond
Subject: Re: Speech prep: Wednesday 2/5 @ 2PM

He says he'll try that. Just give me a number and we should be good.

Sent from my iPhone

On Feb 5, 2014, at 10:40 AM, "Chao, Raymond" <rchao@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Okay, would he want to dial in?

Raymond Chao
Scheduling Coordinator
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: (212)-788-7565
Cell: (347)-607-8325
rchao@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Robert Munoz [<mailto:rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, February 05, 2014 10:34 AM
To: Chao, Raymond
Subject: Re: Speech prep: Wednesday 2/5 @ 2PM

Hey just got an email from John, he isn't feeling well today (has a fever) so he won't be able to make speech prep. He said he'll try to make the planning meeting later, but who knows.

Sent from my iPhone

On Feb 5, 2014, at 9:04 AM, "Chao, Raymond" <rchao@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Thanks

Raymond Chao
Scheduling Coordinator
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: (212)-788-7565
Cell: (347)-607-8325
rchao@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Robert Munoz [<mailto:rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, February 05, 2014 9:03 AM
To: Chao, Raymond
Subject: Re: Speech prep: Wednesday 2/5 @ 2PM

Yeah he should be able to make it

From: Raymond Chao
Sent: Wednesday, February 5, 2014 9:02 AM
To: Robert Munoz

Hey Rob,

Will JDC make this meeting?

Thanks,

Raymond Chao
Scheduling Coordinator
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: (212)-788-7565

Cell: (347)-607-8325
rchao@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Chao, Raymond
Sent: Tuesday, February 04, 2014 8:01 PM
To: Fuleihan, Dean (OMB); Wolfe, Emma; Ragone, Peter; Phil Walzak; John Del Cecato (jfdc@akpdmedia.com)
Cc: Jessica Singleton (jsingleton@cityhall.nyc.gov); Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Seignious, Sandy; Robert Munoz (rmunoz@akpdmedia.com)
Subject: Speech prep: Wednesday 2/5 @ 2PM

Hi all,

There will be a Speech prep meeting in the Mayor's Office tomorrow, 2/5 @ 2PM.

Please respond to this e-mail and the calendar invite and confirm your attendance.

Raymond Chao
Scheduling Coordinator
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: (212)-788-7565
Cell: (347)-607-8325
rchao@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: John Del Cecato
To: Ragone, Peter
Subject: Re: SOTC Housing & Econ. Dev. Priorities
Date: Wednesday, February 05, 2014 1:18:54 PM

Roger that

From: <Ragone>, Peter Ragone <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Wednesday, February 5, 2014 at 1:08 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Fw: SOTC Housing & Econ. Dev. Priorities

Heya, here are is the 200K initiative that we can insert into speech.

From: Sharma, Chandan
Sent: Tuesday, February 04, 2014 01:48 PM
To: Ragone, Peter
Cc: Glen, Alicia
Subject: SOTC Housing & Econ. Dev. Priorities

Hi Peter,

Please find attached an outline with our office's housing/economic development priorities to be integrated into the SOTC. Let us know if you have any questions.

Thanks,
Chandan

Chandan Sharma
Deputy Chief of Staff
Office of the Deputy Mayor for Housing & Economic Development csharma@cityhall.nyc.gov
O: 212.788.8510
C: 347.963.6231

From: John Del Cecato
To: Prim, Hayley; Fuleihan, Dean \(OMB\); Walzak, Phil; Singleton, Jessica; Wolfe, Emma; Ragone, Peter
Subject: Re: Speech Prep
Date: Wednesday, February 05, 2014 2:07:22 PM

Cool thanks

From: <Prim>, Hayley <HPrim@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Wednesday, February 5, 2014 at 2:01 PM
To: "Fuleihan, Dean (OMB)" <fuleihand@omb.nyc.gov>, "Walzak, Phil" <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Singleton, Jessica" <JSingleton@cityhall.nyc.gov>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, "Wolfe, Emma" <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Peter Ragone <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Speech Prep

We are looking at a 2:15 start for this meeting. JDC—we will dial you in as soon as we're ready.

Hayley Prim
Front Desk Office Manager
Office of the Mayor
(212) 341-5009

From: Prim, Hayley
To: Fuleihan, Dean \(OMB\); Walzak, Phil; Singleton, Jessica; "John Del Cecato"; Wolfe, Emma; Ragone, Peter
Subject: RE: Speech Prep
Date: Wednesday, February 05, 2014 2:15:21 PM

He is running a little behind, I'll send an update when we are ready to begin.

From: Prim, Hayley
Sent: Wednesday, February 05, 2014 2:02 PM
To: Fuleihan, Dean (OMB); Walzak, Phil; Singleton, Jessica; 'John Del Cecato'; Wolfe, Emma; Ragone, Peter
Subject: Speech Prep

We are looking at a 2:15 start for this meeting. JDC—we will dial you in as soon as we're ready.

Hayley Prim
Front Desk Office Manager
Office of the Mayor
(212) 341-5009

From: John Del Cecato
To: Prim, Hayley
Subject: Re: Dinner Tonight for the Planning Meeting
Date: Wednesday, February 05, 2014 2:51:09 PM

No worries at all

From: <Prim>, Hayley <HPrim@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Wednesday, February 5, 2014 at 2:50 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: Dinner Tonight for the Planning Meeting

Alright. Feel better!

I'm sorry about this delay to dialing you in, btw. He has dragged his previous 30 minute meeting into an hour, but hopefully it will be wrapping up in a couple of minutes.

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, February 05, 2014 2:48 PM
To: Prim, Hayley
Subject: Re: Dinner Tonight for the Planning Meeting

I think I'm going to have to skip... [REDACTED]

From: <Prim>, Hayley <HPrim@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Wednesday, February 5, 2014 at 12:10 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, "Chao, Raymond" <rchao@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Santucci, Laura" <LSantucci@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Anthony Shorris <AShorris@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Peter Ragone <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Wolfe, Emma" <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Dom Williams <DWilliams@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Rebecca Katz <RKKatz@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Noerdlinger, Rachel" <RNoerdlinger@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Jonathan Rosen <jonathan@berlinrosen.com>
Cc: "Shapiro, Leigh" <LShapiro@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Griffith, Chantell" <CGriffith@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Seignious, Sandy" <sseignious@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel" <GSchnakeMahl@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Robert Munoz <rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>, "Ko, Eunice" <EKo@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Coney, Javon" <JConey@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Sharp, Edie" <ESharp@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Dinner Tonight for the Planning Meeting

Hi All—

Please see the attached and updated dinner menu for tonight's planning meeting. In order to be efficient, we are ordering the food early so it will be ready when you arrive.

Please let me know what you would like as soon as possible today, (definitely by 4pm) and let me know if you have any questions. You will each be paying with separate checks this evening.

JDC, I hope you are recovering and will be able to join!

Thanks so much,
Hayley

Hayley Prim
Front Desk Office Manager
Office of the Mayor
(212) 341-5009

From: John Del Cecato
To: Peter; Prim, Hayley
Subject: i just got cut off - is meeting over?
Date: Wednesday, February 05, 2014 4:05:49 PM

From: Chao, Raymond
To: Fuleihan, Dean \(OMB\); Wolfe, Emma; Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; John Del Cecato \(jfdc@akpdmedia.com\); Jessica Singleton \(jsingleton@cityhall.nyc.gov\)
Cc: Sandy Seignious \(sseignious@cityhall.nyc.gov\); Lopez, Adriana \(OMB\); Owens, Cynthia \(OMB\); Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Robert Munoz \(rmunoz@akpdmedia.com\); Grybauskas, Stefan
Subject: Speech Prep meeting tomorrow, February 6 @ 7:00PM
Date: Wednesday, February 05, 2014 7:06:00 PM

Hi all,

There will be a Speech Prep meeting tomorrow, Thursday 2/6 @ 7:00PM in the Mayor's Office.

Please accept the calendar invite that will be sent.

Thank you,

Raymond Chao
Scheduling Coordinator
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: (212)-788-7565
Cell: (347)-607-8325
rchao@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Chao, Raymond
To: Fuleihan, Dean \(OMB\); Wolfe, Emma; Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; John Del Cecato \(jfdc@akpdmedia.com\); Jessica Singleton \(jsingleton@cityhall.nyc.gov\)
Cc: Sandy Seignious \(sseignious@cityhall.nyc.gov\); Lopez, Adriana \(OMB\); Owens, Cynthia \(OMB\); Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Robert Munoz \(rmunoz@akpdmedia.com\); Grybauskas, Stefan
Subject: RE: TIME CHANGE Speech Prep meeting tomorrow, February 6 @ 7:30PM
Date: Thursday, February 06, 2014 3:09:00 PM

Hi all,

Speech prep is pushed back 30 minutes and will run 7:30PM – 8:30PM.

Thank you,

Raymond Chao
Scheduling Coordinator
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: (212)-788-7565
Cell: (347)-607-8325
rchao@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Chao, Raymond
Sent: Wednesday, February 05, 2014 7:06 PM
To: Fuleihan, Dean (OMB); Wolfe, Emma; Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; John Del Cecato (jfdc@akpdmedia.com); Jessica Singleton (jsingleton@cityhall.nyc.gov)
Cc: Sandy Seignious (sseignious@cityhall.nyc.gov); Lopez, Adriana (OMB); Owens, Cynthia (OMB); Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Robert Munoz (rmunoz@akpdmedia.com); Grybauskas, Stefan
Subject: Speech Prep meeting tomorrow, February 6 @ 7:00PM

Hi all,

There will be a Speech Prep meeting tomorrow, Thursday 2/6 @ 7:00PM in the Mayor's Office.

Please accept the calendar invite that will be sent.

Thank you,

Raymond Chao
Scheduling Coordinator
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: (212)-788-7565
Cell: (347)-607-8325
rchao@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Bill de Blasio
To: Ragone, Peter; Wolfe, Emma
Cc: John Del Cecato
Subject: Fw: RSVP DEADLINE EXTENDED MAYOR DE BLASIO TO DELIVER STATE OF THE CITY ADDRESS MONDAY, FEBRUARY 10
Date: Thursday, February 06, 2014 4:06:10 PM

Pls note. Also good flag that it is home of La Guardia archives

Sent via BlackBerry by AT&T

From: Jay Hershenson <Jay.Hershenson@cuny.edu>
Date: Thu, 6 Feb 2014 21:03:27 +0000
To: 'Bill deBlasio' <[REDACTED]>
Cc: William Kelly <wk@cuny.edu>; 'Benno Schmidt ([REDACTED])' <[REDACTED]>
Subject: FW: RSVP DEADLINE EXTENDED MAYOR DE BLASIO TO DELIVER STATE OF THE CITY ADDRESS MONDAY, FEBRUARY 10

Mayor Bill de Blasio:

FYI. Best wishes always, Jay.

From: Jay Hershenson
Sent: Thursday, February 06, 2014 3:52 PM
To: [REDACTED]
Subject: Fw: RSVP DEADLINE EXTENDED MAYOR DE BLASIO TO DELIVER STATE OF THE CITY ADDRESS MONDAY, FEBRUARY 10

Emma, knowing Bill's extraordinary support for CUNY, is it possible for press announcements that describe CUNY colleges to include such mention? In the below announcement, the fact that La Guardia Community College is of The City University of New York is not indicated, although the description is very positive and worthy of a great community college we are deeply proud of. Could you please share this email with the Mayor's Press Secretary along with my request. We are all extremely proud that Bill has chosen to deliver his State of the City at a CUNY college, and, in particular, at the one named after the Little Flower-- the home of the La Guardia and Wagner Archives and a truly international student body that is very much the story of our City and the ladder of opportunity it represents. Thank you. Jay.

From: Mayor's Press Office [<mailto:pressoffice@cityhall.nyc.gov>]
Sent: Thursday, February 06, 2014 03:30 PM
To: Mayor's Press Office <pressoffice@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: RSVP DEADLINE EXTENDED MAYOR DE BLASIO TO DELIVER STATE OF THE CITY ADDRESS MONDAY, FEBRUARY 10

THE CITY OF NEW YORK
OFFICE OF THE MAYOR
NEW YORK, NY 10007

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE: February 6, 2014
CONTACT: pressoffice@cityhall.nyc.gov, (212) 788-2958
No. 37

RSVP Deadline Extended to 9:00 AM TOMORROW; All Members of the Media Must RSVP for Entry***

MAYOR DE BLASIO TO DELIVER STATE OF THE CITY ADDRESS MONDAY, FEBRUARY 10

Mayor to Deliver Inaugural State of the City Address at LaGuardia Community College in Queens

Mayor de Blasio to Lay Out New Reforms That Lift Up More New Yorkers, Tackle Income Inequality

Due to space constraints, all media must pre-register for the event, and credentials will be required to enter the premises. The deadline to register has been extended to 9:00 AM TOMORROW, Friday, February 7. Requests to register must be submitted via email to PressRSVP@cityhall.nyc.gov. Please include the name, contact information, media affiliation, and role of the individual(s) requesting the credentials.

An HD SDI feed of the switched program with cutaways and an HD SDI feed of an ISO of the podium will be provided through Encompass. Port ID's will be made available closer to the date of the event. Additional planning and logistical information will be sent with credential confirmations.

NEW YORK--The de Blasio administration today announced that Mayor Bill de Blasio will deliver his inaugural State of the City address at LaGuardia Community College in Queens on Monday, February 10, 2014. The State of the City will build on the steps Mayor de Blasio has already taken - within weeks of his inauguration - to confront economic inequality and create opportunity for more New Yorkers.

“From day one, we have worked to make this ‘One City’ - where everyone rises together. We’ve taken on big challenges with bold, progressive solutions. We have set the pace, and in the State of the City address, we will lay out a broader agenda that drives change further and leaves no New Yorker behind,” said Mayor Bill de Blasio.

In his address, Mayor de Blasio will focus on new policies to raise the wage floor for workers and invest in new pathways to the middle class.

In his first month in office, Mayor de Blasio has already introduced new legislation that will expand paid sick leave coverage to a half-million more working New Yorkers; launched a citywide effort to reduce traffic fatalities; assembled the implementation plan to provide every 4-year-old with full-day, high quality pre-K; and announced a historic agreement that will resolve the years-long legal battle over stop-and-frisk and implement reforms that respect every New Yorker's rights.

About LaGuardia Community College:

LaGuardia Community College was founded in 1971 and has opened the doors of higher education to a broad range of local and international communities; more than 160 countries are represented among LaGuardia's full-time students. Because of the school's boundary-breaking success educating underserved students, it has become a nationally recognized model of excellence for community colleges in America.

Date: Monday, February 10, 2014

Media pre-set: 10:30 – 11:00 AM

Remarks begin: 12:00 PM

Location: LaGuardia Community College
Performing Arts Center, Main Stage
47th Avenue and Van Dam Street
Long Island City, Queens

###

From: Hughes, Esther
To: "John Del Cecato"; Kavanagh, Laura
Cc: Robert Munoz
Subject: RE: State of the City
Date: Thursday, February 06, 2014 4:06:12 PM

Hello John –

You have been added to the guest list and should receive your invitation later today. Let us know if you change your mind on coming solo and we will add the name of your guest to the list. Thanks!

Esther

Esther Hughes | Mayor's Office of Special Projects and Community Events | p: 212.788.9542 | m: 347.268.0794

 please don't print this e-mail unless you really need to

CONFIDENTIALITY NOTICE:

This email and any files transmitted with it are confidential and intended solely for the use of the individual or entity to whom they are addressed. This message contains confidential information and is intended only for the individual named. If you are not the intended recipient you should not disseminate, distribute or copy this e-mail. Please notify the sender immediately by e-mail if you have received this e-mail by mistake and delete this e-mail from your system. If you are not the intended recipient you are notified that disclosing, copying, distributing or taking any action in reliance on the contents of this information is strictly prohibited.

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Thursday, February 06, 2014 1:48 PM
To: Kavanagh, Laura
Cc: Hughes, Esther; Robert Munoz
Subject: Re: State of the City

I'd love to come... I'll just fly solo... what's the time & place?

From: <Kavanagh>, Laura <lkavanagh@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Thursday, February 6, 2014 at 11:55 AM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: "Hughes, Esther" <EHughes@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: State of the City

JDC -

State of the City is on Monday. We would like to invite you, and would also like to invite you to invite a few others. Esther, copied here, will make sure you get an invite with all the details. Please send her the names of anyone else you would like to attend.

Laura

From: Chao, Raymond
To: Ragone, Peter; Fuleihan, Dean \(OMB\); Walzak, Phil; Wolfe, Emma; John Del Cecato \(jfdc@akpdmedia.com\)
Cc: Seignious, Sandy; Lopez, Adriana \(OMB\); Owens, Cynthia \(OMB\); Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Robert Munoz
Subject: Speech Prep Friday 2/7 @ 2:00PM in the Mayor's Office
Date: Thursday, February 06, 2014 5:53:03 PM

Hi all,

There will be a Speech Prep meeting tomorrow, Friday 2/7 @ 2:00PM in the Mayor's Office.

Please accept the calendar invite that will be sent.

Thank you,

Raymond Chao
Scheduling Coordinator
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: (212)-788-7565
Cell: (347)-607-8325
rchao@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Chao, Raymond
To: Fuleihan, Dean \(OMB\); Wolfe, Emma; Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; John Del Cecato \(jfdc@akpdmedia.com\)
Cc: Sandy Seignious \(sseignious@cityhall.nyc.gov\); Lopez, Adriana \(OMB\); Owens, Cynthia \(OMB\); Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Robert Munoz \(rmunoz@akpdmedia.com\); Grybauskas, Stefan
Subject: RE: TIME CHANGE Speech Prep meeting tomorrow, February 6 @ 8:15PM
Date: Thursday, February 06, 2014 5:54:00 PM

Hi all,

Speech prep is pushed back to run 8:15PM – 9:15PM.

Raymond Chao
Scheduling Coordinator
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: (212)-788-7565
Cell: (347)-607-8325
rchao@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Chao, Raymond
Sent: Thursday, February 06, 2014 3:10 PM
To: Fuleihan, Dean (OMB); Wolfe, Emma; Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; John Del Cecato (jfdc@akpdmedia.com); Jessica Singleton (jsingleton@cityhall.nyc.gov)
Cc: Sandy Seignious (sseignious@cityhall.nyc.gov); Lopez, Adriana (OMB); Owens, Cynthia (OMB); Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Robert Munoz (rmunoz@akpdmedia.com); Grybauskas, Stefan
Subject: RE: TIME CHANGE Speech Prep meeting tomorrow, February 6 @ 7:30PM

Hi all,

Speech prep is pushed back 30 minutes and will run 7:30PM – 8:30PM.

Thank you,

Raymond Chao
Scheduling Coordinator
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: (212)-788-7565
Cell: (347)-607-8325
rchao@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Chao, Raymond
Sent: Wednesday, February 05, 2014 7:06 PM
To: Fuleihan, Dean (OMB); Wolfe, Emma; Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; John Del Cecato (jfdc@akpdmedia.com); Jessica Singleton (jsingleton@cityhall.nyc.gov)
Cc: Sandy Seignious (sseignious@cityhall.nyc.gov); Lopez, Adriana (OMB); Owens, Cynthia (OMB); Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Robert Munoz (rmunoz@akpdmedia.com); Grybauskas, Stefan
Subject: Speech Prep meeting tomorrow, February 6 @ 7:00PM

Hi all,

There will be a Speech Prep meeting tomorrow, Thursday 2/6 @ 7:00PM in the Mayor's Office.

Please accept the calendar invite that will be sent.

Thank you,

Raymond Chao
Scheduling Coordinator
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: (212)-788-7565
Cell: (347)-607-8325
rchao@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Prim, Hayley
To: Shorris, Anthony; Tarlow, Mindy; Santucci, Laura; Wolfe, Emma; Ragone, Peter; Williams, Dominic; Fuleihan, Dean \(OMB\); Walzak, Phil; "John Del Cecato"
Cc: Griffith, Chantell; ["Leigh Shapiro \(\[REDACTED\]\)"](#); Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel
Subject: RE: Budget Briefing and Speech Prep
Date: Thursday, February 06, 2014 7:18:07 PM

Budget meeting is expected to begin at 7:30pm now.

From: Prim, Hayley
Sent: Thursday, February 06, 2014 5:49 PM
To: Shorris, Anthony; Tarlow, Mindy; Santucci, Laura; Wolfe, Emma; Ragone, Peter; Williams, Dominic; Fuleihan, Dean (OMB); Walzak, Phil; John Del Cecato
Cc: Griffith, Chantell; Leigh Shapiro ([REDACTED]); Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel
Subject: Budget Briefing and Speech Prep

The Budget Briefing is from 6:45 – 8:15pm, and Speech prep is from 8:15 – 9:15pm

I am happy to coordinate ordering dinner for anyone who is interested (sandwiches, salads, etc.) Let me know if anyone is interested and has a preference.

Thanks!
Hayley

Hayley Prim
Front Desk Office Manager
Office of the Mayor
(212) 341-5009

From: John Del Cecato
To: Prim, Hayley
Cc: Ragone, Peter; Fuleihan, Dean \(OMB\); Wolfe, Emma; Walzak, Phil
Subject: Re: Speech Prep
Date: Thursday, February 06, 2014 8:02:10 PM

I'll head down now

On Feb 6, 2014, at 8:01 PM, "Prim, Hayley" <HPrim@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

It is now expected to begin at approximately 8:45 - 9pm.

JDC—will you be here in person, or should we dial you in?

Hayley Prim
Front Desk Office Manager
Office of the Mayor
(212) 341-5009

From: Walzak, Phil
To: Wolfe, Emma; Prim, Hayley; Ragone, Peter; Fuleihan, Dean \(OMB\); "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: RE: Speech Prep
Date: Thursday, February 06, 2014 8:03:23 PM

Im banging thru backlog of press requests/inquiries that are slipping thru cracks

From: Wolfe, Emma
Sent: Thursday, February 06, 2014 8:02 PM
To: Prim, Hayley; Ragone, Peter; Fuleihan, Dean (OMB); Walzak, Phil; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'
Subject: Re: Speech Prep

I had to go to a meeting sorry guys

From: Prim, Hayley
Sent: Thursday, February 06, 2014 08:01 PM
To: Ragone, Peter; Fuleihan, Dean (OMB); Wolfe, Emma; Walzak, Phil; John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Speech Prep

It is now expected to begin at approximately 8:45 - 9pm.

JDC—will you be here in person, or should we dial you in?

Hayley Prim
Front Desk Office Manager
Office of the Mayor
(212) 341-5009

From: Chao, Raymond
To: Ragone, Peter; Fuleihan, Dean \(OMB\); Walzak, Phil; Wolfe, Emma; John Del Cecato \(jfdc@akpdmedia.com\)
Cc: Seignious, Sandy; Lopez, Adriana \(OMB\); Owens, Cynthia \(OMB\); Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Robert Munoz
Subject: RE: TIME CHANGE Speech Prep Friday 2/7 @ 12:45PM in the Mayor's Office
Date: Thursday, February 06, 2014 8:34:00 PM

Tomorrow's Speech Prep start time is changed to 12:45PM.

Raymond Chao
Scheduling Coordinator
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: (212)-788-7565
Cell: (347)-607-8325
rchao@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Chao, Raymond
Sent: Thursday, February 06, 2014 7:37 PM
To: Ragone, Peter; Fuleihan, Dean (OMB); Walzak, Phil; Wolfe, Emma; John Del Cecato (jfdc@akpdmedia.com)
Cc: Seignious, Sandy; Lopez, Adriana (OMB); Owens, Cynthia (OMB); Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; 'Robert Munoz'
Subject: RE: TIME CHANGE Speech Prep Friday 2/7 @ 12:00PM in the Mayor's Office

Tomorrow's Speech Prep start time is changed to 12PM noon and will be for 2 hours.

Raymond Chao
Scheduling Coordinator
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: (212)-788-7565
Cell: (347)-607-8325
rchao@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Chao, Raymond
Sent: Thursday, February 06, 2014 5:53 PM
To: Ragone, Peter; Fuleihan, Dean (OMB); Walzak, Phil; Wolfe, Emma; John Del Cecato (jfdc@akpdmedia.com)
Cc: Seignious, Sandy; Lopez, Adriana (OMB); Owens, Cynthia (OMB); Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; 'Robert Munoz'
Subject: Speech Prep Friday 2/7 @ 2:00PM in the Mayor's Office

Hi all,

There will be a Speech Prep meeting tomorrow, Friday 2/7 @ 2:00PM in the Mayor's Office.

Please accept the calendar invite that will be sent.

Thank you,

Raymond Chao
Scheduling Coordinator
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: (212)-788-7565
Cell: (347)-607-8325
rchao@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Prim, Hayley
To: Ragone, Peter; Fuleihan, Dean \(OMB\); Wolfe, Emma; Walzak, Phil; "John Del Cecato"
Subject: RE: Speech Prep
Date: Thursday, February 06, 2014 9:07:21 PM

Should be ready to start in the next 5-10 mins. Will keep you updated

From: Prim, Hayley
Sent: Thursday, February 06, 2014 8:01 PM
To: Ragone, Peter; Fuleihan, Dean (OMB); Wolfe, Emma; Walzak, Phil; John Del Cecato
Subject: Speech Prep

It is now expected to begin at approximately 8:45 - 9pm.

JDC—will you be here in person, or should we dial you in?

Hayley Prim
Front Desk Office Manager
Office of the Mayor
(212) 341-5009

From: John Del Cecato
To: Prim, Hayley
Subject: Re: Speech Prep/ Lunch
Date: Friday, February 07, 2014 12:52:07 PM

For sure - I will take a wreck on wheat. Or whatever

On Feb 7, 2014, at 12:30 PM, "Prim, Hayley" <HPrim@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Sounds good. Are you okay with potbellys?

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Friday, February 07, 2014 12:18 PM
To: Prim, Hayley
Subject: Re: Speech Prep/ Lunch

i'd love a turkey sandwich or a chicken burrito or something! And a diet coke?

From: <Prim>, Hayley <HPrim@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Friday, February 7, 2014 at 11:43 AM
To: Peter Ragone <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Fuleihan, Dean (OMB)" <fuleihand@omb.nyc.gov>, "Walzak, Phil" <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Speech Prep/ Lunch

I am happy to order lunch for you all if you're interested—please let me know.

Thanks!
Hayley

Hayley Prim
Front Desk Office Manager
Office of the Mayor
(212) 341-5009

From: Prim, Hayley
To: Ragone, Peter; Fuleihan, Dean \(OMB\); Walzak, Phil; "John Del Cecato"
Subject: RE: Speech Prep/ Lunch
Date: Friday, February 07, 2014 1:24:45 PM

Hi all—he is out of the announcement. We expect to begin in about 10 minutes. I'll let you know when to gather.

From: Prim, Hayley
Sent: Friday, February 07, 2014 12:32 PM
To: Ragone, Peter; Fuleihan, Dean (OMB); Walzak, Phil; 'John Del Cecato'
Subject: RE: Speech Prep/ Lunch

Update: Press conference is just about to begin, so speech prep will likely start around 1:15pm.

From: Prim, Hayley
Sent: Friday, February 07, 2014 11:43 AM
To: Ragone, Peter; Fuleihan, Dean (OMB); Walzak, Phil; John Del Cecato
Subject: Speech Prep/ Lunch

I am happy to order lunch for you all if you're interested—please let me know.

Thanks!
Hayley

Hayley Prim
Front Desk Office Manager
Office of the Mayor
(212) 341-5009

From: John Del Cecato
To: Grybauskas, Stefan; Ragone, Peter; Fuleihan, Dean \(OMB\); Walzak, Phil; Robert Munoz; Seignious, Sandy; Owens, Cynthia \(OMB\); jonathan@berlinrosen.com
Subject: Re: Speech Prep- Saturday February 8th
Date: Friday, February 07, 2014 6:27:20 PM

Fyi, i've got a wedding tomorrow night so i can be there on the front end but can't stay whole time

From: <Grybauskas>, Stefan <SGrybauskas@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Friday, February 7, 2014 at 5:29 PM
To: Peter Ragone <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Fuleihan, Dean (OMB)" <fuleihand@omb.nyc.gov>, "Walzak, Phil" <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, Robert Munoz <rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>, "Seignious, Sandy" <sseignious@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Owens, Cynthia (OMB)" <owensc@omb.nyc.gov>, "Fuleihan, Dean (OMB)" <fuleihand@omb.nyc.gov>, Jonathan Rosen <jonathan@berlinrosen.com>
Subject: Speech Prep- Saturday February 8th

Hello,

There will be a speech prep session tomorrow Saturday February 8th from 3:15pm-5:15pm in the Mayor's Outer Ceremonial office. Please let me know if you are unable to make it.

Thanks,

Stefan Grybauskas
Deputy Director of Scheduling
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212-788-3180
Cell: 347-515-5874

From: Grybauskas, Stefan
To: Ragone, Peter; Fuleihan, Dean \(OMB\); Walzak, Phil; "John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> (jfdc@akpdmedia.com)"; "Robert Munoz \(rmunoz@akpdmedia.com\)"; Seignious, Sandy; Owens, Cynthia \(OMB\); Fuleihan, Dean \(OMB\); "jonathan@berlinrosen.com"; Walzak, Phil; Adams, Marti
Subject: RE: Speech Prep- Saturday February 8th
Date: Saturday, February 08, 2014 2:23:32 PM

Hello,

Speech prep will start at 4:00pm.

From: Grybauskas, Stefan
Sent: Friday, February 07, 2014 5:29 PM
To: Ragone, Peter; Fuleihan, Dean (OMB); Walzak, Phil; John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> (jfdc@akpdmedia.com); Robert Munoz (rmunoz@akpdmedia.com); Seignious, Sandy; Owens, Cynthia (OMB); Fuleihan, Dean (OMB); jonathan@berlinrosen.com
Subject: Speech Prep- Saturday February 8th

Hello,

There will be a speech prep session tomorrow Saturday February 8th from 3:15pm-5:15pm in the Mayor's Outer Ceremonial office. Please let me know if you are unable to make it.

Thanks,

Stefan Grybauskas
Deputy Director of Scheduling
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212-788-3180
Cell: 347-515-5874

From: John Del Cecato
To: Grybauskas, Stefan; Ragone, Peter; Fuleihan, Dean \(OMB\); Walzak, Phil; Robert Munoz; Seignious, Sandy; Owens, Cynthia \(OMB\); Fuleihan, Dean \(OMB\); "jonathan@berlinrosen.com"; Walzak, Phil; Adams, Marti
Subject: Re: Speech Prep- Saturday February 8th
Date: Saturday, February 08, 2014 2:42:13 PM

Unfortunately I've got wedding duty, so I can't make it that late - but I'll be around tomorrow

From: <Grybauskas>, Stefan <SGrybauskas@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Saturday, February 8, 2014 at 2:23 PM
To: Peter Ragone <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Fuleihan, Dean (OMB)" <fuleihand@omb.nyc.gov>, "Walzak, Phil" <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, Robert Munoz <rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>, "Seignious, Sandy" <sseignious@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Owens, Cynthia (OMB)" <owensc@omb.nyc.gov>, "Fuleihan, Dean (OMB)" <fuleihand@omb.nyc.gov>, Jonathan Rosen <jonathan@berlinrosen.com>, "Walzak, Phil" <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Adams, Marti" <MAdams@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: RE: Speech Prep- Saturday February 8th

Hello,

Speech prep will start at 4:00pm.

From: Grybauskas, Stefan
Sent: Friday, February 07, 2014 5:29 PM
To: Ragone, Peter; Fuleihan, Dean (OMB); Walzak, Phil; John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> (jfdc@akpdmedia.com); Robert Munoz (rmunoz@akpdmedia.com); Seignious, Sandy; Owens, Cynthia (OMB); Fuleihan, Dean (OMB); jonathan@berlinrosen.com
Subject: Speech Prep- Saturday February 8th

Hello,

There will be a speech prep session tomorrow Saturday February 8th from 3:15pm-5:15pm in the Mayor's Outer Ceremonial office. Please let me know if you are unable to make it.

Thanks,

Stefan Grybauskas
Deputy Director of Scheduling
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212-788-3180
Cell: 347-515-5874

From: Prim, Hayley
To: Ragone, Peter; Fuleihan, Dean \(OMB\); Wolfe, Emma; Walzak, Phil; "John Del Cecato"; "Jonathan Rosen"
Subject: RE: Speech Prep
Date: Saturday, February 08, 2014 4:03:52 PM

Ready to start speech prep. Please come to the Mayor's office.

From: Prim, Hayley
Sent: Saturday, February 08, 2014 2:53 PM
To: Ragone, Peter; Fuleihan, Dean (OMB); Wolfe, Emma; Walzak, Phil; John Del Cecato; Jonathan Rosen
Subject: Speech Prep

Apologies for the delay, the Mayor will be en route to CH shortly, and we expect speech prep to begin at 4pm.

Thanks,
Hayley

Hayley Prim
Front Desk Office Manager
Office of the Mayor
(212) 341-5009

From: Scola, Lindsay
To: Ragone, Peter; Fuleihan, Dean \(OMB\); Walzak, Phil; Wolfe, Emma; "John Del Cecato"; Adams, Marti; Santucci, Laura
Cc: Sharp, Edie; Shapiro, Leigh; Grybauskas, Stefan; Ko, Eunice; Chao, Raymond; Coney, Javon
Subject: Speech Prep Tomorrow
Date: Saturday, February 08, 2014 6:11:36 PM
Importance: High

There is no BdB speech prep for tomorrow on the calendar. He will need things throughout the day, we are giving him a dial in number and he will let us know if he needs something scheduled. He will also call people as needed.

Dial in number:

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

Lindsay Scola
Director of Scheduling
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212.788.2962
Cell: 917.513.1690

From: Bill de Blasio
To: David M Axelrod
Cc: John Del Cecato; Scola, Lindsay; Santucci, Laura Subject: Re: From Axe
Date: Sunday, February 09, 2014 11:43:34 AM

Would love to if we can make it work. Lindsay, cc'ed here, will follow up

-----Original Message-----

From: David M Axelrod
To: Bill de Blasio
Cc: John Del Cecato
Subject: From Axe
Sent: Feb 9, 2014 10:05 AM

Bill,
Hope you're well. Seems like it!
We have Rahm, Eric Garcetti and Kasim Reed for a forum at the UChicago Institute of Politics on the evening of March 6.
Can you join??
Big ask, I know. But it will be fun!
David

Sent from my iPhone
Sent via BlackBerry by AT&T

From: Hughes, Esther
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Kavanagh, Laura
Subject: Re:
Date: Sunday, February 09, 2014 3:18:59 PM

Ah. Got it! I don't have the Remix playlist. I only had the gotv one so that's what I went with. I will download the other songs you mentioned below but if you have the remix playlist you can forward to me, I can download those too.

Esther Hughes | Mayor's Office of Special Projects and Community Events |
ehughes@cityhall.nyc.gov | mobile: (347) 268-0794

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Sunday, February 09, 2014 03:16 PM
To: Hughes, Esther; Kavanagh, Laura
Subject: Re:

Oh - if it's just for the room, then I would go with GOTV for BDB - The Remix (that was a little more tailored to a general election audience - i.e., includes Royals & doesn't have No Sleep til Brooklyn)..

I was thinking specifically for intro/outro music for the mayor's remarks

From: <Hughes>, Esther <EHughes@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Sunday, February 9, 2014 at 3:12 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, "Kavanagh, Laura" <lavanagh@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re:

To play in the room or as an entrance song? The list below is to play as guests are arriving.

Esther Hughes | Mayor's Office of Special Projects and Community Events |
ehughes@cityhall.nyc.gov | mobile: (347) 268-0794

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Sunday, February 09, 2014 03:10 PM
To: Hughes, Esther; Kavanagh, Laura
Subject: Re:

None of these are really doing it for me - except maybe Florence + The Machine, Dog Days Are Over

How about some combo of:

Bruce Springsteen, The Rising
India.Arie, There's Hope
Fun, We Are Young

Lauryn Hill, Everything is Everything
The Five Stairsteps, Ooh Child

From: <Hughes>, Esther <EHughes@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Date: Sunday, February 9, 2014 at 2:16 PM

To: "Kavanagh, Laura" <lkavanagh@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Cc: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmmedia.com>

Subject: RE:

- <!--[if !supportLists]-->1. <!--[endif]-->New York Groove by Ace Frehley
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->2. <!--[endif]-->No Sleep Til Brooklyn, Beastie Boys
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->3. <!--[endif]-->Your Love keeps Lifting me higher, Jackie Wilson
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->4. <!--[endif]-->Dog Days are Over, Florence and the Machine
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->5. <!--[endif]-->Don't you Worry Child (radio edit), Swedish House Mafia
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->6. <!--[endif]-->Bridging the Gap, Nas ft. Olu Dara
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->7. <!--[endif]-->Some Night, Fun
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->8. <!--[endif]-->Azucar, Eddie Palmieri
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->9. <!--[endif]-->Girl on Fire, Alicia Keys
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->10.<!--[endif]-->Fader, The Temper Trap
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->11.<!--[endif]-->Rockaway Beach, Ramones
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->12.<!--[endif]-->Don't Stop Believing, Journey
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->13.<!--[endif]-->Start me Up, Rolling Stones
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->14.<!--[endif]-->We Take Care of Our Own, Bruce Springsteen
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->15.<!--[endif]-->A Little Less Conversation, Elvis Presley
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->16.<!--[endif]-->When they Fight, they Fight, Generationals
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->17.<!--[endif]-->Signed Sealed Delivered, Stevie Wonder
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->18.<!--[endif]-->New York, New York, Ryan Adams
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->19.<!--[endif]-->The Wire, HAIM
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->20.<!--[endif]-->Jump the Line, Harry Belafonte
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->21.<!--[endif]-->Harlem Air Shaft, Wynton Marsalis
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->22.<!--[endif]-->Angel of Harlem, U2
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->23.<!--[endif]-->Good Life, OneRepublic
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->24.<!--[endif]-->A-Punk, Vampire Weekend

Esther

Mayor's Office for Special Projects and Community Events
please don't print this e-mail unless you really need to

CONFIDENTIALITY NOTICE:

This email and any files transmitted with it are confidential and intended solely for the use of the individual or entity to whom they are addressed. This message contains confidential information and is intended only for the individual named. If you are not the intended recipient you should not disseminate, distribute or copy this e-mail. Please notify the sender immediately by e-mail if you have received this e-mail by mistake and delete this e-mail from your system. If you are not the intended recipient you are notified that disclosing, copying, distributing or taking any action in reliance on the contents of this information is strictly prohibited.

-----Original Message-----

From: Kavanagh, Laura
Sent: Sunday, February 09, 2014 2:04 PM
To: Hughes, Esther
Cc: John Del Cecato
Subject:

Esther can you send JDC the list of songs you downloaded for tomorrow?

Sent from my iPhone

From: Kavanagh, Laura
To: John Del Cecato; Hughes, Esther
Subject: Re:
Date: Sunday, February 09, 2014 3:22:03 PM

This is our playlist, but I do want to pick out one of the songs to be the walk on song for bill.

From: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Date: Sunday, February 9, 2014 at 3:16 PM
To: "Hughes, Esther" <EHughes@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Laura Kavanagh <lkavanagh@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re:

Oh - if it's just for the room, then I would go with GOTV for BDB - The Remix (that was a little more tailored to a general election audience - i.e., includes Royals & doesn't have No Sleep til Brooklyn)..

I was thinking specifically for intro/outro music for the mayor's remarks

From: <Hughes>, Esther <EHughes@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Sunday, February 9, 2014 at 3:12 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, "Kavanagh, Laura" <lkavanagh@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re:

To play in the room or as an entrance song? The list below is to play as guests are arriving.

Esther Hughes | Mayor's Office of Special Projects and Community Events |
ehughes@cityhall.nyc.gov | mobile: (347) 268-0794

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Sunday, February 09, 2014 03:10 PM
To: Hughes, Esther; Kavanagh, Laura
Subject: Re:

None of these are really doing it for me - except maybe Florence + The Machine, Dog Days Are Over

How about some combo of:

Bruce Springsteen, The Rising
india.arie, There's Hope
Fun, We Are Young
Lauryn Hill, Everything is Everything
The Five Steps, Ooh Child

From: <Hughes>, Esther <EHughes@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Date: Sunday, February 9, 2014 at 2:16 PM

To: "Kavanagh, Laura" <lkavanagh@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Cc: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>

Subject: RE:

- <!--[if !supportLists]-->1. <!--[endif]-->New York Groove by Ace Frehley
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->2. <!--[endif]-->No Sleep Til Brooklyn, Beastie Boys
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->3. <!--[endif]-->Your Love keeps Lifting me higher, Jackie Wilson
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->4. <!--[endif]-->Dog Days are Over, Florence and the Machine
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->5. <!--[endif]-->Don't you Worry Child (radio edit), Swedish House Mafia
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->6. <!--[endif]-->Bridging the Gap, Nas ft. Olu Dara
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->7. <!--[endif]-->Some Night, Fun
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->8. <!--[endif]-->Azucar, Eddie Palmieri
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->9. <!--[endif]-->Girl on Fire, Alicia Keys
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->10.<!--[endif]-->Fader, The Temper Trap
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->11.<!--[endif]-->Rockaway Beach, Ramones
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->12.<!--[endif]-->Don't Stop Believing, Journey
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->13.<!--[endif]-->Start me Up, Rolling Stones
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->14.<!--[endif]-->We Take Care of Our Own, Bruce Springsteen
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->15.<!--[endif]-->A Little Less Conversation, Elvis Presley
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->16.<!--[endif]-->When they Fight, they Fight, Generationals
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->17.<!--[endif]-->Signed Sealed Delivered, Stevie Wonder
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->18.<!--[endif]-->New York, New York, Ryan Adams
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->19.<!--[endif]-->The Wire, HAIM
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->20.<!--[endif]-->Jump the Line, Harry Belafonte
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->21.<!--[endif]-->Harlem Air Shaft, Wynton Marsalis
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->22.<!--[endif]-->Angel of Harlem, U2
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->23.<!--[endif]-->Good Life, OneRepublic
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->24.<!--[endif]-->A-Punk, Vampire Weekend

Esther

Mayor's Office for Special Projects and Community Events

please don't print this e-mail unless you really need to

CONFIDENTIALITY NOTICE:

This email and any files transmitted with it are confidential and intended solely for the use of the individual or entity to whom they are addressed. This message contains confidential information and is intended only for the individual named. If you are not the intended recipient you should not disseminate, distribute or copy this e-mail. Please notify the sender immediately by e-mail if you have received this e-mail by mistake and delete this e-mail from your system. If you are not the intended recipient you are notified that disclosing, copying, distributing or taking any action in reliance on the contents of this information is strictly prohibited.

-----Original Message-----

From: Kavanagh, Laura

Sent: Sunday, February 09, 2014 2:04 PM

To: Hughes, Esther

Cc: John Del Cecato

Subject:

Esther can you send JDC the list of songs you downloaded for tomorrow?

Sent from my iPhone

From: Bill de Blasio
To: Ragone, Peter; Santucci, Laura; Wolfe, Emma; Scola, Lindsay
Cc: Chirlane McCray; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic; John Del Cecato
Subject: Laying down a marker
Date: Sunday, February 09, 2014 3:34:22 PM

Our team has made a mistake, and I won't let it happen again. It was dumb to try to do SOTC and the budget address within 48 hours of each other. Dumb and narrow-minded. Not strategic. And I was dumb to let it happen, so I have only myself to blame.

We will get through this, but not as well as we should have. We are rushing too huge pieces and neither will be as good because of it. I am profoundly uncomfortable, but I will still make the play.

Del Cecato will say I've reacting this way before on the eve of big speeches, and there's some truth in that. But we've never had to do this before WHILE in office, dodging snowstorms, etc and held to a higher standard than a campaign speech. And we've NEVER tried to do TWO such huges speeches in one week.

The decision-making here was tactical and small-minded, and can't happen again. I will be the first to veto in the future. That being said, let's go make this the best it can be, and move forward.

Sent via BlackBerry by AT&T

From: Hughes, Esther
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Kavanagh, Laura
Subject: Re:
Date: Sunday, February 09, 2014 3:47:31 PM

Will do

Esther Hughes | Mayor's Office of Special Projects and Community Events |
ehughes@cityhall.nyc.gov | mobile: (347) 268-0794

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Sunday, February 09, 2014 03:46 PM
To: Hughes, Esther; Kavanagh, Laura
Subject: Re:

I'm fine with the original list for the "crowd music" - only one I'd nix would be No Sleep Til Brooklyn maybe

From: <Hughes>, Esther <EHughes@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Sunday, February 9, 2014 at 3:37 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, "Kavanagh, Laura" <lkavanagh@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re:

John - is there a particular song you prefer not to use? We can remove the songs from the list but we are at capacity as to what we can purchase now.

Esther Hughes | Mayor's Office of Special Projects and Community Events |
ehughes@cityhall.nyc.gov | mobile: (347) 268-0794

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Sunday, February 09, 2014 03:16 PM
To: Hughes, Esther; Kavanagh, Laura
Subject: Re:

Oh - if it's just for the room, then I would go with GOTV for BDB - The Remix (that was a little more tailored to a general election audience - i.e., includes Royals & doesn't have No Sleep til Brooklyn)..

I was thinking specifically for intro/outro music for the mayor's remarks

From: <Hughes>, Esther <EHughes@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Sunday, February 9, 2014 at 3:12 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, "Kavanagh, Laura" <lkavanagh@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re:

To play in the room or as an entrance song? The list below is to play as guests are arriving.

Esther Hughes | Mayor's Office of Special Projects and Community Events |
ehughes@cityhall.nyc.gov | mobile: (347) 268-0794

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Sunday, February 09, 2014 03:10 PM
To: Hughes, Esther; Kavanagh, Laura
Subject: Re:

None of these are really doing it for me - except maybe Florence + The Machine, Dog Days Are Over

How about some combo of:

Bruce Springsteen, The Rising
India Arie, There's Hope
Fun, We Are Young
Lauryn Hill, Everything is Everything
The Five Steps, Ooh Child

From: <Hughes>, Esther <EHughes@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Sunday, February 9, 2014 at 2:16 PM
To: "Kavanagh, Laura" <lkavanagh@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE:

- <!--[if !supportLists]-->1. <!--[endif]-->New York Groove by Ace Frehley
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->2. <!--[endif]-->No Sleep Til Brooklyn, Beastie Boys
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->3. <!--[endif]-->Your Love keeps Lifting me higher, Jackie Wilson
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->4. <!--[endif]-->Dog Days are Over, Florence and the Machine
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->5. <!--[endif]-->Don't you Worry Child (radio edit), Swedish House Mafia
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->6. <!--[endif]-->Bridging the Gap, Nas ft. Olu Dara
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->7. <!--[endif]-->Some Night, Fun
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->8. <!--[endif]-->Azucar, Eddie Palmieri
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->9. <!--[endif]-->Girl on Fire, Alicia Keys
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->10.<!--[endif]-->Fader, The Temper Trap
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->11.<!--[endif]-->Rockaway Beach, Ramones
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->12.<!--[endif]-->Don't Stop Believing, Journey
13. Start me Up, Rolling Stones

<!--[if !supportLists]--> <!--[endif]-->
<!--[if !supportLists]-->14.<!--[endif]-->We Take Care of Our Own, Bruce Springsteen
<!--[if !supportLists]-->15.<!--[endif]-->A Little Less Conversation, Elvis Presley
<!--[if !supportLists]-->16.<!--[endif]-->When they Fight, they Fight, Generationals
<!--[if !supportLists]-->17.<!--[endif]-->Signed Sealed Delivered, Stevie Wonder
<!--[if !supportLists]-->18.<!--[endif]-->New York, New York, Ryan Adams
<!--[if !supportLists]-->19.<!--[endif]-->The Wire, HAIM
<!--[if !supportLists]-->20.<!--[endif]-->Jump the Line, Harry Belafonte
<!--[if !supportLists]-->21.<!--[endif]-->Harlem Air Shaft, Wynton Marsalis
<!--[if !supportLists]-->22.<!--[endif]-->Angel of Harlem, U2
<!--[if !supportLists]-->23.<!--[endif]-->Good Life, OneRepublic
<!--[if !supportLists]-->24.<!--[endif]-->A-Punk, Vampire Weekend

Esther

Mayor's Office for Special Projects and Community Events
please don't print this e-mail unless you really need to

CONFIDENTIALITY NOTICE:

This email and any files transmitted with it are confidential and intended solely for the use of the individual or entity to whom they are addressed. This message contains confidential information and is intended only for the individual named. If you are not the intended recipient you should not disseminate, distribute or copy this e-mail. Please notify the sender immediately by e-mail if you have received this e-mail by mistake and delete this e-mail from your system. If you are not the intended recipient you are notified that disclosing, copying, distributing or taking any action in reliance on the contents of this information is strictly prohibited.

-----Original Message-----

From: Kavanagh, Laura
Sent: Sunday, February 09, 2014 2:04 PM
To: Hughes, Esther
Cc: John Del Cecato
Subject:

Esther can you send JDC the list of songs you downloaded for tomorrow?

Sent from my iPhone

From: Kavanagh, Laura
To: Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Re: Song Choices
Date: Sunday, February 09, 2014 4:17:11 PM

So, no song?

From: <Ragone>, Peter <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Sunday, February 9, 2014 at 3:42 PM
To: "Walzak, Phil" <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "jfdc@akpdmedia.com" <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, Laura Kavanagh <lkavanagh@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: Song Choices

Interesting point. We are being serious and retro this week.

From: Walzak, Phil
Sent: Sunday, February 09, 2014 03:40 PM
To: Ragone, Peter; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Kavanagh, Laura
Subject: RE: Song Choices

Do we need a song? Feels really campaigny

From: Ragone, Peter
Sent: Sunday, February 09, 2014 3:37 PM
To: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; Kavanagh, Laura
Cc: Walzak, Phil
Subject: Re: Song Choices

There's a high part but yes, you're right.

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Sunday, February 09, 2014 03:36 PM
To: Ragone, Peter; Kavanagh, Laura
Cc: Walzak, Phil
Subject: Re: Song Choices

Kinda depressing, no?

From: <Ragone>, Peter Ragone <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Sunday, February 9, 2014 at 3:34 PM
To: "Kavanagh, Laura" <lkavanagh@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: "Walzak, Phil" <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Song Choices

What do you think about Perfect Day by Lou Reed? Timely.

If not I lean to NY groove.

PW?

From: Ragone, Peter
Sent: Sunday, February 09, 2014 03:29 PM
To: Kavanagh, Laura
Subject: Re: Song Choices

Springsteen to NJ?

From: Kavanagh, Laura
Sent: Sunday, February 09, 2014 03:20 PM
To: Ragone, Peter
Subject: Re: Song Choices

I like something classic, not looking to make a statement with this song. I'd probably use one of these:

New York Groove by Ace Frehley

Don't Stop Believing, Journey

We Take Care of Our Own, Bruce Springsteen

Signed Sealed Delivered, Stevie Wonder

From: <Ragone>, Peter <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Sunday, February 9, 2014 at 3:11 PM
To: Laura Kavanagh <lkavanagh@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: Song Choices

What do you like?

From: Kavanagh, Laura
Sent: Sunday, February 09, 2014 03:10 PM
To: Ragone, Peter
Subject: Song Choices

1. New York Groove by Ace Frehley
2. No Sleep Til Brooklyn, Beastie Boys
3. Your Love keeps Lifting me higher, Jackie Wilson
4. Dog Days are Over, Florence and the Machine
5. Don't you Worry Child (radio edit), Swedish House Mafia

6. Bridging the Gap, Nas ft. Olu Dara
7. Some Night, Fun
8. Azucar, Eddie Palmieri
9. Girl on Fire, Alicia Keys
10. Fader, The Temper Trap
11. Rockaway Beach, Ramones
12. Don't Stop Believing, Journey
13. Start me Up, Rolling Stones
14. We Take Care of Our Own, Bruce Springsteen
15. A Little Less Conversation, Elvis Presley
16. When they Fight, they Fight, Generationals
17. Signed Sealed Delivered, Stevie Wonder
18. New York, New York, Ryan Adams
19. The Wire, HAIM
20. Jump the Line, Harry Belafonte
21. Harlem Air Shaft, Wynton Marsalis
22. Angel of Harlem, U2
23. Good Life, OneRepublic
24. A-Punk, Vampire Weekend

From: Shorris, Anthony
To: <[REDACTED]>
Cc: Wolfe, Emma; John Del Cecato; Fuleihan, Dean \(OMB\)
Subject: Re: AMC
Date: Sunday, February 09, 2014 5:25:34 PM

Good to encourage responsible behavior...

Anthony E. Shorris
First Deputy Mayor
The City of New York
City Hall
New York, NY 10007
212-788-3191

> On Feb 9, 2014, at 5:24 PM, "Bill de Blasio" <[REDACTED]> wrote:
>
>
> Asking we reference working together with him in SOTC and/or budget address. Let's decide how to handle. And fwiw, he's being amenable at this point on the joint homelessness prevention project, on 30% rent cap for people with HIV/AIDS and on hospitals/waiver -- at least in this conversation and at least for now
>
>
> Sent via BlackBerry by AT&T

From: Jonathan Rosen
To: Grybauskas, Stefan
Cc: Ragone, Peter; Fuleihan, Dean \(OMB\); Wolfe, Emma; Walzak, Phil; John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
(jfdc@akpdmedia.com); Seignious, Sandy; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Robert Munoz \(rmunoz@akpdmedia.com\);
Owens, Cynthia \(OMB\)
Subject: Re: Speech Prep
Date: Sunday, February 09, 2014 8:46:53 PM

I am out of town for the day tomorrow for work and can't be there. Good luck tomorrow.

Sent from my iPhone

> On Feb 9, 2014, at 8:06 PM, "Grybauskas, Stefan" <SGrybauskas@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>
>
>
> <meeting.ics>

From: Bill de Blasio
To: Gunaratna, Mahen
Cc: John Del Cecato; Ragone, Peter
Subject: Re: La Guardia quote
Date: Sunday, February 09, 2014 9:13:49 PM

Quote #2 rocks hard and belongs in this speech

Sent via BlackBerry by AT&T

From: "Gunaratna, Mahen" <MGunaratna@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Mon, 10 Feb 2014 01:24:39 +0000
To: <[REDACTED]>
Cc: John Del Cecato<jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Ragone, Peter<pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: La Guardia quote

Here are five options. I'm still searching for more and listening to some of his old radio addresses:

1. As a congressman, La Guardia sought a society "in which the 'little guys' would eat well, live in decent homes and know the dignity that comes with well-paid jobs, a voice in the government, and the knowledge that tomorrow can be better."
2. "When there are people right in my own district who are working day and night and can't earn enough for their families to eat, something is wrong. Such conditions should not exist and they are conditions I am determined to change."
3. "American citizens have a right to be provided work so that they can support their families decently and families."
4. "We have learned that unless there is employment for all there will be profits for none." (this was from a speech he delivered at a Labor Day event)
5. "I shall not rest until my native city is the first not only in population but also in wholesome housing; not only in commerce but also in public health; until it is not only out of debt but abounding in happiness."

On Feb 9, 2014, at 7:39 PM, "Gunaratna, Mahen" <MGunaratna@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

On it

Sent from my iPhone

On Feb 9, 2014, at 7:30 PM, "Bill de Blasio"
<[REDACTED]> wrote:

Mahen, JDC and I need a good Fiorello quote asap on respecting the working class, nobility of the people who do the hard work in our society -- anything in that vein

Sent via BlackBerry by AT&T

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
To: John Del Cecato
Cc: <[REDACTED]> Ragone, Peter
Subject: Re: La Guardia quote
Date: Sunday, February 09, 2014 9:29:31 PM

Here's the sourcing:

As a congressman he had fought for an America "in which the 'little guys' would eat well, live in decent homes and know the dignity that comes with well-paid jobs, a voice in the government, and the knowledge that tomorrow can be better." [When LaGuardia Was Mayor - New York's Legendary Year, by August Heckscher with Phyllis Robinson, page 144]

Sent from my iPhone

On Feb 9, 2014, at 9:19 PM, "John Del Cecato" <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

Is number one actually a quote from LaGuardia, or a line from a book paraphrasing him?

From: <Gunaratna>, Mahen <MGunaratna@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Sunday, February 9, 2014 at 9:04 PM
To: "<[REDACTED]>" <[REDACTED]>
Cc: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, Peter Ragone <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: La Guardia quote

Another strong one:

"We have reached a time when not to be useful is no longer the symbol of the nobility. We have learned that there is nobility in honest toil."

On Feb 9, 2014, at 8:24 PM, "Gunaratna, Mahen" <MGunaratna@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Here are five options. I'm still searching for more and listening to some of his old radio addresses:

1. As a congressman, La Guardia sought a society "in which the 'little guys' would eat well, live in decent homes and know the dignity that comes with well-paid jobs, a voice in the government, and the knowledge that tomorrow can be better."
2. "When there are people right in my own district who are working day and night and can't earn enough for their families to eat, something is wrong. Such conditions should not exist and they are conditions I am determined to change."

3. "American citizens have a right to be provided work so that they can support their families decently and families."

4. "We have learned that unless there is employment for all there will be profits for none." (this was from a speech he delivered at a Labor Day event)

5. "I shall not rest until my native city is the first not only in population but also in wholesome housing; not only in commerce but also in public health; until it is not only out of debt but abounding in happiness."

On Feb 9, 2014, at 7:39 PM, "Gunaratna, Mahen" <MGunaratna@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

On it

Sent from my iPhone

On Feb 9, 2014, at 7:30 PM, "Bill de Blasio" <> wrote:

Mahen, JDC and I need a good Fiorello quote asap on respecting the working class, nobility of the people who do the hard work in our society -- anything in that vein

Sent via BlackBerry by AT&T

From: Bill de Blasio
To: Grybauskas, Stefan; Scola, Lindsay
Cc: Santucci, Laura; Ragone, Peter; John Del Cecato; Williams, Dominic
Subject: Re: Principal Schedule for Monday February, 10th 2014
Date: Sunday, February 09, 2014 9:45:34 PM

Update: Del Cecato will finish final draft shortly. He will join me at CH at 8:30am. We will rehearse non-stop until 11am, making revisions as we go. We need Peter and Dom to join us for that time -- other folks can be on call. Thanks

Sent via BlackBerry by AT&T

From: "Grybauskas, Stefan" <SGrybauskas@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Mon, 10 Feb 2014 01:14:34 +0000
Subject: Principal Schedule for Monday February, 10th 2014

SCHEDULE FOR MAYOR BILL DE BLASIO
CITY OF NEW YORK
Monday, February 10, 2014

WEATHER	ATTIRE	NOTES
HI 29 LO 14, Partly Cloudy, 20% Chance of snow	Business

City Hall Staff:

Scheduling Contact: Stefan Grybauskas [REDACTED]
 Emergency Contact: Lindsay Scola [REDACTED]

Travelling Staff:

Special Assistant: Edie Sharp [REDACTED]
 Photographer: Rob Bennett [REDACTED]

Advance Team:

Director of Advance: Frankie Martinez-Blanco [REDACTED]
 Deputy Director of Advance: Ronalie de Alwis [REDACTED]

6:15 - 7:10 AM WO
 Location: Park Slope YMCA

7:40 - 7:55 AM [REDACTED]
 [REDACTED] [REDACTED]
 [REDACTED] [REDACTED]

7:55 - 8:00 AM [REDACTED]

8:00 - 8:15 AM [REDACTED]

8:00 - 8:15 AM

COMMUNICATIONS CALL

Staff: Monica Klein

8:15 - 8:20 AM

ARRIVE CITY HALL

8:30 - 11:00 AM

SPEECH PREP

Location: Outer Ceremonial Office

Attendees: Peter Ragone, Dean Fuleihan, Emma Wolfe, Phil Walzak, John Del Cecato, Jonathan Rosen

11:00 - 11:25 AM

DEPART CITY HALL EN ROUTE LAGUARDIA COMMUNITY COLLEGE

Drive Time: 25 mins

Car : BdB, CMC

Follow Cars: Rachel Noerdlinger, John del Cecato, Phil Walzak, Peter Ragone, Edie Sharp, Jonathan Rosen, Laura Santucci

11:25 - 11:30 AM

ARRIVE LAGUARDIA COLLEGE

11:30 - 12:00 PM

HOLD // SPEECH PREP

Location: Hold Room, LaGuardia Community College
31-10 Thompson Avenue
Queens

12:00 - 12:05 PM

MOVE TO BACKSTAGE

12:05 - 12:50 PM

STATE OF THE CITY

Location: Auditorium, LaGuardia Community College
31-10 Thompson Avenue
Queens

Attendees: 750 audience members

Site: Ronalie de Alwis,

Setup: Podium center stage with seated audience

Podium: YES

Teleprompter: NO

Remarks: Prepared

Press: OPEN

Format: YOU are introduced by Katherin LaGuardia
YOU enter auditorium through side door stage left
YOU shake hands with audience members seated in front row
YOU walk onto stage via stairs stage right

YOU greet Katherine LaGuardia
Katherine departs stage
YOU deliver speech
YOU depart back stage, stage left

12:50 - 1:15 PM

DEPART LAGUARDIA COLLEGE EN ROUTE CITY HALL

Drive Time: 25 mins
Car : BdB, Edie

1:15 - 1:20 PM

ARRIVE CITY HALL

1:30 - 2:30 PM

LUNCH WITH LINDSAY SCOLA AND LAURA SANTUCCI

Location: Mayor's Office

2:30 - 3:00 PM

OFFICE TIME

Location: Mayor's Office

3:00 - 7:00 PM

BUDGET PREP

Location: Outer Ceremonial Office
Attendees: Tony Shorris, Mindy Tarlow, Laura Santucci, Emma Wolfe, Peter Ragone, Dominic Williams, Dean Fuleihan, Ray Orlando

7:00 - 7:15 PM

DEPART CITY HALL EN ROUTE RESIDENCE

Drive Time: 15 mins
Car : BdB, Edie

Stefan Grybauskas
Deputy Director of Scheduling
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212-788-3180
Cell: 347-515-5874

From: Williams, Dominic
To: [REDACTED] Wolfe, Emma
Cc: [REDACTED]; Furnas, Benjamin; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Re: PSD
Date: Sunday, February 09, 2014 9:47:39 PM

Will send answers on both shortly.

----- Original Message -----

From: Bill de Blasio [[mailto:\[REDACTED\]](mailto:[REDACTED])]
Sent: Sunday, February 09, 2014 09:38 PM
To: Wolfe, Emma
Cc: Williams, Dominic; Ben Furnas <[REDACTED]>; Furnas, Benjamin; John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: PSD

Crucial Del Cecato and I know asap -- will affect the speech. We also need to know more about what the exec order will be that we're doing. Thanks

-----Original Message-----

From: Emma Wolfe
To: Bill de Blasio
Cc: Dom Williams
Cc: Ben Furnas
Cc: Ben Furnas
Subject: Re: PSD
Sent: Feb 9, 2014 9:36 PM

Adding Ben. My understanding is the firing was outlawed for smaller businesses too, but it still exempted the last-minute carve-outs. But dom and Ben shd respond.

> On Feb 9, 2014, at 9:34 PM, "Bill de Blasio" <[REDACTED]> wrote:
>
>
> Did the law last year outlaw the firing of ALL new yorkers because they are sick, or just those in firms with 20 or more employees?
>
>
> Sent via BlackBerry by AT&T

Sent via BlackBerry by AT&T

From: Furnas, Benjamin
To: [REDACTED] Wolfe, Emma
Cc: Williams, Dominic; Ben Furnas; John Del Cecato
Subject: RE: PSD
Date: Sunday, February 09, 2014 10:10:27 PM

Living wage executive order:

- Establishes as official City policy that recipients and other substantial beneficiaries of subsidies or incentives connected with significant development projects pay their employees a living wage of $10.20 per hour, adjusted for inflation each year, plus health benefits or a payment of equivalent value ($1.55/hr this year).
- Directs the Deputy Mayor for Housing and Economic Development and the Department of Small Business Services to ensure implementation of living wage requirements for significant development projects.

Ben Furnas
Senior Policy Analyst
Office of the First Deputy Mayor
City Hall, New York NY 10007
Desk: 212-788-9879
Cell: 607-227-5862
bfurnas@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Bill de Blasio [REDACTED]
Sent: Sunday, February 09, 2014 9:38 PM
To: Wolfe, Emma
Cc: Williams, Dominic; Ben Furnas; Furnas, Benjamin; John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: PSD

Crucial Del Cecato and I know asap -- will affect the speech. We also need to know more about what the exec order will be that we're doing. Thanks

-----Original Message-----

From: Emma Wolfe
To: Bill de Blasio
Cc: Dom Williams
Cc: Ben Furnas
Cc: Ben Furnas
Subject: Re: PSD
Sent: Feb 9, 2014 9:36 PM

Adding Ben. My understanding is the firing was outlawed for smaller businesses too, but it still exempted the last-minute carve-outs. But dom and Ben shd respond.

- > On Feb 9, 2014, at 9:34 PM, "Bill de Blasio" <[REDACTED]> wrote:
- >
- >
- > Did the law last year outlaw the firing of ALL new yorkers because they are sick, or just those in firms with 20 or more employees?
- >
- >
- > Sent via BlackBerry by AT&T

Sent via BlackBerry by AT&T

From: Grybauskas, Stefan
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Ragone, Peter; Fuleihan, Dean \(OMB\); Wolfe, Emma; Walzak, Phil; jonathan@berlinrosen.com"; Seignious, Sandy; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; "rmunoz@akpdmedia.com"; Owens, Cynthia \(OMB\)
Subject: Speech Prep- Monday
Date: Sunday, February 09, 2014 10:14:22 PM

Hello,

The Mayor requested that John del Cecato, Dominic Williams and Peter Ragone to join him in his office for the 830am prep session. Everyone else should be on call.

Thanks,

Stefan

From: Shorris, Anthony
To: Wolfe, Emma
Cc: <[REDACTED]> John Del Cecato; Fuleihan, Dean \(OMB\)
Subject: Re: AMC
Date: Monday, February 10, 2014 7:54:58 AM

Larry called again just to confirm: they are OK on HASA and will include money in 30-day amendment. They are OK with general statement on working together on new homeless prevention pilot plan. He and I will talk later on LICH -- Tish is unwilling to move and they will lean on 1199 to push her.

Anthony E. Shorris
First Deputy Mayor
The City of New York
City Hall
New York, NY 10007
212-788-3191

> On Feb 9, 2014, at 5:25 PM, "Wolfe, Emma" <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>
> Got it
> Anything on CFE?
>
>> On Feb 9, 2014, at 5:24 PM, "Bill de Blasio" <[REDACTED]> wrote:
>>
>>
>> Asking we reference working together with him in SOTC and/or budget address. Let's decide how to handle. And fwiw, he's being amenable at this point on the joint homelessness prevention project, on 30% rent cap for people with HIV/AIDS and on hospitals/waiver -- at least in this conversation and at least for now
>>
>>
>> Sent via BlackBerry by AT&T

From: Ragone, Peter
To: Singleton, Jessica; Adams, Marti; Katz, Rebecca; Norvell, Wiley
Cc: Shorris, Anthony; Glen, Alicia; Carter, Zach \(Law\); Barrios-Paoli, Lilliam; Fuleihan, Dean \(OMB\); Santucci, Laura
Subject: FW: draft 17
Date: Monday, February 10, 2014 8:13:56 AM
Attachments: StateOfTheCityDraft17.docx

Most recent please see attached. If there any glaring problems please let us know asap.

From: [REDACTED] [mailto:[REDACTED]]
Sent: Monday, February 10, 2014 7:45 AM
To: Ragone, Peter
Subject: Fw: draft 17

Peter Ragone/[REDACTED]

From: John Del Cecato
Sent: Sunday, February 9, 2014 10:45 PM
To: Bill de Blasio; Chirlane McCray; Patrick Gaspard; Ken Sunshine <sunshine@sunshinesachs.com>, Peter <[REDACTED]> Emma Wolfe; Dom Williams; Jonathan Rosen; Phil Walzak; Mahen Gunaratna; Edie Sharp
Subject: draft 17

Sorry use this one instead

State of the City – DRAFT 17
DRAFT AS OF: 2/9/14 10:45 PM

Thank you, Katherine LaGuardia for your kind words.

Your decades of service to improving public health – particularly in the realm of women’s reproductive health and combatting the spread of HIV-AIDS – has been instrumental in lifting the life chances of those in need – both here in New York and around the world.

That advocacy on behalf everyday people was a hallmark of your grandfather’s tenure as mayor. He understood a bedrock principle of New York greatness, when he said, quote: “Our city does not belong to any individual or set of individuals. It belongs to all the people.”

LaGuardia Community College in many ways represents that vision.

It is a place where New Yorkers from all walks of life can find a path to a future...with a good job and a shot at a better life.

Every day, I sit behind the former desk of Mayor LaGuardia, reminded of the courage we all must summon in our fight to make New York City work better for everyone.

Now, we have some extraordinary New Yorkers in the audience today who also share that vision, including one who has inspired me with her intelligence, her drive, and her compassion for more than twenty years – a young woman who has recently agreed to share her love for this city by leading the non-profit Mayor’s Fund. Thank you for being my guiding light, Chirlane – or, as you’re apparently now sometimes known, #flonyc. (say: HASHTAG FLO NICE)

Thank you to my fellow elected officials in attendance: Public Advocate Letitia James, City Comptroller Scott Stringer, and City Council Speaker Melissa Mark Viverito. Thank you to the Members of Congress, the City Council, and the State Legislature who have joined us as well. And I must take a moment for us to acknowledge two amongst us who have been executives of our city and state - Mayor David Dinkins and Governor Mario Cuomo. You are all dedicated and able public servants, true allies in the cause of social and economic justice.

And thank you, most of all, to my fellow New Yorkers.

We are here to discuss the New York City that we live in today; to lay out our vision for where we will take it in the weeks and months to come; and to discuss something larger – the core values we share as New Yorkers pursuing progressive change.

This has already been quite a year.

In one month's time, our city has weathered three major snowstorms with typical grit and fortitude.

In fact, we've faced more snow last month than any new administration since January of 1978, when Mayor Ed Koch led this city.

Beyond the recent snowstorms, the first few weeks of 2014 have been quite busy.

We've played regional host to the Super Bowl, giving a strong economic boost to New York City at a critical time.

Through Vision Zero, we have begun putting into place ambitious new policies to END the tragic and unacceptable rash of pedestrian deaths on our city streets.

Of course, none of this would be possible without the bravery and dedication of the men and women who make up our city work force.

I know that these speeches have at times been used to attack the motives of our public employees. Today, I want to recognize the hard work and commitment of those men and women – and to say how proud I am of them. The services you provide every single day in neighborhoods across New York have made us the safest and strongest big city in America, and you deserve our deep gratitude and respect.

Our public employees represent a thread that runs through this Administration – a belief that public service is a noble calling – that part of what makes New York special is helping our neighbors navigate life's challenges, big and small.

New York's drive and diversity are unparalleled in this country, and we have appointed a City Administration that proves it – putting our best women and men in charge of delivering city services with efficiency and integrity.

This is a team that knows how to execute its core responsibilities – while never losing sight of the fact that we're called to be part of a larger mission as well.

Because the truth is, the state of our city, as we find it today, is a Tale of Two Cities – with an inequality gap that fundamentally threatens our future.

It must not, and will not, be ignored by your city government.

A little more than five years ago, the Great Recession hit our city economy – and our neighborhoods – with a furious blow.

But more quickly than most predicted, our financial sector has come back.

Wall Street has not only rebounded above its pre-recession levels, but at present hovers near historic highs.

And in some of our neighborhoods, the streets are consistently safe and opportunity consistently flows.

That is a good thing. We celebrate that success.

Yet for millions in this city – New Yorkers living in all five boroughs – the economic rebound hasn't just been slow in coming. It seems a distant fantasy – with the ladder up to the good life stretching farther and farther out of reach.

Good jobs that pay decent wages are all too scarce. Access to the best health care seems, to many, to be a privilege that cannot be earned. To countless New Yorkers, affordable housing is an oxymoron. And a quality education – the most powerful tool we know for lifting one's life chances – has become a promise broken too many times to tally.

All the while, 46 percent of our city’s residents live at or near the poverty line.

Our middle class isn’t just squeezed; it’s at risk of disappearing altogether.

That disparity...that inequality crisis...is the greatest risk to our New York promise.

Working people built our city, and for their hard work they were rewarded – not always with great wealth, but with a fundamental assurance...the knowledge that hard work could pull them from modest means into a growing middle class.

Today, that assurance is missing...that sense of economic justice is gone. And that is what we aim to address.

There are some who have taken issue with our commitment to this cause – who say that income inequality is just a fact of life, and that attempts to remedy it are simply sowing the seeds of class warfare.

But we know better. We understand that allowing the income gap to stretch further isn’t simply a threat to those at the bottom – but to every New Yorker.

And we also know this: New Yorkers’ personal commitment to tackling inequality knows no boundaries of geography or income.

Many wealthy New Yorkers are committed to healing those divisions – not out of mere altruism...not due to feelings of guilt, or pity. They know that a Gilded City isn’t the New York they signed up for – even if they currently find themselves doing quite well. They want all New Yorkers to succeed because it enriches all our lives, including their own – with vibrant neighborhoods and quality schools and fairly-treated workers building a better and stronger city.

And make no mistake about the motives of those in our most hard-pressed communities.

They don't typically look to the rich with anger...they aren't consumed with jealousy or spite. They are simply in search of the city that they signed up for – one that rewards not just wealth, but work.

A city that honors the notion that a single mom taking the subway to her job as a housekeeper deserves to see her efforts rewarded, just as readily as the family who owns the home she cleans.

That the young man who stocks the shelves deserves the same respect and chance at a decent life as the executive who owns the store.

New York will only work when it works as ONE city. And here's why:

Despair does not dissipate. Those who are discouraged – even hopeless – about their future...cannot contribute their labor or energy or values to their neighborhoods, or to the neighborhoods that sit just a short subway ride away.

We demand a city that lifts the floor for those struggling day to day...that offers every New Yorker a fair shot...because that is the city that we ALL signed up for.

Mayor LaGuardia called for “government with a soul.” He saw beyond the numbers in a budget...understood that those numbers represented real people who were just trying to live their lives, and asked only for a little help.

And that is what we resolve to do.

But before we talk about all the measures we will take to reach this goal, it is important that we are honest with New Yorkers about our current fiscal situation.

We are in the midst of an unprecedented budgetary challenge. We are faced with a federal government in gridlock. There is uncertainty with the state budget. And we have over 150 labor contracts that are unsettled.

When you take all these factors into account, we are facing an uncharted path.

In the face of this situation, we will be honest with New Yorkers about their government. We will navigate towards a future that is progressive and fiscally responsible.

It will not be easy.

But we will not turn away from the challenge.

Even with these impediments before us, we've begun the fight to lift the floor for all New Yorkers...to improve the life conditions of those who struggle with great determination -- not to get ahead -- but merely to keep their heads above water. And we're fighting to give everyone a fair shot, so that city government doesn't set its priorities by the needs of those at the very top while ignoring the struggle of those born under a less lucky star.

In the first month of this Administration, we have forged an agreement with this City Council that will provide Paid Sick Leave to 500,000 additional New Yorkers.

New Yorkers like the woman I heard from [REDACTED] (CHECK TO MAK

[REDACTED]

Under the expanded Paid Sick Leave legislation, New Yorkers like [REDACTED] won't see her job stripped away just because she put her health first.

(MAKE SURE THAT THE NEW PAID SICK LAW EXPANSION WOULD APPLY HERE - IF IT DOESN'T, WE COULD USE [REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

knows why that's important. That's why even before the new law passed, she offered paid sick leave to her employees - because she knows that a healthy workforce is a more productive workforce.

But expanding Paid Sick Leave is just one part of our effort to lift the floor for our city's middle class and working poor. This month, we will extend the reach of living wage standards – ending a city lawsuit against expanding that important legislation; and issuing an executive order to set the expansion in motion (BDB NEEDS TO KNOW WHAT THIS IS EXACTLY). And we will work with the City Council to extend living wages throughout projects the city subsidizes. (NUMBER OF ADDITIONAL PEOPLE WE WILL REACH??)

We want to ensure that New Yorkers aren't relegated to the ranks of the poor when putting in a full week's work. Next week, we (CAN WE SAY NEXT WEEK?) will ask Albany to give New York City the power to raise the minimum wage in all five boroughs. In the process, we will send a powerful signal to the people of New York – that we honor work...and that we are committed to making work pay.

We will lift the floor for New Yorkers crushed by skyrocketing rents...by requiring developers to build affordable homes for everyday people rather than simply multi-million dollar high-rises for the most fortunate among us.

In total, we pledge to preserve or construct nearly 200,000 units of affordable housing – to help working people by literally putting a roof over their heads. On Saturday, we announced a top-flight team of housing experts, and their first charge is to create and implement a plan to reach this goal. (DO WE KNOW WHEN THAT PLAN WILL BE PRODUCED BY?)

And while we lift the floor, we will also offer New Yorkers a fair shot.

We have already taken bold new steps to reform the overuse of stop-and-frisk.

We announced a settlement in the case of Floyd vs. the City of New York – an acknowledgment of the wrongs spurred by a broken policing policy...and a message to New Yorkers of every background that we will respect equal protection under the law.

We continue working to build a bond of trust between law enforcement and the neighborhoods they serve...to ensure that New Yorkers see their safety AND their rights protected. And to protect our police officers, who want and need community partners as they work so hard to root out crime.

(IS THERE SOMETHING WE CAN ANNOUNCE ABOUT HOW SHOOTINGS ARE DOWN XYZ SINCE WE TOOK OFFICE – DOM OR PETER OR PHIL?)

Protecting the safety of all New Yorkers includes protecting the health of all New Yorkers.

For months, I joined with others to stop the closures of our community hospitals in Brooklyn. Many days, it seemed like we might not prevail. But we did.

We made it clear that we will no longer accept a pattern of closing hospitals without regard to the people who need the medical services they provide.

Instead of watching hospitals shuttered and simply sold off to the highest bidder, we will continue the battles we've won over the last several months – requiring alternatives that put the health of our people ahead of profits.

This is not something from which we will retreat.

We will protect those whose voices too often go unheard. We will reach out to our undocumented immigrants -- issuing municipal ID cards this year -- so that no daughter or son of our city goes without bank accounts, leases, library cards...simply because they lack identification. New York City is your home too, and we will not force ANY of our residents to live their lives in the shadows.

La ciudad de Nueva York es el hogar de todos los que vivimos aquí. No dejaremos que ninguno de nuestros residentes viva en las sombras.

We'll offer a fair shot to the workforce of tomorrow...changing a mindset that focuses on tax breaks for big corporations rather than making it easier for our people to earn the skills they need to land jobs at those companies.

We know the soaring cost of CUNY makes higher education harder and harder for everyday New Yorkers to afford.

And we understand that higher education is the path to a better life...the great equalizer...the key to lifting oneself into the middle class.

To that end, we will focus on the training and skills that individuals need to meet the demands generated by large and small employers of our city.

We will strengthen the links between the hubs of high quality industrial job creation and our high schools, public and community colleges and workforce development organizations.

And we'll not only fight to shift resources from corporate subsidies to tuition assistance, we'll work to connect higher education to the jobs that the 21st Century workforce requires.

CUNY has always been the engine that drove New York's economy, making sure that our great industries had the workforce they needed to thrive.

Today, new industries are driving an economic future with jobs we could not have envisioned just a few years ago.

And CUNY is going to fill those jobs with New Yorkers who are educated and ready to work.

We will forgo big giveaways to a few select companies and instead pursue a city economic strategy that grows whole sectors of small businesses in emerging industries – from technology to green jobs, to food exports, to advanced manufacturing – companies that can generate good jobs at decent wages in all five boroughs.

We will create a Low-Income Entrepreneur Fund and a Fashion Manufacturing Fund -- which will leverage private capital to ensure small business growth and fashion manufacturing across all five boroughs.

And we'll create jobs for young people who are growing up in this city... who have always called this home. Here's how.

First, we will advance a dedicated Science, Technology, Engineering, and Math – or STEM program -- at CUNY – to start preparing more graduates of our public high schools for jobs in the city's tech industry. To that end, our aim is that within eight years, the majority of skilled technology-related jobs in New York City are being filled by those educated in New York City schools. We will look to the innovation economy not just to grow companies, but also to put New Yorkers to work.

Second, as our health sector continues to rapidly grow, we will prepare more of our unemployed, and our young people, for middle-skill, middle-class jobs...by scaling-up innovative programs like the Bronx's Health Education and Research Occupations High School that connects New Yorkers to CUNY and to relevant work experience at Montefiore hospital.

Third, for people without a college degree, we will reinvent our maze of overlapping and often-ineffective job training programs --- and invest in industry-linked apprenticeship programs that directly connect New Yorkers to jobs in emerging industries such as green building innovation, information technology, and telecommunications.

Fourth, we will connect city high schools to colleges, apprenticeship programs, or industries that correspond to the skills our students learn. We will reverse the trend of importing engineers, nurses, and other skilled workers to fill New York City jobs -- and start in-sourcing good jobs for those who live here now, and are desperate for work.

While we continue to invest in and expand our new businesses, we won't lose sight of the industries that have made us the center of commerce and culture. We will pursue a five borough economic agenda that integrates new industries with traditional drivers of job growth in our city.

Finally, we will not forget our obligations to the people of this city still recovering from the after effects of super-storm Sandy.

We are resolved to make the efforts underway function more effectively and efficiently.

In the aftermath of the storm, I personally made it my mission to see the devastation in those neighborhoods myself.

I made a promise that if elected Mayor, I would make this recovery a focus of my administration.

In the coming weeks we'll make good on the pledge with a comprehensive review and updated plan to help those still feeling the effects of Sandy.

And above all, we WILL give a fair shot to those who deserve it most – our children – ALL of them.

We will offer every child from every borough of this city truly universal full-day Pre-K.

We will provide quality extended learning programs for every middle schooler.

And for this, we won't wait. We have a detailed plan to put this program into effect THIS September.

And we will do this by asking those who make more than a half-million dollars a year to pay a little more in taxes.

For those making between $500,000 and a million dollars a year, that means an average of about 900 bucks a year. But to the young minds that we help shape...the pre-teen lives that we keep safe...the generation of working New Yorkers that we put on a path to success...it will be priceless.

Now, I know that last part has been the subject of some debate in recent weeks. And I know that people of good conscience can have different plans for how to achieve better outcomes for our kids. So let me take just a moment to make MY case for why our plan is the way to make that promise to our young people a reality.

There are some who say that Albany shouldn't approve our plan because the STATE government simply cannot raise ANY taxes right now.

But that is NOT the debate. We're not asking Albany to raise the state income tax by a penny to pay for universal Pre-K and after-school programs here in New York City. We're simply asking Albany to allow New York City to tax itself – its wealthiest residents...those making a half-million or more a year.

Raising taxes on the rich makes our commitment to our kids more than just words. It makes that commitment REAL. It makes that commitment FAIR. And it offers a promise to our kids that they can COUNT ON.

If there ARE extra resources in the state budget, we must remember that the courts have ruled – in the landmark Campaign for Fiscal Equity decision several years ago -- that we are currently being short-changed on our OVERALL state education budget...to the tune of several BILLION dollars.

Here in New York City we have a detailed plan, and it's on the table – one that's real; that's fair; that's reasonable.

So, let's dedicate the funding we need to do what New York City must – and let's tap the wealthiest New Yorkers to do so.

This is about the children of New York, and just how strong of a commitment we are willing to make to THEIR futures...and OUR OWN.

And that is a commitment I hear every day -- not just from middle class, working class, and low-income New Yorkers – but from good people from EVERY income bracket – people who know that for New York to move forward, we must ask those who have achieved great success to give a little back...to ensure that stories like theirs are possible for the next generation.

As I said in my inaugural address, we do not do this to punish success. We do it to create more success stories.

Study after study show that children who access Pre-K programs are more likely to stay on a path to a productive life. Middle-schoolers who access after-school programs are less likely to fall victim to gangs and street violence...more likely to graduate and go on to college or the world of work...to have hope for lifting themselves out of a cycle of poverty and into a world of possibility.

[REDACTED] the [REDACTED] er child a better start on life - [REDACTED]
[REDACTED] leave school at the end of [REDACTED] heir hands
- headed home, [REDACTED] hopes, and not falling victim to the negativity of the streets. Pre-K and after-school programs give mothers like [REDACTED] more than just peace of mind that her kids are safe. They give her the promise that her kids are on the right path - and staying there.

Mayor La Guardia was nicknamed the "Little Flower." And he spoke for, and fought for, families all across New York City who would have otherwise gone without a voice.

What we wish for New York City is to nurture our own Little Flowers - children from every borough and background - to let them grow to their fullest potential.

That is what we want for New York City.

To lift the floor.

To offer every New Yorker a fair shot.

Fighting to end the Tale of Two Cities - not just because it's moral and just - but because it makes ALL of our lives richer.

We cannot wait for Washington to act. We will not let the gridlock there - or the limits of Albany - serve as an excuse for New York City to roll over and ignore our mission.

New Yorkers don't look at government as federal and state and local. They look at it – at all of us – as their elected representatives...the people they are counting on to make a difference in their lives.

And we here in New York City government have many tools at our disposal to make good on that promise...on that responsibility...and we will use them.

We find ourselves at a fork in the road. We can look down the path that we've been on for far too long. We can see it as the easier trail to traverse, and fool ourselves into thinking it's our only option.

Or we can take the OTHER road...the path to closing the inequality gap...that very NEW YORK option of taking on big challenges and getting results.

That's what Mayor La Guardia did – bringing the New Deal to New York City. That's what so many women and men of great vision and compassion...of strong values and quiet struggle...of fierce determination and relentless action...have done throughout New York's history.

That's the path I choose today. I ask my fellow citywide elected officials, members of this City Council and the State Legislature – and all New Yorkers – to join me.

We've one got one chance to get this right. Let's seize it.

Thank you, and God bless the people of New York!

###

From: Ragone, Peter
To: "laura@billdeblasio.com"; "jonathan@berlinrosen.com"; Walzak, Phil; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Re: Speech draft
Date: Monday, February 10, 2014 9:18:28 AM

Sent to gmail

----- Original Message -----

From: Laura Kavanagh [<mailto:laura@billdeblasio.com>]
Sent: Monday, February 10, 2014 09:16 AM
To: Jonathan Rosen <jonathan@berlinrosen.com>; Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Speech draft

Can you send me a copy so production can review? Don't need final, just draft.

Sent from my iPhone

From: Michael Cerrato \(DCAS\)
To: Ragone, Peter; Grybauskas, Stefan; Sharp, Edie; Noerdlinger, Rachel; Santucci, Laura; Walzak, Phil; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Cc: Coney, Javon; Shapiro, Leigh; Seignious, Sandy; de Alwis, Ronalie; "rmunoz@akpdmedia.com"; Scola, Lindsay; Glenn Sokolofsky \(DCAS\)
Subject: Re: SOTC Travel Manifest
Date: Monday, February 10, 2014 10:07:16 AM

Motorcade is departing from the east gate. Not the west gate.

From: Ragone, Peter [mailto:pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov]
Sent: Monday, February 10, 2014 10:00 AM
To: Grybauskas, Stefan <SGrybauskas@cityhall.nyc.gov>; Sharp, Edie <ESharp@cityhall.nyc.gov>; Noerdlinger, Rachel <RNoerdlinger@cityhall.nyc.gov>; Santucci, Laura <LSantucci@cityhall.nyc.gov>; Phillip Walzak; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: Coney, Javon <JConey@cityhall.nyc.gov>; Shapiro, Leigh <LShapiro@cityhall.nyc.gov>; Seignious, Sandy <sseignious@cityhall.nyc.gov>; de Alwis, Ronalie <rdealwis@cityhall.nyc.gov>; 'rmunoz@akpdmedia.com' <rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>; Scola, Lindsay <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov>; Glenn Sokolofsky (DCAS); Michael Cerrato (DCAS)
Subject: Re: SOTC Travel Manifest

Dom should be in this too.

From: Grybauskas, Stefan
Sent: Monday, February 10, 2014 09:59 AM
To: Sharp, Edie; Noerdlinger, Rachel; Santucci, Laura; Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> (jfdc@akpdmedia.com) <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: Coney, Javon; Shapiro, Leigh; Seignious, Sandy; de Alwis, Ronalie; Robert Munoz (rmunoz@akpdmedia.com) <rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>; Scola, Lindsay; Glenn Sokolofsky (gsokolofsky@dcas.nyc.gov) <gsokolofsky@dcas.nyc.gov>; Michael Cerrato (DCAS) (mcerrato@dcas.nyc.gov) <mcerrato@dcas.nyc.gov>
Subject: SOTC Travel Manifest

Hello,

Please see below for the travel manifests for transportation to the SOTC. The vehicles will be departing from the West Gate of City Hall at 11:00am sharp. Please be in your designated vehicles by 10:55am. Let me or Edie know if you have any questions

Lead Car(NYPD):

Mayor

First Lady

Follow Car (NYPD truck):

Edie Sharp

Rachel Noerdlinger

Laura Santucci

Follow Car 2(Press truck- Driver Glenn Sokolofsky):

Peter Ragone

Phil Walzak

John de Cecato

Thanks,

Stefan Grybauskas
Deputy Director of Scheduling
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212-788-3180
Cell: 347-515-5874

From: Bill de Blasio
To: John Del Cecato; Ragone, Peter; Williams, Dominic
Cc: Chirlane McCray
Subject: Fw: Your remarks yesterday
Date: Monday, February 10, 2014 11:09:43 AM
Attachments: Been acceptance.docx

Arguably the most TOTC speech given by anyone on this team, including me!

Sent via BlackBerry by AT&T

-----Original Message-----

From: "Glen, Alicia" <AGlen@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Mon, 10 Feb 2014 12:59:36
To: [REDACTED]
Cc: Walzak, Phil <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Fw: Your remarks yesterday

See attached.

----- Original Message -----

From: Been, Vicki [<mailto:vicki.been@nyu.edu>]
Sent: Sunday, February 09, 2014 01:54 PM
To: Glen, Alicia
Subject: Re: Your remarks yesterday

Thanks, Alicia. I've attached my notes.

Do you want me to be at the State of the City speech?

Hope you are getting some rest today!

Vicki

On 2/9/14, 9:49 AM, "Glen, Alicia" <AGlen@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>Is it possible to get a copy? The Mayor thought they were fantastic!
>Alicia

It's a great honor to join Mayor de Blasio, Deputy Mayor Glen and this wonderful team to ensure that every New Yorker has a safe, high-quality, affordable home in a neighborhood that helps its residents build better lives for themselves and their children. No city can call itself great when people are forced to choose between skipping the rent or seeing their kids go hungry, of going without heat or going without the medicine their partners need. No one should have to force themselves at the end of a hard day to close their eyes to the mold and mice and misery of dilapidated housing. And no city can thrive when luxury penthouses look over neighborhoods where parents have to panic that their kids will not make it home from school safely, where talented people willing to work hard can't find jobs, where the street is marked by decay rather than the vibrant energy that makes New York City great.

New York City has led the nation in trying to ensure affordable housing and safe, high opportunity neighborhoods for all its residents, but the challenge is huge, and at times it feels like we've been swimming upstream – losing precious units even as we've tried hard to provide for the needs of a growing population. But now we have an incredible opportunity to make New York a 21st Century Progressive City. We have a mayor who not only has an ambitious goal and a clear vision, but who knows community development first hand from his years as Regional Director of the US Department of Housing and Urban Development. We have a deputy mayor who has spent her entire career focused on finding creative, smart ways to revitalize communities. We have a mandate from voters to make New York City a place of opportunity not just for the fortunate, but for every family, in every neighborhood. We have challenges to be sure, but we have an incredible chance to show the world that you can have a city that is both thriving and equitable, that provides parks and other high quality services to enrich every neighborhood, and that helps every New Yorker to build the life she or he wants.

I'm delighted to be given the honor of joining the mayor and deputy mayor in pursuing those goals. It's a bit daunting, to say the least, to think about helping to create and preserve 200,000 units of housing, when that is about 1000 times the number of homes in the town in which I grew up. My father chose to set up an auto body shop in Naturita, Colorado in its boom years in the late 1950s and early 1960s, when the uranium mines in the surrounding hills were supplying vanadium for the cold war. We arrived just in time for the bust of the 60's, which unfortunately persists to this day. It was dirt poor and lacked all social services. While I learned many lessons from dedicated teachers, the school struggled to provide even the basics. Drunk-driving, drugs, and violence claimed many young men, while girls took on the responsibilities of parenthood before they were even old enough to get a learner's permit. It turned out that our houses and trailers had been built or parked on the radioactive waste from the mines (which some folks say give me a nice glow!). My sister and I spent many nights in our basement bedroom trying to ignore the fumes of battery acid and radiator coolant from the shop on the other side of the wall. I have fond memories of times with my wonderful family, but Naturita was not a neighborhood of opportunity. It closed doors, rather than opening possibilities.

I was incredibly lucky to escape – I won a cooking scholarship with my orange-glazed porkchops and razzle dazzle jello salad, and was able to go to Colorado State University. There, a wonderful professor named Derry Eynon encouraged me to submit a story idea to Consumer Reports Magazine, and Consumer Reports saw something in my letter and offered me an internship. Having little sense, other than a sense of adventure, I decided NYC seemed doable when I lucked into affordable, safe housing. I moved into the Webster Apartments for Women on 9th Avenue and 34th Street, and begin to build the live I wanted to lead. I've been so fortunate – I have an amazingly warm, funny, loving and supersmart husband, who came to NYC from Argentina. I have two incredible children, Joshua now a NYC Urban Fellow, and Sarah, now a freshman at Swarthmore. At NYU Law School and at the Furman Center for Real Estate and Urban Policy I have had the fortune of doing work that I love every day, with people I learn from and enjoy. I owe New York City, and the chance that it gave me from that safe space on 34th Street, so much. I want New York City to continue to give people like me opportunities. I want every New Yorker to have the safe and affordable home that I was lucky to find, in a neighborhood that allows them to get the education and job they need, to develop the friendships and families that will sustain them, to build the meaningful lives they want, and at the end of the day – to say – my neighborhood helped make that possible.

It is such an honor to be part of the Mayor's team that will try to make that vision a reality. Thank you for giving me the opportunity to give back to the City that has given me so much.

From: Wolfe, Emma
To: Ragone, Peter; Del Cecato John
Subject: Fwd: State of the City
Date: Monday, February 10, 2014 11:15:38 AM

Late addition from gamc -- plz in acknowledgments add something like "and Governor Cuomo's Administration" after members of congress, council, state legislature

Begin forwarded message:

From: Melissa DeRosa <Melissa.DeRosa@exec.ny.gov>
Date: February 10, 2014 at 11:08:26 AM EST
To: "Wolfe, Emma (EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov)"
<EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: State of the City

Hey Emma,
Wanted to make sure you knew a bunch of top State officials are representing the Admin today at the Mayor's state of the city address today – DFS Commissioner Ben Lawskey, NY Secretary of State Cesar Perales and New York State Homes and Community Renewal agency Commissioner Darryl C. Towns. Not sure if there's some way to acknowledge them, but wanted to flag that they'll be there.
Let me know if there's anything you need on my end and good luck today!

WE WORK FOR THE PEOPLE
Performance * Integrity * Pride

From: Grybauskas, Stefan
To: Ragone, Peter; Sharp, Edie; Noerdlinger, Rachel; Santucci, Laura; Walzak, Phil; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Williams, Dominic; Bennett, Rob
Cc: Coney, Javon; Shapiro, Leigh; Seignious, Sandy; de Alwis, Ronalie; "rmunoz@akpdmedia.com"; Scola, Lindsay; "gsokolofsky@dcas.nyc.gov"; "mcerrato@dcas.nyc.gov"
Subject: RE: SOTC Travel Manifest
Date: Monday, February 10, 2014 1:12:07 PM

Hello all,

Please meet the Mayor and advance staff backstage by the Mayor's hold room immediately following the speech in order to ride with the motorcade back to City Hall. Ronalie will help get you into the vehicles, however the vehicles will not wait.

Thanks

From: Ragone, Peter
Sent: Monday, February 10, 2014 10:40 AM
To: Grybauskas, Stefan; Sharp, Edie; Noerdlinger, Rachel; Santucci, Laura; Walzak, Phil; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; Williams, Dominic; Bennett, Rob
Cc: Coney, Javon; Shapiro, Leigh; Seignious, Sandy; de Alwis, Ronalie; 'rmunoz@akpdmedia.com'; Scola, Lindsay; 'gsokolofsky@dcas.nyc.gov'; 'mcerrato@dcas.nyc.gov'
Subject: Re: SOTC Travel Manifest

Tx

From: Grybauskas, Stefan
Sent: Monday, February 10, 2014 10:38 AM
To: Sharp, Edie; Noerdlinger, Rachel; Santucci, Laura; Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; 'John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> (<jfdc@akpdmedia.com>)' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Williams, Dominic; Bennett, Rob
Cc: Coney, Javon; Shapiro, Leigh; Seignious, Sandy; de Alwis, Ronalie; 'Robert Munoz (<rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>)' <rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>; Scola, Lindsay; 'Glenn Sokolofsky (<gsokolofsky@dcas.nyc.gov>)' <gsokolofsky@dcas.nyc.gov>; 'Michael Cerrato (DCAS) (<mcerrato@dcas.nyc.gov>)' <mcerrato@dcas.nyc.gov>
Subject: RE: SOTC Travel Manifest

Addition:

Rob Bennett will ride in NYPD Follow car

From: Grybauskas, Stefan
Sent: Monday, February 10, 2014 10:07 AM
To: Sharp, Edie; Noerdlinger, Rachel; Santucci, Laura; Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; 'John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> (<jfdc@akpdmedia.com>)' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Williams, Dominic
Cc: Coney, Javon; Shapiro, Leigh; Seignious, Sandy; de Alwis, Ronalie; 'Robert Munoz (<rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>)' <rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>; Scola, Lindsay; 'Glenn Sokolofsky (<gsokolofsky@dcas.nyc.gov>)' <gsokolofsky@dcas.nyc.gov>; 'Michael Cerrato (DCAS) (<mcerrato@dcas.nyc.gov>)' <mcerrato@dcas.nyc.gov>
Subject: RE: SOTC Travel Manifest

Correction:

nd

Please load into the vehicles at the East Gate. Dominic Williams will ride in the 2 follow car.

Thanks

From: Grybauskas, Stefan
Sent: Monday, February 10, 2014 9:59 AM
To: Sharp, Edie; Noerdlinger, Rachel; Santucci, Laura; Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> (jfdc@akpdmedia.com)
Cc: Coney, Javon; Shapiro, Leigh; Seignious, Sandy; de Alwis, Ronalie; Robert Munoz (rmunoz@akpdmedia.com); Scola, Lindsay; Glenn Sokolofsky (gsokolofsky@dcas.nyc.gov); Michael Cerrato (DCAS) (mcerrato@dcas.nyc.gov)
Subject: SOTC Travel Manifest

Hello,

Please see below for the travel manifests for transportation to the SOTC. The vehicles will be departing from the West Gate of City Hall at 11:00am sharp. Please be in your designated vehicles by 10:55am. Let me or Edie know if you have any questions

Lead Car(NYPD):

Mayor

First Lady

Follow Car (NYPD truck):

Edie Sharp

Rachel Noerdlinger

Laura Santucci

Follow Car 2(Press truck- Driver Glenn Sokolofsky):

Peter Ragone

Phil Walzak

John de Cecato

Thanks,

Stefan Grybauskas

Deputy Director of Scheduling

Office of the Mayor

The City of New York

Office: 212-788-3180

Cell: 347-515-5874

From: Bennett, Rob
To: "John Del Cecato"
Subject: RE: photo gallery
Date: Wednesday, February 12, 2014 4:35:16 PM

Hey John,

You can pretty quickly create a login. Just type in your email address and choose a password. Call Diana [REDACTED] at the Photo Desk if you need any help.

Best,
Rob

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Wednesday, February 12, 2014 4:06 PM
To: Bennett, Rob
Subject: Re: photo gallery

Thanks so much.. Is there an ID/password?

From: <Bennett>, Rob <RobBennett@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Wednesday, February 12, 2014 at 10:10 AM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: photo gallery

We set up a photo gallery for you where we will put all photos going forward.

<http://nycmo.photoshelter.com/gallery/John-Del-Cecato/G0000K3fPfAacZ5k>

Best,
Rob Bennett
Chief Mayoral Photographer

From: Grybauskas, Stefan
To: Ko, Eunice; Santucci, Laura; Shapiro, Leigh; Ragone, Peter; Seignious, Sandy; Wolfe, Emma; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Williams, Dominic; Valle, Rosita; Katz, Rebecca; "jonathan@berlinrosen.com"; "John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> \(jfdc@akpdmedia.com\)"; Noerdlinger, Rachel; "Robert Munoz \(rmunoz@akpdmedia.com\)"
Subject: Planning Meeting- Friday February 14th- 6:00pm
Date: Thursday, February 13, 2014 5:23:08 PM

Hello,

There will be a Planning Meeting tomorrow at 6:00pm in the Mayor's Outer Ceremonial Office. Let me know if you have any issues attending this meeting.

Best,

Stefan Grybauskas
Deputy Director of Scheduling
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212-788-3180
Cell: 347-515-5874

From: Katz, Rebecca
To: Ragone, Peter; "sunshine@sunshinesachs.com"; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Singleton, Jessica
Subject: Re: Tonight Show
Date: Saturday, February 15, 2014 7:37:23 AM

Yes. Think we can give them more than this.

----- Original Message -----

From: Ragone, Peter
Sent: Saturday, February 15, 2014 08:07 AM
To: Katz, Rebecca; 'sunshine@sunshinesachs.com' <sunshine@sunshinesachs.com>; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Singleton, Jessica
Subject: Re: Tonight Show

This is what they suggest?

----- Original Message -----

From: Katz, Rebecca
Sent: Friday, February 14, 2014 07:36 PM
To: Ragone, Peter; 'sunshine@sunshinesachs.com' <sunshine@sunshinesachs.com>; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Singleton, Jessica
Subject: Tonight Show

So, it now looks like we are going on the show on the 26th and doing the presser with the street sign (for a day) on the 28th.

Here's the pitch. Feel like we can play around with it. BdB has told me that he wants to bring the funny.

Below is the general idea for the 26th. After the Mayor makes the announcement, there can be a few lines of earnest patter about why its so great that the show is back in nyc: new jobs, etc.

We have a bit on our show called "Audience Suggestion Box" where Jimmy reads fake suggestions from the audience and we see them happen on the show.

KEYS TO THE CITY

Jimmy reads a "suggestion" card that says, "It's great that you brought 'The Tonight Show' back to New York. You should have the Mayor come on and give you the keys to the city." Jimmy says "That's a great idea!" and welcomes Mayor DeBlasio to the stage - at which point the Mayor would present Jimmy with keys to the city. And then -- as a surprise - make the announcement about the street being named after him.

From: Singleton, Jessica
To: Katz, Rebecca
Cc: jfdc@akpdmedia.com; Ragone, Peter; sunshine@sunshinesachs.com
Subject: Re: Tonight Show
Date: Saturday, February 15, 2014 11:19:18 AM

I don't hate their pitch but agree we can be funnier. Is it interesting to twist the suggestion box idea and have BDB send in the suggestion?

Sent from my iPhone

> On Feb 15, 2014, at 7:06, "Katz, Rebecca" <RKKatz@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>
> 30 Rock
>
> ----- Original Message -----
> From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
> Sent: Saturday, February 15, 2014 09:49 AM
> To: Ragone, Peter
> Cc: Katz, Rebecca; sunshine@sunshinesachs.com <sunshine@sunshinesachs.com>; Singleton, Jessica
> Subject: Re: Tonight Show
>
> Where's the studio going to be located?
>
>> On Feb 15, 2014, at 7:07 AM, "Ragone, Peter" <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>>
>> This is what they suggest?
>>
>> ----- Original Message -----
>> From: Katz, Rebecca
>> Sent: Friday, February 14, 2014 07:36 PM
>> To: Ragone, Peter; 'sunshine@sunshinesachs.com' <sunshine@sunshinesachs.com>;
>> 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Singleton, Jessica
>> Subject: Tonight Show
>>
>> So, it now looks like we are going on the show on the 26th and doing the presser with the street >> sign (for a day) on the 28th.
>>
>> Here's the pitch. Feel like we can play around with it. BdB has told me that he wants to bring the >> funny.
>>
>> Below is the general idea for the 26th. After the Mayor makes the >> announcement, there can be a few lines of earnest patter about why its so >> great that the show is back in nyc: new jobs, etc.
>>
>> We have a bit on our show called "Audience Suggestion Box" where Jimmy >> reads fake suggestions from the audience and we see them happen on the >> show.
>>
>> KEYS TO THE CITY
>> Jimmy reads a "suggestion" card that says, "It's great that you brought
>> 'The Tonight Show' back to New York. You should have the Mayor come on and >> give you the keys to the city." Jimmy says "That's a great idea!" and >> welcomes Mayor DeBlasio to the stage - at which point the Mayor would >> present Jimmy with keys to the city. And then -- as a surprise - make the >> announcement about the street being named after him.
>>
>>

From: John Del Cecato
To: Klein, Monica
Subject: Re: Note from bdb re: Cuomo comments on inequality
Date: Sunday, February 16, 2014 10:35:40 AM

Got it - thanks!

On Feb 16, 2014, at 9:18 AM, "Klein, Monica" <MKlein@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Hey! Was just going over my notes from yesterday's call and realized BdB wanted this note sent to you as well.

From: De Blasio Press <mklein@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Sat, 15 Feb 2014 16:37:08 -0500
To: "Ragone, Peter" <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Wolfe, Emma" <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Note from bdb re: Cuomo comments on inequality

From the mayor: "I will restrain myself but only up to a point." In reference to the article below.

Cuomo turns 'tale of two cities' on de Blasio in pre-K fight

NEW YORK POST - Carl Campanile
February 15, 2014

Gov. Cuomo dropped a political bomb on Mayor de Blasio Friday by turning the mayor's own "tale of two cities" mantra against him in the fevered fight over pre-K funding.

"I know the 'tale of two cities.' The answer to the tale of two cities is not to create two states," Cuomo said in a WNYC radio interview blasting de Blasio's plan to hike city income taxes on the rich to pay for universal pre-K classes within the five boroughs.

"The answer to inequity and inequality is not to create more inequity and inequality," Cuomo added.

Cuomo even got in a sly dig at de Blasio's claim to the "two cities" theme, suggesting he's not the first politician to invoke it.

In a bit of political one-upmanship that hit close to his own home, Cuomo pointed out that it was his father, Mario Cuomo, who brought up the very same "two cities" issue 30 years ago.

"I was in the audience in 1984 at the Democratic convention when I think it was articulated very well," said Cuomo.

If that wasn't enough to grab de Blasio's attention, Cuomo also came to the defense of the wealthy who would largely bear the burden of the mayor's tax proposal.

Cuomo said the state has already extended a surcharge on millionaires "which is one of the reasons why we have the resources to pay for pre-K statewide."

Cuomo is pushing for $2 billion in statewide tax cuts as he seeks a sweeping re-election victory this year, and higher taxes for the city don't fit into that agenda.

Cuomo argued that a new tax just on New York City residents earning at least $500,000 wouldn't be fair to less affluent municipalities that don't have such an enormous pocket of wealth to finance more pre-K classes in their school districts.

"I don't support a system that the millionaires in New York City funding a system for the children in New York City. I support a statewide system because the children in New York City are precious and so are the children of Buffalo and so are the children in Albany and the children in Suffolk," Cuomo said.

He insisted his $1.5 billion universal, full-day pre-K plan phased in over five years is adequate despite de Blasio putting the cost of the city's program alone at more than $2.5 billion.

Even though the mayor and his surrogates have repeatedly pushed back hard against Cuomo's plan, the mayor's office on Friday responded gently to his latest comments.

"The mayor and the governor share a commitment to ending inequality, but an honest assessment of the mayor's plan for universal pre-K leaves no doubt: It's best for the people of New York state as well. It provides free, universal pre-K for the children of New York City with the funding to pay for it," said de Blasio spokeswoman Marti Adams.

From: Scola, Lindsay
To: Chao, Raymond; Santucci, Laura; Ragone, Peter; Wolfe, Emma; Williams, Dominic; "jonathan@berlinrosen.com"; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Noerdlinger, Rachel
Cc: Shorris, Anthony; Shapiro, Leigh; Seignious, Sandy; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; "rmunoz@akpdmedia.com"; Ko, Eunice; Griffith, Chantell
Subject: Re: Planning Call - Tomorrow, Monday February 17 @ 2:30pm
Date: Monday, February 17, 2014 10:10:13 AM

All-

Call moves to 2:30. Dial in stays the same.

Than you

From: Chao, Raymond
Sent: Monday, February 17, 2014 09:35 AM
To: Santucci, Laura; Ragone, Peter; Wolfe, Emma; Williams, Dominic; jonathan@berlinrosen.com <jonathan@berlinrosen.com>; John Del Cecato (jfdc@akpdmedia.com) <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Noerdlinger, Rachel
Cc: Shorris, Anthony; Shapiro, Leigh; Seignious, Sandy; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Robert Munoz (rmunoz@akpdmedia.com) <rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>; Ko, Eunice; Griffith, Chantell; Scola, Lindsay
Subject: RE: Planning Call - Tomorrow, Monday February 17 @ 12PM

Hi all,

The Planning Call will potentially be moved to 2:30PM.

Please stand by for final confirmation from Lindsay.

Thank you,

Raymond Chao
Scheduling Coordinator
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: (212)-788-7565
Cell: (347)-607-8325
rchao@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Chao, Raymond
Sent: Sunday, February 16, 2014 4:18 PM
To: Santucci, Laura; Ragone, Peter; Wolfe, Emma; Williams, Dominic; jonathan@berlinrosen.com; John Del Cecato (jfdc@akpdmedia.com); Noerdlinger, Rachel
Cc: Shorris, Anthony; Shapiro, Leigh; Seignious, Sandy; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Robert Munoz (rmunoz@akpdmedia.com); Ko, Eunice; Griffith, Chantell
Subject: Planning Call - Tomorrow, Monday February 17 @ 12PM

Hi all,

There will be a Planning Call, tomorrow, Monday February 17 @ 12PM.

The dial in information is:

Dial-in Number: ([REDACTED]

Code: [REDACTED]

Please accept the calendar invite and confirm receipt.

Thank you,

Raymond Chao
Scheduling Coordinator
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: (212)-788-7565
Cell: (347)-607-8325
rchao@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Katz, Rebecca
To: "John Del Cecato"
Cc: Singleton, Jessica; sunshine@sunshinesachs.com; Ragone, Peter; Robert Munoz
Subject: RE: Inner Circle Convo
Date: Monday, February 17, 2014 11:15:33 AM

Great. Does 1 PM work for all?

-----Original Message-----

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Monday, February 17, 2014 11:15 AM
To: Katz, Rebecca
Cc: Singleton, Jessica; sunshine@sunshinesachs.com; Ragone, Peter; Robert Munoz
Subject: Re: Inner Circle Convo

Adding rob

> On Feb 17, 2014, at 10:48 AM, "Katz, Rebecca" <RKKatz@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>
> Folks --
>
> Ragone and I just got pulled into a 2:30 PM meeting. Any chance we could do today's call earlier?
> 12 or 1 pm?

>
> -----Original Message-----
> From: Katz, Rebecca
> Sent: Monday, February 17, 2014 10:21 AM
> To: Singleton, Jessica
> Cc: jfdc@akpdmedia.com; Ragone, Peter
> Subject: RE: Inner Circle Convo

>
> We may have a writer. Fingers crossed. Will loop back with you later today.

>
> -----Original Message-----
> From: Singleton, Jessica
> Sent: Monday, February 17, 2014 10:20 AM
> To: Katz, Rebecca
> Cc: jfdc@akpdmedia.com; Ragone, Peter
> Subject: Re: Inner Circle Convo

>
> I won't be able to make it bc of travel. But if you guys come up with great ideas, I can pas them to phil who can turn around draft copy.

>
> Sent from my iPad

>
>> On Feb 17, 2014, at 7:55 AM, "Katz, Rebecca" <RKKatz@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>>
>>
>> code:

>>
>> Other participants include Sunshine and possibly Buscemi

>>
>> <meeting.ics>

From: Katz, Rebecca
To: John Del Cecato
Cc: Ragone, Peter; Singleton, Jessica; sunshine@sunshinesachs.com
Subject: Re: Dante and Questlove
Date: Monday, February 17, 2014 1:13:45 PM

I like that.

Sent from my iPhone

On Feb 17, 2014, at 1:12 PM, "John Del Cecato" <jfdc@akpdmmedia.com> wrote:

Since Stewart didn't do the Afro joke, maybe we suggest secretly putting Dante behind the drums & having Jimmy talk to BDB about Dante's hair, and then Jimmy asks Questlove what he wants to ask the Mayor, and we just see Dante's outline, and he says "why don't we get more snow days?" - and Jimmy says "wait - what? Snow days?" and the lights come up to reveal it's Dante... Dante says "sorry Dad - had to try..."

From: <Katz>, Rebecca Katz <RKKatz@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Monday, February 17, 2014 at 10:14 AM
To: Peter Ragone <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Singleton, Jessica" <JSingleton@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Ken Sunshine <sunshine@sunshinesachs.com>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmmedia.com>
Subject: Dante and Questlove

The Mayor is set to go on the Tonight Show in a week.

Flagging today's DN cartoon and wondering if we could turn this into an appearance together. Questlove is a BdB fan and was at our staff party a few months back...

<http://www.nydailynews.com/opinion/tonight-night-article-1.1615073>

--

Rebecca Kirsznner Katz
Office of the Mayor
(212) 788-2958
rkkatz@cityhall.nyc.gov
@RebeccaKKatz

From: Katz, Rebecca
To: "Jason Lee"
Cc: Seignious, Sandy; Robert Munoz \(rmunoz@akpdmedia.com\)
Subject: RE: Inner Circle Convo
Date: Tuesday, February 18, 2014 8:58:16 AM

Let's lock this for 12 noon today and whoever can join, should.

From: Jason Lee [mailto:lee@sunshinesachs.com]
Sent: Tuesday, February 18, 2014 8:48 AM
To: Katz, Rebecca
Subject: RE: Inner Circle Convo

Good morning Rebecca,

Hope you're staying warm. Ken is free at 11, 12, 2 and 3 today for a call.

Thank you,
Jason

Sunshine Sachs

Jason Lee | Executive Assistant to Ken Sunshine
o 212.691.2800 | f 212.691.2670 | 136 Madison Avenue, 17th Fl. New York, NY 10016

From: Katz, Rebecca [mailto:RKKatz@cityhall.nyc.gov]
Sent: Monday, February 17, 2014 12:07 PM
To: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; Singleton, Jessica; Ragone, Peter; Jason Lee; Ken Sunshine; Robert Munoz (rmunoz@akpdmedia.com)
Subject: Inner Circle Convo

Guys – we need to reschedule again.

Will circle back tomorrow. Or I may just follow up with you all individually.

Sorry about this.

--
Rebecca Kirsznner Katz
Office of the Mayor
(212) 788-2958
rkkatz@cityhall.nyc.gov
@RebeccaKKatz

From: Jessica Singleton
To: Katz, Rebecca; Ragone, Peter; John Del Cecato; Ken Sunshine
Subject: Fwd: Inner Circle ideas, take 1
Date: Tuesday, February 18, 2014 12:03:13 PM
Attachments: Bill Deblasio speech ideas.docx

Super self-deprecating but kinda funny.

Sent from my iPad

Begin forwarded message:

From: Phil Singleton <[REDACTED]>
Date: February 17, 2014 at 2:13:33 PM EST
To: Jessica Singleton <[REDACTED]>
Subject: Inner Circle ideas, take 1

Here's a few ideas I've had so far for the dinner. I'll keep you up to date as I think of more, if you need them.
Hope you're having a great time in Vail!
-P

Bill DeBlasio Inner Circle ideas:

“DeBlasio’s Pizzeria”

-All dishes come with silverware.

-Universal kids’ menu.

-Delivery boys complain about having to drive in the snow, but DeBlasio says if the schools are open, then they’re working! And under his watch, schools will ALWAYS be open, even if Al Roker says they shouldn’t be!

-“But it’s Saturday!”

-“Deliver to [address], now!” / “But sir, Google Maps says there isn’t a house there!” / (DeBlasio hands the delivery boy a hammer and nails) “Then you’d better get busy! I promised to fix housing in 30 minutes or less, remember!”

Playing chess, opponent (Cuomo?) captures his bishop, demands it be released immediately.

“There’s too much snow! You’re in over your head!”

“How much is there?”

“Six feet!”

“Nope, not over my head yet!”

From: Laura Santucci
To: Santucci, Laura
Subject: Fwd: [REDACTED] resume
Date: Tuesday, February 18, 2014 3:45:37 PM
Attachments: [REDACTED]
ATT00001.htm

Begin forwarded message:

From: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Date: January 16, 2014 at 12:13:36 PM EST
To: Emma Wolfe <[REDACTED]> Dom Williams
<[REDACTED]>
<[REDACTED]> Laura Santucci <[REDACTED]>
Subject: [REDACTED] resume

FYI - [REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

On Jan 16, 2014, at 10:56 AM, [REDACTED]
[REDACTED] wrote:

Hey John,

How are you man? Happy New Year, I hope all is well [REDACTED] So a quick update for you, [REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

I wanted to see if you had a minute to chat sometime in the next week or so. I'd love to get your thoughts on opportunities and such in NYC I ought to think about and pursue. (Does the new Mayor need a community/public affairs guy for instance?)

Anyway, I'd love to find time so let me know if you have a free moment. I'd be very grateful John.

Sincerely,

|

[Redacted]

[Redacted]

[Redacted]

[Redacted]

[Redacted]

[Redacted]

[Redacted]

[Redacted]

[Redacted]

[Redacted]

[Redacted]

[Redacted]

[Redacted]

[Redacted]

[Redacted]

[Redacted]

[Redacted]

[Redacted]

[Redacted]

[Redacted]

[Redacted]

[Redacted]

[Redacted]

[Redacted]

[Redacted]

[Redacted]

[Redacted]

[Redacted]

[Redacted]

[Redacted]

[Redacted]

[Redacted]

[Redacted]

[Redacted]

[Redacted]

[Redacted]

[Redacted]

[Redacted]

[Redacted]

From: Katz, Rebecca
To: "hawkins@sunshinesachs.com"
Cc: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; [REDACTED] "sunshine@sunshinesachs.com"
Subject: Re:
Date: Tuesday, February 18, 2014 6:42:33 PM

Yep.

From: Emily Hawkins [mailto:hawkins@sunshinesachs.com]
Sent: Tuesday, February 18, 2014 06:41 PM
To: Katz, Rebecca
Cc: jfdc@akpdmedia.com <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; [REDACTED] <[REDACTED]> Ken Sunshine <sunshine@sunshinesachs.com>
Subject: Re:

These are great!! Questlove = brilliant

A few more that came from the call:

- Like the idea of utilizing Buscemi however possible, as a recurring character in sketches, as himself, as the host of BDB's portion of the night
- Red Sox bit -- ARod cameo
- Wire or Boardwalk Empire parody

Rebecca -- the folks at Inner Circle are asking who to reach out to on your side to talk logistics etc. Should that be you?

From: Rebecca Katz [mailto:[\[REDACTED\]](mailto:[REDACTED])]
Sent: Tuesday, February 18, 2014 1:00 PM
To: John Del Cecato
Cc: [REDACTED] Ken Sunshine
Subject: Re:

Love this:

* on the Progressive Weather skit, BDB could email someone right before he arrives (late) to do the weather. Email says "time for some snow problems on the upper east side."

Also, what about asking Questlove to be a stand in for Dante?

On Tue, Feb 18, 2014 at 12:49 PM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

Sorry - I was on and off the call - trudging through snow in beautiful Hartford

Before I forget:

* We could do an edition of The De Cosbio Show

* Game show where Andrew mimicks everything BDB says. And BDB's answer when it's his turn is "tax hikes on the rich"

* on the Progressive Weather skit, BDB could email someone right before he arrives (late) to do the weather. Email says "time for some snow problems on the upper east side."

* cameo by Bloomberg? He could come on and say "miss me yet?"

* cameo by Cuomo? He could do a Sopranos like skit with bdb and say "did you talk to that guy about that thing?"

* worth checking to see if Alec Baldwin would reconsider doing comedy (now that his show is kaput) and do the One Percenters speech (or something like it) in the character of Jack Donaghy?

* scene of bill and Chirlane at home - every time they talk, he puts an apple box on the ground so they can look eye to eye ?

* we get a stand-in for Dante, with Afro, and after a press conference with he and Chirlane, the "Dante" peels off his Afro wig and says "Dad, I'm sick of these press events. And this thing makes me scalp itch!"

From: John Del Cecato
To: Kavanagh, Laura
Subject: Re: Mayor's Office of Film, Theatre, and Broadcasting
Date: Thursday, February 20, 2014 11:27:55 AM can't think of anything off top of my head with brick background - but no shortage of workaday diners in NYC!

From: <Kavanagh>, Laura <lkavanagh@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Thursday, February 20, 2014 at 10:58 AM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: FW: Mayor's Office of Film, Theatre, and Broadcasting

Thought maybe you would have some ideas on this

From: Fink, Avi
Sent: Thursday, February 20, 2014 10:50 AM
To: Sevilla, Max; Kavanagh, Laura
Subject: Re: Mayor's Office of Film, Theatre, and Broadcasting

Also adding Laura.

LK - see below. Any thoughts on spots to rec to the WH?

From: Sevilla, Max
Sent: Thursday, February 20, 2014 10:47 AM
To: Fink, Avi
Subject: Re: Mayor's Office of Film, Theatre, and Broadcasting

Thanks! Much appreciated.

Max Sevilla, Esq.
Director
New York City Office of Federal Affairs
1301 Pennsylvania Ave, N.W.
Suite 350
Washington, D.C. 20004
Tel. \(202\) 624-5908624-5908)
Cell. \(347\) 276-6572276-6572)
msevilla@cityhall.nyc.gov

On Feb 20, 2014, at 10:46 AM, "Fink, Avi" <AFink@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

I called the pizza place where the mayor did the roundtable on staten island, which matches their description of what they're looking for, haven't heard back.

Will try again today.

From: Sevilla, Max
Sent: Thursday, February 20, 2014 10:45 AM
To: Fink, Avi
Subject: Fwd: Mayor's Office of Film, Theatre, and Broadcasting

Anything on this?

Max Sevilla, Esq.
Director
New York City Office of Federal Affairs
1301 Pennsylvania Ave, N.W.
Suite 350
Washington, D.C. 20004
Tel. \(202\) 624-5908
Cell. \(347\) 276-6572
msevillia@cityhall.nyc.gov

Begin forwarded message:

From: "Doody, Jillian" <Jillian_Doody@ovp.eop.gov>
Date: February 20, 2014 at 9:35:39 AM EST
To: "Sevilla, Max" <msevillia@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: RE: Mayor's Office of Film, Theatre, and Broadcasting

Hi! Just checking on this – we're trying to nail something down asap since we want to film Monday!

From: Sevilla, Max [<mailto:msevillia@cityhall.nyc.gov>]
Sent: Monday, February 17, 2014 1:28 PM
To: Doody, Jillian
Subject: Re: Mayor's Office of Film, Theatre, and Broadcasting

On it. Will get you something by wed, ok?

Best!

Max Sevilla, Esq.
Director
New York City Office of Federal Affairs
1301 Pennsylvania Ave, N.W.
Suite 350
Washington, D.C. 20004
Tel. \(202\) 624-5908
Cell. \(347\) 276-6572
msevillia@cityhall.nyc.gov

On Feb 17, 2014, at 1:22 PM, "Doody, Jillian" <Jillian_Doody@ovp.eop.gov> wrote:

Hi Max,

Hope you are doing well – Elias in White House IGA directed me to you.

The VP is filming a PSA with several actors on campus sexual assault. It will be much like the PSA he did with the President and male athletes on dating violence that you may have seen: <http://www.whitehouse.gov/1is2many>

Our goal is to release in April. We are looking to film in NYC diners – we don't need crews (we will use WH videographers), but we would like to know from your office what diners in NYC would be comfortable with us filming. We're looking for something a little "gritty" – maybe brick walls in the background, for example. Our first taping is a week from today, so any suggestions you have would be greatly appreciated. Please let me know if you have any questions.

Thank you!

Jillian

Jillian Doody
Director of Intergovernmental Affairs
Deputy Director of Public Engagement
Office of the Vice President
202-456-1437 desk | 202-503-5370 blackberry

From: Scola, Lindsay
To: "jonathan@berlinrosen.com"; jon \(ifdc@akpdmedia.com\); Williams, Dominic; Santucci, Laura; Katz, Rebecca; Ragone, Peter; Shorris, Anthony
Cc: Seignious, Sandy; Griffith, Chantell; Shapiro, Leigh; Chao, Raymond; Grybauskas, Stefan
Subject: Planning Meeting
Date: Thursday, February 20, 2014 8:24:59 PM

The Planning meeting will be this Sunday at 1pm by phone. They will now be every Sunday moving forward at 1pm in person unless otherwise specified.

Thank you!
Lindsay

Lindsay Scola
Director of Scheduling
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212.788.2962
Cell: 917.513.1690

From: Santucci, Laura
To: Ragone, Peter; Wolfe, Emma; Fuleihan, Dean \(OMB\); Wiley, Maya; Williams, Dominic; Shorris, Anthony; jonathan@berlinrosen.com; jon \(ifdc@akpdmedia.com\); Noerdlinger, Rachel; Katz, Rebecca
Cc: Scola, Lindsay
Subject: Re: Planning Meeting
Date: Sunday, February 23, 2014 10:31:17 AM

Agenda for today's call is below:

1. UPK / Albany Update
2. Media Relations Plan
3. Week Ahead

On Feb 20, 2014, at 8:24 PM, "Scola, Lindsay" <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

The Planning meeting will be this Sunday at 1pm by phone. They will now be every Sunday moving forward at 1pm in person unless otherwise specified.

Thank you!
Lindsay

Lindsay Scola
Director of Scheduling
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212.788.2962
Cell: 917.513.1690

From: Shorris, Anthony
To: Ragone, Peter; Grybauskas, Stefan; "jonathan@berlinrosen.com"; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Williams, Dominic; Santucci, Laura; Katz, Rebecca; Wolfe, Emma; Wiley, Maya; Noerdlinger, Rachel; "rmunoz@akpdmedia.com"
Cc: Seignious, Sandy; Griffith, Chantell; Shapiro, Leigh; Chao, Raymond; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Ko, Eunice
Subject: RE: Planning Meeting - Sunday 3/2
Date: Wednesday, February 26, 2014 12:40:02 PM

I can try to dial in but have to be in NJ that afternoon.

From: Ragone, Peter
Sent: Wednesday, February 26, 2014 12:13 PM
To: Grybauskas, Stefan; 'jonathan@berlinrosen.com'; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; Williams, Dominic; Santucci, Laura; Katz, Rebecca; Shorris, Anthony; Wolfe, Emma; Wiley, Maya; Noerdlinger, Rachel; 'rmunoz@akpdmedia.com'
Cc: Seignious, Sandy; Griffith, Chantell; Shapiro, Leigh; Chao, Raymond; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Ko, Eunice
Subject: Re: Planning Meeting - Sunday 3/2

I will be traveling.

From: Grybauskas, Stefan
Sent: Wednesday, February 26, 2014 12:08 PM
To: 'jonathan@berlinrosen.com' <jonathan@berlinrosen.com>; jon (jfdc@akpdmedia.com) <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Williams, Dominic; Santucci, Laura; Katz, Rebecca; Ragone, Peter; Shorris, Anthony; Wolfe, Emma; Wiley, Maya; Noerdlinger, Rachel; Robert Munoz (rmunoz@akpdmedia.com) <rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: Seignious, Sandy; Griffith, Chantell; Shapiro, Leigh; Chao, Raymond; Grybauskas, Stefan; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Ko, Eunice
Subject: Planning Meeting - Sunday 3/2

Hello all,

Due to the Mayor's attendance at the St Pat's for All Parade on Sunday, the Planning meeting is scheduled for 3:30pm in the COW.

Thanks,

Stefan Grybauskas
Deputy Director of Scheduling
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212-788-3180
Cell: 347-515-5874

From: John Del Cecato
To: Grybauskas, Stefan
Subject: Re: Planning Meeting - Sunday 3/2
Date: Wednesday, February 26, 2014 12:47:01 PM

Gotcha - no prob - tx

From: <Grybauskas>, Stefan <SGrybauskas@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Wednesday, February 26, 2014 at 12:44 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Planning Meeting - Sunday 3/2

Sorry Committee of the Whole room at City Hall. My fault for not clarifying

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, February 26, 2014 12:42 PM
To: Grybauskas, Stefan
Subject: Re: Planning Meeting - Sunday 3/2

Sorry - what's the COW?

From: <Grybauskas>, Stefan <SGrybauskas@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Wednesday, February 26, 2014 at 12:08 PM
To: Jonathan Rosen <jonathan@berlinrosen.com>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, Dom Williams <DWilliams@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Santucci, Laura" <LSantucci@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Rebecca Katz <RKKatz@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Peter Ragone <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Anthony Shorris <AShorris@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Wolfe, Emma" <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Wiley, Maya" <MWiley@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Noerdlinger, Rachel" <RNoerdlinger@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Robert Munoz <rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: "Seignious, Sandy" <sseignious@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Griffith, Chantell" <CGriffith@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Shapiro, Leigh" <LShapiro@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Chao, Raymond" <rchao@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Grybauskas, Stefan" <SGrybauskas@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel" <GSchnakeMahl@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Ko, Eunice" <EKO@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Planning Meeting - Sunday 3/2

Hello all,

Due to the Mayor's attendance at the St Pat's for All Parade on Sunday, the Planning meeting is scheduled for 3:30pm in the COW.

Thanks,

Stefan Grybauskas
Deputy Director of Scheduling
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York

Office: 212-788-3180
Cell: 347-515-5874

From: Katz, Rebecca
To: ifdc@akpdmedia.com
Cc: Robert Munoz \(rmunoz@akpdmedia.com\))
Subject: Inner Circle
Date: Friday, February 28, 2014 1:24:25 PM
Attachments: BDB QUESTLOVE \(1\).docx
BDB VIDEO BUMPERS.docx
BDB GAME SHOW \(1\).pdf
BDB JOB INTERVIEW DRAFT 1 \(1\).doc
BDB HONEYMOONERS DRAFT.docx

Any chance you are available at 3 PM today for a call? If not, here are the DRAFT sketches. They need some work.

--

Rebecca Kirschner Katz
Office of the Mayor
(212) 788-3112
rkkatz@cityhall.nyc.gov
@RebeccaKKatz

BDB QUESTLOVE

The Mayor is at his desk.

RECEPTIONIST (O.S)

Mayor, your son is here to see you,

MAYOR

Send him in.

Questlove enters.

MAYOR

Ms. Jackson, this isn't my son. It's my new Chief of City Music.

QUESTLOVE

No worries, happens all the time.

MAYOR

You said you had an idea to liven up the city. What is it?

QUESTLOVE

Walk ons.

MAYOR

Walk ons?

QUESTLOVE

Kind of like on the Tonight Show where everyone has a theme song. We give famous New Yorkers their own themesongs. Everytime someone walks into your office their special song plays.

MAYOR

Isn't that politically dangerous?

QUESTLOVE

Nah, it never ever ever backfires.

MAYOR

Like what would you do for Donald Trump?

Questlove hits his ipod and with each name we hear the song. We could punch it with a photo.

QUESTLOVE

This one. Hair (Give Me a Head with Hair).

MAYOR

ARod.

QUESTLOVE

Money for Nothing.

MAYOR

Alec Baldwin.

QUESTLOVE

Shout.

MAYOR

Bernie Madoff.

QUESTLOVE

Don't think he's gonna be walking anywhere soon.

But one of these. I Fought the Law and the Law

Won or Take the Money and Run

(WE COULD PLAY THIS OUT ONCE YOU GET US OTHER NAMES TO "TARGET", WE ADD REPORTERS)

MAYOR

This is great. Brilliant. Would I have my own song when I speak in public. You know, like Hail to the Chief.

QUESTLOVE

I was thinking more like this. Taxman.

Questlove leaves.

RECEPTIONIST

Your next appointment is here.

WE HAVE A SURPRISE CELEB ENTER AND A SONG
PLAYS AS THE ENDING

Example—Bloomberg--Short People: Mike Woodson 99
problems; Kathie Lee and Hoda—Bottle of Wine: Al Roker—
Let It Snow; School's Out.

BDB VIDEO BUMPERS

As bumpers and breaks in between sketches we can show man in street videos of celebs or real people commenting on the Mayor and his first 80 days
SAMPLES—IF WE LIKE MORE TO COME

HARRY BELAFONTE

What kind of New York do I want—let me tell you about it. I want a New York where everyone is treated equally except if you live on the Upper East Side

AVERAGE PERSON

He's the greatest mayor we've had since Bloomberg

KID

I love him because I can drink big sodas and not worry about getting arrested

JASON COLLINS

He's done a great job, I was unemployed before he became mayor.

Or

I want a mayor who sticks up for the little guy

MAYOR BLOOMBERG

Me too! Miss me?

MARTHA PLIMPTON

I want a New York where they close the George Washington Bridge 24 hours a day to incoming traffic from New Jersey

ALAN CUMMING (note—he could play an emcee for us on stage if free)

Very disappointed. If he believes in diversity where are all the Scottish appointments?

BIG PAPI

I want a New York where the Mayor can wear a Red Sox hat to Yankee stadium. Because this is his $$$@@@ city

ORDINARY PERSON ON STREET

The best thing I say about him—he's tall...he's taller than Bloomberg

The mayor. Love him. You can really travel fast across town if you get behind his motorcade.

SCRIPT TITLE

Written by

Name of First Writer

Based on, If Any

Address
Phone Number

BDB GAME SHOW

Note--we can do as Jeopardy or can do as a new show BDB brought to New York "Are You Smarter than our new Mayor/How Much Do You Know about New York City". Let me know which concept grabs you and we can adjust but for now JEOPARDY works best. Simple set: podium for a "host type" and two contestants: The Mayor and Al Sharpton (or Questlove)

HOST

Welcome to tonight's episode of Jeopardy, New York Celebrity edition. Both our contestants tonight will be playing for their favorite charity. Now the game is simple, there are 6 categories to pick from, our goal is to test their general knowledge as well as specific knowledge about New York, All responses must be phrased in question form. Now let's meet our contestants. First up is the current Mayor of New York, please welcome Bill DeBlasio.

The Mayor enters.

HOST (CONT'D)

And now our second contestant, he's a Baptist minister, television/radio talk show host and one time Presidential candidate.

The Mayor hits his buzzer.

MAYOR

Who is Mike Huckabee?

HOST

The game hasn't begun yet.

MAYOR

Sorry, I was going a little too fast...again.

HOST

Please welcome the Reverend Al Sharpton. Reverend Sharpton, what charity are you playing for?

AL

I'm playing for an organization that has fallen on hard times.

(MORE)

AL (CONT'D)
The New York Knicks. They are my favorite team.

HOST
And Mayor, who are you playing for?

MAYOR
Also playing for my favorite team.
The Sandinistas.

HOST
Take a look at our board at the categories.

We see the categories on a board: the Media; Local Politics;
Sports; James Brown; SocialMedia and NYC History.

HOST (CONT'D)
Mr. Mayor you control the board.

MAYOR
I'll take Local Politics for $100
Alex.

With each "play: the board reveals the clue.

HOST
Stop and frisk.

Mayor buzzes.

MAYOR
What is a racially discriminatory policy?

HOST
Wrong.

Al buzzes in.

AL
What is a fun game Elliot Spitzer plays with Lis Smith?

HOST
Correct, You control the board
Reverend.

AL
I'll take the Media for $100.

HOST
Rachel Maddow.

Al buzzes.

AL
Who runs MSNBC?

HOST
Incorrect.

Mayor buzzes.

MAYOR
Who is too conservative for me?

HOST
Correct. Mayor back to you.

MAYOR
The Media for $200.

HOST
The New York Post. Rupert Murdoch.
Fox News.

Mayor buzzes.

MAYOR
What is the axis of evil?

HOST
Correct.

MAYOR
The Media for $300.

HOST
The Grey Lady.

Mayor buzzes.

MAYOR
What is the wrong thing to call
Barbra Walters (we need a grande dame of NYC)

NOTE--WE DO A FEW MORE, END ON FINAL JEOPARDY, MAYOR WINS,
GETS A CHECK AND GIVES TO A CHE GUEVERA LOOKALIKE

AGAIN--ANY OF THESE JOKES WHICH ARE TOO SENSITIVE WE CAN SWAP OUT.

()

BDB JOB INTERVIEW
(Mayor, Steve Buscemi
as Nucky)

(2 CHAIRS AND A DESK, ARE SET CENTER
STAGE. MAYOR HOLDS A CLIPBOARD. HE SITS IN THE CHAIR BEHIND THE DESK)

MAYOR DEBLASIO

As you may have heard, I have a few appointments left to make. So, in the interest of total transparency, I'm going to have one of the interviews right here. I think the applicant is ready.
The position is Czar of Snow Removal and Enforcement. Please send in Enoch Johnson.

(STEVE BUSCEMI ENTERS AS NUCKY. MAYOR
STANDS AND TAKES A FEW STEPS TO GREET HIM. NUCKY SITS BEHIND THE DESK)

MAYOR DEBLASIO

Mr. Johnson?

NUCKY

They call me Nucky.

MAYOR DEBLASIO

Nucky?

NUCKY

It's a kind of a nickname, like Lucky, Waxey, Chalky, Scarface. The usual.

()

BDB JOB INTERVIEW
(Mayor, Steve Buscemi
as Nucky)

MAYOR DEBLASIO

It's just that Nucky sounds a bit...unusual.

NUCKY

So, you're suggesting I change my name, 'cause it sounds funny?

MAYOR DEBLASIO

No. I'd never suggest that. That would be wrong.

Let's move on. Have you had much experience in government?

NUCKY

You kidding me? I have an Empire! On the Boardwalk.

MAYOR DEBLASIO

Good. So you can honestly say that you're a leader.

NUCKY

If we only elected or appointed honest men, we'd have no leaders.

()

BDB JOB INTERVIEW
(Mayor, Steve Buscemi
as Nucky)

MAYOR DEBLASIO
(LAUGHS) Ain't that the truth!

(CHANGES TONE) Enforcement is part of this position. Is that within your current job description?

NUCKY
I have people who do the enforcing. I'm more of a delegator.

MAYOR DEBLASIO
According to the press, have an issue with snow.
Do you have any experience removing snow?

NUCKY
Let's just say that I've had some unwanted things removed and leave it at that.

MAYOR DEBLASIO
Okay. Well, you seem qualified for this. Thanks very much for coming in.

NUCKY
When do I start?

MAYOR DEBLASIO
Well, I still have a few applicants to meet.

()

BDB JOB INTERVIEW
(Mayor, Steve Buscemi
as Nucky)

NUCKY

Good luck with that. Now close the door on your way out.

(NUCKY EXCUSES THE MAYOR, WHO EXITS IN DEFEAT)

BDB HONEYMOONERS

(Mayor, Chirlane-Alice, Cynthia Nixon-Trixie, Steve Buscemi-Norton)

(A SUGGESTION OF THE HONEYMOONERS KITCHEN - A KITCHEN TABLE WITH 2 CHAIRS, CENTER, PERHAPS A DOOR, UPSTAGE CENER. CYNTHIA ENTERS THRU THE DOOR, OR UP CENTER, HOLDING A SMALL PAPER BAG)

TRIXIE

Alice! Alice!

(WE HEAR ALICE'S VOICE – OFF STAGE RIGHT)

ALICE (O.S.)

Be out in a minute, Trix.

TRIXIE

I brought the onions I borrowed.

(CHIRLANE ENTERS AS ALICE)

ALICE

Thanks, Trixie. You're just in time. I'm about to put this in the oven.

TRIXIE

What are you having for your big anniversary dinner?

ALICE

Pizza. And you know Hizzonor. He likes to eat it with a knife and fork.

TRIXIE

And he calls himself Italian! You know, Alice, I was thinking back to the old days, before we were both married.

ALICE

Those were some fun times. Remember how, after poetry class, we used to "experiment."

TRIXIE

Yeah, just to see what it was like to "play for the other team" because it was so "forbidden."

ALICE

I can't believe we went to that Al D'Amato campaign rally. Now I know why our parents warned us about turning Republican.

TRIXIE

I can't imagine living a life like that. Well, listen, Ed will be home any minute and I haven't started his supper yet. You know how low energy he gets when he doesn't eat...

(STEVE, AS NORTON, MAKES A BIG ENTRANCE THRU THE DOOR. HE CARRIES A BEAT-UP CANDELABRA)

NORTON

Hellooo, ladies! What's for supper?

TRIXIE

I was just going upstairs to put it on. See ya later, Alice.

(SHE EXITS)

ALICE

Hiya, Ed. What do you have there?

NORTON

This? This is a genuine 17th Century silver candelabra, forged by Paul Revere.

ALICE

Paul Revere lived in the 18th Century.

NORTON

He was a man ahead of his time. It's my anniversary gift to you and the big man.

ALICE

That's awfully sweet, Ed. But we can't accept it. It's too valuable. Why don't you and Trixie keep it?

NORTON

We have one already.

ALICE

Where'd you get them?

(AS HE PUTS IT ON THE TABLE)

NORTON

In the sewer! Rinse it off and it'll be just like new. There's a lot of stuff down there – David Dinkins' old tax returns, Giuliani's little black book, and today, we chased a rat that was as big as...

(THE MAYOR ENTERS THRU THE DOOR IN RALPH KRAMDEN FASHION)

MAYOR DEBLASIO

I'm hungry. Where's my dinner?

ALICE

It'll be ready in as soon as you wash up.

Look what Ed brought us for our anniversary.

NORTON

Take a look at that, old boy! Genuine silver forged by none other than Paul Revere.

(HE PICKS UP CANDELABRA AND EXAMINES IT)

MAYOR DEBLASIO

This thing must be worth millions! Better put it away, or I'll have to pay tax on it. Where'd you get it?

NORTON

In the sewer!

MAYOR DEBLASIO

Will you get outta here, Norton!

(NORTON EXITS, RETURNS FOR A MOMENT TO TAKE BACK THE CANDELABRA, EXITS AGAIN)

ALICE

Norton was just trying to be nice. The least you could do is show him some gratitude.

MAYOR DEBLASIO

Gratitude. Gratitude? I've gotta show him gratitude? When is someone gonna show me some gratitude? I work my fingers to the bone for this city and what do I get? Weathermen are mocking me. The New York Post calls me "a Cuba-loving socialist." I'm the mayor, Alice. You get that? I'm the mayor. And you're all nothing. Get that? I'm the mayor and you're nothing.

ALICE

So what? You're the mayor of nothing. Now sit down and eat your pizza before you waste away to nothing.

MAYOR DEBLASIO

One of these days, Alice, bang-zoom! To the Upper East Side!

(THEY EMBRACE)

MAYOR DEBLASIO

Baby, you're the greatest!

(OUT)

From: Katz, Rebecca
To: "Robert Munoz"; John Del Cecato
Subject: RE: Inner Circle
Date: Friday, February 28, 2014 1:29:42 PM

Great.

From: Robert Munoz [<mailto:rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Friday, February 28, 2014 1:27 PM
To: Katz, Rebecca; John Del Cecato
Subject: RE: Inner Circle

Works for John.

From: Katz, Rebecca [<mailto:RKKatz@cityhall.nyc.gov>]
Sent: Friday, February 28, 2014 1:24 PM
To: John Del Cecato
Cc: Robert Munoz
Subject: Inner Circle

Any chance you are available at 3 PM today for a call? If not, here are the DRAft sketches. They need some work.

--

Rebecca Kirszner Katz
Office of the Mayor
(212) 788-3112
rkkatz@cityhall.nyc.gov
@RebeccaKKatz

From: Katz, Rebecca
To: "Robert Munoz"; John Del Cecato
Subject: RE: Inner Circle
Date: Friday, February 28, 2014 1:29:54 PM

code: [REDACTED]

From: Robert Munoz [<mailto:rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Friday, February 28, 2014 1:27 PM
To: Katz, Rebecca; John Del Cecato
Subject: RE: Inner Circle

Works for John.

From: Katz, Rebecca [<mailto:RKKatz@cityhall.nyc.gov>]
Sent: Friday, February 28, 2014 1:24 PM
To: John Del Cecato
Cc: Robert Munoz
Subject: Inner Circle

Any chance you are available at 3 PM today for a call? If not, here are the DRAfT sketches. They need some work.

--

Rebecca Kirschner Katz
Office of the Mayor
(212) 788-3112
rkkatz@cityhall.nyc.gov
@RebeccaKKatz

From: John Del Cecato
To: Scola, Lindsay; Grybauskas, Stefan; "jonathan@berlinrosen.com"; Williams, Dominic; Santucci, Laura; Katz, Rebecca; Ragone, Peter; Shorris, Anthony; Wolfe, Emma; Wiley, Maya; Noerdlinger, Rachel; Robert Munoz
Cc: Seignious, Sandy; Griffith, Chantell; Shapiro, Leigh; Chao, Raymond; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Ko, Eunice; Sharp, Edie
Subject: Re: Planning Meeting - Sunday 3/2 - 3:45 UPDATED TIME
Date: Sunday, March 02, 2014 5:07:58 PM

FWIW

<http://www.nydailynews.com/new-york/education/albany-charter-cash-big-banks-making-bundle-new-construction-schools-bear-cost-article-1.448008>

From: <Scola>, Lindsay <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Sunday, March 2, 2014 at 3:32 PM
To: "Grybauskas, Stefan" <SGrybauskas@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Jonathan Rosen <jonathan@berlinrosen.com>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, Dom Williams <DWilliams@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Santucci, Laura" <LSantucci@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Rebecca Katz <RKKatz@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Peter Ragone <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Anthony Shorris <AShorris@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Wolfe, Emma" <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Wiley, Maya" <MWiley@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Noerdlinger, Rachel" <RNoerdlinger@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Robert Munoz <rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: "Seignious, Sandy" <sseignious@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Griffith, Chantell" <CGriffith@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Shapiro, Leigh" <LShapiro@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Chao, Raymond" <rchao@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel" <GSchnakeMahl@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Ko, Eunice" <EKo@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Sharp, Edie" <ESharp@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: RE: Planning Meeting - Sunday 3/2 - 3:45 UPDATED TIME

The Call will now be at 3:45

Dial in: [REDACTED] Access Code: [REDACTED]

Lindsay Scola
Director of Scheduling
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212.788.2962
Cell: 917.513.1690

From: Grybauskas, Stefan
Sent: Friday, February 28, 2014 4:22 PM
To: 'jonathan@berlinrosen.com'; 'jon (jfdc@akpdmedia.com)'; Williams, Dominic; Santucci, Laura; Katz, Rebecca; Ragone, Peter; Shorris, Anthony; Wolfe, Emma; Wiley, Maya; Noerdlinger, Rachel; 'Robert Munoz (rmunoz@akpdmedia.com)'
Cc: Seignious, Sandy; Griffith, Chantell; Shapiro, Leigh; Chao, Raymond; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Ko, Eunice; Scola, Lindsay

Subject: RE: Planning Meeting - Sunday 3/2

Hello all,

The Planning meeting will now take place as a phone call, no need to come into City Hall. Please let me know if you are able to make it .

Dial in: [REDACTED] Access Code: [REDACTED]

From: Grybauskas, Stefan

Sent: Wednesday, February 26, 2014 12:09 PM

To: 'jonathan@berlinrosen.com'; jon (jfdc@akpdmedia.com); Williams, Dominic; Santucci, Laura; Katz, Rebecca; Ragone, Peter; Shorris, Anthony; Wolfe, Emma; Wiley, Maya; Noerdlinger, Rachel; Robert Munoz (rmunoz@akpdmedia.com)

Cc: Seignious, Sandy; Griffith, Chantell; Shapiro, Leigh; Chao, Raymond; Grybauskas, Stefan; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Ko, Eunice

Subject: Planning Meeting - Sunday 3/2

Hello all,

Due to the Mayor's attendance at the St Pat's for All Parade on Sunday, the Planning meeting is scheduled for 3:30pm in the COW.

Thanks,

Stefan Grybauskas

Deputy Director of Scheduling

Office of the Mayor

The City of New York

Office: 212-788-3180

Cell: 347-515-5874

From: Robert Munoz
To: Grybauskas, Stefan
Subject: RE: Meeting with the Mayor
Date: Monday, March 03, 2014 10:24:33 AM

Ok thanks

-----Original Message-----

From: Grybauskas, Stefan [<mailto:SGrybauskas@cityhall.nyc.gov>]
Sent: Monday, March 3, 2014 10:21 AM
To: Robert Munoz
Subject: Re: Meeting with the Mayor

No it is still on

----- Original Message -----

From: Robert Munoz [<mailto:rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Monday, March 03, 2014 10:20 AM
To: Grybauskas, Stefan
Subject: Re: Meeting with the Mayor

Hey did this meeting get cancelled? For some reason it disappeared from JDC's calendar?

Sent from my iPhone

> On Mar 2, 2014, at 7:22 PM, "Grybauskas, Stefan" <SGrybauskas@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>

> Cuomo plan

>

> ----- Original Message -----

> From: Robert Munoz [<mailto:rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>]

> Sent: Sunday, March 02, 2014 07:07 PM

> To: Grybauskas, Stefan

> Subject: Re: Meeting with the Mayor

>

> Hey Stefan,

>

> Just wondering what this meeting is about ?

>

> Sent from my iPhone

>

>> On Mar 2, 2014, at 6:05 PM, "Grybauskas, Stefan" <SGrybauskas@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>>

>>

>>

>>

>> <meeting.ics>

From: Coney, Javon
To: Fuleihan, Dean \(OMB\); Wolfe, Emma; Shorris, Anthony; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Ragone, Peter
Cc: Griffith, Chantell; Seignious, Sandy; Sharp, Edie; Hanley, Monica; Wright, Jessica; Scola, Lindsay; Chao, Raymond
Subject: 11:00am Meeting Is Now 11:15am
Date: Monday, March 03, 2014 10:54:10 AM

Hi All,

This meeting will now start at 11:15am. Please hold outside of the Mayor's office a few minutes before unless a message is sent that the meeting is further delayed. Thanks!

-Javon

From: Coney, Javon
To: Fuleihan, Dean \(OMB\); Wolfe, Emma; Shorris, Anthony; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Ragone, Peter
Cc: Griffith, Chantell; Seignious, Sandy; Sharp, Edie; Hanley, Monica; Wright, Jessica; Scola, Lindsay; Chao, Raymond; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel
Subject: RE: 11:25am
Date: Monday, March 03, 2014 11:40:12 AM

Hi All- The Mayor is off his call. Please come down now if you have not done so already. Thanks!

From: Coney, Javon
Sent: Monday, March 03, 2014 11:24 AM
To: Fuleihan, Dean (OMB); Wolfe, Emma; Shorris, Anthony; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; Ragone, Peter
Cc: Griffith, Chantell; Seignious, Sandy; Sharp, Edie; Hanley, Monica; Wright, Jessica; Scola, Lindsay; Chao, Raymond; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel
Subject: RE: 11:25am

All- The Mayor is still not off his call. I will let you know when to report down. Thanks!

From: Coney, Javon
Sent: Monday, March 03, 2014 11:16 AM
To: Fuleihan, Dean (OMB); Wolfe, Emma; Shorris, Anthony; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; Ragone, Peter
Cc: Griffith, Chantell; Seignious, Sandy; Sharp, Edie; Hanley, Monica; Wright, Jessica; Scola, Lindsay; Chao, Raymond
Subject: 11:25am

Please come down no later than 11:25am unless an update is sent. Thank you!

From: Coney, Javon
Sent: Monday, March 03, 2014 10:54 AM
To: Fuleihan, Dean (OMB); Wolfe, Emma; Shorris, Anthony; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; Ragone, Peter
Cc: Griffith, Chantell; Seignious, Sandy; Sharp, Edie; Hanley, Monica; Wright, Jessica; Scola, Lindsay; Chao, Raymond
Subject: 11:00am Meeting Is Now 11:15am

Hi All,

This meeting will now start at 11:15am. Please hold outside of the Mayor's office a few minutes before unless a message is sent that the meeting is further delayed. Thanks!

-Javon

From: Ragone, Peter
Sent: Monday, March 03, 2014 10:14 PM
To: BdB; Walzak, Phil; 'Jonathan@berlinrosen.com' <Jonathan@berlinrosen.com>; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: Chirlane McCray; [REDACTED] <[REDACTED]>
Subject: Re: Everyone on your team should read this: Urgent memo to Bill de Blasio in Capital New York

I have a memo I'm reworking on this. Will be ready tomorrow.

And it is dickish.

From: Bill de Blasio [mailto:[REDACTED]]
Sent: Monday, March 03, 2014 10:11 PM
To: Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; Jonathan Rosen <Jonathan@berlinrosen.com>; John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: Chirlane McCray; Patrick Gaspard <[REDACTED]>
Subject: Fw: Everyone on your team should read this: Urgent memo to Bill de Blasio in Capital New York

Notwithstanding my willingness to try to evolve and improve, I have to note that this piece by Blake is totally dick-ish. We have given the media tons of access and lots of human interest stories. But that's never enough -- so, so much for Blake's thesis.

I think the truth is we're dealing with a biased and ridiculous corporate media that was only too happy to give Michael Bloomberg a free ride. So I'll do my best to do better, but I'm not sure that will change Blake's "toxic" environment.

Feels like the game is just plain rigged. Can someone give me a roadmap here? Because I just don't get it. We were endlessly available and patient during all the snowstorms -- unless you buy his theory that you guys should have been more Wolfson-like (and I think that Blake was Wolfson's fellow Schumer alum).

I made a few mistakes, but I took endless Findlayter questions. And like the storm questions, that access didn't get us any better coverage. So where is this magical thing we should do better???

Sent via BlackBerry by AT&T

From: "Levin, Christina" <CLEvin@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Mon, 3 Mar 2014 16:41:21 +0000
To: BdB <[REDACTED]>
Subject: RE: Everyone on your team should read this: Urgent memo to Bill de Blasio in Capital New York

CAPITAL NY—How de Blasio can fix his press problem

By Blake Zeff

Between the acts of nature, harsh realities of dealing with Albany, and some unforced errors, it's been a challenging first two months for the de Blasio administration.

The mayor's managerial skills were tested early and often by the snowiest winter in memory. His signature pre-K plan came under attack from his frenemy, Andrew Cuomo. And he grew frustrated answering questions about a call to the police department about an ally, and then about the driving of his security detail.

Compounding all of it has been his startlingly toxic relationship with the New York City press corps.

The bad news is that as long as the press is hostile to him—and nearly every reporter I've spoken to who covers City Hall has ripped him—it will impede his policy and political goals. The good news for him is it's still very early, and the relationship is salvageable.

I'm out of the business of political communications now, after a decade working for candidates and officials on the local, state and presidential level. But if I were advising de Blasio, here's what I'd tell him:

You need to adjust your perspective when it comes to the media, fast, beginning by recognizing that you now have a 24-hour press corps devoted to covering nothing but you. This isn't true of many other elected officials in the country who aren't governors or the president. Even U.S. senators don't get the kind of round-the-clock attention a mayor of New York City gets. This is obviously a big adjustment from when you were the public advocate and had to hustle to get press attention. And whatever you think you know from your experience as a political operative, this intense media attention isn't something you're simply going to handle with clever tactics. This is a reality that you're going to have to deal with for as long as you're mayor.

This means that when you give a speech to a group like AIPAC, you can't not tell the press about it and then act surprised when you get caught. It means that when you hang out with Upper East Siders and talk about the snow, it's a public event, subject to scrutiny and interpretation. And it means that when you call the police to check in on a politically supportive reverend's arrest, it's a story. I get that it's annoying that your predecessor got away with going to Bermuda on many weekends and being left alone. And I realize that none of these items would have been newsworthy when you were a councilman or public advocate. But they're news now.

Speaking of which, it shouldn't come as news to you that the New York City press corps will sometimes focus on stories that aren't important. Should reporters care more about the policy details of pre-K and paid sick leave than your pizza etiquette and the timing of your move to Gracie Mansion? 100 percent. When they don't, it can be maddening. Will it change anytime soon, no matter how many lectures you deliver to them about it? Not a chance. You ran to be mayor of the tabloid capital of America. Sideshows come with the job. You need to manage this, and can.

For example, realize that the reporters have editors who are demanding they write a certain number of stories every single day. They're under enormous pressure to please their bosses, and not get beat by others. Therefore, if you don't give them something to cover, they'll find it themselves. This is where an old maxim for dealing with the New York tabloids, which we used in a war room many years back, comes in: Give them a hamburger, or become the hamburger.

You need to feed these reporters fun and interesting story ideas. Sometimes this means putting what seem unimportant little things on the public schedule, like meeting with constituents or speaking at events. Let the press in on things like your post-storm meeting on the Upper East Side, even if the circumstances aren't ideal for you; better to have them there for the apology, in your words, than let them interpret it afterward.

Also, as documented on this site by Dana Rubinstein, you've often seemed unprepared to give meaningful answers to substantive questions, even when they're on topics that you're choosing to highlight. That has to change, if your complaints about the superficial stuff are to be taken seriously.

Here's another way not to needlessly infuriate your devoted press corps. If you insist on limiting their access to you (including prematurely exiting press conferences or declining to answer questions), don't then go on a run of national media appearances. I saw you on Alec Baldwin, Al Sharpton, Chris Hayes, Jon Stewart, and the Today Show in the last few weeks alone, and there's word you'll also be on "The Good Wife." It's got to be fun to get invited on to all these shows and indulge the desire to get some national attention. But know that if you do that at the same time you keep your distance from the local press, the local press is not going to be pleased.

Be proactive, getting your positive story out on a given topic before a negative one develops. For example, take the never-ending rash of snow storms the city has endured. In truth, your administration has done a good job handling them, overall. Yet the enduring stories were distraught Upper East Siders and, bizarrely, Al Roker.

It's not hard to imagine how your predecessor's press office might have handled this. Howard Wolfson would have inundated the media with tons of data showing how impressive the administration's performance was, from the unprecedented number of snow storms they were enduring to the number of blocks cleared in how many hours compared to previous years, etc. This would have been done via press release, Twitter, and proactive emails and phone calls to every reporter who might be covering the management of the storm. In the absence of an all-out effort like this, you end up with "SHAMBLES!" and Rokergate.

Finally, it is evident from your approach to the press that you don't think newspaper coverage matters. An understandable conclusion for your team to draw, since you coasted to election with the tabloids and Times treating you during the campaign with hostility and tepidness, respectively. But here's the thing: This isn't a campaign anymore. Unlike what happened in August, you won't go days without stories in the papers, when the only communications voters receive about you is the media you paid for. Now there are no ads, and saturation coverage in the papers.

The tabloids are picked up by commuters who plunk down a dollar and scan the headlines on the train. The Daily News has a huge circulation in the outer boroughs, among the very voters you're supposed to be connecting with. Along with the Post, it becomes obsessed with issues. It has the ability to take something on and cover it relentlessly for days.

These mini-campaigns thrive on public outrage, and very effectively stoke it. If this is happening every day, in a climate where you don't have commercials or endorsement events to counter the negativity, don't fool yourself: You will take a hit.

Remember that story about your security detail flouting traffic laws that was reported by Marcia Kramer of WCBS? With all due respect to that outlet, the story wasn't a big deal because everyone in the city was watching channel 2 that night. It became huge because the tabloids picked it up and ran with it, and then you reacted angrily instead of intelligently. You may not respect what reporters do or which stories they focus on. But don't think that means they don't matter.

In the end, you have plenty of time to turn this around. A different approach to these guys won't turn the toxic coverage into gold, but it will mitigate the hostility and make life more manageable. The key point to remember is that effective communication during campaigns is not the same as effective communication in government. Now that you're mayor, you can't bypass your devoted press corps. The days of riding to glory on a charming Dante ad are, sadly, over.

Christina Levin

Assistant Press Secretary

Office of New York City Mayor Bill de Blasio

o: 212-788-6826 | c: 347-963-6908

clevin@cityhall.nyc.gov

@christina_levin

From: Bill de Blasio [mailto: [REDACTED]]
Sent: Monday, March 03, 2014 11:36 AM
To: Levin, Christina
Subject: Fw: Everyone on your team should read this: Urgent memo to Bill de Blasio in Capital New York

Pls send content of this
Sent via BlackBerry by AT&T

From: SenatorLiz < [REDACTED] >
Date: Mon, 3 Mar 2014 07:14:32 -0500
To: Bill de Blasio < [REDACTED] >
Subject: Everyone on your team should read this: Urgent memo to Bill de Blasio in Capital New York

<http://www.capitalnewyork.com/article/city-hall/2014/03/8541148/urgent-memo-bill-de-blasio>

--

Liz Krueger

Forgive typos, my "smart device" fights me and often wins

From: Katz, Rebecca
To: sunshine@sunshinesachs.com; Emily Hawkins \(hawkins@sunshinesachs.com\); jfdc@akpdmedia.com; Ragone, Peter
Subject: We have a director!
Date: Tuesday, March 04, 2014 10:08:16 AM

Just met with Daniel Goldstein, who seems kind of fabulous.

<http://www.danielgoldsteindirector.com/about/>

He is ready to sign up and has friends who can help with costume and (low budget) set design.

Emily – How is it going on the producer front?

--

Rebecca Kirschner Katz
Office of the Mayor
(212) 788-3112
rkkatz@cityhall.nyc.gov
@RebeccaKKatz

From: Chao, Raymond
To: Santucci, Laura \(LSantucci@cityhall.nyc.gov\); Wolfe, Emma \(EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov\); John Del Cecato \(jfdc@akpdmedia.com\)
Cc: Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel \(GSchnakeMahl@cityhall.nyc.gov\); Shapiro, Leigh; Scola, Lindsay \(LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov\); Robert Munoz \(rmunoz@akpdmedia.com\); Sharp, Edie \(ESharp@cityhall.nyc.gov\); Coney, Javon \(JConey@cityhall.nyc.gov\); Hanley, Monica
Subject: Call with the Mayor at 3:45PM today
Date: Wednesday, March 05, 2014 11:32:00 AM

Hi all,

There will be a call with the Mayor today at 3:45PM.

Emma and Laura, would you please join the Mayor in his office at that time. Edie/Javon will dial John at that time on his cell (██████████).

Thank you,

Raymond Chao
Scheduling Coordinator
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: (212)-788-7565
Cell: (347)-607-8325
rchao@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Katz, Rebecca
To: ifdc@akpdmedia.com
Subject: FW: OVERVIEW AND SCRIPTS
Date: Wednesday, March 05, 2014 5:43:57 PM
Attachments: BDB_HONEYMOONERS_DRAFT_1.docx
BDBFREAKY_FRIDAY_TRAILER.doc
BDB_REAL_ITALIAN_HUSBANDS.pdf
BDB_GAME_SHOW.pdf
BDB_QUESTLOVE.docx
BDB_VIDEO_BUMPERS.docx

Did you have a chance to review this stuff? Any additional thoughts?

From: JON MACKS [mailto:████████████████████]
Sent: Tuesday, March 04, 2014 8:06 PM
To: Katz, Rebecca; ████████████████████; ████████████████████
Subject: OVERVIEW AND SCRIPTS

TO: Danny, Rebecca
FROM: Jon

Overview

Given the budget (not having Bloomberg's cast of thousands) the ideas we have been working on fit within a SNL/MAD TV style variety show, a series of short sketches. Some are ideas that came from Rebecca and the NYC group...others are what we worked on after signoff from NYC. These could fit within the concept that with all the tv shows coming to NY, the Mayor has his own tv network (BDB TV) or his own sketch show.

If this is the way to go then we would need to decide what the blackout is between sketches; one idea was short videos (copy attached). We are completely open to another thematic direction if need be.

Think we have some strong laughs below as a starting point, the key is your overview and if we want a different direction, we can talk tomorrow. Once we have that overview, we can knock out 80-90% of whatever copy is needed by Monday and then tweak , upgrade, etc .We also need one big visual for the Mayor. Ideas follow plus status report Note: We have similar jokes in different sketches (a couple pizza jokes) as some may not come to life based on talent; we can fix the jokes once we have the working script.

Jon

OPEN WITH A VIDEO OF HAPPY (if special material lyrics we need to write)

A SPECIAL MATERIAL SONG UP FRONT (not written)
We would have the Mayor "Robert Preston" talk it or perhaps sing a number about why we are so much cheaper than Bloomberg. Think to opening number Hugh J did at Oscars in 2009. This could also be done similar to the Billy Crystal choir on Leno's last night where the mayor "conducts" the stars to do a line or two in a song

OPENING MONOLOGUE (not written)

NUCKY JOHNSON JOB INTERVIEW (attached)

THE HONEYMOONERS (attached)

REAL ITALIAN HUSBANDS OF NYC (attached)

FREAKY FRIDAY (video script attached)

QUESTLOVE MUSIC THEMES FOR CITY CELEBS
(attached)

JEOPARDY GAME SHOW (attached)

VIDEO BUMPERS (attached)

CLOSING REMARKS (to come)

RANDOM IDEAS

--he serves pizza to audience like Ellen but with forks

--Mayor comes out in a giant snowsuit and parka

--as he gives a closing monologue it starts to snow, Roker comes on stage and ends it yelling "close the show"

--Rocky montage to show the Mayor in training for the event

--Like LaGuardia reading comic books to kids ,the Mayor reads a parable/fairy tale about Upper East Side or reporters

--do we want to address St. Pats controversies in a sketch

--critics review his clip in The Good Wife

--there was talk of making The Honeymooners a Modern Family parody but we don't think it works as well as Honeymooners

Once we talk and get a working order and needs we can finish up writing

On stage off and on but call anytime

THE QUESTIONS

WHAT TALENT DO WE HAVE

DO WE WANT OPENING AND CLOSING MONOLOGUES
DOES THE SKETCH BLACKOUT FORMAT WORK

BDB HONEYMOONERS

(Mayor, Chirlane-Alice, Cynthia Nixon-Trixie, Steve Buscemi-Norton)

(A SUGGESTION OF THE HONEYMOONERS KITCHEN - A KITCHEN TABLE WITH 2 CHAIRS, CENTER, PERHAPS A DOOR, UPSTAGE CENER. CYNTHIA ENTERS THRU THE DOOR, OR UP CENTER, HOLDING A SMALL PAPER BAG)

TRIXIE

Alice! Alice!

(WE HEAR ALICE'S VOICE – OFF STAGE RIGHT)

ALICE (O.S.)

Be out in a minute, Trix.

TRIXIE

I brought the onions I borrowed.

(CHIRLANE ENTERS AS ALICE)

ALICE

Thanks, Trixie. You're just in time. I'm about to put this in the oven.

TRIXIE

What are you having for your big anniversary dinner?

ALICE

Pizza. And you know Hizzonor. He likes to eat it with a knife and fork.

TRIXIE

And he calls himself Italian! You know, Alice, I was thinking back to the old days, before we were both married.

ALICE

Those were some fun times. Remember how, after poetry class, we used to "experiment."

TRIXIE

Yeah, just to see what it was like to "play for the other team" because it was so "forbidden."

ALICE

I can't believe we went to that Al D'Amato campaign rally. Now I know why our parents warned us about turning Republican.

TRIXIE

I can't imagine living a life like that. Well, listen, Ed will be home any minute and I haven't started his supper yet. You know how low energy he gets when he doesn't eat...

(STEVE, AS NORTON, MAKES A BIG ENTRANCE THRU THE DOOR. HE CARRIES A BEAT-UP CANDELABRA)

NORTON

Hellooo, ladies! What's for supper?

TRIXIE

I was just going upstairs to put it on. See ya later, Alice.

(SHE EXITS)

ALICE

Hiya, Ed. What do you have there?

NORTON

This? This is a genuine 17th Century silver candelabra, forged by Paul Revere.

ALICE

Paul Revere lived in the 18th Century.

NORTON

He was a man ahead of his time. It's my anniversary gift to you and the big man.

ALICE

That's awfully sweet, Ed. But we can't accept it. It's too valuable. Why don't you and Trixie keep it?

NORTON

We have one already.

ALICE

Where'd you get them?

(AS HE PUTS IT ON THE TABLE)

NORTON

In the sewer! Rinse it off and it'll be just like new. There's a lot of stuff down there – David Dinkins' old tax returns, Giuliani's little black book, and today, we chased a rat that was as big as...

(THE MAYOR ENTERS THRU THE DOOR IN RALPH KRAMDEN FASHION)

MAYOR DEBLASIO

I'm hungry. Where's my dinner?

ALICE

It'll be ready in as soon as you wash up.

Look what Ed brought us for our anniversary.

NORTON

Take a look at that, old boy! Genuine silver forged by none other than Paul Revere.

(HE PICKS UP CANDELABRA AND EXAMINES IT)

MAYOR DEBLASIO

This thing must be worth millions! Better put it away, or I'll have to pay tax on it. Where'd you get it?

NORTON

In the sewer!

MAYOR DEBLASIO

Will you get outta here, Norton!

(NORTON EXITS, RETURNS FOR A MOMENT TO TAKE BACK THE CANDELABRA, EXITS AGAIN)

ALICE

Norton was just trying to be nice. The least you could do is show him some gratitude.

MAYOR DEBLASIO

Gratitude. Gratitude? I've gotta show him gratitude? When is someone gonna show me some gratitude? I work my fingers to the bone for this city and what do I get? Weathermen are mocking me. The New York Post calls me "a Cuba-loving socialist." I'm the mayor, Alice. You get that? I'm the mayor. And you're all nothing. Get that? I'm the mayor and you're nothing.

ALICE

So what? You're the mayor of nothing. Now sit down and eat your pizza before you waste away to nothing.

MAYOR DEBLASIO

One of these days, Alice, bang-zoom! To the Upper East Side!

(THEY EMBRACE)

MAYOR DEBLASIO

Baby, you're the greatest!

(OUT)

()

FREAKY FRIDAY
 (Announcer VO, Mayor,
 Al Roker)

(NOTE: WE CAN USE EXISTING NEWS FOOTAGE
 WHEREVER POSSIBLE TO MINIMIZE THE NUMBER OF NEW SHOTS REQUIRED)

(AERIAL SHOTS OF NYC)

(SHOT OF CALENDAR PAGE – MONDAY)

ANNOUNCER VO
 In New York City, Mondays are manic...

(FOOTAGE OF MOTORCADE SPEEDED UP – WE HEAR THE MAYOR’S VOICE AS IF HE’S IN THE CAR – VOICEOVER, NO NEED TO TAPE IN THE CAR)

MAYOR (VO)
 Can’t you guys go any faster?

(SHOT OF CALENDAR PAGE – TUESDAY)

ANNOUNCER (VO)
 Tuesdays are terrible!

(TODAY SHOW SET)

AL ROKER
 My alarm clock didn’t go off...I overslept!

(SHOT OF CALENDAR PAGE – WEDNESDAY)

ANNOUNCER (VO)
 Wednesdays are wacky!

(NEWS REPORTERS WAITING – DISSOLVE –
 REPORTERS STILL WAITING “1 HOUR LATER” ON SCREEN – DISSOLVE “8 HOURS LATER” – MAYOR STEPS BEHIND PODIUM)

()

FREAKY FRIDAY
(Announcer VO, Mayor,
Al Roker)

MAYOR

My alarm clock didn't go off...I overslept!

(SHOT OF CALENDAR PAGE – THURSDAY)

ANNOUNCER (VO)

Thursdays are threatening.

(TODAY SHOW WEATHER SET)

AL ROKER

Get ready for a massive blizzard. Over the next 24 hours, we may get as much as a one one hundredth of an inch of snow dumped on us.

(SHOT OF CALENDAR PAGE – FRIDAY)

ANNOUNCER (VO)

But Fridays are when things get Freaky!

(HALLWAY AT TODAY SHOW - MAYOR AND AL BUMP INTO EACH OTHER – FLASH EFFECT)

AL ROKER

Sorry, I've got to go run the city...

MAYOR

I've got to do the weather...

(ZOOM INTO THEIR FACES – CLOSEUP)

()

FREAKY FRIDAY
(Announcer VO, Mayor,
Al Roker)

MAYOR AND AL
We've changed places! AAAAAGGHHH!

(GRAPHIC: FREAKY FRIDAY)

ANNOUNCER (VO)
It's "Freaky Friday!"

(AL BEHIND PODIUM – GREENSCREEN AND SHOOT AT TODAY SHOW – MATCH BACKGROUND TO BRIEFING ROOM)

AL ROKER
I have an important announcement to make – it's partly cloudy so I'm closing the schools. I have the school chancellor on red-alert and we're prepared to close the schools again tomorrow and for the rest of the week if we have to. In fact, just home school your kids til next year. It's weather Armageddon!

()

FREAKY FRIDAY
(Announcer VO, Mayor,
Al Roker)

(TODAY SHOW WEATHER SET)

MAYOR

I'm predicting equal weather for every neighborhood except on the Upper East Side. On 5th Avenue and 64th, there will be a high of 85, which is the percent of total city income these bastard 1 percenters make. There is a slight possibility of hail, which I hope ruins the paint on their Bentleys.

(SHOT OF NEW YORK)

ANNOUNCER VO

"Freaky Friday" – coming to New York, whether you like it, or not.

SCRIPT TITLE

Written by

Name of First Writer

Based on, If Any

Address
Phone Number

INT. KITCHEN

3 Italian guys, sitting around a table, dressed in boxer shorts, t shirts and chains. It would be great to have the governor in the mix but it can be actors. Theme is they are complaining about BDB while eating pizza.

TONY HUSBAND 1
He's changed.

JOEY HUSBAND 2
The minute he got elected he started putting on airs.

A slice drops to the floor, he picks it up and eats it.

MICHAEL HUSBAND #3
He used to be fun, hanging out, playing cards, complaining about the cops.

TONY HUSBAND 1
Yeah but when he complained about the cops it was different than the things we complain about with the cops.

MICHAEL HUSBAND #3
Either way they're hassling somebody named Dante.

JOEY HUSBAND 2
You know where it went wrong. When he started eating pizza with a fork like they do in the Upper East Side.

TONY HUSBAND 1
No, it went wrong when he took off the jewelry. Said it slowed him down going through metal detectors.

JOEY HUSBAND 2
We should have elected a real Italian like Lhota.

MICHAEL HUSBAND #3
I hear Lhota is only part Italian. He's Czech and a Catholic although under Jewish law they say he's Jewish.

JOEY HUSBAND 2

You know who else is Jewish?
Anthony Weiner.

MICHAEL HUSBAND #3

How do you know?

JOEY HUSBAND 2

I seen the pictures. He had one of those bar mitzvahs where they lop off part of the prosciutto. You get gifts so it's okay.

MICHAEL HUSBAND #3

They'd have to give me a lot more than a fountain pen to do that.

TONY HUSBAND 1

Look if Bill shows up and acts like the old Bill, we let him retain his membership in the Real Italian Husbands of New York. But if he starts talking those wacky ideas of his, he's out.

They toast each other.

Bill enters dressed like Paulie Walnuts, track suit, chains, carrying pizza.

MAYOR

Look who's got food.

TONY HUSBAND 1

It's the old Bill!

Bill grabs a slice of pizza and eats it with his hands.

JOEY HUSBAND 2

Look he ate it with his hands.
Just like old times with the Real Italian husbands of New York.

MAYOR

Not so fast. I have an announcement. We need diversity.

MICHAEL HUSBAND #3

I'm already not liking where this is going.

MAYOR

So I brought a friend who is a perfect addition to our group--plus he adds some diversity. Hey Mario!

MICHAEL HUSBAND #3

He got Cuomo?

JOEY HUSBAND 2

It don't matter. Your name is Mario and you're married, that's not diversity...you're okay in my book. I bet he's a real gavone.

Mario Cantone enters.

MARIO

Hello guys!

Grumbling.

JOEY HUSBAND 2

Whoa! The rule is you have to be a real Italian husband.

MARIO

I'm married. Jerry! Plus I bought food.

Mario's husband comes in eating pizza with his hands.

TONY HUSBAND 1

Hey, he's okay with me!

Lights dim, spotlight on Mayor speaking to audience as Mario and Jerry sit down and play cards.

MAYOR

Because that's what I'm all about. Diversity. Because I've learned that it doesn't matter who you love, as long as you eat pizza with your hands you're always welcome as a Real Italian Husband of New York.

NOTE: if we don't get Mario we can make it Aida Turturro and the Mayor is trying to diversify by adding women.

SCRIPT TITLE

Written by

Name of First Writer

Based on, If Any

Address
Phone Number

BDB GAME SHOW

Note--we can do as Jeopardy or can do as a new show BDB brought to New York "Are You Smarter than our new Mayor/How Much Do You Know about New York City". Let me know which concept grabs you and we can adjust but for now JEOPARDY works best. Simple set: podium for a "host type" and two contestants: The Mayor and Al Sharpton (or Questlove)

HOST

Welcome to tonight's episode of Jeopardy, New York Celebrity edition. Both our contestants tonight will be playing for their favorite charity. Now the game is simple, there are 6 categories to pick from, our goal is to test their general knowledge as well as specific knowledge about New York, All responses must be phrased in question form. Now let's meet our contestants. First up is the current Mayor of New York, please welcome Bill DeBlasio.

The Mayor enters.

HOST (CONT'D)

And now our second contestant, he's a Baptist minister, television/radio talk show host and one time Presidential candidate.

The Mayor hits his buzzer.

MAYOR

Who is Mike Huckabee?

HOST

The game hasn't begun yet.

MAYOR

Sorry, I was going a little too fast...again.

HOST

Please welcome the Reverend Al Sharpton. Reverend Sharpton, what charity are you playing for?

AL

I'm playing for an organization that has fallen on hard times.

(MORE)

AL (CONT'D)
The New York Knicks. They are my favorite team.

HOST
And Mayor, who are you playing for?

MAYOR
Also playing for my favorite team.
The Sandinistas.

HOST
Take a look at our board at the categories.

We see the categories on a board: the Media; Local Politics;
Sports; James Brown; SocialMedia and NYC History.

HOST (CONT'D)
Mr. Mayor you control the board.

MAYOR
I'll take Local Politics for $100
Alex.

With each "play: the board reveals the clue.

HOST
Stop and frisk.

Mayor buzzes.

MAYOR
What is a racially discriminatory policy?

HOST
Wrong.

Al buzzes in.

AL
What is a fun game Elliot Spitzer
plays with Lis Smith?

HOST
Correct, You control the board
Reverend.

AL
I'll take the Media for $100.

HOST
Rachel Maddow.

Al buzzes.

AL
Who runs MSNBC?

HOST
Incorrect.

Mayor buzzes.

MAYOR
Who is too conservative for me?

HOST
Correct. Mayor back to you.

MAYOR
The Media for $200.

HOST
The New York Post. Rupert Murdoch.
Fox News.

Mayor buzzes.

MAYOR
What is the axis of evil?

HOST
Correct.

MAYOR
The Media for $300.

HOST
The Grey Lady.

Mayor buzzes.

MAYOR
What is the wrong thing to call
Barbra Walters (we need a grande
dame of NYC)

NOTE--WE DO A FEW MORE, END ON FINAL JEOPARDY, MAYOR WINS,
GETS A CHECK AND GIVES TO A CHE GUEVERA LOOKALIKE

AGAIN--ANY OF THESE JOKES WHICH ARE TOO SENSITIVE WE CAN SWAP
OUT.

BDB QUESTLOVE

The Mayor is at his desk.

RECEPTIONIST (O.S)

Mayor, your son is here to see you,

MAYOR

Send him in.

Questlove enters.

MAYOR

Ms. Jackson, this isn't my son. It's my new Chief of City Music.

QUESTLOVE

No worries, happens all the time.

MAYOR

You said you had an idea to liven up the city. What is it?

QUESTLOVE

Walk ons.

MAYOR

Walk ons?

QUESTLOVE

Kind of like on the Tonight Show where everyone has a theme song. We give famous New Yorkers their own themesongs. Everytime someone walks into your office their special song plays.

MAYOR

Isn't that politically dangerous?

QUESTLOVE

Nah, it never ever ever backfires.

MAYOR

Like what would you do for Donald Trump?

Questlove hits his ipod and with each name we hear the song. We could punch it with a photo.

QUESTLOVE

This one. Hair (Give Me a Head with Hair).

MAYOR

ARod.

QUESTLOVE

Money for Nothing.

MAYOR

Alec Baldwin.

QUESTLOVE

Shout.

MAYOR

Bernie Madoff.

QUESTLOVE

Don't think he's gonna be walking anywhere soon.

But one of these. I Fought the Law and the Law

Won or Take the Money and Run

(WE COULD PLAY THIS OUT ONCE YOU GET US OTHER NAMES TO "TARGET", WE ADD REPORTERS)

MAYOR

This is great. Brilliant. Would I have my own song when I speak in public. You know, like Hail to the Chief.

QUESTLOVE

I was thinking more like this. Taxman.

Questlove leaves.

RECEPTIONIST

Your next appointment is here.

WE HAVE A SURPRISE CELEB ENTER AND A SONG
PLAYS AS THE ENDING

Example—Bloomberg--Short People: Mike Woodson 99
problems; Kathie Lee and Hoda—Bottle of Wine: Al Roker—
Let It Snow; School's Out.

BDB VIDEO BUMPERS

As bumpers and breaks in between sketches we can show man in street videos of celebs or real people commenting on the Mayor and his first 80 days
SAMPLES—IF WE LIKE MORE TO COME

HARRY BELAFONTE

What kind of New York do I want—let me tell you about it. I want a New York where everyone is treated equally except if you live on the Upper East Side

AVERAGE PERSON

He's the greatest mayor we've had since Bloomberg

KID

I love him because I can drink big sodas and not worry about getting arrested

JASON COLLINS

He's done a great job, I was unemployed before he became mayor.

Or

I want a mayor who sticks up for the little guy

MAYOR BLOOMBERG

Me too! Miss me?

MARTHA PLIMPTON

I want a New York where they close the George Washington Bridge 24 hours a day to incoming traffic from New Jersey

ALAN CUMMING (note—he could play an emcee for us on stage if free)

Very disappointed. If he believes in diversity where are all the Scottish appointments?

BIG PAPI

I want a New York where the Mayor can wear a Red Sox hat to Yankee stadium. Because this is his $$$@@ city

ORDINARY PERSON ON STREET

The best thing I say about him—he's tall...he's taller than Bloomberg

The mayor. Love him. You can really travel fast across town if you get behind his motorcade.

From: John Del Cecato
To: Katz, Rebecca
Subject: Re: OVERVIEW AND SCRIPTS
Date: Wednesday, March 05, 2014 5:47:31 PM

Have looked at it some but haven't had a chance to focus

On Mar 5, 2014, at 5:44 PM, "Katz, Rebecca" <RKKatz@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Did you have a chance to review this stuff? Any additional thoughts?

From: JON MACKS [<mailto:>]
Sent: Tuesday, March 04, 2014 8:06 PM
To: Katz, Rebecca; [REDACTED]
Subject: OVERVIEW AND SCRIPTS

TO: Danny, Rebecca
FROM: Jon

Overview

Given the budget (not having Bloomberg's cast of thousands) the ideas we have been working on fit within a SNL/MAD TV style variety show, a series of short sketches. Some are ideas that came from Rebecca and the NYC group...others are what we worked on after signoff from NYC. These could fit within the concept that with all the tv shows coming to NY, the Mayor has his own tv network (BDB TV) or his own sketch show.

If this is the way to go then we would need to decide what the blackout is between sketches; one idea was short videos (copy attached). We are completely open to another thematic direction if need be.

Think we have some strong laughs below as a starting point, the key is your overview and if we want a different direction, we can talk tomorrow. Once we have that overview, we can knock out 80-90% of whatever copy is needed by Monday and then tweak , upgrade, etc .We also need one big visual for the Mayor. Ideas follow plus status report Note: We have similar jokes in different sketches (a couple pizza jokes) as some may not come to life based on talent; we can fix the jokes once we have the working script.

Jon

OPEN WITH A VIDEO OF HAPPY (if special material lyrics we need to write)

A SPECIAL MATERIAL SONG UP FRONT (not written)

We would have the Mayor "Robert Preston" talk it or perhaps sing a number about why we are so much cheaper than Bloomberg. Think to opening number Hugh J did at Oscars in 2009. This could also be done similar to the Billy Crystal choir on Leno's last night where the mayor "conducts" the stars to do a line or two in a song

OPENING MONOLOGUE (not written)

NUCKY JOHNSON JOB INTERVIEW (attached)

THE HONEYMOONERS (attached)

REAL ITALIAN HUSBANDS OF NYC (attached)

FREAKY FRIDAY (video script attached)

QUESTLOVE MUSIC THEMES FOR CITY CELEBS
(attached)

JEOPARDY GAME SHOW (attached)

VIDEO BUMPERS (attached)

CLOSING REMARKS (to come)

RANDOM IDEAS

--he serves pizza to audience like Ellen but with forks

--Mayor comes out in a giant snowsuit and parka

--as he gives a closing monologue it starts to snow, Roker comes on stage and ends it yelling "close the show"

--Rocky montage to show the Mayor in training for the event

--Like LaGuardia reading comic books to kids, the Mayor reads a parable/fairy tale about Upper East Side or reporters

--do we want to address St. Pats controversies in a sketch

--critics review his clip in The Good Wife

--there was talk of making The Honeymooners a Modern Family parody but we don't think it works as well as Honeymooners

Once we talk and get a working order and needs we can finish up writing

On stage off and on but call anytime

THE QUESTIONS

WHAT TALENT DO WE HAVE

DO WE WANT OPENING AND CLOSING

MONOLOGUES

DOES THE SKETCH BLACKOUT FORMAT WORK

<BDB_HONEYMOONERS_DRAFT_1.docx>

<BDBFREAKY_FRIDAY_TRAILER.doc>

<BDB_REAL_ITALIAN_HUSBANDS.pdf>

<BDB_GAME_SHOW.pdf>

<BDB_QUESTIONLOVE.docx>

<BDB_VIDEO_BUMPERS.docx>

From: Ragone, Peter
To: Katz, Rebecca; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; "sunshine@sunshinesachs.com"; Singleton, Jessica
Subject: Re: Questlove
Date: Thursday, March 06, 2014 4:10:53 PM

How about for the last one, honesty is such a lonely word?

From: Katz, Rebecca
Sent: Thursday, March 06, 2014 03:54 PM
To: jfdc@akpdmedia.com <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; sunshine@sunshinesachs.com <sunshine@sunshinesachs.com>; Singleton, Jessica; Ragone, Peter
Subject: Questlove

Good news. Questlove has agreed to a pre-tape (he has a show the night of the Inner Circle). I was talking to the team about some sort of acknowledgement to the press corps about the challenges these past few weeks. Here's Jon Macks's take. I don't like the Ebony & Ivory or bouquet bit, but I do think this is going in the right direction.

Thoughts on things we could swap in?

BDB QUESTLOVE

BDB on stage

MAYOR

Every tv show needs a themesong. So I asked some friends over at the Tonight Show to help and see what they could come up with.

PRETAPE

Questlove on stage talking to the Roots. When they play a song its just a short identifiable section.

QUESTLOVE

Some big news, we've been asked to come up with a themesong for the Mayor's TV show DiBlasio Tonight.

BAND MEMBER 1

What does he have in mind?

QUESTLOVE

Something that lets people know who he is.

BAND MEMBER 2

How about this?

Band plays TAXMAN

QUESTLOVE

Too on the nose.

BAND MEMBER 2

Life in the Fast Lane?

QUESTLOVE

His motorcade has slowed down. For now.

BAND MEMBER 1

I've got it. A song that sums up his school closing policy.

Band plays LET IT SNOW

QUESTLOVE

But he only wants to close charter schools.

BAND MEMBER 3

He's a romantic. How about a song about he and Chirlane's first date?

Band plays LET'S GET IT ON

QUESTLOVE

Again too on the nose. How about this?

Band plays EBONY AND IVORY

QUESTLOVE

Wait I got it, we need a song not about him and not about his show, we need a song about how he feels about the press?

BAND MEMBER 1

So Long, Farewell? Sounds of Silence.

QUESTLOVE

Try this from Elton.

SORRY SEEMS TO BE THE HARDEST WORD

TAPE ENDS

Mayor on stage delivers a bouquet of flowers to oldest female member of press corp,

--

Rebecca Kirschner Katz
Office of the Mayor
(212) 788-3112
rkatz@cityhall.nyc.gov
@RebeccaKKatz

From: Coney, Javon
To: Santucci, Laura; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Scola, Lindsay; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic
Cc: Wolfe, Emma; Ragone, Peter; "jonathan@berlinrosen.com"; Shapiro, Leigh; Grybauskas, Stefan; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Seignious, Sandy; "rmunoz@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Re: Call with BdB at 8:45pm
Date: Thursday, March 06, 2014 8:46:43 PM

Mayor is dialing in now

----- Original Message -----

From: Coney, Javon
Sent: Thursday, March 06, 2014 07:46 PM
To: Santucci, Laura; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Scola, Lindsay; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic
Cc: Wolfe, Emma; Ragone, Peter; 'jonathan@berlinrosen.com' <jonathan@berlinrosen.com>; Shapiro, Leigh; Grybauskas, Stefan; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Seignious, Sandy; 'rmunoz@akpdmedia.com' <rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Call with BdB at 8:45pm

All dial in now

----- Original Message -----

From: Santucci, Laura
Sent: Thursday, March 06, 2014 06:49 PM
To: 'John Del Cecato' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Scola, Lindsay; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic
Cc: Wolfe, Emma; Ragone, Peter; jonathan@berlinrosen.com <jonathan@berlinrosen.com>; Coney, Javon; Shapiro, Leigh; Grybauskas, Stefan; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Seignious, Sandy; Robert Munoz <rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: Call with BdB at 8:45pm

+ Tony & Dom

-----Original Message-----

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Thursday, March 06, 2014 7:47 PM
To: Scola, Lindsay
Cc: Wolfe, Emma; Ragone, Peter; Santucci, Laura; jonathan@berlinrosen.com; Coney, Javon; Shapiro, Leigh; Grybauskas, Stefan; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Seignious, Sandy; Robert Munoz
Subject: Re: Call with BdB at 8:45pm

+Rob

> On Mar 6, 2014, at 7:45 PM, "Scola, Lindsay" <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>
> All-
>
> We are doing a call with BdB at 8:45pm. Javon will let you know when BdB is hopping on.
>
>
>
> Thanks,
> Lindsay

From: John Del Cecato
To: Chao, Raymond; Robert Munoz
Subject: Re: Dinner tonight with Mayor
Date: Friday, March 07, 2014 4:49:33 PM

Sounds good - thanks much

From: <Chao>, Raymond <rchao@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Friday, March 7, 2014 at 4:19 PM
To: Robert Munoz <rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Dinner tonight with Mayor

Hi John,

Mayor and First Lady will be coming to dinner with you. (Dante is a maybe.)

Location:

Lot 2
687 6th Avenue, Brooklyn

Time for now is 7:45-8PM, will let you know as his schedule plays out.

Thanks,

Raymond Chao
Scheduling Coordinator
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: (212)-788-7565
Cell: (347)-607-8325
rchao@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Singleton, Jessica
To: Katz, Rebecca; sunshine@sunshinesachs.com; Ragone, Peter; jfdc@akpdmedia.com
Subject: RE: Final sketch for questlove
Date: Friday, March 07, 2014 7:02:13 PM

I really like this.

Would the Park Slope Let It Go Couple do a cameo? #EGOT

From: Katz, Rebecca
Sent: Friday, March 07, 2014 11:20 AM
To: sunshine@sunshinesachs.com; Ragone, Peter; Singleton, Jessica; jfdc@akpdmedia.com
Subject: Final sketch for questlove

Planning on sending updated version in next hour. Think this is pretty funny. Please take a look.

BDB QUESTLOVE

BDB on stage

MAYOR

Every TV show needs a theme song. So I asked some friends over at the Tonight Show to help and see what they could come up with.

PRETAPE

Questlove on stage talking to the Roots. When they play a song it's just a short identifiable section.

QUESTLOVE

Some big news, we've been asked to come up with a theme song for the Mayor's TV show de Blasio Tonight.

BAND MEMBER 1

What does he have in mind?

QUESTLOVE

Something that lets people know who he is.

BAND MEMBER 2

How about this?

Band plays TAXMAN

QUESTLOVE

Too on the nose.

BAND MEMBER 2

Life in the Fast Lane?

QUESTLOVE

His motorcade has slowed down. For now.

BAND MEMBER 1

I've got it. A song that sums up his school closing policy.

Band plays LET IT SNOW

QUESTLOVE

Nah, Dante's tired of shoveling snow.

BAND MEMBER 3

He's a romantic. How about a song about he and Chirlane's first date?

Band plays LET'S GET IT ON

QUESTLOVE

Again too on the nose.

QUESTLOVE

Wait I got it, we need a song not about him and not about his show, we need a song about how he feels about the press?

BAND MEMBER 1

So Long, Farewell? Sounds of Silence.

BAND MEMBER 2

Try this from Elton.

SORRY SEEMS TO BE THE HARDEST WORD

QUESTLOVE

HMMM. We could always go with I Want You to Want Me. Or this.

WHY CAN'T WE BE FRIENDS

BAND MEMBER 1

What if there is still tension.

QUESTLOVE

Then he needs to use the song by the great Adele
Dazeem

LET IT GO

--

Rebecca Kirschner Katz

Office of the Mayor

(212) 788-3112

rkkatz@cityhall.nyc.gov

@RebeccaKKatz

From: Scola, Lindsay
To: Chao, Raymond; McCray, Chirlane; Wolfe, Emma; Williams, Dominic; Noerdlinger, Rachel; Katz, Rebecca; Santucci, Laura; Wiley, Maya; Ragone, Peter; Shorris, Anthony; "jonathan@berlinrosen.com"; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Cc: Ko, Eunice; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Shapiro, Leigh; Reisman, Lisette; Seignious, Sandy; Griffith, Chantell; "rmunoz@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Re: Planning Meeting - Sunday, March 7 @ 12:30PM
Date: Saturday, March 08, 2014 4:11:20 PM

Please let us know if you cannot be there in person. We will have a dial in number. But in person will be a preference.

Thanks,
Lindsay

From: Chao, Raymond
Sent: Saturday, March 08, 2014 04:09 PM
To: McCray, Chirlane; Wolfe, Emma; Williams, Dominic; Noerdlinger, Rachel; Katz, Rebecca; Santucci, Laura; Wiley, Maya; Ragone, Peter; Shorris, Anthony; jonathan@berlinrosen.com <jonathan@berlinrosen.com>; John Del Cecato (jfdc@akpdmedia.com) <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Scola, Lindsay
Cc: Ko, Eunice; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Shapiro, Leigh; Reisman, Lisette; Seignious, Sandy; Griffith, Chantell; Robert Munoz (rmunoz@akpdmedia.com) <rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: Planning Meeting - Sunday, March 7 @ 12:30PM

Including Lindsay.

Raymond Chao
Scheduling Coordinator
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: (212)-788-7565
Cell: (347)-607-8325
rchao@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Chao, Raymond
Sent: Saturday, March 08, 2014 4:09 PM
To: McCray, Chirlane; Wolfe, Emma; Williams, Dominic; Noerdlinger, Rachel; Katz, Rebecca; Santucci, Laura; Wiley, Maya; Ragone, Peter; Shorris, Anthony; 'jonathan@berlinrosen.com'; 'John Del Cecato (jfdc@akpdmedia.com)'
Cc: Ko, Eunice; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Shapiro, Leigh; Reisman, Lisette; Seignious, Sandy; Griffith, Chantell; 'Robert Munoz (rmunoz@akpdmedia.com)'
Subject: RE: Planning Meeting - Sunday, March 7 @ 12:30PM

All,

There has been a change in plans.

Time: 12:30PM

Location:

Sunshine Sachs
136 Madison Avenue
17th Floor

We will make arrangements for lunch.

The calendar invite will be updated and stand by for any further updates.

Thank you,

Raymond Chao
Scheduling Coordinator
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: (212)-788-7565
Cell: (347)-607-8325
rchao@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Chao, Raymond
Sent: Friday, March 07, 2014 7:36 PM
To: McCray, Chirlane; Wolfe, Emma; Williams, Dominic; Noerdlinger, Rachel; Katz, Rebecca; Santucci, Laura; Wiley, Maya; Ragone, Peter; Shorris, Anthony; jonathan@berlinrosen.com; John Del Cecato (jfdc@akpdmedia.com)
Cc: Ko, Eunice; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Shapiro, Leigh; Reisman, Lisette; Seignious, Sandy; Griffith, Chantell; Robert Munoz (rmunoz@akpdmedia.com)
Subject: Planning Meeting - Sunday, March 7 @ 1:45PM

Hi all,

There will be a Planning Meeting, Sunday March 9 @ 1:45PM in the Mayor's Office.

The call in info is:

Dial-in Number: [REDACTED] Code: [REDACTED]

Thank you,

Raymond Chao
Scheduling Coordinator
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: (212)-788-7565
Cell: (347)-607-8325
rchao@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Scola, Lindsay
To: Chao, Raymond; McCray, Chirlane; Wolfe, Emma; Williams, Dominic; Noerdlinger, Rachel; Katz, Rebecca; Santucci, Laura; Wiley, Maya; Ragone, Peter; Shorris, Anthony; jonathan@berlinrosen.com; John Del Cecato \(jfdc@akpdmedia.com\); Fuleihan, Dean \(OMB\)
Cc: Ko, Eunice; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Shapiro, Leigh; Reisman, Lissette; Seignious, Sandy; Griffith, Chantell; Robert Munoz \(rmunoz@akpdmedia.com\); Hanley, Monica; Coney, Javon
Subject: RE: Planning Meeting - Sunday, March 7 @ 12:30PM
Date: Saturday, March 08, 2014 11:21:29 PM

All-

We will be bringing in lunch from Cosi, sandwiches, drinks and chips.

Please bring $15 to Ray Chao.

Thanks,
Lindsay

Lindsay Scola
Director of Scheduling
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212.788.2962
Cell: 917.513.1690

From: Chao, Raymond
Sent: Saturday, March 08, 2014 4:10 PM
To: McCray, Chirlane; Wolfe, Emma; Williams, Dominic; Noerdlinger, Rachel; Katz, Rebecca; Santucci, Laura; Wiley, Maya; Ragone, Peter; Shorris, Anthony; jonathan@berlinrosen.com; John Del Cecato \(jfdc@akpdmedia.com\); Scola, Lindsay
Cc: Ko, Eunice; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Shapiro, Leigh; Reisman, Lissette; Seignious, Sandy; Griffith, Chantell; Robert Munoz \(rmunoz@akpdmedia.com\)
Subject: RE: Planning Meeting - Sunday, March 7 @ 12:30PM

Including Lindsay.

Raymond Chao
Scheduling Coordinator
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: (212)-788-7565
Cell: (347)-607-8325
rchao@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Chao, Raymond
Sent: Saturday, March 08, 2014 4:09 PM
To: McCray, Chirlane; Wolfe, Emma; Williams, Dominic; Noerdlinger, Rachel; Katz, Rebecca; Santucci, Laura; Wiley, Maya; Ragone, Peter; Shorris, Anthony; 'jonathan@berlinrosen.com'; ['John Del Cecato \(jfdc@akpdmedia.com\)'](mailto:John Del Cecato (jfdc@akpdmedia.com))
Cc: Ko, Eunice; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Shapiro, Leigh; Reisman, Lissette; Seignious, Sandy; Griffith,

Chantell; 'Robert Munoz (rmunoz@akpdmedia.com)'
Subject: RE: Planning Meeting - Sunday, March 7 @ 12:30PM

All,

There has been a change in plans.

Time: 12:30PM

Location:

Sunshine Sachs
136 Madison Avenue
17th Floor

We will make arrangements for lunch.

The calendar invite will be updated and stand by for any further updates.

Thank you,

Raymond Chao
Scheduling Coordinator
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: (212)-788-7565
Cell: (347)-607-8325
rchao@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Chao, Raymond
Sent: Friday, March 07, 2014 7:36 PM
To: McCray, Chirlane; Wolfe, Emma; Williams, Dominic; Noerdlinger, Rachel; Katz, Rebecca; Santucci, Laura; Wiley, Maya; Ragone, Peter; Shorris, Anthony; jonathan@berlinrosen.com; John Del Cecato (jfdc@akpdmedia.com)
Cc: Ko, Eunice; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Shapiro, Leigh; Reisman, Lisette; Seignious, Sandy; Griffith, Chantell; Robert Munoz (rmunoz@akpdmedia.com)
Subject: Planning Meeting - Sunday, March 7 @ 1:45PM

Hi all,

There will be a Planning Meeting, Sunday March 9 @ 1:45PM in the Mayor's Office.

The call in info is:

Dial-in Number: (██████████) Code: ██████████

Thank you,

Raymond Chao
Scheduling Coordinator
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: (212)-788-7565
Cell: (347)-607-8325
rchao@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Chao, Raymond
To: Scola, Lindsay; McCray, Chirlane; Wolfe, Emma; Williams, Dominic; Noerdlinger, Rachel; Katz, Rebecca; Santucci, Laura; Wiley, Maya; Ragone, Peter; Shorris, Anthony; "jonathan@berlinrosen.com"; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Cc: Ko, Eunice; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Shapiro, Leigh; Reisman, Lisette; Seignious, Sandy; Griffith, Chantell; "rmunoz@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Re: Planning Meeting - Sunday, March 7 @ 12:30PM
Date: Sunday, March 09, 2014 12:42:48 PM

Missing maya, dean.

Dean said he would be a bit late.

Maya do you have an ETA to sunshine sachs?

Sent from mobile device, pardon any errors.

Raymond Chao
Scheduling Coordinator
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: (212)-788-7565
Cell: (347)-607-8325
rchao@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Scola, Lindsay
Sent: Saturday, March 08, 2014 04:14 PM
To: Chao, Raymond; McCray, Chirlane; Wolfe, Emma; Williams, Dominic; Noerdlinger, Rachel; Katz, Rebecca; Santucci, Laura; Wiley, Maya; Ragone, Peter; Shorris, Anthony; 'jonathan@berlinrosen.com' <jonathan@berlinrosen.com>; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: Ko, Eunice; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Shapiro, Leigh; Reisman, Lisette; Seignious, Sandy; Griffith, Chantell; 'rmunoz@akpdmedia.com' <rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Planning Meeting - Sunday, March 7 @ 12:30PM

I also want to make clear that the Mayor would like this to be 3 to 4 hours. We apologize for the short notice and please let us know if you can't make this.

From: Chao, Raymond
Sent: Saturday, March 08, 2014 04:09 PM
To: McCray, Chirlane; Wolfe, Emma; Williams, Dominic; Noerdlinger, Rachel; Katz, Rebecca; Santucci, Laura; Wiley, Maya; Ragone, Peter; Shorris, Anthony; jonathan@berlinrosen.com <jonathan@berlinrosen.com>; John Del Cecato (jfdc@akpdmedia.com) <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Scola, Lindsay
Cc: Ko, Eunice; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Shapiro, Leigh; Reisman, Lisette; Seignious, Sandy; Griffith, Chantell; Robert Munoz (rmunoz@akpdmedia.com) <rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: Planning Meeting - Sunday, March 7 @ 12:30PM

Including Lindsay.

Raymond Chao
Scheduling Coordinator

Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: (212)-788-7565
Cell: (347)-607-8325
rchao@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Chao, Raymond
Sent: Saturday, March 08, 2014 4:09 PM
To: McCray, Chirlane; Wolfe, Emma; Williams, Dominic; Noerdlinger, Rachel; Katz, Rebecca; Santucci, Laura; Wiley, Maya; Ragone, Peter; Shorris, Anthony; 'jonathan@berlinrosen.com'; 'John Del Cecato (jfdc@akpdmedia.com)'
Cc: Ko, Eunice; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Shapiro, Leigh; Reisman, Lisette; Seignious, Sandy; Griffith, Chantell; 'Robert Munoz (rmunoz@akpdmedia.com)'
Subject: RE: Planning Meeting - Sunday, March 7 @ 12:30PM

All,

There has been a change in plans.

Time: 12:30PM

Location:

Sunshine Sachs
136 Madison Avenue
17th Floor

We will make arrangements for lunch.

The calendar invite will be updated and stand by for any further updates.

Thank you,

Raymond Chao
Scheduling Coordinator
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: (212)-788-7565
Cell: (347)-607-8325
rchao@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Chao, Raymond
Sent: Friday, March 07, 2014 7:36 PM
To: McCray, Chirlane; Wolfe, Emma; Williams, Dominic; Noerdlinger, Rachel; Katz, Rebecca; Santucci, Laura; Wiley, Maya; Ragone, Peter; Shorris, Anthony; jonathan@berlinrosen.com; John Del Cecato (jfdc@akpdmedia.com)
Cc: Ko, Eunice; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Shapiro, Leigh; Reisman, Lisette; Seignious, Sandy; Griffith,

Chantell; Robert Munoz (rmunoz@akpdmedia.com)
Subject: Planning Meeting - Sunday, March 7 @ 1:45PM

Hi all,

There will be a Planning Meeting, Sunday March 9 @ 1:45PM in the Mayor's Office.

The call in info is:

Dial-in Number: (██████████) Code: ██████████

Thank you,

Raymond Chao
Scheduling Coordinator
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: (212)-788-7565
Cell: (347)-607-8325
rchao@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Coney, Javon
To: Wolfe, Emma; Williams, Dominic; Santucci, Laura; Katz, Rebecca; Wiley, Maya; Noerdlinger, Rachel; Shorris, Anthony; Ragone, Peter; Fuleihan, Dean \(OMB\); "Jonathan@berlinrosen.com"; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Planning Meeting: Please Dial In Now
Date: Sunday, March 09, 2014 12:50:10 PM

If you are not at Sunshine.

██████████

Access Code: ██████████

From: John Del Cecato
To: Scola, Lindsay; [REDACTED] Jonathan@berlinrosen.com; Ragone, Peter; Santucci, Laura; Wolfe, Emma; "Anna Greenberg"
Cc: Chao, Raymond; Robert Munoz
Subject: Re: Poll Presentation - Tomorrow, March 11th with Mayor de Blasio
Date: Monday, March 10, 2014 12:51:33 PM

I'm going to be on a plane from 8:30am-11:15am ET, but I can catch up with Anna later

From: <Scola>, Lindsay <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Monday, March 10, 2014 at 12:30 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, "[REDACTED]" <[REDACTED]>, Jonathan Rosen <jonathan@berlinrosen.com>, Peter Ragone <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Santucci, Laura" <LSantucci@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Wolfe, Emma" <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Anna Greenberg <agreenberg@gqrr.com>
Cc: "Chao, Raymond" <rchao@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Poll Presentation - Tomorrow, March 11th with Mayor de Blasio

All-

Anna Greenberg will present results from this weekend's survey with the Mayor tomorrow morning, Tuesday, March 11th at 10:00am in the Committee of the Whole room at City Hall.

Ideally, you will be able to join in person. But if you need to join via phone, a call in number will be provided.

Please RSVP to Ray Chao rchao@cityhall.nyc.gov, he will follow up with arrival instructions for those attending from outside the building.

Please let me know if you have questions.

Best,
Lindsay

Lindsay Scola
Director of Scheduling
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212.788.2962
Cell: 917.513.1690

From: Chao, Raymond
To: jon; [REDACTED]; Jonathan@berlinrosen.com; Ragone, Peter; Santucci, Laura; Wolfe, Emma; "Anna Greenberg"; bhyers@hilltoppublicsolutions.com
Cc: RMilford@gqrr.com
Subject: Note: Location change for Poll Presentation
Date: Monday, March 10, 2014 6:04:00 PM

Hi all,

The location of the 10AM Poll Presentation meeting tomorrow has changed location.

It will now be at:

BerlinRosen
15 Maiden Ln #1600

The calendar invite was adjusted accordingly.

Thank you,

Raymond Chao
Scheduling Coordinator
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: (212)-788-7565
Cell: (347)-607-8325
rchao@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Katz, Rebecca
To: "Robert Munoz"
Subject: RE: In need of Del Cecato time
Date: Tuesday, March 11, 2014 3:42:46 PM

Friday works.

From: Robert Munoz [<mailto:rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, March 11, 2014 3:00 PM
To: Katz, Rebecca
Subject: RE: In need of Del Cecato time

So John is in Chicago right now and I thought he'd be back by Thursday, but he's telling me there's a chance he will not be back. Can we resched to Friday, or would you rather keep the Thursday 3PM time and wait until we get more information?

From: Robert Munoz
Sent: Tuesday, March 11, 2014 11:07 AM
To: 'Katz, Rebecca'
Cc: John Del Cecato
Subject: RE: In need of Del Cecato time

Yep, City Hall will work.

From: Katz, Rebecca [<mailto:RKKatz@cityhall.nyc.gov>]
Sent: Tuesday, March 11, 2014 11:05 AM
To: Robert Munoz
Cc: John Del Cecato
Subject: RE: In need of Del Cecato time

I will take it! In person somewhere? Possible to come to City Hall?

From: Robert Munoz [<mailto:rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, March 11, 2014 11:03 AM
To: Katz, Rebecca
Cc: John Del Cecato
Subject: RE: In need of Del Cecato time

Hey Rebecca,

How does Thursday at 3PM sound?

From: Katz, Rebecca [<mailto:RKKatz@cityhall.nyc.gov>]
Sent: Tuesday, March 11, 2014 11:00 AM
To: Robert Munoz
Cc: John Del Cecato
Subject: In need of Del Cecato time

Rob – Need an hour this week, perhaps even in person.

Let me know.

Thanks,

RKK

--

Rebecca Kirschner Katz

Office of the Mayor

(212) 788-3112

rkatz@cityhall.nyc.gov

@RebeccaKKatz

From: Grybauskas, Stefan
To: Fuleihan, Dean \(OMB\); "jonathan@berlinrosen.com"; "jon \(ifdc@akpdmedia.com\)"; Williams, Dominic; Santucci, Laura; Katz, Rebecca; Ragone, Peter; Shorris, Anthony; Wolfe, Emma; Wiley, Maya; Noerdlinger, Rachel; "Robert Munoz \(rmunoz@akpdmedia.com\)"; Seignious, Sandy; Griffith, Chantell; Shapiro, Leigh; Chao, Raymond; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Ko, Eunice; Nordstrom, Mandy \(OMB\); Scola, Lindsay
Subject: Planning Meeting - Sunday 12:30pm
Date: Friday, March 14, 2014 11:25:27 AM

Hello,

There will be a Planning Meeting on Sunday March 16th at 12:30pm in the Committee of the Whole in City Hall. Please RSVP to the calendar invite sent around shortly.

Dial in: (██████████) Access Code: ██████████

Thanks,

Stefan Grybauskas
Deputy Director of Scheduling
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212-788-3180
Cell: 347-515-5874

From: Katz, Rebecca
To: "JON MACKS"; [REDACTED]
Cc: jfdc@akpdmedia.com; Parikh, Ishanee
Subject: RE: Opposities Attact
Date: Friday, March 14, 2014 3:02:30 PM

They can't sing. Am intrigued by cutting them into video. Maybe a really, really cheap version of it?

Adding Ishanee, from our team, who has a good sense of video.

From: JON MACKS [mailto:[REDACTED]]
Sent: Friday, March 14, 2014 2:57 PM
To: Katz, Rebecca; [REDACTED]
Cc: jfdc@akpdmedia.com
Subject: Re: Opposities Attact

John

Greetings--it's Jon Macks (again!)

If they like we can do a couple ways--

- 1, Cut them into original tape with new lyrics
2. a version on stage, they would have to "Rex Harrison talk to pitch" assuming they can't sing

Let me know, this would be fun

Jon

-----Original Message-----

From: Katz, Rebecca <RKKatz@cityhall.nyc.gov>

To: Jon Macks ([REDACTED] <[REDACTED]>)

Cc: jfdc@akpdmedia.com

Sent: Fri, Mar 14, 2014 11:50 am

Subject: Opposities Attact

If we could get the Mayor and First Lady to sign off, what about Paula Abdul's Opposites Attract?

Cc'ing Del Cecato, who thought of this.

--

Rebecca Kirschner Katz
Office of the Mayor
(212) 788-3112
rkkatz@cityhall.nyc.gov
@RebeccaKKatz

From: Daniel Goldstein
To: JON MACKS
Cc: John Del Cecato; Katz, Rebecca
Subject: Re: Opposites Attract
Date: Friday, March 14, 2014 3:35:09 PM

I love the idea -just not sure what it is yet - if they're not singing it.

On Mar 14, 2014, at 3:31 PM, JON MACKS <[REDACTED]> wrote:

let me know if we're a go or want a draft and the key is, live or video

-----Original Message-----

From: Daniel Goldstein <[REDACTED]>
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: Rebecca Katz <RKKatz@cityhall.nyc.gov>; JON MACKS <[REDACTED]>
Sent: Fri, Mar 14, 2014 12:17 pm
Subject: Re: Opposities Attract

Love the idea - we don't really have a chorus. It would be a whole new set of people. Though I could try to find a person to sing it with them. But time runs short to get the band to learn music - though I must say they're being incredibly accommodating.

On Mar 14, 2014, at 3:02 PM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

Chorus could sing it. They could just mug for the spotlight while we sang about her being black; he's white. She's tiny and he's a giant. We could make up some stuff (messy and neat) too. Chirlane would introduce it by saying people know they met in 1991 but they might not know that the song they played at their wedding. It was from the great Paula Abdul. (Chorus groans.). Chirlane: "Hey - it was the 90s!!"

On Mar 14, 2014, at 2:50 PM, "Katz, Rebecca" <RKKatz@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

If we could get the Mayor and First Lady to sign off, what about Paula Abdul's Opposites Attract?

Cc'ing Del Cecato, who thought of this.

--

Rebecca Kirschner Katz
Office of the Mayor
(212) 788-3112
rkkatz@cityhall.nyc.gov
@RebeccaKKatz

From: Daniel Goldstein
To: Katz, Rebecca
Cc: JON MACKS; jfdc@akpdmedia.com
Subject: Re: Opposities Attact
Date: Friday, March 14, 2014 6:16:24 PM

Hi guys. I think, honestly it's too late to get new people to learn a whole song and do an arrangement of the song. I'm not sure how to make that happen, given the circumstances of the show. We just don't have the infrastructure to make that happen. I can see a video with the original song or something? It's really tricky to pull this off. But I'm happy to talk about it more.

On Mar 14, 2014, at 4:17 PM, Katz, Rebecca <RKKatz@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

I do.

From: JON MACKS [<mailto:>]
Sent: Friday, March 14, 2014 4:17 PM
To: jfdc@akpdmedia.com; Katz, Rebecca; [REDACTED]
Subject: Re: Opposities Attact

funny! If you like template and we can stage it I can give some alt lines

-----Original Message-----

From: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
To: Katz, Rebecca <RKKatz@cityhall.nyc.gov>; 'JON MACKS' <[REDACTED]>; dannyng <[REDACTED]>
Sent: Fri, Mar 14, 2014 1:14 pm
Subject: Re: Opposities Attact

Just did something quick and dirty - maybe it's lame... I figured two verses of the song would be enough... See attached...

Here's the original:

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=xweiQukBM_k

From: <Katz>, Rebecca Katz <RKKatz@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Friday, March 14, 2014 at 3:47 PM
To: 'JON MACKS' <[REDACTED]>, "[REDACTED]" <[REDACTED]>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: Opposities Attact

Could we work on a draft of the lyrics?

From: JON MACKS [<mailto:>]
Sent: Friday, March 14, 2014 3:32 PM

To: [REDACTED] jfdc@akpdmedia.com
Cc: Katz, Rebecca
Subject: Re: Opposities Attact

let me know if we're a go or want a draft and the key is, live or video

-----Original Message-----

From: Daniel Goldstein <[REDACTED]>
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: Rebecca Katz <RKKatz@cityhall.nyc.gov>; JON MACKS <[REDACTED]>
Sent: Fri, Mar 14, 2014 12:17 pm
Subject: Re: Opposities Attact

Love the idea - we don't really have a chorus. It would be a whole new set of people. Though I could try to find a person to sing it with them. But time runs short to get the band to learn music - though I must say they're being incredibly accommodating.

On Mar 14, 2014, at 3:02 PM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

Chorus could sing it. They could just mug for the spotlight while we sang about her being black; he's white. She's tiny and he's a giant. We could make up some stuff (messy and neat) too. Chirlane would introduce it by saying people know they met in 1991 but they might not know that the song they played at their wedding. It was from the great Paula Abdul. (Chorus groans.). Chirlane: "Hey - it was the 90s!!"

On Mar 14, 2014, at 2:50 PM, "Katz, Rebecca" <RKKatz@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

If we could get the Mayor and First Lady to sign off, what about Paula Abdul's Opposites Attract?

Cc'ing Del Cecato, who thought of this.

--

Rebecca Kirszner Katz
Office of the Mayor
(212) 788-3112
rkkatz@cityhall.nyc.gov
@RebeccaKKatz

From: John Del Cecato
To: Scola, Lindsay
Subject: Re: Planning Meeting - Sunday- moving to 1pm
Date: Sunday, March 16, 2014 10:54:22 AM

I'll be calling

On Mar 16, 2014, at 10:33 AM, "Scola, Lindsay" <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

BdB needs to attend a second church service today. We are looking to move this to 1pm for 1 hour.

Knowing church services can be unpredictable we will keep you posted on the timing. Also please feel free to just call in for this meeting.

Let me know if you still plan to come in.

Thanks,
Lindsay

From: Grybauskas, Stefan
Sent: Friday, March 14, 2014 11:25 AM
To: Fuleihan, Dean (OMB); 'jonathan@berlinrosen.com' <jonathan@berlinrosen.com>; 'jon (jfdc@akpdmedia.com)' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Williams, Dominic; Santucci, Laura; Katz, Rebecca; Ragone, Peter; Shorris, Anthony; Wolfe, Emma; Wiley, Maya; Noerdlinger, Rachel; 'Robert Munoz (rmunoz@akpdmedia.com)' <rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>; Seignious, Sandy; Griffith, Chantell; Shapiro, Leigh; Chao, Raymond; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Ko, Eunice; Nordstrom, Mandy (OMB); Scola, Lindsay
Subject: Planning Meeting - Sunday 12:30pm

Hello,

There will be a Planning Meeting on Sunday March 16th at 12:30pm in the Committee of the Whole in City Hall. Please RSVP to the calendar invite sent around shortly.

Dial in: (██████████) Access Code: ██████████

Thanks,

Stefan Grybauskas
Deputy Director of Scheduling
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212-788-3180
Cell: 347-515-5874

From: Scola, Lindsay
To: Grybauskas, Stefan; Fuleihan, Dean \(OMB\); "jonathan@berlinrosen.com"; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Williams, Dominic; Santucci, Laura; Katz, Rebecca; Ragone, Peter; Shorris, Anthony; Wolfe, Emma; Wiley, Maya; Noerdlinger, Rachel; "rmunoz@akpdmedia.com"; Seignious, Sandy; Griffith, Chantell; Shapiro, Leigh; Chao, Raymond; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Ko, Eunice; Nordstrom, Mandy \(OMB\); Hanley, Monica
Cc: Chao, Raymond
Subject: RE: Planning Meeting - Monday - 12:30
Date: Sunday, March 16, 2014 2:23:38 PM

This meeting will now be Monday, March 17th at 12:30 in the Committee of the Whole in City Hall.
Please RSVP

For those that cannot attend in person: Dial in: [REDACTED] Access Code: [REDACTED]

Lindsay Scola
Director of Scheduling
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212.788.2962
Cell: 917.513.1690

From: Scola, Lindsay
Sent: Sunday, March 16, 2014 12:42 PM
To: Grybauskas, Stefan; Fuleihan, Dean (OMB); 'jonathan@berlinrosen.com'; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; Williams, Dominic; Santucci, Laura; Katz, Rebecca; Ragone, Peter; Shorris, Anthony; Wolfe, Emma; Wiley, Maya; Noerdlinger, Rachel; 'rmunoz@akpdmedia.com'; Seignious, Sandy; Griffith, Chantell; Shapiro, Leigh; Chao, Raymond; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Ko, Eunice; Nordstrom, Mandy (OMB); Hanley, Monica
Subject: Re: Planning Meeting - Sunday- will be rescheduled

Church is running long. Please stand by for new time and potentially day. May be tomorrow. We will keep you posted.

From: Scola, Lindsay
Sent: Sunday, March 16, 2014 10:33 AM
To: Grybauskas, Stefan; Fuleihan, Dean (OMB); 'jonathan@berlinrosen.com' <jonathan@berlinrosen.com>; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Williams, Dominic; Santucci, Laura; Katz, Rebecca; Ragone, Peter; Shorris, Anthony; Wolfe, Emma; Wiley, Maya; Noerdlinger, Rachel; 'rmunoz@akpdmedia.com' <rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>; Seignious, Sandy; Griffith, Chantell; Shapiro, Leigh; Chao, Raymond; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Ko, Eunice; Nordstrom, Mandy (OMB)
Subject: Re: Planning Meeting - Sunday- moving to 1pm

BdB needs to attend a second church service today. We are looking to move this to 1pm for 1 hour.

Knowing church services can be unpredictable we will keep you posted on the timing. Also please feel free to just call in for this meeting.

Let me know if you still plan to come in.

Thanks,

Lindsay

From: Grybauskas, Stefan
Sent: Friday, March 14, 2014 11:25 AM
To: Fuleihan, Dean (OMB); 'jonathan@berlinrosen.com' <jonathan@berlinrosen.com>; 'jon (jfdc@akpdmedia.com)' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Williams, Dominic; Santucci, Laura; Katz, Rebecca; Ragone, Peter; Shorris, Anthony; Wolfe, Emma; Wiley, Maya; Noerdlinger, Rachel; 'Robert Munoz (rmunoz@akpdmedia.com)' <rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>; Seignious, Sandy; Griffith, Chantell; Shapiro, Leigh; Chao, Raymond; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Ko, Eunice; Nordstrom, Mandy (OMB); Scola, Lindsay
Subject: Planning Meeting - Sunday 12:30pm

Hello,

There will be a Planning Meeting on Sunday March 16th at 12:30pm in the Committee of the Whole in City Hall. Please RSVP to the calendar invite sent around shortly.

Dial in: (██████████) Access Code: ██████████

Thanks,

Stefan Grybauskas
Deputy Director of Scheduling
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212-788-3180
Cell: 347-515-5874

From: Noerdlinger, Rachel
To: FLONYC
Cc: Katz, Rebecca; John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: Inner Circle
Date: Sunday, March 16, 2014 5:55:16 PM

Schedule forthcoming

Rachel Noerdlinger
Chief of Staff to the First Lady
Office of the Mayor
(212) 341-5065 office
(917) 576-3170 cell

On Mar 16, 2014, at 5:41 PM, "FLONYC" <FLONYC@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Will review sketch now. FYI, [REDACTED].
Is planning meeting now set for tomorrow? Rachel, please make sure I get a revised schedule.
Thx!

#FLONYC
flonyc.tumblr.com
Twitter @Chirlane

On Mar 16, 2014, at 5:10 PM, "Katz, Rebecca"
<RKKatz@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Just tried you. Many moving parts - and many ppl's schedules to work through.

I would love to talk through this with you tomorrow - perhaps for 30 minutes before or after the planning meeting?

Rehearsal on Thursday evening and Saturday morning.

Please review the sketch I sent and we can discuss in more detail tomorrow.

Thanks,

Rebecca

Sent from my iPhone

On Mar 16, 2014, at 4:59 PM, "FLONYC"
<FLONYC@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

"We're thinking of doing The Honeymooners (with Cynthia Nixon).

We're thinking of having you do two minutes on stage reciting a fake poem written by Bill; you don't need much rehearsal for that.

"You should go to the 4-hour rehearsal, or maybe not, because there will be rehearsals all this week"

Come to rehearsal NOW (said today, after two church services and Bklyn public library event, presumably so I can spend hours finding out what's going on) because Cynthia won't be there on Monday...

Well, definitely come to rehearsal on Thursday.

These are the snippets of Inner Circle information I have been given so far. I have no idea what's going on -- although Bill has told me what it's NOT.

So what's up?

#FLONYC

flonyc.tumblr.com

Twitter @Chirlane

From: John Del Cecato
To: Hanley, Monica
Cc: Chao, Raymond; Fuleihan, Dean \(OMB\); jonathan@berlinrosen.com; ifdc@akpdmedia.com; Williams, Dominic; Santucci, Laura; Katz, Rebecca; Ragone, Peter; Shorris, Anthony; Wolfe, Emma; Wiley, Maya; Noerdlinger, Rachel; Grybauskas, Stefan; rmunoz@akpdmedia.com; Seignious, Sandy; Griffith, Chantell; Shapiro, Leigh; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Ko, Eunice; Nordstrom, Mandy \(OMB\)
Subject: Re: Planning Meeting
Date: Monday, March 17, 2014 11:39:56 AM

I'm going to be calling in

- > On Mar 17, 2014, at 11:27 AM, "Hanley, Monica" <MHanley@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
- >
- > As much as I wish we could feed you, we can't.
- > This is BYO Lunch and whatever else you'd like to bring.

From: Chao, Raymond
To: Hanley, Monica; Fuleihan, Dean \(OMB\); "jonathan@berlinrosen.com"; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Williams, Dominic; Santucci, Laura; Katz, Rebecca; Ragone, Peter; Shorris, Anthony; Wolfe, Emma; Wiley, Maya; Noerdlinger, Rachel; Grybauskas, Stefan; "rmunoz@akpdmedia.com"; Seignious, Sandy; Griffith, Chantell; Shapiro, Leigh; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Ko, Eunice; Nordstrom, Mandy \(OMB\)
Subject: RE: Planning Meeting - Brooklyn conference room (Basement)
Date: Monday, March 17, 2014 11:50:00 AM

Dial in: ([REDACTED])
Access Code: [REDACTED]

The new room will be the Brooklyn conference room (down the spiral stairs near the police desk).

Thank you.

Raymond Chao
Scheduling Coordinator
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: (212)-788-7565
Cell: (347)-607-8325
rchao@cityhall.nyc.gov

-----Original Message-----

From: Hanley, Monica
Sent: Monday, March 17, 2014 11:28 AM
To: Chao, Raymond; Fuleihan, Dean (OMB); "jonathan@berlinrosen.com"; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Williams, Dominic; Santucci, Laura; Katz, Rebecca; Ragone, Peter; Shorris, Anthony; Wolfe, Emma; Wiley, Maya; Noerdlinger, Rachel; Grybauskas, Stefan; "rmunoz@akpdmedia.com"; Seignious, Sandy; Griffith, Chantell; Shapiro, Leigh; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Ko, Eunice; Nordstrom, Mandy \(OMB\)
Subject: Planning Meeting

As much as I wish we could feed you, we can't.
This is BYO Lunch and whatever else you'd like to bring.

From: John Del Cecato
To: Coney, Javon
Subject: Re: Planning Meeting
Date: Monday, March 17, 2014 12:53:30 PM

Never mind - it was me - i'm back

From: <Coney>, Javon <JConey@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Monday, March 17, 2014 at 12:42 PM
To: Anthony Shorris <AShorris@cityhall.nyc.gov>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, "Fuleihan, Dean (OMB)" <fuleihand@omb.nyc.gov>, Rebecca Katz <RKKatz@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Noerdlinger, Rachel" <RNoerdlinger@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Peter Ragone <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Jonathan Rosen <jonathan@berlinrosen.com>, "Santucci, Laura" <LSantucci@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Wiley, Maya" <MWiley@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Dom Williams <DWilliams@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Wolfe, Emma" <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: "Ko, Eunice" <EKo@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "James, Clement" <CJames@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: RE: Planning Meeting

All-Please dial in now if you are not attending in person. The Mayor is on his way down.

Dial-in Number: (██████████) Code: ██████████

From: Coney, Javon
Sent: Monday, March 17, 2014 12:28 PM
To: Shorris, Anthony; jfdc@akpdmedia.com; Fuleihan, Dean (OMB); Katz, Rebecca; Noerdlinger, Rachel; Ragone, Peter; 'Jonathan@berlinrosen.com'; Santucci, Laura; Wiley, Maya; Williams, Dominic; Wolfe, Emma
Subject: Planning Meeting

All- We should be starting this close to on time as the Mayor will finish his Paid Sick Hearing in roughly 5 min. Please report to the Brooklyn Conference room no later than 12:35pm. Thank you.

From: Scola, Lindsay
To: B
Cc: Santucci, Laura; "jonathan@berlinrosen.com"; "jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com"; [REDACTED]
Subject: Re: Speech prep
Date: Wednesday, March 19, 2014 7:49:35 PM

We will set up.

----- Original Message -----

From: B
Sent: Wednesday, March 19, 2014 07:38 PM
To: Scola, Lindsay
Cc: Santucci, Laura; 'Jonathan@berlinrosen.com' <Jonathan@berlinrosen.com>; 'jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com' <jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>; [REDACTED]
<[REDACTED]>
Subject: Speech prep

Tonite's session with rosen and fromowitz was very productive. Lindsay, need a session with them tmrw whenever Jonathan and Jon (cc'ed here) say they're ready. Can either be at City Hall in the afternoon or at Bar Toto after the stringer dinner. Thanks

From: Scola, Lindsay
To: [REDACTED]
Cc: Santucci, Laura; jonathan@berlinrosen.com; jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com
Subject: RE: Speech prep
Date: Wednesday, March 19, 2014 8:27:59 PM

We have an hour for him by himself.

Lindsay Scola
Director of Scheduling
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212.788.2962
Cell: 917.513.1690

-----Original Message-----

From: [REDACTED] [[mailto:\[REDACTED\]](mailto:[REDACTED])]
Sent: Wednesday, March 19, 2014 8:26 PM
To: Scola, Lindsay
Cc: Santucci, Laura; jonathan@berlinrosen.com; jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com
Subject: Re: Speech prep

Would also make certain that he has other time during the day to noodle on it a bit before he meets with the wordsmiths.

> On Mar 20, 2014, at 2:13 AM, "Scola, Lindsay" <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>
> I think we do this after the Stringer dinner at Toto. Doing it before dinner he won't have the space to focus with you. Let's aim for 8:30 there. Stefan will send details.

>
> Lindsay Scola
> Director of Scheduling
> Office of the Mayor
> The City of New York
> Office: 212.788.2962
> Cell: 917.513.1690

>
>

> -----Original Message-----

> From: [REDACTED] [[mailto:\[REDACTED\]](mailto:[REDACTED])]
> Sent: Wednesday, March 19, 2014 8:06 PM
> To: Scola, Lindsay
> Cc: Santucci, Laura; jonathan@berlinrosen.com; jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com
> Subject: Re: Speech prep

>

> Removing Bill. We had success today because Bill was in a space where he could focus properly and elevate. Let's not slide backwards. Let's not squeeze this between other things on the fly. Rosen and Fromowitz, I'm sure you'll make yourselves available when needed on this, just as you mobilized immediately after my calls earlier today. Let's do it in a way that allows Bill to be composed and at his very best.

>

>> On Mar 20, 2014, at 1:49 AM, "Scola, Lindsay" <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>>

>> We will set up.

>>

>> ----- Original Message -----

>> From: B

>> Sent: Wednesday, March 19, 2014 07:38 PM

>> To: Scola, Lindsay

>> Cc: Santucci, Laura; 'Jonathan@berlinrosen.com' <Jonathan@berlinrosen.com>;

'jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com' <jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>; [REDACTED]

<

>> Subject: Speech prep

>>

>>

>> Tonite's session with rosen and fromowitz was very productive. Lindsay, need a session with them tmrw whenever Jonathan and Jon (cc'ed here) say they're ready. Can either be at City Hall in the afternoon or at Bar Toto after the stringer dinner. Thanks

>>

>>

From: Chao, Raymond
To: Fuleihan, Dean \(OMB\); "jonathan@berlinrosen.com"; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Williams, Dominic; Santucci, Laura; Katz, Rebecca; Ragone, Peter; Shorris, Anthony; Wolfe, Emma; Wiley, Maya; Noerdlinger, Rachel; Hanley, Monica
Cc: Grybauskas, Stefan; "rmunoz@akpdmedia.com"; Seignious, Sandy; Griffith, Chantell; Shapiro, Leigh; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Ko, Eunice; Nordstrom, Mandy \(OMB\); Reisman, Lisette; Scola, Lindsay \(LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov\)
Subject: Sunday 3/23 @ 1:00PM - Planning Meeting
Date: Thursday, March 20, 2014 3:33:00 PM

Hi all,

There will be a Planning Meeting on Sunday 3/23 @ 1PM in the Committee of the Whole room.

Please accept the corresponding calendar invite.

Thank you,

Raymond Chao
Scheduling Coordinator
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: (212)-788-7565
Cell: (347)-607-8325
rchao@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Leopold, Elana
To: "John Del Cecato"
Subject: RE: Mayor will be calling in 10 min
Date: Friday, March 21, 2014 4:40:15 PM

great

-----Original Message-----

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Friday, March 21, 2014 4:37 PM
To: Leopold, Elana
Subject: Re: Mayor will be calling in 10 min

Sorry - just finished with him!

On 3/21/14, 3:50 PM, "Leopold, Elana" <ELeopold@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>Do you mind letting me know when you are on w him?

>

>-----Original Message-----

>From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
>Sent: Friday, March 21, 2014 3:50 PM
>To: Leopold, Elana
>Subject: Re: Mayor will be calling in 10 min

>

>gotcaha

>

>On 3/21/14, 3:44 PM, "Leopold, Elana" <ELeopold@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>

>>He's making a personal call and then he will call you

>>

>>It will just be the two of you but FYI if you need him, Fromo is in >>the building

>>

>>Sent from my iPhone

>>

>>> On Mar 21, 2014, at 3:38 PM, "John Del Cecato" <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
>>>wrote:

>>>

>>> k

>>>

>>>> On 3/21/14, 3:36 PM, "Leopold, Elana" <ELeopold@cityhall.nyc.gov>

>>>>wrote:

>>>>

>>>>

>>>>

>>>> Sent from my iPhone

>>>>

>

From: John Del Cecato
To: Leopold, Elana; BdB
Subject: outline at the moment
Date: Friday, March 21, 2014 6:58:45 PM
Attachments: Sunday Speech Outline.docx

THIS IS WHAT REAL CHANGE LOOKS LIKE

1. We care about every child.

<!--[if !supportLists]--> <!--[endif]-->New York City only lives up to its promise – and we only live up to our responsibility -- when every child has a chance at chasing their dreams.

<!--[if !supportLists]--> <!--[endif]-->Our kids deserve better than the false choice that they’ve been given for far too long – that their city could either help a select few of them...or none at all.

2. Status quo thinking is unacceptable.

<!--[if !supportLists]--> <!--[endif]-->For far too many – especially people of color – our system is failing... FAILING to open the doors of opportunity to our changing economy.

<!--[if !supportLists]--> <!--[endif]-->We set out to fix our schools in meaningful way – a way that acknowledges that the status quo is BROKEN and that no steps our city has taken in the past are adequate to fix it.

3. Charters can help.

<!--[if !supportLists]--> <!--[endif]-->Charters can play an important role by experimenting and innovating in ways that are more difficult for traditional public schools.

<!--[if !supportLists]--> <!--[endif]-->I reject the false construct that says charter school students and students in traditional public schools are trapped in a zero-sum game... that the success of one must come at the expense of the other.

4. But we need fairness and progress for the entire school system.

<!--[if !supportLists]--> <!--[endif]-->My vision focuses on solutions that address the root cause of challenges in our schools – with early childhood education and supervised after-school programs chief among them.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->The keys to a student's success in school are putting them on the right path and keeping them there. That's what these programs do.

5. What we ACTUALLY did on co-locations.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Many of you may have heard of my decision not to approve the colocation of a charter middle school into PS 149 in Harlem.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->We rejected that proposal because had we permitted it, it would have forced special education students -- kids with serious disabilities -- out of their school...forcing them to travel further to class every day.

6. I screwed up in not communicating, to parents and students across our city, WHY we were doing what we did.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->But I failed in communicating just WHY we were taking that action. And I accept responsibility for that mistake. It caused a lot of frustration among concerned folks who were just looking for answers.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->It also distracted from what we're trying to do to help EVERY child of our city – securing the funds we need for universal, full-day Pre-K and after-school for every middle school.

7. Let's move forward together.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Charter schools, traditional public schools, and religious schools all have an important role to play in challenging the status quo and improving our system.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->The challenge of providing all of our children with a quality education can and should be approached from multiple angles, as long as they converge in a place where no one falls through the cracks.

8. I know Gov. Cuomo is committed to Pre-K for NYC kids, and I thank him for it.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->I know Governor Cuomo is committed to securing Pre-K for our City's kids, and I thank him for that.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->But let me be clear. Winning expanded Pre-K and after-school for our kids will not be a victory for a mayor or a governor – or any politician.

9. This is YOUR victory.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->This will be YOUR victory.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Because of your work – community leaders, activists, everyday New Yorkers who have dedicated so much passion to our cause – we are on the verge of securing unprecedented funding for our universal pre-k and afterschool.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Is it everything I wanted? No. Is there more – much more to do? Absolutely.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->But though our progress is incomplete, it is powerful and it is real.

10. This is what real change looks like.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->In my campaign for Mayor, we said that we were going to make our city one city...where we treat every child as our own.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->There are those who argue that change must be small and incremental and tinker around the edges... that in politics, “you just can’t help everyone.”

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Well, ask yourself this. Who is “everyone?” I think I know. I’m looking around this congregation, and I see a whole lot of “everyones” out there.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->And, Riverside, we know who “everyone’s kids” are – they are yours and mine. And if we leave ANY child behind, we cheat EVERY New Yorker.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->For years, we’ve heard politicians talk about Pre-K. And for years, it was nothing more than words. Today, it is REAL.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->○ <!--[endif]-->It means hundreds of millions of dollars of new, dedicated funding it secures; CHECK

<!--[if !supportLists]-->○ <!--[endif]-->It means 30,000 CHECK kids and families who will benefit from it;

<!--[if !supportLists]-->○ <!--[endif]-->It means we're sowing the seeds of success – the young lives that we've put on a path of meaningful contributions that will benefit our city for generations.

11. This is part – but jut one part -- of big systemic changes we need.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->This week, we'll take one important step forward towards the big systematic change our school system needs.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->We can't stop here... we'll take more crucial steps in the months and years to come:

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Steps to extend the school day and increase time on task;

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Steps to do more to increase parental involvement, and treat parents as the critical stakeholders they are;

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->And steps to do more to make sure that we are empowering good teachers to become great career educators in our public schools.

END ON STORY?

THIS IS WHAT REAL CHANGE LOOKS LIKE

1. We care about every child.

- New York City only lives up to its promise – and we only live up to our responsibility -- when every child has a chance at chasing their dreams.
- Our kids deserve better than the false choice that they've been given for far too long – that their city could either help a select few of them...or none at all.

2. Status quo thinking is unacceptable.

- For far too many – especially people of color – our system is failing... FAILING to open the doors of opportunity to our changing economy.
- We set out to fix our schools in meaningful way – a way that acknowledges that the status quo is BROKEN and that no steps our city has taken in the past are adequate to fix it.

3. Charters can help.

- Charters can play an important role by experimenting and innovating in ways that are more difficult for traditional public schools.
- I reject the false construct that says charter school students and students in traditional public schools are trapped in a zero-sum game... that the success of one must come at the expense of the other.

4. But we need fairness and progress for the entire school system.

- My vision focuses on solutions that address the root cause of challenges in our schools – with early childhood education and supervised after-school programs chief among them.
- The keys to a student's success in school are putting them on the right path and keeping them there. That's what these programs do.

5. What we ACTUALLY did on co-locations.

- Many of you may have heard of my decision not to approve the colocation of a charter middle school into PS 149 in Harlem.
- We rejected that proposal because had we permitted it, it would have forced special education students -- kids with serious disabilities -- out of their school...forcing them to travel further to class every day.

6. I screwed up in not communicating, to parents and students across our city, WHY we were doing what we did.

- But I failed in communicating just WHY we were taking that action. And I accept responsibility for that mistake. It caused a lot of frustration among concerned folks who were just looking for answers.
- It also distracted from what we're trying to do to help EVERY child of our city – securing the funds we need for universal, full-day Pre-K and after-school for every middle school.

7. Let's move forward together.

- Charter schools, traditional public schools, and religious schools all have an important role to play in challenging the status quo and improving our system.
- The challenge of providing all of our children with a quality education can and should be approached from multiple angles, as long as they converge in a place where no one falls through the cracks.

8. I know Gov. Cuomo is committed to Pre-K for NYC kids, and I thank him for it.

- I know Governor Cuomo is committed to securing Pre-K for our City's kids, and I thank him for that.
- But let me be clear. Winning expanded Pre-K and after-school for our kids will not be a victory for a mayor or a governor – or any politician.

9. This is YOUR victory.

- This will be YOUR victory.
- Because of your work – community leaders, activists, everyday New Yorkers who have dedicated so much passion to our cause – we are on the verge of securing unprecedented funding for our universal pre-k and afterschool.
- Is it everything I wanted? No. Is there more – much more to do? Absolutely.
- But though our progress is incomplete, it is powerful and it is real.

10. This is what real change looks like.

- In my campaign for Mayor, we said that we were going to make our city one city...where we treat every child as our own.
- There are those who argue that change must be small and incremental and tinker around the edges... that in politics, “you just can’t help everyone.”
- Well, ask yourself this. Who is “everyone?” I think I know. I’m looking around this congregation, and I see a whole lot of “everyones” out there.
- And, Riverside, we know who “everyone’s kids” are – they are yours and mine. And if we leave ANY child behind, we cheat EVERY New Yorker.
- For years, we’ve heard politicians talk about Pre-K. And for years, it was nothing more than words. Today, it is REAL.
 - It means hundreds of millions of dollars of new, dedicated funding it secures; CHECK
 - It means 30,000 CHECK kids and families who will benefit from it;
 - It means we’re sowing the seeds of success – the young lives that we’ve put on a path of meaningful contributions that will benefit our city for generations.

11. This is part – but jut one part -- of big systemic changes we need.

- This week, we’ll take one important step forward towards the big systematic change our school system needs.
- We can’t stop here... we’ll take more crucial steps in the months and years to come:
- Steps to extend the school day and increase time on task;
- Steps to do more to increase parental involvement, and treat parents as the critical stakeholders they are;
- And steps to do more to make sure that we are empowering good teachers to become great career educators in our public schools.

END ON STORY?

From: Leopold, Elana
To: John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: outline at the moment
Date: Friday, March 21, 2014 7:01:40 PM

Thanks

Sent from my iPhone

On Mar 21, 2014, at 6:58 PM, "John Del Cecato" <jfdc@akpdmmedia.com> wrote:

THIS IS WHAT REAL CHANGE LOOKS LIKE

1. We care about every child.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->New York City only lives up to its promise – and we only live up to our responsibility -- when every child has a chance at chasing their dreams.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Our kids deserve better than the false choice that they've been given for far too long – that their city could either help a select few of them...or none at all.

2. Status quo thinking is unacceptable.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->For far too many – especially people of color – our system is failing... FAILING to open the doors of opportunity to our changing economy.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->We set out to fix our schools in meaningful way – a way that acknowledges that the status quo is BROKEN and that no steps our city has taken in the past are adequate to fix it.

3. Charters can help.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Charters can play an important role by experimenting and innovating in ways that are more difficult for traditional public schools.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->I reject the false construct that says charter school students and students in traditional public schools are trapped in a zero-sum game... that the success of one must come at the expense of the other.

4. But we need fairness and progress for the entire school system.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->My vision focuses on solutions that address the root cause of challenges in our schools – with early childhood education and supervised after-school programs chief among them.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->The keys to a student’s success in school are putting them on the right path and keeping them there. That’s what these programs do.

5. What we ACTUALLY did on co-locations.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Many of you may have heard of my decision not to approve the colocation of a charter middle school into PS 149 in Harlem.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->We rejected that proposal because had we permitted it, it would have forced special education students -- kids with serious disabilities -- out of their school... forcing them to travel further to class every day.

6. I screwed up in not communicating, to parents and students across our city, WHY we were doing what we did.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->But I failed in communicating just WHY we were taking that action. And I accept responsibility for that mistake. It caused a lot of frustration among concerned folks who were just looking for answers.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->It also distracted from what we’re trying to do to help EVERY child of our city – securing the funds we need for universal, full-day Pre-K and after-school for every middle school.

7. Let’s move forward together.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Charter schools, traditional public schools, and religious schools all have an important role to play in challenging the status quo and improving our system.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->The challenge of providing all of our children with a quality education can and should be approached from multiple angles, as long as they converge in a place where no one falls through the cracks.

8. I know Gov. Cuomo is committed to Pre-K for NYC kids, and I thank him for it.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->I know Governor Cuomo is committed to securing Pre-K for our City's kids, and I thank him for that.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->But let me be clear. Winning expanded Pre-K and after-school for our kids will not be a victory for a mayor or a governor – or any politician.

9. This is YOUR victory.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->This will be YOUR victory.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Because of your work – community leaders, activists, everyday New Yorkers who have dedicated so much passion to our cause – we are on the verge of securing unprecedented funding for our universal pre-k and afterschool.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Is it everything I wanted? No. Is there more – much more to do? Absolutely.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->But though our progress is incomplete, it is powerful and it is real.

10. This is what real change looks like.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->In my campaign for Mayor, we said that we were going to make our city one city...where we treat every child as our own.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->There are those who argue that change must be small and incremental and tinker around the edges... that in politics, “you just can't help everyone.”

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Well, ask yourself this. Who is “everyone?” I think I know. I’m looking around this congregation, and I see a whole lot of “everyones” out there.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->And, Riverside, we know who “everyone’s kids” are – they are yours and mine. And if we leave ANY child behind, we cheat EVERY New Yorker.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->For years, we’ve heard politicians talk about Pre-K. And for years, it was nothing more than words. Today, it is REAL.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->○ <!--[endif]-->It means hundreds of millions of dollars of new, dedicated funding it secures;

CHECK

<!--[if !supportLists]-->○ <!--[endif]-->It means 30,000 CHECK kids and families who will benefit from it;

<!--[if !supportLists]-->○ <!--[endif]-->It means we’re sowing the seeds of success – the young lives that we’ve put on a path of meaningful contributions that will benefit our city for generations.

11. This is part – but jut one part -- of big systemic changes we need.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->This week, we’ll take one important step forward towards the big systematic change our school system needs.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->We can’t stop here... we’ll take more crucial steps in the months and years to come:

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Steps to extend the school day and increase time on task;

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Steps to do more to increase parental involvement, and treat parents as the critical stakeholders they are;

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->And steps to do more to make sure that we are empowering good teachers to become great career educators in our public schools.

END ON STORY?

<Sunday Speech Outline.docx>

From: John Del Cecato
To: Scola, Lindsay
Subject: Re: Run time of speech
Date: Friday, March 21, 2014 7:29:34 PM

Great question. No idea really but think 30 min

On Mar 21, 2014, at 7:13 PM, "Scola, Lindsay" <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Hey there-

Whats your guess on the run time of the speech?

Trying to figure out speech time at the church.

Thanks,
Lindsay

Lindsay Scola
Director of Scheduling
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212.788.2962
Cell: 917.513.1690

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
To: B
Cc: Wolfe, Emma; jfdc@akpdmedia.com
Subject: Re: Riverside Church
Date: Saturday, March 22, 2014 12:49:26 PM

Please see below for a bio of Pastor Forbes, who will be introducing you tomorrow:

Biography:

The Rev. Dr. James Alexander Forbes, Jr. is Senior Minister Emeritus of The Riverside Church and President of the Healing of the Nations Foundation.

The Riverside Church is an interdenominational, interracial, and international church built by John D. Rockefeller Jr. in 1927. The 2,400-member church is affiliated with the American Baptist Churches and the United Church of Christ.

Forbes, who was installed as the fifth Senior Minister of Riverside on June 1, 1989, and retired on June 1, 2007, was the first African-American to serve as Senior Minister of this multicultural congregation. He is an ordained minister in the American Baptist Churches and the Original United Holy Church of America.

Before being called to Riverside's pulpit, Dr. Forbes served from 1976-1985 as the Brown and Sockman Associate Professor of Preaching at Union Theological Seminary in New York City. From 1985-1989 he was Union's first Joe R. Engle Professor of Preaching. Union named him the first Harry Emerson Fosdick Adjunct Professor of Preaching in 1989, when he accepted the pastorate at Riverside. Dr. Forbes also serves on the Core Teaching Staff at Auburn Theological Seminary in New York.

In national and international religious circles, Dr. Forbes is known as the preacher's preacher because of his extensive preaching career and his charismatic style. In their March 4, 1996 issue, Newsweek magazine recognized Forbes as one of the 12 "most effective preachers" in the English-speaking world. This Pastor, Educator, Administrator, Community Activist and Interfaith Leader was designated as one of America's greatest Black preachers by Ebony magazine in 1984 and 1993. He won the Alumni Charter Day Award of Howard University for Distinguished Post Graduate Achievement In Ministry. In 1995 he emerged in the Baylor University Survey as one of twelve remarkable and most effective preachers in the English-speaking world.

Dr. Forbes learned to preach and pastor in the parish. He has held pastorates at St. John's United Holy Church of America in Richmond, VA, from 1965-1973; Holy Trinity Church in Wilmington, NC, from 1960-1965; and at St. Paul's Holy Church in Roxboro, NC, from 1960-1969. He also worked as campus minister for Virginia Union University in Richmond, VA, from 1968 until 1970.

Dr. Forbes has earned three degrees and has been awarded 13 honorary degrees. He earned a Doctor of Ministry Degree from Colgate-Rochester Divinity School in Rochester, NY, in 1975; a Master of Divinity Degree from Union Theological Seminary in New York City, NY in 1962; and a Bachelor of Science in Chemistry from Howard University in Washington, D.C., in 1957. He earned his Clinical Pastoral Education Certificate from the Medical College of Virginia in Richmond, VA, in 1968.

His honorary degrees are: Doctor of Divinity, Princeton University, Princeton, NJ

2002; Doctor of Humane Letters, Central University, North Carolina, 1998; Doctor of Humane Letters, Manhattanville College, Purchase, NY, 1996; Doctor of Humane Letters, Keuka College, Keuka Park, NY, 1993; Doctor of Divinity, Franklin College of Indiana, Franklin, IN, 1992; Doctor of Divinity, Lehigh University, Bethlehem, PA, 1991; Doctor of Divinity, Trinity College, Hartford, CT, 1991; Doctor of Humane Letters, DePauw University, Greencastle, IN, 1990; Doctor of Laws, Fairleigh Dickenson University, Rutherford, NJ, 1990; Doctor of Divinity, Colgate University, Hamilton, NY, 1989; Doctor of Divinity, University of Richmond, Richmond, VA, 1987; Doctor of Divinity, Protestant Episcopal Theological Seminary, Alexandria, VA, 1986; Doctor of Sacred Theology, Dickinson College, Carlisle, PA, 1983.

A well-known preacher and lecturer in the United States and abroad, in 1986 Dr. Forbes gave the Lyman Beecher Lecture at Yale University. The lectures in this series have been published by Abingdon Press as The Holy Spirit and Preaching, 1989. In 1993 he gave the Sixth Annual Leslie R. Smith Lectures in Preaching, entitled "Spiritual Revitalization of the Nation through Preaching" and in 1995 his "Healing the Spirit of America" was edited from The Davison Lectures at Warren Wilson College. He has participated in the Charles Finney Colloquium at Colgate-Rochester Divinity School and the World Pentecostal Fellowship in Nairobi, Kenya. In 1998 he completed a semester as the inaugural Luce Lecturer at the Harvard Divinity School, devoting his lectures to the theme of urban ministry. Also in 1998, in addition to participating in the Department of Justice Round Table on Youth Violence at the White House, Dr. Forbes delivered the keynote address at the President's Initiative on Race meeting in New Orleans, Louisiana. As Visiting Professor of Homiletics at Yale Divinity School in 2004, Dr. Forbes taught a course entitled "Preaching and the Next Great Awakening."

From 1992 to the present, Dr. Forbes has been co-chair of A Partnership of Faith, an interfaith organization of clergy among New York's Protestant, Catholic, Jewish, and Muslim communities. He is on the board of Manhattanville College, the Interfaith Alliance, Harlem Congregations for Community Improvement, and the United Way. He is a consultant to the Congress of National Black Churches and past President of The Martin Luther King Fellows. In October 2000, he received the prestigious Earle B. Pleasant Clergy of the Year Award from Religion in American Life and delivered the Raymond J. Peterson Lecture. In 2000, Dr. Forbes also accepted board appointments to: The Values Institute of America, The Bertram M. Beck Institute on Religion and Poverty at Fordham University, and The Mailman School of Public Health at Columbia University. In April 2001, Union Theological Seminary presented Dr. Forbes with the Unitas Distinguished Alumnus Award, and in May 2003, Teachers College awarded him their Distinguished Service Medal. The Interfaith Alliance awarded him the Cronkite Faith and Freedom Award in 2004.

Forbes has led numerous workshops, retreats, and conferences for the National Council of Churches of Christ USA, the National Association of Campus Ministry, the American Baptist Churches, the United Church of Christ, the African Methodist Episcopal Church, the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ), the Episcopal Church, the Roman Catholic Church, the United Methodist Church, and the Presbyterian Church (USA). His sermons are aired weekly on WLTW 106.7 FM in New York City, NY.

On December 26, 2003, Dr. Forbes was featured on Bill Moyers' "Speaking to Power" where he shared his prophetic principles, which have become part of the Mobilization 2004 initiative at The Riverside Church. Also in 2004, Dr. Forbes keynoted most of the "Let Justice Roll" tour sponsored by the National Council of Churches of Christ which promoted the prophetic principles in 15-20 cities across the nation. In August 2004, Dr. Forbes addressed the Democratic National Convention.

Two of Dr. Forbes' songs have been published in the Silver Burdett Songbooks for schools: "We Shall Overcome" and "Our Families Together." Dr. Forbes has performed the narration for several large musical productions, including Mendelssohn's Elijah with the Riverside choir.

Born in 1935 in Burgaw, North Carolina, Dr. Forbes is married to Bettye Franks Forbes, formerly of San Antonio, TX. They are the proud parents of one son, James A. Forbes III.

Sent from my iPhone

On Mar 22, 2014, at 12:42 PM, "B" <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Need bios of forbes and of whoever will introduce me tmrw. Need soon. Also need a few paragraphs on social change leaders associated with the church and who have spoken there, and major causes associated with the church in recent decades. Thanks

From: Wolfe, Emma
To: B; Gunaratna, Mahen
Cc: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: RE: Riverside Church
Date: Saturday, March 22, 2014 1:58:05 PM

Mahen's working on the second question and will send later this afternoon. For now - just so you're aware on folks who have spoken there:

- Martin Luther King Jr. voiced his opposition to the Vietnam War at Riverside on April 4, 1967
- The Rev. Jesse Jackson gave the eulogy at Jackie Robinson's funeral service in 1972.
- Bill Clinton spoke at Riverside Church on August 29, 2004
- Secretary-General of the United Nations Kofi Annan spoke there after the September 11, 2001 attacks.
- Cesar Chavez
- Jesse Jackson
- Desmond Tutu
- Fidel Castro
- Arundhati Roy
- Nelson Mandela
- Paul Tillich
- Reinhold Niebuhr
- Dietrich Bonhoeffer, a German who was instrumental in the Christian resistance against the Third Reich
- Channing E. Phillips, a leader in the African-American Civil Rights Movement and the first African-American to receive votes as a presidential nominee at a Democratic National Convention
- Rev Dr C Welton Gaddy President of Interfaith Alliance of Washington, DC.
- On January 15, 2012, a commemoration celebration for Martin Luther King Jr. took place at the Riverside Church, which included appearances by Patti Smith and Yoko Ono.

-----Original Message-----

From: B
Sent: Saturday, March 22, 2014 12:43 PM
To: Gunaratna, Mahen
Cc: Wolfe, Emma; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'
Subject: Riverside Church

Need bios of forbes and of whoever will introduce me tmrw. Need soon. Also need a few paragraphs on social change leaders associated with the church and who have spoken there, and major causes associated with the church in recent decades. Thanks

From: Chao, Raymond
To: Fuleihan, Dean \(OMB\); "jonathan@berlinrosen.com"; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Williams, Dominic; Santucci, Laura; Katz, Rebecca; Ragone, Peter; Shorris, Anthony; Wolfe, Emma; Wiley, Maya; Noerdlinger, Rachel; Hanley, Monica
Cc: Grybauskas, Stefan; "rmunoz@akpdmedia.com"; Seignious, Sandy; Griffith, Chantell; Shapiro, Leigh; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Ko, Eunice; Nordstrom, Mandy \(OMB\); Reisman, Lisette; Scola, Lindsay \(LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov\)
Subject: RE: Sunday 3/23 @ x:00PM - Planning Meeting
Date: Saturday, March 22, 2014 5:03:00 PM

Hi all,

There will be NO Planning Meeting tomorrow.

I have sent the cancelation for the calendar invite.

Thank you,

Raymond Chao
Scheduling Coordinator
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: (212)-788-7565
Cell: (347)-607-8325
rchao@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Chao, Raymond
Sent: Friday, March 21, 2014 7:44 PM
To: Fuleihan, Dean (OMB); 'jonathan@berlinrosen.com'; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; Williams, Dominic; Santucci, Laura; Katz, Rebecca; Ragone, Peter; Shorris, Anthony; Wolfe, Emma; Wiley, Maya; Noerdlinger, Rachel; Hanley, Monica
Cc: Grybauskas, Stefan; 'rmunoz@akpdmedia.com'; Seignious, Sandy; Griffith, Chantell; Shapiro, Leigh; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Ko, Eunice; Nordstrom, Mandy (OMB); Reisman, Lisette; Scola, Lindsay (LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov)
Subject: RE: Sunday 3/23 @ x:00PM - Planning Meeting

Hi all,

We are currently working out details for Sunday's Planning Meeting.

Please stand by and watch e-mail over the weekend for a new time and location.

Thank you,

Raymond Chao
Scheduling Coordinator
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: (212)-788-7565
Cell: (347)-607-8325

rchao@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Chao, Raymond

Sent: Thursday, March 20, 2014 3:33 PM

To: Fuleihan, Dean (OMB); 'jonathan@berlinrosen.com'; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; Williams, Dominic; Santucci, Laura; Katz, Rebecca; Ragone, Peter; Shorris, Anthony; Wolfe, Emma; Wiley, Maya; Noerdlinger, Rachel; Hanley, Monica

Cc: Grybauskas, Stefan; 'rmunoz@akpdmedia.com'; Seignious, Sandy; Griffith, Chantell; Shapiro, Leigh; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Ko, Eunice; Nordstrom, Mandy (OMB); Reisman, Lisette; Scola, Lindsay (LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov)

Subject: Sunday 3/23 @ 1:00PM - Planning Meeting

Hi all,

There will be a Planning Meeting on Sunday 3/23 @ 1PM in the Committee of the Whole room.

Please accept the corresponding calendar invite.

Thank you,

Raymond Chao
Scheduling Coordinator
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: (212)-788-7565
Cell: (347)-607-8325
rchao@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Bill de Blasio
To: Carrion, Marco A.; Emma Wolfe
Cc: John Del Cecato; Santucci, Laura; Scola, Lindsay; Patrick Gaspard
Subject: Re: Forbes: pls keep to 15 MINUTES or less
Date: Sunday, March 23, 2014 1:02:25 AM

For the record, the fact that this speech is now being limited to 15 minutes is a real problem. I will make do, but it won't be as good a speech. And had we known we were only being given 15 mins, we could have moved to another location that gave us more freedom. Stating the obvious, we can't learn about restrictions like this at the last moment -- we need to set ground rules up front, or be ready to move if people switch up on us. I need a better, more thorough approach next time pls

Sent via BlackBerry by AT&T

From: "Carrion, Marco A." <mcarrion@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Sat, 22 Mar 2014 22:45:44 +0000
To: BdB<[\[REDACTED\]](#)>
Cc: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'<jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Forbes: pls keep to 20 MINUTES or less

I'm on it.

From: Bill de Blasio [[mailto:\[REDACTED\]](mailto:[REDACTED])]
Sent: Saturday, March 22, 2014 06:43 PM
To: Carrion, Marco A.; Emma Wolfe <[\[REDACTED\]](#)>
Cc: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Forbes: pls keep to 20 MINUTES or less

Got it. I need to know if there's a podium I can put my blackberry on so I can keep track of time. Or some visible clock. Important. Thanks
Sent via BlackBerry by AT&T

From: "Carrion, Marco A." <mcarrion@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Sat, 22 Mar 2014 22:39:52 +0000
To: BdB<[\[REDACTED\]](#)>
Cc: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'<jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Forbes: pls keep to 20 MINUTES or less

I sat down with Rev. Forbes today and Rachel spoke to a Riverside board member who also spoke to Rev Forbes on our behalf. We have him in a good place.

He is sensitive to anything over 15 minutes, mostly due to internal issues, but very excited about your visit, and excited about his sermon buttressing your remarks. He looks forward to working in tandem on many of our policies.

No call from you needed, thank him tomorrow and ensure him that his concern is respected and generosity (more time than wjc) is appreciated.

From: [REDACTED] [mailto:[REDACTED]]
Sent: Saturday, March 22, 2014 04:08 PM
To: BdB
Cc: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Carrion, Marco A.
Subject: Re: Forbes: pls keep to 20 MINUTES or less

Will do. Marco has been in close contact with him and we'll send you info now.
Sent via BlackBerry by AT&T

From: "Bill de Blasio" <[REDACTED]>
Date: Sat, 22 Mar 2014 20:06:42 +0000
To: Emma Wolfe <[REDACTED]>
ReplyTo: [REDACTED]
Cc: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Forbes: pls keep to 20 MINUTES or less

I have more work to do on this and will endeavor to keep it to 15 mins. Perhaps I should call forbes to reassure him and to brush him back a little. Send me his #
Sent via BlackBerry by AT&T

From: Emma Wolfe <[REDACTED]>
Date: Sat, 22 Mar 2014 15:52:40 -0400
To: Bill de Blasio <[REDACTED]>
Cc: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Forbes: pls keep to 20 MINUTES or less

Because this is an important day tomorrow I am going to give you more details on the timing.

We just got done another conversation with Forbes. He has a very big personality as you probably know, and as he has now timed out his own sermon and is asking for you to stay within a 15 minute timeframe.

I am looking at the outline and it looks fine to do in 15, but I cannot tell entirely. Am sure the team can time your remarks and let you know, whenever you're ready.

John, can you please make sure MBDB gets this for when you're prepping later.

On Sat, Mar 22, 2014 at 1:02 PM, Bill de Blasio <[REDACTED]> wrote:

Will do

-----Original Message-----

From: Emma Wolfe
To: Bill de Blasio
To: John Del Cecato

Subject: Forbes: pls keep to 20 MINUTES or less
Sent: Mar 22, 2014 1:00 PM

Your team wanted to make sure you hear this:

Forbes is saying today he wants you to cut down remarks because it is lent and because he has his own sermon he's working on. He's of course very excited for you to come, but he really wants to make sure you know time is an issue.

We can time your latest draft and tell you how many minutes it is.

(He says he has always said the same to presidents like wjc even the day they come to the speech and they go along with it. We have been in constant contact with him on all logistics but he just started getting wary on our timing last night.)

PlEAsE let me know you got. Sorry for the nuisance.
Sent via BlackBerry by AT&T

From: Sharp, Edie
To: John Del Cecato
Cc: Jon Fromowitz; Hanley, Monica; Negash, Dabash; Gunaratna, Mahen; Ragone, Peter
Subject: Re: Current speech outline draft
Date: Sunday, March 23, 2014 9:03:35 AM

MBDB off. There is no attachment. Can you please send ASAP? I will need to format and print it.

Sent from my phone

> On Mar 23, 2014, at 9:01 AM, "Bill de Blasio" <[REDACTED]> wrote:
>
>
> I need this printed out in bold, easily-read font and will use this today. For the record, we only got part of the way there on this speech, but hopefully it will serve as a helpful beginning
>
> Sent via BlackBerry by AT&T
>
> -----Original Message-----
> From: Jon Fromowitz <jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>
> Date: Sun, 23 Mar 2014 03:31:51
> To: [REDACTED]
> Cc: John Del Cecato<jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
> Subject: Current speech outline draft
>
> This shouldn't be all that different from the last version JDC sent you, but we've made a few tweaks today.
>
> Still waiting on a full fact-check to come back, but we wanted to send you where this was at.
>
>

From: John Del Cecato
To: BdB; Jon Fromowitz
Cc: Sharp, Edie; Hanley, Monica
Subject: Re: Current speech outline draft
Date: Sunday, March 23, 2014 9:04:51 AM
Attachments: FinalDraftSunday9am.docx

Okay - here it is, EdieŠ Added a line about East Harlem tragedy at the top, and took out PS149 (just said a charter school in Harlem)

On 3/23/14, 9:01 AM, "Bill de Blasio" <[REDACTED]> wrote:

>
>I need this printed out in bold, easily-read font and will use this >today. For the record, we only got part of the way there on this speech, >but hopefully it will serve as a helpful beginning
>
>Sent via BlackBerry by AT&T
>
>-----Original Message-----
>From: Jon Fromowitz <jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>
>Date: Sun, 23 Mar 2014 03:31:51
>To: [REDACTED]
>Cc: John Del Cecato<jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
>Subject: Current speech outline draft
>
>This shouldn't be all that different from the last version JDC sent you, >but we've made a few tweaks today.
>
>Still waiting on a full fact-check to come back, but we wanted to send >you where this was at.
>
>

THIS IS WHAT REAL CHANGE LOOKS LIKE

Greeting and Acknowledgements

- Thank you all for being here today.
- Acknowledge: Pastor James Forbes, Len Leach – Riverside Board Chair, and Hon. David Dinkins
- I also want to take a moment to acknowledge the tireless work of the women and men in Albany who stand poised to produce a budget agreement that would deliver positive change for our City's kids on an unprecedented scale.
- And I want to offer our continued prayers for the families who lost loved ones in the East Harlem tragedy two weeks ago. You remain in our hearts.
- I am so honored to stand before you here at Riverside Church... So humbled to be speaking before a Congregation that has hosted some of history's powerful voices for justice, equality, and change.... From Martin Luther King Jr., to Nelson Mandela.
- This venue – with its stunning physical grandeur and storied legacy of progressive activism, leadership, and inclusiveness – represents an inspiring microcosm of the City we all love.

1. We care about every child.

- New York City only lives up to its promise – and we only live up to our responsibility -- when every child has a chance at chasing their dreams.
- Our kids deserve better than the false choice that they've been given for far too long – that their city could either help a select few of them...or none at all.

2. Status quo thinking is unacceptable.

- For far too many – especially people of color – our system is failing... FAILING to open the doors of opportunity to our changing economy.
- We set out to fix our schools in meaningful way – a way that acknowledges that the status quo is BROKEN and that no steps our city has taken in the past are adequate to fix it.

3. Charters can help.

- Charters can play an important role by experimenting and innovating in ways that are more difficult for traditional public schools.
- I reject the false construct that says charter school students and students in traditional public schools are trapped in a zero-sum game... that the success of one must come at the expense of the other.
- But we must never forget why charter schools were created in the first place – to act as laboratories of experimentation in education, with hope for – and the mission of – bringing best practices to traditional public schools...so that EVERY child can benefit.

4. But we need fairness and progress for the entire school system.

- There are some who see charter schools in a very different way – as a vehicle for ESCAPING those traditional public schools that are underperforming.
- Every parent longs for the very best education for their children. But when so many traditional public schools have fallen short of that promise, it's easy to understand why many parents see charter schools this way. They're tired of being promised an excellent public school around the corner – and they're willing to go to great lengths to get their child in a school – any school – that provides them the opportunity to succeed.

- The failure is not theirs. It is a failure of leadership from their elected officials, who for decades have fallen short in making good on that promise. And I refuse to be one of those elected officials.
- I don't see our traditional public schools as something to give up on...something to escape from. I see them as my responsibility to lift up.
- Think of traditional public schools for our kids' education in the way we think of Medicare for our seniors' health care. Medicare works so well because it works for EVERY senior. We want the highest quality health care for every senior citizen – and we embrace experiments in the delivery of health care that will make Medicare even stronger.
- But what we won't abide is the privatization of Medicare – pitting the fortunate few seniors against everyone else, and weakening the entire Medicare system in the process.
- Think for a moment about your own kids. You want the very best for all of them. If you have a chance to send one child to a great school, you would rightly jump at the chance. But you wouldn't do it if it meant your other kids would be shortchanged by THEIR schools...if they were left to live their lives with something less than they have now.
- In short, you wouldn't choose between your children. And as mayor, I won't choose between New York's children.
- My vision focuses on solutions that address the root cause of challenges in our schools – with early childhood education and supervised after-school programs chief among them.
- The keys to students' success in school are putting them on the right path and keeping them there. That's what these programs do. And that will lift up our ENTIRE education system.

5. What we ACTUALLY did on co-locations.

- Many of you have heard of my decision not to approve the colocation of a charter school in Harlem.
- We rejected that proposal because had we permitted it, it would have meant fewer seats in the school for special education students -- kids with serious disabilities.

6. I messed up in not communicating, to parents and students across our city, WHY we were doing what we did.

- But I failed in communicating just WHY we were taking that action. And I accept responsibility for that mistake. It caused a lot of frustration among concerned folks who were just looking for answers.
- It also distracted from what we're trying to do to help EVERY child of our city – securing the funds we need for universal, full-day Pre-K and after-school for every middle school student.

7. Let's move forward together.

- Charter schools, traditional public schools, and religious schools all have an important role to play in challenging the status quo and improving our system.
- The challenge of providing all of our children with a quality education can and should be approached from multiple angles, as long as they converge in a place where no one falls through the cracks.

8. I know Gov. Cuomo is committed to Pre-K for NYC kids, and I thank him for it.

- I know Governor Cuomo is committed to securing Pre-K for our City's kids, and I thank him for that.

- But let me be clear. Winning expanded Pre-K and after-school for our kids will not be a victory for a mayor or a governor – or any politician.

9. This will be YOUR victory.

- This will be YOUR victory.
- Because of your work – community leaders, activists, everyday New Yorkers who have dedicated so much passion to our cause – we are on the verge of securing unprecedented funding for our universal pre-k and afterschool.
- Will it be everything I want? No. Will there be more – much more – to do? Absolutely.
- But though our progress is incomplete, it is powerful and it is real.

10. This is what real change looks like.

- In my campaign for Mayor, we said that we were going to make our city one city...where we treat every child as our own.
- There are those who argue that change must be small and incremental and tinker around the edges... that in politics, “you just can’t help everyone.”
- Well, ask yourself this. Who is “everyone?” I think I know. I’m looking around this congregation, and I see a whole lot of “everyones” out there.
- And, Riverside, we know who “everyone’s kids” are – they are yours and mine. And if we leave ANY child behind, we fail EVERY New Yorker.
- For years, we’ve heard politicians talk about full-day Pre-K. And for years, it was nothing more than words. Today, it is REAL.

- It would mean hundreds of millions of dollars of new, dedicated funding;
- It would mean tens of thousands of kids and families benefiting from it;
- And it would mean sowing the seeds of success by putting young lives on a path to meaningful contributions that will benefit our City for generations.

11. This is part – but jut one part -- of big systemic changes we need.

- This week, we stand on the verge of taking an important step towards the big systematic change our school system needs.
- We can't stop here... we'll take more crucial steps in the months and years to come:
- Steps to give more of our the children the structured time and safe environment that afterschool programs provide;
- Steps to do more to increase parental involvement, and treat parents as the critical stakeholders they are;
- And steps to do more to make sure that we are empowering good teachers to become great career educators in our public schools.
- The great 20th century philosopher and theologian, Paul Tillich, said this: “The noise of these shallow waters prevents us from listening to the sounds out of the depth, to the sounds of what really happens in the ground of our social structure, in the longing hearts of the masses, and in the struggling minds of those who are sensitive to historical changes.”
- We New Yorkers – those of us gathered here today, and those who live in every neighborhood of our city – those with children in traditional public schools, religious schools, and charter schools – WE are the ones with longing hearts and struggling minds – WE are the ones who are striving for something better for the next generation.

- We will block out the noise of negative TV ads and overheated rhetoric and political posturing – truly listening to the sounds from the depth of our hearts...our communities...our neighborhoods.
- And we will achieve a great victory here in New York City. We will be ONE City. And we will do it...together.

From: Jon Fromowitz
To: Sharp, Edie
Cc: John Del Cecato; Hanley, Monica; Negash, Dabash; Gunaratna, Mahen; Ragone, Peter
Subject: Re: Current speech outline draft
Date: Sunday, March 23, 2014 9:05:02 AM
Attachments: FinalDraftSunday840AM.docx

Here is most recent. I believe JDC sent this to MBDB separately, correct?

On Mar 23, 2014, at 9:03 AM, Sharp, Edie <ESharp@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

> MBDB off. There is no attachment. Can you please send ASAP? I will need to format and print it.

>

> Sent from my phone

>

>> On Mar 23, 2014, at 9:01 AM, "Bill de Blasio" <[REDACTED]> wrote:

>>

>>

>> I need this printed out in bold, easily-read font and will use this today. For the record, we only got part of the way there on this speech, but hopefully it will serve as a helpful beginning

>>

>> Sent via BlackBerry by AT&T

>>

>> -----Original Message-----

>> From: Jon Fromowitz <jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>

>> Date: Sun, 23 Mar 2014 03:31:51

>> To: [REDACTED]

>> Cc: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>

>> Subject: Current speech outline draft

>>

>> This shouldn't be all that different from the last version JDC sent you, but we've made a few tweaks today.

>>

>> Still waiting on a full fact-check to come back, but we wanted to send you where this was at.

>>

>>

THIS IS WHAT REAL CHANGE LOOKS LIKE

Greeting and Acknowledgements

- Thank you all for being here today.
- Acknowledge: Pastor James Forbes, Len Leach – Riverside Board Chair, and Hon. David Dinkins
- Before I begin, I also want to take a moment to acknowledge the tireless work of the women and men in Albany who stand poised to produce a budget agreement that would deliver positive change for our City’s kids on an unprecedented scale.
- I am so honored to stand before you here at Riverside Church... So humbled to be speaking before a Congregation that has hosted some of history’s powerful voices for justice, equality, and change.... From Martin Luther King Jr., to Nelson Mandela.
- This venue – with its stunning physical grandeur and storied legacy of progressive activism, leadership, and inclusiveness – represents an inspiring microcosm of the City we all love.

1. We care about every child.

- New York City only lives up to its promise – and we only live up to our responsibility -- when every child has a chance at chasing their dreams.
- Our kids deserve better than the false choice that they’ve been given for far too long – that their city could either help a select few of them...or none at all.

2. Status quo thinking is unacceptable.

- For far too many – especially people of color – our system is failing... FAILING to open the doors of opportunity to our changing economy.

- We set out to fix our schools in meaningful way – a way that acknowledges that the status quo is BROKEN and that no steps our city has taken in the past are adequate to fix it.

3. Charters can help.

- Charters can play an important role by experimenting and innovating in ways that are more difficult for traditional public schools.
- I reject the false construct that says charter school students and students in traditional public schools are trapped in a zero-sum game... that the success of one must come at the expense of the other.
- But we must never forget why charter schools were created in the first place – to act as laboratories of experimentation in education, with hope for – and the mission of – bringing best practices to traditional public schools...so that EVERY child can benefit.

4. But we need fairness and progress for the entire school system.

- There are some who see charter schools in a very different way – as a vehicle for ESCAPING those traditional public schools that are underperforming.
- Every parent longs for the very best education for their children. But when so many traditional public schools have fallen short of that promise, it's easy to understand why many parents see charter schools this way. They're tired of being promised an excellent public school around the corner – and they're willing to go to great lengths to get their child in a school – any school – that provides them the opportunity to succeed.
- The failure is not theirs. It is a failure of leadership from their elected officials, who for decades have fallen short in making good on that promise. And I refuse to be one of those elected officials.

- I don't see our traditional public schools as something to give up on...something to escape from. I see them as my responsibility to lift up.
- Think of traditional public schools for our kids' education in the way we think of Medicare for our seniors' health care. Medicare works so well because it works for EVERY senior. We want the highest quality health care for every senior citizen – and we embrace experiments in the delivery of health care that will make Medicare even stronger.
- But what we won't abide is the privatization of Medicare – pitting the fortunate few seniors against everyone else, and weakening the entire Medicare system in the process.
- Think for a moment about your own kids. You want the very best for all of them. If you have a chance to send one child to a great school, you would rightly jump at the chance. But you wouldn't do it if it meant your other kids would be shortchanged by THEIR schools...if they were left to live their lives with something less than they have now.
- In short, you wouldn't choose between your children. And as mayor, I won't choose between New York's children.
- My vision focuses on solutions that address the root cause of challenges in our schools – with early childhood education and supervised after-school programs chief among them.
- The keys to students' success in school are putting them on the right path and keeping them there. That's what these programs do. And that will lift up our ENTIRE education system.

5. What we ACTUALLY did on co-locations.

- Many of you have heard of my decision not to approve the colocation of a charter middle school into PS 149 in Harlem.

- We rejected that proposal because had we permitted it, it would have meant fewer seats in the school for special education students -- kids with serious disabilities.

6. I messed up in not communicating, to parents and students across our city, WHY we were doing what we did.

- But I failed in communicating just WHY we were taking that action. And I accept responsibility for that mistake. It caused a lot of frustration among concerned folks who were just looking for answers.
- It also distracted from what we're trying to do to help EVERY child of our city – securing the funds we need for universal, full-day Pre-K and after-school for every middle school student.

7. Let's move forward together.

- Charter schools, traditional public schools, and religious schools all have an important role to play in challenging the status quo and improving our system.
- The challenge of providing all of our children with a quality education can and should be approached from multiple angles, as long as they converge in a place where no one falls through the cracks.

8. I know Gov. Cuomo is committed to Pre-K for NYC kids, and I thank him for it.

- I know Governor Cuomo is committed to securing Pre-K for our City's kids, and I thank him for that.
- But let me be clear. Winning expanded Pre-K and after-school for our kids will not be a victory for a mayor or a governor – or any politician.

9. This will be YOUR victory.

- This will be YOUR victory.
- Because of your work – community leaders, activists, everyday New Yorkers who have dedicated so much passion to our cause – we are on the verge of securing unprecedented funding for our universal pre-k and afterschool.
- Will it be everything I want? No. Will there be more – much more – to do? Absolutely.
- But though our progress is incomplete, it is powerful and it is real.

10. This is what real change looks like.

- In my campaign for Mayor, we said that we were going to make our city one city...where we treat every child as our own.
- There are those who argue that change must be small and incremental and tinker around the edges... that in politics, “you just can’t help everyone.”
- Well, ask yourself this. Who is “everyone?” I think I know. I’m looking around this congregation, and I see a whole lot of “everyones” out there.
- And, Riverside, we know who “everyone’s kids” are – they are yours and mine. And if we leave ANY child behind, we fail EVERY New Yorker.
- For years, we’ve heard politicians talk about full-day Pre-K. And for years, it was nothing more than words. Today, it is REAL.
 - It would mean hundreds of millions of dollars of new, dedicated funding;
 - It would mean tens of thousands of kids and families benefiting from it;

- And it would mean sowing the seeds of success by putting young lives on a path to meaningful contributions that will benefit our City for generations.

11. This is part – but jut one part -- of big systemic changes we need.

- This week, we stand on the verge of taking an important step towards the big systematic change our school system needs.
- We can't stop here... we'll take more crucial steps in the months and years to come:
- Steps to give more of our the children the structured time and safe environment that afterschool programs provide;
- Steps to do more to increase parental involvement, and treat parents as the critical stakeholders they are;
- And steps to do more to make sure that we are empowering good teachers to become great career educators in our public schools.
- The great 20th century philosopher and theologian, Paul Tillich, said this: "The noise of these shallow waters prevents us from listening to the sounds out of the depth, to the sounds of what really happens in the ground of our social structure, in the longing hearts of the masses, and in the struggling minds of those who are sensitive to historical changes."
- We New Yorkers – those of us gathered here today, and those who live in every neighborhood of our city – those with children in traditional public schools, religious schools, and charter schools – WE are the ones with longing hearts and struggling minds – WE are the ones who are striving for something better for the next generation.
- We will block out the noise of negative TV ads and overheated rhetoric and political posturing – truly listening to the sounds from the depth of our hearts...our communities...our neighborhoods.

- And we will achieve a great victory here in New York City. We will be ONE City. And we will do it...together.

From: Jon Fromowitz
To: Negash, Dabash
Subject: Re: Current speech outline draft
Date: Sunday, March 23, 2014 9:35:34 AM
Attachments: FinalDraftSunday925am.docx

Use this
On Mar 23, 2014, at 9:29 AM, Negash, Dabash <DNegash@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

> Can you fwd me what he just sent? Not attached.

>

> Thank you,

> Dabash

>

> -----Original Message-----

> From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]

> Sent: Sunday, March 23, 2014 9:06 AM

> To: Sharp, Edie

> Cc: John Del Cecato; Hanley, Monica; Negash, Dabash; Gunaratna, Mahen; Ragone, Peter

> Subject: Re: Current speech outline draft

>

> Ignore my last note - use with JDC just send MBDB On Mar 23, 2014, at 9:04 AM, Jon Fromowitz <jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

>

>> <FinalDraftSunday840AM.docx>Here is most recent. I believe JDC sent this to MBDB separately, correct?

>>

>> On Mar 23, 2014, at 9:03 AM, Sharp, Edie <ESharp@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>>

>>> MBDB off. There is no attachment. Can you please send ASAP? I will need to format and print it.

>>>

>>> Sent from my phone

>>>

>>>> On Mar 23, 2014, at 9:01 AM, "Bill de Blasio" <[REDACTED]> wrote:

>>>>

>>>>

>>>> I need this printed out in bold, easily-read font and will use this >>>> today. For the record, we only got part of the way there on this >>>> speech, but hopefully it will serve as a helpful beginning

>>>>

>>>> Sent via BlackBerry by AT&T

>>>>

>>>> -----Original Message-----

>>>> From: Jon Fromowitz <jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>

>>>> Date: Sun, 23 Mar 2014 03:31:51

>>>> To: [REDACTED]

>>>> Cc: John Del Cecato<jfdc@akpdmedia.com>

>>>> Subject: Current speech outline draft

>>>>

>>>> This shouldn't be all that different from the last version JDC sent you, but we've made a few tweaks today.

>>>>

>>>> Still waiting on a full fact-check to come back, but we wanted to send you where this was at.

>>>>

>>>>

>>

>

THIS IS WHAT REAL CHANGE LOOKS LIKE

Greeting and Acknowledgements

- Thank you all for being here today.
- Acknowledge: Pastor James Forbes, Len Leach – Riverside Board Chair, Schools Chancellor Carmen Farina, and Hon. David Dinkins
- I also want to take a moment to acknowledge the tireless work of the women and men in Albany who stand poised to produce a budget agreement that would deliver positive change for our City’s kids on an unprecedented scale.
- And I want to offer our continued prayers for the families who lost loved ones in the East Harlem tragedy two weeks ago. You remain in our hearts.
- I am so honored to stand before you here at Riverside Church... So humbled to be speaking before a Congregation that has hosted some of history’s powerful voices for justice, equality, and change.... From Martin Luther King Jr., to Nelson Mandela.
- This venue – with its stunning physical grandeur and storied legacy of progressive activism, leadership, and inclusiveness – represents an inspiring microcosm of the City we all love.

1. We care about every child.

- New York City only lives up to its promise – and we only live up to our responsibility -- when every child has a chance at chasing their dreams.
- Our kids deserve better than the false choice that they’ve been given for far too long – that their city could either help a select few of them...or none at all.

2. Status quo thinking is unacceptable.

- For far too many – especially people of color – our system is failing... FAILING to open the doors of opportunity to our changing economy.
- We set out to fix our schools in meaningful way – a way that acknowledges that the status quo is BROKEN and that no steps our city has taken in the past are adequate to fix it.

3. Charters can help.

- Charters can play an important role by experimenting and innovating in ways that are more difficult for traditional public schools.
- I reject the false construct that says charter school students and students in traditional public schools are trapped in a zero-sum game... that the success of one must come at the expense of the other.
- But we must never forget why charter schools were created in the first place – to act as laboratories of experimentation in education, with hope for – and the mission of – bringing best practices to traditional public schools...so that EVERY child can benefit.

4. But we need fairness and progress for the entire school system.

- There are some who see charter schools in a very different way – as a vehicle for ESCAPING those traditional public schools that are underperforming.
- Every parent longs for the very best education for their children. But when so many traditional public schools have fallen short of that promise, it's easy to understand why many parents see charter schools this way. They're tired of being promised an excellent public school around the corner – and they're willing to go to great lengths to get their child in a school – any school – that provides them the opportunity to succeed.

- The failure is not theirs. It is a failure of leadership from their elected officials, who for decades have fallen short in making good on that promise. And I refuse to be one of those elected officials.
- I don't see our traditional public schools as something to give up on...something to escape from. I see them as my responsibility to lift up.
- Think of traditional public schools for our kids' education in the way we think of Medicare for our seniors' health care. Medicare works so well because it works for EVERY senior. We want the highest quality health care for every senior citizen – and we embrace experiments in the delivery of health care that will make Medicare even stronger.
- But what we won't abide is the privatization of Medicare – pitting the fortunate few seniors against everyone else, and weakening the entire Medicare system in the process.
- Think for a moment about your own kids. You want the very best for all of them. If you have a chance to send one child to a great school, you would rightly jump at the chance. But you wouldn't do it if it meant your other kids would be shortchanged by THEIR schools...if they were left to live their lives with something less than they have now.
- In short, you wouldn't choose between your children. And as mayor, I won't choose between New York's children.
- My vision focuses on solutions that address the root cause of challenges in our schools – with early childhood education and supervised after-school programs chief among them.
- The keys to students' success in school are putting them on the right path and keeping them there. That's what these programs do. And that will lift up our ENTIRE education system.

5. What we ACTUALLY did on co-locations.

- Many of you have heard of my decision not to approve the colocation of a charter school in Harlem.
- We rejected that proposal because had we permitted it, it would have meant fewer seats in the school for special education students -- kids with serious disabilities.

6. I messed up in not communicating, to parents and students across our city, WHY we were doing what we did.

- But I failed in communicating just WHY we were taking that action. And I accept responsibility for that mistake. It caused a lot of frustration among concerned folks who were just looking for answers.
- It also distracted from what we're trying to do to help EVERY child of our city – securing the funds we need for universal, full-day Pre-K and after-school for every middle school student.

7. Let's move forward together.

- Charter schools, traditional public schools, and religious schools all have an important role to play in challenging the status quo and improving our system.
- The challenge of providing all of our children with a quality education can and should be approached from multiple angles, as long as they converge in a place where no one falls through the cracks.

8. I know Gov. Cuomo is committed to Pre-K for NYC kids, and I thank him for it.

- I know Governor Cuomo is committed to securing Pre-K for our City's kids, and I thank him for that.

- But let me be clear. Winning expanded Pre-K and after-school for our kids will not be a victory for a mayor or a governor – or any politician.

9. This will be YOUR victory.

- This will be YOUR victory.
- Because of your work – community leaders, activists, everyday New Yorkers who have dedicated so much passion to our cause – we are on the verge of securing unprecedented funding for our universal pre-k and afterschool.
- Will it be everything I want? No. Will there be more – much more – to do? Absolutely.
- But though our progress is incomplete, it is powerful and it is real.

10. This is what real change looks like.

- In my campaign for Mayor, we said that we were going to make our city one city...where we treat every child as our own.
- There are those who argue that change must be small and incremental and tinker around the edges... that in politics, “you just can’t help everyone.”
- Well, ask yourself this. Who is “everyone?” I think I know. I’m looking around this congregation, and I see a whole lot of “everyones” out there.
- And, Riverside, we know who “everyone’s kids” are – they are yours and mine. And if we leave ANY child behind, we fail EVERY New Yorker.
- For years, we’ve heard politicians talk about full-day Pre-K. And for years, it was nothing more than words. Today, it is REAL.

- It would mean hundreds of millions of dollars of new, dedicated funding;
- It would mean tens of thousands of kids and families benefiting from it;
- And it would mean sowing the seeds of success by putting young lives on a path to meaningful contributions that will benefit our City for generations.

11. This is part – but jut one part -- of big systemic changes we need.

- This week, we stand on the verge of taking an important step towards the big systematic change our school system needs.
- We can't stop here... we'll take more crucial steps in the months and years to come:
- Steps to give more of our the children the structured time and safe environment that afterschool programs provide;
- Steps to do more to increase parental involvement, and treat parents as the critical stakeholders they are;
- And steps to do more to make sure that we are empowering good teachers to become great career educators in our public schools.
- The great 20th century philosopher and theologian, Paul Tillich, said this: “The noise of these shallow waters prevents us from listening to the sounds out of the depth, to the sounds of what really happens in the ground of our social structure, in the longing hearts of the masses, and in the struggling minds of those who are sensitive to historical changes.”
- We New Yorkers – those of us gathered here today, and those who live in every neighborhood of our city – those with children in traditional public schools, religious schools, and charter schools – WE are the ones with longing hearts and struggling minds – WE are the ones who are striving for something better for the next generation.

- We will block out the noise of negative TV ads and overheated rhetoric and political posturing – truly listening to the sounds from the depth of our hearts...our communities...our neighborhoods.
- And we will achieve a great victory here in New York City. We will be ONE City. And we will do it...together.

From: Jon Fromowitz
To: B
Cc: Gunaratna, Mahen; John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: Saturday Morning
Date: Sunday, March 23, 2014 10:14:58 AM

Quick scan of internet media suggests it's Till-ick

On Mar 23, 2014, at 10:10 AM, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Need proper pronunciation for tillich's name. Help, someone! Thanks

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
Sent: Saturday, March 22, 2014 12:46 PM
To: B
Cc: jfdc@akpdmedia.com <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Saturday Morning

Please see below for a bio of Paul Tillich:

Biography:

Paul Tillich was born 20 August 1886 in Starzeddel, then a province of Brandenburg, Germany (now part of Poland). His family moved to Berlin in 1900 when his father was called to a position as a Lutheran pastor. After graduating from the Friedrich Wilhelm Gymnasium in 1904, Tillich attended the universities of Berlin, Tübingen and Breslau. He graduated in 1911 from the University of Breslau with a doctoral degree in philosophy.

In 1912 Tillich was ordained as a minister in the Lutheran Church. For the next two decades he lectured on philosophy and theology at many universities, including Berlin, Dresden and Frankfurt. He also spent four years serving as a military chaplain during World War I. His philosophical and theological views developed as he gained exposure to varied academic environments, from the neo-orthodoxy of Karl Barth to the existentialism of Heidegger. His liberalism and opposition to the Nazi movement led to his dismissal in 1933. Fortunately, Reinhold Niebuhr, whom he had met in Germany, offered him a position at the Union Theological Seminary in New York. Tillich became a U.S. citizen in 1940, then took up a position at Harvard in 1954, followed by one at the University of Chicago in 1962, where he was to remain until the end of his life.

Though in many ways unorthodox and reformist, Tillich was undoubtedly a Christian theologian. His concern was to develop a satisfying Christian theology in the context of an acceptable philosophy. Heidegger's influence can be seen in Tillich's existential starting-point in his ontology of beings and being itself. He uses the existentialist motif of 'nothingness' in his characterisation of the experience of beings as confronting the nonbeing inherent in our finitude. He opposed himself to any understanding of God that might give the impression of deity as a being among others; God in Tillich's view had to be understood as 'the ground of being' or, to use a not-unfamiliar expression, being itself. The manner in which he spoke of God, with such remarks as, 'God does not exist. . . . He is being itself beyond essence and existence', led to some accusations of atheism and pantheism.

Tillich's best-known work is his three-volume Systematic Theology (1951, 1957, and 1963), which was based on his Gifford Lectures. His work clearly has an apologetic approach. He characterised theology as 'the methodical interpretation of the contents of the Christian faith'. That is, the Christian faith had to be interpreted and could only be interpreted by reason. Following Aquinas, Tillich sought to show how revelation could be reconciled with reason, since in the end there could be no insurmountable conflict between the two. His understanding of religion emphasised the importance of symbolism, and he held that reason played the role of interpreting revelation through 'true' symbols. 'True' symbols were for Tillich an expression of the infinite through the finite. The implications for his Christology were certainly unorthodox, significantly in his view that Christ could not be identified with God in any literal sense, but rather a symbolic revelation from God of what humanity ought to be. Tillich's work also attracted interest and exerted influence beyond theological readership, most notably in his work on existentialism as expressed in The Courage to Be, published in 1952.

Tillich died in Chicago in 1965. A park was named after him in New Harmony, Indiana, where his ashes were interred.

Works by Paul Tillich include The Protestant Era (1948), Systematic Theology, 3 vols. (1951, 1957, 1963), The Courage to Be (1952), and The Dynamics of Faith (1957).

Sam Addison
University of Aberdeen

Sent from my iPhone

On Mar 22, 2014, at 12:38 PM, "B" <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Need a bio for him asap pls, mahen. And john, the title of the book and the connection to UTS here in nyc make me want to use the quote even more

-----Original Message-----

From: Fred Davie
To: Bill de Blasio
Cc: Chirlane McCray
Subject: Re: Saturday Morning
Sent: Mar 22, 2014 12:01 PM

Glad you like the piece.

Tillich was a 20th century German theologian who came to the US in 1933 and had tenured positions at Union Theological Seminary NYC and Harvard.

Here is a link to the book, The Shaking of the Foundations, which is out of print. The quote from Tillich comes from Chapter 7, The Depth of Existence.

<http://www.religion-online.org/showbook.asp?title=378>

Of my musings I sent this morning, the first and last paragraphs are mine, and the middle one is a direct quote from Chapter 7 of Tillich's book.

Be well. A big hug to everyone.

Fred

Frederick A. Davie, M.Div.
Executive Vice-President
Secretary to the Board of Trustees
Union Theological Seminary in the City of New York
3041 Broadway at 121st Street
New York, NY 10027
212-280-1404 (office)
347-585-1896 (mobile)
utsnyc.edu

This email was sent from a mobile device. Please excuse any errors or misspellings.

On Mar 22, 2014, at 11:40 AM, Bill de Blasio
<[REDACTED]> wrote:

Beautiful quotes!! Tell us more about Tillich. I may use that publicly -- really hits the mark

-----Original Message-----

From: Fred Davie

To: Bill de Blasio

To: Chirlane McCray

Subject: Saturday Morning

Sent: Mar 22, 2014 6:59 AM

The longing hearts of the masses have much to teach us about the depth of life and the ultimate meaning of human existence.

The noise of ...shallow waters prevents us from listening to the sounds out of the depth, to the sounds of what really happens in the ground of our social structure, in the longing hearts of the masses, and in the struggling minds of those who are sensitive to historical changes. (Tillich)

Charting a course through the noise of the shallow waters to address the deep needs of the masses is a divine pursuit. Sacrifices required for the journey are ultimately redeemed. And the end of the way is pure joy.

Thinking of you,

Fred

Frederick A. Davie, M.Div.

Executive Vice-President

Secretary to the Board of Trustees

Union Theological Seminary in the City of New York

3041 Broadway at 121st Street

New York, NY 10027

212-280-1404 (office)

347-585-1896 (mobile)

utsnyc.edu

This email was sent from a mobile device. Please excuse any errors or misspellings.

Sent via BlackBerry by AT&T

From: John Del Cecato
To: B
Cc: Gunaratna, Mahen; Jon Fromowitz
Subject: Re: Saturday Morning
Date: Sunday, March 23, 2014 10:16:26 AM

TILL-lick

On Mar 23, 2014, at 10:10 AM, "B" <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Need proper pronunciation for tillich's name. Help, someone! Thanks

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
Sent: Saturday, March 22, 2014 12:46 PM
To: B
Cc: jfdc@akpdmmedia.com <jfdc@akpdmmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Saturday Morning

Please see below for a bio of Paul Tillich:

Biography:

Paul Tillich was born 20 August 1886 in Starzeddel, then a province of Brandenburg, Germany (now part of Poland). His family moved to Berlin in 1900 when his father was called to a position as a Lutheran pastor. After graduating from the Friedrich Wilhelm Gymnasium in 1904, Tillich attended the universities of Berlin, Tübingen and Breslau. He graduated in 1911 from the University of Breslau with a doctoral degree in philosophy.

In 1912 Tillich was ordained as a minister in the Lutheran Church. For the next two decades he lectured on philosophy and theology at many universities, including Berlin, Dresden and Frankfurt. He also spent four years serving as a military chaplain during World War I. His philosophical and theological views developed as he gained exposure to varied academic environments, from the neo-orthodoxy of Karl Barth to the existentialism of Heidegger. His liberalism and opposition to the Nazi movement led to his dismissal in 1933. Fortunately, Reinhold Niebuhr, whom he had met in Germany, offered him a position at the Union Theological Seminary in New York. Tillich became a U.S. citizen in 1940, then took up a position at Harvard in 1954, followed by one at the University of Chicago in 1962, where he was to remain until the end of his life.

Though in many ways unorthodox and reformist, Tillich was undoubtedly a Christian theologian. His concern was to develop a satisfying Christian theology in the context of an acceptable philosophy. Heidegger's influence can be seen in Tillich's existential starting-point in his ontology of beings and being itself. He uses the existentialist motif of 'nothingness' in his characterisation of the experience of beings as confronting the nonbeing inherent in our finitude. He opposed himself to any understanding of God that might give the impression of deity as a being among others; God in Tillich's view had to be understood as 'the ground of being' or, to use a not-unfamiliar expression, being itself. The manner in which he spoke of God, with such remarks as, 'God does not exist. . . . He is being itself beyond essence and existence', led to some accusations of atheism and pantheism.

Tillich's best-known work is his three-volume Systematic Theology (1951, 1957, and 1963), which was based on his Gifford Lectures. His work clearly has an apologetic approach. He characterised theology as 'the methodical interpretation of the contents of the Christian faith'. That is, the Christian faith had to be interpreted and could only be interpreted by reason. Following Aquinas, Tillich sought to show how revelation could be reconciled with reason, since in the end there could be no insurmountable conflict between the two. His understanding of religion emphasised the importance of symbolism, and he held that reason played the role of interpreting revelation through 'true' symbols. 'True' symbols were for Tillich an expression of the infinite through the finite. The implications for his Christology were certainly unorthodox, significantly in his view that Christ could not be identified with God in any literal sense, but rather a symbolic revelation from God of what humanity ought to be. Tillich's work also attracted interest and exerted influence beyond theological readership, most notably in his work on existentialism as expressed in The Courage to Be, published in 1952.

Tillich died in Chicago in 1965. A park was named after him in New Harmony, Indiana, where his ashes were interred.

Works by Paul Tillich include The Protestant Era (1948), Systematic Theology, 3 vols. (1951, 1957, 1963), The Courage to Be (1952), and The Dynamics of Faith (1957).

Sam Addison
University of Aberdeen

Sent from my iPhone

On Mar 22, 2014, at 12:38 PM, "B" <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Need a bio for him asap pls, mahen. And john, the title of the book and the connection to UTS here in nyc make me want to use the quote even more

-----Original Message-----

From: Fred Davie

To: Bill de Blasio

Cc: Chirlane McCray

Subject: Re: Saturday Morning
Sent: Mar 22, 2014 12:01 PM

Glad you like the piece.

Tillich was a 20th century German theologian who came to the US in 1933 and had tenured positions at Union Theological Seminary NYC and Harvard.

Here is a link to the book, The Shaking of the Foundations, which is out of print. The quote from Tillich comes from Chapter 7, The Depth of Existence.

<http://www.religion-online.org/showbook.asp?title=378>

Of my musings I sent this morning, the first and last paragraphs are mine, and the middle one is a direct quote from Chapter 7 of Tillich's book.

Be well. A big hug to everyone.

Fred

Frederick A. Davie, M.Div.
Executive Vice-President
Secretary to the Board of Trustees
Union Theological Seminary in the City of New York
3041 Broadway at 121st Street
New York, NY 10027
212-280-1404 (office)
347-585-1896 (mobile)
utsnyc.edu

This email was sent from a mobile device. Please excuse any errors or misspellings.

On Mar 22, 2014, at 11:40 AM, Bill de Blasio
<[REDACTED]> wrote:

Beautiful quotes!! Tell us more about Tillich. I may use that publicly -- really hits the mark

-----Original Message-----

From: Fred Davie
To: Bill de Blasio
To: Chirlane McCray
Subject: Saturday Morning
Sent: Mar 22, 2014 6:59 AM

The longing hearts of the masses have much to teach us about the depth of life and the ultimate meaning of human existence.

The noise of ...shallow waters prevents us from listening to the sounds out of the depth, to the sounds of what really happens in the ground of our social structure, in the longing hearts of the masses, and in the struggling minds of those who are sensitive to historical changes. (Tillich)

Charting a course through the noise of the shallow waters to address the deep needs of the masses is a divine pursuit. Sacrifices required for the journey are ultimately redeemed. And the end of the way is pure joy.

Thinking of you,

Fred

Frederick A. Davie, M.Div.
Executive Vice-President
Secretary to the Board of Trustees
Union Theological Seminary in the City of New York
3041 Broadway at 121st Street

New York, NY 10027

212-280-1404 (office)

347-585-1896 (mobile)

utsnyc.edu

This email was sent from a mobile device. Please excuse any errors or misspellings.

Sent via BlackBerry by AT&T

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
To: B
Cc: jfdc@akpdmedia.com; jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com
Subject: Re: Saturday Morning
Date: Sunday, March 23, 2014 10:25:08 AM

Pronounce his name as "Till - ick" - rhymes with "static"

Sent from my iPhone

On Mar 23, 2014, at 10:10 AM, "B" <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Need proper pronunciation for tillich's name. Help, someone! Thanks

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
Sent: Saturday, March 22, 2014 12:46 PM
To: B
Cc: jfdc@akpdmedia.com <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Saturday Morning

Please see below for a bio of Paul Tillich:

Biography:

Paul Tillich was born 20 August 1886 in Starzeddel, then a province of Brandenburg, Germany (now part of Poland). His family moved to Berlin in 1900 when his father was called to a position as a Lutheran pastor. After graduating from the Friedrich Wilhelm Gymnasium in 1904, Tillich attended the universities of Berlin, Tübingen and Breslau. He graduated in 1911 from the University of Breslau with a doctoral degree in philosophy.

In 1912 Tillich was ordained as a minister in the Lutheran Church. For the next two decades he lectured on philosophy and theology at many universities, including Berlin, Dresden and Frankfurt. He also spent four years serving as a military chaplain during World War I. His philosophical and theological views developed as he gained exposure to varied academic environments, from the neo-orthodoxy of Karl Barth to the existentialism of Heidegger. His liberalism and opposition to the Nazi movement led to his dismissal in 1933. Fortunately, Reinhold Niebuhr, whom he had met in Germany, offered him a position at the Union Theological Seminary in New York. Tillich became a U.S. citizen in 1940, then took up a position at Harvard in 1954, followed by one at the University of Chicago in 1962, where he was to remain until the end of his life.

Though in many ways unorthodox and reformist, Tillich was undoubtedly a Christian theologian. His concern was to develop a satisfying Christian theology in the context of an acceptable philosophy. Heidegger's influence can be seen in Tillich's existential starting-point in his ontology of beings and being itself. He uses the existentialist motif of 'nothingness' in his characterisation of the experience of beings as confronting the nonbeing inherent in our finitude. He opposed himself to any understanding of God that might give the impression of deity as a being among others; God in Tillich's view had to be understood as 'the ground of being' or, to use a not-unfamiliar expression, being itself. The manner in which he spoke of God, with such remarks as, 'God does not exist. . . . He is being itself beyond essence and existence', led to some accusations of atheism and pantheism.

Tillich's best-known work is his three-volume Systematic Theology (1951, 1957, and 1963), which was based on his Gifford Lectures. His work clearly has an apologetic approach. He characterised theology as 'the methodical interpretation of the contents of the Christian faith'. That is, the Christian faith had to be interpreted and could only be interpreted by reason. Following Aquinas, Tillich sought to show how revelation could be reconciled with reason, since in the end there could be no insurmountable conflict between the two. His understanding of religion emphasised the importance of symbolism, and he held that reason played the role of interpreting revelation through 'true' symbols. 'True' symbols were for Tillich an expression of the infinite through the finite. The implications for his Christology were certainly unorthodox, significantly in his view that Christ could not be identified with God in any literal sense, but rather a symbolic revelation from God of what humanity ought to be. Tillich's work also attracted interest and exerted influence beyond theological readership, most notably in his work on existentialism as expressed in The Courage to Be, published in 1952.

Tillich died in Chicago in 1965. A park was named after him in New Harmony, Indiana, where his ashes were interred.

Works by Paul Tillich include The Protestant Era (1948), Systematic Theology, 3 vols. (1951, 1957, 1963), The Courage to Be (1952), and The Dynamics of Faith (1957).

Sam Addison
University of Aberdeen

Sent from my iPhone

On Mar 22, 2014, at 12:38 PM, "B" <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Need a bio for him asap pls, mahen. And john, the title of the book and the connection to UTS here in nyc make me want to use the quote even more

-----Original Message-----

From: Fred Davie

To: Bill de Blasio

Cc: Chirlane McCray

Subject: Re: Saturday Morning
Sent: Mar 22, 2014 12:01 PM

Glad you like the piece.

Tillich was a 20th century German theologian who came to the US in 1933 and had tenured positions at Union Theological Seminary NYC and Harvard.

Here is a link to the book, The Shaking of the Foundations, which is out of print. The quote from Tillich comes from Chapter 7, The Depth of Existence.

<http://www.religion-online.org/showbook.asp?title=378>

Of my musings I sent this morning, the first and last paragraphs are mine, and the middle one is a direct quote from Chapter 7 of Tillich's book.

Be well. A big hug to everyone.

Fred

Frederick A. Davie, M.Div.
Executive Vice-President
Secretary to the Board of Trustees
Union Theological Seminary in the City of New York
3041 Broadway at 121st Street
New York, NY 10027
212-280-1404 (office)
347-585-1896 (mobile)
utsnyc.edu

This email was sent from a mobile device. Please excuse any errors or misspellings.

On Mar 22, 2014, at 11:40 AM, Bill de Blasio
<[REDACTED]> wrote:

Beautiful quotes!! Tell us more about Tillich. I may use that publicly -- really hits the mark

-----Original Message-----

From: Fred Davie
To: Bill de Blasio
To: Chirlane McCray
Subject: Saturday Morning
Sent: Mar 22, 2014 6:59 AM

The longing hearts of the masses have much to teach us about the depth of life and the ultimate meaning of human existence.

The noise of ...shallow waters prevents us from listening to the sounds out of the depth, to the sounds of what really happens in the ground of our social structure, in the longing hearts of the masses, and in the struggling minds of those who are sensitive to historical changes. (Tillich)

Charting a course through the noise of the shallow waters to address the deep needs of the masses is a divine pursuit. Sacrifices required for the journey are ultimately redeemed. And the end of the way is pure joy.

Thinking of you,

Fred

Frederick A. Davie, M.Div.
Executive Vice-President
Secretary to the Board of Trustees
Union Theological Seminary in the City of New York
3041 Broadway at 121st Street

New York, NY 10027

212-280-1404 (office)

347-585-1896 (mobile)

utsnyc.edu

This email was sent from a mobile device. Please excuse any errors or misspellings.

Sent via BlackBerry by AT&T

From: John Del Cecato
To: Santucci, Laura
Subject: Re: Friday shoot?
Date: Tuesday, March 25, 2014 1:43:16 PM

Can you run scripts by BDB and Chirlane? Or should I do that?

On Mar 25, 2014, at 1:31 PM, "Santucci, Laura" <LSantucci@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

JDC – Lindsay Scola will work out time

From: [redacted] [[mailto:\[redacted\]](mailto:[redacted])]
Sent: Tuesday, March 25, 2014 10:35 AM
To: John Del Cecato; Josh Gold; Bill Hyers
Cc: Sarah Hegeman; Santucci, Laura
Subject: Re: Friday shoot?

+ laura
Let's do it
Sent via BlackBerry by AT&T

From: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Date: Tue, 25 Mar 2014 14:07:34 +0000
To: Josh Gold<[\[redacted\]](mailto:[redacted])>; Emma Wolfe<[\[redacted\]](mailto:[redacted])> Bill Hyers<[\[redacted\]](mailto:[redacted])>
Cc: Sarah Hegeman<shegeman@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Friday shoot?

I know Josh & Sarah (our producer) have been speaking, but we were hoping to get an hour of time from MBDB & a different hour from FLONYC on Friday to shoot for the UPK NYC spots... I realize we don't know if/when we'll be up yet, but we thought it would be better to have something in the can & figure out what we do with the product later... Thoughts?

From: John Del Cecato
To: Scola, Lindsay; Sarah Hegeman
Subject: Re: Friday shoot?
Date: Tuesday, March 25, 2014 1:43:19 PM

I think it could be at City Hall, since it's an official advocacy ad and not a political ad.

On Mar 25, 2014, at 1:25 PM, "Scola, Lindsay" <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Jon-

Does this have to be off site? If it can be at City Hall I can make this work on Thursday. Friday is a tough day. Let me know if Monday is too late.

Thanks!

Lindsay Scola
Director of Scheduling
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212.788.2962
Cell: 917.513.1690

From: Santucci, Laura
Sent: Tuesday, March 25, 2014 12:13 PM
To: Scola, Lindsay
Subject: FW: Friday shoot?

Let's see what would work

From: [REDACTED] [\[mailto:\[REDACTED\]\]](mailto:[REDACTED])
Sent: Tuesday, March 25, 2014 10:35 AM
To: John Del Cecato; Josh Gold; Bill Hyers
Cc: Sarah Hegeman; Santucci, Laura
Subject: Re: Friday shoot?

+ laura

Let's do it

Sent via BlackBerry by AT&T

From: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Date: Tue, 25 Mar 2014 14:07:34 +0000
To: Josh Gold<[\[REDACTED\]](mailto:[REDACTED])>; Emma Wolfe<[\[REDACTED\]](mailto:[REDACTED])> Bill Hyers<[\[REDACTED\]](mailto:[REDACTED])>
Cc: Sarah Hegeman<shegeman@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Friday shoot?

I know Josh & Sarah (our producer) have been speaking, but we were hoping to get an hour of time from MBDB & a different hour from FLONYC on Friday to shoot for the UPK NYC spots... I realize we don't know if/when we'll be up yet, but we thought it would be better to have something in the can & figure out what we do with the product later... Thoughts?

From: John Del Cecato
To: Santucci, Laura
Cc: [REDACTED] Josh Gold; Bill Hyers; Sarah Hegeman
Subject: Re: Friday shoot?
Date: Tuesday, March 25, 2014 1:43:31 PM

Right on - thanks!

On Mar 25, 2014, at 1:31 PM, "Santucci, Laura" <LSantucci@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

JDC – Lindsay Scola will work out time

From: [REDACTED] [[mailto:\[REDACTED\]](mailto:[REDACTED])]
Sent: Tuesday, March 25, 2014 10:35 AM
To: John Del Cecato; Josh Gold; Bill Hyers
Cc: Sarah Hegeman; Santucci, Laura
Subject: Re: Friday shoot?

+ laura
Let's do it
Sent via BlackBerry by AT&T

From: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Date: Tue, 25 Mar 2014 14:07:34 +0000
To: Josh Gold<[\[REDACTED\]](mailto:[REDACTED])>; Emma Wolfe<[\[REDACTED\]](mailto:[REDACTED])> Bill Hyers<[\[REDACTED\]](mailto:[REDACTED])>
Cc: Sarah Hegeman<shegeman@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Friday shoot?

I know Josh & Sarah (our producer) have been speaking, but we were hoping to get an hour of time from MBDB & a different hour from FLONYC on Friday to shoot for the UPK NYC spots... I realize we don't know if/when we'll be up yet, but we thought it would be better to have something in the can & figure out what we do with the product later... Thoughts?

From: Scola, Lindsay
To: Fuleihan, Dean \(OMB\); "jonathan@berlinrosen.com"; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Williams, Dominic; Santucci, Laura; Katz, Rebecca; Ragone, Peter; Shorris, Anthony; Wolfe, Emma; Wiley, Maya; Noerdlinger, Rachel
Cc: Grybauskas, Stefan; "rmunoz@akpdmedia.com"; Seignious, Sandy; Griffith, Chantell; Shapiro, Leigh; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Ko, Eunice; Nordstrom, Mandy \(OMB\); Reisman, Lisette; Chao, Raymond; Hanley, Monica; Chao, Raymond
Subject: Thursday@ 4:30PM - Planning Meeting
Date: Tuesday, March 25, 2014 7:27:15 PM

Apologies for the short notice, but the next planning meeting will be from 4:30pm – 6:00pm on Thursday, March 27th at City Hall in the Committee of the Whole room.

Please RSVP to Ray Chao at: rchao@cityhall.nyc.gov. He will be sending a calendar invite following this.

Best,
Lindsay

Lindsay Scola
Director of Scheduling
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212.788.2962
Cell: 917.513.1690

From: Scola, Lindsay
To: "Liz Hegarty"
Cc: Sarah Hegeman
Subject: RE: Friday shoot?
Date: Wednesday, March 26, 2014 9:05:22 AM

██████████ ██████████

Thanks!

Also holding 5-6pm on Friday for the taping for BdB and 4-5pm for CMC

Lindsay Scola
Director of Scheduling
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212.788.2962
Cell: 917.513.1690

From: Liz Hegarty [<mailto:lhgart@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, March 26, 2014 8:52 AM
To: Scola, Lindsay
Cc: Sarah Hegeman
Subject: Re: Friday shoot?

Hi Lindsay,

Hope all is well. Robert is out of town so I'm going to be covering John's schedule for the rest of the week.

I've added this call for 11:30 ET today. Please let me know if it would be helpful for me to send around a conference call number.

Thanks!

Liz

--

Liz Hegarty

Assistant to Larry Grisolano
AKPD Message and Media
730 N Franklin St, Suite 404
Chicago, IL 60654
Office: 312-664-7500
Cell: 203-482-6229
lhgart@akpdmedia.com

From: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Date: Wednesday, March 26, 2014 6:37 AM
To: Sarah Hegeman <shegeman@akpdmedia.com>, "lhegarty@akpdmedia.com" <lhegarty@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: "Scola, Lindsay" <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: Friday shoot?

Right on

On Mar 25, 2014, at 10:50 PM, "Sarah Hegeman" <shegeman@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

11:30ET works for me. John?

From: <Scola>, Lindsay <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Tuesday, March 25, 2014 9:47 PM
To: Sarah Hegeman <shegeman@akpdmedia.com>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Friday shoot?

I think I have made Friday work. Can you do a call at 11:30 tomorrow to go through all the details by then we will have a time for Friday.

From: Sarah Hegeman [<mailto:shegeman@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, March 25, 2014 10:04 PM
To: Scola, Lindsay; John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Friday shoot?

Hi Lindsay-

I think we are going to make Thursday work. We are putting crew together now. Can you let me know the window of times that we will have with MBDB & FLONYC? Do you know what room we would have to set up the shot?

Also, would it would probably be good to run this shoot by the mayor's legal team to make sure that it is ok that we use City Hall. Would you be able to help with that?

Let me know.

Thanks!
Sarah

From: <Scola>, Lindsay <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Tuesday, March 25, 2014 1:54 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, Sarah Hegeman <shegeman@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: Friday shoot?

Ok, Let me know as soon as you can.

Lindsay Scola
Director of Scheduling
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212.788.2962
Cell: 917.513.1690

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, March 25, 2014 2:18 PM
To: Scola, Lindsay; Sarah Hegeman
Subject: Re: Friday shoot?

That might be tough... Let me caucus with Sarah

From: <Scola>, Lindsay <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Tuesday, March 25, 2014 at 1:43 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, Sarah Hegeman <shegeman@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: Friday shoot?

Can we do Thursday?

Lindsay Scola
Director of Scheduling
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212.788.2962
Cell: 917.513.1690

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, March 25, 2014 1:43 PM
To: Scola, Lindsay; Sarah Hegeman
Subject: Re: Friday shoot?

Also, Monday is too late. We need to be up on April 1 so we need to produce and ship over the weekend.

On Mar 25, 2014, at 1:25 PM, "Scola, Lindsay" <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Jon-

Does this have to be off site? If it can be at City Hall I can make this work on Thursday. Friday is a tough day. Let me know if Monday is too late.

Thanks!

Lindsay Scola
Director of Scheduling
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212.788.2962
Cell: 917.513.1690

From: Santucci, Laura
Sent: Tuesday, March 25, 2014 12:13 PM
To: Scola, Lindsay
Subject: FW: Friday shoot?

Let's see what would work

From: [REDACTED] [mailto:\[REDACTED\]](mailto:[REDACTED])
Sent: Tuesday, March 25, 2014 10:35 AM
To: John Del Cecato; Josh Gold; Bill Hyers
Cc: Sarah Hegeman; Santucci, Laura
Subject: Re: Friday shoot?

+ laura
Let's do it
Sent via BlackBerry by AT&T

From: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Date: Tue, 25 Mar 2014 14:07:34 +0000
To: Josh Gold<[REDACTED]>; Emma Wolfe<[REDACTED]>
Bill Hyers<[REDACTED]>
Cc: Sarah Hegeman<shegeman@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Friday shoot?

I know Josh & Sarah (our producer) have been speaking, but we were hoping to get an hour of time from MBDB & a different hour from FLONyc on Friday to shoot for the UPK NYC spots... I realize we don't know if/when we'll be up yet, but we thought it would be better to have something in the can & figure out what we do with the product later... Thoughts?

From: Sarah Hegeman
To: Scola, Lindsay; Liz Hegarty
Cc: John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: Friday shoot?
Date: Wednesday, March 26, 2014 11:43:55 AM
Attachments: [UPKNYCscriptLANDMARK2\[1\].doc](#)
[UPKNYCscriptFAMILY2\[1\].doc](#)
[UPKNYCscriptSTATE\[1\].doc](#)

Scripts attached. Let me know if you need anything else.

Thanks!

From: <Scola>, Lindsay <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Wednesday, March 26, 2014 8:05 AM
To: Liz Hegarty <lhgart@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: Sarah Hegeman <shegeman@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: Friday shoot?

██████████ ██████████
Thanks!

Also holding 5-6pm on Friday for the taping for BdB and 4-5pm for CMC

Lindsay Scola
Director of Scheduling
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212.788.2962
Cell: 917.513.1690

From: Liz Hegarty [<mailto:lhgart@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, March 26, 2014 8:52 AM
To: Scola, Lindsay
Cc: Sarah Hegeman
Subject: Re: Friday shoot?

Hi Lindsay,

Hope all is well. Robert is out of town so I'm going to be covering John's schedule for the rest of the week.

I've added this call for 11:30 ET today. Please let me know if it would be helpful for me to send around a conference call number.

Thanks!

Liz

--

Liz Hegarty

Assistant to Larry Grisolano
AKPD Message and Media
730 N Franklin St, Suite 404
Chicago, IL 60654
Office: 312-664-7500
Cell: 203-482-6229
lhgart@akpdmedia.com

From: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Date: Wednesday, March 26, 2014 6:37 AM
To: Sarah Hegeman <shegeman@akpdmedia.com>, "lhgart@akpdmedia.com" <lhgart@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: "Scola, Lindsay" <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: Friday shoot?

Right on

On Mar 25, 2014, at 10:50 PM, "Sarah Hegeman" <shegeman@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

11:30ET works for me. John?

From: <Scola>, Lindsay <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Tuesday, March 25, 2014 9:47 PM
To: Sarah Hegeman <shegeman@akpdmedia.com>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Friday shoot?

I think I have made Friday work. Can you do a call at 11:30 tomorrow to go through all the details by then we will have a time for Friday.

From: Sarah Hegeman [<mailto:shegeman@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, March 25, 2014 10:04 PM
To: Scola, Lindsay; John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Friday shoot?

Hi Lindsay-

I think we are going to make Thursday work. We are putting crew together now. Can you let me know the window of times that we will have with MBDB & FLONYC? Do you know what room we would have to set up the shot?

Also, would it would probably be good to run this shoot by the mayor's legal team to make sure that it is ok that we use City Hall. Would you be able to help with that?

Let me know.

Thanks!

Sarah

From: <Scola>, Lindsay <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Tuesday, March 25, 2014 1:54 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, Sarah Hegeman <shegeman@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: Friday shoot?

Ok, Let me know as soon as you can.

Lindsay Scola
Director of Scheduling
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212.788.2962
Cell: 917.513.1690

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, March 25, 2014 2:18 PM
To: Scola, Lindsay; Sarah Hegeman
Subject: Re: Friday shoot?

That might be tough... Let me caucus with Sarah

From: <Scola>, Lindsay <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Tuesday, March 25, 2014 at 1:43 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, Sarah Hegeman <shegeman@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: Friday shoot?

Can we do Thursday?

Lindsay Scola
Director of Scheduling
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212.788.2962
Cell: 917.513.1690

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, March 25, 2014 1:43 PM

To: Scola, Lindsay; Sarah Hegeman
Subject: Re: Friday shoot?

Also, Monday is too late. We need to be up on April 1 so we need to produce and ship over the weekend.

On Mar 25, 2014, at 1:25 PM, "Scola, Lindsay" <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Jon-

Does this have to be off site? If it can be at City Hall I can make this work on Thursday. Friday is a tough day. Let me know if Monday is too late.

Thanks!

Lindsay Scola
Director of Scheduling
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212.788.2962
Cell: 917.513.1690

From: Santucci, Laura
Sent: Tuesday, March 25, 2014 12:13 PM
To: Scola, Lindsay
Subject: FW: Friday shoot?

Let's see what would work

From: [REDACTED] [mailto:\[REDACTED\]](mailto:[REDACTED])
Sent: Tuesday, March 25, 2014 10:35 AM
To: John Del Cecato; Josh Gold; Bill Hyers
Cc: Sarah Hegeman; Santucci, Laura
Subject: Re: Friday shoot?

+ laura
Let's do it
Sent via BlackBerry by AT&T

From: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Date: Tue, 25 Mar 2014 14:07:34 +0000
To: Josh Gold<[\[REDACTED\]](mailto:[REDACTED])>; Emma Wolfe<[\[REDACTED\]](mailto:[REDACTED])>
Bill Hyers<[\[REDACTED\]](mailto:[REDACTED])>
Cc: Sarah Hegeman<shegeman@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Friday shoot?

I know Josh & Sarah (our producer) have been speaking, but we were hoping to get an hour of time from MBDB & a different hour from FLONYC on Friday to shoot for the UPK NYC spots... I realize we don't know if/when we'll be up yet, but we thought it would be better to have something in the can & figure out what we do with the product later... Thoughts?

LANDMARK
:30 for TV
UPK NYC

Visual

Voice

BDB ON CAMERA, ID'ed

A year and a half ago, I unveiled a plan to lift up EVERY child – with universal Pre-K and after-school programs.

BDB ON CAMERA

It's been a tough fight, with powerful forces pushing back.

STATE CAPITOL AS BACKGROUND.
HEADLINES BUILD.

We took some heat from our adversaries...even from our friends.

New York City Mayor Bill de Blasio faces Albany opposition over Pre-K funding – AP
Does universal pre-K make good policy sense? -- NY POST
Gov. Cuomo Says de Blasio Pre-K Plan "Is Not Going To Be Successful" In Albany -- NY DAILY NEWS

SHOTS OF BDB WITH PARENTS OR AT RALLY

But you responded with passion and focus – making sure Albany heard from US.

BDB ON CAMERA, WITH HEADLINE OR GRAPHICS ON UPK VICTORY

Now, we've won a landmark victory – with Pre-K and after-school programs for tens of thousands more kids...not "someday" – but THIS YEAR.

BDB ON CAMERA, UPK WEBSITE

New York City: thank you.

OR

WHITE TYPE ON BLACK
CG: "Join the Fight for Action:
UPK NYC.org)

FAMILY
:30 for TV
UPK NYC

Visual

Voice

OPEN ON PHOTO OF CHIARA AND DANTE AS TINY TOTS

CHIRLANE ON CAMERA, ID'ed

That's also the time when politicians started talking about Pre-K in New York.

Today, we're finally seeing ACTION.

MAYOR AND FLONYC WITH KIDS IN CLASSROOM. MAYOR AT A RALLY PUSHING PRE-K. MAYOR LISTENING TO A YOUNG MOTHER. HEADLINE ON HISTORIC WIN FOR NYC.

In a landmark win for New York City, tens of thousands of our kids will NOW have access to full-day Pre-K -- and thousands more young people will have an after-school program.

CHIRLANE ON CAMERA

Not "someday." It starts THIS YEAR.

DIVERSE PORTRAITS OF NYC FAMILIES, TO CAMERA.

New York City – YOU made this happen.

CHIRLANE ON CAMERA.
CG: New York City: {BEAT} Thank You.

From our family to yours...thank you.

OR

WHITE TYPE ON BLACK
CG: "Join the Fight for Action:
UPK NYC.org)

STATE
:30 for TV
UPK NYC

Visual

Voice

OPEN ON PHOTO OF CHIARA AND DANTE AS TINY TOTS

CHIRLANE ON CAMERA, ID'ed

That's also the time when politicians started talking about Pre-K in New York.

Today, we're finally seeing ACTION.

MAYOR AND FLONYC WITH KIDS IN CLASSROOM. MAYOR AT A RALLY PUSHING PRE-K. MAYOR LISTENING TO A YOUNG MOTHER. HEADLINE ON HISTORIC WIN FOR NYC.

In a landmark win for New York City, tens of thousands of our kids will NOW have access to full-day Pre-K -- and thousands more young people will have an after-school program.

CHIRLANE ON CAMERA

Not "someday." It starts THIS YEAR.

DIVERSE PORTRAITS OF NYC FAMILIES, TO CAMERA.

New York City – YOU made this happen.

WHITE TYPE ON BLACK
CG: "New York State Legislators {BEAT} Thank You."

To our state lawmakers...thank you.

From: Scola, Lindsay
To: "Sarah Hegeman"
Cc: Liz Hegarty; John Del Cecato; Martinez Blanco, Frankie; Grybauskas, Stefan
Subject: Friday Shoot
Date: Wednesday, March 26, 2014 3:19:46 PM
Attachments: ATT00001.txt
ATT00002.txt
ATT00003.txt
ATT00004.txt
ATT00005.txt

We are good for Friday to be at City Hall. Please see room pictures attached. Frankie and Stefan will be your POCs for this event and will help with room logistics and vehicles through Security.

Thanks,
Lindsay

Lindsay Scola
Director of Scheduling
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212.788.2962
Cell: 917.513.1690

From: Ko, Eunice
To: Scola, Lindsay; "shegeman@akpdmedia.com"; Martinez Blanco, Frankie
Cc: "lhegarty@akpdmedia.com"; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Grybauskas, Stefan
Subject: RE: Friday Shoot
Date: Wednesday, March 26, 2014 6:11:11 PM

Hi all,

I'm just waiting on a couple of pieces to get finalized for Friday before I offer you a time. Will circle back with a time tomorrow AM. Thanks for your patience!

From: Scola, Lindsay
Sent: Wednesday, March 26, 2014 5:53 PM
To: 'shegeman@akpdmedia.com'; Martinez Blanco, Frankie
Cc: 'lhegarty@akpdmedia.com'; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; Grybauskas, Stefan; Ko, Eunice
Subject: Re: Friday Shoot

Team-

The times may need to change slightly for both principals. Stefan and Eunice will advise on time.

From: Sarah Hegeman [<mailto:shegeman@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, March 26, 2014 05:48 PM
To: Martinez Blanco, Frankie; Scola, Lindsay
Cc: Liz Hegarty <lhegarty@akpdmedia.com>; John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Grybauskas, Stefan; Ko, Eunice
Subject: Re: Friday Shoot

Hi Frankie-

1. We have one hour reserved with the Mayor, from 5-6p.
2. We have one hour reserved with the First Lady, from 4-5p.
3. We will be bringing a bit a equipment – it is small for us, but it is much larger than TV news crews use. We will have a camera with tripod, prompter, sound equipment, and lights. We are still putting together the final equipment lists, and I can send you those if needed.
4. Yes, having access to the parking lot to drop off equipment would be really helpful.
5. We will need 2 hours to set up. We were planning on arriving at 2p. What is the process for getting the gear inside? If it will take awhile, we might need to arrive a bit earlier.
6. I will check to make sure that we have access to protective gear for our lights and tripod.

Thanks!

--

Sarah Hegeman
Vice President and Executive Producer
AKPD Message and Media, LLC (formerly Axelrod and Associates)
P: 312.664.7500
C: 312.339.5632
F: 312.664.0174

From: "<Martinez Blanco>", Frankie <FMartinezBlanco@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Wednesday, March 26, 2014 4:29 PM
To: Sarah Hegeman <shegeman@akpdmedia.com>, "Scola, Lindsay" <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: Liz Hegarty <lhegarty@akpdmedia.com>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, "Grybauskas, Stefan" <SGrybauskas@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Ko, Eunice" <Eko@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: RE: Friday Shoot

Hi Sarah,

Couple of questions about the shoot:

- How long are you envisioning on needing the Mayor?
- How long do you envision needing the First Lady?
- How much equipment are you bringing?
- Would you need access to the parking lot to drop-off the equipment?
- How much set up time do you need?
- The room is a historic museum, so if you plan on bringing in heavy equipment, please bring small floor mats. If you don't have accessible, we can try to find something here that can be substitute.

Let me know if you have any questions.

Thanks,

Frankie

From: Sarah Hegeman [<mailto:shegeman@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, March 26, 2014 3:25 PM
To: Scola, Lindsay
Cc: Liz Hegarty; John Del Cecato; Martinez Blanco, Frankie; Grybauskas, Stefan
Subject: Re: Friday Shoot

Great. Thanks so much!

--

Sarah Hegeman
Vice President and Executive Producer
AKPD Message and Media, LLC (formerly Axelrod and Associates)
P: 312.664.7500
C: 312.339.5632
F: 312.664.0174

On 3/26/14 2:19 PM, "Scola, Lindsay" <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

We are good for Friday to be at City Hall. Please see room pictures attached. Frankie and Stefan will be your POCs for this event and will help with room logistics and vehicles through Security.

Thanks,

Lindsay

Lindsay Scola
Director of Scheduling
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212.788.2962
Cell: 917.513.1690

From: John Del Cecato
To: Negash, Dabash
Subject: Re: Friday Shoot
Date: Thursday, March 27, 2014 1:41:25 PM
Attachments: UPKNYCscriptSTATE.doc
UPKNYCscriptLANDMARK2.doc
UPKNYCscriptFAMILY2.doc

Yes - it's to spell out what we as a City have accomplished in our recent negotiations with Albany over Pre-K and after-school...

Here are the three scripts I sent BDB and CMC

From: <Negash>, "Negash, Dabash" <DNegash@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Thursday, March 27, 2014 at 12:56 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: FW: Friday Shoot

Hi John – Does your team have a script you can share with us for them to see in advance? Also, I'm not completely familiar with the purpose of the shoot, etc. Can you or someone on your team send me a basic summary that I can share with them? What they are taping, why, where it will air, when, etc.?

Thank you,
Dabash

From: Ko, Eunice
Sent: Wednesday, March 26, 2014 6:11 PM
To: Scola, Lindsay; 'shegeman@akpdmedia.com'; Martinez Blanco, Frankie
Cc: 'lhegarty@akpdmedia.com'; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; Grybauskas, Stefan
Subject: RE: Friday Shoot

Hi all,

I'm just waiting on a couple of pieces to get finalized for Friday before I offer you a time. Will circle back with a time tomorrow AM. Thanks for your patience!

From: Scola, Lindsay
Sent: Wednesday, March 26, 2014 5:53 PM
To: 'shegeman@akpdmedia.com'; Martinez Blanco, Frankie
Cc: 'lhegarty@akpdmedia.com'; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; Grybauskas, Stefan; Ko, Eunice
Subject: Re: Friday Shoot

Team-

The times may need to change slightly for both principals. Stefan and Eunice will advise on time.

From: Sarah Hegeman [<mailto:shegeman@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, March 26, 2014 05:48 PM
To: Martinez Blanco, Frankie; Scola, Lindsay
Cc: Liz Hegarty <lhegarty@akpdmedia.com>; John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Grybauskas, Stefan; Ko, Eunice
Subject: Re: Friday Shoot

Hi Frankie-

1. We have one hour reserved with the Mayor, from 5-6p.
2. We have one hour reserved with the First Lady, from 4-5p.
3. We will be bringing a bit a equipment – it is small for us, but it is much larger than TV news crews use. We will have a camera with tripod, prompter, sound equipment, and lights. We are still putting together the final equipment lists, and I can send you those if needed.
4. Yes, having access to the parking lot to drop off equipment would be really helpful.
5. We will need 2 hours to set up. We were planning on arriving at 2p. What is the process for getting the gear inside? If it will take awhile, we might need to arrive a bit earlier.
6. I will check to make sure that we have access to protective gear for our lights and tripod.

Thanks!

--

Sarah Hegeman

Vice President and Executive Producer

AKPD Message and Media, LLC (formerly Axelrod and Associates)

P: 312.664.7500

C: 312.339.5632

F: 312.664.0174

From: "<Martinez Blanco>", Frankie <FMartinezBlanco@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Date: Wednesday, March 26, 2014 4:29 PM

To: Sarah Hegeman <shegeman@akpdmedia.com>, "Scola, Lindsay" <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Cc: Liz Hegarty <lhegarty@akpdmedia.com>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>,
"Grybauskas, Stefan" <SGrybauskas@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Ko, Eunice" <EKo@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Subject: RE: Friday Shoot

Hi Sarah,

Couple of questions about the shoot:

- <!--[if !supportLists]--> · <!--[endif]-->How long are you envisioning on needing the Mayor?
- <!--[if !supportLists]--> · <!--[endif]-->How long do you envision needing the First Lady?
- <!--[if !supportLists]--> · <!--[endif]-->How much equipment are you bringing?
- <!--[if !supportLists]--> · <!--[endif]-->Would you need access to the parking lot to drop-off the equipment?
- <!--[if !supportLists]--> · <!--[endif]-->How much set up time do you need?
- <!--[if !supportLists]--> · <!--[endif]-->The room is a historic museum, so if you plan on bringing in heavy equipment, please bring small floor mats. If you don't have accessible, we can try to find something here that can be substitute.

Let me know if you have any questions.

Thanks,

Frankie

From: Sarah Hegeman [<mailto:shegeman@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, March 26, 2014 3:25 PM
To: Scola, Lindsay
Cc: Liz Hegarty; John Del Cecato; Martinez Blanco, Frankie; Grybauskas, Stefan
Subject: Re: Friday Shoot

Great. Thanks so much!

--

Sarah Hegeman
Vice President and Executive Producer
AKPD Message and Media, LLC (formerly Axelrod and Associates)
P: 312.664.7500
C: 312.339.5632
F: 312.664.0174

On 3/26/14 2:19 PM, "Scola, Lindsay" <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

We are good for Friday to be at City Hall. Please see room pictures attached. Frankie and Stefan will be your POCs for this event and will help with room logistics and vehicles through Security.

Thanks,
Lindsay

Lindsay Scola
Director of Scheduling
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212.788.2962
Cell: 917.513.1690

STATE
:30 for TV
UPK NYC

Visual

Voice

OPEN ON PHOTO OF CHIARA AND DANTE AS TINY TOTS

CHIRLANE ON CAMERA, ID'ed

That's also the time when politicians started talking about Pre-K in New York.

Today, we're finally seeing ACTION.

MAYOR AND FLONYC WITH KIDS IN CLASSROOM. MAYOR AT A RALLY PUSHING PRE-K. MAYOR LISTENING TO A YOUNG MOTHER. HEADLINE ON HISTORIC WIN FOR NYC.

In a landmark win for New York City, tens of thousands of our kids will NOW have access to full-day Pre-K -- and thousands more young people will have an after-school program.

CHIRLANE ON CAMERA

Not "someday." It starts THIS YEAR.

DIVERSE PORTRAITS OF NYC FAMILIES, TO CAMERA.

New York City – YOU made this happen.

WHITE TYPE ON BLACK
CG: "New York State Legislators {BEAT} Thank You."

To our state lawmakers...thank you.

LANDMARK
:30 for TV
UPK NYC

Visual

Voice

BDB ON CAMERA, ID'ed

A year and a half ago, I unveiled a plan to lift up EVERY child – with universal Pre-K and after-school programs.

BDB ON CAMERA

It's been a tough fight, with powerful forces pushing back.

STATE CAPITOL AS BACKGROUND.
HEADLINES BUILD.

We took some heat from our adversaries...even from our friends.

New York City Mayor Bill de Blasio faces Albany opposition over Pre-K funding – AP

Does universal pre-K make good policy sense? -- NY POST

Gov. Cuomo Says de Blasio Pre-K Plan "Is Not Going To Be Successful" In Albany -- NY DAILY NEWS

SHOTS OF BDB WITH PARENTS OR AT RALLY

But you responded with passion and focus – making sure Albany heard from US.

BDB ON CAMERA, WITH HEADLINE OR GRAPHICS ON UPK VICTORY

Now, we've won a landmark victory – with Pre-K and after-school programs for tens of thousands more kids...not "someday" – but THIS YEAR.

BDB ON CAMERA, UPK WEBSITE

New York City: thank you.

OR

WHITE TYPE ON BLACK

CG: "Join the Fight for Action:
UPK NYC.org)

FAMILY
:30 for TV
UPK NYC

Visual

Voice

OPEN ON PHOTO OF CHIARA AND DANTE AS TINY TOTS

CHIRLANE ON CAMERA, ID'ed

That's also the time when politicians started talking about Pre-K in New York.

Today, we're finally seeing ACTION.

MAYOR AND FLONYC WITH KIDS IN CLASSROOM. MAYOR AT A RALLY PUSHING PRE-K. MAYOR LISTENING TO A YOUNG MOTHER. HEADLINE ON HISTORIC WIN FOR NYC.

In a landmark win for New York City, tens of thousands of our kids will NOW have access to full-day Pre-K -- and thousands more young people will have an after-school program.

CHIRLANE ON CAMERA

Not "someday." It starts THIS YEAR.

DIVERSE PORTRAITS OF NYC FAMILIES, TO CAMERA.

New York City – YOU made this happen.

CHIRLANE ON CAMERA.
CG: New York City: {BEAT} Thank You.

From our family to yours...thank you.

OR

WHITE TYPE ON BLACK
CG: "Join the Fight for Action:
UPK NYC.org)

From: John Del Cecato
To: Negash, Dabash
Subject: Re: Friday Shoot
Date: Thursday, March 27, 2014 4:58:24 PM

We are still discussing exactly how it would break down but would be NYC bcast and cable mix

On Mar 27, 2014, at 4:55 PM, "Negash, Dabash" <DNegash@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Thank you. Do we know where it would air, when, etc.? Or is all of that still being discussed. Any other details you can share would be great.

Thanks again,
Dabash

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Thursday, March 27, 2014 1:41 PM
To: Negash, Dabash
Subject: Re: Friday Shoot

Yes - it's to spell out what we as a City have accomplished in our recent negotiations with Albany over Pre-K and after-school...

Here are the three scripts I sent BDB and CMC

From: <Negash>, "Negash, Dabash" <DNegash@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Thursday, March 27, 2014 at 12:56 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: FW: Friday Shoot

Hi John – Does your team have a script you can share with us for them to see in advance? Also, I'm not completely familiar with the purpose of the shoot, etc. Can you or someone on your team send me a basic summary that I can share with them? What they are taping, why, where it will air, when, etc.?

Thank you,
Dabash

From: Ko, Eunice
Sent: Wednesday, March 26, 2014 6:11 PM
To: Scola, Lindsay; 'shegeman@akpdmedia.com'; Martinez Blanco, Frankie
Cc: 'lhegarty@akpdmedia.com'; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; Grybauskas, Stefan
Subject: RE: Friday Shoot

Hi all,

I'm just waiting on a couple of pieces to get finalized for Friday before I offer you a time. Will circle back with a time tomorrow AM. Thanks for your patience!

From: Scola, Lindsay
Sent: Wednesday, March 26, 2014 5:53 PM
To: 'shegeman@akpdmedia.com'; Martinez Blanco, Frankie
Cc: 'lhgarty@akpdmedia.com'; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; Grybauskas, Stefan; Ko, Eunice
Subject: Re: Friday Shoot

Team-

The times may need to change slightly for both principals. Stefan and Eunice will advise on time.

From: Sarah Hegeman [<mailto:shegeman@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, March 26, 2014 05:48 PM
To: Martinez Blanco, Frankie; Scola, Lindsay
Cc: Liz Hegarty <lhgarty@akpdmedia.com>; John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Grybauskas, Stefan; Ko, Eunice
Subject: Re: Friday Shoot

Hi Frankie-

1. We have one hour reserved with the Mayor, from 5-6p.
2. We have one hour reserved with the First Lady, from 4-5p.
3. We will be bringing a bit a equipment – it is small for us, but it is much larger than TV news crews use. We will have a camera with tripod, prompter, sound equipment, and lights. We are still putting together the final equipment lists, and I can send you those if needed.
4. Yes, having access to the parking lot to drop off equipment would be really helpful.
5. We will need 2 hours to set up. We were planning on arriving at 2p. What is the process for getting the gear inside? If it will take awhile, we might need to arrive a bit earlier.
6. I will check to make sure that we have access to protective gear for our lights and tripod.

Thanks!

--

Sarah Hegeman
Vice President and Executive Producer
AKPD Message and Media, LLC (formerly Axelrod and Associates)
P: 312.664.7500
C: 312.339.5632
F: 312.664.0174

From: "<Martinez Blanco>", Frankie <FMartinezBlanco@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Wednesday, March 26, 2014 4:29 PM
To: Sarah Hegeman <shegeman@akpdmedia.com>, "Scola, Lindsay" <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: Liz Hegarty <lhgarty@akpdmedia.com>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>,

"Grybauskas, Stefan" <SGrybauskas@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Ko, Eunice" <EKo@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Subject: RE: Friday Shoot

Hi Sarah,

Couple of questions about the shoot:

<!--[if !supportLists]-->? <!--[endif]-->How long are you envisioning on needing the Mayor?
<!--[if !supportLists]-->? <!--[endif]-->How long do you envision needing the First Lady?
<!--[if !supportLists]-->? <!--[endif]-->How much equipment are you bringing?
<!--[if !supportLists]-->? <!--[endif]-->Would you need access to the parking lot to drop-off the equipment?
<!--[if !supportLists]-->? <!--[endif]-->How much set up time do you need?
<!--[if !supportLists]-->? <!--[endif]-->The room is a historic museum, so if you plan on bringing in heavy equipment, please bring small floor mats. If you don't have accessible, we can try to find something here that can be substitute.

Let me know if you have any questions.

Thanks,

Frankie

From: Sarah Hegeman [<mailto:shegeman@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, March 26, 2014 3:25 PM
To: Scola, Lindsay
Cc: Liz Hegarty; John Del Cecato; Martinez Blanco, Frankie; Grybauskas, Stefan
Subject: Re: Friday Shoot

Great. Thanks so much!

--

Sarah Hegeman
Vice President and Executive Producer
AKPD Message and Media, LLC (formerly Axelrod and Associates)
P: 312.664.7500
C: 312.339.5632
F: 312.664.0174

On 3/26/14 2:19 PM, "Scola, Lindsay" <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

We are good for Friday to be at City Hall. Please see room pictures attached. Frankie and Stefan will be your POCs for this event and will help with room logistics and vehicles through Security.

Thanks,
Lindsay

Lindsay Scola
Director of Scheduling
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212.788.2962
Cell: 917.513.1690

From: Leopold, Elana
To: John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: Planning Meeting
Date: Thursday, March 27, 2014 5:02:36 PM

Ok

Doing our best

We can always dial you in

Sent from my iPhone

On Mar 27, 2014, at 4:59 PM, "John Del Cecato" <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

I gotta split at 6

On Mar 27, 2014, at 4:53 PM, "Leopold, Elana" <ELeopold@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Will likely be 5:15 now

From: Leopold, Elana
Sent: Thursday, March 27, 2014 4:29 PM
To: Coney, Javon
Cc: Chao, Raymond; Fuleihan, Dean (OMB); jonathan@berlinrosen.com; jfdc@akpdmedia.com; Williams, Dominic; Santucci, Laura; Katz, Rebecca; Ragone, Peter; Shorris, Anthony; Wolfe, Emma; Wiley, Maya; Noerdlinger, Rachel; Hanley, Monica; Grybauskas, Stefan; rmunoz@akpdmedia.com; Seignious, Sandy; Griffith, Chantell; Shapiro, Leigh; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Ko, Eunice; Nordstrom, Mandy (OMB); Reisman, Lisette; John Del Cecato; Jonathan Rosen
Subject: Re: Planning Meeting

We are moving this meeting to 5pm. Apologies for the inconvenience.

Sent from my iPhone

On Mar 27, 2014, at 3:47 PM, "Coney, Javon" <JConey@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

All- This meeting will now take place at 4:45pm. Please report to the COW at this time unless you receive an update that the meeting is further delayed. If you will be calling in for this meeting please reply to this email to let me know. Thank you!

Dial-in Number: ([REDACTED])
Code: [REDACTED]

-Javon

-----Original Appointment-----

From: Chao, Raymond

Sent: Thursday, March 27, 2014 3:39 PM

To: Chao, Raymond; Fuleihan, Dean (OMB);
'jonathan@berlinrosen.com'; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; Williams,
Dominic; Santucci, Laura; Katz, Rebecca; Ragone, Peter;
Shorris, Anthony; Wolfe, Emma; Wiley, Maya; Noerdlinger, Rachel

Cc: Hanley, Monica; Coney, Javon; Leopold, Elana;
Grybauskas, Stefan; 'rmunoz@akpdmedia.com'; Seignious,
Sandy; Griffith, Chantell; Shapiro, Leigh; Schnake-Mahl,
Gabriel; Ko, Eunice; Nordstrom, Mandy (OMB); Reisman, Lisette; 'John Del Cecato'; 'Jonathan Rosen'; Fuleihan, Dean
(OMB)

Subject: Planning Meeting

When: Thursday, March 27, 2014 4:30 PM-6:00 PM (UTC-05:00) Eastern Time (US & Canada).

Where: Committee of the Whole

Dial-in Number: [REDACTED]

Code: [REDACTED]

From: Martinez Blanco, Frankie
To: "shegeman@akpdmedia.com"; Grybauskas, Stefan; Ko, Eunice; Scola, Lindsay
Cc: "lhegarty@akpdmedia.com"; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Re: Friday Shoot
Date: Thursday, March 27, 2014 5:09:17 PM

Sarah, finishing a walk thru. Should be back in CH soon. Will answer all of your questions soon enough.

Thanks,

Frankie

Frankie A. Martinez-Blanco
Director of Advance
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212.788.3173
Cell: 917.514.8967

Sent using BlackBerry // Please excuse any typos.

From: Sarah Hegeman [<mailto:shegeman@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Thursday, March 27, 2014 05:05 PM
To: Grybauskas, Stefan; Ko, Eunice; Scola, Lindsay; Martinez Blanco, Frankie
Cc: Liz Hegarty <lhegarty@akpdmedia.com>; John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Friday Shoot

Right now, we are planning to arrive at 9am so that we have time to set up for 11am with the First Lady.

Is there anything that I should know about the load in procedure? Will we be able to use the parking lot to drop off gear? Is there someone I should call when we arrive?

Please let me know.

Thanks!

--

Sarah Hegeman
Vice President and Executive Producer
AKPD Message and Media, LLC (formerly Axelrod and Associates)
P: 312.664.7500
C: 312.339.5632
F: 312.664.0174

From: Sarah Hegeman <shegeman@akpdmedia.com>
Date: Thursday, March 27, 2014 2:26 PM

To: "Grybauskas, Stefan" <SGrybauskas@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Ko, Eunice" <EKo@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Scola, Lindsay" <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Martinez Blanco, Frankie" <FMartinezBlanco@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: Liz Hegarty <lhgart@akpdmedia.com>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Friday Shoot

Just wondering if there is any update with this? If we are confirmed with the First Lady at 11, we will need to arrive at 9am to set up. Will we be able to leave our equipment set up for the whole day while we wait for the window of time with the Mayor?

From: <Grybauskas>, Stefan <SGrybauskas@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Thursday, March 27, 2014 10:23 AM
To: Sarah Hegeman <shegeman@akpdmedia.com>, "Ko, Eunice" <EKo@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Scola, Lindsay" <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Martinez Blanco, Frankie" <FMartinezBlanco@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: Liz Hegarty <lhgart@akpdmedia.com>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Friday Shoot

Will have confirmed time shortly. Most likely 430-530pm for the Mayor.

From: Sarah Hegeman [<mailto:shegeman@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Thursday, March 27, 2014 11:13 AM
To: Ko, Eunice; Scola, Lindsay; Martinez Blanco, Frankie
Cc: Liz Hegarty <lhgart@akpdmedia.com>; John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Grybauskas, Stefan
Subject: Re: Friday Shoot

Yes, we can make that work. Do we have a confirmed time with the Mayor tomorrow?

From: <Ko>, Eunice <EKo@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Thursday, March 27, 2014 9:14 AM
To: "Scola, Lindsay" <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Sarah Hegeman <shegeman@akpdmedia.com>, "Martinez Blanco, Frankie" <FMartinezBlanco@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: Liz Hegarty <lhgart@akpdmedia.com>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, "Grybauskas, Stefan" <SGrybauskas@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: RE: Friday Shoot

Is it possible to do this from 11:00-12:00pm for the First Lady?

From: Scola, Lindsay
Sent: Wednesday, March 26, 2014 5:53 PM
To: 'shegeman@akpdmedia.com'; Martinez Blanco, Frankie
Cc: 'lhgart@akpdmedia.com'; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; Grybauskas, Stefan; Ko, Eunice
Subject: Re: Friday Shoot

Team-

The times may need to change slightly for both principals. Stefan and Eunice will advise on time.

From: Sarah Hegeman [<mailto:shegeman@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, March 26, 2014 05:48 PM
To: Martinez Blanco, Frankie; Scola, Lindsay
Cc: Liz Hegarty <lhgarty@akpdmedia.com>; John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Grybauskas, Stefan; Ko, Eunice
Subject: Re: Friday Shoot

Hi Frankie-

1. We have one hour reserved with the Mayor, from 5-6p.
2. We have one hour reserved with the First Lady, from 4-5p.
3. We will be bringing a bit a equipment – it is small for us, but it is much larger than TV news crews use. We will have a camera with tripod, prompter, sound equipment, and lights. We are still putting together the final equipment lists, and I can send you those if needed.
4. Yes, having access to the parking lot to drop off equipment would be really helpful.
5. We will need 2 hours to set up. We were planning on arriving at 2p. What is the process for getting the gear inside? If it will take awhile, we might need to arrive a bit earlier.
6. I will check to make sure that we have access to protective gear for our lights and tripod.

Thanks!

--

Sarah Hegeman
Vice President and Executive Producer
AKPD Message and Media, LLC (formerly Axelrod and Associates)
P: 312.664.7500
C: 312.339.5632
F: 312.664.0174

From: "<Martinez Blanco>", Frankie <FMartinezBlanco@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Wednesday, March 26, 2014 4:29 PM
To: Sarah Hegeman <shegeman@akpdmedia.com>, "Scola, Lindsay" <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: Liz Hegarty <lhgarty@akpdmedia.com>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, "Grybauskas, Stefan" <SGrybauskas@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Ko, Eunice" <EKo@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: RE: Friday Shoot

Hi Sarah,

Couple of questions about the shoot:

- <!--[if !supportLists]--> · <!--[endif]-->How long are you envisioning on needing the Mayor?
- <!--[if !supportLists]--> · <!--[endif]-->How long do you envision needing the First Lady?
- <!--[if !supportLists]--> · <!--[endif]-->How much equipment are you bringing?
- <!--[if !supportLists]--> · <!--[endif]-->Would you need access to the parking lot to drop-off the equipment?
- <!--[if !supportLists]--> · <!--[endif]-->How much set up time do you need?

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->The room is a historic museum, so if you plan on bringing in heavy equipment, please bring small floor mats. If you don't have accessible, we can try to find something here that can be substitute.

Let me know if you have any questions.

Thanks,

Frankie

From: Sarah Hegeman [<mailto:shegeman@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, March 26, 2014 3:25 PM
To: Scola, Lindsay
Cc: Liz Hegarty; John Del Cecato; Martinez Blanco, Frankie; Grybauskas, Stefan
Subject: Re: Friday Shoot

Great. Thanks so much!

--

Sarah Hegeman
Vice President and Executive Producer
AKPD Message and Media, LLC (formerly Axelrod and Associates)
P: 312.664.7500
C: 312.339.5632
F: 312.664.0174

On 3/26/14 2:19 PM, "Scola, Lindsay" <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

We are good for Friday to be at City Hall. Please see room pictures attached. Frankie and Stefan will be your POCs for this event and will help with room logistics and vehicles through Security.

Thanks,
Lindsay

Lindsay Scola
Director of Scheduling
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212.788.2962
Cell: 917.513.1690

From: Leopold, Elana
To: Coney, Javon
Cc: Chao, Raymond; Fuleihan, Dean \(OMB\); jonathan@berlinrosen.com; jfdc@akpdmedia.com; Williams, Dominic; Santucci, Laura; Katz, Rebecca; Ragone, Peter; Shorris, Anthony; Wolfe, Emma; Wiley, Maya; Noerdlinger, Rachel; Hanley, Monica; Grybauskas, Stefan; rmunoz@akpdmedia.com; Seignious, Sandy; Griffith, Chantell; Shapiro, Leigh; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Ko, Eunice; Nordstrom, Mandy \(OMB\); Reisman, Lisette; John Del Cecato; Jonathan Rosen
Subject: RE: Planning Meeting
Date: Thursday, March 27, 2014 5:41:23 PM

Pls assemble

From: Leopold, Elana
Sent: Thursday, March 27, 2014 5:33 PM
To: Coney, Javon
Cc: Chao, Raymond; Fuleihan, Dean (OMB); jonathan@berlinrosen.com; jfdc@akpdmedia.com; Williams, Dominic; Santucci, Laura; Katz, Rebecca; Ragone, Peter; Shorris, Anthony; Wolfe, Emma; Wiley, Maya; Noerdlinger, Rachel; Hanley, Monica; Grybauskas, Stefan; rmunoz@akpdmedia.com; Seignious, Sandy; Griffith, Chantell; Shapiro, Leigh; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Ko, Eunice; Nordstrom, Mandy (OMB); Reisman, Lisette; John Del Cecato; Jonathan Rosen
Subject: RE: Planning Meeting

We plan on starting at 5:45

From: Leopold, Elana
Sent: Thursday, March 27, 2014 5:21 PM
To: Coney, Javon
Cc: Chao, Raymond; Fuleihan, Dean (OMB); jonathan@berlinrosen.com; jfdc@akpdmedia.com; Williams, Dominic; Santucci, Laura; Katz, Rebecca; Ragone, Peter; Shorris, Anthony; Wolfe, Emma; Wiley, Maya; Noerdlinger, Rachel; Hanley, Monica; Grybauskas, Stefan; rmunoz@akpdmedia.com; Seignious, Sandy; Griffith, Chantell; Shapiro, Leigh; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Ko, Eunice; Nordstrom, Mandy (OMB); Reisman, Lisette; John Del Cecato; Jonathan Rosen
Subject: RE: Planning Meeting

MBDB is still in his last meeting. Will keep everyone posted.

From: Leopold, Elana
Sent: Thursday, March 27, 2014 4:53 PM
To: Coney, Javon
Cc: Chao, Raymond; Fuleihan, Dean (OMB); jonathan@berlinrosen.com; jfdc@akpdmedia.com; Williams, Dominic; Santucci, Laura; Katz, Rebecca; Ragone, Peter; Shorris, Anthony; Wolfe, Emma; Wiley, Maya; Noerdlinger, Rachel; Hanley, Monica; Grybauskas, Stefan; rmunoz@akpdmedia.com; Seignious, Sandy; Griffith, Chantell; Shapiro, Leigh; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Ko, Eunice; Nordstrom, Mandy (OMB); Reisman, Lisette; John Del Cecato; Jonathan Rosen
Subject: RE: Planning Meeting

Will likely be 5:15 now

From: Leopold, Elana
Sent: Thursday, March 27, 2014 4:29 PM
To: Coney, Javon
Cc: Chao, Raymond; Fuleihan, Dean (OMB); jonathan@berlinrosen.com; jfdc@akpdmedia.com; Williams, Dominic; Santucci, Laura; Katz, Rebecca; Ragone, Peter; Shorris, Anthony; Wolfe, Emma; Wiley, Maya; Noerdlinger, Rachel; Hanley, Monica; Grybauskas, Stefan; rmunoz@akpdmedia.com; Seignious, Sandy; Griffith, Chantell; Shapiro, Leigh; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Ko, Eunice; Nordstrom, Mandy (OMB); Reisman, Lisette; John Del Cecato; Jonathan Rosen

Subject: Re: Planning Meeting

We are moving this meeting to 5pm. Apologies for the inconvenience.

Sent from my iPhone

On Mar 27, 2014, at 3:47 PM, "Coney, Javon" <JConey@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

All- This meeting will now take place at 4:45pm. Please report to the COW at this time unless you receive an update that the meeting is further delayed. If you will be calling in for this meeting please reply to this email to let me know. Thank you!

Dial-in Number: (██████████)

Code: ██████████

-Javon

-----Original Appointment-----

From: Chao, Raymond

Sent: Thursday, March 27, 2014 3:39 PM

To: Chao, Raymond; Fuleihan, Dean (OMB); 'jonathan@berlinrosen.com'; 'jfdc@akpdmmedia.com'; Williams, Dominic; Santucci, Laura; Katz, Rebecca; Ragone, Peter; Shorris, Anthony; Wolfe, Emma; Wiley, Maya; Noerdlinger, Rachel

Cc: Hanley, Monica; Coney, Javon; Leopold, Elana; Grybauskas, Stefan; 'rmunoz@akpdmmedia.com'; Seignious, Sandy; Griffith, Chantell; Shapiro, Leigh; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Ko, Eunice; Nordstrom, Mandy (OMB); Reisman, Lisette; 'John Del Cecato'; 'Jonathan Rosen'; Fuleihan, Dean (OMB)

Subject: Planning Meeting

When: Thursday, March 27, 2014 4:30 PM-6:00 PM (UTC-05:00) Eastern Time (US & Canada).

Where: Committee of the Whole

Dial-in Number: ██████████

Code: ██████████

From: Negash, Dabash
To: "Sarah Hegeman"; John Del Cecato
Subject: RE: Friday Shoot
Date: Thursday, March 27, 2014 7:52:23 PM

Copy.

From: Sarah Hegeman [<mailto:shegeman@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Thursday, March 27, 2014 7:51 PM
To: Negash, Dabash; John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: Friday Shoot

You are welcome.

And this just in – prompter is Herman Tang.

From: <Negash>, Dabash <DNegash@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Thursday, March 27, 2014 6:49 PM
To: Sarah Hegeman <shegeman@akpdmedia.com>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: Friday Shoot

Thank you!

From: Sarah Hegeman [<mailto:shegeman@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Thursday, March 27, 2014 7:34 PM
To: John Del Cecato; Negash, Dabash
Subject: Re: Friday Shoot

Crew list:

Director – John Del Cecato
Producer – Sarah Hegeman
Producer - Matt McLaughlin
DP - Sharif El Neklawy
Gaffer - Brad Burke
Sound - JR Skola
Hair/Makeup - Jaymie Kelly
Teleprompter - Waiting on operator information - Company, Reel Creative Studios
Production Supervisor - Lizzy Mazer
PA - Greg Brecher

From: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Date: Thursday, March 27, 2014 5:43 PM
To: "Negash, Dabash" <DNegash@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Sarah Hegeman <shegeman@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Friday Shoot

Sure - adding Sarah

On Mar 27, 2014, at 5:29 PM, "Negash, Dabash" <DNegash@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Thanks for all the details and great to meet!

One last thing – can you send the names and roles of the other folks that will be present for the shoots?

--

Dabash

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Thursday, March 27, 2014 4:59 PM
To: Negash, Dabash
Subject: Re: Friday Shoot

I'm at RKK's desk right now if you wanna chat

On Mar 27, 2014, at 4:57 PM, "Negash, Dabash" <DNegash@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Also – Happy to jump on the phone with you or someone on your team to get all the details.

--

Dabash Negash
Office of the Mayor
City of New York
212-788-3110 (Office)
718-755-7853 (BB)

From: Negash, Dabash
Sent: Thursday, March 27, 2014 4:56 PM
To: 'John Del Cecato'
Subject: RE: Friday Shoot

Thank you. Do we know where it would air, when, etc.? Or is all of that still being discussed. Any other details you can share would be great.

Thanks again,
Dabash

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Thursday, March 27, 2014 1:41 PM
To: Negash, Dabash
Subject: Re: Friday Shoot

Yes - it's to spell out what we as a City have accomplished in our recent negotiations with Albany over Pre-K and after-school...

Here are the three scripts I sent BDB and CMC

From: <Negash>, "Negash, Dabash" <DNegash@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Thursday, March 27, 2014 at 12:56 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: FW: Friday Shoot

Hi John – Does your team have a script you can share with us for them to see in advance? Also, I'm not completely familiar with the purpose of the shoot, etc. Can you or someone on your team send me a basic summary that I can share with them? What they are taping, why, where it will air, when, etc.?

Thank you,
Dabash

From: Ko, Eunice
Sent: Wednesday, March 26, 2014 6:11 PM
To: Scola, Lindsay; 'shegeman@akpdmedia.com'; Martinez Blanco, Frankie
Cc: 'lhegarty@akpdmedia.com'; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; Grybauskas, Stefan
Subject: RE: Friday Shoot

Hi all,

I'm just waiting on a couple of pieces to get finalized for Friday before I offer you a time. Will circle back with a time tomorrow AM. Thanks for your patience!

From: Scola, Lindsay
Sent: Wednesday, March 26, 2014 5:53 PM
To: 'shegeman@akpdmedia.com'; Martinez Blanco, Frankie
Cc: 'lhegarty@akpdmedia.com'; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; Grybauskas, Stefan; Ko, Eunice
Subject: Re: Friday Shoot

Team-

The times may need to change slightly for both principals. Stefan and Eunice will advise on time.

From: Sarah Hegeman [<mailto:shegeman@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, March 26, 2014 05:48 PM
To: Martinez Blanco, Frankie; Scola, Lindsay
Cc: Liz Hegarty <lhegarty@akpdmedia.com>; John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Grybauskas, Stefan; Ko, Eunice
Subject: Re: Friday Shoot

Hi Frankie-

1. We have one hour reserved with the Mayor, from 5-6p.
2. We have one hour reserved with the First Lady, from 4-5p.
3. We will be bringing a bit a equipment – it is small for us, but it is much larger than TV news crews use. We will have a camera with tripod, prompter, sound equipment, and lights. We are still putting together the final equipment lists, and I can send you those if needed.

4. Yes, having access to the parking lot to drop off equipment would be really helpful.
5. We will need 2 hours to set up. We were planning on arriving at 2p. What is the process for getting the gear inside? If it will take awhile, we might need to arrive a bit earlier.
6. I will check to make sure that we have access to protective gear for our lights and tripod.

Thanks!

--

Sarah Hegeman

Vice President and Executive Producer

AKPD Message and Media, LLC (formerly Axelrod and Associates)

P: 312.664.7500

C: 312.339.5632

F: 312.664.0174

From: "<Martinez Blanco>", Frankie <FMartinezBlanco@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Date: Wednesday, March 26, 2014 4:29 PM

To: Sarah Hegeman <shegeman@akpdmedia.com>, "Scola, Lindsay" <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Cc: Liz Hegarty <lhegarty@akpdmedia.com>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, "Grybauskas, Stefan" <SGrybauskas@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Ko, Eunice" <EKo@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Subject: RE: Friday Shoot

Hi Sarah,

Couple of questions about the shoot:

- ? How long are you envisioning on needing the Mayor?
- ? How long do you envision needing the First Lady?
- ? How much equipment are you bringing?
- ? Would you need access to the parking lot to drop-off the equipment?
- ? How much set up time do you need?
- ? The room is a historic museum, so if you plan on bringing in heavy equipment, please bring small floor mats. If you don't have accessible, we can try to find something here that can be substitute.

Let me know if you have any questions.

Thanks,

Frankie

From: Sarah Hegeman [<mailto:shegeman@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, March 26, 2014 3:25 PM
To: Scola, Lindsay
Cc: Liz Hegarty; John Del Cecato; Martinez Blanco, Frankie; Grybauskas, Stefan
Subject: Re: Friday Shoot

Great. Thanks so much!

--

Sarah Hegeman
Vice President and Executive Producer
AKPD Message and Media, LLC (formerly Axelrod and Associates)
P: 312.664.7500
C: 312.339.5632
F: 312.664.0174

On 3/26/14 2:19 PM, "Scola, Lindsay" <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

We are good for Friday to be at City Hall. Please see room pictures attached. Frankie and Stefan will be your POCs for this event and will help with room logistics and vehicles through Security.

Thanks,
Lindsay

Lindsay Scola
Director of Scheduling
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212.788.2962
Cell: 917.513.1690

From: Sarah Hegeman
To: Martinez Blanco, Frankie
Cc: Rosenberg, Reid; Grybauskas, Stefan; Ko, Eunice; Scola, Lindsay; Liz Hegarty; John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: Friday Shoot
Date: Thursday, March 27, 2014 8:05:24 PM

Thanks much!

On Mar 27, 2014, at 7:04 PM, "Martinez Blanco, Frankie"
<FMartinezBlanco@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Apologies. Left that out of the email.

Please enter thru the West Gate (Broadway and Murray Street).

Thank you for sending me the names and car information.

Thanks,

Frankie

From: Sarah Hegeman [<mailto:shegeman@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Thursday, March 27, 2014 7:44 PM
To: Rosenberg, Reid; Martinez Blanco, Frankie; Grybauskas, Stefan; Ko, Eunice; Scola, Lindsay
Cc: Liz Hegarty; John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: Friday Shoot

Thanks for the cell number. I appreciate it. My cell is [REDACTED]. I will probably call you as soon as we are outside, if that works for you.

We will be arriving at 9am to load in and set up. And just to clarify (sorry I am from Chicago if this is common knowledge) where is the entrance to the parking lot? Are there any special instructions we need to know to access the parking lot?

Vehicle info:

Ford white 15 Pass van. Plate# [REDACTED]

Here is a list of crew:

Director – John Del Cecato
Producer – Sarah Hegeman
Producer - Matt McLaughlin
DP - Sharif El Neklawy
Gaffer - Brad Burke
Sound - JR Skola
Hair/Makeup - Jaymie Kelly
Teleprompter - Herman Tang
Production Supervisor - Lizzy Mazer

PA - Greg Brecher

Let me know if you need anything else. Thanks!
Sarah

From: <Rosenberg>, Reid <RRosenberg@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Thursday, March 27, 2014 6:30 PM
To: "Martinez Blanco, Frankie" <FMartinezBlanco@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Sarah Hegeman <shegeman@akpdmedia.com>, "Grybauskas, Stefan" <SGrybauskas@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Ko, Eunice" <EKo@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Scola, Lindsay" <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: Liz Hegarty <lhgart@akpdmedia.com>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Friday Shoot

Hi Sarah,

Please see below for my cell number.

Reid Rosenberg

From: Martinez Blanco, Frankie
Sent: Thursday, March 27, 2014 07:28 PM
To: 'Sarah Hegeman' <shegeman@akpdmedia.com>; Grybauskas, Stefan; Ko, Eunice; Scola, Lindsay
Cc: Liz Hegarty <lhgart@akpdmedia.com>; John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Rosenberg, Reid
Subject: RE: Friday Shoot

Hi Sarah,

Finally back in the office.

We can get you access to the parking lot to unload but will need the make of the car and the list of folks that are coming?

Reid Rosenberg (cc'ed) will be your point of contact. He will send his contact info soon. I'll be out of pocket from 10:00AM-10:30AM.

Let me know if you have any questions.

Thanks,

Frankie

From: Sarah Hegeman [<mailto:shegeman@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Thursday, March 27, 2014 5:32 PM
To: Grybauskas, Stefan; Ko, Eunice; Scola, Lindsay; Martinez Blanco, Frankie
Cc: Liz Hegarty; John Del Cecato

Subject: Re: Friday Shoot

Sounds good. Thanks!

From: <Grybauskas>, Stefan <SGrybauskas@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Thursday, March 27, 2014 4:30 PM
To: Sarah Hegeman <shegeman@akpdmedia.com>, "Ko, Eunice" <EKo@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Scola, Lindsay" <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Martinez Blanco, Frankie" <FMartinezBlanco@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: Liz Hegarty <lhegarty@akpdmedia.com>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Friday Shoot

We are still holding 4:30. May move earlier but let's lock that for now.

From: Sarah Hegeman [<mailto:shegeman@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Thursday, March 27, 2014 05:28 PM
To: Ko, Eunice; Grybauskas, Stefan; Scola, Lindsay; Martinez Blanco, Frankie
Cc: Liz Hegarty <lhegarty@akpdmedia.com>; John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Friday Shoot

Eunice, yes, that time works for us.

Stefan, do we have a confirmed time with the Mayor yet?

Thanks!

Sarah

From: <Ko>, Eunice <EKo@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Thursday, March 27, 2014 4:09 PM
To: Sarah Hegeman <shegeman@akpdmedia.com>, "Grybauskas, Stefan" <SGrybauskas@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Scola, Lindsay" <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Martinez Blanco, Frankie" <FMartinezBlanco@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: Liz Hegarty <lhegarty@akpdmedia.com>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: Friday Shoot

Hi all,

Sorry for the delay. Can we do 11:30-12:30pm? If that works, we can confirm. Thank you so much!

From: Sarah Hegeman [<mailto:shegeman@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Thursday, March 27, 2014 5:05 PM
To: Grybauskas, Stefan; Ko, Eunice; Scola, Lindsay; Martinez Blanco, Frankie
Cc: Liz Hegarty; John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: Friday Shoot

Right now, we are planning to arrive at 9am so that we have time to set up for 11am with the

First Lady.

Is there anything that I should know about the load in procedure? Will we be able to use the parking lot to drop off gear? Is there someone I should call when we arrive?

Please let me know.

Thanks!

--

Sarah Hegeman

Vice President and Executive Producer

AKPD Message and Media, LLC (formerly Axelrod and Associates)

P: 312.664.7500

C: 312.339.5632

F: 312.664.0174

From: Sarah Hegeman <shegeman@akpdmedia.com>

Date: Thursday, March 27, 2014 2:26 PM

To: "Grybauskas, Stefan" <SGrybauskas@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Ko, Eunice" <EKo@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Scola, Lindsay" <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Martinez Blanco, Frankie" <FMartinezBlanco@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Cc: Liz Hegarty <lhegarty@akpdmedia.com>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>

Subject: Re: Friday Shoot

Just wondering if there is any update with this? If we are confirmed with the First Lady at 11, we will need to arrive at 9am to set up. Will we be able to leave our equipment set up for the whole day while we wait for the window of time with the Mayor?

From: <Grybauskas>, Stefan <SGrybauskas@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Date: Thursday, March 27, 2014 10:23 AM

To: Sarah Hegeman <shegeman@akpdmedia.com>, "Ko, Eunice" <EKo@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Scola, Lindsay" <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Martinez Blanco, Frankie" <FMartinezBlanco@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Cc: Liz Hegarty <lhegarty@akpdmedia.com>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>

Subject: Re: Friday Shoot

Will have confirmed time shortly. Most likely 430-530pm for the Mayor.

From: Sarah Hegeman [<mailto:shegeman@akpdmedia.com>]

Sent: Thursday, March 27, 2014 11:13 AM

To: Ko, Eunice; Scola, Lindsay; Martinez Blanco, Frankie

Cc: Liz Hegarty <lhegarty@akpdmedia.com>; John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Grybauskas, Stefan

Subject: Re: Friday Shoot

Yes, we can make that work. Do we have a confirmed time with the Mayor tomorrow?

From: <Ko>, Eunice <EKo@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Thursday, March 27, 2014 9:14 AM
To: "Scola, Lindsay" <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Sarah Hegeman <shegeman@akpdmedia.com>, "Martinez Blanco, Frankie" <FMartinezBlanco@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: Liz Hegarty <lhgart@akpdmedia.com>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, "Grybauskas, Stefan" <SGrybauskas@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: RE: Friday Shoot

Is it possible to do this from 11:00-12:00pm for the First Lady?

From: Scola, Lindsay
Sent: Wednesday, March 26, 2014 5:53 PM
To: 'shegeman@akpdmedia.com'; Martinez Blanco, Frankie
Cc: 'lhgart@akpdmedia.com'; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; Grybauskas, Stefan; Ko, Eunice
Subject: Re: Friday Shoot

Team-

The times may need to change slightly for both principals. Stefan and Eunice will advise on time.

From: Sarah Hegeman [<mailto:shegeman@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, March 26, 2014 05:48 PM
To: Martinez Blanco, Frankie; Scola, Lindsay
Cc: Liz Hegarty <lhgart@akpdmedia.com>; John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Grybauskas, Stefan; Ko, Eunice
Subject: Re: Friday Shoot

Hi Frankie-

1. We have one hour reserved with the Mayor, from 5-6p.
2. We have one hour reserved with the First Lady, from 4-5p.
3. We will be bringing a bit a equipment – it is small for us, but it is much larger than TV news crews use. We will have a camera with tripod, prompter, sound equipment, and lights. We are still putting together the final equipment lists, and I can send you those if needed.
4. Yes, having access to the parking lot to drop off equipment would be really helpful.
5. We will need 2 hours to set up. We were planning on arriving at 2p. What is the process for getting the gear inside? If it will take awhile, we might need to arrive a bit earlier.
6. I will check to make sure that we have access to protective gear for our lights and tripod.

Thanks!

--

Sarah Hegeman
Vice President and Executive Producer

AKPD Message and Media, LLC (formerly Axelrod and Associates)
P: 312.664.7500
C: 312.339.5632
F: 312.664.0174

From: "<Martinez Blanco>", Frankie <FMartinezBlanco@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Wednesday, March 26, 2014 4:29 PM
To: Sarah Hegeman <shegeman@akpdmedia.com>, "Scola, Lindsay" <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: Liz Hegarty <lhegarty@akpdmedia.com>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, "Grybauskas, Stefan" <SGrybauskas@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Ko, Eunice" <EKo@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: RE: Friday Shoot

Hi Sarah,

Couple of questions about the shoot:

- <!--[if !supportLists]-->? <!--[endif]-->How long are you envisioning on needing the Mayor?
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->? <!--[endif]-->How long do you envision needing the First Lady?
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->? <!--[endif]-->How much equipment are you bringing?
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->? <!--[endif]-->Would you need access to the parking lot to drop-off the equipment?
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->? <!--[endif]-->How much set up time do you need?
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->? <!--[endif]-->The room is a historic museum, so if you plan on bringing in heavy equipment, please bring small floor mats. If you don't have accessible, we can try to find something here that can be substitute.

Let me know if you have any questions.

Thanks,

Frankie

From: Sarah Hegeman [<mailto:shegeman@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, March 26, 2014 3:25 PM
To: Scola, Lindsay
Cc: Liz Hegarty; John Del Cecato; Martinez Blanco, Frankie; Grybauskas, Stefan
Subject: Re: Friday Shoot

Great. Thanks so much!

--

Sarah Hegeman
Vice President and Executive Producer

AKPD Message and Media, LLC (formerly Axelrod and Associates)

P: 312.664.7500

C: 312.339.5632

F: 312.664.0174

On 3/26/14 2:19 PM, "Scola, Lindsay" <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

We are good for Friday to be at City Hall. Please see room pictures attached. Frankie and Stefan will be your POCs for this event and will help with room logistics and vehicles through Security.

Thanks,

Lindsay

Lindsay Scola

Director of Scheduling

Office of the Mayor

The City of New York

Office: 212.788.2962

Cell: 917.513.1690

From: John Del Cecato
To: FLONYC
Cc: Noerdlinger Rachel; Katz Rebecca; Sarah Hegeman
Subject: Re: First Lady Schedule for Friday, March 28, 2014
Date: Friday, March 28, 2014 8:18:23 AM

Business attire would be great - nothing too formal. Try to avoid stripes or wild patterns as they cause distortion on screen. Adding out producer as FYI

On Mar 28, 2014, at 8:12 AM, "FLONYC" <FLONYC@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Good morning!
What should wear for the UPK taping?

#FLONYC
flonyc.tumblr.com
 Twitter @Chirlane

On Mar 27, 2014, at 6:39 PM, "Ko, Eunice" <EKo@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

SCHEDULE FOR FIRST LADY CHIRLANE MCCRAY
 CITY OF NEW YORK

FRIDAY, MARCH 28, 2014

WEATHER	ATTIRE	NOTES
High 53°, Low 37°, Scattered Light Rain, 70% chance of rain	Business

City Hall Staff:

- Scheduling Contact: Eunice Ko
 Emergency Contact: Lindsay Scola

Travelling Staff:

- Special Assistant: Clement James
 Chief of Staff: Rachel Noerdlinger

Advance Staff:

- Andrew Schustek

Team Leader:

[Redacted] [Redacted]

Dante Detail:

[Redacted] [Redacted]

Chiara Detail:

[Redacted] [Redacted]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

First Lady Detail:

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

10:00 - 10:10 AM

FLONYC CALL

Dial in Attendees: Rebecca Katz, Ishanee Parikh

Contact: Dial in ([REDACTED]) // Code: [REDACTED]

10:50 - 11:25 AM

DEPART RESIDENCE EN ROUTE CITY HALL

Drive Time: 35 mins

Car : CMC

11:25 - 11:30 AM

ARRIVE CITY HALL

11:30 - 12:30 PM

UPK COMMERCIAL TAPING

Location: Governors Room

Attendees: John del Cecato

Teleprompter: YES

Remarks: Prepared

12:30 - 12:40 PM

ON-HOLD RECORDING

Location: (T) Governors Room, Central

Staff: Jessie Singleton

12:40 - 12:50 PM

VOICE-OVER RECORDING

Location: (T) Governors Room, Central

Staff: Jessie Singleton

12:50 - 1:00 PM

DEPART CITY HALL EN ROUTE CITY HALL RESTAURANT

Drive Time: 10 mins

Car : CMC, Clement James

1:00 - 2:30 PM

LUNCH WITH KEN SUNSHINE

Location: City Hall Restaurant
131 Duane St
Manhattan NY

Notes: Reservation is under Eunice Ko

2:30 - 2:50 PM

DEPART CITY HALL RESTAURANT EN ROUTE RESIDENCE

Drive Time: 20 mins

Car : CMC

2:50 - 2:55 PM

ARRIVE RESIDENCE

DOWN

7:00 - 7:15 PM

DEPART RESIDENCE EN ROUTE BROOKLYN PUBLIC LIBRARY

Drive Time: 15 mins

Car : CMC, Clement James

7:15 - 7:20 PM

ARRIVE BROOKLYN PUBLIC LIBRARY

7:20 - 7:40 PM

COUNCILMAN JUMAANE WILLIAMS' CELEBRATION OF WOMEN AWARDS

Location: Brooklyn Public Library, Central Branch, Dweck Auditorium
10 Grand Army Plaza
Brooklyn NY

Attendees: Councilman Jumaane Williams, NYC Comptroller Scott Stringer, Deputy Borough President Diana Reyna, Assemblywoman Annette Robinson, Council Member Laurie Cumbo, Public Advocate Letitia James, TBD other electeds

9 honorees (see briefing)

200 attendees

Site: Andrew Schustek, [REDACTED]

Staff: Rachel Noerdlinger

Setup: Stage with podium facing rows of seats. YOU are seated in front row with honorees and Councilman Jumaane Williams. Electeds are seated in row behind YOU.

Podium: YES

Teleprompter: NO

Remarks: Prepared

Format:

YOU arrive and are escorted to the auditorium's left corridor where the honorees and Councilman Jumaane Williams will be situated
YOU take a group click with the honorees and Councilman Williams
YOU and the group move from the left corridor into the auditorium
YOU take a seat in the front row stage left
Councilman Williams introduces TBD Boardmember of BPL
TBD Boardmember of BPL introduces YOU
YOU walk up the stage to podium
YOU deliver remarks
YOU walk off stage and YOU depart

7:40 - 7:50 PM

DEPART BROOKLYN PUBLIC LIBRARY EN ROUTE RESIDENCE

Drive Time: 10 mins

Car : CMC

7:50 - 7:55 PM

ARRIVE RESIDENCE

DOWN

Eunice Ko
Deputy Director of Scheduling
Office of the Mayor
New York City
W: 212-788-6730
C: 646-915-2678

<3.28.2014 CMC Schedule.docx>

From: Santucci, Laura
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Date: Friday, March 28, 2014 10:14:02 AM

Can you give me quick ring – [REDACTED]

From: John Del Cecato
To: Klein, Monica
Subject: Fwd: Scripts for this week
Date: Friday, March 28, 2014 11:43:12 AM
Attachments: UPKNYCscriptFAMILY2.doc
ATT00001.htm
UPKNYCscriptLANDMARK2.doc
ATT00002.htm
UPKNYCscriptSTATE.doc
ATT00003.htm

Can you print these out for me - coupla copies?

Begin forwarded message:

From: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Date: March 25, 2014 at 2:45:49 PM EDT
To: "[REDACTED]" <[REDACTED]>
"Chirlane McCray" <[REDACTED]>
Subject: Scripts for this week

Still not sure what the final product coming from Albany will be, of course, but wanted you to have the scripts we were playing with at the moment... Our thought/hope was that we could get 2 of these in the can this Thursday or Friday (my folks are working with the team to make that happen), and we can adjust graphics on the screen according to the final deal — but be able to turn things around very quickly & get on the air ASAP, if that's what we choose to do...

FAMILY
:30 for TV
UPK NYC

Visual

Voice

OPEN ON PHOTO OF CHIARA AND DANTE AS TINY TOTS

CHIRLANE ON CAMERA, ID'ed

That's also the time when politicians started talking about Pre-K in New York.

Today, we're finally seeing ACTION.

MAYOR AND FLONYC WITH KIDS IN CLASSROOM. MAYOR AT A RALLY PUSHING PRE-K. MAYOR LISTENING TO A YOUNG MOTHER. HEADLINE ON HISTORIC WIN FOR NYC.

In a landmark win for New York City, tens of thousands of our kids will NOW have access to full-day Pre-K -- and thousands more young people will have an after-school program.

CHIRLANE ON CAMERA

Not "someday." It starts THIS YEAR.

DIVERSE PORTRAITS OF NYC FAMILIES, TO CAMERA.

New York City – YOU made this happen.

CHIRLANE ON CAMERA.
CG: New York City: {BEAT} Thank You.

From our family to yours...thank you.

OR

WHITE TYPE ON BLACK
CG: "Join the Fight for Action:
UPK NYC.org)

LANDMARK
:30 for TV
UPK NYC

Visual

Voice

BDB ON CAMERA, ID'ed

A year and a half ago, I unveiled a plan to lift up EVERY child – with universal Pre-K and after-school programs.

BDB ON CAMERA

It's been a tough fight, with powerful forces pushing back.

STATE CAPITOL AS BACKGROUND.
HEADLINES BUILD.

We took some heat from our adversaries...even from our friends.

New York City Mayor Bill de Blasio faces Albany opposition over Pre-K funding – AP

Does universal pre-K make good policy sense? -- NY POST

Gov. Cuomo Says de Blasio Pre-K Plan "Is Not Going To Be Successful" In Albany -- NY DAILY NEWS

SHOTS OF BDB WITH PARENTS OR AT RALLY

But you responded with passion and focus – making sure Albany heard from US.

BDB ON CAMERA, WITH HEADLINE OR GRAPHICS ON UPK VICTORY

Now, we've won a landmark victory – with Pre-K and after-school programs for tens of thousands more kids...not "someday" – but THIS YEAR.

BDB ON CAMERA, UPK WEBSITE

New York City: thank you.

OR

WHITE TYPE ON BLACK

CG: "Join the Fight for Action:
UPK NYC.org)

AKPD

MESSAGE AND MEDIA

STATE
:30 for TV
UPK NYC

Visual

OPEN ON PHOTO OF CHIARA AND DANTE AS TINY TOTS

CHIRLANE ON CAMERA, ID'ed

MAYOR AND FLONYC WITH KIDS IN CLASSROOM. MAYOR AT A RALLY PUSHING PRE-K. MAYOR LISTENING TO A YOUNG MOTHER. HEADLINE ON HISTORIC WIN FOR NYC.

CHIRLANE ON CAMERA

DIVERSE PORTRAITS OF NYC FAMILIES, TO CAMERA.

WHITE TYPE ON BLACK
CG: "New York State Legislators {BEAT} Thank You."

Voice

That's also the time when politicians started talking about Pre-K in New York.

Today, we're finally seeing ACTION.

In a landmark win for New York City, tens of thousands of our kids will NOW have access to full-day Pre-K -- and thousands more young people will have an after-school program.

Not "someday." It starts THIS YEAR.

New York City – YOU made this happen.

To our state lawmakers...thank you.

From: John Del Cecato
To: Klein, Monica
Subject: Re: Scripts for this week
Date: Friday, March 28, 2014 11:46:13 AM

Love you

On Mar 28, 2014, at 11:45 AM, "Klein, Monica" <MKlein@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Yep ill bring em up

Monica Klein | Assistant Press Secretary | Mayor's Press Office
o: (212) 788-2969 | c: (917) 324-3297 | twitter: @monicacklein

From: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Date: Fri, 28 Mar 2014 15:42:53 +0000
To: De Blasio Press <mklein@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Fwd: Scripts for this week

Can you print these out for me - coupla copies?

Begin forwarded message:

From: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Date: March 25, 2014 at 2:45:49 PM EDT
To: "[REDACTED]"
<[REDACTED]> "Chirlane McCray"
<[REDACTED]>
Subject: Scripts for this week

Still not sure what the final product coming from Albany will be, of course, but wanted you to have the scripts we were playing with at the moment... Our thought/hope was that we could get 2 of these in the can this Thursday or Friday (my folks are working with the team to make that happen), and we can adjust graphics on the screen according to the final deal — but be able to turn things around very quickly & get on the air ASAP, if that's what we choose to do...

From: Santucci, Laura
To: "Anna Greenberg"; John Del Cecato
Cc: Wolfe, Emma; Nbaldick@hilltoppublicsolutions.com; [REDACTED] Scola, Lindsay; Liz Hegarty; Dave Walker; Natasha Klepper
Subject: RE: Scheduling call with Mayor for today or tomorrow - 20-30 minutes
Date: Friday, March 28, 2014 12:35:45 PM

We'll get back to the group soon. Looking at tomorrow.

-----Original Message-----

From: Anna Greenberg [<mailto:agreenberg@gqrr.com>]
Sent: Friday, March 28, 2014 10:12 AM
To: John Del Cecato
Cc: Wolfe, Emma; Nbaldick@hilltoppublicsolutions.com; [REDACTED] Scola, Lindsay; Santucci, Laura; Liz Hegarty; Dave Walker; Natasha Klepper
Subject: Re: Scheduling call with Mayor for today or tomorrow - 20-30 minutes

What time?

Anna Greenberg
SVP, Greenberg Quinlan Rosner
Follow @Anna_Greenberg
Sent from iPhone, excuse typos

> On Mar 28, 2014, at 10:10 AM, "John Del Cecato" <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:
>
> Adding Liz
>
>> On Mar 28, 2014, at 10:09 AM, "Wolfe, Emma" <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>>
>>

From: de Alwis, Ronalie
To: Rosenberg, Reid; "shegeman@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: RE: Friday Shoot
Date: Friday, March 28, 2014 4:04:17 PM

Working on it!

From: Rosenberg, Reid
Sent: Friday, March 28, 2014 3:56 PM
To: 'shegeman@akpdmedia.com'; de Alwis, Ronalie
Subject: Re: Friday Shoot

Looping Ronalie. I'm headed out to advance a parade route. I'm with Ronalie, and she knows the situation.

Reid Rosenberg

From: Sarah Hegeman [<mailto:shegeman@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Friday, March 28, 2014 03:54 PM
To: Rosenberg, Reid
Subject: Re: Friday Shoot

Is there a maintenance guy that we could help us find an outlet for our big light? We are loosing sun, but we don't want to blow a fuse.

On Mar 27, 2014, at 7:30 PM, "Rosenberg, Reid" <RRosenberg@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Hi Sarah,

Please see below for my cell number.

Reid Rosenberg

From: Martinez Blanco, Frankie
Sent: Thursday, March 27, 2014 07:28 PM
To: 'Sarah Hegeman' <shegeman@akpdmedia.com>; Grybauskas, Stefan; Ko, Eunice; Scola, Lindsay
Cc: Liz Hegarty <lhgart@akpdmedia.com>; John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Rosenberg, Reid
Subject: RE: Friday Shoot

Hi Sarah,

Finally back in the office.

We can get you access to the parking lot to unload but will need the make of the car and the list of folks that are coming?

Reid Rosenberg (cc'ed) will be your point of contact. He will send his contact info soon. I'll be out of pocket from 10:00AM-10:30AM.

Let me know if you have any questions.

Thanks,

Frankie

From: Sarah Hegeman [<mailto:shegeman@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Thursday, March 27, 2014 5:32 PM
To: Grybauskas, Stefan; Ko, Eunice; Scola, Lindsay; Martinez Blanco, Frankie
Cc: Liz Hegarty; John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: Friday Shoot

Sounds good. Thanks!

From: <Grybauskas>, Stefan <SGrybauskas@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Thursday, March 27, 2014 4:30 PM
To: Sarah Hegeman <shegeman@akpdmedia.com>, "Ko, Eunice" <EKo@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Scola, Lindsay" <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Martinez Blanco, Frankie" <FMartinezBlanco@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: Liz Hegarty <lhgart@akpdmedia.com>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Friday Shoot

We are still holding 4:30. May move earlier but let's lock that for now.

From: Sarah Hegeman [<mailto:shegeman@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Thursday, March 27, 2014 05:28 PM
To: Ko, Eunice; Grybauskas, Stefan; Scola, Lindsay; Martinez Blanco, Frankie
Cc: Liz Hegarty <lhgart@akpdmedia.com>; John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Friday Shoot

Eunice, yes, that time works for us.

Stefan, do we have a confirmed time with the Mayor yet?

Thanks!

Sarah

From: <Ko>, Eunice <EKo@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Thursday, March 27, 2014 4:09 PM
To: Sarah Hegeman <shegeman@akpdmedia.com>, "Grybauskas, Stefan" <SGrybauskas@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Scola, Lindsay" <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Martinez Blanco, Frankie" <FMartinezBlanco@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: Liz Hegarty <lhgart@akpdmedia.com>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: Friday Shoot

Hi all,

Sorry for the delay. Can we do 11:30-12:30pm? If that works, we can confirm. Thank you so much!

From: Sarah Hegeman [<mailto:shegeman@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Thursday, March 27, 2014 5:05 PM
To: Grybauskas, Stefan; Ko, Eunice; Scola, Lindsay; Martinez Blanco, Frankie
Cc: Liz Hegarty; John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: Friday Shoot

Right now, we are planning to arrive at 9am so that we have time to set up for 11am with the First Lady.

Is there anything that I should know about the load in procedure? Will we be able to use the parking lot to drop off gear? Is there someone I should call when we arrive?

Please let me know.

Thanks!

--

Sarah Hegeman
Vice President and Executive Producer
AKPD Message and Media, LLC (formerly Axelrod and Associates)
P: 312.664.7500
C: 312.339.5632
F: 312.664.0174

From: Sarah Hegeman <shegeman@akpdmedia.com>
Date: Thursday, March 27, 2014 2:26 PM
To: "Grybauskas, Stefan" <SGrybauskas@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Ko, Eunice" <EKo@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Scola, Lindsay" <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Martinez Blanco, Frankie" <FMartinezBlanco@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: Liz Hegarty <lhegarty@akpdmedia.com>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Friday Shoot

Just wondering if there is any update with this? If we are confirmed with the First Lady at 11, we will need to arrive at 9am to set up. Will we be able to leave our equipment set up for the whole day while we wait for the window of time with the Mayor?

From: <Grybauskas>, Stefan <SGrybauskas@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Thursday, March 27, 2014 10:23 AM
To: Sarah Hegeman <shegeman@akpdmedia.com>, "Ko, Eunice" <EKo@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Scola, Lindsay" <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Martinez Blanco, Frankie" <FMartinezBlanco@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: Liz Hegarty <lhegarty@akpdmedia.com>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>

Subject: Re: Friday Shoot

Will have confirmed time shortly. Most likely 430-530pm for the Mayor.

From: Sarah Hegeman [<mailto:shegeman@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Thursday, March 27, 2014 11:13 AM
To: Ko, Eunice; Scola, Lindsay; Martinez Blanco, Frankie
Cc: Liz Hegarty <lhgart@akpdmedia.com>; John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Grybauskas, Stefan
Subject: Re: Friday Shoot

Yes, we can make that work. Do we have a confirmed time with the Mayor tomorrow?

From: <Ko>, Eunice <EKo@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Thursday, March 27, 2014 9:14 AM
To: "Scola, Lindsay" <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Sarah Hegeman <shegeman@akpdmedia.com>, "Martinez Blanco, Frankie" <FMartinezBlanco@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: Liz Hegarty <lhgart@akpdmedia.com>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, "Grybauskas, Stefan" <SGrybauskas@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: RE: Friday Shoot

Is it possible to do this from 11:00-12:00pm for the First Lady?

From: Scola, Lindsay
Sent: Wednesday, March 26, 2014 5:53 PM
To: 'shegeman@akpdmedia.com'; Martinez Blanco, Frankie
Cc: 'lhgart@akpdmedia.com'; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; Grybauskas, Stefan; Ko, Eunice
Subject: Re: Friday Shoot

Team-

The times may need to change slightly for both principals. Stefan and Eunice will advise on time.

From: Sarah Hegeman [<mailto:shegeman@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, March 26, 2014 05:48 PM
To: Martinez Blanco, Frankie; Scola, Lindsay
Cc: Liz Hegarty <lhgart@akpdmedia.com>; John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Grybauskas, Stefan; Ko, Eunice
Subject: Re: Friday Shoot

Hi Frankie-

1. We have one hour reserved with the Mayor, from 5-6p.
2. We have one hour reserved with the First Lady, from 4-5p.
3. We will be bringing a bit a equipment – it is small for us, but it is much larger than TV news crews use. We will have a camera with tripod, prompter, sound equipment, and lights. We are still putting together the final equipment lists, and I can send you those if needed.

4. Yes, having access to the parking lot to drop off equipment would be really helpful.
5. We will need 2 hours to set up. We were planning on arriving at 2p. What is the process for getting the gear inside? If it will take awhile, we might need to arrive a bit earlier.
6. I will check to make sure that we have access to protective gear for our lights and tripod.

Thanks!

--

Sarah Hegeman

Vice President and Executive Producer

AKPD Message and Media, LLC (formerly Axelrod and Associates)

P: 312.664.7500

C: 312.339.5632

F: 312.664.0174

From: "<Martinez Blanco>", Frankie <FMartinezBlanco@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Date: Wednesday, March 26, 2014 4:29 PM

To: Sarah Hegeman <shegeman@akpdmedia.com>, "Scola, Lindsay" <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Cc: Liz Hegarty <lhegarty@akpdmedia.com>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, "Grybauskas, Stefan" <SGrybauskas@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Ko, Eunice" <EKo@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Subject: RE: Friday Shoot

Hi Sarah,

Couple of questions about the shoot:

- ? How long are you envisioning on needing the Mayor?
- ? How long do you envision needing the First Lady?
- ? How much equipment are you bringing?
- ? Would you need access to the parking lot to drop-off the equipment?
- ? How much set up time do you need?
- ? The room is a historic museum, so if you plan on bringing in heavy equipment, please bring small floor mats. If you don't have accessible, we can try to find something here that can be substitute.

Let me know if you have any questions.

Thanks,

Frankie

From: Sarah Hegeman [<mailto:shegeman@akpdmedia.com>]

Sent: Wednesday, March 26, 2014 3:25 PM
To: Scola, Lindsay
Cc: Liz Hegarty; John Del Cecato; Martinez Blanco, Frankie; Grybauskas, Stefan
Subject: Re: Friday Shoot

Great. Thanks so much!

--

Sarah Hegeman
Vice President and Executive Producer
AKPD Message and Media, LLC (formerly Axelrod and Associates)
P: 312.664.7500
C: 312.339.5632
F: 312.664.0174

On 3/26/14 2:19 PM, "Scola, Lindsay" <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

We are good for Friday to be at City Hall. Please see room pictures attached. Frankie and Stefan will be your POCs for this event and will help with room logistics and vehicles through Security.

Thanks,
Lindsay

Lindsay Scola
Director of Scheduling
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212.788.2962
Cell: 917.513.1690

From: de Alwis, Ronalie
To: Rosenberg, Reid; "shegeman@akpdmedia.com"
Cc: Drum, Catherine
Subject: RE: Friday Shoot
Date: Friday, March 28, 2014 4:04:32 PM

Catherine- can you help, please?

From: Rosenberg, Reid
Sent: Friday, March 28, 2014 3:56 PM
To: 'shegeman@akpdmedia.com'; de Alwis, Ronalie
Subject: Re: Friday Shoot

Looping Ronalie. I'm headed out to advance a parade route. I'm with Ronalie, and she knows the situation.

Reid Rosenberg

From: Sarah Hegeman [<mailto:shegeman@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Friday, March 28, 2014 03:54 PM
To: Rosenberg, Reid
Subject: Re: Friday Shoot

Is there a maintenance guy that we could help us find an outlet for our big light? We are loosing sun, but we don't want to blow a fuse.

On Mar 27, 2014, at 7:30 PM, "Rosenberg, Reid" <RRosenberg@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Hi Sarah,

Please see below for my cell number.

Reid Rosenberg

From: Martinez Blanco, Frankie
Sent: Thursday, March 27, 2014 07:28 PM
To: 'Sarah Hegeman' <shegeman@akpdmedia.com>; Grybauskas, Stefan; Ko, Eunice; Scola, Lindsay
Cc: Liz Hegarty <lhegarty@akpdmedia.com>; John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Rosenberg, Reid
Subject: RE: Friday Shoot

Hi Sarah,

Finally back in the office.

We can get you access to the parking lot to unload but will need the make of the car and the list of folks that are coming?

Reid Rosenberg (cc'ed) will be your point of contact. He will send his contact info soon. I'll be out of pocket from 10:00AM-10:30AM.

Let me know if you have any questions.

Thanks,

Frankie

From: Sarah Hegeman [<mailto:shegeman@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Thursday, March 27, 2014 5:32 PM
To: Grybauskas, Stefan; Ko, Eunice; Scola, Lindsay; Martinez Blanco, Frankie
Cc: Liz Hegarty; John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: Friday Shoot

Sounds good. Thanks!

From: <Grybauskas>, Stefan <SGrybauskas@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Thursday, March 27, 2014 4:30 PM
To: Sarah Hegeman <shegeman@akpdmedia.com>, "Ko, Eunice" <EKo@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Scola, Lindsay" <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Martinez Blanco, Frankie" <FMartinezBlanco@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: Liz Hegarty <lhegarty@akpdmedia.com>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Friday Shoot

We are still holding 4:30. May move earlier but let's lock that for now.

From: Sarah Hegeman [<mailto:shegeman@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Thursday, March 27, 2014 05:28 PM
To: Ko, Eunice; Grybauskas, Stefan; Scola, Lindsay; Martinez Blanco, Frankie
Cc: Liz Hegarty <lhegarty@akpdmedia.com>; John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Friday Shoot

Eunice, yes, that time works for us.

Stefan, do we have a confirmed time with the Mayor yet?

Thanks!

Sarah

From: <Ko>, Eunice <EKo@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Thursday, March 27, 2014 4:09 PM
To: Sarah Hegeman <shegeman@akpdmedia.com>, "Grybauskas, Stefan" <SGrybauskas@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Scola, Lindsay" <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Martinez Blanco, Frankie" <FMartinezBlanco@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: Liz Hegarty <lhegarty@akpdmedia.com>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>

Subject: RE: Friday Shoot

Hi all,

Sorry for the delay. Can we do 11:30-12:30pm? If that works, we can confirm. Thank you so much!

From: Sarah Hegeman [<mailto:shegeman@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Thursday, March 27, 2014 5:05 PM
To: Grybauskas, Stefan; Ko, Eunice; Scola, Lindsay; Martinez Blanco, Frankie
Cc: Liz Hegarty; John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: Friday Shoot

Right now, we are planning to arrive at 9am so that we have time to set up for 11am with the First Lady.

Is there anything that I should know about the load in procedure? Will we be able to use the parking lot to drop off gear? Is there someone I should call when we arrive?

Please let me know.

Thanks!

--

Sarah Hegeman
Vice President and Executive Producer
AKPD Message and Media, LLC (formerly Axelrod and Associates)
P: 312.664.7500
C: 312.339.5632
F: 312.664.0174

From: Sarah Hegeman <shegeman@akpdmedia.com>
Date: Thursday, March 27, 2014 2:26 PM
To: "Grybauskas, Stefan" <SGrybauskas@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Ko, Eunice" <EKo@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Scola, Lindsay" <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Martinez Blanco, Frankie" <FMartinezBlanco@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: Liz Hegarty <lhegarty@akpdmedia.com>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Friday Shoot

Just wondering if there is any update with this? If we are confirmed with the First Lady at 11, we will need to arrive at 9am to set up. Will we be able to leave our equipment set up for the whole day while we wait for the window of time with the Mayor?

From: <Grybauskas>, Stefan <SGrybauskas@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Thursday, March 27, 2014 10:23 AM
To: Sarah Hegeman <shegeman@akpdmedia.com>, "Ko, Eunice" <EKo@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Scola, Lindsay" <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Martinez Blanco, Frankie" <FMartinezBlanco@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Cc: Liz Hegarty <lhgart@akpdmedia.com>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Friday Shoot

Will have confirmed time shortly. Most likely 430-530pm for the Mayor.

From: Sarah Hegeman [<mailto:shegeman@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Thursday, March 27, 2014 11:13 AM
To: Ko, Eunice; Scola, Lindsay; Martinez Blanco, Frankie
Cc: Liz Hegarty <lhgart@akpdmedia.com>; John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Grybauskas, Stefan
Subject: Re: Friday Shoot

Yes, we can make that work. Do we have a confirmed time with the Mayor tomorrow?

From: <Ko>, Eunice <EKo@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Thursday, March 27, 2014 9:14 AM
To: "Scola, Lindsay" <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Sarah Hegeman <shegeman@akpdmedia.com>, "Martinez Blanco, Frankie" <FMartinezBlanco@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: Liz Hegarty <lhgart@akpdmedia.com>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, "Grybauskas, Stefan" <SGrybauskas@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: RE: Friday Shoot

Is it possible to do this from 11:00-12:00pm for the First Lady?

From: Scola, Lindsay
Sent: Wednesday, March 26, 2014 5:53 PM
To: 'shegeman@akpdmedia.com'; Martinez Blanco, Frankie
Cc: 'lhgart@akpdmedia.com'; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; Grybauskas, Stefan; Ko, Eunice
Subject: Re: Friday Shoot

Team-

The times may need to change slightly for both principals. Stefan and Eunice will advise on time.

From: Sarah Hegeman [<mailto:shegeman@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, March 26, 2014 05:48 PM
To: Martinez Blanco, Frankie; Scola, Lindsay
Cc: Liz Hegarty <lhgart@akpdmedia.com>; John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Grybauskas, Stefan; Ko, Eunice
Subject: Re: Friday Shoot

Hi Frankie-

1. We have one hour reserved with the Mayor, from 5-6p.
2. We have one hour reserved with the First Lady, from 4-5p.
3. We will be bringing a bit a equipment – it is small for us, but it is much larger than TV news crews use. We will have a camera with tripod, prompter, sound equipment, and lights. We are still putting together the final equipment lists, and I can send you those if needed.

4. Yes, having access to the parking lot to drop off equipment would be really helpful.
5. We will need 2 hours to set up. We were planning on arriving at 2p. What is the process for getting the gear inside? If it will take awhile, we might need to arrive a bit earlier.
6. I will check to make sure that we have access to protective gear for our lights and tripod.

Thanks!

--

Sarah Hegeman

Vice President and Executive Producer

AKPD Message and Media, LLC (formerly Axelrod and Associates)

P: 312.664.7500

C: 312.339.5632

F: 312.664.0174

From: "<Martinez Blanco>", Frankie <FMartinezBlanco@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Date: Wednesday, March 26, 2014 4:29 PM

To: Sarah Hegeman <shegeman@akpdmedia.com>, "Scola, Lindsay" <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Cc: Liz Hegarty <lhgart@akpdmedia.com>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, "Grybauskas, Stefan" <SGrybauskas@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Ko, Eunice" <EKo@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Subject: RE: Friday Shoot

Hi Sarah,

Couple of questions about the shoot:

- ? How long are you envisioning on needing the Mayor?
- ? How long do you envision needing the First Lady?
- ? How much equipment are you bringing?
- ? Would you need access to the parking lot to drop-off the equipment?
- ? How much set up time do you need?
- ? The room is a historic museum, so if you plan on bringing in heavy equipment, please bring small floor mats. If you don't have accessible, we can try to find something here that can be substitute.

Let me know if you have any questions.

Thanks,

Frankie

From: Sarah Hegeman [<mailto:shegeman@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, March 26, 2014 3:25 PM
To: Scola, Lindsay
Cc: Liz Hegarty; John Del Cecato; Martinez Blanco, Frankie; Grybauskas, Stefan
Subject: Re: Friday Shoot

Great. Thanks so much!

--

Sarah Hegeman
Vice President and Executive Producer
AKPD Message and Media, LLC (formerly Axelrod and Associates)
P: 312.664.7500
C: 312.339.5632
F: 312.664.0174

On 3/26/14 2:19 PM, "Scola, Lindsay" <LScola@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

We are good for Friday to be at City Hall. Please see room pictures attached. Frankie and Stefan will be your POCs for this event and will help with room logistics and vehicles through Security.

Thanks,
Lindsay

Lindsay Scola
Director of Scheduling
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212.788.2962
Cell: 917.513.1690

From: B
To: Scola, Lindsay
Cc: Ragone, Peter; Wolfe, Emma; Santucci, Laura; "jfdc@akpdmmedia.com"
Subject: Re: Venue for 100 Days Speech
Date: Saturday, March 29, 2014 9:37:13 PM

Yes. Good choice. Now we need to come up with a speech worthy of the location. But this will help motivate us

From: Scola, Lindsay
Sent: Saturday, March 29, 2014 05:07 PM
To: B
Cc: Ragone, Peter; Wolfe, Emma; Santucci, Laura Subject: Venue for 100 Days Speech

For the 100 days speech on Thurs April 10, we highly recommend doing the speech at the Cooper Union Great Hall. The venue is available to us and will seat a crowd between 650-800 people depending on RSVPs. We are excited about the historical relevance and think that it is perfect space wise and accessible for our guests during the day.

We wanted to make sure you were comfortable with the location, if you are not we will send other options. Otherwise we would like to begin invites on Monday to give us 10 days to build RSVPs for the speech.

Thanks,
Lindsay

Lindsay Scola
Director of Scheduling
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212.788.2962
Cell: 917.513.1690

From: John Del Cecato
To: B
Subject: Re: Pls call re: 100 days when u can. Thanks
Date: Wednesday, April 02, 2014 5:22:02 PM

Sounds good

On 4/2/14, 4:59 PM, "B" <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>
>Forgot I was seeing you -- 5:45 is fine. And I have a counter to the >Lisco idea -- really want to focus on new yorkers. Let's discuss. Thanks

>
>
>

>----- Original Message -----

>From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
>Sent: Wednesday, April 02, 2014 04:48 PM
>To: B
>Subject: Re: Pls call re: 100 days when u can. Thanks

>
>Wanna talk now - or at 545pm when we meet?

>
>On 4/2/14, 4:13 PM, "B" <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>
>>
>

From: John Del Cecato
To: B
Subject: Re: Shelly
Date: Wednesday, April 02, 2014 8:36:25 PM

Cool. 16, 17 years - it's all god

> On Apr 2, 2014, at 8:34 PM, "B" <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>

>

> Just fyi

>

>

>

> ----- Original Message -----

> From: Fuleihan, Dean (OMB) [<mailto:FuleihanD@omb.nyc.gov>]

> Sent: Wednesday, April 02, 2014 07:05 PM

> To: B

> Subject: Re: Shelly

>

> 1997

>

>

>> On Apr 2, 2014, at 6:21 PM, "B" <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>>

>>

>> When did he first propose UPK? 1996?

From: John Del Cecato
To: Bill de Blasio
Cc: Jon Fromowitz
Subject: Here's where I am
Sent: Apr 3, 2014 1:45 PM

I need a closer... And I may have jammed too much of the movement politics stuff into the end - but we can always cut...

=====

Priorities, Progress, and the Path Forward
Cooper Union
Thursday, April 10th
Draft 2 – 4/3/14 – 2pm

THE MOVEMENT

When I was sworn into office three months ago, the pundits weren't quite sure what to make of us – not just ME, but the movement that got all of us here.

- I'm a product of movement politics. My loyalties don't lie with a political party, or an ideology, or a machine, or a special interest group.
- I work for the people of this city – all 8.4 million of them. You are my boss. No one else.
- Some weren't quite sure what to make of what we set out doing – this progressive agenda focused on reducing inequality. But now they're starting to see.
- Because movement politics doesn't measure success by poll numbers, but by ACTION.
- We believe in people-powered government; grassroots mobilization; agitating for policies that help real people who are struggling; shaking up the system; refusing to settle for breadcrumbs, or even half a loaf.
- We judge success or failure on REAL change – making a difference in the lives of PEOPLE.

THE AGENDA

So at that time, we laid out our priorities.

- Delivering city services and keeping New Yorkers safe was, is, and will always be Job One.
- But we were also sent here with a mission – to take dead aim at the Tale of Two Cities and tackle the inequality that threatens our future.

WALKING

We're only 3 months in, but we've never lost sight of that first job – no matter many challenges we've faced.

- 8 snowstorms. (Sanitation Workers did excellent job.)
- East Harlem tragedy. (Neighbors comforting neighbors as we mourn.)
- Epidemic of pedestrian deaths. (Plan in place & moving forward.)

RUNNING (High-Level Walking)

On public safety, Commissioner Bratton and the NYPD have built relationships between police and co

From: Robert Munoz
To: Chao, Raymond
Subject: two planning meetings on Sunday?
Date: Friday, April 04, 2014 3:56:59 PM

Just wanted to confirm if that's correct. One earlier and then another later on at Bar ToTo?

From: Jon Fromowitz
To: Wolfe, Emma
Cc: John Del Cecato; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Singleton, Jessica
Subject: Re: Summary - Real People
Date: Sunday, April 06, 2014 12:41:27 PM

Thank you!

On Apr 6, 2014, at 12:39 PM, Wolfe, Emma <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Fromo and JDC –

In addition to the UPK folks that Stephanie has sent, these are the additional folks we are lining up. You just want one for each at the end of the day, correct? Anything else we need here? We are continuing to add more leads on all but just want to make sure you're updated.

Ccing my assistant Gabriel here who has been running point on this; please include us both on needs/next steps.

Gabriel's been in touch with Jessie on video logistics.

#

PSL

Note: Both have passed vet. Have lines out, will have additional back ups

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

Police/community

Note: all are currently in vet. Harold has additional back ups, waiting to hear back from Racehel

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

From: Jon Fromowitz
To: Stephanie Yazgi
Cc: Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; JessieSingleton [REDACTED]; Josh Gold; John Del Cecato; Ishanee Parikh; Emma Wolfe; Wolfe, Emma
Subject: Re: SUNDAY UPDATED LIST of real UPK stories
Date: Sunday, April 06, 2014 3:48:54 PM

This is awesome; we really appreciate all the work!

On Apr 6, 2014, at 3:38 PM, "Stephanie Yazgi" <syazgi@hilltoppublicsolutions.com> wrote:

we are up to about 16

updated list here and also on google doc

also shared with gabe from mayor's office for vetting as requested

thank you

On Fri, Apr 4, 2014 at 4:39 PM, Stephanie Yazgi

<syazgi@hilltoppublicsolutions.com> wrote:

"END OF DAY" UPDATE FOR YOU ALL ATTACHED

Will do this again after the weekend as we continue to get more options.

We are currently at 10 PPL between UPK, CAU and C4C.

Problems? Call my cell at [REDACTED]

When will outreach start? Has it started?

If you want access to google doc and you don't have it please let me know.

Stephanie

<Parent Stories for Video.xlsx>

From: Jessica Singleton
To: Stephanie Yazgi
Cc: Jon Fromowitz; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Josh Gold; John Del Cecato; Ishanee Parikh; Emma Wolfe; Wolfe, Emma
Subject: Re: SUNDAY UPDATED LIST of real UPK stories
Date: Sunday, April 06, 2014 3:52:42 PM

Thanks! Sorry for the confusion. Gabe is now running outreach/vetting and I am qb'ing the production.

For the purposes of the video, we only need one person for UPK and one person for after school. Insofar as you all know, could you let Gabe know which people have the best stories or which would be the best on camera during an interview and he'll reach out in that order?

We will shoot in City Hall on Tuesday. Gabe will work to bring them all to City Hall that day for 45 minute windows.

Thanks!

On Sun, Apr 6, 2014 at 3:38 PM, Stephanie Yazgi

<syazgi@hilltoppublicsolutions.com> wrote:

we are up to about 16

updated list here and also on google doc

also shared with gabe from mayor's office for vetting as requested

thank you

On Fri, Apr 4, 2014 at 4:39 PM, Stephanie Yazgi

<syazgi@hilltoppublicsolutions.com> wrote:

"END OF DAY" UPDATE FOR YOU ALL ATTACHED

Will do this again after the weekend as we continue to get more options.

We are currently at 10 PPL between UPK, CAU and C4C.

Problems? Call my cell at [REDACTED]

When will outreach start? Has it started?

If you want access to google doc and you don't have it please let me know.

Stephanie

|

--

js / @jessay286

From: B
To: Leopold, Elana; "jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Re: Reminder: Touch base w Fromo re speech
Date: Sunday, April 06, 2014 10:56:21 PM

Sorry, but this very draining day got the better of me. Fell asleep for a long time. Didn't get to work on speech. We'll pick it up again tmrw. Thanks

----- Original Message -----

From: Leopold, Elana
Sent: Sunday, April 06, 2014 08:47 PM
To: B
Subject: Reminder: Touch base w Fromo re speech

Sent from my iPhone

From: Ragone, Peter
To: "jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com"; [REDACTED] Tarlow, Mindy
Cc: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Re: Agenda items for 100 days speech
Date: Monday, April 07, 2014 11:38:31 AM

+ Mindi

----- Original Message -----

From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]

Sent: Monday, April 07, 2014 11:32 AM

To: Ragone, Peter; [REDACTED] <[REDACTED]>

Cc: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>

Subject: Re: Agenda items for 100 days speech

Wanted to follow up on this and make sure it was on the radar. One note — as you can probably see from the list of items — is we're looking for an overall focus on quality of life initiatives, though that's obviously a big umbrella.

I don't have Tarlow's email address — not sure if you are just talking separately or want to loop her to this chain. Totally defer to you guys on process... just let us know your thoughts when you can.

On Apr 4, 2014, at 3:57 PM, PWR <[REDACTED]> wrote:

> We should talk to tarlow also.

>

> This is a personal email account. If this communication is related to official business please email me at pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov.

>

>> On Apr 4, 2014, at 3:34 PM, Jon Fromowitz <jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

>>

>> Peter, Dom — JDC and I are working on the 100 Days speech. We wanted to check in with you on policy items to lay out in a forward-looking riff on platform/ agenda that we're working up.

>>

>> We have a rough list below and wanted to see 1) if you had thoughts on other items we should be including and 2) if you had thoughts on what's here (especially things with "?" after them where we don't entirely know what's what). I don't think we're envisioning going into a lot of policy detail with this speech, but want to make sure we have what you guys think is a good foundation to lay down.

>>

>> Let us know your your thoughts and thanks. ~Jon

>>

>> But this is just the start. Building a city of opportunity and fairness & leaving no New Yorker behind will define the next 9 months of this year with as much vigor as it did during the first 3 months.

>>

>> · 200K Affordable Housing plan to be unveiled in May.

>> · New rules for developers.

>> · Sandy recovery plan that protects all five boroughs.

>> · Ending the ticket war on small business.

>> · (Anything to say about water rates? Property taxes?)

>> · Quality of life initiatives (Any new trash pickup procedures? Recycling? Mayors Against Illegal Guns?)

>> · Any update on protecting hospitals?

>> · Min wage increase?

>> · Energy retrofit?

>> MUNICIPAL ID?

From: Singleton, Jessica
To: Jon Fromowitz
Subject: Anything about sandy/build it back?
Date: Monday, April 07, 2014 5:51:28 PM

Thinking about composition for the room. Know you don't have individuals yet but thinking through the obvious themes.

Paid sick
Upk
After school
Community police
Sandy
What else?

Sent from my iPad

From: Ponet, Maibe
To: Matt McLaughlin
Cc: Singleton, Jessica; Seignious, Sandy; Martinez Blanco, Frankie; Jon Fromowitz
Subject: RE: Translation please!
Date: Wednesday, April 09, 2014 5:26:10 PM

Pls call me at 212-7882654. I can't reach you at the number below your signature.

From: Matt McLaughlin [mailto:matt@acresandco.com]
Sent: Wednesday, April 09, 2014 5:24 PM
To: Ponet, Maibe
Cc: Singleton, Jessica; Seignious, Sandy; Martinez Blanco, Frankie; Jon Fromowitz
Subject: Re: Translation please!

Maibe,

Can you please give me a call? Having trouble with the translation.

Thanks!
Matt

Matt McLaughlin

Executive Producer | Acres
59 Franklin Street, Suite 210
New York, NY 10013
c: \(703\) 587-4016587-4016)
e: matt@acresandco.com
w: acresandco.com

This message is property of ACRES & CO. LLC and contains information which may be privileged or confidential. It is meant only for the intended recipients and/or their authorized agents. If you believe you have received this message in error, please notify us immediately by return e-mail and destroy any printed or electronic copies of the message. Any unauthorized use, dissemination, disclosure or copying of this message or the information contained in it, is strictly prohibited and may be unlawful. Thank you for your cooperation.

On Apr 9, 2014, at 4:11 PM, "Singleton, Jessica" <JSingleton@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Guys see below.

Sent from my iPad

On Apr 9, 2014, at 3:56 PM, "Ponet, Maibe" <MPonet@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Rough translation – they isn't very articulate, and there a couple of inaccuracies.

Before, when we didn't have these five-days, when we asked for a break because our children were sick, our employers could fire us when he went back to work. I saw that happened to one of my co-workers. This bill signed by mayor de Blasio helped all car washers working for small businesses. Now that we have five days of sick leave they can't fire us as they did before. We thank mayor de Blasio for that. He thought about the need of all us, when we need time to take care for our love ones. There is no more discrimination as there was before.

From: Singleton, Jessica
Sent: Wednesday, April 09, 2014 3:37 PM
To: Ponet, Maibe; Seignious, Sandy; Martinez Blanco, Frankie
Subject: RE: Translation please!

The password is [REDACTED]

From: Ponet, Maibe
Sent: Wednesday, April 09, 2014 3:36 PM
To: Singleton, Jessica; Seignious, Sandy; Martinez Blanco, Frankie
Subject: RE: Translation please!

Can't access the video

From: Singleton, Jessica
Sent: Wednesday, April 09, 2014 3:35 PM
To: Ponet, Maibe; Seignious, Sandy; Martinez Blanco, Frankie
Subject: Translation please!

Could you guys please help us translate from 1:40 → end. It's in Spanish and I need to show it to the mayor asap. We will cut it down but need to know what to cut.

Many many thanks!!
Jessie

<http://vimeo.com/91544376>

pw: [REDACTED]

Jessica Singleton

@NYCMayorsOffice

@jessay286

From: B
To: [REDACTED] "jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Fw: For Tomorrow's Speech
Date: Wednesday, April 09, 2014 7:26:56 PM

From: Patchett, James
Sent: Wednesday, April 09, 2014 06:33 PM
To: B
Cc: Glen, Alicia
Subject: For Tomorrow's Speech

Per your discussion with Alicia, below is some language that we think would make sense in the speech tomorrow (we think it strikes a good balance). Let us know what you think. (JP Morgan is just one example. Happy to come up with a different one if you / Comms prefer.)

We've talked about a lot of important things today, but I'd also like to spend a minute talking about something that is critical to every New Yorker: Good jobs. Since I took office, NYC has created an additional 25,000 jobs. That is progress, but there are still too many New Yorkers without quality jobs. Make no mistake: My administration recognizes that our partnership with the business community is essential to building on this progress. As we pursue a robust five borough economic development agenda, we must continue to invest in and support the industries that have made us the global city we are...like real estate, financial services, telecom, healthcare, media & entertainment, hospitality, and higher education. These industries have been - and continue to be - integral to this city's economy. And we will do everything in our power to support good employers who are growing in our City and providing good jobs for New Yorkers. We applaud employers like JP Morgan Chase, who are moving 2,000 employees across the East River – not the Hudson – to new offices in Brooklyn's MetroTech Center. Employers like JP Morgan will spur investments across Brooklyn and continue to invigorate the office market and attract more innovative companies to the Brooklyn Tech Triangle.

Thanks,
James

James Patchett
Chief of Staff
Deputy Mayor for Housing & Economic Development
JPatchett@cityhall.nyc.gov
O: 212-788-3128
C: 917-847-5275

From: Scola, Lindsay
To: jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com
Subject: President Bharucha's introduction
Date: Wednesday, April 09, 2014 9:32:38 PM

Bharucha– Ba-ru-CHa

From: Wolfe, Emma
Sent: Wednesday, April 09, 2014 11:27 PM
To: 'jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com' <jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: Ragone, Peter; [REDACTED] <[REDACTED]>
<[REDACTED]>
Subject: Re: Latest draft of 100 days outline

Ok - if we are keeping both in, just need to make some calls in morning.

----- Original Message -----

From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, April 09, 2014 11:23 PM
To: Wolfe, Emma
Cc: Ragone, Peter; [REDACTED] <[REDACTED]>
[REDACTED] Mahen Gunaratna <[REDACTED]>
Subject: Re: Latest draft of 100 days outline

Team speechwriting does have strong feelings about (or a strong understanding) of these issues. MBdB was keen on including Hudson Yards. State partnership on BK health was from Dom's stuff... So I blame him.

Defer to others more knowledgeable on best way to handle.

On Apr 9, 2014, at 11:19 PM, Wolfe, Emma <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

- > Tiny political notes (so, narrowed thread)
- >
- > 1) Fwiw - electeds went a bit nuts (in bad way) after our hudson yards announcement - congressman nadler, others had negotiated this a long time ago. Will need to prepare them at minimum to not talk more trash.
- >
- > 2) State partnership on brooklyn health - really? can I give heads up here?
- >
- >
- >
- >
- >
- >

> ----- Original Message -----

> From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
> Sent: Wednesday, April 09, 2014 09:07 PM
> To: Ragone, Peter
> Cc: nbaldick@hilltoppublicsolutions.com <nbaldick@hilltoppublicsolutions.com>;
> [REDACTED] <[REDACTED]> Jonathan@berlinrosen.com
> <Jonathan@berlinrosen.com>; [REDACTED] <[REDACTED]>
> [REDACTED] Mahen Gunaratna
> <[REDACTED]> Wolfe, Emma; [REDACTED]
> John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
> Subject: Re: Latest draft of 100 days outline
>

> We just finished prep. This draft does NOT reflect the last round of MBdB's thoughts from prep, but his latest notes do not call for dramatic changes, so this'll be in the ballpark of the next draft. We will have a more updated, cleaner draft in a few hours (with more acknowledgments etc.), but wanted to send this around now given the time.

>

From: Hanley, Monica
To: [REDACTED] <"jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com">
Subject: Re: Acknowledgments
Date: Wednesday, April 09, 2014 11:32:46 PM

[REDACTED]

Also, here is the final video for the middle of the remarks.

Here is final video:

<https://vimeo.com/91579404>

pw: [REDACTED]

From: Hanley, Monica
Sent: Wednesday, April 09, 2014 11:31 PM
To: [REDACTED] <'jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com'>
<jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: Ragone, Peter
Subject: Re: Acknowledgments

Adam, Jon - please call me if this doesn't make sense to what you were planning.

From: Hanley, Monica
Sent: Wednesday, April 09, 2014 11:29 PM
To: Negash, Dabash; Leopold, Elana; [REDACTED] <'jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com'>
<jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: Coney, Javon; Wright, Jessica; Santucci, Laura; Ragone, Peter; Wolfe, Emma; Scola, Lindsay; Martinez Blanco, Frankie; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Canfield, Ellyn
Subject: Re: Acknowledgments

Adding EC

From: Hanley, Monica
Sent: Wednesday, April 09, 2014 11:24 PM
To: Negash, Dabash; Leopold, Elana; [REDACTED] <'jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com'>
<jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: Coney, Javon; Wright, Jessica; Santucci, Laura; Ragone, Peter; Wolfe, Emma; Scola, Lindsay; Martinez Blanco, Frankie; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel
Subject: Acknowledgments

Want to get everyone on the same chain.

1. We should not do an acknowledgment card for him to read tomorrow but instead, Jon and Adam should work the following into the beginning of the remarks.:

- thank president Barucha (with the phonetics and correct spelling) and thank the school for hosting
- Thank JJA for the introductory remarks
- thank FLONYC and maybe Chiara and Dante
- thank "all elected officials, commissioners, city officials and friends" who came today.

Peter, Laura, Emma - please let us know if this is correct.

2. Peter, Emma - who do you think should acknowledge the elected officials: JJA or VOG?

3. Frankie, Gabe and Dabash - Jessica and I will email u separately abt the "elected officials" list. We should have the list handy for the mayor and we will await Peter and Emma's final guidance on who should acknowledge their presence.

From: Negash, Dabash
Sent: Wednesday, April 09, 2014 10:59 PM
To: Leopold, Elana
Cc: Hanley, Monica; Coney, Javon
Subject: Re: potential acknowledgments

Anyone else he specifically wanted listed?

From: Leopold, Elana
Sent: Wednesday, April 09, 2014 08:50 PM
To: Wolfe, Emma; Negash, Dabash
Cc: Hanley, Monica; Canfield, Ellyn; Santucci, Laura; Wright, Jessica; Coney, Javon; Ragone, Peter; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel
Subject: RE: potential acknowledgments

He definitely wants to thank cooper union

From: Wolfe, Emma
Sent: Wednesday, April 09, 2014 8:50 PM
To: Negash, Dabash
Cc: Leopold, Elana; Hanley, Monica; Canfield, Ellyn; Santucci, Laura; Wright, Jessica; Coney, Javon; Ragone, Peter; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel
Subject: Re: potential acknowledgments

If we do cooper union would be good to say presidents and all the people who worked to make this space great today or whatever

On Apr 9, 2014, at 8:45 PM, "Negash, Dabash" <DNegash@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

What about basics? Should we do separate list? I am unsure if already in speech.

-JJA for introducing
-CMC
-Cooper Union for hosting and School President, etc.

From: Leopold, Elana
Sent: Wednesday, April 09, 2014 08:41 PM
To: Hanley, Monica; Negash, Dabash; Canfield, Ellyn; Santucci, Laura; Wright, Jessica; Coney, Javon; Ragone, Peter; Wolfe, Emma; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel
Subject: RE: potential acknowledgments

+ Emma

From: Leopold, Elana
Sent: Wednesday, April 09, 2014 8:40 PM
To: Hanley, Monica; Negash, Dabash; Canfield, Ellyn; Santucci, Laura; Wright, Jessica; Coney, Javon; Ragone, Peter
Subject: RE: potential acknowledgments

I just spoke to the mayor and he would prefer not to acknowledge any electeds. Instead, he would like voice of god or Jennifer Jones Austin to acknowledge them.

From: Hanley, Monica
Sent: Wednesday, April 09, 2014 8:35 PM
To: Coney, Javon; Leopold, Elana
Subject: FW: potential acknowledgments

From: Wolfe, Emma
Sent: Wednesday, April 09, 2014 8:27 PM
To: B
Cc: Hanley, Monica; Negash, Dabash; Canfield, Ellyn; Santucci, Laura; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Wright, Jessica
Subject: potential acknowledgments

Current RSVPs:

Statewide: Tom DiNapoli.
Citywide: Scott Stringer.
Citywide: Melissa Mark Viverito (Tentative)
Borowides: James Oddo, Ruben Diaz, Jr., Gale Brewer, Melinda Katz, Eric Adams (tent)
District Attorney: Ken Thompson, Richard Brown, Dan Donovan Jr.

####

Additional Notes:

Not necessarily attending, but people we have acknowledged for achievements in first 100 days:

The people we thanked for State Budget:
Tier 1: Shelly Silver, Jeff Klein, Governor Cuomo
Tier 2: Dean Skelos and the Senate Majority Coalition, the Independent Democratic Conference, and Andrea Stewart Cousins and the State Senate Democrats.

The people we thanked for the work we have gotten done with the City Council:
Speaker Melissa Mark Viverito and her leadership in East Harlem

REBNY/Related for East Harlem Explosion housing help

Jennifer Jones Austin and Carl Weisbrod for Transition Committee Co-Chairing

Slippery slope – not recommending: George Gresham, Bob Master, other labor leaders.

From: Hanley, Monica
To: [REDACTED]
Cc: "jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com"; Ragone, Peter
Subject: Re: Acknowledgments
Date: Wednesday, April 09, 2014 11:41:18 PM

Just FYI, here are the names and titles of who is speaking in the video. I defer to you if you need the names anywhere:

- Kassim [kah-sihm] Hinds, Project Manager
 - Bishop Eric Daniel Garnes, Sr Pastor of Tabernacle of Queens Cathedral
 - Juan Carlos Rivera, car wash employee
 - Elizabeth Caquias [ka-key-az], mother of five
-

From: Adam Cohen [mailto:[REDACTED]]
Sent: Wednesday, April 09, 2014 11:33 PM
To: Hanley, Monica
Cc: jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com <jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>; Ragone, Peter
Subject: Re: Acknowledgments

Monica -- We're fine with this. They'll be in the next draft we circulate.
Adam

Sent from my iPad

On Apr 9, 2014, at 11:31 PM, "Hanley, Monica" <MHanley@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Adam, Jon - please call me if this doesn't make sense to what you were planning.

From: Hanley, Monica
Sent: Wednesday, April 09, 2014 11:29 PM
To: Negash, Dabash; Leopold, Elana; [REDACTED]
<[REDACTED]> "jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com"
<jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: Coney, Javon; Wright, Jessica; Santucci, Laura; Ragone, Peter; Wolfe, Emma; Scola, Lindsay; Martinez Blanco, Frankie; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Canfield, Elyn
Subject: Re: Acknowledgments

Adding EC

From: Hanley, Monica
Sent: Wednesday, April 09, 2014 11:24 PM
To: Negash, Dabash; Leopold, Elana; [REDACTED]
<[REDACTED]> "jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com"
<jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: Coney, Javon; Wright, Jessica; Santucci, Laura; Ragone, Peter; Wolfe, Emma; Scola, Lindsay; Martinez Blanco, Frankie; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel
Subject: Acknowledgments

Want to get everyone on the same chain.

1. We should not do an acknowledgment card for him to read tomorrow but instead,

Jon and Adam should work the following into the beginning of the remarks.:

- thank president Barucha (with the phonetics and correct spelling) and thank the school for hosting
- Thank JJA for the introductory remarks
- thank FLONYC and maybe Chiara and Dante
- thank "all elected officials, commissioners, city officials and friends" who came today.

Peter, Laura, Emma - please let us know if this is correct.

2. Peter, Emma - who do you think should acknowledge the elected officials: JJA or VOG?

3. Frankie, Gabe and Dabash - Jessica and I will email u separately abt the "elected officials" list. We should have the list handy for the mayor and we will await Peter and Emma's final guidance on who should acknowledge their presence.

From: Negash, Dabash
Sent: Wednesday, April 09, 2014 10:59 PM
To: Leopold, Elana
Cc: Hanley, Monica; Coney, Javon
Subject: Re: potential acknowledgments

Anyone else he specifically wanted listed?

From: Leopold, Elana
Sent: Wednesday, April 09, 2014 08:50 PM
To: Wolfe, Emma; Negash, Dabash
Cc: Hanley, Monica; Canfield, Ellyn; Santucci, Laura; Wright, Jessica; Coney, Javon; Ragone, Peter; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel
Subject: RE: potential acknowledgments

He definitely wants to thank cooper union

From: Wolfe, Emma
Sent: Wednesday, April 09, 2014 8:50 PM
To: Negash, Dabash
Cc: Leopold, Elana; Hanley, Monica; Canfield, Ellyn; Santucci, Laura; Wright, Jessica; Coney, Javon; Ragone, Peter; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel
Subject: Re: potential acknowledgments

If we do cooper union would be good to say presidents and all the people who worked to make this space great today or whatever

On Apr 9, 2014, at 8:45 PM, "Negash, Dabash" <DNegash@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

What about basics? Should we do separate list? I am unsure if already in speech.

-JJA for introducing
-CMC
-Cooper Union for hosting and School President, etc.

From: Leopold, Elana
Sent: Wednesday, April 09, 2014 08:41 PM
To: Hanley, Monica; Negash, Dabash; Canfield, Ellyn; Santucci, Laura; Wright, Jessica; Coney, Javon; Ragone, Peter; Wolfe, Emma; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel
Subject: RE: potential acknowledgments

+ Emma

From: Leopold, Elana
Sent: Wednesday, April 09, 2014 8:40 PM
To: Hanley, Monica; Negash, Dabash; Canfield, Ellyn; Santucci, Laura; Wright, Jessica; Coney, Javon; Ragone, Peter
Subject: RE: potential acknowledgments

I just spoke to the mayor and he would prefer not to acknowledge any electeds. Instead, he would like voice of god or Jennifer Jones Austin to acknowledge them.

From: Hanley, Monica
Sent: Wednesday, April 09, 2014 8:35 PM
To: Coney, Javon; Leopold, Elana
Subject: FW: potential acknowledgments

From: Wolfe, Emma
Sent: Wednesday, April 09, 2014 8:27 PM
To: B
Cc: Hanley, Monica; Negash, Dabash; Canfield, Ellyn; Santucci, Laura; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Wright, Jessica
Subject: potential acknowledgments

Current RSVPs:

Statewide: Tom DiNapoli.

Citywide: Scott Stringer.

Citywide: Melissa Mark Viverito (Tentative)

Borowides: James Oddo, Ruben Diaz, Jr., Gale Brewer, Melinda Katz, Eric Adams (tent)

District Attorney: Ken Thompson, Richard Brown, Dan Donovan Jr.

####

Additional Notes:

Not necessarily attending, but people we have acknowledged for achievements in first 100 days:

The people we thanked for State Budget:

Tier 1: Shelly Silver, Jeff Klein, Governor Cuomo

Tier 2: Dean Skelos and the Senate Majority Coalition, the Independent Democratic Conference, and Andrea Stewart Cousins and the State Senate Democrats.

The people we thanked for the work we have gotten done with the City Council:

Speaker Melissa Mark Viverito and her leadership in East Harlem

REBNY/Related for East Harlem Explosion housing help

Jennifer Jones Austin and Carl Weisbrod for Transition Committee Co-Chairing

Slippery slope – not recommending: George Gresham, Bob Master, other labor leaders.

From: Hanley, Monica
To: "jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com"
Cc: [REDACTED] Ragone, Peter
Subject: Re: Acknowledgments
Date: Wednesday, April 09, 2014 11:58:36 PM

Ty, Jon

From: Jon Fromowitz [mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Wednesday, April 09, 2014 11:58 PM
To: Hanley, Monica
Cc: [REDACTED] <[REDACTED]> Ragone, Peter
Subject: Re: Acknowledgments

Here is latest draft to print, etc.

From: Ragone, Peter
To: Adams, Marti; Walzak, Phil
Subject: Fw: New 100 Days Draft
Date: Thursday, April 10, 2014 12:00:53 AM
Attachments: outline100DaysSpeech20.docx
ATT00001.txt

----- Original Message -----

From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, April 09, 2014 11:54 PM
To: Ragone, Peter; nbaldick@hilltoppublicsolutions.com <nbaldick@hilltoppublicsolutions.com>;
[REDACTED] <[REDACTED]> Jonathan@berlinrosen.com
<Jonathan@berlinrosen.com>; [REDACTED] <[REDACTED]>
[REDACTED] <[REDACTED]> Mahen Gunaratna
<[REDACTED]> Wolfe, Emma
Cc: [REDACTED] <[REDACTED]> John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: New 100 Days Draft

With changes reflecting latest prep.

Our next meeting is tomorrow morning.

Mahen, I know that you've seen a couple of these before, but please give this a thorough review as there are a few new facts in this one, and also a few new characterizations of things.

Dom, please give special attention to the platform stuff to make sure we've incorporated correctly and that there's nothing key that we're leaving out.

Adam and I will be around City Hall tomorrow at 8 AM, and should have a little time before our final prep if folks have things they want to go over.

Restoring the Progressive City
Cooper Union
Thursday, April 10th
Draft 8 - 4/9/14 - 11:45PM

- I want to thank Jennifer Jones Alexander for that wonderful introduction
- As I mark my 100th day in office, it's only appropriate that she is here with me.
 - Jennifer was with us from the beginning.
 - No one understood more fully the importance of our work, no one was more critical to getting us here today.
 - We owe her our gratitude for all she's done to help build this administration.
- There's someone else I'm very happy to have with us today, who was REALLY here from the beginning – and before.
- The love of my life, New York's remarkable First Lady, Chirlane McCray.
- [Thank Dante and Chiara if they are attending].
- Thank you to all the elected officials, commissioners, city officials and friends who are here with us this afternoon.
- We come together today with heavy hearts over the loss of NYPD Officer Dennis Guerra, a married father of four, just 38 years old, who gave his life heroically, working to save the lives of others in a burning building.
- I ask that we keep Officer Rosa Rodriguez, who sustained serious injuries in the same incident, in our thoughts and prayers.
- Officers Guerra and Rodriguez represent the most selfless and noble traditions of our city. And they have our deep appreciation and gratitude.
- I'd like to ask that we begin with a moment of silence to honor and remember Officer Guerra.
- I want to thank Bharucha– Ba-ru-Cha, and the faculty, the workers and the students of Cooper Union.

- It's an honor to be here at one of the city's greatest educational institutions, renowned for over a century and a half for combining an inclusive spirit with the highest academic standards.
- I'm humbled to speak in a place where so many Presidents, scientists and artists have addressed passionate souls and curious minds over generations.
- We find ourselves in a perfect setting to discuss all that our city is capable of when we're at our very best.
- As Abraham Lincoln said right here at Cooper Union "let us have faith that right makes might."

[WHO WE ARE]

When this Administration was sworn into office 100 days ago, there were those who weren't sure what to make of us – not just of me, but of all of you who helped me to get here.

- So let me tell you what we're about
- This Administration is a product of movement politics.
- But the movement that we're a part of doesn't define the boundaries of its ranks through exclusivity.
- Rather, it's a movement of people who share a vision....
- People in every borough, of every background, and every income bracket, who believe in our city's progressive traditions.
- In the last hundred days, we've been inspired by the support of, working parents and retirees, of schoolteachers and business leaders.
- What we share is a vision of a progressive city:
 - A city that is run with the highest standards of effectiveness and professionalism
 - That respects everyone's dignity
 - That honors New York's proud tradition of inclusion and equality
- We welcome every New Yorker because we believe that we are at our best when EVERYONE gets a shot at fulfilling their dreams.
- Some weren't quite sure what to make of our progressive agenda to reduce inequality and restore opportunity. But now they're starting to see.

- Because politics of the sort that we believe in doesn't measure success by poll numbers, but by ACTION.
- We believe in grassroots, people-powered government.
- We judge success on results – on making a difference in the lives of real people.

[WHY WE'RE HERE]

The vision we are advancing isn't new to our city – progressiveness, opportunity, inclusion, justice... these values are coded in New York's DNA.

- New York has always been the center of progressive America:
 - This is the city where courageous workers were pioneers in the union movement;
 - Where the NAACP was formed and where the Stonewall protests launched the LGBT rights movement;
 - The city of the Statue of Liberty... the symbol of open doors and unmatched opportunity for people from every corner of the globe.
- We weren't sent to City Hall to change New York's character; you sent us here to restore New York's proud legacy as the progressive city...
- ...To keep the sacred promise of our city... that everyone has a place... that everyone gets a voice.
- Our inequality crisis – the Tale of Two Cities we've been living for years threatens who we are, and what kind of city we will be.
- Restoring a progressive New York... That is our vision... It's what's driven the steps we take, and what drives ones we will take, together.
- And in our first 100 days we've already taken great strides.

[WHAT A PROGRESSIVE CITY MEANS]

[Restoring a Progressive City means governing New York with the highest standards of effectiveness]

In a progressive city, the government must perform at the highest level of effectiveness and professionalism. It sounds simple, but it's not.

- If New Yorkers can't be confident their city will provide basic services, the rest of our vision for a progressive city will mean very little.
- Keeping New Yorkers safe and providing the vital services New Yorkers need was, is, and will always be Job One.

We've never lost sight of this first job – no matter how many challenges we've faced.

- The snowiest January and February in the city's recorded history (Sanitation Workers did excellent job.)
- East Harlem tragedy. (Firefighters and other first responders... Neighbors comforting neighbors as we mourn.)
- Epidemic of pedestrian deaths. (Plan Zero in place & moving forward).

In the first quarter of this year, the number of traffic deaths is down 26% and the number injured is down 8%, compared to the first quarter of last year.

On public safety, Commissioner Bratton and the NYPD have built stronger relationships between police and communities that are keeping crime low.

I'm gratified to say that, thanks to the hard work of the men and women of the NYPD, crime rates have been pointing in the right direction:

- Murders are down 9.5% from (in the first quarter of this year compared to the first quarter of last year)
- Shootings are down 3.4%
- Robberies are down 7.2%
- And overall crime is down.
- We've produced a preliminary budget that is fiscally responsible and balanced to keep the city on solid footing.

- DOT crews have filled 284,000 potholes so far this year - compared to 112,000 at the same time last year.

[Restoring a Progressive City means taking dead aim at income inequality]

The kind of governmental excellence I've talked about so far is critical to restoring New York as the progressive city it's meant to be, but it is by no means enough.

In a progressive city, we recognize that growing inequality is the crisis of our time, and it contradicts everything we know is good about this city.

- Throughout its history, New York has been the global center of opportunity and progress, commerce and culture.
- Our tiny geographic confines have produced countless leaders and innovators from finance to theater to education.
- The place where drive, creativity and above all hard work have been rewarded.
- But we have to fight to keep it that way.
- New York has to be a place where people who wake up every day and give it everything they've got, get what they deserve:
 - A decent place to live
 - The income to support a family
 - A better future for their children
- We have to remember that the best and brightest are born in every neighborhood -- a just society allows them to reach their potential.
- But we're not there yet and if can't get there, we risk losing that which makes New York New York.

[A Progressive City is one where there's equal educational opportunity for all]

In a progressive city, there's equal educational opportunity for every child.

It means showing our children that they matter, so that they can live up to their potential and make their contributions to the city we all love.

So we acted:

- Secured the most state funding for Pre-K to NYC in New York State history.
- Tens of thousands more kids will have Pre-K slots.
 - The research is clear: pre-k is one of the best things we can do to launch kids on a successful educational career... and a successful life.
 - Studies show that children involved in high quality pre-k programs are better prepared to begin school than ones who are not:
 - They have better vocabularies and math skills.
 - They are less likely to become delinquent, more likely to be employed.
 - I've seen the results myself.
 - As I was reading "The Very Hungry Caterpillar" to a pre-k class at P.S. 239 in Ridgewood Queens, one of the students raised his hand to tell his classmates and me a new word he had learned.
 - "Metamorphosis!" he said proudly. This was a FOUR YEAR OLD.
- Thousands of students will have access to after-school programs that keep them safe and learning – so their parents can work with less worry.
 - I recently visited an afterschool program at MS 331 in the Morris Heights neighborhood of the Bronx with Chancellor Farina.
 - The program offered everything from homework help to arts and cultural enrichment.
 - I saw a group of girls dancing... learning, coming into their own, sparking one another's creativity, all in a safe environment.
- These are the sorts of opportunities that we want EVERY child to have in a progressive city.

[A Progressive City is one where the justice systems treats everyone equally]

In a progressive city, aggressive crime fighting and honoring the dignity of all New Yorkers aren't mutually exclusive -- they go hand-in-hand.

- We've begun a new era in relations between the NYPD and New Yorkers.
- It wasn't that long ago that Nicolas Peart, a young man from Harlem, wrote an op-ed in the New York Times describing how he'd been stopped and frisked five different times and the heavy toll that it took on him.
- But Nicolas took action.
- He filed a civil rights lawsuit, one that we recently settled, that has fundamentally changed police practices in the city.
- He was a young man whose value was discounted, who was treated as a problem, when in fact, he was just the sort of person we need more of today.
- He responded to injustice with maturity, with intelligence and with tenacity.
- He worked through the system, and he showed that the system could work.
- Now we as a city celebrate a young man that an unjust system once shunned.
- In refusing to be a victim – he became a hero.
- Thanks to Nicolas and so many others who spoke out, we've now ended the abuses of the stop and frisk era.
- Just this week, I addressed a new class of NYPD cadets.
- It was an inspiration to look out on them – young men and women of every background from every corner of the city who worked hard and went through vigorous training to get where they were that day.
- And they were all there for the same reasons:
 - They believe in public service
 - They believe in New York City
 - And they want to make this a safer, better place for all of us to live.

- It was also wonderful to realize that this was the first class graduating into a new era of policing in this city
- An era in which a young man of color can be a bit more confident that he can walk to the corner store without being hassled for no reason.
- This is the kind of community-police relations we want to see in a progressive city.

[In a progressive city, we respect the dignity of workers who fall ill]

In a progressive city, illness doesn't mean lost wages or lost jobs.

- Paid Sick Leave for 500,000 families. Hadn't even gotten a vote in the council for three years.
- Paid sick leave doesn't just protect workers, it builds great companies:
 - I signed this law at Steve's Ice Cream in Greenpoint.
 - The owner- David Stein - explained that paid sick leave helped retain talented workers, which he said was essential to creating the best possible product.
 - Having met with his staff and tasted his ice cream, I couldn't agree with him more.

[In a progressive city, we make affordable housing a priority]

In a progressive city, people can afford to live and to stay in the neighborhoods they love.

- We've begun following through on our commitment to building or restoring 200,000 units of affordable housing that the city desperately needs.
 - The impact of this will be enormous, 200,000 units means homes for 400,000 or more individuals.
 - These projects are creating jobs in the communities where they are located.

- We're also building in job provisions that ensure that construction and other work will be available for residents of the communities.
- And we're making sure that many of these apartments are available at the lower end of the income scale.
- Revised deals with developers to provide more affordable housing (Domino Sugar).
 - Adds 110,000 square feet of new affordable housing.
 - A grand total of 700 new units of affordable housing, 32% of the total.
- Hudson Yards
 - 139 unit building on West 29th Street will be entirely affordable housing – original plan called for 80% market rate.
 - These units will be permanently affordable.
 - The project will also create over 1,600 jobs that we've ensured will pay a living wage, because we know what a difference that makes.
- In East New York we recently broke ground on an affordable housing development provide 278 units of affordable housing.
- It also means good jobs for local workers and space that community groups in East New York so desperately need.
- These projects show that there's room for creativity in how we develop affordable housing.
- Well-executed affordable housing program, can create not only new housing, but new jobs and stronger communities.

[What Our Progress Means – The Stories]

You've heard me talk about the steps we've taken and why. Now, I'd like you to hear from some New Yorkers who have seen the progressive city at work, and who'll tell you what it means for their lives.

- [VIDEOS PLAY]
- Some of these New Yorkers are here today:
 - Kassim Hinds – [REDACTED]
 - Bishop Eric D. Garnes – [REDACTED]
 - Juan Carlos Rivera – [REDACTED]
 - Elizabeth Caquias – [REDACTED]
- Their stories are just a few powerful examples of what real change means... And there's much more to come.

[WHAT LIES AHEAD]

- So we've made our beginning.
- Plato wrote: "The beginning is the most important part of any work... for that is the time at which the character is being formed."
- That is true of our first hundred days.
- The themes we've struck of government effectiveness, equality, and inclusion are the same ones that will guide our work going forward – taking on some of the most important issues facing the city:
 1. EDUCATION – We have much more to do to ensure that every child in New York gets the quality education they deserve.
- A few weeks ago, I spoke at Riverside Church and laid out a vision for improving neighborhood schools across the city. That means:
 - Increase parental involvement
 - Quality teacher retention
 - In 2008 15% of mid-career teachers freely resigned.
 - By 2013, that number had jumped to 43%.
 - Reduce class size
 - No more teaching to the test
 - Improving facilities
 - we're working to sharply reduce the number of classroom trailers.

- Making sure we're not choosing among our children – that traditional public schools, charter schools, and religious schools aren't pitted against each other and help each other succeed.

2. PUBLIC HOUSING –We must sustain and improve our public housing system, which provides homes to nearly half a million New Yorkers.

- We are working to substantially reduce the backlog of repairs and work on new improvements that will ensure these are the kind of homes that New York families deserve.
- Pressing forward on retrofitting which promises both to improve the environment and provide much-needed jobs for NYCHA residents.

3. MUNICIPAL ID -- We are working to provide a new municipal ID that will open doors for and simplify the lives of half a million undocumented and homeless New Yorkers.

- We are making plans across agencies to ensure that New Yorkers will begin receiving Municipal ID cards by the end of the year.

4. COMMUNITY HEALTH CARE - We're working to bring community based health care to hundreds of thousands of residents who need access to good health care in their neighborhoods.

- We showed with LICH that there are solutions that can keep facilities open in neighborhoods where they are needed.
 - And last week, a deal was reached that will keep LICH operating and providing needed care.
 - This can and should serve as a model for keeping community hospitals open.
- We must keep working on long-term health care solutions for every New Yorker in every neighborhood.
- To that end, we have approached the state seeking partnership to enact our plan for a "Brooklyn Health Authority," an idea we hope will be a model for similar programs in other boroughs.
- It would mean better local healthcare in underserved neighborhoods, something we'll work to replicate across the city.

5. SANDY RECOVERY – we’re following through on our commitment to rebuild every home destroyed by Superstorm Sandy.

- We’ve redirected 100 million dollars in federal to rebuilding homes, regardless of the income of their residents.
- We’re moving 35 staff members to HRO, increasing the staff a third.
- Eliminate permit and procedural bottlenecks that are slowing repairs and rebuilds; for example, clearing outstanding DOB permits that have prevented some Sandy rebuilds and repairs from moving forward.
- We owe it to great neighborhoods across this city to finally get this job done.

Reflection on the Politics of Change

As we move forward, we must be mindful of the levers of change that we’ll need to keep utilizing to restore to New York as a progressive city.

Politics helps define the world we make for ourselves, for better or worse:

- Robert F. Kennedy said: Everything that makes man's life worthwhile — family, work, education, a place to rear one's children and a place to rest one's head — all this depends on the decisions of government... Therefore... [our]essential humanity ... can be protected and preserved only where government must answer — not just to the wealthy, not just to those of a particular religion, or a particular race, but to ALL its people.
- At its best, politics can empower people – like it did last year.
- The last election sent a clear message – we wanted policies that worked for every neighborhood and every New Yorker.
- These past three months, as we’ve advanced our vision for a progressive city, powerful interests have fought us at every turn.
- Some people still don’t understand where the REAL power resides. But hurdles exist to be cleared, and together we’ve cleared some big ones.
- Because grassroots politics understands that people are almost always ahead of the politicians.

- Parents have been pushing for expanded Pre-K and after-school programs for decades.
- Workers have been calling for paid sick leave for years.
- New Yorkers – particularly people of color – have protested the abuses of stop-and-frisk for years – most poignantly on Father’s Day 2012, with a silent march down 5th Ave.
- Grassroots politics has harnessed their energy to make change.
- It gives everyone a voice.
- What we’ve learned from the action of the past 100 days should give hope and strength and a renewed sense of purpose going forward.

[THE CLOSING]

- James Russell Lowell, a 19th century poet and fierce abolitionist once wrote: “Fate loves the fearless.”
- Seizing big opportunities requires heart and guts.
- So it makes sense that when provided with real opportunity, New Yorkers can achieve like no other people.
- As I have said, our goal has always been to restore New York to the great progressive city it has been and will be again.
- And thanks to you, we’ve made real and meaningful progress towards that goal during these first 100 days:
- Because of the progress we’ve made, that four-year-old boy from Ridgewood learning scientific concepts in pre-k might someday be a life-saving surgeon in one of our neighborhood hospitals.
- Because of the progress we’ve made, that middle school girl from Morris Heights practicing dance routines with her friends in an afterschool program may someday enthrall and inspire audiences at Lincoln Center... or in a community theater.

- Because of the progress we've made, a young woman from St. George who'll one day change the lives of our grandchildren as a great teacher will be put on a path to success with a small investment that will be repaid in profound ways.
- This is what our future looks like in a progressive city.
- And YOU have shown the world that we won't bend under the crisis of our time....
- That we will ACT.
- Now more than ever, we need your help.
- We need you to see that families sign their children up for expanded pre-k and afterschool programs.
- We need you to keep leading the way and to hold me – and every elected official – accountable.
- We need your help to keep the momentum that we've gained these past 100 days.
- We have so much more to do, but we've seen already what we can accomplish working together.
- And if you keep up your energy, your focus, your drive, I have no doubt that together we will build once again a progressive city here in New York.

###

On Apr 9, 2014, at 9:07 PM, Jon Fromowitz <jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

> We just finished prep. This draft does NOT reflect the last round of MBdB's thoughts from prep, but his latest notes do not call for dramatic changes, so this will be in the ballpark of the next draft. We will have a more updated, cleaner draft in a few hours (with more acknowledgments etc.), but wanted to send this around now given the time.

> <outline100DaysSpeech18.docx>

> On Apr 9, 2014, at 7:51 PM, Ragone, Peter <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>> Send us latest when you have it.

>> ----- Original Message -----

>> From: Jon Fromowitz [mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com]

>> Sent: Tuesday, April 08, 2014 11:54 PM

>> To: Nicholas Baldick <nbaldick@hilltoppublicsolutions.com>; Patrick Gaspard <

<[REDACTED]>; Jonathan Rosen <Jonathan@berlinrosen.com>; Laura Sa

ntucci <[REDACTED]>; Ragone, Peter; [REDACTED]

[REDACTED]; Mahen Gunaratna <[REDACTED]>

>> Cc: Adam Cohen <[REDACTED]>; John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>

>> Subject: Latest draft of 100 days outline

>> Here is our latest. A lot has changed from our last draft based on notes from MBdB in prep.

>> Mahen, the two most urgent research flags we have that we'd like to get if in any way possible by 10AM tomorrow are margin comments on this.

>> Dom, please review the forward looking section to make sure we're presenting right (and there's one highlighted hole there we need you to fill).

>> Thanks ~Jon

From: Hanley, Monica
To: "jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com"
Cc: [REDACTED] Ragone, Peter
Subject: Re: Acknowledgments
Date: Thursday, April 10, 2014 12:04:31 AM

Dante and chiara are definitely not coming but he might still want to thank his whole family? I'm really not sure abt that but I'll rewatch the state of the city now to see if he mentioned.

How do you say Guerra? [Goo-ehr-a]?

From: Jon Fromowitz [mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Wednesday, April 09, 2014 11:58 PM
To: Hanley, Monica
Cc: [REDACTED] <[REDACTED]> Ragone, Peter
Subject: Re: Acknowledgments

Here is latest draft to print, etc.

From: Hanley, Monica
To: "jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com"
Cc: [REDACTED] Ragone, Peter
Subject: Re: Acknowledgments
Date: Thursday, April 10, 2014 1:13:06 AM

Great

Ultimately defer to Peter on whether he should mention his children. He did not mention them at the state of the city but I think it would be nice if he said something after the line abt Chirlane such as:

[REDACTED]

Peter and the Mayor should make the decision to include or not include.

And yes, KPdL rivals any name or acronym that I have ever come across.

From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Thursday, April 10, 2014 01:00 AM
To: Hanley, Monica
Cc: [REDACTED] <[REDACTED]> Ragone, Peter
Subject: Re: Acknowledgments

Sorry, Austin fix was one of the changes in the latest draft. Let us know how you think we should handle Dante and Chiara, and we'll revise the next one accordingly along with adding Katherine Ponce de Leon, which is one of the best names ever.

Doesn't have to be tonight... I'll be at City Hall at 8 AM.

On Apr 10, 2014, at 12:50 AM, Hanley, Monica <MHanley@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Sorry

- its Jennifer Jones Austin, not Alexander
- should also thank Katherine Ponce de Leon, the 6th grader giving the pledge of allegiance at the beginning of the program.

Format:

Pledge of Allegiance from Katherine Ponce de Leon
Welcome Remarks & Intro from Jamshed Bharucha, Cooper Union President
YOU are introduced by Jennifer Jones Austin

From: Hanley, Monica
Sent: Thursday, April 10, 2014 12:47 AM
To: 'jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com' <jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: [REDACTED] <[REDACTED]> Ragone, Peter
Subject: Re: Acknowledgments

Thx!

Figured as much but might be good to have pronunciation so he doesn't have to think abt it under the pressure. I defer to you.

Peter - this may sound crazy at this late hour - but should he say anything at all in spanish?

From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Thursday, April 10, 2014 12:43 AM
To: Hanley, Monica
Cc: [REDACTED] <[REDACTED]> Ragone, Peter
Subject: Re: Acknowledgments

Acknowledgment tweaks in attached, which is the new most recent draft to print, etc.

Guerra is actually Gar-rah, which is included in here, but pretty sure MBdB knows that one from discussions.

From: Hanley, Monica
To: "jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com"
Cc: [REDACTED] Ragone, Peter
Subject: Re: Acknowledgments
Date: Thursday, April 10, 2014 12:50:23 AM

Sorry

- its Jennifer Jones Austin, not Alexander
- should also thank Katherine Ponce de Leon, the 6th grader giving the pledge of allegiance at the beginning of the program.

Format:

Pledge of Allegiance from Katherine Ponce de Leon
Welcome Remarks & Intro from Jamshed Bharucha, Cooper Union President
YOU are introduced by Jennifer Jones Austin

From: Hanley, Monica
Sent: Thursday, April 10, 2014 12:47 AM
To: 'jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com' <jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: [REDACTED] <[REDACTED]> Ragone, Peter
Subject: Re: Acknowledgments

Thx!

Figured as much but might be good to have pronunciation so he doesn't have to think abt it under the pressure. I defer to you.

Peter - this may sound crazy at this late hour - but should he say anything at all in spanish?

From: Jon Fromowitz [mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Thursday, April 10, 2014 12:43 AM
To: Hanley, Monica
Cc: [REDACTED] <[REDACTED]> Ragone, Peter
Subject: Re: Acknowledgments

Acknowledgment tweaks in attached, which is the new most recent draft to print, etc.

Guerra is actually Gar-rah, which is included in here, but pretty sure MBdB knows that one from discussions.

From: Hanley, Monica
To: [REDACTED] <"jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com">
Subject: Re: Acknowledgments
Date: Thursday, April 10, 2014 7:36:47 AM

Maybe something simple at the end like restating: "I have no doubt that together we will build once again a progressive city here in New York."

Want me to email u how to say something like that in spanish so you know what it looks like?

From: Adam Cohen [mailto:[REDACTED]]
Sent: Thursday, April 10, 2014 07:17 AM
To: Jon Fromowitz <jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: Ragone, Peter; Hanley, Monica
Subject: Re: Acknowledgments

Hmm -- not sure -- we can raise at the prep this AM

Sent from my iPhone

On Apr 10, 2014, at 7:12 AM, Jon Fromowitz <jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

Defer to Adam, but if its purpose would just be a nod of inclusiveness, that might be achieved through the spanish speaker in the video.

On Apr 10, 2014, at 6:53 AM, "Ragone, Peter" <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Adam and John?

From: Hanley, Monica
Sent: Thursday, April 10, 2014 12:47 AM
To: 'jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com' <jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: [REDACTED] <[REDACTED]> Ragone, Peter
Subject: Re: Acknowledgments

Thx!

Figured as much but might be good to have pronunciation so he doesn't have to think abt it under the pressure. I defer to you.

Peter - this may sound crazy at this late hour - but should he say anything at all in spanish?

From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Thursday, April 10, 2014 12:43 AM
To: Hanley, Monica
Cc: [REDACTED] <[REDACTED]> Ragone, Peter
Subject: Re: Acknowledgments

Acknowledgment tweaks in attached, which is the new most recent draft to print, etc.

Guerra is actually Gar-rah, which is included in here, but pretty sure MBdB knows that one from discussions.

From: John Del Cecato
To: Prim, Hayley; Jon Fromowitz
Cc: Gaul-Stigge, Katy
Subject: Re: Speech
Date: Thursday, April 10, 2014 9:07:28 AM

Adding Fromo

> On Apr 10, 2014, at 9:03 AM, "Prim, Hayley" <HPrim@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>
> Ok thanks. If you guys decide to, can you let me know? We have a last minute add
>
> Sent from my iPhone
>
>> On Apr 10, 2014, at 8:20 AM, "John Del Cecato" <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:
>>
>> I don't think so
>>
>>> On Apr 10, 2014, at 8:04 AM, "Prim, Hayley" <HPrim@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>>>
>>> Do you know if you are listing the names of the jobs for New Yorkers task force leadership in the speech?
>>>
>>> Sent from my iPhone

From: Ragone, Peter
To: "jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com"
Cc: Wolfe, Emma; [REDACTED]; [REDACTED] Williams, Dominic
Subject: Re: New 100 Days Draft
Date: Thursday, April 10, 2014 9:22:15 AM

Dom, as the policy guy on this speech. Please check in with Alicia or her staff?

From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Thursday, April 10, 2014 09:18 AM
To: Ragone, Peter
Cc: Wolfe, Emma; [REDACTED] <[REDACTED]>
[REDACTED] <[REDACTED]> John Del Cecato
<jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; jonathan@berlinrosen.com <jonathan@berlinrosen.com>
Subject: Re: New 100 Days Draft

We don't have her email. But what if we qualify as moving forward on the plan. We think we can use it as a sign of progress without taking credit for negotiating. This work for folks?

- o Moving forward on the plans to make 139 unit building on West 29th Street be entirely affordable housing.
- o These units will be permanently affordable.
- o The project will also create over 1,600 jobs that we've ensured will pay a living wage, because we know what a difference that makes.

On Apr 10, 2014, at 9:16 AM, Ragone, Peter <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Can someone talk to alicia please.

From: Wolfe, Emma
Sent: Thursday, April 10, 2014 09:10 AM
To: [REDACTED] <[REDACTED]>
'jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com' <jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: Ragone, Peter; [REDACTED] <[REDACTED]>
[REDACTED] <[REDACTED]> 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>;
'jonathan@berlinrosen.com' <jonathan@berlinrosen.com>
Subject: Re: New 100 Days Draft

Beating dead horse -- hudson yards -- nadler and co really have said repeatedly that this exact concession was negotiated two years ago -- we're going to step in it -- shd just do living wage piece on it.

Prob: "139 unit building on West 29th Street will be entirely affordable housing -- original plan called for 80% market rate. These units will be permanently affordable."

From: Mahen Gunaratna [mailto: [REDACTED]]
Sent: Thursday, April 10, 2014 08:04 AM
To: Jon Fromowitz <jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: Ragone, Peter; nbaldick@hilltoppublicsolutions.com
<nbaldick@hilltoppublicsolutions.com>; [REDACTED]
< [REDACTED] Jonathan@berlinrosen.com
<Jonathan@berlinrosen.com>; [REDACTED] < [REDACTED]>
[REDACTED] < [REDACTED] Wolfe, Emma;
< [REDACTED] John Del Cecato
<jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: New 100 Days Draft

See attached.

From a fact-checking standpoint, the only item that needs adjustment is the line about snow in Jan/Feb. Fixed a few typos.

On Thu, Apr 10, 2014 at 12:38 AM, Jon Fromowitz

<jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

Attached has tiny to acknowledgments, no changes to substance.
Sending around so everyone has the most most recent. All notes from last email still apply, especially re: fact and policy checks. Thanks

From: Adam Cohen
To: Ragone, Peter
Cc: jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com; Wolfe, Emma; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic
Subject: Re: Brooklyn Health Authority
Date: Thursday, April 10, 2014 9:24:08 AM

We're sitting with Dom now and he's checking.

Sent from my iPhone

On Apr 10, 2014, at 9:22 AM, "Ragone, Peter" <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Tony/Dom have to sign off on this.

From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Thursday, April 10, 2014 09:20 AM
To: Ragone, Peter
Cc: [REDACTED] <[REDACTED]> Wolfe, Emma
Subject: Brooklyn Health Authority

Are we good with below?

<!--[endif]-->To that end, we will approach the state seeking partnership to enact our plan for a "Brooklyn Health Authority," an idea that could serve as a model for similar programs in other parts of the city.

On Apr 10, 2014, at 8:48 AM, Ragone, Peter <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

See below from FDM Shorris...

----- Original Message -----
From: Shorris, Anthony
Sent: Thursday, April 10, 2014 08:47 AM
To: Ragone, Peter
Subject: Re: New 100 Days Draft

oTo that end, we have approached the state seeking partnership to enact our plan for a "Brooklyn Health Authority," an idea we hope will be a model for similar programs in other boroughs.

This is only barely true -- we have had a couple of meetings with deputy secretary -- may be better to say "we will be approaching the State..." And we actually may not need it in other boroughs, but that's not so important. Just don't lock him too tightly into saving local hospitals rather saving local healthcare.

Anthony E. Shorris
First Deputy Mayor
The City of New York
City Hall
New York, NY 10007
212-788-3191

On Apr 10, 2014, at 8:39 AM, "Ragone, Peter"
<pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Most recent draft. DO NOT FORWARD

----- Original Message -----

From: Jon Fromowitz
[<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Thursday, April 10, 2014 12:38 AM
To: Ragone, Peter;
nbaldick@hilltoppublicsolutions.com
<nbaldick@hilltoppublicsolutions.com>;

[REDACTED]
<[REDACTED]>
Jonathan@berlinrosen.com
<Jonathan@berlinrosen.com>;

[REDACTED]
<[REDACTED]>
<[REDACTED]> Mahen Gunaratna
<[REDACTED]> Wolfe, Emma

Cc: [REDACTED]
<[REDACTED]> John Del Cecato
<jfdc@akpdmedia.com>

Subject: Re: New 100 Days Draft

Attached has tiny to acknowledgments, no changes to substance. Sending around so everyone has the most most recent. All notes from last email still apply, especially re: fact and policy checks.

Thanks

<outline100DaysSpeech21.docx>

On Apr 9, 2014, at 11:54 PM, Jon

Fromowitz
<jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

With changes reflecting latest prep.

Our next meeting is tomorrow morning.

Mahen, I know that you've seen a couple of these before, but please give this a thorough review as there are a few new facts in this one, and also a few new characterizations of things.

Dom, please give special attention to the platform stuff to make sure we've incorporated correctly and that there's nothing key that we're leaving out.

Adam and I will be around City Hall tomorrow at 8 AM, and should have a little time before our final prep if folks have things they want to go over.

<outline100DaysSpeech20.docx>

On Apr 9, 2014, at 9:07 PM,
Jon Fromowitz
<jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>
> wrote:

We just finished prep. This draft does NOT reflect the last round of MBdB's thoughts from prep, but his latest notes do not call for dramatic changes, so this'll be in the ballpark of the next draft. We will have a more updated, cleaner draft in a few hours (with more acknowledgments etc.), but wanted to send this around now given the time.

<outline100DaysSpeech18.docx>

On Apr 9, 2014,
at 7:51 PM,

Ragone, Peter
<pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov
> wrote:

Send us latest
when you have it.

----- Original
Message -----
From: Jon
Fromowitz
[<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>
]
Sent: Tuesday,
April 08, 2014
11:54 PM
To: Nicholas
Baldick
<nbaldick@hilltoppublicsolutions.com
>; Patrick
Gaspard
<
>; Jonathan
Rosen
<Jonathan@berlinrosen.com
>; Laura Santucci
<
>; Ragone,
Peter;
<
>; Mahen
Gunaratna
<
>
Cc: Adam Cohen
<
>; John Del
Cecato
<jfdc@akpdmedia.com
>
Subject: Latest draft of 100 days
outline

Here is our latest.
A lot has changed from our last draft based on notes from
MBdB in prep.

Mahen, the two most urgent research flags we have that we'd like to get if in any way possible by 10AM tomorrow are margin comments on this.

Dom, please review the forward looking section to make sure we're presenting right (and there's one highlighted hole there we need you to fill).

Thanks ~Jon

From: Shorris, Anthony
To: Jon Fromowitz
Cc: Ragone, Peter; [REDACTED] Wolfe, Emma; Williams, Dominic
Subject: Re: Brooklyn Health Authority
Date: Thursday, April 10, 2014 9:30:48 AM

Fine with me

Anthony E. Shorris
First Deputy Mayor
The City of New York
City Hall
New York, NY 10007
212-788-3191

On Apr 10, 2014, at 9:24 AM, "Jon Fromowitz" <jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

Dom is sitting with us and signed off in person. Standing by to see if OK with Tony.

On Apr 10, 2014, at 9:22 AM, Ragone, Peter <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Tony/Dom have to sign off on this.

From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Thursday, April 10, 2014 09:20 AM
To: Ragone, Peter
Cc: [REDACTED] <[REDACTED]> Wolfe, Emma
Subject: Brooklyn Health Authority

Are we good with below?

<!--[endif]-->To that end, we will approach the state seeking partnership to enact our plan for a "Brooklyn Health Authority," an idea that could serve as a model for similar programs in other parts of the city.

On Apr 10, 2014, at 8:48 AM, Ragone, Peter <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

See below from FDM Shorris...

----- Original Message -----

From: Shorris, Anthony
Sent: Thursday, April 10, 2014 08:47 AM
To: Ragone, Peter
Subject: Re: New 100 Days Draft

oTo that end, we have approached the state seeking partnership to enact our plan for a "Brooklyn Health Authority," an idea we hope will be a model for similar programs in other boroughs.

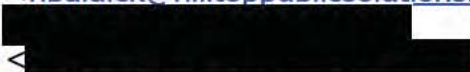

This is only barely true -- we have had a couple of meetings with deputy secretary -- may be better to say "we will be approaching the State..." And we actually may not need it in other boroughs, but that's not so important. Just don't lock him too tightly into saving local hospitals rather saving local healthcare.

Anthony E. Shorris
First Deputy Mayor
The City of New York
City Hall
New York, NY 10007
212-788-3191

On Apr 10, 2014, at 8:39 AM, "Ragone, Peter" <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Most recent draft. DO NOT FORWARD

----- Original Message -----

From: Jon Fromowitz
[<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Thursday, April 10, 2014 12:38 AM
To: Ragone, Peter;
nbaldick@hilltoppublicsolutions.com
<nbaldick@hilltoppublicsolutions.com>;
<>
Jonathan@berlinrosen.com
<Jonathan@berlinrosen.com>;

< [REDACTED] >
< [REDACTED] Mahen
Gunaratna
< [REDACTED] >
Wolfe, Emma
Cc: [REDACTED]
< [REDACTED] John Del
Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: New 100 Days Draft

Attached has tiny to acknowledgments, no changes to substance. Sending around so everyone has the most most recent. All notes from last email still apply, especially re: fact and policy checks. Thanks

<outline100DaysSpeech21.docx>

On Apr 9, 2014, at 11:54
PM, Jon Fromowitz
<jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>
<jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

With changes reflecting latest prep.

Our next meeting is tomorrow morning.

Mahen, I know that you've seen a couple of these before, but please give this a thorough review as there are a few new facts in this one, and also a few new characterizations of things.

Dom, please give special attention to the platform stuff to make sure we've incorporated correctly and that there's nothing key that we're leaving out.

Adam and I will be around
City Hall tomorrow at 8 AM, and should have a little time before our final prep if folks have things they want to go over.

<outline100DaysSpeech20.docx>

On Apr 9, 2014,
at 9:07 PM, Jon
Fromowitz
<jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>
wrote:

We just finished prep. This draft does NOT reflect the last round of MBdB's thoughts from prep, but his latest notes do not call for dramatic changes, so this'll be in the ballpark of the next draft. We will have a more updated, cleaner draft in a few hours (with more acknowledgments etc.), but wanted to send this around now given the time.

<outline100DaysSpeech18.docx>

On
Apr 9,
2014, at 7:51
PM,
Ragon
e,
Peter
<prag>

one@cityhall.nyc.gov
v>
wrote:

Send us latest when you have it.

Original
Message -----
-

From:
Jon
Fromowitz
[<mailto:jfromowitz@akpmedia.com>
]

Sent:
Tuesday,
April
8,
2014
11:54
PM

To:
Nicholas
Baldick
<nbaldick@hilltoppublicsolutions.com>;
Patrick
Gaspa

rd

[REDACTED]

>;
Jonath
an
Rosen
<Jonathan@berlin.rosen.com>;

Laura
Santuc
ci

[REDACTED]

Ragon
e,
Peter;

[REDACTED]

Mahen
Gunar
atna

<
[REDACTED]

Cc:
Adam
Cohen

[REDACTED]

John

Del
Cecato
<jfdc@akp.dmedia.com>
>
Subject:
Latest
draft of 100 days outline

Here is our latest.
A lot has chang ed
from our last draft
based on notes from MBdB
in prep.

Mahen
, the two most urgent resear ch flags we have that we'd like to get if in any way possibl e by

10AM tomorrow are margin n comments
on this.

Dom,
please review
the forward
d looking g section n to make sure we're presenting right right
(and there's one highlighted hole there
we need you to fill).

Thanks
~Jon

From: Wolfe, Emma
To: "jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com"; Williams, Dominic; Ragone, Peter; Gunaratna, Mahen
Cc: [REDACTED]
Subject: Re: Reworked affordable housing section
Date: Thursday, April 10, 2014 9:37:49 AM

Y
Ty

----- Original Message -----

From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Thursday, April 10, 2014 09:36 AM
To: Williams, Dominic; Wolfe, Emma; Ragone, Peter; Gunaratna, Mahen
Cc: Adam Cohen <[\[REDACTED\]](#)>
Subject: Reworked affordable housing section

Are folks good with below that we worked on with Dom?

Revised deals with developers to provide more affordable housing (Domino Sugar).

- o Our new framework for Domino Sugar would add 110,000 square feet of new affordable housing.
- o It would mean a grand total of 700 new units of affordable housing, 32% of the total.

· Hudson Yards

- o Moving forward at Hudson Yards, developing affordable, permanently affordable housing units, but now with 1,600 living wage jobs... because we know what a difference that makes.

From: Jon Fromowitz
To: Vigilante, Stephen
Cc: Singleton, Jessica; Wright, Jessica; matt@acresandco.com; Hughes, Esther; Hatch, Peter; Canfield, Elyn
Subject: Re: [REDACTED] has sent you a file via WeTransfer
Date: Thursday, April 10, 2014 10:36:58 AM
Attachments: 100DaysSpeech24.docx
ATT00001.htm

Here's the draft. Not final yet, very close hold. Start of affordable housing section will be rough 2 minute warning, and/or, sometimes he riffs when delivering, so don't necessarily rely on exact phrasing of things.

Restoring the Progressive City
Cooper Union
Thursday, April 10th
Draft 12 - 4/10/14 - 10:30AM

- I want to thank Jennifer Jones Austin for that wonderful introduction.

- As I mark my 100th day in office, it's only appropriate that she is here with me.
 - Jennifer was with us from the beginning.

 - No one understood more fully the importance of our work, no one was more critical to getting us here today.

 - We owe her our gratitude for all she's done to help build this administration.

- And I'd also like to thank Katherine Ponce de Leon for leading us so beautifully in the Pledge of Allegiance.
- There's someone else I'm very happy to have with us today, who was REALLY here from the beginning – and before.
- The love of my life, New York's remarkable First Lady, Chirlane McCray.
-
- Thank you to all the elected officials, commissioners, city officials and friends who are here with us this afternoon.

- We come together today with heavy hearts over the loss of NYPD Officer Dennis Guerra, a married father of four, just 38 years old, who gave his life heroically, working to save the lives of others in a burning building.
- I ask that we keep Officer Rosa Rodriguez, who sustained serious injuries in the same incident, in our thoughts and prayers.
- Officers Guerra and Rodriguez represent the most selfless and noble traditions of our city. And they have our deep appreciation and gratitude.
- I'd like to ask that we begin with a moment of silence to honor and remember Officer Guerra.

- I want to thank President Bharucha– Ba-ru-Cha, and the faculty, the workers and the students of Cooper Union.
- It's an honor to be here at one of the city's greatest educational institutions, renowned for over a century and a half for combining an inclusive spirit with the highest academic standards.
- I'm humbled to speak in a place where so many Presidents, scientists and artists have addressed passionate souls and curious minds over generations.
- We find ourselves in a perfect setting to discuss all that our city is capable of when we're at our very best.

- As Abraham Lincoln said right here at Cooper Union “let us have faith that right makes might.”

[WHO WE ARE]

When this Administration was sworn into office 100 days ago, there were those who weren't sure what to make of us – not just of me, but of all of you who helped me to get here.

- So let me tell you what we're about

- This Administration is a product of movement politics.

- But the movement that we're a part of doesn't define the boundaries of its ranks through exclusivity.
- Rather, it's a movement of people who share a vision....
- People in every borough, of every background, and every income bracket, who believe in our city's progressive traditions.
- In the last hundred days, we've been inspired by the support of, working parents and retirees, of schoolteachers and business leaders.

- What we share is a vision of a progressive city:
 - A city that is run with the highest standards of effectiveness and professionalism
 - That respects everyone's dignity
 - That honors New York's proud tradition of inclusion and equality

- We welcome every New Yorker because we believe that we are at our best when EVERYONE gets a shot at fulfilling their dreams.

- Some weren't quite sure what to make of our progressive agenda to reduce inequality and restore opportunity. But now they're starting to see.

- Because politics of the sort that we believe in doesn't measure success by poll numbers, but by ACTION.
- We believe in grassroots, people-powered government.
- We judge success on results – on making a difference in the lives of real people.

[WHY WE'RE HERE]

The vision we are advancing isn't new to our city – progressiveness, opportunity, inclusion, justice... these values are coded in New York's DNA.

- New York has always been the center of progressive America:
 - This is the city where courageous workers were pioneers in the union movement;
 - Where the NAACP was formed and where the Stonewall protests launched the LGBT rights movement;
 - The city of the Statue of Liberty... the symbol of open doors and unmatched opportunity for people from every corner of the globe.

- We weren't sent to City Hall to change New York's character; you sent us here to restore New York's proud legacy as the progressive city...

- ...To keep the sacred promise of our city... that everyone has a place... that everyone gets a voice.
- Our inequality crisis – the Tale of Two Cities we've been living for years threatens who we are, and what kind of city we will be.
- Restoring a progressive New York... That is our vision... It's what's driven the steps we take, and what drives ones we will take, together.
- And in our first 100 days we've already taken great strides.

[WHAT A PROGRESSIVE CITY MEANS]

[Restoring a Progressive City means governing New York with the highest standards of effectiveness]

In a progressive city, the government must perform at the highest level of effectiveness and professionalism. It sounds simple, but it's not.

- If New Yorkers can't be confident their city will provide basic services, the rest of our vision for a progressive city will mean very little.
- Keeping New Yorkers safe and providing the vital services New Yorkers need was, is, and will always be Job One.

We've never lost sight of this first job – no matter how many challenges we've faced.

- One of the snowiest winters in the city's recorded history (Sanitation Workers did excellent job.)
- East Harlem tragedy. (Firefighters and other first responders... Neighbors comforting neighbors as we mourn.)
- Epidemic of pedestrian deaths. (Vision Zero in place & moving forward).

In the first quarter of this year, the number of traffic deaths is down 26% and the number injured is down 8%, compared to the first quarter of last year.

On public safety, Commissioner Bratton and the NYPD have built stronger relationships between police and communities that are keeping crime low.

I'm gratified to say that, thanks to the hard work of the men and women of the NYPD, crime rates have been pointing in the right direction:

- Murders are down 9.5% from (in the first quarter of this year compared to the first quarter of last year)

- Shootings are down 3.4%
- Robberies are down 7.2%
- And overall crime is down.
- We've produced a preliminary budget that is fiscally responsible, progressive, and transparent -- to keep the city on solid footing.
- DOT crews have filled nearly 289,000 potholes so far this year - compared to 115,500 at the same time last year.

[Restoring a Progressive City means taking dead aim at income inequality]

The kind of governmental excellence I've talked about so far is critical to restoring New York as the progressive city it's meant to be, but it is by no means enough.

In a progressive city, we recognize that growing inequality is the crisis of our time, and it contradicts everything we know is good about this city.

- Throughout its history, New York has been the global center of opportunity and progress, commerce and culture.

- Our tiny geographic confines have produced countless leaders and innovators from finance to theater to education.
- The place where drive, creativity and above all hard work have been rewarded.
- But we have to fight to keep it that way.

- New York has to be a place where people who wake up every day and give it everything they've got, get what they deserve:
 - A decent place to live
 - The income to support a family
 - A better future for their children

- We have to remember that the best and brightest are born in every neighborhood -- a just society allows them to reach their potential.

- But we're not there yet and if can't get there, we risk losing that which makes New York New York.

[A Progressive City is one where there's equal educational opportunity for all]

In a progressive city, there's equal educational opportunity for every child.

It means showing our children that they matter, so that they can live up to their potential and make their contributions to the city we all love.

So we acted:

- Secured the most state funding for Pre-K to NYC in New York State history.

- Tens of thousands more kids will have Pre-K slots.
 - The research is clear: pre-k is one of the best things we can do to launch kids on a successful educational career... and a successful life.
 - Studies show that children involved in high quality pre-k programs are better prepared to begin school than ones who are not:
 - They have better vocabularies and math skills.
 - They are less likely to become delinquent, more likely to be employed.

- I've seen the results myself.

- As I was reading "The Very Hungry Caterpillar" to a pre-k class at P.S. 239 in Ridgewood Queens, one of the students raised his hand to tell his classmates and me a new word he had learned.

- "Metamorphosis!" he said proudly. This was a FOUR YEAR OLD.

- Thousands of students will have access to after-school programs that keep them safe and learning – so their parents can work with less worry.
 - I recently visited an afterschool program at MS 331 in the Morris Heights neighborhood of the Bronx with Chancellor Farina.
 - The program offered everything from homework help to arts and cultural enrichment.
 - I saw a group of girls dancing... learning, coming into their own, sparking one another's creativity, all in a safe environment.

- These are the sorts of opportunities that we want EVERY child to have in a progressive city.

[A Progressive City is one where the justice systems treats everyone equally]

In a progressive city, aggressive crime fighting and honoring the dignity of all New Yorkers aren't mutually exclusive -- they go hand-in-hand.

- We've begun a new era in relations between the NYPD and the communities they serve.

- It wasn't that long ago that Nicolas Peart, a young man from Harlem, wrote an op-ed in the New York Times describing how he'd been stopped and frisked five different times and the heavy toll that it took on him.
- But Nicolas took action.
- He filed a civil rights lawsuit, one that we recently settled, that has fundamentally changed police practices in the city.
- He was a young man whose value was discounted, who was treated as a problem, when in fact, he was just the sort of person we need more of today.

- He responded to injustice with maturity, with intelligence and with tenacity.
- He worked through the system, and he showed that the system could work.
- Now we as a city celebrate a young man that an unjust system once shunned.
- In refusing to be a victim – he became a hero.
- Thanks to Nicolas and so many others who spoke out, we've now ended the abuses of the stop and frisk era.

- Just this week, I addressed a new class of NYPD cadets.

- It was an inspiration to look out on them – young men and women of every background from every corner of the city who worked hard and went through vigorous training to get where they were that day.

- And they were all there for the same reasons:
 - They believe in public service

 - They believe in New York City

 - And they want to make this a safer, better place for all of us to live.

- It was also wonderful to realize that this was the first class graduating into a new era of policing in this city
- An era in which a young man of color can be a bit more confident that he can walk to the corner store without being hassled for no reason.
- This is the kind of community-police relations we want to see in a progressive city.

[In a progressive city, we respect the dignity of workers who fall ill]

In a progressive city, illness doesn't mean lost wages or lost jobs.

- Paid Sick Leave for 500,000 families. Hadn't even gotten a vote in the council for three years.
- Paid sick leave doesn't just protect workers, it builds great companies:
 - I signed this law at Steve's Ice Cream in Greenpoint.

- The owner– David Stein – explained that paid sick leave helped retain talented workers, which he said was essential to creating the best possible product.
- Having met with his staff and tasted his ice cream, I couldn't agree with him more.

[In a progressive city, we make affordable housing a priority]

In a progressive city, people can afford to live and to stay in the neighborhoods they love.

- We've begun following through on our commitment to building or restoring 200,000 units of affordable housing that the city desperately needs.
 - The impact of this will be enormous, 200,000 units means homes for 400,000 or more individuals.
 - These projects are creating jobs in the communities where they are located.
 - We're also building in job provisions that ensure that construction and other work will be available for residents of the communities.

- And we're making sure that many of these apartments are available at the lower end of the income scale.

- Revised deals with developers to provide more new permanent affordable housing (Domino Sugar).
 - Our new framework for Domino Sugar would add 110,000 square feet of new affordable housing.

 - It would mean a grand total of about 700 new units of permanent affordable housing, 32% of the total.

- Hudson Yards
 - Accelerating and assuring development of permanent affordable housing in connection with Hudson Yards.
 - The project will also create over 1,600 jobs that we've ensured will pay a living wage. We know what a difference living wage makes, and that's why we'll continue our efforts to promote living wage jobs across the city.
- In East New York we recently broke ground on an affordable housing development to provide 278 units of affordable housing.

- It also means good jobs for local workers and space that community groups in East New York so desperately need.

- These projects show that there's room for creativity in how we develop affordable housing.
 - Well-executed affordable housing program, can create not only new housing, but new jobs and stronger communities.

[What Our Progress Means – The Stories]

You've heard me talk about the steps we've taken and why. Now, I'd like you to hear from some New Yorkers who have seen the progressive city at work, and who'll tell you what it means for their lives.

- [VIDEOS PLAY]

- Some of these New Yorkers are here today:
 - Kassim Hinds – [REDACTED]
 - Bishop Eric D. Garnes – [REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
 - Juan Carlos Rivera – [REDACTED]
 - Elizabeth Caquias – [REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
- Their stories are just a few powerful examples of what real change means... And there's much more to come.

[WHAT LIES AHEAD]

- So we've made our beginning.
- Plato wrote: "The beginning is the most important part of any work... for that is the time at which the character is being formed."
- That is true of our first hundred days.
- The themes we've struck of government effectiveness, equality, and inclusion are the same ones that will guide our work going forward – taking on some of the most important issues facing the city:

1. EDUCATION – We have much more to do to ensure that every child in New York gets the quality education they deserve.

- A few weeks ago, I spoke at Riverside Church and laid out a vision for improving neighborhood schools across the city. That means:
 - Increase parental involvement
 - Quality teacher retention
 - In 2008 15% of mid-career teachers freely resigned.
 - By 2013, that number had jumped to 43%.

- Reduce class size

- No more teaching to the test
 - We are pushing to change grade promotion standards so students are not held back simply because of standardized test scores, but rather are evaluated in a more comprehensive way.

- Improving facilities
 - we're working to sharply reduce the number of classroom trailers.

- Making sure we're not choosing among our children – that traditional public schools, charter schools, and religious schools aren't pitted against each other and help each other succeed.

2. PUBLIC HOUSING –We must sustain and improve our public housing system, which provides homes to nearly half a million New Yorkers.

- We are working to substantially reduce the backlog of repairs and work on new improvements that will ensure these are the kind of homes that New York families deserve.
- Pressing forward on retrofitting which promises both to improve the environment and provide much-needed jobs for NYCHA residents.

3. MUNICIPAL ID -- We are working to provide a new municipal ID that will open doors for and simplify the lives of half a million undocumented and homeless New Yorkers.

- We are making plans across agencies to ensure that New Yorkers will begin receiving Municipal ID cards by the end of the year.

4. COMMUNITY HEALTH CARE - We're working to bring community based health care to hundreds of thousands of residents who need access to good health care in their neighborhoods.

- We showed with LICH that there are solutions that can keep facilities open in neighborhoods where they are needed.
 - And last week, a deal was reached that will keep LICH operating and providing needed care.
 - This can and should serve as a model for keeping health care available in communities.
- We must keep working on long-term health care solutions for every New Yorker in every neighborhood.

- To that end, we will approach the state seeking partnership to enact our plan for a “Brooklyn Health Authority,” an idea that could serve as a model for similar programs in other parts of the city.
- It would mean better local healthcare in underserved neighborhoods, something we’ll work to replicate across the city.

5. SANDY RECOVERY – we’re following through on our commitment to rebuild every home destroyed by Superstorm Sandy.

- Eliminating permit and red tape bottlenecks to make sure that people can use the funds they are entitled to.
 - As a result, new construction underway, and more checks are going out.
- We've redirected 100 million dollars in federal funding to rebuilding homes, regardless of the income of their residents.
- Beefing up the staff of our Sandy rebuilding operation to ensure that that funds get where they need to go.
- We owe it to great neighborhoods across this city to finally get this job done.

Reflection on the Politics of Change

As we move forward, we must be mindful of the levers of change that we'll need to keep utilizing to restore to New York as a progressive city.

Politics helps define the world we make for ourselves,
for better or worse:

- Robert F. Kennedy said: Everything that makes man's life worthwhile — family, work, education, a place to rear one's children and a place to rest one's head — all this depends on the decisions of government... Therefore... [our]essential humanity ... can be protected and preserved only where government must answer — not just to the wealthy, not just to those of a particular religion, or a particular race, but to ALL its people.

- At its best, politics can empower people – like it did last year.
- The last election sent a clear message – we wanted policies that worked for every neighborhood and every New Yorker.
- These 100 days, as we’ve advanced our vision for a progressive city – of a broadly shared prosperity – there has been resistance from powerful interests with a stake in preserving the status quo. That was to be expected.
- But people still don’t understand where the REAL power resides. But hurdles exist to be cleared, and together we’ve cleared some big ones.

- Because grassroots politics understands that people are almost always ahead of the politicians.
- Parents have been pushing for expanded Pre-K and after-school programs for decades.
- Workers have been calling for paid sick leave for years.
- New Yorkers – particularly people of color – have protested the abuses of stop-and-frisk for years – most poignantly on Father’s Day 2012, with a silent march down 5th Ave.

- Grassroots politics has harnessed their energy to make change.
- It gives everyone a voice.
- What we've learned from the action of the past 100 days should give hope and strength and a renewed sense of purpose going forward.

[THE CLOSING]

- James Russell Lowell, a 19th century poet and fierce abolitionist once wrote: "Fate loves the fearless."

- Seizing big opportunities requires heart and guts.
- So it makes sense that when provided with real opportunity, New Yorkers can achieve like no other people.
- As I have said, our goal has always been to restore New York to the great progressive city it has been and will be again.
- And thanks to you, we've made real and meaningful progress towards that goal during these first 100 days:

- Because of the progress we've made, that four-year-old boy from Ridgewood learning scientific concepts in pre-k might someday be a life-saving surgeon in one of our neighborhood hospitals.
- Because of the progress we've made, that middle school girl from Morris Heights practicing dance routines with her friends in an afterschool program may someday enthrall and inspire audiences at Lincoln Center... or in a community theater.
- Because of the progress we've made, a young woman from St. George who'll one day change the lives of our grandchildren as a great teacher will be put on a path to success with a small investment that will be repaid in profound ways.

- This is what our future looks like in a progressive city.
- And YOU have shown the world that we won't bend under the crisis of our time....
- That we will ACT.
- Now more than ever, we need your help.
- We need you to see that families sign their children up for expanded pre-k and afterschool programs.

- We need you to keep leading the way and to hold me – and every elected official – accountable.
- We need your help to keep the momentum that we've gained these past 100 days.
- We have so much more to do, but we've seen already what we can accomplish working together.
- And if you keep up your energy, your focus, your drive, I have no doubt that together we will build once again a progressive city here in New York.

###

On Apr 10, 2014, at 10:08 AM, Vigilante, Stephen <SVigilante@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

So speech writing is aware:

I am at location and can cue production team. Just need a copy of the mayors remarks to follow along.

Stephen Vigilante
Assistant Commissioner of Governmental Media
Mayor's Office of Media and Entertainment
Office: 212-788-3025
Cell: 917-873-1184
Pers: 917-414-8677

On Apr 10, 2014, at 10:02 AM, "Singleton, Jessica" <JSingleton@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Adding speech writing.

Sent from my iPad

On Apr 10, 2014, at 10:01 AM, "Wright, Jessica" <JWright@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

When the final cut is circulated, could we also receive a more detailed description for when to cue the video? The few lines leading up to when the video cuts in and exactly how many minutes into the speech it is? Just want to be really clear and be able to give something written to the production team.

From: Vigilante, Stephen
Sent: Thursday, April 10, 2014 09:04 AM
To: Singleton, Jessica; 'Matt McLaughlin' <matt@acresandco.com>
Cc: Hughes, Esther; Hatch, Peter; Canfield, Ellyn; Wright, Jessica
Subject: Re: [REDACTED] has sent you a file via WeTransfer

Standing by

Stephen A. Vigilante
Assistant Commissioner, Governmental Media
NYC Media
212-788-3025
917-873-1184
917-414-8677
svigilante@cityhall.nyc.gov

Mayor's Office of Media and Entertainment

From: <Singleton>, Jessica <JSingleton@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Thursday, April 10, 2014 9:03 AM
To: 'Matt McLaughlin' <matt@acresandco.com>
Cc: "Hughes, Esther" <EHughes@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Hatch, Peter" <PHatch@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Canfield, Ellyn" <ECanfield@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Wright, Jessica" <JWright@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Steve Vigilante <svigilante@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: RE: [REDACTED] has sent you a file via WeTransfer

Hi all, one more cut is coming. Apologies but we had to add Juan Carlos' last name to the id. Will be there any minute.

Thanks!

From: Matt McLaughlin [<mailto:matt@acresandco.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, April 09, 2014 11:05 PM
To: Singleton, Jessica
Cc: Hughes, Esther; Hatch, Peter; Canfield, Ellyn; Wright, Jessica
Subject: Fwd: [REDACTED] has sent you a file via WeTransfer

Hi All,

The download link to the final 100 days video is below.

Thanks!
Matt

Matt McLaughlin
Executive Producer | Acres
59 Franklin Street, Suite 210
New York, NY 10013
c: \(703\) 587-4016587-4016)
e: matt@acresandco.com
w: acresandco.com

This message is property of ACRES & CO. LLC and contains information which may be privileged or confidential. It is meant only for the intended recipients and/or their authorized agents. If you believe you have received this message in error, please notify us immediately by return e-mail and destroy any printed or electronic copies of the message. Any unauthorized use, dissemination, disclosure or copying of this message or the information contained in it, is strictly prohibited and may be unlawful. Thank you for your cooperation.

Begin forwarded message:

From: WeTransfer <noreply@wetransfer.com>
Date: April 9, 2014 at 10:52:58 PM EDT
To: "matt@acresandco.com" <matt@acresandco.com>

Subject: [REDACTED] has sent you a file via WeTransfer

Reply-To: [REDACTED] [REDACTED] >

[REDACTED]
sent you some files

Download

Files (1.75 GB total)

01_100 Days_v.07.mov

Available until

17 April, 2014

Get more out of WeTransfer, get Plus

About WeTransfer Contact Legal

Powered by Amazon Web Services

From: B
To: Hanley, Monica; Leopold, Elana; Coney, Javon
Cc: [REDACTED] <"jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com">
Subject: Re: Timing update
Date: Thursday, April 10, 2014 10:38:44 AM

Leaving house in 5 mins. Let's proceed directly to cooper union and review final draft there

----- Original Message -----

From: Hanley, Monica
Sent: Thursday, April 10, 2014 07:54 AM
To: B; Leopold, Elana; Coney, Javon
Cc: [REDACTED] <[REDACTED]@akpdmedia.com>
<jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Timing update

Thanks!

----- Original Message -----

From: B
Sent: Thursday, April 10, 2014 07:52 AM
To: Hanley, Monica; Leopold, Elana; Coney, Javon
Cc: [REDACTED] <[REDACTED]@akpdmedia.com>
<jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Timing update

So I'm taking it slow this morning. After [REDACTED] I'll go the gym. Will be to CH around 10am. No need for staffing before I get to CH. Thanks

From: Vigilante, Stephen
To: Jon Fromowitz
Cc: Singleton, Jessica; Wright, Jessica; matt@acresandco.com; Hughes, Esther; Hatch, Peter; Canfield, Elyn
Subject: Re: [REDACTED] has sent you a file via WeTransfer
Date: Thursday, April 10, 2014 10:57:13 AM

Thank you!

Stephen Vigilante
Assistant Commissioner of Governmental Media
Mayor's Office of Media and Entertainment
Office: 212-788-3025
Cell: 917-873-1184
Pers: 917-414-8677

On Apr 10, 2014, at 10:36 AM, "Jon Fromowitz" <jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

Here's the draft. Not final yet, very close hold. Start of affordable housing section will be rough 2 minute warning, and/but, sometimes he riffs when delivering, so don't necessarily rely on exact phrasing of things.

<100DaysSpeech24.docx>

On Apr 10, 2014, at 10:08 AM, Vigilante, Stephen <SVigilante@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

So speech writing is aware:

I am at location and can cue production team. Just need a copy of the mayors remarks to follow along.

Stephen Vigilante
Assistant Commissioner of Governmental Media
Mayor's Office of Media and Entertainment
Office: 212-788-3025
Cell: 917-873-1184
Pers: 917-414-8677

On Apr 10, 2014, at 10:02 AM, "Singleton, Jessica" <JSingleton@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Adding speech writing.

Sent from my iPad

On Apr 10, 2014, at 10:01 AM, "Wright, Jessica" <JWright@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

When the final cut is circulated, could we also receive a more detailed description for when to cue the video? The few lines leading up to when the video cuts in and exactly how many minutes into the speech it is? Just want to be really clear and be able to give something written to the production team.

From: Vigilante, Stephen
Sent: Thursday, April 10, 2014 09:04 AM
To: Singleton, Jessica; 'Matt McLaughlin' <matt@acresandco.com>
Cc: Hughes, Esther; Hatch, Peter; Canfield, Ellyn; Wright, Jessica
Subject: Re: [REDACTED] has sent you a file via WeTransfer

Standing by

Stephen A. Vigilante
Assistant Commissioner, Governmental Media
NYC Media
212-788-3025
917-873-1184
917-414-8677
svigilante@cityhall.nyc.gov

Mayor's Office of Media and Entertainment

From: <Singleton>, Jessica <JSingleton@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Thursday, April 10, 2014 9:03 AM
To: 'Matt McLaughlin' <matt@acresandco.com>
Cc: "Hughes, Esther" <EHughes@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Hatch, Peter" <PHatch@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Canfield, Ellyn" <ECanfield@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Wright, Jessica" <JWright@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Steve Vigilante <svigilante@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: RE: [REDACTED] has sent you a file via WeTransfer

Hi all, one more cut is coming. Apologies but we had to add Juan Carlos' last name to the id. Will be there any minute.

Thanks!

From: Matt McLaughlin [<mailto:matt@acresandco.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, April 09, 2014 11:05 PM
To: Singleton, Jessica
Cc: Hughes, Esther; Hatch, Peter; Canfield, Ellyn; Wright, Jessica
Subject: Fwd: [REDACTED] has sent you a file via WeTransfer

Hi All,

The download link to the final 100 days video is below.

Thanks!

Matt

Matt McLaughlin

Executive Producer | Acres
59 Franklin Street, Suite 210
New York, NY 10013
c: \(703\) 587-4016587-4016)
e: matt@acresandco.com
w: acresandco.com

This message is property of ACRES & CO. LLC and contains information which may be privileged or confidential. It is meant only for the intended recipients and/or their authorized agents. If you believe you have received this message in error, please notify us immediately by return e-mail and destroy any printed or electronic copies of the message. Any unauthorized use, dissemination, disclosure or copying of this message or the information contained in it, is strictly prohibited and may be unlawful. Thank you for your cooperation.

Begin forwarded message:

From: WeTransfer
<noreply@wetransfer.com>
Date: April 9, 2014 at 10:52:58 PM EDT
To: "matt@acresandco.com"
<matt@acresandco.com>
Subject: [REDACTED] has sent you a file via WeTransfer
Reply-To: [REDACTED]

[REDACTED]
sent you some files

Files (1.75 GB total)
01_100 Days_v.07.mov

Available until
17 April, 2014

Get more out of WeTransfer, get Plus

About WeTransfer Contact Legal

Powered by Amazon Web Services

From: Ponet, Maibe
To: Jon Fromowitz
Subject: RE: Passage to translate
Date: Thursday, April 10, 2014 11:58:00 AM

Spanish

- No nos enviaron a la Alcaldía para cambiar el carácter de Nueva York; ustedes nos trajeron aquí para restaurar el orgulloso legado de Nueva York como la ciudad progresista...
- Y para preservar la sagrada promesa de que en Nueva York hay lugar para todos y que todos tenemos voz.

Translation

- We weren't sent to City Hall to change New York's character; you sent us here to restore New York's proud legacy as the progressive city...
- ...To keep the sacred promise of our city... that everyone has a place... that everyone gets a voice.

From: Jon Fromowitz [mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Thursday, April 10, 2014 11:48 AM
To: Ponet, Maibe
Subject: Fwd: Passage to translate

Begin forwarded message:

From: Jon Fromowitz <jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Passage to translate
Date: April 10, 2014 at 11:46:03 AM EDT

To: <ponet@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Cc: "Hanley, Monica" <MHanley@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Wolfe, Emma" <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>

· We weren't sent to City Hall to change New York's character; you sent us here to restore New York's proud legacy as the progressive city...

· ...To keep the sacred promise of our city... that everyone has a place... that everyone gets a voice.

From: John Del Cecato
To: Jonathan Rosen; Nick Baldick
Cc: Raymond Chao; Lindsay Scola; Emily Walsh; Elana Leopold; Robert Munoz; Grybauskas, Stefan
Subject: Re: May Planning Meetings
Date: Friday, May 02, 2014 6:17:46 PM

Me too

From: Jonathan Rosen <jonathan@berlinrosen.com>
Date: Friday, May 2, 2014 at 5:49 PM
To: Nick Baldick <nbaldick@hilltoppublicsolutions.com>
Cc: Raymond Chao <[REDACTED]> Lindsay Scola <[REDACTED]> John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, Emily Walsh <Emily@berlinrosen.com>, Elana Leopold <[REDACTED]> Robert Munoz <rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>, "Grybauskas, Stefan" <SGrybauskas@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: May Planning Meetings

Yes in person for me

Sent from my iPhone

On May 2, 2014, at 5:39 PM, "Nick Baldick" <nbaldick@hilltoppublicsolutions.com> wrote:

Yes, from soccer game will call in

Sent from my iPhone

On May 2, 2014, at 5:37 PM, Raymond Chao <[REDACTED]> wrote:

Hi Jon, JDC, and Nick,

Will you be able to attend on Sunday?

Thanks,
Ray

On Thu, May 1, 2014 at 7:16 PM, Lindsay Scola <[REDACTED]> wrote:

Please see the May Planning Meeting schedule. As always these may shift given unforeseen scheduling changes. Please keep us posted if you will be unable to attend or needing to call in.

Thanks,

Lindsay

Sunday, May 4th:

1:00-2:30pm

Saturday, May 10th (May 11th is Mother's Day)

1:30-3:00pm

Sunday, May 18th

1:00-2:30

Sunday, May 25th - This could certainly change with the holiday. Will keep you posted.

1:00-2:30pm

From: John Del Cecato
To: B
Subject: Re: The results are in...
Date: Tuesday, May 06, 2014 9:43:53 PM

Yep. Aaron Pickrell brought him in!

> On May 6, 2014, at 8:42 PM, "B" <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>

>

> Good for him! The frontline of the struggle

>

>

>

> ----- Original Message -----

> From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]

> Sent: Tuesday, May 06, 2014 09:41 PM

> To: B

> Subject: Re: The results are in...

>

> Yep. General consultant.

>

>> On May 6, 2014, at 7:30 PM, "B" <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>>

>>

>> Wait, are you saying he's working that race???

>>

>>

>>

>> ----- Original Message -----

>> From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]

>> Sent: Tuesday, May 06, 2014 08:29 PM

>> To: B

>> Subject: Re: The results are in...

>>

>> Hyers!!

>>

>>> On May 6, 2014, at 7:28 PM, "B" <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>>>

>>>

>>> See the first full paragraph below. Feels like 2013 all over again! :)

>>>

>>>

>>> -----Original Message-----

>>> From: Ed FitzGerald

>>> To: Bill de Blasio

>>> ReplyTo: info@edfitzgeraldforohio.com

>>> Subject: The results are in...

>>> Sent: May 6, 2014 8:19 PM

>>>

>>> Bill --

>>> As of tonight, this race is officially between me and Governor Kasich.

>>> This campaign is about making Ohio work for everyone -- not just a small, privileged group of people. It's time for an Ohio where hard work is rewarded, where we invest in our teachers and students, and where the wealthy pay their fair share.

>>> If we can get that message to Ohio voters before Election Day, we can win and begin to make an Ohio that works for everyone.

>>> Will you help spread the word about our vision for Ohio by inviting a friend to join this campaign?

>>> The last three years have seen an unprecedented attack on workers, seniors, educators, police officers, firefighters, and many more Ohioans. Ohio's wealthiest have gotten cushy tax breaks, while the rest of us have been left out and stuck with the bill.

>>> A good leader should stand up to this injustice -- but instead, Governor Kasich has facilitated it. I will fight for hard working Ohioans, support our schools, and invest in our towns and cities.

>>> We know Kasich has millions of dollars to spend spinning his last three years in office, and that plenty of outside groups will try to help him. We're counting on folks like you talking to your friends, family, and neighbors to help spread our message and win.

>>> Will you invite a friend or family member to join our campaign to make an Ohio that works for everyone?

>>> <http://shpg.org/68/7673>

>>> Ed FitzGerald

>>> Paid for by Friends of FitzGerald-Neuhardt

>>> This email was sent to [REDACTED]

>>> Click here to unsubscribe

>>> <http://www.EdFitzGeraldForOhio.com>

>>>

From: Jon Fromowitz
To: Wolfe, Emma
Cc: Fink, Avi
Subject: Re: White House Fellows
Date: Tuesday, May 13, 2014 2:49:11 PM

Great - thanks. Avi, you OK with me doing an intro with you and my contact?

On May 13, 2014, at 2:35 PM, Wolfe, Emma <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

> Probably
> Looping avi
> Hope you're good
> Thanks jon
>
> -----Original Message-----
> From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
> Sent: Tuesday, May 13, 2014 11:29 AM
> To: Wolfe, Emma
> Subject: White House Fellows
>
> Hey! Quick Q: friend of mine is part of the White House Fellows program, which is actually a substantive thing for staff-level policy people. Program includes a trip to NYC in late June, and they wanted to see if they could get a little time to meet with MBdB. Wanted to see if the intergovernmental aspect made that a you-thing or, if not, if you have thoughts on where I should bring it. Thanks and hope you're doing awesome!

From: Jonathan Rosen
To: Raymond Chao; John Del Cecato
Cc: Lindsay Scola; Nicholas Baldick; Emily Walsh; Elana Leopold; Robert Munoz; Grybauskas, Stefan
Subject: RE: May Planning Meetings Updated
Date: Wednesday, May 14, 2014 2:34:00 PM

I'll be there.

From: Raymond Chao [mailto: [REDACTED]]
Sent: Wednesday, May 14, 2014 11:46 AM
To: John Del Cecato
Cc: Lindsay Scola; Jonathan Rosen; Nicholas Baldick; Emily Walsh; Elana Leopold; Robert Munoz; Grybauskas, Stefan
Subject: Re: May Planning Meetings Updated

Hi, all,

The next planning meeting is this Sunday 5/18 at 1PM in the Committee of the Whole at City Hall.

The dial in, if needed, is:

Dial-in Number: [REDACTED] Code: [REDACTED]

Please RSVP by Friday.

Thanks.

On Sat, May 10, 2014 at 8:36 AM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:
Ok tx

On May 10, 2014, at 7:38 AM, "Lindsay Scola" < [REDACTED] > wrote:

This call will be cancelled today and rescheduled.

Enjoy your Saturday!

Thanks,
Lindsay

Lindsay Scola
[REDACTED]

On May 8, 2014, at 12:43 PM, Raymond Chao < [REDACTED] >
wrote:

Correct, call only.

On Thu, May 8, 2014 at 12:22 PM, John Del Cecato
<jfdc@akpdmmedia.com> wrote:
This is call-only - right? Or will some be in person?

On May 8, 2014, at 12:16 PM, "Raymond Chao"
<[REDACTED]> wrote:

Hi Jonathan, JDC, and Nick,

Here is the dial-in info for this Saturday's Planning Meeting call @ 1:30pm.

Dial-in Number: [REDACTED]
Code: [REDACTED]

Please let me know if you will be able to make the call.

Thanks,
Ray

On Sun, May 4, 2014 at 6:18 PM, Lindsay Scola
<[REDACTED]> wrote:

Thank you all for attending or calling for today's planning meeting. Wanted to update you on the schedule for the remainder of May.

Calendar invites will follow for all.

Thanks,
Lindsay

Saturday, May 10th : This meeting will be by phone ONLY, will NOT be at City Hall

1:30-3:00pm

Sunday, May 18th :

1:00-2:30

Thursday, May 22nd:

Due to the Memorial Day weekend, instead of a Meeting on May 25th, we are exploring a lunch time meeting on Thursday, May 22nd. Please let me know if you have a conflict.

Sunday, June 1st:

Tentatively 3pm

On Thu, May 1, 2014 at 7:16 PM, Lindsay Scola

<[REDACTED]> wrote:

Please see the May Planning Meeting schedule. As always these may shift given unforeseen scheduling changes. Please keep us posted if you will be unable to attend or needing to call in.

Thanks,
Lindsay

Sunday, May 4th:

1:00-2:30pm

Saturday, May 10th (May 11th is Mother's Day)

1:30-3:00pm

Sunday, May 18th

1:00-2:30

Sunday, May 25th - This could certainly change with the holiday. Will keep you posted.

1:00-2:30pm

From: Paolino, Jennifer
To: Jon Fromowitz; Wolfe, Emma; Fink, Avi
Subject: RE: Intros/ White House Fellows
Date: Monday, May 19, 2014 10:58:53 AM

Thank you, Jon, for your introduction. I will follow up with Emma and Avi with more specifics.

Best,
Jennifer

-----Original Message-----

From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Saturday, May 17, 2014 12:34 PM
To: Wolfe, Emma; Fink, Avi
Cc: Paolino, Jennifer
Subject: Intros/ White House Fellows

Emma, Avi, want to introduce you guys to Jennifer Paolino, who is part of the White House Fellows program. The Fellows will be in NYC in late June and would appreciate the opportunity to meet with MBdB, if possible. She can fill you in on the details though better than I can, I'm sure.

Hope everyone is enjoying the lovely day.

From: Laura Santucci
To: Santucci, Laura
Subject: Fwd: Two people
Date: Wednesday, May 21, 2014 6:08:10 AM
Attachments: [Resume \[REDACTED\].4-1-2014.pdf](#)
ATT00001.htm

Begin forwarded message:

From: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Date: April 25, 2014 at 5:05:45 PM EDT
To: Laura Santucci <[REDACTED]>
Subject: Two people

1. I think [REDACTED] emailed you. He's that friend of mine I mentioned before. He's dedicated, been around the block with [REDACTED] good editor, diligent, loyal as hell.
2. Attached is a resume of a young guy ([REDACTED]) I met with this week. Like everybody on earth, he wants to do communications - but not sure that there's anything for him. He interviews well. He's green but seems like he could do a number of things & is eager as hell to work for BDB in any capacity - FWIW.

Thank you Laura!!

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

From: Chao, Raymond
To: "rmunoz@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Re: Planning meeting tomorrow
Date: Sunday, May 25, 2014 8:12:24 AM

No planning meeting tomorrow. Thanks, dude.

Sent from mobile device, pardon any errors.

Raymond Chao
Scheduling Coordinator
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: (212)-788-7565
Cell: (347)-607-8325
rchao@cityhall.nyc.gov

----- Original Message -----
From: Robert Munoz [<mailto:rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Saturday, May 24, 2014 11:39 PM
To: Chao, Raymond
Subject: Planning meeting tomorrow

Is that still on? Just letting you know JDC probably won't be able to make it.

From: B
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Our last ad -- ode to nyc -- want to see again -- man, that was a cool ad
Date: Sunday, June 01, 2014 4:53:01 PM

From: John Del Cecato
To: Elana Leopold
Cc: Raymond Chao; Jonathan Rosen; Nicholas Baldick; Grybauskas, Stefan; Robert Munoz; Emily Walsh
Subject: Re: Sunday, June 8th @ 1PM - Planning Meeting
Date: Sunday, June 08, 2014 1:25:27 PM

Sorry - I'm gonna have to miss -

On Jun 8, 2014, at 12:56 PM, "Elana Leopold" <[REDACTED]> wrote:

We are running on time and expect to start at 1:15 as planned.

Sent from my iPhone

On Jun 6, 2014, at 4:03 PM, Raymond Chao <[REDACTED]> wrote:

All,

The Mayor will be coming from an outside event.

We will shift the meeting start time to 1:15PM.

A dial-in, if needed is:

Dial-in Number: [REDACTED]

Code: [REDACTED]

Thank you,
Ray
[REDACTED]

On Mon, Jun 2, 2014 at 7:36 PM, Raymond Chao <[REDACTED]> wrote:

Hi, all,

There will be a Planning Meeting on Sunday, June 8th @ 1:00PM in the COW.

Dial-in Number: [REDACTED]

Code: [REDACTED]

Please let me know if you cannot make it.

Thank you,

Ray

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

From: Fialkoff, Gabrielle
To: [REDACTED]
Cc: "nbaldick@hilltoppublicsolutions.com"; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Ragone, Peter; "jonathan@berlinrosen.com"
Subject: Re: Office of Strategic Partnerships Priorities Mtg/call
Date: Monday, June 09, 2014 6:22:37 PM

I was planning on sending attachments tomorrow or Wednesday. Hopefully others can do this week and perhaps you and I can connect separately.

From: [REDACTED] [mailto:[REDACTED]]
Sent: Monday, June 09, 2014 05:55 PM
To: Fialkoff, Gabrielle
Cc: Nicholas Baldick (nbaldick@hilltoppublicsolutions.com) <nbaldick@hilltoppublicsolutions.com>; jfdc@akpdmedia.com <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Ragone, Peter; jonathan@berlinrosen.com <jonathan@berlinrosen.com>
Subject: Re: Office of Strategic Partnerships Priorities Mtg/call

There's no attachment.
I'll be traveling and unavailable.

On Jun 9, 2014, at 11:43 PM, "Fialkoff, Gabrielle" <GFialkoff@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Hi All,

Bill asked me to convene the 5 of you with Chirlane and I for a meeting/call to review and zero in on the priorities we will pursue in regard to public private partnerships. I've had an 8 week deep dive into public-private partnerships, philanthropy and too numerous to count discussions with Agency heads and CH folks to come up with a menu of possible priorities and initiatives for my office (aka the Mayors Fund, Fund for Public Health, Fund for Public School, among others—the city affiliated non-profits) to pursue. We have a list of 8 policy areas with potential initiatives attached and I think to really get it right, we should narrow down to 2-4 "big" initiatives we will focus on.

Chirlane is open Thursday the 12th from 12-2pm EST on and all day Friday the 13th. I will send out documents that lay out what we are trying to accomplish and the Priority Areas in advance.

Please let me know if and when you can join.

Many Thanks, Gabrielle

Gabrielle Fialkoff
Senior Advisor to the Mayor
Director of the Office of Strategic Partnerships

212-341-5084

gfialkoff@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Ragone, Peter
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; [REDACTED]
Cc: Fialkoff, Gabrielle; "nbaldick@hilltoppublicsolutions.com"; "jonathan@berlinrosen.com"; "rmunoz@akpdmedia.com"; Seignious, Sandy
Subject: Re: Office of Strategic Partnerships Priorities Mtg/call
Date: Monday, June 09, 2014 6:27:52 PM

Looking forward to it!

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Monday, June 09, 2014 06:22 PM
To: [REDACTED] <[REDACTED]>
Cc: Fialkoff, Gabrielle; Nicholas Baldick (nbaldick@hilltoppublicsolutions.com) <nbaldick@hilltoppublicsolutions.com>; Ragone, Peter; jonathan@berlinrosen.com <jonathan@berlinrosen.com>; Robert Munoz <rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Office of Strategic Partnerships Priorities Mtg/call

Adding Rob for my sked. I will be back from overseas early Thurs morning but will likely be a zombie until I catch a nap

On Jun 9, 2014, at 5:55 PM, "[REDACTED]" <[REDACTED]> wrote:

There's no attachment.
I'll be traveling and unavailable.

On Jun 9, 2014, at 11:43 PM, "Fialkoff, Gabrielle" <GFialkoff@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Hi All,

Bill asked me to convene the 5 of you with Chirlane and I for a meeting/call to review and zero in on the priorities we will pursue in regard to public private partnerships. I've had an 8 week deep dive into public-private partnerships, philanthropy and too numerous to count discussions with Agency heads and CH folks to come up with a menu of possible priorities and initiatives for my office (aka the Mayors Fund, Fund for Public Health, Fund for Public School, among others—the city affiliated non-profits) to pursue. We have a list of 8 policy areas with potential initiatives attached and I think to really get it right, we should narrow down to 2-4 "big" initiatives we will focus on.

Chirlane is open Thursday the 12th from 12-2pm EST on and all day Friday the 13th. I will send out documents that lay out what we are trying to accomplish and the Priority Areas in advance.

Please let me know if and when you can join.

Many Thanks, Gabrielle

Gabrielle Fialkoff
Senior Advisor to the Mayor
Director of the Office of Strategic Partnerships
212-341-5084
gfialkoff@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Fialkoff, Gabrielle
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; [REDACTED]
Cc: "nbaldick@hilltoppublicsolutions.com"; Ragone, Peter; "jonathan@berlinrosen.com"; "rmunoz@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Re: Office of Strategic Partnerships Priorities Mtg/call
Date: Monday, June 09, 2014 6:34:54 PM

And I just realized I said docs were attached as well. To clarify, will send out tomorrow. Long day. Thx

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Monday, June 09, 2014 06:22 PM
To: [REDACTED] <[REDACTED]>
Cc: Fialkoff, Gabrielle; Nicholas Baldick (nbaldick@hilltoppublicsolutions.com) <nbaldick@hilltoppublicsolutions.com>; Ragone, Peter; jonathan@berlinrosen.com <jonathan@berlinrosen.com>; Robert Munoz <rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Office of Strategic Partnerships Priorities Mtg/call

Adding Rob for my sked. I will be back from overseas early Thurs morning but will likely be a zombie until I catch a nap

On Jun 9, 2014, at 5:55 PM, "[REDACTED]" <[REDACTED]> wrote:

There's no attachment.
I'll be traveling and unavailable.

On Jun 9, 2014, at 11:43 PM, "Fialkoff, Gabrielle" <GFialkoff@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Hi All,

Bill asked me to convene the 5 of you with Chirlane and I for a meeting/call to review and zero in on the priorities we will pursue in regard to public private partnerships. I've had an 8 week deep dive into public-private partnerships, philanthropy and too numerous to count discussions with Agency heads and CH folks to come up with a menu of possible priorities and initiatives for my office (aka the Mayors Fund, Fund for Public Health, Fund for Public School, among others—the city affiliated non-profits) to pursue. We have a list of 8 policy areas with potential initiatives attached and I think to really get it right, we should narrow down to 2-4 "big" initiatives we will focus on.

Chirlane is open Thursday the 12th from 12-2pm EST on and all day Friday the 13th. I will send out documents that lay out what we are trying to accomplish and the Priority Areas in advance.

Please let me know if and when you can join.

Many Thanks, Gabrielle

Gabrielle Fialkoff
Senior Advisor to the Mayor
Director of the Office of Strategic Partnerships
212-341-5084
gfialkoff@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Jonathan Rosen
To: Fialkoff, Gabrielle
Cc: jfdc@akpdmedia.com; Noerdlinger, Rachel; Ragone, Peter; rmunoz@akpdmedia.com; Seignious, Sandy; Ko, Eunice; Emily Walsh
Subject: Re: Office of Strategic Partnerships Priorities Mtg/call
Date: Monday, June 09, 2014 9:44:42 PM

Both work for me. Thanks.

Sent from my iPhone

On Jun 9, 2014, at 9:32 PM, "Fialkoff, Gabrielle" <GFialkoff@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Plus Rachel and Eunice for cmc schedule.
Looking like Friday 13th 10-11am or 3-4pm.
If New Yorkers can make it to CH that's ideal. Thanks.

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Monday, June 09, 2014 06:22 PM
To: [REDACTED] <[REDACTED]>
Cc: Fialkoff, Gabrielle; Nicholas Baldick (nbaldick@hilltoppublicsolutions.com) <nbaldick@hilltoppublicsolutions.com>; Ragone, Peter; jonathan@berlinrosen.com <jonathan@berlinrosen.com>; Robert Munoz <rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Office of Strategic Partnerships Priorities Mtg/call

Adding Rob for my sked. I will be back from overseas early Thurs morning but will likely be a zombie until I catch a nap

On Jun 9, 2014, at 5:55 PM, "[REDACTED]" <[REDACTED]> wrote:

There's no attachment.
I'll be traveling and unavailable.

On Jun 9, 2014, at 11:43 PM, "Fialkoff, Gabrielle" <GFialkoff@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Hi All,

Bill asked me to convene the 5 of you with Chirlane and I for a meeting/call to review and zero in on the priorities we will pursue in regard to public private partnerships. I've had an 8 week deep dive into public-private partnerships, philanthropy and too numerous to count discussions with Agency heads and CH folks to come up with a menu of possible priorities and initiatives for my office (aka the Mayors Fund, Fund for Public Health, Fund for Public School, among others—the city affiliated non-profits) to pursue.

We have a list of 8 policy areas with potential initiatives attached and I think to really get it right, we should narrow down to 2-4 “big” initiatives we will focus on.

Chirlane is open Thursday the 12th from 12-2pm EST on and all day Friday the 13th. I will send out documents that lay out what we are trying to accomplish and the Priority Areas in advance.

Please let me know if and when you can join.

Many Thanks, Gabrielle

Gabrielle Fialkoff
Senior Advisor to the Mayor
Director of the Office of Strategic Partnerships
212-341-5084
gfialkoff@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Fialkoff, Gabrielle
To: "Jonathan Rosen"; Nicholas Baldick \(nbaldick@hilltoppublicsolutions.com\)
Cc: jfdc@akpdmedia.com; Noerdlinger, Rachel; Ragone, Peter; rmunoz@akpdmedia.com; Seignious, Sandy; Ko, Eunice; Emily Walsh; Bloch, Darren
Subject: RE: Office of Strategic Partnerships Priorities Mtg/call
Date: Tuesday, June 10, 2014 6:40:18 PM

Hi everyone, we are on for 10am Friday morning. Let me know if there are any conflicts.
Thanks, Gab

From: Jonathan Rosen [<mailto:Jonathan@berlinrosen.com>]
Sent: Monday, June 09, 2014 9:45 PM
To: Fialkoff, Gabrielle
Cc: jfdc@akpdmedia.com; Noerdlinger, Rachel; Ragone, Peter; rmunoz@akpdmedia.com; Seignious, Sandy; Ko, Eunice; Emily Walsh
Subject: Re: Office of Strategic Partnerships Priorities Mtg/call

Both work for me. Thanks.

Sent from my iPhone

On Jun 9, 2014, at 9:32 PM, "Fialkoff, Gabrielle" <GFialkoff@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Plus Rachel and Eunice for cmc schedule.
Looking like Friday 13th 10-11am or 3-4pm.
If New Yorkers can make it to CH that's ideal. Thanks.

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Monday, June 09, 2014 06:22 PM
To: [REDACTED] <[REDACTED]>
Cc: Fialkoff, Gabrielle; Nicholas Baldick \(nbaldick@hilltoppublicsolutions.com\) <nbaldick@hilltoppublicsolutions.com>; Ragone, Peter; jonathan@berlinrosen.com <jonathan@berlinrosen.com>; Robert Munoz <rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Office of Strategic Partnerships Priorities Mtg/call

Adding Rob for my sked. I will be back from overseas early Thurs morning but will likely be a zombie until I catch a nap

From: John Del Cecato
To: Bill de Blasio
To: Emma Wolfe
Subject: What went wrong for Eric Cantor? - The Washington Post
Sent: Jun 11, 2014 6:25 PM

1. This whole tick-tock must sound incredibly familiar and terribly disconcerting to a certain governor.
2. Right or left, underestimating the power of an unhappy base is a lesson to others as well.

http://m.washingtonpost.com/politics/what-went-wrong-for-eric-cantor/2014/06/11/0be7c02c-f180-11e3-914c-1fbd0614e2d4_story.html?wpisrc=nl%5Fev

From: Fialkoff, Gabrielle
To: "Jonathan Rosen"; FLONYC; Nicholas Baldick \(nbaldick@hilltoppublicsolutions.com\); ifdc@akpdmedia.com; Ragone, Peter
Cc: Noerdlinger, Rachel; rmunoz@akpdmedia.com; Seignious, Sandy; Ko, Eunice; Emily Walsh; Katz, Rebecca; Bloch, Darren; Everett, Matt
Subject: Office of Strategic Partnerships Priorities Mtg/call
Date: Thursday, June 12, 2014 10:46:30 AM
Attachments: Priorities6.12.docx

Hi all,

I look forward to our conversation tomorrow at 10am. For New Yorkers we will meet in the New Amsterdam room at CH. Out of towners please call in to number below.

Attached you will find the document we will review. Please feel free to ask any questions beforehand.

Thanks, Gabrielle

For Participants:

[REDACTED]

For Host:

[REDACTED]

Office of Strategic Partnerships (OSP) Proposed Priority Areas/Initiatives

OSP Mission:

To create a structure to engage private sector entities in philanthropic initiatives that partner with the City. We seek to combine the flexibility and entrepreneurial spirit of the private sector with the unmatched reach of government to address the specific and systemic challenges faced by the neediest New Yorkers.

Steps and Framing:

- The OSP seeks to establish 3-4 Priority Areas to focus our public-private partnerships.
- Once Priority Areas are established and we understand how the Priorities hang together, a “brand name” will be established to market the initiatives to advocates, funders and partners. In depth work on the particular initiatives will begin once the Priority Areas are established.
- Thematically, our efforts will focus on the neediest New Yorkers where they live, in their neighborhoods. The selected projects will have 2 over-arching principals; they will be inter-agency in approach and place-based.
- We believe these public-private programs should be complimentary to what government does; it is important to the philanthropic community that we not seek funding that simply fills the gap in public funds.

Question at hand:

There are 9 Priority Areas and an early framework of initiatives outlined below. We seek to establish 3-4 areas the Funds will focus on and would like to discuss what resonates, how they fit together and how they integrate with government priorities. These areas can then be oriented into the 4 “Buckets” of the Administration (Education, Opportunity/Equality, Public Safety and Effective Government) for clarity of message, if desired.

Youth Workforce Readiness: (jobs, youth, equity, education)

- SYEP (Summer Youth Employment Program): Making SYEP a more robust, year-round, integrative program that ties into the school year and establishes a workforce pipeline. 135,000 kids applied for 36,000 slots in 2013.
 - Establish an outreach campaign to the neediest kids
 - Fund more slots; engage more businesses in offering jobs (70% are gov’t and non-profit) link with school program.
 - Offer training in advance of summer to teach soft skills and work prep.
 - Offer follow-up during the school year in schools
 - Provide after-school programming for workforce readiness, exposure to industry...
- Foster better alignment between business and high schools:

- Partnering business with high schools to offer mentoring and other soft skills, expansion of P-Tech model, institute system of career counselors and resource centers for high schoolers and recent grads
- Support partnerships for existing technical high schools and development of tighter pipeline to jobs in the sectors of school focus
- Promote, expand and expedite Tech curriculum in district schools, Link to Tech Talent pipeline

Open Spaces/Play Spaces: (equity, health, out-of-school programming, public safety)

- Create a new model for 100 new community play-spaces in needy neighborhoods that are safe spaces to promote health/end obesity, physical activity, park equity, parental engagement and opportunity, providing safe environment for kids and parents; can include community parks, schools, rec centers, swimming pools; provide programming for kids and parents, provide free WIFI and fitness apps, for example. Engage DOHMH, Parks, DOE, NYCHA, HPD among others

Gender Justice, Social Justice: (Public Safety, most vulnerable NYers, health)

- A campaign for Gender Justice: Domestic violence-there is a strong correlation between poverty and DV. This is a gender-neutral issue; men need to be part of the solution.
 - Expansion of the family justice centers (one-stop shopping for victims of DV, there is 1 in each boro) establish satellite offices in needy communities
 - Launch awareness campaign of DV services, centers in communities.
 - Expand offering of mental health counseling, job counseling, legal services for immigrants in centers

Health & Healthy Living: (health, vulnerable NYers, equity, education, early child development)

- Early Childhood: a whole child approach, healthy kids do better in school. Attacking disease and obesity in our neediest neighborhoods.
 - Asthma Attack— Asthma is leading cause of emergency room visits, hospitalizations and absenteeism from school: focus on in home solutions of addressing pests (proven results exist) and offering in school based delivery of medications and referrals (not done now)
 - Nurse Family Partnership: in home mentoring and education of first time at risk mothers, starting in pregnancy thru 3 years. Data is incontrovertible of the benefits but it is expensive- how to build off of it a program to scale? Could be a good candidate for social impact bonds
 - Reach to Read: a pediatrician/clinician educates first time at risk mothers of benefits of reading, “prescribes” and gives books. Benefits are language development, early literacy, and school readiness.
- Access to healthy Foods:

- Green Markets and Green Carts (Jobs): expand programs, engage supermarket industry, support wholesale markets in needy neighborhoods, etc...
- Health Bucks (economic/community development): this is a coupon currently given at green markets: for every $5 spent in SNAP, $2 coupon given. Health Bucks are being piloted in hospitals: Dr's prescribing. Idea to pilot in bodegas, supermarkets, schools, community's, through City services...
- Mental health - expansion of mental health resources and efforts to combat stigmas associated with mental health and emotional wellness
 - Engage private partners (media, creative, personalities) to develop and launch media/awareness campaign to de-stigmatize mental health issues.
 - Fund counselors in public schools, partner with DOH/DOE to develop programs for students and families, provide services in NYCHA, and target immigrant communities...

Expanding educational opportunities: (education, workforce/jobs, after-school, equity, vulnerable NYers)

- Early Literacy and Language development: (also connected to Early Childhood 0-3 programs)
 - Communication in the early years is the key to future success: (see Reach to Read program above) provide more speech specialists in schools to focus on phonics to help kids get early start and keep up, identify issues earlier; support special needs students, English language learners
 - Increase tutoring programs for low income/targeted schools
- Arts & Culture: champion in our schools and communities.
 - Leverage recent $20m public commitment to arts in the schools with a private funding component (supporting Professional development and training of arts teachers, program development).
- Professional development of teachers of color
- Recovery High Schools: sober high schools. Offer coherent substance abuse approach for our schools

Reducing Income Inequality: Creating hubs for accessing resources and support: (equity, workforce, health, gov't efficiency)

- Focus on NYCHA as a hub for wrap-around services and economic empowerment
- NYCHA Resident Economic Empowerment & Sustainability (REES) and Job Plus Center
 - Additional support for these neighborhood specific workforce dev. Initiatives. offering wraparound services in NYCHA thru these 2 vehicles.
- NYCHA "Lighthouses"
 - A "lighthouse" would replace the direct service provider model currently in place with an outward facing model to connect residents to social services (build on REES and Single-Stop models)

- Expansion of Office of Financial Empowerment (DCA):
 - Fund the expansion of these 30 centers to offer field reps in communities to educate and assist those in poverty to apply for EITC (thru free tax prep) and access bank account, among other services
- Develop programs, partnerships and funding to support key targeted sectors that have high demand/good salaries to break-down barriers to entry→ i.e. adding 16,000 nurses/technicians to local health care systems

Immigrant Communities: This may be an element of all of above initiatives (equity, vulnerable NYers)

- Access to Justice: legal status, or lack there of, is a leading cause of poverty for the 500k undocumented NYers; establish programs through legal services or screenings that develop roadmap for legal status in schools, community schools, NYCHA and through other City facilities and services
- Safe Passage program – supporting access to legal services for children of immigrant families to utilize existing programs for citizenship
- NYCitizenship: provides public school parents with info on naturalization process, free legal services, financial counseling to aid in applying for citizenship

Leveraging tech within government: (gov't efficiency, jobs, helping vulnerable NYers)

- Participatory Budgeting/Community Budgeting-empowering communities and deepening democracy
 - Empower people to decide together how to spend public money to make public budgets more equitable and effective.
- Supporting development of interagency data/case management platforms: Public-private partnership to help leverage private resources (funds and expertise) to support an internal team (working with DoITT, Office of Operations, CTO, others) that would help scope and frame out models for new systems of data collection and sharing. In addition to consolidated data management systems these platforms would also provide valuable trend-spotting metrics for agencies.

Sustainability: (jobs/workforce, vulnerable NYers, health)

- Retrofit and Green NY initiatives
- Stay Cool NYC: a P3 and inter-agency program to help mitigate extreme heat conditions and reduce heat related deaths by painting city rooftops white thereby reducing cooling costs, cutting energy use and lowering greenhouse gas emissions.
- Supporting and creating green jobs (see Youth Workforce Readiness)
- Leveraging Energy Efficiency Corp

From: Ragone, Peter
To: Fialkoff, Gabrielle; "Jonathan@berlinrosen.com"; FLONYC; "nbaldick@hilltoppublicsolutions.com"; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Cc: Noerdlinger, Rachel; "rmunoz@akpdmedia.com"; Seignious, Sandy; Ko, Eunice; "Emily@berlinrosen.com"; Katz, Rebecca; Bloch, Darren; Everett, Matt
Subject: Re: Office of Strategic Partnerships Priorities Mtg/call
Date: Thursday, June 12, 2014 11:27:36 AM

This is great.

From: Fialkoff, Gabrielle
Sent: Thursday, June 12, 2014 10:46 AM
To: 'Jonathan Rosen' <Jonathan@berlinrosen.com>; FLONYC; Nicholas Baldick (nbaldick@hilltoppublicsolutions.com) <nbaldick@hilltoppublicsolutions.com>; jfdc@akpdmedia.com <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Ragone, Peter
Cc: Noerdlinger, Rachel; rmunoz@akpdmedia.com <rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>; Seignious, Sandy; Ko, Eunice; Emily Walsh <Emily@berlinrosen.com>; Katz, Rebecca; Bloch, Darren; Everett, Matt
Subject: Office of Strategic Partnerships Priorities Mtg/call

Hi all,

I look forward to our conversation tomorrow at 10am. For New Yorkers we will meet in the New Amsterdam room at CH. Out of towners please call in to number below.

Attached you will find the document we will review. Please feel free to ask any questions beforehand.

Thanks, Gabrielle

For Participants:

[REDACTED]

For Host:

[REDACTED] HOST CODE: [REDACTED]

From: Robert Munoz
To: Chao, Raymond
Subject: Fwd: Office of Strategic Partnerships Priorities Mtg/call
Date: Thursday, June 12, 2014 11:44:08 PM

Hey wasn't sure if you knew about this, but just letting you know John won't be attending but will be calling in.

Begin forwarded message:

From: "Ragone, Peter" <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: June 12, 2014 at 11:27:34 AM EDT
To: "Fialkoff, Gabrielle" <GFialkoff@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Jonathan@berlinrosen.com" <Jonathan@berlinrosen.com>, FLONYC <FLONYC@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "nbaldick@hilltoppublicsolutions.com" <nbaldick@hilltoppublicsolutions.com>, "jfdc@akpdmedia.com" <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: "Noerdlinger, Rachel" <RNoerdlinger@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "rmunoz@akpdmedia.com" <rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>, "Seignious, Sandy" <sseignious@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Ko, Eunice" <EKo@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Emily@berlinrosen.com" <Emily@berlinrosen.com>, "Katz, Rebecca" <RKKatz@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Bloch, Darren" <DBloch@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Everett, Matt" <MEverett@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: Office of Strategic Partnerships Priorities Mtg/call

This is great.

From: Fialkoff, Gabrielle
Sent: Thursday, June 12, 2014 10:46 AM
To: 'Jonathan Rosen' <Jonathan@berlinrosen.com>; FLONYC; Nicholas Baldick (nbaldick@hilltoppublicsolutions.com) <nbaldick@hilltoppublicsolutions.com>; jfdc@akpdmedia.com <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Ragone, Peter
Cc: Noerdlinger, Rachel; rmunoz@akpdmedia.com <rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>; Seignious, Sandy; Ko, Eunice; Emily Walsh <Emily@berlinrosen.com>; Katz, Rebecca; Bloch, Darren; Everett, Matt
Subject: Office of Strategic Partnerships Priorities Mtg/call

Hi all,

I look forward to our conversation tomorrow at 10am. For New Yorkers we will meet in the New Amsterdam room at CH. Out of towners please call in to number below. Attached you will find the document we will review. Please feel free to ask any questions beforehand.
Thanks, Gabrielle

For Participants:

████████████████████

For Host:

[REDACTED], HOST CODE: [REDACTED]

From: Fialkoff, Gabrielle
To: jonathan@berlinrosen.com; jfdc@akpdmedia.com; Ragone, Peter
Cc: Everett, Matt
Subject: Meeting in COW, 2nd Floor
Date: Friday, June 13, 2014 9:36:24 AM

Gabrielle Fialkoff
Senior Advisor to the Mayor
Director of the Office of Strategic Partnerships
212-341-5084
gfialkoff@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Ragone, Peter
To: Fialkoff, Gabrielle; "jonathan@berlinrosen.com"; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Cc: Everett, Matt
Subject: Re: Meeting in COW, 2nd Floor
Date: Friday, June 13, 2014 9:45:07 AM

I'm in a massive traffic jam. Be there as soon as I can.

From: Fialkoff, Gabrielle
Sent: Friday, June 13, 2014 09:36 AM
To: jonathan@berlinrosen.com <jonathan@berlinrosen.com>; jfdc@akpdmedia.com <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Ragone, Peter
Cc: Everett, Matt
Subject: Meeting in COW, 2nd Floor

Gabrielle Fialkoff
Senior Advisor to the Mayor
Director of the Office of Strategic Partnerships
212-341-5084
gfialkoff@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Robert Munoz
To: Chao, Raymond
Subject: Re: Office of Strategic Partnerships Priorities Mtg/call
Date: Friday, June 13, 2014 10:44:13 AM

Ok great

On Jun 13, 2014, at 10:43 AM, "Chao, Raymond" <rchao@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Tomorrow's planning is a conference call anyway, everyone will be dialing in.

Thanks

Raymond Chao
Scheduling Coordinator
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: (212)-788-7565
Cell: (347)-607-8325
rchao@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Robert Munoz [<mailto:rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Friday, June 13, 2014 10:42 AM
To: Chao, Raymond
Subject: Re: Office of Strategic Partnerships Priorities Mtg/call

Correction: it's tomorrow's meeting he'll have to call in for.

On Jun 12, 2014, at 11:44 PM, "Robert Munoz" <rmunoz@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

Hey wasn't sure if you knew about this, but just letting you know John won't be attending but will be calling in.

Begin forwarded message:

From: "Ragone, Peter" <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: June 12, 2014 at 11:27:34 AM EDT
To: "Fialkoff, Gabrielle" <GFialkoff@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Jonathan@berlinrosen.com" <Jonathan@berlinrosen.com>, FLONYC <FLONYC@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "nbaldick@hilltoppublicsolutions.com" <nbaldick@hilltoppublicsolutions.com>, "jfdc@akpdmedia.com" <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: "Noerdlinger, Rachel" <RNoerdlinger@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "rmunoz@akpdmedia.com" <rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>

"Seignious, Sandy" <sseignious@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Ko, Eunice" <EKo@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "'Emily@berlinrosen.com'" <Emily@berlinrosen.com>, "Katz, Rebecca" <RKKatz@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Bloch, Darren" <DBloch@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Everett, Matt" <MEverett@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Subject: Re: Office of Strategic Partnerships Priorities Mtg/call

This is great.

From: Fialkoff, Gabrielle
Sent: Thursday, June 12, 2014 10:46 AM
To: 'Jonathan Rosen' <Jonathan@berlinrosen.com>; FLONYC; Nicholas Baldick (nbaldick@hilltoppublicsolutions.com) <nbaldick@hilltoppublicsolutions.com>; jfdc@akpdmedia.com <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Ragone, Peter
Cc: Noerdlinger, Rachel; rmunoz@akpdmedia.com <rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>; Seignious, Sandy; Ko, Eunice; Emily Walsh <Emily@berlinrosen.com>; Katz, Rebecca; Bloch, Darren; Everett, Matt
Subject: Office of Strategic Partnerships Priorities Mtg/call

Hi all,

I look forward to our conversation tomorrow at 10am. For New Yorkers we will meet in the New Amsterdam room at CH. Out of towners please call in to number below. Attached you will find the document we will review. Please feel free to ask any questions beforehand.
Thanks, Gabrielle

For Participants:

[REDACTED]

For Host:

[REDACTED], HOST CODE: [REDACTED]

From: [REDACTED]
Date: Wed, 18 Jun 2014 16:40:50 +0000
To: Emma Wolfe <[REDACTED]>; Nicholas Baldick <nbaldick@hilltoppublicsolutions.com>
ReplyTo: [REDACTED]
Cc: Jonathan Rosen <Jonathan@berlinrosen.com>; Bill Hyers <bhyers@hilltoppublicsolutions.com>; Peter Ragone <peter@hilltoppublicsolutions.com>; John Del Stephanie Yazgi <syazgi@hilltoppublicsolutions.com>; John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Bill Hyers <[REDACTED]>; Laura Santucci <[REDACTED]>; Alex Navarro-McKay <Alex@berlinrosen.com>
Subject: Re: LICH deal

Will program
Sent via BlackBerry by AT&T

From: Emma Wolfe <[REDACTED]>
Date: Wed, 18 Jun 2014 12:30:59 -0400
To: Nicholas Baldick <nbaldick@hilltoppublicsolutions.com>
Cc: Jonathan Rosen <Jonathan@berlinrosen.com>; Bill Hyers <bhyers@hilltoppublicsolutions.com>; Peter Ragone <peter@hilltoppublicsolutions.com>; John Del Stephanie Yazgi <syazgi@hilltoppublicsolutions.com>; John Del [REDACTED]

Cecato<jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Bill Hvers<[REDACTED]> Laura Santucci<[REDACTED]> Alex Navarro-McKay<Alex@berlinrosen.com>; Gabriel Schnake-Mahl<[REDACTED]>
Subject: Re: LICH deal

Let's brief the boss on this. Gabriel pls sked a call for him to hear the plan

Sent from my iPhone

On Jun 18, 2014, at 11:40 AM, Nicholas Baldick <nbaldick@hilltoppublicsolutions.com> wrote:

Cool

Nick Baldick
Hilltop Public Solutions
The Washington Harbour
3000 K Street NW, Suite 320
Washington, D.C. 20007
Main: 202-298-3232
Fax: 202-298-6115
nbaldick@hilltoppublicsolutions.com

On Jun 18, 2014, at 11:36 AM, Jonathan Rosen <Jonathan@berlinrosen.com> wrote:

I think they do in an informational straightforward way – probably after hearing from other validators like health care professionals.

From: Bill Hyers [<mailto:bhyers@hilltoppublicsolutions.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, June 18, 2014 11:22 AM
To: Peter Ragone
Cc: Jonathan Rosen; Emma Wolfe; Stephanie Yazgi; John Del Cecato; Nick Baldick; Bill Hyers; Laura Santucci; Alex Navarro-McKay
Subject: RE: LICH deal

My gut is the community needs to hear from him, but that's my thought. Jonathan? JDC? Nick?

From: Peter Ragone [[mailto:\[REDACTED\]](mailto:[REDACTED])]
Sent: Wednesday, June 18, 2014 8:53 AM
To: Bill Hyers
Cc: Jonathan Rosen; Emma Wolfe; Stephanie Yazgi; John Del Cecato; Nick Baldick; Bill Hyers; Laura Santucci; Alex Navarro-McKay
Subject: Re: LICH deal

This is great. Do you think it makes more sense to do more nurses, health care providers, ems types as opposed to Mayor?

This is a personal email account. If this communication is related to official business please email me at pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov.

On Jun 17, 2014, at 5:26 PM, Bill Hyers
<bhyers@hilltoppublicsolutions.com> wrote:

Attached is the mail plan, thought is that we drop mail starting next week, and next weekend on the 28th - 29th we have street teams hit the area too. It should blanket this area fairly well.

We just have to make sure we have the best story to tell, Jonathan is working with Wiley on this but I just want to flag it, because that's going to be the toughest part on this.

Thoughts? Questions? Whole thing isn't too expensive, 42-43K overall, we have the money on hand for it, but know it's just meant to cover the geographic area, not the overall message here.

From: Jonathan Rosen [mailto:Jonathan@berlinrosen.com]
Sent: Monday, June 16, 2014 5:57 PM
To: Bill Hyers
Cc: Emma Wolfe; Stephanie Yazgi; John Del Cecato; peter ragone; Nick Baldick; Bill Hyers; Laura Santucci; Alex Navarro-McKay
Subject: Re: LICH deal

Plus Alex.

Sent from my iPhone

On Jun 16, 2014, at 5:53 PM, "Bill Hyers"
<bhyers@hilltoppublicsolutions.com> wrote:

Will have a full plan tomorrow, but broad strokes

Thinking 3 pieces of mail, a letter from a nurse maybe/one from Mbdb, and an informational larger piece with guise of fact piece but favorable.

Have street/small business sweeps with volunteers probably this weekend with info.

Maybe an earned media component, but that will have to be flushed out (might be better from the other side).

On Jun 16, 2014 5:47 PM, "Emma Wolfe" <[REDACTED]> wrote:

Let's all remember this isn't over yet

On Jun 16, 2014, 7:53 AM, John Del Cecato wrote:

You may already be doing this, but as a reminder to those reporters/talkers who didn't cover LICH drama as closely last year, should we circulate some of the most doom-and-gloom predictions for LICH? Key would be to find some columnists or neutral observers who said "it's dead. It's gonna be luxury condos like St Vincent's. De Blasio is just showboating." Might be helpful to remind squeaky wheels that this compromise is far better than many thought possible just a short time ago.

On Jun 15, 2014,
at 8:40 PM,
"Emma Wolfe"
wrote: We should get ready soon on our LICH work to communicate to brownstoners
Health care deal between hospitals and SUNY was achieved Still work to do but significant progress

<CFONY plan 061714.docx>

--
Stefan Grybauskas

--
Elana Leopold

From: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmmedia.com>
Date: June 29, 2014 at 7:41:23 PM EDT
To: Anthony Shorris <[REDACTED]>
Subject: Re: <no subject>

Just talked to her.

She said that she's committed to [REDACTED]
[REDACTED] - BUT I sensed that she was really intrigued by the prospect & she wasn't about to say "no" without hearing more...

I don't know her well enough to tell her [REDACTED] & that she should pass that off on someone else - so I refrained from doing that - but I might be able to get someone closer to her to deliver that message at some point...

She said she'd be happy to talk more about the position - and if we couldn't get past the issues of timing & geography, she might have another good candidate in mind...

So why don't you or Laura or someone give her a shout on her cell early next week?

[REDACTED]
On 6/29/14, 7:23 PM, "Anthony Shorris" <[REDACTED]> wrote:

The title as it now stands is Director of the Mayor's Office of Long-term

Planning and Sustainability. OLTPS is an office with about a dozen staff reporting to the First Deputy Mayor. The name is a Bloomberg creation and we could modify it for the right person. While I have interest in a broad range of planning issues for this office, BDB is very focused on sustainability in general and retro-fitting in particular, though my own sense is that the latter alone may be a bit narrow for folks with broad ambitions. Overall, we have room here to attract kind of visible figure he's looking for -- if we can find someone ready to make the move.

Thanks again for your help.

On Jun 29, 2014, at 7:13 PM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmmedia.com> wrote:

Great - will do. What would the official job title be? Or have we not figured that out yet?

On Jun 29, 2014, at 7:07 PM, "Anthony Shorris" <[REDACTED]>

wrote:

John -

I asked BDB to try [REDACTED] -- and let me know if you pick up any interest from [REDACTED] She's a good idea and also fits a model I wanted to explore of folks with an electoral background to go with some governmental experience. You may have other good ideas -- thoughts are welcome.

Many thanks.

- Tony

On Jun 29, 2014, at 5:09 PM, John Del Cecato
<jfdc@akpdmedia.com>

wrote:

I met with her when she was still considering running and I would be fine feeling her out. I think I still have her number. I'm not as familiar with [REDACTED]

[REDACTED]
who's tight with

BDB, might have some ideas

On Jun 29, 2014,
at 4:22 PM,
"Anthony Shorris"

<[REDACTED]>

wrote:

I think she would be very intriguing
if she'd give up

[REDACTED]. Do you know her well enough to see if there's any interest? Or we can have someone cold

call. And do you think

there are other
[REDACTED] folks worth considering?

On Jun
29, 2014, at 4:07
PM,
John
Del
Cecato
<jfdc@akpdmedia.com
>

wrote:

Here's
[REDACTED]
background...
Also including link to weird

position she's taken with

E

E

I'm biased,
but even with her credentials,

I can't see why she'd wan
to stay in

L

she could do really big things
in NYC!

From: Singleton, Jessica
To: "Robert Munoz"
Subject: RE: Coffee Wednesday 7/16/14 with JDC
Date: Tuesday, July 15, 2014 4:05:56 PM

Yep, see him there tomorrow morning!

From: Robert Munoz [<mailto:rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, July 15, 2014 4:05 PM
To: Singleton, Jessica
Subject: Re: Coffee Wednesday 7/16/14 with JDC

Just confirming tomorrows meeting with JDC tomorrow at 9AM. Location is Think Coffee at 123 4th Ave b/t 13th St & 12th St.

From: <Singleton>, Jessica <JSingleton@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Friday, July 11, 2014 at 12:58 PM
To: Robert Munoz <rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: Coffee Wednesday 7/16/14 with JDC

Thanks! On my calendar.

From: Robert Munoz [<mailto:rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Friday, July 11, 2014 12:16 PM
To: Singleton, Jessica
Subject: Coffee Wednesday 7/16/14 with JDC

At 9:00AM— I'll send you the location at a closer date. Thanks!

From: Bill de Blasio
To: John Del Cecato
Cc: FLONYC
Subject: Re:
Date: Thursday, July 17, 2014 10:16:29 AM

And you don't just give away compliments! Much appreciated

-----Original Message-----

From: John Del Cecato
To: Bill de Blasio
Subject:
Sent: Jul 17, 2014 8:21 AM

Awesome, awesome job on Colbert. (I'm the type who can't stay up that late - so I just watched on DVR).

Here's what you did right. You were sincere, earnest, likable, comfortable. You didn't pull a Chuck Schumer and try to outdo Colbert. But your sense of humor came through anyway.

Really nice job!
Sent via BlackBerry by AT&T

From: John Del Cecato
To: Wolfe, Emma
Cc: Ragone, Peter; FLONYC; B; Walzak, Phil; Jonathan@berlinrosen.com; Williams, Dominic
Subject: Re: Paid media
Date: Saturday, August 23, 2014 2:10:55 PM

Yes - very good point on social media

> On Aug 23, 2014, at 1:45 PM, "Wolfe, Emma" <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>

> Terrific.

>

> -----Original Message-----

> From: Ragone, Peter

> Sent: Saturday, August 23, 2014 1:31 PM

> To: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; FLONYC

> Cc: B; Walzak, Phil; Wolfe, Emma; 'Jonathan@berlinrosen.com'; Williams, Dominic

> Subject: Re: Paid media

>

> I totally agree, but I also think this is something we could do with public money as well. In fact, we spend millions of dollars on public service campaigns already.

>

> What's more, I really believe that social media and non traditional media is key here. Especially for young people, their phones and streaming video is really where its at, and its cheaper.

>

> I'm working on a very significant plan with Linder that will entail every facet of communications available to us for a presentation.

>

> ----- Original Message -----

> From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]

> Sent: Friday, August 22, 2014 09:57 PM

> To: FLONYC

> Cc: B; Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; Wolfe, Emma; Jonathan@berlinrosen.com

> Jonathan@berlinrosen.com>; Williams, Dominic

> Subject: Re: Paid media

>

> Phew. I was actually reading that again and again and trying to decipher!

>

>> On Aug 22, 2014, at 9:46 PM, "FLONYC" <FLONYC@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>>

>> Correction: Her point is simple: we CAN'T turn the tide sufficiently thru earned media alone.

>>

>>> On Aug 22, 2014, at 9:34 PM, "B" <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>>>

>>>

>>> Chirlane had the same idea I had, but much bigger and independently: to address the fundamental issues of police-community relations, we will need a prolonged paid media campaign. We need a serious discussion of this at our next planning mtg. Could be done via One New York or the Police Foundation or another entity.

>>>

>>> Chirlane's bigger vision is that we will have to reinterpret policing to the public. We have to educate and explain, and call the people to their role and their responsibility in the equation. But of course be very clear about the reforms we are putting in place and how they will affect people's lives. Her point is simple: we can turn the tide sufficiently thru earned media alone. The issues are too complex and the misinformation too great. This requires a big, long offensive. BUT when it's over we may just be able to change this city to its core.

>>>

>>> Look forward to discussing

>>>

From: Robert Munoz
To: Cohen, Adam
Subject: Re: Can We Talk About Education Speech?
Date: Tuesday, August 26, 2014 1:31:07 PM

Perfect

On Aug 26, 2014, at 1:30 PM, "Cohen, Adam" <ASCohen@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Let's say 10. And if he has to bump it, almost any time during the day should work.

From: Robert Munoz [<mailto:rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, August 26, 2014 1:29 PM
To: Cohen, Adam
Subject: Re: Can We Talk About Education Speech?

Got it, tomorrows schedule is much more clear. 10AM or 3PM could work for JDC- just let me know what your preference is.

From: <Cohen>, Adam <ASCohen@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Tuesday, August 26, 2014 at 1:26 PM
To: Robert Munoz <rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: Can We Talk About Education Speech?

Yes – no problem. But could you email me tomorrow when you see a window so I won't bother you all at the wrong time?

From: Robert Munoz [<mailto:rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, August 26, 2014 1:25 PM
To: Cohen, Adam
Subject: Re: Can We Talk About Education Speech?

Hey Adam,

Unfortunately JDC said he needs to push to a later time as he's very busy, can you call him sometime tomorrow?

From: <Cohen>, Adam <ASCohen@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Tuesday, August 26, 2014 at 12:39 PM
To: Robert Munoz <rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: Can We Talk About Education Speech?

I'll call @1:30. Thanks.

From: Robert Munoz [<mailto:rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, August 26, 2014 12:39 PM
To: Cohen, Adam

Subject: Re: Can We Talk About Education Speech?

John's # is [REDACTED]

From: <Cohen>, Adam <ASCohen@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Date: Tuesday, August 26, 2014 at 12:24 PM

To: Robert Munoz <rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>

Subject: RE: Can We Talk About Education Speech?

Yes – just tell me what # to call

From: Robert Munoz [<mailto:rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>]

Sent: Tuesday, August 26, 2014 12:23 PM

To: Cohen, Adam

Subject: Re: Can We Talk About Education Speech?

Hey Adam,

Just following up. Would you be able to give John a call at 1:30pm today?

From: Robert Munoz <rmunoz@akpdmedia.com>

Date: Monday, August 25, 2014 at 6:46 PM

To: "Cohen, Adam" <ASCohen@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Cc: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>

Subject: Re: Can We Talk About Education Speech?

Hey Adam,

Would tomorrow at 1:30pm work?

On Aug 25, 2014, at 6:43 PM, "John Del Cecato" <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

Yes - Rob - can you find 30 min or so?

On Aug 25, 2014, at 6:38 PM, "Cohen, Adam" <ASCohen@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

John,

The Mayor is giving a big education speech right after Labor Day. He wanted me to talk with you and get your thoughts about framing/issues/etc. Would you have time to chat tomorrow during the day – in the 10AM-4PM range?

Adam

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
To: Adams, Marti
Subject: Fw: Possible Themes
Date: Tuesday, August 26, 2014 6:57:24 PM

From: Ragone, Peter
Sent: Tuesday, August 26, 2014 06:57 PM
To: Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: Fw: Possible Themes

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Tuesday, August 26, 2014 10:36 AM
To: Ragone, Peter
Subject: Re: Possible Themes

Pushing my conversation with Adam until you & I have had a chance to chew this over...

Read the framing memo & the themes below... A few quick thoughts...

 I like the first theme (with caveats, as you said, on 100% readiness) because it hints at Tale of Two Cities (another record on Wall Street this week, BTW) - and what we're doing to address it.

 Definitely agree with what you said re: every neighborhood needing/deserving a quality school. Good schools are anchors of strong neighborhoods. It speaks to the character of a neighborhood & ensures that people will live there/move there/want to raise a family there.

 I think we should use this speech to mention the role that parents play in this. We're doing everything we can from the government side to make sure there's funding/programs/etc - but they need to take an active role in their kids' education, too - getting involved with the local school, making sure their kids do their homework, taking advantage of offerings like Pre-K and after-school.

 Just like with the readiness figure, I'm a little worried about setting too many hard goals on improved scores. A couple of metrics would be nice - but don't want to box ourselves in & give the naysayers the opportunity to say we didn't achieve what we set out to do in Area X, so therefore we failed.

 I am obviously obsessed with after-school - so would love to draw the link between the expansion there & the peace of mind we give parents that their kids are off the streets & out of harm's way during those most difficult hours after school day ends & before work day ends. Not sure how that fits into this thematically though. Maybe it's a broader responsibility message: we have a responsibility to our kids; parents have responsibility to shape their lives; we've got a responsibility to ensure that workers have the peace of mind they need to be productive (and not worrying) while at work & on the clock? Not quite sure.

 Something to noodle on: BDB's statement during the campaign that he wishes every parent could see the world through the eyes of other parents; that these are ALL our children.

From: <Ragone>, Peter <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Date: Tuesday, August 26, 2014 at 12:34 PM

To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>

Subject: Fw: Possible Themes

Let's discuss?

From: Cohen, Adam

Sent: Monday, August 25, 2014 07:00 PM

To: Ragone, Peter

Subject: Possible Themes

Peter,

Here are a few possible themes. The first one reflects your thoughts about how New York is so good in so many things – but education is not one of them. The second, income inequality. And the third neighborhoods. We may want to blend some of these together. Anyway, let me know what you think.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->1. <!--[endif]--> New York City is a world-class, 21st century city by many measures. A leader in global finance, media, and high-tech industries. A place world wants to visit – and move to. Low crime. But education is being left behind – at a time when it is more important than ever, because of globalization and the information economy. We are launching an educational moonshot that will take New York schools into the future. By the time this pre-k class graduates from high school, 100% will be ready for college, a job, or independent living. This will be true in every school in every neighborhood – and the improvements will begin immediately. A city that leads the world so much will lead it in education as well.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->2. <!--[endif]-->The problem of our time is income inequality. We are doing a great deal to address – from affordable housing to paid sick leave to municipal ID. But nothing is more important in ending inequality than improving education. We are launching an educational moonshot to close the gap. By the time this pre-k class graduates from high school, 100% will be ready for college, a job, or independent living. This will be true in every school in every neighborhood – and the improvements will begin immediately.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->3. <!--[endif]-->New York is a city of neighborhoods – and we want to make every neighborhood great. Cannot be great without a first-class school. We are launching an educational moonshot that will take New York schools into the future. By the time this pre-k class graduates from high school, 100% will be ready for college, a job, or independent living. This will be true in every school in every neighborhood – and the improvements will begin immediately.

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Cc: Ragone, Peter; Cohen, Adam
Subject: Re: Speech discussion with Mayor
Date: Tuesday, August 26, 2014 8:05:38 PM

He is calling you now

----- Original Message -----

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, August 26, 2014 08:03 PM
To: Hagelgans, Andrea
Cc: Ragone, Peter; Cohen, Adam
Subject: Re: Speech discussion with Mayor

Cool

> On Aug 26, 2014, at 7:50 PM, "Hagelgans, Andrea" <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>
> Thanks. Mayor may or may not have a family commitment then. He may call you later to discuss the neighborhoods theme in particular.
>
> ----- Original Message -----
> From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
> Sent: Tuesday, August 26, 2014 07:05 PM
> To: Hagelgans, Andrea
> Cc: Ragone, Peter; Cohen, Adam
> Subject: Re: Speech discussion with Mayor
>
> I could do 8pm or after
>
>> On Aug 26, 2014, at 7:03 PM, "Hagelgans, Andrea" <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>>
>> Dear John,
>> Just left you a message. We are discussing the education speech tonight with the Mayor and was wondering if you are available to be part of the call? Likely to happen in next hour or so.
>> Thanks,
>> Andrea

From: Cohen, Adam
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Re: <no subject>
Date: Wednesday, August 27, 2014 10:14:24 AM

Thanks John. As I told the mayor, your thoughts on this were very helpful.

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, August 27, 2014 10:12 AM
To: Cohen, Adam
Subject: <no subject>

Hey Adam... Thanks for talking last night... I took some notes which I will send to you, Peter, and Andrea this morning

From: John Del Cecato
To: Hagelgans, Andrea
Cc: Ragone, Peter; Cohen, Adam
Subject: A few notes from last night
Date: Wednesday, August 27, 2014 12:39:48 PM
Attachments: NOTES ON MBDB CONVERSATION.docx

Happy to talk through further - but I like this idea of an education agenda that says: "Here's our shot. We've got one of ours in power. Let's play this for all its worth & get as much as humanly possible for our kids while he's there."

NOTES ON MBDB CONVERSATION

BDB:

- This speech should be very personal, not typical speech format.
- Should pick up where Riverside speech left off.
- Focus on urgency of the moment – fast & hard push for changes.
- Lots of policies to point to: Pre-K, after-school, community schools, efforts to reduce class size.
- Storytelling.

JDC:

- There's a general sense that NYC is a great place to live, but if you want to send your kids to public school, you've got to pick from a handful of neighborhoods: Park Slope, Tribeca, UES, etc. It shouldn't be that way.
- A good public school is the anchor of a strong neighborhood. Every neighborhood should say the name of their local school with pride – I live in XX – right by PS 19!
- Our vision for NYC public schools should be analogous to the AfAm community & the local church: it's the hub of life in that neighborhood – not just for services, but for community, living, social connections.

BDB:

- Very personal approach to speech. What public schools meant to BDB growing up – esp without father?
- ant to CMC – her experience.
- [REDACTED]
- [REDACTED]
- [REDACTED] hearing from parents, not just policy makers. Went to PTAs across the city.
- While every family has different circumstances, public school parents have all gone through a specific, similar journey together.
- Do we trace the path of a single child? (JDC – I don't think so.)

JDC:

- BDB is the first mayor in history to serve while having a child in our public schools. That's the backdrop for a whole life experience of having kids go through the public school system.

- Let's have NYC public school parents think about BDB the way that oil executives must have thought about VP Cheney – that we've finally got "one of our own on the INSIDE," and that we MUST use every lever of power available to reshape policy in our way of thinking over the next four or eight years, since we don't know who will follow BDB.
- See the world through the eyes of every other parent. These are ALL our children.

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Cc: Ragone, Peter; Cohen, Adam
Subject: Re: A few notes from last night
Date: Wednesday, August 27, 2014 12:40:19 PM

Thanks so much!

----- Original Message -----

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, August 27, 2014 12:39 PM
To: Hagelgans, Andrea
Cc: Ragone, Peter; Cohen, Adam
Subject: A few notes from last night

Happy to talk through further - but I like this idea of an education agenda that says: "Here's our shot. We've got one of ours in power. Let's play this for all its worth & get as much as humanly possible for our kids while he's there."

From: John Del Cecato
To: Bill de Blasio
To: Chirlane McCray
Subject: <no subject>
Sent: Sep 4, 2014 7:42 PM

Chirlane - great bite from you on the radio this AM...
BDB/CMC - my tweet from earlier today <https://twitter.com/delcecato/status/507605155773038592>
Couldn't be prouder of you guys!

From: John Del Cecato
To: Klein, Monica
Subject: Dante de Blasio goes back to school | New York Post
Date: Thursday, September 04, 2014 9:23:07 PM

<http://nypost.com/2014/09/04/dante-de-blasio-goes-back-to-school/>

I think this was it

"I'm a little shaky today," she said. "This moment means so much for our children and our communities."

From: John Del Cecato
To: B
Subject: Re: FT: Record income gap fuels US housing weakness
Date: Friday, September 05, 2014 8:33:21 AM

Roger that

On Sep 5, 2014, at 8:32 AM, "B" <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Want to highlight this in the Labor Party speech. It's time to unleash my inner Del Cecato

From: Klein, Monica
Sent: Friday, September 05, 2014 08:28 AM
To: B
Subject: FT: Record income gap fuels US housing weakness

Record income gap fuels US housing weakness

Anjli Raval - August 12, 2014
Financial Times

The income gap between America's richest and poorest metropolitan regions has reached its widest on record, shaping an uneven housing recovery that threatens to hold back the broader revival of the world's largest economy.

The gap has narrowed and widened in past cycles, but the rebound from the most recent financial crisis has seen the ratio hit its most unequal since data collection began 45 years ago, fuelling policy makers' concerns.

US Commerce and Labor Department data for the 100 largest metropolitan areas by population, analysed for the Financial Times by property website Trulia, found the income disparity between the 10th most expensive region and the 90th by home prices in 2013 hit its widest since records began in 1969.

The research shows Boston – ranked at 10 – reporting a per-capita income 1.61 times that of Cincinnati ranked at 90. At its low point in 1976, the gap was 1.36 times, between San Francisco and El Paso.

A patchy labour market recovery has meant significant variations in job and income growth between regions across the US, which in turn has intensified the divergences across the country's housing markets.

"Housing markets are playing out at very different speeds partly as a result of the lack of geographical breadth in the labour market. Certain sectors of the economy are performing better than others, propelling some housing markets over others," said Fannie Mae economist Mark Palim.

While some areas are experiencing bubble-like conditions, others are flailing. In Austin, Texas, a surge in technology jobs has driven demand. But in Akron, Ohio, which is struggling to boost employment through a new manufacturing base, house purchases have been more muted. In the government town of Sacramento, California, anxious homebuyers are waiting on the sidelines after being priced out by investors.

US housing: Battle scars

An improvement in the US housing sector is crucial to the economic recovery but is being jeopardised by a weak jobs market and wary buyers.

Stanley Fischer, Janet Yellen's deputy chairman at the Federal Reserve, highlighted the central bank's concern about housing in a speech this week.

"The housing sector was at the epicentre of the US financial crisis and recession and it continues to weigh on the recovery," he said.

In contrast to previous recoveries, he noted "residential construction [has been] held back by a large inventory of foreclosed and distressed properties and by tight credit conditions for construction loans and mortgages".

How cities fared through the boom and bust, and the extent of state and local government control over foreclosures, have dictated housing market performance.

But job and income growth are playing an outsized role, Mr Palim added, particularly as mortgage interest rate rises and home price increases affect affordability.

The number of Americans in work has surpassed the pre-recession peak. But there has been little lower and middle wage growth, constraining demand for houses across much of the country.

The rebound in construction, led by apartments, has been concentrated in pockets of the country where incomes are among the greatest. Six of Trulia's 10 highest-income areas – including San Jose, Boston and New York – also had the strongest residential construction performance by permits in 2013 compared with past norms.

Economists see construction activity as a better gauge of an improving housing market than prices, which have been skewed by an influx of investor buyers since 2012.

From: John Del Cecato
To: Ragone, Peter
Subject: Re: Kicker video for tomorrow
Date: Friday, September 05, 2014 1:11:01 PM

Beautiful!

From: <Ragone>, Peter <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Friday, September 5, 2014 at 11:05 AM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Fw: Kicker video for tomorrow

From: Singleton, Jessica
Sent: Thursday, September 04, 2014 10:10 PM
To: Walzak, Phil
Cc: Ragone, Peter; Hagelgans, Andrea; Katz, Rebecca; Levin, Christina; [REDACTED]
<[REDACTED]> Parikh, Ishanee; Devora Kaye
Subject: Re: Kicker video for tomorrow

For your feedback tonight please!

[REDACTED]
password: [REDACTED]

On Sep 4, 2014, at 17:27, "Walzak, Phil" <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

also like the idea of fleshing out 200 days vid with todays awesomeness

From: Ragone, Peter
Sent: Thursday, September 04, 2014 5:27 PM
To: Singleton, Jessica; Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea; Katz, Rebecca
Cc: Levin, Christina; [REDACTED] Parikh, Ishanee
Subject: Re: Kicker video for tomorrow

Great.

From: Singleton, Jessica
Sent: Thursday, September 04, 2014 05:23 PM
To: Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea; Katz, Rebecca
Cc: Levin, Christina; Maria Gindler ([REDACTED])
<[REDACTED]> Parikh, Ishanee
Subject: Kicker video for tomorrow

I'll have a kicker video that wraps up the first-day, five-borough tour. Think it can be a digital roll out but wanted you guys to have it on your radar. Aiming to drop at noon. Will do tweeters, etc around it to push it far and wide.

Jessica Singleton
Digital Director @nycgov
@jessay286

From: Perez, Roberto
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: STATEMENTS OF MAYOR DE BLASIO AND CORPORATION COUNSEL ZACHARY W. CARTER ON CENTRAL PARK FIVE SETTLEMENT
Date: Friday, September 05, 2014 4:36:53 PM

STATEMENTS OF MAYOR DE BLASIO AND CORPORATION COUNSEL
ZACHARY W. CARTER ON CENTRAL PARK FIVE SETTLEMENT

NEW YORK – Mayor de Blasio and Corporation Counsel Zachary W. Carter released the following statements on the approval by a federal judge of the $41 million settlement in the Central Park Five case:

Statement from Mayor de Blasio:

“This settlement is an act of justice for those five men that is long overdue. The City had a moral obligation to right this injustice—which is why, from Day One, I vowed to settle this case. I commend the Law Department, led by Corporation Counsel Zachary W. Carter, for its efforts to reach a fair resolution of this matter that takes into account all relevant legal factors. With today’s approval by a federal judge, we can finally put this case behind us, and these five men and their families can begin to heal these wounds and move forward.”

Statement from Corporation Counsel Zachary W. Carter

“More than 10 years ago, the New York District Attorney moved to vacate the convictions of the young men who came to be known as the Central Park Five, after a review of the case prompted by statements of an individual who claimed sole responsibility for the brutal rape of a female jogger that was the centerpiece of the prosecution. DNA evidence conclusively linked that individual to the rape of the jogger. There was no DNA or other scientific evidence that implicated any of the five young men ultimately convicted of the rape.

“To the extent that the evidence suggests that these five young men were wrongfully convicted and sentenced to substantial prison terms for a crime they did not commit, that in and of itself constitutes an injustice in need of redress. Toward that end, we have reached an agreement to settle this case. This agreement should not be construed as an acknowledgment that the convictions of these five plaintiffs were the result of law enforcement misconduct. On the contrary, our review of the record suggests that both the investigating detectives and the Assistant District Attorneys involved in the case acted reasonably, given the circumstances with which they were confronted on April 19, 1989 and thereafter. In the end, however, that is an issue that would ultimately be determined by a jury at trial, absent a settlement of this litigation. We have determined that a resolution of this matter is in the best interests of the City.”

From: Ragone, Peter
To: B; Walzak, Phil; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; FLONYC
Subject: Re: Manchester speech
Date: Sunday, September 07, 2014 1:56:25 PM

Got it.

----- Original Message -----

From: B
Sent: Sunday, September 07, 2014 10:54 AM
To: Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; FLONYC
Subject: Manchester speech

Could we all do a brief call this week to think together? I have thoughts I want to bounce off this auspicious group. Peter, pls make sure this happens

From: Ragone, Peter
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; B
Cc: Walzak, Phil; FLONYC
Subject: Re: Manchester speech
Date: Sunday, September 07, 2014 2:17:46 PM

Roger.

----- Original Message -----

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Sunday, September 07, 2014 11:06 AM
To: B
Cc: Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; FLONYC
Subject: Re: Manchester speech

Sure

> On Sep 7, 2014, at 1:55 PM, "B" <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>
>
> Could we all do a brief call this week to think together? I have thoughts I want to bounce off this auspicious group. Peter, pls make sure this happens
>

From: Horsford, Meredith
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Vision for Gracie Mansion
Date: Thursday, September 11, 2014 4:24:53 PM
Attachments: 9.2.14 New Vision Proposal for FLONYC.pdf
image001.png
image002.png
image003.png

John-

The First Lady asked that I connect with you regarding Gracie Mansion. I am the relatively new Executive Director of the Gracie Mansion Conservancy. The First Lady, Rachel and I along with a few other folks have been discussing the vision for Gracie Mansion moving forward. A large part of this is the tour program. In the past, Gracie Mansion was visited by quite a lot of school groups (particularly second grade groups) here to learn about the Revolutionary War, the Dutch, 18th century homes, etc. as well as general public tours and specialty tours. But as I'm sure you know, the Mayor and the First Lady are very interested in creating a new vision in their home which is very exciting.

Attached is a proposal that we put together as a starting point to this conversation with the First Lady, which I believe Rachel has shared with you. I then had a follow up meeting with FLONYC this week and got some feedback from her. She suggested that I touch base with you to get your feedback as well as that of a few other people and then the idea would be for us all to sit down together and brainstorm. Rachel shared a few of your thoughts with me but I was wondering if you and I could set up a time to discuss some ideas for the larger plan/vision for Gracie further. Thanks very much.

Meredith

Meredith S. Horsford
Executive Director
The Gracie Mansion Conservancy
East End Avenue at 88th Street
New York, NY 10128
phone (212) 570-0985
fax (212) 312-0894
email mhorsford@cityhall.nyc.gov

THE GRACIE MANSION CONSERVANCY

New Tour Program Vision Proposal

Tuesday, September 9, 2014

PROPOSAL EXPLANATION:

The following outline explores two proposed phases for the development of a reimagined tour program. These two phases will enable GMC to focus on a thoughtful plan and provide adequate time to fully develop and implement these ideas.

The steps outlined in this proposal will enable GMC to create a cohesive narrative that weaves together multiple stories of Gracie Mansion and New York City. This proposal ensures that any changes to the art and the tour script form a connected and clear narrative, providing a succinct tour experience for visitors, while keeping in mind how our tour offerings align with educational goals and curriculum for New York City school groups. From a logistical standpoint, this plan enables GMC to also coordinate the acquisition of resources and art work that will be needed to tell these new stories at Gracie Mansion.

As an overview, beginning in October, GMC proposes hosting 3 school tours each week. Through the months of October and November, GMC would create its first quarterly rotating exhibition, which will be on display in the Ballroom. Beginning in December, GMC proposes resuming the Specialty Tours and general admission tours. We propose that the general admission tours be offered as an open house, which will be hosted on a monthly basis.

PHASE I (October-November, School Group Tours):

During the initial phase of the new vision, GMC proposes hosting 3 school tours each week on Tuesdays at 10:30, 11:30, and 12:30, each tour lasting approximately 45 minutes. Previously, school tours were held on Tuesdays and Thursdays each week. For the sake of consistency, GMC purposes keeping school tours on Tuesdays; however, if this is not a convenient time, we can hold these on a different day.

School tours would begin Tuesday, October 7, 2014 (most schools do not take field trips in September). The proposed tour content is based upon the past tours, but includes additions, making it more relevant and up-to-date.

Below are the proposed script themes that will be discussed during the tour. The subsequent Proposed Script Outline provides a detailed explanation of what will be discussed in each part of the house.

Proposed Script Theme Overview:

- House as Mayoral Residence
- Archibald Gracie, his family, and house
- Revolutionary War
- Civic Rights/Responsibilities

Proposed Script Outline:

I. Old House

a. Front Porch

i. Introduction of the house

1. Who was Archibald Gracie?

2. Location of the house on the water connecting it to water transportation/shipping

3. This area was once farm land but the landscape has changed since Gracie's day

a. Park named after Carl Schurz, an abolitionist and supporter of Lincoln

b. Great Migration changing and expanding the city's population

4. Gracie Mansion is Mayor's Official residence since 1942, a time marked by WWII, race riots, and New Deal reforms

b. Foyer

i. What does federal/federal style mean?

ii. Mirror, chandelier, and fireplace combination

1. Common in every room to magnify light

iii. Faux marble wood and painted door features

1. Floor created through partnership with Alpha Workshops, only non-profit organization providing creative HIV-positive individuals with industry-specific training and employment in decorative arts

c. Yellow Parlor

i. Revolutionary War

1. Cannonball and archaeology

2. Walton family and eviction from house during war

3. Archibald Gracie contributions to Federalist newspapers

4. Brief Revolutionary War discussion; highlight the Battle of Brooklyn, etc.

ii. James F. Pringle painting (Arrival of the British Queen at New York)

1. Explain how we use artwork to inform our understanding of the past

d. Formal Dining Room

i. Discuss Gracie family

1. House modifications can be seen in the room and reflect growing family

- ii. Unique wallpaper and conservation efforts
- e. Library
 - i. Gracie Mansion is functional, historic house, providing a mix of old and new
 - ii. How did Gracie Mansion become the Mayor's residence?
- II. Wagner Wing (Emphasis will be on modern New York City and civic engagement)
 - a. Ballroom
 - 1. Changing exhibition space/gallery
 - b. Peach Room
 - i. Mayoral families
 - 1. Susan Wagner created the wing for family privacy
 - c. Blue Room
 - i. How do you become mayor?
 - ii. What are the mayor's duties and responsibilities?
 - 1. Parts of responsibilities include hosting famous dignitaries and guests: Nelson Mandela and John F. Kennedy etc.
 - iii. Discuss how the leadership in the executive, legislative, and judicial branches reflect the diverse nature of NYC

Proposed new items of discussion for the tour**

PHASE II (November 2014-May 2015, Open Houses, Specialty Tours, & Changing Exhibitions in the Wagner Wing):

During the second phase, in addition to the continued school tours, GMC proposes expanding the tours available.

Starting in December, GMC proposes the start of regular Open Houses:

- Open Houses would occur once a month on a rotating schedule for two hours at a time.
- Guests make a reservation for 30 minute staggered tours for 30-50 people each.
- GMC proposes researching corporate sponsorship opportunities, eliminating admission costs for the Open Houses.

Starting in December, while both the school tours and the Open Houses will continue, GMC proposes once again implementing the specialty tour program. GMC purposes continuing the specialty tour program as it serves as a revenue source for the Conservancy and has been and continues to be very popular with our visitors. We currently have a long list of individuals that have asked that we notify them when the specialty tours recommence. Moving forward, GMC will look for opportunities to expand the specialty tour, increasing outreach and diversifying its audiences.

Proposed December Schedule:

- Tuesdays (All tours 45 minutes long, unless otherwise noted)
 - School Tours: 10:30, 11:15, 12:00
- Wednesdays
 - Specialty Tour: 11:45-1:15 and 2:15-3:45
 - One evening (option 5:30-7:00 pm) Specialty Tour per month. Specific days will be scheduled in coordination with the family and MOSPCE events. GMC understands that this might not be ideal for the family and can be flexible.
- Open House for the general public one day of the month

As part of Phase II, GMC proposes using the Wagner Wing as a rotating exhibition and gallery space. GMC suggests that the Wagner Wing be used as a changing exhibit space, with new installations every four months. Such installations may include art work from local artists or loans from various city museums. Or the space may be used to display other historical or interesting exhibits as they pertain to Gracie Mansion and the City of New York.

Below is a list of possible themes that may be explored through the rotating exhibitions in the Wagner Wing.

Potential Gracie Mansion New Vision Themes:

Revolutionary War

To commemorate the Revolutionary War, we can have a tour focusing on items in the Gracie Mansion collection that point toward Gracie's role as a fort, highlighting the family that lived here during this period and having to relinquish their home. Another option can be to involve the Brooklyn Historical Society in having an exhibit on the Battle of Brooklyn, or a tour that talks about that battle. This is also an opportunity to link with the Old Stone House in Brooklyn.

- Fight for freedom
- Founding Fathers
- Loyalists/Patriots

Immigration

Immigrants from all over the world have played a major role in shaping the culture of NYC. Gracie Mansion can highlight immigrant communities today by showing artworks depicting Little Italy, China Town, the West Indian community in Brooklyn, Little Brazil etc. In addition, this is an opportunity to have a public program about the Hart-Cellar Immigration and Nationality Act of 1965 and immigration laws today.

- Tensions between Immigrant groups
- Population growth in NYC
- Juan Rodriguez first documented non-Native American and immigrant to live on Manhattan Island (1613)

September 11, 2001

Although there is a September 11 Memorial Museum, Gracie Mansion can highlight the meaning of the Mayor's role and leadership during this time through a tour that focuses on NYC Mayors, who they are, their duties, responsibilities, etc.

- Mayor's response to the attacks
- NYC's recovery

Harlem

Harlem is a large cultural center of African American life and history. Gracie Mansion can work with the Schomburg Center for Research in Black Culture and a museum to exhibit African American art and build a tour program surrounding Harlem's importance in New York City.

- 1935, 1943 & 1964: Race Riots in Harlem, New York: Causes and Aftermath of the Riots
- Social Class in NYC
- Racial injustice, riots and civil unrest in NYC
- Great Migration from the American South
- The Harlem Renaissance: New Black identity during this time

1929 – NYSE Crashed – The Great Depression began

New York City was a thriving financial center and still is today. Talking about the stock market crash, a tour can explore New York as the financial capital, NYC thriving in spite of adversity, and how Gracie Mansion and the families that lived there was able to overcome financial troubles to become the Mayor's Mansion today.

- What caused the NYSE crash?
- Did Black Tuesday cause the Great Depression?
- New York in the Roaring Twenties before the Great Depression
- Economic effects arising from the September 11 attacks
- 1792 – New York Stock Exchange was founded

Transportation

Transportation is always a topic of discussion in NYC. This is an opportunity for Gracie Mansion to display works of art that solely show transportation in New York, whether it is people traveling on the subway, the building of Grand Central or the Mayor's traveling to and from Gracie Mansion. A tour can focus on the significance of transportation, such as the Subway system, to the New York City lifestyle.

- North River Steamboat – Clermont began a new era in transportation from New York.
- Transportation in NYC and NYS
- Erie Canal
- Archibald Gracie as a ship merchant and his journey to New York

New Amsterdam

New York City was formerly known as New Amsterdam. Many events during the late 18th century lead to New York City becoming the metropolitan cultural center it is today. Gracie Mansion can highlight important facts and stories including Gracie Mansion's role during this period.

- Dutch West India company
- New York City served as the capital of the United States from 1785 to 1790

Women's History

During Women's History month (March), we can explore themes by depicting artwork, highlighting the history on a tour, administering public programs, and working with FLONYC and her team, women's groups and museums.

- Rights and Equality- Voting rights in NY
- Objectification- Why does men see women as objects?
- Employment- wage gap, glass ceiling, discrimination,
- Roles of women during the Revolution
- First Ladies of NYC and their contributions to the City

Social Justice

To illustrate the story of NYC and social justice, we can utilize artwork that represents social justice movements/events in New York, such as Stonewall, Seneca Falls women's rights convention, civil rights movement, etc. We can also explore the growing issue of the mass incarceration of African Americans and Latinos in the U.S. through a public program that brings awareness, artwork made by prisoners, and/or partnering with another organization.

- Blacks and Jews' fight for Social Justice in America
- Gay rights movement
- Civil rights movement

Labor Unions

Exploring Labor Unions is a great way to talk about class structure, the working class, and a history of the working class in New York City.

New Vision Timeline:

This timeline process will include frequent communication with the Mayor and First Lady and their respective offices.

NOTE: This timeline's success is based on the assumption of a three person full-time staff and established approval process. It is important to note that this project will be completed in tandem with the annual benefit's planning process.

Project Steps	Timeframe	Action Notes
PHASE I
Initial Steps
Create hiring criteria for Gracie Guides and brainstorm ways to diversify guide staff	Early July	Completed
Review current Gracie Mansion tour script and brainstorm ways to modify the script with more diverse and present day stories	Early July	Completed
Progress
Continue contact with school teachers for feedback regarding tours	July-September	On June 23 rd , a survey was distributed to teachers who have brought their students to GM in the past year, and we are receiving feedback
Approve Gracie Guide hiring description with the Mayor's Office	Mid July → Revised Early August	Completed
Advertise and recruit guide staff candidates	Until September 1 → Revised to September 5	In progress
Update the Gracie Mansion tour script to reflect the proposed additions	Mid-Late August → Revised to Early September
Approve Gracie Mansion tour script with Mayor's Office	Late September
Preparations
Interview and vet Gracie Guide candidates; notify accepted applicants	Mid-Late August → Revised to September
Brainstorm, research, and plan possible exhibit ideas for the Wagner Wing	September
Begin taking reservations for school tours	August 18 → Revised to September 19

Train and educate new and existing Gracie Guides on materials and script	Late September-Early October (2 training sessions)
Implementation
Kick off tours with a school group	October 7
PHASE II
Initial Steps
Determine first exhibit theme and make contacts to acquire art or objects	Early to mid-October
Progress
Install first exhibition in the Wagner Wing	Late November to Early December
Host first Open House at Gracie Mansion	December
Begin hosting Specialty Tour Program	December
Begin developing new exhibition ideas and themes for the coming year	December 2014-February 2015
Preparations
Plan, identify and secure art and resources for May-September 2015 exhibition	February-April
Implementation
Train and educate Gracie Guides on new exhibition	April
Open May-September 2015 changing exhibition	May
Research and plan art and resources for the October-January 2016 exhibition	June-October

From: John Del Cecato
To: Horsford, Meredith
Subject: FW: Hey
Date: Thursday, September 11, 2014 4:30:53 PM

From: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Date: Tuesday, September 2, 2014 at 7:52 PM
To: "Noerdlinger, Rachel" <RNoerdlinger@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: Hey

This looks pretty good to me...

- * a typo - dignitaries not dignities
- * not sure comparing the 3 branches of government to the diversity of NYC works
- * is there anything we should say about the mansion that is NOT flattering to our history - i.e., a warts-and-all depiction of the history of the mansion?
- * do we make mention of the fact that the park that surrounds it is open to the public year-round?
- * is there anything that the MBDB and FLONYC plan to do to the mansion to make it more family-friendly that is appropriate to talk about?

From: Horsford, Meredith
To: "Liz Hegarty"
Subject: RE: Vision for Gracie Mansion
Date: Friday, September 12, 2014 10:42:46 AM
Attachments: image001.png
image002.png
image003.png

You too.

Meredith S. Horsford
Executive Director
The Gracie Mansion Conservancy
East End Avenue at 88th Street
New York, NY 10128
phone (212) 570-0985
fax (212) 312-0894
email mhorsford@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Liz Hegarty [<mailto:lhegarty@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Friday, September 12, 2014 10:37 AM
To: Horsford, Meredith
Subject: Re: Vision for Gracie Mansion

Perfect, thanks. Have a great weekend!

From: <Horsford>, Meredith <MHorsford@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Friday, September 12, 2014 at 9:35 AM
To: Liz Hegarty <lhegarty@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: Vision for Gracie Mansion

Liz-

Fine for me. My office number is (212) 570-0985. Thanks.

Meredith

Meredith S. Horsford
Executive Director
The Gracie Mansion Conservancy
East End Avenue at 88th Street
New York, NY 10128
phone (212) 570-0985
fax (212) 312-0894
email mhorsford@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Liz Hegarty [<mailto:lhegarty@akpdmedia.com>]

Sent: Friday, September 12, 2014 10:28 AM
To: Horsford, Meredith
Subject: Re: Vision for Gracie Mansion

Meredith,

If we could do this by phone that would be great. What's the best number to reach you?

Liz

From: <Horsford>, Meredith <MHorsford@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Friday, September 12, 2014 at 9:22 AM
To: Liz Hegarty <lhegarty@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: Vision for Gracie Mansion

Liz-

Monday at 3 pm works for me. Would this be in person or over the phone? Thanks.

Meredith

Meredith S. Horsford
Executive Director
The Gracie Mansion Conservancy
East End Avenue at 88th Street
New York, NY 10128
phone (212) 570-0985
fax (212) 312-0894
email mhorsford@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Liz Hegarty [<mailto:lhegarty@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Friday, September 12, 2014 9:51 AM
To: Horsford, Meredith
Subject: Re: Vision for Gracie Mansion

Hi Meredith,

Hope all is well.

John's schedule is fairly flexible early next week. Does Monday at 10 or 3 ET work for you? Happy to look into other times if helpful.

Many thanks,

Liz

—

Liz Hegarty

Executive Assistant
AKPD Message and Media
Office: 312-664-7500
Cell: 203-482-6229
lhegarty@akpdmedia.com

From: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Date: Thursday, September 11, 2014 at 6:54 PM
To: "Horsford, Meredith" <MHorsford@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: Liz Hegarty <lhegarty@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Vision for Gracie Mansion

Sure thing - let's talk next week... adding Liz for scheduling

From: <Horsford>, Meredith <MHorsford@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Thursday, September 11, 2014 at 5:07 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: Vision for Gracie Mansion

Thanks John. The version that you saw hasn't been altered yet and thank you for forwarding your notes. If you have a few minutes maybe next week we could chat? Now that I have had an opportunity to speak further with FLONYC about the house, I would so appreciate your input. The First Lady would like to talk more about what stories we should tell at Gracie, what do we want the take away to be for visitors, who is our target audience, etc.

Meredith S. Horsford
Executive Director
The Gracie Mansion Conservancy
East End Avenue at 88th Street
New York, NY 10128
phone (212) 570-0985
fax (212) 312-0894
email mhorsford@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Thursday, September 11, 2014 4:30 PM
To: Horsford, Meredith
Subject: Re: Vision for Gracie Mansion

Hey Meredith... Welcome aboard! I sent Rachel a few small notes on a version I saw a week ago - unless that's changed since? Will forward email

From: <Horsford>, Meredith <MHorsford@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Thursday, September 11, 2014 at 4:24 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>

Subject: Vision for Gracie Mansion

John-

The First Lady asked that I connect with you regarding Gracie Mansion. I am the relatively new Executive Director of the Gracie Mansion Conservancy. The First Lady, Rachel and I along with a few other folks have been discussing the vision for Gracie Mansion moving forward. A large part of this is the tour program. In the past, Gracie Mansion was visited by quite a lot of school groups (particularly second grade groups) here to learn about the Revolutionary War, the Dutch, 18th century homes, etc. as well as general public tours and specialty tours. But as I'm sure you know, the Mayor and the First Lady are very interested in creating a new vision in their home which is very exciting.

Attached is a proposal that we put together as a starting point to this conversation with the First Lady, which I believe Rachel has shared with you. I then had a follow up meeting with FLONYC this week and got some feedback from her. She suggested that I touch base with you to get your feedback as well as that of a few other people and then the idea would be for us all to sit down together and brainstorm. Rachel shared a few of your thoughts with me but I was wondering if you and I could set up a time to discuss some ideas for the larger plan/vision for Gracie further. Thanks very much.

Meredith

Meredith S. Horsford
Executive Director
The Gracie Mansion Conservancy
East End Avenue at 88th Street
New York, NY 10128
phone (212) 570-0985
fax (212) 312-0894
email mhorsford@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Horsford, Meredith
To: "John Del Cecato"
Cc: Liz Hegarty
Subject: RE: Vision for Gracie Mansion
Date: Monday, September 15, 2014 1:35:02 PM
Attachments: image001.png
image002.png
image003.png
9.15.14 GMC Phone Meeting.docx

John-

I put down a few ideas based on my conversation with the First Lady that we might touch on when we chat (things to consider bulleted list). The other items were on the document that you saw before. Looking forward to talking with you at 3:00.

Best,
Meredith

Meredith S. Horsford
Executive Director
The Gracie Mansion Conservancy
East End Avenue at 88th Street
New York, NY 10128
phone (212) 570-0985
fax (212) 312-0894
email mhorsford@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Thursday, September 11, 2014 7:54 PM
To: Horsford, Meredith
Cc: Liz Hegarty
Subject: Re: Vision for Gracie Mansion

Sure thing - let's talk next week... adding Liz for scheduling

From: <Horsford>, Meredith <MHorsford@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Thursday, September 11, 2014 at 5:07 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: Vision for Gracie Mansion

Thanks John. The version that you saw hasn't been altered yet and thank you for forwarding your notes. If you have a few minutes maybe next week we could chat? Now that I have had an opportunity to speak further with FLONYC about the house, I would so appreciate your input. The First Lady would like to talk more about what stories we should tell at Gracie, what do we want the take away to be for visitors, who is our target audience, etc.

Meredith S. Horsford
Executive Director

The Gracie Mansion Conservancy
East End Avenue at 88th Street
New York, NY 10128
phone (212) 570-0985
fax (212) 312-0894
email mhorsford@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Thursday, September 11, 2014 4:30 PM
To: Horsford, Meredith
Subject: Re: Vision for Gracie Mansion

Hey Meredith... Welcome aboard! I sent Rachel a few small notes on a version I saw a week ago - unless that's changed since? Will forward email

From: <Horsford>, Meredith <MHorsford@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Thursday, September 11, 2014 at 4:24 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Vision for Gracie Mansion

John-

The First Lady asked that I connect with you regarding Gracie Mansion. I am the relatively new Executive Director of the Gracie Mansion Conservancy. The First Lady, Rachel and I along with a few other folks have been discussing the vision for Gracie Mansion moving forward. A large part of this is the tour program. In the past, Gracie Mansion was visited by quite a lot of school groups (particularly second grade groups) here to learn about the Revolutionary War, the Dutch, 18th century homes, etc. as well as general public tours and specialty tours. But as I'm sure you know, the Mayor and the First Lady are very interested in creating a new vision in their home which is very exciting.

Attached is a proposal that we put together as a starting point to this conversation with the First Lady, which I believe Rachel has shared with you. I then had a follow up meeting with FLONYC this week and got some feedback from her. She suggested that I touch base with you to get your feedback as well as that of a few other people and then the idea would be for us all to sit down together and brainstorm. Rachel shared a few of your thoughts with me but I was wondering if you and I could set up a time to discuss some ideas for the larger plan/vision for Gracie further. Thanks very much.

Meredith

Meredith S. Horsford
Executive Director
The Gracie Mansion Conservancy
East End Avenue at 88th Street
New York, NY 10128
phone (212) 570-0985
fax (212) 312-0894

email mhorsford@cityhall.nyc.gov

THE GRACIE MANSION CONSERVANCY

Meeting Notes for Monday, September 15, 2014

Things to Consider:

- Who is our target audience?
 - New Yorkers
 - School Children → What age groups?
 - Tourists
- How do we best engage our audiences?
- What is the story of Gracie Mansion? What parts of NYC history should be told at Gracie Mansion?
- What is the significance of the tour? What do people walk away with that challenges their understanding of Gracie Mansion or New York?
- What is the best way to make connections between the tour themes and the administration's vision?

Current Tour Themes:

- Dutch influence in New York
- Archibald Gracie, his family, and house
- Revolutionary War
- Briefly discuss Mayors and families as it relates to the addition of the Wagner Wing

Proposed Script Theme Overview:

- House as Mayoral Residence
- Archibald Gracie, his family, house
- Civic Rights/Responsibilities
- Revolutionary War

Potential Tour Themes for New Vision & Script:

Considering adding some of the following themes:

Revolutionary War

To commemorate the Revolutionary War, we can have a tour focusing on items in the Gracie Mansion collection that point toward Gracie's role as a fort, highlighting the family that lived here during this period and having to relinquish their home. Another option can be to involve the Brooklyn Historical Society in having an exhibit on the Battle of Brooklyn, or a tour that talks about that battle. This is also an opportunity to link with the Old Stone House in Brooklyn.

- Fight for freedom
- Founding Fathers

- Loyalists/Patriot

Immigration

Immigrants from all over the world have played a major role in shaping the culture of NYC. Gracie Mansion can highlight immigrant communities today by showing artworks depicting Little Italy, China Town, the West Indian community in Brooklyn, Little Brazil etc. In addition, this is an opportunity to have a public program about the The Hart-Cellar Immigration and Nationality Act of 1965 and immigration laws today.

- Tensions between Immigrant groups
- Population growth in NYC
- Juan Rodriguez first documented non-Native American and immigrant to live on Manhattan Island (1613)

September 11, 2001

Although there is a September 11 Memorial Museum, Gracie Mansion can highlight the meaning of the Mayor's role and leadership during this time through a tour that focuses on NYC Mayors, who they are, their duties, responsibilities, etc.

- Mayor's response to the attacks
- NYC's recovery

Harlem

Harlem is a large cultural center of African American life and history. Gracie Mansion can work with the Schomburg Center for Research in Black Culture and a museum to exhibit African American art and build a tour program surrounding Harlem's importance in New York City.

- 1935, 1943 & 1964 – Race Riots in Harlem, New York: Causes and Aftermath of the Riots
- Social Class in NYC
- Racial injustice, riots and civil unrest in NYC
- Great Migration from the American South
- The Harlem Renaissance: New Black identity during this time

1929 New York Stock Exchange Crashed/Great Depression

New York City was a thriving financial center and still is today. Talking about the stock market crash, a tour can explore New York as the financial capital, NYC thriving in spite of adversity, and how Gracie Mansion and the families that lived there was able to overcome financial troubles to become the Mayor's Mansion today.

- What caused the NYSE crash?

- Did Black Tuesday cause the Great Depression?
- New York in the Roaring Twenties before the Great Depression
- Economic effects arising from the September 11 attacks
- 1792 – New York Stock Exchange was founded

Transportation

Transportation is always a topic of discussion in NYC. This is an opportunity for Gracie Mansion to display works of art that solely show transportation in New York, whether it is people traveling on the subway, the building of Grand Central or the Mayor's traveling to and from Gracie Mansion. A tour can focus on the significance of transportation, such as the Subway system, to the New York City lifestyle.

- North River Steamboat – Clermont began a new era in transportation from New York.
- Transportation in NYC and NYS
- Erie Canal
- Archibald Gracie as a ship merchant and his journey to New York

New Amsterdam

New York City was formerly known as New Amsterdam. Many events during the late 18th century lead to New York City becoming the metropolitan cultural center it is today. Gracie Mansion can highlight important facts and stories including Gracie Mansion's role during this period.

- Dutch West India company
- New York City served as the capital of the United States from 1785 to 1790

Women's History

During Women's History month (March), we can explore themes by depicting artwork, highlighting the history on a tour, administering public programs, and working with FLONYC and her team, women's groups and museums.

- Rights and Equality- Voting rights in NY
- Objectification- Why does men see women as objects?
- Employment- wage gap, glass ceiling, discrimination,
- Roles of women during the Revolution
- First Ladies of NYC and their contributions to the City

Social Justice

To illustrate the story of NYC and social justice, we can utilize artwork that represents social justice movements/events in New York, such as Stonewall, Seneca Falls women's rights convention, civil rights movement, etc. We can also explore the growing issue of the mass incarceration of African Americans and Latinos in the U.S. through a public program that brings awareness, artwork made by prisoners, and/or partnering with another organization.

- Blacks and Jews' fight for Social Justice in America
- Gay rights movement
- Civil rights movement

Labor Unions

Exploring Labor Unions is a great way to talk about class structure, the working class, and a history of the working class in New York City.

From: Liz Hegarty
To: Horsford, Meredith
Subject: Re: Vision for Gracie Mansion
Date: Monday, September 15, 2014 1:44:31 PM
Attachments: image001.png
image002.png
image003.png

Thanks, Meredith. I will have John review prior to the call at 3.

From: <Horsford>, Meredith <MHorsford@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Monday, September 15, 2014 at 12:35 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: Liz Hegarty <lhegarty@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: Vision for Gracie Mansion

John-

I put down a few ideas based on my conversation with the First Lady that we might touch on when we chat (things to consider bulleted list). The other items were on the document that you saw before. Looking forward to talking with you at 3:00.

Best,
Meredith

Meredith S. Horsford
Executive Director
The Gracie Mansion Conservancy
East End Avenue at 88th Street
New York, NY 10128
phone (212) 570-0985
fax (212) 312-0894
email mhorsford@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Thursday, September 11, 2014 7:54 PM
To: Horsford, Meredith
Cc: Liz Hegarty
Subject: Re: Vision for Gracie Mansion

Sure thing - let's talk next week... adding Liz for scheduling

From: <Horsford>, Meredith <MHorsford@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Thursday, September 11, 2014 at 5:07 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: Vision for Gracie Mansion

Thanks John. The version that you saw hasn't been altered yet and thank you for forwarding your notes. If you have a few minutes maybe next week we could chat? Now that I have had an opportunity to speak further with FLONYC about the house, I would so appreciate your input. The First Lady would like to talk more about what stories we should tell at Gracie, what do we want the take away to be for visitors, who is our target audience, etc.

Meredith S. Horsford
Executive Director
The Gracie Mansion Conservancy
East End Avenue at 88th Street
New York, NY 10128
phone (212) 570-0985
fax (212) 312-0894
email mhorsford@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Thursday, September 11, 2014 4:30 PM
To: Horsford, Meredith
Subject: Re: Vision for Gracie Mansion

Hey Meredith... Welcome aboard! I sent Rachel a few small notes on a version I saw a week ago - unless that's changed since? Will forward email

From: <Horsford>, Meredith <MHorsford@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Thursday, September 11, 2014 at 4:24 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Vision for Gracie Mansion

John-

The First Lady asked that I connect with you regarding Gracie Mansion. I am the relatively new Executive Director of the Gracie Mansion Conservancy. The First Lady, Rachel and I along with a few other folks have been discussing the vision for Gracie Mansion moving forward. A large part of this is the tour program. In the past, Gracie Mansion was visited by quite a lot of school groups (particularly second grade groups) here to learn about the Revolutionary War, the Dutch, 18th century homes, etc. as well as general public tours and specialty tours. But as I'm sure you know, the Mayor and the First Lady are very interested in creating a new vision in their home which is very exciting.

Attached is a proposal that we put together as a starting point to this conversation with the First Lady, which I believe Rachel has shared with you. I then had a follow up meeting with FLONYC this week and got some feedback from her. She suggested that I touch base with you to get your feedback as well as that of a few other people and then the idea would be for us all to sit down together and brainstorm. Rachel shared a few of your thoughts with me but I was wondering if you and I could set up a time to discuss some ideas for the larger plan/vision for Gracie further. Thanks very much.

Meredith

Meredith S. Horsford
Executive Director
The Gracie Mansion Conservancy
East End Avenue at 88th Street
New York, NY 10128
phone (212) 570-0985
fax (212) 312-0894
email mhorsford@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: John Del Cecato
To: Cohen, Adam
Subject: Re: Mayor Asked us to Talk
Date: Tuesday, September 16, 2014 2:24:03 PM

Cool - [REDACTED]

From: <Cohen>, Adam <ASCohen@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Tuesday, September 16, 2014 at 2:21 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: Mayor Asked us to Talk

Excellent. What number should I call?

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, September 16, 2014 2:21 PM
To: Cohen, Adam
Subject: Re: Mayor Asked us to Talk

Cool - let's say 1130am

From: <Cohen>, Adam <ASCohen@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Tuesday, September 16, 2014 at 2:19 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: Mayor Asked us to Talk

Yes, great. After 11:15 would be best, but I could basically do whenever you want. Will not take long.

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, September 16, 2014 2:19 PM
To: Cohen, Adam
Subject: Re: Mayor Asked us to Talk

Tomorrow would be better - sometime in the AM?

From: <Cohen>, Adam <ASCohen@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Tuesday, September 16, 2014 at 2:15 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Mayor Asked us to Talk

Are you available end of the day or tomorrow?

From: Perez, Roberto
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: MAYOR DE BLASIO ANNOUNCES THE LAUNCH OF THE NATIONAL 'CITIES FOR CITIZENSHIP' EFFORT WITH MAYORS EMANUEL AND GARCETTI
Date: Wednesday, September 17, 2014 10:35:30 AM

MAYOR DE BLASIO ANNOUNCES THE LAUNCH OF THE NATIONAL 'CITIES FOR CITIZENSHIP' EFFORT WITH MAYORS EMANUEL AND GARCETTI

NEW YORK—Mayor Bill de Blasio announced today the launch of Cities for Citizenship (C4C), a major initiative by the mayors of New York, Los Angeles and Chicago aimed at increasing citizenship among eligible U.S. permanent residents and encouraging cities across the country to invest in citizenship programs.

“I’m proud to stand today with my fellow mayors Rahm Emanuel and Eric Garcetti as we launch the national Cities for Citizenship initiative,” said Mayor Bill de Blasio. “This win-win effort will help us create more inclusive cities that lift up everyone. From increased economic activity to larger voting and tax bases, the advantages of citizenship will not only expand opportunity to our immigrant families, but to all New Yorkers and residents nationwide.”

The national C4C initiative builds on the Mayor’s pledge to reduce economic inequality and improve immigrant integration in our City. Benefits of naturalization range from higher earning potential home ownership rates, to increased voting and political participation. Naturalizing the 684,000 legal permanent residents who are currently eligible for U.S. citizenship is estimated to add up to $4.1 billion over 10 years to the City’s economy.

“Increasing immigrant access to citizenship is a powerful tool for fighting poverty,” said Nisha Agarwal, New York City Commissioner for Immigrant Affairs. “This initiative will help thousands of people who haven’t taken the final step to citizenship because of cost, fear of a cumbersome process, or access to legal counsel.”

The announcement comes in conjunction with a pledge by Citi Community Development to contribute $1.15 million to the C4C initiative, which will be coordinated by two leading national non-profits, The Center for Popular Democracy and the National Partnership for New Americans. Citi Community Development is making its largest contribution to date to this public-private partnership, and the funds will be divided among New York City, Chicago and Los Angeles.

“Citi believes that citizenship is an asset that enables immigrants to gain financial capability, and building a national identity must go hand-in-hand with building a financial identity,” said Bob Annibale, Global Director of Citi Community Development and Citi Microfinance. “We are proud to work with Mayor Emanuel, Mayor Garcetti and Mayor de Blasio to launch this initiative, which will lead to direct economic benefits for immigrant families and their communities.”

The funds will be used by New York City for NYCitizenship, the first large-scale, coordinated effort by a municipal government to connect low- and moderate-income New Yorkers to free, high-quality legal assistance for naturalization applications and to address the financial barriers to naturalization. NYCitizenship works with City agencies to connect the hundreds of thousands of New Yorkers eligible to become U.S. citizens with the critical assistance they need to take the final step to citizenship, including legal advice, application assistance, financial counseling, and case management support. NYCitizenship is also forging new partnerships with the public libraries to promote awareness of citizenship and further expand the City and the libraries' citizenship work.

"Cities for Citizenship is a big win for immigrant families and for New York City," said Andrew Friedman, co-executive director of the Center for Popular Democracy.

"Facilitating naturalization will open doors for millions of New Yorkers and boost our economy from the ground up. We salute the Cities of New York, Los Angeles, and Chicago for modeling smart, progressive leadership for Mayors across the country."

"Thousands of HRA clients are eligible to become citizens, and this new initiative will open up a pathway to citizenship and an opportunity to move off of the public assistance caseload and out of poverty," said HRA Commissioner Steven Banks. "For our older clients becoming citizens through this new effort will help to address income inequality among seniors who often have no choice but to subsist on public assistance."

The Mayor's Office of Immigrant Affairs will also commission a first-of-its kind study on the economic impact of citizenship programs for mayors across the country. The study will demonstrate the importance of new municipal investments in naturalization, as well as the financial impact of connecting immigrant communities with legal support.

###

From: Horsford, Meredith
To: "John Del Cecato"
Cc: Liz Hegarty
Subject: RE: Vision for Gracie Mansion
Date: Thursday, September 18, 2014 10:41:18 AM
Attachments: image001.png
image002.png
image003.png
New Vision for Gracie Mansion Conversations.docx

Hi John-

Thanks so much for talking with me on Monday. I typed up some notes from our conversation. I know you wanted to give this some more thought and then touch base again. Let me know what your availability is. Thanks very much.

Meredith

Meredith S. Horsford
Executive Director
The Gracie Mansion Conservancy
East End Avenue at 88th Street
New York, NY 10128
phone (212) 570-0985
fax (212) 312-0894
email mhorsford@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Thursday, September 11, 2014 7:54 PM
To: Horsford, Meredith
Cc: Liz Hegarty
Subject: Re: Vision for Gracie Mansion

Sure thing - let's talk next week... adding Liz for scheduling

From: <Horsford>, Meredith <MHorsford@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Thursday, September 11, 2014 at 5:07 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: Vision for Gracie Mansion

Thanks John. The version that you saw hasn't been altered yet and thank you for forwarding your notes. If you have a few minutes maybe next week we could chat? Now that I have had an opportunity to speak further with FLONYC about the house, I would so appreciate your input. The First Lady would like to talk more about what stories we should tell at Gracie, what do we want the take away to be for visitors, who is our target audience, etc.

Meredith S. Horsford
Executive Director
The Gracie Mansion Conservancy
East End Avenue at 88th Street

New York, NY 10128
phone (212) 570-0985
fax (212) 312-0894
email mhorsford@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Thursday, September 11, 2014 4:30 PM
To: Horsford, Meredith
Subject: Re: Vision for Gracie Mansion

Hey Meredith... Welcome aboard! I sent Rachel a few small notes on a version I saw a week ago - unless that's changed since? Will forward email

From: <Horsford>, Meredith <MHorsford@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Thursday, September 11, 2014 at 4:24 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Vision for Gracie Mansion

John-

The First Lady asked that I connect with you regarding Gracie Mansion. I am the relatively new Executive Director of the Gracie Mansion Conservancy. The First Lady, Rachel and I along with a few other folks have been discussing the vision for Gracie Mansion moving forward. A large part of this is the tour program. In the past, Gracie Mansion was visited by quite a lot of school groups (particularly second grade groups) here to learn about the Revolutionary War, the Dutch, 18th century homes, etc. as well as general public tours and specialty tours. But as I'm sure you know, the Mayor and the First Lady are very interested in creating a new vision in their home which is very exciting.

Attached is a proposal that we put together as a starting point to this conversation with the First Lady, which I believe Rachel has shared with you. I then had a follow up meeting with FLONYC this week and got some feedback from her. She suggested that I touch base with you to get your feedback as well as that of a few other people and then the idea would be for us all to sit down together and brainstorm. Rachel shared a few of your thoughts with me but I was wondering if you and I could set up a time to discuss some ideas for the larger plan/vision for Gracie further. Thanks very much.

Meredith

Meredith S. Horsford
Executive Director
The Gracie Mansion Conservancy
East End Avenue at 88th Street
New York, NY 10128
phone (212) 570-0985
fax (212) 312-0894
email mhorsford@cityhall.nyc.gov

New Vision for Gracie Mansion Conversations

John Del Cecato
September 15, 2014

1. Show/describe how NYC neighborhoods have changed over time both physically and demographically. This could be installed in the ballroom. This conversation, particularly with kids, could involve a conversation about the current physical surroundings at GM and what the surrounding would have looked like in the past.
 - a. Reach out to John Mollenkoph at CUNY who has done extensive research on demographic shifts, particularly in NYC.
 - i. Potential neighborhoods to highlight: Arthur Avenue, Brighton Beach, Flushing, Bedford Stuyvesant. John Mollenkoph could also identify areas to focus on.
 - b. This could tie easily to the story of Gracie Mansion. When GM was built in 1799, Archibald Gracie lived and worked downtown and built GM as a country home. When GM became the official Mayoral residence in 1942, Fiorello LaGuardia temporarily moved his office to what is now Bartow-Pell Mansion Museum in the Bronx, which at the time was much more of a country location in order to get away from race riots in the city. The area around GM has changed dramatically since its construction as have its inhabitants. This could also include a conversation about transportation which has allowed people to move farther away from the city center.
 - c. Interactive component: set up a television or computer where visitors could type in their zip code and learn about the changes that have taken place in their own neighborhoods so that visitors can learn about NYC's diverse and dynamic changes over the years.
2. Distinguished women in history
 - a. Highlight distinguished women in NYC history – potentially identify one per decade. These women could have had opened the first community bank or health center, been an innovator, etc. An example of someone to highlight is Bella Abzug. This would involve an interactive component to help kids feel connected to these people and also to make them feel like they too can make a difference in society. The exhibit could possibly include a wall where kids could post the name of a distinguished woman that they admire.
3. Civic engagement
 - a. Path to becoming Mayor – tie to Mayor de Blasio. This would need an interactive component.
4. Add some kind of human interest component
 - a. How do the Mayor, First Lady and family interact in the space? This would need to be discussed further with the First Family.

From: Perez, Roberto
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Mayor de Blasio Announces NYC Municipal ID to Give Access to 1-Year Free Memberships at 33 of The City's Most Acclaimed Cultural Institutions
Date: Thursday, September 18, 2014 4:57:52 PM

Mayor de Blasio Announces NYC Municipal ID to Give Access to 1-Year Free Memberships at 33 of The City's Most Acclaimed Cultural Institutions

September 18, 2014

With the Municipal ID card, thousands of residents will be able to receive free benefits at members of the Cultural Institutions Group throughout 2015

NEW YORK—Today, Mayor Bill de Blasio announced that the City’s Municipal ID, which will launch in January 2015, will give all ID card holders access to one-year free membership packages at 33 of the City’s leading cultural institutions, including world class museums, performing arts centers, concert halls, botanical gardens, and zoos in all five boroughs. The Municipal ID/CIG one-year membership will be comparable to each institution’s standard one-year individual or family membership package, depending on the institution, and will give ID card holders a range of benefits including free admission, and access to special events, and discounts to museum shops.

The 33 institutions belong to the Cultural Institutions Group (CIG) which is comprised of private nonprofit cultural organizations located on City owned property. The first member of the CIG, the American Museum of Natural History, was created in 1869 and the group has grown to include a diverse cross section of institutions in each of the boroughs. The City provides capital, operating and energy support to CIG members and in turn each institution is charged with providing access to cultural services and programming to all New Yorkers.

See full list of CIG benefits here: <http://on.nyc.gov/1udVL18>

“The municipal ID is a powerful tool to bring more New Yorkers out of the shadows and into the mainstream. It is now also a key that opens the door for hundreds of thousands of more New Yorkers to our City’s premier assets in culture, science and entertainment,” said Mayor Bill de Blasio. “The Municipal ID Card embodies the values we cherish most about inclusivity and equality, and these memberships are another step forward on providing greater access and opportunity for our people.”

“New York’s wonderful cultural institutions which provide so much vibrancy to this city understand that we’re better when we’re moving forward together,” said Council Speaker Mark-Viverito. “I want to thank my Council colleagues, the administration and the Cultural Institution Group for their collaboration on this historic initiative.”

“The Municipal ID Program is one that has the potential to transform lives, and to help ensure its success the cultural community, and in particular the Cultural Institutions Group’s members, have stepped up to the plate,” said City Council Majority Leader and Chair of”, Libraries & International Intergroup Relations Committee Jimmy Van Bramer.

“Culture is always important in our City and with this announcement we are reminded of the centrality of the arts to our City. Access to the arts for all and a more just City is being accomplished with the help of these great institutions. It is a great day.”

“The support for the Municipal ID from 33 of the City’s most illustrious cultural institutions is a landmark win on the road to implementation of this law, said Chair of City Council Immigration Committee Carlos Menchaca. “There is no doubt that New York City residents are set to gain an incredible amount from their participation in the municipal ID card program, and this partnership is a huge part of that. These new cultural benefits will ensure that all New Yorkers are excited about getting a municipal ID card—a key to New York City. I applaud the work of the Administration, The Council, and all of the community partners and advocates who continue to work tirelessly to make the municipal ID a reality.”

“I am grateful to the Cultural Institutions Group for teaming up to make New York’s municipal ID program the envy of other cities,” said Municipal ID Bill Sponsor Council Member Daniel Dromm. “This world-class ID will make our city’s world-class cultural institutions accessible to every New Yorker, from recent immigrant families to students and young professionals. With all of the fun and exciting options that this card will provide, New Yorkers will have no excuse to fail to get a card or to stay at home.”

“The Municipal ID expands access to vital resources and services for residents across New York City,” said Council Member Ritchie Torres. “Through partnership with institutions like the Bronx Zoo and New York Botanical Garden, it better ensures that all New Yorkers can enjoy and learn from our world-class cultural organizations. I am proud to stand with Mayor de Blasio, Speaker Mark-Viverito, and my colleagues in the Council to announce this exciting collaboration.”

“It is has been such a pleasure working with partners at cultural organizations and across agencies to help develop these membership packages for the municipal ID. I am thrilled with the generous benefits each member of the Cultural Institutions Group will offer to ID holders,” said Cultural Affairs Commissioner Tom Finklepearl. “There is something for everyone at gardens, zoos, museums, and performing arts centers in every borough. The CIG leadership has really come through for all New Yorkers and I will be one of the first in line to get the municipal ID!”

"This is an amazing set of benefits that underscores this card will be a card for all New Yorkers,” said Immigrant Affairs Commissioner Nisha Agarwal. “We are heartened by the leadership shown by the Cultural Institutions Group and Commissioner Finklepearl in making this the most ambitious municipal ID program in the country.”

“The Cultural Institutions Group is proud to stand together with Mayor de Blasio, Speaker Mark-Viverito, the members of the City Council, and the Department of Cultural Affairs in actively serving and supporting all our neighbors throughout New York City,” said Chair of the CIG and Director of the Brooklyn Museum Arnold Lehman. “The arts and culture bring us together as a community. This is one city – and the Municipal ID dynamically helps to make it so.”

The offer will be available to all Municipal ID holders from the day the program is launched in January 2015 through December 31, 2015. The membership term will be for one-year from the date the individual signs up with a participating cultural institution. The framework for the CIG membership deal came together with the support of City Council after Cultural Affairs Commissioner Tom Finkelpearl was appointed earlier this year. As a former director of a CIG institution, Commissioner Finkelpearl was able work closely with CIG chair Arnold Lehman and the organizations' leadership in finding a creative and compelling strategy for CIG member institutions to open their doors even further to all New Yorkers. The package of benefits the CIG has developed demonstrates the central role these institutions play in New York's civic life.

This free membership package will not be available to existing members of a participating institution or individuals whose membership has lapsed since January 1, 2012. However, existing or recently lapsed members of a given institution can use their Municipal ID to obtain free membership at all other participating institutions.

The 33 participating institutions are listed below by borough:

Bronx

1. Bronx County Historical Society
2. Bronx Museum of the Arts
3. New York Botanical Garden
4. Wave Hill
5. Wildlife Conservation Society (includes Bronx Zoo, New York Aquarium, Central Park Zoo, Queens Zoo, and Prospect Park Zoo)

Brooklyn

6. Brooklyn Academy of Music
7. Brooklyn Botanic Garden
8. Brooklyn Children's Museum
9. Brooklyn Museum

Manhattan

10. American Museum of Natural History
11. Carnegie Hall
12. New York City Ballet
13. El Museo del Barrio
14. Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts, Inc.
15. Metropolitan Museum of Art
16. Museum of Jewish Heritage
17. Museum of the City of New York
18. New York City Center
19. Public Theater/New York Shakespeare Festival
20. Studio Museum in Harlem

Queens

21. Flushing Town Hall
22. Jamaica Center for Arts & Learning
23. Museum of the Moving Image
24. New York Hall of Science
25. MoMA PS1
26. Queens Botanical Garden
27. Queens Museum
28. Queens Theatre

Staten Island

29. Snug Harbor Cultural Center & Botanical Garden

30. Staten Island Children's Museum

31. Staten Island Historical Society

32. Staten Island Museum

33. Staten Island Zoological Society

“The Wildlife Conservation Society, a member of the Cultural Institutions Group, is honored that Mayor de Blasio chose to roll out the New York City Municipal I.D. Card at our Bronx Zoo,” said Executive Vice President of Wild Conservation Society John Calvelli. “We, like all of the CIG members, have a long tradition of partnering with the city to bring better services to all New Yorkers. WCS is proud to have worked with our CIG colleagues to bring a membership opportunity to participants, an important cultural component to the MIDC.”

“The American Museum of Natural History is pleased to support the Mayor, the Speaker, and the City Council in their efforts to launch the Municipal ID program and to advance the longstanding partnership between the City and the cultural sector,” said President of the American Museum of Natural History Ellen V. Futter. “As the historic first member of the Cultural Institutions Group, the Museum has long been one of New York’s most popular family destinations. The Muni ID partnership allows us to offer to even more New Yorkers—adults and children alike—opportunities to engage with science, culture, and nature in enriching, fun, and inspiring ways.”

“The Municipal ID program offers a great opportunity for the Cultural Institutions Group to engage all New Yorkers, said Director and Chief Curator of the Studio Museum in Harlem Thelma Golden. “I’ve enjoyed the many conversations with partners at colleague institutions and in City government and remain confident that the diverse range of ID benefits being offered will provide rewarding experiences to our audiences in Harlem and across the five boroughs.”

“This important initiative gives the Museum the opportunity to extend and deepen its relationship with all New Yorkers, most especially in our home borough of Queens - among the most diverse communities in the United States,” said Executive Director of the Museum of the Moving Image Carl Goodman.

“The Metropolitan Museum of Art is delighted to participate in Mayor de Blasio's exciting new Municipal ID initiative,” said Director and CEO Thomas Campbell and President Emily K. Rafferty of The Metropolitan Museum of Art. “The Met prides itself on extending access to art to an ever-expanding community—both from around the world and within our own diverse City. Art is a unifying force, and our collections reflect cultures across on the globe. We look forward to this expanded opportunity to connect people to both their heritage and to one another. Indeed, at the Met, the Municipal ID program will be a passport to the world.”

“We are proud to be a part of this initiative that brings arts institutions one step closer toward engaging members of our society in the cultural wellbeing of this City,” said Executive Director of El Museo del Barrio Jorge Daniel Veneciano. “We welcome the opportunity to work more closely with the City and its efforts to improve the lives of all New Yorkers.”

“The Municipal ID program with its complimentary membership is a perfect match for Historic Richmond Town which celebrates the diverse American experience. The program brings us new friends of every background from our Staten Island community and beyond, who can now discover stories about people like them who worked together to build this extraordinary city and nation. It's a win-win for everyone!" said Executive Director of Historic Richmond Town Ed Wisemen.

The Mayor signed legislation to create a municipal ID card for all New York City residents on July 10, 2014. The municipal ID will be available for all residents of the five boroughs who meet the program's proof of identity and city residency requirements. The card will be issued at no cost for applicants during the program's first year.

The Municipal ID will be an accessible and safe document that will ensure access to City services and grant admission to all municipal buildings. The City is also working toward connecting the ID with stores, restaurants, discounts and other incentive programs. The City will continue to expand and improve upon the municipal ID card program and benefits after the launch date.

To ensure broad and easy accessibility, the City will establish walk-in enrollment centers in trusted community institutions around the boroughs, and will post the application online for applicants to complete it prior to visiting a walk-in center. In addition, the City will create mobile enrollment units that can travel to neighborhoods across the City. The City will also ensure that the outreach and application processes are accessible to people with limited English proficiency and people with disabilities.

The City will protect the confidentiality of all municipal ID card applications, and will not ask applicants about their immigration status.

From: Jon Fromowitz
To: Martinez Blanco, Frankie
Cc: Hanley, Monica; Scola, Lindsay; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: Re: manchester location
Date: Saturday, September 20, 2014 7:58:18 PM

I think I'm leave it as "hall" in the speech for now and let Labour folks specify if they want to. It looks like a "hall".

On Sep 20, 2014, at 3:10 PM, Martinez Blanco, Frankie
<FMartinezBlanco@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

That's correct. That's as far as I know from what I read online.

Sent from my iPhone

On Sep 20, 2014, at 2:37 PM, "Hanley, Monica" <MHanley@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

And former rail station!

From: Scola, Lindsay
Sent: Saturday, September 20, 2014 02:37 PM
To: Hanley, Monica; Hagelgans, Andrea
Cc: Martinez Blanco, Frankie; 'jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com'
<jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: manchester location

That's it. Just a conference center.

From: Hanley, Monica
Sent: Saturday, September 20, 2014 02:35 PM
To: Hagelgans, Andrea; Scola, Lindsay
Cc: Martinez Blanco, Frankie; 'jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com'
<jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: manchester location

Yup
according to labour conf website that's it!

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
Sent: Saturday, September 20, 2014 02:33 PM
To: Hanley, Monica; Scola, Lindsay
Cc: Martinez Blanco, Frankie; Jon Fromowitz <jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: manchester location

This it?
http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Manchester_Central_Convention_Complex

From: Hanley, Monica
Sent: Saturday, September 20, 2014 2:30 PM

To: Hagelgans, Andrea; Scola, Lindsay
Cc: Martinez Blanco, Frankie
Subject: Re: manchester location

Its at manchester central which looks like a conventional convention center. Frankie - anything else to add?

From: Hanley, Monica
Sent: Saturday, September 20, 2014 02:28 PM
To: Hagelgans, Andrea; Scola, Lindsay
Cc: Martinez Blanco, Frankie
Subject: Re: manchester location

Adding frankie and I'll do my own research now

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
Sent: Saturday, September 20, 2014 02:28 PM
To: Scola, Lindsay; Hanley, Monica
Subject: manchester location

Can you send me the location of the speech? Do we know anything about the space? Historic? etc

From: Hanley, Monica
To: Grybauskas, Stefan; Hagelgans, Andrea; Ragone, Peter; Cohen, Adam; Chow, Eugene; Furnas, Benjamin; @EO; Walzak, Phil; Williams, Dominic; Wolfe, Emma; "jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Re: 10:30am Speech Prep
Date: Sunday, September 21, 2014 10:01:15 AM
Attachments: UNClimateChangeSUN9AM.docx
9 22 14 UN Sustainable Development Solutions Network Mayors Luncheon.doc

Attached are UN remarks and Sachs lunch remarks

----- Original Message -----

From: Hanley, Monica
Sent: Sunday, September 21, 2014 09:19 AM
To: Grybauskas, Stefan; Hagelgans, Andrea; Ragone, Peter; Cohen, Adam; Chow, Eugene; Furnas, Benjamin; @EO; Walzak, Phil; Williams, Dominic; Wolfe, Emma; 'jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com' <jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: 10:30am Speech Prep

We will also review remarks for jeff sachs lunch.

So in order:

- UN
- Lunch
- manchester

----- Original Message -----

From: Hanley, Monica
Sent: Sunday, September 21, 2014 09:16 AM
To: Grybauskas, Stefan; Hagelgans, Andrea; Ragone, Peter; Cohen, Adam; Chow, Eugene; Furnas, Benjamin; @EO; Walzak, Phil; Williams, Dominic; Wolfe, Emma; 'jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com' <jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: 10:30am Speech Prep

Dial in Number: [REDACTED]

Code: [REDACTED]

Still aiming for this call:

Andrea/Eugene - we'll first go thru UN speech (will send a copy around to everyone on email)

And then manchester

United Nations Climate Speech

- It is an honor for New York to host this momentous gathering at this critical moment
- So many individuals and organizations, who are fighting to save our planet, have converged on our city
 - With the intent to spark even greater action
- Humanity is facing an existential threat
- The earth – which took billions of years to evolve into a nurturing environment for plants, animals, and mankind – is dangerously close to the precipice of ruin
- The cause is us: how we heat our homes, how we transport ourselves – the reckless way in which we live
- As the proverb says, we have sown the wind – and we are reaping the whirlwind

[SPACE]

- This is an issue we all face – no one is spared – and our mutual need to survive should instill a kind of unity we rarely experience
- For some, the need is more urgent
- That is true of New York City
- We are bounded by water, so a rise in global sea levels threatens to engulf us
- And we are in an active pathway for deadly hurricanes
- Two years ago Sandy, left 44 dead

- The storms to come, threaten to be far more lethal

[SPACE]

- We are not presented with options: we have only one choice – urgent, bold action
- New York has, I am proud to say, already begun:
 - greenhouse gas emissions are down 19% from 2005
 - Largely thanks to investments in cleaner energy sources in buildings
 - A plan instituted by Mayor Michael Bloomberg, now the UN’s Special Envoy for Cities and Climate Change
- This year, we’ve taken those efforts even further
- Including the most sweeping update to the City’s Air Pollution code since 1975

[SPACE]

- All of this is vitally necessary – but not nearly enough
- On Sunday, I announced that New York City will work toward “80 by 50”
 - reducing average per capita emissions by 80% by 2050
- We are the largest city in the world to commit to such a bold plan
- In New York City, buildings produce nearly three-quarters of greenhouse gases, so we are starting there

- By 2025, we will have retrofitted the 3,000 public buildings that account for nearly 90% of the government's energy use
 - That's 75% of all city-owned buildings
- And for every private building we will provide incentives and set ambitious targets together to catalyze voluntary reductions
 - But, if steady progress is not made, we will issue mandates

[SPACE]

- Our long-term goal is bolder still: charting a path to total transition from fossil fuels
- And help build a national and international movement, starting with the C40 Climate Leadership Group
 - and the many who have gathered in common cause this week
- While our situation is dire, we have the tools, technology, and the knowledge to solve this crisis
- But only if we are willing to act immediately and make profound changes to our way of life
- Today, New York City is embarking on that path
- We will not walk alone
- We will march side by side with leaders from around the world, who share this sense of urgency

- And, if necessary, we will push others along
- Because only through a global movement, will we overcome this disaster

OPEN PRESS

MAYOR BILL DE BLASIO,
UNITED NATIONS SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT SOLUTIONS
NETWORK MAYORS' LUNCHEON
MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 22, 2014

REMARKS:

- Thank you for that kind introduction
Dr. Rosenzweig [ROSE-ens-vek]
 - One of world's leading experts on climate change
 - Lucky to have you as Co-Chair of
New York City Panel on Climate Change
- Excited to be here
- To all those visiting: Welcome to New York!

2

- Want to thank everyone who made today possible
 - Our host: Jeff Sachs
 - One of the great thinkers of our time
 - And also a great do-er
 - Sustainable Development Solutions Network
 - Network embodies UN mission
 - Bringing people together
 - And focusing on solutions
 - Ambassadors

3

- You've invested many late nights in this effort
- They were not in vain
 - And we are grateful

○ Business leaders

- Together, we can reduce carbon footprint
 - And grow our economy

[SPACE]

- Finally, want to recognize fellow mayors
- Thrilled to have you in New York
- So many opportunities to learn from each other and collaborate

4

- And there is no time to waste
- In 1963, President Kennedy said,
- “The supreme reality of our time is the vulnerability of our planet.”
- More than 50 years later, our planet has only grown more vulnerable
- Moral imperative to protect it
- Only swift and dramatic action will prevent catastrophe
- But there is cause for hope
- With help from Sustainable Development Solutions Network, cities are making ambitious goals
 - And meeting them

[SPACE]

- Here in New York, we have reduced carbon emissions by 19% since 2005
 - Cleanest air in 50 years
- A good start, but not nearly enough
- Our goals must be commensurate to the crisis
- On Sunday, announced new target
 - By 2050, 80 percent reduction in greenhouse gas emissions from 2005 levels
- Largest city to make commitment of this scale
- Joined in our efforts by others around the world

6

- Including Melbourne, goal of zero emissions by 2020
 - Represented here by Lord Mayor Frank Doyle
- And Copenhagen, pledged to go carbon neutral by 2025
 - Represented here by Lord Mayor Frank Jensen

[SPACE]

- Centerpiece of plan is bold effort to make public buildings green
- By 2025, will retrofit the 3,000 public buildings that account for nearly 90% of the government's energy use
 - That's 75% of all city-owned buildings

- Set voluntary reduction goals to catalyze private buildings
 - Tough mandates, if targets not met

[SPACE]

- As more and more people flock to cities around the world...
 - increasingly becoming responsibility of Mayors to solve greatest challenges
- Again, President Kennedy said it well:
- “Our problems are man-made. Therefore, they can be solved by man.”
- But global challenges like climate change greater than any one of us

8

- Time is limited and requires aggressive collective action
- Together, we can safeguard our shared tomorrow
- Look forward to working with all of you to build this global movement

###

From: Jon Fromowitz
To: Hanley, Monica
Subject: Re: DELAYED Speech Prep
Date: Sunday, September 21, 2014 10:29:56 AM

#Synergy

On Sep 21, 2014, at 10:28 AM, Hanley, Monica <MHanley@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

> Yes! We all order grubhub at the same time. Its the new way to stay connected to your colleagues

>

> ----- Original Message -----

> From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]

> Sent: Sunday, September 21, 2014 10:26 AM

> To: Hanley, Monica

> Subject: Re: DELAYED Speech Prep

>

> Cool — And I sent you latest Manchester on different chain. Also, the way I first read the agenda I thought that we were all having lunch together in the middle of the call between reviews.

>

>> - UN

>> - Lunch

>> - manchester

>

> On Sep 21, 2014, at 10:22 AM, Hanley, Monica <MHanley@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>

>> Please hold on dialing in. Will keep you posted.

>>

>> ----- Original Message -----

>> From: Hanley, Monica

>> Sent: Sunday, September 21, 2014 10:01 AM

>> To: Grybauskas, Stefan; Hagelgans, Andrea; Ragone, Peter; Cohen, Adam; Chow, Eugene; Furnas, Benjamin; @EO; Walzak, Phil; Williams, Dominic; Wolfe, Emma; 'jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com'

<jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>

>> Subject: Re: 10:30am Speech Prep

>>

>> Attached are UN remarks and Sachs lunch remarks

>>

>> ----- Original Message -----

>> From: Hanley, Monica

>> Sent: Sunday, September 21, 2014 09:19 AM

>> To: Grybauskas, Stefan; Hagelgans, Andrea; Ragone, Peter; Cohen, Adam; Chow, Eugene; Furnas, Benjamin; @EO; Walzak, Phil; Williams, Dominic; Wolfe, Emma; 'jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com'

<jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>

>> Subject: Re: 10:30am Speech Prep

>>

>> We will also review remarks for jeff sachs lunch.

>> So in order:

>> - UN

>> - Lunch

>> - manchester

>>

>> ----- Original Message -----

>> From: Hanley, Monica

>> Sent: Sunday, September 21, 2014 09:16 AM

>> To: Grybauskas, Stefan; Hagelgans, Andrea; Ragone, Peter; Cohen, Adam; Chow, Eugene; Furnas, Benjamin; @EO; Walzak, Phil; Williams, Dominic; Wolfe, Emma; 'jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com'

<jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>

>> Subject: 10:30am Speech Prep

>>
>> Dial in Number: [REDACTED]
>> Code: [REDACTED]
>>
>> Still aiming for this call:
>>
>> Andrea/Eugene - we'll first go thru UN speech (will send a copy around to everyone on email)
>>
>> And then manchester
>>
>>
>

From: Monica Hanley
To: B
Cc: Jon Fromowitz
Subject: MANCHESTER Speech
Date: Sunday, September 21, 2014 10:33:30 AM

this one, we will try to print. I'm sending to printer now.

Mayor Bill de Blasio

Labour Party Conference Remarks

“The Power of Speaking Hard Truths”

Draft 18 – September 21st, 10:10AM

It's such an honor to be here... And it has been so inspiring to meet the people who make this Labour Party what it is. From the rising stars that will – WILL – lead Labour to victory this year... to everyday activists whose unflinching passion and energy will fuel the campaign.

Though I've seen your efforts mostly from afar, it's clear to me, even across five time zones and an ocean, that this group is working towards something special.... something important. I'm so grateful for the invitation to speak to you.

It's fitting that we find ourselves in Manchester. This great city was at the forefront of the innovation and ingenuity that drove the Industrial Revolution, helping shape the contours of the modern economy that we know today.

It shares a special status in history with the City I love and am so honored to lead. It's a place where big ideas and raw grit have been honored and rewarded like few others in the world. As the saying goes: “What Manchester does today, the rest of the world does tomorrow.”

It is also among the first places in the world to foster a working class... and among the first where working people empowered themselves to take part in the political process. It's no wonder then that Manchester is a place where hard truths are deeply understood and spoken out.... Where injustices are met, head on. LABOR PARTY REVIEW

I cannot imagine a more appropriate backdrop for this gathering because yours is a party BORN out of working people attaining the right to vote... a party that EXISTS to fight for working families and forcefully address their needs.

Labour has inclusiveness and progressiveness coded in its DNA... Yours is a party grounded in the idea that everyone's voice matters.... And that no one should be left behind.

THIS Labour Party is led by a new generation of progressive leaders and defined by bold ideas. You stand ready to ACT with a plan to make a vision of a fairer, more prosperous United Kingdom reality; to make the UK a place where opportunity is a RIGHT granted to all, not a GIFT for the fortunate few.

THIS Labour Party hears the voices of the millions who feel like they are treading water... Working harder and harder but feeling less and less secure about the future.

THIS Labour Party has the moral compass -- and the backbone -- to fight for an economy... a country... that works for working people... for EVERYONE.

And your party refuses to accept the politics of inertia... That resigned mindset that says the next generation is destined to do worse than this one.

By virtue of being in this room, you recognize that we owe it to our kids to do better ... to live up to the most basic promise we make to the people we serve.

I say that as someone charged with the sacred duty of overseeing New York's public schools, where over one million children learn and grow. I also say it as a father of two beautiful children of my own, Dante and Chiara, who have attended those schools for most of their young lives.

There is NO duty more sacred than parenthood.

Nothing gives me more comfort... more joy... than watching my children grow, knowing they can be WHATEVER -- WHOEVER -- they want to be. The boundaries of their future are determined only by how hard they work and how big they dream.

If we accept a future – or a present – where parents can't look their kids in the eyes and tell them they have a shot at something better, then we break the promise of civilized society.... We deprive our children – AND their parents -- of so much.

This is what we are up against. I've said that growing inequality is THE crisis of our time. That feeling of a status quo that works very well for a few fortunate souls, but leaves the rest of us behind to struggle in an increasingly unaffordable place.

Now, I've said it about New York City, but as people in this room recognize, it's every bit as true here in the UK.

And let's be clear what we mean when we talk of unaffordability. It's not the price of penthouse flats, Bentleys or five-star holidays. The people who can afford THOSE luxuries, in fact, are doing quite well under this Conservative government.

But feeding a family, keeping a modest home that's lit and heated, securing a safe place for young kids to learn during the day... THESE things are becoming more and more difficult to afford. Not luxuries, or even conveniences, the ESSENTIALS that people need to live.

And so living itself is becoming harder and harder for working families. Not living WELL... living.

Indeed, the price this crisis extracts isn't simply monetary.

You can see it in the tired eyes of the waitress whose second job is preceded by a second shift....

In the juddering hand of the linesman signing the paperwork for a payday loan....

In the clenched jaws and stiff lips of working parents mustering brave faces in front of their son... in the WORK that just goes into hiding the fear that he will not be able to attain a better life.

As wealth becomes more concentrated at the top, stories like these are becoming more common and less isolated to the lowest steps of the economic ladder.

If unaddressed, this crisis itself will become THE defining characteristic of our societies... Not prosperity and opportunity... inequality and unaffordability.

I know from everything I've seen and heard that this Labour Party understands what's at stake here.

I also know the weight of this moment can feel like a burden: the exasperation that comes from knowing the gravity of this crisis – a generation's prospects at risk of being forsaken -- at a time when so many seem unwilling to act in its face.

The right side of history can feel like a lonely place. But it isn't. It never has been.

Indeed, history itself tells us that people always gravitate towards decency, inclusion and progress. And you don't have to look back thousands of years to see that – go walk around a neighborhood in Manchester... Go to a school, a church, a mosque... You can see the trust people put in one another every day; the value people place in simple moral action.

So why then is COLLECTIVE moral action often so difficult?

In the case of the inequality and affordability crises, part of the issue is scope: the problem seems so difficult, so deeply embedded, that good people can be tempted to throw their hands up and declare that nothing can be done about it.

But there's something else going on as well. You see, as is the case with many injustices in history, there are people – small in number but outsize in power – who benefit from the status quo, and they work as agents to maintain it. Their voices seem louder... more confident and authoritative... and those of everyday people get drowned out.

In this way, people are made to feel powerless – made to feel that their voice doesn't matter at all.

So at the same time that inequality and unaffordability are skyrocketing – something people can see and feel every day in their neighborhoods – we're told that even speaking of this problem is unconstructive, divisive... harmful, even.

There are some powerful people who perpetuate the status quo wanting only to maintain an order that they see, through lenses of privilege, as working quite well.

You know that it isn't. So do the people of your country.

Part of your job then is to help them find their voice to say – together – that Britons want a country that works for everyone.

Sometimes people – good, hardworking people – need to hear the truth spoken before they feel comfortable speaking it themselves.

And there's so much power that comes from speaking the truth, and especially from speaking HARD truths.

The status quo gets perpetuated through a series of UNTRUTHS...false choices in the form of conventional wisdom that assigns mutual exclusivity to ideas that should be complimentary.

We're told that prosperity can't be both great and also shared....

That you can't lift the floor for those struggling in a tough economy, and still balance a budget.

That those of us who serve can't expect to achieve anything at all if we dare to advance policies which are bold and morally right.

In the lead-up to the election for New York City Mayor last year, the cynics gave voters another false choice: support my candidacy ... OR vote for someone with a real shot at winning.

I am here before you today because the people of New York City rejected the lazy logic of false-choice politics. New Yorkers realized THEY were the ones who got to determine the political feasibility of an agenda that reflected THEIR values.

I want to tell you how it happened.

I announced my candidacy for Mayor from the front steps of my home in Brooklyn in January 2013. A few hundred people were there with me... the earliest believers in our campaign.

We were brought together by a deep concern: that New York had become a Tale of Two Cities; a place where a few were doing very well, but millions were struggling to live amidst spiking inequality and unaffordability.

It threatened to degrade New York's status as a place where heart and brains and guts are rewarded like no other.

The beacon of opportunity that for generations shone so brightly across our five boroughs and out into the world was dimming.

We saw it, we FELT it in our city.... Even if it was unspoken, we saw on our neighbors' faces: the weight of worry about a future of diminished possibilities... For themselves... their families... their children.

And we knew the policies of the status quo were exacerbating this crisis rather than addressing it, even if the agents of the status quo dismissed this notion as divisive and destructive.

But though our mission was in many ways somber, our mood that day was not. It was a grey, frigid afternoon, but the event had an aura of excitement and joy one would expect at a summer block party. It was no doubt a strange sight to those passing by.

There was a feeling that something special was happening that made the chill tolerable. It came from having found in one another a group of people who spoke the same truth about our Tale of Two Cities...the harm it was doing.... the threat it posed.

There was a sense of relief that came from learning we weren't alone in these assessments – a lifting of that lonely burden – and an anxious anticipation to find out how many others shared them as well.

And there was a sense of mission that came from accepting a mutual responsibility to act, together, against this crisis... and a heartfelt belief that victory was achievable, no matter the odds.

And the odds did appear long, at first. It felt like the total number of those in the city who had HEARD of me was limited to those standing in front of my home that day... And my house is not very big.

Conventional wisdom wasn't on our side, either. Not only were other candidates for mayor better known, they espoused ideas that were seen as more politically practical, hewing to the familiarity of the status quo.

But it was never my intention to nibble around the edges with policies of timid maintenance; I ran to take dead aim at the crisis of our time. And I became Mayor because every day New Yorkers, too, were hungry to break from an era that was leaving millions behind.

People from every race, every background, every income bracket. And yes, even many New Yorkers who had enjoyed great success joined our fight against rising inequality. They wanted the next generation of New Yorkers to have the chance to write success stories of their own.

We were a small group, at first, but as New Yorkers slowly learned that we were fighting for a government that would represent THEIR values -- fairness, justice, real opportunity for all – our campaign grew. And grew... And grew.

We worked – together – as activists, to spread the word.

And so in living rooms and parks... in retirement communities and residence halls... on Twitter and Facebook... people were hearing from one another for the first time that they already knew in their own hearts to be true... and they were learning of the POWER that could come when they spoke out themselves.

THAT is how in a matter of months we went from a few hundred souls gathered on a on a blustery Brooklyn day, to winning not just victories, but BIG victories in elections.

And our shared resolve to remake our City didn't end when the votes were tallied.

The same tenets that defined our campaign now drive our Administration: a constant push for bold action; a willingness to hear and speak hard truths; an agenda set by listening to the PEOPLE, not the powerful few.

In the first few months of this Administration, we've some resistance from agents of the status quo as we fight to make New York a city for everyone.

But we're winning... We're making real progress....

On my absolute highest priority, that's meant working aggressively to secure unprecedented access to no cost, full day early education programs for 4-year-olds.

We did this because study after study shows the great equalizing effect of early education. But you don't need read an academic journal to get that: we all know access to quality education does so much to determine a person's economic destiny... and as with most matters of destiny, timing is everything.

Now, to give you some context on the politics we faced when trying to expand early education for families, I'd like to read you two assessments from New York newspapers, published almost exactly one year apart.

In September 2013, a few months before I was elected Mayor... the New York Daily News wrote QUOTE "de Blasio's signature proposal... his promise to create 48,000 educational slots for four-year-olds...has little chance of becoming a reality."

Then, in September 2014, the New York Times noted: QUOTE "51,000 Answer de Blasio's Bell for New Pre-K." END QUOTE

The 51,000 there refers to the number of kids who have been signed up for these programs. That's three thousand MORE than the number said to be impossible just one year ago.

It also means that 51,000 beautiful children are on a better path to success... And all of their moms and dads... grandparents and guardians... they get to experience the comfort... the joy... that comes from seeing the shine of brighter futures.

It's hard to even express how much that means for the working people of our city. But it's also not all we've done in our first few months in office.

We've enacted measures to give over 1 million more New Yorkers the right to paid sick leave, ensuring people won't lose a paycheck – or a job – because of illness or injury

We've launched a plan secure affordable housing for 500,000 New Yorkers over the next decade. That's more than total populations of the urban areas of Teesside and Bristol... Or the cities of Atlanta and Miami, for anyone watching back home.

We ended what had been one of the nastiest manifestations of inequality by reforming racially biased police practices so that ALL New Yorkers are granted the basic right of walking down the street without fear of being hassled by authorities.

And we've done this all while reaching agreement on a contract with our city teachers – educators who had gone without a contract for five years. In all that time, the good men women charged with safeguarding the futures of our children had enjoyed little security when it came to their own futures.

We made a deal grounded in partnership and mutual respect, because RESPECT for working men and women is a core principle that all GOOD governments live by. It was a fair deal for teachers – offering increased pay that they greatly deserved. But it also generated some savings that labor was a partner in achieving. And it was a good deal for the people of New York – those who depend on our public schools and want great teachers, but also those who want to make sure that their tax dollars are well-spent.

So if anyone tells you that a balanced budget and an agenda of economic fairness can't go hand-in-hand, tell them to come visit New York City.

Really, it's beautiful this time of year.

I notice so many similarities between the UK I see today and the New York where I stood on that cold morning and announced my candidacy.

It comes through so clearly -- even across all the physical distance that separates our homes – the people of the UK are ready for bold, progressive change.

And if we can make the strides that we've made in New York City from a campaign so humble in its origins, imagine the feats that can come from this hall!

I also see another, more sobering parallel in the deepness of the crisis that we share.

The numbers are alarming: in the UK, in 2011, the average income of the top 0.1 % of families is more than 70 times that of the bottom 90%. [2011, World Income Database].

In fact, the five richest families in the UK have more wealth than the entire bottom 20% of the country. And, as is the case in New York City, the trend has been moving sharply in the wrong direction. According to a study published by Oxfam and Church Action on Poverty, since the 1990s, incomes of the top 0.1% of Britons have grown four times faster than those of the bottom 90%.

Now, there's nothing wrong with attaining wealth. I'm happy to celebrate the success of those who've earned it. But the policies of the Conservative government are preventing so many from writing success stories of their own.

And as is the case in the US and New York City, the stories of those struggling the hardest – those of unpaid bills and sleepless nights – don't fully illuminate the severity of this crisis.

Mounting disparities in income create ripple effects that undermine whole economies.

The Financial Times recently concluded that the income gap between America's richest and poorest cities is not only the widest it has ever been, but that this phenomenon was QUOTE "shaping an uneven housing recovery that threatens to hold back the broader revival of the world's largest economy."

Indeed, in an increasingly interconnected world, a system grounded in exclusivity – an approach to government focused on helping a few people who've already done well while leaving everyone else to fend for themselves – is not sustainable for ANYONE... including those at the very top. It is a problem that hurts everyone, in one way or another, whether they realize it or not.

This Conservative government certainly doesn't seem to realize it. Now, they may pay some lip service to this crisis, but make no mistake: speaking empty words is as far as they are willing to go to solve the problem.

In fact, their top-down policies are making things harder – not easier – for working people every day.

Among the many ways they've aggravated the wounds of this crisis, the most painful might be their tax code.

Instead of giving working families relief they need, they gave billions on tax cuts to the wealthiest with the vague hope that money will magically trickle down to everyone else. In my country, that's an approach we call voodoo economics. I have no doubt the word "voodoo" sounds more elegant in a British accent than an American one, but in any intonation, we know it's a policy that doesn't work.

So let me tell you about what does work. And you don't have to look far to see it. In fact, you heard it at your own conference last year.

Ed Milliband clearly articulated both the challenges, and the opportunities this moment in history creates for the British people – showing a willingness to take dead aim at the scourge of inequality. He stated: "We have to rebuild anew One Nation. An economy built on your success, a society based on your values, a politics that hears your voice – rich and poor alike – accepting their responsibilities to each other."

PLACEHOLDER FOR ADDITIONAL ITEMS FROM THIS YEAR'S SPEECH

Ed Miliband will be a Prime Minister for everyone. He will govern for Britons with second jobs and second mortgages, not just those with second homes.

He believes in politics of the MANY, not the few...

Ed Miliband understands -- this Labour Party understands – the true cost of a status quo that puts a barrier between working people and prosperity... the drag it creates on the economy... and on the lives of families.

Because this Labour Party not only has the right values, it has an agenda that puts them into action. Not political talk, but a real plan that reforms the crux of the economy to make Britain work for everyone.

A plan for a tax code that rewards hard work over existing wealth and power by ending the current government's 3 billion pound tax cut for the wealthiest and instead offering tax relief to 24 million middle and working class people.... LABOR PARTY REVIEW NEEDED

A plan that protects and STRENGTHENS – not curtails – the NHS so that quality healthcare remains a right and not a privilege...

A plan that puts working people ahead of big corporations by controlling energy costs, and taking unprecedented steps to make housing more affordable.

And a plan that provides 25 hours a week of free child care to working parents of 3- and 4-year olds, and another to expand after school programs, so that ALL kids can get on a path to success and opportunity early... and stay there.

This agenda is a blueprint of what a fairer, more prosperous, STRONGER United Kingdom will look like.

It recognizes that everyone's future... Every child's future MATTERS.

That is not only why you MUST win, it is why you WILL win!

The upcoming election represents a real choice for the people of your country: build a United Kingdom that rewards hard work and ensures the next generation does better... Or continue down a path where a privileged few do very well, while everyone else is left to fend for themselves.

To me, that choice is very clear, as I know it is to people in this room... and as I know it will become to everyday people across this country.

But to those on the other side, who argue things work BETTER when opportunity is scarce and exclusive, I offer this thought: not even DARWIN was a social Darwinist.

Indeed, Charles Darwin, one of the greatest minds that yours or any country ever produced, put it this way: "If the misery of the poor be caused not by the laws of nature, but by our institutions, great is our sin."

Among the cruelest false choices we are given is one that says we can only move forward if some are left behind. You don't need to accept that. No one should.

The work ahead of you will be anything but easy... I can assure you of that. That distinct histories written on opposite ends of an ocean leave us, at this moment, facing essentially the same crisis – underscores its profound scale.

But you have the power to overcome it.

If you reject the cold complacency of the status quo, its power will erode.

If you speak hard truths, others will listen.

If you empower the great people of your country to speak THEIR truths, to speak up, speak out and ACT in the face of this crisis, then there is so much good that you can achieve, together.

And I believe you will.

Thank you!

###

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
To: Ramirez Ursulina \(URamirez@schools.nyc.gov\); Ragone, Peter; Cohen, Adam; Williams, Dominic; JWallack@schools.nyc.gov
Cc: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: education speech
Date: Sunday, September 21, 2014 10:54:34 AM
Attachments: Speech overview.docx

I've merged notes from all the various meetings we've had recently with the Mayor. Parts of it are verbatim, but this copy is not meant to be the speech. Just trying to get us jumpstarted using his thought process.

On Friday, he spoke about publicly naming the problems in our schools. Level setting with parents about the sad state of our schools (including highlight the false choice of charters) as well as outlining metrics that are more immediate (by end of first and second terms) as well as the long-term.

Need folks at DOE to start drilling in on the metrics (aggressive/ambitious but feasible/not laughable metrics) and Adam's team needs to start the speech so he has something to react to.

We are locking in on October 7 (Tuesday) with some potential that may need to shift to Monday, October 6 if we want Marian Wright Edelman to introduce the Mayor (she is only available that Monday)

Andrea Hagelgans
Office of the Mayor
Direct – 212.341.5372
Cell – 718.679.8965
ahagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov

Shake the Foundations: Building stronger schools/ Creating pride in every school

(Picking up where the Riverside speech left off)

A good public school is the anchor of a strong neighborhood. It's the hub of life in that neighborhood – not just for services, but for community, living, social connections.

Deep personal connection to our schools—what public schools have meant to our family and what this means for all New Yorkers: Parents now have “insider” status at City Hall.

Nine months, great successes for all our kids:

- Deepened investments in our schools and teachers
- Pre-K
- After-school
- Community schools, which care for the whole child
- PROSE
- Heightened focus on school space/ classroom size
- Increased accountability and support/ departure from “test-only” metrics

Even with all this progress, we are driven by the shared understanding among parents that the status quo in our schools is not enough. There's a general feeling that NYC is a great place to live, but if you want to send your kids to public school, you've got to pick from a handful of neighborhoods: Park Slope, Tribeca, UES, etc. It shouldn't be that way.

Incremental gains are not enough; we need Systematic change. In March, at Riverside Church, we pledged a new approach to our school systems that fosters fairness and progress for all our children. Parents, teachers, advocates, public schools, charters: what unifies us is this sense of urgency.

We need to shake the foundations of how we understand and support our schools, and ultimately NYC kids.

We need a real conversation about our schools if we are to build a stronger school system.

Comment [HA1]: Level setting with parents

Quite simply, too many of our district schools are underperforming and charter schools either can't or won't deliver the acclaimed success they highlight for the majority of our kids. Parents are set up with a false choice. The model is not scalable, and the children in most need are often the ones left out of the equation.

It's time for big, bold changes that reach every child, that take innovations and share them, and that recognize we have no greater responsibility than preparing every child, in every borough, for college and career.

As a public school parent, I share with fellow parents that results that come to bear 10, 15 years down the line are of no use if your child is in school now.

Announcements

That's why, starting today, and by the end of 2017:

PLACEHOLDER FOR METRICS

EXAMPLE: We have already begun to create career tech partnerships, and XX number of high schools will have a sister school that will help prepare our kids.

- And we want you, as a parent, engaged and part of the school community. Because for all of this to work, we have to have a two-way conversation.
 - Dedicated DOE leadership focused on parent engagement
 - Parent/schools coordinators

And if you offer me a second term, we will deliver xx by 2021:

[PLACEHOLDER]

And for those parents who children started pre-K this year, this is our promise to you:

- Your child will enter kindergarten ready to learn because of our pre-K for all program.
- When your child is in second grade, he/she will complete her year on grade level.
 - We will work with teachers, principals and school communities to develop authentic assessments of students' progress during the year to understand student needs, differentiate instruction, test instructional approaches, and improve practice.
- And when she leaves 7th grade she will be socially, emotionally and academically ready for high school.
 - We will identify new ways of understanding students' non-cognitive and social-emotional growth – such as persistence, grit, work habits/organizational skills, and other personal behaviors.
- Your 10th grader will be on track for college or career readiness.
 - To do this work, we need to re-define what we mean by college and career readiness to move beyond measures of only credit accumulation and test scores, to focus on developing students who can think for themselves, own information and use it for their own purposes, and recognize what good thinking looks like, rather than just good answers. This will require adjusting practice to focus on building critical thinking skills, in line with the Common Core, and re-defining key milestones for 10th grade, when students must begin to plan for college and career post high school.
- My promise to you is that by 2028, we will ensure that ALL NYC public school graduates are college and career ready by the time this cohort graduates in 2028. (24.7%, 2013)

From: Hanley, Monica
To: Wolfe, Emma; Grybauskas, Stefan; Hagelgans, Andrea; Ragone, Peter; Cohen, Adam; Chow, Eugene; Furnas, Benjamin; @EO; Walzak, Phil; Williams, Dominic; "jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Re: DIAL-IN NOW Speech Prep
Date: Sunday, September 21, 2014 11:35:35 AM

Pls dial in now. He is starting to look at sach's lunch

----- Original Message -----

From: Wolfe, Emma
Sent: Sunday, September 21, 2014 11:32 AM
To: Hanley, Monica; Grybauskas, Stefan; Hagelgans, Andrea; Ragone, Peter; Cohen, Adam; Chow, Eugene; Furnas, Benjamin; @EO; Walzak, Phil; Williams, Dominic; 'jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com' <jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: DIAL-IN NOW Speech Prep

if we begin discussing stakeholders/roundtable etc pls let me know and i'll dial in. i jumped off to do another call and am now doing other work.

From: Hanley, Monica
Sent: Sunday, September 21, 2014 10:59 AM
To: Grybauskas, Stefan; Hagelgans, Andrea; Ragone, Peter; Cohen, Adam; Chow, Eugene; Furnas, Benjamin; @EO; Walzak, Phil; Williams, Dominic; Wolfe, Emma; 'jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com'
Subject: DIAL-IN NOW Speech Prep

Dial in Number: ([REDACTED])
Code: [REDACTED]

----- Original Message -----

From: Hanley, Monica
Sent: Sunday, September 21, 2014 10:22 AM
To: Grybauskas, Stefan; Hagelgans, Andrea; Ragone, Peter; Cohen, Adam; Chow, Eugene; Furnas, Benjamin; @EO; Walzak, Phil; Williams, Dominic; Wolfe, Emma; 'jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com' <jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: DELAYED Speech Prep

Please hold on dialing in. Will keep you posted.

----- Original Message -----

From: Hanley, Monica
Sent: Sunday, September 21, 2014 10:01 AM
To: Grybauskas, Stefan; Hagelgans, Andrea; Ragone, Peter; Cohen, Adam; Chow, Eugene; Furnas, Benjamin; @EO; Walzak, Phil; Williams, Dominic; Wolfe, Emma; 'jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com' <jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: 10:30am Speech Prep

Attached are UN remarks and Sach's lunch remarks

----- Original Message -----

From: Hanley, Monica
Sent: Sunday, September 21, 2014 09:19 AM
To: Grybauskas, Stefan; Hagelgans, Andrea; Ragone, Peter; Cohen, Adam; Chow, Eugene; Furnas, Benjamin; @EO; Walzak, Phil; Williams, Dominic; Wolfe, Emma; 'jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com' <jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: 10:30am Speech Prep

We will also review remarks for Jeff Sach's lunch.
So in order:

- UN
- Lunch
- manchester

----- Original Message -----

From: Hanley, Monica

Sent: Sunday, September 21, 2014 09:16 AM

To: Grybauskas, Stefan; Hagelgans, Andrea; Ragone, Peter; Cohen, Adam; Chow, Eugene; Furnas, Benjamin; @EO; Walzak, Phil; Williams, Dominic; Wolfe, Emma; 'jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com' <jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>

Subject: 10:30am Speech Prep

Dial in Number: ([REDACTED]

Code: [REDACTED]

Still aiming for this call:

Andrea/Eugene - we'll first go thru UN speech (will send a copy around to everyone on email)

And then manchester

From: Ragone, Peter
To: Hagelgans, Andrea; "jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com"
Cc: Hanley, Monica; Scola, Lindsay
Subject: Re: Labor party feedback- next steps
Date: Sunday, September 21, 2014 11:46:09 AM

Ok

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
Sent: Sunday, September 21, 2014 08:45 AM
To: Ragone, Peter; Jon Fromowitz (jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com) <jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: Hanley, Monica; Scola, Lindsay
Subject: Labor party feedback- next steps

Boss wants to wait on going through next version of the speech until we have feedback from Labor. But as soon as we get that feedback, he wants the speech prep group to jump on phone ASAP with him and start refining quickly. Group should include – Fromo, Ragone, and possibly Emma for a gut check on some of the politics pieces.

Thanks

Andrea Hagelgans
Office of the Mayor
Direct – 212.341.5372
Cell – 718.679.8965
ahagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Scola, Lindsay
To: Hagelgans, Andrea; Ragone, Peter; "jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com"
Cc: Hanley, Monica
Subject: Re: Labor party feedback- next steps
Date: Sunday, September 21, 2014 11:48:03 AM

Great

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
Sent: Sunday, September 21, 2014 11:47 AM
To: Scola, Lindsay; Ragone, Peter; 'jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com' <jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: Hanley, Monica
Subject: RE: Labor party feedback- next steps

Peter has shared

From: Scola, Lindsay
Sent: Sunday, September 21, 2014 11:47 AM
To: Hagelgans, Andrea; Ragone, Peter; 'jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com'
Cc: Hanley, Monica
Subject: Re: Labor party feedback- next steps

Are you sending to them?

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
Sent: Sunday, September 21, 2014 11:45 AM
To: Ragone, Peter; Jon Fromowitz (jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com) <jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: Hanley, Monica; Scola, Lindsay
Subject: Labor party feedback- next steps

Boss wants to wait on going through next version of the speech until we have feedback from Labor. But as soon as we get that feedback, he wants the speech prep group to jump on phone ASAP with him and start refining quickly. Group should include – Fromo, Ragone, and possibly Emma for a gut check on some of the politics pieces.

Thanks

Andrea Hagelgans
Office of the Mayor
Direct – 212.341.5372
Cell – 718.679.8965
ahagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
To: Jon Fromowitz
Cc: Andrea Hagelgans
Subject: Re: fact check
Date: Monday, September 22, 2014 9:38:26 AM

Will review today

Sent from my iPhone

> On Sep 22, 2014, at 9:35 AM, Jon Fromowitz <jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com> wrote:
>
> Hey man, this stuff all look OK? Also, just a heads up that I'll likely be sending over the full speech for checking at some point today. Waiting on other edits and trying to minimize everyone's back and forth, so just wanted to put on your radar that it's coming down the pike.
>
> Not super policy heavy so hopefully shouldn't be too big a lift. I'll be in touch soon. Thanks!
>
>> On Sep 20, 2014, at 2:32 PM, Andrea Hagelgans <[REDACTED]> wrote:
>>
>> Mahen - Could you fact check these for mayor?
>>
>>
>> The numbers are alarming: in the UK, in 2011, the average income of the top 0.1 %
>>
>> of families more than 70 times that of the bottom 90%. [2011, World Income
>>
>> Database].
>>
>> In fact, the five richest families in the UK have more wealth than the entire bottom
>>
>> 20% of the country. And, as is the case in New York City, the trend has been moving >> sharply in the wrong direction. According to a study published by Oxfam and
>>
>>
>> Church Action on Poverty, since the 1990s, incomes of the top 0.1% of Britons have >> grown four times faster than those of the bottom 90%.
>>
>

From: Perez, Roberto
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Mayor de Blasio Commits to 80 Percent Reduction of Greenhouse Gas Emissions by 2050, Starting with Sweeping Green Buildings Plan
Date: Monday, September 22, 2014 10:02:11 AM

Mayor de Blasio Commits to 80 Percent Reduction of Greenhouse Gas Emissions by 2050, Starting with Sweeping Green Buildings Plan

September 21, 2014

Mayor unveils “One City, Built to Last: Transforming New York City’s Buildings for A Low-Carbon Future,” unprecedented commitment to retrofitting City’s public and private buildings

Every single public building with significant energy use will be upgraded by 2025; private buildings will be given ambitious target reductions and mandates if reductions are not met

Plan will lead to additional 10% reduction in building-based greenhouse gas emissions and $8.5 billion in energy cost-savings over ten years, create approximately 3,500 new jobs in construction and energy services

NEW YORK—Mayor de Blasio announced today that New York City is committing to reducing its greenhouse gas emissions by 80 percent over 2005 levels by 2050, starting with One City, Built to Last: Transforming New York City’s Buildings for a Low-Carbon Future – a sweeping plan to retrofit public and private buildings to dramatically reduce the city’s contributions to climate change, while spurring major cost savings and creating thousands of new jobs for New Yorkers who most need them. This makes New York the largest city to commit to the 80 percent reduction by 2050, and charts a long-term path for investment in renewable sources of energy and a total transition from fossil fuels.

Nearly three quarters of New York City’s greenhouse gas emissions come from energy used to heat, cool, and power buildings, making building retrofits a central component of any plan to dramatically reduce emissions.

The City is poised to make direct investments to increase the efficiency of its public buildings, including schools and public housing, reducing the government’s contribution to climate change and generating operational savings for New York City taxpayers. Every single city-owned building with any significant energy use – approximately 3,000 buildings – will be retrofitted within the next ten years, by 2025, with interim goals along the way.

The City will also spur private building owners to invest in efficiency upgrades, setting ambitious interim targets and incentives to catalyze voluntary reductions, and implementing mandates that trigger if interim reduction targets are not met – leading to retrofits in tens of thousands of private-owned buildings. High energy costs take a disproportionate toll on lower-income residents who typically live in less-efficient buildings and must pay a higher share of their income for energy. The City's plan aims to protect New Yorkers from rising utility bills while reducing emissions and poor air quality and stimulating demand for retrofitting and renewable energy jobs

This plan is projected to reduce greenhouse gas emissions by an additional 3.4 million metric tons a year by 2025 – an additional 10 percent reduction in building-based greenhouse gas emissions, equivalent to taking 715,000 vehicles off of the road. This will also generate cost-savings across the public and private sectors of more than $1.4 billion a year by 2025, leading to $8.5 billion in cumulative energy cost-savings over ten years. It's anticipated that approximately 3,500 new jobs in construction and energy services will be created, in addition to the training of more than 7,000 building staff to upgrade their skills.

Read One City, Built to Last: Transforming New York City's Buildings for a Low-Carbon Future here: nyc.gov/builttolast

“Climate change is an existential threat to New Yorkers and our planet. Acting now is nothing short of a moral imperative,” said Mayor Bill de Blasio. “New York City must continue to set the pace and provide the bold leadership that's needed – and becoming the world's largest city to commit to an 80 percent reduction in emissions by 2050 is central to that commitment. By retrofitting all of our public buildings with significant energy use in the next ten years, we're leading by example; and by partnering with the private sector, we'll reduce emissions and improve efficiency while generating billions in savings and creating thousands of jobs for New Yorkers who need it most.”

“I strongly support innovative efforts to make public housing more energy efficient and sustainable. Expanding the energy retrofit initiative in New York City would make an incredible contribution to this goal. This would also support our Climate Action Plan, which is aiming to cut energy waste by half in the residential sector. We're committed to dedicating a team within HUD to work with NYCHA, the largest public housing owner in the country, to make this effort a reality. As funding for public housing decreases, we must find creative ways to invest in our communities. Mayor de Blasio and I believe this initiative has great promise. Through these Energy Performance Contracts, HUD has already leveraged more than $1 billion across the country to retrofit aging public housing buildings, and we look forward to expanding this program in New York City through our partnership,” said United States Housing and Urban Development Secretary Julián Castro.

“This plan, along with the Council's extensive legislative and policy platform, will go a long way towards ensuring New York has a long term plan for the future. New York must lead on sustainability because we know when New York acts others pay attention and this plan will lay out a future that's greener and more environmentally friendly,” said City Council Speaker Melissa Mark-Viverito.

“As the New York City Public Advocate, I know we must act with urgency to combat the irrefutable damage that climate change is wreaking on our city, our country, and our world. Mayor de Blasio's plan to expand energy-efficiency standards in New York City, starting with city-owned buildings, is both substantively and symbolically important in that it will kick-start a bold and meaningful campaign to take on climate change. By marching together in the People's Climate March, we will call attention to this critical issue; by enacting this ambitious energy efficiency plan, we will make a long-lasting difference in the health of our city and our planet,” said Public Advocate Letitia James.

“We need bold and decisive leadership to combat climate change, and Mayor de Blasio is clearly leading the way to make New York City a powerful and driving force in reducing greenhouse gas emissions and becoming a model for energy efficiency. When New York City acts, the world takes notice. As New York City proudly hosts the People’s Climate March – the largest ever of its kind – I commend Mayor de Blasio for demonstrating the kind of leadership required to develop solutions and jump-start global climate action,” said Assembly Speaker Sheldon Silver.

“Mayor de Blasio’s ambitious plan to address climate change puts New York City on the map as a global leader on a crucial environmental issue. Our city will set an example for the world, while reducing carbon emissions, lowering energy costs for taxpayers and creating new jobs,” said Senate Temporary President and Majority Coalition Leader Jeff Klein.

“Protecting New Yorkers from the devastating effects of climate change has to be one of our top public safety priorities. I commend Mayor de Blasio for this ambitious plan and look forward to working with him as we protect our environment for future generations and work toward a greener and more sustainable New York,” said Senate Democratic Leader Andrea Stewart-Cousins.

“I strongly support Mayor de Blasio’s plan to cut carbon emissions across the five boroughs. By engaging both public and private sectors, New York City can continue to be a global leader in sustainability. With the Mayor’s leadership, we will show the world how taking the fight to climate change is essential not only to the health of our environment, but to our economy as well,” said New York City Comptroller Scott Stringer.

The plan will be implemented through a Compstat-like portal at the Office of Long-Term Planning and Sustainability, in partnership with the Mayor’s Office of Operations and the Department of Citywide Administrative Services, to track the City and the private sector’s progress towards these goals with periodic updates and a public-facing web presence to report on progress each year.

One City: Built to Last, Transforming New York City’s Buildings for a Low Carbon Future will:

Make Our Public Buildings Models of Energy Efficiency and Renewable Energy Generation

- Invest in high-value efficiency upgrades in approximately 150 to 200 City buildings per year for the next ten years, including schools, firehouses, hospitals, police precincts, libraries, and homeless shelters. This will be through a competitive citywide process that identifies the most effective reduction measures across the public building portfolio.
- Will have upgraded every city building with significant energy use by 2025.
- Perform energy upgrades in 450 schools over the next five years – including 325 comprehensive lighting upgrades and 125 boiler replacements to improve energy efficiency and improve indoor air quality (PCB remediation).
- Increase solar and renewable energy deployment on City assets, beginning with 24 schools. Install solar on more than 300 city buildings, generating 100MW of energy over the next decade.
- Pilot cutting edge energy technology from local clean tech start-ups in City buildings.

- Hire additional operations and maintenance staff and expand training programs for the City’s building operators to upgrade skills and ensure equipment is operated efficiently.
- Partner with HUD on the Energy Performance Contract (EPC) program to unlock the potential for undertaking large-scale energy efficiency measures at NYCHA that will free up dollars for other critical needs and improve quality of life for residents.

Create a Thriving Private Market for Energy Efficiency and Renewable Energy

- Set ambitious interim targets for emission reductions and efficiency improvements for private buildings – to be met with aggressive City-directed programs to catalyze voluntary reductions, and mandates that trigger if interim reduction targets are not met, to be developed by a task force.
- Require buildings over 25,000 sq. ft. to measure and disclose energy use annually, conduct energy assessments, and upgrade lighting. The current mandate includes only buildings over 50,000 sq. ft.
- Catalyze the retrofit of approximately 20,000 private buildings through a “retrofit accelerator” program, making up an estimated 15 percent of citywide built square footage. Two-thirds will be multifamily buildings, and roughly 40 percent will be government-assisted affordable or rent-stabilized buildings.
- Connect New York workers with new jobs and opportunities in energy efficiency and renewable energy, with an integrated workforce development focus throughout each initiative.
- Create a green grant program for affordable housing that will fund efficiency upgrades in exchange for regulatory agreements to preserve affordability. Deploy with local partners in neighborhoods where preservation and rehab of affordable housing is needed and where energy efficiency can reduce the load on the electric grid.
- Incorporate efficiency measures into all Department of Housing Preservation and Development moderate rehab programs by requiring that all buildings undergo an energy audit as part of the capital needs assessment process.
- Organize communities to spur efficiency retrofits, focusing on neighborhoods that face growing threats to affordability due to rising operating costs and changing market conditions.
- Challenge the City’s largest institutions and leaders in the private sector to commit to deep carbon reductions of 30 to 50 percent over ten years.
- Fund trainings in energy efficiency best practices for building staff to save energy and promote skills upgrading.
- Spur the development of more than 250MW of private solar generation across the City in the next decade – a dramatic eightfold increase over current levels.
- Support clean tech businesses -- in energy efficiency, energy storage, or renewable energy generation -- seeking to expand in New York City.

With this green buildings plan, the City also released this year's benchmarking report analyzing energy and water consumption data in large buildings reported in 2013. New York City is the first city to undertake a multi-year benchmarking analysis to better understand energy and water usage across a wide variety of building types and uses, establish a living library of building data, and identify opportunities to reduce consumption. New York City has, by far, the largest square footage (over 2 billion square feet) of buildings encompassed by the benchmarking legislation (Local Law 84 [2009]).

The Mayor's Office of Long-Term Planning and Sustainability has worked closely with NYU's Center for Urban Science and Progress (CUSP) for the past three years on this annual report. CUSP has provided an unprecedented level of data cleaning, validation, and analytics for the largest citywide data set of buildings in the U.S. – allowing New York City to continue to lead with energy efficiency policies informed by rigorous data analysis.

Read the full Benchmarking Report here: <http://on.nyc.gov/1pnuN38>

The City also released this year's Greenhouse Gas Inventory, pursuant to Local Law 22 (2008), which is an annual inventory and analysis of citywide GHG emissions. Read the Greenhouse Gas Emissions Inventory here: <http://on.nyc.gov/1uahs5P>

The City's commitment to dramatically reducing its contributions to climate change go hand-in-hand with its aggressive implementation of a comprehensive, citywide resiliency plan that will better protect against the risks of climate change. Earlier this year, Mayor de Blasio created the first-ever City office focused on resiliency -- the new Mayor's Office of Recovery and Resiliency -- which is leading the City's work on short- and long-term measures to strengthen coastal defenses, upgrade buildings, protect infrastructure and critical services, and make homes, businesses, and neighborhoods safer and more vibrant.

“This major commitment to cutting climate change pollution from the city's largest source is a perfect way to commemorate the Mayor's first climate week. Nearly two years after Sandy ravaged so many New Yorkers' homes—this commitment will not only help combat the pollution that's turbocharging our weather, but help make housing for many in the city more affordable. This is the kind of urgent action we need in order to protect our children and build a more sustainable city in a changing world. We look forward to working with the mayor to continue building a better future for the people of New York,” said Frances Beinecke, President of the Natural Resources Defense Council.

“America's #1 city will show the way to the big cuts in climate pollution we need,” said Fred Krupp, President of Environmental Defense Fund. “I congratulate Mayor de Blasio for his leadership, especially the Mayor's plan to upgrade buildings so they waste far less energy – cutting costs for families and businesses, cleaning the air, and delivering jobs. I am thrilled to see this proven approach, based on the NY Clean Heat program EDF partnered with the City to create and expand, further expanded in the retrofit accelerator.”

“We applaud Mayor de Blasio for his visionary commitment to an 80% carbon reduction by 2050. Bold plans like these are what's required to pull our planet back from the brink of irreversible climate devastation. Climate change affects everyone - but its impacts are not evenly felt. Climate justice demands that we protect our most vulnerable communities. We hope New York City's leadership triggers a municipal revolution that compels global leaders to finally take long overdue action,” said Eddie Bautista, Executive Director of NYC Environmental Justice Alliance.

“The Mayor is putting New York City on the path to a smarter, cleaner, greener, and more resilient city. Climate change is real, dangerous, and worsening. It falls upon us to slash carbon emissions and protect the city from the climate disruptions ahead. With the smart building policies announced today and with the Mayor’s long-term commitment to a city that runs on clean energy, New York City will benefit as a global sustainability leader,” said Professor Jeffrey Sachs, Director of the Earth Institute at Columbia University.

“As thousands of people participate in today's historic People’s Climate March, Mayor de Blasio is right to announce this bold plan to address climate change. This new plan will help drastically reduce carbon emissions while strengthening vulnerable communities hit hardest by Sandy and creating good jobs that lead to careers. Sandy survivors look forward to playing an active role in helping to implement this plan and making their neighborhoods more resilient,” said Susannah Dyen, Coordinator of the Alliance for a Just Rebuilding.

“New York knows from hard experience just how dangerous global warming already is. We're proud to stand with the Mayor as he calls for real change, and we look forward to working with the City to move forward boldly to address the climate crisis,” said May Boeve, Executive Director of 350.org.

“As we continue to increase awareness about the importance of creating a sustainable environment, it is imperative that we recognize that the fight to preserve our environment and the fight to create good jobs go hand in hand,” said Vincent Alvarez, President of the New York City Central Labor Council, AFL-CIO. “I applaud Mayor de Blasio for crafting a detailed plan to ensure that our planet and its resources remain intact for future generations of working families. The NYC Central Labor Council, AFL-CIO-CIO is committed to standing with the de Blasio Administration, and with partners who share our commitment to protecting our environment and our workforce.”

“Tackling climate change is the challenge of a generation and it will require all the ingenuity and skill of America's workers to do it. Energy efficiency retrofits are a win-win-win. They reduce emissions, save money and create living wage jobs. New York City can lead the way and fight climate change and inequality at the same time,” said Valerie Ervin, Executive Director of the Center for Working Families.

“Increasing energy efficiency and reducing greenhouse gas emissions will help solidify New York’s standing as the world’s model of sustainability,” said Rob Speyer, Chair of The Real Estate Board of New York. “Mayor de Blasio should be commended for his leadership, making New York the largest City to ever make this ambitious commitment, hopefully leading the way for other cities around the world to follow.”

“We applauded the Mayor and his administration in taking a strong stance to address the issue of climate change here in the City of New York. The NAACP supports the Mayor's initiative of reducing carbon emissions by retrofitting public buildings including public housing across the city,” said Hazel Dukes, President of the New York Chapter of the NAACP.

“We applaud Mayor de Blasio's aggressive goals to reduce greenhouse gas emissions in New York and set us on a path to energy independence,” said Bill Rudin, Chairman of the Association for a Better New York and Vice Chairman and CEO of Rudin Management Company. “We are eager to work with the Administration to develop a citywide retrofit plan that balances significant capital investment with the need to improve efficiency and utilize alternative fuel sources to ensure a cleaner New York.”

“The Mayor’s commitment to reducing emissions and improving energy efficiency in our city’s built environment is one that the business community shares and this plan outlines a public-private initiative that we support,” stated Kathryn Wylde, President & CEO, the Partnership for New York City.

“The effects of climate change have been ravaging the communities where NYCC members live for years. From the devastation Sandy brought in the Rockaways to the disproportionately high asthma rates in Central Brooklyn and the South Bronx, low-income communities of color have suffered the majority of the consequences linked to our changing planet. Mayor de Blasio is proposing a new way forward in this city — attacking the root cause of the crisis while creating good jobs for New Yorkers. This is an important first step in a visionary plan to build a New York that is sustainable for NYCC members in vulnerable communities across the city, as well as for future generations,” said Jonathan Westin, Executive Director of New York Communities for Change.

“Accelerating retrofits of large and mid-size buildings is a win/win for the planet, and for New York City’s residents and workers,” said Adam Friedman, Executive Director of the Pratt Center for Community Development. “When we make our buildings more efficient, we not only reduce greenhouse gasses but help keep housing and small business space affordable, and enable workers to share in the value they create. Pratt Center is eager to work with Mayor de Blasio’s administration to scale up retrofits citywide.”

“Our city must lead the way in responding to climate change and taking drastic steps to decrease contributing factors for it. We saw the tragic impact caused by Superstorm Sandy, and have a moral obligation to act now. This plan will greatly reduce our city’s carbon footprint while setting an example across the city and globe. I commend Mayor de Blasio for taking the visible threat of climate change seriously and look forward to working with his administration to reach these goals and make further progress,” said Councilmember Mark Treyger.

“I am proud to join the Mayor and hundreds of thousands of New Yorkers in support of The People’s Climate March. Climate change is the largest problem facing our planet, and with luck this will be the largest demonstration of our commitment to do something about it. Cities, their residents, and those who govern them have a responsibility to lead the way in reducing our carbon footprint, and the place to start is in our own businesses, homes, and public buildings. As Borough President, I fully support the Mayor’s initiatives to make New York the nation’s greenest city,” said Manhattan Borough President Gale Brewer.

“The building retrofit program that the administration has developed is both aggressive and achievable,” said Bill Goldstein Senior Advisor to the Mayor for Recovery, Resiliency, and Infrastructure. “The initiatives that we have crafted to successfully implement this program and the transparent tracking tools that we will use to monitor our progress will be models for similar programs throughout the country.”

“Climate change will affect the lives of all New Yorkers in many ways over the coming decades,” said Daniel Zarrilli, acting Director of the Mayor’s Office of Long-Term Planning and Sustainability. “The Mayor’s bold plan will not only put New York City on a path toward a low-carbon economy, it will also demonstrate to the world how cities can solve this crisis and limit the future’s most destructive climate change impacts.”

“A comprehensive energy management strategy will ensure that all of the City’s public buildings are models for sustainability,” said Stacey Cumberbatch, Commissioner of the Department of Citywide Administrative Services.

“New York City’s ambitious Energy Code surpasses national standards, and now under the leadership of Mayor de Blasio we have a plan to integrate these efficiencies into existing structures by retrofitting our public buildings, and working with private owners to incorporate these standards,” said Department of Buildings Commissioner Rick D. Chandler. “To advance this initiative, the Department of Buildings will work closely with stakeholders in the construction industry to support and educate builders during plan examinations on sustainable building practices that are provided in the NYC Energy Code. The bold and achievable goal of an 80 percent reduction in emissions by 2050 isn’t only necessary for upholding our city’s future in combating climate change, but will also provide substantial energy cost savings for New Yorkers.”

“The international community must band together to address the undeniable impact of climate change, but it is the world’s urban centers that can and must take the lead. With this ambitious plan, Mayor de Blasio is doing just that – marshaling every City resource at his disposal to reduce greenhouse gas emissions. As Chair of the Assembly’s Labor Committee, I am particularly enthusiastic about the job creation and employee training parts of the plan. It’s truly a win-win – reducing the city’s carbon footprint while employing and training thousands in construction and energy services,” said Assembly Member Carl Heastie.

“Climate change is a critical issue throughout my Brooklyn district. I applaud Mayor de Blasio’s effort to cut back harmful emissions and to improve our quality of life. Red Hook and Sunset Park are still recovering from Sandy. The Mayor’s initiative will be a big help,” said Assemblyman Felix W. Ortiz.

“I applaud Mayor de Blasio for the scope and ambition of the plan he’s announcing today. If we’re going to meet the urgent challenge of climate pollution, government has a crucial role to play, both in improving public sector operations and spurring everyone to make the changes we need to make. With the Mayor’s leadership, I’m confident New York City will continue to rise to this challenge, and ultimately demonstrate that the need for transformative action is not so much a burden requiring sacrifice, as it is an opportunity to do things better, cleaner, and cheaper and make our communities and our world more livable, equitable, and productive. I’m committed to doing everything I can to support the Mayor’s efforts to set us on the path to achieving this,” said Assembly Member Brian Kavanagh.

“Our children are already ahead of us in understanding the importance of energy and the environment. Congratulations to Mayor de Blasio on leading the way to improve our school buildings,” said Assembly Member Cathy Nolan.

“We can no longer afford to not be fully committed to take on the threat of climate change,” said Council Member Julissa Ferreras. “I commend Mayor de Blasio and his administration for taking a bold step towards a greener future for all of our families. This plan should serve as the blueprint for the future of our American cities, and illustrates how our City once again is at the forefront of innovative and progressive thinking.”

“If we don’t want to tell our grandkids that we utterly failed them – when the evidence was clear – then we must take bold action now. I’m proud that New York City is leading the way. By setting an ambitious goal, retrofitting our buildings to save energy, and dramatically reducing New York City’s own use of fossil fuels, we’ll be able to approach future generations with a clear conscience and a more sustainable planet,” said Council Member

Brad Lander.

“Throughout Climate Week we have had an opportunity to highlight problems that have occurred in urban America, many which have deep roots in environmental injustice,” said Council Member I. Daneek Miller. “In areas such as my district in Southeast Queens, where a vast majority of residents are homeowners, we have been hit by issues such as inequitable waste disposal, flooding, and rising utility costs. Yet in order to address these problems, a new approach to our environmental responsibilities is needed. For this reason, I am proud to stand with Mayor de Blasio in charting new goals to reduce greenhouse gas emissions, promote renewable energy, and lower costs by utilizing smarter technologies – all while creating new jobs through retrofitting projects and developing green facilities. I thank the Mayor for his leadership on this issue and look forward to creating an environmentally friendly City in an economically sensible way for working New Yorkers.”

“I applaud Mayor de Blasio for advancing a forward thinking plan that will dramatically reduce carbon emissions and ensure the long-term preservation of our city and planet for future generations. NYCHA has an important role to play in reducing this city’s carbon footprint and I look forward to working with the administration to make our public housing more efficient and resilient,” said Council Member Ritchie Torres.

From: Jon Fromowitz
To: Gunaratna, Mahen
Cc: Andrea Hagelgans
Subject: Re: fact check
Date: Monday, September 22, 2014 1:08:30 PM

Thanks!

On Sep 22, 2014, at 1:06 PM, "Gunaratna, Mahen" <MGunaratna@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

<!--[if !supportLists]-->1. <!--[endif]-->The first one is basically correct, but I would omit the use of the word “families” and change to something like: “The numbers are alarming: in the UK, in 2011, the average income of an adult in the top .1% is more than 70 times the average income of an adult in the bottom 90% World Top Income Database, [2011 Data].”

In the UK in 2011, the average income for adults in the top .1% was 922,433 pounds. If you calculate that for the average income of the bottom 90% in the U.K., the average income is 12,993 pounds, which is slightly less than one-seventieth. Source here: <http://topincomes.gmond.parisschoolofeconomics.eu/#Database>:

<!--[if !supportLists]-->2. <!--[endif]-->The second one is correct. Source is as Oxfam, “A Tale of Two Britains: Inequality in the UK, [2014]. You can also link to the Guardian article: <http://www.theguardian.com/business/2014/mar/17/oxfam-report-scale-britain-growing-financial-inequality>

<!--[if !supportLists]-->3. <!--[endif]-->The third one is correct, but are you sure the study was published by both Oxfam and Church Action on Poverty? It seem to just be an Oxfam policy paper: <http://policy-practice.oxfam.org.uk/publications/a-tale-of-two-britains-inequality-in-the-uk-314152>

From: Andrea Hagelgans [<mailto:> [REDACTED]]
Sent: Saturday, September 20, 2014 2:32 PM
To: Gunaratna, Mahen; jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com
Subject: fact check

Mahen - Could you fact check these for mayor?

The numbers are alarming: in the UK, in 2011, the average income of the top 0.1 %

of families more than 70 times that of the bottom 90%. [2011, World Income

Database].

In fact, the five richest families in the UK have more wealth than the entire bottom

20% of the country. And, as is the case in New York City, the trend has been moving sharply in the wrong direction. According to a study published by Oxfam and

Church Action on Poverty, since the 1990s, incomes of the top 0.1% of Britons have grown four times faster than those of the bottom 90%.

From: Jon Fromowitz
To: B
Subject: New Draft
Date: Monday, September 22, 2014 10:30:23 PM

Mayor Bill de Blasio

Labour Party Conference Remarks

“The Power of Speaking Hard Truths”

Draft 20 – September 22nd, 10:25PM

It’s such an honor to be here with the people who make this Labour Party what it is. From the rising stars that will – WILL – lead Labour to victory next year... to everyday activists whose unflinching passion and energy will fuel the campaign.

Though I’ve seen your efforts mostly from afar, it’s clear to me, even across five time zones and an ocean, that this group is working towards something special.... something important. I’m so grateful for the invitation to speak to you.

It’s fitting that we find ourselves in Manchester. This great city was at the forefront of the innovation and ingenuity that drove the Industrial Revolution, helping shape the contours of the modern economy that we know today.

It shares a special status in history with the city I love and am so honored to lead. Both are places where big ideas and raw grit have been honored and rewarded like few others in the world. As the saying goes: “What Manchester does today, the rest of the world does tomorrow.”

It is also among the first places in the world to foster a working class... and among the first where working people empowered themselves to take part in the political process. It’s no wonder then that Manchester is a place where hard truths are deeply understood and spoken out.... Where injustices are met, head on.

I cannot imagine a more appropriate backdrop for this gathering because yours is a party BORN out of working people attaining the right to vote... a party that EXISTS to fight for working families and forcefully address their needs.

Labour has inclusiveness and progressiveness coded in its DNA... Yours is a party grounded in the idea that everyone's voice matters.... And that no one should be left behind.

THIS Labour Party is led by a new generation of progressive leaders and defined by bold ideas. You stand ready to ACT with a plan for a fairer, more prosperous United Kingdom; to make the UK a place where opportunity is a RIGHT granted to all, not a GIFT for the fortunate few.

THIS Labour Party hears the voices of the millions who feel like they are treading water... Working harder and harder but feeling less and less secure about the future.

THIS Labour Party has the moral compass -- and the backbone -- to fight for an economy... a country... that works for working people... for EVERYONE.

And your party refuses to accept the politics of inertia... That resigned mindset that says the next generation is destined to do worse than this one.

By virtue of being in this room, you recognize that we owe it to our kids to do better ... to live up to the most basic promise we make to the people we serve.

I say that as someone charged with the duty of overseeing New York's public schools, where over one million children learn and grow. I also say it as a father of two beautiful children of my own, Dante and Chiara, who have attended those schools for most of their young lives.

There is NO duty more sacred than parenthood.

Nothing gives me more comfort... more joy... than watching my children grow, knowing they can be WHATEVER -- WHOEVER -- they want to be. The boundaries of their future are determined only by how hard they work and how big they dream.

If we accept a future – or a present – where parents can't look their kids in the eyes and tell them they have a shot at something better, then we break the promise of civilized society.... We deprive our children – AND their parents -- of so much.

This is what we are up against. I've said that growing inequality is THE crisis of our time. We see it in the form of a status quo that works very well for a few fortunate souls, but leaves everyday working people caught in a cost-of-living crisis.

I've spoken about growing inequality and this rising cost of living reaching crisis levels in New York, but as the people in this room get, it's every bit as true here.

And let's be clear what we mean when we talk about a cost of living crisis. It's not about penthouse flats, Bentleys or five-star holidays. The people who can afford THOSE luxuries, in fact, are doing quite well under this Conservative government.

But feeding a family, keeping a modest home that's lit and heated, securing a safe place for young kids to learn during the day... THESE things are becoming more and more costly. We're not talking about luxuries, or even conveniences, but the ESSENTIALS that people need to live.

A cost-of-living crisis is an apt way of describing it. Living itself is becoming harder and harder for working families to afford. Not living WELL... just LIVING; just getting by.

And the price this crisis extracts isn't simply monetary.

You can see it in the tired eyes of the waitress whose SECOND job is preceded by a second SHIFT at her FIRST job....

In the juddering hand of the bus driver signing the paperwork for a payday loan....

In the clenched jaws and stiff lips of working parents mustering brave faces in front of their son and daughter... in the WORK that just goes into hiding the fear that they will not be able to attain a better life.

As wealth becomes more concentrated at the top, stories like these are becoming more common and less isolated to the lowest steps of the economic ladder.

If unaddressed, this crisis itself will become THE defining characteristic of our societies... It won't prosperity and opportunity... it will tragically be the inequality and cost-of-living crisis.

I know from everything I've seen and heard that this Labour Party understands what's at stake here.

I also know the weight of this moment can feel like a burden: the exasperation that comes from knowing the gravity of this crisis – a generation's prospects at risk of being forsaken – at a time when so many seem unwilling to act in its face.

The right side of history can feel like a lonely place. But it isn't. It never has been.

Indeed, history itself tells us that people always gravitate towards decency, inclusion and progress. And you don't have to look back thousands of years to see that – go walk around a neighborhood in Manchester... Go to a school, a church, a mosque... You can see the trust people put in one another every day; the value people place in simple moral action.

So why then is COLLECTIVE moral action often so difficult?

In the case of the inequality and cost-of-living crisis, part of the issue is scope: the problem seems so difficult, so deeply embedded, that good people can be tempted to throw their hands up and declare that nothing can be done about it.

But there's something else going on as well. You see, as is the case with many injustices in history, there are people – small in number but outsize in power – who benefit from the status quo, and they work to maintain it. Their voices seem louder... more confident and authoritative... and those of everyday people get drowned out.

In this way, people are made to feel powerless – made to feel that their voice doesn't matter at all.

So at the same time that inequality is skyrocketing the cost of living is overwhelming – something people can see and feel every day in their neighborhoods – we’re told that even speaking of this problem is unconstructive, divisive... harmful, even.

You know that it isn’t. So do the people of your country.

Part of your job then is to help them find their voice to say – together – that Britons want a country that works for everyone.

Sometimes people – good, hardworking people – need to hear the truth spoken before they feel comfortable speaking it themselves.

And there’s so much power that comes from speaking the truth, and especially from speaking HARD truths.

That’s because the status quo gets perpetuated through a series of falsehoods...false CHOICES in the form of conventional wisdom that assigns mutual exclusivity to ideas that should be complimentary.

We’re told that prosperity can’t be both great and also shared....

That you can’t lift the floor for those struggling in a tough economy, and still balance a budget....

That those of us who serve can’t expect to achieve anything at all if we dare to advance policies which are bold and morally right.

In the lead-up to the election for New York City Mayor last year, the voices of the status quo gave voters another false choice: support my candidacy ... OR vote for someone with a real shot at winning.

I am here before you today because the people of New York City rejected the lazy logic of false-choice politics. New Yorkers realized THEY were the ones who got to determine the political feasibility of an agenda that reflected THEIR values.

I want to tell you how it happened.

I announced my candidacy for Mayor from the front steps of my home in Brooklyn in January 2013. A few hundred people were there with me... the earliest believers in our campaign.

We were brought together by a deep concern: that New York had become a Tale of Two Cities; a place where a few were doing very well, but millions of working people were struggling to live amidst spiking inequality and a rising cost of living.

It threatened to degrade New York's status as a place in the world.

The beacon of opportunity that for generations shone so brightly across our five boroughs and out into the world was dimming.

We saw it, we FELT it in our city.... Even if it was unspoken, we saw on our neighbors' faces: the weight of worry about a future of diminished possibilities... For themselves... their families... their children.

And we knew the policies of the status quo were exacerbating this crisis rather than addressing it.

But though our mission was in many ways somber, our mood that day was not. It was a grey, frigid afternoon, but the event had an aura of excitement and joy one would expect at a summer block party. It was no doubt a strange sight to those passing by.

There was a feeling that something special was happening that made the chill tolerable. It came from having found in one another a group of people who spoke the same truth about our Tale of Two Cities...the harm it was doing.... the threat it posed.

There was a sense of relief that came from learning we weren't alone in our beliefs... a lifting of lonely burdens.

And there was a sense of mission that came from accepting a mutual responsibility to act, together, against this crisis... and a heartfelt faith that victory was achievable, no matter the odds.

And the odds did appear long, at first. It felt like the total number of those in the city who had HEARD of me was limited to those standing in front of my home that day... And my house is not very big.

Conventional wisdom wasn't on our side, either. Not only were other candidates for mayor better known, they espoused ideas that were seen as more politically practical, hewing to the familiarity of the status quo.

But it was never my intention to nibble around the edges with policies of timid maintenance; I ran to take dead aim at the crisis of our time. And I became Mayor because every day New Yorkers, too, were hungry to break from an era that was leaving millions behind.

Our campaign was powered by people of every race, every background, every income bracket. And yes, even many New Yorkers who had enjoyed great success joined our fight against rising inequality. They wanted the next generation of New Yorkers to have the same opportunities the city had given them.

We were a small group, at first, but as New Yorkers slowly learned that we were fighting for a government that would represent THEIR values -- fairness, justice, real opportunity for all -- our campaign grew. And grew... And grew.

We worked -- together -- as activists, to spread the word.

And so in living rooms and parks... in retirement communities and residence halls... on Twitter and Facebook... people were hearing from one another for the first time things that they already knew in their own hearts to be true... and they were learning of the POWER that could come when they spoke out themselves.

THAT is how in a matter of months we went from a few hundred souls gathered on a on that blustery Brooklyn day, to not just winning, but winning BIG on ELECTION day.

And our shared resolve to remake our City didn't end when the votes were tallied.

The same tenets that defined our campaign now drive our Administration: a constant push for bold action; a willingness to hear and speak hard truths; an agenda set by listening to the PEOPLE, not the powerful few.

In the first few months of this Administration, we've met some resistance as we fight to make New York a city for everyone.

But we're winning... We're making real progress....

On my absolute highest priority, that's meant working aggressively to secure unprecedented access to free, full day early education programs for 4-year-olds.

We did this because study after study shows the great equalizing effect of early education. But you don't need read an academic journal to get that: we all know access to quality education does so much to determine a person's economic destiny... and as with most matters of destiny, timing is everything.

Now, to give you some context on the politics we faced when trying to expand early education for families, I'd like to read you two assessments from New York newspapers, published almost exactly one year apart.

In September 2013, a few months before I was elected Mayor... the New York Daily News wrote QUOTE "de Blasio's signature proposal... his promise to create 48,000 educational slots for four-year-olds...has little chance of becoming a reality."

Then, in September 2014, the New York Times,: QUOTE "51,000 Answer de Blasio's Bell for New Pre-K."

Now, the 51,000 there refers to the number of kids who have been signed up for these programs. That's three thousand MORE than the number said to be impossible just one year ago.

It also means that 51,000 beautiful children are on a better path to success... And all of their mothers and fathers... grandparents and guardians... they get to experience the comfort... the joy... that comes from seeing the shine of brighter futures.

It's hard to even express how much that means for the working people of our city. But it's also not all we've done in our first few months in office.

We've enacted measures to give over 1 million more New Yorkers the right to paid sick leave, ensuring working people won't lose a paycheck – or a job – because of illness or injury

We've launched a plan to secure affordable housing for 500,000 New Yorkers over the next decade. That's more than total population of the City of Bristol... Or of cities Miami, for anyone watching back home.

We ended what had been one of the saddest manifestations of inequality by reforming racially biased police practices so that ALL law-abiding New Yorkers are granted the basic right of walking down the street without fear of being hassled by authorities.

And we've done this all while reaching agreement on a contract with our city teachers – educators who had gone without a contract for five years. In all that time, the good men and women charged with safeguarding the futures of our children had enjoyed little security when it came to their own futures.

We made a deal grounded in partnership and mutual respect, because RESPECT for working men and women is a core principle that all GOOD governments live by. It was a fair deal for teachers – offering increased pay that they greatly deserved. But it also generated important savings that labor was a partner in achieving. And it was a good deal for the people of New York – those who depend on our public schools and want great teachers, but also those who want to make sure that their tax dollars are well-spent.

So if anyone tells you that a balanced budget and an agenda of economic fairness can't go hand-in-hand, tell them to come visit New York City.

Really, it's beautiful this time of year.

I notice so many similarities between the UK I see today and the New York where I stood on that cold morning and announced my candidacy.

It comes through so clearly, even across all the physical distance that separates our countries: the people of the UK are ready for bold, progressive change.

And if we can make the strides that we've made in New York City from a campaign so humble in its origins, imagine the feats that can come from this great hall!

But there's a more sobering parallel I see as well.... It's in the deepness of the crisis that we share.

The numbers are alarming: in the UK, in 2011, the average income of an adult in top 0.1 % (point one percent) was more than 70 times that of someone in the bottom 90%. [2011, World Income Database].

The Guardian recently reported that the five richest families in the UK have more wealth than the entire bottom 20% of the country. And, as is the case in New York City, the trend has been moving sharply in the wrong direction. According to a study published by Oxfam, since the 1990s, incomes of the top 0.1% (point one percent) of Britons have grown four times faster than those of the bottom 90%.

Now let's be clear: there's nothing wrong with attaining wealth. I'm happy to celebrate the success of those who've earned it. But the policies of the Conservative government are preventing so many from writing success stories of their own.

And as is the case in the US and New York City, the stories of those struggling the hardest – those of unpaid bills and sleepless nights – don't fully illuminate the severity of this crisis.

Mounting disparities in income create ripple effects that undermine whole economies.

The Financial Times recently concluded that the income gap between America's richest and poorest metropolitan regions is not only the widest it has ever been, but that this phenomenon was QUOTE "shaping an uneven housing recovery that threatens to hold back the broader revival of the world's largest economy."

Indeed, in an increasingly interconnected world, a system grounded in exclusivity is not sustainable for ANYONE, including those at the very top. It is a problem that hurts everyone, in one way or another, whether they get it or not.

This Conservative government certainly doesn't seem to get it. Their top-down policies are making things harder for working people every day.

Among the many ways they've aggravated the wounds of this crisis, the most painful might be their tax code.

Instead of giving working families the leg-up they deserve, they gave billions on tax cuts to the wealthiest with the vague hope that money will magically trickle down to everyone else. In my country, that's an approach we call voodoo economics. I have no doubt the word "voodoo" sounds more elegant in a British accent than an American one, but in any intonation, we know it's a policy that doesn't work.

So let me tell you about what does work. And you don't have to look far to see it. In fact, you heard it at your own conference last night.

Ed Milliband has so clearly articulated both the challenges, and the opportunities this moment in history creates for the British people – showing a willingness to take dead aim at the scourge of inequality.

He knows that a cautious approach won't do when it comes to addressing the crisis of our time. He has a BOLD vision for big change. As he said last night: "I'm not talking about changing a policy, or simply a different programme. But something that is bigger: transforming the idea, the ethic, of how our country is run."

Indeed, he knows well what needs to be done. As he told this conference LAST YEAR: "We have to rebuild anew One Nation. An economy built on your success, a society based on your values, a politics that hears your voice – rich and poor alike – accepting their responsibilities to each other."

Ed Miliband will be a Prime Minister for everyone. He will govern for Britons with second jobs and second mortgages, not just those with second homes.

He believes in politics of the MANY, not the few...

Ed Miliband understands -- this Labour Party understands – the true cost of a status quo that puts a barrier between working people and prosperity... the drag it creates on the economy... and on the lives of families.

Because this Labour Party not only has the right values, it has an agenda that puts them into action. Not political talk, but a real plan that reforms the crux of the economy to make Britain work for everyone.

Labour has a plan for a tax code that rewards hard work over existing wealth and power. A plan to end the current government's 3 billion pound tax cut for the wealthiest and instead give tax relief to 24 million middle and working class people....

A plan that protects and STRENGTHENS – not curtails – the NHS so that quality healthcare remains a right and not a privilege...

A plan that puts working people ahead of big corporations by controlling energy costs, and taking unprecedented steps to make housing more affordable.

And a plan that provides 25 hours a week of free child care to working parents of 3- and 4-year olds, and another to expand after school programs, so that ALL kids can get on a path to success and opportunity early... and stay there.

This agenda is a blueprint of what a fairer, more prosperous, STRONGER United Kingdom will look like.

It recognizes that everyone's future... Every child's future... MATTERS.

That is not only why you MUST win, it is why you WILL win!

The upcoming election represents a real choice for the people of your country: build a United Kingdom that rewards hard work and ensures the next generation does better... Or continue down a path where a privileged few do very well, while everyone else is left to fend for themselves.

To me, that choice is very clear, as I know it is to people in this room... and as I know it will become to everyday people across this country.

But to those on the other side, who argue things work BETTER when opportunity is scarce and exclusive, I offer this thought: not even DARWIN was a social Darwinist.

Indeed, Charles Darwin, one of the greatest minds that yours or any country ever produced, put it this way: "If the misery of the poor be caused not by the laws of nature, but by our institutions, great is our sin."

Among the cruelest false choices we are given is one that says we can only move forward if some are left behind. You don't need to accept that. No one should.

The work ahead of you will be anything but easy... I can assure you of that. That distinct histories written on opposite ends of an ocean leave us, at this moment, facing essentially the same crisis – underscores its profound scale.

But you have the power to overcome it.

If you reject the cold complacency of the status quo, its power will erode.

If you speak hard truths, others will listen.

If you empower the great people of your country to speak THEIR truths, to speak out, to stand up and ACT in the face of this crisis, then there is so much good that you can achieve, together.

And I believe you will.

Thank you!

From: Jon Fromowitz
To: Kallen, Laurel
Subject: Fwd: Urgent Proofreading
Date: Monday, September 22, 2014 11:34:18 PM
Attachments: LabourSpeechDraft21.docx
ATT00001.htm

Hi Laurel — 1) Very nice to meet you and 2) wish it were under more fun circumstances. Could you proofread and track changes in the attached in the AM?

Please call my cell with questions: [REDACTED]

Thank you so much! ~Jon

Mayor Bill de Blasio
Labour Party Conference Remarks
“The Power of Speaking Hard Truths”
Draft 21 – September 22nd, 10:50PM

It’s such an honor to be here with the people who make this Labour Party what it is. From the rising stars that will – WILL – lead Labour to victory next year... to everyday activists whose unflinching passion and energy will fuel the campaign.

Though I’ve seen your efforts mostly from afar, it’s clear to me, even across five time zones and an ocean, that this group is working towards something special.... something important.

It’s fitting that we find ourselves in Manchester. This city was at the forefront of the innovation and ingenuity that drove the Industrial Revolution, helping shape the contours of the modern economy that we know today.

It shares a special status in history with the city I love and am so honored to lead. Both are places where big ideas and raw grit have been honored and rewarded like few others in the world. As the saying goes: “What Manchester does today, the rest of the world does tomorrow.”

It is also among the first places in the world to foster a working class... and among the first where working people empowered themselves to take part in the political process. It’s no wonder then that Manchester is a place where hard truths are deeply understood and spoken out.... Where injustices are met, head on.

I cannot imagine a more appropriate backdrop for this gathering because yours is a party BORN out of working people attaining the right to vote... a party that EXISTS to fight for working families and forcefully address their needs.

Labour has inclusiveness and progressiveness coded in its DNA... Yours is a party grounded in the idea that everyone’s voice matters.... And that no one should be left behind.

THIS Labour Party is led by a new generation of progressive leaders and defined by bold ideas. You stand ready to ACT with a plan for a fairer, more prosperous United Kingdom; to make the UK a place where opportunity is a RIGHT granted to all, not a GIFT for the fortunate few.

THIS Labour Party hears the voices of the millions who feel like they are treading water... Working harder and harder but feeling less and less secure about the future.

THIS Labour Party has the moral compass -- and the backbone -- to fight for an economy... a country... that works for working people... for EVERYONE.

And your party refuses to accept the politics of inertia... That resigned mindset that says the next generation is destined to do worse than this one.

By virtue of being in this room, you recognize that we owe it to our kids to do better ... to live up to the most basic promise we make to the people we serve.

I say that as someone charged with the duty of overseeing New York's public schools, where over one million children learn and grow. I also say it as a father of two beautiful children of my own, Dante and Chiara, who have attended those schools for most of their young lives.

There is NO duty more sacred than parenthood.

Nothing gives me more comfort... more joy... than watching my children grow, knowing they can be WHATEVER -- WHOEVER -- they want to be. The boundaries of their future are determined only by how hard they work and how big they dream.

If we accept a future – or a present – where parents can't look their kids in the eyes and tell them they have a shot at something better, then we break the promise of civilized society.... We deprive our children – AND their parents -- of so much.

This is what we are up against. I've said that growing inequality is THE crisis of our time. We see it in the form of a status quo that works very well for a few fortunate souls, but leaves everyday working people caught in a cost-of-living crisis.

I've spoken about growing inequality and this rising cost of living reaching crisis levels in New York, but as the people in this room GET, it's every bit as true here.

And let's be clear what we mean when we talk about a cost of living crisis. It's not about penthouse flats, Bentleys or five-star holidays. The people who can afford THOSE luxuries, in fact, are doing quite well under this Conservative government.

But feeding a family, keeping a modest home that's lit and heated, securing a safe place for young kids to learn during the day... THESE things are becoming more and more costly. We're not talking about luxuries, or even conveniences, but the ESSENTIALS that people need to live.

A cost-of-living crisis is an apt way of describing it. Living itself is becoming harder and harder for working families to afford. Not living WELL... just LIVING; just getting by.

And the price this crisis extracts isn't simply monetary. You can see it in the tired eyes of the waitress whose SECOND job is preceded by a second SHIFT at her FIRST job....

In the juddering hand of the bus driver signing the paperwork for a payday loan....

In the clenched jaws and stiff lips of working parents mustering brave faces in front of their son and daughter... in the WORK that just goes into hiding the fear that they will not be able to attain a better life.

As wealth becomes more concentrated at the top, stories like these are becoming more common and less isolated to the lowest steps of the economic ladder.

If unaddressed, this crisis itself will become THE defining characteristic of our societies... It won't prosperity and opportunity... it will tragically be the inequality and cost-of-living crisis.

I know from everything I've seen and heard that this Labour Party understands what's at stake here.

I also know the weight of this moment can feel like a burden: the exasperation that comes from knowing the gravity of this crisis – a generation's prospects at risk of being forsaken – at a time when so many seem unwilling to act in its face.

The right side of history can feel like a lonely place. But it isn't. It never has been.

Indeed, history itself tells us that people always gravitate towards decency, inclusion and progress. And you don't have to look back thousands of years to see that – go walk around a neighborhood in Manchester... Go to a school, a church, a mosque... You can see the trust people put in one another every day; the value people place in simple moral action.

So why then is COLLECTIVE moral action often so difficult?

In the case of the inequality and cost-of-living crisis, part of the issue is scope: the problem seems so difficult, so deeply embedded, that good people can be tempted to throw their hands up and declare that nothing can be done about it.

But there's something else going on as well. You see, as is the case with many injustices in history, there are people – small in number but outsize in power – who benefit from the status quo, and they work to maintain it. Their voices seem louder... more confident and authoritative... and those of everyday people get drowned out.

In this way, people are made to feel powerless – made to feel that their voice doesn't matter at all.

So at the same time that inequality is skyrocketing the cost of living is overwhelming – something people can see and feel every day in their neighborhoods – we're told that even speaking of this problem is unconstructive, divisive... harmful, even.

You know that it isn't. So do the people of your country.

Part of your job then is to help them find their voice to say – together – that Britons want a country that works for everyone.

Sometimes people – good, hardworking people – need to hear the truth spoken before they feel comfortable speaking it themselves.

And there's so much power that comes from speaking the truth, and especially from speaking HARD truths.

That's because the status quo gets perpetuated through a series of falsehoods...false CHOICES in the form of conventional wisdom that assigns mutual exclusivity to ideas that should be complimentary.

We're told that prosperity can't be both great and also shared....

That you can't lift the floor for those struggling in a tough economy, and still balance a budget....

That those of us who serve can't expect to achieve anything at all if we dare to advance policies which are bold and morally right.

In the lead-up to the election for New York City Mayor last year, the voices of the status quo gave voters another false choice: support my candidacy ... OR vote for someone with a real shot at winning.

I am here before you today because the people of New York City rejected the lazy logic of false-choice politics. New Yorkers realized THEY were the ones who got to determine the political feasibility of an agenda that reflected THEIR values.

I want to tell you how it happened.

I announced my candidacy for Mayor from the front steps of my home in Brooklyn in January 2013. A few hundred people were there with me... the earliest believers in our campaign.

We were brought together by a deep concern: that New York had become a Tale of Two Cities; a place where a few were doing very well, but millions of working people were struggling to live amidst spiking inequality and a rising cost of living.

It threatened to degrade New York's status as a place in the world.

The beacon of opportunity that for generations shone so brightly across our five boroughs and out into the world was dimming.

We saw it, we FELT it in our city.... Even if it was unspoken, we saw on our neighbors' faces: the weight of worry about a future of diminished possibilities... For themselves... their families... their children.

And we knew the policies of the status quo were exacerbating this crisis rather than addressing it.

But though our mission was in many ways somber, our mood that day was not. It was a grey, frigid afternoon, but the event had an aura of excitement and joy one would expect at a summer block party. It was no doubt a strange sight to those passing by.

There was a feeling that something special was happening that made the chill tolerable. It came from having found in one another a group of people who spoke the same truth about our Tale of Two Cities...the harm it was doing.... the threat it posed.

There was a sense of relief that came from learning we weren't alone in our beliefs... a lifting of lonely burdens.

And there was a sense of mission that came from accepting a mutual responsibility to act, together, against this crisis... and a heartfelt faith that victory was achievable, no matter the odds.

And the odds did appear long, at first. It felt like the total number of those in the city who had HEARD of me was limited to those standing in front of my home that day... And my house is not very big.

Conventional wisdom wasn't on our side, either. Not only were other candidates for mayor better known, they espoused ideas that were seen as more politically practical, hewing to the familiarity of the status quo.

But it was never my intention to nibble around the edges with policies of timid maintenance; I ran to take dead aim at the crisis of our time. And I became Mayor because every day New Yorkers, too, were hungry to break from an era that was leaving millions behind.

Our campaign was powered by people of every race, every background, every income bracket. And yes, even many New Yorkers who had enjoyed great success joined our fight against rising inequality. They wanted the next generation of New Yorkers to have the same opportunities the city had given them.

We were a small group, at first, but as New Yorkers slowly learned that we were fighting for a government that would represent THEIR values -- fairness, justice, real opportunity for all – our campaign grew. And grew... And grew.

We worked – together – as activists, to spread the word.

And so in living rooms and parks... in retirement communities and residence halls... on Twitter and Facebook... people were hearing from one another for the first time things that they already knew in their own hearts to be true... and they were learning of the POWER that could come when they spoke out themselves.

THAT is how in a matter of months we went from a few hundred souls gathered on a on that blustery Brooklyn day, to not just winning, but winning BIG on ELECTION day.

And our shared resolve to remake our City didn't end when the votes were tallied.

The same tenets that defined our campaign now drive our Administration: a constant push for bold action; a willingness to hear and speak hard truths; an agenda set by listening to the PEOPLE, not the powerful few.

In the first few months of this Administration, we've met some resistance as we fight to make New York a city for everyone.

But we're winning... We're making real progress....

On my absolute highest priority, that's meant working aggressively to secure unprecedented access to free, full day early education programs for 4-year-olds.

We did this because study after study shows the great equalizing effect of early education. But you don't need read an academic journal to get that: we all know access to quality education does so much to determine a person's economic destiny... and as with most matters of destiny, timing is everything.

Now, to give you some context on the politics we faced when trying to expand early education for families, I'd like to read you two assessments from New York newspapers, published almost exactly one year apart.

In September 2013, a few months before I was elected Mayor... the New York Daily News wrote QUOTE “de Blasio’s signature proposal... his promise to create 48,000 educational slots for four-year-olds...has little chance of becoming a reality.”

Then, in September 2014, the New York Times,: QUOTE “51,000 Answer de Blasio’s Bell for New Pre-K.”

Now, the 51,000 there refers to the number of kids who have been signed up for these programs. That's three thousand MORE than the number said to be impossible just one year ago.

It also means that 51,000 beautiful children are on a better path to success... And all of their mothers and fathers... grandparents and guardians... they get to experience the comfort... the joy... that comes from seeing the shine of brighter futures.

It's hard to even express how much that means for the working people of our city. But it's also not all we've done in our first few months in office.

We've enacted measures to give over 1 million more New Yorkers the right to paid sick leave, ensuring working people won't lose a paycheck – or a job – because of illness or injury

We've launched a plan to secure affordable housing for 500,000 New Yorkers over the next decade. That's more than total population of the City of Bristol... Or of cities Miami, for anyone watching back home.

We ended what had been one of the saddest manifestations of inequality by reforming racially biased police practices so that ALL law-abiding New Yorkers are granted the basic right of walking down the street without fear of being hassled by authorities.

And we've done this all while reaching agreement on a contract with our city teachers – educators who had gone without a contract for five years. In all that time, the good men and women charged with safeguarding the futures of our children had enjoyed little security when it came to their own futures.

We made a deal grounded in partnership and mutual respect, because RESPECT for working men and women is a core principle that all GOOD governments live by. It was a fair deal for teachers – offering increased pay that they greatly deserved. But it also generated important savings that labor was a partner in achieving. And it was a good deal for the people of New York – those who depend on our public schools and want great teachers, but also those who want to make sure that their tax dollars are well-spent.

So if anyone tells you that a balanced budget and an agenda of economic fairness can't go hand-in-hand, tell them to come visit New York City.

Really, it's beautiful this time of year.

I notice so many similarities between the UK I see today and the New York where I stood on that cold morning and announced my candidacy.

In comes through so clearly, even across all the physical distance that separates our countries: the people of the UK are ready for bold, progressive change.

And if we can make the strides that we've made in New York City from a campaign so humble in its origins, imagine the feats that can come from this great hall!

But there's a more sobering parallel I see as well.... It's in the deepness of the crisis that we share.

The numbers are alarming: in the UK, in 2011, the average income of an adult in top 0.1 % (point one percent) was more than 70 times that of someone in the bottom 90%. [2011, World Income Database].

The Guardian recently reported that the five richest families in the UK have more wealth than the entire bottom 20% of the country. And, as is the case in New York City, the trend has been moving sharply in the wrong direction. According to a study published by Oxfam, since the 1990s, incomes of the top 0.1% (point one percent) of Britons have grown four times faster than those of the bottom 90%.

Now let's be clear: there's nothing wrong with attaining wealth. I'm happy to celebrate the success of those who've earned it. But the policies of the Conservative government are preventing so many from writing success stories of their own.

And as is the case in the US and New York City, the stories of those struggling the hardest – those of unpaid bills and sleepless nights – don't fully illuminate the severity of this crisis.

Mounting disparities in income create ripple effects that undermine whole economies.

The Financial Times recently concluded that the income gap between America's richest and poorest metropolitan regions is not only the widest it has ever been, but that this phenomenon was QUOTE "shaping an uneven housing recovery that threatens to hold back the broader revival of the world's largest economy."

Indeed, in an increasingly interconnected world, a system grounded in exclusivity is not sustainable for ANYONE, including those at the very top. It is a problem that hurts everyone, in one way or another, whether they get it or not.

This Conservative government certainly doesn't seem to get it. Their top-down policies are making things harder for working people every day.

Among the many ways they've aggravated the wounds of this crisis, the most painful might be their tax code.

Instead of giving working families the leg-up they deserve, they gave billions on tax cuts to the wealthiest with the vague hope that money will magically trickle down to everyone else. In my country, that's an approach we call voodoo economics. I have no doubt the word "voodoo" sounds more elegant in a British accent than an American one, but in any intonation, we know it's a policy that doesn't work.

So let me tell you about what does work. And you don't have to look far to see it. In fact, you heard it at your own conference last night.

Ed Milliband has so clearly articulated both the challenges, and the opportunities this moment in history creates for the British people – showing a willingness to take dead aim at the scourge of inequality.

He knows that a cautious approach won't do when it comes to addressing the crisis of our time. He has a BOLD vision for big change. As he said last night: "I'm not talking about changing a policy, or simply a different programme. But something that is bigger: transforming the idea, the ethic, of how our country is run."

Indeed, he knows well what needs to be done. As he told this conference LAST YEAR: "We have to rebuild anew One Nation. An economy built on your success, a society based on your values, a politics that hears your voice – rich and poor alike – accepting their responsibilities to each other."

Ed Miliband will be a Prime Minister for everyone. He will govern for Britons with second jobs and second mortgages, not just those with second homes.

He believes in politics of the MANY, not the few...

Ed Miliband understands -- this Labour Party understands – the true cost of a status quo that puts a barrier between working people and prosperity... the drag it creates on the economy... and on the lives of families.

Because this Labour Party not only has the right values, it has an agenda that puts them into action. Not political talk, but a real plan that reforms the crux of the economy to make Britain work for everyone.

Labour has a plan for a tax code that rewards hard work over existing wealth and power. A plan to end the current government's 3 billion pound tax cut for the wealthiest and instead give tax relief to 24 million middle and working class people....

A plan that protects and STRENGTHENS – not curtails – the NHS so that quality healthcare remains a right and not a privilege...

A plan that puts working people ahead of big corporations by controlling energy costs, and taking unprecedented steps to make housing more affordable.

And a plan that provides 25 hours a week of free child care to working parents of 3- and 4-year olds, and another to expand after school programs, so that ALL kids can get on a path to success and opportunity early... and stay there.

This agenda is a blueprint of what a fairer, more prosperous, STRONGER United Kingdom will look like.

It recognizes that everyone's future... Every child's future... MATTERS.

That is not only why you MUST win, it is why you WILL win!

The upcoming election represents a real choice for the people of your country: build a United Kingdom that rewards hard work and ensures the next generation does better... Or continue down a path where a privileged few do very well, while everyone else is left to fend for themselves.

To me, that choice is very clear, as I know it is to people in this room... and as I know it will become to everyday people across this country.

But to those on the other side, who argue things work BETTER when opportunity is scarce and exclusive, I offer this thought: not even DARWIN was a social Darwinist.

Indeed, Charles Darwin, one of the greatest minds that yours or any country ever produced, put it this way: "If the misery of the poor be caused not by the laws of nature, but by our institutions, great is our sin."

Among the cruelest false choices we are given is one that says we can only move forward if some are left behind. You don't need to accept that. No one should.

The work ahead of you will be anything but easy... I can assure you of that. That distinct histories written on opposite ends of an ocean leave us, at this moment, facing essentially the same crisis – underscores its profound scale.

But you have the power to overcome it.

If you reject the cold complacency of the status quo, its power will erode.
If you speak hard truths, others will listen.

If you empower the great people of your country to speak THEIR truths, to speak out, to stand up and ACT in the face of this crisis, then there is so much good that you can achieve, together.

And I believe you will.

Thank you!

Begin forwarded message:

From: Jon Fromowitz [REDACTED]
Subject: Fwd: Urgent Proofreading
Date: September 22, 2014 at 11:26:47 PM EDT
To: "<jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>" <jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>

----- Forwarded message -----

From: Cohen, Adam <ASCohen@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Mon, Sep 22, 2014 at 8:38 PM
Subject: Urgent Proofreading
To: [REDACTED] "Kallen, Laurel" <LKallen@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Laurel, John Fromowitz is going to send you a document to proofread. Please do that on an urgent basis.
Thank you!

From: Jon Fromowitz
To: Kallen, Laurel
Subject: Re: Urgent Proofreading
Date: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 1:56:12 AM
Attachments: LabourSpeechDraft22.docx
ATT00001.htm

Actually use this one — slightly updated draft

Mayor Bill de Blasio
Labour Party Conference Remarks
“The Power of Speaking Hard Truths”
Draft 22 – September 22nd, 1:00AM

It’s such an honor to be here with the people who make this Labour Party what it is. From the rising stars that will – WILL – lead Labour to victory next year... to everyday activists whose unflinching passion and energy will fuel the campaign.

Though I’ve seen your efforts mostly from afar, it’s clear to me, even across five time zones and an ocean, that this group is working towards something special.... something important.

It’s fitting that we find ourselves in Manchester. This city was at the forefront of the innovation and ingenuity that drove the Industrial Revolution, helping shape the contours of the modern economy that we know today.

It shares a special status in history with the city I love and am so honored to lead. Both are places where big ideas and raw grit have been honored and rewarded like few others in the world.

It is also among the first places in the world to foster a working class... and among the first where working people empowered themselves to take part in the political process. It’s no wonder then that Manchester is a place where hard truths are deeply understood and spoken out.

I cannot imagine a more appropriate backdrop for this gathering because yours is a party BORN out of working people attaining the right to vote... a party that EXISTS to fight for working families and forcefully address their needs.

Labour has inclusiveness and progressiveness coded in its DNA... Yours is a party grounded in the idea that everyone’s voice matters.... And that no one should be left behind.

THIS Labour Party is led by a new generation of progressive leaders and defined by bold ideas. You stand ready to ACT with a plan for a fairer, more prosperous United Kingdom; to make the UK a place where opportunity is a RIGHT granted to all, not a GIFT for the fortunate few.

THIS Labour Party hears the voices of the millions who feel like they are treading water... Working harder and harder but feeling less and less secure about the future.

THIS Labour Party has the moral compass -- and the backbone -- to fight for an economy... a country... that works for working people... for EVERYONE.

And your party refuses to accept the politics of inertia... That resigned mindset that says the next generation is destined to do worse than this one.

By virtue of being in this room, you recognize that we owe it to our kids to do better ... to live up to the most basic promise we make to the people we serve.

I say that as someone charged with the duty of overseeing New York's public schools, where over one million kids in grades 12 and younger learn and grow. I also say it as a father of two beautiful children of my own, Dante and Chiara, who have attended those schools for most of their young lives.

There is NO duty more sacred than parenthood.

Nothing gives me more comfort... more joy... than watching my children grow, knowing they can be WHATEVER -- WHOEVER -- they want to be. The boundaries of their future are determined only by how hard they work and how big they dream.

If we accept a future – or a present – where parents can't look their kids in the eyes and tell them they have a shot at something better, then we break the promise of civilized society.... We deprive our children – AND their parents -- of so much.

That's what we are up against. I've said that growing inequality is THE crisis of our time. We see it in the form of a status quo that works very well for a few fortunate souls, but leaves everyday working people caught in a cost-of-living crisis.

I've spoken about growing inequality and the rising cost of living reaching crisis levels in New York, but as the people in this room GET, it's just as true here.

And let's be clear what we mean when we talk about a cost of living crisis. It's not about penthouse flats, Bentleys or five-star holidays. The people who can afford THOSE luxuries, in fact, are doing quite well under this Conservative government.

But feeding a family, keeping a modest home that's lit and heated, securing a safe place for young kids to learn during the day... THESE things are becoming more and more costly. We're not talking about luxuries, or even conveniences, but the ESSENTIALS that people need to live.

A cost-of-living crisis is an apt way of describing it. Living itself is becoming harder and harder for working families to afford. Not living WELL... just LIVING; just getting by.

And the price this crisis extracts isn't simply monetary.

You can see it in the tired eyes of the waitress whose SECOND job is preceded by a second SHIFT at her FIRST job....

In the juddering hand of the bus driver signing the paperwork for a payday loan....

In the clenched jaws and stiff lips of working parents mustering brave faces in front of their son and daughter... in the WORK that just goes into hiding the fear that they will not be able to attain a better life.

As wealth becomes more concentrated at the top, stories like these are becoming more common and less isolated to the lowest steps of the economic ladder.

If unaddressed, this crisis itself will become THE defining characteristic of our societies... It won't be prosperity and opportunity... it will tragically be the inequality and cost-of-living crisis.

I know from everything I've seen and heard that this Labour Party understands what's at stake here.

I also know the weight of this moment can feel like a burden: the exasperation that comes from knowing the gravity of this crisis – a generation's prospects at risk of being forsaken – at a time when so many seem unwilling to act in its face.

The right side of history can feel like a lonely place. But it isn't. It never has been.

Indeed, history itself tells us that people always gravitate towards decency, inclusion and progress. And you don't have to look back thousands of years to see that – go walk around a neighborhood in Manchester... Go to a school, a church, a mosque... You can see the trust people put in one another every day; the value people place in simple moral action.

So why then is COLLECTIVE moral action often so difficult?

In the case of the inequality and cost-of-living crisis, part of the issue is scope: the problem seems so difficult, so deeply embedded, that good people can be tempted to throw their hands up and declare that nothing can be done about it.

But there's something else going on as well. You see, as is the case with many injustices in history, there are people – small in number but outsize in power – who benefit from the status quo, and they work to maintain it. Their voices seem louder... more confident and authoritative... and those of everyday people get drowned out.

In this way, people are made to feel powerless – made to feel that their voice doesn't matter at all.

So at the same time that inequality is skyrocketing the cost of living is overwhelming – something people can see and feel every day in their neighborhoods – we're told that even speaking of this problem is unconstructive, divisive... harmful, even.

You know that it isn't. So do the people of your country.

Part of your job then is to help them find their voice to say – together – that Britons want a country that works for everyone.

Sometimes people – good, hardworking people – need to hear the truth spoken before they feel comfortable speaking it themselves.

And there's so much power that comes from speaking the truth, and especially from speaking HARD truths.

That's because the status quo gets perpetuated through a series of falsehoods...false CHOICES in that assign mutual exclusivity to ideas that should be complimentary.

We're told that prosperity can't be great and also shared....

That you can't lift the floor for those struggling in a tough economy, and still balance a budget....

That those of us who serve can't expect to achieve anything at all if we dare to advance policies which are bold and morally right.

In the lead-up to the election for New York City Mayor last year, the voices of the status quo gave voters another false choice: support my candidacy ... OR vote for someone with a real shot at winning.

I am here before you today because the people of New York City rejected the lazy logic of false-choice politics.

I want to tell you how it happened.

I announced my candidacy for Mayor from the front steps of my home in Brooklyn in January 2013. A few hundred people were there with me... the earliest believers in our campaign.

We were brought together by a deep concern: that New York had become a Tale of Two Cities; a place where a few were doing very well, but millions of working people were struggling to live amidst spiking inequality and a rising cost of living.

It threatened to degrade New York's status as a place in the world.

The beacon of opportunity that for generations shone so brightly across our five boroughs and out into the world was dimming.

We saw it, we FELT it in our city.... Even if it was unspoken, we saw on our neighbors' faces: the weight of worry about a future of diminished possibilities... For themselves... their families... their children.

And we knew the policies of the status quo were exacerbating this crisis rather than addressing it.

But though our mission was in many ways somber, our mood that day was not. It was a grey, frigid afternoon, but the event had an aura of excitement and joy one would expect at a summer block party. It was no doubt a strange sight to those passing by.

There was a feeling that something special was happening that made the chill tolerable. It came from having found in one another a group of people who spoke the same truth about our Tale of Two Cities...the harm it was doing.... the threat it posed.

There was a sense of relief that came from learning we weren't alone in our beliefs... a lifting of lonely burdens.

And there was a sense of mission that came from accepting a mutual responsibility to act, together, against this crisis... and a heartfelt faith that victory was achievable, no matter the odds.

And the odds did appear long, at first. It felt like the total number of those in the city who had HEARD of me was limited to those standing in front of my home that day... And my house is not very big.

And not only were other candidates for mayor better known, they espoused ideas that were seen as more politically practical, hewing to the familiarity of the status quo.

But it was never my intention to nibble around the edges with policies of timid maintenance; I ran to take dead aim at the crisis of our time. And I became Mayor because every day New Yorkers, too, were hungry to break from an era that was leaving millions behind.

Our campaign was powered by people of every race, every background, every income bracket. And yes, even many New Yorkers who had enjoyed great success joined our fight against rising inequality. They wanted the next generation of New Yorkers to have the same opportunities the city had given them.

We were a small group, at first, but as New Yorkers learned that we were fighting for a government that would represent THEIR values -- fairness, justice, real opportunity for all -- our campaign grew. And grew... And grew.

We worked – together – as activists, to spread the word.

And so in living rooms and parks... in retirement communities and residence halls... on Twitter and Facebook... people were hearing from one another for the first time things that they already knew in their own hearts to be true... and they were learning of the POWER that could come when they spoke out themselves.

THAT is how in a matter of months we went from a few hundred souls gathered on a on that blustery Brooklyn day, to not just winning, but winning BIG on ELECTION day.

And our shared resolve to remake our City didn't end when the votes were tallied.

The same tenets that defined our campaign now drive our Administration: a constant push for bold action; a willingness to hear and speak hard truths; an agenda set by listening to the PEOPLE, not the powerful few.

On my absolute highest priority, that's meant working aggressively to secure unprecedented access to free, full day early education programs for 4-year-olds.

We did this because study after study shows the great equalizing effect of early education. But you don't need read an academic journal to get that: we all know access to quality education does so much to determine a person's economic destiny... and as with most matters of destiny, timing is everything.

Now, to give you some context on the politics we faced when trying to expand early education for families, I'd like to read you two assessments from New York newspapers, published almost exactly one year apart.

In September 2013, a few months before I was elected Mayor... the New York Daily News wrote "[The] promise to create 48,000 educational slots for four-year-olds...has little chance of becoming a reality."

Then, in September 2014, the New York Times, QUOTE "51,000 Answer de Blasio's Bell for New Pre-K."

Now, the 51,000 there refers to the number of kids who have been signed up for these programs. That's three thousand MORE than the number said to be impossible just one year ago.

It also means that 51,000 beautiful children are on a better path to success... And all of their mothers and fathers... grandparents and guardians... they get to experience the comfort... the joy... that comes from seeing the shine of brighter futures.

It's hard to even express how much that means for the working people of our city. But it's also not all we've done in our first few months in office.

We've enacted measures to give over 1 million more New Yorkers the right to paid sick leave, ensuring working people won't lose a paycheck – or a job – because of illness or injury

We've launched a plan to secure affordable housing for 500,000 New Yorkers over the next decade. That's more than total population of the City of Bristol... Or of Miami, for anyone watching back home.

We ended what had been one of the saddest manifestations of inequality by reforming racially biased police practices so that ALL law-abiding New Yorkers are granted the basic right of walking down the street without fear of being hassled by authorities.

And we've done this all while reaching agreement on a contract with our city teachers – educators who had gone without a contract for nearly five years. In all that time, the good men and women charged with safeguarding the futures of our children had enjoyed little security when it came to their own futures.

We made a deal grounded in partnership and mutual respect, because RESPECT for working men and women is a core principle that all GOOD governments live by. It was a fair deal for teachers – offering increased pay that they greatly deserved. But it also generated important savings that labor was a partner in achieving. Put simply: it was a good deal for the people of New York.

So if anyone tells you that a balanced budget and an agenda of economic fairness can't go hand-in-hand, tell them to come visit New York City.

Really, it's beautiful this time of year.

I notice so many similarities between the UK I see today and the New York where I stood on that cold morning and announced my candidacy.

It comes through so clearly, even across all the physical distance that separates our countries: the people of the UK are ready for bold, progressive change.

And if we can make the strides that we've made in New York City from a campaign so humble in its origins, imagine the feats that can come from this great hall!

But there's a more sobering parallel I see as well.... It's in the deepness of the crisis that we share.

The numbers are alarming: in the UK, in 2011, the average income of an adult in top 0.1 % (point one percent) was more than 70 times that of someone in the bottom 90%. [2011, World Income Database].

The Guardian recently reported that the five richest families in the UK have more wealth than the entire bottom 20% of the country. And, as is the case in New York City, the trend has been moving sharply in the wrong direction. According to a study published by Oxfam, since the 1990s, incomes of the top 0.1% (point one percent) of Britons have grown four times faster than those of the bottom 90%.

Now let's be clear: there's nothing wrong with attaining wealth. I'm happy to celebrate the success of those who've earned it. But the policies of the Conservative government are preventing so many from writing success stories of their own.

And as is the case in the US and New York City, the stories of those struggling the hardest – those of unpaid bills and sleepless nights – don't fully illuminate the severity of this crisis.

Mounting disparities in income create ripple effects that undermine whole economies.

The Financial Times recently concluded that the income gap between America's richest and poorest metropolitan regions is not only the widest it has ever been, but that this phenomenon was QUOTE "shaping an uneven housing recovery that threatens to hold back the broader revival of the world's largest economy."

Indeed, in an increasingly interconnected world, a system grounded in exclusivity is not sustainable for ANYONE, including those at the very top. It is a problem that hurts everyone, in one way or another, whether they get it or not.

This Conservative government certainly doesn't seem to get it. Their top-down policies are making things harder for working people every day.

Among the many ways they've aggravated the wounds of this crisis, the most painful might be their tax code.

Instead of giving working families the leg-up they deserve, they gave billions of tax cuts to the wealthiest with the vague hope that money will magically trickle down to everyone else. In my country, that's an approach we call voodoo economics. I have no doubt the word "voodoo" sounds more elegant in a British accent than an American one, but in any intonation, we know it's a policy that doesn't work.

So let me tell you about what does work. And you don't have to look far to see it. In fact, you heard it at your own conference last night.

Ed Miliband has so clearly articulated both the challenges, and the opportunities this moment in history creates for the British people – showing a willingness to take dead aim at the scourge of inequality.

He knows that a cautious approach won't do when it comes to addressing the crisis of our time. He has a BOLD vision for big change. As he said last night: "I'm not talking about changing a policy, or simply a different programme. But something that is bigger: transforming the idea, the ethic, of how our country is run."

Indeed, he knows well what needs to be done. As he told this conference LAST YEAR: "We have to rebuild anew One Nation. An economy built on your success, a society based on your values, a politics that hears your voice – rich and poor alike – accepting their responsibilities to each other."

Ed Miliband will be a Prime Minister for everyone. He will govern for Britons with second jobs and second mortgages, not just those with second homes.

He believes in politics of the MANY, not the few...

Ed Miliband understands -- this Labour Party understands – the true cost of a status quo that puts a barrier between working people and prosperity... the drag it creates on the economy... and on the lives of families.

Because this Labour Party not only has the right values, it has an agenda that puts them into action. Not political talk, but a real plan that reforms the crux of the economy to make Britain work for everyone.

Labour has a plan for a tax code that rewards hard work over existing wealth and power. A plan to end the current government's 3 billion pound tax cut for the wealthiest and instead give tax relief to 24 million middle and working class people....

A plan that protects and STRENGTHENS – not curtails – the NHS so that quality healthcare remains a right and not a privilege...

A plan that puts working people ahead of big corporations by controlling energy costs, and taking unprecedented steps to make housing more affordable.

And a plan that provides 25 hours a week of free child care to working parents of 3- and 4-year olds, and another to expand after school programs, so that ALL kids can get on a path to success and opportunity early... and stay there.

This agenda is a blueprint of what a fairer, more prosperous, STRONGER United Kingdom will look like.

It recognizes that everyone's future... Every child's future... MATTERS.

That is not only why you MUST win, it is why you WILL win!

The upcoming election represents a real choice for the people of your country: build a United Kingdom that rewards hard work and ensures the next generation does better... Or continue down a path where a privileged few do very well, while everyone else is left to fend for themselves.

To me, that choice is very clear, as I know it is to people in this room... and as I know it will become to everyday people across this country.

But to those on the other side, who argue things work BETTER when opportunity is scarce and exclusive, I offer this thought: not even DARWIN was a social Darwinist.

Indeed, Charles Darwin, one of the greatest minds that yours or any country ever produced, put it this way: "If the misery of the poor be caused not by the laws of nature, but by our institutions, great is our sin."

Among the cruelest false choices we are given is one that says we can only move forward if some are left behind. You don't need to accept that. No one should.

The work ahead of you will be anything but easy... I can assure you of that. That distinct histories written on opposite ends of an ocean leave us, at this moment, facing essentially the same crisis – underscores its profound scale.

But you have the power to overcome it.

If you reject the cold complacency of the status quo, its power will erode.
If you speak hard truths, others will listen.

If you empower the great people of your country to speak THEIR truths, to speak out, to stand up and ACT in the face of this crisis, then there is so much good that you can achieve, together.

And I believe you will.

Thank you!

On Sep 22, 2014, at 11:34 PM, Jon Fromowitz <jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

Hi Laurel — 1) Very nice to meet you and 2) wish it were under more fun circumstances. Could you proofread and track changes in the attached in the AM?

Please call my cell with questions: [REDACTED]

Thank you so much! ~Jon

<LabourSpeechDraft21.docx>

Begin forwarded message:

From: Jon Fromowitz [REDACTED]
Subject: Fwd: Urgent Proofreading
Date: September 22, 2014 at 11:26:47 PM EDT
To: "<jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>" <jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>

----- Forwarded message -----

From: Cohen, Adam <ASCohen@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Mon, Sep 22, 2014 at 8:38 PM
Subject: Urgent Proofreading
To: [REDACTED] "Kallen, Laurel"
<LKallen@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Laurel, John Fromowitz is going to send you a document to proofread. Please do that on an urgent basis. Thank you!

From: Jon Fromowitz
To: B
Subject: Latest Manchester
Date: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 2:09:24 AM

With some redundancies cut and wording tweaked for oration. That effort is by no means done, but wanted to give you an updated version before calling it a night, in case you wanted to practice first thing tomorrow. Trimmed about a minute off so far, mostly from the first half. I've sent this to be proofread, and will send you a new version when that's done.

Mayor Bill de Blasio

Labour Party Conference Remarks

"The Power of Speaking Hard Truths"

Draft 22 – September 22nd, 1:00AM

It's such an honor to be here with the people who make this Labour Party what it is. From the rising stars that will – WILL – lead Labour to victory next year... to everyday activists whose unflinching passion and energy will fuel the campaign.

Though I've seen your efforts mostly from afar, it's clear to me, even across five time zones and an ocean, that this group is working towards something special.... something important.

It's fitting that we find ourselves in Manchester. This city was at the forefront of the innovation and ingenuity that drove the Industrial Revolution, helping shape the contours of the modern economy that we know today.

It shares a special status in history with the city I love and am so honored to lead. Both are places where big ideas and raw grit have been honored and rewarded like few others in the world.

It is also among the first places in the world to foster a working class... and among the first where working people empowered themselves to take part in the political process. It's no wonder then that Manchester is a place where hard truths are deeply understood and spoken out.

I cannot imagine a more appropriate backdrop for this gathering because yours is a party BORN out of working people attaining the right to vote... a party that EXISTS to fight for working families and forcefully address their needs.

Labour has inclusiveness and progressiveness coded in its DNA... Yours is a party grounded in the idea that everyone's voice matters... And that no one should be left behind.

THIS Labour Party is led by a new generation of progressive leaders and defined by bold ideas. You stand ready to ACT with a plan for a fairer, more prosperous United Kingdom; to make the UK a place where opportunity is a RIGHT granted to all, not a GIFT for the fortunate few.

THIS Labour Party hears the voices of the millions who feel like they are treading water... Working harder and harder but feeling less and less secure about the future.

THIS Labour Party has the moral compass -- and the backbone -- to fight for an economy... a country... that works for working people... for EVERYONE.

And your party refuses to accept the politics of inertia... That resigned mindset that says the next generation is destined to do worse than this one.

By virtue of being in this room, you recognize that we owe it to our kids to do better ... to live up to the most basic promise we make to the people we serve.

I say that as someone charged with the duty of overseeing New York's public schools, where over one million kids in grades 12 and younger learn and grow. I also say it as a father of two beautiful children of my own, Dante and Chiara, who have attended those schools for most of their young lives.

There is NO duty more sacred than parenthood.

Nothing gives me more comfort... more joy... than watching my children grow, knowing they can be WHATEVER -- WHOEVER -- they want to be. The boundaries of their future are determined only by how hard they work and how big they dream.

If we accept a future – or a present – where parents can't look their kids in the eyes and tell them they have a shot at something better, then we break the promise of civilized society.... We deprive our children – AND their parents -- of so much.

That's what we are up against. I've said that growing inequality is THE crisis of our time. We see it in the form of a status quo that works very well for a few fortunate souls, but leaves everyday working people caught in a cost-of-living crisis.

I've spoken about growing inequality and the rising cost of living reaching crisis levels in New York, but as the people in this room GET, it's just as true here.

And let's be clear what we mean when we talk about a cost of living crisis. It's not about penthouse flats, Bentleys or five-star holidays. The people who can afford THOSE luxuries, in fact, are doing quite well under this Conservative government.

But feeding a family, keeping a modest home that's lit and heated, securing a safe place for young kids to learn during the day... THESE things are becoming more and more costly. We're not talking about luxuries, or even conveniences, but the ESSENTIALS that people need to live.

A cost-of-living crisis is an apt way of describing it. Living itself is becoming harder and harder for working families to afford. Not living WELL... just LIVING; just getting by.

And the price this crisis extracts isn't simply monetary.

You can see it in the tired eyes of the waitress whose SECOND job is preceded by a second SHIFT at her FIRST job....

In the juddering hand of the bus driver signing the paperwork for a payday loan....

In the clenched jaws and stiff lips of working parents mustering brave faces in front of their son and daughter... in the WORK that just goes into hiding the fear that they will not be able to attain a better life.

As wealth becomes more concentrated at the top, stories like these are becoming more common and less isolated to the lowest steps of the economic ladder.

If unaddressed, this crisis itself will become THE defining characteristic of our societies... It won't be prosperity and opportunity... it will tragically be the inequality and cost-of-living crisis.

I know from everything I've seen and heard that this Labour Party understands what's at stake here.

I also know the weight of this moment can feel like a burden: the exasperation that comes from knowing the gravity of this crisis – a generation's prospects at risk of being forsaken – at a time when so many seem unwilling to act in its face.

The right side of history can feel like a lonely place. But it isn't. It never has been.

Indeed, history itself tells us that people always gravitate towards decency, inclusion and progress. And you don't have to look back thousands of years to see that – go walk around a neighborhood in Manchester... Go to a school, a church, a mosque... You can see the trust people put in one another every day; the value people place in simple moral action.

So why then is COLLECTIVE moral action often so difficult?

In the case of the inequality and cost-of-living crisis, part of the issue is scope: the problem seems so difficult, so deeply embedded, that good people can be tempted to throw their hands up and declare that nothing can be done about it.

But there's something else going on as well. You see, as is the case with many injustices in history, there are people – small in number but outsize in power – who benefit from the status quo, and they work to maintain it. Their voices seem louder... more confident and authoritative... and those of everyday people get drowned out.

In this way, people are made to feel powerless – made to feel that their voice doesn't matter at all.

So at the same time that inequality is skyrocketing the cost of living is overwhelming – something people can see and feel every day in their neighborhoods – we're told that even speaking of this problem is unconstructive, divisive... harmful, even.

You know that it isn't. So do the people of your country.

Part of your job then is to help them find their voice to say – together – that Britons want a country that works for everyone.

Sometimes people – good, hardworking people – need to hear the truth spoken before they feel comfortable speaking it themselves.

And there's so much power that comes from speaking the truth, and especially from speaking HARD truths.

That's because the status quo gets perpetuated through a series of falsehoods...false CHOICES in that assign mutual exclusivity to ideas that should be complimentary.

We're told that prosperity can't be great and also shared....

That you can't lift the floor for those struggling in a tough economy, and still balance a budget....

That those of us who serve can't expect to achieve anything at all if we dare to advance policies which are bold and morally right.

In the lead-up to the election for New York City Mayor last year, the voices of the status quo gave voters another false choice: support my candidacy ... OR vote for someone with a real shot at winning.

I am here before you today because the people of New York City rejected the lazy logic of false-choice politics.

I want to tell you how it happened.

I announced my candidacy for Mayor from the front steps of my home in Brooklyn in January 2013. A few hundred people were there with me... the earliest believers in our campaign.

We were brought together by a deep concern: that New York had become a Tale of Two Cities; a place where a few were doing very well, but millions of working people were struggling to live amidst spiking inequality and a rising cost of living.

It threatened to degrade New York's status as a place in the world.

The beacon of opportunity that for generations shone so brightly across our five boroughs and out into the world was dimming.

We saw it, we FELT it in our city.... Even if it was unspoken, we saw on our neighbors' faces: the weight of worry about a future of diminished possibilities... For themselves... their families... their children.

And we knew the policies of the status quo were exacerbating this crisis rather than addressing it.

But though our mission was in many ways somber, our mood that day was not. It was a grey, frigid afternoon, but the event had an aura of excitement and joy one would expect at a summer block party. It was no doubt a strange sight to those passing by.

There was a feeling that something special was happening that made the chill tolerable. It came from having found in one another a group of people who spoke the same truth about our Tale of Two Cities...the harm it was doing.... the threat it posed.

There was a sense of relief that came from learning we weren't alone in our beliefs... a lifting of lonely burdens.

And there was a sense of mission that came from accepting a mutual responsibility to act, together, against this crisis... and a heartfelt faith that victory was achievable, no matter the odds.

And the odds did appear long, at first. It felt like the total number of those in the city who had HEARD of me was limited to those standing in front of my home that day... And my house is not very big.

And not only were other candidates for mayor better known, they espoused ideas that were seen as more politically practical, hewing to the familiarity of the status quo.

But it was never my intention to nibble around the edges with policies of timid maintenance; I ran to take dead aim at the crisis of our time. And I became Mayor because every day New Yorkers, too, were hungry to break from an era that was leaving millions behind.

Our campaign was powered by people of every race, every background, every income bracket. And yes, even many New Yorkers who had enjoyed great success joined our fight against rising inequality. They wanted the next generation of New Yorkers to have the same opportunities the city had given them.

We were a small group, at first, but as New Yorkers learned that we were fighting for a government that would represent THEIR values -- fairness, justice, real opportunity for all -- our campaign grew. And grew... And grew.

We worked -- together -- as activists, to spread the word.

And so in living rooms and parks... in retirement communities and residence halls... on Twitter and Facebook... people were hearing from one another for the first time things that they already knew in their own hearts to be true... and they were learning of the POWER that could come when they spoke out themselves.

THAT is how in a matter of months we went from a few hundred souls gathered on a on that blustery Brooklyn day, to not just winning, but winning BIG on ELECTION day.

And our shared resolve to remake our City didn't end when the votes were tallied.

The same tenets that defined our campaign now drive our Administration: a constant push for bold action; a willingness to hear and speak hard truths; an agenda set by listening to the PEOPLE, not the powerful few.

On my absolute highest priority, that's meant working aggressively to secure unprecedented access to free, full day early education programs for 4-year-olds.

We did this because study after study shows the great equalizing effect of early education. But you don't need read an academic journal to get that: we all know access to quality education does so much to determine a person's economic destiny... and as with most matters of destiny, timing is everything.

Now, to give you some context on the politics we faced when trying to expand early education for families, I'd like to read you two assessments from New York newspapers, published almost exactly one year apart.

In September 2013, a few months before I was elected Mayor... the New York Daily News wrote "[The] promise to create 48,000 educational slots for four-year-olds... has little chance of becoming a reality."

Then, in September 2014, the New York Times, QUOTE "51,000 Answer de Blasio's Bell for New Pre-K."

Now, the 51,000 there refers to the number of kids who have been signed up for these programs. That's three thousand MORE than the number said to be impossible just one year ago.

It also means that 51,000 beautiful children are on a better path to success... And all of their mothers and fathers... grandparents and guardians... they get to experience the comfort... the joy... that comes from seeing the shine of brighter futures.

It's hard to even express how much that means for the working people of our city. But it's also not all we've done in our first few months in office.

We've enacted measures to give over 1 million more New Yorkers the right to paid sick leave, ensuring working people won't lose a paycheck – or a job – because of illness or injury

We've launched a plan to secure affordable housing for 500,000 New Yorkers over the next decade. That's more than total population of the City of Bristol... Or of Miami, for anyone watching back home.

We ended what had been one of the saddest manifestations of inequality by reforming racially biased police practices so that ALL law-abiding New Yorkers are granted the basic right of walking down the street without fear of being hassled by authorities.

And we've done this all while reaching agreement on a contract with our city teachers – educators who had gone without a contract for nearly five years. In all that time, the good men and women charged with safeguarding the futures of our children had enjoyed little security when it came to their own futures.

We made a deal grounded in partnership and mutual respect, because RESPECT for working men and women is a core principle that all GOOD governments live by. It was a fair deal for teachers – offering increased pay that they greatly deserved. But it also generated important savings that labor was a partner in achieving. Put simply: it was a good deal for the people of New York.

So if anyone tells you that a balanced budget and an agenda of economic fairness can't go hand-in-hand, tell them to come visit New York City.

Really, it's beautiful this time of year.

I notice so many similarities between the UK I see today and the New York where I stood on that cold morning and announced my candidacy.

In comes through so clearly, even across all the physical distance that separates our countries: the people of the UK are ready for bold, progressive change.

And if we can make the strides that we've made in New York City from a campaign so humble in its origins, imagine the feats that can come from this great hall!

But there's a more sobering parallel I see as well.... It's in the deepness of the crisis that we share.

The numbers are alarming: in the UK, in 2011, the average income of an adult in top 0.1 % (point one percent) was more than 70 times that of someone in the bottom 90%. [2011, World Income Database].

The Guardian recently reported that the five richest families in the UK have more wealth than the entire bottom 20% of the country. And, as is the case in New York City, the trend has been moving sharply in the wrong direction. According to a study published by Oxfam, since the 1990s, incomes of the top 0.1% (point one percent) of Britons have grown four times faster than those of the bottom 90%.

Now let's be clear: there's nothing wrong with attaining wealth. I'm happy to celebrate the success of those who've earned it. But the policies of the Conservative government are preventing so many from writing success stories of their own.

And as is the case in the US and New York City, the stories of those struggling the hardest – those of unpaid bills and sleepless nights – don't fully illuminate the severity of this crisis.

Mounting disparities in income create ripple effects that undermine whole economies.

The Financial Times recently concluded that the income gap between America's richest and poorest metropolitan regions is not only the widest it has ever been, but that this phenomenon was QUOTE "shaping an uneven housing recovery that threatens to hold back the broader revival of the world's largest economy."

Indeed, in an increasingly interconnected world, a system grounded in exclusivity is not sustainable for ANYONE, including those at the very top. It is a problem that hurts everyone, in one way or another, whether they get it or not.

This Conservative government certainly doesn't seem to get it. Their top-down policies are making things harder for working people every day.

Among the many ways they've aggravated the wounds of this crisis, the most painful might be their tax code.

Instead of giving working families the leg-up they deserve, they gave billions of tax cuts to the wealthiest with the vague hope that money will magically trickle down to everyone else. In my country, that's an approach we call voodoo economics. I have no doubt the word "voodoo" sounds more elegant in a British accent than an American one, but in any intonation, we know it's a policy that doesn't work.

So let me tell you about what does work. And you don't have to look far to see it. In fact, you heard it at your own conference last night.

Ed Miliband has so clearly articulated both the challenges, and the opportunities this moment in history creates for the British people – showing a willingness to take dead aim at the scourge of inequality.

He knows that a cautious approach won't do when it comes to addressing the crisis of our time. He has a BOLD vision for big change. As he said last night: "I'm not talking about changing a policy, or simply a different programme. But something that is bigger: transforming the idea, the ethic, of how our country is run."

Indeed, he knows well what needs to be done. As he told this conference LAST YEAR: "We have to rebuild anew One Nation. An economy built on your success, a society based on your values, a politics that hears your voice – rich and poor alike – accepting their responsibilities to each other."

Ed Miliband will be a Prime Minister for everyone. He will govern for Britons with second jobs and second mortgages, not just those with second homes.

He believes in politics of the MANY, not the few...

Ed Miliband understands -- this Labour Party understands -- the true cost of a status quo that puts a barrier between working people and prosperity... the drag it creates on the economy... and on the lives of families.

Because this Labour Party not only has the right values, it has an agenda that puts them into action. Not political talk, but a real plan that reforms the crux of the economy to make Britain work for everyone.

Labour has a plan for a tax code that rewards hard work over existing wealth and power. A plan to end the current government's 3 billion pound tax cut for the wealthiest and instead give tax relief to 24 million middle and working class people....

A plan that protects and STRENGTHENS -- not curtails -- the NHS so that quality healthcare remains a right and not a privilege...

A plan that puts working people ahead of big corporations by controlling energy costs, and taking unprecedented steps to make housing more affordable.

And a plan that provides 25 hours a week of free child care to working parents of 3- and 4-year olds, and another to expand after school programs, so that ALL kids can get on a path to success and opportunity early... and stay there.

This agenda is a blueprint of what a fairer, more prosperous, STRONGER United Kingdom will look like.

It recognizes that everyone's future... Every child's future... MATTERS.

That is not only why you MUST win, it is why you WILL win!

The upcoming election represents a real choice for the people of your country: build a United Kingdom that rewards hard work and ensures the next generation does better... Or continue down a path where a privileged few do very well, while everyone else is left to fend for themselves.

To me, that choice is very clear, as I know it is to people in this room... and as I know it will become to everyday people across this country.

But to those on the other side, who argue things work BETTER when opportunity is scarce and exclusive, I offer this thought: not even DARWIN was a social Darwinist.

Indeed, Charles Darwin, one of the greatest minds that yours or any country ever produced, put it this way: "If the misery of the poor be caused not by the laws of nature, but by our institutions, great is our sin."

Among the cruelest false choices we are given is one that says we can only move forward if some are left behind. You don't need to accept that. No one should.

The work ahead of you will be anything but easy... I can assure you of that. That distinct histories written on opposite ends of an ocean leave us, at this moment, facing essentially the same crisis – underscores its profound scale.

But you have the power to overcome it.

If you reject the cold complacency of the status quo, its power will erode.

If you speak hard truths, others will listen.

If you empower the great people of your country to speak THEIR truths, to speak out, to stand up and ACT in the face of this crisis, then there is so much good that you can achieve, together.

And I believe you will.

Thank you!

From: Jon Fromowitz
To: Hanley, Monica
Cc: Leopold, Elana; Ragone, Peter; Coney, Javon
Subject: Re: Gracie
Date: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 8:22:49 AM

Sounds good

> On Sep 23, 2014, at 8:21 AM, "Hanley, Monica" <MHanley@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>
> Fromo - let's all be at gracie by 10am. Think we shld be there in case he wants to review speech

From: Jon Fromowitz
To: Kallen, Laurel
Subject: Re: Urgent Proofreading
Date: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 8:29:00 AM
Attachments: LabourSpeechDraft23.docx
ATT00001.htm

And one more update (sorry, a few tracks of revision going on). Do you think it'd be possible to proofread this one and send back by 10AM? Thanks so much!

Mayor Bill de Blasio
Labour Party Conference Remarks
“The Power of Speaking Hard Truths”
Draft 23 – September 23rd, 8:30AM

It’s such an honor to be here with the people who make this Labour Party what it is. From the rising stars that will – WILL – lead Labour to victory next year... to the everyday activists whose unflinching passion and energy will fuel the campaign.

Though I’ve seen your efforts mostly from afar, it’s clear to me, even across five time zones and an ocean, that this group is working towards something special.... something important.

It’s fitting that we find ourselves in Manchester. This city was at the forefront of the innovation and ingenuity that drove the Industrial Revolution, helping shape the contours of the modern economy that we know today.

It shares a special status in history with the city I love and am so honored to lead. Both are places where big ideas and raw grit have been honored and rewarded like few others in the world.

It is also among the first places in the world to foster a working class... and among the first where working people empowered themselves to take part in the political process. It’s no wonder then that Manchester is a place where hard truths are deeply understood and spoken out.

I cannot imagine a more appropriate backdrop for this gathering because yours is a party BORN out of working people attaining the right to vote... a party that EXISTS to fight for working families and forcefully address their needs.

Labour has inclusiveness and progressiveness coded in its DNA... Yours is a party grounded in the idea that everyone’s voice matters.... And that no one should be left behind.

THIS Labour Party is led by a new generation of progressive leaders and defined by bold ideas. You stand ready to ACT with a plan for a fairer, more prosperous United Kingdom; to make the UK a place where opportunity is a RIGHT granted to all, not a GIFT for the fortunate few.

THIS Labour Party hears the voices of the millions who feel like they are treading water... Working harder and harder but feeling less and less secure about the future.

THIS Labour Party has the moral compass -- and the backbone -- to fight for an economy... a country... that works for working people... for EVERYONE.

And your party refuses to accept the politics of inertia... That resigned mindset that says the next generation is destined to do worse than this one.

By virtue of being in this room, you recognize that we owe it to our children to do better ... to live up to the most basic promise we make to the people we serve.

I say that as someone charged with the duty of overseeing New York's public schools, where over one million kids in grades 12 and under learn and grow.

I also say it as a father of two beautiful children of my own, Dante and Chiara, who have attended those schools for most of their young lives.

There is NO duty more sacred than parenthood.

Nothing gives me more comfort... more joy... than watching my children grow, knowing they can be WHATEVER -- WHOEVER -- they want to be. The boundaries of their future are determined only by how hard they work and how big they dream.

If we accept a future – or a present – where parents can't look their kids in the eyes and tell them they have a shot at something better, then we break the promise of civilized society.... We deprive our children – AND their parents -- of so much.

Now, I've said that growing inequality is THE crisis of our time. We see it in the form of a status quo that works very well for a few fortunate souls, but leaves everyday working people caught in a cost-of-living crisis.

I've spoken about growing inequality and the rising cost of living reaching crisis levels in New York, but as the people in this room GET, it's just as true here.

And let's be clear what we mean when we talk about a cost of living crisis. It's not about penthouse flats, Bentleys or five-star holidays. The people who can afford THOSE luxuries, in fact, are doing quite well under this Conservative government.

But feeding a family, keeping a modest home that's lit and heated, securing a safe place for young kids to learn during the day... THESE things are becoming more and more costly. We're not talking about luxuries, or even conveniences, but the ESSENTIALS that people need to live.

Living ITSELF is getting harder and harder for working families to afford. Not living WELL... just LIVING; just getting by.

And the price people pay isn't merely monetary.

You can see it in the tired eyes of the waitress whose SECOND job is preceded by a second SHIFT at her FIRST job....

In the juddering hand of the bus driver signing the paperwork for a payday loan....

In the clenched jaws and stiff lips of working parents mustering brave faces in front of their son and daughter... in the WORK that just goes into hiding the fear that they won't be able to attain a better life.

As wealth becomes more concentrated at the top, stories like these are becoming more common and less isolated to the lowest steps of the economic ladder.

If unaddressed, the crisis will become THE defining characteristic of our societies... It won't be prosperity and opportunity... it will tragically be the inequality and cost-of-living crisis.

I know this Labour Party understands what's at stake.

I also know the weight of this moment can feel like a burden: the exasperation that comes from knowing the gravity of this threat – a generation's prospects at risk of being forsaken – at a time when so many seem unwilling to act in its face.

The right side of history can feel like a lonely place. But it isn't. It never has been.

Indeed, history itself tells us that people ALWAYS gravitate towards decency, inclusion and progress. And you don't have to look back thousands of years to see that – go walk around a neighborhood in Manchester... Go to a school, a church, a mosque... You can see the trust people put in one another every day; the value people place in simple moral action.

So why then is COLLECTIVE moral action often so difficult?

In the case of the inequality and cost-of-living crisis, part of the issue is scope: the problem seems so difficult, so deeply embedded, that good people can be tempted to throw their hands up and declare that nothing can be done about it.

But there's something else going on as well. As is the case with many injustices in history, there are people – small in number but outsize in power – who benefit from the status quo, and they work to maintain it. Their voices seem louder... more confident and authoritative... and those of everyday people get drowned out.

In this way, people are made to feel powerless... made to feel that their voice doesn't matter at all.

So at the same time that inequality is skyrocketing the cost of living is overwhelming – something people can see and feel every day – we're told that even speaking of this problem is unconstructive, divisive... harmful, even.

You know that it isn't. So do the people of your country.

Part of your job then is to help them find their voice to say – together – that Britons want a country that works for everyone.

Sometimes people – good, hardworking people – need to hear the truth spoken before they feel comfortable speaking it themselves.

And there's so much power that comes from speaking the truth... especially from speaking HARD truths.

That's because the status quo gets perpetuated through a series of falsehoods...false CHOICES in that assign mutual exclusivity to ideas that should be complimentary.

We're told that prosperity can't be both great, and shared....

That you can't lift the floor for those struggling in a tough economy, and still balance a budget....

That those of us who serve can't expect to achieve anything at all if we dare to advance policies which are bold and morally right.

In the lead-up to the election for New York City Mayor last year, the voices of the status quo gave voters another false choice: support my candidacy ... OR vote for someone with a real shot at winning.

I am here before you today because the people of New York City rejected the lazy logic of false-choice politics.

I want to tell you how it happened.

I announced my candidacy for Mayor from the front steps of my home in Brooklyn in January 2013. A few hundred people were there with me... the earliest believers in our campaign.

We were brought together by a deep concern: that New York had become a Tale of Two Cities; a place where a few were doing very well, but millions of working people were struggling to live amidst spiking inequality and a rising cost of living.

It threatened to degrade New York's status as a place in the world.

The beacon of opportunity that for generations shone so brightly across our five boroughs and out into the world was dimming.

We saw it, we FELT it in our city.... Even if it was unspoken, we saw on our neighbors' faces: the weight of worry about a future of diminished possibilities... For themselves... their families... their children.

And we knew the policies of the status quo were exacerbating the problem rather than addressing it.

But though our mission was in many ways somber, our mood that day was not. It was a grey, frigid afternoon, but the event had an aura of excitement and joy one would expect at a summer block party. It was no doubt a strange sight to those passing by.

There was a feeling that something special was happening that made the chill tolerable. It came from having found in one another a group of people who spoke the same truth about our Tale of Two Cities...the harm it was doing.... the threat it posed.

There was a sense of relief that came from learning we weren't alone in our beliefs... a lifting of lonely burdens.

There was a powerful sense of MISSION that came from accepting a mutual responsibility to act, together, against this scourge... and a heartfelt faith that victory was achievable, no matter the odds.

Now, the odds did appear quite long, at first. It felt like the total number of those in the city who had HEARD of me was limited to those standing in front of my home that day... And my house is not very big.

And not only were other candidates for mayor better known, they espoused ideas that were seen as more politically practical, hewing to the familiarity of the status quo.

But it was never my intention to nibble around the edges with policies of timid maintenance; I ran to take dead aim at the crisis of our time. And I became Mayor because everyday New Yorkers, too, were hungry to break from an era that was leaving millions behind.

Our campaign was powered by people of every race, every age, every income bracket. And yes, even many New Yorkers who had enjoyed great success joined our fight against rising inequality. They wanted the next generation of New Yorkers to have the same opportunities the city had given them.

We were a small group, at first, but as New Yorkers learned that we were fighting for a government that would represent THEIR values -- fairness, justice, real opportunity for all -- our campaign grew. And grew... And grew.

We worked -- together -- as activists, to spread the word.

And so in living rooms and parks... in retirement communities and residence halls... on Twitter and Facebook... people were hearing from one another for the first time things they already knew in their own hearts to be true... and they were learning of the POWER that could come when they spoke out themselves.

THAT is how in a matter of months we went from a few hundred souls gathered on that blustery Brooklyn day, to not just winning, but winning BIG on ELECTION day.

And our shared resolve to remake our city didn't end when the votes were tallied.

The same tenets that defined our campaign now drive our Administration: a constant push for bold action; a willingness to hear and speak hard truths; an agenda set by listening to the PEOPLE, not the powerful few.

On my absolute highest priority, that's meant working aggressively to secure unprecedented access to free, full day early education programs for 4-year-olds.

We did this because study after study shows the great equalizing effect of early education. But you don't need read an academic journal to get that: we all know access to quality education does so much to determine a person's economic destiny... and as with most matters of destiny, timing is everything.

Now, to give you some context on the politics we faced when trying to expand early education for families, I'd like to read you two assessments from New York newspapers, published almost exactly one year apart.

In September 2013, a few months before I was elected Mayor... the New York Daily News wrote "[The] promise to create 48,000 educational slots for four-year-olds...has little chance of becoming a reality."

Then, in September 2014, in The New York Times QUOTE "51,000 Answer de Blasio's Bell for New Pre-K."

Now, the 51,000 there refers to the number of kids who have been signed up for these programs. That's three thousand MORE than the number said to be impossible just one year ago.

It also means that 51,000 beautiful children are on a better path to success... And all of their mothers and fathers... grandparents and guardians... they get to experience the comfort... the joy... that comes from seeing the shine of brighter futures. It's hard to express how much that means for the working people of our city. But it's also not all we've done in our first few months in office.

We've enacted measures to give over 1 million more New Yorkers the right to paid sick leave, ensuring people won't lose a paycheck – or a job – because of illness or injury

We've launched a plan to secure affordable housing for 500,000 New Yorkers over the next decade. That's more than total population of the City of Bristol... Or of Miami, for anyone watching back home.

We ended what had been one of the saddest manifestations of inequality by reforming racially biased police practices so that ALL law-abiding New Yorkers are granted the basic right of walking down the street without fear of being hassled by authorities.

And we've done this all while reaching agreement on a contract with our city teachers – educators who had gone without a contract for nearly five years. In all that time, the good men and women charged with safeguarding the futures of our children had enjoyed little security when it came to their own futures.

We made a deal grounded in partnership and mutual respect, because RESPECT for working men and women is a core principle that all GOOD governments live by. It was a fair deal for teachers – offering increased pay that they greatly deserved. But it also generated important savings that labor was a partner in achieving. Put simply: it was a good deal for the people of New York.

So if anyone tells you that a balanced budget and an agenda of economic fairness can't go hand-in-hand, tell them to come visit New York City.

Really, it's beautiful this time of year.

I notice so many similarities between the UK I see today and the New York where I stood on that cold morning and announced my candidacy.

It comes through so clearly, even across great physical distance: the people of the UK are ready for bold, progressive change.

And if we can make the strides that we've made in New York City from a campaign so humble in its origins, imagine the feats that can come from this great hall!

But there's a more sobering parallel I see as well.... It's in the deepness of the crisis that we share.

The numbers are alarming: in the UK, in 2011, the average income of an adult in top 0.1 % (point one percent) was more than 70 times that of someone in the bottom 90%. [2011, World Income Database].

The Guardian recently reported that the five richest families in the UK have more wealth than the entire bottom 20% of the country. And, as is the case in New York City, the trend has been moving sharply in the wrong direction. According to a study published by Oxfam, since the 1990s, incomes of the top 0.1% (point one percent) of Britons have grown four times faster than those of the bottom 90%.

Now let's be clear: there's nothing wrong with attaining wealth. I'm happy to celebrate the success of those who've earned it. But a status quo that leaves millions of people behind is precluding so many success stories from being written.

And the stories of those struggling the hardest – those of unpaid bills and sleepless nights – don't fully illuminate the severity of this crisis.

Mounting disparities in income create ripple effects that undermine whole economies. Here is just one example of how:

The Financial Times recently concluded that the income gap between America's richest and poorest metropolitan regions is not only the widest it has ever been, but that this phenomenon was QUOTE "shaping an uneven housing recovery that threatens to hold back the broader revival of the world's largest economy."

Indeed, in an increasingly interconnected world, a system grounded in exclusivity is not sustainable for ANYONE, including those at the very top. It is a problem that hurts EVERYONE, whether they get it or not.

This Conservative government certainly doesn't seem to get it. Their top-down policies are making things harder for working people every day.

Among the many ways they've aggravated the wounds of this crisis, the most painful might be their tax code.

Instead of giving working families the leg-up they deserve, they gave billions of tax cuts to the wealthiest with the vague hope that money will magically trickle down to everyone else. In my country, that's an approach we call voodoo economics. I have no doubt the word "voodoo" sounds more elegant in a British accent than an American one, but in any intonation, we know it's a policy that doesn't work.

So let me tell you about what does work. And you don't have to look far to see it. In fact, you heard it at your own conference last night.

Ed Miliband has so clearly articulated both the challenges, and the opportunities this moment in history creates for the British people.

He knows that a cautious approach won't do when it comes to addressing the crisis of our time. He has a BOLD vision for big change. As he said last night: "I'm not talking about changing a policy, or simply a different programme. But something that is bigger: transforming the idea, the ethic, of how our country is run."

Indeed, he knows well what needs to be done. As he told this conference LAST YEAR: "We have to rebuild anew One Nation. An economy built on your success, a society based on your values, a politics that hears your voice – rich and poor alike – accepting their responsibilities to each other."

Ed Miliband will be a Prime Minister for everyone. He will govern for Britons with second jobs and second mortgages, not just those with second homes.

He believes in politics of the MANY, not the few...

Ed Miliband understands -- this Labour Party understands -- the true cost of a status quo that puts a barrier between working people and prosperity... the drag it creates on the economy... and on the lives of families.

And this Labour Party not only has the right values, it has an agenda that puts them into action. Not political talk, but a real plan that reforms the crux of the economy to make Britain work for everyone.

Labour has a plan for a tax code that rewards hard work over existing wealth and power. A plan to end the current government's 3 billion pound tax cut for the wealthiest and instead give tax relief to 24 million middle and working class people....

A plan that protects and STRENGTHENS -- not curtails -- the NHS so that quality healthcare remains a right and not a privilege...

A plan that puts working people ahead of big corporations by controlling energy costs, and taking unprecedented steps to make housing more affordable.

And a plan that provides 25 hours a week of free child care to working parents of 3- and 4-year olds, and another to expand after school programs, so that ALL kids can get on a path to success and opportunity early... and stay there.

This agenda is a blueprint of what a fairer, more prosperous, STRONGER United Kingdom will look like.

It recognizes that everyone's future... Every child's future... MATTERS.

That is not only why you MUST win, it is why you WILL win!

The upcoming election represents a choice for the people of your country: build a United Kingdom that rewards hard work and ensures the next generation does better... Or continue down a path where a privileged few do very well, while everyone else is left to fend for themselves.

To me, that choice is very clear, as I know it is to people in this room... and as I know it will become to everyday people across this country.

But to those on the other side, who argue things work BETTER when opportunity is scarce and exclusive, I offer this thought: not even DARWIN was a social Darwinist.

Indeed, Charles Darwin, one of the greatest minds that yours or any country ever produced, put it this way: "If the misery of the poor be caused not by the laws of nature, but by our institutions, great is our sin."

Among the cruelest false choices we are given is one that says we can only move forward if some are left behind. You don't need to accept that. No one should.

The work ahead of you will be anything but easy... I can assure you of that. That distinct histories written on opposite ends of an ocean leave us, at this moment, facing essentially the same crisis – underscores its profound scale.

But you have the power to overcome it.

If you reject the cold complacency of the status quo, its power will erode.

If you speak hard truths, others will listen.

If you empower the great people of your country to speak THEIR truths, to speak out, to stand up and ACT in the face of this crisis, then there is so much good that you can achieve, together.

And I believe you will.

Thank you!

On Sep 23, 2014, at 1:56 AM, Jon Fromowitz <jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

Actually use this one — slightly updated draft
<LabourSpeechDraft22.docx>

On Sep 22, 2014, at 11:34 PM, Jon Fromowitz <jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

Hi Laurel — 1) Very nice to meet you and 2) wish it were under more fun circumstances.
Could you proofread and track changes in the attached in the AM?

Please call my cell with questions [REDACTED]

Thank you so much! ~Jon

<LabourSpeechDraft21.docx>

Begin forwarded message:

From: Jon Fromowitz <[REDACTED]>
Subject: Fwd: Urgent Proofreading
Date: September 22, 2014 at 11:26:47 PM EDT
To: "<jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>" <jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>

----- Forwarded message -----

From: Cohen, Adam <ASCohen@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Mon, Sep 22, 2014 at 8:38 PM
Subject: Urgent Proofreading
To: "[REDACTED]" <[REDACTED]> "Kallen, Laurel"
<LKallen@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Laurel, John Fromowitz is going to send you a document to proofread. Please do that on an urgent basis. Thank you!

From: Hanley, Monica
To: Coney, Javon; "jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com"
Cc: Leopold, Elana
Subject: Re: gracie
Date: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 9:55:28 AM

Great - we'll both be there in 10 min
Javon pls discuss weather at manchesater

Tonight high 61 low 52
Wed High 63 low 48

Chance of light rain. Maybe we bring a light rain jacket

----- Original Message -----

From: Coney, Javon
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 09:53 AM
To: 'jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com' <jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>; Hanley, Monica
Cc: Leopold, Elana
Subject: Re: gracie

Ty! Mayor wants to see latest copy. We are at Gracie now.

----- Original Message -----

From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 09:52 AM
To: Hanley, Monica
Cc: Coney, Javon
Subject: Re: gracie

Sounds good, I am about 10 mins away. I'll have a new draft also very shortly. It is being proofread now.

> On Sep 23, 2014, at 9:51 AM, "Hanley, Monica" <MHanley@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>
> Fromo - I'm 15 min away. Javon will let us know when boss is ready for prep.

From: Coney, Javon
To: "jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com"; Hanley, Monica
Cc: Leopold, Elana
Subject: Re: gracie
Date: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 9:56:27 AM

We are on side porch.

----- Original Message -----

From: Coney, Javon
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 09:53 AM
To: 'jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com' <jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>; Hanley, Monica
Cc: Leopold, Elana
Subject: Re: gracie

Ty! Mayor wants to see latest copy. We are at Gracie now.

----- Original Message -----

From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 09:52 AM
To: Hanley, Monica
Cc: Coney, Javon
Subject: Re: gracie

Sounds good, I am about 10 mins away. I'll have a new draft also very shortly. It is being proofread now.

> On Sep 23, 2014, at 9:51 AM, "Hanley, Monica" <MHanley@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>
> Fromo - I'm 15 min away. Javon will let us know when boss is ready for prep.

From: Kallen, Laurel
To: Jon Fromowitz
Subject: RE: Urgent Proofreading
Date: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 9:58:00 AM

Okay. Will do.

Laurel Kallen
Speechwriter
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212 341 5391
Cell: 917 655 7578
lkallen@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 9:58 AM
To: Kallen, Laurel
Subject: Re: Urgent Proofreading

If you could send wherever you're at in 5 mins, that would be great.

On Sep 23, 2014, at 9:40 AM, "Kallen, Laurel" <LKallen@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

I don't see any major problems so far, so it shouldn't take me very long. Stand by.

Laurel Kallen
Speechwriter
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212 341 5391
Cell: 917 655 7578
lkallen@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 9:40 AM
To: Kallen, Laurel
Subject: Re: Urgent Proofreading

Agreed! And thanks SO for the help. We are trying to meet with the mayor at some point soonish, so please keep an eye on your email as I may at some point need to have back wherever you're at.

On Sep 23, 2014, at 9:36 AM, "Kallen, Laurel" <LKallen@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Oh, that's a relief. I much prefer to take my time with proofreading.
Thanks.

Laurel Kallen
Speechwriter
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212 341 5391
Cell: 917 655 7578
lkallen@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 9:36 AM
To: Kallen, Laurel
Subject: Re: Urgent Proofreading

Thanks! I don't think 10 am is hard deadline, so no need to rush through.

On Sep 23, 2014, at 9:34 AM, "Kallen, Laurel" <LKallen@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Just now checking my email. Will proofread the speech right now.

Laurel Kallen
Speechwriter
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212 341 5391
Cell: 917 655 7578
lkallen@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 8:29 AM
To: Kallen, Laurel
Subject: Re: Urgent Proofreading

And one more update (sorry, a few tracks of revision going on). Do you think it'd be possible to proofread this one and send back by 10AM? Thanks so much!

From: Leopold, Elana
To: Coney, Javon; Hanley, Monica; "jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Re: gracie
Date: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 10:02:51 AM

I'm less than 5 out

Need me to print anything upon arrival?

----- Original Message -----

From: Coney, Javon
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 10:01 AM
To: Hanley, Monica; 'jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com' <jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: Leopold, Elana
Subject: Re: gracie

K we are on side porch. Please let me know when you are here.

----- Original Message -----

From: Hanley, Monica
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 09:59 AM
To: 'jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com' <jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>; Coney, Javon
Cc: Leopold, Elana
Subject: Re: gracie

Ok great
We'll wait for clean version

----- Original Message -----

From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 09:56 AM
To: Coney, Javon
Cc: Hanley, Monica; Leopold, Elana
Subject: Re: gracie

That latest copy at this second is what I sent him and Monica late last night. Very shortly (within a few minutes) we will have a cleaner version of that... And I will be a gracie

> On Sep 23, 2014, at 9:53 AM, "Coney, Javon" <JConey@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>

> Ty! Mayor wants to see latest copy. We are at Gracie now.
>

> ----- Original Message -----

> From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
> Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 09:52 AM
> To: Hanley, Monica
> Cc: Coney, Javon
> Subject: Re: gracie
>

> Sounds good, I am about 10 mins away. I'll have a new draft also very shortly. It is being proofread now.
>

>> On Sep 23, 2014, at 9:51 AM, "Hanley, Monica" <MHanley@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>>

>> Fromo - I'm 15 min away. Javon will let us know when boss is ready for prep.

From: Hanley, Monica
To: "jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com"; Coney, Javon
Cc: Leopold, Elana
Subject: Re: gracie
Date: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 10:03:53 AM

1 min away

----- Original Message -----

From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 10:02 AM
To: Coney, Javon
Cc: Hanley, Monica; Leopold, Elana
Subject: Re: gracie

At security

> On Sep 23, 2014, at 10:01 AM, "Coney, Javon" <JConey@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>

> K we are on side porch. Please let me know when you are here.

>

> ----- Original Message -----

> From: Hanley, Monica
> Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 09:59 AM
> To: 'jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com' <jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>; Coney, Javon
> Cc: Leopold, Elana
> Subject: Re: gracie

>

> Ok great

> We'll wait for clean version

>

> ----- Original Message -----

> From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
> Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 09:56 AM
> To: Coney, Javon
> Cc: Hanley, Monica; Leopold, Elana
> Subject: Re: gracie

>

> That latest copy at this second is what I sent him and Monica late last night. Very shortly (within a few minutes) we will have a cleaner version of that... And I will be a gracie

>

>> On Sep 23, 2014, at 9:53 AM, "Coney, Javon" <JConey@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>>

>> Ty! Mayor wants to see latest copy. We are at Gracie now.

>>

>> ----- Original Message -----

>> From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
>> Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 09:52 AM
>> To: Hanley, Monica
>> Cc: Coney, Javon
>> Subject: Re: gracie

>>

>> Sounds good, I am about 10 mins away. I'll have a new draft also very shortly. It is being proofread now.

>>

>>> On Sep 23, 2014, at 9:51 AM, "Hanley, Monica" <MHanley@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>>>

>>> Fromo - I'm 15 min away. Javon will let us know when boss is ready for prep.

From: Kallen, Laurel
To: Jon Fromowitz
Subject: RE: Urgent Proofreading
Date: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 10:06:00 AM
Attachments: LabourSpeechDraft23 ed LK 1004.docx

Yes. Attached. Would like to go through the whole thing again, too if possible.

Laurel Kallen
Speechwriter
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212 341 5391
Cell: 917 655 7578
lkallen@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 10:04 AM
To: Kallen, Laurel
Subject: Re: Urgent Proofreading

Can you send current and keep going?

On Sep 23, 2014, at 10:02 AM, "Kallen, Laurel" <LKallen@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

On page 6. Can I have a few more minutes?

Laurel Kallen
Speechwriter
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212 341 5391
Cell: 917 655 7578
lkallen@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 9:58 AM
To: Kallen, Laurel
Subject: Re: Urgent Proofreading

If you could send wherever you're at in 5 mins, that would be great.

On Sep 23, 2014, at 9:40 AM, "Kallen, Laurel" <LKallen@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

I don't see any major problems so far, so it shouldn't take me very long.
Stand by.

Laurel Kallen
Speechwriter
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212 341 5391
Cell: 917 655 7578
lkallen@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 9:40 AM
To: Kallen, Laurel
Subject: Re: Urgent Proofreading

Agreed! And thanks SO for the help. We are trying to meet with the mayor at some point soonish, so please keep an eye on your email as I may at some point need to have back wherever you're at.

On Sep 23, 2014, at 9:36 AM, "Kallen, Laurel"
<LKallen@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Oh, that's a relief. I much prefer to take my time with proofreading. Thanks.

Laurel Kallen
Speechwriter
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212 341 5391
Cell: 917 655 7578
lkallen@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 9:36 AM
To: Kallen, Laurel
Subject: Re: Urgent Proofreading

Thanks! I don't think 10 am is hard deadline, so no need to rush through.

On Sep 23, 2014, at 9:34 AM, "Kallen, Laurel"
<LKallen@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Just now checking my email. Will proofread the speech right now.

Laurel Kallen
Speechwriter
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212 341 5391
Cell: 917 655 7578
lkallen@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Jon Fromowitz
[<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 8:29 AM
To: Kallen, Laurel
Subject: Re: Urgent Proofreading

And one more update (sorry, a few tracks of revision going on). Do you think it'd be possible to proofread this one and send back by 10AM? Thanks so much!

Mayor Bill de Blasio
Labour Party Conference Remarks
“The Power of Speaking Hard Truths”
Draft 23 – September 23rd, 8:30AM

It’s such an honor to be here with the people who make this Labour Party what it is. From the rising stars that will – WILL – lead Labour to victory next year... to the everyday activists whose unflinching passion and energy will fuel the campaign.

Though I’ve seen your efforts mostly from afar, it’s clear to me, even across five time zones and an ocean, that this group is working towards something special.... something important.

It’s fitting that we find ourselves in Manchester. This city was at the forefront of the innovation and ingenuity that drove the Industrial Revolution, helping shape the contours of the modern economy that we know today.

It shares a special status in history with the city I love and am so honored to lead. Both are places where big ideas and raw grit have been honored and rewarded like in few others in the world.

It is also among the first places in the world to foster a working class... and among the first where working people empowered themselves to take part in the political process. It’s no wonder then that Manchester is a place where hard truths are deeply understood and spoken out.

I cannot imagine a more appropriate backdrop for this gathering because yours is a party BORN out of working people attaining the right to vote... a party that EXISTS to fight for working families and forcefully address their needs.

Labour has inclusiveness and progressiveness coded in its DNA... Yours is a party grounded in the idea that everyone’s voice matters.... And that no one should be left behind.

THIS Labour Party is led by a new generation of progressive leaders and defined by bold ideas. You stand ready to ACT with a plan for a fairer, more prosperous United Kingdom; to make the UK a place where opportunity is a RIGHT granted to all, not a GIFT for the fortunate few.

THIS Labour Party hears the voices of the millions who feel like they are treading water... Working harder and harder but feeling less and less secure about the future.

THIS Labour Party has the moral compass -- and the backbone -- to fight for an economy... a country... that works for working people... for EVERYONE.

| And your party refuses to accept the politics of inertia... ~~t~~That resigned mindset that says the next generation is destined to do worse than this one.

By virtue of being in this room, you recognize that we owe it to our children to do better ... to live up to the most basic promise we make to the people we serve.

I say that as someone charged with the duty of overseeing New York's public schools, where over one million kids in grades 12 and under learn and grow.

I also say it as a father of two beautiful children of my own, Dante and Chiara, who have attended those schools for most of their young lives.

There is NO duty more sacred than parenthood.

Nothing gives me more comfort... more joy... than watching my children grow, knowing they can be WHATEVER -- WHOEVER -- they want to be. The boundaries of their future are determined only by how hard they work and how big they dream.

If we accept a future – or a present – where parents can't look their kids in the eyes and tell them they have a shot at something better, then we break the promise of civilized society.... We deprive our children – AND their parents -- of so much.

Now, I've said that growing inequality is THE crisis of our time. We see it in the form of a status quo that works very well for a few fortunate souls, but leaves everyday working people caught in a cost-of-living crisis.

I've spoken about growing inequality and the rising cost of living reaching crisis levels in New York, and it's just as true here. ~~but as~~ And I know the people in this room GET that, it's just as true here.

And let's be clear what we mean when we talk about a cost of living crisis. It's not about penthouse flats, Bentleys or five-star holidays. The people who can afford | THOSE luxuries, ~~in fact, are doing~~ are in fact, doing quite well under this Conservative government.

But feeding a family, keeping a modest home that's lit and heated, securing a safe place for young kids to learn during the day... THESE things are becoming more and more costly. We're not talking about luxuries, or even conveniences, but the ESSENTIALS that people need to live.

Living ITSELF is getting harder and harder for working families to afford. Not living WELL... just LIVING; just getting by.

And the price people pay isn't merely monetary.

You can see it in the tired eyes of the waitress whose SECOND job is preceded by a second SHIFT at her FIRST job....

In the juddering hand of the bus driver signing the paperwork for a payday loan....

In the clenched jaws and stiff lips of working parents mustering brave faces in front of their sons and daughters... in the WORK that ~~just~~ goes into just hiding the fear that they won't be able to attain a better life.

As wealth becomes more concentrated at the top, stories like these are becoming more common and less isolated to the lowest steps of the economic ladder.

If unaddressed, the crisis will become THE defining characteristic of our societies...

It won't be prosperity and opportunity... tragically, it will ~~tragically~~ be ~~the~~ inequality and the cost-of-living crisis.

I know this Labour Party understands what's at stake.

I also know the weight of this moment can feel like a burden: the exasperation that comes from knowing the gravity of this threat – a generation's prospects at risk of being forsaken – at a time when so many seem unwilling to act in its face response.

The right side of history can feel like a lonely place. But it isn't. It never has been.

Indeed, history itself tells us that people ALWAYS gravitate towards decency, inclusion and progress. And you don't have to look back thousands of years to see that – go walk around a neighborhood in Manchester... Go to a school, a church, a mosque... You can see the trust people put in one another every day; the value people place in simple moral action.

So why then is COLLECTIVE moral action often so difficult?

In the case of the inequality and cost-of-living crisis crises, part of the issue is scope: the problem seems so difficult, so deeply embedded, that good people can be tempted to throw their hands up and declare that nothing can be done about it.

But there's something else going on as well. As is the case with many injustices in history, there are people – small in number but outsized-supersized in power – who benefit from the status quo, and they work to maintain it. Their voices seem louder... more confident and authoritative... and those of everyday people get drowned out.

In this way, people are made to feel powerless... made to feel that their voice doesn't matter at all.

| So at the same time that inequality is skyrocketing, the cost of living is overwhelming – something people can see and feel every day – we’re told that even speaking of this problem is unconstructive, divisive... harmful, even.

You know that it isn’t. So do the people of your country.
Part of your job then is to help them find their voice to say – together – that Britons want a country that works for everyone.

Sometimes people – good, hardworking people – need to hear the truth spoken before they feel comfortable speaking it themselves.

And there’s so much power that comes from speaking the truth... especially from speaking HARD truths.

| That’s because the status quo gets perpetuated through a series of falsehoods...false CHOICES ~~in~~ that assign mutual exclusivity to ideas that should be complementary.

We’re told that prosperity can’t be both great, and shared....

That you can’t lift the floor for those struggling in a tough economy, and still balance a budget....

That those of us who serve can’t expect to achieve anything at all if we dare to advance policies which are bold and morally right.

In the lead-up to the election for New York City Mayor last year, the voices of the status quo gave voters another false choice: support my candidacy ... OR vote for someone with a real shot at winning.

I am here before you today because the people of New York City rejected the lazy logic of false-choice politics.

I want to tell you how it happened.

I announced my candidacy for Mayor from the front steps of my home in Brooklyn in January 2013. A few hundred people were there with me... the earliest believers in our campaign.

We were brought together by a deep concern: that New York had become a Tale of Two Cities; a place where a few were doing very well, but millions of working people were struggling to live amidst spiking inequality and a rising cost of living.

| It threatened to degrade New York’s status ~~as a place~~ in the world.

The beacon of opportunity that for generations shone so brightly across our five boroughs and out into the world was dimming.

We saw it, we FELT it in our city.... Even if it was unspoken, we saw on our neighbors' faces: the weight of worry about a future of diminished possibilities... For themselves... their families... their children.

And we knew the policies of the status quo were exacerbating the problem rather than addressing it.

But though our mission was in many ways somber, our mood that day was not. It was a grey, frigid afternoon, but the event had an aura of excitement and joy one would expect at a summer block party. It was no doubt a strange sight to those passing by.

There was a feeling that something special was happening that made the chill tolerable. It came from having found in one another a group of people who spoke the same truth about our Tale of Two Cities...the harm it was doing.... the threat it posed.

There was a sense of relief that came from learning we weren't alone in our beliefs... a lifting of lonely burdens.

There was a powerful sense of MISSION that came from accepting a mutual responsibility to act, together, against this scourge... and a heartfelt faith that victory was achievable, no matter the odds.

Now, the odds did appear quite long, at first. It felt like the total number of those in the city who had HEARD of me was limited to those standing in front of my home that day... And my house is not very big.

And not only were other candidates for mayor better known, they espoused ideas that were seen as more politically practical, hewing to the familiarity of the status quo.

But it was never my intention to nibble around the edges with policies of timid maintenance; I ran to take dead aim at the crisis of our time. And I became Mayor because everyday New Yorkers, too, were hungry to break from an era that was leaving millions behind.

Our campaign was powered by people of every race, every age, every income bracket. And yes, even many New Yorkers who had enjoyed great success joined our fight against rising inequality. They wanted the next generation of New Yorkers to have the same opportunities the city had given them.

We were a small group, at first, but as New Yorkers learned that we were fighting for a government that would represent THEIR values -- fairness, justice, real opportunity for all -- our campaign grew. And grew... And grew.

We worked – together – as activists, to spread the word.

And so in living rooms and parks... in retirement communities and residence halls... on Twitter and Facebook... people were hearing from one another for the first time things they already knew in their own hearts to be true... and they were learning of the POWER that could come when they spoke out themselves.

THAT is how in a matter of months we went from a few hundred souls gathered on that blustery Brooklyn day, to not just winning, but winning BIG on ELECTION day.

And our shared resolve to remake our city didn't end when the votes were tallied.

The same tenets that defined our campaign now drive our Administration: a constant push for bold action; a willingness to hear and speak hard truths; an agenda set by listening to the PEOPLE, not the powerful few.

~~On~~ With regard to my absolute highest priority, that's meant working aggressively to secure unprecedented access to free, full day early education programs for 4-year-olds.

We did this because study after study shows the great equalizing effect of early education. But you don't need to read an academic journal to get that: we all know access to quality education does so much to determine a person's economic destiny... and as with most matters of destiny, timing is everything.

Now, to give you some context on the politics we faced when trying to expand early education for families, I'd like to read you two assessments from New York newspapers, published almost exactly one year apart.

In September 2013, a few months before I was elected Mayor... the New York Daily News wrote “[The] promise to create 48,000 educational slots for four-year-olds...has little chance of becoming a reality.”

Then, in September 2014, in The New York Times QUOTE “51,000 Answer de Blasio's Bell for New Pre-K.”

Now, the 51,000 there refers to the number of kids who have been signed up for these programs. That's three thousand MORE than the number said to be impossible just one year ago.

It also means that 51,000 beautiful children are on a better path to success... And all of their mothers and fathers... grandparents and guardians... they get to experience the comfort... the joy... that comes from seeing the shine of brighter futures.

It's hard to express how much that means for the working people of our city. But it's also not all we've done in our first few months in office.

We've enacted measures to give over 1 million more New Yorkers the right to paid sick leave, ensuring people won't lose a paycheck – or a job – because of illness or injury

We've launched a plan to secure affordable housing for 500,000 New Yorkers over the next decade. That's more than total population of the City of Bristol... Or of Miami, for anyone watching back home.

We ended what had been one of the saddest manifestations of inequality by reforming racially biased police practices so that ALL law-abiding New Yorkers are granted the basic right of walking down the street without fear of being hassled by authorities.

And we've done this all while reaching agreement on a contract with our city teachers – educators who had gone without a contract for nearly five years. In all that time, the good men and women charged with safeguarding the futures of our children had enjoyed little security when it came to their own futures.

We made a deal grounded in partnership and mutual respect, because RESPECT for working men and women is a core principle that all GOOD governments live by. It was a fair deal for teachers – offering increased pay that they greatly deserved. But it also generated important savings that labor was a partner in achieving. Put simply: it was a good deal for the people of New York.

So if anyone tells you that a balanced budget and an agenda of economic fairness can't go hand-in-hand, tell them to come visit New York City.

Really, it's beautiful this time of year.

I notice so many similarities between the UK I see today and the New York where I stood on that cold morning and announced my candidacy.

It comes through so clearly, even across great physical distance: the people of the UK are ready for bold, progressive change.

And if we can make the strides that we've made in New York City from a campaign so humble in its origins, imagine the feats that can come from this great hall!

But there's a more sobering parallel I see as well.... It's in the deepness of the crisis that we share.

The numbers are alarming: in the UK, in 2011, the average income of an adult in top 0.1 % (point one percent) was more than 70 times that of someone in the bottom 90%. [2011, World Income Database].

The Guardian recently reported that the five richest families in the UK have more wealth than the entire bottom 20% of the country. And, as is the case in New York City, the trend has been moving sharply in the wrong direction. According to a study published by Oxfam, since the 1990s, incomes of the top 0.1% (point one percent) of Britons have grown four times faster than those of the bottom 90%. Now let's be clear: there's nothing wrong with attaining wealth. I'm happy to celebrate the success of those who've earned it. But a status quo that leaves millions of people behind is precluding so many success stories from being written.

And the stories of those struggling the hardest – those of unpaid bills and sleepless nights – don't fully illuminate the severity of this crisis.

Mounting disparities in income create ripple effects that undermine whole economies. Here is just one example of how:

The Financial Times recently concluded that the income gap between America's richest and poorest metropolitan regions is not only the widest it has ever been, but that this phenomenon was QUOTE "shaping an uneven housing recovery that threatens to hold back the broader revival of the world's largest economy."

Indeed, in an increasingly interconnected world, a system grounded in exclusivity is not sustainable for ANYONE, including those at the very top. It is a problem that hurts EVERYONE, whether they get it or not.

This Conservative government certainly doesn't seem to get it. Their top-down policies are making things harder for working people every day.

Among the many ways they've aggravated the wounds of this crisis, the most painful might be their tax code.

Instead of giving working families the leg-up they deserve, they gave billions of tax cuts to the wealthiest with the vague hope that money will magically trickle down to everyone else. In my country, that's an approach we call voodoo economics. I have no doubt the word "voodoo" sounds more elegant in a British accent than an American one, but in any intonation, we know it's a policy that doesn't work.

So let me tell you about what does work. And you don't have to look far to see it. In fact, you heard it at your own conference last night.

Ed Miliband has so clearly articulated both the challenges, and the opportunities this moment in history creates for the British people.

He knows that a cautious approach won't do when it comes to addressing the crisis of our time. He has a BOLD vision for big change. As he said last night: "I'm not talking about changing a policy, or simply a different programme. But something that is bigger: transforming the idea, the ethic, of how our country is run.”

Indeed, he knows well what needs to be done. As he told this conference LAST YEAR: “We have to rebuild anew One Nation. An economy built on your success, a society based on your values, a politics that hears your voice – rich and poor alike – accepting their responsibilities to each other.”

Ed Miliband will be a Prime Minister for everyone. He will govern for Britons with second jobs and second mortgages, not just those with second homes.

He believes in politics of the MANY, not the few...

Ed Miliband understands -- this Labour Party understands – the true cost of a status quo that puts a barrier between working people and prosperity... the drag it creates on the economy... and on the lives of families.

And this Labour Party not only has the right values, it has an agenda that puts them into action. Not political talk, but a real plan that reforms the crux of the economy to make Britain work for everyone.

Labour has a plan for a tax code that rewards hard work over existing wealth and power. A plan to end the current government’s 3 billion pound tax cut for the wealthiest and instead give tax relief to 24 million middle and working class people....

A plan that protects and STRENGTHENS – not curtails – the NHS so that quality healthcare remains a right and not a privilege...

A plan that puts working people ahead of big corporations by controlling energy costs, and taking unprecedented steps to make housing more affordable.

And a plan that provides 25 hours a week of free child care to working parents of 3- and 4-year olds, and another to expand after school programs, so that ALL kids can get on a path to success and opportunity early... and stay there.

This agenda is a blueprint of what a fairer, more prosperous, STRONGER United Kingdom will look like.

It recognizes that everyone’s future... Every child’s future... MATTERS.

That is not only why you MUST win, it is why you WILL win!

The upcoming election represents a choice for the people of your country: build a United Kingdom that rewards hard work and ensures the next generation does better... Or continue down a path where a privileged few do very well, while everyone else is left to fend for themselves.

To me, that choice is very clear, as I know it is to people in this room... and as I know it will become to everyday people across this country.

But to those on the other side, who argue things work BETTER when opportunity is scarce and exclusive, I offer this thought: not even DARWIN was a social Darwinist.

Indeed, Charles Darwin, one of the greatest minds that yours or any country ever produced, put it this way: "If the misery of the poor be caused not by the laws of nature, but by our institutions, great is our sin."

Among the cruelest false choices we are given is one that says we can only move forward if some are left behind. You don't need to accept that. No one should.

The work ahead of you will be anything but easy... I can assure you of that. That distinct histories written on opposite ends of an ocean leave us, at this moment, facing essentially the same crisis – underscores its profound scale.

But you have the power to overcome it.

If you reject the cold complacency of the status quo, its power will erode.

If you speak hard truths, others will listen.

If you empower the great people of your country to speak THEIR truths, to speak out, to stand up and ACT in the face of this crisis, then there is so much good that you can achieve, together.

And I believe you will.

Thank you!

From: Kallen, Laurel
To: Jon Fromowitz
Subject: RE: Urgent Proofreading
Date: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 10:06:00 AM

Continuing, now.

Laurel Kallen
Speechwriter
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212 341 5391
Cell: 917 655 7578
lkallen@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 10:04 AM
To: Kallen, Laurel
Subject: Re: Urgent Proofreading

Can you send current and keep going?

On Sep 23, 2014, at 10:02 AM, "Kallen, Laurel" <LKallen@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

On page 6. Can I have a few more minutes?

Laurel Kallen
Speechwriter
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212 341 5391
Cell: 917 655 7578
lkallen@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 9:58 AM
To: Kallen, Laurel
Subject: Re: Urgent Proofreading

If you could send wherever you're at in 5 mins, that would be great.

On Sep 23, 2014, at 9:40 AM, "Kallen, Laurel" <LKallen@cityhall.nyc.gov>

wrote:

I don't see any major problems so far, so it shouldn't take me very long.
Stand by.

Laurel Kallen
Speechwriter
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212 341 5391
Cell: 917 655 7578
lkallen@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 9:40 AM
To: Kallen, Laurel
Subject: Re: Urgent Proofreading

Agreed! And thanks SO for the help. We are trying to meet with the mayor at some point soonish, so please keep an eye on your email as I may at some point need to have back wherever you're at.

On Sep 23, 2014, at 9:36 AM, "Kallen, Laurel"
<LKallen@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Oh, that's a relief. I much prefer to take my time with proofreading. Thanks.

Laurel Kallen
Speechwriter
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212 341 5391
Cell: 917 655 7578
lkallen@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 9:36 AM
To: Kallen, Laurel
Subject: Re: Urgent Proofreading

Thanks! I don't think 10 am is hard deadline, so no need to rush through.

On Sep 23, 2014, at 9:34 AM, "Kallen, Laurel"
<LKallen@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Just now checking my email. Will proofread
the speech right now.

Laurel Kallen
Speechwriter
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212 341 5391
Cell: 917 655 7578
lkallen@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Jon Fromowitz
[<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 8:29 AM
To: Kallen, Laurel
Subject: Re: Urgent Proofreading

And one more update (sorry, a few tracks of revision going on). Do you think it'd be possible to proofread this one and send back by 10AM? Thanks so much!

From: Kallen, Laurel
To: Jon Fromowitz
Subject: RE: Urgent Proofreading
Date: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 10:18:00 AM
Attachments: LabourSpeechDraft23 ed LK 1017.docx

Here is the complete speech. Can I run through it a second time?

Laurel Kallen
Speechwriter
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212 341 5391
Cell: 917 655 7578
lkallen@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 10:04 AM
To: Kallen, Laurel
Subject: Re: Urgent Proofreading

Can you send current and keep going?

On Sep 23, 2014, at 10:02 AM, "Kallen, Laurel" <LKallen@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

On page 6. Can I have a few more minutes?

Laurel Kallen
Speechwriter
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212 341 5391
Cell: 917 655 7578
lkallen@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 9:58 AM
To: Kallen, Laurel
Subject: Re: Urgent Proofreading

If you could send wherever you're at in 5 mins, that would be great.

On Sep 23, 2014, at 9:40 AM, "Kallen, Laurel" <LKallen@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

I don't see any major problems so far, so it shouldn't take me very long.
Stand by.

Laurel Kallen
Speechwriter
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212 341 5391
Cell: 917 655 7578
lkallen@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 9:40 AM
To: Kallen, Laurel
Subject: Re: Urgent Proofreading

Agreed! And thanks SO for the help. We are trying to meet with the mayor at some point soonish, so please keep an eye on your email as I may at some point need to have back wherever you're at.

On Sep 23, 2014, at 9:36 AM, "Kallen, Laurel"
<LKallen@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Oh, that's a relief. I much prefer to take my time with proofreading. Thanks.

Laurel Kallen
Speechwriter
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212 341 5391
Cell: 917 655 7578
lkallen@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 9:36 AM
To: Kallen, Laurel
Subject: Re: Urgent Proofreading

Thanks! I don't think 10 am is hard deadline, so no need to rush through.

On Sep 23, 2014, at 9:34 AM, "Kallen, Laurel"
<LKallen@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Just now checking my email. Will proofread the speech right now.

Laurel Kallen
Speechwriter
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212 341 5391
Cell: 917 655 7578
lkallen@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Jon Fromowitz
[<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 8:29 AM
To: Kallen, Laurel
Subject: Re: Urgent Proofreading

And one more update (sorry, a few tracks of revision going on). Do you think it'd be possible to proofread this one and send back by 10AM? Thanks so much!

Mayor Bill de Blasio
Labour Party Conference Remarks
“The Power of Speaking Hard Truths”
Draft 23 – September 23rd, 8:30AM

It’s such an honor to be here with the people who make this Labour Party what it is. From the rising stars that will – WILL – lead Labour to victory next year... to the everyday activists whose unflinching passion and energy will fuel the campaign.

Though I’ve seen your efforts mostly from afar, it’s clear to me, even across five time zones and an ocean, that this group is working towards something special.... something important.

It’s fitting that we find ourselves in Manchester. This city was at the forefront of the innovation and ingenuity that drove the Industrial Revolution, helping shape the contours of the modern economy that we know today.

It shares a special status in history with the city I love and am so honored to lead. Both are places where big ideas and raw grit have been honored and rewarded like in few others in the world.

It is also among the first places in the world to foster a working class... and among the first where working people empowered themselves to take part in the political process. It’s no wonder then that Manchester is a place where hard truths are deeply understood and spoken out.

I cannot imagine a more appropriate backdrop for this gathering because yours is a party BORN out of working people attaining the right to vote... a party that EXISTS to fight for working families and forcefully address their needs.

Labour has inclusiveness and progressiveness coded in its DNA... Yours is a party grounded in the idea that everyone’s voice matters.... And that no one should be left behind.

THIS Labour Party is led by a new generation of progressive leaders and defined by bold ideas. You stand ready to ACT with a plan for a fairer, more prosperous United Kingdom; to make the UK a place where opportunity is a RIGHT granted to all, not a GIFT for the fortunate few.

THIS Labour Party hears the voices of the millions who feel like they are treading water... Working harder and harder but feeling less and less secure about the future.

THIS Labour Party has the moral compass -- and the backbone -- to fight for an economy... a country... that works for working people... for EVERYONE.

And your party refuses to accept the politics of inertia... ~~That~~ That resigned mindset that says the next generation is destined to do worse than this one.

By virtue of being in this room, you recognize that we owe it to our children to do better ... to live up to the most basic promise we make to the people we serve.

I say that as someone charged with the duty of overseeing New York's public schools, where over one million kids in grades 12 and under learn and grow.

I also say it as a father of two beautiful children of my own, Dante and Chiara, who have attended those schools for most of their young lives.

There is NO duty more sacred than parenthood.

Nothing gives me more comfort... more joy... than watching my children grow, knowing they can be WHATEVER -- WHOEVER -- they want to be. The boundaries of their future are determined only by how hard they work and how big they dream.

If we accept a future – or a present – where parents can't look their kids in the eyes and tell them they have a shot at something better, then we break the promise of civilized society.... We deprive our children – AND their parents -- of so much.

Now, I've said that growing inequality is THE crisis of our time. We see it in the form of a status quo that works very well for a few fortunate souls, but leaves everyday working people caught in a cost-of-living crisis.

I've spoken about growing inequality and the rising cost of living reaching crisis levels in New York, and it's just as true here. ~~but as~~ And I know the people in this room GET that, it's just as true here.

And let's be clear what we mean when we talk about a cost of living crisis. It's not about penthouse flats, Bentleys or five-star holidays. The people who can afford THOSE luxuries, ~~in fact, are doing~~ are in fact, doing quite well under this Conservative government.

But feeding a family, keeping a modest home that's lit and heated, securing a safe place for young kids to learn during the day... THESE things are becoming more and more costly. We're not talking about luxuries, or even conveniences, but the ESSENTIALS that people need to live.

Living ITSELF is getting harder and harder for working families to afford. Not living WELL... just LIVING; just getting by.

And the price people pay isn't merely monetary.

You can see it in the tired eyes of the waitress whose SECOND job is preceded by a second SHIFT at her FIRST job....

In the juddering hand of the bus driver signing the paperwork for a payday loan....

In the clenched jaws and stiff lips of working parents mustering brave faces in front of their sons and daughters... in the WORK that ~~just~~ goes into just hiding the fear that they won't be able to attain a better life.

As wealth becomes more concentrated at the top, stories like these are becoming more common and less isolated to the lowest steps of the economic ladder.

If unaddressed, the crisis will become THE defining characteristic of our societies...

It won't be prosperity and opportunity... tragically, it will ~~tragically~~ be ~~the~~ inequality and the cost-of-living crisis.

I know this Labour Party understands what's at stake.

I also know the weight of this moment can feel like a burden: the exasperation that comes from knowing the gravity of this threat – a generation's prospects at risk of being forsaken – at a time when so many seem unwilling to act in its face response.

The right side of history can feel like a lonely place. But it isn't. It never has been.

Indeed, history itself tells us that people ALWAYS gravitate towards decency, inclusion and progress. And you don't have to look back thousands of years to see that – go walk around a neighborhood in Manchester... Go to a school, a church, a mosque... You can see the trust people put in one another every day; the value people place in simple moral action.

So why then is COLLECTIVE moral action often so difficult?

In the case of the inequality and cost-of-living crisis crises, part of the issue is scope: the problem seems so difficult, so deeply embedded, that good people can be tempted to throw their hands up and declare that nothing can be done about it.

But there's something else going on as well. As is the case with many injustices in history, there are people – small in number but outsized-supersized in power – who benefit from the status quo, and they work to maintain it. Their voices seem louder... more confident and authoritative... and those of everyday people get drowned out.

In this way, people are made to feel powerless... made to feel that their voice doesn't matter at all.

| So at the same time that inequality is skyrocketing, the cost of living is overwhelming – something people can see and feel every day – we’re told that even speaking of this problem is unconstructive, divisive... harmful, even.

You know that it isn’t. So do the people of your country.
Part of your job then is to help them find their voice to say – together – that Britons want a country that works for everyone.

Sometimes people – good, hardworking people – need to hear the truth spoken before they feel comfortable speaking it themselves.

And there’s so much power that comes from speaking the truth... especially from speaking HARD truths.

| That’s because the status quo gets perpetuated through a series of falsehoods...false CHOICES ~~in~~ that assign mutual exclusivity to ideas that should be complementary.

We’re told that prosperity can’t be both great, and shared....

That you can’t lift the floor for those struggling in a tough economy, and still balance a budget....

That those of us who serve can’t expect to achieve anything at all if we dare to advance policies which are bold and morally right.

In the lead-up to the election for New York City Mayor last year, the voices of the status quo gave voters another false choice: support my candidacy ... OR vote for someone with a real shot at winning.

I am here before you today because the people of New York City rejected the lazy logic of false-choice politics.

I want to tell you how it happened.

I announced my candidacy for Mayor from the front steps of my home in Brooklyn in January 2013. A few hundred people were there with me... the earliest believers in our campaign.

We were brought together by a deep concern: that New York had become a Tale of Two Cities; a place where a few were doing very well, but millions of working people were struggling to live amidst spiking inequality and a rising cost of living.

| It threatened to degrade New York’s status ~~as a place~~ in the world.

The beacon of opportunity that for generations shone so brightly across our five boroughs and out into the world was dimming.

We saw it, we FELT it in our city.... Even if it was unspoken, we saw on our neighbors' faces: the weight of worry about a future of diminished possibilities... For themselves... their families... their children.

And we knew the policies of the status quo were exacerbating the problem rather than addressing it.

But though our mission was in many ways somber, our mood that day was not. It was a grey, frigid afternoon, but the event had an aura of excitement and joy one would expect at a summer block party. It was no doubt a strange sight to those passing by.

There was a feeling that something special was happening that made the chill tolerable. It came from having found in one another a group of people who spoke the same truth about our Tale of Two Cities...the harm it was doing.... the threat it posed.

There was a sense of relief that came from learning we weren't alone in our beliefs... a lifting of lonely burdens.

There was a powerful sense of MISSION that came from accepting a mutual responsibility to act, together, against this scourge... and a heartfelt faith that victory was achievable, no matter the odds.

Now, the odds did appear quite long, at first. It felt like the total number of those in the city who had HEARD of me was limited to those standing in front of my home that day... And my house is not very big.

And not only were other candidates for mayor better known, they espoused ideas that were seen as more politically practical, hewing to the familiarity of the status quo.

But it was never my intention to nibble around the edges with policies of timid maintenance; I ran to take dead aim at the crisis of our time. And I became Mayor because everyday New Yorkers, too, were hungry to break from an era that was leaving millions behind.

Our campaign was powered by people of every race, every age, every income bracket. And yes, even many New Yorkers who had enjoyed great success joined our fight against rising inequality. They wanted the next generation of New Yorkers to have the same opportunities the city had given them.

We were a small group, at first, but as New Yorkers learned that we were fighting for a government that would represent THEIR values -- fairness, justice, real opportunity for all -- our campaign grew. And grew... And grew.

We worked – together – as activists, to spread the word.

And so in living rooms and parks... in retirement communities and residence halls... on Twitter and Facebook... people were hearing from one another for the first time things they already knew in their own hearts to be true... and they were learning of the POWER that could come when they spoke out themselves.

THAT is how in a matter of months we went from a few hundred souls gathered on that blustery Brooklyn day, to not just winning, but winning BIG on ELECTION day.

And our shared resolve to remake our city didn't end when the votes were tallied.

The same tenets that defined our campaign now drive our Administration: a constant push for bold action; a willingness to hear and speak hard truths; an agenda set by listening to the PEOPLE, not the powerful few.

~~On~~ With regard to my absolute highest priority, that's meant working aggressively to secure unprecedented access to free, full day early education programs for 4-year-olds.

We did this because study after study shows the great equalizing effect of early education. But you don't need to read an academic journal to get that: we all know access to quality education does so much to determine a person's economic destiny... and as with most matters of destiny, timing is everything.

Now, to give you some context on the politics we faced when trying to expand early education for families, I'd like to read you two assessments from New York newspapers, published almost exactly one year apart.

In September 2013, a few months before I was elected Mayor... the New York Daily News wrote “[The] promise to create 48,000 educational slots for four-year-olds...has little chance of becoming a reality.”

Then, in September 2014, in The New York Times QUOTE “51,000 Answer de Blasio's Bell for New Pre-K.”

Now, the 51,000 there refers to the number of kids who have been signed up for these programs. That's three thousand MORE than the number said to be impossible just one year ago.

It also means that 51,000 beautiful children are on a better path to success... And all of their mothers and fathers... grandparents and guardians... they get to experience the comfort... the joy... that comes from seeing the shine of brighter futures.

It's hard to express how much that means for the working people of our city. But it's also not all we've done in our first few months in office.

We've enacted measures to give over 1 million more New Yorkers the right to paid sick leave, ensuring people won't lose a paycheck – or a job – because of illness or injury

We've launched a plan to secure affordable housing for 500,000 New Yorkers over the next decade. That's more than the total population of the City of Bristol... Or of Miami, for anyone watching back home.

We ended what had been one of the saddest manifestations of inequality by reforming racially biased police practices so that ALL law-abiding New Yorkers are granted the basic right of walking down the street without fear of being hassled by authorities.

And we've done this all while reaching agreement on a contract with our city teachers – educators who had gone without a contract for nearly five years. In all that time, the good men and women charged with safeguarding the futures of our children had enjoyed little security when it came to their own futures.

We made a deal grounded in partnership and mutual respect, because RESPECT for working men and women is a core principle that all GOOD governments live by. It was a fair deal for teachers – offering increased pay that they greatly deserved. But it also generated important savings that labor was a partner in achieving. Put simply: it was a good deal for the people of New York.

So if anyone tells you that a balanced budget and an agenda of economic fairness can't go hand-in-hand, tell them to come visit New York City.

Really, it's beautiful this time of year.

I notice so many similarities between the UK I see today and the New York where I stood on that cold morning and announced my candidacy.

It comes through so clearly, even across great physical distance: the people of the UK are ready for bold, progressive change.

And if we can make the strides that we've made in New York City from a campaign so humble in its origins, imagine the feats that can come from originate in this great hall!

But there's a more sobering parallel I see as well.... It's in the deepness-depth and extent of the crisis ~~that~~ we share.

The numbers are alarming: in the UK, in 2011, the average income of an adult in top 0.1 % (point one percent) was more than 70 times that of someone in the bottom 90%. [2011, World Income Database].

The Guardian recently reported that the five richest families in the UK have more wealth than the entire bottom 20% of the country. And, as is the case in New York City, the trend has been moving sharply in the wrong direction. According to a study published by Oxfam, since the 1990s, incomes of the top 0.1% (point one percent) of Britons have grown four times faster than those of the bottom 90%. Now let's be clear: there's nothing wrong with attaining wealth. I'm happy to celebrate the success of those who've earned it. But a status quo that leaves millions of people behind is precluding so many success stories from being written.

And the stories of those struggling the hardest – those of unpaid bills and sleepless nights – don't fully illuminate the severity of this crisis.

Mounting disparities in income create ripple effects that undermine whole economies. Here is just one example of how:

The Financial Times recently concluded that the income gap between America's richest and poorest metropolitan regions is not only the widest it has ever been, but that this phenomenon was QUOTE "shaping an uneven housing recovery that threatens to hold back the broader revival of the world's largest economy."

Indeed, in an increasingly interconnected world, a system grounded in exclusivity is not sustainable for ANYONE, including those at the very top. It is a problem that hurts EVERYONE, whether they get it or not.

This Conservative government certainly doesn't seem to get it. Their top-down policies are making things harder for working people every day.

Among the many ways they've aggravated the wounds of this crisis, the most painful might be their tax code.

Instead of giving working families the leg-up they deserve, they gave billions of tax cuts to the wealthiest with the vague hope that money ~~will~~would magically trickle down to everyone else. In my country, that's an approach we call voodoo economics. I have no doubt the word "voodoo" sounds more elegant in a British accent than an American one, but in any intonation, we know it's a policy that doesn't work.

So let me tell you about what does work. And you don't have to look far to see it. In fact, you heard it at your own conference last night.

Ed Miliband has so clearly articulated both the challenges, and the opportunities this moment in history creates for the British people.

He knows that a cautious approach won't do when it comes to addressing the crisis of our time. He has a BOLD vision for big change. As he said last night: "I'm not talking about changing a policy, or simply a different programme. But something that is bigger: transforming the idea, the ethic, of how our country is run."

Indeed, he knows well what needs to be done. As he told this conference LAST YEAR: "We have to rebuild anew One Nation. An economy built on your success, a society based on your values, a politics that hears your voice – rich and poor alike – accepting their responsibilities to each other."

Ed Miliband will be a Prime Minister for everyone. He will govern for Britons with second jobs and second mortgages, not just those with second homes.

He believes in politics of the MANY, not the few...

Ed Miliband understands -- this Labour Party understands – the true cost of a status quo that puts a barrier between working people and prosperity... the drag it creates on the economy... and on the lives of families.

And this Labour Party not only has the right values, it has an agenda that ~~puts~~ them translates values into action. Not political talk, but a real plan that reforms the crux of the economy to make Britain work for everyone.

Labour has a plan for a tax code that rewards hard work over existing wealth and power. A plan to end the current government's 3 billion pound tax cut for the wealthiest and instead give tax relief to 24 million middle and working class people....

A plan that protects and STRENGTHENS – not curtails – the NHS so that quality healthcare remains a right and not a privilege...

A plan that puts working people ahead of big corporations by controlling energy costs, and taking unprecedented steps to make housing more affordable.

And a plan that provides 25 hours a week of free child care to working parents of 3- and 4-year olds, and another to expand after school programs, so that ALL kids can get on a path to success and opportunity early... and stay there.

This agenda is a blueprint of what a fairer, more prosperous, STRONGER United Kingdom will look like.

It recognizes that everyone's future... Every child's future... MATTERS.

That is not only why you MUST win, it is why you WILL win!

The upcoming election represents a choice for the people of your country: build a United Kingdom that rewards hard work and ensures the next generation does better... Or continue down a path where a privileged few do very well, while everyone else is left to fend for themselves.

To me, that choice is very clear, as I know it is to people in this room... and as I know it will become to everyday people across this country.

But to those on the other side, who argue things work BETTER when opportunity is scarce and exclusive, I offer this thought: not even DARWIN was a social Darwinist.

Indeed, Charles Darwin, one of the greatest minds that yours or any country ever produced, put it this way: "If the misery of the poor be caused not by the laws of nature, but by our institutions, great is our sin."

Among the cruelest false choices we are given is one that says we can only move forward if some are left behind. You don't need to accept that. No one should.

The work ahead of you will be anything but easy... I can assure you of that. That distinct histories written on opposite ends of an ocean leave us, at this moment, facing essentially the same crisis – underscores its profound scale.

But you have the power to overcome it.

If you reject the cold complacency of the status quo, its power will erode.

If you speak hard truths, others will listen.

If you empower the great people of your country to speak THEIR truths, to speak out, to stand up and ACT in the face of this crisis, then there is so much good that you can achieve, together.

And I believe you will.

Thank you!

From: Jon Fromowitz
To: Coney, Javon
Subject: Re: gracie
Date: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 10:26:37 AM
Attachments: LabourSpeechDraft24.docx

On Sep 23, 2014, at 10:14 AM, Coney, Javon <JConey@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

> Can you resend? I did not get.

>

> -----Original Message-----

> From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]

> Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 10:03 AM

> To: Coney, Javon

> Cc: Hanley, Monica; Leopold, Elana

> Subject: Re: gracie

>

> At security

>

>> On Sep 23, 2014, at 10:01 AM, "Coney, Javon" <JConey@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>>

>> K we are on side porch. Please let me know when you are here.

>>

>> ----- Original Message -----

>> From: Hanley, Monica

>> Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 09:59 AM

>> To: 'jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com' <jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>; Coney, Javon

>> Cc: Leopold, Elana

>> Subject: Re: gracie

>>

>> Ok great

>> We'll wait for clean version

>>

>> ----- Original Message -----

>> From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]

>> Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 09:56 AM

>> To: Coney, Javon

>> Cc: Hanley, Monica; Leopold, Elana

>> Subject: Re: gracie

>>

>> That latest copy at this second is what I sent him and Monica late last night. Very shortly (within a few minutes) we will have a cleaner version of that... And I will be a gracie

>>

>>> On Sep 23, 2014, at 9:53 AM, "Coney, Javon" <JConey@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>>>

>>> Ty! Mayor wants to see latest copy. We are at Gracie now.

>>>

>>> ----- Original Message -----

>>> From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]

>>> Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 09:52 AM

>>> To: Hanley, Monica

>>> Cc: Coney, Javon

>>> Subject: Re: gracie

>>>

>>> Sounds good, I am about 10 mins away. I'll have a new draft also very shortly. It is being proofread now.

>>>

>>>> On Sep 23, 2014, at 9:51 AM, "Hanley, Monica" <MHanley@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>>>>
>>>> Fromo - I'm 15 min away. Javon will let us know when boss is ready for prep.

Mayor Bill de Blasio
Labour Party Conference Remarks
“The Power of Speaking Hard Truths”
Draft 24 – September 23rd, 10:10AM

It’s such an honor to be here with the people who make this Labour Party what it is. From the rising stars that will – WILL – lead Labour to victory next year... to the everyday activists whose unflinching passion and energy will fuel the campaign.

Though I’ve seen your efforts mostly from afar, it’s clear to me, even across five time zones and an ocean, that this group is working towards something special.... something important.

It’s fitting that we find ourselves in Manchester. This city was at the forefront of the innovation and ingenuity that drove the Industrial Revolution, helping shape the contours of the modern economy that we know today.

It shares a special status in history with the city I love and am so honored to lead. Both are places where big ideas and raw grit have been honored and rewarded like in few others in the world.

It is also among the first places in the world to foster a working class... and among the first where working people empowered themselves to take part in the political process. It’s no wonder then that Manchester is a place where hard truths are deeply understood and spoken out.

I cannot imagine a more appropriate backdrop for this gathering because yours is a party BORN out of working people attaining the right to vote... a party that EXISTS to fight for working families and forcefully address their needs.

Labour has inclusiveness and progressiveness coded in its DNA... Yours is a party grounded in the idea that everyone’s voice matters.... And that no one should be left behind.

THIS Labour Party is led by a new generation of progressive leaders and defined by bold ideas. You stand ready to ACT with a plan for a fairer, more prosperous United Kingdom; to make the UK a place where opportunity is a RIGHT granted to all, not a GIFT for the fortunate few.

THIS Labour Party hears the voices of the millions who feel like they are treading water... Working harder and harder but feeling less and less secure about the future.

THIS Labour Party has the moral compass -- and the backbone -- to fight for an economy... a country... that works for working people... for EVERYONE.

And your party refuses to accept the politics of inertia... That resigned mindset that says the next generation is destined to do worse than this one.

By virtue of being in this room, you recognize that we owe it to our children to do better ... to live up to the most basic promise we make to the people we serve.

I say that as someone charged with the duty of overseeing New York's public schools, where over one million kids in grades 12 and under learn and grow.

I also say it as a father of two beautiful children of my own, Dante and Chiara, who have attended those schools for most of their young lives.

There is NO duty more sacred than parenthood.

Nothing gives me more comfort... more joy... than watching my children grow, knowing they can be WHATEVER -- WHOEVER -- they want to be. The boundaries of their future are determined only by how hard they work and how big they dream.

If we accept a future – or a present – where parents can't look their kids in the eyes and tell them they have a shot at something better, then we break the promise of civilized society.... We deprive our children – AND their parents -- of so much.

Now, I've said that growing inequality is THE crisis of our time. We see it in the form of a status quo that works very well for a few fortunate souls, but leaves everyday working people caught in a cost-of-living crisis.

I've spoken about growing inequality and the rising cost of living reaching crisis levels in New York, and it's just as true here. And I know the people in this room GET that.

And let's be clear what we mean when we talk about a cost of living crisis. It's not about penthouse flats, Bentleys or five-star holidays. The people who can afford THOSE luxuries, are in fact, doing quite well under this Conservative government.

But feeding a family, keeping a modest home that's lit and heated, securing a safe place for young kids to learn during the day... THESE things are becoming more and more costly. We're not talking about luxuries, or even conveniences, but the ESSENTIALS that people need to live.

Living ITSELF is getting harder and harder for working families to afford. Not living WELL... just LIVING; just getting by.

And the price people pay isn't merely monetary.

You can see it in the tired eyes of the waitress whose SECOND job is preceded by a second SHIFT at her FIRST job....

In the juddering hand of the bus driver signing the paperwork for a payday loan....

In the clenched jaws and stiff lips of working parents mustering brave faces in front of their son and daughter... in the WORK that goes into just hiding the fear that they won't be able to attain a better life.

As wealth becomes more concentrated at the top, stories like these are becoming more common and less isolated to the lowest steps of the economic ladder.

If unaddressed, the crisis will become THE defining characteristic of our societies... It won't be prosperity and opportunity... tragically, it will be the inequality and cost-of-living crisis.

I know this Labour Party understands what's at stake.

I also know the weight of this moment can feel like a burden: the exasperation that comes from knowing the gravity of this threat – a generation at risk of being forsaken – at a time when so many seem unwilling to act in response.

The right side of history can feel like a lonely place. But it isn't. It never has been.

Indeed, history itself tells us that people ALWAYS gravitate towards decency, inclusion and progress. And you don't have to look back thousands of years to see that – go walk around a neighborhood in Manchester... Go to a school, a church, a mosque... You can see the trust people put in one another every day; the value people place in simple moral action.

So why then is COLLECTIVE moral action often so difficult?

In the case of the inequality and cost-of-living crisis, part of the issue is scope: the problem seems so difficult, so deeply embedded, that good people can be tempted to throw their hands up and declare that nothing can be done about it.

But there's something else going on as well. As is the case with many injustices in history, there are people – small in number but oversized in power – who benefit from the status quo, and they work to maintain it. Their voices seem louder... more confident and authoritative... and those of everyday people get drowned out.

In this way, people are made to feel powerless... made to feel that their voice doesn't matter at all.

So at the same time that inequality is skyrocketing, the cost of living is overwhelming – something people can see and feel every day – we're told that even speaking of this problem is unconstructive, divisive... harmful, even.

You know that it isn't. So do the people of your country.

Part of your job then is to help them find their voice to say – together – that Britons want a country that works for everyone.

Sometimes people – good, hardworking people – need to hear the truth spoken before they feel comfortable speaking it themselves.

And there's so much power that comes from speaking the truth... especially from speaking HARD truths.

That's because the status quo gets perpetuated through a series of falsehoods...false CHOICES that assign mutual exclusivity to ideas that should be complementary.

We're told that prosperity can't be both great, and shared....

That you can't lift the floor for those struggling in a tough economy, and still balance a budget....

That those of us who serve can't expect to achieve anything at all if we dare to advance policies which are bold and morally right.

In the lead-up to the election for New York City Mayor last year, the voices of the status quo gave voters another false choice: support my candidacy ... OR vote for someone with a real shot at winning.

I am here before you today because the people of New York City rejected the lazy logic of false-choice politics.

I want to tell you how it happened.

I announced my candidacy for Mayor from the front steps of my home in Brooklyn in January 2013. A few hundred people were there with me... the earliest believers in our campaign.

We were brought together by a deep concern: that New York had become a Tale of Two Cities; a place where a few were doing very well, but millions of working people were struggling to live amidst spiking inequality and a rising cost of living.

It threatened to degrade New York's status in the world.

The beacon of opportunity that for generations shone so brightly across our five boroughs and out into the world was dimming.

We saw it, we FELT it in our city.... Even if it was unspoken, we saw on our neighbors' faces: the weight of worry about a future of diminished possibilities... For themselves... their families... their children.

And we knew the policies of the status quo were exacerbating the problem rather than addressing it.

But though our mission was in many ways somber, our mood that day was not. It was a grey, frigid afternoon, but the event had an aura of excitement and joy one would expect at a summer block party. It was no doubt a strange sight to those passing by.

There was a feeling that something special was happening that made the chill tolerable. It came from having found in one another a group of people who spoke the same truth about our Tale of Two Cities...the harm it was doing.... the threat it posed.

There was a sense of relief that came from learning we weren't alone in our beliefs... a lifting of lonely burdens.

There was a powerful sense of MISSION that came from accepting a mutual responsibility to act, together, against this scourge... and a heartfelt faith that victory was achievable, no matter the odds.

Now, the odds did appear quite long, at first. It felt like the total number of those in the city who had HEARD of me was limited to those standing in front of my home that day... And my house is not very big.

And not only were other candidates for mayor better known, they espoused ideas that were seen as more politically practical, hewing to the familiarity of the status quo.

But it was never my intention to nibble around the edges with policies of timid maintenance; I ran to take dead aim at the crisis of our time. And I became Mayor because everyday New Yorkers, too, were hungry to break from an era that was leaving millions behind.

Our campaign was powered by people of every race, every age, every income bracket. And yes, even many New Yorkers who had enjoyed great success joined our fight against rising inequality. They wanted the next generation of New Yorkers to have the same opportunities the city had given them.

We were a small group, at first, but as New Yorkers learned that we were fighting for a government that would represent THEIR values -- fairness, justice, real opportunity for all -- our campaign grew. And grew... And grew.

We worked -- together -- as activists, to spread the word.

And so in living rooms and parks... in retirement communities and residence halls... on Twitter and Facebook... people were hearing from one another for the first time things they already knew in their own hearts to be true... and they were learning of the POWER that could come when they spoke out themselves.

THAT is how in a matter of months we went from a few hundred souls gathered on that blustery Brooklyn day, to not just winning, but winning BIG on ELECTION day.

And our shared resolve to remake our city didn't end when the votes were tallied.

The same tenets that defined our campaign now drive our Administration: a constant push for bold action; a willingness to hear and speak hard truths; an agenda set by listening to the PEOPLE, not the powerful few.

With regard to my absolute highest priority, that's meant working aggressively to secure unprecedented access to free, full day early education programs for 4-year-olds.

We did this because study after study shows the great equalizing effect of early education. But you don't need to read an academic journal to get that: we all know access to quality education does so much to determine a person's economic destiny... and as with most matters of destiny, timing is everything.

Now, to give you some context on the politics we faced when trying to expand early education for families, I'd like to read you two assessments from New York newspapers, published almost exactly one year apart.

In September 2013, a few months before I was elected Mayor... the New York Daily News wrote "[The] promise to create 48,000 educational slots for four-year-olds...has little chance of becoming a reality."

Then, in September 2014, in The New York Times QUOTE "51,000 Answer de Blasio's Bell for New Pre-K."

Now, the 51,000 there refers to the number of kids who have been signed up for these programs. That's three thousand MORE than the number said to be impossible just one year ago.

It also means that 51,000 beautiful children are on a better path to success... And all of their mothers and fathers... grandparents and guardians... they get to experience the comfort... the joy... that comes from seeing the shine of brighter futures. It's hard to express how much that means for the working people of our city. But it's also not all we've done in our first few months in office.

We've enacted measures to give over 1 million more New Yorkers the right to paid sick leave, ensuring people won't lose a paycheck – or a job – because of illness or injury

We've launched a plan to secure affordable housing for 500,000 New Yorkers over the next decade. That's more than the total population of the City of Bristol... Or of Miami, for anyone watching back home.

We ended what had been one of the saddest manifestations of inequality by reforming racially biased police practices so that ALL law-abiding New Yorkers are granted the basic right of walking down the street without fear of being hassled by authorities.

And we've done this all while reaching agreement on a contract with our city teachers – educators who had gone without a contract for nearly five years. In all that time, the good men and women charged with safeguarding the futures of our children had enjoyed little security when it came to their own futures.

We made a deal grounded in partnership and mutual respect, because RESPECT for working men and women is a core principle that all GOOD governments live by. It was a fair deal for teachers – offering increased pay that they greatly deserved. But it also generated important savings that labor was a partner in achieving. Put simply: it was a good deal for the people of New York.

So if anyone tells you that a balanced budget and an agenda of economic fairness can't go hand-in-hand, tell them to come visit New York City.

Really, it's beautiful this time of year.

I notice so many similarities between the UK I see today and the New York where I stood on that cold morning and announced my candidacy.

It comes through so clearly, even across great physical distance: the people of the UK are ready for bold, progressive change.

And if we can make the strides that we've made in New York City from a campaign so humble in its origins, imagine the feats that can come from this great hall!

But there's a more sobering parallel I see as well.... It's in the deepness of the crisis that we share.

The numbers are alarming: in the UK, in 2011, the average income of an adult in top 0.1 % (point one percent) was more than 70 times that of someone in the bottom 90%. [2011, World Income Database].

The Guardian recently reported that the five richest families in the UK have more wealth than the entire bottom 20% of the country. And, as is the case in New York

City, the trend has been moving sharply in the wrong direction. According to a study published by Oxfam, since the 1990s, incomes of the top 0.1% (point one percent) of Britons have grown four times faster than those of the bottom 90%. Now let's be clear: there's nothing wrong with attaining wealth. I'm happy to celebrate the success of those who've earned it. But a status quo that leaves millions of people behind is precluding so many success stories from being written.

And the stories of those struggling the hardest – those of unpaid bills and sleepless nights – don't fully illuminate the severity of this crisis.

Mounting disparities in income create ripple effects that undermine whole economies. Here is just one example of how:

The Financial Times recently concluded that the income gap between America's richest and poorest metropolitan regions is not only the widest it has ever been, but that this phenomenon was QUOTE "shaping an uneven housing recovery that threatens to hold back the broader revival of the world's largest economy."

Indeed, in an increasingly interconnected world, a system grounded in exclusivity is not sustainable for ANYONE, including those at the very top. It is a problem that hurts EVERYONE, whether they get it or not.

This Conservative government certainly doesn't seem to get it. Their top-down policies are making things harder for working people every day.

Among the many ways they've aggravated the wounds of this crisis, the most painful might be their tax code.

Instead of giving working families the leg-up they deserve, they gave billions of tax cuts to the wealthiest with the vague hope that money will magically trickle down to everyone else. In my country, that's an approach we call voodoo economics. I have no doubt the word "voodoo" sounds more elegant in a British accent than an American one, but in any intonation, we know it's a policy that doesn't work.

So let me tell you about what does work. And you don't have to look far to see it. In fact, you heard it at your own conference last night.

Ed Miliband has so clearly articulated both the challenges, and the opportunities this moment in history creates for the British people.

He knows that a cautious approach won't do when it comes to addressing the crisis of our time. He has a BOLD vision for big change. As he said last night: "I'm not talking about changing a policy, or simply a different programme. But something that is bigger: transforming the idea, the ethic, of how our country is run."

Indeed, he knows well what needs to be done. As he told this conference LAST YEAR: "We have to rebuild anew One Nation. An economy built on your success, a society based on your values, a politics that hears your voice – rich and poor alike – accepting their responsibilities to each other."

Ed Miliband will be a Prime Minister for everyone. He will govern for Britons with second jobs and second mortgages, not just those with second homes.

He believes in politics of the MANY, not the few...

Ed Miliband understands -- this Labour Party understands – the true cost of a status quo that puts a barrier between working people and prosperity... the drag it creates on the economy... and on the lives of families.

And this Labour Party not only has the right values, it has an agenda that translates values into action. Not political talk, but a real plan that reforms the crux of the economy to make Britain work for everyone.

Labour has a plan for a tax code that rewards hard work over existing wealth and power. A plan to end the current government's 3 billion pound tax cut for the wealthiest and instead give tax relief to 24 million middle and working class people....

A plan that protects and STRENGTHENS – not curtails – the NHS so that quality healthcare remains a right and not a privilege...

A plan that puts working people ahead of big corporations by controlling energy costs, and taking unprecedented steps to make housing more affordable.

And a plan that provides 25 hours a week of free child care to working parents of 3- and 4-year olds, and another to expand after school programs, so that ALL kids can get on a path to success and opportunity early... and stay there.

This agenda is a blueprint of what a fairer, more prosperous, STRONGER United Kingdom will look like.

It recognizes that everyone's future... Every child's future... MATTERS.

That is not only why you MUST win, it is why you WILL win!

The upcoming election represents a choice for the people of your country: build a United Kingdom that rewards hard work and ensures the next generation does better... Or continue down a path where a privileged few do very well, while everyone else is left to fend for themselves.

To me, that choice is very clear, as I know it is to people in this room... and as I know it will become to everyday people across this country.

But to those on the other side, who argue things work BETTER when opportunity is scarce and exclusive, I offer this thought: not even DARWIN was a social Darwinist.

Indeed, Charles Darwin, one of the greatest minds that yours or any country ever produced, put it this way: “If the misery of the poor be caused not by the laws of nature, but by our institutions, great is our sin.”

Among the cruelest false choices we are given is one that says we can only move forward if some are left behind. You don’t need to accept that. No one should.

The work ahead of you will be anything but easy... I can assure you of that. That distinct histories written on opposite ends of an ocean leave us, at this moment, facing essentially the same crisis – underscores its profound scale.

But you have the power to overcome it.

If you reject the cold complacency of the status quo, its power will erode.

If you speak hard truths, others will listen.

If you empower the great people of your country to speak THEIR truths, to speak out, to stand up and ACT in the face of this crisis, then there is so much good that you can achieve, together.

And I believe you will.

Thank you!

From: Jon Fromowitz
To: Kallen, Laurel
Subject: Re: Urgent Proofreading
Date: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 10:30:13 AM

Thanks!

On Sep 23, 2014, at 10:28 AM, "Kallen, Laurel" <LKallen@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Okay. Glad you like the edits. Happy to run through a later version. Very rousing speech, btw. It was fun to read!

Laurel Kallen
Speechwriter
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212 341 5391
Cell: 917 655 7578
lkallen@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 10:27 AM
To: Kallen, Laurel
Subject: Re: Urgent Proofreading

Amazing, thank you. Great edits. Hold off for now. We need to review but the speech isn't until tomorrow and we'll be doing some editing for content so better to do a second pass later. This is great for the moment.

On Sep 23, 2014, at 10:18 AM, Kallen, Laurel <LKallen@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Here is the complete speech. Can I run through it a second time?

Laurel Kallen
Speechwriter
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212 341 5391
Cell: 917 655 7578
lkallen@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 10:04 AM
To: Kallen, Laurel
Subject: Re: Urgent Proofreading

Can you send current and keep going?

On Sep 23, 2014, at 10:02 AM, "Kallen, Laurel" <LKallen@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

On page 6. Can I have a few more minutes?

Laurel Kallen
Speechwriter
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212 341 5391
Cell: 917 655 7578
lkallen@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 9:58 AM
To: Kallen, Laurel
Subject: Re: Urgent Proofreading

If you could send wherever you're at in 5 mins, that would be great.

On Sep 23, 2014, at 9:40 AM, "Kallen, Laurel" <LKallen@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

I don't see any major problems so far, so it shouldn't take me very long. Stand by.

Laurel Kallen
Speechwriter
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212 341 5391
Cell: 917 655 7578
lkallen@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 9:40 AM
To: Kallen, Laurel
Subject: Re: Urgent Proofreading

Agreed! And thanks SO for the help. We are trying to meet with the mayor at some point soonish, so please keep an eye on your email as I may at some point need to have back wherever you're at.

On Sep 23, 2014, at 9:36 AM, "Kallen, Laurel"
<LKallen@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Oh, that's a relief. I much prefer to take my time with proofreading. Thanks.

Laurel Kallen
Speechwriter
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212 341 5391
Cell: 917 655 7578
lkallen@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Jon Fromowitz
[\[mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com\]](mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com)
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 9:36 AM
To: Kallen, Laurel
Subject: Re: Urgent Proofreading

Thanks! I don't think 10 am is hard deadline, so no need to rush through.

On Sep 23, 2014, at 9:34 AM, "Kallen, Laurel" <LKallen@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Just now checking my email. Will proofread the speech right now.

Laurel Kallen
Speechwriter
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212 341 5391
Cell: 917 655 7578

lkallen@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Jon Fromowitz
[<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]

Sent: Tuesday, September 23,
2014 8:29 AM
To: Kallen, Laurel
Subject: Re: Urgent Proofreading

And one more update (sorry, a few tracks of revision going on). Do you think it'd be possible to proofread this one and send back by 10AM?
Thanks so much!

<LabourSpeechDraft23 ed LK 1017.docx>

From: Coney, Javon
To: Jon Fromowitz
Cc: Hanley, Monica
Subject: RE: gracie
Date: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 11:08:24 AM
Attachments: LabourSpeechDraft24 Formatted.docx

Updated Formatted Copy. Please work from this. Thanks!

-----Original Message-----

From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 10:27 AM
To: Coney, Javon
Subject: Re: gracie

On Sep 23, 2014, at 10:14 AM, Coney, Javon <JConey@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

> Can you resend? I did not get.

>

> -----Original Message-----

> From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
> Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 10:03 AM
> To: Coney, Javon
> Cc: Hanley, Monica; Leopold, Elana
> Subject: Re: gracie

>

> At security

>

>> On Sep 23, 2014, at 10:01 AM, "Coney, Javon" <JConey@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>>

>> K we are on side porch. Please let me know when you are here.

>>

>> ----- Original Message -----

>> From: Hanley, Monica
>> Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 09:59 AM
>> To: 'jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com' <jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>; Coney, Javon
>> Cc: Leopold, Elana
>> Subject: Re: gracie

>>

>> Ok great

>> We'll wait for clean version

>>

>> ----- Original Message -----

>> From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
>> Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 09:56 AM
>> To: Coney, Javon
>> Cc: Hanley, Monica; Leopold, Elana
>> Subject: Re: gracie

>>

>> That latest copy at this second is what I sent him and Monica late last night. Very shortly (within a few minutes) we will have a cleaner version of that... And I will be a gracie

>>

>>> On Sep 23, 2014, at 9:53 AM, "Coney, Javon" <JConey@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>>>

>>> Ty! Mayor wants to see latest copy. We are at Gracie now.

>>>
>>> ----- Original Message -----
>>> From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
>>> Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 09:52 AM
>>> To: Hanley, Monica
>>> Cc: Coney, Javon
>>> Subject: Re: gracie
>>>
>>> Sounds good, I am about 10 mins away. I'll have a new draft also very shortly. It is being proofread now.
>>>
>>>> On Sep 23, 2014, at 9:51 AM, "Hanley, Monica" <MHanley@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>>>>
>>>> Fromo - I'm 15 min away. Javon will let us know when boss is ready for prep.

Mayor Bill de Blasio
Labour Party Conference Remarks
“The Power of Speaking Hard Truths”
Draft 24 – September 23nd, 10:10AM

- It’s such an honor to be here with the people who make this Labour Party what it is. From the rising stars that will – WILL – lead Labour to victory next year... to the everyday activists whose unflinching passion and energy will fuel the campaign.
- Though I’ve seen your efforts mostly from afar, it’s clear to me, even across five time zones and an ocean, that this group is working towards something special.... something important.

- It's fitting that we find ourselves in Manchester. This city was at the forefront of the innovation and ingenuity that drove the Industrial Revolution, helping shape the contours of the modern economy that we know today.
- It shares a special status in history with the city I love and am so honored to lead. Both are places where big ideas and raw grit have been honored and rewarded like in few others in the world.

- It is also among the first places in the world to foster a working class... and among the first where working people empowered themselves to take part in the political process. It's no wonder then that Manchester is a place where hard truths are deeply understood and spoken out.
- I cannot imagine a more appropriate backdrop for this gathering because yours is a party BORN out of working people attaining the right to vote... a party that EXISTS to fight for working families and forcefully address their needs.

- Labour has inclusiveness and progressiveness coded in its DNA... Yours is a party grounded in the idea that everyone's voice matters.... And that no one should be left behind.
- THIS Labour Party is led by a new generation of progressive leaders and defined by bold ideas. You stand ready to ACT with a plan for a fairer, more prosperous United Kingdom; to make the UK a place where opportunity is a RIGHT granted to all, not a GIFT for the fortunate few.
- THIS Labour Party hears the voices of the millions who feel like they are treading water... Working harder and harder but feeling less and less secure about the future.

- THIS Labour Party has the moral compass -- and the backbone -- to fight for an economy... a country... that works for working people... for EVERYONE.
- And your party refuses to accept the politics of inertia... That resigned mindset that says the next generation is destined to do worse than this one.
- By virtue of being in this room, you recognize that we owe it to our children to do better ... to live up to the most basic promise we make to the people we serve.

- I say that as someone charged with the duty of overseeing New York's public schools, where over one million kids in grades 12 and under learn and grow.
- I also say it as a father of two beautiful children of my own, Dante and Chiara, who have attended those schools for most of their young lives.
- There is NO duty more sacred than parenthood.
- Nothing gives me more comfort... more joy... than watching my children grow, knowing they can be WHATEVER -- WHOEVER -- they want to be. The boundaries of their future are determined only by how hard they work and how big they dream.

- If we accept a future – or a present – where parents can't look their kids in the eyes and tell them they have a shot at something better, then we break the promise of civilized society.... We deprive our children – AND their parents -- of so much.
- Now, I've said that growing inequality is THE crisis of our time. We see it in the form of a status quo that works very well for a few fortunate souls, but leaves everyday working people caught in a cost-of-living crisis.
- I've spoken about growing inequality and the rising cost of living reaching crisis levels in New York, and it's just as true here. And I know the people in this room GET that.

- And let's be clear what we mean when we talk about a cost of living crisis. It's not about penthouse flats, Bentleys or five-star holidays. The people who can afford THOSE luxuries, are in fact, doing quite well under this Conservative government.
- But feeding a family, keeping a modest home that's lit and heated, securing a safe place for young kids to learn during the day... THESE things are becoming more and more costly. We're not talking about luxuries, or even conveniences, but the ESSENTIALS that people need to live.
- Living ITSELF is getting harder and harder for working families to afford. Not living WELL... just LIVING; just getting by.

- And the price people pay isn't merely monetary.
- You can see it in the tired eyes of the waitress whose SECOND job is preceded by a second SHIFT at her FIRST job....
- In the juddering hand of the bus driver signing the paperwork for a payday loan....
- In the clenched jaws and stiff lips of working parents mustering brave faces in front of their son and daughter... in the WORK that goes into just hiding the fear that they won't be able to attain a better life.

- As wealth becomes more concentrated at the top, stories like these are becoming more common and less isolated to the lowest steps of the economic ladder.
- If unaddressed, the crisis will become THE defining characteristic of our societies... It won't be prosperity and opportunity... tragically, it will be the inequality and cost-of-living crisis.
- I know this Labour Party understands what's at stake.
- I also know the weight of this moment can feel like a burden: the exasperation that comes from knowing the gravity of this threat – a generation at risk of being forsaken – at a time when so many seem unwilling to act in response.

- The right side of history can feel like a lonely place.
But it isn't. It never has been.
- Indeed, history itself tells us that people ALWAYS gravitate towards decency, inclusion and progress.
And you don't have to look back thousands of years to see that – go walk around a neighborhood in Manchester... Go to a school, a church, a mosque...
You can see the trust people put in one another every day; the value people place in simple moral action.
- So why then is COLLECTIVE moral action often so difficult?

- In the case of the inequality and cost-of-living crisis, part of the issue is scope: the problem seems so difficult, so deeply embedded, that good people can be tempted to throw their hands up and declare that nothing can be done about it.

- But there's something else going on as well. As is the case with many injustices in history, there are people – small in number but oversized in power – who benefit from the status quo, and they work to maintain it. Their voices seem louder... more confident and authoritative... and those of everyday people get drowned out.

- In this way, people are made to feel powerless... made to feel that their voice doesn't matter at all.
- So at the same time that inequality is skyrocketing, the cost of living is overwhelming – something people can see and feel every day – we're told that even speaking of this problem is unconstructive, divisive... harmful, even.
- You know that it isn't. So do the people of your country.
- Part of your job then is to help them find their voice to say – together – that Britons want a country that works for everyone.

- Sometimes people – good, hardworking people – need to hear the truth spoken before they feel comfortable speaking it themselves.
- And there's so much power that comes from speaking the truth... especially from speaking HARD truths.
- That's because the status quo gets perpetuated through a series of falsehoods...false CHOICES that assign mutual exclusivity to ideas that should be complementary.
- We're told that prosperity can't be both great, and shared....

- That you can't lift the floor for those struggling in a tough economy, and still balance a budget....
- That those of us who serve can't expect to achieve anything at all if we dare to advance policies which are bold and morally right.
- In the lead-up to the election for New York City Mayor last year, the voices of the status quo gave voters another false choice: support my candidacy ...
OR vote for someone with a real shot at winning.
- I am here before you today because the people of New York City rejected the lazy logic of false-choice politics.

- I want to tell you how it happened.
- I announced my candidacy for Mayor from the front steps of my home in Brooklyn in January 2013. A few hundred people were there with me... the earliest believers in our campaign.
- We were brought together by a deep concern: that New York had become a Tale of Two Cities; a place where a few were doing very well, but millions of working people were struggling to live amidst spiking inequality and a rising cost of living.
- It threatened to degrade New York's status in the world.

- The beacon of opportunity that for generations shone so brightly across our five boroughs and out into the world was dimming.
- We saw it, we FELT it in our city.... Even if it was unspoken, we saw on our neighbors' faces: the weight of worry about a future of diminished possibilities... For themselves... their families... their children.
- And we knew the policies of the status quo were exacerbating the problem rather than addressing it.

- But though our mission was in many ways somber, our mood that day was not. It was a grey, frigid afternoon, but the event had an aura of excitement and joy one would expect at a summer block party. It was no doubt a strange sight to those passing by.
- There was a feeling that something special was happening that made the chill tolerable. It came from having found in one another a group of people who spoke the same truth about our Tale of Two Cities...the harm it was doing.... the threat it posed.
- There was a sense of relief that came from learning we weren't alone in our beliefs... a lifting of lonely burdens.

- There was a powerful sense of MISSION that came from accepting a mutual responsibility to act, together, against this scourge... and a heartfelt faith that victory was achievable, no matter the odds.
- Now, the odds did appear quite long, at first. It felt like the total number of those in the city who had HEARD of me was limited to those standing in front of my home that day... And my house is not very big.
- And not only were other candidates for mayor better known, they espoused ideas that were seen as more politically practical, hewing to the familiarity of the status quo.

- But it was never my intention to nibble around the edges with policies of timid maintenance; I ran to take dead aim at the crisis of our time. And I became Mayor because everyday New Yorkers, too, were hungry to break from an era that was leaving millions behind.
- Our campaign was powered by people of every race, every age, every income bracket. And yes, even many New Yorkers who had enjoyed great success joined our fight against rising inequality. They wanted the next generation of New Yorkers to have the same opportunities the city had given them.

- We were a small group, at first, but as New Yorkers learned that we were fighting for a government that would represent THEIR values -- fairness, justice, real opportunity for all – our campaign grew. And grew...
And grew.
- We worked – together – as activists, to spread the word.

- And so in living rooms and parks... in retirement communities and residence halls... on Twitter and Facebook... people were hearing from one another for the first time things they already knew in their own hearts to be true... and they were learning of the POWER that could come when they spoke out themselves.
- THAT is how in a matter of months we went from a few hundred souls gathered on that blustery Brooklyn day, to not just winning, but winning BIG on ELECTION day.
- And our shared resolve to remake our city didn't end when the votes were tallied.

- The same tenets that defined our campaign now drive our Administration: a constant push for bold action; a willingness to hear and speak hard truths; an agenda set by listening to the PEOPLE, not the powerful few.
- With regard to my absolute highest priority, that's meant working aggressively to secure unprecedented access to free, full day early education programs for 4-year-olds.
- We did this because study after study shows the great equalizing effect of early education. But you don't need to read an academic journal to get that: we all know access to quality education does so much to determine a person's economic destiny... and as with most matters of destiny, timing is everything.

- Now, to give you some context on the politics we faced when trying to expand early education for families, I'd like to read you two assessments from New York newspapers, published almost exactly one year apart.
- In September 2013, a few months before I was elected Mayor... the New York Daily News wrote “[The] promise to create 48,000 educational slots for four-year-olds...has little chance of becoming a reality.”
- Then, in September 2014, in The New York Times QUOTE “51,000 Answer de Blasio’s Bell for New Pre-K.”

- Now, the 51,000 there refers to the number of kids who have been signed up for these programs. That's three thousand MORE than the number said to be impossible just one year ago.
- It also means that 51,000 beautiful children are on a better path to success... And all of their mothers and fathers... grandparents and guardians... they get to experience the comfort... the joy... that comes from seeing the shine of brighter futures.
- It's hard to express how much that means for the working people of our city. But it's also not all we've done in our first few months in office.

- We've enacted measures to give over 1 million more New Yorkers the right to paid sick leave, ensuring people won't lose a paycheck – or a job – because of illness or injury

- We've launched a plan to secure affordable housing for 500,000 New Yorkers over the next decade. That's more than the total population of the City of Bristol... Or of Miami, for anyone watching back home.

- We ended what had been one of the saddest manifestations of inequality by reforming racially biased police practices so that ALL law-abiding New Yorkers are granted the basic right of walking down the street without fear of being hassled by authorities.

- And we've done this all while reaching agreement on a contract with our city teachers – educators who had gone without a contract for nearly five years. In all that time, the good men and women charged with safeguarding the futures of our children had enjoyed little security when it came to their own futures.

- We made a deal grounded in partnership and mutual respect, because RESPECT for working men and women is a core principle that all GOOD governments live by. It was a fair deal for teachers – offering increased pay that they greatly deserved. But it also generated important savings that labor was a partner in achieving. Put simply: it was a good deal for the people of New York.
- So if anyone tells you that a balanced budget and an agenda of economic fairness can't go hand-in-hand, tell them to come visit New York City.
- Really, it's beautiful this time of year.

- I notice so many similarities between the UK I see today and the New York where I stood on that cold morning and announced my candidacy.
- It comes through so clearly, even across great physical distance: the people of the UK are ready for bold, progressive change.
- And if we can make the strides that we've made in New York City from a campaign so humble in its origins, imagine the feats that can come from this great hall!
- But there's a more sobering parallel I see as well....
It's in the deepness of the crisis that we share.

- The numbers are alarming: in the UK, in 2011, the average income of an adult in top 0.1 % (point one percent) was more than 70 times that of someone in the bottom 90%. [2011, World Income Database].
- The Guardian recently reported that the five richest families in the UK have more wealth than the entire bottom 20% of the country. And, as is the case in New York City, the trend has been moving sharply in the wrong direction. According to a study published by Oxfam, since the 1990s, incomes of the top 0.1% (point one percent) of Britons have grown four times faster than those of the bottom 90%.

- Now let's be clear: there's nothing wrong with attaining wealth. I'm happy to celebrate the success of those who've earned it. But a status quo that leaves millions of people behind is precluding so many success stories from being written.
- And the stories of those struggling the hardest – those of unpaid bills and sleepless nights – don't fully illuminate the severity of this crisis.
- Mounting disparities in income create ripple effects that undermine whole economies. Here is just one example of how:

- The Financial Times recently concluded that the income gap between America's richest and poorest metropolitan regions is not only the widest it has ever been, but that this phenomenon was QUOTE "shaping an uneven housing recovery that threatens to hold back the broader revival of the world's largest economy."
- Indeed, in an increasingly interconnected world, a system grounded in exclusivity is not sustainable for ANYONE, including those at the very top. It is a problem that hurts EVERYONE, whether they get it or not.

- This Conservative government certainly doesn't seem to get it. Their top-down policies are making things harder for working people every day.
- Among the many ways they've aggravated the wounds of this crisis, the most painful might be their tax code.
- Instead of giving working families the leg-up they deserve, they gave billions of tax cuts to the wealthiest with the vague hope that money will magically trickle down to everyone else. In my country, that's an approach we call voodoo economics. I have no doubt the word "voodoo" sounds more elegant in a British accent than an American one, but in any intonation, we know it's a policy that doesn't work.

- So let me tell you about what does work. And you don't have to look far to see it. In fact, you heard it at your own conference last night.
- Ed Miliband has so clearly articulated both the challenges, and the opportunities this moment in history creates for the British people.
- He knows that a cautious approach won't do when it comes to addressing the crisis of our time. He has a BOLD vision for big change. As he said last night: "I'm not talking about changing a policy, or simply a different programme. But something that is bigger: transforming the idea, the ethic, of how our country is run."

- Indeed, he knows well what needs to be done. As he told this conference LAST YEAR: “We have to rebuild anew One Nation. An economy built on your success, a society based on your values, a politics that hears your voice – rich and poor alike – accepting their responsibilities to each other.”
- Ed Miliband will be a Prime Minister for everyone. He will govern for Britons with second jobs and second mortgages, not just those with second homes.
- He believes in politics of the MANY, not the few...

- Ed Miliband understands -- this Labour Party understands – the true cost of a status quo that puts a barrier between working people and prosperity... the drag it creates on the economy... and on the lives of families.
- And this Labour Party not only has the right values, it has an agenda that translates values into action. Not political talk, but a real plan that reforms the crux of the economy to make Britain work for everyone.
- Labour has a plan for a tax code that rewards hard work over existing wealth and power. A plan to end the current government's 3 billion pound tax cut for the wealthiest and instead give tax relief to 24 million middle and working class people....

- A plan that protects and STRENGTHENS – not curtails – the NHS so that quality healthcare remains a right and not a privilege...
- A plan that puts working people ahead of big corporations by controlling energy costs, and taking unprecedented steps to make housing more affordable.
- And a plan that provides 25 hours a week of free child care to working parents of 3- and 4-year olds, and another to expand after school programs, so that ALL kids can get on a path to success and opportunity early... and stay there.

- This agenda is a blueprint of what a fairer, more prosperous, STRONGER United Kingdom will look like.
- It recognizes that everyone's future... Every child's future... MATTERS.
- That is not only why you MUST win, it is why you WILL win!
- The upcoming election represents a choice for the people of your country: build a United Kingdom that rewards hard work and ensures the next generation does better... Or continue down a path where a privileged few do very well, while everyone else is left to fend for themselves.

- To me, that choice is very clear, as I know it is to people in this room... and as I know it will become to everyday people across this country.
- But to those on the other side, who argue things work BETTER when opportunity is scarce and exclusive, I offer this thought: not even DARWIN was a social Darwinist.
- Indeed, Charles Darwin, one of the greatest minds that yours or any country ever produced, put it this way:
“If the misery of the poor be caused not by the laws of nature, but by our institutions, great is our sin.”

- Among the cruelest false choices we are given is one that says we can only move forward if some are left behind. You don't need to accept that. No one should.
- The work ahead of you will be anything but easy... I can assure you of that. That distinct histories written on opposite ends of an ocean leave us, at this moment, facing essentially the same crisis – underscores its profound scale.
- But you have the power to overcome it.
- If you reject the cold complacency of the status quo, its power will erode.

- If you speak hard truths, others will listen.
- If you empower the great people of your country to speak THEIR truths, to speak out, to stand up and ACT in the face of this crisis, then there is so much good that you can achieve, together.
- And I believe you will.
- Thank you!

From: Hanley, Monica
To: "jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: [REDACTED] - bdb
Date: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 11:25:51 AM

From: Leopold, Elana
To: "jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Were coming back shortly
Date: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 11:39:30 AM

From: Coney, Javon
To: "jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com"
Cc: [REDACTED]
Subject: Re: We will be back at Gracie in 20-30
Date: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 12:10:06 PM

Fromowitz- We will go to CH soon. Mayor will call you from there. Please still send me updated draft so I can print.

----- Original Message -----

From: Coney, Javon
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 11:47 AM
To: 'jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com' <jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: [REDACTED] <[REDACTED]> [REDACTED]
<[REDACTED]>
Subject: Re: We will be back at Gracie in 20-30

MH- Will you be there to print so we can have on arrival.

----- Original Message -----

From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 11:46 AM
To: Coney, Javon
Cc: Monica Hanley <[REDACTED]> Elana Leopold <[REDACTED]>
Subject: Re: We will be back at Gracie in 20-30

Ok, I will have a draft to you to print shortly
On Sep 23, 2014, at 11:43 AM, Coney, Javon <JConey@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

- > Prob good to hang out and finish flushing out last thoughts with Mayor then.
- >
- > We will leave for his UN lunch about 12:50pm.

From: Jon Fromowitz
To: Coney, Javon
Cc: [REDACTED]
Subject: Re: We will be back at Gracie in 20-30
Date: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 12:28:38 PM
Attachments: LabourSpeechDraft25.docx
ATT00001.txt

New draft. Please let him know it may be rough around the edges as did a lot of restricting quickly (hopefully the formatting looks ok). We'll get a proof read ASAP once we lock a basic structure, but don't want to hold up in the meantime. I'll be standing by for call.

Mayor Bill de Blasio
Labour Party Conference Remarks
“The Power of Speaking Hard Truths”
Draft 25 – September 23nd, 1:00 PM

- It’s such an honor to be here with the people who make this Labour Party what it is. From the rising stars who will – WILL – lead Labour to victory next year... to the everyday activists whose unflinching passion and energy will fuel the campaign.
- Though I’ve seen your efforts mostly from afar, it’s clear to me, even across five time zones and an ocean, that this group is working towards something special.... something important.

- It's fitting that we find ourselves in Manchester. This city was at the forefront of the innovation and ingenuity that drove the Industrial Revolution, helping shape the contours of the modern economy that we know today.
- It shares a special status in history with the city I love and am so honored to lead. Both are places where big ideas and raw grit have been honored and rewarded like few others in the world.

- It is also among the first places in the world to foster a working class... and among the first where working people empowered themselves to take part in the political process. It's no wonder then that Manchester is a place where hard truths are deeply understood and spoken out.
- I cannot imagine a more appropriate backdrop for this gathering because yours is a party BORN out of working people attaining the right to vote... a party that EXISTS to fight for working families and forcefully address their needs.

- Labour has inclusiveness and progressiveness coded in its DNA... Yours is a party grounded in the idea that everyone's voice matters.... And that no one should be left behind.
- THIS Labour Party is led by a new generation of progressive leaders and defined by bold ideas. You stand ready to ACT with a plan for a fairer, more prosperous United Kingdom.
- THIS Labour Party hears the voices of the millions who feel like they are treading water... Working harder and harder but feeling less and less secure about the future.

- THIS Labour Party has the moral compass -- and the backbone -- to fight for an economy... a country... that works for working people.
- And your party refuses to accept the politics of inertia... That resigned mindset that says the next generation is destined to do worse than this one.
- By virtue of being in this room, you recognize that we owe it to our children to do better ... to live up to the most basic promise we make to the people we serve.

- I say that as someone charged with the duty of overseeing New York's public schools, where over one million kids in grades 12 and under learn and grow.
- I also say it as a father of two beautiful children of my own, Dante and Chiara, who have attended those schools for most of their young lives.
- There is NO duty more sacred than parenthood.
- Nothing gives me more comfort... more joy... than watching my children grow, knowing they can be WHATEVER -- WHOEVER -- they want to be. The boundaries of their future are determined only by how hard they work and how big they dream.

- If we accept a future – or a present – where parents can't look their kids in the eyes and tell them they have a shot at something better, then we break the promise of civilized society.... We deprive our children – AND their parents -- of so much.
- Now, I've said that growing inequality is THE crisis of our time in New York City. It's true here as well
- The numbers speak for themselves.
- In the UK, in 2011, the average income of an adult in top 0.1 % (point one percent) was more than 70 times that of someone in the bottom 90%. [2011, World Income Database].

- The Guardian recently reported that the five richest families in the UK have more wealth than the entire bottom 20% of the country. And, as is the case in New York City, the trend has been moving sharply in the wrong direction. According to a study published by Oxfam, since the 1990s, incomes of the top 0.1% (point one percent) of Britons have grown four times faster than those of the bottom 90%.

- Now let's be clear: there's nothing wrong with attaining wealth. I'm happy to celebrate the success of those who've earned it. But this crisis is keeping so many from writing their OWN success stories.

- Indeed, this status quo offers only the narrowest path to opportunity. Instead, it leaves everyday working people caught in a cost-of-living crisis.
- And let's be clear what we mean when we talk about a cost of living crisis. It's not about penthouse flats, Bentleys or five-star holidays. The people who can afford THOSE luxuries, are in fact, doing quite well under this Conservative government.
- But feeding a family, keeping a modest home that's lit and heated, securing a safe place for young kids to learn during the day... THESE things are becoming more and more costly. We're not talking about luxuries, or even conveniences, but the ESSENTIALS that people need to live.

- LIVING itself is getting harder and harder for working families to afford. Not living WELL... just LIVING; just getting by.
- And the price people pay isn't merely monetary.
- You can see it in the tired eyes of the waitress whose SECOND job is preceded by a second SHIFT at her FIRST job....
- In the shaky hand of the bus driver signing the paperwork for a payday loan....

- In the clenched jaws and stiff lips of working parents mustering brave faces in front of their son and daughter... in the WORK that goes into just hiding the fear that they won't be able to attain a better life.
- As wealth becomes more concentrated at the top, stories like these are becoming more common and less isolated to the lowest steps of the economic ladder.
- If unaddressed, the crisis will become THE defining characteristic of our societies... It won't be prosperity and opportunity... tragically, it will be the inequality and cost-of-living crisis.
- I know this Labour Party understands what's at stake.

- I also know the weight of this moment can feel like a burden: the exasperation that comes from knowing the gravity of this threat – a generation at risk of being forsaken – at a time when so many seem unwilling to act in response.
- The right side of history can feel like a lonely place. But it isn't. It never has been.
- Rather, history itself tells us that people ALWAYS gravitate towards decency, inclusion and progress. And you don't have to look back thousands of years to see that – go walk around a neighborhood in Manchester... Go to a school, a church, a mosque... You can see the trust people put in one another every day; the value people place in simple moral action.

- So why then is COLLECTIVE moral action often so difficult?
- In the case of the inequality and cost-of-living crisis, part of the issue is scope: the problem seems so difficult, so deeply embedded, that good people can be tempted to throw their hands up and declare that nothing can be done about it.
- But there's something else going on as well. As is the case with many injustices in history, there are people – small in number but oversized in power – who benefit from the status quo, and they work to maintain it. Their voices seem louder... more confident and authoritative... and those of everyday people get drowned out.

- In this way, people are made to feel powerless... made to feel that their voice doesn't matter at all.
- So at the same time that inequality is skyrocketing and the cost of living is overwhelming – something people can see and feel every day – we're told that even speaking of this problem is unconstructive, divisive... harmful, even.
- You know that it isn't. So do the people of your country.

- Part of your job then is to help them find their voice to say – together – that Britons deserve something better.
- Sometimes people – good, hardworking people – need to hear the truth spoken before they feel comfortable speaking it themselves.
- And there’s so much power that comes from speaking the truth... especially from speaking HARD truths.
- That’s because the status quo gets perpetuated through a series of falsehoods...false CHOICES that assign mutual exclusivity to ideas that should be complementary.

- We're told that prosperity can't be both great, and shared....
- That you can't lift the floor for those struggling in a tough economy, and still balance a budget....
- That those of us who serve can't expect to achieve anything at all if we dare to advance policies which are bold and morally right.
- In the lead-up to the election for New York City Mayor last year, the voices of the status quo gave voters another false choice: support MY candidacy ...
OR vote for someone with a real shot at winning.

- Well, I am here before you today because the people of New York City rejected the lazy logic of false-choice politics.
- I want to tell you how it happened.
- I announced my candidacy for Mayor from the front steps of my home in Brooklyn in January 2013. A few hundred people were there with me... the earliest believers in our campaign.
- We were brought together by a deep concern: that New York had become a Tale of Two Cities; a place where a few were doing very well, but millions of working people were struggling.

- It threatened to degrade New York's status in the world.
- The beacon of opportunity that for generations shone so brightly across our five boroughs and out into the world was dimming.
- We saw it, we FELT it in our city.... Even if it was unspoken, we saw on our neighbors' faces: the weight of worry about a future of diminished possibilities.
- And we knew the policies of the status quo were exacerbating the problem rather than addressing it.

- But though our mission was in many ways somber, our mood that day was not. It was a grey, frigid afternoon, but the event had an aura of excitement and joy one would expect at a summer block party. It was no doubt a strange sight to those passing by.
- There was a feeling that something special was happening that made the chill tolerable. It came from having found in one another a group of people who spoke the same truth about our Tale of Two Cities...the harm it was doing.... the threat it posed.
- There was a sense of relief that came from learning we weren't alone in our beliefs... a lifting of lonely burdens.

- There was a powerful sense of MISSION that came from accepting a mutual responsibility to act, together, against this scourge... and a heartfelt faith that victory was achievable, no matter the odds.
- Now, the odds did appear quite long, at first. It felt like the total number of those in the city who had HEARD of me was limited to those standing in front of my home that day... And my house is not very big.
- And not only were other candidates for mayor better known, they espoused ideas that were seen as more politically practical, hewing to the familiarity of the status quo.

- But it was never my intention to nibble around the edges with policies of timid maintenance; I ran to take dead aim at the crisis of our time. And I became Mayor because everyday New Yorkers, too, were hungry for a clean break from the status quo.
- Our campaign was powered by people of every race, every age, every income bracket. And yes, even many New Yorkers who had enjoyed great success joined our fight against rising inequality. They wanted the next generation of New Yorkers to have the same opportunities the city had given them.

- We were a small group, at first, but as New Yorkers learned that we were fighting for a government that would represent THEIR values -- fairness, justice, real opportunity for all – our campaign grew. And grew...
And grew.
- We worked – together – as activists, to spread the word.
- And so in living rooms and parks... in retirement communities and residence halls... on Twitter and Facebook... people were hearing from one another for the first time things they already knew in their own hearts to be true... and they were learning of the POWER that could come when they spoke out themselves.

- THAT is how in a matter of months we went from a few hundred souls gathered on that blustery Brooklyn day, to not just winning, but winning BIG on ELECTION day.
- And our shared resolve to remake our city didn't end when the votes were tallied.
- The same tenets that defined our campaign now drive our Administration: a constant push for bold action; a willingness to hear and speak hard truths; an agenda set by listening to the PEOPLE.

- With regard to my absolute highest priority, that's meant working aggressively to secure unprecedented access to free, full day early education programs for 4-year-olds.
- We did this because study after study shows the great equalizing effect of early education. But you don't need to read an academic journal to get that: we all know access to quality education does so much to determine a person's economic destiny... and as with most matters of destiny, timing is everything.

- Now, to give you some context on the politics we faced when trying to expand early education for families, I'd like to read you two assessments from New York newspapers, published almost exactly one year apart.
- In September 2013, a few months before I was elected Mayor... the New York Daily News wrote “[The] promise to create 48,000 educational slots for four-year-olds...has little chance of becoming a reality.”
- Then, in September 2014, in The New York Times QUOTE “51,000 Answer de Blasio’s Bell for New Pre-K.”

- Now, the 51,000 there refers to the number of kids who have been signed up for these programs. That's three thousand MORE than the number said to be impossible just one year ago.
- It also means that 51,000 beautiful children are on a better path to success... And all of their mothers and fathers... grandparents and guardians... they get to experience the comfort... the joy... that comes from seeing the shine of brighter futures.
- It's hard to express how much that means for the working people of our city. But it's also not all we've done in our first few months in office.

- We've enacted measures to give over 1 million more New Yorkers the right to paid sick leave, ensuring people won't lose a paycheck – or a job – because of illness or injury

- We've launched a plan to secure affordable housing for 500,000 New Yorkers over the next decade. That's more than the total population of the City of Bristol... Or of Miami, for anyone watching back home.

- We ended what had been one of the saddest manifestations of inequality by reforming racially biased police practices so that ALL law-abiding New Yorkers are granted the basic right of walking down the street without fear of being hassled by authorities.

- And we've done this all while reaching agreement on a contract with our city teachers – educators who had gone without a contract for nearly five years. In all that time, the good men and women charged with safeguarding the futures of our children had enjoyed little security when it came to their own futures.

- We made a deal grounded in partnership and mutual respect, because RESPECT for working men and women is a core principle that all GOOD governments live by. It was a fair deal for teachers – offering increased pay that they greatly deserved. But it also generated important savings that labor was a partner in achieving. Put simply: it was a good deal for the people of New York.
- So if anyone tells you that a balanced budget and an agenda of economic fairness can't go hand-in-hand, tell them to come visit New York City.
- Really, it's beautiful this time of year.

- I notice so many similarities between the UK I see today and the New York where I stood on that cold morning and announced my candidacy.
- It comes through so clearly, even across great physical distance: the people of the UK are ready for bold, progressive change.
- And if we can make the strides that we've made in New York City from a campaign so humble in its origins, imagine the feats that can come from this great hall!
- The work you have in front of you is so important. And don't let anyone talk you into underestimating the reach of the good you can do.

- There is little basis for glib assertion from the other side that a progressive agenda is narrow in terms of whose lives it would improve.
- The opposite is true. Mounting disparities in income create ripple effects that undermine whole economies. Here's just one example of how:
- The Financial Times recently concluded that the income gap between America's richest and poorest metropolitan regions is not only the widest it has ever been, but that this phenomenon was QUOTE "shaping an uneven housing recovery that threatens to hold back the broader revival of the world's largest economy."

- Indeed, in an increasingly interconnected world, a system grounded in exclusivity is not sustainable for ANYONE, including those at the very top.
- It is a problem that hurts EVERYONE, whether they get it or not.
- But that also means a progressive agenda has the power to HELP EVERYONE, whether your opponents ACKNOWLEDGE it or not.
- Don't hold your breath waiting for this conservative government to do that. Their top-down policies are making things harder for working people every day.

- Among the many ways they've aggravated the wounds of this crisis, the most painful might be their tax code.
- Instead of giving working families the leg-up they deserve, they gave billions of tax cuts to the wealthiest with the vague hope that money will magically trickle down to everyone else. In my country, that's an approach we call voodoo economics. I have no doubt the word "voodoo" sounds more elegant in a British accent than an American one, but in any intonation, we know it's a policy that doesn't work.
- So let me tell you about what does work. And you don't have to look far to see it. In fact, you heard it at your own conference last night.

- Ed Miliband has so clearly articulated both the challenges, and the opportunities this moment in history creates for the British people.
- He knows that a cautious approach won't do when it comes to addressing the crisis of our time. He has a BOLD vision for big change. As he said last night: "I'm not talking about changing a policy, or simply a different programme. But something that is bigger: transforming the idea, the ethic, of how our country is run."

- Indeed, he knows well what needs to be done. As he told this conference LAST YEAR: “We have to rebuild anew One Nation. An economy built on your success, a society based on your values, a politics that hears your voice – rich and poor alike – accepting their responsibilities to each other.”
- Ed Miliband will be a Prime Minister for Britons with second jobs and second mortgages, not just those with second homes.
- He believes in politics of the MANY, not the few...

- Ed Miliband understands -- this Labour Party understands – the true cost of a status quo that puts a barrier between working people and prosperity.
- And this Labour Party not only has the right values, it has an agenda that translates values into action. Not political talk, but a real plan that reforms the crux of the economy to.
- Labour has a plan for a tax code that rewards hard work over existing wealth and power. A plan to end the current government's 3 billion pound tax cut for the wealthiest and instead give tax relief to 24 million middle and working class people....

- A plan that protects and STRENGTHENS – not curtails – the NHS so that quality healthcare remains a right and not a privilege...
- A plan that puts working people ahead of big corporations by controlling energy costs, and taking unprecedented steps to make housing more affordable.
- And a plan that provides 25 hours a week of free child care to working parents of 3- and 4-year olds, so that ALL kids can get on a path to success and opportunity early... and stay there.

- I speak from personal experience when I say that this initiative in particular has the power to lift lives like few other steps governments can take. It makes such a difference, for so many.
- Your agenda is a blueprint of what a fairer, more prosperous, STRONGER United Kingdom will look like.
- That is not only why you MUST win, it is why you WILL win!

- The upcoming election represents a choice for the people of your country: build a United Kingdom that rewards hard work and ensures the next generation does better... Or continue down a path of growing inequality and rising cost of living.
- To me, that choice is very clear, as I know it is to people in this room... and as I know it will become to everyday people across this country.
- But to those on the other side, who argue things work BETTER when opportunity is scarce and exclusive, I offer this thought: not even DARWIN was a social Darwinist.

- Indeed, Charles Darwin, one of the greatest minds that yours or any country ever produced, put it this way:

“If the misery of the poor be caused not by the laws of nature, but by our institutions, great is our sin.”

- Among the cruelest false choices we are given is one that says we can only move forward if some are left behind. You don't need to accept that. No one should.

- The work ahead of you will be anything but easy... I can assure you of that. That distinct histories written on opposite ends of an ocean leave us, at this moment, facing essentially the same crisis – underscores its profound scale.

- But you have the power to overcome it.
- If you reject the cold complacency of the status quo, its power will erode.
- If you speak hard truths, others will listen.
- If you empower the people of your great country to speak THEIR truths, to stand up and TO ACT in the face of this crisis, then there is so much good that you can achieve, together.
- And I believe you will.
- Thank you!

On Sep 23, 2014, at 12:10 PM, Coney, Javon <JConey@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

> Fromowitz- We will go to CH soon. Mayor will call you from there. Please still send me updated draft so I can print.

> ----- Original Message -----

> From: Coney, Javon

> Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 11:47 AM

> To: 'jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com' <jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>

> Cc: [REDACTED] <[REDACTED]> [REDACTED]

> Subject: Re: We will be back at Gracie in 20-30

> MH- Will you be there to print so we can have on arrival.

> ----- Original Message -----

> From: Jon Fromowitz [mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com]

> Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 11:46 AM

> To: Coney, Javon

> Cc: Monica Hanley <[REDACTED]> Elana Leopold <[REDACTED]>

> Subject: Re: We will be back at Gracie in 20-30

> Ok, I will have a draft to you to print shortly

> On Sep 23, 2014, at 11:43 AM, Coney, Javon <JConey@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>> Prob good to hang out and finish flushing out last thoughts with Mayor then.

>> We will leave for his UN lunch about 12:50pm.

From: Hanley, Monica
To: "jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Fw: Upk
Date: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 2:12:32 PM

----- Original Message -----

From: Norvell, Wiley
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 02:12 PM
To: Hanley, Monica
Cc: Fromberg, Rick (Consultant)
Subject: RE: Upk

Adding Rick.

Today's report includes figures from Thursday putting us at 53,792.

-----Original Message-----

From: Hanley, Monica
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 2:04 PM
To: Norvell, Wiley
Subject: Upk

How many are enrolled as of today?

From: Hanley, Monica
To: "jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Fw: DAILY MAIL: Miliband's pitch for PM falls flat: Lacklustre Labour leader pins hopes of election victory on £2.5bn cash boost for NHS - but he FORGOT to mention the deficit
Date: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 2:29:53 PM

From: Clips
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 02:28 PM
Subject: DAILY MAIL: Miliband's pitch for PM falls flat: Lacklustre Labour leader pins hopes of election victory on £2.5bn cash boost for NHS - but he FORGOT to mention the deficit

Miliband's pitch for PM falls flat: Lacklustre Labour leader pins hopes of election victory on £2.5bn cash boost for NHS - but he FORGOT to mention the deficit
DAILY MAIL UK - Matt Chorley
<http://www.dailymail.co.uk/news/article-2766565/Ed-Miliband-s-Labour-conference-speech-unveils-plans-36-000-extra-NHS-staff.html>

Ed Miliband today pinned his hopes of winning the next election on a promise of £2.5billion for the NHS.

In a lacklustre speech at the Labour conference in Manchester, he retreated to his party's comfort zone with attacks on bankers, Tories, energy companies, the media and the super-rich in what he described as his 'job interview' to become Prime Minister for a decade.

The centrepiece of his pitch to voters was a promise to tax tobacco companies, mansion owners and hedge funds to pay for 20,000 more nurses, 8,000 extra GPs, 5,000 careworkers and 3,000 midwives, so NHS staff are not 'rushed off their feet'.

But during his 68-minute long speech - in which aides were seen actively encouraging standing ovations - he ditched a planned section on tackling the deficit and immigration, despite trailing behind the Tories on both issues.

Instead he sought to impress with increasingly bizarre anecdotes about meeting 'ordinary people' on his travels around the country, in offices, pubs, parks and hospital beds.

Mr Miliband took to the stage of the Manchester Central conference centre under pressure to persuade voters he is ready to run the country.

A new YouGov poll shows just 15 per cent of people think he has provided an effective opposition to the government and 20 per cent say he has made it clear what he stands for.

Just 18 per cent think he would be up to the job of Prime Minister, according to the survey for The Sun.

While Labour is ahead in the overall polls, it lags behind the Tories on the economy by up to 25 points.

In a draft copy of his speech posted online, Mr Miliband was expected to talk about the deficit and stress Labour's commitment to not making uncosted pledges.

But during his long and ponderous speech, he failed to mention the deficit at all. Aides would not say whether he had deliberately wanted to cut the section, or simply forgot.

Speaking without notes, Mr Miliband occasionally seemed to lose his way, as he repeatedly used the word 'together' to emphasise how he thinks government intervention can solve the country's problems.

But Mr Miliband said he wanted to 'restore people's faith in the future'. He added: 'I'm not talking about changing a policy, or simply a different programme. But something that is bigger: transforming the idea, the ethic, of how our country is run.

'Strip away all of the sound and fury and what people across England, Scotland and Wales, across every part of the UK, are saying is this country doesn't care about me. Politics doesn't listen.

'The economy doesn't work. And they are not wrong. They are right. But this Labour Party has a plan to put it right.'

He said the next eight months 'represent my interview with the British people for one of the most important jobs in our country'.

He said it was a 'choice between carrying on as we are, on your own, for the privileged few.

'Or a different, better future for our country. We are ready. Labour's plan for Britain's future. Let's make it happen. Together.'

Mr Miliband today made clear his intention to fight the next election on the NHS, despite it being one of the key issues on which Labour already has the trust of the majority of voters.

Setting out six goals for a Labour government to achieve by 2025, he said one of them would be to 'create a world-class 21st century health and care service'.

He argues that only a major injection of money will give doctors, nurses and midwives the time to properly look after patients and not be 'rushed off their feet'.

He promises to tackle the shortage of GPs, which means a quarter of patients having to wait more than a week for an appointment.

The focus on the NHS suggests Labour has adopted a core vote strategy, hoping its popularity on the health service will outweigh voters' fears about Mr Miliband's credibility on the economy.

He also needed to address the mounting evidence that voters do not see him as a future Prime Minister.

In a section of Mr Miliband's speech posted on the Labour website stressed that: 'There won't be any money after the next election.'

Mr Miliband was expected to echo Ed Balls' promise that there will be 'no proposals for additional borrowing’.

‘We will get the deficit down,’ the extract added.

However, despite delivering more than 8,000 words during his speech, he did not mention the deficit at all.

Tory MP Henry Smith said: ‘Ed Miliband has let the cat out of the bag – he has no plan to deal with the deficit and no plan for the economy.

‘This is a man who wants to be Prime Minister, but in his speech today he cut out all references to difficult decisions because he’s too weak to take them.’

Labour argues that by making it easier to get a GP appointment or providing more care for people to stay in their own homes, it will ease pressure on over-stretched A&E departments and hospital wards, saving the NHS money.

Mr Miliband said: ‘We need to make sure there is a NHS there when we need it. Our plan for Britain’s future means we will create a world-class 21st century health and care service because a hospital is only as good as the services in the community.

‘If people can’t get to see their GP, if they can’t get the care they need at home, they end up in hospital when that could have been avoided, that’s bad for them, and it costs billions of pounds.

‘Those services are creaking. One in four people can’t get to see their GP within a week.

‘We’ve seen the scandal of care visits for the elderly restricted to just 15 minutes for the elderly.

‘And we know there are huge future pressures facing the NHS. We are going to have to transform the way the NHS works in the years ahead.

‘It is time to care about our NHS. So that doctors, nurses, care workers, midwives able to spend proper time with us - not to be rushed off their feet... an NHS with time to care.’

Mr Miliband stressed that the money will not be raised through taxes on working people, but instead take aim at wealthy homeowners and tobacco firms who have helped cause some of the health problems putting pressure on the NHS.

He went on: ‘The NHS is sliding backwards under this government. They are privatising and fragmenting it.

‘Just think what it would look like after five more years of David Cameron.

‘We built the NHS. We saved the NHS. We will repeal their Health and Social Care Bill and we will transform the NHS for the future.

‘That’s what the next Labour government will do and we will do it together.’

Labour’s proposed Mansion Tax would be imposed on properties worth more than £2million.

Exact details have not been made public, but it is likely Labour would introduce 'bands', similar to those used for council tax, with a higher charge on houses worth more than £10million.

There is expected to be protection for people who do not have large savings or higher earnings, but who live in an expensive home.

Costings released to coincide with Mr Miliband's speech suggests it could raise £1.25billion-a-year.

London will be hardest hit by the Mansion Tax, with more than 6,000 homes selling for more than £2million each year.

Susan Emmett, director of residential research at estate agents Savills, said: 'We estimate that there are 97,000 properties worth over £2million in the UK, a figures that has risen by 36,000 since 2009.

This tax will hit London disproportionately. Over 80 per cent of properties over £2 million are in London.

'The London property market has already had to absorb a fair amount of extra taxation over the last couple of years since the idea of Mansion Tax first emerged.

'Adding to that burden would disrupt the market at a time when London house price growth is already cooling.'

The latest attempt to clamp down on tax avoidance would target hedge funds avoiding millions in tax on shares, close a Eurobonds 'loophole' allowing firms to move profits out of the UK to avoid corporation tax, and preventing Umbrella Companies being used to avoid tax and National Insurance on expenses.

There would also be a fee imposed on tobacco firms, relative to their share of the market.

The Tobacco Manufacturers Association said: 'This anti-business idea is illogical and ignores a major cause of lost tobacco tax, the illegal market.

'Rather than coming up with ways to attack a legitimate UK business sector, selling a legal product which already contributes £12.3billion per year in tax, the Labour party should be thinking of how to claw back the billions in revenue the government loses through sales of illegal tobacco in the UK.

'The latest HM Revenue & Customs data shows that the illegal market cost up to £2.9billion in 2012/13, a rise of £500million on the previous year.'

The levy on tobacco firms is based on a similar tax announced by US President Barack Obama in 2009, and makes a direct link between firms who profit from smoking and the costs of treating smoking-related illnesses on the NHS. Labour says it will raise £150million-a-year.

Mr Miliband said he wanted the plan was part of six national goals, 'not just for one year or one term of office, but a plan for the next ten years: Britain 2025'.

After criticism that his most popular policies to date have been eye-catching but short-termist – including last year's energy bill freeze – he instead focused on a more far-reaching ambition to be in power for a decade.

He set out plans for as many school leavers to do an apprenticeship as go to university, double the number of first-time buyers to 400,000 to halve the number of people on low wages to 2million.

He recounted meeting Elizabeth, an apprentice auto electrician, and introduced her to the conference hall.

Mr Miliband said: 'She is one of the lucky few, friends.... actually Elizabeth's school helped her get an apprenticeship but so many other schools don't do that.

'Lots of the young people I meet who are on apprenticeships say 'my school said apprenticeships were rubbish and they wouldn't help me but now I'm doing it it's really great for me'.

'Frankly, there aren't enough of them and they aren't high quality enough.'
Mr Miliband warned this goal was a long way away and would require a 'massive national effort' to achieve.

'It's going to require young people to show the ambition to do well and to get on,' he said.

'It's going to require schools to lead a dramatic change in education, with new gold standard technical qualifications.

'And it is going to need business and government to lead a revolution in apprenticeships.

'Government is very good at preaching to business about what it should be doing. But let me just tell you - government is absolutely useless when it comes to apprenticeships.

'It is true of governments of both parties.'

Mr Miliband added it was OK for companies to bring in European workers, but added: 'You must provide apprenticeships for the next generation.'

He also outlined an ambition for wages to rise in line with growth in the economy and the creation of 1 million more hi-tech jobs.

However, it is surprising that with eight months until the election the pledges did not cover crime, immigration, schools or Europe.

Mr Miliband is making a clear pitch to younger voters, promising them better training, more jobs and a chance to buy their own home.

On housing, Mr Miliband seeks to position Labour as the party of home ownership, in a bold move to emulate Margaret Thatcher's vision of Britain as a property-owning democracy.

Labour says that by building at least 200,000 homes-a-year by 2020, the number of first-time buyers will hit 400,000 by 2025, twice the current number.

Mr Miliband said the 'confidence and security' of home ownership was now beyond many people in Britain today.

He said: 'So many people don't have that today, that very British dream of home ownership is fading for so many people.'

'Under this government we are building fewer homes than at any time since the 1920s.'

He said Labour's goal was to ensure that by 2025 as many homes as are needed are being built in Britain and the number of first time buyers is doubled.

Mr Miliband added: 'It's going to require a massive national effort.'

Land-banking will be stopped and a new generation of towns and garden cities will be built, creating an extra 500,000 new homes.

'We will also make housing the top priority for additional capital investment in the next parliament. This party will get Britain building again.'

It is the first-time that Labour has set an ambition for more home ownership, and will be seen as an attempt to woo middle-class voters who worry their children will never get on to the property ladder.

Labour promised to introduce 'use it or lose it' powers to stop developers from hoarding land which they refuse to build on.

Employers who land government contracts will be forced to take on apprentices, as will large firms who hire skilled workers from outside the EU.

Labour also claims Britain must do more to compete for work in the £3.3trillion global green industries market.

Mr Miliband has set an ambition that by 2025, there will be an extra 1million people in Britain working in hi-tech jobs.

Justine Miliband has come out fighting for her husband, defending him against 'nasty' and 'brutal' attacks in the run-up to the general election.

She warned of the 'personal price' paid by politicians in the firing line, with just eight months until her husband goes into battle with David Cameron.

Mrs Miliband used a speech to a reception at the Labour conference in Manchester to insist she was 'up for the fight' and had chosen to speak out to show she is more than a 'political wife' wearing a nice dress.

She said: 'I am up for this fight over the next eight months, however nasty, however personal, however brutal it gets over the next eight months, I am up for this fight.'

In his speech Mr Miliband vowed that the next Labour manifesto would not contain any unfunded spending promises, or any new commitment to extra borrowing.

Hours before the keynote speech, shadow work and pensions secretary Rachel Reeves blundered in a radio interview, when she failed to say how much the state pension is worth.

Appearing on LBC radio, she insisted that 'of course' the payment was worth 'just under £100-a-week'.

When the shadow work and pensions secretary was told the true sum is actually £113.10, she tried to insist it depended how long people had been working for.

Lib Dem pensions minister Steve Webb told MailOnline: 'Sometimes when Labour criticised us on pensions, you wonder if they fully grasp how things work.

'For a shadow pensions minister not to know the value of the state pension suggests it is actually the opposition who are out of touch with our pensioners.'

From: Hanley, Monica
To: "jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Fw: CAPITAL: Union raises carriage issue ahead of de Blasio's England trip
Date: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 2:30:00 PM

From: Clips
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 02:24 PM
Subject: CAPITAL: Union raises carriage issue ahead of de Blasio's England trip

Union raises carriage issue ahead of de Blasio's England trip

CAPITAL NY – Gloria Pazmino – 1:19 pm

<http://www.capitalnewyork.com/article/city-hall/2014/09/8553145/union-raises-carriage-issue-ahead-de-blasios-england-trip>

A major international union plans to see to it that Mayor Bill de Blasio's carriage-horse dilemma follows him to Manchester, England.

As de Blasio prepares for a trip to Manchester, where he will deliver a speech on income inequality before the Labour Party's annual conference, the International Transport Workers' Federation issued a statement asking the City Council to support the city's horse-drawn carriages and oppose Blasio's campaign promise to carriages from Central Park.

The I.T.F. is an international umbrella group that represents about 4.5 million transportation workers in nearly 150 countries.

In a letter to the council members, I.T.F. secretary Steve Cotton defends the horse carriage drivers, calling the industry "a vibrant, well-established asset to the City of New York," and saying that he "can see no meaningful reason to deprive the workers involved in it of their jobs, deprive visitors of the pleasure it generates, or deprive New York of one of its landmark sights."

De Blasio is scheduled to meet with Labour leader Ed Milliband before delivering his remarks at the conference.

According to the letter, Unite, an I.T.F.-affiliated union, plans "to raise the issue with New York Mayor Bill de Blasio when he attends the Labour Party conference in Manchester."

A spokesperson for I.T.F. declined to provide details about the meeting, or to say whether any other activities were planned to draw attention to horse-carriage issue.

A spokesman for de Blasio provided the following statement: "We're considering a range of options that move the horses off our streets, safeguard the animals, and protect the livelihoods of the men and women who provide carriage rides."

From: Hanley, Monica
To: "jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Fw: GUARDIAN: Ed Miliband's Labour conference speech: what he said and what he means
Date: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 2:30:21 PM

From: Clips
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 02:29 PM
Subject: GUARDIAN: Ed Miliband's Labour conference speech: what he said and what he means

Ed Miliband's Labour conference speech: what he said and what he means

THE GUARDIAN - Anne Perkins

<http://www.theguardian.com/commentisfree/2014/sep/23/labour-conference-ed-miliband-speech-what-he-said-what-he-means>

“It’s here four years ago here that I won the leadership of this great party.”

– So anyone wondering if there could be an alternative leader, forget it. I’m not going anywhere. (There wasn’t much of a cheer for this – certainly nothing like the cheer the mention of Gordon Brown got a minute later).

“I’ll let you in on a story ... I was on my way to a public meeting ... I ran into a woman ... her name was Josephine and it turned out she was a cleaner in the building.”

– The first of a crowd of colourful characters who populate all Labour speeches (there’s been Maria, Elizabeth, Xiomarin, Gareth, even an NHS patient called Colin who has since died ...) in a determined attempt to show politics is about real people. Gareth later turns out to be an Oxford graduate, and Ed is always, unmistakably, “pamphlet” Labour; that is a man who works outwards from political theory. This becomes increasingly obvious as the speech unwinds.

“Can we build a better future for our whole country? With a different idea we can ... An idea that is just one simple word: Together.

– The big but simple idea that animates pre-election Ed. A new way of describing solidarity, collectivism and the virtues of the big state. Quite useful, especially set against the later message of “You’re on your own with the Tories – unless you are a millionaire needing a tax break or a Russian oligarch wanting to make up a four for a game of tennis.” Of course, the best “Together” example is the NHS, and there is a lot of that which wakes up the previously rather somnolent hall. But the £2.5bn that he will raise is about 3% of the NHS annual budget – not quite as transformative as he promised. And there was no mention of the huge cost-pressures every hospital is under, or the backlash against integrated care that is building.

“A new ethic. A national effort. Labour’s plan for Britain’s future.”

– Ed’s “different ethic” theme may not be as bad as the “endogenous growth” that Gordon Brown once described. But still, it’s wonspeak.

“I want to set out six national goals.”

– The following pledges are short on specifics and big ideas, notwithstanding the extra cash for the NHS. Some ideas, such as launching Lord Cashman on the global campaign for LGBT rights belong in the “You couldn’t make it up” category.

“But a plan for the next 10 years. Britain 2025”

– This is the nearest thing to a mention of the deficit. That is, it’s going to be a long, long haul.

“We’ve had five years of their experiment with your life and so we have a pretty clear view of what the Tory future looks like. Your family worse off. Your family can’t afford to take that risk. Your family can’t afford another five years of David Cameron.”

– A nice attempt to turn the politics of fear against the Tories.

“But to make this plan really work, we need to change who has the power so that all those people who feel locked out are let back in.”

– There may actually be some real meat here in the promise to change the way politics is done. Votes for 16-18-year-olds were on the cards, and so was the people’s convention. But Lords reform to make the upper house a “senate for the nations and the regions” sounds interesting.

“In the Scottish referendum people showed us they can be proud to be Scottish and proud to be British. And let’s play tribute to the First Minister of Wales, Carwyn Jones. Proud to be Welsh and proud to be British. And let’s be proud of our Englishness too. No political party owns our English national identity. So is time we fought, this party fought, for the traditions of England and did not cede them to others. Englishness: a history of solidarity. From the Battle of Cable Street to the spirit of the Blitz. Englishness: traditions of fairness. From the Dagenham workers who fought for equal pay to today’s campaigners for a living wage. Englishness: a spirit of internationalism. From those who fought in the Spanish Civil War to our generosity to those overseas. There will be some people who tell you that being English, Scottish or Welsh means cutting ourselves off or seeking to divide. That’s never been our tradition. And that’s not our future.”

– The Scots don’t have a monopoly on social democracy, Mr Salmond.

“Over four years, I’ve shown this party has learnt the lessons of the Iraq war. We have all been horrified by the murderous actions of ISIL in the last few months.”

– He had to have something to say on Islamic State. The proposal for a UN resolution is flimsy – Russia will almost certainly veto it – but it will do for purposes of the speech.

“Friends, as prime minister I will show the same resolve. My opponent stands for something different. He stands for the “you’re on your own” idea. And he seems to believe that a good photo opportunity will fool you into thinking he doesn’t just stand up for the rich and powerful, he stands up for you. But, he’s been found out.”

– Whatever you do, don’t mention bacon sandwiches.

From: Hanley, Monica
To: "jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Fw: TELEGRAPH: Ed Miliband's speech: a party preparing for powerlessness
Date: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 2:33:16 PM

From: Clips
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 02:32 PM
Subject: TELEGRAPH: Ed Miliband's speech: a party preparing for powerlessness

Ed Miliband's speech: a party preparing for powerlessness

TELEGRAPH UK - James Kirkup

http://blogs.telegraph.co.uk/news/jameskirkup/100287412/ed-milibands-speech-a-party-preparing-for-powerlessness/?utm_source=twitterfeed&utm_medium=twitter

Ed Miliband can give pretty good speeches, speeches that confound his critics and leave neutral observers pleasantly surprised. This wasn't one of those speeches. Even if it wasn't as long as billed (65 minutes, not 80) it was, like almost all conference speeches these days, too long. The personal "I met a real person" anecdotes were overdone and too numerous. The personal passion bits didn't really catch fire. Worst of all, there wasn't much of an overarching argument to unite the disparate parts of the speech: urging people to come "together" doesn't constitute an intellectual case.

Still, a flat speech is appropriate for a flat conference. Labour in Manchester isn't what you'd expect of a party that's ahead in the polls eight months before election day, a party that has a very respectable chance of being in Government next year. There's no obvious sense of excitement or anticipation, no buzz. Shadow Cabinet ministers' speeches have lacked energy or ambition: none has looked like an ambitious programme of government that war-gaming civil servants could use to start preparing their departments for Day 1 of the Miliband Decade.

The most exciting parts of the speech were those that heaped praise on the NHS and castigated David Cameron and the Conservatives as heartless toffs who only stand up for the rich. In other words, the parts that play to the traditional Labour base on the left. There was in the speech remarkably little sign of Mr Miliband trying to reach out to voters who incline more naturally to the Conservative Party, the sort of voters who used to return Tony Blair with handsome majorities. There was no discussion of immigration, nothing to say about the deficit – in other words, nothing to address the biggest reasons middle-of-the-road voters have for rejecting the party. And the One Nation slogan to which Mr Miliband dedicated himself just two years ago was not used at all.

Overall, this was a speech – and a conference – that suggest a party more preoccupied with its own voters than the other side's. A speech that will only bolster the suspicion that Mr Miliband believes that if he can just win back enough votes from the Liberal Democrats (the original advocates of his mansion tax policy) and add those votes to the Labour core, then he will just nudge ahead of a Conservative Party hobbled by Ukip and still struggling to persuade those same middle-of-the-road folk that it's on their side. He might well be right, too.

And that is why Labour in Manchester is oddly joyless. It's not that the party fears it will lose the next election – though that fear remains real. It's that it worries it will win but win without a decisive mandate to govern, a modest or non-existent Commons majority forcing Labour to share power, or accept the instability and uncertainty of ruling without control of Parliament. This is a party stumbling towards power, and preparing for powerlessness.

From: Jon Fromowitz
To: Kallen, Laurel
Subject: Re: Urgent Proofreading
Date: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 3:09:37 PM
Attachments: LabourSpeechDraft25.docx
ATT00001.htm

Here is the new draft. Please note if there were edits you made last time that weren't accepted, it's because sometimes you need to take some oratory license to word things they way they are easier to say, rather than grammatically best. But this should by and large have your edits accepted, just been worked over throughout the day so would be good if you could take another look. Need by 4 PM, if that's possible. Thanks! Jon

Mayor Bill de Blasio
Labour Party Conference Remarks
“The Power of Speaking Hard Truths”
Draft 25 – September 23nd, 2:35PM

- It’s such an honor to be here with the people who make this Labour Party what it is. From the rising stars who will – WILL – lead Labour to victory next year... to the everyday activists whose unflinching passion and energy will fuel the campaign.
- Though I’ve seen your efforts mostly from afar, it’s clear to me, even across five time zones and an ocean, that this group is working towards something special.... something important.

- It's fitting that we find ourselves in Manchester. This city was at the forefront of the innovation and ingenuity that drove the Industrial Revolution, helping shape the contours of the modern economy that we know today.
- It shares a special status in history with the city I love and am so honored to lead. Both are places where big ideas and raw grit have been honored and rewarded like few others in the world.

- It is also among the first places in the world to foster a modern working class... and among the first where working people empowered themselves to take part in the political process. It's no wonder then that Manchester is a place where hard truths are deeply understood and spoken out.
- I cannot imagine a more appropriate backdrop for this gathering because yours is a party BORN out of working people attaining the right to vote... a party that EXISTS to fight for working families and forcefully address their needs.

- Labour has inclusiveness and progressiveness coded in its DNA... Yours is a party grounded in the idea that everyone's voice matters.... And that no one should be left behind.
- THIS Labour Party is led by a new generation of progressive leaders and defined by bold ideas. You stand ready to ACT with a plan for a fairer, more prosperous United Kingdom.... And to FIGHT for an economy... a country... that works for working people.
- THIS Labour Party hears the voices of the millions who feel like they are treading water... Working harder and harder but feeling less and less secure about the future.

- And your party refuses to accept the politics of inertia... That resigned mindset that says the next generation is destined to do worse than this one.
- By virtue of being in this room, you recognize that we owe it to our children to do better ... to live up to the most basic promise we make to the people we serve.
- I say that as someone charged with the duty of overseeing New York's public schools, where over one million children 18 and under learn and grow.

- I also say it as a father of two beautiful children of my own, Dante and Chiara, who have attended those schools for most of their young lives.
- There is NO duty more sacred than parenthood.
- Nothing gives me more comfort... more joy... than watching my children grow, knowing they can be WHATEVER -- WHOEVER -- they want to be. The boundaries of their future are determined only by how hard they work and how big they dream.
- If we accept a future – or a present – where parents can't look their kids in the eyes and tell them they have a shot at something better, then we break the promise of civilized society.... We deprive our children – AND their parents -- of so much.

- Now, I've said that growing inequality is THE crisis of our time in New York City. It's true here as well.
- The numbers speak for themselves.
- In the UK, in 2011, the average income of an adult in top 0.1 % (point one percent) was more than 70 times that of someone in the bottom 90%. [2011, World Income Database].

- The Guardian recently reported that the five richest families in the UK have more wealth than the entire bottom 20% of the country. And, as is the case in New York City, the trend has been moving sharply in the wrong direction. According to a study published by Oxfam, since the 1990s, incomes of the top 0.1% (point one percent) of Britons have grown four times faster than those of the bottom 90%.

- Now, there's nothing wrong with attaining wealth. I'm happy to celebrate the success of those who've earned it. But this crisis is keeping so many from writing their OWN success stories.

- Indeed, this status quo offers only the narrowest path to opportunity. Instead, it leaves everyday working people caught in a cost-of-living crisis.
- And let's be clear what we mean when we talk about a cost of living crisis. It's not about penthouse flats, Bentleys or five-star holidays. The people who can afford THOSE luxuries, are in fact, doing quite well under this Conservative government.
- But feeding a family, keeping a modest home that's lit and heated, securing a safe place for young kids to learn during the day... THESE things are becoming more and more costly. We're not talking about luxuries, or even conveniences, but the ESSENTIALS that people need to live.

- LIVING itself is getting harder and harder for working families to afford. Not living WELL... just LIVING; just getting by.
- And the price people pay isn't merely monetary.
- You can see it in the tired eyes of the waitress whose SECOND job is preceded by a second SHIFT at her FIRST job....
- In the shaky hand of the bus driver signing the paperwork for a payday loan....

- In the clenched jaws and stiff lips of working parents mustering brave faces in front of their son and daughter... in the WORK that goes into just hiding the fear that they won't be able to attain a better life.
- As wealth becomes more concentrated at the top, stories like these are becoming more common and less isolated to the lowest steps of the economic ladder.
- If unaddressed, the crisis will become THE defining characteristic of our societies... It won't be prosperity and opportunity... tragically, it will be the inequality and cost-of-living crisis.
- I know this Labour Party understands what's at stake.

- I also know the weight of this moment can feel like a burden: the exasperation that comes from knowing the gravity of this threat – a generation at risk of being forsaken – at a time when so many seem unwilling to act in response.
- The right side of history can feel like a lonely place. But it isn't. It never has been.
- Rather, history itself tells us that people ALWAYS gravitate towards decency, inclusion and progress. And you don't have to look back thousands of years to see that – go walk around a neighborhood in Manchester... Go to a school, a church, a mosque... You can see the trust people put in one another every day; the value people place in simple moral action.

- So why then is COLLECTIVE moral action often so difficult?
- In the case of the inequality and cost-of-living crisis, part of the issue is scope: the problem seems so difficult, so deeply embedded, that good people can be tempted to throw their hands up and declare that nothing can be done about it.
- But there's something else going on as well. As is the case with many injustices, there are people – small in number but oversized in power – who benefit from the status quo, and they work to maintain it. Their voices seem louder... more confident and authoritative... and those of everyday people get drowned out.

- In this way, people are made to feel powerless... made to feel that their voice doesn't matter at all.
- So at the same time that inequality is skyrocketing and the cost of living is overwhelming – something people can see and feel every day – we're told that even speaking of this problem is unconstructive, divisive... harmful, even.
- You know that it isn't. So do the people of your country.
- Part of your job then is to help them find their voice to say – together – that Britons deserve something better.

- Sometimes people – good, hardworking people – need to hear the truth spoken before they feel comfortable speaking it themselves.
- And there's so much power that comes from speaking the truth... especially from speaking HARD truths.
- That's because the status quo gets perpetuated through a series of falsehoods...false CHOICES that assign mutual exclusivity to ideas that should be complementary.
- We're told that prosperity can't be both great, and shared....

- That you can't lift the floor for those struggling in a tough economy, and still balance a budget....
- That those of us who serve can't expect to achieve anything at all if we dare to advance policies which are bold and morally right.
- In the lead-up to the election for New York City Mayor last year, the voices of the status quo gave voters another false choice: support MY candidacy ...
OR vote for someone with a real shot at winning.
- Well, I am here before you today because the people of New York City rejected the lazy logic of false-choice politics.

- I want to tell you how it happened.
- I announced my candidacy for Mayor from the front steps of my home in Brooklyn in January 2013. A few hundred people were there with me... the earliest believers in our campaign.
- We were brought together by a deep concern: that New York had become a Tale of Two Cities; a place where a few were doing very well, but millions of working people were struggling.
- It threatened to degrade New York's status in the world.

- The beacon of opportunity that for generations shone so brightly across our five boroughs and out into the world was dimming.
- We saw it, we FELT it in our city.... Even if it was unspoken, we saw on our neighbors' faces: the weight of worry about a future of diminished possibilities.
- And we knew the policies of the status quo were exacerbating the problem rather than addressing it.

- But though our mission was in many ways somber, our mood that day was not. It was a grey, frigid afternoon, but the event had an aura of excitement and joy one would expect at a summer street party. It was no doubt a strange sight to those passing by.
- There was a feeling that something special was happening that made the chill tolerable. It came from having found in one another a group of people who spoke the same truth about our Tale of Two Cities...the harm it was doing.... the threat it posed.
- There was a sense of relief that came from learning we weren't alone in our beliefs... a lifting of lonely burdens.

- There was a powerful sense of MISSION that came from accepting a mutual responsibility to act, together, against this scourge... and a heartfelt faith that victory was achievable, no matter the odds.
- Now, the odds did appear quite long, at first. It felt like the total number of those in the city who had HEARD of me was limited to those standing in front of my home that day... And my house is not very big.
- And not only were other candidates for mayor better known, they espoused ideas that were seen as more politically practical, hewing to the familiarity of the status quo.

- But it was never my intention to nibble around the edges with policies of timid maintenance; I ran to take dead aim at the crisis of our time. And I became Mayor because everyday New Yorkers, too, were hungry for a clean break from the status quo.
- Our campaign was powered by people of every race, every age, every income bracket. And yes, even many New Yorkers who had enjoyed great success joined our fight against rising inequality. They wanted the next generation of New Yorkers to have the same opportunities the city had given them.

- We were a small group, at first, but as New Yorkers learned that we were fighting for a government that would represent THEIR values -- fairness, justice, real opportunity for all – our campaign grew. And grew...
And grew.
- We worked – together – as activists, to spread the word.
- And so in living rooms and parks... old people's homes and halls of residence... on Twitter and Facebook... people were hearing from one another for the first time things they already knew in their own hearts to be true... and they were learning of the POWER that could come when they spoke out themselves.

- THAT is how in a matter of months we went from a few hundred souls gathered on that blustery Brooklyn day, to not just winning, but winning BIG on ELECTION day.
- And our shared resolve to remake our city didn't end when the votes were tallied.
- The same tenets that defined our campaign now drive our Administration: a constant push for bold action; a willingness to hear and speak hard truths; an agenda set by listening to the PEOPLE.

- With regard to my absolute highest priority, that's meant working aggressively to secure unprecedented access to free, full day – FULL DAY -- early education programs for 4-year-olds.
- We did this because study after study shows the great equalizing effect of early education. But you don't need to read an academic journal to get that: we all know access to quality education does so much to determine a person's economic destiny... and as with most matters of destiny, timing is everything.
- A key part of that timing is timing is hours in the classroom, so this room knows well.

- Now, to give you some context on the politics we faced when trying to expand early education for families, I'd like to read you two assessments from New York newspapers, published almost exactly one year apart.
- In September 2013, a few months before I was elected Mayor... the New York Daily News wrote QUOTE “[The] promise to create 48,000 educational slots for four-year-olds...has little chance of becoming a reality.”
- Then, in September 2014, in The New York Times QUOTE “51,000 Answer de Blasio’s Bell for New Pre-K.”

- Now, the 51,000 there refers to the number of kids who have been signed up for these programs. That's three thousand MORE than the number said to be impossible just one year ago.
- It also means that 51,000 beautiful children are on a better path to success... And all of their mothers and fathers... grandparents and guardians... they get to experience the comfort... the joy... that comes from seeing the shine of brighter futures.
- It's hard to express how much that means for the working people of our city. But it's also not all we've done in our first few months in office.

- We've launched a plan to secure affordable housing for 500,000 New Yorkers over the next decade.

That's more than the total population of Bristol... Or of Miami, for anyone watching back home.

- We ended what had been one of the saddest manifestations of inequality by reforming racially biased police practices so that ALL law-abiding New Yorkers are granted the basic right of walking down the street without fear of being hassled by authorities.

- And we've done this all while reaching agreement on a contract with our city teachers – educators who had gone without a contract for nearly five years. In all that time, the good men and women charged with safeguarding the futures of our children had enjoyed little security when it came to their own futures.
- We made a deal grounded in partnership and mutual respect, because RESPECT for working men and women is a core principle that all GOOD governments live by. It was a fair deal for teachers – offering increased pay that they greatly deserved. But it also generated important savings that labor was a partner in achieving. Put simply: it was a good deal for the people of New York.

- So if anyone tells you that a balanced budget and an agenda of economic fairness can't go hand-in-hand, tell them to come visit New York City.
- Really, it's beautiful this time of year.
- I notice so many similarities between the UK I see today and the New York where I stood on that cold morning and announced my candidacy.
- It comes through so clearly, even across great physical distance: the people of the UK are ready for bold, progressive change.

- And if we can make the strides that we've made in New York City from a campaign so humble in its origins, imagine the feats that can come from this great hall!
- The work you have in front of you is so important. And don't let anyone talk you into underestimating the reach of the good you can do.
- There is little basis for glib assertion from the other side that a progressive agenda is narrow in terms of whose lives it would improve.
- The opposite is true. Mounting disparities in income create ripple effects that undermine whole economies. Here's just one example of how:

- The Financial Times recently concluded that the income gap between America's richest and poorest metropolitan regions is not only the widest it has ever been, but that this phenomenon was QUOTE "shaping an uneven housing recovery that threatens to hold back the broader revival of the world's largest economy."
- In an increasingly interconnected world, a system grounded in exclusivity is not sustainable for ANYONE, including those at the very top.

- But that also means a progressive agenda has the power to HELP EVERYONE, whether your opponents ACKNOWLEDGE it or not.
- Don't hold your breath waiting for this conservative government to do that. Their top-down policies are making things harder for working people every day.
- Among the many ways they've aggravated the wounds of this crisis, the most painful might be their tax code.
- Instead of giving working families the leg-up they deserve, they gave billions of tax cuts to the wealthiest with the vague hope that money will magically trickle down to everyone else. In my country, that's an approach we call voodoo economics.

- I have no doubt the word “voodoo” sounds more elegant in a British accent than an American one, but in any intonation, we know it’s a policy that doesn’t work.
- So let me tell you about what does work. And you don’t have to look far to see it. In fact, you heard it at your own conference last night.
- Ed Miliband has so clearly articulated both the challenges, and the opportunities this moment in history creates for the British people.

- He knows that a cautious approach won't do when it comes to addressing the crisis of our time. He has a BOLD vision for big change. As he said last night: "I'm not talking about changing a policy, or simply a different programme. But something that is bigger: transforming the idea, the ethic, of how our country is run."
- And he knows well what needs to be done. As he told this conference LAST YEAR: "We have to rebuild anew One Nation. An economy built on your success, a society based on your values, a politics that hears your voice – rich and poor alike – accepting their responsibilities to each other."

- Ed Miliband will be a Prime Minister for Britons who work second jobs and second shifts, not just those with second homes.
- He believes in the politics of the MANY, not the few...
- Ed Miliband understands -- this Labour Party understands – the true cost of a status quo that puts a barrier between working people and prosperity.
- And this Labour Party not only has the right values, it has an agenda that translates values into action. Not political talk, but a real plan that reforms the crux of the economy to.

- Labour has a plan for a tax code that rewards hard work over existing wealth and power. A plan to end the current government's 3 billion pound tax cut for the wealthiest and instead give tax relief to 24 million middle and working class people....
- A plan that protects and STRENGTHENS – not curtails – the NHS so that quality healthcare remains a right and not a privilege...
- A plan that puts working people ahead of big corporations by controlling energy costs, and taking unprecedented steps to make housing more affordable.

- And a plan that provides 25 hours a week of free child care to working parents of 3- and 4-year olds, so that ALL kids can get on a path to success and opportunity early... and stay there.
- I speak from personal experience when I say that this initiative in particular has the power to lift lives like few other steps governments can take. It makes such a difference, for so many.
- Your agenda is a blueprint of what a fairer, more prosperous, STRONGER United Kingdom will look like.

- That is not only why you MUST win, it is why you WILL win!

- The upcoming election represents a choice for the people of your country: build a United Kingdom that rewards hard work and ensures the next generation does better... Or continue down a path of growing inequality and rising cost of living.

- To me, that choice is very clear, as I know it is to people in this room... and as I know it will become to everyday people across this country.

- But to those on the other side, who argue things work BETTER when opportunity is scarce and exclusive, I offer this thought: not even DARWIN was a social Darwinist.
- Indeed, Charles Darwin, one of the greatest minds that yours or any country ever produced, put it this way:
“If the misery of the poor be caused not by the laws of nature, but by our institutions, great is our sin.”
- Among the cruelest false choices we are given is one that says we can only move forward if some are left behind. You don't need to accept that. No one should.

- The work ahead of you will be anything but easy... I can assure you of that. That distinct histories written on opposite ends of an ocean leave us, at this moment, facing essentially the same crisis – underscores its profound scale.
- But you have the power to overcome it.
- If you reject the cold complacency of the status quo, its power will erode.
- If you speak hard truths, others will listen.
- If you empower the people of your great country to speak THEIR truths, to stand up and TO ACT in the face of this crisis, then there is so much good that you can achieve, together.

- And I believe you will.
- Thank you!

On Sep 23, 2014, at 10:29 AM, Jon Fromowitz <jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

Thanks!

On Sep 23, 2014, at 10:28 AM, "Kallen, Laurel" <LKallen@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Okay. Glad you like the edits. Happy to run through a later version. Very rousing speech, btw. It was fun to read!

Laurel Kallen
Speechwriter
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212 341 5391
Cell: 917 655 7578
lkallen@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 10:27 AM
To: Kallen, Laurel
Subject: Re: Urgent Proofreading

Amazing, thank you. Great edits. Hold off for now. We need to review but the speech isn't until tomorrow and we'll be doing some editing for content so better to do a second pass later. This is great for the moment.

On Sep 23, 2014, at 10:18 AM, Kallen, Laurel <LKallen@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Here is the complete speech. Can I run through it a second time?

Laurel Kallen
Speechwriter
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212 341 5391
Cell: 917 655 7578
lkallen@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 10:04 AM
To: Kallen, Laurel
Subject: Re: Urgent Proofreading

Can you send current and keep going?

On Sep 23, 2014, at 10:02 AM, "Kallen, Laurel" <LKallen@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

On page 6. Can I have a few more minutes?

Laurel Kallen
Speechwriter
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212 341 5391
Cell: 917 655 7578
lkallen@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 9:58 AM
To: Kallen, Laurel
Subject: Re: Urgent Proofreading

If you could send wherever you're at in 5 mins, that would be great.

On Sep 23, 2014, at 9:40 AM, "Kallen, Laurel" <LKallen@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

I don't see any major problems so far, so it shouldn't take me very long.
Stand by.

Laurel Kallen
Speechwriter
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212 341 5391
Cell: 917 655 7578
lkallen@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 9:40 AM
To: Kallen, Laurel
Subject: Re: Urgent Proofreading

Agreed! And thanks SO for the help. We are trying to meet with the mayor at some point soonish, so please keep an eye on your email as I may at some point need to have back wherever you're at.

On Sep 23, 2014, at 9:36 AM, "Kallen, Laurel"

<LKallen@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Oh, that's a relief. I much prefer to take my time with proofreading. Thanks.

Laurel Kallen
Speechwriter
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212 341 5391
Cell: 917 655 7578
lkallen@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 9:36 AM
To: Kallen, Laurel
Subject: Re: Urgent Proofreading

Thanks! I don't think 10 am is hard deadline, so no need to rush through.

On Sep 23, 2014, at 9:34 AM, "Kallen, Laurel"
<LKallen@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Just now checking my email. Will proofread the speech right now.

Laurel Kallen
Speechwriter
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212 341 5391
Cell: 917 655 7578
lkallen@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Jon Fromowitz
[<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 8:29 AM
To: Kallen, Laurel
Subject: Re: Urgent Proofreading

And one more update (sorry, a few tracks of revision going on). Do you think it'd be possible to proofread this one and send back by 10AM? Thanks so much!

From: Jon Fromowitz
To: Kallen, Laurel
Subject: Re: Urgent Proofreading
Date: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 3:13:11 PM

Thanks!
On Sep 23, 2014, at 3:12 PM, Kallen, Laurel <LKallen@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Yes, I understand – and everyone’s sense of what sounds more natural is a little different. I will try not to let the grammarian in me get out-of-hand. ☺ Will do my best to get the next round of suggested edits to you by 4:00.

Laurel Kallen
Speechwriter
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212 341 5391
Cell: 917 655 7578
lkallen@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 3:10 PM
To: Kallen, Laurel
Subject: Re: Urgent Proofreading

Here is the new draft. Please note if there were edits you made last time that weren’t accepted, it’s because sometimes you need to take some oratory license to word things they way they are easier to say, rather than grammatically best. But this should by and large have your edits accepted, just been worked over throughout the day so would be good if you could take another look. Need by 4 PM, if that’s possible. Thanks! Jon

From: Kallen, Laurel
To: Jon Fromowitz
Subject: RE: Urgent Proofreading
Date: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 4:06:00 PM
Attachments: LabourSpeechDraft25 ed LK 404.docx

Here it is. Heads up: If you need anything else, I will be unavailable between 6 and 8 PM, but can re-proof later in the evening. Feel free to reject anything that seems overly grammatical.

Laurel Kallen
Speechwriter
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212 341 5391
Cell: 917 655 7578
lkallen@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 4:04 PM
To: Kallen, Laurel
Subject: Re: Urgent Proofreading

How are we looking?

On Sep 23, 2014, at 3:12 PM, "Kallen, Laurel" <LKallen@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Yes, I understand – and everyone’s sense of what sounds more natural is a little different. I will try not to let the grammarian in me get out-of-hand. ☺ Will do my best to get the next round of suggested edits to you by 4:00.

Laurel Kallen
Speechwriter
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212 341 5391
Cell: 917 655 7578
lkallen@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 3:10 PM
To: Kallen, Laurel
Subject: Re: Urgent Proofreading

Here is the new draft. Please note if there were edits you made last time that weren't accepted, it's because sometimes you need to take some oratory license to word things the way they are easier to say, rather than grammatically best.

But this should by and large have your edits accepted, just been worked over throughout the day so would be good if you could take another look. Need by 4 PM, if that's possible. Thanks! Jon

Mayor Bill de Blasio
Labour Party Conference Remarks
“The Power of Speaking Hard Truths”
Draft 25 – September 23nd, 2:35PM

- It’s such an honor to be here with the people who make this Labour Party what it is. From the rising stars who will – WILL – lead Labour to victory next year... to the everyday activists whose unflinching passion and energy will fuel the campaign.
- Though I’ve seen your efforts mostly from afar, it’s clear to me, even across five time zones and an ocean, that this group is working towards something special.... something important.

- It's fitting that we find ourselves in Manchester. This city was at the forefront of the innovation and ingenuity that drove the Industrial Revolution, helping shape the contours of the modern economy that we know today.
- It shares a special status in history with the city I love and am so honored to lead. Both are places where big ideas and raw grit have been honored and rewarded like few others in the world.

- It is also among the first places in the world to foster a modern working class... and among the first where working people empowered themselves to take part in the political process. It's no wonder then that Manchester is a place where hard truths are deeply understood and spoken out.
- I cannot imagine a more appropriate backdrop for this gathering because yours is a party BORN out of working people attaining the right to vote... a party that EXISTS to fight for working families and forcefully address their needs.

- Labour has inclusiveness and progressiveness coded in its DNA... Yours is a party grounded in the idea that everyone's voice matters.... And that no one should be left behind.
- THIS Labour Party is led by a new generation of progressive leaders and defined by bold ideas. You stand ready to ACT with a plan for a fairer, more prosperous United Kingdom.... And to FIGHT for an economy... a country... that works for working people.
- THIS Labour Party hears the voices of the millions who feel like they are treading water... Working harder and harder but feeling less and less secure about the future.

- And your party refuses to accept the politics of inertia... That resigned mindset that says the next generation is destined to do worse than this one.
- By virtue of being in this room, you recognize that we owe it to our children to do better ... to live up to the most basic promise we make to the people we serve.
- I say that as someone charged with the duty of overseeing New York's public schools, where over one million children 18 and under learn and grow.

- I also say it as a father of two beautiful children of my own, Dante and Chiara, who have attended those schools for most of their young lives.
- There is NO duty more sacred than parenthood.
- Nothing gives me more comfort... more joy... than watching my children grow, knowing they can be WHATEVER -- WHOEVER -- they want to be. The boundaries of their future are determined only by how hard they work and how big they dream.
- If we accept a future – or a present – where parents can't look their kids in the eyes and tell them they have a shot at something better, then we break the promise of civilized society.... We deprive our children – AND their parents -- of so much.

Comment [KL1]: Suggest Whomever

- Now, I've said that growing inequality is THE crisis of our time in New York City. It's true here as well.
- The numbers speak for themselves.
- In the UK, in 2011, the average income of an adult in the top 0.1 % (point one percent) was more than 70 times that of someone in the bottom 90%. [2011, World Income Database].

- The Guardian recently reported that the five richest families in the UK have more wealth than the entire bottom 20% of the country. And, as is the case in New York City, the trend has been moving sharply in the wrong direction. According to a study published by Oxfam, since the 1990s, incomes of the top 0.1% (point one percent) of Britons have grown four times faster than those of the bottom 90%.
- Now, there's nothing wrong with attaining wealth. I'm happy to celebrate the success of those who've earned it. But this crisis is keeping so many from writing their OWN success stories.

- Indeed, this status quo offers only the narrowest path to opportunity. Instead, it leaves everyday working people caught in a cost-of-living crisis.
- And let's be clear what we mean when we talk about a cost of living crisis. It's not about penthouse flats, Bentleys or five-star holidays. The people who can afford THOSE luxuries, are in fact, doing quite well under this Conservative government.
- But feeding a family, keeping a modest home that's lit and heated, securing a safe place for young kids to learn during the day... THESE things are becoming more and more costly. We're not talking about luxuries, or even conveniences, but the ESSENTIALS that people need to live.

- LIVING itself is getting harder and harder for working families to afford. Not living WELL... just LIVING; just getting by.
- And the price people pay isn't merely monetary.
- You can see it in the tired eyes of the waitress whose SECOND job is preceded by a second SHIFT at her FIRST job....
- In the shaky hand of the bus driver signing the paperwork for a payday loan....

- In the clenched jaws and stiff lips of working parents mustering brave faces in front of their son and daughter... in the WORK that goes into just hiding the fear that they won't be able to attain a better life.
- As wealth becomes more concentrated at the top, stories like these are becoming more common and less isolated to the lowest steps of the economic ladder.
- If unaddressed, the crisis will become THE defining characteristic of our societies... It won't be prosperity and opportunity... tragically, it will be the inequality and cost-of-living crisis.
- I know this Labour Party understands what's at stake.

Comment [KL2]: Suggest "confined" "Isolated to" sounds odd. We usually "isolate from."

- I also know the weight of this moment can feel like a burden: the exasperation that comes from knowing the gravity of this threat – a generation at risk of being forsaken – at a time when so many seem unwilling to act in response.
- The right side of history can feel like a lonely place. But it isn't. It never has been.
- Rather, history itself tells us that people ALWAYS gravitate towards decency, inclusion and progress. And you don't have to look back thousands of years to see that – go walk around a neighborhood in Manchester... Go to a school, a church, a mosque... You can see the trust people put in one another every day; the value people place in simple moral action.

- So why then is COLLECTIVE moral action often so difficult?
- In the case of the inequality and cost-of-living crisis, part of the issue is scope: the problem seems so difficult, so deeply embedded, that good people can be tempted to throw their hands up and declare that nothing can be done about it.
- But there's something else going on as well. As is the case with many injustices, there are people – small in number but oversized in power – who benefit from the status quo, and they work to maintain it. Their voices seem louder... more confident and authoritative... and those of everyday people get drowned out.

- In this way, people are made to feel powerless... made to feel that their voice doesn't matter at all.
- So at the same time that inequality is skyrocketing and the cost of living is overwhelming – something people can see and feel every day – we're told that even speaking of this problem is unconstructive, divisive... harmful, even.
- You know that it isn't. So do the people of your country.
- Part of your job then is to help them find their voice to say – together – that Britons deserve something better.

- Sometimes people – good, hardworking people – need to hear the truth spoken before they feel comfortable speaking it themselves.
- And there's so much power that comes from speaking the truth... especially from speaking HARD truths.
- That's because the status quo gets perpetuated through a series of falsehoods...false CHOICES that assign mutual exclusivity to ideas that should be complementary.
- We're told that prosperity can't be both great, and shared....

- That you can't lift the floor for those struggling in a tough economy, and still balance a budget....
- That those of us who serve can't expect to achieve anything at all if we dare to advance policies ~~which~~ that are bold and morally right.
- In the lead-up to the election for New York City Mayor last year, the voices of the status quo gave voters another false choice: support MY candidacy ... OR vote for someone with a real shot at winning.
- Well, I am here before you today because the people of New York City rejected the lazy logic of false-choice politics.

- I want to tell you how it happened.
- I announced my candidacy for Mayor from the front steps of my home in Brooklyn in January 2013. A few hundred people were there with me... the earliest believers in our campaign.
- We were brought together by a deep concern: that New York had become a Tale of Two Cities; a place where a few were doing very well, but millions of working people were struggling.
- And that situation threatened to degrade New York's status in the world.

- The beacon of opportunity that for generations shone so brightly across our five boroughs and out into the world was dimming.
- We saw it, we FELT it in our city.... Even if it was unspoken, we saw on our neighbors' faces: the weight of worry about a future of diminished possibilities.
- And we knew the policies of the status quo were exacerbating the problem rather than addressing it.

- But though our mission was in many ways somber, our mood that day was not. It was a grey, frigid afternoon, but the event had the ~~an~~ aura of excitement and joy one would expect at a summer street party. It was no doubt a strange sight to those passing by.
- There was a feeling that something special was happening that made the chill tolerable. It came from having found in one another a group of people who spoke the same truth about our Tale of Two Cities...the harm it was doing.... the threat it posed.
- There was a sense of relief that came from learning we weren't alone in our beliefs... a lifting of lonely burdens.

- There was a powerful sense of MISSION that came from accepting a mutual responsibility to act, together, against this scourge... and a heartfelt faith that victory was achievable, no matter the odds.
- Now, the odds did appear quite long, at first. It felt like the total number of those in the city who had HEARD of me was limited to those standing in front of my home that day... And my house is not very big.
- And not only were other candidates for mayor better known, they espoused ideas that were seen as more politically practical, hewing to the familiarity of the status quo.

- But it was never my intention to nibble around the edges with policies of timid maintenance; I ran to take dead aim at the crisis of our time. And I became Mayor because everyday New Yorkers, too, were hungry for a clean break from the status quo.
- Our campaign was powered by people of every race, every age, every income bracket. And yes, even many New Yorkers who had enjoyed great success joined our fight against rising inequality. They wanted the next generation of New Yorkers to have the same opportunities the city had given them.

- We were a small group, at first, but as New Yorkers learned that we were fighting for a government that would represent THEIR values -- fairness, justice, real opportunity for all – our campaign grew. And grew... And grew.
- We worked – together – as activists, to spread the word.
- And so, in living rooms and parks... old people's homes and halls of residence... on Twitter and Facebook... people were hearing from one another for the first time things they already knew in their own hearts to be true... and they were learning of the POWER that could come when they themselves spoke out themselves.

- THAT is how in a matter of months we went from a few hundred souls gathered on that blustery Brooklyn day, to not just winning, but winning BIG on ELECTION day.
- And our shared resolve to remake our city didn't end when the votes were tallied.
- The same tenets that defined our campaign now drive our Administration: a constant push for bold action; a willingness to hear and speak hard truths; an agenda set by listening to the PEOPLE.

- With regard to my absolute highest priority, that's meant working aggressively to secure unprecedented access to free, full day – FULL DAY -- early education programs for 4-year-olds.
- We did this because study after study shows the great equalizing effect of early education. But you don't need to read an academic journal to get that: we all know access to quality education does so much to determine a person's economic destiny... and as with most matters of destiny, timing is everything.
- A key part of that timing ~~is timing~~ is hours in the classroom, as everyone in this room knows so well.

- Now, to give you some context on the politics we faced when trying to expand early education for families, I'd like to read you two assessments from New York newspapers, published almost exactly one year apart.
- In September 2013, a few months before I was elected Mayor... the New York Daily News wrote QUOTE “[The] promise to create 48,000 educational slots for four-year-olds...has little chance of becoming a reality.”
- Then, in September 2014, in The New York Times QUOTE “51,000 Answer de Blasio’s Bell for New Pre-K.”

- Now, the 51,000 there refers to the number of kids who have been signed up for these programs. That's three thousand MORE than the number said to be impossible just one year ago.
- It also means that 51,000 beautiful children are on a better path to success... And all of their mothers and fathers... grandparents and guardians... they get to experience the comfort... the joy... that comes from seeing the shine of brighter futures.
- It's hard to express how much that means for the working people of our city. But it's also not all we've done in our first few months in office.

- We've launched a plan to secure affordable housing for 500,000 New Yorkers over the next decade. That's more than the total population of Bristol... Or of Miami, for anyone watching back home.

- We ended what had been one of the saddest manifestations of inequality by reforming racially biased police practices so that ALL law-abiding New Yorkers are granted the basic right of walking down the street without fear of being hassled by authorities.

- And we've done ~~this all~~ all of this while reaching agreement on a contract with our city teachers – educators who had gone without a contract for nearly five years. In all that time, the good men and women charged with safeguarding the futures of our children had enjoyed little security when it came to their own futures.
- We made a deal grounded in partnership and mutual respect, because RESPECT for working men and women is a core principle that all GOOD governments live by. It was a fair deal for teachers – offering increased pay that they greatly deserved. But it also generated important savings that labor was a partner in achieving. Put simply: it was a good deal for the people of New York.

- So if anyone tells you that a balanced budget and an agenda of economic fairness can't go hand-in-hand, tell them to come visit New York City.
- Really, it's beautiful this time of year.
- I notice so many similarities between the UK I see today and the New York where I stood on that cold morning and announced my candidacy.
- It comes through so clearly, even across great physical distance: the people of the UK are ready for bold, progressive change.

- And if we can make the strides that we've made in New York City from a campaign so humble in its origins, imagine the feats that can come from this great hall!
- The work you have in front of you is so important. And don't let anyone talk you into underestimating the reach of the good you can do.
- There is little basis for glib assertion from the other side that a progressive agenda is narrow in terms of whose lives it would improve.

- The opposite is true. Mounting disparities in income create ripple effects that undermine whole economies. Here's just one example of how:
- The Financial Times recently concluded that the income gap between America's richest and poorest metropolitan regions is not only the widest it has ever been, but that this phenomenon was QUOTE "shaping an uneven housing recovery that threatens to hold back the broader revival of the world's largest economy."
- In an increasingly interconnected world, a system grounded in exclusivity is not sustainable for ANYONE, including those at the very top.

- But that also means a progressive agenda has the power to HELP EVERYONE, whether your opponents ACKNOWLEDGE it or not.
- Don't hold your breath waiting for this conservative government to do that. Their top-down policies are making things harder for working people every day.
- Among the many ways they've aggravated the wounds of this crisis, the most painful might be their tax code.
- Instead of giving working families the leg-up they deserve, they gave billions of tax cuts to the wealthiest with the vague hope that money will magically trickle

Comment [KL3]: Still think this should be "would."

down to everyone else. In my country, that's an approach we call voodoo economics.

- I have no doubt the word “voodoo” sounds more elegant in a British accent than an American one, but in any intonation, we know it's a policy that doesn't work.
- So let me tell you about what does work. And you don't have to look far to see it. In fact, you heard it at your own conference last night.
- Ed Miliband has so clearly articulated both the challenges, and the opportunities this moment in history creates for the British people.

- He knows that a cautious approach won't do when it comes to addressing the crisis of our time. He has a BOLD vision for big change. As he said last night: "I'm not talking about changing a policy, or simply a different programme. But something that is bigger: transforming the idea, the ethic, of how our country is run."
- And he knows well what needs to be done. As he told this conference LAST YEAR: "We have to rebuild anew One Nation. An economy built on your success, a society based on your values, a politics that hears your voice – rich and poor alike – accepting their responsibilities to each other."

- Ed Miliband will be a Prime Minister for Britons who work second jobs and second shifts, not just those with second homes.
- He believes in the politics of the MANY, not the few...
- Ed Miliband understands -- this Labour Party understands – the true cost of a status quo that puts a barrier between working people and prosperity.
- And this Labour Party not only has the right values, it has an agenda that translates values into action. Not political talk, but a real plan that reforms the crux of the economy too.

- Labour has a plan for a tax code that rewards hard work over existing wealth and power. A plan to end the current government's 3 billion pound tax cut for the wealthiest and instead give tax relief to 24 million middle and working class people....
- A plan that protects and STRENGTHENS – not curtails – the NHS so that quality healthcare remains a right and not a privilege...
- A plan that puts working people ahead of big corporations by controlling energy costs, and taking unprecedented steps to make housing more affordable.

- And a plan that provides 25 hours a week of free child care to working parents of 3- and 4-year olds, so that ALL kids can get on a path to success and opportunity early... and stay there.

- I speak from personal experience when I say that this initiative in particular has the power to lift lives like few others steps that governments can take implement. And it makes will make such a difference, for so many.

- Your agenda is a blueprint of what a fairer, more prosperous, STRONGER United Kingdom will look like.
- That is not only why you MUST win, it is why you WILL win!
- The upcoming election represents a choice for the people of your country: build a United Kingdom that rewards hard work and ensures the next generation does better... Or continue down a path of growing inequality and rising cost of living.

- To me, that choice is very clear, as I know it is to the people in this room... and as I know it will become to everyday people across this country.
- But to those on the other side, who argue things work BETTER when opportunity is scarce and exclusive, I offer this thought: not even DARWIN was a social Darwinist.
- Indeed, Charles Darwin, one of the greatest minds that yours or any country ever produced, put it this way:
“If the misery of the poor be caused not by the laws of nature, but by our institutions, great is our sin.”

- Among the cruelest false choices we are given is one that says we can only move forward if some are left behind. You don't need to accept that. No one should.
- The work ahead of you will be anything but easy... I can assure you of that. That distinct histories written on opposite ends of an ocean leave us, at this moment, facing essentially the same crisis – underscores its profound scale.
- But you have the power to overcome it.
- If you reject the cold complacency of the status quo, its power will erode.

- If you speak hard truths, others will listen.
- If you empower the people of your great country to speak THEIR truths, to stand up and TO ACT in the face of this crisis, then there is so much good that you can achieve, together.
- And I believe you will.
- Thank you!

From: Kallen, Laurel
To: Jon Fromowitz
Subject: RE: Urgent Proofreading
Date: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 4:07:00 PM

Happy to help. Very few comments/suggested edits/corrections.

Laurel Kallen
Speechwriter
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212 341 5391
Cell: 917 655 7578
lkallen@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 4:06 PM
To: Kallen, Laurel
Subject: Re: Urgent Proofreading

You are the best!

On Sep 23, 2014, at 4:04 PM, "Kallen, Laurel" <LKallen@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Coming in one sec.

Laurel Kallen
Speechwriter
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212 341 5391
Cell: 917 655 7578
lkallen@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 4:04 PM
To: Kallen, Laurel
Subject: Re: Urgent Proofreading

How are we looking?

On Sep 23, 2014, at 3:12 PM, "Kallen, Laurel" <LKallen@cityhall.nyc.gov>

wrote:

Yes, I understand – and everyone’s sense of what sounds more natural is a little different. I will try not to let the grammarian in me get out-of-hand. ☺ Will do my best to get the next round of suggested edits to you by 4:00.

Laurel Kallen
Speechwriter
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212 341 5391
Cell: 917 655 7578
lkallen@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 3:10 PM
To: Kallen, Laurel
Subject: Re: Urgent Proofreading

Here is the new draft. Please note if there were edits you made last time that weren’t accepted, it’s because sometimes you need to take some oratory license to word things they way they are easier to say, rather than grammatically best. But this should by and large have your edits accepted, just been worked over throughout the day so would be good if you could take another look. Need by 4 PM, if that’s possible. Thanks! Jon

From: Jon Fromowitz
To: Coney, Javon
Subject: Speech
Date: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 4:15:41 PM
Attachments: LabourSpeechDraft27.docx

Mayor Bill de Blasio
Labour Party Conference Remarks
“The Power of Speaking Hard Truths”
Draft 27 – September 23nd, 2:15PM

- It’s such an honor to be here with the people who make this Labour Party what it is. From the rising stars who will – WILL – lead Labour to victory next year... to the everyday activists whose unflinching passion and energy will fuel the campaign.
- Though I’ve seen your efforts mostly from afar, it’s clear to me, even across five time zones and an ocean, that this group is working towards something special.... something important.

- It's fitting that we find ourselves in Manchester. This city was at the forefront of the innovation and ingenuity that drove the Industrial Revolution, helping shape the contours of the modern economy that we know today.
- It shares a special status in history with the city I love and am so honored to lead. Both are places where big ideas and raw grit have been honored and rewarded like few others in the world.

- It is also among the first places in the world to foster a modern working class... and among the first where working people empowered themselves to take part in the political process. It's no wonder then that Manchester is a place where hard truths are deeply understood and spoken out.
- I cannot imagine a more appropriate backdrop for this gathering because yours is a party BORN out of working people attaining the right to vote... a party that EXISTS to fight for working families and forcefully address their needs.

- Labour has inclusiveness and progressiveness coded in its DNA... Yours is a party grounded in the idea that everyone's voice matters.... And that no one should be left behind.
- THIS Labour Party is led by a new generation of progressive leaders and defined by bold ideas. You stand ready to ACT with a plan for a fairer, more prosperous United Kingdom.... And to FIGHT for an economy... a country... that works for working people.
- THIS Labour Party hears the voices of the millions who feel like they are treading water... Working harder and harder but feeling less and less secure about the future.

- And your party refuses to accept the politics of inertia... That resigned mindset that says the next generation is destined to do worse than this one.
- By virtue of being in this room, you recognize that we owe it to our children to do better ... to live up to the most basic promise we make to the people we serve.
- I say that as someone charged with the duty of overseeing New York's school system, where over one million children 18 and under learn and grow.

- I also say it as a father of two beautiful children of my own, Dante and Chiara, who have attended those schools for most of their young lives.
- There is NO duty more sacred than parenthood.
- Nothing gives me more comfort... more joy... than watching my children grow, knowing they can be WHATEVER they want to be. The boundaries of their future are determined only by how hard they work and how big they dream.
- If we accept a future – or a present – where parents can't look their kids in the eyes and tell them they have a shot at something better, then we break the promise of civilized society.... We deprive our children – AND their parents -- of so much.

- Now, I've said that growing inequality is THE crisis of our time in New York City. It's true here as well.
- The numbers speak for themselves.
- In the UK, in 2011, the average income of an adult in the top 0.1 % (point one percent) was more than 70 times that of someone in the bottom 90%. [2011, World Income Database].

- The Guardian recently reported that the five richest families in the UK have more wealth than the entire bottom 20% of the country. And, as is the case in New York City, the trend has been moving sharply in the wrong direction. According to a study published by Oxfam, since the 1990s, incomes of the top 0.1% (point one percent) of Britons have grown four times faster than those of the bottom 90%.

- Now, there's nothing wrong with attaining wealth. I'm happy to celebrate the success of those who've earned it. But this crisis is keeping so many from writing their OWN success stories.

- Indeed, this status quo offers only the narrowest path to opportunity. Instead, it leaves everyday working people caught in a cost-of-living crisis.
- And let's be clear what we mean when we talk about a cost of living crisis. It's not about penthouse flats, Bentleys or five-star holidays. The people who can afford THOSE luxuries, are in fact, doing quite well under this Conservative government.
- But feeding a family, keeping a modest home that's lit and heated, securing a safe place for young kids to learn during the day... THESE things are becoming more and more costly. We're not talking about luxuries, or even conveniences, but the ESSENTIALS that people need to live.

- LIVING itself is getting harder and harder for working families to afford. Not living WELL... just LIVING; just getting by.
- And the price people pay isn't merely monetary.
- You can see it in the tired eyes of the waitress whose SECOND job is preceded by a second SHIFT at her FIRST job....
- In the shaky hand of the bus driver signing the paperwork for a payday loan....

- In the clenched jaws and stiff lips of working parents mustering brave faces in front of their son and daughter... in the WORK that goes into just hiding the fear that they won't be able to attain a better life.
- As wealth becomes more concentrated at the top, stories like these are becoming more common and less confined to the lowest steps of the economic ladder.
- If unaddressed, the crisis will become THE defining characteristic of our societies... It won't be prosperity and opportunity... tragically, it will be the inequality and cost-of-living crisis.
- I know this Labour Party understands what's at stake.

- I also know the weight of this moment can feel like a burden: the exasperation that comes from knowing the gravity of this threat – a generation at risk of being forsaken – at a time when so many seem unwilling to act in response.
- The right side of history can feel like a lonely place. But it isn't. It never has been.
- Rather, history itself tells us that people ALWAYS gravitate towards decency, inclusion and progress. And you don't have to look back thousands of years to see that – go walk around a neighborhood in Manchester... Go to a school, a church, a mosque... You can see the trust people put in one another every day; the value people place in simple moral action.

- So why then is COLLECTIVE moral action often so difficult?
- In the case of the inequality and cost-of-living crisis, part of the issue is scope: the problem seems so difficult, so deeply embedded, that good people can be tempted to throw their hands up and declare that nothing can be done about it.
- But there's something else going on as well. As is the case with many injustices, there are people – small in number but oversized in power – who benefit from the status quo, and they work to maintain it. Their voices seem louder... more confident and authoritative... and those of everyday people get drowned out.

- In this way, people are made to feel powerless... made to feel that their voice doesn't matter at all.
- So at the same time that inequality is skyrocketing and the cost of living is overwhelming – something people can see and feel every day – we're told that even speaking of this problem is unconstructive, divisive... harmful, even.
- You know that it isn't. So do the people of your country.
- Part of your job then is to help them find their voice to say – together – that Britons deserve something better.

- Sometimes people – good, hardworking people – need to hear the truth spoken before they feel comfortable speaking it themselves.
- And there's so much power that comes from speaking the truth... especially from speaking HARD truths.
- That's because the status quo gets perpetuated through a series of falsehoods...false CHOICES that assign mutual exclusivity to ideas that should be complementary.
- We're told that prosperity can't be both great, and shared....

- That you can't lift the floor for those struggling in a tough economy, and still balance a budget....
- That those of us who serve can't expect to achieve anything at all if we dare to advance policies that are bold and morally right.
- In the lead-up to the election for New York City Mayor last year, the voices of the status quo gave voters another false choice: support MY candidacy ...
OR vote for someone with a real shot at winning.
- Well, I am here before you today because the people of New York City rejected the lazy logic of false-choice politics.

- I want to tell you how it happened.
- I announced my candidacy for Mayor from the front steps of my home in Brooklyn in January 2013. A few hundred people were there with me... the earliest believers in our campaign.
- We were brought together by a deep concern: that New York had become a Tale of Two Cities; a place where a few were doing very well, but millions of working people were struggling.
- It threatened to degrade New York's status in the world.

- The beacon of opportunity that for generations shone so brightly across our five boroughs and out into the world was dimming.
- We saw it, we FELT it in our city.... Even if it was unspoken, we saw on our neighbors' faces: the weight of worry about a future of diminished possibilities.
- And we knew the policies of the status quo were exacerbating the problem rather than addressing it.

- But though our mission was in many ways somber, our mood that day was not. It was a grey, frigid afternoon, but the event had an aura of excitement and joy one would expect at a summer street party. It was no doubt a strange sight to those passing by.
- There was a feeling that something special was happening that made the chill tolerable. It came from having found in one another a group of people who spoke the same truth about our Tale of Two Cities...the harm it was doing.... the threat it posed.
- There was a sense of relief that came from learning we weren't alone in our beliefs... a lifting of lonely burdens.

- There was a powerful sense of MISSION that came from accepting a mutual responsibility to act, together, against this scourge... and a heartfelt faith that victory was achievable, no matter the odds.
- Now, the odds did appear quite long, at first. It felt like the total number of those in the city who had HEARD of me was limited to those standing in front of my home that day... And my house is not very big.
- And not only were other candidates for mayor better known, they espoused ideas that were seen as more politically practical, hewing to the familiarity of the status quo.

- But it was never my intention to nibble around the edges with policies of timid maintenance; I ran to take dead aim at the crisis of our time. And I became Mayor because everyday New Yorkers, too, were hungry for a clean break from the status quo.
- Our campaign was powered by people of every race, every age, every income bracket. And yes, even many New Yorkers who had enjoyed great success joined our fight against rising inequality. They wanted the next generation of New Yorkers to have the same opportunities the city had given them.

- We were a small group, at first, but as New Yorkers learned that we were fighting for a government that would represent THEIR values -- fairness, justice, real opportunity for all – our campaign grew. And grew...
And grew.
- We worked – together – as activists, to spread the word.
- And so, in living rooms and parks... on Twitter and Facebook... people were hearing from one another for the first time things they already knew in their own hearts to be true... and they were learning of the POWER that could come when they themselves spoke out.

- THAT is how in a matter of months we went from a few hundred souls gathered on that blustery Brooklyn day, to not just winning, but winning BIG on ELECTION day.
- And our shared resolve to remake our city didn't end when the votes were tallied.
- The same tenets that defined our campaign now drive our Administration: a constant push for bold action; a willingness to hear and speak hard truths; an agenda set by listening to the PEOPLE.
- With regard to my absolute highest priority, that's meant working aggressively to secure unprecedented access to free, full day – FULL DAY -- early education programs for 4-year-olds.

- We did this because study after study shows the great equalizing effect of early education. But you don't need to read an academic journal to get that: we all know access to quality education does so much to determine a person's economic destiny... and as with most matters of destiny, timing is everything.
- A key part of that timing is hours school, something everyone in this room knows well.

- Now, to give you some context on the politics we faced when trying to expand early education for families, I'd like to read you two assessments from New York newspapers, published almost exactly one year apart.
- In September 2013, a few months before I was elected Mayor... the New York Daily News wrote QUOTE “[The] promise to create 48,000 educational slots for four-year-olds...has little chance of becoming a reality.”
- Then, in September 2014, in The New York Times QUOTE “51,000 Answer de Blasio’s Bell for New Pre-K.”

- Now, the 51,000 there refers to the number of kids who have been signed up for these programs. That's three thousand MORE than the number said to be impossible just one year ago.
- It also means that 51,000 beautiful children are on a better path to success... And all of their mothers and fathers... grandparents and guardians... they get to experience the comfort... the joy... that comes from seeing the shine of brighter futures.
- It's hard to express how much that means for the working people of our city. But it's also not all we've done in our first few months in office.

- We've launched a plan to secure affordable housing for 500,000 New Yorkers over the next decade.

That's more than the total population of Bristol... Or of Miami, for anyone watching back home.

- We ended what had been one of the saddest manifestations of inequality by reforming racially biased police practices so that ALL law-abiding New Yorkers are granted the basic right of walking down the street without fear of being hassled by authorities.

- And we've done all of this while reaching agreement on a contract with our city teachers – educators who had gone without a contract for nearly five years. In all that time, the good men and women charged with safeguarding the futures of our children had enjoyed little security when it came to their own futures.
- We made a deal grounded in partnership and mutual respect, because RESPECT for working men and women is a core principle that all GOOD governments live by. It was a fair deal for teachers – offering increased pay that they greatly deserved. But it also generated important savings that labor was a partner in achieving. Put simply: it was a good deal for the people of New York.

- So if anyone tells you that a balanced budget and an agenda of economic fairness can't go hand-in-hand, tell them to come visit New York City.
- Really, it's beautiful this time of year.
- I notice so many similarities between the UK I see today and the New York where I stood on that cold morning and announced my candidacy.
- It comes through so clearly, even across great physical distance: the people of the UK are ready for bold, progressive change.

- And if we can make the strides that we've made in New York City from a campaign so humble in its origins, imagine the feats that can come from this great hall!
- The work you have in front of you is so important. And don't let anyone talk you into underestimating the reach of the good you can do.
- There is little basis for glib assertion from the other side that a progressive agenda is narrow in terms of whose lives it would improve.
- The opposite is true. Mounting disparities in income create ripple effects that undermine whole economies. Here's just one example of how:

- The Financial Times recently concluded that the income gap between America's richest and poorest metropolitan regions is not only the widest it has ever been, but that this phenomenon was QUOTE "shaping an uneven housing recovery that threatens to hold back the broader revival of the world's largest economy."
- In an increasingly interconnected world, a system grounded in exclusivity is not sustainable for ANYONE, including those at the very top.

- But that also means a progressive agenda has the power to HELP EVERYONE, whether your opponents ACKNOWLEDGE it or not.
- Don't hold your breath waiting for this conservative government to do that. Their top-down policies are making things harder for working people every day.
- Among the many ways they've aggravated the wounds of this crisis, the most painful might be their tax code.
- Instead of giving working families the leg-up they deserve, they gave billions of tax cuts to the wealthiest with the vague hope that money would magically trickle down to everyone else. In my country, that's an approach we call voodoo economics.

- I have no doubt the word “voodoo” sounds more elegant in a British accent than an American one, but in any intonation, we know it’s a policy that doesn’t work.
- So let me tell you about what does work. And you don’t have to look far to see it. In fact, you heard it at your own conference last night.
- Ed Miliband has so clearly articulated both the challenges, and the opportunities this moment in history creates for the British people.

- He knows that a cautious approach won't do when it comes to addressing the crisis of our time. He has a BOLD vision for big change. As he said last night: "I'm not talking about changing a policy, or simply a different programme. But something that is bigger: transforming the idea, the ethic, of how our country is run."
- And he knows well what needs to be done. As he told this conference LAST YEAR: "We have to rebuild anew One Nation. An economy built on your success, a society based on your values, a politics that hears your voice – rich and poor alike – accepting their responsibilities to each other."

- Ed Miliband will be a Prime Minister for Britons who work second jobs and second shifts, not just those with second homes.
- He believes in the politics of the MANY, not the few...
- Ed Miliband understands -- this Labour Party understands – the true cost of a status quo that puts a barrier between working people and prosperity.
- And this Labour Party not only has the right values, it has an agenda that translates values into action. Not political talk, but a real plan that reforms the crux of the economy.

- Labour has a plan for a tax code that rewards hard work over existing wealth and power. A plan to end the current government's 3 billion pound tax cut for the wealthiest and instead give tax relief to 24 million middle and working class people....
- A plan that protects and STRENGTHENS – not curtails – the NHS so that quality healthcare remains a right and not a privilege...
- A plan that puts working people ahead of big corporations by controlling energy costs, and taking unprecedented steps to make housing more affordable.

- And a plan that provides 25 hours a week of free child care to working parents of 3- and 4-year olds, so that ALL kids can get on a path to success and opportunity early... and stay there.
- I speak from personal experience when I say that this initiative in particular has the power to lift lives like few others that governments can implement. And it will make such a difference, for so many.
- Your agenda is a blueprint of what a fairer, more prosperous, STRONGER United Kingdom will look like.

- That is not only why you MUST win, it is why you WILL win!

- The upcoming election represents a choice for the people of your country: build a United Kingdom that rewards hard work and ensures the next generation does better... Or continue down a path of growing inequality and rising cost of living.

- To me, that choice is very clear, as I know it is to the people in this room... and as I know it will become to everyday people across this country.

- But to those on the other side, who argue things work BETTER when opportunity is scarce and exclusive, I offer this thought: not even DARWIN was a social Darwinist.
- Indeed, Charles Darwin, one of the greatest minds that yours or any country ever produced, put it this way:
“If the misery of the poor be caused not by the laws of nature, but by our institutions, great is our sin.”
- Among the cruelest false choices we are given is one that says we can only move forward if some are left behind. You don't need to accept that. No one should.

- The work ahead of you will be anything but easy... I can assure you of that. That distinct histories written on opposite ends of an ocean leave us, at this moment, facing essentially the same crisis – underscores its profound scale.
- But you have the power to overcome it.
- If you reject the cold complacency of the status quo, its power will erode.
- If you speak hard truths, others will listen.
- If you empower the people of your great country to speak THEIR truths, to stand up and TO ACT in the face of this crisis, then there is so much good that you can achieve, together.

- And I believe you will.
- Thank you!

From: Coney, Javon
To: jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com
Cc: Hanley, Monica; Leopold, Elana; Martinez Blanco, Frankie; Negash, Dabash; Ragone, Peter
Subject: Most Recent Labour Speech Draft (27) Formatted
Date: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 4:30:13 PM
Attachments: LabourSpeechDraft27 Formatted.docx

Frpmo- Please work from this one for changes.

Mayor Bill de Blasio
Labour Party Conference Remarks
“The Power of Speaking Hard Truths”
Draft 27 – September 23nd, 2:15PM

- It’s such an honor to be here with the people who make this Labour Party what it is. From the rising stars who will – WILL – lead Labour to victory next year... to the everyday activists whose unflinching passion and energy will fuel the campaign.
- Though I’ve seen your efforts mostly from afar, it’s clear to me, even across five time zones and an ocean, that this group is working towards something special.... something important.

- It's fitting that we find ourselves in Manchester. This city was at the forefront of the innovation and ingenuity that drove the Industrial Revolution, helping shape the contours of the modern economy that we know today.
- It shares a special status in history with the city I love and am so honored to lead. Both are places where big ideas and raw grit have been honored and rewarded like few others in the world.

- It is also among the first places in the world to foster a modern working class... and among the first where working people empowered themselves to take part in the political process. It's no wonder then that Manchester is a place where hard truths are deeply understood and spoken out.
- I cannot imagine a more appropriate backdrop for this gathering because yours is a party BORN out of working people attaining the right to vote... a party that EXISTS to fight for working families and forcefully address their needs.

- Labour has inclusiveness and progressiveness coded in its DNA... Yours is a party grounded in the idea that everyone's voice matters.... And that no one should be left behind.
- THIS Labour Party is led by a new generation of progressive leaders and defined by bold ideas. You stand ready to ACT with a plan for a fairer, more prosperous United Kingdom.... And to FIGHT for an economy... a country... that works for working people.
- THIS Labour Party hears the voices of the millions who feel like they are treading water... Working harder and harder but feeling less and less secure about the future.

- And your party refuses to accept the politics of inertia... That resigned mindset that says the next generation is destined to do worse than this one.
- By virtue of being in this room, you recognize that we owe it to our children to do better ... to live up to the most basic promise we make to the people we serve.
- I say that as someone charged with the duty of overseeing New York's school system, where over one million children 18 and under learn and grow.
- I also say it as a father of two beautiful children of my own, Dante and Chiara, who have attended those schools for most of their young lives.

- There is NO duty more sacred than parenthood.
- Nothing gives me more comfort... more joy... than watching my children grow, knowing they can be WHATEVER they want to be. The boundaries of their future are determined only by how hard they work and how big they dream.
- If we accept a future – or a present – where parents can't look their kids in the eyes and tell them they have a shot at something better, then we break the promise of civilized society.... We deprive our children – AND their parents -- of so much.

- Now, I've said that growing inequality is THE crisis of our time in New York City. It's true here as well.
- The numbers speak for themselves.
- In the UK, in 2011, the average income of an adult in the top 0.1 % (point one percent) was more than 70 times that of someone in the bottom 90%. [2011, World Income Database].

- The Guardian recently reported that the five richest families in the UK have more wealth than the entire bottom 20% of the country. And, as is the case in New York City, the trend has been moving sharply in the wrong direction. According to a study published by Oxfam, since the 1990s, incomes of the top 0.1% (point one percent) of Britons have grown four times faster than those of the bottom 90%.

- Now, there's nothing wrong with attaining wealth. I'm happy to celebrate the success of those who've earned it. But this crisis is keeping so many from writing their OWN success stories.

- Indeed, this status quo offers only the narrowest path to opportunity. Instead, it leaves everyday working people caught in a cost-of-living crisis.
- And let's be clear what we mean when we talk about a cost of living crisis. It's not about penthouse flats, Bentleys or five-star holidays. The people who can afford THOSE luxuries, are in fact, doing quite well under this Conservative government.
- But feeding a family, keeping a modest home that's lit and heated, securing a safe place for young kids to learn during the day... THESE things are becoming more and more costly. We're not talking about luxuries, or even conveniences, but the ESSENTIALS that people need to live.

- LIVING itself is getting harder and harder for working families to afford. Not living WELL... just LIVING; just getting by.
- And the price people pay isn't merely monetary.
- You can see it in the tired eyes of the waitress whose SECOND job is preceded by a second SHIFT at her FIRST job....
- In the shaky hand of the bus driver signing the paperwork for a payday loan....

- In the clenched jaws and stiff lips of working parents mustering brave faces in front of their son and daughter... in the WORK that goes into just hiding the fear that they won't be able to attain a better life.
- As wealth becomes more concentrated at the top, stories like these are becoming more common and less confined to the lowest steps of the economic ladder.
- If unaddressed, the crisis will become THE defining characteristic of our societies... It won't be prosperity and opportunity... tragically, it will be the inequality and cost-of-living crisis.
- I know this Labour Party understands what's at stake.

- I also know the weight of this moment can feel like a burden: the exasperation that comes from knowing the gravity of this threat – a generation at risk of being forsaken – at a time when so many seem unwilling to act in response.

- The right side of history can feel like a lonely place. But it isn't. It never has been.

- Rather, history itself tells us that people ALWAYS gravitate towards decency, inclusion and progress.
And you don't have to look back thousands of years to see that – go walk around a neighborhood in Manchester... Go to a school, a church, a mosque... You can see the trust people put in one another every day; the value people place in simple moral action.
- So why then is COLLECTIVE moral action often so difficult?
- In the case of the inequality and cost-of-living crisis, part of the issue is scope: the problem seems so difficult, so deeply embedded, that good people can be tempted to throw their hands up and declare that nothing can be done about it.

- But there's something else going on as well. As is the case with many injustices, there are people – small in number but oversized in power – who benefit from the status quo, and they work to maintain it. Their voices seem louder... more confident and authoritative... and those of everyday people get drowned out.
- In this way, people are made to feel powerless... made to feel that their voice doesn't matter at all.
- So at the same time that inequality is skyrocketing and the cost of living is overwhelming – something people can see and feel every day – we're told that even speaking of this problem is unconstructive, divisive... harmful, even.

- You know that it isn't. So do the people of your country.
- Part of your job then is to help them find their voice to say – together – that Britons deserve something better.
- Sometimes people – good, hardworking people – need to hear the truth spoken before they feel comfortable speaking it themselves.
- And there's so much power that comes from speaking the truth... especially from speaking HARD truths.

- That's because the status quo gets perpetuated through a series of falsehoods...false CHOICES that assign mutual exclusivity to ideas that should be complementary.
- We're told that prosperity can't be both great, and shared....
- That you can't lift the floor for those struggling in a tough economy, and still balance a budget....
- That those of us who serve can't expect to achieve anything at all if we dare to advance policies that are bold and morally right.

- In the lead-up to the election for New York City Mayor last year, the voices of the status quo gave voters another false choice: support MY candidacy ...
OR vote for someone with a real shot at winning.
- Well, I am here before you today because the people of New York City rejected the lazy logic of false-choice politics.
- I want to tell you how it happened.
- I announced my candidacy for Mayor from the front steps of my home in Brooklyn in January 2013. A few hundred people were there with me... the earliest believers in our campaign.

- We were brought together by a deep concern: that New York had become a Tale of Two Cities; a place where a few were doing very well, but millions of working people were struggling.
- It threatened to degrade New York's status in the world.
- The beacon of opportunity that for generations shone so brightly across our five boroughs and out into the world was dimming.
- We saw it, we FELT it in our city.... Even if it was unspoken, we saw on our neighbors' faces: the weight of worry about a future of diminished possibilities.

- And we knew the policies of the status quo were exacerbating the problem rather than addressing it.
- But though our mission was in many ways somber, our mood that day was not. It was a grey, frigid afternoon, but the event had an aura of excitement and joy one would expect at a summer street party. It was no doubt a strange sight to those passing by.
- There was a feeling that something special was happening that made the chill tolerable. It came from having found in one another a group of people who spoke the same truth about our Tale of Two Cities...the harm it was doing.... the threat it posed.

- There was a sense of relief that came from learning we weren't alone in our beliefs... a lifting of lonely burdens.
- There was a powerful sense of MISSION that came from accepting a mutual responsibility to act, together, against this scourge... and a heartfelt faith that victory was achievable, no matter the odds.
- Now, the odds did appear quite long, at first. It felt like the total number of those in the city who had HEARD of me was limited to those standing in front of my home that day... And my house is not very big.

- And not only were other candidates for mayor better known, they espoused ideas that were seen as more politically practical, hewing to the familiarity of the status quo.
- But it was never my intention to nibble around the edges with policies of timid maintenance; I ran to take dead aim at the crisis of our time. And I became Mayor because everyday New Yorkers, too, were hungry for a clean break from the status quo.

- Our campaign was powered by people of every race, every age, every income bracket. And yes, even many New Yorkers who had enjoyed great success joined our fight against rising inequality. They wanted the next generation of New Yorkers to have the same opportunities the city had given them.
- We were a small group, at first, but as New Yorkers learned that we were fighting for a government that would represent THEIR values -- fairness, justice, real opportunity for all – our campaign grew. And grew...
And grew.
- We worked – together – as activists, to spread the word.

- And so, in living rooms and parks... on Twitter and Facebook... people were hearing from one another for the first time things they already knew in their own hearts to be true... and they were learning of the POWER that could come when they themselves spoke out.
- THAT is how in a matter of months we went from a few hundred souls gathered on that blustery Brooklyn day, to not just winning, but winning BIG on ELECTION day.
- And our shared resolve to remake our city didn't end when the votes were tallied.

- The same tenets that defined our campaign now drive our Administration: a constant push for bold action; a willingness to hear and speak hard truths; an agenda set by listening to the PEOPLE.
- With regard to my absolute highest priority, that's meant working aggressively to secure unprecedented access to free, full day – FULL DAY -- early education programs for 4-year-olds.
- We did this because study after study shows the great equalizing effect of early education. But you don't need to read an academic journal to get that: we all know access to quality education does so much to determine a person's economic destiny... and as with most matters of destiny, timing is everything.

- A key part of that timing is hours school, something everyone in this room knows well.
- Now, to give you some context on the politics we faced when trying to expand early education for families, I'd like to read you two assessments from New York newspapers, published almost exactly one year apart.
- In September 2013, a few months before I was elected Mayor... the New York Daily News wrote QUOTE “[The] promise to create 48,000 educational slots for four-year-olds...has little chance of becoming a reality.”

- Then, in September 2014, in The New York Times
QUOTE “51,000 Answer de Blasio’s Bell for New Pre-K.”
- Now, the 51,000 there refers to the number of kids who have been signed up for these programs. That’s three thousand MORE than the number said to be impossible just one year ago.
- It also means that 51,000 beautiful children are on a better path to success... And all of their mothers and fathers... grandparents and guardians... they get to experience the comfort... the joy... that comes from seeing the shine of brighter futures.

- It's hard to express how much that means for the working people of our city. But it's also not all we've done in our first few months in office.

- We've launched a plan to secure affordable housing for 500,000 New Yorkers over the next decade. That's more than the total population of Bristol... Or of Miami, for anyone watching back home.

- We ended what had been one of the saddest manifestations of inequality by reforming racially biased police practices so that ALL law-abiding New Yorkers are granted the basic right of walking down the street without fear of being hassled by authorities.

- And we've done all of this while reaching agreement on a contract with our city teachers – educators who had gone without a contract for nearly five years. In all that time, the good men and women charged with safeguarding the futures of our children had enjoyed little security when it came to their own futures.
- We made a deal grounded in partnership and mutual respect, because RESPECT for working men and women is a core principle that all GOOD governments live by. It was a fair deal for teachers – offering increased pay that they greatly deserved. But it also generated important savings that labor was a partner in achieving. Put simply: it was a good deal for the people of New York.

- So if anyone tells you that a balanced budget and an agenda of economic fairness can't go hand-in-hand, tell them to come visit New York City.
- Really, it's beautiful this time of year.
- I notice so many similarities between the UK I see today and the New York where I stood on that cold morning and announced my candidacy.
- It comes through so clearly, even across great physical distance: the people of the UK are ready for bold, progressive change.

- And if we can make the strides that we've made in New York City from a campaign so humble in its origins, imagine the feats that can come from this great hall!
- The work you have in front of you is so important. And don't let anyone talk you into underestimating the reach of the good you can do.
- There is little basis for glib assertion from the other side that a progressive agenda is narrow in terms of whose lives it would improve.
- The opposite is true. Mounting disparities in income create ripple effects that undermine whole economies. Here's just one example of how:

- The Financial Times recently concluded that the income gap between America's richest and poorest metropolitan regions is not only the widest it has ever been, but that this phenomenon was QUOTE "shaping an uneven housing recovery that threatens to hold back the broader revival of the world's largest economy."
- In an increasingly interconnected world, a system grounded in exclusivity is not sustainable for ANYONE, including those at the very top.
- But that also means a progressive agenda has the power to HELP EVERYONE, whether your opponents ACKNOWLEDGE it or not.

- Don't hold your breath waiting for this conservative government to do that. Their top-down policies are making things harder for working people every day.
- Among the many ways they've aggravated the wounds of this crisis, the most painful might be their tax code.
- Instead of giving working families the leg-up they deserve, they gave billions of tax cuts to the wealthiest with the vague hope that money would magically trickle down to everyone else. In my country, that's an approach we call voodoo economics.

- I have no doubt the word “voodoo” sounds more elegant in a British accent than an American one, but in any intonation, we know it’s a policy that doesn’t work.
- So let me tell you about what does work. And you don’t have to look far to see it. In fact, you heard it at your own conference last night.
- Ed Miliband has so clearly articulated both the challenges, and the opportunities this moment in history creates for the British people.

- He knows that a cautious approach won't do when it comes to addressing the crisis of our time. He has a BOLD vision for big change. As he said last night: "I'm not talking about changing a policy, or simply a different programme. But something that is bigger: transforming the idea, the ethic, of how our country is run."
- And he knows well what needs to be done. As he told this conference LAST YEAR: "We have to rebuild anew One Nation. An economy built on your success, a society based on your values, a politics that hears your voice – rich and poor alike – accepting their responsibilities to each other."

- Ed Miliband will be a Prime Minister for Britons who work second jobs and second shifts, not just those with second homes.
- He believes in the politics of the MANY, not the few...
- Ed Miliband understands -- this Labour Party understands – the true cost of a status quo that puts a barrier between working people and prosperity.
- And this Labour Party not only has the right values, it has an agenda that translates values into action. Not political talk, but a real plan that reforms the crux of the economy.

- Labour has a plan for a tax code that rewards hard work over existing wealth and power. A plan to end the current government's 3 billion pound tax cut for the wealthiest and instead give tax relief to 24 million middle and working class people....
- A plan that protects and STRENGTHENS – not curtails – the NHS so that quality healthcare remains a right and not a privilege...
- A plan that puts working people ahead of big corporations by controlling energy costs, and taking unprecedented steps to make housing more affordable.

- And a plan that provides 25 hours a week of free child care to working parents of 3- and 4-year olds, so that ALL kids can get on a path to success and opportunity early... and stay there.
- I speak from personal experience when I say that this initiative in particular has the power to lift lives like few others that governments can implement. And it will make such a difference, for so many.
- Your agenda is a blueprint of what a fairer, more prosperous, STRONGER United Kingdom will look like.

- That is not only why you MUST win, it is why you WILL win!
- The upcoming election represents a choice for the people of your country: build a United Kingdom that rewards hard work and ensures the next generation does better... Or continue down a path of growing inequality and rising cost of living.
- To me, that choice is very clear, as I know it is to the people in this room... and as I know it will become to everyday people across this country.

- But to those on the other side, who argue things work BETTER when opportunity is scarce and exclusive, I offer this thought: not even DARWIN was a social Darwinist.
- Indeed, Charles Darwin, one of the greatest minds that yours or any country ever produced, put it this way:
“If the misery of the poor be caused not by the laws of nature, but by our institutions, great is our sin.”
- Among the cruelest false choices we are given is one that says we can only move forward if some are left behind. You don't need to accept that. No one should.

- The work ahead of you will be anything but easy... I can assure you of that. That distinct histories written on opposite ends of an ocean leave us, at this moment, facing essentially the same crisis – underscores its profound scale.
- But you have the power to overcome it.
- If you reject the cold complacency of the status quo, its power will erode.
- If you speak hard truths, others will listen.

- If you empower the people of your great country to speak THEIR truths, to stand up and TO ACT in the face of this crisis, then there is so much good that you can achieve, together.

- And I believe you will.

- Thank you!

###

From: Jon Fromowitz
To: Kallen, Laurel
Subject: Re: Urgent Proofreading
Date: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 5:59:59 PM

Thanks so much for everything. Just a heads up that I'll probably send you near final around 8 for final final pass. You have been such an enormous help in this process. Thank you!

On Sep 23, 2014, at 4:06 PM, "Kallen, Laurel" <LKallen@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Here it is. Heads up: If you need anything else, I will be unavailable between 6 and 8 PM, but can re-proof later in the evening. Feel free to reject anything that seems overly grammatical.

Laurel Kallen
Speechwriter
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212 341 5391
Cell: 917 655 7578
lkallen@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 4:04 PM
To: Kallen, Laurel
Subject: Re: Urgent Proofreading

How are we looking?

On Sep 23, 2014, at 3:12 PM, "Kallen, Laurel" <LKallen@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Yes, I understand – and everyone's sense of what sounds more natural is a little different. I will try not to let the grammarian in me get out-of-hand. ☺ Will do my best to get the next round of suggested edits to you by 4:00.

Laurel Kallen
Speechwriter
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212 341 5391
Cell: 917 655 7578

lkallen@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]

Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 3:10 PM

To: Kallen, Laurel

Subject: Re: Urgent Proofreading

Here is the new draft. Please note if there were edits you made last time that weren't accepted, it's because sometimes you need to take some oratory license to word things they way they are easier to say, rather than grammatically best. But this should by and large have your edits accepted, just been worked over throughout the day so would be good if you could take another look. Need by 4 PM, if that's possible. Thanks! Jon

<LabourSpeechDraft25 ed LK 404.docx>

From: Scola, Lindsay
To: "Jon Fromowitz"; Martinez Blanco, Frankie
Cc: Hanley, Monica
Subject: RE: manchester location
Date: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 7:17:45 PM

Mr. Miliband

Lindsay Scola
Director of Scheduling
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212.788.2962
Cell: 917.513.1690

From: Jon Fromowitz [mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 7:17 PM
To: Martinez Blanco, Frankie
Cc: Hanley, Monica; Scola, Lindsay
Subject: Re: manchester location

Not sure whose department this is, but does anyone have thoughts on how we should be addressing him in this blurb I worked up below? Feel like I'm using too many "him"s, but is it proper to call him Ed? Would be weird otherwise, right? I welcome thoughts on this:

- I want to thank Ed Miliband for that wonderful introduction. Give it up for your next Prime Minister! It was so inspiring to see his speech last evening, though regrettably I was unable to be here in person. He spoke so eloquently of not only the urgent need for the UK to change course, but of the bold, specific reforms needed to make the UK a country for everyone. He believes so firmly in the politics of the MANY, not the few, which is why he WILL be such a great Prime Minister when he BECOMES Prime Minister next year.
- It's such an honor to be here with him and ALL the people who make this Labour Party what it is. From he and the other the rising stars who will – WILL – lead Labour to victory next year... to the everyday activists whose unflinching passion and energy will fuel the campaign.

On Sep 23, 2014, at 6:49 PM, Jon Fromowitz <jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

Ah, no my fault for not being clear. Too many words. I will something up into speech.

On Sep 23, 2014, at 6:44 PM, Martinez Blanco, Frankie
<FMartinezBlanco@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Jon I completely misunderstood. Thought you were talking about their intro of the Mayor.

You can do what you please with how you reference Miliband after he introduces the Mayor.

Frankie A. Martinez-Blanco
Director of Advance
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212.788.3173
Cell: 917.514.8967

Sent using BlackBerry // Please excuse any typos.

From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 11:14 PM
To: Martinez Blanco, Frankie
Cc: Hanley, Monica; Scola, Lindsay; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: Re: manchester location

Only thing tricky on our end is we talk about Miliband later in the speech, so would need to find a way to re say that stuff up front without being weird later, which is totally doable, just not optimal. If their paragraph was in a different frame from the rest of the speech, it might just make things work more naturally. I'll work something up if we don't hear by your bedtime, but if you could just follow up and make sure they don't have something they want hanging around, I'd be much obliged.

On Sep 23, 2014, at 5:36 PM, "Martinez Blanco, Frankie"
<FMartinezBlanco@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

I haven't heard back.

I would shoot a quck paragraph to me just in case.

It's 10:35PM here so don't know if they will get back at us at this point.

Frankie A. Martinez-Blanco
Director of Advance
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212.788.3173
Cell: 917.514.8967

Sent using BlackBerry // Please excuse any typos.

From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 10:34 PM
To: Martinez Blanco, Frankie
Cc: Hanley, Monica; Scola, Lindsay; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: Re: manchester location

Thanks sir! Please send it over when you have... And do let me know if you think we need to call an audible and do our own

On Sep 23, 2014, at 4:32 PM, "Martinez Blanco, Frankie"
<FMartinezBlanco@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

They have a blurb written but I've asked them to send it over so we can see.

Frankie A. Martinez-Blanco
Director of Advance
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212.788.3173
Cell: 917.514.8967

Sent using BlackBerry // Please excuse any typos.

From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 09:08 PM
To: Martinez Blanco, Frankie
Cc: Hanley, Monica; Scola, Lindsay; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: Re: manchester location

Do they have an introduction of him they want to read, or is it on us to come up with one?

On Sep 23, 2014, at 4:06 PM, Martinez Blanco, Frankie
<FMartinezBlanco@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Ed Miliband, Labour Leader.

Frankie A. Martinez-Blanco
Director of Advance
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York

Office: 212.788.3173

Cell: 917.514.8967

Sent using BlackBerry // Please excuse any typos.

From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 08:59 PM
To: Martinez Blanco, Frankie
Cc: Hanley, Monica; Scola, Lindsay; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: Re: manchester location

Frankie, do you know who is introducing the mayor tomorrow? I need to work up a blurb for the speech. Thanks! ~Jon

On Sep 20, 2014, at 3:10 PM, "Martinez Blanco, Frankie" <FMartinezBlanco@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

That's correct. That's as far as I know from what I read online.

Sent from my iPhone

On Sep 20, 2014, at 2:37 PM, "Hanley, Monica" <MHanley@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

And former rail station!

From: Scola, Lindsay
Sent: Saturday, September 20, 2014 02:37 PM
To: Hanley, Monica; Hagelgans, Andrea
Cc: Martinez Blanco, Frankie; 'jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com'
<jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: manchester location

That's it. Just a conference center.

From: Hanley, Monica
Sent: Saturday, September 20, 2014 02:35 PM
To: Hagelgans, Andrea; Scola, Lindsay
Cc: Martinez Blanco, Frankie; 'jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com'
<jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: manchester location

Yup

according to labour conf website that's it!

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
Sent: Saturday, September 20, 2014 02:33 PM

To: Hanley, Monica; Scola, Lindsay
Cc: Martinez Blanco, Frankie; Jon Fromowitz
<jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: manchester location

This it?

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Manchester_Central_Convention_Complex

From: Hanley, Monica
Sent: Saturday, September 20, 2014 2:30 PM
To: Hagelgans, Andrea; Scola, Lindsay
Cc: Martinez Blanco, Frankie
Subject: Re: manchester location

Its at manchester central which looks like a conventional convention center. Frankie - anything else to add?

From: Hanley, Monica
Sent: Saturday, September 20, 2014 02:28 PM
To: Hagelgans, Andrea; Scola, Lindsay
Cc: Martinez Blanco, Frankie
Subject: Re: manchester location

Adding frankie and I'll do my own research now

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
Sent: Saturday, September 20, 2014 02:28 PM
To: Scola, Lindsay; Hanley, Monica
Subject: manchester location

Can you send me the location of the speech? Do we know anything about the space? Historic? etc

From: Jon Fromowitz
To: Kallen, Laurel
Subject: Re: Urgent Proofreading
Date: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 7:34:01 PM
Attachments: LabourSpeechDraft28.docx
ATT00001.htm

This should be the last one... Not super different than the last one, but just once more for my fragile heart, if you will!

Mayor Bill de Blasio
Labour Party Conference Remarks
“The Power of Speaking Hard Truths”
Draft 27 – September 23nd, 7:20PM

- I want to thank Ed Miliband for that wonderful introduction. How about a hand for your next Prime Minister! It was so inspiring to see his speech last evening, though regrettably I was unable to be here in person. He spoke so eloquently of not only the urgent need for the UK to change course, but of the bold, specific reforms needed to improve the lives of working people. He believes so firmly in the politics of the MANY, not the few, which is why he WILL be such a great Prime Minister!

- It's such an honor to be here with Mr. Miliband and ALL the people who make this Labour Party what it is. From he and the other rising stars who'll lead Labour to victory next year... to the everyday activists whose unflinching passion and energy will fuel the campaign.
- Though I've seen your efforts mostly from afar, it's clear to me, even across five time zones and an ocean, that this group is working towards something special.... something important.

- It's fitting that we find ourselves in Manchester. This city was at the forefront of the innovation and ingenuity that drove the Industrial Revolution, helping shape the contours of the modern economy that we know today.
- It shares a special status in history with the city I love and am so honored to lead. Both are places where big ideas and raw grit have been honored and rewarded like few others in the world.

- It is also among the first places in the world to foster a modern working class... and among the first where working people empowered themselves to take part in the political process. It's no wonder then that Manchester is a place where hard truths are deeply understood and spoken out.

- I cannot imagine a more appropriate backdrop for this gathering because yours is a party BORN out of working people attaining the right to vote... a party that EXISTS to fight for working families and forcefully address their needs.

- Labour has inclusiveness and progressiveness coded in its DNA... Yours is a party grounded in the idea that everyone's voice matters.... And that no one should be left behind.
- THIS Labour Party is led by a new generation of progressive leaders and defined by bold ideas. You stand ready to ACT with a plan for a fairer, more prosperous United Kingdom.... And to FIGHT for an economy... a country... that works for working people.

- THIS Labour Party hears the voices of the millions who feel like they are treading water... Working harder and harder but feeling less and less secure about the future.
- And your party refuses to accept the politics of inertia... That resigned mindset that says the next generation is destined to do worse than this one.
- By virtue of being in this room, you recognize that we owe it to our children to do better ... to live up to the most basic promise we make to the people we serve.

- I say that as someone charged with the duty of overseeing New York's school system, where over one million children 18 and under learn and grow.
- I also say it as a father of two beautiful children of my own, Dante and Chiara, who have attended those schools for most of their young lives.
- There is NO duty more sacred than parenthood.
- Nothing gives me more comfort... more joy... than watching my children grow, knowing they can be WHATEVER they want to be. The boundaries of their future are determined only by how hard they work and how big they dream.

- If we accept a future – or a present – where parents can't look their kids in the eyes and tell them they have a shot at something better, then we break the promise of civilized society.... We deprive our children – AND their parents -- of so much.
- Now, I've said that growing inequality is THE crisis of our time in New York City. It's true here as well.
- The numbers speak for themselves.
- In the UK, in 2011, the average income of an adult in the top 0.1 % (point one percent) was more than 70 times that of someone in the bottom 90%. [2011, World Income Database].

- The Guardian recently reported that the five richest families in the UK have more wealth than the entire bottom 20% of the country. And, as is the case in New York City, the trend has been moving sharply in the wrong direction. According to a study published by Oxfam, since the 1990s, incomes of the top 0.1% (point one percent) of Britons have grown four times faster than those of the bottom 90%.
- Now, there's nothing wrong with attaining wealth. I'm happy to celebrate the success of those who've earned it. But this crisis is keeping so many from writing their OWN success stories.

- Indeed, this status quo offers only the narrowest path to opportunity. Instead, it leaves everyday working people caught in a cost-of-living crisis.
- And let's be clear what we mean when we talk about a cost of living crisis. It's not a reference to the astonishingly high price of penthouse flats, Bentleys or five-star holidays. The people who can afford THOSE luxuries, are in fact, doing quite well under this Conservative government.

- But feeding a family, keeping a modest home that's lit and heated, securing a safe place for children to be while parents are hard at work... THESE things are becoming more and more costly. We're not talking about luxuries, or even conveniences, but the ESSENTIALS that people need to live.
- LIVING itself is getting harder and harder for working families to afford. Not living WELL... just LIVING; just getting by.
- And the price people pay isn't merely monetary.

- You can see it in the tired eyes of the waitress whose SECOND job is preceded by a second SHIFT at her FIRST job....
- In the shaky hand of the bus driver signing the paperwork for a payday loan....
- In the clenched jaws and stiff lips of working parents mustering brave faces in front of their son and daughter... in the STRAIN that goes into just hiding the fear that they won't be able to attain a better life.
- As wealth becomes more concentrated at the top, stories like these are becoming all too common.

- If unaddressed, the crisis will become THE defining characteristic of our societies... It won't be prosperity or opportunity... tragically, it be inequality and the cost-of-living crisis.
- I know this Labour Party understands what's at stake.
- I also know the weight of this moment can feel like a burden: the exasperation that comes from knowing the gravity of this threat – a generation at risk of being forsaken – at a time when so many seem unwilling to act in response.
- The right side of history can feel like a lonely place.
But it isn't. It never has been.

- Rather, history itself tells us that people gravitate towards decency, inclusion and progress. And you don't have to look back thousands of years to see that – go walk around the streets of Manchester... Go to a school, a church, a mosque... You can see the trust people put in one another every day; the value people place in simple moral action.
- So why then is COLLECTIVE moral action often so difficult?

- In the case of the inequality and cost-of-living crisis, part of the issue is scope: the problem seems so difficult, so deeply embedded, that good people can be tempted to throw their hands up and declare that nothing can be done about it.
- But there's something else going on as well. As is the case with many injustices, there are people – small in number but oversized in power – who benefit from the status quo, and they work to maintain it. Their voices seem louder... more confident and authoritative... and those of everyday people get drowned out.
- In this way, people are made to feel powerless... made to feel that their voice doesn't matter at all.

- So at the same time that inequality is skyrocketing and the cost of living is overwhelming – something people can see and feel every day – we’re told that just speaking of this problem is unconstructive, divisive... harmful, even.
- You know that it isn’t. So do the people of your country.
- Part of your job then is to help them find their voice to say – together – that Britons deserve something better.
- Sometimes people – good, hardworking people – need to hear the truth spoken before they feel comfortable speaking it themselves.

- And there's so much power that comes from speaking the truth... especially from speaking HARD truths.
- That's because the status quo gets perpetuated through a series of falsehoods...false CHOICES that assign mutual exclusivity to ideas that should be complementary.
- We're told that prosperity can't be both great, and shared....
- That you can't lift the floor for those struggling in a tough economy, and still balance a budget....

- That those of us who serve can't expect to achieve anything at all if we dare to advance policies that are bold and morally right.
- In the lead-up to the election for New York City Mayor last year, the voices of the status quo gave voters another false choice: support MY candidacy ...
OR vote for someone with a real shot at winning.
- Well, I am here before you today because the people of New York City rejected the lazy logic of false-choice politics.
- I want to tell you how it happened.

- I announced my candidacy for Mayor from the front steps of my home in Brooklyn in January 2013. A few hundred people were there with me... the earliest believers in our campaign.
- We were brought together by a deep concern: that New York had become a Tale of Two Cities; a place where a few were doing very well, but millions of working people were struggling.
- It threatened to degrade New York's status in the world.
- The beacon of opportunity that for generations shone so brightly across our five boroughs and out into the world was dimming.

- We saw it, we FELT it in our city.... Even if it was unspoken, we saw on our neighbors' faces: the weight of worry about a future of diminished possibilities.
- And we knew the policies of the status quo were exacerbating the problem rather than addressing it.
- But though our mission was in many ways somber, our mood that day was not. It was a grey, frigid afternoon, but the event had an aura of excitement and joy one would expect at a summer street party. It was no doubt a strange sight to those passing by.

- There was a feeling that something special was happening that made the chill tolerable. It came from having found in one another a group of people who spoke the same truth about our Tale of Two Cities...the harm it was doing.... the threat it posed.
- There was a sense of relief that came from learning we weren't alone in our beliefs... a lifting of lonely burdens.
- There was a powerful sense of MISSION that came from accepting a mutual responsibility to act, together, against this scourge... and a heartfelt faith that victory was achievable, no matter the odds.

- Now, the odds did appear quite long, at first. It felt like the total number of those in the city who had HEARD of me was limited to those standing in front of my home that day... And my house is not very big.
- And not only were other candidates for mayor better known, they espoused ideas that were seen as more politically practical, hewing to the familiarity of the status quo.
- But it was never my intention to nibble around the edges with policies of timid maintenance; I ran to take dead aim at the crisis of our time. And I became

Mayor because everyday New Yorkers, too, were hungry for a clean break from the status quo.

- Our campaign was powered by people of every race, every age, every income bracket. And yes, even many New Yorkers who had enjoyed great success joined our fight against rising inequality. They wanted the next generation of New Yorkers to have the same opportunities the city had given them.

- We were a small group, at first, but as New Yorkers learned that we were fighting for a government that would represent THEIR values -- fairness, justice, real opportunity for all – our campaign grew. And grew...
And grew.
- We worked – together – as activists, to spread the word.
- And so, in living rooms and parks... on Twitter and Facebook... people were hearing from one another for the first time things they already knew in their own hearts to be true... and they were learning the POWER that could come when they themselves spoke out.

- THAT is how in a matter of months we went from a few hundred souls gathered on that blustery Brooklyn day, to not just winning, but winning BIG on ELECTION day.
- And our shared resolve to remake our city didn't end when the votes were tallied.
- The same tenets that defined our campaign now drive our Administration: a constant push for bold action; a willingness to hear and speak hard truths; an agenda set by listening to the PEOPLE.
- With regard to my absolute highest priority, that's meant working aggressively to secure unprecedented access to free, full day – FULL DAY -- early education programs for 4-year-olds.

- We did this because study after study shows the great equalizing effect of early education. But you don't need to read an academic journal to get that: we all know access to quality education does so much to determine a person's economic destiny... and as with most matters of destiny, timing is everything.
- Now, to give you some context on the politics we faced when trying to expand full-day early education for all families, I'd like to read you two assessments from New York newspapers, published almost exactly one year apart.

- In September 2013, a few months before I was elected Mayor... the New York Daily News wrote QUOTE “[The] promise to create 48,000 educational slots for four-year-olds...has little chance of becoming a reality.”
- Then, in September 2014, in The New York Times QUOTE “51,000 Answer de Blasio’s Bell for New Pre-K.”
- Now, the 51,000 there refers to the number of kids who have been signed up for these programs. That’s three thousand MORE than the number said to be impossible just one year ago.

- It also means that 51,000 beautiful children are on a better path to success... And all of their mothers and fathers... grandparents and guardians... they get to experience the comfort... the joy... that comes from seeing the shine of brighter futures.
- It's hard to express how much that means for the working people of our city. But it's also not all we've done in our first few months in office.
- We've launched a plan to secure affordable housing for 500,000 New Yorkers over the next decade.

That's more than the total population of Bristol... Or of Miami, for anyone watching back home.

- We ended what had been one of the saddest manifestations of inequality by reforming racially biased police practices so that ALL law-abiding New Yorkers are granted the basic right of walking down the street without fear of being hassled by authorities.

- And we've done all of this while reaching agreement on a contract with our city teachers – educators who had gone without a contract for nearly five years. In all that time, the good men and women charged with safeguarding the futures of our children had enjoyed little security when it came to their own futures.

- We made a deal grounded in partnership and mutual respect, because RESPECT for working men and women is a core principle that all GOOD governments live by. It was a fair deal for teachers – offering increased pay that they greatly deserved. But it also generated important savings that labor was a partner in achieving. Put simply: it was a good deal for the people of New York.
- So if anyone tells you that a balanced budget and an agenda of economic fairness can't go hand-in-hand, tell them to come visit New York City.

- Really, it's beautiful this time of year.
- I notice so many similarities between the UK I see today and the New York where I stood on that cold morning and announced my candidacy.
- It comes through so clearly, even across great physical distance: the people of the UK are ready for bold, progressive change.
- And if we can make the strides that we've made in New York City from a campaign so humble in its origins, imagine the feats that can come from this great hall!

- The work you have in front of you is so important.

And the evidence of that is the other side is trying to talk you into underestimating the reach of the good you can do.

- There is little basis for glib assertion from the Conservatives that a progressive agenda is narrow in terms of whose lives it would improve.
- The opposite is true. Mounting disparities in income create ripple effects that undermine our whole societies. Here's just one example of how:

- The Financial Times recently concluded that the income gap between America's richest and poorest metropolitan regions is not only the widest it has ever been, but that this phenomenon was QUOTE "shaping an uneven housing recovery that threatens to hold back the broader revival of the world's largest economy."
- In an increasingly interconnected world, a system grounded in exclusivity is not sustainable for ANYONE, including those at the very top.

- But that also means a progressive agenda has the power to HELP EVERYONE, whether your opponents ACKNOWLEDGE it or not.
- Don't hold your breath waiting for this conservative government to do that. Their top-down policies are making things harder for working people every day.
- Among the many ways they've aggravated the wounds of this crisis, the most painful might be their tax code.
- Instead of giving working families the leg-up they deserve, they gave billions of tax cuts to the wealthiest with the vague hope that money would magically trickle down to everyone else. In my country, that's an approach we call voodoo economics.

- I have no doubt the word “voodoo” sounds more elegant in a British accent than an American one, but in any intonation, we know it’s a policy that doesn’t work.
- So let me tell you about what does work. And you don’t have to look far to see it. In fact, you heard it at your own conference last evening.
- Ed Miliband has so clearly articulated both the challenges, and the opportunities this moment in history creates for the British people.

- He knows that a cautious approach won't do when it comes to addressing the crisis of our time. He has a BOLD vision for big change. As he said last night: "I'm not talking about changing a policy, or simply a different programme. But something that is bigger: transforming the idea, the ethic, of how our country is run."
- And he knows well what needs to be done. As he told this conference LAST YEAR: "We have to rebuild anew One Nation. An economy built on your success, a society based on your values, a politics that hears your voice – rich and poor alike – accepting their responsibilities to each other.”

- Ed Miliband will be a Prime Minister for Britons with second jobs, not just those with second homes.
- Ed Miliband understands -- this Labour Party understands – the true cost of a status quo that puts a barrier between working people and prosperity.
- And this Labour Party not only has the right values, it has an agenda that translates values into action. Not political talk, but a real plan that reforms the crux of the economy.

- Labour has a plan for a tax code that rewards hard work over existing wealth and power. A plan to end the current government's 3 billion pound tax cut for the wealthiest and instead give tax relief to 24 million middle and working class people....
- A plan that protects and STRENGTHENS – not curtails – the NHS so that quality healthcare remains a right and not a privilege...
- A plan that puts working people ahead of big corporations by controlling energy costs, and taking unprecedented steps to make housing more affordable.

- And a plan that significantly increases – to 25 hours a week – free child care to working parents of 3- and 4-year olds, so that ALL kids can get on a path to success and opportunity early.

- I speak from personal experience when I say that this initiative in particular has the power to lift lives like few others that governments can implement. And it will make such a difference, for so many children.

- Your agenda is a blueprint of what a fairer, more prosperous, STRONGER United Kingdom will look like.
- That is not only why you MUST win, it is why you WILL win!
- The upcoming election represents a choice for the people of your country: build a United Kingdom that rewards hard work and ensures the next generation does better... Or continue down a path of growing inequality and rising cost of living.

- To me, that choice is very clear, as I know it is to the people in this room... and as I know it will become to everyday people across this country.
- But to those on the other side, who argue things work BETTER when opportunity is scarce and exclusive, I offer this thought: not even DARWIN was a social Darwinist.
- Indeed, Charles Darwin, one of the greatest minds that yours or any country ever produced, put it this way:
“If the misery of the poor be caused not by the laws of nature, but by our institutions, great is our sin.”

- Among the cruelest false choices we are given is one that says we can only move forward if some are left behind. You don't need to accept that. No one should.
- The work ahead of you will be anything but easy... I can assure you of that. That distinct histories written on opposite ends of an ocean leave us, at this moment, facing essentially the same crisis – underscores its profound scale.

- But you have the power to overcome it.
- If you reject the cold complacency of the status quo, its power will erode.
- If you speak hard truths, others will listen.
- If you empower the people of your great country to speak THEIR truths, to stand up and TO ACT in the face of this crisis, then there is so much good that you can achieve, together.
- And I believe you will.
- Thank you!

On Sep 23, 2014, at 5:59 PM, Jon Fromowitz <jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

Thanks so much for everything. Just a heads up that I'll probably send you near final around 8 for final final pass. You have been such an enormous help in this process. Thank you!

On Sep 23, 2014, at 4:06 PM, "Kallen, Laurel" <LKallen@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Here it is. Heads up: If you need anything else, I will be unavailable between 6 and 8 PM, but can re-proof later in the evening. Feel free to reject anything that seems overly grammatical.

Laurel Kallen
Speechwriter
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212 341 5391
Cell: 917 655 7578
lkallen@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 4:04 PM
To: Kallen, Laurel
Subject: Re: Urgent Proofreading

How are we looking?

On Sep 23, 2014, at 3:12 PM, "Kallen, Laurel" <LKallen@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Yes, I understand – and everyone's sense of what sounds more natural is a little different. I will try not to let the grammarian in me get out-of-hand. ☺ Will do my best to get the next round of suggested edits to you by 4:00.

Laurel Kallen
Speechwriter
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212 341 5391
Cell: 917 655 7578
lkallen@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 3:10 PM

To: Kallen, Laurel

Subject: Re: Urgent Proofreading

Here is the new draft. Please note if there were edits you made last time that weren't accepted, it's because sometimes you need to take some oratory license to word things the way they are easier to say, rather than grammatically best. But this should by and large have your edits accepted, just been worked over throughout the day so would be good if you could take another look. Need by 4 PM, if that's possible. Thanks! Jon

<LabourSpeechDraft25 ed LK 404.docx>

From: Jon Fromowitz
To: Hanley, Monica; Javon Coney; Frankie Martinez
Subject: Latest Speech
Date: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 10:43:42 PM
Attachments: LabourSpeechDraft1030PMEST.docx

Now with Miliband intro. I formatted the best I could, but wanted one of you guys to make sure it was up to par with what usually goes on the podium and re-space as necessary. Not necessarily final, but should at least be very close.

Mayor Bill de Blasio
Labour Party Conference Remarks
“The Power of Speaking Hard Truths”
September 23nd --10:30PM

- I want to thank Ed Miliband for that wonderful introduction. How about a hand for your next Prime Minister! It was so inspiring to see his speech last evening; I only wish I could have seen it in person, with all of you. He spoke so eloquently of the urgent need for the UK to change course... and of bold, concrete measures to improve the lives of working people. He firmly believes in the politics of the MANY, not the few, which is why he WILL be such a great Prime Minister!

- It's such an honor to be here with Mr. Miliband and ALL the people who make this Labour Party what it is. From he and the other rising stars who will lead Labour to victory next year... to the everyday activists whose unflinching passion and energy will fuel the campaign.

- Though I've seen your efforts mostly from afar, it's clear to me, even across five time zones and an ocean, that this group is working towards something special.... something important.

- It's fitting that we find ourselves in Manchester. This city was at the forefront of the innovation and ingenuity that drove the Industrial Revolution, helping shape the contours of the modern economy that we know today.
- It shares a special status in history with the city I love and am so honored to lead. Both are places where big ideas and raw grit have been honored and rewarded like few others in the world.

- It is also among the first places in the world to foster a modern working class... and among the first where working people empowered themselves to take part in the political process. It's no wonder then that Manchester is a place where hard truths are deeply understood and spoken out.

- I cannot imagine a more appropriate backdrop for this gathering because yours is a party BORN out of working people attaining the right to vote... a party that EXISTS to fight for working families and forcefully address their needs.

- Labour has inclusiveness and progressiveness coded in its DNA... Yours is a party grounded in the idea that everyone's voice matters.... And that no one should be left behind.

- THIS Labour Party is led by a new generation of progressive leaders and defined by bold ideas. You stand ready to ACT with a plan for a fairer, more prosperous United Kingdom.... And to FIGHT for an economy... a country... that works for working people.

- THIS Labour Party hears the voices of the millions who feel like they are treading water... Working harder and harder but feeling less and less secure about the future.
- And your party refuses to accept the politics of inertia... That resigned mindset that says the next generation is destined to do worse than this one.
- By virtue of being in this room, you recognize that we owe it to our children to do better ... to live up to the most basic promise we make to the people we serve.

- I say that as someone charged with the duty of overseeing New York's school system, where over one million children 18 and under learn and grow.
- I also say it as a father of two beautiful children of my own, Dante and Chiara, who have attended those schools for most of their young lives.
- There is NO duty more sacred than parenthood.

- Nothing gives me more comfort... more joy... than watching my children grow, knowing they can be WHATEVER they want to be. The boundaries of their future are determined only by how hard they work and how big they dream.

- If we accept a future – or a present – where parents can't look their kids in the eyes and tell them they have a shot at something better, then we break the promise of civilized society.... We deprive our children – AND their parents -- of so much.

- Now, I've said that growing inequality is THE crisis of our time in New York City. It's true here as well.
- The numbers speak for themselves.
- In the UK, in 2011, the average income of an adult in the top 0.1 % (point one percent) was more than 70 times that of someone in the bottom 90%. [2011, World Income Database].
- The Guardian recently reported that the five richest families in the UK have more wealth than the entire bottom 20% of the country.

- And, as is the case in New York City, the trend has been moving sharply in the wrong direction. According to a study published by Oxfam, since the 1990s, incomes of the top 0.1% (point one percent) of Britons have grown four times faster than those of the bottom 90%.
- Now, there's nothing wrong with attaining wealth. I'm happy to celebrate the success of those who've earned it. But this crisis is keeping so many from writing their OWN success stories.
- This status quo offers only the narrowest path to opportunity. Instead, it leaves everyday working people caught in a cost-of-living crisis.

- And let's be clear what we mean when we talk about a cost of living crisis. It's not a reference to the astonishingly high price of penthouse flats, Bentleys or five-star holidays. The people who can afford THOSE luxuries, are in fact, doing quite well under this Conservative government.
- But feeding a family, keeping a modest home that's lit and heated, securing a safe place for children to be while parents are hard at work... THESE things are becoming more and more costly. We're not talking about luxuries, or even conveniences, but the ESSENTIALS that people need to live.

- LIVING itself is getting harder and harder for working families to afford. Not living WELL... just LIVING; just getting by.
- And the price people pay isn't merely monetary.
- You can see it in the tired eyes of the waitress whose SECOND job is preceded by a second SHIFT at her FIRST job....
- In the shaky hand of the bus driver signing the paperwork for a payday loan....

- In the clenched jaws and stiff lips of working parents mustering brave faces in front of their son and daughter... in the STRAIN that goes into just hiding the fear that they won't be able to attain a better life.
- As wealth becomes more concentrated at the top, stories like these are becoming all too common.
- If unaddressed, the crisis will become THE defining characteristic of our societies... It won't be prosperity or opportunity... tragically, it will be inequality and the cost-of-living crisis.

- I know this Labour Party understands what's at stake.

- I also know the weight of this moment can feel like a burden: the exasperation that comes from knowing the gravity of this threat – a generation at risk of being forsaken – at a time when so many seem unwilling to act in response.

- The right side of history can feel like a lonely place.
But it isn't. It never has been.

- Rather, history itself tells us that people gravitate towards decency, inclusion and progress. And you don't have to look back thousands of years to see that – go walk around the streets of Manchester... Go to a school, a church, a mosque... You can see the trust people put in one another every day; the value people place in simple moral action.

- So why then is COLLECTIVE moral action often so difficult?

- In the case of the inequality and cost-of-living crisis, part of the issue is scope: the problem seems so difficult, so deeply embedded, that good people can be tempted to throw their hands up and declare that nothing can be done about it.

- But there's something else going on as well. As is the case with many injustices, there are people – small in number but oversized in power – who benefit from the status quo, and they work to maintain it. Their voices seem louder... more confident and authoritative... and those of everyday people get drowned out.

- In this way, people are made to feel powerless... made to feel that their voice doesn't matter at all.
- So at the same time that inequality is skyrocketing and the cost of living is overwhelming – something people can see and feel every day – we're told that just speaking of this problem is unconstructive, divisive... harmful, even.
- You know that it isn't. So do the people of your country.
- Part of your job then is to help them find their voice to say – together – that Britons deserve something better.

- Sometimes people – good, hardworking people – need to hear the truth spoken before they feel comfortable speaking it themselves.
- And there's so much power that comes from speaking the truth... especially from speaking HARD truths.
- That's because the status quo gets perpetuated through a series of falsehoods...false CHOICES that assign mutual exclusivity to ideas that should be complementary.

- We're told that prosperity can't be both great, and shared....
- That you can't lift the floor for those struggling in a tough economy, and still balance a budget....
- That those of us who serve can't expect to achieve anything at all if we dare to advance policies that are bold and morally right.
- In the lead-up to the election for New York City Mayor last year, the voices of the status quo gave voters another false choice: support MY candidacy ...
OR vote for someone with a real shot at winning.

- Well, I am here before you today because the people of New York City rejected the lazy logic of false-choice politics.
- I want to tell you how it happened.
- I announced my candidacy for Mayor from the front steps of my home in Brooklyn in January 2013. A few hundred people were there with me... the earliest believers in our campaign.
- We were brought together by a deep concern: that New York had become a Tale of Two Cities; a place where a few were doing very well, but millions of working people were struggling.

- It threatened to degrade New York's status in the world.
- The beacon of opportunity that for generations shone so brightly across-our-five-boroughs-and-out-into-the-world was dimming.
- We saw it, we FELT it in our city.... Even if it was unspoken, we saw on our neighbors' faces: the weight of worry about a future of diminished possibilities.
- And we knew the policies of the status quo were exacerbating the problem rather than addressing it.

- But though our mission was in many ways somber, our mood that day was not. It was a grey, frigid afternoon, but the event had an aura of excitement and joy one would expect at a summer street party. It was no doubt a strange sight to those passing by.

- There was a feeling that something special was happening that made the chill tolerable. It came from having found in one another a group of people who spoke the same truth about our Tale of Two Cities...the harm it was doing.... the threat it posed.

- There was a sense of relief that came from learning we weren't alone in our beliefs... a lifting of lonely burdens.
- There was a powerful sense of MISSION that came from accepting a mutual responsibility to act, together, against this scourge... and a heartfelt faith that victory was achievable, no matter the odds.
- Now, the odds did appear quite long, at first. It felt like the total number of those in the city who had HEARD of me was limited to those standing in front of my home that day... And my house is not very big.

- And not only were other candidates for mayor better known, they espoused ideas that were seen as more politically practical, hewing to the familiarity of the status quo.

- But it was never my intention to nibble around the edges with policies of timid maintenance; I ran to take dead aim at the crisis of our time. And I became Mayor because everyday New Yorkers, too, were hungry for a clean break from the status quo.

- Our campaign was powered by people of every race, every age, every income bracket. And yes, even many New Yorkers who had enjoyed great success joined our fight against rising inequality. They wanted the next generation of New Yorkers to have the same opportunities the city had given them.

- We were a small group, at first, but as New Yorkers learned that we were fighting for a government that would represent THEIR values -- fairness, justice, real opportunity for all – our campaign grew. And grew...

And grew.

- We worked – together – as activists, to spread the word.
- And so, in living rooms and parks... on Twitter and Facebook... people were hearing from one another for the first time things they already knew in their own hearts to be true... and they were learning the POWER that could come when they themselves spoke out.
- THAT is how in a matter of months we went from a few hundred souls gathered on that blustery Brooklyn day, to not just winning, but winning BIG on ELECTION day.

- And our shared resolve to remake our city didn't end when the votes were tallied.
- The same tenets that defined our campaign now drive our Administration: a constant push for bold action; a willingness to hear and speak hard truths; an agenda set by listening to the PEOPLE.
- With regard to my absolute highest priority, that's meant working aggressively to secure unprecedented access to free, full day – FULL DAY – early education programs for 4-year-olds.

- We did this because study after study shows the great equalizing effect of early education. But you don't need to read an academic journal to get that: we all know access to quality education does so much to determine a person's economic destiny... and as with most matters of destiny, timing is everything.

- Now, to give you some context on the politics we faced when trying to expand full day early education for all families, I'd like to read you two assessments from New York newspapers, published almost exactly one year apart.

- In September 2013, a few months before I was elected Mayor... the New York Daily News wrote QUOTE “[The] promise to create 48,000 educational slots for four-year-olds...has little chance of becoming a reality.”
- Then, in September 2014, in The New York Times QUOTE “51,000 Answer de Blasio’s Bell for New Pre-K.”

- Now, the 51,000 there refers to the number of kids who have been signed up for these programs. That's three thousand MORE than the number said to be impossible just one year ago.

- It also means that 51,000 beautiful children are on a better path to success... And all of their mothers and fathers... grandparents and guardians... they get to experience the comfort... the joy... that comes from seeing the shine of brighter futures.

- It's hard to express how much that means for the working people of our city. But it's also not all we've done in our first few months in office.

- We've launched a plan to secure affordable housing for 500,000 New Yorkers over the next decade.

That's more than the total population of Bristol... Or of Miami, for anyone watching back home.

- We ended what had been one of the saddest manifestations of inequality by reforming racially biased police practices so that ALL law-abiding New Yorkers are granted the basic right of walking down the street without fear of being hassled by authorities.
- And we've done all of this while reaching agreement on a contract with our city teachers – educators who had gone without a contract for nearly five years. In all that time, the good men and women charged with safeguarding the futures of our children had enjoyed little security when it came to their own futures.

- We made a deal grounded in partnership and mutual respect, because RESPECT for working men and women is a core principle that all GOOD governments live by. It was a fair deal for teachers – offering increased pay that they greatly deserved. But it also generated important savings that labor was a partner in achieving. Put simply: it was a good deal for the people of New York.
- So if anyone tells you that a balanced budget and an agenda of economic fairness can't go hand-in-hand, tell them to come visit New York City.
- Really, it's beautiful this time of year.

- I notice so many similarities between the UK I see today and the New York where I stood on that cold afternoon and announced my candidacy.
- It comes through so clearly, even across great physical distance: the people of the UK are ready for bold, progressive change.
- And if we can make the strides that we've made in New York City from a campaign so humble in its origins, imagine the feats that can come from this great hall!

- The work you have in front of you is so important.

Here's the evidence of that: the other side is trying to talk you into underestimating the reach of the good you can do.

- There is little basis for glib assertion from the Conservatives that a progressive agenda is narrow in terms of whose lives it would improve.

- The opposite is true. Mounting inequality creates ripple effects that undermine our whole societies. Here's just one example of how:

- The Financial Times recently concluded that the income gap between America's richest and poorest metropolitan regions is not only the widest it has ever been, but that this phenomenon was QUOTE "shaping an uneven housing recovery that threatens to hold back the broader revival of the world's largest economy."

- In an increasingly interconnected world, a system grounded in exclusivity is not sustainable for ANYONE, including those at the very top.
- But that also means a progressive agenda has the power to help EVERYONE, whether your opponents acknowledge it or not.
- Don't hold your breath waiting for this conservative government to do that. Their top-down policies are making things harder for working people every day.

- Among the many ways they've aggravated the wounds of this crisis, the most painful might be their tax policy.
- Instead of giving working families the leg-up they deserve, they gave huge tax cuts to the wealthiest with the vague hope that money would magically trickle down to everyone else. In my country, that's an approach we call voodoo economics.

- I have no doubt the word “voodoo” sounds more elegant in a British accent than an American one, but in any intonation, we know it’s a policy that doesn’t work.
- So let me tell you about what does work. And you don’t have to look far to see it. In fact, you heard it at your own conference last evening.
- Ed Miliband has so clearly articulated both the challenges, and the opportunities this moment in history creates for the British people.

- He knows that a cautious approach won't do when it comes to addressing the crisis of our time. He has a BOLD vision for big change. As he said last evening: "I'm not talking about changing a policy or simply a different programme, but something that is bigger: transforming the idea and ethic of how our country is run."
- And he knows well what needs to be done. As he told this conference LAST YEAR: "We have to rebuild anew One Nation. An economy built on your success, a society based on your values, a politics that hears your voice – rich and poor alike – accepting their responsibilities to each other."

- Ed Miliband will be a Prime Minister for Britons with second jobs, not just those with second homes.
- Ed Miliband understands -- this Labour Party understands – the true cost of a status quo that puts a barrier between working people and prosperity.
- And this Labour Party not only has the right values, it has an agenda that translates values into action. Not political talk, but a real plan that reforms the crux of the economy.

- Labour has a plan for a tax policy that rewards hard work over existing wealth and power. A plan to end the current government's tax cut for the wealthiest and instead give tax relief to 24 million middle and working class people....
- A plan that protects and STRENGTHENS – not curtails – the NHS so that quality healthcare remains a right and not a privilege...
- A plan that puts working people ahead of big corporations by controlling energy costs, and taking unprecedented steps to make housing more affordable.

- And a plan that significantly increases – to 25 hours a week – free child care to working parents of 3- and 4-year olds, so that ALL kids can get on a path to success and opportunity early.
- I speak from personal experience when I say that this initiative in particular has the power to lift lives like few others that governments can implement. And it will make such a difference for so many children, and for their parents.

- Your agenda is a blueprint of what a fairer, more prosperous, STRONGER United Kingdom will look like.
- That is not only why you MUST win, it is why you WILL win!
- The upcoming election represents a choice for the people of your country: build a United Kingdom that rewards hard work and ensures the next generation does better... Or continue down a path of growing inequality and rising cost of living.

- To me, that choice is very clear, as I know it is to the people in this room... and as I know it will become to everyday people across this country.
- But to those on the other side, who argue things work BETTER when opportunity is scarce and exclusive, I offer this thought: not even DARWIN was a social Darwinist.
- Indeed, Charles Darwin, one of the greatest minds that yours or any country ever produced, put it this way:
“If the misery of the poor be caused not by the laws of nature, but by our institutions, great is our sin.”

- Among the cruelest false choices we are given is one that says we can only move forward if some are left behind. You don't need to accept that. No one should.
- The work ahead of you will be anything but easy... I can assure you of that. That distinct histories written on opposite ends of an ocean leave us, at this moment, facing essentially the same crisis – underscores its profound scale.
- But you have the power to overcome it.

- If you reject the cold complacency of the status quo, its power will erode.
- If you speak hard truths, others will listen.
- If you empower the people of your great country to speak THEIR truths, to stand up and TO ACT in the face of this crisis, then there is so much good that you can achieve, together.
- And I believe you will.
- Thank you!

From: Kallen, Laurel
To: "jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Re: Urgent Proofreading
Date: Wednesday, September 24, 2014 3:18:18 AM

So sorry. Will do now.

Please excuse my smart phone's smart alecky spelling, punctuation, and grammar.

From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 08:34 PM
To: Kallen, Laurel
Subject: Re: Urgent Proofreading

Just want to confirm you can take a final look tonight. Thanks!

On Sep 23, 2014, at 7:33 PM, "Jon Fromowitz" <jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

This should be the last one... Not super different than the last one, but just once more for my fragile heart, if you will!

<LabourSpeechDraft28.docx>

On Sep 23, 2014, at 5:59 PM, Jon Fromowitz <jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

Thanks so much for everything. Just a heads up that I'll probably send you near final around 8 for final final pass. You have been such an enormous help is this process. Thank you!

On Sep 23, 2014, at 4:06 PM, "Kallen, Laurel" <LKallen@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Here it is. Heads up: If you need anything else, I will be unavailable between 6 and 8 PM, but can re-proof later in the evening. Feel free to reject anything that seems overly grammatical.

Laurel Kallen
Speechwriter
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212 341 5391
Cell: 917 655 7578
lkallen@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 4:04 PM
To: Kallen, Laurel
Subject: Re: Urgent Proofreading

How are we looking?

On Sep 23, 2014, at 3:12 PM, "Kallen, Laurel"
<LKallen@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Yes, I understand – and everyone’s sense of what sounds more natural is a little different. I will try not to let the grammarian in me get out-of-hand. ☺ Will do my best to get the next round of suggested edits to you by 4:00.

Laurel Kallen
Speechwriter
Office of the Mayor
The City of New York
Office: 212 341 5391
Cell: 917 655 7578
lkallen@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Jon Fromowitz
[\[mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com\]](mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com)
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 3:10 PM
To: Kallen, Laurel
Subject: Re: Urgent Proofreading

Here is the new draft. Please note if there were edits you made last time that weren’t accepted, it’s because sometimes you need to take some oratory license to word things they way they are easier to say, rather than grammatically best. But this should by and large have your edits accepted, just been worked over throughout the day so would be good if you could take another look. Need by 4 PM, if that’s possible. Thanks!
Jon

<LabourSpeechDraft25 ed LK 404.docx>

From: Kallen, Laurel
To: Jon Fromowitz
Subject: RE: Urgent Proofreading
Date: Wednesday, September 24, 2014 4:01:06 AM
Attachments: LabourSpeechDraft28_ed LK wed354.docx

Sorry for the delay, Jon. Note: Very few suggested edits, but I do want to draw your attention to page 13 where a word was missing. Otherwise, a few stylistic suggestions. Really amazing speech. A pleasure to read -- even repeatedly! Congratulations.

From: Jon Fromowitz [jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 7:33 PM
To: Kallen, Laurel
Subject: Re: Urgent Proofreading

This should be the last one... Not super different than the last one, but just once more for my fragile heart, if you will!

Mayor Bill de Blasio
Labour Party Conference Remarks
“The Power of Speaking Hard Truths”
Draft 27 – September 23nd, 7:20PM

- I want to thank Ed Miliband for that wonderful introduction. How about a hand for your next Prime Minister! It was so inspiring to see his speech last evening, though regrettably I was unable to be here in person. He spoke so eloquently ~~of~~ not only of the urgent need for the UK to change course, but also of the bold, specific reforms needed to improve the lives of working people. He believes so firmly in the politics of the MANY, not the few, which is why he WILL be such a great Prime Minister!

- It's such an honor to be here with Mr. Miliband and ALL the people who make this Labour Party what it is. From Ed Miliband and the other rising stars who'll lead Labour to victory next year... to the everyday activists whose unflinching passion and energy will fuel the campaign.
- Though I've seen your efforts mostly from afar, it's clear to me, even across five time zones and an ocean, that this group is working towards something special.... something important.

- It's fitting that we find ourselves in Manchester. This city was at the forefront of the innovation and ingenuity that drove the Industrial Revolution, helping shape the contours of the modern economy that we know today.
- It shares a special status in history with the city I love and am so honored to lead. Both are places where big ideas and raw grit have been honored and rewarded like few others in the world.

- It is also among the first places in the world to foster a modern working class... and among the first where working people empowered themselves to take part in the political process. It's no wonder then that Manchester is a place where hard truths are deeply understood and spoken out.

- I cannot imagine a more appropriate backdrop for this gathering because yours is a party BORN out of working people attaining the right to vote... a party that EXISTS to fight for working families and forcefully address their needs.

- Labour has inclusiveness and progressiveness coded in its DNA... Yours is a party grounded in the idea that everyone's voice matters.... And that no one should be left behind.
- THIS Labour Party is led by a new generation of progressive leaders and defined by bold ideas. You stand ready to ACT with a plan for a fairer, more prosperous United Kingdom.... And to FIGHT for an economy... a country... that works for working people.

- THIS Labour Party hears the voices of the millions who feel like they are treading water... Working harder and harder but feeling less and less secure about the future.
- And your party refuses to accept the politics of inertia... That resigned mindset that says the next generation is destined to do worse than this one.
- By virtue of being in this room, you recognize that we owe it to our children to do better ... to live up to the most basic promise we make to the people we serve.

- I say that as someone charged with the duty of overseeing New York's school system, where over one million children 18 and under learn and grow.
- I also say it as a father of two beautiful children of my own, Dante and Chiara, who have attended those schools for most of their young lives.
- There is NO duty more sacred than parenthood.
- Nothing gives me more comfort... more joy... than watching my children grow, knowing they can be WHATEVER they want to be. The boundaries of their future are determined only by how hard they work and how big they dream.

- If we accept a future – or a present – where parents can't look their kids in the eyes and tell them they have a shot at something better, then we break the promise of civilized society.... We deprive our children – AND their parents -- of so much.
- Now, I've said that growing inequality is THE crisis of our time in New York City. It's true here as well.
- The numbers speak for themselves.
- In the UK, in 2011, the average income of an adult in the top 0.1 % (point one percent) was more than 70 times that of someone in the bottom 90%. [2011, World Income Database].

- The Guardian recently reported that the five richest families in the UK have more wealth than the entire bottom 20% of the country. And, as is the case in New York City, the trend has been moving sharply in the wrong direction. According to a study published by Oxfam, since the 1990s, incomes of the top 0.1% (point one percent) of Britons have grown four times faster than those of the bottom 90%.
- Now, there's nothing wrong with attaining wealth. I'm happy to celebrate the success of those who've earned it. But this crisis is keeping so many from writing their OWN success stories.

- Indeed, this status quo offers only the narrowest path to opportunity. Instead, it leaves everyday working people caught in a cost-of-living crisis.
- And let's be clear what we mean when we talk about a cost-of-living crisis. It's not a reference to the astonishingly high price of penthouse flats, Bentleys or five-star holidays. The people who can afford THOSE luxuries, are in fact, doing quite well under this Conservative government.

- But feeding a family, keeping a modest home that's lit and heated, securing a safe place for children to be while parents are hard at work... THESE things are becoming more and more costly. We're not talking about luxuries, or even conveniences, but the ESSENTIALS that people need to live.
- LIVING itself is getting harder and harder for working families to afford. Not living WELL... just LIVING; just getting by.
- And the price people pay isn't merely monetary.

- You can see it in the tired eyes of the waitress whose SECOND job is preceded by a second SHIFT at her FIRST job....
- In the shaky hand of the bus driver signing the paperwork for a payday loan....
- In the clenched jaws and stiff lips of working parents mustering brave faces in front of their son and daughter... in the STRAIN that goes into just hiding the fear that they won't be able to attain a better life.
- As wealth becomes more concentrated at the top, stories like these are becoming all too common.

- If unaddressed, the crisis will become THE defining characteristic of our societies... It won't be prosperity or opportunity... tragically, it will be inequality and the cost-of-living crisis.
- I know this Labour Party understands what's at stake.
- I also know the weight of this moment can feel like a burden: the exasperation that comes from knowing the gravity of this threat – a generation at risk of being forsaken – at a time when so many seem unwilling to act in response.
- The right side of history can feel like a lonely place.
But it isn't. It never has been.

- Rather, history itself tells us that people gravitate towards decency, inclusion and progress. And you don't have to look back thousands of years to see ~~it~~that – go walk around the streets of Manchester... Go to a school, a church, a mosque... You can see the trust people put in one another every day; the value people place in simple moral action.
- So why then is COLLECTIVE moral action often so difficult?

- In the case of the inequality and cost-of-living crisis, part of the issue is scope: the problem seems so difficult, so deeply embedded, that good people can be tempted to throw their hands up and declare that nothing can be done about it.
- But there's something else going on as well. As is the case with many injustices, there are people – small in number but oversized in power – who benefit from the status quo, and ~~they~~ work to maintain it. Their voices seem louder... more confident and authoritative... and those of everyday people get drowned out.
- In this way, people are made to feel powerless... made to feel that their voices s ~~doesn~~'t matter at all.

- So at the same time that inequality is skyrocketing and the cost of living is overwhelming – something people can see and feel every day – we’re told that just speaking of this problem is unconstructive, divisive... harmful, even.
- You know that it isn’t. So do the people of your country.
- Part of your job then is to help them find their voice to say – together – that Britons deserve something better.
- Sometimes people – good, hardworking people – need to hear the truth spoken before they feel comfortable speaking it themselves.

- And there's so much power that comes from speaking the truth... especially from speaking HARD truths.
- That's because the status quo gets perpetuated through a series of falsehoods...false CHOICES that assign mutual exclusivity to ideas that should be complementary.
- We're told that prosperity can't be both great, and shared....
- That you can't lift the floor for those struggling in a tough economy, and still balance a budget....

- That those of us who serve can't expect to achieve anything at all if we dare to advance policies that are bold and morally right.
- In the lead-up to the election for New York City Mayor last year, the voices of the status quo gave voters another false choice: support MY candidacy ...
OR vote for someone with a real shot at winning.
- Well, I am here before you today because the people of New York City rejected the lazy logic of false-choice politics.
- I want to tell you how it happened.

- I announced my candidacy for Mayor from the front steps of my home in Brooklyn in January 2013. A few hundred people were there with me... the earliest believers in our campaign.
- We were brought together by a deep concern: that New York had become a Tale of Two Cities; a place where a few were doing very well, but millions of working people were struggling.
- It threatened to degrade New York's status in the world.
- The beacon of opportunity that for generations shone so brightly across our five boroughs and out into the world was dimming.

- We saw it, we FELT it in our city.... Even if it was unspoken, we saw on our neighbors' faces: the weight of worry about a future of diminished possibilities.
- And we knew the policies of the status quo were exacerbating the problem rather than addressing it.
- But though our mission was in many ways somber, our mood that day was not. It was a grey, frigid afternoon, but the event had an aura of excitement and joy one would expect at a summer street party. It was no doubt a strange sight to those passing by.

- There was a feeling that something special was happening that made the chill tolerable. It came from having found in one another a group of people who spoke the same truth about our Tale of Two Cities...the harm it was doing.... the threat it posed.
- There was a sense of relief that came from learning we weren't alone in our beliefs... a lifting of lonely burdens.
- There was a powerful sense of MISSION that came from accepting a mutual responsibility to act, together, against this scourge... and a heartfelt faith that victory was achievable, no matter the odds.

- Now, the odds did appear quite long, at first. It felt like the total number of those in the city who had HEARD of me was limited to those standing in front of my home that day... And my house is not very big.
- And not only were other candidates for mayor better known, they espoused ideas that were seen as more politically practical, hewing to the familiarity of the status quo.
- But it was never my intention to nibble around the edges with policies of timid maintenance; I ran to take dead aim at the crisis of our time. And I became

Mayor because everyday New Yorkers, too, were hungry for a clean break from the status quo.

- Our campaign was powered by people of every race, every age, every income bracket. And yes, even many New Yorkers who had enjoyed great success joined our fight against rising inequality. They wanted the next generation of New Yorkers to have the same opportunities the city had given them.

- We were a small group, at first, but as New Yorkers learned that we were fighting for a government that would represent THEIR values -- fairness, justice, real opportunity for all – our campaign grew. And grew...
And grew.
- We worked – together – as activists, to spread the word.
- And so, in living rooms and parks... on Twitter and Facebook... people were hearing from one another, for the first time things they already knew in their own hearts to be true... and they were learning the POWER that could come when they themselves spoke out.

- THAT is how in a matter of months we went from a few hundred souls gathered on that blustery Brooklyn day, to not just winning, but winning BIG on ELECTION day.
- And our shared resolve to remake our city didn't end when the votes were tallied.
- The same tenets that defined our campaign now drive our Administration: a constant push for bold action; a willingness to hear and speak hard truths; an agenda set by listening to the PEOPLE.
- With regard to my absolute highest priority, that's meant working aggressively to secure unprecedented access to free, full day – FULL DAY -- early education programs for 4-year-olds.

- We did this because study after study shows the great equalizing effect of early education. But you don't need to read an academic journal to get that: we all know access to quality education does so much to determine a person's economic destiny... and as with most matters of destiny, timing is everything.
- Now, to give you some context on the politics we faced when trying to expand full-day early education for all families, I'd like to read you two assessments

from New York newspapers, published almost exactly one year apart.

- In September 2013, a few months before I was elected Mayor... the New York Daily News wrote QUOTE “[The] promise to create 48,000 educational slots for four-year-olds...has little chance of becoming a reality.”
- Then, in September 2014, in The New York Times QUOTE “51,000 Answer de Blasio’s Bell for New Pre-K.”
- Now, the 51,000 there refers to the number of kids who have been signed up for these programs. That’s three thousand MORE than the number said to be impossible just one year ago.

- It also means that 51,000 beautiful children are on a better path to success... And all of their mothers and fathers... grandparents and guardians... they get to experience the comfort... the joy... that comes from seeing the shine of brighter futures.
- It's hard to express how much that means for the working people of our city. But it's also not all we've done in our first few months in office.
- We've launched a plan to secure affordable housing for 500,000 New Yorkers over the next decade.

That's more than the total population of Bristol... Or of Miami, for anyone watching back home.

- We ended what had been one of the saddest manifestations of inequality by reforming racially biased police practices so that ALL law-abiding New Yorkers are granted the basic right of walking down the street without fear of being hassled by authorities.

- And we've done all of this while reaching agreement on a contract with our city teachers – educators who had gone without a contract for nearly five years. In all that time, the good men and women charged with safeguarding the futures of our children had enjoyed little security when it came to their own futures.

- We made a deal grounded in partnership and mutual respect, because RESPECT for working men and women is a core principle that all GOOD governments live by. It was a fair deal for teachers – offering increased pay that they greatly deserved. But it also generated important savings that labor was a partner in achieving. Put simply: it was a good deal for the people of New York.
- So if anyone tells you that a balanced budget and an agenda of economic fairness can't go hand-in-hand, tell them to come visit New York City.

- Really, it's beautiful this time of year.
- I notice so many similarities between the UK I see today and the New York where I stood on that cold morning and announced my candidacy.
- It comes through so clearly, even across great physical distance: the people of the UK are ready for bold, progressive change.
- And if we can make the strides that we've made in New York City from a campaign so humble in its origins, imagine the feats that can come from this great hall!

- The work you have in front of you is so important.

And the evidence of that is the other side is trying to talk you into underestimating the reach of the good you can do.

- There is little basis for glib assertion from the Conservatives that a progressive agenda is narrow in terms of whose lives it would improve.
- The opposite is true. Mounting disparities in income create ripple effects that undermine our whole societies. Here's just one example of how:

- The Financial Times recently concluded that the income gap between America's richest and poorest metropolitan regions is ~~not only~~ the widest it has ever been, ~~but~~ AND that this phenomenon is ~~was~~ QUOTE "shaping an uneven housing recovery that threatens to hold back the broader revival of the world's largest economy."
- In an increasingly interconnected world, a system grounded in exclusivity is not sustainable for ANYONE, including those at the very top.

- But that also means a progressive agenda has the power to HELP EVERYONE, whether your opponents ACKNOWLEDGE it or not.
- Don't hold your breath waiting for this conservative government to do that. Their top-down policies are making things harder for working people every day.
- Among the many ways they've aggravated the wounds of this crisis, the most painful might be their tax code.
- Instead of giving working families the leg-up they deserve, they gave billions of tax cuts to the wealthiest with the vague hope that money would magically trickle down to everyone else. In my country, that's an approach we call voodoo economics.

- I have no doubt the word “voodoo” sounds more elegant in a British accent than an American one, but in any intonation, we know it’s a policy that doesn’t work.
- So let me tell you about what does work. And you don’t have to look far to see it. In fact, you heard it at your own conference last evening.
- Ed Miliband has so clearly articulated both the challenges, and the opportunities this moment in history creates for the British people.

- He knows that a cautious approach won't do when it comes to addressing the crisis of our time. He has a BOLD vision for big change. As he said last night: "I'm not talking about changing a policy, or simply a different programme. But something that is bigger: transforming the idea, the ethic, of how our country is run."
- And he knows well what needs to be done. As he told this conference LAST YEAR: "We have to rebuild anew One Nation. An economy built on your success, a society based on your values, a politics that hears your voice – rich and poor alike – accepting their responsibilities to each other.”

- Ed Miliband will be a Prime Minister for Britons with second jobs, not just for those with second homes.
- Ed Miliband understands -- this Labour Party understands – the true cost of a status quo that puts a barrier between working people and prosperity.
- And this Labour Party not only has the right values, it has an agenda that translates values into action. Not political talk, but a real plan that reforms the crux of the economy.

- Labour has a plan for a tax code that rewards hard work over existing wealth and power. A plan to end the current government's 3 billion pound tax cut for the wealthiest and instead give tax relief to 24 million middle and working class people....
- A plan that protects and STRENGTHENS – not curtails – the NHS so that quality healthcare remains a right and not a privilege...
- A plan that puts working people ahead of big corporations by controlling energy costs, and taking unprecedented steps to make housing more affordable.

- And a plan that significantly increases – to 25 hours a week – free child care to working parents of 3- and 4-year olds, so that ALL kids can get on a path to success and opportunity early.

- I speak from personal experience when I say that this initiative in particular has the power to lift lives like few others that governments can implement. And it will make such a difference, for so many children.

- Your agenda is a blueprint of what a fairer, more prosperous, STRONGER United Kingdom will look like.
- That is not only why you MUST win, it is why you WILL win!
- The upcoming election represents a choice for the people of your country: build a United Kingdom that rewards hard work and ensures the next generation does better... Or continue down a path of growing inequality and rising cost of living.

- To me, that choice is very clear, as I know it is to the people in this room... and as I know it will become to everyday people across this country.
- But to those on the other side, who argue things work BETTER when opportunity is scarce and exclusive, I offer this thought: not even DARWIN was a social Darwinist.
- Indeed, Charles Darwin, one of the greatest minds that yours or any country ever produced, put it this way:
“If the misery of the poor be caused not by the laws of nature, but by our institutions, great is our sin.”

- Among the cruelest false choices we are given is one that says we can only move forward if some are left behind. You don't need to accept that. No one should.
- The work ahead of you will be anything but easy... I can assure you of that. That distinct histories written on opposite ends of an ocean leave us, at this moment, facing essentially the same crisis – underscores its profound scale.

- But you have the power to overcome it.
- If you reject the cold complacency of the status quo, its power will erode.
- If you speak hard truths, others will listen.
- If you empower the people of your great country to speak THEIR truths, to stand up and TO ACT in the face of this crisis, then there is so much good that you can achieve, together.
- And I believe you will.
- Thank you!

From: Kallen, Laurel
To: "jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Re: Urgent Proofreading
Date: Wednesday, September 24, 2014 6:08:17 AM

You're very welcome. Let me know if you need anything else.
Please excuse my smart phone's smart alecky spelling, punctuation, and grammar.

----- Original Message -----

From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, September 24, 2014 05:34 AM
To: Kallen, Laurel
Subject: Re: Urgent Proofreading

Great catch - thanks so much for everything!
On Sep 24, 2014, at 4:01 AM, Kallen, Laurel <LKallen@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

> <LabourSpeechDraft28 ed LK wed354.docx>

From: Jon Fromowitz
To: Martinez Blanco, Frankie
Subject: Speech
Date: Wednesday, September 24, 2014 6:51:19 AM

Just want to make sure you/MBDB have the draft I sent at 10:30PM Eastern last night to your gmail... and that everything is ok out there. Let me know and thanks!

From: Mahen Gunaratna
To: Ragone, Peter; P RAGONE; Frankie Martinez; Martinez Blanco, Frankie
Cc: Jon Fromowitz; PhilWalzak [REDACTED]
Subject: One Very Minor Edit (If Not Too Late)
Date: Wednesday, September 24, 2014 9:25:11 AM

He's probably going on stage at any moment now, but I wanted to see if we could change the third-to-last bullet from "If you empower the people of your great country" to "If you empower the people of your great nation".

UK is a nation as opposed to the countries of England/Scotland/Wales/Northern Ireland.

Probably too late, but figured I'd send along.

-Mahen

From: Jon Fromowitz
To: Kallen, Laurel
Subject: Re: Urgent Proofreading
Date: Wednesday, September 24, 2014 4:12:03 PM

Sorry for the delayed response — been catching up on a week unread emails... and thank you so much for the late night (early morning?) proofing. Can't tell you how big of help you were.

Appreciate your kind words also. He did a great job delivering— on the wrong side of a redeye no less!

I'm clear the rest of the afternoon if you want to give me a buzz: [REDACTED]

On Sep 24, 2014, at 10:26 AM, Kallen, Laurel <LKallen@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

> Jon,
>
> Watched the speech -- and I don't think it could have gone better! (This apparent in social media responses, too.) I'd like to give you a call at your convenience today. Let me know a good time.
>
> Thanks.
>
> Laurel
>
> Laurel Kallen
> Speechwriter
> Office of the Mayor
> The City of New York
> Office: 212 341 5391
> Cell: 917 655 7578
> lkallen@cityhall.nyc.gov
>
>
>
>
> -----Original Message-----
> From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
> Sent: Wednesday, September 24, 2014 5:35 AM
> To: Kallen, Laurel
> Subject: Re: Urgent Proofreading
>
> Great catch - thanks so much for everything!
> On Sep 24, 2014, at 4:01 AM, Kallen, Laurel <LKallen@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>
>> <LabourSpeechDraft28 ed LK wed354.docx>
>

From: Horsford, Meredith
To: "John Del Cecato"
Subject: RE: Vision for Gracie Mansion
Date: Friday, September 26, 2014 10:08:09 AM
Attachments: image001.png
image002.png
image003.png

Thanks John.

Meredith S. Horsford
Executive Director
The Gracie Mansion Conservancy
East End Avenue at 88th Street
New York, NY 10128
phone (212) 570-0985
fax (212) 312-0894
email mhorsford@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Friday, September 26, 2014 10:00 AM
To: Horsford, Meredith
Subject: Re: Vision for Gracie Mansion

<http://www.urbanresearchmaps.org/comparinator/pluralitymap.htm>

<http://www.nysonglines.com>

From: <Horsford>, Meredith <MHorsford@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Thursday, September 18, 2014 at 10:41 AM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: Liz Hegarty <lhegarty@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: Vision for Gracie Mansion

Hi John-

Thanks so much for talking with me on Monday. I typed up some notes from our conversation. I know you wanted to give this some more thought and then touch base again. Let me know what your availability is. Thanks very much.

Meredith

Meredith S. Horsford
Executive Director
The Gracie Mansion Conservancy
East End Avenue at 88th Street
New York, NY 10128
phone (212) 570-0985
fax (212) 312-0894

email mhorsford@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Thursday, September 11, 2014 7:54 PM
To: Horsford, Meredith
Cc: Liz Hegarty
Subject: Re: Vision for Gracie Mansion

Sure thing - let's talk next week... adding Liz for scheduling

From: <Horsford>, Meredith <MHorsford@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Thursday, September 11, 2014 at 5:07 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: Vision for Gracie Mansion

Thanks John. The version that you saw hasn't been altered yet and thank you for forwarding your notes. If you have a few minutes maybe next week we could chat? Now that I have had an opportunity to speak further with FLONYC about the house, I would so appreciate your input. The First Lady would like to talk more about what stories we should tell at Gracie, what do we want the take away to be for visitors, who is our target audience, etc.

Meredith S. Horsford
Executive Director
The Gracie Mansion Conservancy
East End Avenue at 88th Street
New York, NY 10128
phone (212) 570-0985
fax (212) 312-0894
email mhorsford@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Thursday, September 11, 2014 4:30 PM
To: Horsford, Meredith
Subject: Re: Vision for Gracie Mansion

Hey Meredith... Welcome aboard! I sent Rachel a few small notes on a version I saw a week ago - unless that's changed since? Will forward email

From: <Horsford>, Meredith <MHorsford@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Thursday, September 11, 2014 at 4:24 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Vision for Gracie Mansion

John-

The First Lady asked that I connect with you regarding Gracie Mansion. I am the relatively new Executive Director of the Gracie Mansion Conservancy. The First Lady, Rachel and I along with a few other folks have been discussing the vision for Gracie Mansion moving forward. A large part of this is the tour program. In the past, Gracie Mansion was visited by quite a lot of school groups (particularly second grade groups) here to learn about the Revolutionary War, the Dutch, 18th century homes, etc. as well as general public tours and specialty tours. But as I'm sure you know, the Mayor and the First Lady are very interested in creating a new vision in their home which is very exciting.

Attached is a proposal that we put together as a starting point to this conversation with the First Lady, which I believe Rachel has shared with you. I then had a follow up meeting with FLONYC this week and got some feedback from her. She suggested that I touch base with you to get your feedback as well as that of a few other people and then the idea would be for us all to sit down together and brainstorm. Rachel shared a few of your thoughts with me but I was wondering if you and I could set up a time to discuss some ideas for the larger plan/vision for Gracie further. Thanks very much.

Meredith

Meredith S. Horsford
Executive Director
The Gracie Mansion Conservancy
East End Avenue at 88th Street
New York, NY 10128
phone (212) 570-0985
fax (212) 312-0894
email mhorsford@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Horsford, Meredith
To: "Liz Hegarty"
Subject: RE: Vision for Gracie Mansion
Date: Friday, September 26, 2014 12:22:02 PM
Attachments: image001.png
image002.png
image003.png

You too!

Meredith S. Horsford
Executive Director
The Gracie Mansion Conservancy
East End Avenue at 88th Street
New York, NY 10128
phone (212) 570-0985
fax (212) 312-0894
email mhorsford@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Liz Hegarty [<mailto:lhegarty@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Friday, September 26, 2014 10:43 AM
To: Horsford, Meredith
Subject: Re: Vision for Gracie Mansion

Glad to hear it. Have a great weekend!

From: <Horsford>, Meredith <MHorsford@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Friday, September 26, 2014 at 9:41 AM
To: Liz Hegarty <lhegarty@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: Vision for Gracie Mansion

Hi Liz

No problem. We talked already. Thanks for following up.

Meredith

Meredith S. Horsford
Executive Director
The Gracie Mansion Conservancy
East End Avenue at 88th Street
New York, NY 10128
phone (212) 570-0985
fax (212) 312-0894
email mhorsford@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Liz Hegarty [<mailto:lhegarty@akpdmedia.com>]

Sent: Friday, September 26, 2014 10:41 AM
To: Horsford, Meredith
Subject: Re: Vision for Gracie Mansion

Hi Meredith—

So sorry, John got tied up. He should be giving you a call shortly. Please let me know if you don't hear from him soon.

Thanks!

Liz

From: <Horsford>, Meredith <MHorsford@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Friday, September 26, 2014 at 8:36 AM
To: Liz Hegarty <lhegarty@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: Vision for Gracie Mansion

Hi Liz-

Just wanted to let you know that I'm ready to talk when John is free. (212) 570-0985 or I'm happy to initiate the call.

Meredith

Meredith S. Horsford
Executive Director
The Gracie Mansion Conservancy
East End Avenue at 88th Street
New York, NY 10128
phone (212) 570-0985
fax (212) 312-0894
email mhorsford@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Liz Hegarty [<mailto:lhegarty@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, September 24, 2014 11:36 AM
To: Horsford, Meredith
Subject: Re: Vision for Gracie Mansion

Great, confirmed. Thanks!

From: <Horsford>, Meredith <MHorsford@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Wednesday, September 24, 2014 at 10:30 AM
To: Liz Hegarty <lhegarty@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: Vision for Gracie Mansion

Perfect. Thank you!

Meredith S. Horsford
Executive Director
The Gracie Mansion Conservancy
East End Avenue at 88th Street
New York, NY 10128
phone (212) 570-0985
fax (212) 312-0894
email mhorsford@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Liz Hegarty [<mailto:lhegarty@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, September 24, 2014 11:05 AM
To: Horsford, Meredith
Subject: Re: Vision for Gracie Mansion

9:30 on Friday is perfect. Should I have John give you a ring at (212) 570-0985?

From: <Horsford>, Meredith <MHorsford@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Wednesday, September 24, 2014 at 9:50 AM
To: Liz Hegarty <lhegarty@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: Vision for Gracie Mansion

Hi Liz-

Would either 9:30 am or 12:30 pm ET work on Friday? Thanks.

Meredith

Meredith S. Horsford
Executive Director
The Gracie Mansion Conservancy
East End Avenue at 88th Street
New York, NY 10128
phone (212) 570-0985
fax (212) 312-0894
email mhorsford@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Liz Hegarty [<mailto:lhegarty@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, September 23, 2014 4:01 PM
To: Horsford, Meredith
Subject: Re: Vision for Gracie Mansion

Hi Meredith,

Apologies for the delayed response. Is there a time on Friday that might work well for you? Maybe we could try for 10 or 11 ET?

Thanks,

Liz

—

Liz Hegarty

Executive Assistant
AKPD Message and Media
Office: 312-664-7500
Cell: 203-482-6229
lhgart@akpdmedia.com

From: <Horsford>, Meredith <MHorsford@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Date: Thursday, September 18, 2014 at 9:41 AM

To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>

Cc: Liz Hegarty <lhgart@akpdmedia.com>

Subject: RE: Vision for Gracie Mansion

Hi John-

Thanks so much for talking with me on Monday. I typed up some notes from our conversation. I know you wanted to give this some more thought and then touch base again. Let me know what your availability is. Thanks very much.

Meredith

Meredith S. Horsford
Executive Director
The Gracie Mansion Conservancy
East End Avenue at 88th Street
New York, NY 10128
phone (212) 570-0985
fax (212) 312-0894
email mhorsford@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]

Sent: Thursday, September 11, 2014 7:54 PM

To: Horsford, Meredith

Cc: Liz Hegarty

Subject: Re: Vision for Gracie Mansion

Sure thing - let's talk next week... adding Liz for scheduling

From: <Horsford>, Meredith <MHorsford@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Date: Thursday, September 11, 2014 at 5:07 PM

To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>

Subject: RE: Vision for Gracie Mansion

Thanks John. The version that you saw hasn't been altered yet and thank you for forwarding your notes. If you have a few minutes maybe next week we could chat? Now that I have had an opportunity to speak further with FLONYC about the house, I would so appreciate your input. The First Lady would like to talk more about what stories we should tell at Gracie, what do we want the take away to be for visitors, who is our target audience, etc.

Meredith S. Horsford
Executive Director
The Gracie Mansion Conservancy
East End Avenue at 88th Street
New York, NY 10128
phone (212) 570-0985
fax (212) 312-0894
email mhorsford@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]

Sent: Thursday, September 11, 2014 4:30 PM

To: Horsford, Meredith

Subject: Re: Vision for Gracie Mansion

Hey Meredith... Welcome aboard! I sent Rachel a few small notes on a version I saw a week ago - unless that's changed since? Will forward email

From: <Horsford>, Meredith <MHorsford@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Date: Thursday, September 11, 2014 at 4:24 PM

To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>

Subject: Vision for Gracie Mansion

John-

The First Lady asked that I connect with you regarding Gracie Mansion. I am the relatively new Executive Director of the Gracie Mansion Conservancy. The First Lady, Rachel and I along with a few other folks have been discussing the vision for Gracie Mansion moving forward. A large part of this is the tour program. In the past, Gracie Mansion was visited by quite a lot of school groups (particularly second grade groups) here to learn about the Revolutionary War, the Dutch, 18th century homes, etc. as well as general public tours and specialty tours. But as I'm sure you know, the Mayor and the First Lady are very interested in creating a new vision in their home which is very exciting.

Attached is a proposal that we put together as a starting point to this conversation with the First Lady, which I believe Rachel has shared with you. I then had a follow up meeting with FLONYC this week and got some feedback from her. She suggested that I touch base with you to get your feedback as well as that of a few other people and then the idea would be for us all to sit down together and brainstorm. Rachel shared a few of your thoughts with me but I was wondering if you and I could set up a time to discuss some ideas for the larger plan/vision for Gracie further.

Thanks very much.

Meredith

Meredith S. Horsford
Executive Director
The Gracie Mansion Conservancy
East End Avenue at 88th Street
New York, NY 10128
phone (212) 570-0985
fax (212) 312-0894
email mhorsford@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: B
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Cc: "jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Re: Manchester
Date: Sunday, September 28, 2014 9:42:05 PM

BUT I learned once again that we need to write even shorter speeches, because they always take longer in practice. The delivery was solid, but I should have spoken for at least 10 minutes less

----- Original Message -----

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Sunday, September 28, 2014 08:48 PM
To: B
Cc: Jon Fromowitz <jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Manchester

You kicked ass. Really well written and delivered. Thanks and congrats and kudos to you both!

I'll check in with our friends at Labour

> On Sep 28, 2014, at 6:23 PM, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>

>

> Fromo, I am long overdue to thank you for your extraordinary efforts on that speech. You did a fantastic job! I was able to riff off it because the idea and the core were so strong. Well done! And what did you think, JDC? Heard anything back from your colleagues at Labour? Thanks for all the energy you put into this in between filming dozens of ads :)

>

>

>

> ----- Original Message -----

> From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]

> Sent: Wednesday, September 24, 2014 10:28 AM

> To: B

> Subject: Manchester

>

> FWIW, I thought your delivery was fantastic. You looked and sounded natural and were untied to the book, but got all the right tones and hit some great notes on lines. Had a nice rhythm and build.

>

> It was hard to tell from the lifestream, but it looked to me like it played very well in the room.

>

> I aspire to someday look and sound that sharp doing anything the day after a redeye flight!!

From: Jon Fromowitz
To: B
Cc: Ragone, Peter
Subject: Re: Manchester
Date: Sunday, September 28, 2014 10:25:58 PM

Yes -- makes sense. Looking forward to the next opportunity to work with you!

On Sep 28, 2014, at 9:50 PM, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>
> I've finished watching the speech. The vast majority of it worked and, again, great credit to you, Jon. BUT there are still too many tangents, too many clever phrases, that take away from the flow and the progression. We should learn from this and make our next big speech briefer, tighter and even stronger

>
>
>
>
>

> ----- Original Message -----

> From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
> Sent: Sunday, September 28, 2014 07:44 PM
> To: B
> Cc: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
> Subject: Re: Manchester

>

> Very happy all went well, and glad to help. I feel like I grew a lot as a writer in the process, and it was so gratifying to see everything come together when you delivered.

>

> On Sep 28, 2014, at 7:22 PM, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>

>>

>> Fromo, I am long overdue to thank you for your extraordinary efforts on that speech. You did a fantastic job! I was able to riff off it because the idea and the core were so strong. Well done! And what did you think, JDC? Heard anything back from your colleagues at Labour? Thanks for all the energy you put into this in between filming dozens of ads :)

>>

>>

>>

>> ----- Original Message -----

>> From: Jon Fromowitz [<mailto:jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>]
>> Sent: Wednesday, September 24, 2014 10:28 AM
>> To: B
>> Subject: Manchester

>>

>> FWIW, I thought your delivery was fantastic. You looked and sounded natural and were untied to the book, but got all the right tones and hit some great notes on lines. Had a nice rhythm and build.

>>

>> It was hard to tell from the lifestream, but it looked to me like it played very well in the room.

>>

>> I aspire to someday look and sound that sharp doing anything the day after a redeye flight!!

>

From: Perez, Roberto
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: MAYOR DE BLASIO ANNOUNCES MAJOR SOLAR INVESTMENT AT CITY SCHOOLS, KEY COMPONENT OF NEW GREEN BUILDINGS PLAN
Date: Monday, September 29, 2014 2:03:28 PM

MAYOR DE BLASIO ANNOUNCES MAJOR SOLAR INVESTMENT AT CITY SCHOOLS, KEY COMPONENT OF NEW GREEN BUILDINGS PLAN

New installations, funded by City and NY-Sun Initiative, are first step toward 100 MW of new solar on City-owned buildings and long-term goal of 80 percent reduction in greenhouse gas emissions by 2050

NEW YORK—Today, Mayor de Blasio announced a major investment in solar power at City schools, funding 24 installations as part of the administration’s new green buildings plan (One City, Built to Last), tripling the amount of solar currently planned on City-owned buildings, and marking another step forward as the City works to dramatically reduce its contributions to climate change.

The 24 new installations will be funded by the City, as well as by the New York State Energy Research and Development Authority (NYSERDA) under Governor Andrew M. Cuomo’s NY-Sun Initiative. The $28 million investment includes $23 million in City funds and an estimated $5 million in grants from NYSERDA. The Department of Citywide Administrative Services (DCAS) and the New York Power Authority will implement the projects, in partnership with the Department of Education (DOE). The planned 6.25 MW of solar power at these 24 installations will result in a reduction of more than 2,800 metric tons of greenhouse gas emissions a year, the equivalent of taking over 600 cars off the road every year. The solar installations will be paired with an environmental curriculum plan, including dashboards and web portals where students can track in real time what the systems are generating and the amount of emissions that have been offset, and undertake related analyses of the systems’ impacts.

The Mayor made the announcement outside the John F. Kennedy Educational Campus, which is home to a rooftop solar installation that will serve as an innovative and cost-effective model for installing solar.

The new solar projects are part of a larger commitment announced at the start of Climate Week. Last week, Mayor de Blasio announced that New York City is committed to an 80 percent reduction in its greenhouse gas (GHG) emissions over 2005 levels by 2050, charting a long-term path for investment in renewable sources of energy and a total transition from fossil fuels. This commitment starts with the sweeping green buildings plan announced last week.

One City, Built to Last focuses on dramatically reducing emissions from buildings, which account for nearly three-quarters of the City’s GHG emissions. The Mayor has committed to retrofitting every single City-owned building with significant energy use by 2025, including installing 100 MW of solar power.

Additionally, the City will spur private building to invest in efficiency upgrades, including by providing ambitious interim targets and incentives and implementing mandates if targets are not met. In particular, the City plans to catalyze an additional 250 MW of solar power on private buildings.

Last week's announcement can be read in full here: <http://on.nyc.gov/1rDBmEy>

“These 24 new solar installations at our schools mark a significant step forward, tripling the amount of solar currently on City buildings—but they’re also just the tip of the iceberg when it comes to how we’ll dramatically reduce our contributions to climate change,” said Mayor Bill de Blasio. “In the next 10 years, we’ll retrofit every single public building with significant energy use, and catalyze the private sector to begin to do the same, charting a path toward an 80 percent reduction in emissions by 2050 and a total transition from fossil fuels. Our very future is at stake, and New York must continue to lead the way.”

“The rooftop solar installation that we stand in front of today is really a down payment on the ambitious public and private building energy retrofit initiative that the Mayor unveiled last week. Projects like this will be replicated many times over as the plan moves forward,” said Bill Goldstein, Senior Advisor to the Mayor for Recovery, Resiliency, and Infrastructure.

“The City’s comprehensive response to the risks of climate change includes both sustainability and resiliency actions,” said Daniel Zarrilli, Director of the Mayor’s Office of Recovery and Resiliency and acting Director of the Mayor’s Office of Long-Term Planning and Sustainability. “Today’s announcement expands rooftop solar power on City school buildings and is a critical step along a long-term path away from fossil fuels in order to avoid the most destructive impacts from climate change.”

“These schools will serve as laboratories for learning as students develop habits for protecting our natural resources, and then carry these lessons forward. Teaching children to be environmental stewards is crucial as they have a critical role in making sure that New York is sustainable for centuries to come. Our New York City schools are showcases for being good everyday citizens, and this is what we need our children to be—good everyday citizens now and in the future,” said Schools Chancellor Carmen Fariña.

“DCAS is proud to lead the implementation of the Mayor’s plan to ensure that all of the City’s public buildings are models for sustainability,” said Stacey Cumberbatch, Commissioner of the Department of Citywide Administrative Services. “These new solar installations at New York City schools will save over $1.7 million in annual electricity costs.”

“Merely a week after this administration unveiled its innovative One City, Built to Last initiative, this solar installation project proves a significant first step in establishing the Mayor’s commitment towards achieving an 80 percent emissions reduction by 2050,” said Department of Buildings Commissioner Rick D. Chandler. “Solar panels can be a cost-effective solution for reducing emissions, lowering utility bills and reducing strain on the City’s electrical grid. The Department of Buildings is dedicated to working closely with businesses and homeowners that want to increase their building’s energy efficiency with the installation of solar panels.”

“This vital investment will serve future students and beyond by continuing to grow and expand the next generation of our school’s infrastructure and sustainability. Mayor de Blasio’s ambitious plan will create a truly sustainable City, one that protects the future of our children. The School Construction Authority is excited to be a part of making this a reality,” said Lorraine Grillo, President of the School Construction Authority.

“The 80 by 50 goal is bold, achievable, and smart,” notes Jeffrey D. Sachs, Director of the Earth Institute at Columbia University and senior UN advisor on global energy. “The Mayor’s plan will keep New York City highly competitive as the world transitions to a low-carbon future. NYC’s low-carbon strategies will flourish not only at home but will promote high-tech exports to cities around the world.”

“Eighty percent by 2050—here we come!” said Andy Darrell, Chief of Strategy for U.S. Climate and Energy at Environmental Defense Fund. “Solar for schools is exactly the kind of investment we need today to turn the corner on climate change tomorrow. The price of solar has fallen dramatically—what a great way to deliver clean, affordable and resilient energy for our kids.”

“The Mayor’s plan provides a bold, decisive blueprint for climate action that will bring so many benefits to our communities, including reduced energy costs, more affordable homes, healthier air, and much-needed jobs,” said Raya Salter, Senior Utility Advocate at the Natural Resources Defense Council. “The initiative announced today to put solar on our city’s schools will not only help to ensure a much more sustainable future for New York City’s children, but will also provide an amazing real-world educational opportunity for our students. Mayor de Blasio’s leadership on the critical issue of climate change sets a strong example that we hope other cities will follow.”

“We know that solar projects at schools get students hooked on science and math. Equally important, they show our students—in clear, concrete ways—that they can create a cleaner city and world. Solar energy projects are a win-win, for our students and for New York City,” said Michael Mulgrew, president of the United Federation of Teachers.

“These 24 cost-saving solar installations are a win for our grid infrastructure, a win for our schools, and a win for the environment,” said Steven Spinola, President of The Real Estate Board of New York. “We want to thank Mayor de Blasio and NYSERDA for their commitment to sustainability. In a city with increasing energy demands and limited supply sources—devoting investment and leveraging public resources for renewable energy are among the smartest steps towards energy efficiency New York can make.”

“The business community shares the Mayor’s commitment to alternative energy as a major component of public and private sector efforts to reduce New York’s carbon footprint,” said Kathryn Wylde, President & CEO, Partnership for New York City.

“We must make every effort to produce renewable energy, and reduce greenhouse gases. The best way to wean ourselves off of foreign oil and fossil fuels is to create a partnership between the private and public sector, and to develop green programs that will supply our future energy needs. I commend Mayor de Blasio for taking bold steps to transform 24 public schools into green energy buildings, while educating our children about the need to protect our environment,” said Congressman Eliot Engel, the senior New York member on the House Energy and Commerce Committee.

“Today’s announcement is welcoming news in our District, where we have seen asthma rates exceed the national average. I applaud Mayor de Blasio for making smart investments to address the growing dangers of climate change, which is a real threat to the health, environment and economy of our City, State and planet. I am proud that he recognizes JFK High School as a successful model for installing solar power in our schools, and look forward to fully supporting his endeavors to provide the best environment for our children's future,” said Congressman Charles Rangel.

“New York City can and will be the premiere leader in countering the effects of climate change by implementing the City’s ambitious green buildings plan. I commend Mayor de Blasio for this bold and powerful initiative and commit to working with the administration and New York’s public and private sectors to help implement it. Together, we can build a city that’s greener, cleaner, and more efficient than ever,” said Public Advocate Letitia James.

“As a resident of the first municipal building to have a green roof—the Bronx County Building—I am thrilled to see this administration expand its commitment to energy efficiency to include even more municipal buildings and school buildings through greater installation of solar panels, such as those right here at the John F. Kennedy High School campus. A greener city is a healthier city, and Mayor de Blasio’s commitment to those goals is clearly strong. I look forward to continuing to work with his administration to further ‘green’ not just The Bronx, but the entire city,” said Bronx Borough President Ruben Diaz Jr.

“I support Mayor de Blasio’s effort to build a greener city—and help set an example for the non-governmental sector. Meeting the many challenges of reducing our carbon footprint to reduce climate change starts with us all,” said Manhattan Borough President Gale A. Brewer.

“It’s appropriate that New York City’s public schools will be the first set for installation of solar panels in Mayor de Blasio’s visionary plan to take on climate change by reducing greenhouse gas emissions. After all, it is the children attending our schools who are our future, and we must protect the environment for them. I applaud Mayor de Blasio’s quick action on this issue, which once again makes New York City a global leader in the fight against climate change,” said Senator Jeff Klein.

“Just over a week ago, Mayor de Blasio announced a serious, expansive commitment to ensure that New York City leads the way in the fight against climate pollution. I applaud the Mayor for following up with concrete action toward delivering on that commitment, by retrofitting our schools to make them more energy efficient. It is precisely this kind of transformative action that shows that the fight against climate change is not so much a burden as it is an opportunity, to do things better, cleaner, and cheaper and make our communities and our world more livable, equitable, and productive,” said Assemblyman Brian Kavanagh, Chair of the New York State Caucus of Environmental Legislators.

“Reducing climate change is one of the most important battles of our time. This initiative will have a real impact towards that goal, since the greatest sources of greenhouse gas emissions in New York City are buildings. I applaud Mayor de Blasio for providing such strong leadership in this fight and look forward to working together with him on this and other environmental initiatives,” said Assemblyman Jeffrey Dinowitz.

“Improving air quality and reducing the childhood asthma rate is a top priority for Upper Manhattan and Bronx communities, and today’s announcement brings us closer to this goal,” said Senator Adriano Espaillat. “Developing New York’s solar and renewable energy portfolio will cut carbon emissions, reduce taxpayer costs, and jumpstart economic development throughout the city. I’m thrilled to support this initiative, and proud that Marble Hill’s own John F. Kennedy High School has pioneered this low-cost solar model.”

“Today marks the beginning of a new dawn for New York City as we fully transition to utilizing renewable sources of energy,” said Council Member Donovan Richards, Chair of the Committee on Environmental Protection. “Following the de Blasio administration’s pledge to an 80 percent reduction in greenhouse gas emissions citywide by 2050, the conversion of municipal buildings affirms our commitment to shifting from a carbon-based economy to one that will sustain life for subsequent generations.”

“Today marks another step forward towards a more sustainable New York. Our city has become a leader in sustainable energy providing our nation with a model of how municipalities can address our changing climate. I commend the Mayor for his innovative initiative and look forward to its implementation starting here at JFK High School,” said Council Member Ydanis Rodriguez.

###

From: Perez, Roberto
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: De Blasio's Executive Order Will Expand Living Wage Law to Thousands More
Date: Tuesday, September 30, 2014 9:38:19 AM

De Blasio's Executive Order Will Expand Living Wage Law to Thousands More

By MATT FLEGENHEIMER SEPT. 29, 2014

Mayor Bill de Blasio, shown here in February, plans to lobby the State Legislature early next year to match the city's minimum wage to its living wage. Credit Richard Perry/The New York Times
Mayor Bill de Blasio plans to sign an executive order on Tuesday significantly expanding New York City's living wage law, covering thousands of previously exempt workers and raising the hourly wage itself, to $13.13 from $11.90, for workers who do not receive benefits.

The change is also intended to frame a looming debate in Albany, where Mr. de Blasio hopes to win the authority to set the citywide minimum wage at the same amount. If Mr. de Blasio succeeds in matching the minimum wage to the living wage, all hourly workers in the city would earn more than $15 by 2019, according to the city's projections.

The executive order will immediately cover employees of commercial tenants on projects that receive more than $1 million in city subsidies going forward. Workers who receive benefits such as health insurance will earn $11.50 an hour, compared with $10.30 before.

While cautioning that it was "notoriously difficult to develop projections related to economic development," the administration estimated that about 18,000 workers would be covered over the next five years, roughly 70 percent of all the jobs at businesses that will receive new financial assistance from the city's Economic Development Corporation.

The current living wage law, passed in 2012, has applied to about 1,200 jobs, officials say, excusing many retailers and companies that lease space as part of city-subsidized projects.

Administration officials cast the move as an extension of other policies aimed at reducing the wide gap between rich and poor, like the expansion of paid sick leave and the mayor's long-term plan to build more affordable housing.

"We cannot continue to allow rampant and growing income inequality," Mr. de Blasio said in an interview on Monday. "Every tool counts. If we reach 18,000 families with this tool and get them to a decent standard of living, that's a game-changer for those families."

The living wage law has long faced criticism for its limited reach: It has affected companies that directly receive city subsidies, but not those that are simply tenants in subsidized developments. It also specifically excluded part of the Hudson Yards development project on the Far West Side.

Mr. de Blasio's executive order will eliminate an exemption for future development at Hudson Yards. But some restrictions will still apply in other areas. The order will not affect businesses with gross income below $3 million, housing projects with more than 75 percent affordable units or manufacturers.

The city estimated that more than 4,000 workers to whom the law will apply over the next five years are employees in retail or fast-food businesses, earning close to the state's minimum wage of $8 an hour. For such workers, the change will increase annual income by about $10,000.

A more sweeping increase in the city's minimum wage, one of Mr. de Blasio's top goals in the coming months, will have to wait — but perhaps not for long. Mr. de Blasio, whose administration is working to help Democrats capture a majority in the State Senate, said he hoped the Legislature would take up the issue early next year.

Gov. Andrew M. Cuomo, who in February said that allowing local governments to set their own minimum wages would yield "a chaotic situation," seemed to have reversed himself months later. He said he would support a plan, advocated by the Working Families Party, that allowed municipalities with higher costs of living to set their own minimum wages.

As a result, the governor has endorsed an increase to $10.10 in the statewide minimum wage, with a provision allowing New York City and other areas to raise their minimums as much as 30 percent higher, to $13.13.

The shift by Mr. Cuomo was among several highlights this year for advocates of a higher minimum wage, which began with President Obama's support for a national minimum wage of $10.10 an hour. In June, Seattle became the first large city in America to approve a minimum wage of $15 an hour. Other cities, including Chicago and Los Angeles, have also advanced plans to increase their minimums.

It was this national momentum, Mr. de Blasio said, that altered the administration's plan to expand the living wage law by the end of February. The administration said it had at first expected only to broaden the scope of the law to cover more workers, not raise the wage itself.

"We originally anticipated building more narrowly upon the previous legislation," Mr. de Blasio said. "When we looked closely, we decided we needed to do a bigger overhaul."

Under the terms of the 2012 law, the living wage, which remains tied to inflation, increased in April to $11.90 for those without benefits — a figure Mr. de Blasio's team had expected to maintain in the near-term.

On Monday, groups who have long campaigned for a living wage expansion, like the New York City Central Labor Council and the Retail, Wholesale and Department Store Union, praised the planned executive order.

The measure also won the endorsement of the United States labor secretary, Thomas E. Perez, who predicted it would “make other cities take notice.”

But the Real Estate Board of New York, which opposed the 2012 living wage law, sounded a note of caution. The group’s president, Steven Spinola, said in a statement: “We hope the de Blasio administration will work with us on a number of concerns regarding this proposal’s impact and implementation.”

From: Carey, Michael
To: B
Cc: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; FLONYC
Subject: RE: John Del Cecato
Date: Tuesday, October 07, 2014 3:45:00 PM

Will do sir.

Michael Paul Carey
City Hall
New York, New York

-----Original Message-----

From: B
Sent: Tuesday, October 07, 2014 3:33 PM
To: Carey, Michael
Cc: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; FLONYC
Subject: John Del Cecato

I'd like to meet with John and his colleague Aaron Pickrell asap. John can work out with you when they're available. And ideally, would like Chirlane to join, if her schedule allows. This week or next pls. Gracie in the evening or first thing in the AM would be ideal. Thanks

From: B
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Carey, Michael
Cc: FLONYC
Subject: Re: John Del Cecato
Date: Tuesday, October 07, 2014 4:06:09 PM

I'm game if we can make this work, Michael. Otherwise, next week

----- Original Message -----

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, October 07, 2014 03:53 PM
To: B; Carey, Michael
Cc: FLONYC
Subject: Re: John Del Cecato

First thing on Friday morning (the 10th - this week) would be great for Pickrell and me

On 10/7/14, 12:33 PM, "B" <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>

>I'd like to meet with John and his colleague Aaron Pickrell asap. John >can work out with you when they're available. And ideally, would like >Chirlane to join, if her schedule allows. This week or next pls. Gracie >in the evening or first thing in the AM would be ideal. Thanks

>

From: Carey, Michael
To: "John Del Cecato"
Subject: RE: John Del Cecato
Date: Wednesday, October 08, 2014 11:39:33 AM

We are confirmed!

Michael Paul Carey
City Hall
New York, New York

-----Original Message-----

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, October 08, 2014 11:04 AM
To: Carey, Michael
Subject: Re: John Del Cecato

Yes, that's great - 830am on Thurs the 16th at Gracie

On 10/8/14, 10:03 AM, "Carey, Michael" <MPCarey@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>Can you do 830 AM?

>

>Michael Paul Carey

>City Hall

>New York, New York

>

>

>-----Original Message-----

>From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]

>Sent: Tuesday, October 07, 2014 8:28 PM

>To: Carey, Michael

>Subject: Re: John Del Cecato

>

>The morning of Thurs the 16th would work

>

>

>

>> On Oct 7, 2014, at 4:34 PM, Carey, Michael <MPCarey@cityhall.nyc.gov>

>>wrote:

>>

>> What time on Thursday?

>>

>> Michael Paul Carey

>> City Hall

>> New York, New York

>>

>>

>> -----Original Message-----

>> From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]

>> Sent: Tuesday, October 07, 2014 7:33 PM

>> To: Carey, Michael

>> Subject: Re: John Del Cecato

>>

>> Monday won't work. How about Wed or Thurs of next week?

>>

>>

>>
>>> On Oct 7, 2014, at 3:41 PM, Carey, Michael >>><MPCarey@cityhall.nyc.gov>
>>>wrote:
>>>
>>> ok
>>>
>>> Michael Paul Carey
>>> City Hall
>>> New York, New York
>>>
>>>
>>> -----Original Message-----
>>> From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
>>> Sent: Tuesday, October 07, 2014 6:39 PM
>>> To: Carey, Michael
>>> Subject: Re: John Del Cecato
>>>
>>> Aaron lives in Ohio so probably not but lemme check
>>>
>>>
>>>
>>>> On Oct 7, 2014, at 3:38 PM, Carey, Michael >>>><MPCarey@cityhall.nyc.gov>
>>>>wrote:
>>>>
>>>> Can you all do Monday night? I know it is a holiday.
>>>>
>>>> Michael Paul Carey
>>>> City Hall
>>>> New York, New York
>>>>
>>>>
>>>> -----Original Message-----
>>>> From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
>>>> Sent: Tuesday, October 07, 2014 6:37 PM
>>>> To: Carey, Michael
>>>> Subject: Re: John Del Cecato
>>>>
>>>> Roger that
>>>>
>>>>
>>>>
>>>>> On Oct 7, 2014, at 3:35 PM, Carey, Michael >>>>><MPCarey@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>>>>>
>>>>> Friday is a no
>>>>> Let me get back to you as the First Lady wants to join this >>>>>conversation.
>>>>>
>>>>> Michael Paul Carey
>>>>> City Hall
>>>>> New York, New York
>>>>>
>>>>>
>>>>> -----Original Message-----
>>>>> From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
>>>>> Sent: Tuesday, October 07, 2014 6:12 PM
>>>>> To: Carey, Michael
>>>>> Subject: Re: John Del Cecato

>>>>>
>>>>> Sounds good... 745am at Gracie?
>>>>>
>>>>> On 10/7/14, 2:49 PM, "Carey, Michael" <MPCarey@cityhall.nyc.gov>
>>>>>wrote:
>>>>>
>>>>> Define first thing in the morning... he has a 930 at CH that can >>>>> not be moved
>>>>>
>>>>> Michael Paul Carey
>>>>> City Hall
>>>>> New York, New York
>>>>>
>>>>>
>>>>> -----Original Message-----
>>>>> From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
>>>>> Sent: Tuesday, October 07, 2014 4:03 PM
>>>>> To: Carey, Michael
>>>>> Subject: Re: John Del Cecato
>>>>>
>>>>> I am - but Pickrell is the key person - since he's an >>>>>out-of-towner...
>>>>> He was going to be in town Friday morning - but if that doesn't >>>>>work for MBDB, we can try next week instead
>>>>>
>>>>>> On 10/7/14, 12:45 PM, "Carey, Michael"
>>>>>><MPCarey@cityhall.nyc.gov>
>>>>>>wrote:
>>>>>>
>>>>>> Hi John,
>>>>>>
>>>>>> Are you free on Thursday evening or Monday evening?
>>>>>>
>>>>>> Michael Paul Carey
>>>>>> City Hall
>>>>>> New York, New York
>>>>>>
>>>>>>
>>>>>> -----Original Message-----
>>>>>> From: B
>>>>>> Sent: Tuesday, October 07, 2014 3:33 PM
>>>>>> To: Carey, Michael
>>>>>> Cc: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; FLONYC
>>>>>> Subject: John Del Cecato
>>>>>>
>>>>>>
>>>>>> I'd like to meet with John and his colleague Aaron Pickrell asap.
>>>>>> John can work out with you when they're available. And ideally, >>>>>>would like Chirlane to join, if her schedule allows. This week or >>>>>>next pls.
>>>>>> Gracie in the evening or first thing in the AM would be ideal.
>>>>>> Thanks
>>>>>

From: Wolfe, Emma
To: B; Ragone, Peter
Cc: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; FLONYC
Subject: RE: Chirlane
Date: Tuesday, October 14, 2014 6:16:42 AM

Understood

From: B
Sent: Tuesday, October 14, 2014 6:16 AM
To: Wolfe, Emma; Ragone, Peter
Cc: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; FLONYC
Subject: Re: Chirlane

Ok, then... Maybe I'm wrong... But let's see how grotesque they are. They may be so bad that they demand a response

----- Original Message -----

From: Wolfe, Emma
Sent: Tuesday, October 14, 2014 03:48 AM
To: Ragone, Peter
Cc: B; jfdc@akpdmedia.com <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; FLONYC
Subject: Re: Chirlane

No

> On Oct 14, 2014, at 12:28 AM, Ragone, Peter <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>

> I'm all for it - will it help us win those seats?

>

> ----- Original Message -----

> From: B

> Sent: Monday, October 13, 2014 11:40 PM

> To: Ragone, Peter; Wolfe, Emma; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>

> Cc: FLONYC

> Subject: Chirlane

>

>

> If the info we're receiving is true, and Chirlane is about to be attacked in Republican State Senate mailings, then I propose a course of action: prep her and put her on MSNBC to defend herself. It will only make her stronger, and our enemies look weaker and more foolish. Let's do what we should have done when she was attacked by the tabloids for being a "bad mom." Let's release the tiger

>

From: Carey, Michael
To: "Liz Hegarty"
Subject: RE: John Del Cecato
Date: Wednesday, October 22, 2014 11:08:52 AM

Thank you!!!

Michael Paul Carey
City Hall
New York, New York

-----Original Message-----

From: Liz Hegarty [<mailto:lhgart@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, October 22, 2014 10:38 AM
To: Carey, Michael
Subject: Re: John Del Cecato

Great, confirmed for Saturday at 2 ET.

Conference Dial-in Number: [REDACTED] Access Code: [REDACTED]

I'll send you a calendar invite now.

Thanks!

On 10/22/14, 9:35 AM, "Carey, Michael" <MPCarey@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>That would be great!!!

>

>Thank you!!

>

>

>Michael Paul Carey

>City Hall

>New York, New York

>

>----- Original Message -----

>From: Liz Hegarty [<mailto:lhgart@akpdmedia.com>]

>Sent: Wednesday, October 22, 2014 10:34 AM

>To: Carey, Michael

>Subject: Re: John Del Cecato

>

>Hi Michael,

>

>Yes, that sounds great. Let me know if you'd like me to set up a >conference line.

>

>Thanks!

>

>Liz

><

>Liz Hegarty

>
>AKPD Message and Media
>Office: 312-664-7500
>Cell: 203-482-6229
>lhegarty@akpdmedia.com
>
>
>
>
>On 10/22/14, 8:56 AM, "Carey, Michael" <MPCarey@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>
>>Liz,
>>
>>Can he do Saturday around 2 pm?
>>
>>Michael Paul Carey
>>City Hall
>>New York, New York
>>
>>
>>-----Original Message-----
>>From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
>>Sent: Wednesday, October 22, 2014 9:35 AM
>>To: Carey, Michael; Liz Hegarty
>>Subject: Re: John Del Cecato
>>
>>Adding liz for my sked - but pretty open
>>
>>On 10/22/14, 9:15 AM, "Carey, Michael" <MPCarey@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>>
>>>What time can you do on Saturday?
>>>
>>>Michael Paul Carey
>>>City Hall
>>>New York, New York
>>>
>>>
>>>-----Original Message-----
>>>From: B
>>>Sent: Wednesday, October 22, 2014 12:06 AM
>>>To: Carey, Michael
>>>Cc: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'
>>>Subject: John Del Cecato
>>>
>>>
>>>Chirlane and I need a call with him scheduled for this weekend pls
>>
>

From: Carey, Michael
To: "Liz Hegarty"
Subject: RE: Call with John Del Cecato
Date: Friday, October 24, 2014 5:04:15 PM

Can he possibly do 3 pm

Michael Paul Carey
City Hall
New York, New York

From: Liz Hegarty [<mailto:lhgart@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Friday, October 24, 2014 4:09 PM
To: Carey, Michael
Subject: Re: Call with John Del Cecato

Hi Michael,

We completely understand. Thanks for the heads up. I'll follow up with you later this afternoon to confirm.

Best,

Liz

From: <Carey>, Michael <MPCarey@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Friday, October 24, 2014 at 3:06 PM
To: Liz Hegarty <lhgart@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: Call with John Del Cecato

Hi Liz,

I may have to move this call with all the developments going on. I hope to finalize in next few hours.

Michael Paul Carey
City Hall
New York, New York

-----Original Appointment-----

From: Liz Hegarty [<mailto:lhgart@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, October 22, 2014 10:39 AM
To: Carey, Michael; Liz Hegarty
Subject: Call with John Del Cecato
When: Saturday, October 25, 2014 2:00 PM-3:00 PM (UTC-05:00) Eastern Time (US & Canada).
Where: [REDACTED]

2 ET

From: Carey, Michael
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Re: Today
Date: Saturday, October 25, 2014 2:53:11 PM

We are still at presser

So stand by!

Michael Paul Carey
City Hall
New York, New York

----- Original Message -----

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Saturday, October 25, 2014 02:52 PM
To: Carey, Michael
Subject: Re: Today

 - thanks!

> On Oct 25, 2014, at 2:33 PM, Carey, Michael <MPCarey@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>
> John
>
> We are out still doing ebola related things. Will let you know if need to push back. Also I think they will be together now.
>
> What is best number for them to call directly?
>
>
> Michael Paul Carey
> City Hall
> New York, New York

From: Carey, Michael
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Date: Saturday, October 25, 2014 4:23:06 PM

What does the rest of your saturday look like? Sorry!!!
Michael Paul Carey
City Hall
New York, New York

From: Wolfe, Emma
To: B
Cc: Carey, Michael; Ragone, Peter; ifdc@akpdmedia.com; FLONYC
Subject: Re: Post-election
Date: Thursday, October 30, 2014 12:13:56 AM

Roger that

> On Oct 30, 2014, at 12:13 AM, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>
>
> Need call of all cc'ed here by sunday to discuss the immediate aftermath of the election. Thanks
>

From: Carey, Michael
To: "Liz Hegarty"
Subject: RE: Call on Monday
Date: Monday, November 03, 2014 2:44:22 PM

Confirmed!

Michael Paul Carey
City Hall
New York, New York

From: Liz Hegarty [<mailto:lhegarty@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Monday, November 03, 2014 2:44 PM
To: Carey, Michael
Subject: Re: Call on Monday

Hi Michael,

Hope you had a great weekend. Just confirming the call tonight at 7:30. Feel free to let me know if we need to adjust timing at all.

Thanks!

Liz

From: Liz Hegarty <lhegarty@akpdmedia.com>
Date: Friday, October 31, 2014 at 10:41 AM
To: "Carey, Michael" <MPCarey@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: Call on Monday

Great, thank you!

From: <Carey>, Michael <MPCarey@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Friday, October 31, 2014 at 11:38 AM
To: Liz Hegarty <lhegarty@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: Call on Monday

Mayor, First Lady, Peter Ragone, and Emma Wolfe

Michael Paul Carey
City Hall
New York, New York

From: Liz Hegarty [<mailto:lhegarty@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Friday, October 31, 2014 12:38 PM
To: Carey, Michael
Subject: Re: Call on Monday

Great, confirmed for 7:30 ET on Monday.

Conference Dial-in Number: [REDACTED]

Access Code: [REDACTED]

When you get a moment can you let me know who else will be on the call? Thanks!

From: <Carey>, Michael <MPCarey@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Date: Friday, October 31, 2014 at 11:34 AM

To: Liz Hegarty <lhegarty@akpdmedia.com>

Subject: RE: Call on Monday

Lets go with it.

Can you do a call in?

Michael Paul Carey
City Hall
New York, New York

From: Liz Hegarty [<mailto:lhegarty@akpdmedia.com>]

Sent: Friday, October 31, 2014 12:28 PM

To: Carey, Michael

Subject: Re: Call on Monday

Hi Michael,

Yep, sounds great! I'll place a hold on the calendar.

Thanks,

Liz

From: <Carey>, Michael <MPCarey@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Date: Friday, October 31, 2014 at 11:02 AM

To: Liz Hegarty <lhegarty@akpdmedia.com>

Subject: Call on Monday

Hi there!

Is JD free Monday at 730 PM for a conference calls to talk post Tuesday?

Michael Paul Carey
City Hall
New York, New York

From: Wolfe, Emma
To: Carey, Michael; Ragone, Peter; FLONYC; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Cc: Leopold, Elana
Subject: Re: Tonight's Call
Date: Monday, November 03, 2014 7:13:40 PM

Ok

From: Carey, Michael
Sent: Monday, November 03, 2014 07:13 PM
To: Ragone, Peter; FLONYC; Wolfe, Emma; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: Leopold, Elana
Subject: RE: Tonight's Call

All,

Sorry for the change, but the Mayor would like to do this call NOW:

Please dial in:

Conference Dial-in Number: ([REDACTED])
Access Code: [REDACTED]

Michael Paul Carey
City Hall
New York, New York

From: Carey, Michael
Sent: Monday, November 03, 2014 7:01 PM
To: Ragone, Peter; FLONYC; Wolfe, Emma; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'
Cc: Leopold, Elana
Subject: RE: Tonight's Call

Hello!

This call will happen closer to 830 PM.

Elana will advise when to get on the call.

Thanks!!

Michael Paul Carey
City Hall
New York, New York

From: Carey, Michael
Sent: Monday, November 03, 2014 5:56 PM
To: Ragone, Peter; FLONYC; Wolfe, Emma; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'
Cc: Leopold, Elana
Subject: Tonight's Call

Good Evening!

Tonight's call will now begin at 8 PM ET.

Call in is the same:

Conference Dial-in Number: ([REDACTED]

Access Code: [REDACTED]

Michael Paul Carey
City Hall
New York, New York

From: Carey, Michael
To: "Liz Hegarty"
Subject: RE: are you at the office
Date: Monday, November 03, 2014 7:26:50 PM

Thanks for your help!

Michael Paul Carey
City Hall
New York, New York

From: Liz Hegarty [mailto:lhegarty@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Monday, November 03, 2014 7:20 PM
To: Carey, Michael
Subject: Re: are you at the office

I'm actually at home. You can call my cell if you need anything: [REDACTED]

From: <Carey>, Michael <MPCarey@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Monday, November 3, 2014 at 6:18 PM
To: Liz Hegarty <lhegarty@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: are you at the office

Michael Paul Carey
City Hall
New York, New York

From: B
To: Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Cc: FLONYC
Subject: Fw: NYTimes.com: The Great Wage Slowdown, Looming Over Politics
Date: Tuesday, November 11, 2014 7:45:38 AM

We need to speak clearly to this

----- Original Message -----

From: Klein, Monica
Sent: Tuesday, November 11, 2014 07:39 AM
To: B
Subject: RE: NYTimes.com: The Great Wage Slowdown, Looming Over Politics

The Great Wage Slowdown, Looming Over Politics
NEW YORK TIMES - David Leonhardt

A quiz: How does the Democratic Party plan to lift stagnant middle-class incomes?

I realize that liberal-leaning economists can give a long, substantive answer to this question, touching on health care costs, education and infrastructure. But most Americans would not be able to give a clear answer — which helps explain why the party took such a drubbing last week.

The Democratic Party's short-term plan to help the middle class just isn't very clear. Some of the policies that Democrats favor, such as broader access to good education, take years to pay off. Others, like reducing medical costs or building new roads, have an indirect, unnoticed effect on middle-class incomes.

The fact remains that incomes for most Americans aren't growing very fast and haven't been for years. Median inflation-adjusted income last year was still $2,100 lower than when President Obama took office in 2009 — and $3,600 lower than when President George W. Bush took office in 2001. That's not just because of the financial crisis, either: Last month was another solid one for job growth and another weak one for average wage growth, the latest jobs report showed.

We're living through the great wage slowdown of the 21st century, and nothing presents a larger threat to the Democrats' electoral fortunes than that slowdown.

The Democratic Party fashions itself as the defender of working families, and low- and middle-income voters are indeed more favorably disposed to Democrats than to Republicans. Those voters have helped the party win the popular vote in five of the last six presidential elections. But if Democrats can't deliver rising living standards, many voters aren't going to remain loyal. They'll skip voting or give a chance to Republicans who offer an alternative, even a vague alternative.

As the 2016 presidential campaign begins to stir, the central question will be how both parties respond to the great wage slowdown. Neither has offered a persuasive answer so far — let alone a solution — which is why the public mood is so sour and American politics has been so tumultuous lately. The partisan makeup of the Senate has seesawed more over the past decade than in any time since just after World War II. The Republicans won big victories in 2004, 2010 and 2014, the Democrats in 2006, 2008 and 2012.

All the while, incomes keep stagnating, and nothing influences the national zeitgeist quite so much as income trends, for understandable reasons.

What can Washington do? The answers are very different for the short term and the long. Over years and decades, nothing matters more than economic growth. The last period of strong income gains — the late 1990s — was also the last period of strong economic growth.

Washington could definitely do more to help growth: better infrastructure, a less burdensome tax code, a less wasteful health care system, more bargaining power for workers and, above all, stronger schools and colleges, to lift the skills of the nation's work force. Countries that have made more educational progress over the last generation have experienced bigger income gains than the United States, and even here the pay gap between college graduates and everyone else has reached a record high.

Continue reading the main storyContinue reading the main storyContinue reading the main story
Yet no mix of these policies is likely to end the great wage slowdown anytime soon. "This is not a silver-bullet issue," says Gene Sperling, a longtime adviser to Bill and Hillary Clinton and Mr. Obama, "and that's part of what's frustrating to people." In fact, the country is making good progress on several of these issues, starting with health costs, but incomes are still stuck.

Politicians often like to boast that they've come up with bold ideas to solve economic problems and then package those ideas as new — a new deal, a new frontier, a new covenant. But most aren't really new. That's O.K., too. Truly new ideas don't come along very often in any field, including economics.

So it goes with lifting middle-class incomes. The best hope for doing so, in the immediate future, is probably the oldest and most obvious play in the book: a tax cut.

A few years ago, a middle-class tax cut would have seemed a silly idea. Both Mr. Bush and Mr. Obama had already cut taxes, and the federal budget deficit was enormous. But the deficit has since fallen sharply, thanks in part to lower health costs. Meanwhile, middle- and lower-income families are reaping a disproportionately small share of economic growth. Having the government try to rectify the situation doesn't sound so silly now — and probably won't in the 2016 presidential campaign.

Obviously, a tax cut doesn't need to be a Democratic idea. If anything, it's traditionally been more of a Republican one. But Republicans' first priority tends to be cutting the top marginal tax rate or the corporate tax rate, changes that mostly benefit the affluent households already doing pretty well. (And history is clear that such tax cuts rarely bring the economic benefits their advocates claim.)

Any presidential candidate — from either party — who can claim the mantle of middle-class tax cutter is likely to benefit from it. For that matter, you could imagine Mr. Obama or reform-minded Republicans in Congress proposing such a tax cut sooner.

The details could be straightforward. The cut could be temporary or permanent. It could involve a decline in marginal tax rates for the middle class or an expansion of tax credits. Mr. Sperling, for example, has suggested giving middle-class and poor families some of the same tax incentives to save for retirement that wealthy people have. Any one of these plans would raise people's effective income in a tangible way.

Because the long-term budget deficit remains a problem, any such tax cut could be paired with a tax increase for top earners, who — even after the expiration of some Bush-era tax cuts — still face lower rates than they have for most of recent history. "Taxes for high-earning Americans are too low," argues Roger Altman, the Wall Street executive and Democratic adviser. Most Americans favor tax increases on the well-off, polls show.

The model for such a combination, and for winning the political debate over it, is Mr. Obama's 2008 presidential campaign. He proposed higher taxes on top earners along with a larger middle-class tax cut than Senator John McCain, his opponent, did. By the campaign's end, polls showed that many voters understood this fact — and viewed the Democrats as the party of tax cuts.

A middle-class tax cut would not solve all of the country's economic problems. To be honest, it would worsen some of them — particularly the widespread notion that my taxes are too high and your government benefits are too high. In truth, federal taxes are still low from a historical perspective.

But after 15 years of disappointing income growth, many voters are skeptical of sophisticated economic plans with uncertain, long-term payoffs. They're looking for simple ideas that can help people immediately. The popularity of minimum-wage increases makes the point: Even as Democrats were going down to defeat nationwide, voters in five states handily approved such increases.

The challenge for the next election will be coming up with a version of the minimum-wage increase that applies to the middle class as well.

From: B
Sent: Tuesday, November 11, 2014 7:38 AM
To: Klein, Monica
Subject: Fw: NYTimes.com: The Great Wage Slowdown, Looming Over Politics

Pls send content

-----Original Message-----

From: Jean Wilhelm
Sender: Jean Wilhelm
To: Bill de Blasio
ReplyTo: John Wilhelm
Subject: NYTimes.com: The Great Wage Slowdown, Looming Over Politics
Sent: Nov 11, 2014 7:33 AM

The Democrats are too beholden to corporate money to understand, let alone say out loud, that this issue will not be resolved without unions. Of course, the Democrats don't want to talk about this issue at all, let alone how to address it. Sent by jwilhelm@unitehere.org: Incomes and Outcomes The Great Wage Slowdown, Looming Over Politics The lack of income growth over the last 15 years has become a defining national issue and is hurting Democrats.

Or, copy and paste this URL into your browser: <http://nyti.ms/1pLZh5S> To get unlimited access to all New York Times articles, subscribe today. See Subscription Options. To ensure delivery to your inbox, please add nytdirect@nytimes.com to your address book. Advertisement Copyright 2014 | The New York Times Company | NYTimes.com 620 Eighth Avenue New York, NY 10018

From: Wolfe, Emma
To: B
Cc: Katz, Rebecca; Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; jfdc@akpdmedia.com
Subject: Re: Chris Hayes
Date: Thursday, November 13, 2014 7:26:24 AM

Ok

> On Nov 13, 2014, at 6:56 AM, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>

>

> I like all these ideas and think you should pursue them all. And Emma can follow up today with Warren's chief of staff on any specific joint appearance ideas. If we do plan something with her, that's when I heads up Hillary -- Emma, pls remind. Just make sure whatever we do is a quality apperance and not a drive-by. And btw, Sharpton was much better at giving me time to get my idea out than Hayes was. I don't think we should have, in retrospect, accepted a slot on Hayes where my message and I were an after-thought. I think if they couldn't offer us better placement, we should have taken our business elsewhere. So I want urgency but certainly welcome you guys setting high standards.

Thanks

>

>

>

>

>

>

> ----- Original Message -----

> From: Katz, Rebecca

> Sent: Thursday, November 13, 2014 05:55 AM

> To: B

> Cc: Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil

> Subject: Re: Chris Hayes

>

> I was thinking about this too and you are right.

>

> Team was discussing ideas last night and here is just a start:

>

> What about seeing if we could carve out some real time on Newshour on Wednesday when you are down in DC? With Warren?

>

> Maybe go back to EJ (could do that in DC), Josh Marshall from TPM, Joan Walsh from Salon and KVH.

>

> And there may be a way to carve out more time with Stephanopoulos and get some interview time for GMA as well as next Sunday.

>

>

> Sent from my iPhone

>

>> On Nov 12, 2014, at 11:20 PM, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>>

>>

>> The more I think about it, the more disappointed I am. We deserved better treatment than that. We deserved better than 5-7 minutes with multiple topics. I really want to get our message out, but I'm not going to appear places that don't give us a chance to actually discuss our topic meaningfully. Let's set the bar higher

>>

From: B
To: Katz, Rebecca
Cc: Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; Wolfe, Emma; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Re: Chris Hayes
Date: Thursday, November 13, 2014 8:38:38 AM

Good ideas

----- Original Message -----

From: Katz, Rebecca
Sent: Thursday, November 13, 2014 07:03 AM
To: B
Cc: Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; Wolfe, Emma; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Chris Hayes

Got it. The team will huddle this AM and we will work up a plan today. Perhaps NPR and maybe even NYT (columnist or national).

Lots of ideas -- we will pursue best opportunities and circle back.

RKK

On 11/13/14 6:56 AM, "B" <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>
>I like all these ideas and think you should pursue them all. And Emma can >follow up today with Warren's chief of staff on any specific joint >appearance ideas. If we do plan something with her, that's when I heads >up Hillary -- Emma, pls remind. Just make sure whatever we do is a >quality apperance and not a drive-by. And btw, Sharpton was much better >at giving me time to get my idea out than Hayes was. I don't think we >should have, in retrospect, accepted a slot on Hayes where my message and >I were an after-thought. I think if they couldn't offer us better >placement, we should have taken our business elsewhere. So I want urgency >but certainly welcome you guys setting high standards. Thanks

>

>

>

>

>

>----- Original Message -----

>From: Katz, Rebecca
>Sent: Thursday, November 13, 2014 05:55 AM
>To: B
>Cc: Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil
>Subject: Re: Chris Hayes

>

>I was thinking about this too and you are right.

>

>Team was discussing ideas last night and here is just a start:

>

>What about seeing if we could carve out some real time on Newshour on >Wednesday when you are down in DC? With Warren?

>

>Maybe go back to EJ (could do that in DC), Josh Marshall from TPM, Joan
>Walsh from Salon and KVH.

>

>And there may be a way to carve out more time with Stephanopoulos and get >some interview time for GMA as well as next Sunday.

>

>

>Sent from my iPhone

>

>> On Nov 12, 2014, at 11:20 PM, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>>

>>

>> The more I think about it, the more disappointed I am. We deserved >>better treatment than that. We deserved better than 5-7 minutes with >>multiple topics. I really want to get our message out, but I'm not going >>to appear places that don't give us a chance to actually discuss our >>topic meaningfully. Let's set the bar higher
>>

From: John Del Cecato
To: Ragone, Peter; Katz, Rebecca
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Wolfe, Emma; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: Re: Chris Hayes
Date: Thursday, November 13, 2014 10:00:09 AM

Apropos to nothing, I wanted to point out that the Daily News wood today urges the mayor to "show some class" - right beneath a photo of a naked Kim Kardashian reading "Now Kim Bares It All"... You can't make this stuff up!

On 11/13/14, 9:38 AM, "Ragone, Peter" <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>Hi, thanks for this. Please stay focussed on CMC, Gracie and MF. PW/AH >will work on Mayors approach. Thanks again.

>

>----- Original Message -----

>From: Katz, Rebecca

>Sent: Thursday, November 13, 2014 06:32 AM

>To: Ragone, Peter

>Cc: Walzak, Phil; Wolfe, Emma; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>;

>Hagelgans, Andrea

>Subject: RE: Chris Hayes

>

>Understood. What if we just did a few additional hits while we are in DC >next week? And I like Andrea's idea of MHP.

>

>Here's a quick plan just to start our internal discussion.

>

>

>I. Overview

>

>After Tuesday's elections, Democrats around the country are doing a lot >of soul searching and finger pointing. The Mayor believes big, bold >progressive ideas are the way to win and would like to emphasize this >philosophy.

>

>II. Communications Goals

>

>Must explain to National Democrats that we need to go back to our core >message of income inequality: "We must demonstrate, from coast to coast, >that we are a party dedicated to lifting people out of poverty; one >committed to building a bigger and more durable middle-class; one that is >unafraid to ask a little more from those at the very top."

>

>II. Audience (s)

>

>The Gang of 500

>

>III. Message strategy

>Look for media opportunities that allow the Mayor to have thoughtful >discussions about the future. Mayor should not be put in situations >where he plays the pundit role. His media tour should focus on the >results he has already delivered to the people of New York and show a >roadmap forward for Democrats nationwide.

>

>V. Tactics

>

- >• One long block on national television: Newshour with Gwen Ifill (with or without Sen. Warren)
- >• One columnist: EJ Dionne
- >• One liberal show with a solid slot for discussion: Melissa Harris Perry
- >• One Sunday Show: ABC's This Week

>

>VI. Timeline

>

- >• Wednesday, November 19: Politico Breakfast, CAP, EJ, Newshour
- >• Sunday, November 23: ABC's This Week

>

>VII. Talking Points

- >• The truth is that the Democratic Party has core values that are very much in sync with most Americans.
- >• Bold, progressive ideas win elections.
- >• It's time for a bold, new approach – with campaign messages that are rooted in local concerns and core party principles; ideas that are morally just, intellectually honest, and sound public policy.
- >• We must demonstrate, from coast to coast, that we are a party dedicated to lifting people out of poverty; one committed to building a bigger and more durable middle-class; one that is unafraid to ask a little more from those at the very top.
- >• The Democratic Party must reenergize the everyday people whom we have always championed and stand up tall – with a backbone of steel – in what is sure to be a hard-fought contest for the direction our nation in 2016 and beyond.
- >• Voters want a clear choice between candidates. If given a choice between Republican and Republican Lite, they will take the real thing every time.
- >• Authenticity matters

>

>

>VII. Materials for development

>

- >• Q & A – need more for pushback on his statewide endorsements

>

>-----Original Message-----

>From: Ragone, Peter

>Sent: Thursday, November 13, 2014 8:35 AM

>To: Katz, Rebecca

>Cc: Walzak, Phil; Wolfe, Emma; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; Hagelgans, Andrea

>Subject: Re: Chris Hayes

>

>-bdb.

>

>Political commentary won't be "clean". And let's be clear, we're in a precarious place here. BDB campaigned for a conservative, gun toting candidate dem in Hochul and not Teachout or Wu. He campaigned for Cuomo - charter loving, tax cutting Dem. The Buffalo race example is being ridiculed by the pol press. We're not being intellectually honest here >folks and hypocrisy will be messy in any setting.

>

>And just to be clear, we had a milestone event yesterday that is >thousands of more times important to us that was blown out of the water >by sleeping late and commenting on Al Frankin's race. The political >punditry stuff enabled the Grynbaum piece - or made it even worse.

>

>Yesterday was literally one of the worst days from a media standpoint of >the administration.

>

>We have a lot of milestone achievements coming up and we're in danger of >overshadowing them with this stuff.
>
>RKK, I don't know who your referring to when you say the team here, but >don't set us up for more of the same without a deeper discussion.
>
>
>----- Original Message -----
>From: Katz, Rebecca
>Sent: Thursday, November 13, 2014 04:03 AM
>To: B
>Cc: Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; Wolfe, Emma; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'
><jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
>Subject: Re: Chris Hayes
>
>Got it. The team will huddle this AM and we will work up a plan today.
>Perhaps NPR and maybe even NYT (columnist or national).
>
>Lots of ideas -- we will pursue best opportunities and circle back.
>
>RKK
>
>
>On 11/13/14 6:56 AM, "B" <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>
>>
>>I like all these ideas and think you should pursue them all. And Emma >>can follow up today with Warren's chief of staff on any specific joint >>appearance ideas. If we do plan something with her, that's when I heads >>up Hillary -- Emma, pls remind. Just make sure whatever we do is a >>quality apperance and not a drive-by. And btw, Sharpton was much better >>at giving me time to get my idea out than Hayes was. I don't think we >>should have, in retrospect, accepted a slot on Hayes where my message >>and I were an after-thought. I think if they couldn't offer us better >>placement, we should have taken our business elsewhere. So I want >>urgency but certainly welcome you guys setting high standards. Thanks
>>
>>
>>
>>
>>
>>----- Original Message -----
>>From: Katz, Rebecca
>>Sent: Thursday, November 13, 2014 05:55 AM
>>To: B
>>Cc: Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil
>>Subject: Re: Chris Hayes
>>
>>I was thinking about this too and you are right.
>>
>>Team was discussing ideas last night and here is just a start:
>>
>>What about seeing if we could carve out some real time on Newshour on >>Wednesday when you are down in DC? With Warren?
>>
>>Maybe go back to EJ (could do that in DC), Josh Marshall from TPM, Joan
>>Walsh from Salon and KVH.
>>
>>And there may be a way to carve out more time with Stephanopoulos and >>get some interview time for GMA as well as next Sunday.

>>
>>
>>Sent from my iPhone
>>
>>> On Nov 12, 2014, at 11:20 PM, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>>>
>>>
>>> The more I think about it, the more disappointed I am. We deserved >>>better treatment than that. We deserved better than 5-7 minutes with >>>multiple topics. I really want to get our message out, but I'm not >>>going to appear places that don't give us a chance to actually discuss >>>our topic meaningfully. Let's set the bar higher
>>>
>

From: Walzak, Phil
To: Ragone, Peter; Katz, Rebecca
Cc: Wolfe, Emma; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: Re: Chris Hayes
Date: Thursday, November 13, 2014 11:10:36 AM

This is all right I agree w this analysis

(Tho to be clear the bad media was triggered by the tardiness)

But that doesn't matter. Its also clear that are we not aligned w the boss on this. As JFDC notes, he wants this.

So we need a plan on how to operationalize this so we maximize success and make it work.

----- Original Message -----

From: Ragone, Peter
Sent: Thursday, November 13, 2014 08:35 AM
To: Katz, Rebecca
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Wolfe, Emma; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: Re: Chris Hayes

-bdb.

Political commentary won't be "clean". And let's be clear, we're in a precarious place here. BDB campaigned for a conservative, gun toting candidate dem in Hochul and not Teachout or Wu. He campaigned for Cuomo - charter loving, tax cutting Dem. The Buffalo race example is being ridiculed by the pol press. We're not being intellectually honest here folks and hypocrisy will be messy in any setting.

And just to be clear, we had a milestone event yesterday that is thousands of more times important to us that was blown out of the water by sleeping late and commenting on Al Frankin's race. The political punditry stuff enabled the Grynbaum piece - or made it even worse.

Yesterday was literally one of the worst days from a media standpoint of the administration.

We have a lot of milestone achievements coming up and we're in danger of overshadowing them with this stuff.

RKK, I don't know who your referring to when you say the team here, but don't set us up for more of the same without a deeper discussion.

----- Original Message -----

From: Katz, Rebecca
Sent: Thursday, November 13, 2014 04:03 AM
To: B
Cc: Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; Wolfe, Emma; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Chris Hayes

Got it. The team will huddle this AM and we will work up a plan today. Perhaps NPR and maybe even NYT (columnist or national).

Lots of ideas -- we will pursue best opportunities and circle back.

RKK

On 11/13/14 6:56 AM, "B" <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>
>I like all these ideas and think you should pursue them all. And Emma can >follow up today with Warren's chief of staff on any specific joint >appearance ideas. If we do plan something with her, that's when I heads >up Hillary -- Emma, pls remind. Just make sure whatever we do is a >quality apperance and not a drive-by. And btw, Sharpton was much better >at giving me time to get my idea out than Hayes was. I don't think we >should have, in retrospect, accepted a slot on Hayes where my message and >I were an after-thought. I think if they couldn't offer us better >placement, we should have taken our business elsewhere. So I want urgency >but certainly welcome you guys setting high standards. Thanks

>
>
>
>
>

>----- Original Message -----

>From: Katz, Rebecca
>Sent: Thursday, November 13, 2014 05:55 AM
>To: B
>Cc: Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil
>Subject: Re: Chris Hayes

>
>I was thinking about this too and you are right.
>
>Team was discussing ideas last night and here is just a start:
>
>What about seeing if we could carve out some real time on Newshour on >Wednesday when you are down in DC? With Warren?
>
>Maybe go back to EJ (could do that in DC), Josh Marshall from TPM, Joan
>Walsh from Salon and KVH.
>
>And there may be a way to carve out more time with Stephanopoulos and get >some interview time for GMA as well as next Sunday.

>
>
>Sent from my iPhone

>
>> On Nov 12, 2014, at 11:20 PM, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>>
>>
>> The more I think about it, the more disappointed I am. We deserved >>better treatment than that. We deserved better than 5-7 minutes with >>multiple topics. I really want to get our message out, but I'm not going >>to appear places that don't give us a chance to actually discuss our >>topic meaningfully. Let's set the bar higher
>>

From: B
To: Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; Katz, Rebecca; Wolfe, Emma
Cc: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Re: Next steps
Date: Saturday, November 15, 2014 8:21:26 PM

But why are we getting no traction with the sunday shows? What are we doing wrong?

----- Original Message -----

From: Ragone, Peter
Sent: Friday, November 14, 2014 07:04 PM
To: B; Walzak, Phil; Katz, Rebecca; Wolfe, Emma
Cc: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Next steps

Not at all. We have coming up:

Politico playbook -biggest insider/pundit/political venue in America.

CAP event - progressive think tank getting a lot of attention bc of Neera/Podesta

Huff post interview

Chris Cuomo/CNN

Sunday show pitching for this weekend

Emma is talking to Warren about things.

----- Original Message -----

From: B
Sent: Friday, November 14, 2014 06:53 PM
To: Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; Katz, Rebecca; Wolfe, Emma
Cc: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Next steps

Where do we stand on our post-national election effort? Feels stalled to me. What do I do next media-wise? How do we create some interest and momentum? Need creativity and entrepreneurship here. And where do we stand on next steps with Elizabeth Warren?

From: Katz, Rebecca
To: John Del Cecato
Subject: Fwd: Next steps
Date: Saturday, November 15, 2014 8:23:33 PM

Believe the answer here is we aren't pitching.

I've talked to all the Sunday shows. They would take him. Any day.

Killing me!!

Sent from my iPhone

Begin forwarded message:

From: B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: November 15, 2014 at 8:21:24 PM EST
To: "Ragone, Peter" <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Walzak, Phil" <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Katz, Rebecca" <RKKatz@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Wolfe, Emma" <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: "'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'" <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Next steps

But why are we getting no traction with the sunday shows? What are we doing wrong?

----- Original Message -----

From: Ragone, Peter
Sent: Friday, November 14, 2014 07:04 PM
To: B; Walzak, Phil; Katz, Rebecca; Wolfe, Emma
Cc: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Next steps

Not at all. We have coming up:

Politico playbook -biggest insider/pundit/political venue in America.

CAP event - progressive think tank getting a lot of attention bc of Neera/Podesta

Huff post interview

Chris Cuomo/CNN

Sunday show pitching for this weekend

Emma is talking to Warren about things.

----- Original Message -----

From: B

Sent: Friday, November 14, 2014 06:53 PM

To: Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; Katz, Rebecca; Wolfe, Emma

Cc: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>

Subject: Next steps

Where do we stand on our post-national election effort? Feels stalled to me. What do I do next media-wise? How do we create some interest and momentum? Need creativity and entrepreneurship here. And where do we stand on next steps with Elizabeth Warren?

From: John Del Cecato
To: Walzak, Phil
Cc: Ragone, Peter
Subject: Re: Familiarity breeds contempt
Date: Saturday, November 15, 2014 9:54:09 PM

Those jerks. I guess if we had attacked Obama over smoking we would have been in the clear!

http://mobile.nytimes.com/2013/08/23/opinion/why-is-obama-caving-on-tobacco.html?_r=0

On Nov 15, 2014, at 9:47 PM, Walzak, Phil <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

They didn't really elaborate. Just a polite decline. Downes expressed surprise, but cudve been blowing smoke

----- Original Message -----

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Saturday, November 15, 2014 09:43 PM
To: Ragone, Peter
Cc: Walzak, Phil
Subject: Re: Familiarity breeds contempt

Haha. Phil is a wise man.

What did the NyT say when they rejected us? The truth sometimes hurts, but also clears away the cobwebs.

On Nov 15, 2014, at 9:24 PM, Ragone, Peter
<pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Ok. You're smart. I'm tired.

----- Original Message -----

From: Walzak, Phil
Sent: Saturday, November 15, 2014 09:18 PM
To: Ragone, Peter
Cc: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>

Subject: Re: Familiarity breeds contempt

I'd go the other way

Instead of making excuses for the nyt, let's say - which is true - how eager and pleased hufpo was to take the piece, how well It has performed - ill get metrics - how HufPo is really where we want this kind of hit - millions of liberal, internet-saavy activists who are the lifeblood of the movement, not the stodgy stuffy Timesian ppl whose glory days are behind

----- Original Message -----

From: Ragone, Peter

Sent: Saturday, November 15, 2014 09:15 PM

To: Walzak, Phil

Cc: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>

Subject: Re: Familiarity breeds contempt

- bdb... Here's what I would say but I'm not in the mood for the beating I will take...

I'm going to say this and I will be maligned for it, but this thrust is too political and punitdy for the times. As someone who has pitched scores of things to them, this political voice isn't what they print, ever.

Thoughts?

----- Original Message -----

From: B

Sent: Saturday, November 15, 2014 08:19 PM

To: Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil

Cc: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>

Subject: Familiarity breeds contempt

Don't take this truism the wrong way, guys. It's not directed at you, but more at a reality we've become accustomed to: I'm not treated with the respect of previous mayors. Thus the Times turns down our submission for an op-ed, something we have rarely offered. I think I'm safe in saying they wouldn't have done that with Bloomberg. We better think about how to handle this reality. And how to make it impossible for them to ignore us

From: John Del Cecato
To: Walzak, Phil
Cc: Ragone, Peter
Subject: Re: Familiarity breeds contempt
Date: Sunday, November 16, 2014 8:27:51 PM

K

> On Nov 16, 2014, at 8:24 PM, Walzak, Phil <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>

> JFDC u shud run it down for him, in this case

>

> ----- Original Message -----

> From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]

> Sent: Sunday, November 16, 2014 08:21 PM

> To: Ragone, Peter

> Cc: Walzak, Phil

> Subject: Re: Familiarity breeds contempt

>

> I will if I talk to him before you

>

>

>

>> On Nov 16, 2014, at 3:41 PM, Ragone, Peter <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>>

>> You want to convey this or me?

>>

>> ----- Original Message -----

>> From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]

>> Sent: Saturday, November 15, 2014 09:43 PM

>> To: Ragone, Peter

>> Cc: Walzak, Phil

>> Subject: Re: Familiarity breeds contempt

>>

>> Haha. Phil is a wise man.

>>

>> What did the NyT say when they rejected us? The truth sometimes hurts, but also clears away the cobwebs.

>>

>>

>>

>>> On Nov 15, 2014, at 9:24 PM, Ragone, Peter <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>>>

>>> Ok. You're smart. I'm tired.

>>>

>>> ----- Original Message -----

>>> From: Walzak, Phil

>>> Sent: Saturday, November 15, 2014 09:18 PM

>>> To: Ragone, Peter

>>> Cc: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>

>>> Subject: Re: Familiarity breeds contempt

>>>

>>> I'd go the other way

>>> Instead of making excuses for the nyt, let's say - which is true - how eager and pleased hufpo was to take the piece, how well It has performed - ill get metrics - how HufPo is really where we want this kind of hit - millions of liberal, internet-saavy activists who are the lifeblood of the movement, not the stodgy stuffy Timesian ppl whose glory days are behind

>>>

>>> ----- Original Message -----

>>> From: Ragone, Peter

>>> Sent: Saturday, November 15, 2014 09:15 PM

>>> To: Walzak, Phil

>>> Cc: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>

>>> Subject: Re: Familiarity breeds contempt

>>>

>>> - bdb... Here's what I would say but I'm not in the mood for the beating I will take...

>>>

>>> I'm going to say this and I will be maligned for it, but this thrust is too political and punidty for the times. As someone who has pitched scores of things to them, this political voice isn't what they print, ever.

>>>

>>> Thoughts?

>>>

>>> ----- Original Message -----

>>> From: B

>>> Sent: Saturday, November 15, 2014 08:19 PM

>>> To: Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil

>>> Cc: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>

>>> Subject: Familiarity breeds contempt

>>>

>>>

>>> Don't take this truism the wrong way, guys. It's not directed at you, but more at a reality we've become accustomed to: I'm not treated with the respect of previous mayors. Thus the Times turns down our submission for an op-ed, something we have rarely offered. I think I'm safe in saying they wouldn't have done that with Bloomberg. We better think about how to handle this reality. And how to make it impossible for them to ignore us

From: B
To: Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; Fialkoff, Gabrielle
Cc: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Fw: Damn good op-ed!
Date: Tuesday, November 18, 2014 8:49:33 AM

From a surprising source. But keep in mind

-----Original Message-----

From: Steve Rattner
To: Bill de Blasio
Subject: Re: Damn good op-ed!
Sent: Nov 18, 2014 8:47 AM

Bill:

Thanks so much for the nice note and for taking the time to write. It is disappointing that this defining issue of our time has receded somewhat in the minds of the public. So I am happy to help.

I wish you the very best as Mayor and always happy to help you any way that I can.

Best,
Steve

-----Original Message-----

From: Bill de Blasio <[\[REDACTED\]](#)>
Reply-To: "[\[REDACTED\]](#)" <[\[REDACTED\]](#)>
Date: Monday, November 17, 2014 at 11:34 AM
To: Steven Rattner <Steve@Rattner.com>
Subject: Damn good op-ed!

Steve, thanks very much for clarifying and elevating this discussion. I'm just sorry there aren't more people in elective office who see the truths you see. Well done. Best, Bill

Sent via BlackBerry by AT&T

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
To: Spitalnick, Amy \(OMB\); jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com; Singleton, Jessica
Subject: FW: See you tonight: Capital Pro Trivia Night
Date: Wednesday, November 19, 2014 1:06:50 PM

From: Emily Holman [<mailto:eholman@capitalnewyork.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, November 19, 2014 12:39 PM
To: Emily Holman
Subject: See you tonight: Capital Pro Trivia Night

We look forward to seeing you tonight at Capital Pro Trivia Night! Full details are below and should you have any questions, please email eholman@capitalnewyork.com.

Where: Hill Country; 30 W. 26th St., NYC
Date: Tonight, Nov. 19
Time: 5:30 p.m. registration, 6 p.m. game time
Questions: eholman@capitalnewyork.com

This event will be video-recorded for a live segment on RNN's Richard French Live.*

CAPITAL PRO

TRiVIA NiGHT?

Join us for our first-ever New York City edition of Capital Pro Trivia Night! Come test your knowledge over drinks and appetizers with fellow Capital Pros, Wednesday, Nov. 19 as our senior reporter Azi Paybarah tees up questions on all things New York policy, politics and media.

WHEN: Wednesday, Nov. 19
5:30 registration; 6-7 p.m. game time

WHERE: Hill Country; 30 W 26th St.
New York City

Get your team of 4 together and RSVP to eholman@capitalnewyork.com

Can't see the invitation? Just right-click to download the picture. Your email program may have prevented automatic download of this picture. Thanks, Capital Pro.

From: Ragone, Peter
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; B; "Jonathan@berlinrosen.com"
Cc: FLONYC; Carey, Michael
Subject: Re: Bam!
Date: Thursday, November 20, 2014 11:45:32 AM

This isn't the best decision, but its been made. We'll work it out.

----- Original Message -----

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Thursday, November 20, 2014 11:22 AM
To: B; 'Jonathan@berlinrosen.com' <Jonathan@berlinrosen.com>; Ragone, Peter
Cc: FLONYC; Carey, Michael
Subject: Re: Bam!

I defer to Peter on the final call, but here's my two cents:

1. I think Face the Nation, while not having the ratings of This Week, should be an easier interview.

Schieffer usually isn't as aggressive as others often are. (That's assuming Bob isn't on vacation or anything.)

2. Next Tuesday will be 3 weeks since the election, at which point even our national audience - hungry as they are to hear from leaders on where the party should go - will have had their fill of 2014 look-backs.

So if we checked this box on Sunday, we could close the door (for now) on national stuff & get back to New York-focused media opportunities for the rest of the year. I know we've got State of the City coming up - that must be a huge priority.

3. If we DO agree to the interview, I would conduct it from NYC. Helps avoid the Out-of-Town Brown stories* (*Former NYPD police commish Lee Brown, who became Houston mayor & developed - fairly or unfairly - a reputation for leaving his day job in Houston too often).

On 11/20/14, 10:45 AM, "B" <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>

>What about the bird in hand, my friends?? We have momentum now and we >should use it. We've been talking about Stephanopoulous for weeks with no >result -- why keep delaying? And who says we can't get Stephanopulous too >if we build enough momentum here. He who hesitates is lost...

>

>

>

>

>----- Original Message -----

>From: Jonathan Rosen [<mailto:Jonathan@berlinrosen.com>]
>Sent: Thursday, November 20, 2014 10:41 AM
>To: B; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Ragone, Peter
>Cc: FLONYC; Carey, Michael
>Subject: RE: Bam!

>
>Peter and I just spoke. He has something cooking with Stephanopolous at >ABC which is a much bigger franchise - includes Today etc. He had billed >it as exclu / first show. Even if it means pausing on this - think ABC >is a bigger get.

>
>-----Original Message-----
>From: B [<mailto:BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov>]
>Sent: Thursday, November 20, 2014 10:39 AM
>To: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; Jonathan Rosen; Ragone, Peter
>Cc: FLONYC; Carey, Michael
>Subject: Re: Bam!

>
>
>Yes, need serious prep time, even if that means Saturday. This is a VERY >big deal

>
>
>
>----- Original Message -----
>From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
>Sent: Thursday, November 20, 2014 10:34 AM
>To: B; 'Jonathan@berlinrosen.com' <Jonathan@berlinrosen.com>; Ragone,
>Peter
>Cc: FLONYC
>Subject: Re: Bam!

>
>Fantastic. Let's be sure to do a good prep session, in-person if >possible.

>
>On 11/20/14, 10:30 AM, "B" <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>
>>
>>YES!

>>
>>
>>
>>----- Original Message -----
>>From: Jonathan Rosen [<mailto:Jonathan@berlinrosen.com>]
>>Sent: Thursday, November 20, 2014 10:23 AM
>>To: B; Ragone, Peter; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
>>Subject: RE: Bam!

>>
>>Face the Nation on CBS wants you if exclusive to their network for this >>Sunday. Either NYC or DC. Pls confirm asap.

>>
>>-----Original Message-----
>>From: B [<mailto:BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov>]
>>Sent: Wednesday, November 19, 2014 11:57 PM
>>To: Ragone, Peter; Jonathan Rosen; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'
>>Subject: Re: Bam!

>>
>>
>>Excellent!! Now let's double down and try to get on a Sunday show to >>talk about this. Need the three of you to combine forces on this. Need >>a full court press. We need to press the advantage while we have a >>little momentum

>>
>>
>>

>>----- Original Message -----

>>From: Ragone, Peter

>>Sent: Wednesday, November 19, 2014 11:05 PM

>>To: B

>>Subject: Bam!

>>

>>NYC mayor: Democrats must keep progressive vision

>>

>>By KAREN MATTHEWS, Associated Press

>>

>>

>>

>>Updated 1:48 pm, Wednesday, November 19, 2014

>>

>>.

>>

>>NEW YORK (AP) — New York City Mayor Bill de Blasio on Wednesday urged >>his fellow Democrats to articulate a clear progressive message and >>reject the "safe" campaign themes that he said doomed them in this >>month's midterm elections.

>>

>>"The results speak for themselves," de Blasio told Politico's chief >>White House correspondent Mike Allen. "Folks who didn't try this >>message lost, sadly, overwhelmingly. The safe messages didn't work."

>>

>>

>>

>>De Blasio also reiterated that he hopes to host the Democrats' 2016 >>national convention and said he has secured $10 million toward his $100 >>million convention goal.

>>

>>

>>

>>De Blasio told Politico that the Democratic presidential nominee
>>"should speak to income inequality ... should be willing to challenge >>the status quo, should be willing to challenge wealthy and powerful >>interests and should marry that with a grassroots organizing strategy >>that epitomizes the message."

>>

>>

>>

>>The remarks, livestreamed from Washington, D.C., echoed a column de >>Blasio wrote in the Huffington Post last week and suggested that the >>mayor, who rode a liberal campaign to a lopsided victory last year, is >>seeking to position himself as a progressive voice on the national stage.

>>

>>

>>

>>De Blasio said a forthright liberal campaign serves Democratic >>candidates better than the moderate approach that many of them employed >>this year.

>>"The moderate approach has been proven to fail so consistently, why >>would you not try a bolder approach?" he asked.

>>

>>

>>

>>De Blasio, who was Hillary Rodham Clinton's 2000 Senate campaign >>manager, declined to say whether Clinton should run for president and >>said he has not discussed his campaign ideas with her.

>>

>>
>>
>>Asked which Republican would be the most formidable foe, de Blasio said >>Sen. Rand Paul of Kentucky "evinces a certain authenticity that any >>good Democrat should worry about."
>>
>>
>>
>>"To the extent that there is a Libertarian philosophy that he sticks to >>regardless of political convenience, I think that makes him a stronger >>candidate," de Blasio said.
>>
>>
>>
>>New York City officials are bidding to hold the 2016 Democratic >>convention at Barclays Center in Brooklyn. The other contenders are >>Philadelphia; Phoenix; Columbus, Ohio and Birmingham, Alabama.
>>
>>
>>
>>De Blasio said in a news release that New York will be ready "to hit >>the ground running the moment we're named host of the 2016 convention."
>>
>>----- Original Message -----
>>From: Ragone, Peter
>>Sent: Wednesday, November 19, 2014 11:04 PM
>>To: 'BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov' <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov>
>>
>>Great clips from national/DC piece today. We're building a nice body of >>work here for next cycle.
>>
>>Linder and Miller also emailed me about pd thing tonight.
>

From: Ragone, Peter
To: B; FLONYC
Cc: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; "Jonathan@berlinrosen.com"
Subject: Fw: DC clips
Date: Thursday, November 20, 2014 6:19:56 PM

See below.

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
Sent: Thursday, November 20, 2014 06:13 PM
To: Ragone, Peter
Subject: DC clips

De Blasio Takes a Day to Pursue a National Profile

NY TIMES - Michael Grynbaum

He shared a morning flight with Loretta Lynch, the nominee for attorney general, before heading to the White House for a meeting with President Obama's closest adviser. He warned Democrats to worry about the "authenticity" of Senator Rand Paul, and urged Hillary Rodham Clinton to shift her policies leftward, adding he would be "honored" to advise her. For Mayor Bill de Blasio, on a daylong tour of Washington on Wednesday, no topic seemed too big to tackle. "I think," the mayor mused during a morning appearance here, "the American dream has ceased to function for a lot of families." Eleven months into his term as mayor of New York City, Mr. de Blasio has no dearth of headaches back home: bumpy poll numbers, the departure of a key aide under a cloud of personal problems, and a tendency toward tardiness that led him to miss the most important moment of a memorial service last week for victims of a plane crash. But the mayor on display here on Wednesday looked unruffled by his recent troubles — and undeterred in his efforts to raise his national profile as a lodestar of the left.

De Blasio Urges Clinton to Lean Left in a Presidential Run

WSJ - Michael Saul

New York City Mayor Bill de Blasio on Wednesday encouraged Hillary Clinton to embrace the message of income inequality and other left-leaning issues if she decides to run for president. "The Democrat should be willing to challenge the status quo," Mr. de Blasio said at a breakfast forum when asked about the 2016 presidential campaign. "The Democrat should be willing to challenge wealthy and powerful interests and should marry that with a grass-roots organizing strategy that epitomizes the message." Mr. de Blasio's spin on the national stage Wednesday suggests he hopes to play a high-profile role as a liberal voice in the 2016 presidential campaign. Earlier this week, Mr. de Blasio dismissed the notion that he would be a presidential candidate himself, saying he plans to run for re-election to City Hall in 2017.

Mayor de Blasio: I haven't smoked weed since college; couldn't be a pothead today given my job

DAILY NEWS - Dan Friedman

Mayor Bill de Blasio said he doesn't smoke pot and couldn't given the demands of his 24-7 job.

At a Politico breakfast Wednesday where he positioned himself again as a national spokesman for progressive Democrats, the mayor also urged his party to focus on economic inequality. Asked when he last used marijuana, de Blasio said "college." He said he doesn't smoke and that a mayor who did couldn't do the job.

De Blasio to Hillary: Run to the left to win presidency

NY POST – Marisa Schultz

Mayor Bill de Blasio said Wednesday that Hillary Clinton needs to run to the left on a message of economic populism to win the presidency in 2016. It's "necessary" for Clinton to address the crisis of income inequality and de Blasio said he'd be "honored" to help her or any Democrat brush up on messaging. "I don't think we've had the opportunity to hear from her on this new (post-recession) reality," de Blasio said at a Politico breakfast in Washington. The mayor called liberal icon Sen. Elizabeth Warren an "indispensable" voice and said he's "hopeful" Clinton could find hers. "I think whoever runs has to address income inequality. They have to do it morally and they have to do it politically. The absence (of which) will lead to failure." In a wide ranging discussion, de Blasio stood by his relationship with Al Sharpton saying he's "comfortable" with consulting the "the leading civil rights figure of this country right now."

De Blasio rips into The Post's coverage of his tenure

NY POST - Marisa Schultz

Mayor de Blasio on Wednesday found himself having to respond to The Post's coverage of how he has handled issues ranging from his perpetual lateness to his relationship with Al Sharpton. Interviewer Mike Allen of Politico brought up several Post Page Ones during a wide-ranging discussion with the mayor, who earlier this week blasted the press for reporting on the problems of City Hall aide Rachel Noerdlinger and her family.

De Blasio advises 2016 Dems, including Clinton, to run left

CAPITAL NY – Sally Goldenberg

Mayor Bill de Blasio this morning advised the eventual 2016 Democratic presidential nominee, whoever she is, to shift leftward by embracing a platform of resolving income inequality. "I think there is a lot of room for a Democrat to speak to these issues," said de Blasio, who worked for Hillary Clinton in 2000 when she ran for Senate. "I think it could well be Secretary Clinton. But one way or another, the Democrats have to speak to these issues." De Blasio made the remarks to Politico's Mike Allen this morning during an hour-long, wide-ranging interview in Washington. (Politico and Capital are part of the same company, and Allen co-writes Capital Playbook.) When asked whether Clinton, who lost to Barack Obama in the 2008 primary, could occupy the liberal space in a national election, the mayor said he's "hopeful."

Bill de Blasio Talks Hillary Clinton, Rand Paul and 2016

NY OBSERVER - Jillian Jorgensen

Fresh off a media blitz urging Democrats to be Democrats in 2016, Mayor Bill de Blasio weighed in on the presidential race again this morning — saying he hopes Hillary Clinton runs and naming Rand Paul as the most fearsome Republican contender. Mr. de Blasio discussed the Democrats lousy performance in mid-term elections and their best hopes for the 2016 contest with Politico's chief White House correspondent Mike Allen at the news outlet's Playbook Breakfast this morning. "The Democrat should speak to income inequality. The Democrat should be willing to challenge the status quo, should be willing to challenge wealthy and powerful interests, and should marry that with the grassroots organizing strategy that epitomizes the message," Mr. de Blasio said of what he felt should be the strategy employed by Ms. Clinton or any other Democrat who runs. Mr. de Blasio's criticism of Democrats who have hedged to the middle rather than leaning left has often been read by New York politicians as something of a veiled jab at Gov. Andrew Cuomo, who ran on a centrist platform rather than a progressive one. But in Washington, Mr. de Blasio's advice seemed perhaps pointed at a different centrist Democrat: Ms. Clinton, the former secretary of state whose 2000 Senate campaign Mr. de Blasio ran. Mr. Allen asked if the mayor believed there was room to her left on the presidential stage.

Bill de Blasio Says He Hasn't Smoked Weed Since College

NY OBSERVER – Jillian Jorgensen

He may not think the cops should lock people up for possessing weed, but he's not lighting up at Gracie Mansion, either. Mayor Bill de Blasio said today he does not smoke marijuana and has not in many years, after he was asked point-blunt about the herb during a sit-down with Politico journalist Mike Allen for the publication's Playbook Breakfast. "Do you smoke pot?" Mr. Allen asked. "I do not," the mayor responded. He hasn't partaken in pot since college, he said. (In those years, the future mayor sported an unkempt, curly attempt at an Afro hairstyle and beard that might lead some to assume he knew where to find weed.) Mr. de Blasio — who has been knocked for being perennially late to events, most recently to a memorial for victims of a plane crash due to some combination of oversleeping and foggy weather — told Mr. Allen he did not think a pot smoker would be up to the job of leading New York City.

De Blasio urges leftward tilt by White House-seeking Democrats

AM NY - Tom Brune

New York City Mayor Bill de Blasio on Wednesday said likely presidential contender Hillary Clinton or whoever becomes the Democratic candidate in 2016 should run to the left by addressing income inequality to motivate the party's voters. "I think there is a lot of room for a Democrat to speak to these issues," de Blasio said. "I think it could well be Secretary Clinton. But one way or another the Democrats have to speak to these issues." De Blasio came to Washington to tout his progressive agenda and warn against repeating the mistakes Democrats made in losing so many seats in the recent midterm elections.

De Blasio Wants to Be a 'Better Person' About Being Late

DNA INFO - Jeff Mays

Mayor Bill de Blasio says he's working on the habitual tardiness that caused a firestorm last week when he missed part of a ceremony for the victims of the Flight 587 plane disaster. "God's not finished with me yet and there's more work to do," de Blasio said when host and Politico reporter Mike Allen asked him about his lateness during a Wednesday

morning interview. "I'm going to continue to work on being a better person."

City seeks \$100M for 2016 DNC bid

CRAIN'S NY - Bloomberg

Mayor Bill de Blasio said the city plans to raise as much as $100 million to host the Democratic Party's 2016 presidential convention. During an interview at an event hosted by Politico in Washington, Mr. de Blasio said he is optimistic about the city's prospects, given that New York has "proven before" that it can host a successful presidential convention. The 1992 Democratic conclave was held in the nation's most populous city, and Republicans came in 2004. "We feel very good about it," said Mr. de Blasio, a 53-year-old Democrat.

Mayor de Blasio Claims He Hasn't Smoked Weed Since College

NY MAGAZINE - Staff

At a Politico breakfast this morning, Mayor de Blasio assured attendees that even though he backs a liberal pot policy, he's not spending his free time blazing and watching Broad City. In fact, de Blasio said, he hasn't smoked weed since college. I guess that makes sense; nobody with the munchies would bother eating pizza with a fork.

Bill de Blasio: Democrats 'scared' of moneyed interests

MSNBC - Alex Seitz-Wald

New York City Mayor Bill de Blasio has a message for his fellow Democrats: Be bold. As Democrats lick their wounds following this year's devastating midterm elections for the party, de Blasio said Wednesday they should resist the temptation to moderate their pitch to voters or play it safe. "The Democratic Party has to look in the mirror and bluntly realize that if we repeat 2014, we're clearly doomed. We cannot win an election if our own people are not motivated," de Blasio said at a breakfast with reporters organized by Politico in Washington. "The safe approach has been proven to fail so consistently, why would you not try a bolder approach?" The mayor, who in 2013 distinguished himself in a competitive Democratic primary field with a stridently populist and progressive message, won his election by the largest margin of any mayor in the city's history. His race should be a model for other Democrats, he said. De Blasio, a former progressive activist, wrote an op-ed in The Huffington Post after this year's election with similar advice for Democrats. Some in the party dismissed the essay as unsolicited advice from an out-of-touch New York liberal. But de Blasio's view is the consensus among progressive activists on the left, who essentially argue that the Democratic Party lost in 2014 because it wasn't liberal enough. As the mayor sees it, Democrats need to "stick to their guns," stop being "mealy mouthed" and "stiffen [their] backbone."

Why Bill de Blasio Is Worried About Rand Paul in 2016

NATIONAL JOURNAL - Rebecca Nelson

Ahead of 2016, Rand Paul has a top voice in liberal politics concerned for the Democratic Party. Bill de Blasio, New York City's first-term mayor, told journalist Mike Allen he thinks the Kentucky senator is the most formidable opponent for Democrats. Speaking at a Politico Playbook breakfast Wednesday morning, the mayor said his party needs to refocus its message on economic populism. Though he disagrees with Paul on a "host of issues," de Blasio said the likely presidential contender will be a force in the GOP. "He evinces a certain authenticity that any good Democrat should worry about," de Blasio said. And as long as Paul isn't swayed by his fellow Republicans, he'll be a strong contender. "To the extent that there is a libertarian philosophy that he sticks to regardless of political convenience, I think that makes him a stronger candidate than many." The mayor was in Washington to expound on his post-election op-ed last week, where he argued that, after a tough wake-up call in the midterm elections, Democrats must find their collective "backbone" in tackling economic inequality. Because 2014 campaigns didn't emphasize economic issues, he said, voters weren't inspired to get to the polls.

Mayor de Blasio Warns: Fight Inequality or Lose to Rand Paul in 2016

DAILY KOS - Staff

"Don't Soul-Search. Stiffen Your Backbone." That's the lesson Bill de Blasio, New York City's first Democratic Mayor in 20 years, is encouraging Democrats to heed in the wake of the 2014 midterms. On Wednesday, Mayor de Blasio warned his party that failing to embrace progressive policies could strengthen a certain Mitch McConnell-endorsed GOP presidential candidate in 2016 -- Senator Rand Paul. According to the National Journal, de Blasio told POLITICO's Mike Allen that Paul (R-KY) would be the "most formidable opponent for Democrats" in the upcoming presidential contest. "He evinces a certain authenticity that any good Democrat should worry about," he said. And as long as Paul isn't swayed by his fellow Republicans, he'll be strong contender. "To the extent that there is a libertarian philosophy that he sticks to regardless of political convenience, I think that makes him a stronger candidate than many."

NYC mayor: Democrats must keep progressive vision

WASHINGTON TIMES – Associated Press

New York City Mayor Bill de Blasio on Wednesday urged his fellow Democrats to articulate a clear progressive message and reject the "safe" campaign themes that he said doomed them in this month's midterm elections. "The results speak for themselves," de Blasio told Politico's chief White House correspondent Mike Allen. "Folks who didn't try this message lost, sadly, overwhelmingly. The safe messages didn't work."

NYC Mayor Bill de Blasio: No, I don't smoke pot

WASHINGTON TIMES – Tom Howell

New York City Mayor Bill de Blasio said Wednesday he doesn't smoke marijuana and doesn't think it would be a good idea for a man in his position, anyway. The Democrat was responding to a question from Politico's Mike Allen, who hosted a breakfast session with the mayor of America's largest city. Mr. de Blasio recently guided a shift in New York Police Department policy toward marijuana possession. Now, police will issue tickets to people found with less than 25 grams of the drug instead of arresting them — so long as they weren't smoking the weed. Mr. de Blasio said he hasn't smoked pot since college. Asked if he could smoke marijuana and still do his job, the mayor said: "I don't think so."

New York Seeks \$100 Million for 2016 Democratic Convention

BLOOMBERG - William Selway

New York Mayor Bill de Blasio said the city has raised a tenth of the $100 million it's seeking to host the Democratic Party's 2016 presidential convention. De Blasio said in an interview at an event hosted by Politico in Washington that he's optimistic about the city's prospects, given that New York has shown that it can host a successful presidential convention. The 1992 Democratic conclave was held in the nation's most populous city, and Republicans came in 2004. The mayor's office said today that the city has received $10 million of commitments from dozens of supporters, including Goldman Sachs Group Inc. \(GS\) Chief Executive Officer Lloyd Blankfein, JPMorgan Chase & Co. CEO Jamie Dimon and MetLife Inc. CEO Steven Kandarian. "We have a very good chance," said de Blasio, a 53-year-old Democrat. "I don't think a lot of people doubt the willingness and the ability of New York City to put together the resources needed for a convention." The convention could provide an economic boost to the winning city. Other communities competing for it include Columbus, Ohio, and Philadelphia, both of which are in key presidential swing states.

Sent from my iPhone

From: FLONYC
To: Carey, Michael
Cc: B; jfdc@akpdmedia.com
Subject: Re: Del Cecato
Date: Friday, November 21, 2014 2:07:20 PM

Pls include me. Thx!

Sent from my iPhone

> On Nov 21, 2014, at 1:35 PM, Carey, Michael <MPCarey@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>

> Yes sir!

>

>

>

> Michael Paul Carey

> City Hall

> New York, New York

>

>

> -----Original Message-----

> From: B

> Sent: Friday, November 21, 2014 1:30 PM

> To: Carey, Michael

> Cc: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; FLONYC

> Subject: Del Cecato

>

>

> Michael, pls set up a mtg with Del Cecato for sunday for me (or even me and Chirlane), if works for John's schedule

>

>

>

>

>

From: B
To: "John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]"
Cc: Katz, Rebecca; FLONYC
Subject: Re: The NYer: On Keystone and the N.S.A., Clinton Remains Quiet
Date: Friday, November 21, 2014 10:37:04 PM

SEAI
JUST

Preach, Reverend!

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Friday, November 21, 2014 10:06 PM
To: B
Cc: Katz, Rebecca; FLONYC
Subject: Re: The NYer: On Keystone and the N.S.A., Clinton Remains Quiet

And she should be aware of this truth:

She seems to be repeating the same mistake that she made in 2008, when the inevitability of her candidacy overwhelmed its justification.

On Nov 21, 2014, at 9:59 PM, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Thanks very much for sending. The final sentence is why we MUST deepen our national work and provide the answer to that question

From: Katz, Rebecca
Sent: Friday, November 21, 2014 07:51 PM
To: B
Subject: Fwd: The NYer: On Keystone and the N.S.A., Clinton Remains Quiet

Sent from my iPhone

Begin forwarded message:

From: "Katz, Rebecca" <RKKatz@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: November 21, 2014 at 7:50:05 PM EST
To: "Katz, Rebecca" <RKKatz@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: The NYer: On Keystone and the N.S.A., Clinton Remains Quiet

The last line is the kicker.

On Keystone and the N.S.A., Clinton Remains Quiet

BY RYAN LIZZA

PHOTOGRAPH BY SPENCER PLATT / GETTY
On Friday, Ready for Hillary, a super PAC that has been described as “a make-work program for former Clinton hands,” and that is busy building a database of donors and volunteers that the group will eventually sell or rent to an official Clinton campaign, held an all-day meeting at the Sheraton on Fifty-third Street, in New York.

In what it billed as a National Finance Council meeting, the super PAC sponsored a series of panels with well-known personalities from the Clinton world. Interspersed between seminars on politics and the media, state officials delivered testimonials before donors under the rubric “Why I’m Ready for Hillary.” Clinton was actually in town to deliver a speech a few blocks away, at the Mandarin Oriental hotel, but she didn’t stop by the Sheraton. The Ready for Hillary event was like a “Star Trek” convention where Captain Kirk never shows up.

The discussion panels were closed to the press, but reporters assembled in a room down the hall and a steady stream of Clintonites visited to take questions. Most everyone dutifully noted that the Clinton candidacy was still just a hypothetical, but occasionally some activists slipped. Buffy Wicks, the executive director of Ready for Hillary, started one sentence with “When Hillary Clinton decides to run...,” dispensing with the façade.

It was an odd event: reporters asked questions about Hillary Clinton’s plans and policy agenda to a group of people who knew as little as anyone about her presumptive campaign and its messaging. In that sense, the Ready for Hillary meeting was the perfect embodiment of the Democrats’ current Hillary problem: everyone in the party seems to be supporting her, and yet nobody can articulate exactly why. (I wrote for the magazine recently about Clinton’s seeming inevitability as a Presidential candidate.)

The meeting came at the end of an eventful week—one that only underscored Clinton’s continued reluctance to explain what she might want to do as President. In Congress, the Senate debated two major issues: the Keystone XL pipeline and reform of the National Security Agency. Clinton remained silent about both.

As Secretary of State, Clinton was in charge of the process that will eventually lead to a decision about whether the Administration allows TransCanada to build its pipeline, which would transport crude oil from northern Alberta down to American refineries in the Gulf of Mexico. It has become a defining issue for U.S. environmentalists, and was one of the most politically charged and significant issues that Clinton faced during her time at State—and yet her memoir, “Hard Choices,” contains not a single mention of Keystone. When the Senate this week debated a bill to force Obama to build the pipeline—rallied by Mary Landrieu, the Democratic senator from Louisiana, who faces a runoff election in December—Clinton still had nothing to say.

To be sure, the sensitive review process for Keystone is ongoing, and Clinton might feel that, by discussing her personal views, she would be prejudicing the outcome. Then again, if she has strong feelings one way or the other, shouldn’t she use her influence to affect the final decision?

N.S.A. reform is mentioned in "Hard Choices," but only cursorily, in a summary of the public reaction to Edward Snowden's leaks. "Scrutiny focused on the bulk collection of telephone records, not the content of the conversations or the identities of callers but a database of phone numbers, and the time and duration of calls, that could be examined if there was a reasonable suspicion that a particular number was associated with terrorism," she writes, with clinical detachment, in assessing the fallout. "President Obama has since called on Congress to implement a number of reforms so the government will no longer keep such data."

What does Clinton think of those reforms? She doesn't say. She offers the usual platitudes about balancing security and liberty but gives no indication of whether she believes that the program under which the N.S.A. collects Americans' phone records should be continued as is, modified, or scrapped. When the Senate killed the main N.S.A.-reform bill this week, Clinton remained silent.

For months, she also maintained silence on immigration, but on Thursday, after the President announced that he would use his authority to prevent as many as five million undocumented immigrants from being subject to deportation, Clinton released a rare statement endorsing the proposal. She did something similar in August, when, after being pressured from the left, she spoke about the events in Ferguson, Missouri.

But, despite the clear remarks about Ferguson and immigration, Clinton's views on many crucial issues remain opaque. She seems to be repeating the same mistake that she made in 2008, when the inevitability of her candidacy overwhelmed its justification.

At the Ready for Hillary festival, Mitch Stewart, one of Obama's top organizers in the 2008 contest, suggested that Clinton needed to be careful to develop a message and stick to it. He noted that she had failed to do that in the 2008 primaries. "Every six weeks, there seemed to be a new slogan, and there was nothing people could wrap their arms around," Stewart said.

But when he and others at the event were asked what that message should be, nobody really had any idea.

From: The Mayor and First Lady of the City of New York
To: jfdc@akpdmedia.com
Subject: You are cordially invited to a reception at Gracie Mansion
Date: Monday, December 01, 2014 10:58:04 AM
Attachments: ATT00001.png

Bill de Blasio
Mayor, City of New York
and
Chirlane McCray
Chair, Mayor's Fund Board of Directors

cordially invite you to

Celebrate the Holiday Season

Wednesday, December 10, 2014
6:00PM to 8:00PM

Gracie Mansion
88th Street and East End Avenue

Space is limited.

RSVP by Wednesday, December 3, 2014

212-788-2569 or email: invite@cityhall.nyc.gov

Yes, I am attending

No, I will not attend

BILL DE BLASIO
Mayor, City of New York

and

CHIRLANE MCCRAY
Chair, Mayor's Fund Board of Directors

cordially invite you to

CELEBRATE THE HOLIDAY SEASON

Wednesday, December 10, 2014
6:00 PM—8:00 PM

Gracie Mansion
East End Avenue at 88th Street

From: John Del Cecato
To: FLONYC
Cc: Ragone, Peter; B; Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea; Wolfe, Emma
Subject: Re: This Week w Steph
Date: Wednesday, December 03, 2014 11:59:58 AM

Agreed! I'm out of town Friday and Sat - but could help with prep tomorrow, or could call in

> On Dec 3, 2014, at 11:51 AM, FLONYC <FLONYC@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>
> Good! Great opportunity here to shine a sharper brighter light on our reforms.
>
> Sent from my iPhone
>
>> On Dec 3, 2014, at 11:17 AM, Ragone, Peter <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>>
>> Update.
>>
>> With your appearance w Pres, the Ferguson/Garner decisions and Immigration summit. ABC now would like you live in studio on Sunday.
>>
>> This is a different tone than the interview in Park Slope we were discussing and it changes from "introducing the Mayor of NYC" to inside crowd to "Big news this week and here's someone in the middle of it".
>>
>> Its still an opportunity for Mayor to talk big themes for Dem Party - and Nation- but on a platform of some very weighty issues.
>>
>> We will need significant prep, which we're working on.
>>
>> Cool?

From: Carey, Michael
To: Howe, Amanda; Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; "Jonathan@berlinrosen.com"; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic; Wiley, Maya; Wolfe, Emma; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; "nbaldick@hilltoppublicsolutions.com"; Ko, Eunice; John, Roxanne; Katz, Rebecca; Fuleihan, Dean \(OMB\)
Subject: RE: Weekly Planning Meeting
Date: Wednesday, December 03, 2014 9:10:53 PM

All:

As of now this meeting is still happening on Thursday evening. If things are changed, I will keep you updated.

Thanks!!!

Michael Paul Carey

City Hall

New York, New York

-----Original Appointment-----

From: Carey, Michael

Sent: Friday, November 21, 2014 12:35 PM

To: Carey, Michael; Howe, Amanda; Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; 'Jonathan@berlinrosen.com'; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic; Wiley, Maya; Wolfe, Emma; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; 'nbaldick@hilltoppublicsolutions.com'; Ko, Eunice; John, Roxanne; Katz, Rebecca; Fuleihan, Dean (OMB)

Subject: Weekly Planning Meeting

When: Thursday, December 04, 2014 7:00 PM-8:00 PM (UTC-05:00) Eastern Time (US & Canada).

Where: Gracie Mansion, The Ballroom

From: Carey, Michael
To: Howe, Amanda; Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; "Jonathan@berlinrosen.com"; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic; Wiley, Maya; Wolfe, Emma; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; "nbaldick@hilltoppublicsolutions.com"; Ko, Eunice; John, Roxanne; Katz, Rebecca; Fuleihan, Dean \(OMB\)
Subject: RE: Weekly Planning Meeting
Date: Thursday, December 04, 2014 5:17:26 PM

Hi All,

We are going to cancel this meeting for tonight.

Michael Paul Carey

City Hall

New York, New York

-----Original Appointment-----

From: Carey, Michael

Sent: Friday, November 21, 2014 12:35 PM

To: Carey, Michael; Howe, Amanda; Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; 'Jonathan@berlinrosen.com'; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic; Wiley, Maya; Wolfe, Emma; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; 'nbaldick@hilltoppublicsolutions.com'; Ko, Eunice; John, Roxanne; Katz, Rebecca; Fuleihan, Dean (OMB)

Subject: Weekly Planning Meeting

When: Thursday, December 04, 2014 7:00 PM-8:00 PM (UTC-05:00) Eastern Time (US & Canada).

Where: Gracie Mansion, The Ballroom

From: Leopold, Elana
To: Carey, Michael; "Jonathan@berlinrosen.com"; Wolfe, Emma; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Walzak, Phil; Ragone, Peter; Seignious, Sandy; Hagelgans, Andrea; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: MBDB: Prep for Sunday Talk Show
Date: Friday, December 05, 2014 3:03:31 PM

Please assemble

From: Bill de Blasio
To: John Del Cecato
Cc: FLONYC
Subject: Re: Did New York's de Blasio say what Obama can't on race?
Date: Saturday, December 06, 2014 11:44:17 AM

Exactly right

-----Original Message-----

From: John Del Cecato
To: Bill de Blasio
Subject: Re: Did New York's de Blasio say what Obama can't on race?
Sent: Dec 6, 2014 9:48 AM

Yeah - there will always be a little of that unhelpful-ness - but people will see our words match our actions in their own lives - just will take time

> On Dec 6, 2014, at 7:43 AM, Bill de Blasio <[\[REDACTED\]](#)> wrote:

>

>

> Except the last lines which miss entirely the work we've been doing. Lazy reporting

>

>

> -----Original Message-----

> From: John Del Cecato

> To: Bill de Blasio

> Subject: Did New York's de Blasio say what Obama can't on race?

> Sent: Dec 6, 2014 7:29 AM

>

> Thoughtful piece

> <http://www.msn.com/en-us/news/politics/did-new-yorks-de-blasio-say-what-obama-cant-on-race/ar-BBgp2aI>

>

>

>

>

> Sent via BlackBerry by AT&T

Sent via BlackBerry by AT&T

From: Carey, Michael
To: Hagelgans, Andrea; Leopold, Elana
Cc: "Jonathan@berlinrosen.com"; Wolfe, Emma; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Walzak, Phil; Ragone, Peter; Seignious, Sandy; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Re: MBDB: Prep Call for Sunday Show
Date: Saturday, December 06, 2014 3:10:20 PM

In the body of the email:

EVENT MEMO: THIS WEEK WITH GEORGE STEPHANAPOULOUS

DATE: Sunday, December 7, 2014

TIME: 9AM EST- Lead Interview

LOCATION: ABC Studios
47 West 66th Street
New York, NY

FROM: PETER RAGONE

<!--[if !supportLists]--> I. <!--[endif]-->PURPOSE

YOU will join George Stephanopoulos on This Week Sunday news hour. This is an opportunity to continue the drumbeat on the election and showcase NYC's progressive leadership. In the wake of the Ferguson and Garner grand jury decisions, it is also an opportunity to demonstrate strong progressive leadership on complex issues (police and community relations).

Topics will include:

- <!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Governing progressively - Community/Police Relations
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->The future of the Democratic Party
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Immigration
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->DNC and presidential election 2016

<!--[if !supportLists]--> II. <!--[endif]-->PARTICIPANTS

<!--[if !supportLists]--> III. <!--[endif]-->PRESS PLAN

<!--[if !supportLists]--> IV. <!--[endif]-->SEQUENCE OF EVENTS

- <!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Doors open 8:30 A.M.
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Interview begins at 9:00 A.M.

<!--[if !supportLists]--> <!--[endif]-->YOU arrive at xxx
<!--[if !supportLists]--> <!--[endif]-->YOU will have light make up and be Mic'd
At TKTK .
<!--[if !supportLists]--> <!--[endif]-->YOU walk onto stage
<!--[if !supportLists]--> <!--[endif]-->YOU will be across from George Stephanopoulos
George will welcome you and start the questions

<!--[if !supportLists]--> V. <!--[endif]-->ATTACHMENTS

- George Stephanopoulos Bio
- Background on recent shows
- Talking Points
- Transcript of Ray Kelly
- Op-Ed
- Manchester Speech

BIO

George Stephanopoulos was born to first-generation Greek-American parents on February 10, 1961 in Fall River, Massachusetts. He began his career in Washington, D.C. as an aide to an Ohio Congressman and later helped with Bill Clinton's 1991 presidential campaign, becoming a trusted advisor post-election. Stephanopoulos eventually joined the staff of ABC News, serving as anchor for This Week and co-host of Good Morning America.

SHOW SNAPSHOT

NOTE: Estimate 20 questions

Anticipated questions on Garner include:

- <!--[if !supportLists]--> <!--[endif]-->Is this a national movement moment:?
- <!--[if !supportLists]--> <!--[endif]-->Will these protests breakthrough and create a new discussion or will people settle into their own camps?
- <!--[if !supportLists]--> <!--[endif]-->What is the role of the president in all this?
- <!--[if !supportLists]--> <!--[endif]-->Body cameras?
- <!--[if !supportLists]--> <!--[endif]-->Ray Kelly/ Giuliana/PBA comments (transcript at end)

- Sample recent questions on Ferguson:
 - Everyone's waiting for the grand jury to hear, what the final word from the grand jury is. Your FBI has warned about possible violence in the wake of that decision. What is your message to the people of Ferguson and others who are looking to protest?
 - Are you worried here?
 - One of your heroes, John Lewis, has suggested that if there's no indictment in this case, it would be a miscarriage of justice, and another turning point like Selma. Do you agree with that?
 - Do you think it would make sense for you to go to Ferguson after this decision?
 - What about the broader issues of race? I was struck by a poll I saw recently that said since 2009 the number of African Americans who think that race relations are getting better has actually gone down.
- Sample recent questions on immigration:
 - What are the consequences for the President for acting on immigration on his own?
- Sample recent questions on HRC and Elections:
 - Will you coordinate? Does she have your blessing to kind of separate when she needs to?
 - You still talk pretty regularly?
 - So give me a headline sentence. What was the message the voters were sending Tuesday night?
 - What is the memo you're going to write to the Democratic candidate in 2016 to say this is how you win in XX?

PROGRESSIVE MOVEMENT MESSAGES

<!--[if !supportLists]--> <!--[endif]-->We were once known as the party that responded directly to the needs in people's lives – now many can't tell you what Democrats actually stand for. That's a problem. By defining the problem bluntly and honestly, that's when solutions open up.

<!--[if !supportLists]--> <!--[endif]-->When Democrats are bold; when we run on our progressive principles rather than run from them; when we choose to tackle the tough issues that are destroying the middle class and ignoring the working poor - we not only give people a sense of who we are as Democrats, we give them hope that we can actually make the changes they can see in their own lives.

<!--[if !supportLists]--> <!--[endif]-->If you can't about people's real life concerns honestly, why should anyone believe you can fix it?

<!--[if !supportLists]--> <!--[endif]-->Here is a party that for the last election refused to talk about the issues that really affect people--- race, immigration, income inequality-- why is it any surprise when they failed to galvanize votes?

<!--[if !supportLists]--> <!--[endif]-->Income inequality, immigration, race – these are the very real issues that people grapple with at the kitchen table and they should be the issues that define us as democrats.

<!--[if !supportLists]--> <!--[endif]-->Too many politicians make decisions because they fear losing an election. That's the kind of cautious approach that breeds cynicism and fosters apathy.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->○ <!--[endif]-->What Democrats really need to fear is this:
when we shy away from talking about the tough issues; when we tell ourselves that issues of race relations, income inequality, and corporate greed are too dicey to touch - we not only risk losing elections, we risk losing people's belief that we understand their lives.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->○ <!--[endif]-->Across the country, families are crippled by low wages, few benefits, unaffordable housing, lack of Pre-K and after-school. If the next six years mirror the last six, the gap between the wealthiest Americans and everybody else could cement us as a Gilded Nation. That's morally wrong, and it's economically unsustainable. We must address it, and do it now.

<!--[if !supportLineBreakNewLine]-->

<!--[endif]-->

[IF asked on HRC]

<!--[if !supportLists]--> <!--[endif]-->I'm not talking about any one candidate.... I'm saying this to all Democrats.

<!--[if !supportLineBreakNewLine]-->
<!--[endif]-->

PUBLIC SAFETY

- It has been a deeply emotional week for the Garner family and all New Yorkers. His death was a terrible tragedy that no family should have to endure.
- His death has put a spotlight on police-community relations and civil rights--- some of the most critical issues our nation faces today.
- What we've seen this week is proud and powerful tradition of expressing ourselves through non-violent protest --- I'm proud of the NYPD for its response as well. In a city of more than 8 million people, we saw minimal arrests and peaceful demonstrations.
- Commissioner Bratton is taking bold steps to reform community-police relations. Together we're committed to creating mutual respect between police and community, fairness and consistency.
 - Ended overuse of stop and frisk. First 3 quarters, number of stops down 79%. But the stops that are being made are more meaningful for public safety-- fewer stops, but more of the stops resulting in the arrest for a criminal offense (increase from 6% to 16-17% of stops resulting in an arrest for some type of offense)
 - Reduced arrests for low-level marijuana possession: In 2 weeks since new policy implemented, low-level marijuana stops down more than 60%
 - Immediately committed to retraining every single officer, all 35,000, with a special focus on use of force. More tools and training for conflict resolution.
 - And beginning to test the use of body cameras on police officers.
- These reforms are having an impact: from July 1 through November 30th, complaints lodged with Civilian Complaint Review Board declined 26% [1,813 complaints filed compared to the same period in 2013 when 2,450 complaints filed].
- What we're talking about here are centuries-old problems of racism and injustice; clearly there is always more to be done.
 - There are still wide disparities in income, employment, housing, education, and public health in this city.
 - And despite the enormous progress, the gap between law enforcement and our communities remains too large.

Q&A

Q:

You made some very personal comments this week, showing solidarity with the Garner family and communities of color who feel besieged by police aggression. But you oversee 35,000 police officers, and in that press conference, you never once talked about the thousands of officers who do a very dangerous job – and do it well – in order to keep Black, Latino, white, and Asian New Yorkers safe. Was that a mistake?

A:

- I spoke very clearly about Commissioner Bratton and the officers he commands – and I publicly praise their skill, their courage, and their tremendous work under extraordinarily difficult pressure to keep us safe.
- Unwavering respect for and pride in our law enforcement officers. THEY are the reason that we have seen a drop in murder, robberies, and almost every other category since I became mayor.
- I have never confused the hard work of the vast majority of police officers with the misguided actions of a few.
- Protests- Thousands of people took to the streets to make their voices heard. But they did so peacefully. There were arrests, to be sure. But New Yorkers spoke out for reform without violence or vandalism.
- That’s a testament to the protestors, who know that change comes through activism, not violence. And it’s ALSO a testament to our police officers, who kept the city safe while also respecting the rights of many, many hurt and angry people to demonstrate.

Q:

There’s been a lot of talk about the Broken Windows theory of policing – targeting those who commit smaller crimes in hopes of preventing more serious crime. Eric Garner was breaking the law, selling loose cigarettes illegally. You and your police chief have defended Broken Windows as an appropriate method for policing.

The head of the police union criticized you – essentially saying that if you want police officers to do their jobs differently, to NOT crack down on smaller crimes – then it’s up to you to tell them that – that you can’t tell them to police a certain way, and then criticize them for doing their jobs. Is it fair to say you’re trying to have it both ways?

A:

- Under my police chief, we are not only rethinking how we police – so that we target the actual bad guys; we are already implementing it.
- We came into office saying we’d eliminate the overuse of stop and frisk, which was unfairly targeting young men of color. We did that. 533,042 stop and frisks in 2012; 191,558 in 2013; only 38,456 so far during the first three quarters of 2014.
- Now, the critics said that was crazy – that crime would SOAR as a result. But the OPPOSITE has happened. Crime is down more than 4%.
- From arming police officers with new technologies like a GPS system to more quickly pinpoint the firing of an illegal gun; to pushing forward with body cameras; to a wholesale retraining of the entire police force so that they are protecting AND respecting the people they’re sworn to serve.

Q:

But Broken Windows is Commissioner Bratton’s baby. He applied it during the Giuliani era. Your critics on the Left have said that if you were serious about reforming a crackdown on petty crimes, you wouldn't have picked Bratton.

• A:

- Let me tell you something about Bill Bratton. I know this man, and I know his heart.
- And there is no police chief in the country who is more committed to building a stronger relationship between police and the people they serve.
- When he was chief of the LAPD, race relations were terribly frayed.
- Mentioned the reforms we've put in place to date.
- Also the way we're communicating with residents of our city. Commissioner Bratton has spoken publicly about rooting out racist cops.
- With all due respect to previous administrations, New Yorkers have never heard a police chief confront an issue like that so directly and with such unflinching resolve. And that sends a signal to our 35,000 police officers that we have great trust in them, but we also hold them to a high standard of conduct.

Q:

You've also been criticized by the Left for your actions on policing. The NYT has questioned Broken Windows, while others on the left have denounced it. You campaigned as a progressive reformer. Are you now sort of stuck between a rock and a hard place?

A:

- I am a product of movement politics. And let me explain what that means. It means you believe that the way to bring about real, substantive change is to push and push and push – not settle for half a loaf. You need to challenge those in power to do more to address big challenges.
- Today, I'm the one in power. So I have great respect and empathy for those who want me to produce more change and to do it faster. I don't dismiss that; I embrace it. It helps keep me focused on the core mission. I signed up for this job – and I am going to work as hard to deliver change from the inside as I did when I was on the outside.

Q:

Several times this week, you've mentioned racism as it relates to policing. The polls show that many people of color agree with you. But those same polls show that most white residents disagree. By talking about racism so frequently, don't you risk dividing the city – pitting white New Yorkers against Black and Latino New Yorkers?

A:

- To pretend like racism doesn't exist in our society today is the height of irresponsibility.
- And we're never going to eliminate it if we decide that it's a topic we can't even TALK about.
- And New Yorkers don't shy away from discussing the hard topics. We're a city of 8.4 million personalities, and the greatest diversity of any city in the country. We talk things out; we're real with each other; and we work together to solve problems. That's what New York is all about.

Q:

Rudy Giuliani accused you of racism and the PBA says that you unfairly targeted cops. How do you respond?

A:

- When Rudy Giuliani was mayor, our city was as racially divided as any point in my lifetime. He saw political utility in systematically shutting out leaders in the African American and Latino communities.
- Mike Bloomberg, with whom I've disagreed on many things, made great progress in repairing some of the damage done to race relations in New York during the Giuliani years – and I applaud him for that.
- I'm not going to shy away from having tough conversations about race and injustice. That's the only way we're going to move forward and make real progress.

Q:

Several members of Congress from New York, including the two Senators, criticized the grand jury for not indicting. You very deliberately stopped short of doing that. Were they wrong to judge the grand jury's decision?

A:

- I'm not going to speak to their individual decisions. I just believe that as Mayor, it's not appropriate for me to comment specifically on what the grand jury did.
- But as a New Yorker, as a father, and particularly as part of an interracial family, I know the anger and pain and frustration of millions of New Yorkers – and countless Americans across the country – and I know it in very personal terms.
- There are those who feel that the system is broken – that it continues to fail people from certain communities over and over and over again. And that has to change. And we will do everything in our power as an administration – but also as a city of 8.4 million New Yorkers – to change that.

####

Progress vs. Cuomo

Q: You wrote a passionate piece for Huffington Post about the need for the Democrats to stay left, yet you enthusiastically supported Governor Andrew Cuomo, who seems to take pleasure out of disappointing liberals. How can you be for both?

A:

- I have been unapologetic about wanting to move New York City in a bold, progressive direction. Best way to help the city is to support and work with Governor Cuomo.

Ray Kelly on CNN

Chris Cuomo: Let's bring in former New York City police commissioner Raymond Kelly. It's good to have you, commissioner. As always, thank you for being here. First, let's talk about how the protests are going in New York City. Do you believe that this is happening the right way here? Are the police doing the right thing? Are the protesters doing the right thing?

Ray Kelly: The right thing – that's an interesting question. Obviously they're tying up traffic. There's a lot of concern. There's a lot of emotion involved here. I think the police are doing a good job. I think sometimes you have to prevent people from blocking traffic or taking a bridge. And you know, that's something, I hope, the leadership is looking at doing. But what we've seen is the demonstrators able to take over streets and bridges for a significant period of time. That impacts on a lot of people's lives.

Cuomo: But what can you do without escalating the situation and turning it into something that is a real disaster?

Kelly: Well, they have made 100 arrests last evening so you can make arrests. But you don't always have to make arrests. The police department in New York is the biggest in the country – 35,000 uniformed officers. You can mass officers to prevent some of these things from happening.

Cuomo: Do you think it's wrong that they're taking to the streets and protesting over what happened?

Kelly: No, absolutely not. That's what we're all about here in this country. People have very deep concerns about two decisions – the Michael Brown and Eric Garner case. We understand that.

Cuomo: When you look at this Garner tape – you've seen it – when you look at what officers do in there, where you surprised there was no indictment?

Kelly: You can't put yourselves in the place of the grand jury. We weren't there. I don't know what they saw. I don't know if they did it frame by frame. I don't know what the officer said.

Cuomo: Do you think we should know?

Kelly: I'd like to know, and obviously New York law is different from Missouri law.

Cuomo: But he hasn't even asked – the prosecutor – he hasn't even asked the judge to release it.

Kelly: Well, he's asked for a portion of it. He got some information yesterday or the day before –

Cuomo: But he's not really going the disclosure route – you think they should be?

Kelly: Well, I think a – disjuncture – I'd like to see more information, yes.

Cuomo: Because there's something about it that doesn't make sense. When you just look at the video in real-time, it does look like he's choking the guy, he goes down –

Kelly: Well, I think it's important to remember a chokehold is restricted by an internal regulation. It is not against the law. In many police departments in the country, it's no problem. So, it is a regulation.

Cuomo: Right and it was very important to you. You were very out front about it – about why you didn't want it.

Kelly: Well, I banned the regulation – I put in the regulation about 20 years ago because we had a series of cases. No question about it, it is very sensitive when you go near somebody's neck. And it's resulted in the deaths of other people in the history of this department and other departments.

Cuomo: But where it's legal or not – I feel like we're getting caught in the weeds on this. He gets behind the guy, he chokes him, the guy goes down, he's saying he can't breathe, he dies. It just screams of excessive force.

Kelly: Well, again, we don't know exactly what was presented to the grand jury.

Cuomo: So then you get why this happened, and race comes up – unarmed black man, he's selling cigarettes – maybe, maybe not. Who knows if he even had the cigarettes there? That's unclear. And he winds up dying and this is what happens because blacks don't get fair treatment by the cops. It's a cultural problem. Do you accept that?

Kelly: Do I accept that as being a – I accept that as being clearly a perception on the part of a lot of people. There is a perception in the African-American community that they don't get fair treatment in many, many encounters with the police department. I would like to point out that in 2013, there was a poll of [inaudible] of the New York City police department. 70 percent of people approved of the actions of the NYPD, and it was at 58 percent in the African American community. So the notion that there is this great schism between the African American community and the NYPD, simply was not the case in 2013. Now, if you keep talking about it, yes, it will continue to fester and become more of a problem.

Cuomo: Do you think our talking about it is creating the problem or do you think there's a problem and we're talking about it?

Kelly: No, I think some politicians – and certainly in the campaign in 2013, it was made an issue. And it continues to be an issue in the political sphere. So, yeah I think it adds to the problem.

Cuomo: But do you think it's not just highlighting a reality – that cops in high-crime districts that tend to be high-minority districts, have a rougher and less dignified relationship with the police than let's say, where I am on Carnegie Hill.

Kelly: Well I don't think that's what the issue is, [inaudible] what people are saying. Is there tension in some minority communities between the police and the people who live there? Sure.

Cuomo: Can you change it?

Kelly: You can work to change it.

Cuomo: How?

Kelly: By more communication, by having a more diversified police force. The NYPD — the police officer rank — is a majority minority now. You have police officers in 106 countries, so a lot of effort has been made. I think we've made a lot of progress. Now when you have an Eric Garner case, when you have a Michael Brown case, it certainly sets us back significantly. But, in the big picture — certainly from my vantage point having been in the business 40 years — a lot of progress has been made.

Cuomo: And — so how do we improve? And you gotta deal with culture, you gotta deal with conversation with the community, you work for them not against them — what happens when the horrible happens? Do you think prosecutors should investigate their own cops.

Kelly: Prosecutors are elected — we have five district attorneys elected in New York City. They're representing the people. Now, in certain instances, I can see where you need a special prosecutor. But in normal cases — when I say normal cases, when there's some encounter between the police and members of minority community — I think the DA's can do the job.

Cuomo: But they're making their cases with these same men and women. I mean, these are their people. I mean, the guy out in Staten Island — these are his cops that he makes cases with all the time. And so he goes before the grand jury — do you think he's as aggressive with, you know, that defendant being a cop as he would be if it were Eric Garner. They usually go in there wanting an indictment — the grand jury is a tool of theirs, you know this.

Kelly: The district attorneys that are in New York City — the ones that I know — we all hold them to the highest standards and I think they do a terrific job. In certain instances, maybe it calls for a special prosecutor. I wouldn't say at any time there's a police investigation that you needed a special prosecutor — I don't think so. I think they'd be against it quite a bit.

Cuomo: A little inside baseball, but I think people were trying to figure out how this happened because it seems like probable cause was a bar you could have hopped over pretty easily here. What would happen in trial? Who knows. Staten Island — that's where this happened. They made a movie Cop Land, that was basically about Staten Island, that there's a lot of conservative people there, that there's a lot of first responder families, and that maybe if this had happened in another borough you would have gotten an indictment — but not there. Do you think there's anything to do?

Kelly: The grand jury, as I understand it — made up of 14 whites and nine, or eight, African-Americans. So that's pretty representative. And actually — the demographics of Staten Island — a larger percentage of whites than that jury reflected. So, I mean, I think that's a pretty reasonable construct of a grand jury to look at this case.

Cuomo: So you think, going forward, changes can be made? The first thing we've heard is three-day training for 22,000 cops and that's going to be a sweeping change. That's not going to be enough — that's just going a first step, right?

Kelly: Well, as far as training is concerned, I'd like to point out that the NYPD is the only major police department accredited by the commissioner on law enforcement accreditation. It took four years to do. It was renewed in 2009 and 2012. So, the training, I think, has been well done. Now, is this new training is going to make a difference? We'll see. I don't know who devised it. I don't know who put it together. I don't know what expert input we have. We'll have to see.

Cuomo: Could be something that just sounds good.

Kelly: You could talk about training and talk about it for quite a while. It's always the answers down the road.

Cuomo: Right? You started this conversation with, kind of, adding that a lot of politicians say this and now they're saying they've got the solution and it's in training. Do you think that the police can become scapegoats in a situation like this for politicians who don't want to deal with underlying social issues.

Kelly: Sure. Absolutely. We've seen that throughout the history of modern policing. The police are easy to bash. In this city, you have record low crime rates. Last year, we had 333 murders. In 1990, we had 2,245 murders and a million fewer people living in New York than we have now. The city is as safe as its ever been, yet people want to still blame the police of a myriad of things.

Cuomo: Push back is, well how did you get it that way? Part of it's going to be the economy, right? Whether it's stop and frisk — which you had very strong feelings about — or broken windows policy — which Bratton and you guys were architects of that — that the people who you police on that level pay too high a price for too small a crime. This guy was selling cigarettes and he winds up getting rushed by a handful of officers. He winds up dying — it's not worth it. Even if it reduces crime.

Kelly: People in these communities, I think, have a pretty strong relationship with the police, contrary to what you may see in the media. They need help — they want help. The president said the other day that communities of color need strong policing. And it has absolutely transformed neighborhoods throughout New York. You know that — you've been here your whole life. You know, neighborhoods that you'd never go to 20 years ago, now have million dollar condos in them. That's because of the low-levels of crime and the feeling of public safety.

Cuomo: You do not think that this should be representative of the NYPD overall? In terms of its reputation.

Kelly: What is representative?

Cuomo: The Eric Garner situation.

Kelly: New York City Police Department does terrific work every day and it's made this city, that was crime-ridden in 1990, the safest big city in America.

Cuomo: Commissioner Kelly, you're certainly a part of that legacy and we appreciate you being on New Day.

Kelly: Thanks, Chris.

Your Op-ed:

It's a time-honored tradition.

After months of covering the midterm elections through a prism of polls and tactics, pundits will shift their focus to the defeated party's so-called season of "soul-searching."

As a Democrat, I'm disappointed in last Tuesday's results. But as a progressive, I know my party need not search for its soul – but rather, its backbone.

The truth is that the Democratic Party has core values that are very much in sync with most Americans.

We believe in taking dead aim at the income inequality that infects our communities – from big cities like New York, to small towns and rural areas across the United States.

We believe that the wealthy should pay their fair share so we can lift people out of poverty and grow our middle class.

And we believe in rules that prevent big corporations and Wall Street banks from unraveling workers' pensions, suppressing employees' wages and benefits, and rigging the system to reward wealth instead of work.

This year, too many Democratic candidates lost sight of those core principles – opting instead to clip their progressive wings in deference to a conventional wisdom that says bold ideas aren't politically practical.

To working people, it showed Democratic weakness – a weak commitment to the change desperately sought by struggling families, and a weak alternative to a Republican philosophy that has held America back.

Bold, progressive ideas win elections.

Just ask Senator Al Franken, who has fought fearlessly to rein in Wall Street, and won by a larger margin on Tuesday than President Obama did in Minnesota in 2012.

Or Senator Jeff Merkley, who never backed away from his support for Obamacare – a federal program that is already working to reduce income inequality, and promises to do more to address the inequality crisis than anything out of Washington in generations. Merkley won re-election in Oregon by six points more than Obama won that state in 2012.

Then there's Governor Jerry Brown, who cruised to re-election after championing – and winning – a millionaire's tax that dedicated funding to California's public schools.

And don't forget Governor Dan Malloy – who was written off by so many in his re-election bid in Connecticut. Malloy raised taxes so he could invest more in education each year (at a time when other Governors were slashing education to close yawning budget gaps). Malloy passed earned sick time and a minimum wage hike. And in his re-election bid, he proudly stood alongside President Obama.

Malloy not only lived to tell about it on Tuesday, he increased his margin of victory in a rematch with his 2010 Republican opponent.

Critics will point to competitive Senate races in Kentucky, Arkansas, and North Carolina as places where such progressive policies would all but ensure Democrats' defeat.

Our question is: how would they know?

In those states, Democratic candidates didn't say much about progressive taxation, expanding health and retirement benefits, or implementing anti-poverty efforts like universal pre-k or affordable housing.

In Kentucky, more than 413,000 residents have signed up for Obamacare – making it one of the program's most notable success stories. Arkansas had the nation's fourth highest poverty rate last year, at 19.7%. In North Carolina – nearly 60% of three-and-four-year olds are not enrolled in pre-k. What were the Democratic candidates offering voters there?

We saw photo-ops with candidates firing their rifles of choice; witnessed rhetorical gymnastics about how different they were from Obama; and watched televised debates dominated by empty attacks on the Koch Brothers' influence on campaigns, rather than policies requiring billionaires like the Kochs to pay their fair share in taxes to fund programs benefiting working people.

I'm not blaming the individual candidates here. The strategies they employed are largely the making of Washington insiders who force-feed message points on candidates under threat of being written off by their national party infrastructure.

But we've tried it the Washington way time and time again – and seen the result. It's time for a bold, new approach – with campaign messages that are rooted in local concerns and core party principles; ideas that are morally just, intellectually honest, and sound public policy. In other words, a campaign plan that gives voters some credit, and has a real chance of success at the polls.

Acknowledging the need to address income inequality helps win elections. Want proof? Look at the Republicans. In several contests where the GOP prevailed last Tuesday, candidates spoke directly to voters' concerns on issues like poverty, wage equality, and underemployment.

And tackling inequality is not only good politics; it's good government.

In New York, progressive Democrats joined me in passing universal pre-k and an expansion of after-school programs. We are pursuing bold plans for building affordable housing. And we've taken decisive action to offer more people paid sick leave and living wages.

In Washington, Senator Elizabeth Warren and progressive Democrats have fought to better regulate the complex financial instruments at the heart of the 2008 fiscal meltdown, and have battled the big banks to allow students to refinance their college loans at current lower rates.

And the fight against inequality isn't limited to blue states. Right now, there's a fierce battle being waged on behalf of pre-k in dark-red Indiana. In Kentucky, Governor Beshear maintains wide support and popularity after publicly championing the benefits of Obamacare to the state. Last week, voters in Arkansas, Alaska, Nebraska, and South Dakota approved ballot measures to increase the minimum wage.

So where do Democrats go from here?

The 2016 presidential election is two years off, but will have a huge impact on the lives of America's middle-class and poor. Democrats simply cannot rely on shifting demographics and a badly damaged Republican brand to hold the White House and help countless Americans who are struggling.

We must demonstrate, from coast to coast, that we are a party dedicated to lifting people out of poverty; one committed to building a bigger and more durable middle-class; one that is unafraid to ask a little more from those at the very top – the wealthy individuals and big corporations who have not only rebounded from the depths of the Great Recession, but who've accumulated record new wealth.

This is a blueprint to revitalize the Democratic Party; to reenergize the everyday people whom we have always championed and stand up tall – with a backbone of steel – in what is sure to be a hard-fought contest for the direction our nation in 2016 and beyond

Mayor Bill de Blasio Delivers Remarks at the Labour Party Conference September 24, 2014

Remarks as Prepared for Delivery

It's such an honor to be here with Mr. Miliband and ALL the people who make this Labour Party what it is. From he and the other rising stars who will lead Labour to victory next year... to the everyday activists whose unflinching passion and energy will fuel the campaign.

Though I've seen your efforts mostly from afar, it's clear to me, even across five time zones and an ocean, that this group is working towards something special.... something important.

It's fitting that we find ourselves in Manchester. This city was at the forefront of the innovation and ingenuity that drove the Industrial Revolution, helping shape the contours of the modern economy that we know today.

It shares a special status in history with the city I love and am so honored to lead. Both are places where big ideas and raw grit have been honored and rewarded like few others in the world.

It is also among the first places in the world to foster a modern working class... and among the first where working people empowered themselves to take part in the political process. It's no wonder then that Manchester is a place where hard truths are deeply understood and spoken out.

I cannot imagine a more appropriate backdrop for this gathering because yours is a party BORN out of working people attaining the right to vote... a party that EXISTS to fight for working families and forcefully address their needs.

Labour has inclusiveness and progressiveness coded in its DNA... Yours is a party grounded in the idea that everyone's voice matters.... And that no one should be left behind.

THIS Labour Party is led by a new generation of progressive leaders and defined by bold ideas. You stand ready to ACT with a plan for a fairer, more prosperous United Kingdom.... And to FIGHT for an economy... a country... that works for working people.

THIS Labour Party hears the voices of the millions who feel like they are treading water... Working harder and harder but feeling less and less secure about the future.

And your party refuses to accept the politics of inertia... That resigned mindset that says the next generation is destined to do worse than this one.

By virtue of being in this room, you recognize that we owe it to our children to do better ... to live up to the most basic promise we make to the people we serve.

I say that as someone charged with the duty of overseeing New York's school system, where over one million children 18 and under learn and grow.

I also say it as a father of two beautiful children of my own, Dante and Chiara, who have attended those schools for most of their young lives.

There is NO duty more sacred than parenthood.

Nothing gives me more comfort... more joy... than watching my children grow, knowing they can be WHATEVER they want to be. The boundaries of their future are determined only by how hard they work and how big they dream.

If we accept a future – or a present – where parents can't look their kids in the eyes and tell them they have a shot at something better, then we break the promise of civilized society.... We deprive our children – AND their parents -- of so much.

Now, I've said that growing inequality is THE crisis of our time in New York City. It's true here as well.

The numbers speak for themselves.

In the UK, in 2011, the average income of an adult in the top 0.1 % (point one percent) was more than 70 times that of someone in the bottom 90%. [2011, World Income Database].

The Guardian recently reported that the five richest families in the UK have more wealth than the entire bottom 20% of the country.

And, as is the case in New York City, the trend has been moving sharply in the wrong direction. According to a study published by Oxfam, since the 1990s, incomes of the top 0.1% (point one percent) of Britons have grown four times faster than those of the bottom 90%.

Now, there's nothing wrong with attaining wealth. I'm happy to celebrate the success of those who've earned it. But this crisis is keeping so many from writing their OWN success stories.

This status quo offers only the narrowest path to opportunity. Instead, it leaves everyday working people caught in a cost-of-living crisis.

And let's be clear what we mean when we talk about a cost of living crisis. It's not a reference to the astonishingly high price of penthouse flats, Bentleys or five-star holidays.

The people who can afford THOSE luxuries, are in fact, doing quite well under this Conservative government.

But feeding a family, keeping a modest home that's lit and heated, securing a safe place for children to be while parents are hard at work... THESE things are becoming more and more costly. We're not talking about luxuries, or even conveniences, but the ESSENTIALS that people need to live.

LIVING itself is getting harder and harder for working families to afford. Not living WELL... just LIVING; just getting by.

And the price people pay isn't merely monetary.

You can see it in the tired eyes of the waitress whose SECOND job is preceded by a second SHIFT at her FIRST job....

In the shaky hand of the bus driver signing the paperwork for a payday loan....

In the clenched jaws and stiff lips of working parents mustering brave faces in front of their son and daughter... in the STRAIN that goes into just hiding the fear that they won't be able to attain a better life.

As wealth becomes more concentrated at the top, stories like these are becoming all too common.

If unaddressed, the crisis will become THE defining characteristic of our societies... It won't be prosperity or opportunity... tragically, it will be inequality and the cost-of-living crisis.

I know this Labour Party understands what's at stake.

I also know the weight of this moment can feel like a burden: the exasperation that comes from knowing the gravity of this threat – a generation at risk of being forsaken – at a time when so many seem unwilling to act in response.

The right side of history can feel like a lonely place. But it isn't. It never has been.

Rather, history itself tells us that people gravitate towards decency, inclusion and progress.

And you don't have to look back thousands of years to see that – go walk around the streets of Manchester... Go to a school, a church, a mosque... You can see the trust people put in one another every day; the value people place in simple moral action.

So why then is COLLECTIVE moral action often so difficult?

In the case of the inequality and cost-of-living crisis, part of the issue is scope: the problem seems so difficult, so deeply embedded, that good people can be tempted to throw their hands up and declare that nothing can be done about it.

But there's something else going on as well. As is the case with many injustices, there are people – small in number but oversized in power – who benefit from the status quo, and they work to maintain it. Their voices seem louder... more confident and authoritative... and those of everyday people get drowned out.

In this way, people are made to feel powerless... made to feel that their voice doesn't matter at all.

So at the same time that inequality is skyrocketing and the cost of living is overwhelming – something people can see and feel every day – we're told that just speaking of this problem is unconstructive, divisive... harmful, even.

You know that it isn't. So do the people of your country.

Part of your job then is to help them find their voice to say – together – that Britons deserve something better.

Sometimes people – good, hardworking people – need to hear the truth spoken before they feel comfortable speaking it themselves.

And there's so much power that comes from speaking the truth... especially from speaking HARD truths.

That's because the status quo gets perpetuated through a series of falsehoods... false CHOICES that assign mutual exclusivity to ideas that should be complementary.

We're told that prosperity can't be both great, and shared....

That you can't lift the floor for those struggling in a tough economy, and still balance a budget....

That those of us who serve can't expect to achieve anything at all if we dare to advance policies that are bold and morally right.

In the lead-up to the election for New York City Mayor last year, the voices of the status quo gave voters another false choice: support MY candidacy ... OR vote for someone with a real shot at winning.

Well, I am here before you today because the people of New York City rejected the lazy logic of false-choice politics.

I want to tell you how it happened.

I announced my candidacy for Mayor from the front steps of my home in Brooklyn in January 2013. A few hundred people were there with me... the earliest believers in our campaign.

We were brought together by a deep concern: that New York had become a Tale of Two Cities; a place where a few were doing very well, but millions of working people were struggling.

It threatened to degrade New York's status in the world.

The beacon of opportunity that for generations shone so brightly across-our-five-boroughs-and-out-into-the -world was dimming.

We saw it, we FELT it in our city.... Even if it was unspoken, we saw on our neighbors' faces: the weight of worry about a future of diminished possibilities.

And we knew the policies of the status quo were exacerbating the problem rather than addressing it.

But though our mission was in many ways somber, our mood that day was not. It was a grey, frigid afternoon, but the event had an aura of excitement and joy one would expect at a summer street party. It was no doubt a strange sight to those passing by.

There was a feeling that something special was happening that made the chill tolerable. It came from having found in one another a group of people who spoke the same truth about our Tale of Two Cities...the harm it was doing.... the threat it posed.

There was a sense of relief that came from learning we weren't alone in our beliefs... a lifting of lonely burdens.

There was a powerful sense of MISSION that came from accepting a mutual responsibility to act, together, against this scourge... and a heartfelt faith that victory was achievable, no matter the odds.

Now, the odds did appear quite long, at first. It felt like the total number of those in the city who had HEARD of me was limited to those standing in front of my home that day... And my house is not very big.

And not only were other candidates for mayor better known, they espoused ideas that were seen as more politically practical, hewing to the familiarity of the status quo.

But it was never my intention to nibble around the edges with policies of timid maintenance; I ran to take dead aim at the crisis of our time. And I became Mayor because everyday New Yorkers, too, were hungry for a clean break from the status quo.

Our campaign was powered by people of every race, every age, every income bracket. And yes, even many New Yorkers who had enjoyed great success joined our fight against rising inequality. They wanted the next generation of New Yorkers to have the same opportunities the city had given them.

We were a small group, at first, but as New Yorkers learned that we were fighting for a government that would represent THEIR values -- fairness, justice, real opportunity for all -- our campaign grew. And grew... And grew.

We worked -- together -- as activists, to spread the word.

And so, in living rooms and parks... on Twitter and Facebook... people were hearing from one another for the first time things they already knew in their own hearts to be true... and they were learning the POWER that could come when they themselves spoke out.

THAT is how in a matter of months we went from a few hundred souls gathered on that blustery Brooklyn day, to not just winning, but winning BIG on ELECTION day.

And our shared resolve to remake our city didn't end when the votes were tallied.

The same tenets that defined our campaign now drive our Administration: a constant push for bold action; a willingness to hear and speak hard truths; an agenda set by listening to the PEOPLE.

With regard to my absolute highest priority, that's meant working aggressively to secure unprecedented access to free, full day – FULL DAY – early education programs for 4-year-olds.

We did this because study after study shows the great equalizing effect of early education. But you don't need to read an academic journal to get that: we all know access to quality education does so much to determine a person's economic destiny... and as with most matters of destiny, timing is everything.

Now, to give you some context on the politics we faced when trying to expand full day early education for all families, I'd like to read you two assessments from New York newspapers, published almost exactly one year apart.

In September 2013, a few months before I was elected Mayor... the New York Daily News wrote QUOTE “[The] promise to create 48,000 educational slots for four-year-olds...has little chance of becoming a reality.”

Then, in September 2014, in The New York Times QUOTE “51,000 Answer de Blasio's Bell for New Pre-K.”

Now, the 51,000 there refers to the number of kids who have been signed up for these programs. That's three thousand MORE than the number said to be impossible just one year ago.

It also means that 51,000 beautiful children are on a better path to success... And all of their mothers and fathers... grandparents and guardians... they get to experience the comfort... the joy... that comes from seeing the shine of brighter futures.

It's hard to express how much that means for the working people of our city. But it's also not all we've done in our first few months in office.

We've launched a plan to secure affordable housing for 500,000 New Yorkers over the next decade. That's more than the total population of Bristol... Or of Miami, for anyone watching back home.

We ended what had been one of the saddest manifestations of inequality by reforming racially biased police practices so that ALL law-abiding New Yorkers are granted the basic right of walking down the street without fear of being hassled by authorities.

And we've done all of this while reaching agreement on a contract with our city teachers – educators who had gone without a contract for nearly five years. In all that time, the good men and women charged with safeguarding the futures of our children had enjoyed little security when it came to their own futures.

We made a deal grounded in partnership and mutual respect, because RESPECT for working men and women is a core principle that all GOOD governments live by. It was a fair deal for teachers – offering increased pay that they greatly deserved. But it also generated important savings that labor was a partner in achieving. Put simply: it was a good deal for the people of New York.

So if anyone tells you that a balanced budget and an agenda of economic fairness can't go hand-in-hand, tell them to come visit New York City.

Really, it's beautiful this time of year.

I notice so many similarities between the UK I see today and the New York where I stood on that cold afternoon and announced my candidacy.

It comes through so clearly, even across great physical distance: the people of the UK are ready for bold, progressive change.

And if we can make the strides that we've made in New York City from a campaign so humble in its origins, imagine the feats that can come from this great hall!

The work you have in front of you is so important. Here's the evidence of that: the other side is trying to talk you into underestimating the reach of the good you can do.

There is little basis for glib assertion from the Conservatives that a progressive agenda is narrow in terms of whose lives it would improve.

The opposite is true. Mounting inequality creates ripple effects that undermine our whole societies. Here's just one example of how:

The Financial Times recently concluded that the income gap between America's richest and poorest metropolitan regions is not only the widest it has ever been, but that this phenomenon was QUOTE "shaping an uneven housing recovery that threatens to hold back the broader revival of the world's largest economy."

In an increasingly interconnected world, a system grounded in exclusivity is not sustainable for ANYONE, including those at the very top.

But that also means a progressive agenda has the power to help EVERYONE, whether your opponents acknowledge it or not.

Don't hold your breath waiting for this conservative government to do that. Their top-down policies are making things harder for working people every day.

Among the many ways they've aggravated the wounds of this crisis, the most painful might be their tax policy.

Instead of giving working families the leg-up they deserve, they gave huge tax cuts to the wealthiest with the vague hope that money would magically trickle down to everyone else. In my country, that's an approach we call voodoo economics.

I have no doubt the word "voodoo" sounds more elegant in a British accent than an American one, but in any intonation, we know it's a policy that doesn't work.

So let me tell you about what does work. And you don't have to look far to see it. In fact, you heard it at your own conference last evening.

Ed Miliband has so clearly articulated both the challenges, and the opportunities this moment in history creates for the British people.

He knows that a cautious approach won't do when it comes to addressing the crisis of our time. He has a BOLD vision for big change. As he said last evening: "I'm not talking about changing a policy or simply a different programme, but something that is bigger: transforming the idea and ethic of how our country is run."

And he knows well what needs to be done. As he told this conference LAST YEAR: "We have to rebuild anew One Nation. An economy built on your success, a society based on your values, a politics that hears your voice – rich and poor alike – accepting their responsibilities to each other."

Ed Miliband will be a Prime Minister for Britons with second jobs, not just those with second homes.

Ed Miliband understands -- this Labour Party understands – the true cost of a status quo that puts a barrier between working people and prosperity.

And this Labour Party not only has the right values, it has an agenda that translates values into action. Not political talk, but a real plan that reforms the crux of the economy.

Labour has a plan for a tax policy that rewards hard work over existing wealth and power. A plan to end the current government's tax cut for the wealthiest and instead give tax relief to 24 million middle and working class people....

A plan that protects and STRENGTHENS – not curtails – the NHS so that quality healthcare remains a right and not a privilege...

A plan that puts working people ahead of big corporations by controlling energy costs, and taking unprecedented steps to make housing more affordable.

And a plan that significantly increases – to 25 hours a week – free child care to working parents of 3- and 4-year olds, so that ALL kids can get on a path to success and opportunity early.

I speak from personal experience when I say that this initiative in particular has the power to lift lives like few others that governments can implement. And it will make such a difference for so many children, and for their parents.

Your agenda is a blueprint of what a fairer, more prosperous, STRONGER United Kingdom will look like.

That is not only why you MUST win, it is why you WILL win!

The upcoming election represents a choice for the people of your country: build a United Kingdom that rewards hard work and ensures the next generation does better... Or continue down a path of growing inequality and rising cost of living.

To me, that choice is very clear, as I know it is to the people in this room... and as I know it will become to everyday people across this country.

But to those on the other side, who argue things work BETTER when opportunity is scarce and exclusive, I offer this thought: not even DARWIN was a social Darwinist.

Indeed, Charles Darwin, one of the greatest minds that yours or any country ever produced, put it this way: "If the misery of the poor be caused not by the laws of nature, but by our institutions, great is our sin."

Among the cruelest false choices we are given is one that says we can only move forward if some are left behind. You don't need to accept that. No one should.

The work ahead of you will be anything but easy... I can assure you of that. That distinct histories written on opposite ends of an ocean leave us, at this moment, facing essentially the same crisis – underscores its profound scale.

But you have the power to overcome it.

If you reject the cold complacency of the status quo, its power will erode.

If you speak hard truths, others will listen.

If you empower the people of your great country to speak THEIR truths, to stand up and TO ACT in the face of this crisis, then there is so much good that you can achieve, together.

And I believe you will.

Thank you!

pressoffice@cityhall.nyc.gov

(212) 788-2958

From: <Hagelgans>, Andrea Hagelgans <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Saturday, December 6, 2014 at 3:09 PM
To: Elana Leopold <ELeopold@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: Michael Carey <mpcarey@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "'Jonathan@berlinrosen.com'" <Jonathan@berlinrosen.com>, "Wolfe, Emma" <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel" <GSchnakeMahl@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Walzak, Phil" <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Ragone, Peter" <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Sandy Seignious <sseignious@cityhall.nyc.gov>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: MBDB: Prep Call for Sunday Show

In updated briefing memo that was sent to alexis and MPC last night.

From: Leopold, Elana
Sent: Saturday, December 06, 2014 03:07 PM
To: Hagelgans, Andrea
Cc: Carey, Michael; Jonathan@berlinrosen.com <Jonathan@berlinrosen.com>; Wolfe, Emma; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Walzak, Phil; Ragone, Peter; Seignious, Sandy; jfdc@akpdmedia.com <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: MBDB: Prep Call for Sunday Show

Did we ever send a couple sentences to the mayor as he requested?

Sent from my iPhone

On Dec 6, 2014, at 3:02 PM, "Hagelgans, Andrea" <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Am driving. Will need to dial in 5 min late.

From: Carey, Michael
Sent: Saturday, December 06, 2014 02:59 PM
To: "'Jonathan@berlinrosen.com'" (Jonathan@berlinrosen.com) <Jonathan@berlinrosen.com>; Wolfe, Emma; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Walzak, Phil; Ragone, Peter; Seignious, Sandy; Hagelgans, Andrea; jfdc@akpdmedia.com <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Leopold, Elana
Subject: Re: MBDB: Prep Call for Sunday Show

Hi All,

We should be starting this call pretty close to on time.

So please dial in close to 3 PM ET.

From: [MPCarey@cityhall.nyc.gov](mailto:MP Carey@cityhall.nyc.gov)

When: 3:00 PM - 4:00 PM December 6, 2014

Subject: MBDB: Prep Call for Sunday Show

Location: Dial-in Number: [REDACTED] Meeting ID: [REDACTED]

From: Carey, Michael
To: Leopold, Elana; Hagelgans, Andrea
Cc: "Jonathan@berlinrosen.com"; Wolfe, Emma; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Walzak, Phil; Ragone, Peter; Seignious, Sandy; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Re: MBDB: Prep Call for Sunday Show
Date: Saturday, December 06, 2014 3:10:54 PM

Just sent to him

From: <Leopold>, Elana Leopold <ELeopold@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Saturday, December 6, 2014 at 3:09 PM
To: Andrea Hagelgans <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: Michael Carey <mpcarey@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "'Jonathan@berlinrosen.com'" <Jonathan@berlinrosen.com>, "Wolfe, Emma" <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel" <GSchnakeMahl@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Walzak, Phil" <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Ragone, Peter" <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Sandy Seignious <sseignious@cityhall.nyc.gov>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: MBDB: Prep Call for Sunday Show

Ok- was that sent to the mayor?

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
Sent: Saturday, December 06, 2014 03:09 PM
To: Leopold, Elana
Cc: Carey, Michael; 'Jonathan@berlinrosen.com' <Jonathan@berlinrosen.com>; Wolfe, Emma; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Walzak, Phil; Ragone, Peter; Seignious, Sandy; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: MBDB: Prep Call for Sunday Show

In updated briefing memo that was sent to alexis and MPC last night.

From: Leopold, Elana
Sent: Saturday, December 06, 2014 03:07 PM
To: Hagelgans, Andrea
Cc: Carey, Michael; Jonathan@berlinrosen.com <Jonathan@berlinrosen.com>; Wolfe, Emma; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Walzak, Phil; Ragone, Peter; Seignious, Sandy; jfdc@akpdmedia.com <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: MBDB: Prep Call for Sunday Show

Did we ever send a couple sentences to the mayor as he requested?

Sent from my iPhone

On Dec 6, 2014, at 3:02 PM, "Hagelgans, Andrea" <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Am driving. Will need to dial in 5 min late.

From: Carey, Michael
Sent: Saturday, December 06, 2014 02:59 PM

To: "Jonathan@berlinrosen.com" (Jonathan@berlinrosen.com)'
<Jonathan@berlinrosen.com>; Wolfe, Emma; Schnake-Mahl, Gabriel; Walzak, Phil;
Ragone, Peter; Seignious, Sandy; Hagelgans, Andrea; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'
<jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Leopold, Elana
Subject: Re: MBDB: Prep Call for Sunday Show

Hi All,

We should be starting this call pretty close to on time.

So please dial in close to 3 PM ET.

From: MPCarey@cityhall.nyc.gov

When: 3:00 PM - 4:00 PM December 6, 2014

Subject: MBDB: Prep Call for Sunday Show

Location: Dial-in Number: [REDACTED] Meeting ID: [REDACTED]

From: John Del Cecato
To: [Hagelgans, Andrea; "Jonathan@berlinrosen.com"](mailto:Hagelgans, Andrea; Jonathan@berlinrosen.com)
Cc: B; Ragone, Peter; Wolfe, Emma; Leopold, Elana; Carey, Michael
Subject: Re: Natl/local data
Date: Saturday, December 06, 2014 4:39:15 PM

Here's the Reich column I referenced

"...the richest one-hundredth of one percent of Americans now hold over 11 percent of the nation's total wealth. That's a higher share than the top .01 percent held in 1929, before the Great Crash."

http://www.salon.com/2014/11/19/robert_reich_the_1_percent_is_gutting_american_middle_class_partner/

On 12/6/14, 3:35 PM, "Hagelgans, Andrea" <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>From Mahen:

>-Earnings for the bottom 90% of Americans fell between 2010 and 2013, >with the poorest the hardest hit.

>

>- Unbelievably, during that time, incomes for the top 10% rose.

>

>Here's Rattner's recent Times op-ed as backup:

><http://www.nytimes.com/2014/11/17/opinion/inequality-unbelievably-gets-worse.html>

>

>----- Original Message -----

>From: Jonathan Rosen [<mailto:Jonathan@berlinrosen.com>]

>Sent: Saturday, December 06, 2014 04:18 PM

>To: Hagelgans, Andrea

>Cc: jfdc@akpdmedia.com <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; B; Ragone, Peter; Wolfe,
>Emma; Leopold, Elana; Carey, Michael

>Subject: Re: Natl/local data

>

>Do we have a comp stat to how well the wealthiest Americans are doing in >recovery? Feel like we need a parallel to just increase in poverty.

>

>Sent from my iPhone

>

>> On Dec 6, 2014, at 4:15 PM, "Hagelgans, Andrea"

>><AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>>

>> Here's what mahen recommends:

>> • The inequality crisis is real - an astounding 46% of New Yorkers live >>at or near the poverty level.

>>

>> • Nationally, it is unacceptable that over 40 million Americans live in >>poverty - with tens of millions more also struggling to get by.

From: John Del Cecato
To: Jonathan Rosen
Cc: Hagelgans, Andrea; B; Ragone, Peter; Wolfe, Emma; Leopold, Elana; Carey, Michael
Subject: Re: Natl/local data
Date: Saturday, December 06, 2014 6:26:08 PM

One more

<http://fortune.com/2014/10/31/inequality-wealth-income-us/>
"Saez and Zucman show that, in America, the wealthiest 160,000 families own as much wealth as the poorest 145 million families"

On Dec 6, 2014, at 3:18 PM, Jonathan Rosen <Jonathan@berlinrosen.com> wrote:

Do we have a comp stat to how well the wealthiest Americans are doing in recovery? Feel like we need a parallel to just increase in poverty.

Sent from my iPhone

On Dec 6, 2014, at 4:15 PM, "Hagelgans, Andrea"
<AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Here's what mahen recommends:

- The inequality crisis is real - an astounding 46% of New Yorkers live at or near the poverty level.
- Nationally, it is unacceptable that over 40 million Americans live in poverty - with tens of millions more also struggling to get by.

From: B
To: Gunaratna, Mahen; Ragone, Peter
Cc: Hagelgans, Andrea; "Jonathan@berlinrosen.com"; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Wolfe, Emma; Leopold, Elana; Carey, Michael
Subject: Re: Natl/local data
Date: Saturday, December 06, 2014 8:12:47 PM

Excellent work! Thanks!

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
Sent: Saturday, December 06, 2014 08:10 PM
To: Ragone, Peter
Cc: B; Hagelgans, Andrea; Jonathan@berlinrosen.com <Jonathan@berlinrosen.com>; jfdc@akpdmedia.com <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Wolfe, Emma; Leopold, Elana; Carey, Michael
Subject: Re: Natl/local data

1. Income inequality is the highest it's been in the past 100 years. (source: Janet Yellen's speech on inequality, which cites Piketty et al in footnote #2 - <http://www.federalreserve.gov/newsevents/speech/yellen20141017a.htm#fn2>)

2. 32.5% of Americans are living at or near the poverty line (if we're using the 150% threshold - source: <http://bit.ly/1vZsBoR> and <http://www.demos.org/blog/10/20/14/one-third-americans-are-or-near-poverty>)

Sent from my iPhone

On Dec 6, 2014, at 7:24 PM, Ragone, Peter <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

+Mahen to get this for MBDB...

----- Original Message -----

From: B
Sent: Saturday, December 06, 2014 07:23 PM
To: Hagelgans, Andrea; 'Jonathan@berlinrosen.com' <Jonathan@berlinrosen.com>
Cc: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Ragone, Peter; Wolfe, Emma; Leopold, Elana; Carey, Michael
Subject: Re: Natl/local data

This is the most pertinent of the stats. And now I need the parallel national stats to what I've said so often locally:

1. We are experiencing the greatest inequality since _____ ? (In the case of nyc, it's 1929 -- true for USA as well?)

2. % of Americans living at or near the poverty line? In nyc, the 46% is based on those living under 150% of the poverty level. Example here:

poverty level is about $23,000 annual income for a family of 4 -- the 150% level is about $35,000 for a family of 4. So what % of Americans are at that level or below in terms of their local economies?

Thanks

----- Original Message -----

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
Sent: Saturday, December 06, 2014 04:35 PM
To: 'Jonathan@berlinrosen.com' <Jonathan@berlinrosen.com>
Cc: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; B; Ragone, Peter; Wolfe, Emma; Leopold, Elana; Carey, Michael
Subject: Re: Natl/local data

From Mahen:

-Earnings for the bottom 90% of Americans fell between 2010 and 2013, with the poorest the hardest hit.

- Unbelievably, during that time, incomes for the top 10% rose.

Here's Rattner's recent Times op-ed as backup: <http://www.nytimes.com/2014/11/17/opinion/inequality-unbelievably-gets-worse.html>

----- Original Message -----

From: Jonathan Rosen [<mailto:Jonathan@berlinrosen.com>]
Sent: Saturday, December 06, 2014 04:18 PM
To: Hagelgans, Andrea
Cc: jfdc@akpdmedia.com <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; B; Ragone, Peter; Wolfe, Emma; Leopold, Elana; Carey, Michael
Subject: Re: Natl/local data

Do we have a comp stat to how well the wealthiest Americans are doing in recovery? Feel like we need a parallel to just increase in poverty.

Sent from my iPhone

On Dec 6, 2014, at 4:15 PM, "Hagelgans, Andrea" <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Here's what mahen recommends:

- The inequality crisis is real - an astounding 46% of New Yorkers live at or near the poverty level.
- Nationally, it is unacceptable that over 40 million Americans live in poverty - with tens of millions more also struggling to get by.

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
To: B
Cc: Ragone, Peter; Hagelgans, Andrea; Jonathan@berlinrosen.com; jfdc@akpdmedia.com; Wolfe, Emma; Leopold, Elana; Carey, Michael
Subject: Re: Natl/local data
Date: Saturday, December 06, 2014 8:42:05 PM

"One Third of a Nation" was a 1938 play about housing problems in NY sponsored by the Federal Theatre Project/Works Progress Administration (WPA) as part of the New Deal. It was turned into a film in 1939 and was revived as a play in 2011 at the Metropolitan Playhouse.

It was also the title of a book published in the early 1980s chronicling oral histories from the Great Depression.

Main point is that the play, movie, and book are all referencing a line from FDR's second inaugural address: "I see one-third of a nation ill-house, ill-clad, ill-nourished." - <http://historymatters.gmu.edu/d/5105/>

Sent from my iPhone

On Dec 6, 2014, at 8:14 PM, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Now, find the reference to "One Third of a Nation". My 86 year old aunt, who grew up during the Depression, referenced this over Thanksgiving. It was a book or speech from that time. Want to show the continuity with that stat you just sent

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
Sent: Saturday, December 06, 2014 08:10 PM
To: Ragone, Peter
Cc: B; Hagelgans, Andrea; Jonathan@berlinrosen.com <Jonathan@berlinrosen.com>; jfdc@akpdmedia.com <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Wolfe, Emma; Leopold, Elana; Carey, Michael
Subject: Re: Natl/local data

1. Income inequality is the highest it's been in the past 100 years.(source: Janet Yellen's speech on inequality, which cites Piketty et al in footnote #2 - <http://www.federalreserve.gov/newsevents/speech/yellen20141017a.htm#fn2>)

2. 32.5% of Americans are living at or near the poverty line (if we're using the 150% threshold - source: <http://bit.ly/1vZsBoR> and <http://www.demos.org/blog/10/20/14/one-third-americans-are-or-near-poverty>)

Sent from my iPhone

On Dec 6, 2014, at 7:24 PM, Ragone, Peter <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

+Mahen to get this for MBDB...

----- Original Message -----

From: B

Sent: Saturday, December 06, 2014 07:23 PM

To: Hagelgans, Andrea; 'Jonathan@berlinrosen.com' <Jonathan@berlinrosen.com>

Cc: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Ragone, Peter; Wolfe, Emma; Leopold, Elana; Carey, Michael

Subject: Re: Natl/local data

This is the most pertinent of the stats. And now I need the parallel national stats to what I've said so often locally:

1. We are experiencing the greatest inequality since _____ ?
(In the case of nyc, it's 1929 -- true for USA as well?)

2. % of Americans living at or near the poverty line? In nyc, the 46% is based on those living under 150% of the poverty level. Example here: poverty level is about $23,000 annual income for a family of 4 -- the 150% level is about $35,000 for a family of 4. So what % of Americans are at that level or below in terms of their local economies?

Thanks

----- Original Message -----

From: Hagelgans, Andrea

Sent: Saturday, December 06, 2014 04:35 PM

To: 'Jonathan@berlinrosen.com' <Jonathan@berlinrosen.com>

Cc: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; B; Ragone, Peter; Wolfe, Emma; Leopold, Elana; Carey, Michael

Subject: Re: Natl/local data

From Mahen:

-Earnings for the bottom 90% of Americans fell between 2010 and 2013, with the poorest the hardest hit.

- Unbelievably, during that time, incomes for the top 10% rose.

Here's Rattner's recent Times op-ed as backup:

<http://www.nytimes.com/2014/11/17/opinion/inequality-unbelievably-gets-worse.html>

----- Original Message -----

From: Jonathan Rosen [<mailto:Jonathan@berlinrosen.com>]

Sent: Saturday, December 06, 2014 04:18 PM

To: Hagelgans, Andrea

Cc: jfdc@akpdmedia.com <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; B; Ragone, Peter; Wolfe, Emma; Leopold, Elana; Carey, Michael

Subject: Re: Natl/local data

Do we have a comp stat to how well the wealthiest Americans are doing in recovery? Feel like we need a parallel to just increase in poverty.

Sent from my iPhone

On Dec 6, 2014, at 4:15 PM, "Hagelgans, Andrea" <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Here's what mahen recommends:

- The inequality crisis is real - an astounding 46% of New Yorkers live at or near the poverty level.

- Nationally, it is unacceptable that over 40 million Americans live in poverty - with tens of millions more also struggling to get by.

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
To: Gunaratna, Mahen; B
Cc: Ragone, Peter; Jonathan@berlinrosen.com; jfdc@akpdmedia.com; Wolfe, Emma; Leopold, Elana; Carey, Michael
Subject: Notes from Call
Date: Saturday, December 06, 2014 8:49:34 PM

Here are Emma's notes:

George: what are you saying about HRC

- *I'm hopeful that she will make this a centerpiece if she decides to run. Because I believe that the candidate that does so is going to be the next president *
- That's where the people are.

George: So, you're concerned about direction of party and next candidate. Do you think HRC will make a good president?

- Yes, of course. Talk about her qualifications and how well you know her. She's incredibly capable and well-qualified. Like many Americans I look forward to hearing what her plans are.
- Extraordinarily capable person who will bring a lot to the presidency. I'm not here to talk about individual candidacies though – I'm here to talk about where we need to go as a party. President, governor's offices, senate seats – what all our candidates are going to have to do if we're going to fix the fundamental problems in our country – not to mention win elections.
- That is also the only plausible political path forward.

George: Patrick last week said primaries are good. Do you want Hilary to have a primary?

- Primaries can be good things if positive ideas are discussed.
- Negative personal and nasty primaries can be destructive.
- I'm not here to talk about who the candidates are or how many we have. I'm here to talk about the issues we need to talk about – and we are failing right now to do this. The party needs to unite with a commitment to take on income inequality head on. Our candidates have to be the candidates talking about this issue – bluntly, clearly.
- While the primary conversation is premature it's also not the point. The convo is too often about candidates and personalities. We need to talk about ideas, what people can believe in.

George: a lot of people noted in march and april of 2008 a different Hilary who spoke much more passionately who spoke about the reality of working people. Do you see something in that example?

- Yes I was in ohio
- She spoke powerfully to people's experiences
- That's what democrats need to do this time

George: So she could have won if she'd talked about these issues more?

- I think we were only beginning to really feel these issues in 2008

- This crisis has profoundly deepened in last 8 years
- It's changed the way people think and what they need from their leaders

George: If she runs, do you endorse her?

- I've got my own policy/philosophy - I don't talk about endorsements before someone announces their candidacy, I just don't.

General rules on HRC questions:

- Praise capacity, pivot back to where we need to go as a party.
- Not about candidates, about our party and nation.
- HRC has obviously not made decision, and not productive to talk about candidacies until individuals announce. What I care about is...pivot back.
- Don't be incendiary. // Don't give it away.

George: State Republican chairman said you may run for president. Would you accept that VP nomination?

- Pure dismissal.
- Re-election of mayor of NYC
- Republican state chairman as spokesperson

George: Are there people like Eliz Warren on national stage who are picking up this torch and carrying this message?

- Go back to your op-ed. Al Franken, Jeff Merkely, look who won in this wave year.
- Lots of Dems who bucked the trend this cycle.
- Gov Molloy, Gov Brown – all of them are talking about these issues.
- The problem is, too many Democrats aren't.
- This has to become an article of faith in our party. We're going to address incoming inequality head on.

George: Would Eliz Warren be a good president?

- Praise capacity as Senator and she's doing great job, pivot back to where we need to go as a party.
- Not about candidates, about our party and nation.

George: Let's talk about the other Clinton. The things you're saying seem to be opposed to both the idea of Pres Clinton (more moderate approach) but also very consistent with liberal critique of his presidency, tilting toward Wall Street, home lenders, welfare reform, nafta, etc. One could hear a rebuke of President Clinton.

- Commend broadly, but then...
- We're in a new economic reality that doesn't have a parallel, I don't think that's an appropriate comparison
- Look at where we've come since 2008

- Top one percent has come roaring back, everybody else has been left behind, and the question confronting us is what are we going to do about it

George: HRC has gotten the memo it seems – she’s coming to the left wing of the Democratic party over the past weeks.

- I think she is thinking about these issues. But again, Democrats have to speak to them bluntly, incessantly, etc across the board.

George: everything you’re saying really comes down to taxing the rich.

- Yes quite obvious – we are a country that used to have a lot more regulation, we had more taxation for the wealthiest – it allowed us to build finest higher education, hospitals, transportations. We did all that when we had a more equitable tax structure and more forceful regulation. It yielded a more prosperous society that benefited more Americans.

George: so then let’s go back to 2008, which you keep referring to. Has POTUS failed on income inequality in your mind?

- The democratic party as a whole should’ve done more on these issues....health care reform and taking on wall street ...
- POTUS has done some important things – but we’ve needed to do more in response to the crisis and we need to do more now.

From: Gunaratna, Mahen

Sent: Saturday, December 06, 2014 8:42 PM

To: B

Cc: Ragone, Peter; Hagelgans, Andrea; Jonathan@berlinrosen.com; jfdc@akpdmmedia.com; Wolfe, Emma; Leopold, Elana; Carey, Michael

Subject: Re: Nat/local data

"One Third of a Nation" was a 1938 play about housing problems in NY sponsored by the Federal Theatre Project/Works Progress Administration (WPA) as part of the New Deal. It was turned into a film in 1939 and was revived as a play in 2011 at the Metropolitan Playhouse.

It was also the title of a book published in the early 1980s chronicling oral histories from the Great Depression.

Main point is that the play, movie, and book are all referencing a line from FDR's second inaugural address: "I see one-third of a nation ill-housed, ill-clad, ill-nourished." -

<http://historymatters.gmu.edu/d/5105/>

Sent from my iPhone

On Dec 6, 2014, at 8:14 PM, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Now, find the reference to "One Third of a Nation". My 86 year old aunt, who grew up during the Depression, referenced this over Thanksgiving. It was a book or speech from that time. Want to show the continuity with that stat you just sent

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
Sent: Saturday, December 06, 2014 08:10 PM
To: Ragone, Peter
Cc: B; Hagelgans, Andrea; Jonathan@berlinrosen.com <Jonathan@berlinrosen.com>; jfdc@akpdmedia.com <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Wolfe, Emma; Leopold, Elana; Carey, Michael
Subject: Re: Natl/local data

1. Income inequality is the highest it's been in the past 100 years.(source: Janet Yellin's speech on inequality, which cites Piketty et al in footnote #2 - <http://www.federalreserve.gov/newsevents/speech/yellen20141017a.htm#fn2>)

2. 32.5% of Americans are living at or near the poverty line (if we're using the 150% threshold - source: <http://bit.ly/1vZsBoR> and <http://www.demos.org/blog/10/20/14/one-third-americans-are-or-near-poverty>)

Sent from my iPhone

On Dec 6, 2014, at 7:24 PM, Ragone, Peter <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

+Mahen to get this for MBDB...

----- Original Message -----

From: B
Sent: Saturday, December 06, 2014 07:23 PM
To: Hagelgans, Andrea; 'Jonathan@berlinrosen.com' <Jonathan@berlinrosen.com>
Cc: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Ragone, Peter; Wolfe, Emma; Leopold, Elana; Carey, Michael
Subject: Re: Natl/local data

This is the most pertinent of the stats. And now I need the parallel national stats to what I've said so often locally:

1. We are experiencing the greatest inequality since _____ ? (In the case of nyc, it's 1929 -- true for USA as well?)

2. % of Americans living at or near the poverty line? In nyc, the 46% is based on those living under 150% of the poverty level. Example here: poverty level is about $23,000 annual income for a family of 4 -- the 150% level is about $35,000 for a family of 4. So what % of Americans are at that level or below in terms of their local economies?

Thanks

----- Original Message -----

From: Hagelgans, Andrea

Sent: Saturday, December 06, 2014 04:35 PM

To: 'Jonathan@berlinrosen.com' <Jonathan@berlinrosen.com>

Cc: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; B; Ragone, Peter; Wolfe, Emma; Leopold, Elana; Carey, Michael

Subject: Re: Natl/local data

From Mahen:

-Earnings for the bottom 90% of Americans fell between 2010 and 2013, with the poorest the hardest hit.

- Unbelievably, during that time, incomes for the top 10% rose.

Here's Rattner's recent Times op-ed as backup: <http://www.nytimes.com/2014/11/17/opinion/inequality-unbelievably-gets-worse.html>

----- Original Message -----

From: Jonathan Rosen [<mailto:Jonathan@berlinrosen.com>]

Sent: Saturday, December 06, 2014 04:18 PM

To: Hagelgans, Andrea

Cc: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; B; Ragone,

Peter; Wolfe, Emma; Leopold, Elana; Carey, Michael

Subject: Re: Natl/local data

Do we have a comp stat to how well the wealthiest Americans are doing in recovery? Feel like we need a parallel to just increase in poverty.

Sent from my iPhone

On Dec 6, 2014, at 4:15 PM, "Hagelgans, Andrea" <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Here's what mahen recommends:

- The inequality crisis is real - an astounding 46% of New Yorkers live at or near the poverty level.
- Nationally, it is unacceptable that over 40 million Americans live in poverty - with tens of millions more also struggling to get by.

From: Ragone, Peter
To: Hagelgans, Andrea; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; "Jonathan@berlinrosen.com"
Cc: B; Wolfe, Emma
Subject: Re: Natl/local data
Date: Sunday, December 07, 2014 8:21:07 AM

Note this passage, esp Schumer.

Some have been critical of Democrats for abandoning the populist message that once resonated with blue-collar whites. That's something they'll have to fix if they hope to turn things around in 2016.

Sen. Charles Schumer (D-N.Y.) has started that conversation on the left, arguing that Democrats misallocated their resources passing the healthcare law when they had majorities in both chambers. They should have focused on the plights of the middle class after the economic meltdown, he argued.

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
Sent: Sunday, December 07, 2014 08:15 AM
To: Ragone, Peter; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; 'Jonathan@berlinrosen.com' <Jonathan@berlinrosen.com>
Cc: B; Wolfe, Emma
Subject: RE: Natl/local data

And here's the Hill's take

- 1) collapse among white voters - Landrieu's support among black voters in Louisiana is nearly universal, but strategists in the state wondered if there were enough of them to counteract Cassidy's huge lead among white voters. They were not
- 2) Keystone vote
- 3) Republican spending compared with Dem spending
- 4) Conservatives rallied early
- 5) Doomed from start - The midterm electorate is typically more favorable to Republicans, and voters were ready to take out their frustrations with President Obama on any Democrat that had the bad fortune of running in 2014.

Sen. Mary Landrieu's (D-La.) luck ran out Saturday night. The Democrat's colleagues talk about her as a fighter who has won tough runoff elections in red Louisiana before, even if she was the underdog against Rep. Bill Cassidy (R-La.). But in 2014, a host of factors conspired to keep her from ultimately falling short for a fourth term.

Collapse among white voters

Landrieu's support among black voters in Louisiana is nearly universal, but strategists in the state wondered if there were enough of them to counteract Cassidy's huge lead among white voters. There were not. Landrieu's percentage of the black vote was in the high 90s on Nov. 4, but Cassidy took more than 80 percent of the white vote. Democrats, particularly those in the South, have suffered a complete collapse among white voters. Landrieu was the last white Democrat from the Deep South in the Senate, and none remain in the House. Some have been critical of Democrats for abandoning the populist message that once resonated with blue-collar whites. That's something they'll have to fix if they hope to turn things around in 2016.

Sen. Charles Schumer (D-N.Y.) has started that conversation on the left, arguing that Democrats misallocated their resources passing the healthcare law when they had majorities in both chambers. They should have focused on the plights of the middle class after the economic meltdown, he argued.

Fail Marys

Landrieu steamrolled into the lame duck session intent on passing a bill authorizing the Keystone XL pipeline.

If it worked, it would put space between herself and an unpopular president, remind voters in the energy-rich state of her seniority on a key energy committee, and would be evidence she has the clout to pull together a Democratic coalition when it mattered most.

She fell one vote shy in an embarrassing defeat, while a version of the bill sponsored by Cassidy sailed through the House.

"A Keystone bill did pass one chamber of Congress, that was the Cassidy bill," Cassidy said at a debate last week. "Sen. Landrieu could not get that passed in the Senate."

Landrieu's true last gasp was to call into question Cassidy's character. In the final weeks of the race, she turned the entire focus of her campaign to allegations that Cassidy overbilled Louisiana State University.

"He's going to be fighting more than President Obama," Landrieu said at the debate. "If he gets elected, which I doubt, he will be fighting subpoenas because this is going to be under investigation." But Cassidy called the allegations "absolutely false" and effectively beat them back. Strategists in the state say it was too late for the controversy to take hold anyway.

Assault on the airwaves

This one wasn't even close.

According to an analysis by the Center for Public Integrity, Republicans and outside conservative groups pummeled Landrieu on TV and the radio, while the Louisiana Democrat was effectively silenced during the runoff period.

The numbers are staggering – ads from outside groups attacking Landrieu at one point accounted for about 13,900 of the 14,000 TV spots that ran since the Nov. 4 jungle primary.

"I wish she had more air cover," Sen. Joe Donnelly (D-Ind.) told The Hill. "I was there [campaigning] because she's my friend, but more importantly she's done an extraordinary job for the people of Louisiana and you don't abandon your friends when times get tough."

It was a stark contrast from the run-up to the Nov. 4 election, when the Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee and other liberal groups bet big, running about 19,000 TV ads.

But the Nov. 4 elections left many political watchers doubtful that Landrieu could survive another tough contest in the face of a Republican wave, and with the Senate majority no longer at stake, national Democrats and liberal groups opted to sit on their money.

Senate Democrats' campaign arm announced early in the runoff period it wouldn't spend on the race. The DSCC took out a $10 million loan in October, but spent big on races it ultimately lost on Election Day.

"The DSCC had no money, so it wasn't that they pulled it," Sen. Bill Nelson (D-Fla.) told The Hill.

Senate Democrats interviewed by The Hill said they did what they could to help Landrieu with money, but the conservative outside groups smelled blood and went all in.

Landrieu's campaign was also swamped by ads from the Cassidy campaign, which ran nearly 5,000 TV ads against Landrieu's 3,000 during the runoff period. Cassidy had more spending flexibility by virtue of out-raising Landrieu by about $500,000 during the runoff.

Cassidy rallied conservatives early

Cassidy recognized early on that he needed to target those Republicans who supported Tea Party candidate Rob Maness in the general election. Maness took 14 percent and likely kept Cassidy from winning the jungle primary outright.

Democrats argued that those conservatives would stay home for the Dec. 6 runoff, but Maness embraced his one-time rival early in the period, and a snowball effect of Republican support ensued. Conservatives like Family Research Council President Tony Perkins, former vice presidential nominee Sarah Palin, and the Tea Party Express, who backed Maness in general election, became vocal proponents of Cassidy. Other Republicans who stayed out of the race during the general election, like Sen. Rand Paul (R-Ky.) and Louisiana Gov. Bobby Jindal (R), soon followed.

Paul headlined the first "unity rally" in Louisiana for Cassidy about a week after Election Day, which caught on and became must-attend events for party heavyweights.

In addition to Paul, Palin and Jindal, Sen. David Vitter (R-La.), "Duck Dynasty" star Phil Robertson, Sen.

John McCain (R-Ariz.), and Dr. Ben Carson have all participated. Former Florida Gov. Jeb Bush, Sen. Marco Rubio (Fla.), Texas Gov. Rick Perry and Sen. Tim Scott (S.C.) all participated. Democrats began turning out for Landrieu on the campaign trail after the Keystone gambit, but strategists say by then all the energy in the campaign was on Cassidy's side.

Doomed from the start

The deck was deeply stacked against the Louisiana Democrat.

The midterm electorate is typically more favorable to Republicans, and voters were ready to take out their frustrations with President Obama on any Democrat that had the bad fortune of running in 2014. The Republican wave earned the GOP their largest majority in the House in decades, and they easily picked up a convincing majority in the Senate.

Landrieu on Saturday joined her colleagues, Sens. Mark Begich (D-Alaska), Kay Hagan (D-N.C.), Mark Pryor (D-Ark), and Mark Udall (D-Colo.), as Democratic incumbents who were washed out in the wave. If Sen. David Vitter (R-La.) runs for governor, and Landrieu has the appetite for another campaign, she may find more favorable political winds in 2016.

From: Hagelgans, Andrea

Sent: Sunday, December 07, 2014 7:50 AM

To: Ragone, Peter; 'jfdc@akpdmmedia.com'; 'Jonathan@berlinrosen.com'

Cc: B; Wolfe, Emma

Subject: RE: Natl/local data

Here's Politico's take.

Passages of interest:

Landrieu, the three-term incumbent who chairs the Senate Energy Committee, found herself cut off and left for dead by national Democrats after party strategists decided she had no realistic path to victory in Saturday's Bayou State runoff. She lost much of her clout when Democrats lost their majority, and her failure to pass legislation to move forward with the Keystone XL pipeline in the lame duck session last month made her look politically impotent.

Cassidy, a medical doctor, first elected to a Baton Rouge-area congressional seat in 2008, ran an uninspiring but mistake-free campaign that capitalized on increasing hostility to the Democratic party in Louisiana and throughout the Deep South.

....But the reputation she cultivated as a moderate was no match for the increasing toxicity of the Obama brand in the state.

Before the November election, Landrieu's campaign aggressively reached out to the African-American community, which is about one-third of the electorate. But they did so carefully to avoid linking the senator too closely with Obama.

In the final insult of a devastating 2014 election for Democrats, Sen. Mary Landrieu, the party's last remaining statewide officeholder from the Deep South, was trounced Saturday in the head-to-head Louisiana Senate runoff election.

Republican Bill Cassidy's resounding victory is the ninth Senate seat picked up by the GOP in this year's elections, three more than the party needed to take control of the chamber. With nearly all the ballots counted, Cassidy led Landrieu by 14 points, 57 percent to 43 percent.

"On November 4th, the American people sent a message that they didn't like the direction our country was heading," Cassidy said in his victory speech. "Our state is the exclamation mark on that message."

His win gives Republicans a four-seat cushion going into 2016, when the party is seeking to protect its first Senate majority since 2006. The next election cycle's Senate map is as bad for Republicans as this year's was for Democrats, with the GOP forced to defend seven seats in states President Barack Obama carried twice.

Landrieu, the three-term incumbent who chairs the Senate Energy Committee, found herself cut off and left for dead by national Democrats after party strategists decided she had no realistic path to victory in Saturday's Bayou State runoff. She lost much of her clout when Democrats lost their majority, and her failure to pass legislation to move forward with the Keystone XL pipeline in the lame duck session last month made her look politically impotent.

Cassidy, a medical doctor, first elected to a Baton Rouge-area congressional seat in 2008, ran an uninspiring but mistake-free campaign that capitalized on increasing hostility to the Democratic party in Louisiana and throughout the Deep South.

It was the final major race of a 2014 election cycle in which Republicans won nearly every battleground Senate election, gained three governorships and at least 246 House seats. Democrats' efforts to localize many of these contests fell flat, and Republicans succeeded in making the election a referendum on the unpopular president.

Cassidy, excited as he addressed a throng of supporters in Baton Rouge, wrapped up his speech by yelling "Boom!" — and then making his way off stage to celebrate.

Sen. Jerry Moran (R-Kan.), the outgoing chairman of the National Republican Senatorial Committee, noted that Cassidy will be one of a dozen new Republican senators to take office next month and added that, with his win, "Republicans now control every Senate seat, governor's mansion and legislative body from the Texas high plains to the Atlantic coast of the Carolinas."

Obama — and his 39-percent approval rating in the November exit poll — has been an anchor on Landrieu all year. In 2008, Landrieu won a majority on election night — pulling 205,000 more votes than Obama and avoiding a runoff.

But the reputation she cultivated as a moderate was no match for the increasing toxicity of the Obama brand in the state.

During the open primary election last month, Landrieu won just 18 percent of the white vote, according to exit polls, compared to 33 percent six years ago. She got 42 percent overall; since no candidate earned a majority of the vote, the top two finishers went to a runoff.

Landrieu, delivering her concession at the Roosevelt Hotel in the Big Easy just an hour after polls closed, received some of the loudest cheers when she mentioned her vote for Obamacare. "This is something to be proud of, and I'm glad we fought for it," she said, describing her own record as one of "courage."

Cassidy, 57, ran a low-profile campaign featuring fewer public events. He made the remarkable decision to spend Wednesday and Thursday in Washington for routine House votes, a reflection of his confidence.

The only debate of the runoff took place Monday and produced nothing close to a game-changing moment. Cassidy was awkward and stiff, while Landrieu tried to gin up controversy over him earning $20,000-a-year to practice medicine at Louisiana State University while collecting his congressional paycheck.

Landrieu found herself on the defensive for improperly billing taxpayers more than $30,000 in private charter flights to campaign events since 2002. But the debate mainly focused on the issues that have defined the contest, such as Obamacare, gun control and abortion. Landrieu is on the wrong side of the state's electorate on each.

She made two significant strategic miscalculations. First, she thought she could win outright in November and spent accordingly — burning through almost $16 million, more than double what Cassidy spent. Second, she thought control of the Senate could come down to the results in Louisiana, which would guarantee national Democrats spent millions — or maybe tens of millions — on her behalf.

Neither came to pass. Just two days after the first round of voting, the Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee canceled $1.9 million of advertising reservations it had made to help in the runoff. Landrieu publicly criticized the party for giving up on her, and she asked female colleagues to try cajoling DSCC leaders to reverse their decision.

The National Republican Senatorial Committee also scaled back its buys after the Democrats pulled out but still spent around $1 million in the runoff. Also spending around $1 million were American Crossroads, Freedom Partners and the National Rifle Association. Ending Spending, the conservative group, spent $1.7 million on TV ads and direct voter contact.

The Republican National Committee said it spent $2.9 million on the ground game, including an effort to test new tactics it wants to try during the 2016 presidential campaign.

The main outside group helping Landrieu on TV during the runoff was the Humane Society Legislative Fund, which spent a paltry $123,000.

In total, outside groups supporting Landrieu aired about 100 TV ads, compared to more than 6,000 commercials from anti-Landrieu groups.

Before the November election, Landrieu's campaign aggressively reached out to the African-American community, which is about one-third of the electorate. But they did so carefully to avoid linking the senator too closely with Obama.

During the runoff, the campaign became much less cautious. Her chief of staff was caught on hidden camera bragging to a predominantly African-American crowd that his boss votes with Obama 97 percent of the time and would continue to — a statistic already being cited in Republican attack ads.

Also believing the runoff was ultimately a base election, Cassidy focused on winning over conservatives who didn't vote for him in the first round. The Friday after the election, Cassidy took fellow Republican Rob Maness, who won 14 percent of the vote in the primary, to dinner at Ye Olde College Inn in New Orleans. Maness agreed to endorse Cassidy at a unity rally the following Monday.

The phones were ringing off the hook at Cassidy campaign headquarters with top-flight surrogates, including potential presidential candidates, trying to help so they could claim some credit for an anticipated win. Among those who campaigned on the ground were Sens. Rand Paul (R-Ky.) and Marco Rubio (R-Fla.), along with former Sen. Rick Santorum (R-Pa.), neurologist Ben Carson and Sen.-elect Joni Ernst (R-Iowa). Sen. Ted Cruz (R-Texas) sent fundraising emails, and former Florida Gov. Jeb Bush headlined a high-dollar fundraiser in Washington this week.

Landrieu brought in a handful of lesser-known Senate colleagues. Hillary Clinton hosted a fundraiser for her at the start of this week, but it was in New York City.

Cassidy was not seen as running a strong campaign. If the majority was at stake Saturday, or polls showed the race in play, national Republicans planned to send several operatives to help right the ship. But there was really no need. Landrieu made a last-ditch bid during the lame duck to demonstrate her clout by passing the Keystone XL pipeline bill. She pushed her colleagues hard and had support from every Republican senator, but she fell short of breaking a filibuster by one vote.

The Landrieu dynasty is not over. Her brother, Mitch, is the fairly popular mayor of New Orleans and may try to run for statewide office in the future. In her concession, Landrieu said "Louisiana will always be worth fighting for" and promised that her family "will continue to do so."

Indeed, as soon as she finished her speech, Taylor Swift's hit song "Shake It Off" started blasting through the ballroom.

The Louisiana governorship is opening up next year, as outgoing Gov. Bobby Jindal plots a presidential campaign. GOP Sen. David Vitter is the frontrunner to succeed him, which could create a vacancy when his seat is up for election again in 2016.

Republicans also held onto two Louisiana House seats in runoffs on Saturday in solidly GOP districts. Ralph Abraham won the seat currently held by GOP Rep. Vance McAllister, who finished fourth in last month's primary following an adultery scandal. In the race for Cassidy's House seat, Republican Garret Graves beat former Democratic Gov. Edwin Edwards, the colorful, 87-year-old seeking political redemption after felony convictions for corruption.

Cassidy tried to strike a conciliatory tone near the end of his speech, saying he wanted to let those who opposed him know: "I don't care that you voted for Sen. Landrieu. I am here to serve you too."

But he also couldn't help cracking a joke about his outreach efforts. "I did a robocall in Spanish," he said. "It probably cost me votes."

Read more: <http://www.politico.com/story/2014/12/bill-cassidy-mary-landrieu-2014-louisiana-senate-elections-results-113367.html#ixzz3LDQnZAg8>

From: Ragone, Peter

Sent: Sunday, December 07, 2014 7:41 AM
To: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; 'Jonathan@berlinrosen.com'
Cc: Hagelgans, Andrea; B; Wolfe, Emma
Subject: Re: Natl/local data

JDC,

What's out line on the LA Senate race and Landrieu getting beat last night? Did she run away from Dem principles? I don't think we followed it that closely here and I could see this being the natural follow today.

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Saturday, December 06, 2014 06:26 PM
To: Jonathan Rosen <Jonathan@berlinrosen.com>
Cc: Hagelgans, Andrea; B; Ragone, Peter; Wolfe, Emma; Leopold, Elana; Carey, Michael
Subject: Re: Natl/local data

One more

<http://fortune.com/2014/10/31/inequality-wealth-income-us/>
"Saez and Zucman show that, in America, the wealthiest 160,000 families own as much wealth as the poorest 145 million families"

On Dec 6, 2014, at 3:18 PM, Jonathan Rosen <Jonathan@berlinrosen.com> wrote:

Do we have a comp stat to how well the wealthiest Americans are doing in recovery? Feel like we need a parallel to just increase in poverty.

Sent from my iPhone

On Dec 6, 2014, at 4:15 PM, "Hagelgans, Andrea"
<AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Here's what mahen recommends:

- The inequality crisis is real - an astounding 46% of New Yorkers live at or near the poverty level.
- Nationally, it is unacceptable that over 40 million Americans live in poverty - with tens of millions more also struggling to get by.

From: John Del Cecato
To: Ragone, Peter; "Jonathan@berlinrosen.com"
Cc: Hagelgans, Andrea; B; Wolfe, Emma
Subject: Re: Natl/local data
Date: Sunday, December 07, 2014 11:49:17 AM

Sorry I didn't respond to this - but in case there's follow-up elsewhere - Landrieu ran away from Obama with some voters & then embraced him with others - was all over the map - the polar opposite of being authentic and bold

<http://theweek.com/speedreads/index/260006/speedreads-democratic-sen-mary-landrieu-runs-away-from-obama-in-campaign-ad>

From: <Ragone>, Peter <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Sunday, December 7, 2014 at 7:41 AM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, Jonathan Rosen <jonathan@berlinrosen.com>
Cc: "Hagelgans, Andrea" <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>, BDB Official <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Wolfe, Emma" <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: Natl/local data

JDC,

What's out line on the LA Senate race and Landrieu getting beat last night? Did she run away from Dem principles? I don't think we followed it that closely here and I could see this being the natural follow today.

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Saturday, December 06, 2014 06:26 PM
To: Jonathan Rosen <Jonathan@berlinrosen.com>
Cc: Hagelgans, Andrea; B; Ragone, Peter; Wolfe, Emma; Leopold, Elana; Carey, Michael
Subject: Re: Natl/local data

One more

<http://fortune.com/2014/10/31/inequality-wealth-income-us/>
"Saez and Zucman show that, in America, the wealthiest 160,000 families own as much wealth as the poorest 145 million families"

On Dec 6, 2014, at 3:18 PM, Jonathan Rosen <Jonathan@berlinrosen.com> wrote:

Do we have a comp stat to how well the wealthiest Americans are doing in recovery? Feel like we need a parallel to just increase in poverty.

Sent from my iPhone

On Dec 6, 2014, at 4:15 PM, "Hagelgans, Andrea"
<AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Here's what mahen recommends:

- The inequality crisis is real - an astounding 46% of New Yorkers live at or near the poverty level.

- Nationally, it is unacceptable that over 40 million Americans live in poverty - with tens of millions more also struggling to get by.

From: Carey, Michael
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Williams, Dominic; Howe, Amanda; Wiley, Maya; "Jonathan@berlinrosen.com"; Ragone, Peter; Shorris, Anthony; Katz, Rebecca; Wolfe, Emma; John, Roxanne; "nbaldick@hilltoppublicsolutions.com"; Fuleihan, Dean \(OMB\); Ko, Eunice; Walzak, Phil
Subject: Reminder: Weekly Planning Meeting
Date: Wednesday, December 10, 2014 4:15:14 PM

If you need to dial in please let me know.

For those in person please be advised there is a holiday reception at Gracie until 730 pm.

Thanks!!!

Michael Paul Carey
City Hall
New York, New York

From: John Del Cecato
To: B
Cc: Katz, Rebecca
Subject: Re: Politico: "Budget rider would expand party cash"
Date: Thursday, December 11, 2014 4:57:26 PM

Cool

On Dec 11, 2014, at 4:42 PM, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

CAPS is still a tool we could use/revive. Worth considering our future vision for it. You and JDC should discuss

From: Katz, Rebecca
Sent: Wednesday, December 10, 2014 10:50 AM
To: B
Subject: FW: Politico: "Budget rider would expand party cash"

What's going on with CAPS? Is that dead? This is very scary.

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
Sent: Wednesday, December 10, 2014 10:36 AM
To: dncclips
Subject: Politico: "Budget rider would expand party cash"

<http://www.politico.com/story/2014/12/budget-rider-would-expand-party-cash-113459.html>

Budget rider would expand party cash

The measure would expand the ways a donor could contribute.

By KENNETH P. VOGEL

12/10/14 12:59 AM EST

Updated 12/10/14 10:14 AM EST

A provision tucked deep inside the \$1.1-trillion spending bill filed by Republicans on Tuesday night would dramatically increase the amount of money a single rich donor could give to national party committees each year — from $97,200 to as much as $777,600.

The provision, inserted as a rider to the bill only hours before it was filed, would mark a further erosion of campaign cash restrictions. They've been whittled away by recent federal court rulings, most notably the Supreme Court's 2010 Citizens United decision.

Advocates for reducing the role of money in politics immediately called on President Barack Obama to reject the rider, which one leading advocate, Fred Wertheimer, decried as "written for millionaires and billionaires."

But the rider would also provide a huge boost to the national parties — which some campaign finance scholars see as having the potential to improve governance by reducing political polarization.

The Democratic and Republican party committees have seen their clout plummet in recent years as power and cash have migrated to outside groups empowered by Citizens United and related decisions that allowed independent groups to raise and spend unlimited cash on ads boosting favorite candidates or savaging their opponents.

By contrast, the maximum contributions the national party committees can accept have ticked upward only slightly every two years to account for inflation. In 2014, a donor could give \$32,400 per year to each of the national party committees — the Democratic National Committee, Republican National Committee, Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee, National Republican Senatorial Committee, Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee and the National Republican Congressional Committee.

So, for example, a wealthy liberal could donate a maximum of $97,200 combined to the three national Democratic Party committees. If they wanted to give more to a national effort, they'd have to turn to one of the many liberal super PACs — such as Tom Steyer's NextGen Climate Action or the Harry Reid-linked Senate Majority PAC — that are allowed to accept unlimited checks but are barred from coordinating with the party committees or their candidates.

But under the rider, that same donor each year could give the $97,200 to the three main committees, plus that same amount to as many as an additional seven accounts — described as "separate, segregated" funds — set up within the committees:

- one account set up by the DNC to fund its presidential nominating conventions.
- one account each set up by the DNC, DSCC and DCCC to buy, construct or improve the committees' headquarters — including any building-related expenses incurred in the last two years.
- one account each set up by the DNC, DSCC and DCCC to fund election recounts, challenges and other legal proceedings.

Republicans, of course, would be able to set up the same such accounts.

While calculations of the rider's impact differed in the hours after it was revealed, it appeared that a single donor would be able to give at least $388,800 per year to the various national committee accounts, and possibly as much as $777,600, depending on how the language was interpreted.

Because the limits are for each year, that means that a single wealthy donor during a two-year election cycle could potentially give a total of nearly $1.56 million to all the various party committee funds if the rider is signed into law. Of course, that depends on how it's interpreted by election lawyers and the Federal Election Commission.

The rider caps at $20 million the amount the RNC and DNC could spend through their separate segregated convention accounts on any given convention.

The convention piece of the provision is at least partly a response to a bill Obama signed this year that eliminated public funding of the presidential nominating conventions.

"Parties are now strapped without the public funds, so what this allow them to do is turn to huge contributors who have a vested interest in the outcome of the election to pay for this," said David Donnelly, executive director of a group called Every Voice that works to reduce the role of money in politics. "It is a further chipping away of the contribution limits that were set for parties and a further shift towards large contributions rather than raising a large number of contributions from regular Americans," Donnelly said, blaming Senate Republican Leader Mitch McConnell, a longtime opponent of campaign finance restrictions.

McConnell's office said the rider was not added at his behest. And it appeared near the very end of the 1,600-page bill, which Senate Democrats had been negotiating with Republicans.

House Speaker John Boehner (R-Ohio) has indicated that the House could vote as early as Thursday on the spending bill, which would fund the government through next September.

McConnell, who will assume the role of Senate Majority Leader when the new Congress is sworn in next year, had been pushing to attach a different rider that would have empowered the party committees by removing restrictions on their ability to interact with candidates.

That provision, which was opposed by the man McConnell is replacing as majority leader, Nevada Sen. Harry Reid, does not appear to have made it into the spending bill.

And Reid’s office told POLITICO he would not oppose the expanded contribution limits.

Ray La Raja, a University of Massachusetts professor who specializes in studying the role of political parties, said the rider would allow party committees to pry back some power and control from outside groups. “It gives the formal party organization and its leaders more resources to bring data files and other campaign infrastructure back in house, and that will give them more leverage. And it allows them to compete for talent, and that means something. Right now, the best talent goes to these outside groups.”

Lisa Gilbert, director of the congressional arm of the advocacy group Public Citizen, called the rider “embarrassing” and asserted that empowering the parties wouldn’t address concerns about the growing role of money in politics.

“The answer to out-of-control and unlimited outside spending by the super-rich and giant corporations isn’t to enable out-of-control and virtually unlimited contributions to parties – and, inevitably, candidates – but to get outside spending under control,” she said.

If anything, she said, the deal would take the system back to the days of party soft money, when corporations and unions could donate unlimited sums to the party committees.

“Increasing these limits would only enable more dollars to pour into a system already flooded with cash and would encourage higher independent expenditures in the money arms race to counter them,” she said.

--

Mahen Gunaratna

Director of Research and Media Analysis

Mayor’s Press Office | City Hall

mgunaratna@cityhall.nyc.gov

(212) 676-3154 (o) | (347)-268-4295 (c)

From: Katz, Rebecca
To: B; John Del Cecato
Subject: Bloomberg: Welcome to the Democrats" Post-Obama Family Feud
Date: Friday, December 12, 2014 7:34:05 AM

Inevitable Infighting

Welcome to the Democrats' Post-Obama Family Feud

Dec 12, 2014 5:45 AM EST

The Progressive movement is in search of a leader and a voice to pressure Hillary Clinton to embrace populist economic issues.

—

Lisa Lerer

It's turning out to be an awkward week for the Dean family. As former Vermont Governor Howard Dean announced Wednesday that he would back a Hillary Clinton presidential bid, the progressive group he founded declared that they were launching a major campaign to coax Massachusetts Senator Elizabeth Warren into the race.

"Some of the other candidates may not be happy about this but they'll thank us for it later," Jim Dean, executive director of Democracy for America, and Howard's brother, said of the effort to woo Warren. "Part of this is trying to wake the party up." His position couldn't be more different than his brother's, who praised Clinton as a "mature, seasoned, thoughtful leader" in an editorial published by Politico that morning.

As the Jims of the Democratic world are clamoring for an alternative to Clinton, the Howards are racing to line up behind her even though she hasn't decided whether to run. The two powerful women at the center of the discontent, however, are little more than indicators of a far broader family feud over the Democratic party's future heading into 2016. On one side of the debate are strategists and officials, including some aligned with Clinton, who believe their path to the White House in the post-Obama era rests with wooing centrist, working class voters. To progressive activists, union members, and other parts of the "professional left," as an Obama aide once called them, victory lies in running on an aggressive, populist economic message.

"I'm not saying there won't be a primary contest but I don't see any reasonable possibility that she could be denied the Democratic nomination."

Former Ohio Governor Ted Strickland

"Some of the jockeying now is trying to strategically make sure Hillary understands that she can't be an economic moderate without generating pushback," said Andy Stern, the former head of the Service Employees International Union. "Progressives are anxious that her policies, not her heart, will be too generous toward Wall Street."

That debate will take center stage this weekend, when liberal activists gather in Washington for RootsCamp, an annual "unconference" that brings thousands of progressives to the Washington Convention Center. A major topic in the hallways will be the announcement by liberal groups this week of plans to spend more than a million dollars, including opening offices in the early primary states of Iowa and New Hampshire, trying to convince beloved economic populist Warren to challenge Clinton. Despite Warren's insistent refrain that she is not running for president, activists see a glimmer of hope. "She's been very consistent in her statements saying she is not running present tense," said Neil Sroka, a spokesman for Democracy for America. "Tense matters."

For now, though, progressives are a movement in search of a leader. With Clinton's take-over of the Democratic party near complete, there's no national figure willing to take up their cry. Other than Warren, former Wisconsin Senator Russ Feingold, known for his principled stances against big money in politics, has a government job already—working for the State Department that Clinton used to run. Maryland Governor Martin O'Malley's political clout was weakened by the midterm loss of his lieutenant governor in the race to succeed him and the governor has pulled staff out of Iowa. Even Al Sharpton, who hammered Clinton for taking weeks to comments on the racially-charged riots in Ferguson, Missouri, put out a press release to brag about his birthday call from Clinton.

Of course, Clinton could decide not to run, Warren could change her mind, or any number of unpredictable events that tend to scramble presidential races could upend the Democratic field. But, so far, there's little sign that many Democrats are thirsting for a Clinton alternative. In Iowa, for instance, she is the top candidate for 53 percent of likely Democratic caucusgoers, according to a Bloomberg Politics/Des Moines Register poll. That's roughly five times bigger than Warren, who followed with 10 percent support as a first pick of party insiders. Vermont Senator Bernie Sanders, and independent, and former Virginia Senator Jim Webb, who've expressed interest in running, trailed behind at three and one percent, respectively. "If she chooses to run, and I hope she does, I think she will have no significant opposition," said Ted Strickland, the former Ohio Governor who now heads the Center for American Progress Action Fund, the advocacy arm of a liberal think tank. "I'm not saying there won't be a primary contest but I don't see any reasonable possibility that she could be denied the Democratic nomination."

Strickland, along with other Clinton-backers, sees commercial motives in the Draft Warren effort. "If someone has said they are not a candidate for president, period, is it respectful or disrespectful to use that person's name for their own purposes?" asked Des Moines lawyer Jerry Crawford, who co-chaired Clinton's 2008 campaign in Iowa and helps lead Ready for Hillary, a group laying the groundwork for a campaign, in the state. "If Secretary Clinton said she wasn't running, I wouldn't be out there disrespecting her by engaging in a draft movement."

Unlike the Tea Party, which remains a powerful force in the Republican party, the influence of progressive groups has waned during the Obama years. With the Senate soon to be in Republican control, progressives aspire to become their own power center that can force Democrats to stand strong on economic issues. By aligning themselves with Warren, who's an outspoken advocate of Wall Street regulation, groups like MoveOn not only grow membership lists and bank accounts, they also raise their profile. "Could there be some self-serving motives behind this? Of course," said Strickland. "If you're not engaged in some kind of specific effort, it's a little more difficult to keep support coming in."

While Warren is their billboard, the real target is likely Clinton. A history of pro-business economic policies and a roster of rich Wall Street donors make progressive and union activists anxious about the direction of her leadership and political loyalties. Though she has yet to announce a campaign, they're trying to send the message that their concerns should not be taken for granted. "I think the fact that people are encouraging a person who probably isn't going to run may just be a manifestation of wanting to make clear that Secretary Clinton is not going to walk in and assume there's a coronation," said Stern. "She's going to have to work it policy-wise, particularly on the economy"

That's no surprise, given that most Democrats have already turned their attention to Clinton. Operatives are jockeying for jobs. Donors are eager to open their wallets. And politicians are rushing to position themselves for a campaign that doesn't yet exist. Why should her progressive opposition be any different?

From: Howe, Amanda
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Re: Meeting?
Date: Friday, December 12, 2014 11:40:05 AM

Great

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Friday, December 12, 2014 11:26 AM
To: Howe, Amanda
Subject: Re: Meeting?

Great. We'll pick a place next week

On Dec 12, 2014, at 11:08 AM, Howe, Amanda <AHowe@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Sure that works!

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Thursday, December 11, 2014 11:13 AM
To: Howe, Amanda
Subject: Re: Meeting?

How about lunch on Thursday the 18th? Forgot that I was traveling a bit next week

From: <Howe>, "Howe, Amanda" <AHowe@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Thursday, December 11, 2014 at 9:37 AM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: Meeting?

Great! How about Tuesday at 6pm for a drink?

Have fun with your cousins!

From: John Del Cecato [jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Thursday, December 11, 2014 9:24 AM
To: Howe, Amanda
Subject: Re: Meeting?

Hey Amanda. That would be great. I've got my cousins in town until Monday - but sometime next week?

From: <Howe>, "Howe, Amanda" <AHowe@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Thursday, December 11, 2014 at 9:01 AM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Meeting?

Good morning John,

Hope you are well and got some sleep after Gracie! I was wondering if you would have time for a coffee or a drink in the next week or so. It can also wait until the new year, but I wanted to give you a sense of my background and also seek some advice from you. I loved the op-ed you did and wanted to ask a few questions about it.

Thanks.

Amanda

From: Wolfe, Emma
To: B
Cc: Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; Carrion, Marco A.; Howe, Amanda; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic; jfdc@akpdmedia.com; FLONYC
Subject: Re: Disgusted
Date: Saturday, December 13, 2014 4:25:59 PM

We will huddle but in meantime just to address the specific tactic -- Marco is reaching out to Rosenberg for Dolan and think you need to connect with Cardinal directly on this kind of thing.

> On Dec 13, 2014, at 3:52 PM, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>

>

> Guys, you are as good as it gets in this work. But you are also not me, and therefore not relating fully to my thoughts and feelings. This PBA attack is appalling and beyond anything I've ever seen. And the team has taken a workmanlike approach to it, which I understand and appreciate. But imagine what it feels like to be the guy told to stay away from their funerals... This is part of a bigger problem, and must be addressed. Chirlane just suggested involving the Cardinal. I'm alerting you all that I think this makes sense, and this is a moment for COREL to stand and be counted. If voices of conscience don't start speaking up, this cancer will spread. And this team should be thinking about not just accepting this dynamics, but figuring out how to change them

>

From: Walzak, Phil
To: B; Ragone, Peter; Wolfe, Emma; Carrion, Marco A.; Howe, Amanda; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic
Cc: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; FLONYC
Subject: Re: Disgusted
Date: Saturday, December 13, 2014 4:39:29 PM

It is no doubt disgusting

FWIW we are working to amplify the disgust in the media as much as we can here. We worked closely w NYDN yesterday and got a nice editorial blowing up PBA. Pushing times to do same. And working other angles. I think a lot of coverage - outside the Post - reflects the view that this was a step way too far over the line by these guys

----- Original Message -----

From: B
Sent: Saturday, December 13, 2014 03:52 PM
To: Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; Wolfe, Emma; Carrion, Marco A.; Howe, Amanda; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic
Cc: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; FLONYC
Subject: Disgusted

Guys, you are as good as it gets in this work. But you are also not me, and therefore not relating fully to my thoughts and feelings. This PBA attack is appalling and beyond anything I've ever seen. And the team has taken a workmanlike approach to it, which I understand and appreciate. But imagine what it feels like to be the guy told to stay away from their funerals... This is part of a bigger problem, and must be addressed. Chirlane just suggested involving the Cardinal. I'm alerting you all that I think this makes sense, and this is a moment for COREL to stand and be counted. If voices of conscience don't start speaking up, this cancer will spread. And this team should be thinking about not just accepting this dynamics, but figuring out how to change them

From: Wolfe, Emma
To: John Del Cecato
Cc: Ragone, Peter; Howe, Amanda; Shorris, Anthony; Walzak, Phil; Carrion, Marco A.; Williams, Dominic
Subject: Re: Disgusted
Date: Saturday, December 13, 2014 5:37:58 PM

Cool will circle back around to folks Manana

On Dec 13, 2014, at 5:37 PM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

I'm free tomorrow

On Dec 13, 2014, at 5:16 PM, Wolfe, Emma <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Yep agree
I think we should do both
And one can help other
U want me to sked a call?

----- Original message -----

From: "Ragone, Peter" <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: 12/13/2014 5:12 PM (GMT-05:00)
To: "Wolfe, Emma" <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Howe, Amanda" <AHowe@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: "Shorris, Anthony" <AShorris@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Walzak, Phil" <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Carrion, Marco A." <mcarrion@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Williams, Dominic" <DWilliams@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "jfdc@akpdmedia.com" <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Disgusted

We're going to need paid media on schools too. Let's talk tomorrow on this?

From: Wolfe, Emma
Sent: Saturday, December 13, 2014 05:06 PM
To: Howe, Amanda
Cc: Shorris, Anthony; Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; Carrion, Marco A.; Williams, Dominic; jfdc@akpdmedia.com <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Disgusted

Oops sorry guys I was on a new tablet, didn't realize my reply had bosses on it, intended to be part of offline convo first

We should also pull in Jonathan for these convos

On Dec 13, 2014, at 5:03 PM, Howe, Amanda
<AMHowe@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

I agree that new yorkers and police officers need to hear directly from the mayor

From: Wolfe, Emma
Sent: Saturday, December 13, 2014 04:44 PM
To: Shorris, Anthony; Ragone, Peter
Cc: B; Walzak, Phil; Carrion, Marco A.; Howe, Amanda;
Williams, Dominic; jfdc@akpdmedia.com
<jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; FLONYC
Subject: RE: Disgusted

We should do lots with cops totally agree
Speaker is gonna do a bunch of folks calls herself -
we can and should do more
I really think I we need a paid media campaign on both sides of this issue to communicate to NYers

----- Original message -----

From: "Shorris, Anthony"
<AShorris@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: 12/13/2014 4:41 PM (GMT-05:00)
To: "Ragone, Peter" <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Walzak, Phil"
<PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Wolfe, Emma"
<EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Carrion, Marco A."
<mcarrion@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Howe, Amanda"
<AMHowe@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Williams, Dominic" <DWilliams@cityhall.nyc.gov>,
jfdc@akpdmedia.com, FLONYC
<FLONYC@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: Disgusted

I would also suggest we think about communicating directly with the police officers -- though I'd want Bratton's advice on that of course. These are our employees, and we have every right for them to hear directly from the Mayor, either by letter or e-mail, about his perspective on what is happening (though he cannot talk about the labor contract). We communicated to our staff about the risks of Ebola, and this behavior is just as noxious to public safety in its own way. If we believe that Pat Lynch does not speak for all officers, and I don't think he does, then perhaps we can find a way to reach out the majority.

Anthony E. Shorris

First Deputy Mayor
City of New York
City Hall
New York, NY 10007
212-788-3191

> On Dec 13, 2014, at 4:30 PM, Ragone, Peter
<pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>
> I'm for it. Marco can prolly work the Corel piece. I think you would need to check in w Cardinal yourself.
>
> Bratton also is a powerful surrogate here.
>
> ----- Original Message -----
> From: B
> Sent: Saturday, December 13, 2014 03:52 PM
> To: Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; Wolfe, Emma; Carrion,
Marco A.; Howe, Amanda; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic
> Cc: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>;
FLONYC
> Subject: Disgusted
>
>
> Guys, you are as good as it gets in this work. But you are also not me, and therefore not relating fully to my thoughts and feelings. This PBA attack is appalling and beyond anything I've ever seen. And the team has taken a workmanlike approach to it, which I understand and appreciate. But imagine what it feels like to be the guy told to stay away from their funerals... This is part of a bigger problem, and must be addressed. Chirlane just suggested involving the Cardinal. I'm alerting you all that I think this makes sense, and this is a moment for COREL to stand and be counted. If voices of conscience don't start speaking up, this cancer will spread.
And this team should be thinking about not just accepting this dynamics, but figuring out how to change them
>

From: Bill de Blasio
To: John Del Cecato
Cc: FLONYC
Subject: Re: Disgusted
Date: Saturday, December 13, 2014 5:38:23 PM

All good ideas. But my other point is: NO ONE on the team talked to me about where we go from here. NO ONE offered a strategy. Deafening silence and only actions taken have been small bore. Meaning: all tactics, no strategy. All staff, no principal. That won't work

Sent via BlackBerry by AT&T

-----Original Message-----

From: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>

Date: Sat, 13 Dec 2014 21:26:53

To: <[REDACTED]>

Subject: Re: Disgusted

I love the idea of the Cardinal weighing in.

I was also talking to Phil last week about some sort of an olive branch to the FDNY. Firefighters tend to feel tension with the police more than most. And they are great validators in the face of ugliness from the PBA.

But maybe it's also time for a larger speech on race and police-community relations - the notion of community ratings being more influential to promotion and recognition than simply the number of collars.

> On Dec 13, 2014, at 3:54 PM, Bill de Blasio <[REDACTED]> wrote:

>

>

> Another example of why we need you. No one's thinking about this deeply

>

>

> -----Original Message-----

> To: Peter Ragone

> To: Phil Walzak

> To: Emma Wolfe

> To: Marco Carrion

> To: Amanda Howe

> To: Tony Shorris

> To: Dom Williams

> Cc: John Del Cecato

> Cc: Chirlane McCray

> Subject: Disgusted

> Sent: Dec 13, 2014 3:52 PM

>

>

> Guys, you are as good as it gets in this work. But you are also not me, and therefore not relating fully to my thoughts and feelings. This PBA attack is appalling and beyond anything I've ever seen. And the team has taken a workmanlike approach to it, which I understand and appreciate. But imagine what it feels like to be the guy told to stay away from their funerals... This is part of a bigger problem, and must be addressed. Chirlane just suggested involving the Cardinal. I'm alerting you all that I think this makes sense, and this is a moment for COREL to stand and be counted. If voices of conscience don't start speaking up, this cancer will spread. And this team should be thinking about not just accepting this dynamics, but figuring out how to change them

>

>

>

> Sent via BlackBerry by AT&T

From: Bill de Blasio
To: John Del Cecato
Cc: FLONYC
Subject: Re: Disgusted
Date: Saturday, December 13, 2014 5:53:24 PM

Agree entirely. That's the point. Being mindful, not mechanical, in situations like this

Sent via BlackBerry by AT&T

-----Original Message-----

From: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Date: Sat, 13 Dec 2014 22:50:43
To: <[REDACTED]>
Cc: Chirlane McCray<FLONYC@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: Disgusted

That is troubling. The team needs to caucus during stuff like this - first a call among key staff, then a call with you. It can't be dealt with in silos. And since I hope to be transitioning into my new role soon, it shouldn't happen like that going forward.

During the campaign, we had moments of great outrage - think Maureen Dowd totally misquoting Chirlane. We gathered the team, went over the facts, gave out assignments, then got the boss in the loop as soon as possible. We've got to get back to that process.

Emma is setting up a call with the team for tomorrow - will map out our game plan.

> On Dec 13, 2014, at 5:37 PM, Bill de Blasio <[REDACTED]> wrote:

>
>

> All good ideas. But my other point is: NO ONE on the team talked to me about where we go from here. NO ONE offered a strategy. Deafening silence and only actions taken have been small bore. Meaning: all tactics, no strategy. All staff, no principal. That won't work

>
>

> Sent via BlackBerry by AT&T

>

> -----Original Message-----

> From: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
> Date: Sat, 13 Dec 2014 21:26:53
> To: <[REDACTED]>
> Subject: Re: Disgusted

>

> I love the idea of the Cardinal weighing in.

>

> I was also talking to Phil last week about some sort of an olive branch to the FDNY. Firefighters tend to feel tension with the police more than most. And they are great validators in the face of ugliness from the PBA.

>

> But maybe it's also time for a larger speech on race and police-community relations - the notion of community ratings being more influential to promotion and recognition than simply the number of collars.

>

>

>
>
>
>
>

>> On Dec 13, 2014, at 3:54 PM, Bill de Blasio <[REDACTED]> wrote:

>>
>>

>> Another example of why we need you. No one's thinking about this deeply

>>
>>

>> -----Original Message-----

>> To: Peter Ragone

>> To: Phil Walzak

>> To: Emma Wolfe

>> To: Marco Carrion

>> To: Amanda Howe

>> To: Tony Shorris

>> To: Dom Williams

>> Cc: John Del Cecato

>> Cc: Chirlane McCray

>> Subject: Disgusted

>> Sent: Dec 13, 2014 3:52 PM

>>
>>

>> Guys, you are as good as it gets in this work. But you are also not me, and therefore not relating fully to my thoughts and feelings. This PBA attack is appalling and beyond anything I've ever seen. And the team has taken a workmanlike approach to it, which I understand and appreciate. But imagine what it feels like to be the guy told to stay away from their funerals... This is part of a bigger problem, and must be addressed. Chirlane just suggested involving the Cardinal. I'm alerting you all that I think this makes sense, and this is a moment for COREL to stand and be counted. If voices of conscience don't start speaking up, this cancer will spread. And this team should be thinking about not just accepting this dynamics, but figuring out how to change them

>>
>>

>>

>> Sent via BlackBerry by AT&T

From: Walzak, Phil
To: Wolfe, Emma; Ragone, Peter; Howe, Amanda
Cc: Shorris, Anthony; Carrion, Marco A.; Williams, Dominic; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: RE: Disgusted
Date: Saturday, December 13, 2014 5:56:07 PM

Shud be aware of this –

The Post reported that amid protests on the Garner verdict, a “Pro-Cop Rally” at City Hall is being planned for next Friday.

From: Wolfe, Emma
Sent: Saturday, December 13, 2014 5:17 PM
To: Ragone, Peter; Howe, Amanda
Cc: Shorris, Anthony; Walzak, Phil; Carrion, Marco A.; Williams, Dominic; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'
Subject: RE: Disgusted

Yep agree
I think we should do both
And one can help other
U want me to sked a call?

----- Original message -----

From: "Ragone, Peter" <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: 12/13/2014 5:12 PM (GMT-05:00)
To: "Wolfe, Emma" <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Howe, Amanda" <AHowe@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: "Shorris, Anthony" <AShorris@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Walzak, Phil" <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Carrion, Marco A." <mcarrion@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Williams, Dominic" <DWilliams@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "jfdc@akpdmedia.com" <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Disgusted

We're going to need paid media on schools too. Let's talk tomorrow on this?

From: Wolfe, Emma
Sent: Saturday, December 13, 2014 05:06 PM
To: Howe, Amanda
Cc: Shorris, Anthony; Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; Carrion, Marco A.; Williams, Dominic; jfdc@akpdmedia.com <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Disgusted

Oops sorry guys I was on a new tablet, didn't realize my reply had bosses on it, intended to be part of offline convo first

We should also pull in Jonathan for these convos

On Dec 13, 2014, at 5:03 PM, Howe, Amanda <AHowe@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

I agree that new yorkers and police officers need to hear directly from the mayor

From: Wolfe, Emma
Sent: Saturday, December 13, 2014 04:44 PM
To: Shorris, Anthony; Ragone, Peter
Cc: B; Walzak, Phil; Carrion, Marco A.; Howe, Amanda; Williams, Dominic;
jfdc@akpdmedia.com <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; FLONYC
Subject: RE: Disgusted

We should do lots with cops totally agree
Speaker is gonna do a bunch of folks calls herself - we can and should do more
I really think I we need a paid media campaign on both sides of this issue to communicate to NYers

----- Original message -----

From: "Shorris, Anthony" <AShorris@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: 12/13/2014 4:41 PM (GMT-05:00)
To: "Ragone, Peter" <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Walzak, Phil" <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Wolfe, Emma" <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Carrion, Marco A." <mcarrion@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Howe, Amanda" <AHowe@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Williams, Dominic" <DWilliams@cityhall.nyc.gov>, jfdc@akpdmedia.com, FLONYC <FLONYC@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: Disgusted

I would also suggest we think about communicating directly with the police officers -- though I'd want Bratton's advice on that of course. These are our employees, and we have every right for them to hear directly from the Mayor, either by letter or e-mail, about his perspective on what is happening (though he cannot talk about the labor contract). We communicated to our staff about the risks of Ebola, and this behavior is just as noxious to public safety in its own way. If we believe that Pat Lynch does not speak for all officers, and I don't think he does, then perhaps we can find a way to reach out the majority.

Anthony E. Shorris
First Deputy Mayor
City of New York
City Hall
New York, NY 10007
212-788-3191

> On Dec 13, 2014, at 4:30 PM, Ragone, Peter <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>
> I'm for it. Marco can prolly work the Corel piece. I think you would need to check in w Cardinal yourself.
>
> Bratton also is a powerful surrogate here.
>
> ----- Original Message -----

> From: B
> Sent: Saturday, December 13, 2014 03:52 PM
> To: Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; Wolfe, Emma; Carrion, Marco A.; Howe, Amanda; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic
> Cc: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; FLONYC
> Subject: Disgusted
>
>
> Guys, you are as good as it gets in this work. But you are also not me, and therefore not relating fully to my thoughts and feelings. This PBA attack is appalling and beyond anything I've ever seen. And the team has taken a workmanlike approach to it, which I understand and appreciate. But imagine what it feels like to be the guy told to stay away from their funerals... This is part of a bigger problem, and must be addressed. Chirlane just suggested involving the Cardinal. I'm alerting you all that I think this makes sense, and this is a moment for COREL to stand and be counted. If voices of conscience don't start speaking up, this cancer will spread. And this team should be thinking about not just accepting this dynamics, but figuring out how to change them
>

From: B
To: Howe, Amanda; Wolfe, Emma; Shorris, Anthony; Ragone, Peter
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Carrion, Marco A.; Williams, Dominic; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; FLONYC
Subject: Re: Disgusted
Date: Saturday, December 13, 2014 7:50:33 PM

True, but before they hear from me, they need to hear a chorus of outrage directed at the PBA. Let's pick up the pace on this. I have messages in to the Cardinal and the Governor

From: Howe, Amanda
Sent: Saturday, December 13, 2014 05:03 PM
To: Wolfe, Emma; Shorris, Anthony; Ragone, Peter
Cc: B; Walzak, Phil; Carrion, Marco A.; Williams, Dominic; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; FLONYC
Subject: Re: Disgusted

I agree that new yorkers and police officers need to hear directly from the mayor

From: Wolfe, Emma
Sent: Saturday, December 13, 2014 04:44 PM
To: Shorris, Anthony; Ragone, Peter
Cc: B; Walzak, Phil; Carrion, Marco A.; Howe, Amanda; Williams, Dominic; jfdc@akpdmedia.com <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; FLONYC
Subject: RE: Disgusted

We should do lots with cops totally agree
Speaker is gonna do a bunch of folks calls herself - we can and should do more
I really think I we need a paid media campaign on both sides of this issue to communicate to NYers

----- Original message -----

From: "Shorris, Anthony" <AShorris@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: 12/13/2014 4:41 PM (GMT-05:00)
To: "Ragone, Peter" <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Walzak, Phil" <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Wolfe, Emma" <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Carrion, Marco A." <mcarrion@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Howe, Amanda" <AHowe@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Williams, Dominic" <DWilliams@cityhall.nyc.gov>, jfdc@akpdmedia.com, FLONYC <FLONYC@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: Disgusted

I would also suggest we think about communicating directly with the police officers -- though I'd want Bratton's advice on that of course. These are our employees, and we have every right for them to hear directly from the Mayor, either by letter or e-mail, about his perspective on what is happening (though he cannot talk about the labor contract). We communicated to our staff about the risks of Ebola, and this behavior is just as noxious to public safety in its own way. If we believe that Pat Lynch does not speak for all officers, and I don't think he does, then perhaps we can find a way to reach out the majority.

Anthony E. Shorris
First Deputy Mayor
City of New York
City Hall
New York, NY 10007
212-788-3191

> On Dec 13, 2014, at 4:30 PM, Ragone, Peter <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>

> I'm for it. Marco can prolly work the Corel piece. I think you would need to check in w Cardinal yourself.

>

> Bratton also is a powerful surrogate here.

>

> ----- Original Message -----

> From: B

> Sent: Saturday, December 13, 2014 03:52 PM

> To: Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; Wolfe, Emma; Carrion, Marco A.; Howe, Amanda; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic

> Cc: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; FLONYC

> Subject: Disgusted

>

>

> Guys, you are as good as it gets in this work. But you are also not me, and therefore not relating fully to my thoughts and feelings. This PBA attack is appalling and beyond anything I've ever seen. And the team has taken a workmanlike approach to it, which I understand and appreciate. But imagine what it feels like to be the guy told to stay away from their funerals... This is part of a bigger problem, and must be addressed. Chirlane just suggested involving the Cardinal. I'm alerting you all that I think this makes sense, and this is a moment for COREL to stand and be counted. If voices of conscience don't start speaking up, this cancer will spread. And this team should be thinking about not just accepting this dynamics, but figuring out how to change them

>

From: Ragone, Peter
To: Shorris, Anthony; "BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov"
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Howe, Amanda; Wolfe, Emma; Carrion, Marco A.; Williams, Dominic; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; FLONYC
Subject: Re: Disgusted
Date: Sunday, December 14, 2014 2:30:13 PM

Totally agree.

From: Shorris, Anthony
Sent: Sunday, December 14, 2014 02:28 PM
To: B
Cc: Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; Howe, Amanda; Wolfe, Emma; Carrion, Marco A.; Williams, Dominic; jfdc@akpdmedia.com <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; FLONYC
Subject: Re: Disgusted

I agree it would be better for the city for Lynch to apologize -- even if it conveniently elevates AMC to peacemaker above the fray -- but I assume the conditions of engagement would have to be very clear in advance (i.e., it's not like both sides have apologize to each other).

Anthony E. Shorris
First Deputy Mayor
City of New York
City Hall
New York, NY 10007
212-788-3191

On Dec 14, 2014, at 2:22 PM, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Cuomo's response is either classic Cuomo or actually might be helpful: he asked if I wanted him to condemn PBA's action or get Lynch to apologize. My answer, from the gut, was that the latter was better for moving this troubled dynamic in our city forward. He said he would try. He suggested a breakfast mtg with him and lynch after which lynch apologizes. I told him I was open to it, but doubted lynch would move

From: Ragone, Peter
Sent: Saturday, December 13, 2014 10:34 PM
To: Walzak, Phil; B; Howe, Amanda; Wolfe, Emma; Shorris, Anthony
Cc: Carrion, Marco A.; Williams, Dominic; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; FLONYC
Subject: Re: Disgusted

Great.

From: Walzak, Phil
Sent: Saturday, December 13, 2014 09:43 PM
To: B; Howe, Amanda; Wolfe, Emma; Shorris, Anthony; Ragone, Peter
Cc: Carrion, Marco A.; Williams, Dominic; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; FLONYC
Subject: RE: Disgusted

Ill hit up zwilling

From: B
Sent: Saturday, December 13, 2014 9:42 PM
To: Howe, Amanda; Wolfe, Emma; Shorris, Anthony; Ragone, Peter
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Carrion, Marco A.; Williams, Dominic; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; FLONYC
Subject: Re: Disgusted

Just spoke with the Cardinal. Very good conversation. He was appalled and immediately offered to help. He's planning on putting out a statement tmrw. Pls coordinate with him team -- want maximum attention on what he does

From: Howe, Amanda
Sent: Saturday, December 13, 2014 05:03 PM
To: Wolfe, Emma; Shorris, Anthony; Ragone, Peter
Cc: B; Walzak, Phil; Carrion, Marco A.; Williams, Dominic; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; FLONYC
Subject: Re: Disgusted

I agree that new yorkers and police officers need to hear directly from the mayor

From: Wolfe, Emma
Sent: Saturday, December 13, 2014 04:44 PM
To: Shorris, Anthony; Ragone, Peter
Cc: B; Walzak, Phil; Carrion, Marco A.; Howe, Amanda; Williams, Dominic; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; FLONYC
Subject: RE: Disgusted

We should do lots with cops totally agree
Speaker is gonna do a bunch of folks calls herself - we can and should do more
I really think I we need a paid media campaign on both sides of this issue to communicate to NYers

----- Original message -----

From: "Shorris, Anthony" <AShorris@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: 12/13/2014 4:41 PM (GMT-05:00)
To: "Ragone, Peter" <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Walzak, Phil" <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Wolfe, Emma" <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Carrion, Marco A." <mcarrion@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Howe, Amanda" <AHowe@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Williams, Dominic"

<DWilliams@cityhall.nyc.gov>, jfdc@akpdmedia.com, FLONYC
<FLONYC@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: Disgusted

I would also suggest we think about communicating directly with the police officers -- though I'd want Bratton's advice on that of course. These are our employees, and we have every right for them to hear directly from the Mayor, either by letter or e-mail, about his perspective on what is happening (though he cannot talk about the labor contract). We communicated to our staff about the risks of Ebola, and this behavior is just as noxious to public safety in its own way. If we believe that Pat Lynch does not speak for all officers, and I don't think he does, then perhaps we can find a way to reach out the majority.

Anthony E. Shorris
First Deputy Mayor
City of New York
City Hall
New York, NY 10007
212-788-3191

> On Dec 13, 2014, at 4:30 PM, Ragone, Peter <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>
> I'm for it. Marco can proolly work the Corel piece. I think you would need to check in w Cardinal yourself.
>
> Bratton also is a powerful surrogate here.
>
> ----- Original Message -----
> From: B
> Sent: Saturday, December 13, 2014 03:52 PM
> To: Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; Wolfe, Emma; Carrion, Marco A.; Howe, Amanda; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic
> Cc: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; FLONYC
> Subject: Disgusted
>
>
> Guys, you are as good as it gets in this work. But you are also not me, and therefore not relating fully to my thoughts and feelings. This PBA attack is appalling and beyond anything I've ever seen. And the team has taken a workmanlike approach to it, which I understand and appreciate. But imagine what it feels like to be the guy told to stay away from their funerals... This is part of a bigger problem, and must be addressed. Chirlane just suggested involving the Cardinal. I'm alerting you all that I think this makes sense, and this is a moment for COREL to stand and be counted. If voices of conscience don't start speaking up, this cancer will spread. And this team should be thinking about not just accepting this dynamics, but figuring out how to change them
>

From: Williams, Dominic
To: Shorris, Anthony; Ragone, Peter
Cc: B; Wolfe, Emma; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Walzak, Phil; Howe, Amanda; Carrion, Marco A.; FLONYC
Subject: Re: Disgusted
Date: Sunday, December 14, 2014 5:16:21 PM

Linder and Bratton talking about tonight. Talked to Miller who thought it was disgusting and insane, and is working on event options and media options for counter-messaging at cops, and thinking about ways to get at Lynch directly.

From: Shorris, Anthony
Sent: Sunday, December 14, 2014 04:42 PM
To: Ragone, Peter
Cc: B; Wolfe, Emma; Williams, Dominic; jfdc@akpdmedia.com <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Walzak, Phil; Howe, Amanda; Carrion, Marco A.; FLONYC
Subject: Re: Disgusted

You or Dom could get a preview from Miller or Linder and then BDB or I could call Bratton this evening.

Anthony E. Shorris
First Deputy Mayor
City of New York
City Hall
New York, NY 10007
212-788-3191

On Dec 14, 2014, at 4:20 PM, Ragone, Peter <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Where's Bratton's head on this?

From: B
Sent: Sunday, December 14, 2014 04:15 PM
To: Wolfe, Emma; Williams, Dominic; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Shorris, Anthony
Cc: Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; Howe, Amanda; Carrion, Marco A.; FLONYC
Subject: Re: Disgusted

Just went back to Gov. Made clear a mtg makes no sense in current environment. First need Gov to condemn, which he says he's willing to do. Then can see if PBA willing to do anything worthy enough to accept a peace offering

From: Wolfe, Emma

Sent: Sunday, December 14, 2014 02:54 PM
To: Williams, Dominic; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Shorris, Anthony; B
Cc: Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; Howe, Amanda; Carrion, Marco A.; FLONYC
Subject: Re: Disgusted

Agree strongly with the sequencing suggested here.

From: Williams, Dominic
Sent: Sunday, December 14, 2014 02:52 PM
To: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Shorris, Anthony; B
Cc: Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; Howe, Amanda; Wolfe, Emma; Carrion, Marco A.; FLONYC
Subject: Re: Disgusted

Think Gov should condemn first. Agree with JDC/Peter/Tony on not elevating Lynch.
Would hate to give him leverage.

My two cents - Lynch doesn't deserve to be in same room as the Mayor, and for this stunt to get him in a room would not be good for the world, even if he does apologize for what he just did, because it would still validate his hair on fire "strategy"

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Sunday, December 14, 2014 02:44 PM
To: Shorris, Anthony; B
Cc: Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; Howe, Amanda; Wolfe, Emma; Carrion, Marco A.; Williams, Dominic; FLONYC
Subject: Re: Disgusted

I'm a little worried that a sit-down would put Lynch on same level as us & risks what Tony suggested - that it's somehow both of us apologizing...

My preference would be for us to, in our next high-level remarks on race/police-community relations, pivot to something like this - that doesn't call out Lynch specifically, but alludes to him...

"There are two approaches to public safety in our city.

"There's the old model, that suggests the only way to reduce crime is to divide our city along racial lines by word and deed; recognize and promote our hardworking and extremely skilled police officers based solely on the number of arrests; shut out the voices of those who are mistrustful of law enforcement; and suggest that those who seek to bridge that divide of distrust are somehow unappreciative, or even dismissive, of the courage work that our officers do. In essence, it said, if you're gonna make an omelette, you've got to crack a few eggs.

"And there's a new model, which I embrace, that calls that old model out for what it is: a false choice; a reckless approach to police-community relations that has no connection to reality. Some of the same folks who champion the old model are the very folks who said that this administration - by retraining our police force to eliminate the abuse of stop-and-frisk and instead target the actual bad guys - would lead to a huge spike in crime. On every major indicator, those folks have been proven wrong - terribly wrong.

"We have a long way to go, but by pursuing policies that recognize and promote police officers based on how they are viewed by the communities they serve — their record of both protecting the neighborhoods they patrol AND respecting the neighbors themselves.

"That is a 21st Century model for policing New York City - and one that Commissioner Bratton and I are committed to."

Something like that.

From: <Shorris>, Anthony Shorris <AShorris@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Date: Sunday, December 14, 2014 at 2:28 PM

To: BDB Official <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Cc: "Ragone, Peter" <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Walzak, Phil" <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Howe, Amanda" <AHowe@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Wolfe, Emma" <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Carrion, Marco A." <mcarrion@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Williams, Dominic" <DWilliams@cityhall.nyc.gov>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmmedia.com>, FLONYC <FLONYC@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Subject: Re: Disgusted

I agree it would be better for the city for Lynch to apologize -- even if it conveniently elevates AMC to peacemaker above the fray -- but I assume the conditions of engagement would have to be very clear in advance (i.e., it's not like both sides have apologize to each other).

Anthony E. Shorris
First Deputy Mayor
City of New York
City Hall
New York, NY 10007
212-788-3191

On Dec 14, 2014, at 2:22 PM, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Cuomo's response is either classic Cuomo or actually might be helpful: he asked if I wanted him to condemn PBA's action or get Lynch to apologize. My answer, from the gut, was that the latter was better for moving this troubled dynamic in our city forward. He said he would try. He suggested a breakfast mtg with him and Lynch after which Lynch apologizes. I told him I was open to it, but doubted lynch would move

From: Ragone, Peter
Sent: Saturday, December 13, 2014 10:34 PM
To: Walzak, Phil; B; Howe, Amanda; Wolfe, Emma; Shorris, Anthony
Cc: Carrion, Marco A.; Williams, Dominic; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; FLONYC
Subject: Re: Disgusted

Great.

From: Walzak, Phil
Sent: Saturday, December 13, 2014 09:43 PM
To: B; Howe, Amanda; Wolfe, Emma; Shorris, Anthony; Ragone, Peter
Cc: Carrion, Marco A.; Williams, Dominic; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; FLONYC
Subject: RE: Disgusted

Ill hit up zwilling

From: B
Sent: Saturday, December 13, 2014 9:42 PM
To: Howe, Amanda; Wolfe, Emma; Shorris, Anthony; Ragone, Peter
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Carrion, Marco A.; Williams, Dominic; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; FLONYC
Subject: Re: Disgusted

Just spoke with the Cardinal. Very good conversation. He was appalled and immediately offered to help. He's planning on putting out a statement tmrw. Pls coordinate with him team -- want maximum attention on what he does

From: Howe, Amanda
Sent: Saturday, December 13, 2014 05:03 PM
To: Wolfe, Emma; Shorris, Anthony; Ragone, Peter
Cc: B; Walzak, Phil; Carrion, Marco A.; Williams, Dominic; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; FLONYC
Subject: Re: Disgusted

I agree that new yorkers and police officers need to hear directly from the mayor

From: Wolfe, Emma
Sent: Saturday, December 13, 2014 04:44 PM
To: Shorris, Anthony; Ragone, Peter
Cc: B; Walzak, Phil; Carrion, Marco A.; Howe, Amanda; Williams, Dominic; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; FLONYC
Subject: RE: Disgusted

We should do lots with cops totally agree
Speaker is gonna do a bunch of folks calls herself - we can and should do more
I really think I we need a paid media campaign on both sides of this issue to communicate to NYers

----- Original message -----

From: "Shorris, Anthony" <AShorris@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: 12/13/2014 4:41 PM (GMT-05:00)
To: "Ragone, Peter" <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Walzak, Phil"
<PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Wolfe, Emma"
<EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Carrion, Marco A."
<mcarrion@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Howe, Amanda"
<AHowe@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Williams, Dominic"
<DWilliams@cityhall.nyc.gov>, jfdc@akpdmedia.com, FLONYC
<FLONYC@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: Disgusted

I would also suggest we think about communicating directly with the police officers -
- though I'd want Bratton's advice on that of course. These are our employees, and we have every right for them to hear directly from the Mayor, either by letter or email, about his perspective on what is happening (though he cannot talk about the labor contract). We communicated to our staff about the risks of Ebola, and this behavior is just as noxious to public safety in its own way. If we believe that Pat Lynch does not speak for all officers, and I don't think he does, then perhaps we can find a way to reach out the majority.

Anthony E. Shorris
First Deputy Mayor
City of New York
City Hall
New York, NY 10007
212-788-3191

> On Dec 13, 2014, at 4:30 PM, Ragone, Peter <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>
> I'm for it. Marco can proly work the Corel piece. I think you would need to check in w Cardinal yourself.
>
> Bratton also is a powerful surrogate here.
>
> ----- Original Message -----
> From: B
> Sent: Saturday, December 13, 2014 03:52 PM
> To: Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; Wolfe, Emma; Carrion, Marco A.; Howe, Amanda; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic
> Cc: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; FLONYC
> Subject: Disgusted

>

>

> Guys, you are as good as it gets in this work. But you are also not me, and therefore not relating fully to my thoughts and feelings. This PBA attack is appalling and beyond anything I've ever seen. And the team has taken a workmanlike approach to it, which I understand and appreciate. But imagine what it feels like to be the guy told to stay away from their funerals... This is part of a bigger problem, and must be addressed. Chirlane just suggested involving the Cardinal. I'm alerting you all that I think this makes sense, and this is a moment for COREL to stand and be counted. If voices of conscience don't start speaking up, this cancer will spread. And this team should be thinking about not just accepting this dynamics, but figuring out how to change them

>

From: Shorris, Anthony
To: Ragone, Peter
Cc: B; Wolfe, Emma; Williams, Dominic; jfdc@akpdmedia.com; Walzak, Phil; Howe, Amanda; Carrion, Marco A.; FLONYC
Subject: Re: Disgusted
Date: Sunday, December 14, 2014 6:04:05 PM

Is this the guy who turned out to be a CUNY faculty member? We may want to give Barbara Bowen a heads up -- a bit embarrassing for them.

Anthony E. Shorris
First Deputy Mayor
City of New York
City Hall
New York, NY 10007
212-788-3191

On Dec 14, 2014, at 6:02 PM, Ragone, Peter <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Should we be putting out a statement on arrest of cop beater?

From: Shorris, Anthony
Sent: Sunday, December 14, 2014 04:42 PM
To: Ragone, Peter
Cc: B; Wolfe, Emma; Williams, Dominic; jfdc@akpdmedia.com <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Walzak, Phil; Howe, Amanda; Carrion, Marco A.; FLONYC
Subject: Re: Disgusted

You or Dom could get a preview from Miller or Linder and then BDB or I could call Bratton this evening.

Anthony E. Shorris
First Deputy Mayor
City of New York
City Hall
New York, NY 10007
212-788-3191

On Dec 14, 2014, at 4:20 PM, Ragone, Peter <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Where's Bratton's head on this?

From: B
Sent: Sunday, December 14, 2014 04:15 PM
To: Wolfe, Emma; Williams, Dominic; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'

<jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Shorris, Anthony
Cc: Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; Howe, Amanda; Carrion, Marco A.; FLONYC

Subject: Re: Disgusted

Just went back to Gov. Made clear a mtg makes no sense in current environment. First need Gov to condemn, which he says he's willing to do. Then can see if PBA willing to do anything worthy enough to accept a peace offering

From: Wolfe, Emma
Sent: Sunday, December 14, 2014 02:54 PM
To: Williams, Dominic; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Shorris, Anthony; B
Cc: Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; Howe, Amanda; Carrion, Marco A.; FLONYC

Subject: Re: Disgusted

Agree strongly with the sequencing suggested here.

From: Williams, Dominic
Sent: Sunday, December 14, 2014 02:52 PM
To: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Shorris, Anthony; B
Cc: Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; Howe, Amanda; Wolfe, Emma; Carrion, Marco A.; FLONYC
Subject: Re: Disgusted

Think Gov should condemn first. Agree with JDC/Peter/Tony on not elevating Lynch. Would hate to give him leverage.

My two cents - Lynch doesn't deserve to be in same room as the Mayor, and for this stunt to get him in a room would not be good for the world, even if he does apologize for what he just did, because it would still validate his hair on fire "strategy"

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Sunday, December 14, 2014 02:44 PM
To: Shorris, Anthony; B
Cc: Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; Howe, Amanda; Wolfe, Emma; Carrion, Marco A.; Williams, Dominic; FLONYC
Subject: Re: Disgusted

I'm a little worried that a sit-down would put Lynch on same level as us & risks what Tony suggested - that it's somehow both of us apologizing...

My preference would be for us to, in our next high-level remarks on race/police-community relations, pivot to something like this - that doesn't call out Lynch specifically, but alludes to him...

"There are two approaches to public safety in our city.

"There's the old model, that suggests the only way to reduce crime is to divide our city along racial lines by word and deed; recognize and promote our hardworking and extremely skilled police officers based solely on the number of arrests; shut out the voices of those who are mistrustful of law enforcement; and suggest that those who seek to bridge that divide of distrust are somehow unappreciative, or even dismissive, of the courage work that our officers do. In essence, it said, if you're gonna make an omelette, you've got to crack a few eggs.

"And there's a new model, which I embrace, that calls that old model out for what it is: a false choice; a reckless approach to police-community relations that has no connection to reality.

Some of the same folks who champion the old model are the very folks who said that this administration - by retraining our police force to eliminate the abuse of stop-and-frisk and instead target the actual bad guys - would lead to a huge spike in crime. On every major indicator, those folks have been proven wrong - terribly wrong.

"We have a long way to go, but by pursuing policies that recognize and promote police officers based on how they are viewed by the communities they serve — their record of both protecting the neighborhoods they patrol AND respecting the neighbors themselves.

"That is a 21st Century model for policing New York City - and one that Commissioner Bratton and I are committed to."

Something like that.

From: <Shorris>, Anthony Shorris <AShorris@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Date: Sunday, December 14, 2014 at 2:28 PM

To: BDB Official <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Cc: "Ragone, Peter" <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Walzak, Phil"

<PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Howe, Amanda"

<AHowe@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Wolfe, Emma" <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>,

"Carrion, Marco A." <mcarrion@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Williams, Dominic"

<DWilliams@cityhall.nyc.gov>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>,

FLONYC <FLONYC@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Subject: Re: Disgusted

I agree it would be better for the city for Lynch to apologize -- even if it conveniently elevates AMC to peacemaker above the fray -- but I assume the conditions of engagement would have to be very clear in advance (i.e., it's not like both sides have apologize to each other).

Anthony E. Shorris
First Deputy Mayor
City of New York
City Hall
New York, NY 10007
212-788-3191

On Dec 14, 2014, at 2:22 PM, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Cuomo's response is either classic Cuomo or actually might be helpful: he asked if I wanted him to condemn PBA's action or get Lynch to apologize. My answer, from the gut, was that the latter was better for moving this troubled dynamic in our city forward. He said he would try. He suggested a breakfast mtg with him and lynch after which lynch apologizes. I told him I was open to it, but doubted lynch would move

From: Ragone, Peter
Sent: Saturday, December 13, 2014 10:34 PM
To: Walzak, Phil; B; Howe, Amanda; Wolfe, Emma; Shorris, Anthony
Cc: Carrion, Marco A.; Williams, Dominic; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; FLONYC
Subject: Re: Disgusted

Great.

From: Walzak, Phil
Sent: Saturday, December 13, 2014 09:43 PM
To: B; Howe, Amanda; Wolfe, Emma; Shorris, Anthony; Ragone, Peter
Cc: Carrion, Marco A.; Williams, Dominic; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; FLONYC
Subject: RE: Disgusted

Ill hit up zwilling

From: B
Sent: Saturday, December 13, 2014 9:42 PM
To: Howe, Amanda; Wolfe, Emma; Shorris, Anthony; Ragone,

Peter
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Carrion, Marco A.; Williams, Dominic;
'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; FLONYC
Subject: Re: Disgusted

Just spoke with the Cardinal. Very good conversation. He was appalled and immediately offered to help. He's planning on putting out a statement tmrw. Pls coordinate with him team -- want maximum attention on what he does

From: Howe, Amanda
Sent: Saturday, December 13, 2014 05:03 PM
To: Wolfe, Emma; Shorris, Anthony; Ragone, Peter
Cc: B; Walzak, Phil; Carrion, Marco A.; Williams, Dominic; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; FLONYC
Subject: Re: Disgusted

I agree that new yorkers and police officers need to hear directly from the mayor

From: Wolfe, Emma
Sent: Saturday, December 13, 2014 04:44 PM
To: Shorris, Anthony; Ragone, Peter
Cc: B; Walzak, Phil; Carrion, Marco A.; Howe, Amanda; Williams, Dominic; jfdc@akpdmedia.com <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; FLONYC
Subject: RE: Disgusted

We should do lots with cops totally agree
Speaker is gonna do a bunch of folks calls herself - we can and should do more
I really think I we need a paid media campaign on both sides of this issue to communicate to NYers

----- Original message -----

From: "Shorris, Anthony" <AShorris@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Date: 12/13/2014 4:41 PM (GMT-05:00)
To: "Ragone, Peter" <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Walzak, Phil" <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Wolfe, Emma" <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Carrion, Marco A." <mcarrion@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Howe, Amanda" <AHowe@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Williams, Dominic" <DWilliams@cityhall.nyc.gov>, jfdc@akpdmedia.com, FLONYC <FLONYC@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: Disgusted

I would also suggest we think about communicating directly with the police officers -- though I'd want Bratton's advice on that of course. These are our employees, and we have every right for them to hear directly from the Mayor, either by letter or e-mail, about his perspective on what is happening (though he cannot talk about the labor contract). We communicated to our staff about the risks of Ebola, and this behavior is just as noxious to public safety in its own way. If we believe that Pat Lynch does not speak for all officers, and I don't think he does, then perhaps we can find a way to reach out the majority.

Anthony E. Shorris
First Deputy Mayor
City of New York
City Hall
New York, NY 10007
212-788-3191

> On Dec 13, 2014, at 4:30 PM, Ragone, Peter
<pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>

> I'm for it. Marco can prolly work the Corel piece. I think you would need to check in w Cardinal yourself.

>

> Bratton also is a powerful surrogate here.

>

> ----- Original Message -----

> From: B

> Sent: Saturday, December 13, 2014 03:52 PM

> To: Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; Wolfe, Emma; Carrion, Marco A.;
Howe, Amanda; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic

> Cc: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; FLONYC

> Subject: Disgusted

>

>

> Guys, you are as good as it gets in this work. But you are also not me, and therefore not relating fully to my thoughts and feelings. This PBA attack is appalling and beyond anything I've ever seen. And the team has taken a workmanlike approach to it, which I understand and appreciate. But imagine what it feels like to be the guy told to stay away from their funerals... This is part of a bigger problem, and must be addressed. Chirlane just suggested involving the Cardinal. I'm alerting you all that I think this makes sense, and this is a moment for COREL to stand and be counted. If voices of conscience don't start speaking up, this cancer will spread. And this team should be thinking about not just accepting this dynamics, but figuring out how to change them

>

From: Ragone, Peter
To: B; Walzak, Phil; Howe, Amanda; Wolfe, Emma; Shorris, Anthony
Cc: Carrion, Marco A.; Williams, Dominic; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; FLONYC
Subject: Re: Disgusted
Date: Monday, December 15, 2014 3:04:54 PM

Perfect.

From: B
Sent: Monday, December 15, 2014 03:04 PM
To: Walzak, Phil; Howe, Amanda; Wolfe, Emma; Shorris, Anthony; Ragone, Peter
Cc: Carrion, Marco A.; Williams, Dominic; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; FLONYC
Subject: Re: Disgusted

Bratton is doing a presser at 5:30 re: Australia incident and re: post-Garner protests. He will have questions planted re: PBA/funerals and SBA/"nincompoop" and he says he'll push back on both. He duly noted the Cardinal's op-ed -- I think it helped him feel more ready to speak up, fwiw

From: Walzak, Phil
Sent: Monday, December 15, 2014 01:01 PM
To: B; Howe, Amanda; Wolfe, Emma; Shorris, Anthony; Ragone, Peter
Cc: Carrion, Marco A.; Williams, Dominic; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; FLONYC
Subject: RE: Disgusted

Top NYPD union reps: Timothy Cardinal Dolan is right that de Blasio, cops need to reconcile
DAILY NEWS – Tina Moore, Corky Siemaszko – 12:27 pm
http://www.nydailynews.com/nypd-union-heads-agree-cardinal-de-blasio-cop-beef-article-1.2045764?utm_content=buffer5dcfe&utm_medium=social&utm_source=twitter.com&utm_campaign=NYDNPoliticsTw

Timothy Cardinal Dolan's peacemaking between City Hall and angry NYPD officers appears to have borne fruit — two top police union leaders said Monday they agreed with the Catholic leader.

"Dolan is correct," said Ed Mullins, head of the Sergeants Benevolent Association. "He's calling for people to work together."

Roy Richter, head of the Captains' Endowment Association, said Dolan's condemnation of a move by some in the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association to bar Mayor de Blasio and City Council Speaker Melissa Mark-Viverito from the funerals of police officers killed in the line of duty hit home with him.

"There are a lot of promises that the city has made to officers who put their lives on the line," Richter said. "Whatever you think about the mayor or whoever the mayor is, he's the person in charge of the city and it's important that that person enforce the promises the city's made to our families."

Mullins and Richter were reacting to Dolan's appeal in the Sunday Daily News for both sides to "tune down the volume and speak calmly" as the city continued to seethe over the Eric Garner case.

Specifically, Dolan took aim at a move by the PBA to punish de Blasio for stating publicly that he has warned his biracial 17-year-old son to be careful when dealing with city cops.

Dolan, said that while it was unfair to stereotype all police officers as bigots, it was "equally unfair and counterproductive to dismiss our mayor and other leaders as enemies of police."

It was especially wrong, Dolan wrote, to "go so far as to make controversial one of the more gripping and tearful occasions in the life of this city, the funeral of a fallen officer, a sacred occasion meant to unite us, never fracture us."

Mullins knocked de Blasio for “making inflammatory comments and basically inciting demonstrations at which cops are getting hurt.” But he said barring the mayor from NYPD funerals was unprecedented.

“Unfortunately, the PBA, I think, had a meeting that day and it's my understanding that their delegates and members who were at that meeting are furious at the mayor,” Mullins said. “It’s an expression of what is being felt by the rank and file members of the PBA.”

Still, said Mullins, “I’ll pretty much always side with the cardinal.”

“I think he's a credible individual who is serving a greater purpose than all of us combined,” he said.

There was no immediate response to Dolan’s words from PBA chief Patrick Lynch. The PBA is the NYPD’s biggest union.

The first signs that the temperature might be lowering came two days after 30,000 people marched through Manhattan to protest against police brutality — and against a Staten Island grand jury’s decision to not indict the white cop who killed Garner, who was black, with a chokehold.

While the demonstration was largely peaceful, a breakaway group of protesters clashed with cops Saturday night on the Brooklyn Bridge.

Two police lieutenants attempting to stop protesters from throwing a garbage can on a cop car were kicked in the face and head, the NYPD said.

One of the officers suffered a broken nose, according to police.

Among those arrested was 29-year-old Eric Linsker, a Brooklyn poet and adjunct CUNY professor who was busted Sunday and charged with two counts each of robbery, assault on a police officer, riot, resisting arrest, reckless endangerment, and obstructing government administration, along with possession of marijuana.

Police also reported finding a bag full of hammers and a mask on the Brooklyn Bridge in the aftermath of the melee.

From: John Del Cecato
To: B
Cc: Katz, Rebecca; FLONYC
Subject: Re: David Brooks: Warren Can Win
Date: Tuesday, December 16, 2014 9:13:50 AM

He's channeling himself to some extent. Was supportive of Obama in the primary in 2007-8, mostly because he believed he had a core set of principles

On Dec 16, 2014, at 8:02 AM, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Well-argued!! Too bad this guy isn't on our side

From: Katz, Rebecca
Sent: Tuesday, December 16, 2014 07:37 AM
To: B; FLONYC; John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmmedia.com>
Subject: David Brooks: Warren Can Win

Warren Can Win

Elizabeth Warren's memoir begins with the story of a family in collapse. She was 12 years old when her father had a heart attack.

His recovery was slow. Unable to work, the family's finances tanked. The Studebaker was repossessed. When he was able to return to work, Montgomery Ward took away his job selling carpeting and gave him a job selling lawn mowers on commission. Warren asked her mother why the old job was gone. "In her view, his company had robbed him of something he'd worked for. And now, she said, 'They think he's going to die.' "

The financial spiral had the predictable effect on the family's emotional life. "Sometimes that spring I would overhear my parents arguing," Warren remembers, "I guess I shouldn't describe it as arguing; my father never said much of anything, while my mother yelled louder. They drank more, a lot more. . . . I knew that my mother blamed my daddy for not doing 'what a man is supposed to do' and taking care of us."

Her mother ended up getting a job at Sears, her father got a job as a maintenance man and the family finances stabilized — at a low level. Warren concluded the episode this way: "My mother never had it easy. She fought for everything she and my daddy ever had."

The memoir is called "A Fighting Chance." The words "fight" or "fighting" appear in the book 224 times. In high school, Warren writes, she couldn't play a musical instrument or a sport, "but I did have one talent. I could fight — not with my fists, but with my words. I was the anchor on the debate team." Of her tennis game she writes, "Once I had a weapon in my hand, I gave it everything I had."

With relish, she describes a fight she later had with a judge on a panel discussion over bankruptcy law. "The judge probably had a hundred pounds on me, and he started shifting himself closer to the microphone and edging me out of his way. I grabbed the table for leverage and pushed my way to the microphone, going shoulder to shoulder with the judge as I hit back with arguments. . . . I glanced over and noticed with satisfaction that the veins in his neck were throbbing and his face was red and sweating. I wondered briefly whether he might have a stroke right there on the small stage."

Her biggest adult fight has been against the banks, against what she saw as their rapacious exploitation of the poor and vulnerable. The crucial distinction Warren makes is this one: It's not just social conditions like globalization and technological change that threaten the middle class. It's an active conspiracy by the rich and powerful. The game is rigged. The proper response is not just policy-making; it's indignation and combat.

The political class has been wondering if Warren, a United States senator from Massachusetts, will take on Hillary Clinton for the Democratic presidential nomination. This speculation is usually based on the premise that Warren couldn't actually win, but that she could move the party in her direction. But, today, even for those of us who disagree with Warren fundamentally, it seems clear that she does have a significant and growing chance of being nominated.

Her chances are rising because of that word "fight." The emotional register of the Democratic Party is growing more combative. There's an underlying and sometimes vituperative sense of frustration toward President Obama, and especially his supposed inability to go to the mat.

Events like the Brown case in Ferguson and the Garner case in New York have raised indignation levels across the progressive spectrum. Judging by recent polls, the midterm defeat has not scared Democrats into supporting the safe option; it's made them angrier about the whole system. As the party slips more into opposition status, with the next Congress, this aggressive outsider spirit will only grow.

In this era of bad feelings, parties are organized more around what they oppose rather than what they are for. Republicans are against government. Democrats are coalescing around opposition to Wall Street and corporate power. In 2001, 51 percent of Democrats were dissatisfied with the rise of corporate power, according to Gallup surveys. By 2011, 79 percent of Democrats were. According to an NBC News/Wall Street Journal poll last month, 58 percent of Democrats said they believed that the economic and political systems were stacked against them.

Clinton is obviously tough, but she just can't speak with a clear voice against Wall Street and Washington insiders. Warren's wing shows increasing passion and strength, both in opposing certain Obama nominees and in last week's budget fight.

The history of populist candidates is that they never actually get the nomination. The establishment wins. That's still likely. But there is something in the air. The fundamental truth is that every structural and historical advantage favors Clinton, but every day more Democrats embrace the emotion and view defined by Warren.

From: B
To: Wolfe, Emma; Williams, Dominic; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Shorris, Anthony
Cc: Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; Howe, Amanda; Carrion, Marco A.; FLONYC
Subject: Re: Disgusted
Date: Tuesday, December 16, 2014 3:48:33 PM

And from now on: the answer to any and all requests from the Cuomo Administration is NO. The default position is NO. Then we will decide if and when there should be any yesses

From: Wolfe, Emma
Sent: Sunday, December 14, 2014 02:54 PM
To: Williams, Dominic; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Shorris, Anthony; B
Cc: Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; Howe, Amanda; Carrion, Marco A.; FLONYC
Subject: Re: Disgusted

Agree strongly with the sequencing suggested here.

From: Williams, Dominic
Sent: Sunday, December 14, 2014 02:52 PM
To: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Shorris, Anthony; B
Cc: Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; Howe, Amanda; Wolfe, Emma; Carrion, Marco A.; FLONYC
Subject: Re: Disgusted

Think Gov should condemn first. Agree with JDC/Peter/Tony on not elevating Lynch. Would hate to give him leverage.

My two cents - Lynch doesn't deserve to be in same room as the Mayor, and for this stunt to get him in a room would not be good for the world, even if he does apologize for what he just did, because it would still validate his hair on fire "strategy"

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Sunday, December 14, 2014 02:44 PM
To: Shorris, Anthony; B
Cc: Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; Howe, Amanda; Wolfe, Emma; Carrion, Marco A.; Williams, Dominic; FLONYC
Subject: Re: Disgusted

I'm a little worried that a sit-down would put Lynch on same level as us & risks what Tony suggested - that it's somehow both of us apologizing...

My preference would be for us to, in our next high-level remarks on race/police-community relations, pivot to something like this - that doesn't call out Lynch specifically, but alludes to him...

"There are two approaches to public safety in our city.

"There's the old model, that suggests the only way to reduce crime is to divide our city along racial lines by word and deed; recognize and promote our hardworking and extremely skilled police officers based solely on the number of arrests; shut out the voices of those who are mistrustful of law enforcement; and suggest that those who seek to bridge that divide of distrust are somehow unappreciative, or even dismissive, of the courage work that our officers do. In essence, it said, if you're gonna make an omelette, you've got to crack a few eggs.

"And there's a new model, which I embrace, that calls that old model out for what it is: a false choice; a reckless approach to police-community relations that has no connection to reality. Some of the same folks who champion the old model are the very folks who said that this administration - by retraining our police force to eliminate the abuse of stop-and-frisk and instead target the actual bad guys - would lead to a huge spike in crime. On every major indicator, those folks have been proven wrong - terribly wrong.

"We have a long way to go, but by pursuing policies that recognize and promote police officers based on how they are viewed by the communities they serve — their record of both protecting the neighborhoods they patrol AND respecting the neighbors themselves.

"That is a 21st Century model for policing New York City - and one that Commissioner Bratton and I are committed to."

Something like that.

From: <Shorris>, Anthony Shorris <AShorris@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Date: Sunday, December 14, 2014 at 2:28 PM

To: BDB Official <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Cc: "Ragone, Peter" <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Walzak, Phil" <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Howe, Amanda" <AHowe@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Wolfe, Emma" <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Carrion, Marco A." <mcarrion@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Williams, Dominic" <DWilliams@cityhall.nyc.gov>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmmedia.com>, FLONYC <FLONYC@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Subject: Re: Disgusted

I agree it would be better for the city for Lynch to apologize -- even if it conveniently elevates AMC to peacemaker above the fray -- but I assume the conditions of engagement would have to be very clear in advance (i.e., it's not like both sides have apologize to each other).

Anthony E. Shorris
First Deputy Mayor
City of New York
City Hall
New York, NY 10007
212-788-3191

On Dec 14, 2014, at 2:22 PM, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Cuomo's response is either classic Cuomo or actually might be helpful: he asked if I wanted him to condemn PBA's action or get Lynch to apologize. My answer, from the gut, was that the latter was better for moving this troubled dynamic in our city forward. He said he would try. He suggested a breakfast mtg with him and lynch after which lynch apologizes. I told him I was open to it, but doubted lynch would move

From: Ragone, Peter
Sent: Saturday, December 13, 2014 10:34 PM
To: Walzak, Phil; B; Howe, Amanda; Wolfe, Emma; Shorris, Anthony
Cc: Carrion, Marco A.; Williams, Dominic; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; FLONYC
Subject: Re: Disgusted

Great.

From: Walzak, Phil
Sent: Saturday, December 13, 2014 09:43 PM
To: B; Howe, Amanda; Wolfe, Emma; Shorris, Anthony; Ragone, Peter
Cc: Carrion, Marco A.; Williams, Dominic; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; FLONYC
Subject: RE: Disgusted

Ill hit up zwilling

From: B
Sent: Saturday, December 13, 2014 9:42 PM
To: Howe, Amanda; Wolfe, Emma; Shorris, Anthony; Ragone, Peter
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Carrion, Marco A.; Williams, Dominic; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; FLONYC
Subject: Re: Disgusted

Just spoke with the Cardinal. Very good conversation. He was appalled and immediately offered to help. He's planning on putting out a statement tmrw. Pls coordinate with him team -- want maximum attention on what he does

From: Howe, Amanda
Sent: Saturday, December 13, 2014 05:03 PM
To: Wolfe, Emma; Shorris, Anthony; Ragone, Peter
Cc: B; Walzak, Phil; Carrion, Marco A.; Williams, Dominic; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; FLONYC
Subject: Re: Disgusted

I agree that new yorkers and police officers need to hear directly from the mayor

From: Wolfe, Emma
Sent: Saturday, December 13, 2014 04:44 PM
To: Shorris, Anthony; Ragone, Peter
Cc: B; Walzak, Phil; Carrion, Marco A.; Howe, Amanda; Williams, Dominic;
jfdc@akpdmedia.com <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; FLONYC
Subject: RE: Disgusted

We should do lots with cops totally agree
Speaker is gonna do a bunch of folks calls herself - we can and should do more
I really think I we need a paid media campaign on both sides of this issue to communicate to NYers

----- Original message -----

From: "Shorris, Anthony" <AShorris@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: 12/13/2014 4:41 PM (GMT-05:00)
To: "Ragone, Peter" <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Walzak, Phil"
<PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Wolfe, Emma" <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>,
"Carrion, Marco A." <mcarrion@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Howe, Amanda"
<AHowe@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Williams, Dominic"
<DWilliams@cityhall.nyc.gov>, jfdc@akpdmedia.com, FLONYC
<FLONYC@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: Disgusted

I would also suggest we think about communicating directly with the police officers -- though I'd want Bratton's advice on that of course. These are our employees, and we have every right for them to hear directly from the Mayor, either by letter or e-mail, about his perspective on what is happening (though he cannot talk about the labor contract). We communicated to our staff about the risks of Ebola, and this behavior is just as noxious to public safety in its own way. If we believe that Pat Lynch does not speak for all officers, and I don't think he does, then perhaps we can find a way to reach out the majority.

Anthony E. Shorris
First Deputy Mayor
City of New York
City Hall
New York, NY 10007
212-788-3191

> On Dec 13, 2014, at 4:30 PM, Ragone, Peter <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>
> I'm for it. Marco can proolly work the Corel piece. I think you would need to check in w Cardinal yourself.
>
> Bratton also is a powerful surrogate here.
>
> ----- Original Message -----
> From: B

> Sent: Saturday, December 13, 2014 03:52 PM
> To: Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; Wolfe, Emma; Carrion, Marco A.; Howe, Amanda; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic
> Cc: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; FLONYC
> Subject: Disgusted
>
>
> Guys, you are as good as it gets in this work. But you are also not me, and therefore not relating fully to my thoughts and feelings. This PBA attack is appalling and beyond anything I've ever seen. And the team has taken a workmanlike approach to it, which I understand and appreciate. But imagine what it feels like to be the guy told to stay away from their funerals... This is part of a bigger problem, and must be addressed. Chirlane just suggested involving the Cardinal. I'm alerting you all that I think this makes sense, and this is a moment for COREL to stand and be counted. If voices of conscience don't start speaking up, this cancer will spread. And this team should be thinking about not just accepting this dynamics, but figuring out how to change them
>

From: Walzak, Phil
To: B; FLONYC
Cc: Ragone, Peter; Wolfe, Emma; Shorris, Anthony; Carrion, Marco A.; Howe, Amanda; Williams, Dominic; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: NYDN -- Councilmember Jumaane Williams: "I expected more from the Governor"
Date: Tuesday, December 16, 2014 5:42:39 PM

Councilmember Jumaane Williams: "I expected more from the Governor"

BY ANNIE KARNI

NEW YORK DAILY NEWS

Tuesday, December 16, 2014, 4:47 PM

Councilmember Jumaane Williams "expected more" from Gov. Cuomo.

The Brooklyn councilmember told the Daily News he was appalled by Cuomo's failure to chastise Patrolmen's Benevolent Association chief Pat Lynch for actions that helped inflame tensions between the police and City Hall.

In an interview on public radio's "Capitol Pressroom" Monday, Cuomo weighed in on Lynch's online petition, where cops can request that Mayor de Blasio and Council Speaker Melissa Mark-Viverito stay away from their funerals if they are killed in the line of duty.

Cuomo explained that Lynch was reacting emotionally to anti-cop protests sweeping the country in the wake of grand jury decisions in the Eric Garner and Michael Brown cases.

"He was venting that emotion," Cuomo said. "He is standing up for the police, which is his job, and making the point that police need protection, too, in situations like this, and need respect and consideration in situations like this."

Cuomo referred to Lynch as a friend.

"There is no doubt that this is a difficult situation and there are strong feelings all around and expressing those feelings is natural and may be cathartic," Cuomo said.

Williams said he was angered by Cuomo's comments.

"Pat Lynch is showing who he really is -- but I expected more from the Governor," Williams told The News. "I think everybody of good conscious is telling Pat Lynch he needs to be more responsible with his words. Why the Governor wouldn't is appalling."

Public Advocate Letitia James and Council Speaker Melissa Mark-Viverito both declined to comment about Cuomo's comments. A City Hall spokesman did not respond to a request for comment.

"I think people should be calling the Governor out," Williams said. "All of the leaders right now should be trying to make the discourse productive. Pat Lynch has not been doing that. If the Governor is going to chime in, he should be doing that."

On the radio, Cuomo also said he expected tensions to simmer. "We also have to remember at the end of the day that we all work together and we all need one another and we're talking about very seasoned professionals, very responsible professionals," he said.

A spokeswoman for Cuomo did not immediately respond to a request for comment.

Phillip Walzak
Press Secretary
Office of New York City Mayor Bill de Blasio
O: 212-788-2958
C: 917-455-8420
pwalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov
twitter: @ptwalzak

From: John Del Cecato
To: B
Cc: Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea; Carey, Michael; Leopold, Elana; Howe, Amanda
Subject: Re: To be clear, are we planning positive police events for this week? Shot spotter?
Date: Tuesday, December 16, 2014 7:34:55 PM

After-school!

> On Dec 16, 2014, at 5:59 PM, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>
>
> Michael, time to prep for monday is mission-critical. I can help you decide where to make cuts if needed. And compstat's ideal if we can do a quick stop by -- no prep needed. I know what I want to say. Thanks
>
>
>
> ----- Original Message -----
> From: Ragone, Peter
> Sent: Tuesday, December 16, 2014 06:09 PM
> To: B; Walzak, Phil
> Cc: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Hagelgans, Andrea; Carey, Michael; Leopold, Elana
> Subject: RE: To be clear, are we planning positive police events for this week? Shot spotter?
>
> Id like to get time w adam on sked to discuss remarks so we get it right.
>
> Comptat this week. Yes.
>
> -----Original Message-----
> From: B
> Sent: Tuesday, December 16, 2014 6:08 PM
> To: Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil
> Cc: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; Hagelgans, Andrea; Carey, Michael; Leopold, Elana
> Subject: Re: To be clear, are we planning positive police events for this week? Shot spotter?
>
>
> Yes, but do you mean get time on the sched? And you want to do CompStat before Bratton leaves for the holidays on friday?
>
>
>
> ----- Original Message -----
> From: Ragone, Peter
> Sent: Tuesday, December 16, 2014 05:00 PM
> To: B; Walzak, Phil
> Cc: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Hagelgans, Andrea
> Subject: RE: To be clear, are we planning positive police events for this week? Shot spotter?
>
> Yes. We have shot spotter on Friday. We have PAL lunch on Monday. Id like to add Compstat as well where you address folks and thank them for their leadership during the past few weeks.
>
> We need you to get with Adam to work on remarks for PAL where you can make a more substantive set of comments about pd/community. Can you authorize this?
>
>

>
> -----Original Message-----
> From: B
> Sent: Tuesday, December 16, 2014 4:58 PM
> To: Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil
> Cc: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'
> Subject: To be clear, are we planning positive police events for this week? Shot spotter?
>
>

From: Ragone, Peter
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: Re: To be clear, are we planning positive police events for this week? Shot spotter?
Date: Tuesday, December 16, 2014 8:14:57 PM

Right. And Bratton will be there.

----- Original Message -----

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, December 16, 2014 07:42 PM
To: Hagelgans, Andrea
Cc: Ragone, Peter
Subject: Re: To be clear, are we planning positive police events for this week? Shot spotter?

Ah, gotcha - tx - well at least we can talk about how essential PAL is in keeping kids off the streets and out of harms way after the final school bell rings -

> On Dec 16, 2014, at 6:38 PM, Hagelgans, Andrea <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>

> I meant, we can't go visit a program till 2015

>

> PAL is a luncheon on Monday

>

>

> -----Original Message-----

> From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
> Sent: Tuesday, December 16, 2014 7:37 PM
> To: Hagelgans, Andrea
> Cc: Ragone, Peter
> Subject: Re: To be clear, are we planning positive police events for this week? Shot spotter?

>

> Wait - isn't that what Police Athletic League is?

>

>

>

>> On Dec 16, 2014, at 6:35 PM, Hagelgans, Andrea <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>>

>> Programs are on hiatus till the new year, I believe :)

>>

>>

>> -----Original Message-----

>> From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
>> Sent: Tuesday, December 16, 2014 7:35 PM
>> To: B
>> Cc: Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea; Carey, Michael; Leopold, Elana; Howe, Amanda
>> Subject: Re: To be clear, are we planning positive police events for this week? Shot spotter?

>>

>> After-school!

>>

>>

>>

>>> On Dec 16, 2014, at 5:59 PM, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>>>

>>>

>>> Michael, time to prep for monday is mission-critical. I can help you decide where to make cuts if needed. And compstat's ideal if we can do a quick stop by -- no prep needed. I know what I want to say. Thanks

>>>
>>>
>>>

>>> ----- Original Message -----

>>> From: Ragone, Peter

>>> Sent: Tuesday, December 16, 2014 06:09 PM

>>> To: B; Walzak, Phil

>>> Cc: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Hagelgans, Andrea; Carey, Michael; Leopold, Elana

>>> Subject: RE: To be clear, are we planning positive police events for this week? Shot spotter?

>>>

>>> Id like to get time w adam on sked to discuss remarks so we get it right.

>>>

>>> Comptat this week. Yes.

>>>

>>> -----Original Message-----

>>> From: B

>>> Sent: Tuesday, December 16, 2014 6:08 PM

>>> To: Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil

>>> Cc: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; Hagelgans, Andrea; Carey, Michael; Leopold, Elana

>>> Subject: Re: To be clear, are we planning positive police events for this week? Shot spotter?

>>>

>>>

>>> Yes, but do you mean get time on the sched? And you want to do CompStat before Bratton leaves for the holidays on friday?

>>>

>>>

>>>

>>> ----- Original Message -----

>>> From: Ragone, Peter

>>> Sent: Tuesday, December 16, 2014 05:00 PM

>>> To: B; Walzak, Phil

>>> Cc: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Hagelgans, Andrea

>>> Subject: RE: To be clear, are we planning positive police events for this week? Shot spotter?

>>>

>>> Yes. We have shot spotter on Friday. We have PAL lunch on Monday. Id like to add Compstat as well where you address folks and thank them for their leadership during the past few weeks.

>>>

>>> We need you to get with Adam to work on remarks for PAL where you can make a more substantive set of comments about pd/community. Can you authorize this?

>>>

>>>

>>>

>>> -----Original Message-----

>>> From: B

>>> Sent: Tuesday, December 16, 2014 4:58 PM

>>> To: Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil

>>> Cc: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'

>>> Subject: To be clear, are we planning positive police events for this week? Shot spotter?

>>>

>>>

From: Carey, Michael
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; "nbaldick@hilltoppublicsolutions.com"; Williams, Dominic; Fuleihan, Dean \(OMB\); Howe, Amanda; Ko, Eunice; Wiley, Maya; "Jonathan@berlinrosen.com"; Ragone, Peter; Shorris, Anthony; Katz, Rebecca; Wolfe, Emma; John, Roxanne; Walzak, Phil; Leopold, Elana; "Liz Hegarty"
Subject: TONIGHT: Weekly Planning Meeting
Date: Wednesday, December 17, 2014 12:59:58 PM

Hello!

Just a reminder of Tonight's Planning Meeting. Please note that there is a Press/Room 9 Holiday Party at Gracie happening until about 7:30 PM.

Let me know if you have any questions.

Michael Paul Carey
City Hall
New York, New York

From: Howe, Amanda
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Re:
Date: Wednesday, December 17, 2014 10:25:10 PM

----- Original Message -----

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, December 17, 2014 10:10 PM
To: Howe, Amanda
Subject:

Do you have a personal email?

From: Graham, Matthew
To: Liz Hegarty
Subject: RE: Speaking with International Affairs Commissioner Abeywardena
Date: Thursday, December 18, 2014 12:58:00 PM

Thanks, Liz!

Yes, both days are fairly open for Penny. We would be very happy for John to visit us! Our offices are on E. 44th St. between 1st and 2nd Ave., on the 27th floor of 2 UN Plaza.

Just let me know when is best for John, and I will put it on Penny's schedule and notify the security desk.

We're looking forward to meeting him.

Thanks again,

Matt

From: Liz Hegarty [mailto:lhegarty@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Thursday, December 18, 2014 11:55 AM
To: Graham, Matthew
Subject: Re: Speaking with International Affairs Commissioner Abeywardena

Hi Matt,

No problem. Happy to have John come by your office. Any chance there's a time on the 7th or 8th that works for Penny?

Thanks,

Liz

From: <Graham>, Matthew <mgraham@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Thursday, December 18, 2014 at 10:20 AM
To: Liz Hegarty <lhegarty@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: Speaking with International Affairs Commissioner Abeywardena

Hi, Liz.

I just spoke with Penny, and she is hoping to meet John in person after the New Year, if possible. I apologize for the inconvenience, but could we reschedule?

If so, would you let me know a few times that work well for John? Penny is happy to meet him at AKPD's New York office, our office on 44th, or another location of John's choosing.

Thanks again,

Matt

From: Graham, Matthew
Sent: Wednesday, December 17, 2014 6:37 PM
To: 'Liz Hegarty'
Subject: RE: Speaking with International Affairs Commissioner Abeywardena

Thanks, Liz!

Penny will call tomorrow.

From: Liz Hegarty [<mailto:lhgart@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, December 17, 2014 3:06 PM
To: Graham, Matthew
Subject: Re: Speaking with International Affairs Commissioner Abeywardena

Yes, tomorrow at 3:30 is great. John can be reached on his cell: [REDACTED] Feel free to let me know if it would be easier if he dials Penny directly. Thanks!

From: <Graham>, Matthew <mgraham@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Wednesday, December 17, 2014 at 2:02 PM
To: Liz Hegarty <lhgart@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: Speaking with International Affairs Commissioner Abeywardena

Hi, Liz.

Thanks for getting back to me and for offering those times. Might John be available tomorrow at 3:30?

Best,
Matt

Matt Graham | Special Assistant to the Commissioner
NYC Mayor's Office for International Affairs
2 United Nations Plaza, 27th Floor, New York, NY 10017
p: (212) 319-9300 | nyc.gov/internationalaffairs

Follow us on Twitter: @GlobalNYC

 Please consider the environment before printing this email.

CONFIDENTIALITY NOTICE: This email and any files transmitted with it are confidential and intended solely for the use of the individual or entity to whom they are addressed. This message contains confidential information and is intended only for the individual named. If you are not the intended recipient you should not disseminate, distribute or copy this e-mail. Please notify the sender immediately by e-mail if you have received this e-mail by mistake and delete this e-mail from your system. If you are not the intended recipient you are notified that disclosing, copying, distributing or taking any action in reliance on the contents of this information is strictly prohibited.

From: Liz Hegarty [<mailto:lhgart@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, December 17, 2014 3:00 PM
To: Graham, Matthew
Subject: Re: Speaking with International Affairs Commissioner Abeywardena

Hi Matt,

Hope all is well. John's schedule is fairly flexible over the next few days. Is there a time that works well for Penny on either Thursday or Friday afternoon?

Many thanks,

Liz

—

Liz Hegarty

AKPD Message and Media
Office: 312-664-7500
Cell: 203-482-6229
lhegarty@akpdmedia.com

From: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Date: Wednesday, December 17, 2014 at 1:57 PM
To: "Graham, Matthew" <mgraham@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Liz Hegarty <lhegarty@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Speaking with International Affairs Commissioner Abeywardena

Hey Matt - sure, that'd be great - adding Liz for my sked

On Dec 17, 2014, at 10:46 AM, Graham, Matthew <mgraham@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Hello, Mr. Del Cecato.

I am writing with the hope that we might schedule a call between you and Penny Abeywardena, Commissioner of the Mayor's Office for International Affairs. She is responsible for conveying the Mayor's message to a global audience and would appreciate your expertise. Would you please let me know when there is a good time to speak?

Best regards,
Matt

Matt Graham | Special Assistant to the Commissioner
NYC Mayor's Office for International Affairs
2 United Nations Plaza, 27th Floor, New York, NY 10017
p: (212) 319-9300 | nyc.gov/internationalaffairs

Follow us on Twitter: @GlobalNYC

 Please consider the environment before printing this email.

CONFIDENTIALITY NOTICE: This email and any files transmitted with it are confidential and intended solely for the use of the individual or entity to whom they are addressed. This message contains confidential information and is intended only for the individual named. If you are not the intended recipient you should not disseminate, distribute or copy this e-mail. Please notify the sender immediately by e-mail if you have received this e-mail by mistake and delete this e-mail from your system. If you are not the intended recipient you are notified that disclosing, copying, distributing or taking any action in reliance on the contents of this information is strictly prohibited.

From: Shorris, Anthony
To: Carey, Michael; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; "nbaldick@hilltoppublicsolutions.com"; Williams, Dominic; Fuleihan, Dean \(OMB\); Howe, Amanda; Wiley, Maya; "Jonathan@berlinrosen.com"; Ragone, Peter; Katz, Rebecca; Wolfe, Emma; John, Roxanne; Walzak, Phil; Leopold, Elana
Subject: RE: Follow Up from Wednesday Planning Meeting
Date: Friday, December 19, 2014 3:48:51 PM

On a routine basis, I only need my half hour with him each week. More generally, I would like to hold an hour or two each week for substantive issue meetings that have some time sensitivity (i.e., we have to decide MTA strategy before the fare vote, he wants to discuss our CUNY options, we need to discuss upcoming labor issues, etc.). Hard to imagine government policy matters will not consume an hour a week or two a week of his time – we can't just do these on the fly. I will work to keep things within the limited timeframe allocated.

From: Carey, Michael
Sent: Friday, December 19, 2014 2:44 PM
To: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; 'nbaldick@hilltoppublicsolutions.com'; Williams, Dominic; Fuleihan, Dean (OMB); Howe, Amanda; Wiley, Maya; 'Jonathan@berlinrosen.com'; Ragone, Peter; Shorris, Anthony; Katz, Rebecca; Wolfe, Emma; John, Roxanne; Walzak, Phil; Leopold, Elana
Subject: Follow Up from Wednesday Planning Meeting

Hello Everyone,

I wanted to follow up from our conversation on Thursday evening to put together the entire months of January and February. Can you please send to me directly your full time requests, mapped out week-by-week. As an example:

Week of January 11th – 10 Hours of Call Time
Week of January 11th – 5-7 Hours of Albany Relationship Building
Week of January 18th – 10 Hours of Workout

Please submit your plan by noon on Sunday. We will be doing a follow up call with the Mayor on Monday or Tuesday per his request.

I have Dean's requests already – so he gets an A+.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

Best,

Michael

Michael Paul Carey
City Hall
New York, New York

From: John Del Cecato
To: Carey, Michael; "nbaldick@hilltoppublicsolutions.com"; Williams, Dominic; Fuleihan, Dean \(OMB\); Howe, Amanda; Wiley, Maya; "Jonathan@berlinrosen.com"; Ragone, Peter; Shorris, Anthony; Katz, Rebecca; Wolfe, Emma; John, Roxanne; Walzak, Phil; Leopold, Elana
Subject: Re: Follow Up from Wednesday Planning Meeting
Date: Friday, December 19, 2014 4:41:33 PM

That's why he's The Dean!

From: <Carey>, "Carey, Michael" <MPCarey@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Friday, December 19, 2014 at 2:43 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, Nick Baldick <nbaldick@hilltoppublicsolutions.com>, "Williams, Dominic" <DWilliams@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Fuleihan, Dean (OMB)" <fuleihand@omb.nyc.gov>, "Howe, Amanda" <AHowe@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Wiley, Maya" <MWiley@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Jonathan Rosen <jonathan@berlinrosen.com>, "Ragone, Peter" <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Anthony Shorris <AShorris@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Rebecca Katz <RKKatz@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Wolfe, Emma" <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "John, Roxanne" <RJohn@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Walzak, Phil" <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Leopold, Elana" <ELeopold@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Follow Up from Wednesday Planning Meeting

Hello Everyone,

I wanted to follow up from our conversation on Thursday evening to put together the entire months of January and February. Can you please send to me directly your full time requests, mapped out week-by-week. As an example:

Week of January 11th – 10 Hours of Call Time
Week of January 11th – 5-7 Hours of Albany Relationship Building
Week of January 18th – 10 Hours of Workout

Please submit your plan by noon on Sunday. We will be doing a follow up call with the Mayor on Monday or Tuesday per his request.

I have Dean's requests already – so he gets an A+.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

Best,

Michael

Michael Paul Carey
City Hall
New York, New York

From: John Del Cecato
To: Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; B; Hagelgans, Andrea; Adams, Marti
Cc: FLONYC
Subject: Re: Mueller article in NYT re: cellphones and police
Date: Saturday, December 20, 2014 3:07:56 PM

Well-put.

Also, knock-on-wood, we're headed to the lowest level of murders in New York City history (or at least since records have been kept).

If we achieve that, I think we can and should argue this: Not only were those who said that reforming SQF would cause a spike in crime wrong; even those who said it would be a trade-off between rights and safety were wrong. It's not a fluke that crime has set a record low. It's in fact BECAUSE we reformed the way we police - freeing up the best police force in the country to focus on the bad guys, rather than expending time & worsening police-community relations through unnecessary stop-and-frisks.

It's the opposite of what Harry Siegel argued the other day - that it's worth crime ticking up a bit if we are able to restore people's rights. WRONG. Building a better, smarter relationship between police and communities - with clear direction coming from the very top — is WHY crime is going down.

On 12/20/14, 2:36 PM, "Ragone, Peter" <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>Let's look at this as an opportunity. (I honestly just don't think there >is anything we can do about the media. We do our thing, we win. They >should be lit up, but we need to know the outcome will never be >sufficient)
>
>On Monday, we have to use PAL speech to show the leadership we are >showing to make change. Change is painful and turbulent and often ugly.
>But its what you and Bratton have catalyzed.
>
>This is a metamorphosis that this city has entered into together and we >know the outcome is upon us. I hesitate to use the phrase but we must >keep out eyes on the prize.
>
>The reporters are bit players here.
>
>----- Original Message -----
>From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
>Sent: Saturday, December 20, 2014 11:25 AM
>To: Walzak, Phil; B; Ragone, Peter; Hagelgans, Andrea; Adams, Marti
>Cc: FLONYC
>Subject: Re: Mueller article in NYT re: cellphones and police
>
>I honestly didn't register that word in the piece when I first read it.
>Probably worth mentioning, but overall, I think the story was fair
>
>On 12/20/14, 2:09 PM, "Walzak, Phil" <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>
>>I can have a chat
>>
>>----- Original Message -----
>>From: B

>>Sent: Saturday, December 20, 2014 01:57 PM
>>To: Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea; Adams, Marti
>>Cc: FLONYC; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
>>Subject: Mueller article in NYT re: cellphones and police
>>
>>
>>We should push them today and when I meet with the editors: it is a >>totally affront for this reporter to term this entire peaceful movement >>for change as "anti-police." Here is the paper of record making things >>worse for everyone, and phrasing things almost as the NY Post would. We >>need to push back
>>
>>
>

From: Carey, Michael
To: Ragone, Peter; Howe, Amanda; Wolfe, Emma; Hagelgans, Andrea; Walzak, Phil; Cohen, Adam; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com" \(jfdc@akpdmedia.com\); Williams, Dominic; Shorris, Anthony; Fink, Avi
Subject: Current Guest List
Date: Sunday, December 21, 2014 3:23:01 PM

HEAD TABLE 1

Morgenthau, Robert M. 1
Catsimatidis, John A. 1
de Blasio, Bill 1
Rose, Daniel 1
Pitta, Vincent 1
Stefanou, Peter 1
Soloway, Richard 1
Soloway, Donna 1
Sullivan, Charles W. 1
Danza, Tony 1
Davis, J. Morton 1
Saidman, Matthew 1
Group Acct. Representative of Mutual
Choo, Sung Mo 1
Account Representative of Mutual

CATSIMATIDIS, JOHN TABLE 2

Catsimatidis, Margo 2
Karloutsos, Father Alex 2
Osborn, John 2
Kudlow, Larry 2
Butman, Rabbi Shmuel 2
Mamet, Ed 2
Orphanides, James 2

Vance Jr., Cyrus R. 2
Podolsky, Stuart & Guest 2
Maloney, Congresswoman Carolyn 2
Dikinks, Mayor David 2
Schneider, Brian 2
$500 TABLE 3
Schwartz, Bart M. & Guest 3
Fugazy, Roy & 2 Guests 3
Manfred, Rob (Roy Fugazy's Guest) 3
McDonald, George 3
McDonald, John 3
Zeiler, John & Guest 3
SIMONE, MARK TABLE 4
Simone, Mark 4
Cohen, Irwin 4
Watts, Frederick J. 4
$250 TABLE 5
Frank, Danny 5
Shrayef, Jim (Danny's Guest) 5
Sturiale, Matt (Danny's Guest) 5
Chahales, Nicholas P. 5
Murphy, Terrence (Chahales Guest) 5
Kalergios, George 5
Weston, Harold (Kalergios Guest) 5
Paridilis, Taso (Kalergios Guest) 5
Castellanos, Rafael 5
Slackman, David S. (Castellanos Guest) 5
Sanvidge, Brian P. 5

$250 TABLE 6

Grace, Boo 6

Lountzis, Paul 6

Biancardi-Rammairone, Gina 6

Herzog, John (Gina Biancardi's Guest) 6

McGovern, Thomas 6

Strang, Robert 6

Stafford, Michael 6

McLoughlin, Frank (Stafford's Guest) 6

Van Lindt, John 6

Beirne, Paul 6

Minard, Sally 6

$250 TABLE 7

Ferrara, Alphonse 7

Kyriakides, John (Ferrara's Guest) 7

Torres, Luis (Ferrara's Guest) 7

Frischer, Randy (Ferrara's Guest) 7

Harvey, Robert W. 7

Ling, Elizabeth (Robert Harvey's Guest) 7

Lence, George 7

Watkins, Jay (George Lence's Guest) 7

Nicholas, Christine L. 7

Angelakos, B. Dean (Seat with Lence) 7

Hahn, Reuven 7

$500 TABLE 8

Alam, Tarek 8

Valiotis, Efstathios & Guest 8

Bagatelle, David 8
Kakoyiannis, Peter 8
Zimmerman, Robert P. 8
Constance, Thomas E. 8
Smith, Peter (Thomas Constance's Guest) 8

$250 TABLE 9

Hassner, Martin 9
White, Robert 9
Lee, Chester 9
Chin, Ed 9
Rockwell, Dr. Jonnie 9
Evans, Lt. Tiffany (Dr. Rockwell's Guest) 9

Baena, Douglas 9
Sponheimer, Bob (Baena's Guest) 9
Morning, John 9
Vaccaro, James 9
Paybarah, Azi 9

PITTA & GIBLIN TABLE 10

$250 TABLE 11

Ordan, Robert 11
Stratakis, John 11
Rappaport, Errol D. 11
Fridman, Charles 11
Magrowen, Mark (Charles Fridman's Guest) 11
(5) Mayors Team 11

CUMELLA, SALVATORE J. TABLE 12

Cumella, Salvatore J. 12
Schneider, Richard 12

Gibilaro, Dr. Eugene 12

Aidala, Arthur 12

Aidala Jr., Arthur 12

Schneps-Yunis, Victoria 12

Blasi, Jon 12

Ray, Jasmine 12

Miller, William 12

Ellner, Vicki 12

RINALDI, ANTHONY T. TABLE 13

Rinaldi, Anthony 13

Santos, Frances 13

Decandia, Jordan 13

Dave, Devendra 13

Qie, Jerry 13

Traulsen, Harry 13

Banker, Ted 13

Feinerman, Robert 13

GOTHAM GOVERNMENT TABLE 14

Gerstman, Bradley 14

Schwartz, David 14

Ochacher, Perry 14

Fermino, Jen 14

Oliynyk, Tetyana 14

Rubinson, Adam 14

Smith, Diana

Jamerson, Renee

Michael Paul Carey

City Hall

New York, New York

-----Original Appointment-----

From: Carey, Michael

Sent: Sunday, December 21, 2014 2:06 PM

To: Carey, Michael; Ragone, Peter; Howe, Amanda; Wolfe, Emma; Hagelgans, Andrea; Walzak, Phil; Cohen, Adam; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' (jfdc@akpdmedia.com); Williams, Dominic; Shorris, Anthony; Fink, Avi

Subject: Internal Staff Call to Discuss Next Steps

When: Sunday, December 21, 2014 3:00 PM-3:15 PM (UTC-05:00) Eastern Time (US & Canada).

Where: Dial In: [REDACTED]

Dial-in Number: ([REDACTED])

Meeting ID: [REDACTED]

From: Wolfe, Emma
To: Carey, Michael
Cc: Ragone, Peter; Howe, Amanda; Hagelgans, Andrea; Walzak, Phil; Cohen, Adam; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com" (jfdc@akpdmedia.com); Williams, Dominic; Shorris, Anthony; Fink, Avi
Subject: Re: Current Guest List
Date: Sunday, December 21, 2014 3:28:55 PM

+ Gabrielle
Gabrielle I will call you in a bit

On Dec 21, 2014, at 3:23 PM, Carey, Michael <MPCarey@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

HEAD TABLE 1
Morgenthau, Robert M. 1
Catsimatidis, John A. 1
de Blasio, Bill 1
Rose, Daniel 1
Pitta, Vincent 1
Stefanou, Peter 1
Soloway, Richard 1
Soloway, Donna 1
Sullivan, Charles W. 1
Danza, Tony 1
Davis, J. Morton 1
Saidman, Matthew 1
Group Acct. Representative of Mutual
Choo, Sung Mo 1
Account Representative of Mutual

CATSIMATIDIS, JOHN TABLE 2
Catsimatidis, Margo 2
Karloutsos, Father Alex 2
Osborn, John 2
Kudlow, Larry 2
Butman, Rabbi Shmuel 2
Mamet, Ed 2
Orphanides, James 2
Vance Jr., Cyrus R. 2
Podolsky, Stuart & Guest 2
Maloney, Congresswoman Carolyn 2
Dikinks, Mayor David 2
Schneider, Brian 2

$500 TABLE 3
Schwartz, Bart M. & Guest 3
Fugazy, Roy & 2 Guests 3
Manfred, Rob (Roy Fugazy's Guest) 3
McDonald, George 3
McDonald, John 3
Zeiler, John & Guest 3

SIMONE, MARK TABLE 4
Simone, Mark 4
Cohen, Irwin 4
Watts, Frederick J. 4

$250 TABLE 5

Frank, Danny 5
Shrayef, Jim (Danny's Guest) 5
Sturiale, Matt (Danny's Guest) 5
Chahales, Nicholas P. 5
Murphy, Terrence (Chahales Guest) 5
Kalergios, George 5
Weston, Harold (Kalergios Guest) 5
Paridilis, Taso (Kalergios Guest) 5
Castellanos, Rafael 5
Slackman, David S. (Castellanos Guest) 5
Sanvidge, Brian P. 5

$250 TABLE 6

Grace, Boo 6
Lountzis, Paul 6
Biancardi-Rammairone, Gina 6
Herzog, John (Gina Biancardi's Guest) 6
McGovern, Thomas 6
Strang, Robert 6
Stafford, Michael 6
McLoughlin, Frank (Stafford's Guest) 6
Van Lindt, John 6
Beirne, Paul 6
Minard, Sally 6

$250 TABLE 7

Ferrara, Alphonse 7
Kyriakides, John (Ferrara's Guest) 7
Torres, Luis (Ferrara's Guest) 7
Frischer, Randy (Ferrara's Guest) 7
Harvey, Robert W. 7
Ling, Elizabeth (Robert Harvey's Guest) 7
Lence, George 7
Watkins, Jay (George Lence's Guest) 7
Nicholas, Christine L. 7
Angelakos, B. Dean (Seat with Lence) 7
Hahn, Reuven 7

$500 TABLE 8

Alam, Tarek 8
Valiotis, Efstathios & Guest 8
Bagatelle, David 8
Kakoyiannis, Peter 8
Zimmerman, Robert P. 8
Constance, Thomas E. 8
Smith, Peter (Thomas Constance's Guest) 8

$250 TABLE 9

Hassner, Martin 9
White, Robert 9
Lee, Chester 9
Chin, Ed 9
Rockwell, Dr. Jonnie 9
Evans, Lt. Tiffany (Dr. Rockwell's Guest) 9
Baena, Douglas 9
Sponheimer, Bob (Baena's Guest) 9

Morning, John 9
Vaccaro, James 9
Paybarah, Azi 9

PITTA & GIBLIN TABLE 10

$250 TABLE 11

Ordan, Robert 11
Stratakis, John 11
Rappaport, Errol D. 11
Fridman, Charles 11
Magrowen, Mark (Charles Fridman's Guest) 11
(5) Mayors Team 11

CUMELLA, SALVATORE J. TABLE 12

Cumella, Salvatore J. 12
Schneider, Richard 12
Gibilaro, Dr. Eugene 12
Aidala, Arthur 12
Aidala Jr., Arthur 12
Schneps-Yunis, Victoria 12
Blasi, Jon 12
Ray, Jasmine 12
Miller, William 12
Ellner, Vicki 12

RINALDI, ANTHONY T. TABLE 13

Rinaldi, Anthony 13
Santos, Frances 13
Decandia, Jordan 13
Dave, Devendra 13
Qie, Jerry 13
Traulsen, Harry 13
Banker, Ted 13
Feinerman, Robert 13

GOTHAM GOVERNMENT TABLE 14

Gerstman, Bradley 14
Schwartz, David 14
Ochacher, Perry 14
Fermino, Jen 14
Oliynyk, Tetyana 14
Rubinson, Adam 14

Smith, Diana
Jamerson, Renee

Michael Paul Carey
City Hall
New York, New York

-----Original Appointment-----
From: Carey, Michael

Sent: Sunday, December 21, 2014 2:06 PM

To: Carey, Michael; Ragone, Peter; Howe, Amanda; Wolfe, Emma; Hagelgans, Andrea; Walzak, Phil; Cohen, Adam; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com" (jfdc@akpdmedia.com); Williams, Dominic; Shorris, Anthony; Fink, Avi

Subject: Internal Staff Call to Discuss Next Steps

When: Sunday, December 21, 2014 3:00 PM-3:15 PM (UTC-05:00) Eastern Time (US & Canada).

Where: Dial In: ([REDACTED])

Dial-in Number: [REDACTED]

Meeting ID: [REDACTED]

From: Carey, Michael
To: Carrion, Marco A.; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic; Ragone, Peter; Wolfe, Emma; Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea; Cohen, Adam; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Liz Hegarty; John, Roxanne
Subject: RE: MBDB: Call to Discuss Next Steps
Date: Sunday, December 21, 2014 3:31:47 PM

Please dial in for this call with the Mayor and First Lady.

Michael Paul Carey

City Hall

New York, New York

-----Original Appointment-----

From: Carey, Michael

Sent: Sunday, December 21, 2014 2:08 PM

To: Carey, Michael; Carrion, Marco A.; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic; Ragone, Peter; Wolfe, Emma; Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea; Cohen, Adam; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; Liz Hegarty; John, Roxanne

Subject: MBDB: Call to Discuss Next Steps

When: Sunday, December 21, 2014 3:30 PM-4:00 PM (UTC-05:00) Eastern Time (US & Canada).

Where: Dial-in Number: [REDACTED] Meeting ID: [REDACTED]

From: Katz, Rebecca
To: B; FLONYC
Cc: John, Roxanne; John Del Cecato
Subject: FW: Daily Beast: NY Police Union's vile war with Mayor
Date: Sunday, December 21, 2014 9:00:20 PM

From: <Hagelgans>, Andrea Hagelgans <ahagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Date: Sunday, December 21, 2014 8:58 PM

To: Peter Ragone <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Phil Walzak <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Rebecca Katz <rkkatz@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Mahen Gunaratna <MGunaratna@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Emma Wolfe <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Anthony Shorris <AShorris@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Dominic Williams <DWilliams@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Subject: Daily Beast: NY Police Union's vile war with Mayor

Vile Savagery

Michael Tomasky

12.21.14

The NY Police Union's Vile War with Mayor De Blasio

To criticize the mayor for telling his black son what every other father of a black youth must say is divisive and fails to see what's wrong in America.

I covered New York politics for 15 years, and I saw some awfully tense moments between the police and Democratic politicians. But there has never been anything remotely like the war the cops are waging right now against Mayor Bill de Blasio for the thought crime of saying something that was completely unremarkable and so obviously true that in other contexts we don't even bat an eye when someone says it. And for that, the mayor has blood on his hands, as Patrolmen's Benevolent Association head Pat Lynch said Saturday evening after the hideous assassinations of two NYPD officers?

Let's rewind the tape here. On December 3, in the wake of the Staten Island grand jury's refusal to indict in the case of the police homicide of Eric Garner, de Blasio gave a press conference at a Staten Island church. He spoke of the need to heal and so on, the usual politician's rhetoric, and then he uttered these words:

This is profoundly personal for me. I was at the White House the other day, and the President of the United States turned to me, and he met Dante a few months ago, and he said that Dante reminded him of what he looked like as a teenager. And he said, I know you see this crisis through a very personal lens. I said to him I did. Because Chirlane and I have had to talk to Dante for years, about the dangers he may face. A good young man, a law-abiding young man, who would never think to do anything wrong, and yet, because of a history that still hangs over us, the dangers he may face—we've had to literally train him, as families have all over this city for decades, in how to take special care in any encounter he has with the police officers who are there to protect him.

Dante de Blasio, as you surely know, is a mixed-race young man of 16 who looks black and sports a large, 70s-style afro. Does anyone seriously think that his father should not have told him what he did? Come on. We all know the odds (actually, we don't, more on which later). We hear every prominent black man in America who has a son and who decides to talk about this publicly—football players and actors and others—say exactly the same thing. We've heard it hundreds of times. Are these men lying? Are they paranoid weirdos? Of course they aren't. They are fathers, describing to the rest of us what I thought was a widely acknowledged reality.

Lynch is actively trying to make the people who follow him not only despise de Blasio but despise and oppose any acknowledgement that police can be faulted in any way.

Is it somehow jarring to some people that the father who spoke these words is not black but white? I bet that has something to do with it. Do we accept black fathers saying this, because we grant them the presumption of speaking from experience, which we don't grant the white de Blasio? This may be how human brains, or some of them, are wired. But it makes no sense. All you have to do is look at the kid and you'll see what Hizzoner means.

Or is it that it's fine for de Blasio to talk however he wishes to his son, but that because he is the mayor and the leader of the police he should not have said so publicly, especially at a tense moment? All right, this is slightly more understandable. But only slightly. Certainly, this response would be understandable and even justified if de Blasio had in fact attacked the police. But he did no such thing. He said he's trained his son to "take special care" in dealing with the police—who, he added, "are there to protect him." Where Pat Lynch and Rudy Giuliani heard a slur, millions of his constituents—black, brown, and even a few white like him—heard him representing, in terms that were, from their point of view, sadly their reality.

Not long ago, ProPublica, the web site that does hard-nosed, empirical investigative journalism, undertook an extensive study of federally collected crime data on 12,000 police homicides over 22 years. The site found that young black males are far more likely to be shot by cops than young white males. Four times more likely, or eight times, or 10 times? Try 21 times more likely—31 per million as opposed to 1.5 per million for whites. This isn't some liberal conspiracy. These are the numbers as reported to the government by police departments themselves.

And now we can't even acknowledge this plain truth? Astonishingly, it appears we can't agree on it. Right around the time de Blasio spoke, Marist was in the field with a poll asking people whether they think police treat whites and blacks differently. Here are some answers. In each case, the "yes, differently" number comes first.

Overall: 47-44

Whites: 39-51

Blacks: 82-14

Latinos: 53-38

Democrats: 64-29

Independents: 44-48

Republicans: 26-64

So two decades' worth of statistics tell us that black men are killed by police at 21 times the rate white men are, and yet half the public has persuaded itself that police treat blacks and whites no differently. And it's controversial for a mayor with a black 16-year-old son to say something so obvious—indeed, what every parent of a black son has to say.

And that's dividing the city? And Pat Lynch, by speaking of officers' blood on the steps of City Hall and urging his cops to sign an online petition that de Blasio not attend their funerals should they be killed in the line of duty, is doing... what? His behavior is divisive to the point of savagery. He is actively trying to make the people who follow him not only despise de Blasio but despise and oppose any acknowledgement that police can be faulted in any way, that black fear of police has any basis in reality. If Al Sharpton did the same with regard to police departments tout suite, which he does not anymore—he denounced the murder of the two cops immediately—he'd be drummed out of society.

Still, de Blasio should find ways to rise above all this. That's part of the responsibility that comes with being mayor. But he should not back down from what he said. We always insist, after all, that we don't want our politicians to lie.

- share
- tweet
- post
- email

From: Ragone, Peter
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Cohen, Adam; Hagelgans, Andrea; Wolfe, Emma
Subject: Fw: Draft PAL Remarks
Date: Sunday, December 21, 2014 10:24:44 PM
Attachments: PALRemarksSUN930PM.docx

JDC, thoughts?

From: Cohen, Adam
Sent: Sunday, December 21, 2014 06:40 PM
To: Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea; Wolfe, Emma
Subject: Draft PAL Remarks

Attached. Please let me know if you have comments/suggestions

MAYOR BILL DE BLASIO,
POLICE ATHLETIC LEAGUE
MONDAY, DECEMBER 22, 2014

- Honored to be here with Police Athletic League as it ends 100th year
- But saddened it is on day all of NYC mourning two fallen heroes
 - Rafael Ramos
 - Wenjian Liu
- Brave and good men, devoted to families and New York City
- Murdered in cold blood simply for wearing NYPD uniform and badge
 - And putting lives on line to protect city they loved
- Those shots through patrol car window on Myrtle Ave. Saturday afternoon did not just kill Officers Ramos and Liu
...
- They wounded every New Yorker

- And today, we are all in pain

[SPACE]

- Before continue, profound thanks to all of New Yorkers who rose to challenge Saturday
 - Police on scene who pursued assailant until he took his own life
 - EMT's, doctors, nurses, staff who so heroically transported and cared for Officers Ramos and Liu

- And would like to acknowledge

[ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS TO BE ADDED: INCLUDE JOHN CATSIMATEDES AND RICKI KLEIMAN]

[SPACE]

- Saturday's killings were an assassination – and an attack of civilized society
- But most of all, unspeakable tragedy for families

- What should have been ordinary day on beat ended with two grieving widows and child without father

- Saturday, Commissioner Bratton and I met with Officer Ramos's wife and 13-year old son
 - And Officer Liu's wife of 2 months

- As father and husband, no sadder moment than Saturday at Woodhull Hospital seeing toll a man on a mad mission of hate . . .

- . . . took on two such loving families

- Now not a time for politics or pushing agendas

- No place for those who would pit New Yorker against New Yorker
 - Or use this tragedy to score points

- Let no one suggest that a fellow New Yorker caused this mad act. Or that a political debate did.
 - I know emotions are raw – but that is a departure from fact, an assault on City these officers loved
- Out of respect for families, asking for no protests during period of mourning
- For the families, for the City, this is a time to heal

[SPACE]

- Before Saturday's tragic events, was planning to talk about a different subject – and now more relevant, more urgent than ever
- Wanted to talk about a Tale of Two NYPD's
 - NYPD we read about in newspapers, see on TV . . .

- And NYPD we rarely do

- First, the NYPD we have seen in the news this past year

- Year in which police departments nationwide in spotlight

- Ferguson, Staten Island incidents have started national conversation about policing, police-community relations

- Not always easy conversation, but valuable one
- In a democracy, we hold our offices with consent of people, and people should be heard on how city run

- In conversation, I have tried to keep focus on practical question of how we improve – how we reform

- How tear down walls between police and community – and build bridges

- Reforms not about mere niceties – not “community relations”

- Get at something very profound about policing: its legitimacy and strength come from connection to community

- A matter of fundamentally orienting policing in the direction it must go
 - To be legitimate
 - To be effective

[SPACE]

- Fortunately, no Police Department in country more reform-oriented than NYPD

- Say often NYPD is best police force in world
 - And we have crime stats to prove it

- Crime down another 5% this year
 - But also most innovative police department in country
 - It is in our DNA
 - Under Teddy Roosevelt, who led NYPD in late 1800s, New York a leader in the use of fingerprints
 - More recently, NYPD developed CompStat, now model for the nation
 - And in October unveiled $160 million new technology initiative
 - Providing every officer with smart phones
 - And thousands of patrol cars with ruggedized tablets
- [SPACE]
- 2014 a year of tremendous reform of policing methods, under excellent leadership of Commissioner Bratton

- Promised to fundamentally reform “Stop and frisk” policy, and we did
 - In 2011, nearly 700,000 stops, on track for fewer than 50,000 this year
- Changed policy on low-level marijuana arrests – and arrests down nearly 65% since policy changed
- And Commissioner Bratton committed this summer to retrain every officer
 - To make sure best training in use of force, community relations
- While we have done these things, by all measures policing getting better
- In addition to that 5% drop in crime . . .
- . . . Complaints filed with CCRB down nearly 10% this year – and force complaints down 11.4%

- Story of a world-class department moving even further in right direction

[SPACE]

- Now, want to talk about that second NYPD – one we don't hear enough about
- Overwhelming majority of NYPD – who not only do jobs with great professionalism – but care deeply about people of NYC – especially young people
- That is ethos – driving spirit – behind Police Athletic League
- Founded in 1914 by Police Commissioner Arthur Woods in large part to “reduce tensions between officers and youth
- Police brought needy children in their precincts to places that could help them
 - And closed off streets so children in crowded neighborhoods had places to play

- All about helping to build bonds between young people and police – and keeping disadvantaged young people on the right track
- Now serves 40,000 children in all 5 boroughs – primarily high-risk youth in most under-served communities
- We also see this spirit of concern for, partnership with community in so many parts of NYPD:
 - 77 NYPD Community Councils, one in each precinct, which bring community members and Commanding Officer together regularly to discuss neighborhood policing
 - Citizens Police Academy, 14-week program offered twice a year, giving community intensive lessons in policing
 - Youth programs, like NYPD Summer Youth Police Academy and Law Enforcement Explorers

[SPACE]

- But greatest untold story of NYPD is individual officers in every part of City not only doing jobs with enormous skill, bravery, and professionalism . . .
- . . . But showing extraordinary compassion for people of NYC
- Want to mention two today – who represent what I consider the real spirit of NYPD
- #1: One is Det. Patrick Blanc in Jamaica, Queens who started own non-profit, “Embrace Ya Kidz”
- For past 6 years, has served Thanksgiving meals on streets of Queens
- Held coat drives, distributed hundreds of toys to NYC kids
- Last month, when learned of mother who just lost two kids in a fire – raised money for funeral and went to Haiti to personally escort grieving grandmother to NYC

- Det. Blanc says: “If we can just do our part one block at a time I think we can change the world”

- #2: Second person want to talk about is Joanne Jaffe
 - Now three-star chief – highest-ranking female chief in the department

- Joined NYPD in 1979, walked beat in East New York – very tough assignment
- On Palm Sunday, 1984, Officer Jaffe responded to mass shooting in East New York
 - Went in with gun drawn – found 10 dead and a crying, bloody 13-month old child

- Officer Jaffe took little girl, Christina Rivera, to hospital, and afterward remained in her life

- Became surrogate parent – and at age 14, Christina moved in with officer and her husband

- Last year, Officer Jaffe legally adopted Christina
- Christina now grown up – and an auxiliary police officer
- And very proud to say Commissioner Bratton tapped to lead NYPD Community Affairs Bureau

[SPACE]

- Detective Blanc and Captain Jaffe – and yes, Officers Ramos and Liu – represent the real NYPD
 - Not only the finest, but the most decent police force in the world
- Today, as the pain of Saturday's events is still fresh, so many of us are wondering what we can do to honor the memories of the two fine men we lost
- First, let us do everything in our power to support and protect brave men and women of the NYPD
- If anyone hears or sees a threat – online, in person – must report it at once

- And City must take every measure it can to ensure safety of our men and women in blue
 - Let us express our gratitude for sacrifice of two fallen heroes whose lives were tragically cut short Saturday . .
 - With our appreciation for 35,000 living heroes of the NYPD, who continue to put lives on line for us every day
- [SPACE]
- Let us also do something more: honor memory of Officers Ramos and Liu by being best city we can be
 - NYC's strength always that it is city of great diversity, but one focused on what unites us than divides us
 - In these challenging times, let us rededicate ourselves to common values we cherish

- Rule of law

- Respect for all people

- Moving forward together

- What I believe Cardinal Dolan was suggesting in Mass yesterday that New York City can be – like Bethlehem in Biblical times – a place from which comes “light, unity, and life.”

[SPACE]

- New York City is that city – and we will remain that city

- And we ensure that by rededicating ourselves to the things that unite us rather than the things that divide us

- And by emphasizing, always, our common humanity

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
To: Wolfe, Emma; Ragone, Peter; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Cohen, Adam
Subject: Re: Draft PAL Remarks
Date: Sunday, December 21, 2014 10:48:22 PM

Recommend we send soon. JDC- any thoughts?

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
Sent: Sunday, December 21, 2014 10:39 PM
To: Wolfe, Emma; Ragone, Peter; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Cohen, Adam
Subject: Re: Draft PAL Remarks

We're going to give him a version with just guideposts as well (so 2 versions). He may just want to riff

From: Wolfe, Emma
Sent: Sunday, December 21, 2014 10:34 PM
To: Hagelgans, Andrea; Ragone, Peter; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Cohen, Adam
Subject: Re: Draft PAL Remarks

Can't be more than 20 if we committed 10

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
Sent: Sunday, December 21, 2014 10:32 PM
To: Ragone, Peter; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Cohen, Adam; Wolfe, Emma
Subject: Re: Draft PAL Remarks

1 issue adam and I are struggling with is length. He is currently only slated for 10 min. This is a 30 min speech as written. Think we can go longer than 10 but 30 might be too much.

From: Ragone, Peter
Sent: Sunday, December 21, 2014 10:24 PM
To: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Cohen, Adam; Hagelgans, Andrea; Wolfe, Emma Subject: Fw: Draft PAL Remarks

JDC, thoughts?

From: Cohen, Adam
Sent: Sunday, December 21, 2014 06:40 PM
To: Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea; Wolfe, Emma
Subject: Draft PAL Remarks

Attached. Please let me know if you have comments/suggestions

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Ragone, Peter; Cohen, Adam; Wolfe, Emma
Subject: Re: Draft PAL Remarks
Date: Monday, December 22, 2014 8:11:47 AM

Thanks!

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Monday, December 22, 2014 08:10 AM
To: Ragone, Peter; Cohen, Adam; Hagelgans, Andrea; Wolfe, Emma
Subject: Re: Draft PAL Remarks

Sorry I missed you guys last night - sent Andrea a few thoughts

From: <Ragone>, Peter <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Sunday, December 21, 2014 at 10:24 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, "Cohen, Adam" <ASCohen@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Hagelgans, Andrea" <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Wolfe, Emma" <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Fw: Draft PAL Remarks

JDC, thoughts?

From: Cohen, Adam
Sent: Sunday, December 21, 2014 06:40 PM
To: Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea; Wolfe, Emma
Subject: Draft PAL Remarks

Attached. Please let me know if you have comments/suggestions

From: Cohen, Adam
To: "John Del Cecato"; Ragone, Peter; Hagelgans, Andrea; Wolfe, Emma
Subject: RE: Draft PAL Remarks
Date: Monday, December 22, 2014 10:27:29 AM

Thanks, John – very helpful input as always

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Monday, December 22, 2014 8:11 AM
To: Ragone, Peter; Cohen, Adam; Hagelgans, Andrea; Wolfe, Emma
Subject: Re: Draft PAL Remarks

Sorry I missed you guys last night - sent Andrea a few thoughts

From: <Ragone>, Peter <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Sunday, December 21, 2014 at 10:24 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, "Cohen, Adam" <ASCohen@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Hagelgans, Andrea" <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Wolfe, Emma" <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Fw: Draft PAL Remarks

JDC, thoughts?

From: Cohen, Adam
Sent: Sunday, December 21, 2014 06:40 PM
To: Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea; Wolfe, Emma
Subject: Draft PAL Remarks

Attached. Please let me know if you have comments/suggestions

From: Cohen, Adam
To: BdB; John Del Cecato; Chirlane McCray
Subject: RE: Pls review closely- updated remarks
Date: Monday, December 22, 2014 11:42:52 AM

Have done.

From: Bill de Blasio [mailto:████████████████████]
Sent: Monday, December 22, 2014 11:42 AM
To: John Del Cecato; Chirlane McCray
Cc: Cohen, Adam
Subject: Re: Pls review closely- updated remarks

John, you are right about how to discuss a Pause. Adam, pls incorporate John's words in #5 below into my remarks today

Sent via BlackBerry by AT&T

From: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Date: Mon, 22 Dec 2014 16:03:06 +0000
To: Bill de Blasio<████████████████████> Chirlane<████████████████████>
Subject: FW: Pls review closely- updated remarks

Number Five is courtesy of Rosen... If we're committed to calling for The Big Pause (something I'm still grappling with), then I think it's the right tone

From: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Date: Monday, December 22, 2014 at 11:00 AM
To: "Hagelgans, Andrea" <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Ragone, Peter" <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Glazer, Elizabeth" <EGlazer@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: "Walzak, Phil" <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: Pls review closely- updated remarks

Much better - thanks.

Couple of things:

1. I don't think this is quite right. Maybe just repeat his line from Saturday - this wasn't just an unthinkable attack on two brave police officers; it was an attack on all New Yorkers. ~~Shots through patrol car window Saturday did not just kill Officers Ramos and Liu -- wounded every New Yorker~~
2. Bratton's "spin-off" comment on the Today Show isn't what Bratton meant (at least in my opinion). I don't think he was trying to suggest a link between the murders and the protests. I think he was saying how disgusting it was for a deranged individual to USE the protests as a bogus way of explaining his violent spree, which began before he wrote that (when he shot his ex-girlfriend). As Kareem Abdul-Jabar said, it's like linking Cather in the Rye to the murder of John Lennon. Just because a madman offers that up as their excuse doesn't mean we should accept it. (Probably not something for MBDB's official remarks - but for Q&A, and possibly for NYT op-ed).

3. I don't like the following line because it sounds like we're saying the protests pit New Yorker against New Yorker.

~~No place for those who would pit New Yorker against New Yorker~~

4. I'm still not sold on The Big Pause, for two reasons: a) sounds like we're connecting peaceful protests to the murders, when they are NOT connected in reality; b) it forces us to "own" the protests; c) we're sort of implying that the protests should continue after the funerals are over. But I think I've been overruled on that one - just wanted to spell out my thinking more clearly than I did from the car yesterday.

5. Finally - a thought - maybe for this speech:

As we enter a week of grief and mourning, I want to urge all New Yorkers to stand in solidarity with these families. To show them that all New Yorkers share their pain; to tell these families that our whole city, with one heart, honors the service of their father, their son, their husbands...and grieves with them.

There will be a time to return to the debates of these past weeks – but that time is not now while these families and our whole city is in mourning.

So I would urge those who have protested, AND those who have been vocal against those protests, to step back this week...let's turn our thoughts to our common identity...as New Yorkers. Let's reach across the divide and find what unites us. Let's devote this week to honoring the service of these two brave men.

(Maybe urge people to approach officers this week and thank them for their service, etc.) ?

From: <Hagelgans>, "Hagelgans, Andrea" <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Date: Monday, December 22, 2014 at 10:35 AM

To: "Ragone, Peter" <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Glazer, Elizabeth" <EGlazer@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Cc: "Walzak, Phil" <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>

Subject: RE: Pls review closely- updated remarks

Am walking them into them now

From: Ragone, Peter

Sent: Monday, December 22, 2014 10:35 AM

To: Hagelgans, Andrea; Glazer, Elizabeth

Cc: Walzak, Phil; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'

Subject: Re: Pls review closely- updated remarks

+JDC.

Also Shorris and Williams see this?

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
Sent: Monday, December 22, 2014 07:31 AM
To: Glazer, Elizabeth; Ragone, Peter
Cc: Walzak, Phil
Subject: Pls review closely- updated remarks

MAYOR BILL DE BLASIO,
POLICE ATHLETIC LEAGUE
MONDAY, DECEMBER 22, 2014

- Honored to be with Police Athletic League as concludes 100th year
- Saddened on day mourning heroes: Rafael Ramos, Wenjian Liu
- Murdered for wearing NYPD uniform, badge
- Shots through patrol car window Saturday did not just kill Officers Ramos and Liu -- wounded every New Yorker
- Today, we are all in pain

[SPACE]

- Profound thanks to:
 - Police who pursued assailant

- Con Ed workers on scene who heroically helped give chase

- EMT's, doctors, nurses, staff at Woodhull Hospital

- And would like to acknowledge

[ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS TO BE ADDED: INCLUDE JOHN CATSIMATEDES AND RICKI KLEIMAN]

[SPACE]

- Saturday's killings attack on civilized society, but most of all tragedy for families

- Saturday, Commissioner Bratton and I met with Officer Ramos's wife and 13-year old son, Officer Liu's wife at hospital

- Painful to see effect of madman's hate on 2 loving families

- Now, for families, for City, time to heal

- Now not a time for politics or pushing agendas

- No place for those who would pit New Yorker against New Yorker

- Out of respect for families, ask for no protests during period of mourning

[SPACE]

- Want to talk today about NYPD that so many New Yorker see every day – NYPD that PAL embodies
- So many people think first of NYPD as world’s best police department – which it is
- Have crime stats to prove it – Crime down another 5% this year – City never safer
- Also have great history of being on cutting edge of law enforcement – reform in its DNA
- A leader in the use of fingerprints in 1800s, more recently inventor of CompStat
- And in October unveiled $160 million new technology initiative
- 2014 a year of tremendous reform, under excellent leadership of Commissioner Bratton
- Fundamentally changed “Stop and frisk” policy:
 - In 2011, nearly 700,000 stops, on track for fewer than 50,000 this year
- Changed policy on low-level marijuana arrests:

- Arrests down nearly 65% since policy changed
- And Commissioner Bratton committed this summer to retrain every officer on use of force, community relations
- While have done these things, by every measure policing getting better
- In addition to 5% drop in crime, CCRB complaints down nearly 10% this year – and force complaints down 11.4%

[SPACE]

- But there is also another side of NYPD – One New Yorkers across City know well
- Men and women of NYPD not only do jobs with great professionalism – but care deeply about people of NYC – especially young people
- That is driving spirit behind Police Athletic League
- Founded in 1914 by Police Commissioner Arthur Woods in large part to “reduce tensions between officers and youth
- Now serves 40,000 children in all 5 boroughs
- See concern for community in so many parts of NYPD:
 - 77 NYPD Community Councils, one in each precinct – bring community members, Commanding Officer together

- Citizens Police Academy, 14-week program for community
- Youth programs like NYPD Summer Youth Police Academy and Law Enforcement Explorers
- But greatest story of NYPD is individual officers in every part of City not only doing jobs with skill, bravery, and professionalism . . .
- . . . but showing extraordinary compassion for people of NYC
- Want to mention two today – who represent real spirit of NYPD
- #1: Det. Patrick Blanc in Jamaica, Queens who started own non-profit, “Embrace Ya Kidz”
- For past 6 years, has served Thanksgiving meals on streets of Queens
- Held coat drives, distributed hundreds of toys to NYC kids
- Last month, when learned of mother who just lost two kids in fire raised money for funeral and went to Haiti to personally escort grieving grandmother to NYC
- Det. Blanc says: “If we can just do our part one block at a time I think we can change the world”
- #2: Joanne Jaffe, now three-star chief – highest-ranking female chief in the department

- Joined NYPD in 1979, walked beat in East New York – very tough assignment
- On Palm Sunday, 1984, responded to mass shooting in East New York – found 10 dead and a crying, bloody 13-month old child
- Took little girl, Christina Rivera, to hospital, afterward remained in her life
- Became surrogate parent – and last year, Chief Jaffe legally adopted Christina
- Christina now grown up – and an auxiliary police officer
- And very proud: this year Commissioner Bratton tapped Chief Jaffe to lead NYPD Community Affairs Bureau

[SPACE]

- Detective Blanc and Chief Jaffe – and yes, Officers Ramos and Liu – represent real NYPD
 - Not only finest, but most decent police force in world

[SPACE]

- Today, as pain of Saturday's events still fresh, so many of us wondering what can do to honor memories of two fine men we lost
- First, let us do everything in power to support and protect brave men and women of the NYPD

- If anyone hears or sees threat against NYPD must report it at once
- And City must take every measure can to ensure safety of police
- Let us also do something more: honor memory of Officers Ramos and Liu by being best city can be
- Family of Officer Ramos called for “peaceful coexistence” – honor him by that
- NYC’s strength always that it is city of great diversity, but one focused on what unites us than divides us
- In these challenging times, let us rededicate ourselves to common values we cherish:
 - Rule of law
 - Respect for all people
 - Moving forward together

[SPACE]

- Cardinal Dolan said in Mass yesterday New York City can be – like Bethlehem in Biblical times – place from which comes “light, unity, and life.”

- New York City is that city – and we will remain that city
- Ensure that by rededicating ourselves to the things that unite us rather than the things that divide us
- And by emphasizing, always, our common humanity

Andrea Hagelgans
Office of the Mayor
Direct – 212.341.5372
Cell – 718.679.8965
ahagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Katz, Rebecca
To: Fink, Avi; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Spitalnick, Amy \(OMB\)
Cc: Wolfe, Emma; Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: Re: Morning Joe
Date: Monday, December 22, 2014 10:22:16 PM

She delivered our tps. She needs to be ready to push back and have a real conversation tomorrow AM.

Avi — let's you and me double team here.

From: <Fink>, Avi <AFink@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Monday, December 22, 2014 10:20 PM
To: Rebecca Katz <rkkatz@cityhall.nyc.gov>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, Amy Spitalnick <SpitalnickA@omb.nyc.gov>
Cc: Emma Wolfe <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Phil Walzak <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Andrea Hagelgans <ahagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: Morning Joe

I thought she was good.

From: Katz, Rebecca
Sent: Monday, December 22, 2014 10:17 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Spitalnick, Amy \(OMB\)
Cc: Wolfe, Emma; Walzak, Phil; Fink, Avi; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: Re: Morning Joe

Melinda on CNN now.

From: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Date: Monday, December 22, 2014 10:15 PM
To: Amy Spitalnick <SpitalnickA@omb.nyc.gov>
Cc: Emma Wolfe <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Rebecca Katz <rkkatz@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Phil Walzak <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Fink, Avi" <AFink@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Andrea Hagelgans <ahagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: Morning Joe

Blood on his hands?

Quite the opposite. Grief on his mind, and resolve to protect New Yorkers - both police officers and everyday residents - in his heart. Those who say otherwise are employing the most despicable of tactics - exploiting the deaths of our brothers in uniform to help advance a transparently political agenda.

On Dec 22, 2014, at 10:07 PM, Spitalnick, Amy (OMB) <SpitalnickA@omb.nyc.gov> wrote:

Sharing the overarching TPs we're using w/ surrogates as FYI --

A TIME TO COME TOGETHER FOR THE CITY

- The tragedy that occurred Saturday afternoon was caused by a violent, deranged person who decided to, because of his own illnesses and problems, launch an awful spasm of destruction.
- The reforms that the de Blasio Administration has discussed have never been about punishing police. They have been about bringing the police and the communities they serve closer together. These are reforms that are good for both community residents, AND good for the police.
- Those who want commonsense reforms that make us all safer and united - including police - should not be confused with the actions of a sick murderer.
- We have seen tens of thousands of people express their views over the past 2-3 weeks peacefully and non-violently. That is an accomplishment we should all be proud of.
- And before Saturday we had already sent a clear message that violence of any kind in protests - against citizens, against police, against property - was unacceptable and would not be tolerated. There is no ambiguity about violence. And, what's more, the vast majority of New Yorkers (including many who protested) were sickened by what happened to PO Ramos and PO Liu.
- These are tragic times, and people are understandably angry and sad. Emotions are running high.
- Our focus must be on the families and friends of the fallen and their extended NYPD family.
- The Mayor has urged a pause in political debates and protests until the funerals. He is focused on what we as a City must do to help the NYPD and the families of POs Ramos and Liu, and we stand ready to assist in any way we can.

In response to questions on the Mayor & PBA:

The Mayor has worked to build a culture of tolerance and be a steady voice for needed reforms, while being explicit in his deep respect of those in uniform.

As many NYC journalists have [noted these last few days, he has not uttered a single bad word about the NYPD.]

The Mayor has demonstrated this in word and deed -

He was clear during protests that violence of any kind would not be tolerated.

And this year, he's invested an hundreds of millions in the NYPD's budget to enhance and expand training, provide technology that will protect both officers and our communities, improve facilities, and much more.

On Dec 22, 2014, at 10:04 PM, Wolfe, Emma <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Plus del Cecato
John these are our surrogates on the firing lines
Keep it short and sweet

On Dec 22, 2014, at 9:56 PM, Katz, Rebecca <RKKatz@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Both Melinda Katz and Buffalo Mayor Brown will be on Morning Joe tomorrow. I'm guessing they will talk up the Politico piece.

Trying to really help them through this. Group sourcing qs you are hearing/ think they might get and any answers.

--

Amy Spitalnick
Director of Public Affairs, OMB
Office of the Mayor
212-788-2958
917-960-0974

Esp with MK, feel like we really need to walk through all potential Q and A. Trying to think like Joe. We're not going to have Mika there, so could be tough for the Beep.

Do you agree that he has lost the Police?

De Blasio is like Obama in that it doesn't matter how much he achieves, he just can't communicate his success. How does he get past this?

What can the mayor do to fix this?

Why does he have such a problem with whites?

From: Katz, Rebecca
To: Hagelgans, Andrea
Cc: Fink, Avi; jfdc@akpdmedia.com; Spitalnick, Amy \(OMB\); Wolfe, Emma; Katz, Rebecca; Walzak, Phil
Subject: Re: Morning Joe
Date: Tuesday, December 23, 2014 7:15:21 AM

Likely part 2 of last night's interview.

Morning joe needs to go to commercial.

Sent from my iPad

On Dec 23, 2014, at 7:13 AM, "Hagelgans, Andrea" <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Bratton just on cbs

From: Fink, Avi
Sent: Tuesday, December 23, 2014 06:56 AM
To: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Spitalnick, Amy \(OMB\)
Cc: Wolfe, Emma; Katz, Rebecca; Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: Re: Morning Joe

Fyi they just teased her if anyone is interested.

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Monday, December 22, 2014 11:14 PM
To: Spitalnick, Amy \(OMB\)
Cc: Wolfe, Emma; Katz, Rebecca; Walzak, Phil; Fink, Avi; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: Re: Morning Joe

Personally, I also like the Kareem Abdul-Jabar comment. Saying the protests inspired the actions of a deranged cop-killer is like saying Catcher in the Rye inspired the killing of John Lennon, or Taxi Driver caused Reagan assassination attempt.

On Dec 22, 2014, at 10:15 PM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

Blood on his hands?

Quite the opposite. Grief on his mind, and resolve to protect New Yorkers - both police officers and everyday residents - in his heart. Those who say otherwise are employing the most despicable of tactics - exploiting the deaths of our brothers in uniform to help advance a transparently political agenda.

On Dec 22, 2014, at 10:07 PM, Spitalnick, Amy (OMB)
<SpitalnickA@omb.nyc.gov> wrote:

Sharing the overarching TPs we're using w/surrogates as FYI --

A TIME TO COME TOGETHER FOR THE CITY

- The tragedy that occurred Saturday afternoon was caused by a violent, deranged person who decided to, because of his own illnesses and problems, launch an awful spasm of destruction.
- The reforms that the de Blasio Administration has discussed have never been about punishing police. They have been about bringing the police and the communities they serve closer together. These are reforms that are good for both community residents, AND good for the police.
- Those who want commonsense reforms that make us all safer and united - including police - should not be confused with the actions of a sick murderer.
- We have seen tens of thousands of people express their views over the past 2-3 weeks peacefully and non-violently. That is an accomplishment we should all be proud of.
- And before Saturday we had already sent a clear message that violence of any kind in protests - against citizens, against police, against property - was unacceptable and would not be tolerated. There is no ambiguity about violence. And, what's more, the vast majority of New Yorkers (including many who protested) were sickened by what happened to PO Ramos and PO Liu.
- These are tragic times, and people are understandably angry and sad. Emotions are running high.
- Our focus must be on the families and friends of the fallen and their extended NYPD family.

- The Mayor has urged a pause in political debates and protests until the funerals. He is focused on what we as a City must do to help the NYPD and the families of POs Ramos and Liu, and we stand ready to assist in any way we can.

In response to questions on the Mayor & PBA:

The Mayor has worked to build a culture of tolerance and be a steady voice for needed reforms, while being explicit in his deep respect of those in uniform.

As many NYC journalists have [noted these last few days, he has not uttered a single bad word about the NYPD.]

The Mayor has demonstrated this in word and deed -

He was clear during protests that violence of any kind would not be tolerated.

And this year, he's invested an hundreds of millions in the NYPD's budget to enhance and expand training, provide technology that will protect both officers and our communities, improve facilities, and much more.

On Dec 22, 2014, at 10:04 PM, Wolfe, Emma <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Plus del Cecato
John these are our surrogates on the firing lines
Keep it short and sweet

On Dec 22, 2014, at 9:56 PM, Katz, Rebecca <RKKatz@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Both Melinda Katz and Buffalo Mayor Brown will be on Morning Joe tomorrow.

I'm guessing they will talk up the Politico piece.

Trying to really help them through this. Group sourcing qs you are hearing/think they might get and any answers.

--

Amy Spitalnick
Director of Public Affairs,
OMB
Office of the Mayor
212-788-2958
917-960-0974

Esp with MK, feel like we really need to walk through all potential Q and A. Trying to think like Joe. We're not going to have Mika there, so could be tough for the Beep.

Do you agree that he has lost the Police?

De Blasio is like Obama in that it doesn't matter how much he achieves, he just can't communicate his success. How does he get past this?

What can the mayor do to fix
this?

Why does he have such a problem with whites?

From: John Del Cecato
To: Katz, Rebecca
Cc: Wolfe, Emma; Fink, Avi; Spitalnick, Amy \(OMB\); Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: Re: Morning Joe
Date: Tuesday, December 23, 2014 7:45:08 AM

Shocking that MJ would be sexist and patronizing

On Dec 23, 2014, at 7:38 AM, Katz, Rebecca <RKKatz@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

She was on our message, but not super conversational. The boys were pretty sexist, I thought. They just kept calling her "Me-Linda" in this super patronizing way. Need to watch tape again — she had a few softballs to praise officers and she didn't seem to take them.

From: <Wolfe>, Emma Wolfe <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Tuesday, December 23, 2014 7:31 AM
To: "Fink, Avi" <AFink@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, Amy Spitalnick <SpitalnickA@omb.nyc.gov>, Rebecca Katz <rkkatz@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Phil Walzak <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Andrea Hagelgans <ahagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: Morning Joe

I think I missed her how did it go?

On Dec 23, 2014, at 6:56 AM, Fink, Avi <AFink@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Fyi they just teased her if anyone is interested.

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Monday, December 22, 2014 11:14 PM
To: Spitalnick, Amy (OMB)
Cc: Wolfe, Emma; Katz, Rebecca; Walzak, Phil; Fink, Avi; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: Re: Morning Joe

Personally, I also like the Kareem Abdul-Jabar comment. Saying the protests inspired the actions of a deranged cop-killer is like saying Catcher in the Rye inspired the killing of John Lennon, or Taxi Driver caused Reagan assassination attempt.

On Dec 22, 2014, at 10:15 PM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

Blood on his hands?

Quite the opposite. Grief on his mind, and resolve to protect New Yorkers - both police officers and everyday residents - in his heart. Those who say otherwise are employing the most despicable of tactics - exploiting the deaths of our brothers in uniform to help advance a transparently political agenda.

On Dec 22, 2014, at 10:07 PM, Spitalnick, Amy (OMB) <SpitalnickA@omb.nyc.gov> wrote:

Sharing the overarching TPs we're using w/ surrogates as FYI --

A TIME TO COME TOGETHER FOR THE CITY

- The tragedy that occurred Saturday afternoon was caused by a violent, deranged person who decided to, because of his own illnesses and problems, launch an awful spasm of destruction.
- The reforms that the de Blasio Administration has discussed have never been about punishing police. They have been about bringing the police and the communities they serve closer together. These are reforms that are good for both community residents, AND good for the police.
- Those who want commonsense reforms that make us all safer and united - including police - should not be confused with the actions of a sick murderer.
- We have seen tens of thousands of people express their views over the past 2-3 weeks peacefully and non-violently. That is an accomplishment we should all be proud of.

- And before Saturday we had already sent a clear message that violence of any kind in protests - against citizens, against police, against property - was unacceptable and would not be tolerated. There is no ambiguity about violence. And, what's more, the vast majority of New Yorkers (including many who protested) were sickened by what happened to PO Ramos and PO Liu.

- These are tragic times, and people are understandably angry and sad. Emotions are running high.

- Our focus must be on the families and friends of the fallen and their extended NYPD family.

- The Mayor has urged a pause in political debates and protests until the funerals. He is focused on what we as a City must do to help the NYPD and the families of POs Ramos and Liu, and we stand ready to assist in any way we can.

In response to questions on the Mayor & PBA:

The Mayor has worked to build a culture of tolerance and be a steady voice for needed reforms, while being explicit in his deep respect of those in uniform.

As many NYC journalists have [noted these last few days, he has not uttered a single bad word about the NYPD.]

The Mayor has demonstrated this in word and deed -

He was clear during protests that violence of any kind would not be tolerated.

And this year, he's invested an hundreds of millions in the NYPD's budget to enhance and expand training, provide technology that will protect both officers and our communities, improve facilities, and much more.

On Dec 22, 2014, at 10:04 PM, Wolfe, Emma <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Plus del Cecato
John these are our surrogates on the firing lines
Keep it short and sweet

On Dec 22, 2014, at 9:56 PM, Katz, Rebecca <RKKatz@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Both Melinda
Katz and Buffalo
Mayor Brown will be on Morning
Joe tomorrow.
I'm guessing
they will talk up
the Politico piece.

Trying to really help them through this.
Group sourcing
qs you are hearing/ think they might get and any answers.

--

Amy Spitalnick
Director of Public Affairs, OMB
Office of the
Mayor
212-788-2958
917-960-0974

Esp with MK, feel like we really need to walk through all potential Q and
A. Trying to think like Joe.
We're not going to have Mika
there, so could be tough for the Beep.

Do you agree that he has lost the Police?

De Blasio is like Obama in that it doesn't matter how much he achieves, he just can't communicate his success. How does he get past
this?

What can the mayor do to fix
this?

Why does he have such a problem with whites?

From: John Del Cecato
To: Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: Re: Upcoming speeches
Date: Tuesday, December 23, 2014 8:56:23 AM

Can we track down a few more stories like those he told at PAL - cops going above and beyond the call of duty, building a relationship with the community that extends beyond just enforcing the law?

I keep mentioning the Bratton story to BDB about a cop who used to play pick-up basketball, without accompaniment by TV cameras, with kids who lived on his beat. I think there's a real power in that story - that we're all in this together.

Obviously it would be great if we could unearth something in that vein that Ramos did - but I realize that's a tough thing to get - but even in speaking about others, it shows people why guys like Ramos became cops in the first place - and how uniquely caring most of the NYPD is

On 12/23/14, 8:11 AM, "Hagelgans, Andrea" <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>Interested in your thoughts as well.

>

>----- Original Message -----

>From: Hagelgans, Andrea

>Sent: Tuesday, December 23, 2014 08:07 AM

>To: Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic; Walzak, Phil; Ragone, Peter;

>Wolfe, Emma

>Subject: Upcoming speeches

>

>Know this feels long-term but we have 2 remarks/speeches coming up >quickly - sat funeral and monday nypd graduation at MSG. Adam and I want >to start sketching out msg strategy given the holiday.

>It feels like for monday we want to start laying out our vision of >police/comm for 2015. That's what PR and I had discussed prior to >saturday but I think it still holds. Any stuff and things we can >announce?

From: John Del Cecato
To: Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: Re: Upcoming speeches
Date: Tuesday, December 23, 2014 11:28:40 AM

I'm not a policy guy, but would it be possible to give police officers a housing subsidy for living in the city? You could use a tiered system so that they get a little bit for living in the city, even more for living in the borough they patrol, and even more if they live in the precinct they patrol... Could be an add-on to our Mansion Tax To Fund Affordable Housing proposal (and yes, I realize that it's a VERY heavy lift to get that passed - but still...

Just a thought

On 12/23/14, 8:11 AM, "Hagelgans, Andrea" <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>Interested in your thoughts as well.

>

>----- Original Message -----

>From: Hagelgans, Andrea

>Sent: Tuesday, December 23, 2014 08:07 AM

>To: Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic; Walzak, Phil; Ragone, Peter;

>Wolfe, Emma

>Subject: Upcoming speeches

>

>Know this feels long-term but we have 2 remarks/speeches coming up >quickly - sat funeral and monday nypd graduation at MSG. Adam and I want >to start sketching out msg strategy given the holiday.

>It feels like for monday we want to start laying out our vision of >police/comm for 2015. That's what PR and I had discussed prior to >saturday but I think it still holds. Any stuff and things we can >announce?

From: John Del Cecato
To: Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: Re: Draft oped?
Date: Wednesday, December 24, 2014 11:17:07 AM

Still working - should have draft by this PM

> On Dec 24, 2014, at 6:00 AM, Hagelgans, Andrea <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>
> Any update?

From: John Del Cecato
To: Hagelgans, Andrea; Ragone, Peter
Subject: Re: Oped
Date: Wednesday, December 24, 2014 12:41:43 PM
Attachments: [default\[3\].xml](#)

This is not an outline of the op-ed, but is sort of where my head is...

De Blasio Takes the Long View.

We HAD the take The Long View when we were running for mayor, or else we wouldn't have been able to see the poll numbers & still get out of bed in the morning.

When he decided to tackle an issue like income inequality, it had to be informed by The Long View - since this isn't a problem you solve overnight - or even in a few years.

When he pushed for Pre-K, he didn't get lost in the daily, tactical BS with Cuomo. He took The Long View & got it done.

When faced with crises - from Ebola to Garner - he didn't try to win the news cycle. He took The Long View, and it paid off (pretty remarkably - until a few days ago).

So now that we're facing a city that's grieving, a bunch of vitriolic cynics, a small-minded press corps, etc - we have to go right back to The Long View.

We came into office to tackle inequality & change direction from Bloomberg on a host of issues. That inequality is economic, but it's also racial. The divide of distrust between cops and the communities they serve is real, and needs to be repaired. But it won't just happen by dramatically reducing stop and frisk, adding body cameras and shot-spotter, and retraining officers.

It's a bigger picture — seeing what New York looks like today, and how we want it to look in the future.

We're no longer in the 1990s - when ugly racial appeals, led by Rudy & others - were a means for appealing to white ethnic Voters.

And we're not in the imperial mayor days of Bloomberg, where the message was basically: "I'll tackle the small stuff, keep the trains running on time, and you'll just have to accept that some of us do better than others."

In the short term, it feels like Mourner-in-Chief is the right place to be - turning down the temperature, remembering the families of the victims, etc.

In The Long View, we will have policy proposals and such - maybe the housing subsidy, etc. - but we also gotta think about what we want from policing.

New York City is no longer a war zone, thank God. In times like that, you just sign up as many people as you can, and try to keep the fires (literally fires - cars on fire, buildings on fire, 1970s in The Bronx!) from burning.

Today, crime is about to hit a record low, record low number of murders, etc. And it's been that way for a while. Which is one reason to shine a light on the people who are becoming cops nowadays.

It's not the old model, where you became a cop because your dad was a cop; you were Irish or Italian (as the NYT wrote about this week); and you were out there to stop the City from collapsing.

Today, I suspect, many young women and men, from every ethnic background, become cops for a different reason. They want to serve people - solve problems, prevent crime, help those in need.

And that's why I keep getting back to rewarding and recognizing and promoting cops in a new way - not just by stats alone, and not just by the number of arrests they make - but based on a Community Rating of sorts. What do the people in YOUR precinct think about YOU? Do they respect you? Do they think you're here to help? Do they think you respect them?

I loved the stories from the PAL speech about cops who go the extra mile. And I'm pretty sure there are a bunch more of them.

And/but I also think there are cops who see the job as a stable way into the middle-class - more so than they did 20 or 30 years ago. In the old days, it was "should I be a cop or a firefighter?" Today, you've got people who say: "should I be a police officer or a nurse/construction worker/whatever."

Now, de Blasio has had to console the families of Eric Garner and the families of the two slain police officers.

While the circumstances of these tragedies were different, their shock and grief and heartbreaking sense of loss were very much the same.

We have to come together as a city, and build bridges of understanding.

The police do a dangerous, essential but often thankless job. And striking the right balance between rigorously protecting public safety and respect for individuals is part of what makes the job so challenging. We must do it with extraordinary care and restraint. They deserve our thanks and our respect.

It is also true that sometimes, young men of color are suspect simply because of what they look like, and sometimes that leads to tragedies like the ones we've seen. The sense of that doesn't make policing easier. It makes it more difficult. It makes it more dangerous.

This tug between public safety and civil liberties can't be a zero sum game. We need both.

That is the goal to which we as city must work.

On 12/24/14, 11:36 AM, "Hagelgans, Andrea" <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>Hey John,
>Thanks for working on the oped. Wondering if we can back up a second and >talk thru framing etc? Maybe you have an outline you can share?
>Want to make sure we are on same page.
>Thanks!

From: John Del Cecato
To: Cohen, Adam; Hagelgans, Andrea; Ragone, Peter; Wolfe, Emma
Subject: Re: Saturday remarks
Date: Wednesday, December 24, 2014 12:47:06 PM

Also, please note that Officer Liu first arrived in NYC from China 20 years ago today...

<http://www.nbcnews.com/news/asian-america/chinese-community-reels-after-brooklyn-nypd-shooting-n273931>

On 12/24/14, 12:18 PM, "John Del Cecato" <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

>Not sure who's taking first crack at remarks for funeral, but MBDB was >asking that he get to see early draft when ready, so he can do some >thinking on it.
>
>

From: Walzak, Phil
To: Leopold, Elana; Wolfe, Emma; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Ragone, Peter
Subject: Re: Soup Kitchen
Date: Wednesday, December 24, 2014 12:59:02 PM

I think this is right
I think the idea is a good one but need to manage him

----- Original Message -----

From: Leopold, Elana
Sent: Wednesday, December 24, 2014 11:56 AM
To: Wolfe, Emma; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil
Subject: Re: Soup Kitchen

At this very moment- it sounds like the mayor will stay dark until the funeral on Saturday

Having said that- if we change our mind- we did look in to a few options. I will figure out their geographical locations.

Having spent every waking hour with the mayor for the last couple days- I think we should do everything we can to preserve any down time we possibly can between now and the funeral.

----- Original Message -----

From: Wolfe, Emma
Sent: Wednesday, December 24, 2014 12:24 PM
To: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil
Cc: Leopold, Elana
Subject: Re: Soup Kitchen

+ elana who was working with folks on this

----- Original Message -----

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, December 24, 2014 12:17 PM
To: Wolfe, Emma; Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil
Subject: Soup Kitchen

Talked to the boss. He said we weren't planning to do a soup kitchen today like we usually do, but I said I think we should - maybe in Flushing or Jackson Heights - lots of poverty among Asian community, and sort of good way to speak to Officer Liu's service? We wouldn't need to say anything - and shouldn't. Don't even need to advise the press. I'm sure word/photos will get out anyway.

MBDB isn't sure what his decision on this is - but would like to see if it's even possible to do at this late hour, and asked that I email you guys.

From: Ragone, Peter
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Leopold, Elana; Wolfe, Emma; Walzak, Phil
Subject: Re: Soup Kitchen
Date: Wednesday, December 24, 2014 1:01:01 PM

Word

----- Original Message -----

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, December 24, 2014 09:59 AM
To: Leopold, Elana; Wolfe, Emma; Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil
Subject: Re: Soup Kitchen

Good point, Elana - that is very important - tx

On 12/24/14, 12:56 PM, "Leopold, Elana" <ELeopold@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>At this very moment- it sounds like the mayor will stay dark until the >funeral on saturday
>
>Having said that- if we change our mind- we did look in to a few options.
>I will figure out their geographical locations.
>
>Having spent every waking hour with the mayor for the last couple days- I >think we should do everything we can to preserve any down time we >possibly can between now and the funeral.
>

>----- Original Message -----

>From: Wolfe, Emma
>Sent: Wednesday, December 24, 2014 12:24 PM
>To: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil
>Cc: Leopold, Elana
>Subject: Re: Soup Kitchen
>

>+ elana who was working with folks on this
>

>----- Original Message -----

>From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
>Sent: Wednesday, December 24, 2014 12:17 PM
>To: Wolfe, Emma; Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil
>Subject: Soup Kitchen
>

>Talked to the boss. He said we weren't planning to do a soup kitchen >today like we usually do, but I said I think we should - maybe in >Flushing or Jackson Heights - lots of poverty among Asian community, and >sort of good way to speak to Officer Liu's service? We wouldn't need to >say anything - and shouldn't. Don't even need to advise the press. I'm >sure word/photos will get out anyway.
>

>MBDB isn't sure what his decision on this is - but would like to see if >it's even possible to do at this late hour, and asked that I email you >guys.
>

>
>
>
>

From: John Del Cecato
To: Cohen, Adam
Subject: Re: Saturday remarks
Date: Wednesday, December 24, 2014 2:41:01 PM

Cool. And I'll send you draft op Ed I just circulated. Not quite right but hopefully a start

> On Dec 24, 2014, at 2:35 PM, Cohen, Adam <ASCohen@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>
> John -- Will try to get you a draft for your input sometime toward the end of the day tomorrow.
Really appreciated what you added to the PAL remarks.
>
> -----Original Message-----
> From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
> Sent: Wednesday, December 24, 2014 12:18 PM
> To: Cohen, Adam; Hagelgans, Andrea; Ragone, Peter; Wolfe, Emma > Subject: Saturday remarks
>
> Not sure who's taking first crack at remarks for funeral, but MBDB was asking that he get to see early draft when ready, so he can do some thinking on it.
>
>

From: John Del Cecato
To: Cohen, Adam
Subject: Fwd: Draft op-ed
Date: Wednesday, December 24, 2014 2:41:15 PM
Attachments: NYTopedDRAFT.docx
ATT00001.htm

Begin forwarded message:

From: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Date: December 24, 2014 at 2:34:24 PM EST
To: Peter Ragone <[REDACTED]> Phil Walzak
<[REDACTED]> "Emma Wolfe" <[REDACTED]>
Jonathan Rosen <jonathan@berlinrosen.com>, Andrea Hageigans
<[REDACTED]>
Subject: Draft op-ed

I realize the boss and/or Bratton may not be comfortable with the title or some of the content - just wanted to get the ball rolling

A New Model for Policing
By Bill de Blasio
DRAFT

In the midst of a holiday season we look to with joy, New Yorkers from all walks of life are sharing in grief.

The tragic, senseless killings of NYPD officers Wenjian Liu and Rafael Ramos have shaken our city to its core. These proud and courageous public servants wanted nothing more than to honor their vow to protect and to serve. They wanted to keep their community safe from harm, and to continue the nearly unimaginable success that New York's Finest have achieved in driving crime in our city to a record low – a five percent reduction in serious crime from last year, with the lowest number of homicides since the City began keeping records.

As Mayor, I've now had to console the families of these two slain police officers, and the family of Staten Islander Eric Garner.

While the circumstances of these tragedies were different, the shock and grief and heartbreaking sense of loss expressed by their families were very much the same.

We are a city that mourns the loss of life. A city that expresses the raw emotion that we feel – the anger, the sadness, the sense of injustice – in different ways – some constructive, some destructive.

But at this moment, we remember New York City is one family – a family that will come together in common cause in light of the long view – dedicated to building bridges of understanding that can and must prevent future tragedies from tearing us apart again.

Our police officers do a dangerous and essential, but often thankless job. And striking the right balance between rigorously protecting public safety and respecting individuals is part of what makes the job so challenging. It must be done with extraordinary care and restraint. In turn, our police deserve our gratitude and our respect.

It is also true that many times, young men of color are considered suspect simply because of how they look, and sometimes that leads to tragedies like the ones we've seen so often. That sense of distrust doesn't make policing any easier. It makes it more difficult. It makes it more dangerous.

This tug between public safety and civil rights are not mutually exclusive. In fact, the opposite is true.

Building a partnership between police and the communities they serve is actually a strategy for driving crime down even further, and protecting both residents and officers alike.

When every neighborhood in New York greets the sound of sirens with a sense of relief instead of anxiety, it encourages neighbors to work with law enforcement to prevent crime, and to more quickly prosecute acts of violence. When officers know that residents respect the job that they do, it fosters a sense of partnership in purpose, rather than an assumption of hostility.

And that is the goal to which we as city must work.

We've made some early progress – reducing the number of stop-and-frisks from 700,000 two years ago to less than 50,000 today (CHECK). We've begun a thorough retraining of our police officers, from top to bottom. We've worked to free our cops from cumbersome and counterproductive ticket-writing quotas, and equip them instead with the tools they need to target dangerous crime – like shot-spotter, body cameras, and other technologies made possible by a XXX increase in the police budget.

As a city, we must also rethink what we are asking our police department to do to keep us safe.

The old model has its roots in a New York City beset by thousands of murders a year; a crack cocaine epidemic; street corners that even our cops found too dangerous to enter. It was an era gripped by fear – fear from residents in high-crime neighborhoods, fear from those in safer neighborhoods located nearby, fear from officers facing a crime wave that some saw as irreversible.

We will never, ever return to those days. But neither will we let our memories of a bygone era unwisely dictate the way we police our streets today.

The modern NYPD is more diverse than ever before. Our most recent tragedy shined a light on that fact, with our Latino and Asian communities mourning the loss of officers who shared their ethnicity.

Today, we look to the city we hope to build – a new model, based upon the long view – a model centered on trust instead of fear. We commit to driving down crime even further, by building a stronger relationship between cops and communities. To that end, we will recognize and celebrate and promote police officers not simply by studying statistics and arrest numbers, but by gauging how the residents of a precinct view those that patrol their precinct. Is there a mutual respect between an officer and the neighborhood? Is law enforcement targeting those that present a real danger, while protecting the rights of those who present little or none?

That new model – one that promotes constructive dialogue, respectful policing, and the security of those we entrust to keep all of us safe – is the path to a stronger and more secure city.

This renewal of police-community relations will not happen overnight. After decades of distrust – the product of both disorder and disrespect – it will take years for us to get where we, as one city, need to go.

But we will get there -- not through vitriolic words or vicious scapegoating or violent protest – but through conversation and collaboration and a long view commitment to safety and justice for every New Yorker.

And we will get there together.

###

From: Cohen, Adam
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Ramos Eulogy
Date: Thursday, December 25, 2014 3:55:16 PM
Attachments: 12_27_14 Ramos EulogyTHURSPM.docx

John, Here is the current draft. Feedback welcome.
Adam

OPEN PRESS

MAYOR BILL DE BLASIO,
RAFAEL RAMOS EULOGY
SATURDAY, DECEMBER 27, 2014

REMARKS:

- Our hearts aching today
- NYC lost hero, and a remarkable man
- Extend deepest condolences to family
 - Wife—Maritza
 - Sons—Justin and Jaden
 - Others in his family here to mourn today
 - His friends

○ Fellow members of NYPD

- Rafael was a great New Yorker – a lifelong Brooklynite --- whose life revolved around three great passions
- One was his family
- Deep love of his wife Maritza, his high school sweetheart, love of his life
- Enormous love of, pride in, his two sons
- Justin, his oldest, [REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

○ [REDACTED]

3

- And Jayden, youngest, who became a family spokesman in most modern way
 - A tribute he wrote to his father went viral on the Internet
 - Began simply: “He was the best father I could ask for”
- Rafael cherished time he could spend with his family
 - Cheering for the Mets, playing basketball with sons in Highland Park, blasting Spanish gospel music from car
- Rafael also came from a big, warm, extended family

- When he was at the hospital, there was barely enough room for all of the relatives who showed up
- Rafael played special role in family: mediator, one people trusted to settle disputes and make peace

[SPACE]

- Rafael's second great passion: his faith
- So much of his life revolved around this church, this spiritual community
- Embraced idea that: "If your way isn't working, try God's way"
- Spent last 10 weeks of life studying to be a chaplain – and was taken from us day he was to graduate

- Said so much about who Rafael was that he wanted to serve people spiritually while on the police force
- And was already thinking about life of religious service after he left the force

[SPACE]

- Rafael's final passion: work for NYPD
- He always wanted to join the Department – although that was not his first career
- Before joining NYPD, was school safety officer – a beloved one
- But Rafael did not give up on his dream, and two years ago finally joined the NYPD

6

- Not many people excited to take a test, but Rafael couldn't wait for NYPD test
- Because for him, opportunity to serve City as a Police Officer was literally a dream come true
- He died doing something that was so central to his life: protecting others

[SPACE]

- One of the most beautiful verses in the Bible is also one of simplest
- From the Sermon on the Mount:
“Blessed are the peacemakers”
- Could have been said with Rafael in mind

- He was the peacemaker in his large family – as well as its moral center
- Peacemaker in Church, working every day to spread message of faith and love
- And peacemaker for City of New York
- A reason police officers called “peace officers” – they keep City peaceful
- Rafael put his life on the line every day, so that his fellow New Yorkers could go about their lives in safety
 - Knowing that if trouble ever struck, someone like Rafael would be there to rescue them
- Rafael’s life was tragically cut short

- But his memory will live on in the hearts of his family, his church, and his brothers and sisters in the NYPD
- And of millions of New Yorkers, who mourn that he was taken so soon – and are eternally grateful for his sacrifice
- A few words in Spanish:

Nueva York está de luto por la muerte de uno de sus mejores hijos, Rafael Ramos.

Rafael Ramos era un padre y esposo amoroso, un hombre de mucha fe, y un valiente policía que murió mientras trabajaba en mantener a nuestra ciudad segura.

Su vida refleja las palabras de la Biblia:
“Bien-aventurados los que procuran la paz.”

ENGLISH TRANSLATION

New Yorkers are mourning the loss of one of our finest, Rafael Ramos

He was a loving husband and father, a man of great faith, and a brave police officer, who died while keeping the city safe.

His life embodies the words of the Bible:
“Blessed are the peacemakers.”

From: Cohen, Adam
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Re: Ramos Eulogy
Date: Thursday, December 25, 2014 8:02:04 PM

Thank you!

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Thursday, December 25, 2014 07:51 PM
To: Cohen, Adam
Subject: Re: Ramos Eulogy

Roger - makes sense to me - thanks

On Dec 25, 2014, at 7:39 PM, Cohen, Adam <ASCohen@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Thanks, John. This was the level of detail we got from the family. I am wary about using a eulogy to do anything but praise/mourn the deceased. I would rather people say there was too little messaging on larger issues than too much. Also: other occasions coming up soon for broader themes.

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Thursday, December 25, 2014 04:36 PM
To: Cohen, Adam
Subject: Re: Ramos Eulogy

Good. Anything about him doing things after hours, ala PAL speech?
Playing pickup with local kids or anything?

I suppose you intentionally left messaging out of this? I worry that if we say nothing about the tragedy of last Saturday and the implications on police community relations, it will be noted as such.

On Dec 25, 2014, at 3:55 PM, Cohen, Adam
<ASCohen@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

John, Here is the current draft. Feedback welcome.
Adam

<12_27_14 Ramos EulogyTHURSPM.docx>

From: Cohen, Adam
To: B
Cc: Ragone, Peter; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Re: Eulogy
Date: Friday, December 26, 2014 1:49:36 PM

Will do on both fronts.

----- Original Message -----

From: B
Sent: Friday, December 26, 2014 01:46 PM
To: Cohen, Adam
Cc: Ragone, Peter; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Eulogy

Need to see a draft by 5pm when I'm driving back from CT. Thanks. Also for the Police graduation on Monday, determine with DCPI if I am the one who calls for a moment of silence, or if someone else does. I, of course, would rather do that myself

From: John Del Cecato
To: Carey, Michael
Cc: John, Roxanne; Ragone, Peter; Wolfe, Emma; Williams, Dominic; Walzak, Phil; Fuleihan, Dean \(OMB\)
Subject: Re: Updated: MBDB: Internal Meeting to Discuss Next Steps on Labor
Date: Sunday, December 28, 2014 3:06:26 PM

I'm on

> On Dec 28, 2014, at 3:03 PM, Carey, Michael <MPCarey@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>
> Hey all
>
> If you are joining by phone please dial in.
>
> If attending we are now in the dining room.
> Michael Paul Carey
> City Hall
> New York, New York

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Fuleihan, Dean \(OMB\)
Subject: Fw: Remarks for NYPD Graduation
Date: Sunday, December 28, 2014 4:29:42 PM

From: Ragone, Peter
Sent: Sunday, December 28, 2014 02:44 PM
To: Cohen, Adam; Hagelgans, Andrea; Walzak, Phil; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic; Norvell, Wiley; Adams, Marti; Wolfe, Emma; Carrion, Marco A.; @EO; Walters, Alexis
Subject: RE: Remarks for NYPD Graduation

HOW ABOUT THESE?

Draft Remarks for NYPD Graduation:

(IF BOOED)

I know why you are booing me. I also know I'm not the only Mayor who has been booed by the police department.

And I know why some officers have turned their back on me and the people who elected me Mayor, your fellow citizens.

You're feeling a lot of pain right now. And no one person is going to make that go away. I can only begin understand what that feels like.

But in the aftermath of this tragedy, you've been misled and presented with a false choice by forces that want to divide this city and its police department.

You've been told that when leaders like me and Commissioner Bratton say we can create a new and better relationship with the police department and the community of New York, that this is an attack on you.

It's not.

To all you new Police Officers, I say join with us. Join with Commissioner Bratton; join with Cardinal Dolan and Reverend Bernard. Join with Eric Adams and Melinda Katz. Join with your local precinct councils. Join with your fellow officers and all of the people of this city who are committed to improving their safety and thereby yours.

In many ways, Police officers have the hardest job in the city. You didn't create domestic violence. You didn't create the drug dealing and the racism and the poverty we face in this country. But you have to deal with it. Not in an abstract way, but at its reality. We can never be thankful enough for what you do.

But we try.

Over the past few days, some police officers have turned their back on me, and since I was elected by your fellow New Yorkers, they've turned their back on all of us.

Let me be very clear. We will not turn our back on you. Ever.

If anyone threatens a police officer and hurts a police officer, we will find them. We will arrest them. We will make sure they pay a steep price.

We honor New Yorkers abilities to exercise free speech. Even if we deplore what they're saying. NYPD has shown the world that in America we take the constitution that you just swore to upheld very seriously. And it sets us apart from everyone else in the world.

One other thing. Sometimes, things have happened to police officers that aren't fair.

I don't think its fair that the police department has not had a labor contract with the city of New York for many years now. I'm not going to blame anyone. I am going to work everyday to fix it.

I also don't think it was fair for political forces in Albany to reduce the pensions and disability payments for those who wear uniforms for New York City. If you know anything about me, you should know I want every single person who works for the city to get a fair shake.

I'm going to work with the city council and leaders in Albany to right that wrong for you and your brothers and sisters.

It's something that we can fix together.

In the coming days, we are going to lay to rest yet another police officer, who was killed by a criminal madman.

On Saturday, I invoked the Sermon on the Mount when talking about Officer Ramos. Blessed are the peacemakers. You are all going to be peacemakers.

Let join together and lay aside the false choice that you've been offered.

Let's make a choice together. You are all new on the job. Let's choose a new path together.

From: Cohen, Adam
Sent: Sunday, December 28, 2014 2:44 PM
To: Hagelgans, Andrea; Walzak, Phil; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic; Ragone, Peter; Norvell, Wiley; Adams, Marti; Wolfe, Emma; Carrion, Marco A.; @EO; Walters, Alexis
Subject: Re: Remarks for NYPD Graduation

Thanks, Phil -- very helpful. And thanks Andrea.

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
Sent: Sunday, December 28, 2014 02:34 PM
To: Walzak, Phil; Cohen, Adam; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic; Ragone, Peter; Norvell, Wiley; Adams, Marti; Wolfe, Emma; Carrion, Marco A.; @EO; Walters, Alexis
Subject: Re: Remarks for NYPD Graduation

Adam, forwarding you materials in case helpful

From: Walzak, Phil
Sent: Sunday, December 28, 2014 02:30 PM
To: Cohen, Adam; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic; Ragone, Peter; Hagelgans, Andrea; Norvell, Wiley; Adams, Marti; Wolfe, Emma; Carrion, Marco A.; @EO; Walters, Alexis
Subject: Re: Remarks for NYPD Graduation

I like addressing head on more - "will never turn our back on you"

Need to discuss how better police-community relations good for community AND cops - everyone safer, everyone focusing on real bad guys

And lean in more on the stuff we are doing for cops - flesh out more the $350m+, the body cams, the retraining - ensure all of you officers have the absolute finest technology and training possible so you can do your job to keep us safe - that's my solemn pledge to you.

WN - tmrw a good day to formally issue the 1pgr on the $$?

From: Cohen, Adam
Sent: Sunday, December 28, 2014 12:31 PM
To: Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic; Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea; Norvell, Wiley; Adams, Marti; Wolfe, Emma; Carrion, Marco A.; @EO; Walters, Alexis
Subject: Remarks for NYPD Graduation

Attached. These are graduation remarks, but make some comments about Ramos and Liu, how we move forward. Very much welcome ideas, reactions, input.

From: John Del Cecato
To: P RAGONE; Emma Wolfe; PhilWalzak [REDACTED] Jonathan Rosen; Cohen, Adam; Andrea Hagelgans
Subject: Bratton history
Date: Monday, December 29, 2014 5:06:25 PM

http://www.city-journal.org/2013/23_1_william-bratton.html

From: John Del Cecato
To: Katz, Rebecca
Cc: Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea; Wolfe, Emma
Subject: Re: Molly Ball, The Atlantic
Date: Friday, January 02, 2015 3:41:07 PM

I like this idea. Just kind of on pause at the moment, as you said

On Jan 2, 2015, at 2:58 PM, Katz, Rebecca <RKKatz@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Molly Ball from The Atlantic reached out to do a profile on the Mayor.

Not sure where we are with the national push – I imagine we are on hold on some level – but she wants to do the story that I think the Boss would like a lot.

She read his op-ed and is really interested in his progressive message and what it represents.

I've worked with her a lot over the years and do believe this could be a good story with a nice slant.

She's looking for an interview and hoping for some time in the next month.

Here's her piece from last year:

<http://www.theatlantic.com/politics/archive/2013/09/who-is-bill-de-blasio-and-could-he-be-new-yorks-next-mayor/279442/>

--

Rebecca Kirschner Katz
Office of the Mayor
(212) 788-3112
rkkatz@cityhall.nyc.gov
@RebeccaKKatz

From: Katz, Rebecca
To: John Del Cecato
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Katz, Rebecca; Ragone, Peter; Hagelgans, Andrea; Wolfe, Emma
Subject: Re: Molly Ball, The Atlantic
Date: Friday, January 02, 2015 6:18:18 PM

The Nation wants to do a big, progressive think piece on BdB as well.

Sent from my iPhone

On Jan 2, 2015, at 6:14 PM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

What do you mean

On Jan 2, 2015, at 5:42 PM, Walzak, Phil <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

whats going to happen w KVH?

From: Katz, Rebecca
Sent: Friday, January 02, 2015 2:58 PM
To: Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; jfdc@akpdmedia.com; Hagelgans, Andrea; Wolfe, Emma Subject: Molly Ball, The Atlantic

Molly Ball from The Atlantic reached out to do a profile on the Mayor.

Not sure where we are with the national push – I imagine we are on hold on some level – but she wants to do the story that I think the Boss would like a lot.

She read his op-ed and is really interested in his progressive message and what it represents.

I've worked with her a lot over the years and do believe this could be a good story with a nice slant.

She's looking for an interview and hoping for some time in the next month.

Here's her piece from last year:

<http://www.theatlantic.com/politics/archive/2013/09/who-is-bill-de-blasio-and-could-he-be-new-yorks-next-mayor/279442/>

--

Rebecca Kirschner Katz
Office of the Mayor
(212) 788-3112
rkatz@cityhall.nyc.gov
@RebeccaKKatz

From: Peter Ragone
To: John Del Cecato
Cc: PhilWalzak [REDACTED] Emma Wolfe; Jonathan Rosen; Andrea Hagelgans; Cohen, Adam
Subject: Re: Second cut at NYT op-ed
Date: Saturday, January 03, 2015 11:55:02 AM

I'll send them along when we've got next version. Making some changes now

This is a personal email account. If this communication is related to official business please email me at pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov.

On Jan 3, 2015, at 11:11 AM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

Cool, thanks... Wasn't sure about "bad police contacts" - just a term we used to use - but may not make sense...

Also - let me know if you want any input on Liu funeral remarks

From: Peter Ragone <[REDACTED]>
Date: Saturday, January 3, 2015 at 10:50 AM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: Phil Walzak <[REDACTED]> Emma Wolfe <[REDACTED]>
Jonathan Rosen <jonathan@berlinrosen.com>, Andrea Hagelgans
<[REDACTED]> "Cohen, Adam" <ASCohen@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: Second cut at NYT op-ed

This is great. I'm going to make a few changes, but overall very powerful...

This is a personal email account. If this communication is related to official business please email me at pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov.

On Dec 29, 2014, at 5:06 PM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

Not sure whether the Comms Team is still planning on submitting something like this - or when you plan to do so - but I tried to ratchet back some of the Garner-Liu-Ramos comparisons a bit, and refer to those matters more obliquely, so as not to further antagonize the cops.

But I still kept a lot of the principles and policies behind our police reform agenda in there. I separated the deplorable actions into three parts: violent/hateful protestors; abusive/overly aggressive cops; and a deranged individual who denigrated the peaceful protest movement.

I also called out Lynch and company, but not by name or specific affront. That felt beneath the bigness of this op-ed to me.

I also tried to shine a bright light on both the reforms we're doing AND the success we've had on crime reduction in 2014 - but maybe we should highlight that in even more detail.

===

UNTITLED2

By Bill de Blasio

DRAFT

In the midst of a holiday season we look to with joy, New Yorkers from all walks of life are sharing in grief.

The tragic, senseless killings of NYPD officers Wenjian Liu and Rafael Ramos have shaken our city to its core. These proud and courageous public servants wanted nothing more than to honor their vow to protect and to serve. They wanted to keep their community safe from harm, and to continue the nearly unimaginable success that New York's Finest have achieved in driving crime in our city to a record low -- a five percent reduction in serious crime from last year, with the lowest number of homicides since the City began keeping records.

We are a city that mourns the loss of life. A city that expresses the raw emotion that we feel -- the anger, the sadness, the sense of injustice -- in different ways -- some constructive, some destructive.

But at this moment, we remember New York City is one family -- a family that will come together in common cause in light of the long view -- dedicated to building bridges of understanding that can and must prevent future tragedies from tearing us apart again.

Our police officers do a dangerous and essential, but often thankless job. And striking the right balance between rigorously protecting public safety and respecting individuals is part of what makes the job so challenging. It must be done with extraordinary care and restraint. In turn, our police deserve our gratitude and our respect.

It is also true that many times, young men of color are considered suspect simply because of how they look, and sometimes that leads to tragedies like the ones we've seen. That sense of distrust doesn't make policing any easier. It makes it more difficult.

The question we must ask ourselves is this: how do we keep EVERY New Yorker safe – whether black, white, Latino, or Asian; whether they wear a uniform, or a hoodie with baggy jeans; whether they are the targets of overaggressive policing, subjects of ugly, hate-filled taunts or despicable violent protests; or victims of a deranged individual who shamefully uses peaceful protests as a cover for his acts of unthinkable evil.

This tug between public safety and civil rights are not mutually exclusive. In fact, the opposite is true.

Building a partnership between police and the communities they serve is actually a strategy for driving crime down even further, and protecting both residents and officers alike.

When police see residents of their precincts as dedicated to the same mission – targeting violence and lawlessness – they are better able to serve the neighborhoods with the professionalism they exemplify. When neighbors see officers as respectful and restrained, they can assist law enforcement in the effort to lock up the criminals and avoid bad contacts with innocent individuals.

Our goal is tackling crime together, and building mutual trust. And that is the goal to which we as city must work.

We've made some early progress – reducing the number of stop-and-frisks from 700,000 two years ago to less than 50,000 today (CHECK). We've begun a thorough retraining of our police officers, from top to bottom. We've worked to free our cops from cumbersome and counterproductive ticket-writing quotas, and equip them instead with the tools they need to target dangerous crime – like using GPS to pinpoint gunshots, fitting police with body cameras, and tapping other technologies made possible by a XXX increase in the police budget. And we will be proposing measures to literally bring officers in closer regular contact with those they serve, offering subsidies to cops who choose to live in the city, and – like so many other New Yorkers – struggle with the soaring cost of housing.

As a city, we must also rethink what we are asking our police department to do to keep us safe.

The old model has its roots in a New York City beset by thousands of murders a year; a crack cocaine epidemic; street corners that even our cops found too dangerous to enter.

We will never, ever return to those days. But neither will we let our memories of a bygone era predetermine the right way to police our streets in the modern era.

Today's NYPD is more diverse than ever before. Our most recent tragedy shined a light on that fact, with our Latino and Asian communities mourning the loss of officers who shared their ethnicity.

So we look to the city we hope to build – a new model, based upon the long view – a model centered on trust instead of fear. To that end, we will recognize and celebrate and promote police officers not simply by studying statistics and arrest numbers, but by gauging how the residents of a precinct view those that patrol their precinct. Is there a mutual respect between an officer and the neighborhood? Is law enforcement targeting those that present a real danger, while protecting the rights of those who present little or none?

At the same time, we will ask ourselves, as a city, whether we are doing everything in our power to protect our police – against disrespect, against hateful words and actions, against threats of violence.

That new model – one that promotes constructive dialogue, respectful policing, and the security of those we entrust to keep all of us safe – is the path to a stronger and more secure city.

This renewal of police-community relations will not happen overnight. After decades of distrust – the product of both disorder and disrespect – it will take years for us to get where we, as one city, need to go.

But we will get there -- not through vitriolic words or vicious scapegoating or violent protest – but through conversation and collaboration and a long view commitment to safety and justice for every New Yorker.

And we will get there together.

###

From: John Del Cecato
To: P RAGONE
Cc: PhilWalzak [REDACTED] Emma Wolfe; Jonathan Rosen; Andrea Hagelgans; Cohen, Adam
Subject: Re: Latest draft
Date: Saturday, January 03, 2015 2:13:42 PM
Attachments: JEDeditsSaturday2pm.docx

Good edits... Had a few more to consider (see attached) - and obviously need to fill in the holes

From: Peter Ragone <[REDACTED]>
Date: Saturday, January 3, 2015 at 1:36 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: Phil Walzak <[REDACTED]> Emma Wolfe <[REDACTED]> Jonathan Rosen <jonathan@berlinrosen.com>, Andrea Hagelgans <[REDACTED]> "Cohen, Adam" <ASCohen@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Latest draft

New Era of Policing Will Dawn
By Bill de Blasio
DRAFT

In the midst of a New Year that we look to with joy, New Yorkers from all walks of life are sharing in grief.

The tragic, senseless killings of NYPD officers Wenjian Liu and Rafael Ramos have shaken our city to its core. These proud and courageous public servants wanted nothing more than to honor their vow to protect and to serve with respect for New Yorkers.

They wanted to keep their community safe from harm, and to continue the nearly unimaginable success that New Yorkers and New York's Finest have achieved in driving crime in our city to a record low -- a nearly five percent reduction in serious crime from last year, with the lowest number of homicides since the City began keeping records.

We are a city that mourns the loss of life. A city that expresses the raw emotion that we feel – the anger, the sadness, the sense of injustice – in different ways – some constructive, some destructive.

But at this moment, we remember New York City is one family – a family that will come together in common cause in light of the new era we have forged together – dedicated to building bridges of understanding that can and must prevent future tragedies from tearing us apart again.

Our police officers do a dangerous and essential, but often thankless job. And striking the right balance between rigorously protecting public safety and respecting individuals is part of what makes the job so challenging. It must be done with extraordinary care and restraint. In turn, our police deserve our gratitude and our respect.

It is also true that at times, people of color have felt suspect simply because of how they look. That sense of distrust doesn't make policing any easier. It makes it more difficult.

The question we must ask ourselves is this: how do we keep EVERY New Yorker safe – whether they wear a suit and tie, a uniform, or a hoodie; whether they were the targets of stop and frisk policing, subjects of ugly, hate-filled taunts or despicable violent protests; or victims of a deranged individual who shamefully uses peaceful protests as a cover for his acts of unthinkable evil.

This tug between public safety and civil rights are not new nor are they mutually exclusive. In fact, the opposite is true.

Building a partnership between police and the communities they serve is actually a strategy for driving crime down even further, and protecting both residents and officers alike.

When police see residents of their precincts as dedicated to the same mission – targeting violence and lawlessness – they are better able to serve the neighborhoods with the professionalism they exemplify. When neighbors see officers as their partners in safety, they can assist law enforcement in the effort to lock up the criminals and avoid unnecessary contacts with innocent individuals.

Our goal is tackling crime together, and building mutual trust. And that is the goal to which we as city must work.

Together with America's finest cop, Commissioner Bill Bratton, we've made some early progress – reducing the number of stop-and-frisks from 700,000 two years ago to less than 50,000 today (CHECK). We've begun a thorough retraining of our police officers, from top to bottom. We've worked to free our cops from cumbersome and counterproductive ticket-writing quotas, and equip them instead with the tools they need to target dangerous crime – like using GPS to pinpoint gunshots, fitting police with body cameras, and tapping other technologies made possible by a XXX increase in the police budget.

And we will be proposing other measures this year to literally bring officers in closer regular contact with those they serve.

As a city, we must also rethink what we are asking our police department to do to keep us safe.

The old model has its roots in a New York City beset by thousands of murders a year; a crack cocaine epidemic; street corners that even our cops found too dangerous to enter.

We will never, ever return to those days. But neither will we let our memories of a bygone era predetermine the right way to police our streets in this new era.

Today's NYPD is more diverse than ever before. Our most recent tragedy shined a light on that fact, with our Latino and Asian communities mourning the loss of officers who shared their ethnicity.

So we look to the city we hope to build – a new model for a new era– a model centered on trust instead of fear. To that end, we will recognize and celebrate and promote police officers not simply by studying statistics and arrest numbers, but by gauging how the residents of a precinct view those that patrol their precinct. There will be mutual respect between an officer and the neighborhood. Law enforcement will target those that present a real danger, while protecting the rights of those who present little or none.

At the same time, we will ask ourselves, as a city, whether we are doing everything in our power to protect our police – against disrespect, against hateful words and actions, against threats of violence.

That new era model – one that promotes constructive dialogue, respectful policing, and the security of those we entrust to keep all of us safe – is the path to a stronger and more secure city.

This renewal of police-community relations will not happen overnight. And history has taught us that change can be difficult and painful. But we know, as this great city always has, that we advance only as one New York.

We will not fear this new era of policing. We will embrace it and discover a new dawn -- not through vitriolic words or vicious scapegoating or violent protest – but through conversation and collaboration and a commitment to safety and justice for every New Yorker.

And we will get there together.

This is a personal email account. If this communication is related to official business please email me at pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov.

On Dec 29, 2014, at 5:06 PM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

Not sure whether the Comms Team is still planning on submitting something like this - or when you plan to do so - but I tried to ratchet back some of the Garner-Liu-Ramos comparisons a bit, and refer to those matters more obliquely, so as not to further antagonize the cops.

But I still kept a lot of the principles and policies behind our police reform agenda in there. I separated the deplorable actions into three parts: violent/hateful protestors; abusive/overly aggressive cops; and a deranged individual who denigrated the peaceful protest movement.

I also called out Lynch and company, but not by name or specific affront. That felt beneath the bigness of this op-ed to me.

I also tried to shine a bright light on both the reforms we're doing AND the success we've had on crime reduction in 2014 - but maybe we should highlight that in even more detail.

===

UNTITLED2

By Bill de Blasio

DRAFT

In the midst of a holiday season we look to with joy, New Yorkers from all walks of life are sharing in grief.

The tragic, senseless killings of NYPD officers Wenjian Liu and Rafael Ramos have shaken our city to its core. These proud and courageous public servants wanted nothing more than to honor their vow to protect and to serve. They wanted to keep their community safe from harm, and to continue the nearly unimaginable success that New York's Finest have achieved in driving crime in our city to a record low -- a five percent reduction in serious crime from last year, with the lowest number of homicides since the City began keeping records.

We are a city that mourns the loss of life. A city that expresses the raw emotion that we feel – the anger, the sadness, the sense of injustice – in different ways – some constructive, some destructive.

But at this moment, we remember New York City is one family – a family that will come together in common cause in light of the long view – dedicated to building bridges of understanding that can and must prevent future tragedies from tearing us apart again.

Our police officers do a dangerous and essential, but often thankless job. And striking the right balance between rigorously protecting public safety and respecting individuals is part of what makes the job so challenging. It must be done with extraordinary care and restraint. In turn, our police deserve our gratitude and our respect.

It is also true that many times, young men of color are considered suspect simply because of how they look, and sometimes that leads to tragedies like the ones we've seen. That sense of distrust doesn't make policing any easier. It makes it more difficult.

The question we must ask ourselves is this: how do we keep EVERY New Yorker safe – whether black, white, Latino, or Asian; whether they wear a uniform, or a hoodie with baggy jeans; whether they are the targets of overaggressive policing, subjects of ugly, hate-filled taunts or despicable violent protests; or victims of a deranged individual who shamefully uses peaceful protests as a cover for his acts of unthinkable evil.

This tug between public safety and civil rights are not mutually exclusive. In fact, the opposite is true.

Building a partnership between police and the communities they serve is actually a strategy for driving crime down even further, and protecting both residents and officers alike.

When police see residents of their precincts as dedicated to the same mission – targeting violence and lawlessness – they are better able to serve the neighborhoods with the professionalism they exemplify. When neighbors see officers as respectful and restrained, they can assist law enforcement in the effort to lock up the criminals and avoid bad contacts with innocent individuals.

Our goal is tackling crime together, and building mutual trust. And that is the goal to which we as city must work.

We've made some early progress – reducing the number of stop-and-frisks from 700,000 two years ago to less than 50,000 today (CHECK). We've begun a thorough retraining of our police officers, from top to bottom. We've worked to free our cops from cumbersome and counterproductive ticket-writing quotas, and equip them instead with the tools they need to target dangerous crime – like using GPS to pinpoint gunshots, fitting police with body cameras, and tapping other technologies made possible by a XXX increase in the police budget. And we will be proposing measures to literally bring officers in closer regular contact with those they serve, offering subsidies to cops who choose to live in the city, and – like so many other New Yorkers – struggle with the soaring cost of housing.

As a city, we must also rethink what we are asking our police department to do to keep us safe.

The old model has its roots in a New York City beset by thousands of murders a year; a crack cocaine epidemic; street corners that even our cops found too dangerous to enter.

We will never, ever return to those days. But neither will we let our memories of a bygone era predetermine the right way to police our streets in the modern era.

Today's NYPD is more diverse than ever before. Our most recent tragedy shined a light on that fact, with our Latino and Asian communities mourning the loss of officers who shared their ethnicity.

So we look to the city we hope to build – a new model, based upon the long view – a model centered on trust instead of fear. To that end, we will recognize and celebrate and promote police officers not simply by studying statistics and arrest numbers, but by gauging how the residents of a precinct view those that patrol their precinct. Is there a mutual respect between an officer and the neighborhood? Is law enforcement targeting those that present a real danger, while protecting the rights of those who present little or none?

At the same time, we will ask ourselves, as a city, whether we are doing everything in our power to protect our police – against disrespect, against hateful words and actions, against threats of violence.

That new model – one that promotes constructive dialogue, respectful policing, and the security of those we entrust to keep all of us safe – is the path to a stronger and more secure city.

This renewal of police-community relations will not happen overnight. After decades of distrust – the product of both disorder and disrespect – it will take years for us to get where we, as one city, need to go.

But we will get there -- not through vitriolic words or vicious scapegoating or violent protest – but through conversation and collaboration and a long view commitment to safety and justice for every New Yorker.

And we will get there together.

###

New Era of Policing Will Dawn

By Bill de Blasio

DRAFT

In the midst of a New Year that we look to with joy, New Yorkers from all walks of life are sharing in grief.

The tragic, senseless killings of NYPD officers Wenjian Liu and Rafael Ramos have shaken our city to its core. These proud and courageous public servants wanted nothing more than to honor their vow to protect and to serve with respect for New Yorkers.

They wanted to keep their community safe from harm, and to continue the nearly unimaginable success that New Yorkers and New York's Finest have achieved in driving crime in our city to a record low -- a nearly five percent reduction in serious crime from last year, with the lowest number of homicides since the City began keeping records.

We are a city that mourns the loss of life. A city that expresses the raw emotion that we feel – the anger, the sadness, the sense of injustice – in different ways – some constructive, some destructive.

But at this moment, we remember New York City is one family – a family that will come together in common cause in light of the new era that we have forged together – dedicated to building bridges of understanding that can and must prevent future tragedies from tearing us apart again.

Our police officers do a dangerous and essential, but often thankless job. And striking the right balance between rigorously protecting public safety and respecting individuals is part of what makes the job so challenging. It must be done with extraordinary care and restraint. In turn, our police deserve our gratitude and our respect.

It is also true that at times, people of color have felt suspect simply because of how they look. That sense of distrust doesn't make policing any easier. It makes it more difficult.

The question we must ask ourselves is this: how do we keep EVERY every New Yorker safe – whether they wear a suit and tie, a uniform, or a hoodie; whether they were the targets of unwarranted stop and frisk policing, subjects of ugly, hate-filled taunts or despicable violent protests; or victims of a deranged individual who shamefully uses peaceful protests as a cover for his acts of unthinkable evil.

Formatted: Font: Bold

This tug between public safety and civil rights are not new, nor are they mutually exclusive. In fact, the opposite is true.

Building a partnership between police and the communities they serve is actually a strategy for driving crime down even further, and for protecting both residents and officers alike.

When police see residents of their precincts as dedicated to the same mission – targeting violence and lawlessness – they are better able to serve the neighborhoods with the professionalism they exemplify. When neighbors see officers as their partners in safety, they can assist law enforcement in the effort to lock up the criminals and avoid unnecessary contacts with innocent individuals.

Our goal is tackling crime together, and building mutual trust. And that is the goal to which we as city must work.

Together with America’s finest cop, Commissioner Bill Bratton, we’ve our administration has made some early progress – reducing the number of stop-and-frisks from 700,000 two years ago to less than 50,000 today (CHECK). We’ve begun a thorough retraining of our police officers, from top to bottom. We’ve worked to free our cops from cumbersome and counterproductive ticket-writing quotas, and equip them instead with the tools they need to target dangerous crime – like using GPS to pinpoint gunshots, fitting police with body cameras, and tapping other technologies made possible by a XXX increase in the police budget.

Formatted: Highlight

Formatted: Highlight

And we will be proposing other measures this year to literally bring officers in closer, regular contact with those they serve.

As a city, we must also rethink what we are asking our police department to do to keep us safe.

The old model has its roots in a New York City beset by thousands of murders a year; a crack cocaine epidemic; street corners that even our cops found too dangerous to ~~enter~~walk.

We will never, ever return to those days. But neither will we let our memories of a bygone era predetermine the right way to police our streets in this new era.

Today's NYPD is more diverse than ever before. Our most recent tragedy shined a light on that fact, with our Latino and Asian communities mourning the loss of officers who shared their ethnicity.

So we look to the city we hope to build – a new model for a new era – a model centered on trust instead of fear. To that end, we will recognize and celebrate and promote police officers not simply by studying statistics and arrest numbers, but by gauging how the residents of a precinct view those ~~that-who~~ patrol their precinct. There will be mutual respect between an officer and the neighborhood. Law enforcement will target those ~~that-who~~ present a real danger, while protecting the rights of those who present little or none.

At the same time, we will ask ourselves, as a city, whether we are doing everything in our power to protect our police – against disrespect, against hateful words and actions, against threats of violence.

That new era model – one that promotes constructive dialogue, respectful policing, and the security of those we entrust to keep all of us safe – is the path to a stronger and more secure city.

This renewal of police-community relations will not happen overnight. And history has taught us that change can be difficult and painful. But we know, as this great city always has, that we advance only as one New York.

Formatted: Font: Bold

We will not fear this new era of policing. We will embrace it and discover a new dawn -- not through vitriolic words or vicious scapegoating or violent protest – but through conversation and collaboration and a commitment to safety and justice for every New Yorker.

And we will get there together.

From: Carey, Michael
To: Ragone, Peter; Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea; Wolfe, Emma; "John Del Cecato"; "Liz Hegarty"; Leopold, Elana; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic; Richardson, Jerika
Subject: MBDB: Post Funeral Conference Call-- Please Dial In Now. Thanks.
Date: Sunday, January 04, 2015 3:01:58 PM

Michael Paul Carey
City Hall
New York, New York

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
To: Walzak, Phil; Ragone, Peter; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic; Richardson, Jerika; Wolfe, Emma; "John Del Cecato \(jfdc@akpdmedia.com\)"
Subject: RE: Pls edits
Date: Sunday, January 04, 2015 6:20:52 PM

I wasn't on the emails sent with Zach so someone will need to update those answers. Thanks

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
Sent: Sunday, January 04, 2015 6:18 PM
To: Walzak, Phil; Ragone, Peter; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic; Richardson, Jerika; Wolfe, Emma; 'John Del Cecato (jfdc@akpdmedia.com)'
Subject: RE: Pls edits

Note the legal consequences answer will draw more inquiry and likely legal analysis from pundits about what is permissible.

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
Sent: Sunday, January 04, 2015 6:16 PM
To: Walzak, Phil; Ragone, Peter; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic; Richardson, Jerika; Wolfe, Emma; John Del Cecato (jfdc@akpdmedia.com)
Subject: Pls edits
Importance: High

I have tried to punch up the language per his request. Pls edit quickly

Message Strategy

- Focus on what matters – Protect and Respect
 - Keeping crime low
 - Bringing police and community closer together – because its good for both police AND community
- Reaffirm confidence in and support in NYPD and its leadership
- Use emotions strategically --- to draw the line and make clear work stoppages are unacceptable and will not be tolerated. New Yorkers expect that their police force is working and those who choose not to do their job can find another line of work.

Topline Themes Likely to Guide Every Question

- Emotions: How did it make you feel when backs were turned? Is there anything you regret saying [ie, Dante comparison]? Were you surprised at the reaction?
- Apologies: Should you apologize to the NYPD? Should Lynch and others apologize to you?

- Cause and Effect: Do you believe your comments and actions have caused this escalation?
- Forward-looking: How do you and the City move forward? Now that you've met with the unions, what's next? How do you respond to claims that the first meeting was non-productive and what does that mean for future talks?

SAMPLE Q+A

Q: Should you apologize like some in the media have said? Should Lynch and others apologize to you?

A: Look, this isn't about how I feel. My focus is on keeping our City safe, keeping crime numbers low and bringing police and community together.

Q: Some in the NYPD have said comments about Dante in particular needing to take special care w police were offensive to them. What did you mean and do you regret those remarks?

A.

Our police officers do a dangerous and essential, but often thankless job. And striking the right balance between rigorously protecting public safety and respecting individuals is part of what makes the job so challenging. It must be done with extraordinary care and restraint. In turn, our police deserve our gratitude and our respect.

It is also true that at times, people of color have felt suspect simply because of how they look. That sense of distrust doesn't make policing any easier. It makes it more difficult.

The question we must ask ourselves is this: how do we keep EVERY New Yorker safe – whether they wear a suit and tie, a uniform, or a hoodie; whether they were the targets of stop and frisk policing, subjects of ugly, hate-filled taunts or despicable violent protests; or victims of a deranged individual who shamefully uses peaceful protests as a cover for his acts of unthinkable evil.

Q: Is there a police work slowdown happening right now, and if so what are you and the PC going to do to end it?

- A. We know that typically after a police officer is killed there is a brief period of mourning. As Commissioner Bratton put it, a time for grieving. But let me be clear—New Yorkers will not tolerate any perceived slow down, the police Commissioner won't and I certainly won't. New Yorkers expect officers to do their job and to do it well. Those who can't should consider a new line of work. And for those few who are deliberately stopping/slowing or encouraging others to abdicate their responsibilities, there very well may be legal consequences.

Q. Are you exploring legal options?

A. I expect our cops to do their jobs and to do them admirably. And the NYPD is the finest in the country. If we perceive a slowdown, we will look at all options to keep New Yorkers safe.

Q: Next mtg with Lynch and the unions? What are next steps in that relationship? How do you repair and move forward?

Q: Reaction to those protestors who say and chant vile hateful things about the NYPD?

Q: Do you have any arrest updates on last month's assaults on police officers during a protest rally on the Brooklyn Bridge?

A: Last week, the NYPD arrested and charged a fifth suspect, 29 year-old Jarrod Shanahan in connection with the Brooklyn Bridge assault. Shanahan faces multiple charges, including assault on a police officer, resisting arrest, and obstructing governmental administration. Rest assured the Department with the full support of City Hall is doing everything in its power to ensure the perpetrators are apprehended held to account for their actions. That said, the Commissioner and his chiefs can provide you with more details on this specific arrest.

Q: This year police officer shooting deaths increased 56%. Given the current climate and the rise in death threats from anti-police extremists, what are you doing to protect the City's police officers? Is your rhetoric at all responsible for this climate?

A: No, this was the act of a deranged individual, pure and simple.

We've put safety first in this administration by increasing police resources, expanding camera use in all five boroughs, and maintaining force levels. Since the tragic shootings of Officer Ramos and Officer Liu, we've doubled down and now have officers on foot patrols working in pairs and uniformed sentries now guard each precinct station house. The NYPD is actively monitoring social media and investigating any threats against police officers that come through that or any other medium. And I'd like to continue to urge the public to be vigilant and report any suspicious activity they see or hear. We must work together to prevent a tragedy like this from ever happening again.

Q: On Friday, the Commissioner issued a memo to the entire Department outlining his expectations for how members of the Department should behave at Officer Liu's funeral. Were you aware of the memo? Did he do this at your request?

A: The Commissioner has been a law enforcement leader for decades. He is a smart, independent, and principled public servant. While I do agree with the tenor of his statement and believe that funerals, especially one's where we are honoring one of our City's fallen, are solemn occasions that should be devoid of politics, the Commissioner certainly doesn't need any micro-managing for me. I respect his judgment, and I leave it to his discretion as to what he should and shouldn't say to his officers.

Q: Officer Liu was laid to rest this past weekend. What do you say to those who reacted negatively to your involvement in the funeral?

A: Officer Liu was an example of the best of what this City has to offer. And words can't express how profoundly his tragic death has impacted all of us. We lost a dedicated public servant who answered the call to protect and serve this great city, and Officer Liu deserves our gratitude and respect. This was not about politics, it was about taking the time to honor his memory and support his family.

Q: What about the cops who turned their backs on you? How did you take that?

A: It was the actions of a few – I certainly heard from New Yorkers who were upset to see some who would choose to politicize funerals in direct contrast to the families request. My focus is on how we make sure this City is safe, continue to the low-crime rates, honor the memories of the two men we've lost; protect our officers from future acts; and begin to heal our city.

Q: How do you respond to those who turned their backs or who made statements, such as you have "blood on your hands?"

A: Short answer – No, I do not believe that nor do I think the majority of New Yorkers believe that. That's the kind of divisive politics that does nothing to move this City forward.,

If people want to politicize someone's funeral, that's on them and you can ask them what they think of that. I've got a job to do as Mayor. We've kept crime low and we're remaking the relationship between police and community. No number of baseless attacks are going to stop us from getting their together.

Q: Earlier this morning a hearing was held in Staten Island to review petition requests seeking transcripts, instructions and evidence from the grand jury that investigated the death of Eric Garner but decided not to indict the police officer involved in his chokehold death in July. Do you believe those transcripts should be unsealed?

A: For many people there are obviously a lot of unanswered questions. The death of Eric Garner was an unspeakable tragedy. I understand their desire for more information and transparency. But, I'm not going to weigh in on what should ultimately happen with the transcripts. That is for a judge to decide, and I believe it is important to allow the judicial process to play out as it ultimately will.

Q: Some say they haven't seen police-community relations this bad since the David Dinkins era.

A: We've been through a lot as a city over the past few months. But it's not just here in New York. It's a conversation we're having across the country. I think we need to see it through that lens. We are making progress, reduction in stops or example. We will continue the work. Playing the long game, and am confident we are going in the right direction.

Q: There's a petition circulating suggesting that you resign.

A: I understand that in the middle of an act of senseless violence, humannature causes us to look for someone to blame – some way to make sense of it all. But I don't think injecting politics into the middle of tragedy is the way forward. I am confident this Administration has the confidence and support of the people of NYC.

Q: The killer said that this was an act of retribution for Garner. Doesn't that make it political right there? Isn't that exactly what people were protesting in New York – the people you spoke to and defended.

A: This was a deranged individual with a history of violence...a gang-member from Baltimore who allegedly shot his ex-girlfriend there before coming to New York to continue his unspeakable acts. Just because he cloaked his act of violence in the words of non-violent protestors does not mean he speaks for those peaceful protesters any more than Timothy McVeigh spoke for those who advocate for smaller government. This was an act of evil, pure and simple.

Q: Are you worried about copy-cats – like the attempted shooting in the Bronx? Should New Yorkers expect this to continue?

A: The people of New York should know that they are safe; that their city and their police force are here to protect them; and that we will work together to ensure that the violence ends. We will double-down on the extraordinary work the NYPD is already doing, and we will stamp out the violence. And we will have our cops' backs.

Q: But aren't cops going to be afraid to go to work now?

A: Anyone who says that underestimates the courage and valor of our police officer here in New York. These men and women put their lives on the line every day, and they aren't going to be deterred from doing their jobs. They don't intimidate easy; they act heroically, and will continue to do so.

Q: There are those who've suggested that your own police security detail should ease up on protecting you. Did you take that as a threat?

A: New York City police officers have been protecting me and my family for decades –including the years before I ever entered public life. They protected me as a resident of New York City – just like they protect millions of families like mine every day. I know these men and women, they are professionals who take their duty seriously and I have immense respect for the job they do.

One-Liners

"If people want to use a solemn occasion like a funeral to make a political statement, that's on them, you need to ask them why they chose to do it."

"Some cops may have turned their backs on me, but I will never turn my backs on the cops nor the people they serve. Anyone else who tells you otherwise isn't being honest."

"I know being Mayor is a tough job, I signed up for it. But. I know our cops have a tougher job and they signed up for it too. Don't let anyone tell you I don't get that."

"Don't take my word for it, look at what we've done together. Crime is lower, we dramatically reduced stop-and-frisk together and we've made big investments in our cops. Let's drop the rhetoric here and talk about the great things we've done together."

"After the Eric Garner I said black lives matter, and I won't take that back. But don't let anyone tell you I don't believe that blue lives matter. You bet they do and we know that our cops are partners in of the new relationship we're forging with the people we in city government all serve."

Andrea Hagelgans
Office of the Mayor
Direct – 212.341.5372

Cell – 718.679.8965

ahagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Ragone, Peter
To: Hagelgans, Andrea; Walzak, Phil; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic; Richardson, Jerika; Wolfe, Emma; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Re: Pls edits
Date: Sunday, January 04, 2015 6:21:27 PM

What's new? PW needs to weigh in on this before we talk to Mayor.

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
Sent: Sunday, January 04, 2015 06:16 PM
To: Walzak, Phil; Ragone, Peter; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic; Richardson, Jerika; Wolfe, Emma; John Del Cecato (jfdc@akpdmedia.com) <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Pls edits

I have tried to punch up the language per his request. Pls edit quickly

Message Strategy

- Focus on what matters – Protect and Respect
 - Keeping crime low
 - Bringing police and community closer together – because its good for both police AND community
- Reaffirm confidence in and support in NYPD and its leadership
- Use emotions strategically --- to draw the line and make clear work stoppages are unacceptable and will not be tolerated. New Yorkers expect that their police force is working and those who choose not to do their job can find another line of work.

Topline Themes Likely to Guide Every Question

- Emotions: How did it make you feel when backs were turned? Is there anything you regret saying [ie, Dante comparison]? Were you surprised at the reaction?
- Apologies: Should you apologize to the NYPD? Should Lynch and others apologize to you?
- Cause and Effect: Do you believe your comments and actions have caused this escalation?
- Forward-looking: How do you and the City move forward? Now that you've met with the unions, what's next? How do you respond to claims that the first meeting was non-productive and what does that mean for future talks?

SAMPLE Q+A

Q: Should you apologize like some in the media have said? Should Lynch and others apologize to you?

A: Look, this isn't about how I feel. My focus is on keeping our City safe, keeping crime numbers low and bringing police and community together.

Q: Some in the NYPD have said comments about Dante in particular needing to take special care w police were offensive to them. What did you mean and do you regret those remarks?

A.

Our police officers do a dangerous and essential, but often thankless job. And striking the right balance between rigorously protecting public safety and respecting individuals is part of what makes the job so challenging. It must be done with extraordinary care and restraint. In turn, our police deserve our gratitude and our respect.

It is also true that at times, people of color have felt suspect simply because of how they look. That sense of distrust doesn't make policing any easier. It makes it more difficult.

The question we must ask ourselves is this: how do we keep EVERY New Yorker safe – whether they wear a suit and tie, a uniform, or a hoodie; whether they were the targets of stop and frisk policing, subjects of ugly, hate-filled taunts or despicable violent protests; or victims of a deranged individual who shamefully uses peaceful protests as a cover for his acts of unthinkable evil.

Q: Is there a police work slowdown happening right now, and if so what are you and the PC going to do to end it?

A. We know that typically after a police officer is killed there is a brief period of mourning. As Commissioner Bratton put it, a time for grieving. But let me be clear—New Yorkers will not tolerate any perceived slow down, the police Commissioner won't and I certainly won't. New Yorkers expect officers to do their job and to do it well. Those who can't should consider a new line of work. And for those few who are deliberately stopping/slowing or encouraging others to abdicate their responsibilities, there very well may be legal consequences.

Q. Are you exploring legal options?

A. I expect our cops to do their jobs and to do them admirably. And the NYPD is the finest in the country. If we perceive a slowdown, we will look at all options to keep New Yorkers safe.

Q: Next mtg with Lynch and the unions? What are next steps in that relationship? How do you repair and move forward?

Q: Reaction to those protestors who say and chant vile hateful things about the NYPD?

Q: Do you have any arrest updates on last month's assaults on police officers during a protest rally on the Brooklyn Bridge?

A: Last week, the NYPD arrested and charged a fifth suspect, 29 year-old Jarrod Shanahan in connection with the Brooklyn Bridge assault. Shanahan faces multiple charges, including assault on a police officer, resisting arrest, and obstructing governmental administration. Rest assured the Department with the full support of City Hall is doing everything in its power to ensure the perpetrators are apprehended held to account for their actions. That said, the Commissioner and his chiefs can provide you with more details on this specific arrest.

Q: This year police officer shooting deaths increased 56%. Given the current climate and the rise in death threats from anti-police extremists, what are you doing to protect the City's police officers? Is your rhetoric at all responsible for this climate?

A: No, this was the act of a deranged individual, pure and simple.

We've put safety first in this administration by increasing police resources, expanding camera use in all five boroughs, and maintaining force levels. Since the tragic shootings of Officer Ramos and Officer Liu, we've doubled down and now have officers on foot patrols working in pairs and uniformed sentries now guard each precinct station house. The NYPD is actively monitoring social media and investigating any threats against police officers that come through that or any other medium. And I'd like to continue to urge the public to be vigilant and report any suspicious activity they see or hear. We must work together to prevent a tragedy like this from ever happening again.

Q: On Friday, the Commissioner issued a memo to the entire Department outlining his expectations for how members of the Department should behave at Officer Liu's funeral. Where you aware of the memo? Did he do this at your request?

A: The Commissioner has been a law enforcement leader for decades. He is a smart, independent, and principled public servant. While I do agree with the tenor of his statement and believe that funerals, especially one's where we are honoring one of our City's fallen, are solemn occasions that should be devoid of politics, the Commissioner certainly doesn't need any micro-managing for me. I respect his judgment, and I leave it to his discretion as to what he should and shouldn't say to his officers.

Q: Officer Liu was laid to rest this past weekend. What do you say to those who reacted negatively to your involvement in the funeral?

A: Officer Liu was an example of the best of what this City has to offer. And words can't express how profoundly his tragic death has impacted all of us. We lost a dedicated public servant who answered the call to protect and serve this great city, and Officer Liu deserves our gratitude and respect. This was not about politics, it was about taking the time to honor his memory and support his family.

Q: What about the cops who turned their backs on you? How did you take that?

A: It was the actions of a few – I certainly heard from New Yorkers who were upset to see some who would choose to politicize funerals in direct contrast to the families request. My focus is on how we make sure this City is safe, continue to the low-crime rates, honor the memories of the two men we've lost; protect our officers from future acts; and begin to heal our city.

Q: How do you respond to those who turned their backs or who made statements, such as you have "blood on your hands?"

A: Short answer – No, I do not believe that nor do I think the majority of New Yorkers believe that. That's the kind of divisive politics that does nothing to move this City forward.,

If people want to politicize someone's funeral, that's on them and you can ask them what they think of that. I've got a job to do as Mayor. We've kept crime low and we're remaking the relationship between police and community. No number of baseless attacks are going to stop us from getting their together.

Q: Earlier this morning a hearing was held in Staten Island to review petition requests seeking transcripts, instructions and evidence from the grand jury that investigated the death of Eric Garner but decided not to indict the police officer involved in his chokehold death in July. Do you believe those transcripts should be unsealed?

A: For many people there are obviously a lot of unanswered questions. The death of Eric Garner was an unspeakable tragedy. I understand their desire for more information and transparency. But, I'm not going to weigh in on what should ultimately happen with the transcripts. That is for a judge to decide, and I believe it is important to allow the judicial process to play out as it ultimately will.

Q: Some say they haven't seen police-community relations this bad since the David Dinkins era.

A: We've been through a lot as a city over the past few months. But it's not just here in New York. It's a conversation we're having across the country. I think we need to see it through that lens. We are making progress, reduction in stops or example. We will continue the work. Playing the long game, and am confident we are going in the right direction.

Q: There's a petition circulating suggesting that you resign.

A: I understand that in the middle of an act of senseless violence, humannature causes us to look for someone to blame – some way to make sense of it all. But I don't think injecting politics into the middle of tragedy is the way forward. I am confident this Administration has the confidence and support of the people of NYC.

Q: The killer said that this was an act of retribution for Garner. Doesn't that make it political right there? Isn't that exactly what people were protesting in New York – the people you spoke to and defended.

A: This was a deranged individual with a history of violence...a gang-member from Baltimore who allegedly shot his ex-girlfriend there before coming to New York to continue his unspeakable acts. Just because he cloaked his act of violence in the words of non-violent protestors does not mean he speaks for those peaceful protestors any more than Timothy McVeigh spoke for those who advocate for smaller government. This was an act of evil, pure and simple.

Q: Are you worried about copy-cats – like the attempted shooting in the Bronx? Should New Yorkers expect this to continue?

A: The people of New York should know that they are safe; that their city and their police force are here to protect them; and that we will work together to ensure that the violence ends. We will double-down on the extraordinary work the NYPD is already doing, and we will stamp out the violence. And we will have our cops' backs.

Q: But aren't cops going to be afraid to go to work now?

A: Anyone who says that underestimates the courage and valor of our police officer here in New York. These men and women put their lives on the line every day, and they aren't going to be deterred from doing their jobs. They don't intimidate easy; they act heroically, and will continue to do so.

Q: There are those who've suggested that your own police security detail should ease up on protecting you. Did you take that as a threat?

A: New York City police officers have been protecting me and my family for decades –including the years before I ever entered public life. They protected me as a resident of New York City – just like they protect millions of families like mine every day. I know these men and women, they are professionals who take their duty seriously and I have immense respect for the job they do.

One-Liners

"If people want to use a solemn occasion like a funeral to make a political statement, that's on them, you need to ask them why they chose to do it."

"Some cops may have turned their backs on me, but I will never turn my backs on the cops nor the people they serve. Anyone else who tells you otherwise isn't being honest."

"I know being Mayor is a tough job, I signed up for it. But. I know our cops have a tougher job and they signed up for it too. Don't let anyone tell you I don't get that."

"Don't take my word for it, look at what we've done together. Crime is lower, we dramatically reduced stop-and-frisk together and we've made big investments in our cops. Let's drop the rhetoric here and talk about the great things we've done together."

"After the Eric Garner I said black lives matter, and I won't take that back. But don't let anyone tell you I don't believe that blue lives matter. You bet they do and we know that our cops are partners in of the new relationship we're forging with the people we in city government all serve."

Andrea Hagelgans
Office of the Mayor
Direct – 212.341.5372
Cell – 718.679.8965
ahagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: John Del Cecato
To: Shorris, Anthony; Walzak, Phil
Cc: Ragone, Peter; Hagelgans, Andrea; Williams, Dominic; Richardson, Jerika; Wolfe, Emma
Subject: Re: edited
Date: Sunday, January 04, 2015 6:52:07 PM

Wouldn't hurt for him to say - instead of lessened activity being the result of mourning - that we are actually going after the bad guys & bringing crime down & that the "slowdown" is more optics & not affecting the safety of New Yorkers...

Of course, that's coming from me - a guy who doesn't believe in Broken Windows as a crime-fighting strategy - so take it for what it's worth

From: <Shorris>, Anthony Shorris <AShorris@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Sunday, January 4, 2015 at 6:45 PM
To: "Walzak, Phil" <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: "Ragone, Peter" <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Hagelgans, Andrea" <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Williams, Dominic" <DWilliams@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Richardson, Jerika" <JLRichardson@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Wolfe, Emma" <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: edited

Bratton discussion...

Very adamant not to have BDB engage in anything that appears personal or reflects a Mayor who is hurt or angry -- believes that only empowers the union and further divides the Department, urges he be sober, firm and responsible and let media help turn public opinion against union

Wants to let a few days go by this week to see if summons activity returns to normal, if not then he is fully prepared to take action (he is being briefed on the Taylor Law tomorrow morning by his staff)

Will say tomorrow that they will be analyzing activity precinct by precinct, shift by shift, to detect any of efforts to fail to perform

Will also note that crime remain down despite this lessened activity, which he will still claim reflects mourning and staff assigned to protests

As for the back-turners, wants to make clear this was both a small minority of the officers and that their actions were disrespectful to the families and to the Department

He will have more to say tomorrow morning after he gets briefed by his staff on the crime data and understands the Taylor Law better, obviously happy to talk to Mayor anytime, but will know more by then (Compstat data also comes out on Monday)

Anthony E. Shorris
First Deputy Mayor
City of New York
City Hall
New York, NY 10007
212-788-3191

On Jan 4, 2015, at 6:35 PM, Walzak, Phil <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Message Strategy

- +Focus on what matters – Protect and Respect
 - o Keeping crime low
 - o Bringing police and community closer together – because its good for both police AND community

- +Reaffirm confidence in and support in NYPD and its leadership

- +Firmly reject the outrageous union acts and charges - 'blood on hands'. Turned backs. Work slowdowns. But in a sober, responsible way that showcases leadership.

- +Control emotions. Not abt mayor or individuals. Mind the tone.

Topline Themes Likely to Guide Every Question

- Emotions: How did it make you feel when backs were turned? Is there anything you regret saying [ie, Dante comparison]? Were you surprised at the reaction?

- Apologies: Should you apologize to the NYPD? Should Lynch and others apologize to you?

- Cause and Effect: Do you believe your comments and actions have caused this escalation?

- Forward-looking: How do you and the City move forward? Now that you've met with the unions, what's next? How do you respond to claims that the first meeting was non-productive and what does that mean for future talks?

SAMPLE Q+A

Q: Should you apologize like some in the media have said? Should Lynch and others apologize to you?

A: Look, this isn't about how I feel. My focus is on keeping our City safe, keeping crime numbers low and bringing police and community together.

Q: Some in the NYPD have said comments about Dante in particular needing to take special care w police were offensive to them. What did you mean and do you regret those remarks?

A.

Our police officers do a dangerous and essential, but often thankless job. And striking the right balance between rigorously protecting public safety and respecting individuals is part of what makes the job so challenging. It must be done with extraordinary care and restraint. In turn, our police deserve our gratitude and our respect.

It is also true that at times, people of color have felt suspect simply because of how they look. That's reality. That sense of distrust doesn't make policing any easier. It makes it more difficult.

The question we must ask ourselves is this: how do we keep EVERY New Yorker safe – whether they wear a suit and tie, a uniform, or a hoodie; whether they were the targets of stop and frisk policing, subjects of ugly, hate-filled taunts or despicable violent protests; or victims of a deranged individual who shamefully uses peaceful protests as a cover for his acts of unthinkable evil.

Q: Is there a police work slowdown happening right now, and if so what are you and the PC going to do to end it?

A. We know that typically after a police officer is killed there is a brief period of mourning. As Commissioner Bratton put it, a time for grieving. But let me be clear— New Yorkers will not tolerate any perceived slow down, the police Commissioner won't and I certainly won't. New Yorkers expect officers to do their job and to do it well. Those who can't should consider a new line of work. And for those few who are deliberately stopping/slowing or encouraging others to abdicate their responsibilities, there very well may be legal consequences.

Q. Are you exploring legal options?

A. I expect our cops to do their jobs and to do them admirably. And the NYPD is the finest in the country. If we perceive a slowdown, we will look at all options to keep New Yorkers safe.

-or-

A: People must do their jobs. Period. Individual officers who fail to carry out their duties will be subject to departmental sanctions as they would for any other violation of their responsibilities.

- If we see widespread failure by officers to discharge their duties, the City has legal tools at its disposal that we will use against them and against any individual or organization that fails to discourage such behavior.

If asked further about such tools...

- These tools include the invocation of the Taylor Law, prohibiting labor actions by public workers, and the imposition of sanctions against them and their representatives.

Q: Next mtg with Lynch and the unions? What are next steps in that relationship? How do you repair and move forward?

Q: Reaction to those protestors who say and chant vile hateful things about the NYPD?

Q: Do you have any arrest updates on last month's assaults on police officers during a protest rally on the Brooklyn Bridge?

A: Last week, the NYPD arrested and charged a fifth suspect, 29 year-old Jarrod Shanahan in connection with the Brooklyn Bridge assault. Shanahan faces multiple charges, including assault on a police officer, resisting arrest, and obstructing governmental administration. Rest assured the Department with the full support of City Hall is doing everything in its power to ensure the perpetrators are apprehended held to account for their actions. That said, the Commissioner and his chiefs can provide you with more details on this specific arrest.

Q: This year police officer shooting deaths increased 56%. Given the current climate and the rise in death threats from anti-police extremists, what are you doing to protect the City's police officers? Is your rhetoric at all responsible for this climate?

A: No, this was the act of a deranged individual, pure and simple.

We've put safety first in this administration by increasing police resources, expanding camera use in all five boroughs, and maintaining force levels. Since the tragic shootings of Officer Ramos and Officer Liu, we've doubled down and now have officers on foot patrols working in pairs and uniformed sentries now guard each precinct station house. The NYPD is actively monitoring social media and investigating any threats against police officers that come through that or any other medium. And I'd like to continue to urge the public to be vigilant and report any suspicious activity they see or hear. We must work together to prevent a tragedy like this from ever happening again.

Q: On Friday, the Commissioner issued a memo to the entire Department outlining his expectations for how members of the Department should behave at Officer Liu's funeral. Were you aware of the memo? Did he do this at your request?

A: The Commissioner has been a law enforcement leader for decades. He is a smart, independent, and principled public servant. While I do agree with the tenor of his statement and believe that funerals, especially one's where we are honoring one of our City's fallen, are solemn occasions that should be devoid of politics, the Commissioner certainly doesn't need any micro-managing for me. I respect his judgment, and I leave it to his discretion as to what he should and shouldn't say to his officers.

Q: What is your reaction to officers who turned their back in spite of Bratton?

Q: Officer Liu was laid to rest this past weekend. What do you say to those who reacted negatively to your involvement in the funeral?

A: Officer Liu was an example of the best of what this City has to offer. And words can't express how profoundly his tragic death has impacted all of us. We lost a dedicated public servant who answered the call to protect and serve this great city, and Officer Liu deserves our gratitude and respect. This was not about politics, it was about taking the time to honor his memory and support his family.

Q: What about the cops who turned their backs on you? How did you take that?

A: It was the actions of a few – I certainly heard from New Yorkers who were upset to see some who would choose to politicize funerals in direct contrast to the families request. My focus is on how we make sure this City is safe, continue to the low-crime rates, honor the memories of the two men we've lost; protect our officers from future acts; and begin to heal our city.

Q: How do you respond to those who turned their backs or who made statements, such as you have "blood on your hands?"

A: Short answer – No, I do not believe that nor do I think the majority of New Yorkers believe that. That's the kind of divisive politics that does nothing to move this City forward.,

If people want to politicize someone's funeral, that's on them and you can ask them what they think of that. I've got a job to do as Mayor. We've kept crime low and we're remaking the relationship between police and community. No number of baseless attacks are going to stop us from getting their together.

Q: Earlier this morning a hearing was held in Staten Island to review petition requests seeking transcripts, instructions and evidence from the grand jury that investigated the death of Eric Garner but decided not to indict the police officer involved in his chokehold death in July. Do you believe those transcripts should be unsealed?

A: For many people there are obviously a lot of unanswered questions. The death of Eric Garner was an unspeakable tragedy. I understand their desire for more information and transparency. But, I'm not going to weigh in on what should ultimately happen with the transcripts. That is for a judge to decide, and I believe it is important to allow the judicial process to play out as it ultimately will.

Q: Some say they haven't seen police-community relations this bad since the David Dinkins era.

A: We've been through a lot as a city over the past few months. But it's not just here in New York. It's a conversation we're having across the country. I think we need to see it through that lens. We are making progress, reduction in stops or example. We will continue the work. Playing the long game, and am confident we are going in the right direction.

Q: There's a petition circulating suggesting that you resign.

A: I understand that in the middle of an act of senseless violence, humannature causes us to look for someone to blame – some way to make sense of it all. But I don't think injecting politics into the middle of tragedy is the way forward. I am confident this Administration has the confidence and support of the people of NYC.

Q: The killer said that this was an act of retribution for Garner. Doesn't that make it political right there? Isn't that exactly what people were protesting in New York – the people you spoke to and defended.

A: This was a deranged individual with a history of violence...a gang-member from Baltimore who allegedly shot his ex-girlfriend there before coming to New York to continue his unspeakable acts. Just because he cloaked his act of violence in the words of non-violent protestors does not mean he speaks for those peaceful protesters any more than Timothy McVeigh spoke for those who advocate for smaller government. This was an act of evil, pure and simple.

Q: Are you worried about copy-cats – like the attempted shooting in the Bronx? Should New Yorkers expect this to continue?

A: The people of New York should know that they are safe; that their city and their police force are here to protect them; and that we will work together to ensure that the violence ends. We will double-down on the extraordinary work the NYPD is already doing, and we will stamp out the violence. And we will have our cops' backs.

Q: But aren't cops going to be afraid to go to work now?

A: Anyone who says that underestimates the courage and valor of our police officer here in New York. These men and women put their lives on the line every day, and they aren't going to be deterred from doing their jobs. They don't intimidate easy; they act heroically, and will continue to do so.

Q: There are those who've suggested that your own police security detail should ease up on protecting you. Did you take that as a threat?

A: New York City police officers have been protecting me and my family for decades – including the years before I ever entered public life. They protected me as a resident of

New York City – just like they protect millions of families like mine every day. I know these men and women, they are professionals who take their duty seriously and I have immense respect for the job they do.

One-Liners

"If people want to use a solemn occasion like a funeral to make a political statement, that's on them, you need to ask them why they chose to do it."

"Some cops may have turned their backs on me, but I will never turn my backs on the cops nor the people they serve. Anyone else who tells you otherwise isn't being honest."

"I know being Mayor is a tough job, I signed up for it. But. I know our cops have a tougher job and they signed up for it too. Don't let anyone tell you I don't get that."

"Don't take my word for it, look at what we've done together. Crime is lower, we dramatically reduced stop-and-frisk together and we've made big investments in our cops. Let's drop the rhetoric here and talk about the great things we've done together."

"After the Eric Garner I said black lives matter, and I won't take that back. But don't let anyone tell you I don't believe that blue lives matter. You bet they do and we know that our cops are partners in of the new relationship we're forging with the people we in city government all serve."

From: Ragone, Peter
Sent: Sunday, January 04, 2015 06:21 PM
To: Hagelgans, Andrea; Walzak, Phil; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic; Richardson, Jerika; Wolfe, Emma; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Pls edits

What's new? PW needs to weigh in on this before we talk to Mayor.

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
Sent: Sunday, January 04, 2015 06:16 PM
To: Walzak, Phil; Ragone, Peter; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic; Richardson, Jerika; Wolfe, Emma; John Del Cecato (jfdc@akpdmedia.com) <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Pls edits

I have tried to punch up the language per his request. Pls edit quickly

Message Strategy

- <!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Focus on what matters – Protect and Respect
 - <!--[if !supportLists]-->○ <!--[endif]-->Keeping crime low
 - <!--[if !supportLists]-->○ <!--[endif]-->Bringing police and community closer together – because its good for both police AND community
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Reaffirm confidence in and support in NYPD and its leadership
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Use emotions strategically --- to draw the line and make clear work stoppages are unacceptable and will not be tolerated. New Yorkers expect that their police force is working and those who choose not to do their job can find another line of work.

Topline Themes Likely to Guide Every Question

- <!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Emotions: How did it make you feel when backs were turned? Is there anything you regret saying [ie, Dante comparison]? Were you surprised at the reaction?
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Apologies: Should you apologize to the NYPD? Should Lynch and others apologize to you?
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Cause and Effect: Do you believe your comments and actions have caused this escalation?
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Forward-looking: How do you and the City move forward? Now that you've met with the unions, what's next? How do you respond to claims that the first meeting was non-productive and what does that mean for future talks?

SAMPLE Q+A

Q: Should you apologize like some in the media have said? Should Lynch and others apologize to you?

A: Look, this isn't about how I feel. My focus is on keeping our City safe, keeping crime numbers low and bringing police and community together.

Q: Some in the NYPD have said comments about Dante in particular needing to take special care w police were offensive to them. What did you mean and do you regret those remarks?

<!--[if !supportLists]-->A. <!--[endif]-->

Our police officers do a dangerous and essential, but often thankless job. And striking the right balance between rigorously protecting public safety and respecting individuals is part of what makes the job so challenging. It must be done with extraordinary care and restraint. In turn, our police deserve our gratitude and our respect.

It is also true that at times, people of color have felt suspect simply because of how they look. That sense of distrust doesn't make policing any easier. It makes it more difficult.

The question we must ask ourselves is this: how do we keep EVERY New Yorker safe – whether they wear a suit and tie, a uniform, or a hoodie; whether they were the targets of stop and frisk policing, subjects of ugly, hate-filled taunts or despicable violent protests; or victims of a deranged individual who shamefully uses peaceful protests as a cover for his acts of unthinkable evil.

Q: Is there a police work slowdown happening right now, and if so what are you and the PC going to do to end it?

<!--[if !supportLists]-->A. <!--[endif]-->We know that typically after a police officer is killed there is a brief period of mourning. As Commissioner Bratton put it, a time for grieving. But let me be clear—New Yorkers will not tolerate any perceived slow down, the police Commissioner won't and I certainly won't. New Yorkers expect officers to do their job and to do it well. Those who can't should consider a new line of work. And for those few who are deliberately stopping/slowing or encouraging others to abdicate their responsibilities, there very well may be legal consequences.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->Q. <!--[endif]-->Are you exploring legal options?

<!--[if !supportLists]-->A. <!--[endif]-->I expect our cops to do their jobs and to do them admirably. And the NYPD is the finest in the country. If we perceive a slowdown, we will look at all options to keep New Yorkers safe.

Q: Next mtg with Lynch and the unions? What are next steps in that relationship? How do you repair and move forward?

Q: Reaction to those protestors who say and chant vile hateful things about the NYPD?

Q: Do you have any arrest updates on last month's assaults on police officers during a protest rally on the Brooklyn Bridge?

A: Last week, the NYPD arrested and charged a fifth suspect, 29 year-old Jarrod

Shanahan in connection with the Brooklyn Bridge assault. Shanahan faces multiple charges, including assault on a police officer, resisting arrest, and obstructing governmental administration. Rest assured the Department with the full support of City Hall is doing everything in its power to ensure the perpetrators are apprehended, held to account for their actions. That said, the Commissioner and his chiefs can provide you with more details on this specific arrest.

Q: This year police officer shooting deaths increased 56%. Given the current climate and the rise in death threats from anti-police extremists, what are you doing to protect the City's police officers? Is your rhetoric at all responsible for this climate?

A: No, this was the act of a deranged individual, pure and simple.

We've put safety first in this administration by increasing police resources, expanding camera use in all five boroughs, and maintaining force levels. Since the tragic shootings of Officer Ramos and Officer Liu, we've doubled down and now have officers on foot patrols working in pairs and uniformed sentries now guard each precinct station house. The NYPD is actively monitoring social media and investigating any threats against police officers that come through that or any other medium. And I'd like to continue to urge the public to be vigilant and report any suspicious activity they see or hear. We must work together to prevent a tragedy like this from ever happening again.

Q: On Friday, the Commissioner issued a memo to the entire Department outlining his expectations for how members of the Department should behave at Officer Liu's funeral. Were you aware of the memo? Did he do this at your request?

A: The Commissioner has been a law enforcement leader for decades. He is a smart, independent, and principled public servant. While I do agree with the tenor of his statement and believe that funerals, especially one's where we are honoring one of our City's fallen, are solemn occasions that should be devoid of politics, the Commissioner certainly doesn't need any micro-managing for me. I respect his judgment, and I leave it to his discretion as to what he should and shouldn't say to his officers.

Q: Officer Liu was laid to rest this past weekend. What do you say to those who reacted negatively to your involvement in the funeral?

A: Officer Liu was an example of the best of what this City has to offer. And words can't express how profoundly his tragic death has impacted all of us. We lost a dedicated public servant who answered the call to protect and serve this great city, and Officer Liu deserves our gratitude and respect. This was not about politics, it was about taking the time to honor his memory and support his family.

Q: What about the cops who turned their backs on you? How did you take that?

A: It was the actions of a few – I certainly heard from New Yorkers who were upset to see some who would choose to politicize funerals in direct contrast to the families request. My focus is on how we make sure this City is safe, continue to the low-crime rates, honor the memories of the two men we've lost; protect our officers from future acts; and begin to heal our city.

Q: How do you respond to those who turned their backs or who made statements, such as you have "blood on your hands?"

A: Short answer – No, I do not believe that nor do I think the majority of New Yorkers believe that. That's the kind of divisive politics that does nothing to move this City forward.,

If people want to politicize someone's funeral, that's on them and you can ask them what they think of that. I've got a job to do as Mayor. We've kept crime low and we're remaking the relationship between police and community. No number of baseless attacks are going to stop us from getting their together.

Q: Earlier this morning a hearing was held in Staten Island to review petition requests seeking transcripts, instructions and evidence from the grand jury that investigated the death of Eric Garner but decided not to indict the police officer involved in his chokehold death in July. Do you believe those transcripts should be unsealed?

A: For many people there are obviously a lot of unanswered questions. The death of Eric Garner was an unspeakable tragedy. I understand their desire for more information and transparency. But, I'm not going to weigh in on what should ultimately happen with the transcripts. That is for a judge to decide, and I believe it is important to allow the judicial process to play out as it ultimately will.

Q: Some say they haven't seen police-community relations this bad since the David Dinkins era.

A: We've been through a lot as a city over the past few months. But it's not just here in

New York. It's a conversation we're having across the country. I think we need to see it through that lens. We are making progress, reduction in stops or example. We will continue the work. Playing the long game, and am confident we are going in the right direction.

Q: There's a petition circulating suggesting that you resign.

A: I understand that in the middle of an act of senseless violence, humannature causes us to look for someone to blame – some way to make sense of it all. But I don't think injecting politics into the middle of tragedy is the way forward. I am confident this Administration has the confidence and support of the people of NYC.

Q: The killer said that this was an act of retribution for Garner. Doesn't that make it political right there? Isn't that exactly what people were protesting in New York – the people you spoke to and defended.

A: This was a deranged individual with a history of violence...a gang-member from Baltimore who allegedly shot his ex-girlfriend there before coming to New York to continue his unspeakable acts. Just because he cloaked his act of violence in the words of non-violent protestors does not mean he speaks for those peaceful protesters any more than Timothy McVeigh spoke for those who advocate for smaller government. This was an act of evil, pure and simple.

Q: Are you worried about copy-cats – like the attempted shooting in the Bronx? Should New Yorkers expect this to continue?

A: The people of New York should know that they are safe; that their city and their police force are here to protect them; and that we will work together to ensure that the violence ends. We will double-down on the extraordinary work the NYPD is already doing, and we will stamp out the violence. And we will have our cops' backs.

Q: But aren't cops going to be afraid to go to work now?

A: Anyone who says that underestimates the courage and valor of our police officer here in New York. These men and women put their lives on the line every day, and they aren't going to be deterred from doing their jobs. They don't intimidate easy; they act heroically, and will continue to do so.

Q: There are those who've suggested that your own police security detail should ease up on protecting you. Did you take that as a threat?

A: New York City police officers have been protecting me and my family for decades – including the years before I ever entered public life. They protected me as a resident of New York City – just like they protect millions of families like mine every day. I know these men and women, they are professionals who take their duty seriously and I have immense respect for the job they do.

One-Liners

"If people want to use a solemn occasion like a funeral to make a political statement, that's on them, you need to ask them why they chose to do it."

"Some cops may have turned their backs on me, but I will never turn my backs on the cops nor the people they serve. Anyone else who tells you otherwise isn't being honest."

"I know being Mayor is a tough job, I signed up for it. But. I know our cops have a tougher job and they signed up for it too. Don't let anyone tell you I don't get that."

"Don't take my word for it, look at what we've done together. Crime is lower, we dramatically reduced stop-and-frisk together and we've made big investments in our cops. Let's drop the rhetoric here and talk about the great things we've done together."

"After the Eric Garner I said black lives matter, and I won't take that back. But don't let anyone tell you I don't believe that blue lives matter. You bet they do and we know that our cops are partners in of the new relationship we're forging with the people we in city government all serve."

Andrea Hagelgans
Office of the Mayor
Direct – 212.341.5372
Cell – 718.679.8965

ahagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Walzak, Phil
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Ragone, Peter; Hagelgans, Andrea; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic; Richardson, Jerika; Wolfe, Emma
Subject: Re: edited
Date: Sunday, January 04, 2015 7:01:15 PM

Shorris had stronger language that I inserted

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Sunday, January 04, 2015 06:59 PM
To: Walzak, Phil; Ragone, Peter; Hagelgans, Andrea; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic; Richardson, Jerika; Wolfe, Emma
Subject: Re: edited

This part could be stronger:

A. We know that typically after a police officer is killed there is a brief period of mourning. As Commissioner Bratton put it, a time for grieving. But let me be clear—New Yorkers will not tolerate any perceived slow down, the police Commissioner won't and I certainly won't. New Yorkers expect officers to do their job and to do it well. Those who can't should consider a new line of work. And for those few who are deliberately stopping/slowing or encouraging others to abdicate their responsibilities, there very well may be legal consequences.

On Dinkins era - let's compare the crime rate now to the crime rate then - 'nuff said.

On reaction to turning backs - hijacked a funeral that was meant to honor a fallen officer, and those who did so brought disgrace to the NYPD and to the family of those lost. For that, they should be ashamed of themselves.

On resignation, I would suggest that those who believe they cannot serve under a policy of Protect & Respect should be the ones to find a new line of work, because they are terribly out of step with what the people of New York - the people they work for - believe...

From: <Walzak>, Phil <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Sunday, January 4, 2015 at 6:34 PM
To: "Ragone, Peter" <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Hagelgans, Andrea"

<AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Anthony Shorris <AShorris@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Williams, Dominic" <DWilliams@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Richardson, Jerika" <JLRichardson@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Wolfe, Emma" <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>

Subject: Re: edited

Message Strategy

+Focus on what matters – Protect and Respect

- o Keeping crime low
- o Bringing police and community closer together – because its good for both police AND community

+Reaffirm confidence in and support in NYPD and its leadership

+Firmly reject the outrageous union acts and charges - 'blood on hands'. Turned backs. Work slowdowns. But in a sober, responsible way that showcases leadership.

+Control emotions. Not abt mayor or individuals. Mind the tone.

Topline Themes Likely to Guide Every Question

- Emotions: How did it make you feel when backs were turned? Is there anything you regret saying [ie, Dante comparison]? Were you surprised at the reaction?
- Apologies: Should you apologize to the NYPD? Should Lynch and others apologize to you?
- Cause and Effect: Do you believe your comments and actions have caused this escalation?
- Forward-looking: How do you and the City move forward? Now that you've met with the unions, what's next? How do you respond to claims that the first meeting was non-productive and what does that mean for future talks?

SAMPLE Q+A

Q: Should you apologize like some in the media have said? Should Lynch and others apologize to you?

A: Look, this isn't about how I feel. My focus is on keeping our City safe, keeping crime numbers low and bringing police and community together.

Q: Some in the NYPD have said comments about Dante in particular needing to take special care w police were offensive to them. What did you mean and do you regret those remarks?

A.

Our police officers do a dangerous and essential, but often thankless job. And striking the right balance between rigorously protecting public safety and respecting individuals is part of what makes the job so challenging. It must be done with extraordinary care and restraint. In turn, our police deserve our gratitude and our respect.

It is also true that at times, people of color have felt suspect simply because of how they look. That's reality. That sense of distrust doesn't make policing any easier. It makes it more difficult.

The question we must ask ourselves is this: how do we keep EVERY New Yorker safe – whether they wear a suit and tie, a uniform, or a hoodie; whether they were the targets of stop and frisk policing, subjects of ugly, hate-filled taunts or despicable violent protests; or victims of a deranged individual who shamefully uses peaceful protests as a cover for his acts of unthinkable evil.

Q: Is there a police work slowdown happening right now, and if so what are you and the PC going to do to end it?

A. We know that typically after a police officer is killed there is a brief period of mourning. As Commissioner Bratton put it, a time for grieving. But let me be clear—New Yorkers will not tolerate any perceived slow down, the police Commissioner won't and I certainly won't. New Yorkers expect officers to do their job and to do it well. Those who can't should consider a new line of work. And for those few who are deliberately stopping/slowing or encouraging others to abdicate their responsibilities, there very well may be legal consequences.

Q. Are you exploring legal options?

A. I expect our cops to do their jobs and to do them admirably. And the NYPD is the finest in the country. If we perceive a slowdown, we will look at all options to keep New Yorkers safe.

-or-

A: People must do their jobs. Period. Individual officers who fail to carry out their duties will be subject to departmental sanctions as they would for any other violation of their responsibilities.

- If we see widespread failure by officers to discharge their duties, the City has legal tools at its disposal that we will use against them and against any individual or organization that fails to discourage such behavior.

If asked further about such tools...

- These tools include the invocation of the Taylor Law, prohibiting labor actions by public workers, and the imposition of sanctions against them and their representatives.

Q: Next mtg with Lynch and the unions? What are next steps in that relationship? How do you repair and move forward?

Q: Reaction to those protestors who say and chant vile hateful things about the NYPD?

Q: Do you have any arrest updates on last month's assaults on police officers during a protest rally on the Brooklyn Bridge?

A: Last week, the NYPD arrested and charged a fifth suspect, 29 year-old Jarrod Shanahan in connection with the Brooklyn Bridge assault. Shanahan faces multiple charges, including assault on a police officer, resisting arrest, and obstructing governmental administration. Rest assured the Department with the full support of City Hall is doing everything in its power to ensure the perpetrators are apprehended held to account for their actions. That said, the Commissioner and his chiefs can provide you with more details on this specific arrest.

Q: This year police officer shooting deaths increased 56%. Given the current climate and the rise in death threats from anti-police extremists, what are you doing to protect the City's police officers? Is your rhetoric at all responsible for this climate?

A: No, this was the act of a deranged individual, pure and simple.

We've put safety first in this administration by increasing police resources, expanding camera use in all five boroughs, and maintaining force levels. Since the tragic shootings of Officer Ramos and Officer Liu, we've doubled down and now have officers on foot patrols working in pairs and uniformed sentries now guard each precinct station house. The NYPD is actively monitoring social media and investigating any threats against police officers that come through that or any other medium. And I'd like to continue to urge the public to be vigilant and report any suspicious activity they see or hear. We must work together to prevent a tragedy like this from ever happening again.

Q: On Friday, the Commissioner issued a memo to the entire Department outlining his expectations for how members of the Department should behave at Officer Liu's funeral. Were you aware of the memo? Did he do this at your request?

A: The Commissioner has been a law enforcement leader for decades. He is a smart, independent, and principled public servant. While I do agree with the tenor of his statement and believe that funerals, especially one's where we are honoring one of our City's fallen, are solemn occasions that should be devoid of politics, the Commissioner certainly doesn't need any micro-managing for me. I respect his judgment, and I leave it to his discretion as to what he should and shouldn't say to his officers.

Q: What is your reaction to officers who turned their back in spite of Bratton?

Q: Officer Liu was laid to rest this past weekend. What do you say to those who reacted negatively to your involvement in the funeral?

A: Officer Liu was an example of the best of what this City has to offer. And words can't express how profoundly his tragic death has impacted all of us. We lost a dedicated public servant who answered the call to protect and serve this great city, and Officer Liu deserves our gratitude and respect. This was not about politics, it was about taking the time to honor his memory and support his family.

Q: What about the cops who turned their backs on you? How did you take that?

A: It was the actions of a few – I certainly heard from New Yorkers who were upset to see some who would choose to politicize funerals in direct contrast to the families request. My focus is on how we make sure this City is safe, continue to the low-crime rates, honor the memories of the two men we've lost; protect our officers from future acts; and begin to heal our city.

Q: How do you respond to those who turned their backs or who made statements, such as you have "blood on your hands?"

A: Short answer – No, I do not believe that nor do I think the majority of New Yorkers believe that. That's the kind of divisive politics that does nothing to move this City forward.,

If people want to politicize someone's funeral, that's on them and you can ask them what they think of that. I've got a job to do as Mayor. We've kept crime low and we're remaking the relationship between police and community. No number of baseless attacks are going to stop us from getting their together.

Q: Earlier this morning a hearing was held in Staten Island to review petition requests seeking transcripts, instructions and evidence from the grand jury that investigated the death of Eric Garner but decided not to indict the police officer involved in his chokehold death in July. Do you believe those transcripts should be unsealed?

A: For many people there are obviously a lot of unanswered questions. The death of Eric Garner was an unspeakable tragedy. I understand their desire for more information and transparency. But, I'm not going to weigh in on what should ultimately happen with the transcripts. That is for a judge to decide, and I believe it is important to allow the judicial process to play out as it ultimately will.

Q: Some say they haven't seen police-community relations this bad since the David Dinkins era.

A: We've been through a lot as a city over the past few months. But it's not just here in New York. It's a conversation we're having across the country. I think we need to see it through that lens. We are making progress, reduction in stops or example. We will continue the work. Playing the long game, and am confident we are going in the right direction.

Q: There's a petition circulating suggesting that you resign.

A: I understand that in the middle of an act of senseless violence, humannature causes us to look for someone to blame – some way to make sense of it all. But I don't think injecting politics into the middle of tragedy is the way forward. I am confident this Administration has the confidence and support of the people of NYC.

Q: The killer said that this was an act of retribution for Garner. Doesn't that make it political right there? Isn't that exactly what people were protesting in New York – the people you spoke to and defended.

A: This was a deranged individual with a history of violence...a gang-member from Baltimore who allegedly shot his ex-girlfriend there before coming to New York to continue his unspeakable acts. Just because he cloaked his act of violence in the words of non-violent protestors does not mean he speaks for those peaceful protestors any more than Timothy McVeigh spoke for those who advocate for smaller government. This was an act of evil, pure and simple.

Q: Are you worried about copy-cats – like the attempted shooting in the Bronx? Should New Yorkers expect this to continue?

A: The people of New York should know that they are safe; that their city and their police force are here to protect them; and that we will work together to ensure that the violence ends. We will double-down on the extraordinary work the NYPD is already doing, and we will stamp out the violence. And we will have our cops' backs.

Q: But aren't cops going to be afraid to go to work now?

A: Anyone who says that underestimates the courage and valor of our police officer here in New York. These men and women put their lives on the line every day, and they aren't going to be deterred from doing their jobs. They don't intimidate easy; they act heroically, and will continue to do so.

Q: There are those who've suggested that your own police security detail should ease up on protecting you. Did you take that as a threat?

A: New York City police officers have been protecting me and my family for decades –including the years before I ever entered public life. They protected me as a resident of New York City – just like they protect millions of families like mine every day. I know these men and women, they are professionals who take their duty seriously and I have immense respect for the job they do.

One-Liners

"If people want to use a solemn occasion like a funeral to make a political statement, that's on them, you need to ask them why they chose to do it."

"Some cops may have turned their backs on me, but I will never turn my backs on the cops nor the people they serve. Anyone else who tells you otherwise isn't being honest."

"I know being Mayor is a tough job, I signed up for it. But. I know our cops have a tougher job and they signed up for it too. Don't let anyone tell you I don't get that."

"Don't take my word for it, look at what we've done together. Crime is lower, we dramatically reduced stop-and-frisk together and we've made big investments in our cops. Let's drop the rhetoric here and talk about the great things we've done together."

"After the Eric Garner I said black lives matter, and I won't take that back. But don't let anyone tell you I don't believe that blue lives matter. You bet they do and we know that our cops are partners in of the new relationship we're forging with the people we in city government all serve."

From: Ragone, Peter
Sent: Sunday, January 04, 2015 06:21 PM
To: Hagelgans, Andrea; Walzak, Phil; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic; Richardson, Jerika; Wolfe, Emma; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Pls edits

What's new? PW needs to weigh in on this before we talk to Mayor.

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
Sent: Sunday, January 04, 2015 06:16 PM
To: Walzak, Phil; Ragone, Peter; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic; Richardson, Jerika; Wolfe, Emma; John Del Cecato (jfdc@akpdmedia.com) <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Pls edits

I have tried to punch up the language per his request. Pls edit quickly

Message Strategy

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Focus on what matters – Protect and Respect
<!--[if !supportLists]-->○ <!--[endif]-->Keeping crime low
<!--[if !supportLists]-->○ <!--[endif]-->Bringing police and community closer together –
because its good for both police AND community

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Reaffirm confidence in and support in NYPD and its leadership
<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Use emotions strategically --- to draw the line and make clear work stoppages are unacceptable and will not be tolerated. New Yorkers expect that their police force is working and those who choose not to do their job can find another line
of work.

Topline Themes Likely to Guide Every Question

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Emotions: How did it make you feel when backs were turned? Is there anything you regret saying [ie, Dante comparison]? Were you surprised at the reaction?

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Apologies: Should you apologize to the NYPD? Should Lynch and others apologize to you?

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Cause and Effect: Do you believe your comments and actions have caused this escalation?

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Forward-looking: How do you and the City move forward? Now that you've met with the unions, what's next? How do you respond to claims that the first meeting was non-productive and what does that mean for future talks?

SAMPLE Q+A

Q: Should you apologize like some in the media have said? Should Lynch and others apologize to you?

A: Look, this isn't about how I feel. My focus is on keeping our City safe, keeping crime numbers low and bringing police and community together.

Q: Some in the NYPD have said comments about Dante in particular needing to take special care w police were offensive to them. What did you mean and do you regret those remarks?

<!--[if !supportLists]-->A. <!--[endif]-->

Our police officers do a dangerous and essential, but often thankless job. And striking the right balance between rigorously protecting public safety and respecting individuals is part of what makes the job so challenging. It must be done with extraordinary care and restraint. In turn, our police deserve our gratitude and our respect.

It is also true that at times, people of color have felt suspect simply because of how they look. That sense of distrust doesn't make policing any easier. It makes it more difficult.

The question we must ask ourselves is this: how do we keep EVERY New Yorker safe – whether they wear a suit and tie, a uniform, or a hoodie; whether they were the targets of stop and frisk policing, subjects of ugly, hate-filled taunts or despicable violent protests; or victims of a deranged individual who shamefully uses peaceful protests as a cover for his acts of unthinkable evil.

Q: Is there a police work slowdown happening right now, and if so what are you and the PC going to do to end it?

<!--[if !supportLists]-->A. <!--[endif]-->We know that typically after a police officer is killed there is a brief period of mourning. As Commissioner Bratton put it, a time for grieving. But let me be clear—New Yorkers will not tolerate any perceived slow down, the police Commissioner won't and I certainly won't. New Yorkers expect officers to do their job and to do it well. Those who can't should consider a new line of work. And for those few who are deliberately stopping/slowing or encouraging others to abdicate their responsibilities, there very well may be legal consequences.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->Q. <!--[endif]-->Are you exploring legal options?

<!--[if !supportLists]-->A. <!--[endif]-->I expect our cops to do their jobs and to do them admirably. And the NYPD is the finest in the country. If we perceive a slowdown, we will look at all options to keep New Yorkers safe.

Q: Next mtg with Lynch and the unions? What are next steps in that relationship? How do you repair and move forward?

Q: Reaction to those protestors who say and chant vile hateful things about the NYPD?

Q: Do you have any arrest updates on last month's assaults on police officers during a protest rally on the Brooklyn Bridge?

A: Last week, the NYPD arrested and charged a fifth suspect, 29 year-old Jarrod Shanahan in connection with the Brooklyn Bridge assault. Shanahan faces multiple charges, including assault on a police officer, resisting arrest, and obstructing governmental administration. Rest assured the Department with the full support of City Hall is doing everything in its power to ensure the perpetrators are apprehended held to account for their actions. That said, the Commissioner and his chiefs can provide you with more details on this specific arrest.

Q: This year police officer shooting deaths increased 56%. Given the current climate and the rise in death threats from anti-police extremists, what are you doing to protect the City's police officers? Is your rhetoric at all responsible for this climate?

A: No, this was the act of a deranged individual, pure and simple.

We've put safety first in this administration by increasing police resources, expanding camera use in all five boroughs, and maintaining force levels. Since the tragic shootings of Officer Ramos and Officer Liu, we've doubled down and now have officers on foot patrols working in pairs and uniformed sentries now guard each precinct station house. The NYPD is actively monitoring social media and investigating any threats against police officers that come through that or any other medium. And I'd like to continue to urge the public to be vigilant and report any suspicious activity they see or hear. We must work together to prevent a tragedy like this from ever happening again.

Q: On Friday, the Commissioner issued a memo to the entire Department outlining his expectations for how members of the Department should behave at Officer Liu's funeral. Where you aware of the memo? Did he do this at your request?

A: The Commissioner has been a law enforcement leader for decades. He is a smart, independent, and principled public servant. While I do agree with the tenor of his statement and believe that funerals, especially one's where we are honoring one of our City's fallen, are solemn occasions that should be devoid of politics, the Commissioner certainly doesn't need any micro-managing for me. I respect his judgment, and I leave it to his discretion as to what he should and shouldn't say to his officers.

Q: Officer Liu was laid to rest this past weekend. What do you say to those who reacted negatively to your involvement in the funeral?

A: Officer Liu was an example of the best of what this City has to offer. And words can't express how profoundly his tragic death has impacted all of us. We lost a dedicated public servant who answered the call to protect and serve this great city, and Officer Liu deserves our gratitude and respect. This was not about politics, it was about taking the time to honor his memory and support his family.

Q: What about the cops who turned their backs on you? How did you take that?

A: It was the actions of a few – I certainly heard from New Yorkers who were upset to see some who would choose to politicize funerals in direct contrast to the families request. My focus is on how we make sure this City is safe, continue to the low-crime rates, honor the memories of the two men we've lost; protect our officers from future acts; and begin to heal our city.

Q: How do you respond to those who turned their backs or who made statements, such as you have "blood on your hands?"

A: Short answer – No, I do not believe that nor do I think the majority of New Yorkers believe that. That's the kind of divisive politics that does nothing to move this City forward.,

If people want to politicize someone's funeral, that's on them and you can ask them what they think of that. I've got a job to do as Mayor. We've kept crime low and we're remaking the relationship between police and community. No number of baseless attacks are going to stop us from getting their together.

Q: Earlier this morning a hearing was held in Staten Island to review petition requests seeking transcripts, instructions and evidence from the grand jury that investigated the death of Eric Garner but decided not to indict the police officer involved in his chokehold death in July. Do you believe those transcripts should be unsealed?

A: For many people there are obviously a lot of unanswered questions. The death of Eric Garner was an unspeakable tragedy. I understand their desire for more information and transparency. But, I'm not going to weigh in on what should ultimately happen with the transcripts. That is for a judge to decide, and I believe it is important to allow the judicial process to play out as it ultimately will.

Q: Some say they haven't seen police-community relations this bad since the David Dinkins era.

A: We've been through a lot as a city over the past few months. But it's not just here in New York. It's a conversation we're having across the country. I think we need to see it through that lens. We are making progress, reduction in stops or example. We will continue the work. Playing the long game, and am confident we are going in the right direction.

Q: There's a petition circulating suggesting that you resign.

A: I understand that in the middle of an act of senseless violence, humannature causes us to look for someone to blame – some way to make sense of it all. But I don't think injecting politics into the middle of tragedy is the way forward. I am confident this Administration has the confidence and support of the people of NYC.

Q: The killer said that this was an act of retribution for Garner. Doesn't that make it political right there? Isn't that exactly what people were protesting in New York – the people you spoke to and defended.

A: This was a deranged individual with a history of violence...a gang-member from Baltimore who allegedly shot his ex-girlfriend there before coming to New York to continue his unspeakable acts. Just because he cloaked his act of violence in the words of non-violent protestors does not mean he speaks for those peaceful protestors any more than Timothy McVeigh spoke for those who advocate for smaller government. This was an act of evil, pure and simple.

Q: Are you worried about copy-cats – like the attempted shooting in the Bronx? Should New Yorkers expect this to continue?

A: The people of New York should know that they are safe; that their city and their police force are here to protect them; and that we will work together to ensure that the violence ends. We will double-down on the extraordinary work the NYPD is already doing, and we will stamp out the violence. And we will have our cops' backs.

Q: But aren't cops going to be afraid to go to work now?

A: Anyone who says that underestimates the courage and valor of our police officer here in New York. These men and women put their lives on the line every day, and they aren't going to be deterred from doing their jobs. They don't intimidate easy; they act heroically, and will continue to do so.

Q: There are those who've suggested that your own police security detail should ease up on protecting you. Did you take that as a threat?

A: New York City police officers have been protecting me and my family for decades –including the years before I ever entered public life. They protected me as a resident of New York City – just like they protect millions of families like mine every day. I know these men and women, they are professionals who take their duty seriously and I have immense respect for the job they do.

One-Liners

"If people want to use a solemn occasion like a funeral to make a political statement, that's on them, you need to ask them why they chose to do it."

"Some cops may have turned their backs on me, but I will never turn my backs on the cops nor the people they serve. Anyone else who tells you otherwise isn't being honest."

"I know being Mayor is a tough job, I signed up for it. But. I know our cops have a tougher job and they signed up for it too. Don't let anyone tell you I don't get that."

"Don't take my word for it, look at what we've done together. Crime is lower, we dramatically reduced stop-and-frisk together and we've made big investments in our cops. Let's drop the rhetoric here and talk about the great things we've done together."

"After the Eric Garner I said black lives matter, and I won't take that back. But don't let anyone tell you I don't believe that blue lives matter. You bet they do and we know that our cops are partners in of the new relationship we're forging with the people we in city government all serve."

Andrea Hagelgans
Office of the Mayor
Direct – 212.341.5372
Cell – 718.679.8965
ahagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: John Del Cecato
To: Walzak, Phil; Ragone, Peter; Hagelgans, Andrea; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic; Richardson, Jerika; Wolfe, Emma
Subject: Re: edited
Date: Sunday, January 04, 2015 7:02:08 PM

Also - I think we lead the Dante question with a firm "NO."

Also, the gang member thing. Pretty sure that ended up being untrue — Times yesterday basically said he was an outcast constantly looking for attention on social media, and his rap sheet was for bizarre and mostly petty crimes.

Also, that "petition" probably ended up being the same 12 white dudes from Texas signing 500,000 times, so doubt it'd come up at this point.

From: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Date: Sunday, January 4, 2015 at 6:59 PM
To: "Walzak, Phil" <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Ragone, Peter" <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Hagelgans, Andrea" <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Anthony Shorris <AShorris@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Williams, Dominic" <DWilliams@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Richardson, Jerika" <JLRichardson@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Wolfe, Emma" <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: edited

This part could be stronger:

A. We know that typically after a police officer is killed there is a brief period of mourning. As Commissioner Bratton put it, a time for grieving. But let me be clear—New Yorkers will not tolerate any perceived slow down, the police Commissioner won't and I certainly won't. New Yorkers expect officers to do their job and to do it well. Those who can't should consider a new line of work. And for those few who are deliberately stopping/slowing or encouraging others to abdicate their responsibilities, there very well may be legal consequences.

On Dinkins era - let's compare the crime rate now to the crime rate then - 'nuff said.

On reaction to turning backs - hijacked a funeral that was meant to honor a fallen officer, and those who did so brought disgrace to the NYPD and to the family of those lost. For that, they should be ashamed of themselves.

On resignation, I would suggest that those who believe they cannot serve under a policy of Protect &

Respect should be the ones to find a new line of work, because they are terribly out of step with what the people of New York - the people they work for - believe...

From: <Walzak>, Phil <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Date: Sunday, January 4, 2015 at 6:34 PM

To: "Ragone, Peter" <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Hagelgans, Andrea" <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Anthony Shorris <AShorris@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Williams, Dominic" <DWilliams@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Richardson, Jerika" <JLRichardson@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Wolfe, Emma" <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>

Subject: Re: edited

Message Strategy

+Focus on what matters – Protect and Respect

- o Keeping crime low
- o Bringing police and community closer together – because its good for both police AND community

+Reaffirm confidence in and support in NYPD and its leadership

+Firmly reject the outrageous union acts and charges - 'blood on hands'. Turned backs. Work slowdowns. But in a sober, responsible way that showcases leadership.

+Control emotions. Not abt mayor or individuals. Mind the tone.

Topline Themes Likely to Guide Every Question

- Emotions: How did it make you feel when backs were turned? Is there anything you regret saying [ie, Dante comparison]? Were you surprised at the reaction?
- Apologies: Should you apologize to the NYPD? Should Lynch and others apologize to you?
- Cause and Effect: Do you believe your comments and actions have caused this escalation?
- Forward-looking: How do you and the City move forward? Now that you've met with the unions, what's next? How do you respond to claims that the first meeting was non-productive and what does that mean for future talks?

SAMPLE Q+A

Q: Should you apologize like some in the media have said? Should Lynch and others apologize to you?

A: Look, this isn't about how I feel. My focus is on keeping our City safe, keeping crime numbers low and bringing police and community together.

Q: Some in the NYPD have said comments about Dante in particular needing to take special care w police were offensive to them. What did you mean and do you regret those remarks?

A.

Our police officers do a dangerous and essential, but often thankless job. And striking the right balance between rigorously protecting public safety and respecting individuals is part of what makes the job so challenging. It must be done with extraordinary care and restraint. In turn, our police deserve our gratitude and our respect.

It is also true that at times, people of color have felt suspect simply because of how they look. That's reality. That sense of distrust doesn't make policing any easier. It makes it more difficult.

The question we must ask ourselves is this: how do we keep EVERY New Yorker safe – whether they wear a suit and tie, a uniform, or a hoodie; whether they were the targets of stop and frisk policing, subjects of ugly, hate-filled taunts or despicable violent protests; or victims of a deranged individual who shamefully uses peaceful protests as a cover for his acts of unthinkable evil.

Q: Is there a police work slowdown happening right now, and if so what are you and the PC going to do to end it?

A. We know that typically after a police officer is killed there is a brief period of mourning. As Commissioner Bratton put it, a time for grieving. But let me be clear—New Yorkers will not tolerate any perceived slow down, the police Commissioner won't and I certainly won't. New Yorkers expect officers to do their job and to do it well. Those who can't should consider a new line of work. And for those few who are deliberately stopping/slowing or encouraging others to abdicate their responsibilities, there very well may be legal consequences.

Q. Are you exploring legal options?

A. I expect our cops to do their jobs and to do them admirably. And the NYPD is the finest in the country. If we perceive a slowdown, we will look at all options to keep New Yorkers safe.

-or-

A: People must do their jobs. Period. Individual officers who fail to carry out their duties will be subject to departmental sanctions as they would for any other violation of their responsibilities.

- If we see widespread failure by officers to discharge their duties, the City has legal tools at its disposal that we will use against them and against any individual or organization that fails to discourage such behavior.

If asked further about such tools...

- These tools include the invocation of the Taylor Law, prohibiting labor actions by public workers, and the imposition of sanctions against them and their representatives.

Q: Next mtg with Lynch and the unions? What are next steps in that relationship? How do you repair and move forward?

Q: Reaction to those protestors who say and chant vile hateful things about the NYPD?

Q: Do you have any arrest updates on last month's assaults on police officers during a protest rally on the Brooklyn Bridge?

A: Last week, the NYPD arrested and charged a fifth suspect, 29 year-old Jarrod Shanahan in connection with the Brooklyn Bridge assault. Shanahan faces multiple charges, including assault on a police officer, resisting arrest, and obstructing governmental administration. Rest assured the Department with the full support of City Hall is doing everything in its power to ensure the perpetrators are apprehended held to account for their actions. That said, the Commissioner and his chiefs can provide you with more details on this specific arrest.

Q: This year police officer shooting deaths increased 56%. Given the current climate and the rise in death threats from anti-police extremists, what are you doing to protect the City's police officers? Is your rhetoric at all responsible for this climate?

A: No, this was the act of a deranged individual, pure and simple.

We've put safety first in this administration by increasing police resources, expanding camera use in all five boroughs, and maintaining force levels. Since the tragic shootings of Officer Ramos and Officer Liu, we've doubled down and now have officers on foot patrols working in pairs and uniformed sentries now guard each precinct station house. The NYPD is actively monitoring social media and investigating any threats against police officers that come through that or any other medium. And I'd like to continue to urge the public to be vigilant and report any suspicious activity they see or hear. We must work together to prevent a tragedy like this from ever happening again.

Q: On Friday, the Commissioner issued a memo to the entire Department outlining his expectations for how members of the Department should behave at Officer Liu's funeral. Were you aware of the memo? Did he do this at your request?

A: The Commissioner has been a law enforcement leader for decades. He is a smart, independent, and principled public servant. While I do agree with the tenor of his statement and believe that funerals, especially one's where we are honoring one of our City's fallen, are solemn occasions that should be devoid of politics, the Commissioner certainly doesn't need any micro-managing for me. I respect his judgment, and I leave it to his discretion as to what he should and shouldn't say to his officers.

Q: What is your reaction to officers who turned their back in spite of Bratton?

Q: Officer Liu was laid to rest this past weekend. What do you say to those who reacted negatively to your involvement in the funeral?

A: Officer Liu was an example of the best of what this City has to offer. And words can't express how profoundly his tragic death has impacted all of us. We lost a dedicated public servant who answered the call to protect and serve this great city, and Officer Liu deserves our gratitude and respect. This was not about politics, it was about taking the time to honor his memory and support his family.

Q: What about the cops who turned their backs on you? How did you take that?

A: It was the actions of a few – I certainly heard from New Yorkers who were upset to see some who would choose to politicize funerals in direct contrast to the families request. My focus is on how we make sure this City is safe, continue to the low-crime rates, honor the memories of the two men we've lost; protect our officers from future acts; and begin to heal our city.

Q: How do you respond to those who turned their backs or who made statements, such as you have "blood on your hands?"

A: Short answer – No, I do not believe that nor do I think the majority of New Yorkers believe that. That's the kind of divisive politics that does nothing to move this City forward.,

If people want to politicize someone's funeral, that's on them and you can ask them what they think of that. I've got a job to do as Mayor. We've kept crime low and we're remaking the relationship between police and community. No number of baseless attacks are going to stop us from getting their together.

Q: Earlier this morning a hearing was held in Staten Island to review petition requests seeking transcripts, instructions and evidence from the grand jury that investigated the death of Eric Garner but decided not to indict the police officer involved in his chokehold death in July. Do you believe those transcripts should be unsealed?

A: For many people there are obviously a lot of unanswered questions. The death of Eric Garner was an unspeakable tragedy. I understand their desire for more information and transparency. But, I'm not going to weigh in on what should ultimately happen with the transcripts. That is for a judge to decide, and I believe it is important to allow the judicial process to play out as it ultimately will.

Q: Some say they haven't seen police-community relations this bad since the David Dinkins era.

A: We've been through a lot as a city over the past few months. But it's not just here in New York. It's a conversation we're having across the country. I think we need to see it through that lens. We are making progress, reduction in stops or example. We will continue the work. Playing the long game, and am confident we are going in the right direction.

Q: There's a petition circulating suggesting that you resign.

A: I understand that in the middle of an act of senseless violence, humannature causes us to look for someone to blame – some way to make sense of it all. But I don't think injecting politics into the middle of tragedy is the way forward. I am confident this Administration has the confidence and support of the people of NYC.

Q: The killer said that this was an act of retribution for Garner. Doesn't that make it political right there? Isn't that exactly what people were protesting in New York – the people you spoke to and defended.

A: This was a deranged individual with a history of violence...a gang-member from Baltimore who allegedly shot his ex-girlfriend there before coming to New York to continue his unspeakable acts. Just because he cloaked his act of violence in the words of non-violent protestors does not mean he speaks for those peaceful protestors any more than Timothy McVeigh spoke for those who advocate for smaller government. This was an act of evil, pure and simple.

Q: Are you worried about copy-cats – like the attempted shooting in the Bronx? Should New Yorkers expect this to continue?

A: The people of New York should know that they are safe; that their city and their police force are here to protect them; and that we will work together to ensure that the violence ends. We will double-down on the extraordinary work the NYPD is already doing, and we will stamp out the violence. And we will have our cops' backs.

Q: But aren't cops going to be afraid to go to work now?

A: Anyone who says that underestimates the courage and valor of our police officer here in New York. These men and women put their lives on the line every day, and they aren't going to be deterred from doing their jobs. They don't intimidate easy; they act heroically, and will continue to do so.

Q: There are those who've suggested that your own police security detail should ease up on protecting you. Did you take that as a threat?

A: New York City police officers have been protecting me and my family for decades –including the years before I ever entered public life. They protected me as a resident of New York City – just like they protect millions of families like mine every day. I know these men and women, they are professionals who take their duty seriously and I have immense respect for the job they do.

One-Liners

"If people want to use a solemn occasion like a funeral to make a political statement, that's on them, you need to ask them why they chose to do it."

"Some cops may have turned their backs on me, but I will never turn my backs on the cops nor the people they serve. Anyone else who tells you otherwise isn't being honest."

"I know being Mayor is a tough job, I signed up for it. But. I know our cops have a tougher job and they signed up for it too. Don't let anyone tell you I don't get that."

"Don't take my word for it, look at what we've done together. Crime is lower, we dramatically reduced stop-and-frisk together and we've made big investments in our cops. Let's drop the rhetoric here and talk about the great things we've done together."

"After the Eric Garner I said black lives matter, and I won't take that back. But don't let anyone tell you I don't believe that blue lives matter. You bet they do and we know that our cops are partners in of the new relationship we're forging with the people we in city government all serve."

From: Ragone, Peter
Sent: Sunday, January 04, 2015 06:21 PM
To: Hagelgans, Andrea; Walzak, Phil; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic; Richardson, Jerika; Wolfe, Emma; jfdc@akpdmedia.com <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Pls edits

What's new? PW needs to weigh in on this before we talk to Mayor.

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
Sent: Sunday, January 04, 2015 06:16 PM
To: Walzak, Phil; Ragone, Peter; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic; Richardson, Jerika; Wolfe, Emma; John Del Cecato (jfdc@akpdmedia.com) <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Pls edits

I have tried to punch up the language per his request. Pls edit quickly

Message Strategy

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Focus on what matters – Protect and Respect
<!--[if !supportLists]-->o <!--[endif]-->Keeping crime low
<!--[if !supportLists]-->o <!--[endif]-->Bringing police and community closer together –
because its good for both police AND community

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Reaffirm confidence in and support in NYPD and its leadership

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Use emotions strategically --- to draw the line and make clear work stoppages are unacceptable and will not be tolerated. New Yorkers expect that their police force is working and those who choose not to do their job can find another line
of work.

Topline Themes Likely to Guide Every Question

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Emotions: How did it make you feel when backs were turned? Is there anything you regret saying [ie, Dante comparison]? Were you surprised at the reaction?

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Apologies: Should you apologize to the NYPD? Should Lynch and others apologize to you?

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Cause and Effect: Do you believe your comments and actions have caused this escalation?

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Forward-looking: How do you and the City move forward? Now that you've met with the unions, what's next? How do you respond to claims that the first meeting was non-productive and what does that mean for future talks?

SAMPLE Q+A

Q: Should you apologize like some in the media have said? Should Lynch and others apologize to you?

A: Look, this isn't about how I feel. My focus is on keeping our City safe, keeping crime numbers low and bringing police and community together.

Q: Some in the NYPD have said comments about Dante in particular needing to take special care w police were offensive to them. What did you mean and do you regret those remarks?

<!--[if !supportLists]-->A. <!--[endif]-->

Our police officers do a dangerous and essential, but often thankless job. And striking the right balance between rigorously protecting public safety and respecting individuals is part of what makes the job so challenging. It must be done with extraordinary care and restraint. In turn, our police deserve our gratitude and our respect.

It is also true that at times, people of color have felt suspect simply because of how they look. That sense of distrust doesn't make policing any easier. It makes it more difficult.

The question we must ask ourselves is this: how do we keep EVERY New Yorker safe – whether they wear a suit and tie, a uniform, or a hoodie; whether they were the targets of stop and frisk policing, subjects of ugly, hate-filled taunts or despicable violent protests; or victims of a deranged individual who shamefully uses peaceful protests as a cover for his acts of unthinkable evil.

Q: Is there a police work slowdown happening right now, and if so what are you and the PC going to do to end it?

<!--[if !supportLists]-->A. <!--[endif]-->We know that typically after a police officer is killed there is a brief period of mourning. As Commissioner Bratton put it, a time for grieving. But let me be clear—New Yorkers will not tolerate any perceived slow down, the police Commissioner won't and I certainly won't. New Yorkers expect officers to do their job and to do it well. Those who can't should consider a new line of work. And for those few who are deliberately stopping/slowing or encouraging others to abdicate their responsibilities, there very well may be legal consequences.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->Q. <!--[endif]-->Are you exploring legal options?

<!--[if !supportLists]-->A. <!--[endif]-->I expect our cops to do their jobs and to do them admirably. And the NYPD is the finest in the country. If we perceive a slowdown, we will look at all options to keep New Yorkers safe.

Q: Next mtg with Lynch and the unions? What are next steps in that relationship? How do you repair and move forward?

Q: Reaction to those protestors who say and chant vile hateful things about the NYPD?

Q: Do you have any arrest updates on last month's assaults on police officers during a protest rally on the Brooklyn Bridge?

A: Last week, the NYPD arrested and charged a fifth suspect, 29 year-old Jarrod Shanahan in connection with the Brooklyn Bridge assault. Shanahan faces multiple charges, including assault on a police officer, resisting arrest, and obstructing governmental administration. Rest assured the Department with the full support of City Hall is doing everything in its power to ensure the perpetrators are apprehended held to account for their actions. That said, the Commissioner and his chiefs can provide you with more details on this specific arrest.

Q: This year police officer shooting deaths increased 56%. Given the current climate and the rise in death threats from anti-police extremists, what are you doing to protect the City's police officers? Is your rhetoric at all responsible for this climate?

A: No, this was the act of a deranged individual, pure and simple.

We've put safety first in this administration by increasing police resources, expanding camera use in all five boroughs, and maintaining force levels. Since the tragic shootings of Officer Ramos and Officer Liu, we've doubled down and now have officers on foot patrols working in pairs and uniformed sentries now guard each precinct station house. The NYPD is actively monitoring social media and investigating any threats against police officers that come through that or any other medium. And I'd like to continue to urge the public to be vigilant and report any suspicious activity they see or hear. We must work together to prevent a tragedy like this from ever happening again.

Q: On Friday, the Commissioner issued a memo to the entire Department outlining his expectations for how members of the Department should behave at Officer Liu's funeral. Where you aware of the memo? Did he do this at your request?

A: The Commissioner has been a law enforcement leader for decades. He is a smart, independent, and principled public servant. While I do agree with the tenor of his statement and believe that funerals, especially one's where we are honoring one of our City's fallen, are solemn occasions that should be devoid of politics, the Commissioner certainly doesn't need any micro-managing for me. I respect his judgment, and I leave it to his discretion as to what he should and shouldn't say to his officers.

Q: Officer Liu was laid to rest this past weekend. What do you say to those who reacted negatively to your involvement in the funeral?

A: Officer Liu was an example of the best of what this City has to offer. And words can't express how profoundly his tragic death has impacted all of us. We lost a dedicated public servant who answered the call to protect and serve this great city, and Officer Liu deserves our gratitude and respect. This was not about politics, it was about taking the time to honor his memory and support his family.

Q: What about the cops who turned their backs on you? How did you take that?

A: It was the actions of a few – I certainly heard from New Yorkers who were upset to see some who would choose to politicize funerals in direct contrast to the families request. My focus is on how we make sure this City is safe, continue to the low-crime rates, honor the memories of the two men we've lost; protect our officers from future acts; and begin to heal our city.

Q: How do you respond to those who turned their backs or who made statements, such as you have "blood on your hands?"

A: Short answer – No, I do not believe that nor do I think the majority of New Yorkers believe that. That's the kind of divisive politics that does nothing to move this City forward.,

If people want to politicize someone's funeral, that's on them and you can ask them what they think of that. I've got a job to do as Mayor. We've kept crime low and we're remaking the relationship between police and community. No number of baseless attacks are going to stop us from getting their together.

Q: Earlier this morning a hearing was held in Staten Island to review petition requests seeking transcripts, instructions and evidence from the grand jury that investigated the death of Eric Garner but decided not to indict the police officer involved in his chokehold death in July. Do you believe those transcripts should be unsealed?

A: For many people there are obviously a lot of unanswered questions. The death of Eric Garner was an unspeakable tragedy. I understand their desire for more information and transparency. But, I'm not going to weigh in on what should ultimately happen with the transcripts. That is for a judge to decide, and I believe it is important to allow the judicial process to play out as it ultimately will.

Q: Some say they haven't seen police-community relations this bad since the David Dinkins era.

A: We've been through a lot as a city over the past few months. But it's not just here in New York. It's a conversation we're having across the country. I think we need to see it through that lens. We are making progress, reduction in stops or example. We will continue the work. Playing the long game, and am confident we are going in the right direction.

Q: There's a petition circulating suggesting that you resign.

A: I understand that in the middle of an act of senseless violence, humannature causes us to look for someone to blame – some way to make sense of it all. But I don't think injecting politics into the middle of tragedy is the way forward. I am confident this Administration has the confidence and support of the people of NYC.

Q: The killer said that this was an act of retribution for Garner. Doesn't that make it political right there? Isn't that exactly what people were protesting in New York – the people you spoke to and defended.

A: This was a deranged individual with a history of violence...a gang-member from Baltimore who allegedly shot his ex-girlfriend there before coming to New York to continue his unspeakable acts. Just because he cloaked his act of violence in the words of non-violent protestors does not mean he speaks for those peaceful protesters any more than Timothy McVeigh spoke for those who advocate for smaller government. This was an act of evil, pure and simple.

Q: Are you worried about copy-cats – like the attempted shooting in the Bronx? Should New Yorkers expect this to continue?

A: The people of New York should know that they are safe; that their city and their police force are here to protect them; and that we will work together to ensure that the violence ends. We will double-down on the extraordinary work the NYPD is already doing, and we will stamp out the violence. And we will have our cops' backs.

Q: But aren't cops going to be afraid to go to work now?

A: Anyone who says that underestimates the courage and valor of our police officer here in New York. These men and women put their lives on the line every day, and they aren't going to be deterred from doing their jobs. They don't intimidate easy; they act heroically, and will continue to do so.

Q: There are those who've suggested that your own police security detail should ease up on protecting you. Did you take that as a threat?

A: New York City police officers have been protecting me and my family for decades –including the years before I ever entered public life. They protected me as a resident of New York City – just like they protect millions of families like mine every day. I know these men and women, they are professionals who take their duty seriously and I have immense respect for the job they do.

One-Liners

"If people want to use a solemn occasion like a funeral to make a political statement, that's on them, you need to ask them why they chose to do it."

"Some cops may have turned their backs on me, but I will never turn my backs on the cops nor the people they serve. Anyone else who tells you otherwise isn't being honest."

"I know being Mayor is a tough job, I signed up for it. But. I know our cops have a tougher job and they signed up for it too. Don't let anyone tell you I don't get that."

"Don't take my word for it, look at what we've done together. Crime is lower, we dramatically reduced stop-and-frisk together and we've made big investments in our cops. Let's drop the rhetoric here and talk about the great things we've done together."

"After the Eric Garner I said black lives matter, and I won't take that back. But don't let anyone tell you I don't believe that blue lives matter. You bet they do and we know that our cops are partners in of the new relationship we're forging with the people we in city government all serve."

Andrea Hagelgans
Office of the Mayor
Direct – 212.341.5372
Cell – 718.679.8965
ahagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Walzak, Phil
To: Carey, Michael; Leopold, Elana; Hagelgans, Andrea; Ragone, Peter; Wolfe, Emma; Williams, Dominic; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; "lhegarty@akpdmedia.com"; Richardson, Jerika
Subject: Re: MBDB: Prep Call for Q and A
Date: Sunday, January 04, 2015 7:07:16 PM

What are we looking at....10 mins? 30?

From: Carey, Michael
Sent: Sunday, January 04, 2015 07:06 PM
To: Walzak, Phil; Leopold, Elana; Hagelgans, Andrea; Ragone, Peter; Wolfe, Emma; Williams, Dominic; 'John Del Cecato' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; 'Liz Hegarty' <lhegarty@akpdmedia.com>; Richardson, Jerika
Subject: Re: MBDB: Prep Call for Q and A

All:

Will let you know when to dial in.

MBDB is en route GM and will do the call once arrives.

From: MPCarey@cityhall.nyc.gov
When: 7:00 PM - 7:30 PM January 4, 2015
Subject: MBDB: Prep Call for Q and A
Location: Dial-in Number: [REDACTED] Meeting ID: [REDACTED]

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Wolfe, Emma; Carey, Michael
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Ragone, Peter; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic; Richardson, Jerika
Subject: Re: Pls edits
Date: Sunday, January 04, 2015 7:09:35 PM

No, it has not started yet

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Sunday, January 04, 2015 07:06 PM
To: Wolfe, Emma; Carey, Michael
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Ragone, Peter; Hagelgans, Andrea; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic; Richardson, Jerika
Subject: Re: Pls edits

I am on

From: <Wolfe>, Emma <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Sunday, January 4, 2015 at 7:06 PM
To: "Carey, Michael" <MPCarey@cityhall.nyc.gov>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: "Walzak, Phil" <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Ragone, Peter" <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Hagelgans, Andrea" <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Anthony Shorris <AShorris@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Williams, Dominic" <DWilliams@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Richardson, Jerika" <JLRichardson@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: Pls edits

Are we supposed to get on this call now?

From: Carey, Michael
Sent: Sunday, January 04, 2015 06:31 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Ragone, Peter; Hagelgans, Andrea; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic; Richardson, Jerika; Wolfe, Emma
Subject: Re: Pls edits

How much time you want JDC?

From: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Date: Sunday, January 4, 2015 at 6:30 PM
To: Michael Carey <mpcarey@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: Phil Walzak <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Peter Ragone <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Andrea Hagelgans <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Anthony Shorris <AShorris@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Dominic Williams <DWilliams@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Richardson, Jerika" <JLRichardson@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Wolfe, Emma" <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: Pls edits

I'm headed back to my computer now, but generally, we need more time to make tweaks to Q and A if possible

On Jan 4, 2015, at 6:24 PM, Carey, Michael <MPCarey@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Supposed to talk again around 630 PM, but waiting for them to get back to GM.

From: <Walzak>, Phil Walzak <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Sunday, January 4, 2015 at 6:23 PM
To: Peter Ragone <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Andrea Hagelgans <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Anthony Shorris <AShorris@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Dominic Williams <DWilliams@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Richardson, Jerika" <JLRichardson@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Wolfe, Emma" <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, Michael Carey <mpcarey@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: Pls edits

+mpc

And what do we want to achieve, from the convo @ 3 pm ?

From: Ragone, Peter
Sent: Sunday, January 04, 2015 06:22 PM
To: Hagelgans, Andrea; Walzak, Phil; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic; Richardson, Jerika; Wolfe, Emma; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Pls edits

What time are we talking to him again?

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
Sent: Sunday, January 04, 2015 06:16 PM
To: Walzak, Phil; Ragone, Peter; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic; Richardson, Jerika; Wolfe, Emma; John Del Cecato (jfdc@akpdmedia.com) <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Pls edits

I have tried to punch up the language per his request. Pls edit quickly

Message Strategy

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Focus on what matters – Protect and Respect
 <!--[if !supportLists]-->○ <!--[endif]-->Keeping crime low
 <!--[if !supportLists]-->○ <!--[endif]-->Bringing police and community closer together – because its good for both police AND community

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Reaffirm confidence in and support in

NYPD and its leadership

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Use emotions strategically --- to draw the line and make clear work stoppages are unacceptable and will not be tolerated. New Yorkers expect that their police force is working and those who choose not to do their job can find another line of work.

Topline Themes Likely to Guide Every Question

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Emotions: How did it make you feel when backs were turned? Is there anything you regret saying [ie, Dante comparison]? Were you surprised at the reaction?

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Apologies: Should you apologize to the NYPD? Should Lynch and others apologize to you?

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Cause and Effect: Do you believe your comments and actions have caused this escalation?

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Forward-looking: How do you and the City move forward? Now that you've met with the unions, what's next? How do you respond to claims that the first meeting was non-productive and what does that mean for future talks?

SAMPLE Q+A

Q: Should you apologize like some in the media have said? Should Lynch and others apologize to you?

A: Look, this isn't about how I feel. My focus is on keeping our City safe, keeping crime numbers low and bringing police and community together.

Q: Some in the NYPD have said comments about Dante in particular needing to take special care w police were offensive to them. What did you mean and do you regret those remarks?

<!--[if !supportLists]-->A. <!--[endif]-->

Our police officers do a dangerous and essential, but often thankless job. And striking the right balance between rigorously protecting public safety and respecting individuals is part of what makes the job so challenging. It must be done with extraordinary care and restraint. In turn, our police deserve our gratitude and our respect.

It is also true that at times, people of color have felt suspect simply because of how they look. That sense of distrust doesn't make policing any easier. It makes it more difficult.

The question we must ask ourselves is this: how do we keep EVERY New Yorker safe – whether they wear a suit and tie, a uniform, or a hoodie; whether they were the targets of stop and frisk policing, subjects of ugly, hate-filled taunts or despicable violent protests; or victims of a deranged individual who shamefully uses peaceful protests as a cover for his acts of unthinkable evil.

Q: Is there a police work slowdown happening right now, and if so what are you and the PC going to do to end it?

A: We know that typically after a police officer is killed there is a brief period of mourning. As Commissioner Bratton put it, a time for grieving. But let me be clear—New Yorkers will not tolerate any perceived slow down, the police Commissioner won't and I certainly won't. New Yorkers expect officers to do their job and to do it well. Those who can't should consider a new line of work. And for those few who are deliberately stopping/slowing or encouraging others to abdicate their responsibilities, there very well may be legal consequences.

Q: Are you exploring legal options?

A: I expect our cops to do their jobs and to do them admirably. And the NYPD is the finest in the country. If we perceive a slowdown, we will look at all options to keep New Yorkers safe.

Q: Next mtg with Lynch and the unions? What are next steps in that relationship? How do you repair and move forward?

Q: Reaction to those protestors who say and chant vile hateful things about the NYPD?

Q: Do you have any arrest updates on last month's assaults on police officers during a protest rally on the Brooklyn Bridge?

A: Last week, the NYPD arrested and charged a fifth suspect, 29 year-old Jarrod Shanahan in connection with the Brooklyn Bridge assault. Shanahan faces multiple charges, including assault on a police officer, resisting arrest, and obstructing governmental administration. Rest assured the Department with the full support of City Hall is doing everything in its power to ensure the perpetrators are apprehended held to account for their actions. That said, the Commissioner and his chiefs can provide you with more details on this specific arrest.

Q: This year police officer shooting deaths increased 56%. Given the current climate and the rise in death threats from anti-police extremists, what are you doing to protect the City's police officers? Is your rhetoric at all responsible for this climate?

A: No, this was the act of a deranged individual, pure and simple.

We've put safety first in this administration by increasing police resources, expanding camera use in all five boroughs, and maintaining force levels. Since the tragic shootings of Officer Ramos and Officer Liu, we've doubled down and now have officers on foot patrols working in pairs and uniformed sentries now guard each precinct station house. The NYPD is actively monitoring social media and investigating any threats against police officers that come through that or any other medium. And I'd like to continue to urge the public to be vigilant and report any suspicious activity they see or hear. We must work together to prevent a tragedy like this from ever happening again.

Q: On Friday, the Commissioner issued a memo to the entire Department outlining his expectations for how members of the Department should behave at Officer Liu's funeral. Were you aware of the memo? Did he do this at your request?

A: The Commissioner has been a law enforcement leader for decades. He is a smart, independent, and principled public servant. While I do agree with the tenor of his statement and believe that funerals, especially one's where we are honoring one of our City's fallen, are solemn occasions that should be devoid of politics, the Commissioner certainly doesn't need any micro-managing for me. I respect his judgment, and I leave it to his discretion as to what he should and shouldn't say to his officers.

Q: Officer Liu was laid to rest this past weekend. What do you say to those who reacted negatively to your involvement in the funeral?

A: Officer Liu was an example of the best of what this City has to offer. And words can't express how profoundly his tragic death has impacted all of us. We lost a dedicated public servant who answered the call to protect and serve this great city, and Officer Liu deserves our gratitude and respect. This was not about politics, it was about taking the time to honor his memory and support his family.

Q: What about the cops who turned their backs on you? How did you take that?

A: It was the actions of a few – I certainly heard from New Yorkers who were upset to see some who would choose to politicize funerals in direct contrast to the families request. My focus is on how we make sure this City is safe, continue to the low-crime rates, honor the memories of the two men we've lost; protect our officers from future acts; and begin to heal our city.

Q: How do you respond to those who turned their backs or who made statements, such as you have "blood on your hands?"

A: Short answer – No, I do not believe that nor do I think the majority of New Yorkers believe that. That's the kind of divisive politics that does nothing to move this City forward.,

If people want to politicize someone's funeral, that's on them and you can ask them what they think of that. I've got a job to do as Mayor. We've kept crime low and we're remaking the relationship between police and community. No number of baseless attacks are going to stop us from getting their together.

Q: Earlier this morning a hearing was held in Staten Island to review petition requests seeking transcripts, instructions and evidence from the grand jury that investigated the death of Eric Garner but decided not to indict the police officer involved in his chokehold death in July. Do you believe those transcripts should be unsealed?

A: For many people there are obviously a lot of unanswered questions. The death of Eric Garner was an unspeakable tragedy. I understand their desire for more information and transparency. But, I'm not going to weigh in on what should ultimately happen with the transcripts. That is for a judge to decide, and I believe it is important to allow the judicial process to play out as it ultimately will.

Q: Some say they haven't seen police-community relations this bad since the David Dinkins era.

A: We've been through a lot as a city over the past few months. But it's not just here in New York. It's a conversation we're having across the country. I think we need to see it through that lens. We are making progress, reduction in stops or example. We will continue the work. Playing the long game, and am confident we are going in the right direction.

Q: There's a petition circulating suggesting that you resign.

A: I understand that in the middle of an act of senseless violence, humannature causes us to look for someone to blame – some way to make sense of it all. But I don't think injecting politics into the middle of tragedy is the way forward. I am confident this Administration has the confidence and support of the people of NYC.

Q: The killer said that this was an act of retribution for Garner. Doesn't that make it political right there? Isn't that exactly what people were protesting in New York – the people you spoke to and defended.

A: This was a deranged individual with a history of violence...a gang-member from Baltimore who allegedly shot his ex-girlfriend there before coming to New York to continue his unspeakable acts. Just because he cloaked his act of violence in the words of non-violent protestors does not mean he speaks for those peaceful protestors any more than Timothy McVeigh spoke for those who advocate for smaller government. This was an act of evil, pure and simple.

Q: Are you worried about copy-cats – like the attempted shooting in the Bronx? Should New Yorkers expect this to continue?

A: The people of New York should know that they are safe; that their city and their police force are here to protect them; and that we will work together to ensure that the violence ends. We will double-down on the extraordinary work the NYPD is already doing, and we will stamp out the violence. And we will have our cops' backs.

Q: But aren't cops going to be afraid to go to work now?

A: Anyone who says that underestimates the courage and valor of our police officer here in New York. These men and women put their lives on the line every day, and they aren't going to be deterred from doing their jobs. They don't intimidate easy; they act heroically, and will continue to do so.

Q: There are those who've suggested that your own police security detail should ease up on protecting you. Did you take that as a threat?

A: New York City police officers have been protecting me and my family for decades – including the years before I ever entered public life. They protected me as a resident of New York City – just like they protect millions of families like mine every day. I know these men and women, they are professionals who take their duty seriously and I have immense respect for the job they do.

One-Liners

"If people want to use a solemn occasion like a funeral to make a political statement, that's on them, you need to ask them why they chose to do it."

"Some cops may have turned their backs on me, but I will never turn my backs on the cops nor the people they serve. Anyone else who tells you otherwise isn't being honest."

"I know being Mayor is a tough job, I signed up for it. But. I know our cops have a tougher job and they signed up for it too. Don't let anyone tell you I don't get that."

"Don't take my word for it, look at what we've done together. Crime is lower, we dramatically reduced stop-and-frisk together and we've made big investments in our cops. Let's drop the rhetoric here and talk about the great things we've done together."

"After the Eric Garner I said black lives matter, and I won't take that back. But don't let anyone tell you I don't believe that blue lives matter. You bet they do and we know that our cops are partners in of the new relationship we're forging with the people we in city government all serve."

Andrea Hagelgans
Office of the Mayor
Direct – 212.341.5372
Cell – 718.679.8965
ahagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: John Del Cecato
To: Walzak, Phil; Ragone, Peter; Hagelgans, Andrea; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic; Richardson, Jerika; Wolfe, Emma
Subject: Re: edited
Date: Sunday, January 04, 2015 7:09:46 PM

Gotcha - I'm fine with that - more eloquent

From: <Walzak>, Phil <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Sunday, January 4, 2015 at 7:08 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, "Ragone, Peter" <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Hagelgans, Andrea" <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Anthony Shorris <AShorris@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Williams, Dominic" <DWilliams@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Richardson, Jerika" <JLRichardson@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Wolfe, Emma" <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: edited

I don't like hijacked a funeral
Gives them too much pwr
Those few who decided to engage in such activiti disrepected themselves and the dept... Etc etc

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Sunday, January 04, 2015 06:59 PM
To: Walzak, Phil; Ragone, Peter; Hagelgans, Andrea; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic; Richardson, Jerika; Wolfe, Emma
Subject: Re: edited

This part could be stronger:

A. We know that typically after a police officer is killed there is a brief period of mourning. As Commissioner Bratton put it, a time for grieving. But let me be clear—New Yorkers will not tolerate any perceived slow down, the police Commissioner won't and I certainly won't. New Yorkers expect officers to do their job and to do it well. Those who can't should consider a new line of work. And for those few who are deliberately stopping/slowing or encouraging others to abdicate their responsibilities, there very well may be legal consequences.

On Dinkins era - let's compare the crime rate now to the crime rate then - 'nuff said.

On reaction to turning backs - hijacked a funeral that was meant to honor a fallen officer, and those who did so brought disgrace to the NYPD and to the family of those lost. For that, they should be ashamed of themselves.

On resignation, I would suggest that those who believe they cannot serve under a policy of Protect & Respect should be the ones to find a new line of work, because they are terribly out of step with what the people of New York - the people they work for - believe...

From: <Walzak>, Phil <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Date: Sunday, January 4, 2015 at 6:34 PM

To: "Ragone, Peter" <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Hagelgans, Andrea" <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Anthony Shorris <AShorris@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Williams, Dominic" <DWilliams@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Richardson, Jerika" <JLRichardson@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Wolfe, Emma" <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>

Subject: Re: edited

Message Strategy

+Focus on what matters – Protect and Respect

o Keeping crime low

o Bringing police and community closer together – because its good for both police AND community

+Reaffirm confidence in and support in NYPD and its leadership

+Firmly reject the outrageous union acts and charges - 'blood on hands'. Turned backs. Work slowdowns. But in a sober, responsible way that showcases leadership.

+Control emotions. Not abt mayor or individuals. Mind the tone.

Topline Themes Likely to Guide Every Question

- Emotions: How did it make you feel when backs were turned? Is there anything you regret saying [ie, Dante comparison]? Were you surprised at the reaction?
- Apologies: Should you apologize to the NYPD? Should Lynch and others apologize to you?
- Cause and Effect: Do you believe your comments and actions have caused this escalation?
- Forward-looking: How do you and the City move forward? Now that you've met with the unions, what's next? How do you respond to claims that the first meeting was non-productive and what does that mean for future talks?

SAMPLE Q+A

Q: Should you apologize like some in the media have said? Should Lynch and others apologize to you?

A: Look, this isn't about how I feel. My focus is on keeping our City safe, keeping crime numbers low and bringing police and community together.

Q: Some in the NYPD have said comments about Dante in particular needing to take special care w police were offensive to them. What did you mean and do you regret those remarks?

A.

Our police officers do a dangerous and essential, but often thankless job. And striking the right balance between rigorously protecting public safety and respecting individuals is part of what makes the job so challenging. It must be done with extraordinary care and restraint. In turn, our police deserve our gratitude and our respect.

It is also true that at times, people of color have felt suspect simply because of how they look. That's reality. That sense of distrust doesn't make policing any easier. It makes it more difficult.

The question we must ask ourselves is this: how do we keep EVERY New Yorker safe – whether they wear a suit and tie, a uniform, or a hoodie; whether they were the targets of stop and frisk policing, subjects of ugly, hate-filled taunts or despicable violent protests; or victims of a deranged individual who shamefully uses peaceful protests as a cover for his acts of unthinkable evil.

Q: Is there a police work slowdown happening right now, and if so what are you and the PC going to do to end it?

A. We know that typically after a police officer is killed there is a brief period of mourning. As Commissioner Bratton put it, a time for grieving. But let me be clear—New Yorkers will not tolerate any perceived slow down, the police Commissioner won't and I certainly won't. New Yorkers expect officers to do their job and to do it well. Those who can't should consider a new line of work. And for those few who are deliberately stopping/slowing or encouraging others to abdicate their responsibilities, there very well may be legal consequences.

Q. Are you exploring legal options?

A. I expect our cops to do their jobs and to do them admirably. And the NYPD is the finest in the country. If we perceive a slowdown, we will look at all options to keep New Yorkers safe.

-or-

A: People must do their jobs. Period. Individual officers who fail to carry out their duties will be subject to departmental sanctions as they would for any other violation of their responsibilities.

- If we see widespread failure by officers to discharge their duties, the City has legal tools at its disposal that we will use against them and against any individual or organization that fails to discourage such behavior.

If asked further about such tools...

- These tools include the invocation of the Taylor Law, prohibiting labor actions by public workers, and the imposition of sanctions against them and their representatives.

Q: Next mtg with Lynch and the unions? What are next steps in that relationship? How do you repair and move forward?

Q: Reaction to those protestors who say and chant vile hateful things about the NYPD?

Q: Do you have any arrest updates on last month's assaults on police officers during a protest rally on the Brooklyn Bridge?

A: Last week, the NYPD arrested and charged a fifth suspect, 29 year-old Jarrod Shanahan in connection with the Brooklyn Bridge assault. Shanahan faces multiple charges, including assault on a police officer, resisting arrest, and obstructing governmental administration. Rest assured the Department with the full support of City Hall is doing everything in its power to ensure the perpetrators are apprehended held to account for their actions. That said, the Commissioner and his chiefs can provide you with more details on this specific arrest.

Q: This year police officer shooting deaths increased 56%. Given the current climate and the rise in death threats from anti-police extremists, what are you doing to protect the City's police officers? Is your rhetoric at all responsible for this climate?

A: No, this was the act of a deranged individual, pure and simple.

We've put safety first in this administration by increasing police resources, expanding camera use in all five boroughs, and maintaining force levels. Since the tragic shootings of Officer Ramos and Officer Liu, we've doubled down and now have officers on foot patrols working in pairs and uniformed sentries now guard each precinct station house. The NYPD is actively monitoring social media and investigating any threats against police officers that come through that or any other medium. And I'd like to continue to urge the public to be vigilant and report any suspicious activity they see or hear. We must work together to prevent a tragedy like this from ever happening again.

Q: On Friday, the Commissioner issued a memo to the entire Department outlining his expectations for how members of the Department should behave at Officer Liu's funeral. Where you aware of the memo? Did he do this at your request?

A: The Commissioner has been a law enforcement leader for decades. He is a smart, independent, and principled public servant. While I do agree with the tenor of his statement and believe that funerals, especially one's where we are honoring one of our City's fallen, are solemn occasions that should be devoid of politics, the Commissioner certainly doesn't need any micro-managing for me. I respect his judgment, and I leave it to his discretion as to what he should and shouldn't say to his officers.

Q: What is your reaction to officers who turned their back in spite of Bratton?

Q: Officer Liu was laid to rest this past weekend. What do you say to those who reacted negatively to your involvement in the funeral?

A: Officer Liu was an example of the best of what this City has to offer. And words can't express how profoundly his tragic death has impacted all of us. We lost a dedicated public servant who answered the call to protect and serve this great city, and Officer Liu deserves our gratitude and respect. This was not about politics, it was about taking the time to honor his memory and support his family.

Q: What about the cops who turned their backs on you? How did you take that?

A: It was the actions of a few – I certainly heard from New Yorkers who were upset to see some who would choose to politicize funerals in direct contrast to the families request. My focus is on how we make sure this City is safe, continue to the low-crime rates, honor the memories of the two men we've lost; protect our officers from future acts; and begin to heal our city.

Q: How do you respond to those who turned their backs or who made statements, such as you have "blood on your hands?"

A: Short answer – No, I do not believe that nor do I think the majority of New Yorkers believe that. That's the kind of divisive politics that does nothing to move this City forward.,

If people want to politicize someone's funeral, that's on them and you can ask them what they think of that. I've got a job to do as Mayor. We've kept crime low and we're remaking the relationship between police and community. No number of baseless attacks are going to stop us from getting their together.

Q: Earlier this morning a hearing was held in Staten Island to review petition requests seeking transcripts, instructions and evidence from the grand jury that investigated the death of Eric Garner but decided not to indict the police officer involved in his chokehold death in July. Do you believe those transcripts should be unsealed?

A: For many people there are obviously a lot of unanswered questions. The death of Eric Garner was an unspeakable tragedy. I understand their desire for more information and transparency. But, I'm not going to weigh in on what should ultimately happen with the transcripts. That is for a judge to decide, and I believe it is important to allow the judicial process to play out as it ultimately will.

Q: Some say they haven't seen police-community relations this bad since the David Dinkins era.

A: We've been through a lot as a city over the past few months. But it's not just here in New York. It's a conversation we're having across the country. I think we need to see it through that lens. We are making progress, reduction in stops or example. We will continue the work. Playing the long game, and am confident we are going in the right direction.

Q: There's a petition circulating suggesting that you resign.

A: I understand that in the middle of an act of senseless violence, humannature causes us to look for someone to blame – some way to make sense of it all. But I don't think injecting politics into the middle of tragedy is the way forward. I am confident this Administration has the confidence and support of the people of NYC.

Q: The killer said that this was an act of retribution for Garner. Doesn't that make it political right there? Isn't that exactly what people were protesting in New York – the people you spoke to and defended.

A: This was a deranged individual with a history of violence...a gang-member from Baltimore who allegedly shot his ex-girlfriend there before coming to New York to continue his unspeakable acts. Just because he cloaked his act of violence in the words of non-violent protestors does not mean he speaks for those peaceful protestors any more than Timothy McVeigh spoke for those who advocate for smaller government. This was an act of evil, pure and simple.

Q: Are you worried about copy-cats – like the attempted shooting in the Bronx? Should New Yorkers expect this to continue?

A: The people of New York should know that they are safe; that their city and their police force are here to protect them; and that we will work together to ensure that the violence ends. We will double-down on the extraordinary work the NYPD is already doing, and we will stamp out the violence. And we will have our cops' backs.

Q: But aren't cops going to be afraid to go to work now?

A: Anyone who says that underestimates the courage and valor of our police officer here in New York. These men and women put their lives on the line every day, and they aren't going to be deterred from doing their jobs. They don't intimidate easy; they act heroically, and will continue to do so.

Q: There are those who've suggested that your own police security detail should ease up on protecting you. Did you take that as a threat?

A: New York City police officers have been protecting me and my family for decades –including the years before I ever entered public life. They protected me as a resident of New York City – just like they protect millions of families like mine every day. I know these men and women, they are professionals who take their duty seriously and I have immense respect for the job they do.

One-Liners

"If people want to use a solemn occasion like a funeral to make a political statement, that's on them, you need to ask them why they chose to do it."

"Some cops may have turned their backs on me, but I will never turn my backs on the cops nor the people they serve. Anyone else who tells you otherwise isn't being honest."

"I know being Mayor is a tough job, I signed up for it. But. I know our cops have a tougher job and they signed up for it too. Don't let anyone tell you I don't get that."

"Don't take my word for it, look at what we've done together. Crime is lower, we dramatically reduced stop-and-frisk together and we've made big investments in our cops. Let's drop the rhetoric here and talk about the great things we've done together."

"After the Eric Garner I said black lives matter, and I won't take that back. But don't let anyone tell you I don't believe that blue lives matter. You bet they do and we know that our cops are partners in of the new relationship we're forging with the people we in city government all serve."

From: Ragone, Peter
Sent: Sunday, January 04, 2015 06:21 PM
To: Hagelgans, Andrea; Walzak, Phil; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic; Richardson, Jerika; Wolfe, Emma; jfdc@akpdmedia.com <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Pls edits

What's new? PW needs to weigh in on this before we talk to Mayor.

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
Sent: Sunday, January 04, 2015 06:16 PM
To: Walzak, Phil; Ragone, Peter; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic; Richardson, Jerika; Wolfe, Emma; John Del Cecato (jfdc@akpdmedia.com) <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Pls edits

I have tried to punch up the language per his request. Pls edit quickly

Message Strategy

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Focus on what matters – Protect and Respect
<!--[if !supportLists]-->o <!--[endif]-->Keeping crime low
<!--[if !supportLists]-->o <!--[endif]-->Bringing police and community closer together –
because its good for both police AND community

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Reaffirm confidence in and support in NYPD and its leadership

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Use emotions strategically --- to draw the line and make clear work stoppages are unacceptable and will not be tolerated. New Yorkers expect that their police force is working and those who choose not to do their job can find another line
of work.

Topline Themes Likely to Guide Every Question

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Emotions: How did it make you feel when backs were turned? Is there anything you regret saying [ie, Dante comparison]? Were you surprised at the reaction?

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Apologies: Should you apologize to the NYPD? Should Lynch and others apologize to you?

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Cause and Effect: Do you believe your comments and actions have caused this escalation?

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Forward-looking: How do you and the City move forward? Now that you've met with the unions, what's next? How do you respond to claims that the first meeting was non-productive and what does that mean for future talks?

SAMPLE Q+A

Q: Should you apologize like some in the media have said? Should Lynch and others apologize to you?

A: Look, this isn't about how I feel. My focus is on keeping our City safe, keeping crime numbers low and bringing police and community together.

Q: Some in the NYPD have said comments about Dante in particular needing to take special care w police were offensive to them. What did you mean and do you regret those remarks?

<!--[if !supportLists]-->A. <!--[endif]-->

Our police officers do a dangerous and essential, but often thankless job. And striking the right balance between rigorously protecting public safety and respecting individuals is part of what makes the job so challenging. It must be done with extraordinary care and restraint. In turn, our police deserve our gratitude and our respect.

It is also true that at times, people of color have felt suspect simply because of how they look. That sense of distrust doesn't make policing any easier. It makes it more difficult.

The question we must ask ourselves is this: how do we keep EVERY New Yorker safe – whether they wear a suit and tie, a uniform, or a hoodie; whether they were the targets of stop and frisk policing, subjects of ugly, hate-filled taunts or despicable violent protests; or victims of a deranged individual who shamefully uses peaceful protests as a cover for his acts of unthinkable evil.

Q: Is there a police work slowdown happening right now, and if so what are you and the PC going to do to end it?

<!--[if !supportLists]-->A. <!--[endif]-->We know that typically after a police officer is killed there is a brief period of mourning. As Commissioner Bratton put it, a time for grieving. But let me be clear—New Yorkers will not tolerate any perceived slow down, the police Commissioner won't and I certainly won't. New Yorkers expect officers to do their job and to do it well. Those who can't should consider a new line of work. And for those few who are deliberately stopping/slowing or encouraging others to abdicate their responsibilities, there very well may be legal consequences.

Q: Are you exploring legal options?

A: I expect our cops to do their jobs and to do them admirably. And the NYPD is the finest in the country. If we perceive a slowdown, we will look at all options to keep New Yorkers safe.

Q: Next mtg with Lynch and the unions? What are next steps in that relationship? How do you repair and move forward?

Q: Reaction to those protestors who say and chant vile hateful things about the NYPD?

Q: Do you have any arrest updates on last month's assaults on police officers during a protest rally on the Brooklyn Bridge?

A: Last week, the NYPD arrested and charged a fifth suspect, 29 year-old Jarrod Shanahan in connection with the Brooklyn Bridge assault. Shanahan faces multiple charges, including assault on a police officer, resisting arrest, and obstructing governmental administration. Rest assured the Department with the full support of City Hall is doing everything in its power to ensure the perpetrators are apprehended held to account for their actions. That said, the Commissioner and his chiefs can provide you with more details on this specific arrest.

Q: This year police officer shooting deaths increased 56%. Given the current climate and the rise in death threats from anti-police extremists, what are you doing to protect the City's police officers? Is your rhetoric at all responsible for this climate?

A: No, this was the act of a deranged individual, pure and simple.

We've put safety first in this administration by increasing police resources, expanding camera use in all five boroughs, and maintaining force levels. Since the tragic shootings of Officer Ramos and Officer Liu, we've doubled down and now have officers on foot patrols working in pairs and uniformed sentries now guard each precinct station house. The NYPD is actively monitoring social media and investigating any threats against police officers that come through that or any other medium. And I'd like to continue to urge the public to be vigilant and report any suspicious activity they see or hear. We must work together to prevent a tragedy like this from ever happening again.

Q: On Friday, the Commissioner issued a memo to the entire Department outlining his expectations for how members of the Department should behave at Officer Liu's funeral. Were you aware of the memo? Did he do this at your request?

A: The Commissioner has been a law enforcement leader for decades. He is a smart, independent, and principled public servant. While I do agree with the tenor of his statement and believe that funerals, especially one's where we are honoring one of our City's fallen, are solemn occasions that should be devoid of politics, the Commissioner certainly doesn't need any micro-managing for me. I respect his judgment, and I leave it to his discretion as to what he should and shouldn't say to his officers.

Q: Officer Liu was laid to rest this past weekend. What do you say to those who reacted negatively to your involvement in the funeral?

A: Officer Liu was an example of the best of what this City has to offer. And words can't express how profoundly his tragic death has impacted all of us. We lost a dedicated public servant who answered the call to protect and serve this great city, and Officer Liu deserves our gratitude and respect. This was not about politics, it was about taking the time to honor his memory and support his family.

Q: What about the cops who turned their backs on you? How did you take that?

A: It was the actions of a few – I certainly heard from New Yorkers who were upset to see some who would choose to politicize funerals in direct contrast to the families request. My focus is on how we make sure this City is safe, continue to the low-crime rates, honor the memories of the two men we've lost; protect our officers from future acts; and begin to heal our city.

Q: How do you respond to those who turned their backs or who made statements, such as you have "blood on your hands?"

A: Short answer – No, I do not believe that nor do I think the majority of New Yorkers believe that. That's the kind of divisive politics that does nothing to move this City forward.,

If people want to politicize someone's funeral, that's on them and you can ask them what they think of that. I've got a job to do as Mayor. We've kept crime low and we're remaking the relationship between police and community. No number of baseless attacks are going to stop us from getting their together.

Q: Earlier this morning a hearing was held in Staten Island to review petition requests seeking transcripts, instructions and evidence from the grand jury that investigated the death of Eric Garner but decided not to indict the police officer involved in his chokehold death in July. Do you believe those transcripts should be unsealed?

A: For many people there are obviously a lot of unanswered questions. The death of Eric Garner was an unspeakable tragedy. I understand their desire for more information and transparency. But, I'm not going to weigh in on what should ultimately happen with the transcripts. That is for a judge to decide, and I believe it is important to allow the judicial process to play out as it ultimately will.

Q: Some say they haven't seen police-community relations this bad since the David Dinkins era.

A: We've been through a lot as a city over the past few months. But it's not just here in New York. It's a conversation we're having across the country. I think we need to see it through that lens. We are making progress, reduction in stops or example. We will continue the work. Playing the long game, and am confident we are going in the right direction.

Q: There's a petition circulating suggesting that you resign.

A: I understand that in the middle of an act of senseless violence, humannature causes us to look for someone to blame – some way to make sense of it all. But I don't think injecting politics into the middle of tragedy is the way forward. I am confident this Administration has the confidence and support of the people of NYC.

Q: The killer said that this was an act of retribution for Garner. Doesn't that make it political right there? Isn't that exactly what people were protesting in New York – the people you spoke to and defended.

A: This was a deranged individual with a history of violence...a gang-member from Baltimore who allegedly shot his ex-girlfriend there before coming to New York to continue his unspeakable acts. Just because he cloaked his act of violence in the words of non-violent protestors does not mean he speaks for those peaceful protestors any more than Timothy McVeigh spoke for those who advocate for smaller government. This was an act of evil, pure and simple.

Q: Are you worried about copy-cats – like the attempted shooting in the Bronx? Should New Yorkers expect this to continue?

A: The people of New York should know that they are safe; that their city and their police force are here to protect them; and that we will work together to ensure that the violence ends. We will double-down on the extraordinary work the NYPD is already doing, and we will stamp out the violence. And we will have our cops' backs.

Q: But aren't cops going to be afraid to go to work now?

A: Anyone who says that underestimates the courage and valor of our police officer here in New York. These men and women put their lives on the line every day, and they aren't going to be deterred from doing their jobs. They don't intimidate easy; they act heroically, and will continue to do so.

Q: There are those who've suggested that your own police security detail should ease up on protecting you. Did you take that as a threat?

A: New York City police officers have been protecting me and my family for decades –including the years before I ever entered public life. They protected me as a resident of New York City – just like they protect millions of families like mine every day. I know these men and women, they are professionals who take their duty seriously and I have immense respect for the job they do.

One-Liners

"If people want to use a solemn occasion like a funeral to make a political statement, that's on them, you need to ask them why they chose to do it."

"Some cops may have turned their backs on me, but I will never turn my backs on the cops nor the people they serve. Anyone else who tells you otherwise isn't being honest."

"I know being Mayor is a tough job, I signed up for it. But. I know our cops have a tougher job and they signed up for it too. Don't let anyone tell you I don't get that."

"Don't take my word for it, look at what we've done together. Crime is lower, we dramatically reduced stop-and-frisk together and we've made big investments in our cops. Let's drop the rhetoric here and talk about the great things we've done together."

"After the Eric Garner I said black lives matter, and I won't take that back. But don't let anyone tell you I don't believe that blue lives matter. You bet they do and we know that our cops are partners in of the new relationship we're forging with the people we in city government all serve."

Andrea Hagelgans
Office of the Mayor
Direct – 212.341.5372
Cell – 718.679.8965
ahagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Walzak, Phil
To: Carey, Michael; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Wolfe, Emma
Cc: Ragone, Peter; Hagelgans, Andrea; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic; Richardson, Jerika
Subject: Re: Pls edits
Date: Sunday, January 04, 2015 7:19:22 PM

Sense of when?

From: Carey, Michael
Sent: Sunday, January 04, 2015 07:07 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Wolfe, Emma
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Ragone, Peter; Hagelgans, Andrea; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic; Richardson, Jerika
Subject: Re: Pls edits

U can pop off unless you want to chat before hand. He won't be on for another 10 at least.

From: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Date: Sunday, January 4, 2015 at 7:06 PM
To: "Wolfe, Emma" <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Michael Carey <mpcarey@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: Phil Walzak <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Peter Ragone <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Andrea Hagelgans <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Anthony Shorris <AShorris@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Dominic Williams <DWilliams@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Richardson, Jerika" <JLRichardson@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: Pls edits

I am on

From: <Wolfe>, Emma <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Sunday, January 4, 2015 at 7:06 PM
To: "Carey, Michael" <MPCarey@cityhall.nyc.gov>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: "Walzak, Phil" <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Ragone, Peter" <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Hagelgans, Andrea" <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Anthony Shorris <AShorris@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Williams, Dominic" <DWilliams@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Richardson, Jerika" <JLRichardson@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: Pls edits

Are we supposed to get on this call now?

From: Carey, Michael
Sent: Sunday, January 04, 2015 06:31 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Ragone, Peter; Hagelgans, Andrea; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic; Richardson, Jerika; Wolfe, Emma
Subject: Re: Pls edits

How much time you want JDC?

From: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>

Date: Sunday, January 4, 2015 at 6:30 PM

To: Michael Carey <mpcarey@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Cc: Phil Walzak <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Peter Ragone <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Andrea Hagelgans <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Anthony Shorris <AShorris@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Dominic Williams <DWilliams@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Richardson, Jerika" <JLRichardson@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Wolfe, Emma" <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Subject: Re: Pls edits

I'm headed back to my computer now, but generally, we need more time to make tweaks to Q and A if possible

On Jan 4, 2015, at 6:24 PM, Carey, Michael <MPCarey@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Supposed to talk again around 630 PM, but waiting for them to get back to GM.

From: <Walzak>, Phil Walzak <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Date: Sunday, January 4, 2015 at 6:23 PM

To: Peter Ragone <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Andrea Hagelgans <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Anthony Shorris <AShorris@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Dominic Williams <DWilliams@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Richardson, Jerika" <JLRichardson@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Wolfe, Emma" <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, Michael Carey <mpcarey@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Subject: Re: Pls edits

+mpc

And what do we want to achieve, from the convo @ 3 pm ?

From: Ragone, Peter

Sent: Sunday, January 04, 2015 06:22 PM

To: Hagelgans, Andrea; Walzak, Phil; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic; Richardson, Jerika; Wolfe, Emma; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>

Subject: Re: Pls edits

What time are we talking to him again?

From: Hagelgans, Andrea

Sent: Sunday, January 04, 2015 06:16 PM

To: Walzak, Phil; Ragone, Peter; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic; Richardson, Jerika; Wolfe, Emma; John Del Cecato (jfdc@akpdmedia.com) <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>

Subject: Pls edits

I have tried to punch up the language per his request. Pls edit quickly

Message Strategy

- <!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Focus on what matters – Protect and Respect
 - <!--[if !supportLists]-->○ <!--[endif]-->Keeping crime low
 - <!--[if !supportLists]-->○ <!--[endif]-->Bringing police and community closer together – because its good for both police AND community
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Reaffirm confidence in and support in NYPD and its leadership
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Use emotions strategically --- to draw the line and make clear work stoppages are unacceptable and will not be tolerated. New Yorkers expect that their police force is working and those who choose not to do their job can find another line of work.

Topline Themes Likely to Guide Every Question

- <!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Emotions: How did it make you feel when backs were turned? Is there anything you regret saying [ie, Dante comparison]? Were you surprised at the reaction?
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Apologies: Should you apologize to the NYPD? Should Lynch and others apologize to you?
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Cause and Effect: Do you believe your comments and actions have caused this escalation?
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Forward-looking: How do you and the City move forward? Now that you've met with the unions, what's next? How do you respond to claims that the first meeting was non-productive and what does that mean for future talks?

SAMPLE Q+A

Q: Should you apologize like some in the media have said? Should Lynch and others apologize to you?

A: Look, this isn't about how I feel. My focus is on keeping our City safe, keeping crime numbers low and bringing police and community together.

Q: Some in the NYPD have said comments about Dante in particular needing to take special care w police were offensive to them. What did you mean and do you regret those remarks?

<!--[if !supportLists]-->A. <!--[endif]-->
Our police officers do a dangerous and essential, but often thankless job. And striking the right balance between rigorously protecting public safety and respecting individuals is part of what makes the job so challenging. It must be done with extraordinary care and restraint. In turn, our police deserve our gratitude and our respect.

It is also true that at times, people of color have felt suspect simply because of how they look. That sense of distrust doesn't make policing any easier. It makes it more difficult.

The question we must ask ourselves is this: how do we keep EVERY New Yorker safe – whether they wear a suit and tie, a uniform, or a hoodie; whether they were the targets of stop and frisk policing, subjects of ugly, hate-filled taunts or despicable violent protests; or victims of a deranged individual who shamefully uses peaceful protests as a cover for his acts of unthinkable evil.

Q: Is there a police work slowdown happening right now, and if so what are you and the PC going to do to end it?

<!--[if !supportLists]-->A. <!--[endif]-->We know that typically after a police officer is killed there is a brief period of mourning. As Commissioner Bratton put it, a time for grieving. But let me be clear—New Yorkers will not tolerate any perceived slow down, the police Commissioner won't and I certainly won't. New Yorkers expect officers to do their job and to do it well. Those who can't should consider a new line of work. And for those few who are deliberately stopping/slowing or encouraging others to abdicate their responsibilities, there very well may be legal consequences.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->Q. <!--[endif]-->Are you exploring legal options?

<!--[if !supportLists]-->A. <!--[endif]-->I expect our cops to do their jobs and to do them admirably. And the NYPD is the finest in the country. If we perceive a slowdown, we will look at all options to keep New Yorkers safe.

Q: Next mtg with Lynch and the unions? What are next steps in that relationship? How do you repair and move forward?

Q: Reaction to those protestors who say and chant vile hateful things about the NYPD?

Q: Do you have any arrest updates on last month's assaults on police officers during a protest rally on the Brooklyn Bridge?

A: Last week, the NYPD arrested and charged a fifth suspect, 29 year-old Jarrod Shanahan in connection with the Brooklyn Bridge assault. Shanahan faces multiple charges, including assault on a police officer, resisting arrest, and obstructing governmental administration. Rest assured the Department with the full support of City Hall is doing everything in its power to ensure the perpetrators are apprehended held to account for their actions. That said, the Commissioner and his chiefs can provide you with more details on this specific arrest.

Q: This year police officer shooting deaths increased 56%. Given the current climate and the rise in death threats from anti-police extremists, what are you doing to protect the City's police officers? Is your rhetoric at all responsible for this climate?

A: No, this was the act of a deranged individual, pure and simple.

We've put safety first in this administration by increasing police resources, expanding camera use in all five boroughs, and maintaining force levels. Since the tragic shootings of Officer Ramos and Officer Liu, we've doubled down and now have officers on foot patrols working in pairs and uniformed sentries now guard each precinct station house. The NYPD is actively monitoring social media and investigating any threats against police officers that come through that or any other medium. And I'd like to continue to urge the public to be vigilant and report any suspicious activity they see or hear. We must work together to prevent a tragedy like this from ever happening again.

Q: On Friday, the Commissioner issued a memo to the entire Department outlining his expectations for how members of the Department should behave at Officer Liu's funeral. Were you aware of the memo? Did he do this at your request?

A: The Commissioner has been a law enforcement leader for decades. He is a smart, independent, and principled public servant. While I do agree with the tenor of his statement and believe that funerals, especially one's where we are honoring one of our City's fallen, are solemn occasions that should be devoid of politics, the Commissioner certainly doesn't need any micro-managing for me. I respect his judgment, and I leave it to his discretion as to what he should and shouldn't say to his officers.

Q: Officer Liu was laid to rest this past weekend. What do you say to those who reacted negatively to your involvement in the funeral?

A: Officer Liu was an example of the best of what this City has to offer. And words can't express how profoundly his tragic death has impacted all of us. We lost a dedicated public servant who answered the call to protect and serve this great city, and Officer Liu deserves our gratitude and respect. This was not about politics, it was about taking the time to honor his memory and support his family.

Q: What about the cops who turned their backs on you? How did you take that?

A: It was the actions of a few – I certainly heard from New Yorkers who were upset to see some who would choose to politicize funerals in direct contrast to the families request. My focus is on how we make sure this City is safe, continue to the low-crime rates, honor the memories of the two men we've lost; protect our officers from future acts; and begin to heal our city.

Q: How do you respond to those who turned their backs or who made statements, such as you have "blood on your hands?"

A: Short answer – No, I do not believe that nor do I think the majority of New Yorkers believe that. That's the kind of divisive politics that does nothing to move this City forward.,

If people want to politicize someone's funeral, that's on them and you can ask them what they think of that. I've got a job to do as Mayor. We've kept crime low and we're remaking the relationship between police and community. No number of baseless attacks are going to stop us from getting their together.

Q: Earlier this morning a hearing was held in Staten Island to review petition requests seeking transcripts, instructions and evidence from the grand jury that investigated the death of Eric Garner but decided not to indict the police officer involved in his chokehold death in July. Do you believe those transcripts should be unsealed?

A: For many people there are obviously a lot of unanswered questions. The death of Eric Garner was an unspeakable tragedy. I understand their desire for more information and transparency. But, I'm not going to weigh in on what should ultimately happen with the transcripts. That is for a judge to decide, and I believe it is important to allow the judicial process to play out as it ultimately will.

Q: Some say they haven't seen police-community relations this bad since the David Dinkins era.

A: We've been through a lot as a city over the past few months. But it's not just here in New York. It's a conversation we're having across the country. I think we need to see it through that lens. We are making progress, reduction in stops or example. We will continue the work. Playing the long game, and am confident we are going in the right direction.

Q: There's a petition circulating suggesting that you resign.

A: I understand that in the middle of an act of senseless violence, humannature causes us to look for someone to blame – some way to make sense of it all. But I don't think injecting politics into the middle of tragedy is the way forward. I am confident this Administration has the confidence and support of the people of NYC.

Q: The killer said that this was an act of retribution for Garner. Doesn't that make it political right there? Isn't that exactly what people were protesting in New York – the people you spoke to and defended.

A: This was a deranged individual with a history of violence...a gang-member from Baltimore who allegedly shot his ex-girlfriend there before coming to New York to continue his unspeakable acts. Just because he cloaked his act of violence in the words of non-violent protestors does not mean he speaks for those peaceful protesters any more than Timothy McVeigh spoke for those who advocate for smaller government. This was an act of evil, pure and simple.

Q: Are you worried about copy-cats – like the attempted shooting in the Bronx? Should New Yorkers expect this to continue?

A: The people of New York should know that they are safe; that their city and their police force are here to protect them; and that we will work together to ensure that the violence ends. We will double-down on the extraordinary work the NYPD is already doing, and we will stamp out the violence. And we will have our cops' backs.

Q: But aren't cops going to be afraid to go to work now?

A: Anyone who says that underestimates the courage and valor of our police officer here in New York. These men and women put their lives on the line every day, and they aren't going to be deterred from doing their jobs. They don't intimidate easy; they act heroically, and will continue to do so.

Q: There are those who've suggested that your own police security detail should ease up on protecting you. Did you take that as a threat?

A: New York City police officers have been protecting me and my family for decades – including the years before I ever entered public life. They protected me as a resident of New York City – just like they protect millions of families like mine every day. I know these men and women, they are professionals who take their duty seriously and I have immense respect for the job they do.

One-Liners

"If people want to use a solemn occasion like a funeral to make a political statement, that's on them, you need to ask them why they chose to do it."

"Some cops may have turned their backs on me, but I will never turn my backs on the cops nor the people they serve. Anyone else who tells you otherwise isn't being honest."

"I know being Mayor is a tough job, I signed up for it. But. I know our cops have a tougher job and they signed up for it too. Don't let anyone tell you I don't get that."

"Don't take my word for it, look at what we've done together. Crime is lower, we dramatically reduced stop-and-frisk together and we've made big investments in our cops. Let's drop the rhetoric here and talk about the great things we've done together."

"After the Eric Garner I said black lives matter, and I won't take that back. But don't let anyone tell you I don't believe that blue lives matter. You bet they do and we know that our cops are partners in of the new relationship we're forging with the people we in city government all serve."

Andrea Hagelgans
Office of the Mayor
Direct – 212.341.5372

Cell – 718.679.8965
ahagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Carey, Michael
To: Walzak, Phil; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Wolfe, Emma
Cc: Ragone, Peter; Hagelgans, Andrea; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic; Richardson, Jerika
Subject: Re: Pls edits
Date: Sunday, January 04, 2015 7:19:58 PM

Dial in plz

From: <Walzak>, Phil Walzak <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Sunday, January 4, 2015 at 7:19 PM
To: Michael Carey <mpcarey@cityhall.nyc.gov>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, "Wolfe, Emma" <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: Peter Ragone <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Andrea Hagelgans <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Anthony Shorris <AShorris@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Dominic Williams <DWilliams@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Richardson, Jerika" <JLRichardson@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: Pls edits

Sense of when?

From: Carey, Michael
Sent: Sunday, January 04, 2015 07:07 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Wolfe, Emma
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Ragone, Peter; Hagelgans, Andrea; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic; Richardson, Jerika
Subject: Re: Pls edits

U can pop off unless you want to chat before hand. He won't be on for another 10 at least.

From: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Date: Sunday, January 4, 2015 at 7:06 PM
To: "Wolfe, Emma" <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Michael Carey <mpcarey@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: Phil Walzak <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Peter Ragone <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Andrea Hagelgans <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Anthony Shorris <AShorris@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Dominic Williams <DWilliams@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Richardson, Jerika" <JLRichardson@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: Pls edits

I am on

From: <Wolfe>, Emma <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Sunday, January 4, 2015 at 7:06 PM
To: "Carey, Michael" <MPCarey@cityhall.nyc.gov>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: "Walzak, Phil" <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Ragone, Peter" <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Hagelgans, Andrea" <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Anthony Shorris <AShorris@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Williams, Dominic" <DWilliams@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Richardson, Jerika" <JLRichardson@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: Pls edits

Are we supposed to get on this call now?

From: Carey, Michael
Sent: Sunday, January 04, 2015 06:31 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Ragone, Peter; Hagelgans, Andrea; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic; Richardson, Jerika; Wolfe, Emma
Subject: Re: Pls edits

How much time you want JDC?

From: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Date: Sunday, January 4, 2015 at 6:30 PM
To: Michael Carey <mpcarey@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: Phil Walzak <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Peter Ragone <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Andrea Hagelgans <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Anthony Shorris <AShorris@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Dominic Williams <DWilliams@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Richardson, Jerika" <JLRichardson@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Wolfe, Emma" <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: Pls edits

I'm headed back to my computer now, but generally, we need more time to make tweaks to Q and A if possible

On Jan 4, 2015, at 6:24 PM, Carey, Michael <MPCarey@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Supposed to talk again around 630 PM, but waiting for them to get back to GM.

From: <Walzak>, Phil Walzak <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Sunday, January 4, 2015 at 6:23 PM
To: Peter Ragone <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Andrea Hagelgans <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Anthony Shorris <AShorris@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Dominic Williams <DWilliams@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Richardson, Jerika" <JLRichardson@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Wolfe, Emma" <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, Michael Carey <mpcarey@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: Pls edits

+mpc

And what do we want to achieve, from the convo @ 3 pm ?

From: Ragone, Peter
Sent: Sunday, January 04, 2015 06:22 PM
To: Hagelgans, Andrea; Walzak, Phil; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic; Richardson,

Jerika; Wolfe, Emma; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Pls edits

What time are we talking to him again?

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
Sent: Sunday, January 04, 2015 06:16 PM
To: Walzak, Phil; Ragone, Peter; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic; Richardson, Jerika; Wolfe, Emma; John Del Cecato (jfdc@akpdmedia.com) <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Pls edits

I have tried to punch up the language per his request. Pls edit quickly

Message Strategy

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Focus on what matters – Protect and Respect
 <!--[if !supportLists]-->○ <!--[endif]-->Keeping crime low
 <!--[if !supportLists]-->○ <!--[endif]-->Bringing police and community closer together – because its good for both police AND community

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Reaffirm confidence in and support in NYPD and its leadership

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Use emotions strategically --- to draw the line and make clear work stoppages are unacceptable and will not be tolerated. New Yorkers expect that their police force is working and those who choose not to do their job can find another line of work.

Topline Themes Likely to Guide Every Question

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Emotions: How did it make you feel when backs were turned? Is there anything you regret saying [ie, Dante comparison]? Were you surprised at the reaction?

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Apologies: Should you apologize to the NYPD? Should Lynch and others apologize to you?

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Cause and Effect: Do you believe your comments and actions have caused this escalation?

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Forward-looking: How do you and the City move forward? Now that you've met with the unions, what's next? How do you respond to claims that the first meeting was non-productive and what does that mean for future talks?

SAMPLE Q+A

Q: Should you apologize like some in the media have said? Should Lynch and others apologize to you?

A: Look, this isn't about how I feel. My focus is on keeping our City safe, keeping crime numbers low and bringing police and community together.

Q: Some in the NYPD have said comments about Dante in particular needing to take special care w police were offensive to them. What did you mean and do you regret those remarks?

<!--[if !supportLists]-->A. <!--[endif]-->
Our police officers do a dangerous and essential, but often thankless job. And striking the right balance between rigorously protecting public safety and respecting individuals is part of what makes the job so challenging. It must be done with extraordinary care and restraint. In turn, our police deserve our gratitude and our respect.

It is also true that at times, people of color have felt suspect simply because of how they look. That sense of distrust doesn't make policing any easier. It makes it more difficult.

The question we must ask ourselves is this: how do we keep EVERY New Yorker safe – whether they wear a suit and tie, a uniform, or a hoodie; whether they were the targets of stop and frisk policing, subjects of ugly, hate-filled taunts or despicable violent protests; or victims of a deranged individual who shamefully uses peaceful protests as a cover for his acts of unthinkable evil.

Q: Is there a police work slowdown happening right now, and if so what are you and the PC going to do to end it?

<!--[if !supportLists]-->A. <!--[endif]-->We know that typically after a police officer is killed there is a brief period of mourning. As Commissioner Bratton put it, a time for grieving. But let me be clear—New Yorkers will not tolerate any perceived slow down, the police Commissioner won't and I certainly won't. New Yorkers expect officers to do their job and to do it well. Those who can't should consider a new line of work. And for those few who are deliberately stopping/slowing or encouraging others to abdicate their responsibilities, there very well may be legal consequences.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->Q. <!--[endif]-->Are you exploring legal options?

<!--[if !supportLists]-->A. <!--[endif]-->I expect our cops to do their jobs and to do them admirably. And the NYPD is the finest in the country. If we perceive a slowdown, we will look at all options to keep New Yorkers safe.

Q: Next mtg with Lynch and the unions? What are next steps in that relationship? How do you repair and move forward?

Q: Reaction to those protestors who say and chant vile hateful things about the NYPD?

Q: Do you have any arrest updates on last month's assaults on police officers during a protest rally on the Brooklyn Bridge?

A: Last week, the NYPD arrested and charged a fifth suspect, 29 year-old Jarrod Shanahan in connection with the Brooklyn Bridge assault. Shanahan faces multiple charges, including assault on a police officer, resisting arrest, and obstructing governmental administration. Rest assured the Department with the full support of City Hall is doing everything in its power to ensure the perpetrators are apprehended held to account for their actions. That said, the Commissioner and his chiefs can provide you with more details on this specific arrest.

Q: This year police officer shooting deaths increased 56%. Given the current climate and the rise in death threats from anti-police extremists, what are you doing to protect the City's police officers? Is your rhetoric at all responsible for this climate?

A: No, this was the act of a deranged individual, pure and simple.

We've put safety first in this administration by increasing police resources, expanding camera use in all five boroughs, and maintaining force levels. Since the tragic shootings of Officer Ramos and Officer Liu, we've doubled down and now have officers on foot patrols working in pairs and uniformed sentries now guard each precinct station house. The NYPD is actively monitoring social media and investigating any threats against police officers that come through that or any other medium. And I'd like to continue to urge the public to be vigilant and report any suspicious activity they see or hear. We must work together to prevent a tragedy like this from ever happening again.

Q: On Friday, the Commissioner issued a memo to the entire Department outlining his expectations for how members of the Department should behave at Officer Liu's funeral. Were you aware of the memo? Did he do this at your request?

A: The Commissioner has been a law enforcement leader for decades. He is a smart, independent, and principled public servant. While I do agree with the tenor of his statement and believe that funerals, especially one's where we are honoring one of our City's fallen, are solemn occasions that should be devoid of politics, the Commissioner certainly doesn't need any micro-managing for me. I respect his judgment, and I leave it to his discretion as to what he should and shouldn't say to his officers.

Q: Officer Liu was laid to rest this past weekend. What do you say to those who reacted negatively to your involvement in the funeral?

A: Officer Liu was an example of the best of what this City has to offer. And words can't express how profoundly his tragic death has impacted all of us. We lost a dedicated public servant who answered the call to protect and serve this great city, and Officer Liu deserves our gratitude and respect. This was not about politics, it was about taking the time to honor his memory and support his family.

Q: What about the cops who turned their backs on you? How did you take that?

A: It was the actions of a few – I certainly heard from New Yorkers who were upset to see some who would choose to politicize funerals in direct contrast to the families request. My focus is on how we make sure this City is safe, continue to the low-crime rates, honor the memories of the two men we've lost; protect our officers from future acts; and begin to heal our city.

Q: How do you respond to those who turned their backs or who made statements, such as you have "blood on your hands?"

A: Short answer – No, I do not believe that nor do I think the majority of New Yorkers believe that. That's the kind of divisive politics that does nothing to move this City forward.,

If people want to politicize someone's funeral, that's on them and you can ask them what they think of that. I've got a job to do as Mayor. We've kept crime low and we're remaking the relationship between police and community. No number of baseless attacks are going to stop us from getting their together.

Q: Earlier this morning a hearing was held in Staten Island to review petition requests seeking transcripts, instructions and evidence from the grand jury that investigated the death of Eric Garner but decided not to indict the police officer involved in his chokehold death in July. Do you believe those transcripts should be unsealed?

A: For many people there are obviously a lot of unanswered questions. The death of Eric Garner was an unspeakable tragedy. I understand their desire for more information and transparency. But, I'm not going to weigh in on what should ultimately happen with the transcripts. That is for a judge to decide, and I believe it is important to allow the judicial process to play out as it ultimately will.

Q: Some say they haven't seen police-community relations this bad since the David Dinkins era.

A: We've been through a lot as a city over the past few months. But it's not just here in New York. It's a conversation we're having across the country. I think we need to see it through that lens. We are making progress, reduction in stops or example. We will continue the work. Playing the long game, and am confident we are going in the right direction.

Q: There's a petition circulating suggesting that you resign.

A: I understand that in the middle of an act of senseless violence, humannature causes us to look for someone to blame – some way to make sense of it all. But I don't think injecting politics into the middle of tragedy is the way forward. I am confident this Administration has the confidence and support of the people of NYC.

Q: The killer said that this was an act of retribution for Garner. Doesn't that make it political right there? Isn't that exactly what people were protesting in New York – the people you spoke to and defended.

A: This was a deranged individual with a history of violence...a gang-member from Baltimore who allegedly shot his ex-girlfriend there before coming to New York to continue his unspeakable acts. Just because he cloaked his act of violence in the words of non-violent protestors does not mean he speaks for those peaceful protestors any more than Timothy McVeigh spoke for those who advocate for smaller government. This was an act of evil, pure and simple.

Q: Are you worried about copy-cats – like the attempted shooting in the Bronx? Should New Yorkers expect this to continue?

A: The people of New York should know that they are safe; that their city and their police force are here to protect them; and that we will work together to ensure that the violence ends. We will double-down on the extraordinary work the NYPD is already doing, and we will stamp out the violence. And we will have our cops' backs.

Q: But aren't cops going to be afraid to go to work now?

A: Anyone who says that underestimates the courage and valor of our police officer here in New York. These men and women put their lives on the line every day, and they aren't going to be deterred from doing their jobs. They don't intimidate easy; they act heroically, and will continue to do so.

Q: There are those who've suggested that your own police security detail should ease up on protecting you. Did you take that as a threat?

A: New York City police officers have been protecting me and my family for decades – including the years before I ever entered public life. They protected me as a resident of New York City – just like they protect millions of families like mine every day. I know these men and women, they are professionals who take their duty seriously and I have immense respect for the job they do.

One-Liners

"If people want to use a solemn occasion like a funeral to make a political statement, that's on them, you need to ask them why they chose to do it."

"Some cops may have turned their backs on me, but I will never turn my backs on the cops nor the people they serve. Anyone else who tells you otherwise isn't being honest."

"I know being Mayor is a tough job, I signed up for it. But. I know our cops have a tougher job and they signed up for it too. Don't let anyone tell you I don't get that."

"Don't take my word for it, look at what we've done together. Crime is lower, we dramatically reduced stop-and-frisk together and we've made big investments in our cops. Let's drop the rhetoric here and talk about the great things we've done together."

"After the Eric Garner I said black lives matter, and I won't take that back. But don't let anyone tell you I don't believe that blue lives matter. You bet they do and we know that our cops are partners in of the new relationship we're forging with the people we in city government all serve."

Andrea Hagelgans
Office of the Mayor
Direct – 212.341.5372
Cell – 718.679.8965
ahagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: John Del Cecato
To: Walzak, Phil; Ragone, Peter; Hagelgans, Andrea; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic; Richardson, Jerika; Wolfe, Emma; Carey, Michael
Subject: Re: Pls edits
Date: Sunday, January 04, 2015 7:22:09 PM

Just sort of an attitude that we have a Long View & a game plan - that we're not on defense, but have an offense that we are executing in time... Think of how he acted during Ebola freak-out

From: <Walzak>, Phil <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Sunday, January 4, 2015 at 7:19 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, "Ragone, Peter" <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Hagelgans, Andrea" <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Anthony Shorris <AShorris@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Williams, Dominic" <DWilliams@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Richardson, Jerika" <JLRichardson@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Wolfe, Emma" <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Carey, Michael" <MPCarey@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: Pls edits

I still don't fully get #3

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Sunday, January 04, 2015 07:08 PM
To: Walzak, Phil; Ragone, Peter; Hagelgans, Andrea; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic; Richardson, Jerika; Wolfe, Emma; Carey, Michael
Subject: Re: Pls edits

My bottom line on what to achieve:

- * Strong & in charge, standing up straight.
- * If cops are going to fuck around with their jobs, they will be fired. (I know we can't quite say that.)
- * MBDB has a plan & knows something the reporters don't know (and the public doesn't know) - leave them feeling like we're holding back an Ace in our pocket.

From: <Walzak>, Phil <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Sunday, January 4, 2015 at 6:23 PM
To: "Ragone, Peter" <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Hagelgans, Andrea" <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Anthony Shorris <AShorris@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Williams, Dominic" <DWilliams@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Richardson, Jerika" <JLRichardson@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Wolfe, Emma" <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, "Carey, Michael" <MPCarey@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: Pls edits

+mpc

And what do we want to achieve, from the convo @ 3 pm ?

From: Ragone, Peter
Sent: Sunday, January 04, 2015 06:22 PM

To: Hagelgans, Andrea; Walzak, Phil; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic; Richardson, Jerika; Wolfe, Emma; jfdc@akpdmedia.com <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Pls edits

What time are we talking to him again?

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
Sent: Sunday, January 04, 2015 06:16 PM
To: Walzak, Phil; Ragone, Peter; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic; Richardson, Jerika; Wolfe, Emma; John Del Cecato (jfdc@akpdmedia.com) <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Pls edits

I have tried to punch up the language per his request. Pls edit quickly

Message Strategy

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Focus on what matters – Protect and Respect
<!--[if !supportLists]-->○ <!--[endif]-->Keeping crime low
<!--[if !supportLists]-->○ <!--[endif]-->Bringing police and community closer together –
because its good for both police AND community

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Reaffirm confidence in and support in NYPD and its leadership
<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Use emotions strategically --- to draw the line and make clear work stoppages are unacceptable and will not be tolerated. New Yorkers expect that their police force is working and those who choose not to do their job can find another line
of work.

Topline Themes Likely to Guide Every Question

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Emotions: How did it make you feel when backs were turned? Is there anything you regret saying [ie, Dante comparison]? Were you surprised at the reaction?

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Apologies: Should you apologize to the NYPD? Should Lynch and others apologize to you?

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Cause and Effect: Do you believe your comments and actions have caused this escalation?

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Forward-looking: How do you and the City move forward? Now that you've met with the unions, what's next? How do you respond to claims that the first meeting was non-productive and what does that mean for future talks?

SAMPLE Q+A

Q: Should you apologize like some in the media have said? Should Lynch and others apologize to you?

A: Look, this isn't about how I feel. My focus is on keeping our City safe, keeping crime numbers low and bringing police and community together.

Q: Some in the NYPD have said comments about Dante in particular needing to take special care w police were offensive to them. What did you mean and do you regret those remarks?

<!--[if !supportLists]-->A. <!--[endif]-->

Our police officers do a dangerous and essential, but often thankless job. And striking the right balance between rigorously protecting public safety and respecting individuals is part of what makes the job so challenging. It must be done with extraordinary care and restraint. In turn, our police deserve our gratitude and our respect.

It is also true that at times, people of color have felt suspect simply because of how they look. That sense of distrust doesn't make policing any easier. It makes it more difficult.

The question we must ask ourselves is this: how do we keep EVERY New Yorker safe – whether they wear a suit and tie, a uniform, or a hoodie; whether they were the targets of stop and frisk policing, subjects of ugly, hate-filled taunts or despicable violent protests; or victims of a deranged individual who shamefully uses peaceful protests as a cover for his acts of unthinkable evil.

Q: Is there a police work slowdown happening right now, and if so what are you and the PC going to do to end it?

<!--[if !supportLists]-->A. <!--[endif]-->We know that typically after a police officer is killed there is a brief period of mourning. As Commissioner Bratton put it, a time for grieving. But let me be clear—New Yorkers will not tolerate any perceived slow down, the police Commissioner won't and I certainly won't. New Yorkers expect officers to do their job and to do it well. Those who can't should consider a new line of work. And for those few who are deliberately stopping/slowing or encouraging others to abdicate their responsibilities, there very well may be legal consequences.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->Q. <!--[endif]-->Are you exploring legal options?

<!--[if !supportLists]-->A. <!--[endif]-->I expect our cops to do their jobs and to do them admirably. And the NYPD is the finest in the country. If we perceive a slowdown, we will look at all options to keep New Yorkers safe.

Q: Next mtg with Lynch and the unions? What are next steps in that relationship? How do you repair and move forward?

Q: Reaction to those protestors who say and chant vile hateful things about the NYPD?

Q: Do you have any arrest updates on last month's assaults on police officers during a protest rally on the Brooklyn Bridge?

A: Last week, the NYPD arrested and charged a fifth suspect, 29 year-old Jarrod Shanahan in connection with the Brooklyn Bridge assault. Shanahan faces multiple charges, including assault on a police officer, resisting arrest, and obstructing governmental administration. Rest assured the Department with the full support of City Hall is doing everything in its power to ensure the perpetrators are apprehended held to account for their actions. That said, the Commissioner and his chiefs can provide you with more details on this specific arrest.

Q: This year police officer shooting deaths increased 56%. Given the current climate and the rise in death threats from anti-police extremists, what are you doing to protect the City's police officers? Is your rhetoric at all responsible for this climate?

A: No, this was the act of a deranged individual, pure and simple.

We've put safety first in this administration by increasing police resources, expanding camera use in all five boroughs, and maintaining force levels. Since the tragic shootings of Officer Ramos and Officer Liu, we've doubled down and now have officers on foot patrols working in pairs and uniformed sentries now guard each precinct station house. The NYPD is actively monitoring social media and investigating any threats against police officers that come through that or any other medium. And I'd like to continue to urge the public to be vigilant and report any suspicious activity they see or hear. We must work together to prevent a tragedy like this from ever happening again.

Q: On Friday, the Commissioner issued a memo to the entire Department outlining his expectations for how members of the Department should behave at Officer Liu's funeral. Where you aware of the memo? Did he do this at your request?

A: The Commissioner has been a law enforcement leader for decades. He is a smart, independent, and principled public servant. While I do agree with the tenor of his statement and believe that funerals, especially one's where we are honoring one of our City's fallen, are solemn occasions that should be devoid of politics, the Commissioner certainly doesn't need any micro-managing for me. I respect his judgment, and I leave it to his discretion as to what he should and shouldn't say to his officers.

Q: Officer Liu was laid to rest this past weekend. What do you say to those who reacted negatively to your involvement in the funeral?

A: Officer Liu was an example of the best of what this City has to offer. And words can't express how profoundly his tragic death has impacted all of us. We lost a dedicated public servant who answered the call to protect and serve this great city, and Officer Liu deserves our gratitude and respect. This was not about politics, it was about taking the time to honor his memory and support his family.

Q: What about the cops who turned their backs on you? How did you take that?

A: It was the actions of a few – I certainly heard from New Yorkers who were upset to see some who would choose to politicize funerals in direct contrast to the families request. My focus is on how we make sure this City is safe, continue to the low-crime rates, honor the memories of the two men we've lost; protect our officers from future acts; and begin to heal our city.

Q: How do you respond to those who turned their backs or who made statements, such as you have "blood on your hands?"

A: Short answer – No, I do not believe that nor do I think the majority of New Yorkers believe that. That's the kind of divisive politics that does nothing to move this City forward.,

If people want to politicize someone's funeral, that's on them and you can ask them what they think of that. I've got a job to do as Mayor. We've kept crime low and we're remaking the relationship between police and community. No number of baseless attacks are going to stop us from getting their together.

Q: Earlier this morning a hearing was held in Staten Island to review petition requests seeking transcripts, instructions and evidence from the grand jury that investigated the death of Eric Garner but decided not to indict the police officer involved in his chokehold death in July. Do you believe those transcripts should be unsealed?

A: For many people there are obviously a lot of unanswered questions. The death of Eric Garner was an unspeakable tragedy. I understand their desire for more information and transparency. But, I'm not going to weigh in on what should ultimately happen with the transcripts. That is for a judge to decide, and I believe it is important to allow the judicial process to play out as it ultimately will.

Q: Some say they haven't seen police-community relations this bad since the David Dinkins era.

A: We've been through a lot as a city over the past few months. But it's not just here in New York. It's a conversation we're having across the country. I think we need to see it through that lens. We are making progress, reduction in stops or example. We will continue the work. Playing the long game, and am confident we are going in the right direction.

Q: There's a petition circulating suggesting that you resign.

A: I understand that in the middle of an act of senseless violence, humannature causes us to look for someone to blame – some way to make sense of it all. But I don't think injecting politics into the middle of tragedy is the way forward. I am confident this Administration has the confidence and support of the people of NYC.

Q: The killer said that this was an act of retribution for Garner. Doesn't that make it political right there? Isn't that exactly what people were protesting in New York – the people you spoke to and defended.

A: This was a deranged individual with a history of violence...a gang-member from Baltimore who allegedly shot his ex-girlfriend there before coming to New York to continue his unspeakable acts. Just because he cloaked his act of violence in the words of non-violent protestors does not mean he speaks for those peaceful protestors any more than Timothy McVeigh spoke for those who advocate for smaller government. This was an act of evil, pure and simple.

Q: Are you worried about copy-cats – like the attempted shooting in the Bronx? Should New Yorkers expect this to continue?

A: The people of New York should know that they are safe; that their city and their police force are here to protect them; and that we will work together to ensure that the violence ends. We will double-down on the extraordinary work the NYPD is already doing, and we will stamp out the violence. And we will have our cops' backs.

Q: But aren't cops going to be afraid to go to work now?

A: Anyone who says that underestimates the courage and valor of our police officer here in New York. These men and women put their lives on the line every day, and they aren't going to be deterred from doing their jobs. They don't intimidate easy; they act heroically, and will continue to do so.

Q: There are those who've suggested that your own police security detail should ease up on protecting you. Did you take that as a threat?

A: New York City police officers have been protecting me and my family for decades –including the years before I ever entered public life. They protected me as a resident of New York City – just like they protect millions of families like mine every day. I know these men and women, they are professionals who take their duty seriously and I have immense respect for the job they do.

One-Liners

"If people want to use a solemn occasion like a funeral to make a political statement, that's on them, you need to ask them why they chose to do it."

"Some cops may have turned their backs on me, but I will never turn my backs on the cops nor the people they serve. Anyone else who tells you otherwise isn't being honest."

"I know being Mayor is a tough job, I signed up for it. But. I know our cops have a tougher job and they signed up for it too. Don't let anyone tell you I don't get that."

"Don't take my word for it, look at what we've done together. Crime is lower, we dramatically reduced stop-and-frisk together and we've made big investments in our cops. Let's drop the rhetoric here and talk about the great things we've done together."

"After the Eric Garner I said black lives matter, and I won't take that back. But don't let anyone tell you I don't believe that blue lives matter. You bet they do and we know that our cops are partners in of the new relationship we're forging with the people we in city government all serve."

Andrea Hagelgans
Office of the Mayor
Direct – 212.341.5372
Cell – 718.679.8965
ahagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Richardson, Jerika
To: Walzak, Phil; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Wolfe, Emma
Cc: Ragone, Peter; Hagelgans, Andrea; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic
Subject: Updated Crimes Stats Briefing Memo & Q&A - We're still waiting on stats
Date: Monday, January 05, 2015 12:19:28 PM
Attachments: 01_05_15 Crime Stats Briefing Memo v2.docx

From: Carey, Michael
Sent: Sunday, January 04, 2015 7:20 PM
To: Walzak, Phil; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; Wolfe, Emma
Cc: Ragone, Peter; Hagelgans, Andrea; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic; Richardson, Jerika
Subject: Re: Pls edits

Dial in plz

From: <Walzak>, Phil Walzak <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Sunday, January 4, 2015 at 7:19 PM
To: Michael Carey <mpcarey@cityhall.nyc.gov>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, "Wolfe, Emma" <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: Peter Ragone <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Andrea Hagelgans <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Anthony Shorris <AShorris@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Dominic Williams <DWilliams@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Richardson, Jerika" <JLRichardson@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: Pls edits

Sense of when?

From: Carey, Michael
Sent: Sunday, January 04, 2015 07:07 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Wolfe, Emma
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Ragone, Peter; Hagelgans, Andrea; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic; Richardson, Jerika
Subject: Re: Pls edits

U can pop off unless you want to chat before hand. He won't be on for another 10 at least.

From: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Date: Sunday, January 4, 2015 at 7:06 PM
To: "Wolfe, Emma" <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Michael Carey <mpcarey@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: Phil Walzak <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Peter Ragone <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Andrea Hagelgans <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Anthony Shorris <AShorris@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Dominic Williams <DWilliams@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Richardson, Jerika" <JLRichardson@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: Pls edits

I am on

From: <Wolfe>, Emma <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Sunday, January 4, 2015 at 7:06 PM
To: "Carey, Michael" <MPCarey@cityhall.nyc.gov>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: "Walzak, Phil" <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Ragone, Peter" <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Hagelgans, Andrea" <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Anthony Shorris <AShorris@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Williams, Dominic" <DWilliams@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Richardson, Jerika" <JLRichardson@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: Pls edits

Are we supposed to get on this call now?

From: Carey, Michael
Sent: Sunday, January 04, 2015 06:31 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Ragone, Peter; Hagelgans, Andrea; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic; Richardson, Jerika; Wolfe, Emma
Subject: Re: Pls edits

How much time you want JDC?

From: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Date: Sunday, January 4, 2015 at 6:30 PM
To: Michael Carey <mpcarey@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: Phil Walzak <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Peter Ragone <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Andrea Hagelgans <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Anthony Shorris <AShorris@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Dominic Williams <DWilliams@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Richardson, Jerika" <JLRichardson@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Wolfe, Emma" <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: Pls edits

I'm headed back to my computer now, but generally, we need more time to make tweaks to Q and A if possible

On Jan 4, 2015, at 6:24 PM, Carey, Michael <MPCarey@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Supposed to talk again around 630 PM, but waiting for them to get back to GM.

From: <Walzak>, Phil Walzak <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Sunday, January 4, 2015 at 6:23 PM
To: Peter Ragone <pragone@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Andrea Hagelgans <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Anthony Shorris <AShorris@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Dominic Williams <DWilliams@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Richardson, Jerika" <JLRichardson@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Wolfe, Emma" <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, Michael Carey <mpcarey@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Subject: Re: Pls edits

+mpc

And what do we want to achieve, from the convo @ 3 pm ?

From: Ragone, Peter

Sent: Sunday, January 04, 2015 06:22 PM

To: Hagelgans, Andrea; Walzak, Phil; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic; Richardson, Jerika; Wolfe, Emma; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>

Subject: Re: Pls edits

What time are we talking to him again?

From: Hagelgans, Andrea

Sent: Sunday, January 04, 2015 06:16 PM

To: Walzak, Phil; Ragone, Peter; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic; Richardson, Jerika; Wolfe, Emma; John Del Cecato (jfdc@akpdmedia.com) <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>

Subject: Pls edits

I have tried to punch up the language per his request. Pls edit quickly

Message Strategy

- Focus on what matters – Protect and Respect
 - Keeping crime low
 - Bringing police and community closer together – because its good for both police AND community
- Reaffirm confidence in and support in NYPD and its leadership
- Use emotions strategically --- to draw the line and make clear work stoppages are unacceptable and will not be tolerated. New Yorkers expect that their police force is working and those who choose not to do their job can find another line of work.

Topline Themes Likely to Guide Every Question

- Emotions: How did it make you feel when backs were turned? Is there anything you regret saying [ie, Dante comparison]? Were you surprised at the reaction?
- Apologies: Should you apologize to the NYPD? Should Lynch and others apologize to you?
- Cause and Effect: Do you believe your comments and actions have caused this escalation?

- Forward-looking: How do you and the City move forward? Now that you've met with the unions, what's next? How do you respond to claims that the first meeting was non-productive and what does that mean for future talks?

SAMPLE Q+A

Q: Should you apologize like some in the media have said? Should Lynch and others apologize to you?

A: Look, this isn't about how I feel. My focus is on keeping our City safe, keeping crime numbers low and bringing police and community together.

Q: Some in the NYPD have said comments about Dante in particular needing to take special care w police were offensive to them. What did you mean and do you regret those remarks?

A.

Our police officers do a dangerous and essential, but often thankless job. And striking the right balance between rigorously protecting public safety and respecting individuals is part of what makes the job so challenging. It must be done with extraordinary care and restraint. In turn, our police deserve our gratitude and our respect.

It is also true that at times, people of color have felt suspect simply because of how they look. That sense of distrust doesn't make policing any easier. It makes it more difficult.

The question we must ask ourselves is this: how do we keep EVERY New Yorker safe – whether they wear a suit and tie, a uniform, or a hoodie; whether they were the targets of stop and frisk policing, subjects of ugly, hate-filled taunts or despicable violent protests; or victims of a deranged individual who shamefully uses peaceful protests as a cover for his acts of unthinkable evil.

Q: Is there a police work slowdown happening right now, and if so what are you and the PC going to do to end it?

- A. We know that typically after a police officer is killed there is a brief period of mourning. As Commissioner Bratton put it, a time for grieving. But let me be clear—New Yorkers will not tolerate any perceived slow down, the police Commissioner won't and I certainly won't. New Yorkers expect officers to do their job and to do it well. Those who can't should consider a new line of work. And for those few who are deliberately stopping/slowing or encouraging others to abdicate their responsibilities, there very well may be legal consequences.

Q. Are you exploring legal options?

A. I expect our cops to do their jobs and to do them admirably. And the NYPD is the finest in the country. If we perceive a slowdown, we will look at all options to keep New Yorkers safe.

Q: Next mtg with Lynch and the unions? What are next steps in that relationship? How do you repair and move forward?

Q: Reaction to those protestors who say and chant vile hateful things about the NYPD?

Q: Do you have any arrest updates on last month's assaults on police officers during a protest rally on the Brooklyn Bridge?

A: Last week, the NYPD arrested and charged a fifth suspect, 29 year-old Jarrod Shanahan in connection with the Brooklyn Bridge assault. Shanahan faces multiple charges, including assault on a police officer, resisting arrest, and obstructing governmental administration. Rest assured the Department with the full support of City Hall is doing everything in its power to ensure the perpetrators are apprehended held to account for their actions. That said, the Commissioner and his chiefs can provide you with more details on this specific arrest.

Q: This year police officer shooting deaths increased 56%. Given the current climate and the rise in death threats from anti-police extremists, what are you doing to protect the City's police officers? Is your rhetoric at all responsible for this climate?

A: No, this was the act of a deranged individual, pure and simple.

We've put safety first in this administration by increasing police resources, expanding camera use in all five boroughs, and maintaining force levels. Since the tragic shootings of Officer Ramos and Officer Liu, we've doubled down and now have officers on foot patrols working in pairs and uniformed sentries now guard each precinct station house. The NYPD is actively monitoring social media and investigating any threats against police officers that come through that or any other medium. And I'd like to continue to urge the public to be vigilant and report any suspicious activity they see or hear. We must work together to prevent a tragedy like this from ever happening again.

Q: On Friday, the Commissioner issued a memo to the entire Department outlining his expectations for how members of the Department should behave at Officer Liu's funeral. Were you aware of the memo? Did he do this at your request?

A: The Commissioner has been a law enforcement leader for decades. He is a smart, independent, and principled public servant. While I do agree with the tenor of his statement and believe that funerals, especially one's where we are honoring one of our City's fallen, are solemn occasions that should be devoid of politics, the Commissioner certainly doesn't need any micro-managing for me. I respect his judgment, and I leave it to his discretion as to what he should and shouldn't say to his officers.

Q: Officer Liu was laid to rest this past weekend. What do you say to those who reacted negatively to your involvement in the funeral?

A: Officer Liu was an example of the best of what this City has to offer. And words can't express how profoundly his tragic death has impacted all of us. We lost a dedicated public servant who answered the call to protect and serve this great city, and Officer Liu deserves our gratitude and respect. This was not about politics, it was about taking the time to honor his memory and support his family.

Q: What about the cops who turned their backs on you? How did you take that?

A: It was the actions of a few – I certainly heard from New Yorkers who were upset to see some who would choose to politicize funerals in direct contrast to the families request. My focus is on how we make sure this City is safe, continue to the low-crime rates, honor the memories of the two men we've lost; protect our officers from future acts; and begin to heal our city.

Q: How do you respond to those who turned their backs or who made statements, such as you have "blood on your hands?"

A: Short answer – No, I do not believe that nor do I think the majority of New Yorkers believe that. That's the kind of divisive politics that does nothing to move this City forward.,

If people want to politicize someone's funeral, that's on them and you can ask them what they think of that. I've got a job to do as Mayor. We've kept crime low and we're remaking the relationship between police and community. No number of baseless attacks are going to stop us from getting their together.

Q: Earlier this morning a hearing was held in Staten Island to review petition requests seeking transcripts, instructions and evidence from the grand jury that investigated the death of Eric Garner but decided not to indict the police officer involved in his chokehold death in July. Do you believe those transcripts should be unsealed?

A: For many people there are obviously a lot of unanswered questions. The death of Eric Garner was an unspeakable tragedy. I understand their desire for more information and transparency. But, I'm not going to weigh in on what should ultimately happen with the transcripts. That is for a judge to decide, and I believe it is important to allow the judicial process to play out as it ultimately will.

Q: Some say they haven't seen police-community relations this bad since the David Dinkins era.

A: We've been through a lot as a city over the past few months. But it's not just here in New York. It's a conversation we're having across the country. I think we need to see it through that lens. We are making progress, reduction in stops or example. We will continue the work. Playing the long game, and am confident we are going in the right direction.

Q: There's a petition circulating suggesting that you resign.

A: I understand that in the middle of an act of senseless violence, humannature causes us to look for someone to blame – some way to make sense of it all. But I don't think injecting politics into the middle of tragedy is the way forward. I am confident this Administration has the confidence and support of the people of NYC.

Q: The killer said that this was an act of retribution for Garner. Doesn't that make it political right there? Isn't that exactly what people were protesting in New York – the people you spoke to and defended.

A: This was a deranged individual with a history of violence...a gang-member from Baltimore who allegedly shot his ex-girlfriend there before coming to New York to continue his unspeakable acts. Just because he cloaked his act of violence in the words of non-violent protestors does not mean he speaks for those peaceful protestors any more than Timothy McVeigh spoke for those who advocate for smaller government. This was an act of evil, pure and simple.

Q: Are you worried about copy-cats – like the attempted shooting in the Bronx?

Should New Yorkers expect this to continue?

A: The people of New York should know that they are safe; that their city and their police force are here to protect them; and that we will work together to ensure that the violence ends. We will double-down on the extraordinary work the NYPD is already doing, and we will stamp out the violence. And we will have our cops' backs.

Q: But aren't cops going to be afraid to go to work now?

A: Anyone who says that underestimates the courage and valor of our police officer here in New York. These men and women put their lives on the line every day, and they aren't going to be deterred from doing their jobs. They don't intimidate easy; they act heroically, and will continue to do so.

Q: There are those who've suggested that your own police security detail should ease up on protecting you. Did you take that as a threat?

A: New York City police officers have been protecting me and my family for decades – including the years before I ever entered public life. They protected me as a resident of New York City – just like they protect millions of families like mine every day. I know these men and women, they are professionals who take their duty seriously and I have immense respect for the job they do.

One-Liners

"If people want to use a solemn occasion like a funeral to make a political statement, that's on them, you need to ask them why they chose to do it."

"Some cops may have turned their backs on me, but I will never turn my backs on the cops nor the people they serve. Anyone else who tells you otherwise isn't being honest."

"I know being Mayor is a tough job, I signed up for it. But. I know our cops have a tougher job and they signed up for it too. Don't let anyone tell you I don't get that."

"Don't take my word for it, look at what we've done together. Crime is lower, we dramatically reduced stop-and-frisk together and we've made big investments in our cops. Let's drop the rhetoric here and talk about the great things we've done together."

"After the Eric Garner I said black lives matter, and I won't take that back. But don't let anyone tell you I don't believe that blue lives matter. You bet they do and we know that our cops are partners in of the new relationship we're forging with the people we in city government all serve."

Andrea Hagelgans
Office of the Mayor
Direct – 212.341.5372
Cell – 718.679.8965
ahagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR
THE CITY OF NEW YORK

EVENT: PRESS CONFERENCE WITH COMMISSIONER BRATTON ON 2014 CRIME STATISTICS

DATE: Monday, January 5, 2015

TIME: 3:00 PM

LOCATION: One Police Plaza
New York, NY 10038

FROM: Jerika Richardson

I. PURPOSE

YOU and Commissioner Bratton will host a press conference to announce the city's latest crime numbers and to highlight the city's work this year to strengthen the relationship between police and community. YOU will discuss 2014 crime statistics and touch on marijuana arrests since your new policy was implemented.

YOU will host the press conference at NYPD headquarters.

II. PARTICIPANTS

Guests

- YOU
- Commissioner Bratton

Other Attendees

- Ben Tucker, First Deputy Commissioner
- Jimmy O'Neill, Chief of the Department
- John Miller, Deputy Commissioner for Intelligence & Counterterrorism
- Carlos Gomez, Chief of Patrol Services
- Thomas Galati, Chief of Intelligence

III. PRESS PLAN

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR
THE CITY OF NEW YORK

- OPEN Press

IV. SEQUENCE OF EVENTS

- YOU arrive and enter
- YOU deliver remarks.
- Commissioner Bratton delivers remarks.
- YOU take on-topic Q-and-A.
- YOU take off-topic Q-and-A.

V. ATTACHMENTS

- Background
- Latest Crime Statistics TPs and Q&A

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR
THE CITY OF NEW YORK

LATEST CRIME STATISTICS

Overall numbers

- Overall index crime is down [redacted]%. The best results so far have been in homicides, down [redacted]%; robbery, down [redacted]%; and rape, down [redacted]% from already historically low numbers.
- Shootings have been problematic in 2014, especially in contrast to the extraordinarily low number of shootings last year. But the rate of increase has slowed considerably. Shootings have gone from a peak increase of [redacted]% in mid-August versus last year to [redacted]% in December. So we are clearly moving in the right direction.
- Even though there has been an uptick in shooting incidents this year, the five month period of August through December has had the lowest number of shooting incidents and homicides when compared to prior August through December periods since 1993.

Marijuana

- Criminal Possession of Marijuana 5 Degree: [redacted]% decrease as of the new policy.

Body Cameras

- The Department trained [redacted] six commands where Stop and Frisk rates have been the highest on the use of Body Cameras.

Transit

- Transit also shares in this safety gain, seeing a decrease of overall crime of [redacted]% and a decrease of Robbery of [redacted]%.

Housing

- We also continue to see significant gains in safety in the city's Housing Developments which have seen a decrease of overall crime of [redacted]% and a decrease of Homicides of [redacted]%.
- For example, there has been a decrease of overall crime of [redacted]% and a decrease of Homicides of [redacted]% at the Ingersoll Houses in Brooklyn, which is one of the 15 NYCHA developments that accounts for nearly 20 percent of all violent crime in public housing.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR
THE CITY OF NEW YORK

Q&A

Q: We've been hearing that there is a work slowdown and possible a complete work stoppage altogether by police officers. How do you plan to address this matter?

A: It's been an unusual few weeks. At this point there is not sufficient evidence yet that there has in fact been a slowdown. But if we get that evidence, we will act and there will be consequences.

Q: Do you think the unions are aiding and abetting or spearheading this alleged work slowdown/stoppage?

A: What you have just raised is a serious matter, and I am not going to influence what could be a legal matter at some point. Right now we are reviewing the data and conducting our own review. I believe the overwhelming majority of men and women in uniform are doing a great job and their very best. But if circumstances point to some who are not carrying out their duties, we most certainly will look into it. (Taylor Law)

Q: Do you have any arrest updates on last month's assaults on police officers during a protest rally on the Brooklyn Bridge?

A: Last week, the NYPD arrested and charged a fifth suspect, 29 year-old Jarrod Shanahan in connection with the Brooklyn Bridge assault. Shanahan faces multiple charges, including assault on a police officer, resisting arrest, and obstructing governmental administration. Rest assured the Department with the full support of City Hall is doing everything in its power to ensure the perpetrators are apprehended held to account for their actions. That said, the Commissioner and his chiefs can provide you with more details on this specific arrest.

Q: This year police officer shooting deaths increased 56%. Given the current climate and the rise in death threats from anti-police extremists, what are you doing to protect the City's police officers?

A: We've put safety first in this administration by increasing police resources, expanding camera use in all five boroughs, and maintaining force levels. Since the tragic shootings of Officer Ramos and Officer Liu, we've doubled down and now have officers on foot patrols working in pairs and uniformed sentries now guard each precinct station house. The NYPD is actively monitoring social media and investigating any threats against police officers that come through that or any other medium. And I'd like to continue to urge the public to be vigilant and report any suspicious activity they see or hear. We must work together to prevent a tragedy like this from ever happening again.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR
THE CITY OF NEW YORK

Q: On Friday, the Commissioner issued a memo to the entire Department outlining his expectations for how members of the Department should behave at Officer Liu’s funeral. Where you aware of the memo? Did he do this at your request?

A: Look the Commissioner has been a law enforcement leader for decades. He is a smart, independent, and principled public servant. While I do agree with the tenor of his statement and believe that funerals, especially one’s where we are honoring one of our City’s fallen, are solemn occasions that should be devoid of politics, the Commissioner certainly doesn’t need any micro-managing for me. I respect his judgment, and I leave it to his discretion as to what he should and shouldn’t say to his officers.

Q: Officer Liu was laid to rest this past weekend. What do you say to those who reacted negatively to your involvement in the funeral?

A: Officer Liu was an example of the best of what this City has to offer. And words can’t express how profoundly his tragic death has impacted all of us. We lost a dedicated public servant who answered the call to protect and serve this great city, and Officer Liu deserves our gratitude and respect. This was not about politics, it was about taking the time to honor his memory and support his family.

Q: How do you respond to Pat Lynch and George Pataki, who say that you have “blood on your hands?”

A: No, I do not have blood on my hands. That’s the worst type of rhetoric; it does a disservice to the families. The reality is we are trying to make reforms that the vast majority of New Yorkers want.

Q: What about the cops who turned their backs on you? How did you take that?

A: Frankly, I think that behavior is reprehensible. To politicize a funeral dishonors the memory of our fallen officers. It is disrespectful to their families, their colleagues, the entire NYPD, the City, and all New Yorkers. This was a tragic loss for everyone, and we’re all grieving.

Q: Do you plan to discipline the police officers who turned their backs at the funeral? How do you plan deal with this going forward?

A: I’ll leave that to the Commissioner. These actions have elicited a lot of anger and disrespectful to the families and the city. Have absolute faith in Commissioner Bratton and his leadership of the department. So whatever he decides is most appropriate, I’m going to respect his process.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR
THE CITY OF NEW YORK

