

From: B
To: [Richardson, Jerika; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"](mailto:Richardson, Jerika; jfdc@akpdmedia.com)
Subject: Re: Trade
Date: Monday, June 15, 2015 10:45:20 AM

JDC, that sounds a little soft for you. Are we commending her that much? Or are you indicating that we want to reward progress on her part and see that stance as substantial progress?

----- Original Message -----

From: Richardson, Jerika
Sent: Monday, June 15, 2015 10:32 AM
To: 'John Del Cecato' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; B
Subject: RE: Trade

Got it. Thanks, John.

-----Original Message-----

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Monday, June 15, 2015 10:32 AM
To: Richardson, Jerika; B
Subject: Re: Trade

If you want it spelled out more directly, I would say:

"I'm heartened by her comments, and her position is in keeping with The Progressive Agenda. We all want to increase American exports. But we don't want trade deals that hand new power to giant corporations at the expense of American workers, consumers, or the environment."

On 6/15/15, 10:23 AM, "Richardson, Jerika" <JLRichardson@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>That sounds right. Mayor - Okay for me to ship as Off Topic response?

>

>-----Original Message-----

>From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
>Sent: Monday, June 15, 2015 10:17 AM
>To: B; Richardson, Jerika
>Subject: Re: Trade

>

>I think we have to say that we're heartened by comments, and her >sentiments are very much in keeping with The Progressive Agenda...

>

>We've made our position on TPP & Fast Track quite clear... And so have >House Democrats... I think she deserves some credit for speaking out, >even if it wasn't as forceful as you & others...

>

>On 6/15/15, 10:11 AM, "B" <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>

>>

>>Flag for comms. JDC, I'm not thrilled with her message but I actually >>appreciate her finally saying something. How should we handle? You >>could argue her messages aligns awkwardly with the TPA language on >>trade

>>

>>

>>----- Original Message -----

>>From: Richardson, Jerika
>>Sent: Monday, June 15, 2015 10:00 AM
>>To: B
>>Cc: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
>>Subject: RE: Trade
>>
>>NYT: Hillary Clinton Urges Obama to Listen to Democrats on Trade Deal
>>
>>3:57 pm ETNew
>>
>>By Patrick Healy
>>
>><http://www.nytimes.com/politics/first-draft/2015/06/14/hillary-clinton-urg-es-obama-to-listen-to-democrats-on-trade-deal/>
>>
>>DES MOINES – Hillary Rodham Clinton on Sunday urged President Obama to >>listen to congressional Democrats – particular the House minority >>leader, Nancy Pelosi – and make changes to the Trans-Pacific >>Partnership trade deal that reflect their concerns about protecting
>>American jobs and wages.
>>
>>In her first detailed comments on the trade deal since the House of >>Representatives refused on Friday to allow Mr. Obama to negotiate it >>freely, Mrs. Clinton laid out a far more calibrated position on the >>deal than many Democrats and Republicans have taken. She declined to >>take sides on the Friday vote itself but instead allied herself with >>Democratic critics of the deal — without actually opposing it.
>>
>>She argued that the House vote gave Mr. Obama “this amazing opportunity” >>to seek concessions from Pacific trading partners to salvage the deal.
>>
>>“The president should listen to and work with his allies in Congress, >>starting with Nancy Pelosi, who have expressed their concerns about >>the impact that a weak agreement would have on our workers to make >>sure we get the best, strongest deal possible,” Mrs. Clinton said at a >>rally here.
>>
>>“And if we don’t get it, there should be no deal,” she added.
>>
>>Mrs. Clinton indicated that if she were president, she would not >>abandon the 12-nation Pacific trade deal – as some Democrats want – >>but would use the opposition in Congress as negotiating leverage.
>>
>>“I am willing to try now to see whether you can push to get rid of the >>objectionable parts, to drive a harder bargain on some of the other >>parts,” Mrs. Clinton said at the rally, her first here as a candidate >>for the 2016 presidential nomination.
>>
>>Mrs. Clinton has been criticized by Republicans and some Democrats for >>saying little about the Trans-Pacific Partnership deal in recent >>weeks, especially since she had made favorable comments about it as >>secretary of state. She is facing many Democratic primary voters who >>have deep misgivings about trade agreements, including the North >>American Free Trade Agreement, or Nafta, that President Bill Clinton >>signed, and she faces rivals for the 2016 nomination like Senator
>>Bernie Sanders of Vermont who flatly oppose the Trans-Pacific Partnership.
>>
>>A few hours before Mrs. Clinton’s remarks, Mr. Sanders repeated his >>challenge to her to oppose the trade agreement.
>>

>>"I would hope that the secretary joins Elizabeth Warren, Sherrod Brown >>and the vast majority of Democrats in the Congress in saying, 'No, we >>have got to defeat this piece of legislation,'" Mr. Sanders said on >>CBS's "Face the Nation," referring to fellow senators.
>>
>>Without naming names, Mrs. Clinton sought to distinguish herself from Mr.
>>Sanders and Ms. Warren, as well as from fervent supporters of the deal >>like some of the Republicans running for president.
>>
>>"No president would be a tougher negotiator on behalf of American >>workers with either our trading partners or Republicans on Capitol >>Hill than I would be," Mrs. Clinton said. "There are the voices that >>are for the deal no matter what's in it, and there are voices that are >>against the deal no matter what's in it. I kind of fall in the group >>that says, 'Let's find out what's in it, and let's make it as good as >>it can be before we make the decision.'"
>>
>>Mrs. Clinton invoked Ms. Pelosi's name twice during her remarks and >>appeared to agree with Ms. Pelosi that "there are some specifics in >>there that could and should be changed." She said she supported trade >>adjustment authority to protect American jobs, but otherwise did not >>delve into details.
>>
>>"Let's take the lemons and turn it into lemonade," she said.
>>
>>Later on Sunday, at a house party with Democrats in Burlington, Iowa, >>Mrs. Clinton was more explicit in challenging Mr. Obama by setting >>expectations for him to work with congressional Democrats on the trade >>deal. Mrs. Clinton called Ms. Pelosi "as strong a supporter" as Mr.
>>Obama has, and said she hoped Mr. Obama would "seize" the chance to >>work with Democrats to improve the trade pact.
>>
>>"My view is the White House should call Nancy and a few other of the >>Democrats to say, 'What would it take to get an agreement that would >>be better and not worse for American workers?'" Mrs. Clinton said, >>aligning herself with a potential future ally (Ms. Pelosi) over a >>lame-duck president.
>>
>>"I have held my peace because I thought it was important for the >>Congress to have a full debate without thrusting presidential politics >>and candidates into it," Mrs. Clinton added. "But now I think the >>president and his team could have a chance to drive a harder bargain, >>because they are now in the position of saying to all of these other >>countries 'we need to maximize the number of winners.'"
>>
>>-----Original Message-----
>>From: B
>>Sent: Monday, June 15, 2015 9:56 AM
>>To: Richardson, Jerika
>>Cc: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'
>>Subject: Trade
>>
>>
>>Pls send me HRC's statement re: obama needing to listen to Dems re:
>>trade. Was on msnbc crawl today
>

From: Walzak, Phil
To: "John Del Cecato"; Hinton, Karen; Hagelgans, Andrea; Richardson, Jerika; Wolfe, Emma; Williams, Dominic; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: RE: Heads-up on trade
Date: Monday, June 15, 2015 11:03:34 AM

Getting transpo would be huge, huge

And if we thoght that were at all doable, it would be really worth ramping up mayors stuff to position for a victory

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Monday, June 15, 2015 10:59 AM
To: Walzak, Phil; Hinton, Karen; Hagelgans, Andrea; Richardson, Jerika; Wolfe, Emma; Williams, Dominic; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Heads-up on trade

I know MBDB has an avail this PM, and you guys are getting him ready... He asked that the team not say anything to bless/un-bless HRC on trade just yet - wants us to do some recon to see what others are saying..

Here's the concern that Schumer raised... It could be that the Pelosi play here is positioning House Dems to trade TPP for the highway bill... MBDB doesn't think that's a fair deal... No trade deal is better than a bad trade deal - and we should be getting our highway bill anyway...

I tend to agree - although, MAN, would it be awesome to get that transportation bill - huge win for New York City/mayors on so many levels...

And who knows - Schumer may just be guessing/may be wrong...

Either way, I'm going to check in with the staff for Sens. Warren & Sherrod Brown, as well as some other fair trade folks I trust... Any intel you guys can collect would be helpful too..

From: Richardson, Jerika
To: Wolfe, Emma; Walzak, Phil; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Hinton, Karen; Hagelgans, Andrea; Williams, Dominic; Snyder, Thomas
Cc: Schwartz, Regina; Yazgi, Stephanie; Kadushin, Peter
Subject: RE: Heads-up on trade
Date: Monday, June 15, 2015 11:14:34 AM

+Pk

From: Wolfe, Emma
Sent: Monday, June 15, 2015 11:14 AM
To: Walzak, Phil; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; Hinton, Karen; Hagelgans, Andrea; Richardson, Jerika; Williams, Dominic; Snyder, Thomas
Cc: Schwartz, Regina; Yazgi, Stephanie
Subject: Re: Heads-up on trade

++

Pls keep gina + steph looped on this

From: Walzak, Phil
Sent: Monday, June 15, 2015 11:03 AM
To: 'John Del Cecato' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Hinton, Karen; Hagelgans, Andrea; Richardson, Jerika; Wolfe, Emma; Williams, Dominic; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: RE: Heads-up on trade

Getting transpo would be huge, huge

And if we thoght that were at all doable, it would be really worth ramping up mayors stuff to position for a victory

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Monday, June 15, 2015 10:59 AM
To: Walzak, Phil; Hinton, Karen; Hagelgans, Andrea; Richardson, Jerika; Wolfe, Emma; Williams, Dominic; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Heads-up on trade

I know MBDB has an avail this PM, and you guys are getting him ready... He asked that the team not say anything to bless/un-bless HRC on trade just yet - wants us to do some recon to see what others are saying...

Here's the concern that Schumer raised... It could be that the Pelosi play here is positioning House Dems to trade TPP for the highway bill... MBDB doesn't think that's a fair deal... No trade deal is better than a bad trade deal - and we should be getting our highway bill anyway...

I tend to agree - although, MAN, would it be awesome to get that transportation bill - huge win for New York City/mayors on so many levels...

And who knows - Schumer may just be guessing/may be wrong...

Either way, I'm going to check in with the staff for Sens. Warren & Sherrod Brown, as well as some other fair trade folks I trust... Any intel you guys can collect would be helpful too..

From: Leopold, Elana
To: "John Del Cecato"; Carey, Michael; de Alwis, Ronalie
Subject: RE: MBDB: TPA Call Time
Date: Monday, June 15, 2015 11:27:17 AM

You can always ride w us!

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Monday, June 15, 2015 11:26 AM
To: Carey, Michael; Leopold, Elana; de Alwis, Ronalie
Subject: Re: MBDB: TPA Call Time

Drat. Okay, no prob

From: <Carey>, "Carey, Michael" <MPCarey@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Monday, June 15, 2015 at 11:13 AM
To: "Leopold, Elana" <ELeopold@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "de Alwis, Ronalie" <rdealwis@cityhall.nyc.gov>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: MBDB: TPA Call Time

JDC- he now needs to [REDACTED] during this time. Check in with EL — I am out today — to see if there are calls he can do on the way there/back.

From: MPCarey@cityhall.nyc.gov
When: 3:30 PM - 5:00 PM June 15, 2015
Subject: MBDB: TPA Call Time
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

From: John Del Cecato
To: Leopold, Elana
Subject: Re: <no subject>
Date: Monday, June 15, 2015 12:52:28 PM

sweet

On 6/15/15, 12:51 PM, "Leopold, Elana" <ELeopold@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>Yes it's scheduled

>

>Sent from my iPhone

>

>> On Jun 15, 2015, at 12:50 PM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>

>>wrote:

>>

>> Is MBDB meeting with Nick Hanauer this week?

From: Leopold, Elana
To: John Del Cecato \(jfdc@akpdmedia.com\)
Subject: Do you have calls?
Date: Monday, June 15, 2015 1:23:41 PM

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
To: "John Del Cecato"; Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea; Wolfe, Emma; Schwartz, Regina
Subject: Peter King on BdB
Date: Monday, June 15, 2015 1:35:18 PM

http://www.buzzfeed.com/ilanbenmeir/peter-king-de-blasios-absence-from-clinton-rally-a-knife-in?utm_term=.gta5wPE0w#.xoZ1xVOjNq

--

Mahen Gunaratna

Director of Research and Media Analysis

Mayor's Press Office | City Hall

mgunaratna@cityhall.nyc.gov

(212) 676-3154 (o) | (347)-268-4295 (c)

From: Kadushin, Peter
To: Richardson, Jerika; "John Del Cecato"; Walzak, Phil; Hinton, Karen; Hagelgans, Andrea; Wolfe, Emma; Williams, Dominic; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: RE: Heads-up on trade
Date: Monday, June 15, 2015 1:46:00 PM

Afternoon all,

Any update or new direction we are going on this?

Thanks,

PK

From: Richardson, Jerika
Sent: Monday, June 15, 2015 11:00 AM
To: 'John Del Cecato'; Walzak, Phil; Hinton, Karen; Hagelgans, Andrea; Wolfe, Emma; Williams, Dominic; Snyder, Thomas
Cc: Kadushin, Peter
Subject: RE: Heads-up on trade

+PK

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmmedia.com>]
Sent: Monday, June 15, 2015 10:59 AM
To: Walzak, Phil; Hinton, Karen; Hagelgans, Andrea; Richardson, Jerika; Wolfe, Emma; Williams, Dominic; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Heads-up on trade

I know MBDB has an avail this PM, and you guys are getting him ready... He asked that the team not say anything to bless/un-bless HRC on trade just yet - wants us to do some recon to see what others are saying...

Here's the concern that Schumer raised... It could be that the Pelosi play here is positioning House Dems to trade TPP for the highway bill... MBDB doesn't think that's a fair deal... No trade deal is better than a bad trade deal - and we should be getting our highway bill anyway...

I tend to agree - although, MAN, would it be awesome to get that transportation bill - huge win for New York City/mayors on so many levels...

And who knows - Schumer may just be guessing/may be wrong...

Either way, I'm going to check in with the staff for Sens. Warren & Sherrod Brown, as well as some other fair trade folks I trust... Any intel you guys can collect would be helpful too..

From: Leopold, Elana
To: "John Del Cecato"
Subject: RE: Do you have calls?
Date: Monday, June 15, 2015 1:53:25 PM

Ok- also have to make Albany calls

So the below are prob enough for now

Will let you know if I need more

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Monday, June 15, 2015 1:53 PM
To: Leopold, Elana
Subject: Re: Do you have calls?

They're in more or less priority order... I'm not sure who all is available - they're all sort of hit or miss...

If you want more calls, I've got a bunch of mayors I could have him call & ask to sign onto TPA - but I think the Big Wigs below are more important for us immediately

From: <Leopold>, Elana <ELeopold@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Monday, June 15, 2015 at 1:50 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: Do you have calls?

I can have him make calls en route to the dr

Is this in priority order? Do we know if any of these people are available? Thanks!

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Monday, June 15, 2015 1:48 PM
To: Leopold, Elana
Subject: Re: Do you have calls?

For 330?? Is it back on?

Or if it's right now - I would love him to try some of these folks:

Sherrod Brown

Cell Phone: XXXXXXXXXX

ASK:

- * What did he think of HRC speech on Sat?
- * What did he think of HRC weighing in on Fast Track? Is it sufficient?
- * What's he hearing about life/death of trade bill? Will there be a bargain that involves Fast Track & the transportation bill? What should we be doing to bury TPP and/or pass transportation bill?

Keith EllisonPersonal Line: [REDACTED]Main Phone: [REDACTED]

Assistant: Dustin J. Brandenburg at [REDACTED]

ASK:

- * What did he think of HRC speech? What about her comments on trade bill?
- * What should we be doing next to defeat the trade bill?
- * Can he have the Congressional Progressive Caucus endorse The Progressive Agenda? We are still very willing to address the Caucus, but haven't heard back from his folks re: scheduling that.

Tom Harkin

[REDACTED]

ASK:

- * What did he think of HRC speech? What about her comments on trade bill?
- * Mention the idea of Caucus for Fairness or Caucus Against Tax Loopholes - organizing effort in Iowa to force all the candidates to speak out on this again and again. What does he think? Would he be willing to be a part of that?
- * Mention the possibility of having a presidential forum on income inequality IN IOWA. Would he be willing to lend his name to that?

Mary Kay Henry

Cell Phone: [REDACTED]

ASK

- * What did she think of HRC's speech? What's her thought process on endorsing?
- * What does she think we should be doing next to keep the national conversation going re: income inequality/seize the momentum we have?
- * What does she think about doing a presidential forum on income inequality in Iowa in the fall? Would she lend her name to that?

Al Sharpton

ASK:

- * What did he think of HRC speech on Saturday?
- * What should we be doing to keep The Progressive Agenda going/seize the moment?
- * What does he think about a presidential forum in Iowa? Should it be in DC or NYC instead?
- * What are his thoughts on endorsements as it relates to presidential?

Elizabeth Warren

ASK:

- * What did she think of HRC speech? Comments on trade bill?
- * Is there some sort of effort to revive the trade bill? What should we be doing?
- * What are her latest thoughts about endorsing?
- * What does she think about a presidential forum in Iowa re: income inequality? Caucus for Fairness/Caucus Against Loopholes?

From: <Leopold>, Elana <ELeopold@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Date: Monday, June 15, 2015 at 1:23 PM

To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>

Subject: Do you have calls?

From: John Del Cecato
To: Da Costa, Ricky
Subject: Re: Meeting with Tom Tomorrow
Date: Monday, June 15, 2015 1:54:25 PM

no need - tx

From: "<Da Costa>", "Da Costa, Ricky" <RDaCosta@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Monday, June 15, 2015 at 1:32 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: Meeting with Tom Tomorrow

Perfect. Putting it on his calendar now. Should I send an outlook invite as a reminder?

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Monday, June 15, 2015 1:32 PM
To: Da Costa, Ricky
Subject: Re: Meeting with Tom Tomorrow

Sure - how about 1130am?

From: "<Da Costa>", "Da Costa, Ricky" <RDaCosta@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Monday, June 15, 2015 at 10:58 AM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Meeting with Tom Tomorrow

Hey Jon,

Hope you had a wonderful weekend. Tom wants to know if you have some time to meet tomorrow. We're pretty flexible so let me know what works on your end.

Thanks,
Ricky

Ricky Da Costa
Special Assistant to the Chief of Staff
Office of the Mayor
212.788.7751 (o)
516.425.2160 (m)

From: John Del Cecato
To: Leopold, Elana
Subject: Re: Do you have calls?
Date: Monday, June 15, 2015 1:57:06 PM

I don't but i'm almost 100% sure he does

From: <Leopold>, Elana <ELeopold@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Monday, June 15, 2015 at 1:55 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: Do you have calls?

I have a cell for Sharpton

Do you have one for warren

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Monday, June 15, 2015 1:53 PM
To: Leopold, Elana
Subject: Re: Do you have calls?

They're in more or less priority order... I'm not sure who all is available - they're all sort of hit or miss...

If you want more calls, I've got a bunch of mayors I could have him call & ask to sign onto TPA - but I think the Big Wigs below are more important for us immediately

From: <Leopold>, Elana <ELeopold@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Monday, June 15, 2015 at 1:50 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: Do you have calls?

I can have him make calls en route to the dr

Is this in priority order? Do we know if any of these people are available? Thanks!

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Monday, June 15, 2015 1:48 PM
To: Leopold, Elana
Subject: Re: Do you have calls?

For 330?? Is it back on?

Or if it's right now - I would love him to try some of these folks:

Sherrod Brown

Cell Phone: [REDACTED]

ASK:

- * What did he think of HRC speech on Sat?
- * What did he think of HRC weighing in on Fast Track? Is it sufficient?
- * What's he hearing about life/death of trade bill? Will there be a bargain that involves Fast Track & the transportation bill? What should we be doing to bury TPP and/or pass transportation bill?

Keith Ellison

Personal Line: [REDACTED] Main Phone: [REDACTED]

Assistant: Dustin J. Brandenburg at [REDACTED].

ASK:

- * What did he think of HRC speech? What about her comments on trade bill?
- * What should we be doing next to defeat the trade bill?
- * Can he have the Congressional Progressive Caucus endorse The Progressive Agenda? We are still very willing to address the Caucus, but haven't heard back from his folks re: scheduling that.

Tom Harkin

[REDACTED]

ASK:

- * What did he think of HRC speech? What about her comments on trade bill?
- * Mention the idea of Caucus for Fairness or Caucus Against Tax Loopholes - organizing effort in Iowa to force all the candidates to speak out on this again and again. What does he think? Would he be willing to be a part of that?
- * Mention the possibility of having a presidential forum on income inequality IN IOWA. Would he be willing to lend his name to that?

Mary Kay Henry

Cell Phone [REDACTED]

ASK

- * What did she think of HRC's speech? What's her thought process on endorsing?
- * What does she think we should be doing next to keep the national conversation going re: income inequality/seize the momentum we have?
- * What does she think about doing a presidential forum on income inequality in Iowa in the fall? Would she lend her name to that?

Al Sharpton

ASK:

- * What did he think of HRC speech on Saturday?
- * What should we be doing to keep The Progressive Agenda going/seize the moment?
- * What does he think about a presidential forum in Iowa? Should it be in DC or NYC instead?
- * What are his thoughts on endorsements as it relates to presidential?

Elizabeth Warren

ASK:

- * What did she think of HRC speech? Comments on trade bill?
- * Is there some sort of effort to revive the trade bill? What should we be doing?
- * What are her latest thoughts about endorsing?
- * What does she think about a presidential forum in Iowa re: income inequality? Caucus for Fairness/Caucus Against Loopholes?

From: <Leopold>, Elana <ELeopold@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Date: Monday, June 15, 2015 at 1:23 PM

To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>

Subject: Do you have calls?

From: Carey, Michael
To: "John Del Cecato"
Cc: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: RE:
Date: Monday, June 15, 2015 3:03:41 PM

Yes late in the day

Michael Paul Carey
City Hall
New York, New York

-----Original Message-----

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Monday, June 15, 2015 1:56 PM
To: Carey, Michael
Cc: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re:

Geri said this week is really tough now - but could do Monday the 22nd if that works for us

On 6/12/15, 5:26 PM, "Carey, Michael" <MPCarey@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>Thursday more likely.

>Friday is [REDACTED]

>

>

>

>

>Michael Paul Carey

>Director of Scheduling and Advance

>City Hall

>New York, New York 10007

>212.341.5396

>

>

>-----Original Message-----

>From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]

>Sent: Friday, June 12, 2015 5:25 PM

>To: Carey, Michael

>Cc: Snyder, Thomas

>Subject:

>

>Is mbdb able to meet with Geri Prado re on thurs or fri?

>

>

From: Yazgi, Stephanie
To: John Del Cecato
Cc: Schwartz, Regina
Subject: Re: do you have their cell phone numbers?
Date: Monday, June 15, 2015 4:48:25 PM

Thanks!

From: John Del Cecato
Sent: Monday, June 15, 2015 4:41 PM
To: Yazgi, Stephanie
Cc: Schwartz, Regina
Subject: Re: do you have their cell phone numbers?

I don't have Warren's, but I'm 99% sure he has in his phone... Here's Sherrod's, along with the ASKs for both him & EW

Sherrod Brown

Cell Phone: [REDACTED]

ASK:

- * What did he think of HRC speech on Sat?
- * What did he think of HRC weighing in on Fast Track? Is it sufficient?
- * What's he hearing about life/death of trade bill? Will there be a bargain that involves Fast Track & the transportation bill? What should we be doing to bury TPP and/or pass transportation bill?

Elizabeth Warren

ASK:

- * What did she think of HRC speech? Comments on trade bill?
- * Is there some sort of effort to revive the trade bill? What should we be doing?
- * What are her latest thoughts about endorsing?
- * What does she think about a presidential forum in Iowa re: income inequality? Caucus for Fairness/Caucus Against Loopholes?

From: <Yazgi>, Stephanie Yazgi <syazgi@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Monday, June 15, 2015 at 4:01 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: "Schwartz, Regina" <RSchwartz@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: do you have their cell phone numbers?

Warren and Sherrod because the boss wants to call them on transportation.
That would help me out.
Thanks

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
To: B; FLONYC
Cc: Hinton, Karen; Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea; "John Del Cecato"
Subject: AP: Clinton seeks "high quality preschool" for all 4-year-olds
Date: Monday, June 15, 2015 4:58:18 PM

Clinton seeks 'high quality preschool' for all 4-year-olds

Lisa Lerer, Associated Press

Updated 1:16 pm, Monday, June 15, 2015

ROCHESTER, N.H. (AP) — Hillary Rodham Clinton promised Monday to dramatically expand education opportunities for young children, vowing to make "high quality preschool" available for all 4-year-old children in the next ten years.

The Democratic candidate for president focused the first major policy proposal of her campaign on universal pre-K education — an issue championed both by liberal voices in her party, as well as by more conservative governors in Republican-led states, including Texas.

"You shouldn't think of childcare as just a place to deposit your kids— a warehouse," Clinton said while campaigning in Rochester, New Hampshire. "We should invest in programs to address the needs of parents and children."

Speaking to an audience of parents and children at a YMCA early childhood education center, Clinton offered a first glimpse at her education platform, saying she would double both federal funds and grants for Head Start programs and propose a tax cut to help parents with the costs of raising children under the age of 3.

She also linked affordable childcare to what she called a need for better programs to help with mental health and substance abuse — two other policy focuses of her early campaign.

"We have to extend every program, every tax break, everything we do to people who

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
To: B; FLONYC
Cc: Hinton, Karen; Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea; "John Del Cecato"
Subject: AP: Clinton seeks "high quality preschool" for all 4-year-olds
Date: Monday, June 15, 2015 4:58:18 PM

Clinton seeks 'high quality preschool' for all 4-year-olds

Lisa Lerer, Associated Press

Updated 1:16 pm, Monday, June 15, 2015

ROCHESTER, N.H. (AP) — Hillary Rodham Clinton promised Monday to dramatically expand education opportunities for young children, vowing to make "high quality preschool" available for all 4-year-old children in the next ten years.

The Democratic candidate for president focused the first major policy proposal of her campaign on universal pre-K education — an issue championed both by liberal voices in her party, as well as by more conservative governors in Republican-led states, including Texas.

"You shouldn't think of childcare as just a place to deposit your kids— a warehouse," Clinton said while campaigning in Rochester, New Hampshire. "We should invest in programs to address the needs of parents and children."

Speaking to an audience of parents and children at a YMCA early childhood education center, Clinton offered a first glimpse at her education platform, saying she would double both federal funds and grants for Head Start programs and propose a tax cut to help parents with the costs of raising children under the age of 3.

She also linked affordable childcare to what she called a need for better programs to help with mental health and substance abuse — two other policy focuses of her early campaign.

"We have to extend every program, every tax break, everything we do to people who are taking care of kids," she said, speaking to a grandmother at the center who said she was raising her grandchildren because of addiction problems in her family.

"Whatever I propose you will be eligible for," Clinton added.

Clinton has long pushed for expanding educational opportunities for young children, starting a program at her family foundation to improve the health and well-beings of children under age 5.

In New Hampshire, she turned her advocacy into slam on her potential GOP rivals. She said Republicans in Congress had cut funding for early education programs in their recent budget, saying they prioritized hedge fund investors and oil companies over children.

"Did they cut subsidies to oil companies? Did they cut tax loopholes?" she said. "The Republicans took care of those at the top and cut the kids."

--

Mahen Gunaratna

Director of Research and Media Analysis

Mayor's Press Office | City Hall

mgunaratna@cityhall.nyc.gov

(212) 676-3154 (o) | (347)-268-4295 (c)

From: John Del Cecato
To: B
Subject: HuffPo piece by Robert Reich
Date: Monday, June 15, 2015 7:19:50 PM

Why the Trans-Pacific Partnership Is Nearly Dead

How can it be that the largest pending trade deal in history -- a deal backed both by a Democratic president and Republican leaders in Congress -- is nearly dead?

The Trans-Pacific Partnership may yet squeak through Congress but its near-death experience offers an important lesson.

It's not that labor unions have regained political power (union membership continues to dwindle and large corporations have more clout in Washington than ever) or that the President is especially weak (no president can pull off a major deal like this if the public isn't behind him).

The biggest lesson is most Americans no longer support free trade.

It used to be an article of faith that trade was good for America.

Economic theory told us so: Trade allows nations to specialize in what they do best, thereby fueling growth. And growth, we were told, is good for everyone.

But such arguments are less persuasive in this era of staggering inequality.

For decades almost all the gains from growth have been going to a small sliver of Americans at the top - while most peoples' wages have stagnated, adjusted for inflation.

Economists point to overall benefits from expanded trade. All of us gain access to cheaper goods and services.

But in recent years the biggest gains from trade have gone to investors and executives, while the burdens have fallen disproportionately on those in the middle and below who have lost good-paying jobs.

So even though everyone gains from trade, the biggest winners are at the top. And as the top keeps moving higher compared to most of the rest of us, the vast majority feels relatively worse off.

To illustrate the point, consider a simple game I conduct with my students. I have them split up into pairs and ask them to imagine I'm giving $1,000 to one member of each pair.

I tell them the recipients can keep some of the money only on condition they reach a deal with their partner on how it's to be divided up. They have to offer their partner a portion of the $1,000, and their partner must either accept or decline. If the partner declines, neither of them gets a penny.

You might think many recipients of the imaginary $1,000 would offer their partner one dollar, which the partner would gladly accept. After all, a dollar is better than nothing. Everyone is better off.

But that's not what happens. Most partners decline any offer under $250 - even though that means neither of them gets anything.

This game, and variations of it, have been played by social scientists thousands of times with different groups and pairings, and with remarkably similar results.

A far bigger version of the game is being played on the national stage as a relative handful of Americans receive ever-larger slices of the total national income while most Americans, working harder than ever, receive smaller ones.

And just as in the simulations, those receiving the smaller slices are starting to say "no deal."

Some might attribute this response to envy or spite. But when I ask my students why they refused to accept anything less than $250 and thereby risked getting nothing at all, they say it's worth the price of avoiding unfairness.

Remember, I gave out the $1,000 arbitrarily. The initial recipients didn't have to work for it or be outstanding in any way.

When a game seems arbitrary, people are often willing to sacrifice gains for themselves in order to prevent others from walking away with far more - a result that strikes them as inherently wrong.

The American economy looks increasingly arbitrary, as CEOs of big firms now rake in 300 times more than the wages of average workers, while two-thirds of Americans live paycheck to paycheck.

Some of my students who refused anything less than $250 also say they feared allowing the initial recipient to keep a disproportionately large share would give him the power to rig the game even more in the future.

Here again, America's real-life distributional game is analogous, as a few at the top gain increasing political power to alter the rules of the game to their advantage.

If the American economy continues to create a few big winners and many who feel like losers by comparison, opposition to free trade won't be the only casualty.

Losers are likely to find many other ways to say "no deal."

ROBERT B. REICH's film "Inequality for All" is now available on DVD and blu-ray, and on Netflix. Watch the trailer below:

Follow Robert Reich on Twitter: www.twitter.com/RBReich

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
To: B; FLONYC
Cc: Buery, Richard; John Del Cecato; Walzak, Phil; Hagelqans, Andrea; Hinton, Karen
Subject: Fwd: Citing Oklahoma, Clinton calls for universal 'preschool'
Date: Monday, June 15, 2015 7:38:15 PM

Sent from my iPhone

Begin forwarded message:

From: Capital Pro <info@capitalnewyork.com>
Date: June 15, 2015 at 7:14:12 PM EDT
To: <mgunaratna@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Citing Oklahoma, Clinton calls for universal 'preschool'

Citing Oklahoma, Clinton calls for universal 'preschool'

By Dana Rubinstein

7:13 p.m. | Jun. 15, 2015

During a campaign stop in Rochester, New Hampshire on Monday, Democratic presidential candidate Hillary Clinton called for the federal government to fund pre-kindergarten for "low- and moderate-income families."

"I will work with states and communities across America to make sure that in the next ten years every four year old in America has access to high quality preschool," said Clinton, according to a transcript of her remarks distributed by the campaign.

The program would expand funding for states that expand access for all four-year olds from families "at or below 200 percent of the federal poverty level," according to the campaign.

Here in New York City, Mayor Bill de Blasio—who has very publicly declined to endorse Clinton just yet—is implementing universal pre-K.

But his version of pre-K applies to all families, not merely those of a certain income.

Her program, in contrast, would build upon President Obama's Preschool for All proposal, which focuses on low and moderate-income children.

"We've got a lot of evidence that quality pre-K works for poor kids," said Bruce Fuller, an education and public policy professor at University of California, Berkeley, and a critic of de Blasio's program who argues that government resources should be focused on the neediest children. "When we look at the effects of pre-K on middle class kids, we see small to no effects."

During a spring visit to New York City, Clinton praised de Blasio's early-education efforts.

Today, in an effort to underscore bipartisan support for early education, she pointed to a less liberal jurisdiction.

"You know, one of the states with a universal pre-K program in America is Oklahoma, about as red a state as you can get," said Clinton. "But they have figured it out, the government and business leaders and families like, that this is a smart investment for them."

Only half of the country's 8.1 million 3- and 4-year old children are in pre-Kindergarten, according to Clinton.

The candidate also said she'd be rolling out a plan to expand child care more broadly, one that would include "a middle class tax cut to help parents deal with rising childcare costs."

She would also double funding for Early Head Start and Early Head Start Child Care Partnership grant programs, which target younger children from low-income families.

She invoked the geopolitical threat of China to bolster her case.

"China's making a huge commitment to early childhood and to pre-kindergarten," she said. "Why? They look at the same brain research. In fact they have asked the American Nobel Prize winning economist from the University of Chicago, hardly a hotbed of radical liberalism...to be their consultant, among others, because he did the study which proved that early childhood investing by a country is one of the best returns on investment that we can make."

You've received this Capital Pro content because your customized settings include: Albany (all articles) or one of the following Albany topics: 2016 presidential election, Hillary Clinton, education.

To change your alert settings, please go to your Pro settings page.

This email alert has been sent for the exclusive use of Capital Pro subscriber mgunaratna@cityhall.nyc.gov. Forwarding or reproducing the alert without the express, written permission of Capital Pro is a violation of federal law and the Capital Pro subscription agreement. Copyright © 2015 by CapNY LLC. To subscribe to Pro, please go to <http://www.capitalnewyork.com/page/why-pro>.

If you believe this has been sent to you in error, please safely unsubscribe.

From: Carey, Michael
To: "John Del Cecato"
Cc: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: RE:
Date: Tuesday, June 16, 2015 12:55:50 PM

Thought I responded --- later Monday works for the Mayor. Like a 430 or 5

Michael Paul Carey
Director of Scheduling and Advance
City Hall
New York, New York 10007
212.341.5396

-----Original Message-----

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, June 16, 2015 12:55 PM
To: Carey, Michael
Cc: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re:

Just re-pinging on this

On 6/15/15, 1:55 PM, "John Del Cecato" <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

>Geri said this week is really tough now - but could do Monday the 22nd >if that works for us

>

>On 6/12/15, 5:26 PM, "Carey, Michael" <MPCarey@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>

>>Thursday more likely.

>>Friday is [REDACTED]

>>

>>

>>

>>Michael Paul Carey

>>Director of Scheduling and Advance

>>City Hall

>>New York, New York 10007

>>212.341.5396

>>

>>

>>-----Original Message-----

>>From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]

>>Sent: Friday, June 12, 2015 5:25 PM

>>To: Carey, Michael

>>Cc: Snyder, Thomas

>>Subject:

>>

>>Is mbdb able to meet with Geri Prado re on thurs or fri?

>>

>>

>

From: John Del Cecato
To: Yazgi, Stephanie
Subject: Re: when is your call time?
Date: Tuesday, June 16, 2015 2:27:41 PM

Scheduled for tomorrow AM from 10-1130am at City Hall...

Thanks much

Nobody had any specific intel on transportation bill... The "trade TPP for transportation bill" thing is definitely in the ether - but no one had a good read on whether it would persuade any Dems to switch their votes

From: <Yazgi>, Stephanie Yazgi <syazgi@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Tuesday, June 16, 2015 at 2:15 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: when is your call time?

I think duggan will say yes FYI

Also haven't had a chance to do the education calls yet- will make connections by end of week

Any info on transpo landscape?

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
To: Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea; Hinton, Karen; "John Del Cecato"; Wolfe, Emma
Subject: Jeb on BdB
Date: Tuesday, June 16, 2015 4:47:28 PM

Michael Barbaro Verified account @mikebarb

Jeb puts Hillary Clinton in same sentence as Mayor De Blasio, mocking both as tax-happy Democrats.

11:31 AM - 16 Jun 2015

--

Mahen Gunaratna

Director of Research and Media Analysis

Mayor's Press Office | City Hall

mgunaratna@cityhall.nyc.gov

(212) 676-3154 (o) | (347)-268-4295 (c)

From: Yazgi, Stephanie
To: "Regina Clemente"; John Del Cecato
Cc: Robert Greenwald; Viguers, Jonathan
Subject: RE: Connecting
Date: Tuesday, June 16, 2015 6:02:10 PM

Hi Regina:

So great to connect, I've looped my colleague Jonathan in to help with outreach and connecting you with people in mayor's offices.

He will give you a call soon so we can move this forward.

Stephanie

From: Regina Clemente [mailto:regina@bravenewfilms.org]
Sent: Wednesday, June 10, 2015 8:56 PM
To: John Del Cecato; Yazgi, Stephanie
Cc: Robert Greenwald
Subject: Re: Connecting

Thanks, John. Hi, Stephanie.

Looking forward to working together. Let me know how I can be helpful/what the next steps are on your end. And we will keep you updated on our progress with the film.

Happy to jump on a call this week or next to discuss more.

Thanks!

Regina Clemente
Director of Campaigns
Brave New Films
regina@bravenewfilms.org
o: 310-204-0448 x.236
c: 818-239-2070
bravenewfilms.org

From: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Date: Wednesday, June 10, 2015 at 5:16 PM
To: Stephanie Yazgi <syazgi@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Regina Clemente <regina@bravenewfilms.org>
Cc: Robert Greenwald <robert@bravenewfilms.org>
Subject: Connecting

Regina, meet Stephanie - who's leading our charge on fellow mayors - and is reaching out via Hedge Funders versus Kindergarten Teachers...

From: John Del Cecato
To: B; Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea; Wolfe, Emma Subject: Steyer & Carried Interest
Date: Wednesday, June 17, 2015 6:44:26 AM

Billionaire Steyer urges end to key tax loophole, to host Obama

Photo: Michael Macor, The Chronicle

Billionaire Democratic activist Tom Steyer wants 2016 candidates to address what he calls the “urgent” issue of income inequality, specifically laws that allow wealthy private equity managers and venture capitalists to be taxed at a lower rate.

Days before Hillary Rodham Clinton and President Obama visit San Francisco for campaign fundraisers, billionaire Democratic activist Tom Steyer is ramping up pressure on 2016 candidates to address what he calls the “urgent” issue of income inequality, specifically laws that allow wealthy private equity managers and venture capitalists to be taxed at a lower rate.

“I think there are a small number of very, very serious issues confronting the United States — and one of them is economic justice,” Steyer said in an interview with The Chronicle Monday. “We’re at this stage when people seem to be tiptoeing around basic, straightforward things — you don’t really need to strain yourself to think people who make more money should be paying a higher (tax) rate than people making 100th as much.”

Steyer, who along with Democratic leader Nancy Pelosi will host Obama on Friday at a Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee fundraiser in San Francisco, has been repeatedly mentioned as a possible statewide candidate in California.

Though he says he has made no decision on any candidacy, the San Francisco climate-change activist and major donor to Democratic causes pledges that in the time leading up to next year’s presidential election he’ll keep the heat on other progressive issues as well.

“We’re at a time of historic inequality in income and wealth in the United States,” said Steyer, who cited as an example what is known as the carried interest tax loophole, which allows some of America’s highest earners — mainly investment fund managers — to lower their tax bills.

“And when you see the people with the highest income paying at rates that are lower than people who make a fraction — and you think about the United States being a place where we’re dedicated to a progressive tax system — you have to ask yourself if that makes any sense,” Steyer said.

Carried interest

Carried-interest rules in the tax code allow some private investment fund managers — including those who oversee venture capital, real estate, private equity and hedge funds — to pay taxes on those funds at a lower 20 percent capital gains rate rather than the highest 39.6 percent marginal rate. The accounting classification comes because the executives are viewed as having “interest,” or ownership, in a business.

Steyer vociferously argues that those earnings should be taxed as regular income and dismisses critics who say that the average tax rate of the wealthiest Americans is already dramatically higher than other groups.

“This is just a loophole in the law,” he said. “It started as a tiny loophole — and now it’s a big loophole, and people like it,” he said.

But critics like Sabrina Lockhart, communications director for Californians for Energy Independence, accuses Steyer of hypocrisy, saying that despite his attention to income inequality — and tax loopholes — he continues to earn millions through a complex network of investments.

“It’s interesting that a hedge fund billionaire who made his fortune on fossil fuels has now shifted his interest to promoting green policies from which he can benefit financially,” Lockhart said.

Steyer, the founder of San Francisco’s Farallon Capital Management — where he earned the title “California’s hedge fund king” — says he took a hit when he left the firm and sold his stake in 2012. That’s in part because, while he’s still an investor there, he turned his back on carried interest and getting a stake in future funds.

“I did not try to maximize my deal when I left,” he said. “My goal in leaving Farallon was to try and get rid of conflicts of interest. ... I got rid of my management interest in Farallon when I left and made sure that wasn’t something that was ongoing. ... I didn’t want there to be any perceived conflict.”

Some other public figures, such as former GOP presidential candidate Mitt Romney, who made a fortune in private equity, took a different route, Steyer noted: Romney was estimated to be earning millions annually in carried interest more than a decade after he left the Bain Capital hedge fund.

As a presidential candidate, Obama proposed raising the rate of carried interest taxation as a matter of fairness — a promise he has not been able to deliver.

‘Fairness issue’

Still, Steyer defends Obama against critics who say the failed promise is proof he’s let American workers down.

“I don’t think President Obama gets to make this decision with a stroke of the pen,” Steyer said. “He recognized up front that there is a real fairness issue here, and I think he’s on the right side of it — he may feel he can’t win this issue politically.”

Clinton raised the issue when launching her presidential campaign on Saturday. “While many of you are working multiple jobs to make ends meet, you see the top 25 hedge fund managers making more than all of America's kindergarten teachers combined. And often paying a lower tax rate," she said at her campaign rollout.

Steyer said the issue is not the central theme of the presidential election, but part of a discussion of economic health that Democrats must continue to emphasize.

"It is hard to change things in the political world ... and a group of people are going to fight change," he said. "But if you look at all of the facts about the divergence between how much productivity there has been in American business, and how little (profit) has been shared with people who do the work, that has been a complete change."

Carla Marinucci is The San Francisco Chronicle senior political writer. E-mail: cmarinucci@sfchronicle.com Twitter @cmarinucci

From: B
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Nyt editorial
Date: Wednesday, June 17, 2015 8:34:48 AM

Re: HRC sounds like a TPA advertisement. Helpful

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: John Del Ceccato \(jfdc@akpdmedia.com\)
Subject: FW: Trade
Date: Wednesday, June 17, 2015 9:55:48 AM

Can you chase down intel on this? I reached out to Georgia for same thing.

-----Original Message-----

From: B
Sent: Wednesday, June 17, 2015 9:34 AM
To: Snyder, Thomas; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; Williams, Dominic
Subject: Trade

House vote yesterday shows this is far from dead. Beware. And that's why I suspect HRC's comments were helpful to Obama: essentially "mend it, don't end it" re: TPP. Need to know what the real state of play is here. No one should be popping any champagne corks right now...

From: John Del Cecato
To: Leopold, Elana; Carey, Michael; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: TPA call sheet
Date: Wednesday, June 17, 2015 10:00:49 AM
Attachments: TPACallSheet.docx

Call Sheet – The Progressive Agenda 6/17/15

Elizabeth Warren

LATEST:

Been focused a lot on debt-free college, opposing TPP, and tangling with Jamie Dimon over whether to break up the big banks.

ASK:

- * What did she think of HRC speech? Comments on trade bill?
- * Is there some sort of effort to revive the trade bill? What should we be doing?
- * What are her latest thoughts about endorsing?
- * What does she think about a presidential forum in Iowa re: income inequality? Caucus for Fairness/Caucus Against Loopholes?

Tom Harkin

[REDACTED]

LATEST:

We've been trying to publish a joint op-ed with him re: TPA (for Des Moines Register) – but have had trouble getting his sign-off.

ASK:

- * What did he think of HRC speech? What about her comments on trade bill?
- * Mention the idea of Caucus for Fairness or Caucus Against Tax Loopholes - organizing effort in Iowa to force all the candidates to speak out on this again and again. What does he think? Would he be willing to be a part of that?
- * Mention the possibility of having a presidential forum on income inequality IN IOWA. Would he be willing to lend his name to that?
- * Mention joint op-ed on TPA – perhaps teasing presidential forum.

Sherrod Brown

Cell Phone: [REDACTED]

LATEST:

He's been pushing back against for-profit colleges, fighting Fast Track, and pushing for long-term highway bill.

ASK:

- * What did he think of HRC speech on Sat?
- * What did he think of HRC weighing in on Fast Track? Is it sufficient?

* What's he hearing about life/death of trade bill? Will there be a bargain that involves Fast Track & the transportation bill? What should we be doing to bury TPP and/or pass transportation bill?

Keith Ellison

Personal Line: [REDACTED] Main Phone: [REDACTED]

Assistant: Dustin J. Brandenburg at [REDACTED]

LATEST:

Stood up to Fast Track in a big way. Been having trouble scheduling the Progressive Caucus vote to endorse TPA (and haven't gotten response on you addressing CPC via Skype).

ASK:

- * What did he think of HRC speech? What about her comments on trade bill?
- * What should we be doing next to defeat the trade bill?
- * Can he have the Congressional Progressive Caucus endorse The Progressive Agenda? We are still very willing to address the Caucus, but haven't heard back from his folks re: scheduling that.

Mary Kay Henry

Cell Phone: [REDACTED]

LATEST:

Been helping wage Fight for 15. June 15th was the 25th Anniversary of Janitors for Justice violence in Los Angeles, which sparked the movement.

ASK:

- * What did she think of HRC's speech? What's her thought process on endorsing?
- * What does she think we should be doing next to keep the national conversation going re: income inequality/seize the momentum we have?
- * What does she think about doing a presidential forum on income inequality in Iowa in the fall? Would she lend her name to that?

Al Sharpton

LATEST:

Attending Loretta Lynch's swearing-in today.

ASK:

- * What did he think of HRC speech on Saturday?
- * What should we be doing to keep The Progressive Agenda going/seize the moment?
- * What does he think about a presidential forum in Iowa? Should it be in DC or NYC instead?

* What are his thoughts on endorsements as it relates to presidential?

Lily Eskelsen García

John Stocks Cell: [REDACTED]

LATEST:

She met with HRC a week and a half ago as part of the endorsement process.

ASK:

- What did she think of HRC speech?
- What should we be doing to keep TPA going?
- Does she anticipate endorsing HRC?
- Thoughts on being part of a presidential forum in Iowa?

Leo Gerard

[REDACTED]

LATEST:

Fighting to keep Dems from flipping on Fast Track.

ASK:

- What did he think of HRC speech? What about her statement on trade?
- What if anything should we be doing to kill trade bill? Has he heard anything beyond the newspaper accounts about prospects of passing a “clean” trade bill?
- What message points is he using to describe some sort of trade bill that he COULD be for?
- What can we do to keep TPA going? His thoughts on Iowa presidential forum?

MAYORS/SOON TO BE MAYOR

Title	Name	City	State	Party	Cell
Mayor	Greg Stanton	Phoenix	AZ	D	[REDACTED]
Mayor	Jim Kenney	Philadelphia	PA	D	[REDACTED]
Mayor	Bill Finch	Bridgeport	CT	D	[REDACTED]

May or	Lovely Warren	Rochester	NY	D	[REDACTED]
May or	Stephanie Miner	Syracuse	NY	D	[REDACTED]
May or	Kathy Sheehan	Albany	NY	D	[REDACTED]
May or	Eric Garcetti	Los Angeles	CA	D	[REDACTED]
May or	Sam Liccardo	San Jose	CA	D	[REDACTED]
May or	Mike Duggan	Detroit	MI	D	[REDACTED]
May or	Bill Peduto	Pittsburgh	PA	D	[REDACTED]
May or	Francis Slay	St. Louis	MO	D	[REDACTED]

From: John Del Cecato
To: Carey, Michael
Cc: Leopold, Elana; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: TPA call sheet
Date: Wednesday, June 17, 2015 10:38:24 AM

:(

On Jun 17, 2015, at 10:14 AM, Carey, Michael <MPCarey@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Sadly JDC – budget took over your call time. You can still come see me though.

Michael Paul Carey
Director of Scheduling and Advance
City Hall
New York, New York 10007
212.341.5396

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, June 17, 2015 10:00 AM
To: Leopold, Elana; Carey, Michael; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: TPA call sheet

From: John Del Cecato
To: B; Snyder, Thomas; Williams, Dominic
Subject: Re: Trade
Date: Wednesday, June 17, 2015 11:13:39 AM

The latest from my friend, who's steeped in the anti-TPP fight...

====

Very uncertain. They were supposed to go to Rules last night, and pulled the meeting. Still possible this week. They bought themselves some time but they don't know where their Caucus (Rs) are. And, there could be slippage in the Senate.

Still all hands on deck. We have to make the case that this was the wrong thing for the President to do and the Republicans are the ones who are supporting him. This is not a deep divide among the Democrats – indeed, the vast majority of the Party is against fast track. PROGRESSIVES are united.

On 6/17/15, 9:33 AM, "B" <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>
>House vote yesterday shows this is far from dead. Beware. And that's why
>I suspect HRC's comments were helpful to Obama: essentially "mend it, >don't end it" re: TPP. Need to know what the real state of play is here.
>No one should be popping any champagne corks right now...
>

From: Carey, Michael
To: "John Del Cecato"; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: RE: From Robert
Date: Wednesday, June 17, 2015 5:21:36 PM

10th?

Michael Paul Carey
Director of Scheduling and Advance
City Hall
New York, New York 10007
212.341.5396

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Wednesday, June 17, 2015 5:21 PM
To: Carey, Michael; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Fwd: From Robert

Any thoughts on Sept?

Begin forwarded message:

From: Robert Greenwald <robert@bravenewfilms.org>
Date: June 17, 2015 at 5:01:41 PM EDT
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: From Robert

Hi john. Any progress on getting date from mbd

From: John Del Cecato
To: B
Subject: Re: VOX: Pre-K seems bipartisan now — but it won't last
Date: Wednesday, June 17, 2015 8:33:25 PM

I will double check, but all of our CH policy folks signed off on this

On Jun 17, 2015, at 6:08 PM, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Heads up! Note the $75B figure below and note that it's over TEN years, not ONE year. Thus, much of language on Buffet Rule and what it would achieve (from Midwest speeches) greatly overstated the cost of pre-k nationwide. Let's correct this going forward and let's be careful with our facts

From: Clips
Sent: Wednesday, June 17, 2015 03:39 PM
Subject: VOX: Pre-K seems bipartisan now — but it won't last

Pre-K seems bipartisan now — but it won't last

VOX - Libby Nelson

<http://www.vox.com/2015/6/17/8798107/clinton-education-pre-k>

Hillary Clinton's first big education policy proposal is here: universal pre-K.

Early childhood education is a signature issue for Clinton. She's been advocating for more and better public preschool since she was a governor's wife in Arkansas. In the past few years, she's gotten more company: President Obama called for a federal program to encourage states to expand pre-K, and creating universal pre-K was an early initiative for New York Mayor Bill de Blasio. Even some Republican governors have embraced it; the South leads the US on enrollment in publicly funded pre-K.

The US currently lags far behind other rich nations in enrolling 3- and 4-year-olds in school. About 78 percent of 4-year-olds are enrolled in early childhood education, leaving the US ranked 25th out of 38 rich countries and developing economies. Mexico, Portugal, and France all have higher pre-K enrollment than the US.

So increasing enrollment in pre-K programs is a goal that governors from both parties have supported. But it's unlikely to be bipartisan at the national level, because there's a deep ideological divide between Republicans and Democrats over what role the federal government ought to play.

How pre-K became a central part of the Democratic education agenda

There are two reasons the Democratic Party has embraced pre-K. The first has to do with improving education. Research has shown that high-quality preschool programs can improve children's lives decades into the future.

The research on pre-K has generally found that spending on early childhood education pays off later on, because students who participate earn more money and are less likely to commit crime. Estimates vary as to how much, but a longitudinal study of early childhood education in Chicago found that every dollar spent saved $7 later on. That's largely because children who participated in the program were less likely to be arrested and imprisoned in the next 25 years than children who did not.

The second motivator is more economic. Child care is now as expensive as college tuition in some states. And creating free pre-K is part of a broader agenda to give working parents, particularly moms, some economic help.

How Clinton's pre-K plan might work

The Clinton campaign didn't release detailed plans for how it would make universal pre-K a reality. But a fact sheet said it would build on the Obama administration's "Preschool for All" proposal, a centerpiece of the 2013 State of the Union address.

Here's how that proposal worked:

- The federal government would give grants to states based on their population of low- and moderate-income 4-year-olds. States would give the money to school districts and other pre-K providers.
- The federal government would pay 90 percent of the cost in the first year, with extra money for states that expanded the program to families making more than 200 percent of the poverty level. Gradually, over 10 years, states would be required to pay more of the bill.
- Preschool programs would have to be "high-quality," meaning, among other things, that teachers would have to have bachelor's degrees, classes would have to be small, and programs would have to be monitored to make sure they're meeting standards.

In other words, states would have to commit to meeting some standards and kicking in some of their own money in order to participate. But at least in the early years, the federal government would pay most of the bill.

- The Obama administration estimated that Preschool for All would cost $1.3 billion in its first year, and asked for an additional $750 million to create competitive grants for states to help them meet the program's requirements. They asked for $75 billion in new mandatory spending over 10 years.

Why pre-K seems bipartisan now — and why that might not last

When Democrats talk up universal pre-K, they often look to an unlikely place: red states. Georgia and Oklahoma both have big, publicly funded, and popular pre-K programs. This means Clinton can argue that pre-K is a bipartisan priority.

"Governors and state legislatures across the country are discovering the value of preschool. And this is bipartisan," Clinton said in New Hampshire. "You know, one of the states with a universal pre-K program in America is Oklahoma, about as red a state as you can get. But they have figured it out, the government and business leaders and families like, that this is a smart investment for them."

The programs in Oklahoma and Georgia were originally created by Democrats: Oklahoma's by a Democratic legislator and Georgia's by then-Democratic Gov. Zell Miller, who later switched parties. They've thrived since in red states with bipartisan support.

But there's no guarantee that Republican governors would want to accept even a giant federal carrot to expand their pre-K programs. Just look at Obamacare's Medicaid expansion: it offered states roughly the same deal as the administration's pre-K proposal. But when the Supreme Court removed the threat attached to the incentive — that states that didn't expand Medicaid would lose all of their Medicaid funding — 22 governors refused to go along.

Even if Republican governors like the idea of pre-K more than the idea of Obamacare, it's hard to overcome a huge, ideological gap between Democrats and Republicans on education. Schools traditionally have been controlled at the state and local level, and Republicans are skeptical of any attempt to expand federal authority.

Merely creating a voluntary grant competition as an incentive for states to change — as the Obama administration did with its Race to the Top competition — is now viewed with suspicion. The thinking is that if the federal government is providing even a small share of the money, it gets to make the rules.

Clinton's embrace of pre-K is a natural evolution of the Democratic agenda. But it's not going to be a bipartisan priority anytime soon.

From: John Del Cecato
To: B
Subject: Re: VOX: Pre-K seems bipartisan now — but it won't last
Date: Wednesday, June 17, 2015 9:17:03 PM

Confirmed with Mahen that our numbers are correct - at least approximately... We decided that $75B over 10 years was close enough to $70B over 10 years to be accurate...

Buffett Rule:

<http://www.whitehouse.senate.gov/news/release/senators-reintroduce-buffett-rule-legislation>

The Paying a Fair Share Act would help ensure that multi-million-dollar earners pay at least a 30 percent effective federal tax rate, and would generate over $70 billion in revenue over ten years.

Obama Administration Pre-K Policy:

<http://www.ed.gov/early-learning>

Funded jointly by states and the federal government, the program would promote access to full-day kindergarten and encourage the expansion of high-quality programs to include children from middle-class families and children under four. The federal funding over 10 years is $75 billion.

From: Bill de Blasio <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Wednesday, June 17, 2015 at 6:08 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Fw: VOX: Pre-K seems bipartisan now — but it won't last

Heads up! Note the $75B figure below and note that it's over TEN years, not ONE year. Thus, much of language on Buffet Rule and what it would achieve (from Midwest speeches) greatly overstated the cost of pre-k nationwide. Let's correct this going forward and let's be careful with our facts

From: Clips
Sent: Wednesday, June 17, 2015 03:39 PM
Subject: VOX: Pre-K seems bipartisan now — but it won't last

Pre-K seems bipartisan now — but it won't last

VOX - Libby Nelson

<http://www.vox.com/2015/6/17/8798107/clinton-education-pre-k>

Hillary Clinton's first big education policy proposal is here: universal pre-K.

Early childhood education is a signature issue for Clinton. She's been advocating for more and better public preschool since she was a governor's wife in Arkansas. In the past few years, she's gotten more company: President Obama called for a federal program to encourage states to expand pre-K, and creating universal pre-K was an early initiative for New York Mayor Bill de Blasio. Even some Republican governors have embraced it; the South leads the US on enrollment in publicly funded pre-K.

The US currently lags far behind other rich nations in enrolling 3- and 4-year-olds in school. About 78 percent of 4-year-olds are enrolled in early childhood education, leaving the US ranked 25th out of 38 rich countries and developing economies. Mexico, Portugal, and France all have higher pre-K enrollment than the US.

So increasing enrollment in pre-K programs is a goal that governors from both parties have supported. But it's unlikely to be bipartisan at the national level, because there's a deep ideological divide between Republicans and Democrats over what role the federal government ought to play.

How pre-K became a central part of the Democratic education agenda

There are two reasons the Democratic Party has embraced pre-K. The first has to do with improving education. Research has shown that high-quality preschool programs can improve children's lives decades into the future.

The research on pre-K has generally found that spending on early childhood education pays off later on, because students who participate earn more money and are less likely to commit crime. Estimates vary as to how much, but a longitudinal study of early childhood education in Chicago found that every dollar spent saved $7 later on. That's largely because children who participated in the program were less likely to be arrested and imprisoned in the next 25 years than children who did not.

The second motivator is more economic. Child care is now as expensive as college tuition in some states. And creating free pre-K is part of a broader agenda to give working parents, particularly moms, some economic help.

How Clinton's pre-K plan might work

The Clinton campaign didn't release detailed plans for how it would make universal pre-K a reality. But a fact sheet said it would build on the Obama administration's "Preschool for All" proposal, a centerpiece of the 2013 State of the Union address.

Here's how that proposal worked:

- The federal government would give grants to states based on their population of low- and moderate-income 4-year-olds. States would give the money to school districts and other pre-K providers.

- The federal government would pay 90 percent of the cost in the first year, with extra money for states that expanded the program to families making more than 200 percent of the poverty level. Gradually, over 10 years, states would be required to pay more of the bill.
- Preschool programs would have to be "high-quality," meaning, among other things, that teachers would have to have bachelor's degrees, classes would have to be small, and programs would have to be monitored to make sure they're meeting standards.

In other words, states would have to commit to meeting some standards and kicking in some of their own money in order to participate. But at least in the early years, the federal government would pay most of the bill.

- The Obama administration estimated that Preschool for All would cost $1.3 billion in its first year, and asked for an additional $750 million to create competitive grants for states to help them meet the program's requirements. They asked for $75 billion in new mandatory spending over 10 years.

Why pre-K seems bipartisan now — and why that might not last

When Democrats talk up universal pre-K, they often look to an unlikely place: red states. Georgia and Oklahoma both have big, publicly funded, and popular pre-K programs. This means Clinton can argue that pre-K is a bipartisan priority.

"Governors and state legislatures across the country are discovering the value of preschool. And this is bipartisan," Clinton said in New Hampshire. "You know, one of the states with a universal pre-K program in America is Oklahoma, about as red a state as you can get. But they have figured it out, the government and business leaders and families like, that this is a smart investment for them."

The programs in Oklahoma and Georgia were originally created by Democrats: Oklahoma's by a Democratic legislator and Georgia's by then-Democratic Gov. Zell Miller, who later switched parties. They've thrived since in red states with bipartisan support.

But there's no guarantee that Republican governors would want to accept even a giant federal carrot to expand their pre-K programs. Just look at Obamacare's Medicaid expansion: it offered states roughly the same deal as the administration's pre-K proposal. But when the Supreme Court removed the threat attached to the incentive — that states that didn't expand Medicaid would lose all of their Medicaid funding — 22 governors refused to go along.

Even if Republican governors like the idea of pre-K more than the idea of Obamacare, it's hard to overcome a huge, ideological gap between Democrats and Republicans on education. Schools traditionally have been controlled at the state and local level, and Republicans are skeptical of any attempt to expand federal authority.

Merely creating a voluntary grant competition as an incentive for states to change — as the Obama administration did with its Race to the Top competition — is now viewed with suspicion. The thinking is that if the federal government is providing even a small share of the money, it gets to make the rules.

Clinton's embrace of pre-K is a natural evolution of the Democratic agenda. But it's not going to be a bipartisan priority anytime soon.

From: John Del Cecato
To: B; Snyder Thomas
Subject: The latest on trade
Date: Thursday, June 18, 2015 12:38:16 PM

House Passes Trade Promotion Authority Bill

By Emma Dumain Posted at 12:32 p.m. June 18

Rep. Rosa DeLauro, D-Conn., has been leading the charge against TPA (Bill Clark/CQ Roll Call File Photo)

The House narrowly passed Trade Promotion Authority Thursday — the first step of many to resurrect President Barack Obama’s trade agenda after his own party torpedoed a combined bill last week.

The chamber voted 218-208 on TPA, which will give him the latitude to negotiate a 12-nation Pacific trade deal sought by most Republicans and a small number of Democrats. Just 28 Democrats backed the president, while 50 Republicans voted “no.”

The bill now heads to the other side of the Rotunda, where the Senate will have to pass it a second time before the two chambers engage in a process of volleying back and forth several other amended bills and legislative language, including Trade Adjustment Assistance and an amended trade-preferences bill that extends the African Growth and Opportunity Act. The House and Senate will also ultimately have to reconcile two versions of a customs bill.

The House passed TPA on June 12, 219-211, but because a rule governing floor debate stipulated TPA could not advance to the president’s desk without passage of TAA, Democrats sank TAA to slow down the process, forcing the chamber to hold another vote on TPA by itself Thursday.

Going forward, there is a lot left to do with a small margin for error, with outside groups advocating opposition to TPA with increasing volume and intensity. Labor and progressive organizations are questioning pro-trade Democrats’ ideological purity and threatening to find primary challengers for those who defect from their party’s leadership.

During the vote, members huddled on the floor and watched the board as results came in.

Ways and Means Chairman Paul D. Ryan, R-Wis., who has been leading the Republican effort to pass Obama’s trade agenda, held court with colleagues, among them members of leadership and Democrats — those who support TPA, such as Rep. Henry Cuellar, D-Texas, and those vehemently opposed, such as Rep. Bill Pascrell Jr., D-N.J.

New Democrat Coalition Chairman Ron Kind, D-Wis., who has been the Obama administration's Democratic point-person on trade inside the House, stood with ally Mike Quigley, D-Ill., as the clock ticked down and the votes poured in.

Rep. Rosa DeLauro, D-Conn., who has led the progressive effort to bring down the trade agenda, counted votes with Minority Leader Nancy Pelosi, D-Calif., and leadership staff. Pelosi stunned colleagues last week when she came to the House floor to announce her position she'd long kept secret, and went a step further and said Democrats should vote against TPA as a tactical move to block TPA from advancing — exactly what Obama asked members not to do.

Related:

See photos, follies, HOH Hits and Misses and more at Roll Call's new video site.

Get breaking news alerts and more from Roll Call in your inbox or on your iPhone.

From: Carey, Michael
To: John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: <no subject>
Date: Thursday, June 18, 2015 1:08:11 PM

We wanted to but budget is killing us

Michael Paul Carey
City Hall
New York, New York

> On Jun 18, 2015, at 11:20 AM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:
>
> Just FYI - Ruffalo is a TPA signer... And Leo is a big star... I think it > would be helpful if he could meet them on their turf on an issue they're > passionate about - just in case anything changes!
>
>> On 6/18/15, 11:06 AM, "John Del Cecato" <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:
>>
>> roger
>>
>>> On 6/18/15, 11:03 AM, "Carey, Michael" <MPCarey@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>>>
>>> No
>>>
>>> Michael Paul Carey
>>> City Hall
>>> New York, New York
>>>
>>>> On Jun 18, 2015, at 11:03 AM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
>>>> wrote:
>>>>
>>>> Do you know if MBDB is going to this East Village environmentalist >>>> shin-dig late this afternoon? Shawn Sachs at Sunshine-Sachs is asking...
>>>> I can tell him TBD if you want
>

From: John Del Cecato
To: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: misc
Date: Thursday, June 18, 2015 4:04:47 PM

Yep, on my calendar... I talked to Matt Sinovic (our possible IA director) to feel him out - he's gung ho

RKK talked to CNN & they're very enthused.. They talked through some potential partners, format, etc.. I can send you & MBDB a little update

From: <Snyder>, Thomas <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Thursday, June 18, 2015 at 3:56 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: misc

Remember tomorrow we are meeting with the Iowa guy at 3pm. Also, is there anything to report from Rebecca about Iowa forum and CNN?

Tom Snyder
Chief of Staff
Office of the Mayor
City Hall
New York, NY 10007
212-341-5050

From: Carey, Michael
To: "John Del Cecato"
Subject: RE: <no subject>
Date: Thursday, June 18, 2015 4:19:22 PM

Around 4

Michael Paul Carey
Director of Scheduling and Advance
City Hall
New York, New York 10007
212.341.5396

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Thursday, June 18, 2015 4:17 PM
To: Carey, Michael
Subject: <no subject>

Can I give Robert Greenwald more of a sense of what time on 9/10 the mayor would be available for my weird little short-film screening/possible Q&A on income inequality project? Just time of day?

From: Carey, Michael
To: "John Del Cecato"
Cc: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: RE: <no subject>
Date: Thursday, June 18, 2015 4:30:59 PM

Okay

Just forewarning that is budget day so may get cancelled

Michael Paul Carey
Director of Scheduling and Advance
City Hall
New York, New York 10007
212.341.5396

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Thursday, June 18, 2015 4:30 PM
To: Carey, Michael
Cc: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: <no subject>

let's lock geri prado in for 5pm on Monday at City Hall with Mayor

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: "John Del Cecato"
Subject: RE: misc
Date: Thursday, June 18, 2015 4:43:17 PM

You are right 3:30pm

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Thursday, June 18, 2015 4:05 PM
To: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: misc

Actually - meeting is on my calendar for 330pm - is that wrong?

From: <Snyder>, Thomas <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Thursday, June 18, 2015 at 3:56 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: misc

Remember tomorrow we are meeting with the Iowa guy at 3pm. Also, is there anything to report from Rebecca about Iowa forum and CNN?

Tom Snyder
Chief of Staff
Office of the Mayor
City Hall
New York, NY 10007
212-341-5050

From: B
To: Snyder, Thomas; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Re: TPA
Date: Thursday, June 18, 2015 5:25:39 PM

That's not good. And let's pls not use "TPA" for anything but our project. Spell it out when it comes to trade or use a different acronym. Too much chance for confusion

From: Snyder, Thomas
Sent: Thursday, June 18, 2015 04:44 PM
To: B; John Del Ceccato (jfdc@akpdmedia.com) <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: TPA

AFL-CIO chief lobbyist told me he feels that is very likely that TPA will pass and then they will return and dare the Ds to block TAA.

Tom Snyder
Chief of Staff
Office of the Mayor
City Hall
New York, NY 10007
212-341-5050

From: John Del Cecato
To: B
Subject: Re: What's up on TPP?
Date: Thursday, June 18, 2015 5:27:09 PM

My people say that they don't see how they peel Dems away from the position they just took - and the R's who are opposed will stay opposed. That said, there are always deals cut - and White House and Boehner are working it. I asked how we could help - like maybe call some "true progressive" House members who might be in danger of straying, or calling mayors of swing Dems to see if we can apply pressure that way. Waiting to hear back on who that list might include

> On Jun 18, 2015, at 5:23 PM, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>
>

From: B
To: Hagelgans, Andrea; FLONYC
Cc: Walzak, Phil; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Hinton, Karen
Subject: Re: HRC: Gun comments after the shooting
Date: Thursday, June 18, 2015 5:35:37 PM

Promising!

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
Sent: Thursday, June 18, 2015 05:28 PM
To: B; FLONYC
Cc: Walzak, Phil; John Del Cecato (jfdc@akpdmedia.com) <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Hinton, Karen
Subject: HRC: Gun comments after the shooting

Nice to see some courage here

The Democratic candidate makes her first public comments since the attack

Former Secretary of State Hillary Clinton challenged the nation Thursday to take new actions to curb gun violence in her first reactions to the shooting inside a historically black Charleston, S.C., church that left nine dead.

“How many people do we need to see cut down before we act?” she asked, during a summit of elected and appointed Latino politicians meeting in Las Vegas.

She began by saying that her thoughts and prayers were with the victims and their families in the shooting, before turning to a broader discussion of police. “So as we mourn and as our hearts break a little more, and as we send this message of solidarity that we will not forsake those who have been victimized by gun violence, this time we have to find answers together,” Clinton said.

Police said they had in custody suspect Dylann Storm Roof, a 21-year-old man who spent almost an hour inside the church Wednesday night before opening fire. Officials were not ascribing motives for Roof, who is white, and his killings inside one of Charleston’s most prominent black churches.

“Cut down at prayer. Murdered in a house of God. It just broke my heart. That of course is the last place we should violence. But we shouldn’t see it anywhere,” Clinton said. “In the days ahead, we will again ask what led to this terrible tragedy and where we as a nation need to go. In order to make sense of it, we have to be honest. We have to face hard truths about race, violence, guns and division.”

Clinton visited Charleston on Wednesday before the killings. “I left feeling not only great about Charleston but also great about America,” Clinton said of the South Carolina city. When she landed in Las Vegas hours later, she learned of the killings. “The shock and pain of this crime of hate strikes deep,” she said.

Andrea Hagelgans
Office of the Mayor
Direct – 212.341.5372
Cell – 718.679.8965
ahagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
To: "John Del Cecato"
Subject: RE: Tweet by Jon Ralston on Twitter
Date: Thursday, June 18, 2015 7:26:43 PM

Won't air for another hour. I will send along later tonight.

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
Sent: Thursday, June 18, 2015 7:24 PM
To: 'John Del Cecato'
Subject: RE: Tweet by Jon Ralston on Twitter

ok

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Thursday, June 18, 2015 7:23 PM
To: Gunaratna, Mahen
Subject: Fwd: Tweet by Jon Ralston on Twitter

Can you see if you can get a fuller report on what she said?

Begin forwarded message:

From: B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: June 18, 2015 at 6:57:49 PM EDT
To: "[REDACTED]" <[REDACTED]> "Snyder, Thomas"
<TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Williams, Dominic"
<DWilliams@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: Tweet by Jon Ralston on Twitter

I want to know more asap

From: John Del Cecato [[mailto:\[REDACTED\]](mailto:[REDACTED])]
Sent: Thursday, June 18, 2015 06:49 PM
To: B; Snyder, Thomas; Williams, Dominic
Subject: Tweet by Jon Ralston on Twitter

Jon Ralston (@RalstonReports)

6/18/15, 4:58 PM

Just finished intervew w/Hillary for #RalstonLive. Says she would vote no on TPA if still in Senate, danced around previous TPP support. 1/2

Download the Twitter app

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
To: "John Del Cecato"
Subject: RE: Tweet by Jon Ralston on Twitter
Date: Thursday, June 18, 2015 11:44:49 PM

https://www.dropbox.com/s/4njb6pqj4nx4ru5/Hillary_interview_06182015.mp4?dl=0

Ralston: Switching gears, there was a big vote today, as you know, in the House – and TPA was passed again. You have been a big support of free trade – both as a Senator and as Secretary of State. But now you seem to be, I know you're not going to like this word, waffling, maybe not taking a position on it. Is it just because you're afraid of alienating traditional Democratic constituencies? Why won't you give a full-throated endorsement of that?

HRC: Well, first, let me set my record straight in the Senate. I voted trade agreements that I thought were good for America – and I voted against them, including the multi-national Central American Free Trade Agreement (CAFTA). I voted against giving President Bush fast-track authority. I tried to make a judgment based on the merits. And, when I was in the Senate, there were a number of trade agreements that I thought were good – I said, okay, I'll vote for them, and others not. Well, that's what's so hard. I don't know yet. And this is what I've been trying to convey: Until we know what's in the agreement, and yes, when it began to be negotiated, I said, 'it holds out promise to be the gold standard.' We're going to have to do business with some of these big economies like Japan's, for example. So, let's figure out how we can raise labor standards, health standards, protect the environment, create the best possible trading agreement.

Ralston: You said that in the past though. You said TPP would do those things...

HRC: Let's hope it does, but, my question now is – I have not read it. It's only available to people who go to a certain room in the Capitol Hill complex. And they can't show it to their aides. And they can't even take notes on it. So, all I can judge, is what people are coming out and telling me. And, even in my book, Hard Choices, last summer, I said I have real doubts on this so-called investor-state dispute settlement agreement, which basically means, you run a big company – let's pick a big Asian company of some sorts, from one of the countries in the agreement – and you want to import some kind of food. And the local officials in, say in Nevada, say, you know what, that doesn't meet our standards. Or the FDA says it – or somebody says it. And you then say, wait a minute, under this trade agreement, I should be able to do that. So I demand one of these dispute-settlement determinations. Who's in the room? Maybe I'm an expert on health and running a hygiene program in Nevada. Maybe I'm the person who oversees the big casinos' health standards – they have lots of people coming, we want to keep them healthy. And I say, no, I want to be heard, because we found problems in that company's food. And you're told, no, this is just between the company and the local government. Well, that makes no sense to me. It should be an open process. And I have said that – I have said that for months now. So, here's what I – I was willing to wait until I could see what's in it – before I took a decision – like I did when I was a Senator...

Ralston: But you said very positive things about it many, many times in the past, you know that...

HRC: No, Joe, I said positive things about the process and the potential. Look, if we could get the right kind of agreement that was good for workers, good for wages, good for the environment, labor, safety, health – and good for our national security. That would be great for America. Some people don't like any trade agreement – and some people are willing to take any trade agreement. You know, those two sides of the debate are not what I'm listening to. I'm trying to figure out what can we do to get to the best possible agreement. And that's why, on Friday, when the House Democrats stopped the process, I said, you know, the President and his negotiators should listen, not to the pro and the no, but to the people who say, let's fix this dispute settlement, let's do more to enforce decent labor standards so our workers are not as a disadvantage.

Ralston: You seem to think that the President has mishandled this.

HRC: No, I think the President has a hard hand to play. And he's done as well as he could given the demands from these other countries. But I also know, because I've been a part of, seeing trade agreements opened up after fast-track, okay? So that you get to the point where you say, we'd like to pass it, but only if you make these changes. Then the other countries, which also have a big stake in it, you know, they come around. When I was Secretary of State, the Bush Administration negotiated a free trade agreement with Korea. So, when President Obama comes in, and I come in, we're presented with this agreement. And we say, it's not strong enough. On getting cars, for example, American-made cars into that market. We worked with the UAW, we worked with car manufacturers here, and we said, we can't go forward with it, unless changes. That is the kind of negotiation I'm proposing. I'm well aware – this is hard work. And when you have all these other countries around the table – and they're saying, we can't do this, and we can't do that, of course we're fighting to get the best. And what I do believe – the President's thinking is – if I get Trade Promotion Authority – used to be known as fast-track – then I can go and I can say, to all these other countries, okay the deal I make can be enforced, but I can't make the deal unless you make all these other changes.

Ralston: Last question on this, hopefully it's a simple yes or no, but I'm not that optimistic...

[Laughter]

Ralston: If you were in the Senate, would you vote for TPA when it gets there?

HRC: At this point, probably not, because it's a process vote, and I don't want to say it's the same as TPP. Right now, I'm focused on making sure we get Trade Adjustment Assistance (TAA) – and I certainly would not vote for it unless I'm absolutely confident that we would get Trade Adjustment Assistance.

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Thursday, June 18, 2015 7:23 PM
To: Gunaratna, Mahen
Subject: Fwd: Tweet by Jon Ralston on Twitter

Can you see if you can get a fuller report on what she said?

Begin forwarded message:

From: B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: June 18, 2015 at 6:57:49 PM EDT
To: "[REDACTED]" <[REDACTED]> "Snyder, Thomas"
<TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Williams, Dominic"
<DWilliams@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: Tweet by Jon Ralston on Twitter

I want to know more asap

From: John Del Cecato [[mailto:\[REDACTED\]](mailto:[REDACTED])]
Sent: Thursday, June 18, 2015 06:49 PM
To: B; Snyder, Thomas; Williams, Dominic
Subject: Tweet by Jon Ralston on Twitter

Jon Ralston (@RalstonReports)

6/18/15, 4:58 PM

Just finished intervew w/Hillary for #RalstonLive. Says she would vote no on TPA if still in Senate, danced around previous TPP support. 1/2

Download the Twitter app

From: John Del Cecato
To: B
Subject: Re: HRC on Fast Track
Date: Friday, June 19, 2015 8:30:47 AM

Hahaha - yes!!! But I get the feeling it's not by design - she is just rusty

From: Bill de Blasio <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Friday, June 19, 2015 at 8:13 AM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: HRC on Fast Track

Do you get the feeling she needs to start learning to use short declarative sentences??? She's even worse than me

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Friday, June 19, 2015 07:59 AM
To: B; Snyder, Thomas; Williams, Dominic
Subject: HRC on Fast Track

It's a little hard to follow, but it feels like she's making the case of the angels...

https://www.dropbox.com/s/4njb6pqj4nx4ru5/Hillary_interview_06182015.mp4?dl=0

Ralston: Switching gears, there was a big vote today, as you know, in the House – and TPA was passed again. You have been a big support of free trade – both as a Senator and as Secretary of State. But now you seem to be, I know you're not going to like this word, waffling, maybe not taking a position on it. Is it just because you're afraid of alienating traditional Democratic constituencies? Why won't you give a full-throated endorsement of that?

HRC: Well, first, let me set my record straight in the Senate. I voted trade agreements that I thought were good for America – and I voted against them, including the multi-national Central American Free Trade Agreement (CAFTA). I voted against giving President Bush fast-track authority. I tried to make a judgment based on the merits. And, when I was in the Senate, there were a number of trade agreements that I thought were good – I said, okay, I'll vote for them, and others not. Well, that's what's so hard. I don't know yet. And this is what I've been trying to convey: Until we know what's in the agreement, and yes, when it began to be negotiated, I said, 'it holds out promise to be the gold standard.' We're going to have to do business with some of these big economies like Japan's, for example. So, let's figure out how we can raise labor standards, health standards, protect the environment, create the best possible trading agreement.

Ralston: You said that in the past though. You said TPP would do those things...

HRC: Let's hope it does, but, my question now is – I have not read it. It's only available to people who go to a certain room in the Capitol Hill complex. And they can't show it to their aides. And they can't even take notes on it. So, all I can judge, is what people are coming out and telling me. And, even in my book, Hard Choices, last summer, I said I have real doubts on this so-called investor-state dispute settlement agreement, which basically means, you run a big company – let's pick a big Asian company of some sorts, from one of the countries in the agreement – and you want to import some kind of food. And the local officials in, say in Nevada, say, you know what, that doesn't meet our standards. Or the FDA says it – or somebody says it. And you then say, wait a minute, under this trade agreement, I should be able to do that. So I demand one of these dispute-settlement determinations. Who's in the room? Maybe I'm an expert on health and running a hygiene program in Nevada. Maybe I'm the person who oversees the big casinos' health standards – they have lots of people coming, we want to keep them healthy. And I say, no, I want to be heard, because we found problems in that company's food. And you're told, no, this is just between the company and the local government. Well, that makes no sense to me. It should be an open process. And I have said that – I have said that for months now. So, here's what I – I was willing to wait until I could see what's in it – before I took a decision – like I did when I was a Senator...

Ralston: But you said very positive things about it many, many times in the past, you know that...

HRC: No, Joe, I said positive things about the process and the potential. Look, if we could get the right kind of agreement that was good for workers, good for wages, good for the environment, labor, safety, health – and good for our national security. That would be great for America. Some people don't like any trade agreement – and some people are willing to take any trade agreement. You know, those two sides of the debate are not what I'm listening to. I'm trying to figure out what can we do to get to the best possible agreement. And that's why, on Friday, when the House Democrats stopped the process, I said, you know, the President and his negotiators should listen, not to the pro and the no, but to the people who say, let's fix this dispute settlement, let's do more to enforce decent labor standards so our workers are not as a disadvantage.

Ralston: You seem to think that the President has mishandled this.

HRC: No, I think the President has a hard hand to play. And he's done as well as he could given the demands from these other countries. But I also know, because I've been a part of, seeing trade agreements opened up after fast-track, okay? So that you get to the point where you say, we'd like to pass it, but only if you make these changes. Then the other countries, which also have a big stake in it, you know, they come around. When I was Secretary of State, the Bush Administration negotiated a free trade agreement with Korea. So, when President Obama comes in, and I come in, we're presented with this agreement. And we say, it's not strong enough. On getting cars, for example, American-made cars into that market. We worked with the UAW, we worked with car manufacturers here, and we said, we can't go forward with it, unless changes. That is the kind of negotiation I'm proposing. I'm well aware – this is hard work. And when you have all these other countries around the table – and they're saying, we can't do this, and we can't do that, of course we're fighting to get the best. And what I do believe – the President's thinking is – if I get Trade Promotion Authority – used to be known as fast-track – then I can go and I can say, to all these other countries, okay the deal I make can be enforced, but I can't make the deal unless you make all these other changes.

Ralston: Last question on this, hopefully it's a simple yes or no, but I'm not that optimistic...

[Laughter]

Ralston: If you were in the Senate, would you vote for TPA when it gets there?

HRC: At this point, probably not, because it's a process vote, and I don't want to say it's the same as TPP. Right now, I'm focused on making sure we get Trade Adjustment Assistance (TAA) – and I certainly would not vote for it unless I'm absolutely confident that we would get Trade Adjustment Assistance.

From: Carey, Michael
To: John Del Cecato
Date: Friday, June 19, 2015 8:48:36 AM

U around Sunday if I can get CT in

Michael Paul Carey
City Hall
New York, New York

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: B; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Williams, Dominic
Subject: RE: HRC on Fast Track
Date: Friday, June 19, 2015 9:32:39 AM

Very tortured, wiggle room galore

From: B
Sent: Friday, June 19, 2015 8:14 AM
To: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; Snyder, Thomas; Williams, Dominic
Subject: Re: HRC on Fast Track

Not sure this content is that reassuring...

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Friday, June 19, 2015 07:59 AM
To: B; Snyder, Thomas; Williams, Dominic
Subject: HRC on Fast Track

It's a little hard to follow, but it feels like she's making the case of the angels...

https://www.dropbox.com/s/4njb6pqj4nx4ru5/Hillary_interview_06182015.mp4?dl=0

Ralston: Switching gears, there was a big vote today, as you know, in the House – and TPA was passed again. You have been a big support of free trade – both as a Senator and as Secretary of State. But now you seem to be, I know you're not going to like this word, waffling, maybe not taking a position on it. Is it just because you're afraid of alienating traditional Democratic constituencies? Why won't you give a full-throated endorsement of that?

HRC: Well, first, let me set my record straight in the Senate. I voted trade agreements that I thought were good for America – and I voted against them, including the multi-national Central American Free Trade Agreement (CAFTA). I voted against giving President Bush fast-track authority. I tried to make a judgment based on the merits. And, when I was in the Senate, there were a number of trade agreements that I thought were good – I said, okay, I'll vote for them, and others not. Well, that's what's so hard. I don't know yet. And this is what I've been trying to convey: Until we know what's in the agreement, and yes, when it began to be negotiated, I said, 'it holds out promise to be the gold standard.' We're going to have to do business with some of these big economies like Japan's, for example. So, let's figure out how we can raise labor standards, health standards, protect the environment, create the best possible trading agreement.

Ralston: You said that in the past though. You said TPP would do those things...

HRC: Let's hope it does, but, my question now is – I have not read it. It's only available to people who go to a certain room in the Capitol Hill complex. And they can't show it to their aides. And they can't even take notes on it. So, all I can judge, is what people are coming out and telling me. And, even in my book, Hard Choices, last summer, I said I have real doubts on this so-called investor-state dispute settlement agreement, which basically means, you run a big company – let's pick a big Asian company of some sorts, from one of the countries in the agreement – and you want to import some kind of food. And the local officials in, say in Nevada, say, you know what, that doesn't meet our standards. Or the FDA says it – or somebody says it. And you then say, wait a minute, under this trade agreement, I should be able to do that. So I demand one of these dispute-settlement determinations. Who's in the room? Maybe I'm an expert on health and running a hygiene program in Nevada. Maybe I'm the person who oversees the big casinos' health standards – they have lots of people coming, we want to keep them healthy. And I say, no, I want to be heard, because we found problems in that company's food. And you're told, no, this is just between the company and the local government. Well, that makes no sense to me. It should be an open process. And I have said that – I have said that for months now. So, here's what I – I was willing to wait until I could see what's in it – before I took a decision – like I did when I was a Senator...

Ralston: But you said very positive things about it many, many times in the past, you know that...

HRC: No, Joe, I said positive things about the process and the potential. Look, if we could get the right kind of agreement that was good for workers, good for wages, good for the environment, labor, safety, health – and good for our national security. That would be great for America. Some people don't like any trade agreement – and some people are willing to take any trade agreement. You know, those two sides of the debate are not what I'm listening to. I'm trying to figure out what can we do to get to the best possible agreement. And that's why, on Friday, when the House Democrats stopped the process, I said, you know, the President and his negotiators should listen, not to the pro and the no, but to the people who say, let's fix this dispute settlement, let's do more to enforce decent labor standards so our workers are not as a disadvantage.

Ralston: You seem to think that the President has mishandled this.

HRC: No, I think the President has a hard hand to play. And he's done as well as he could given the demands from these other countries. But I also know, because I've been a part of, seeing trade agreements opened up after fast-track, okay? So that you get to the point where you say, we'd like to pass it, but only if you make these changes. Then the other countries, which also have a big stake in it, you know, they come around. When I was Secretary of State, the Bush Administration negotiated a free trade agreement with Korea. So, when President Obama comes in, and I come in, we're presented with this agreement. And we say, it's not strong enough. On getting cars, for example, American-made cars into that market. We worked with the UAW, we worked with car manufacturers here, and we said, we can't go forward with it, unless changes. That is the kind of negotiation I'm proposing. I'm well aware – this is hard work. And when you have all these other countries around the table – and they're saying, we can't do this, and we can't do that, of course we're fighting to get the best. And what I do believe – the President's thinking is – if I get Trade Promotion Authority – used to be known as fast-track – then I can go and I can say, to all these other countries, okay the deal I make can be enforced, but I can't make the deal unless you make all these other changes.

Ralston: Last question on this, hopefully it's a simple yes or no, but I'm not that optimistic...

[Laughter]

Ralston: If you were in the Senate, would you vote for TPA when it gets there?

HRC: At this point, probably not, because it's a process vote, and I don't want to say it's the same as TPP. Right now, I'm focused on making sure we get Trade Adjustment Assistance (TAA) – and I certainly would not vote for it unless I'm absolutely confident that we would get Trade Adjustment Assistance.

From: Walzak, Phil
To: "John Del Cecato"; Shorris, Anthony
Cc: B; Wolfe, Emma; Williams, Dominic; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: RE: International Business Times
Date: Friday, June 19, 2015 12:17:36 PM

Lets then hit Cuomo for spiking Warrens choice!

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Friday, June 19, 2015 11:23 AM
To: Shorris, Anthony
Cc: B; Walzak, Phil; Wolfe, Emma; Williams, Dominic; Snyder, Thomas Subject: Re: International Business Times

haha

From: <Shorris>, Anthony Shorris <AShorris@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Friday, June 19, 2015 at 11:03 AM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: Bill de Blasio <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Walzak, Phil" <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Wolfe, Emma" <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Dominic Williams <DWilliams@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Snyder, Thomas" <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: International Business Times

We can endorse her pick to make sure she never gets the job.

Anthony E. Shorris
First Deputy Mayor
City of New York
City Hall
New York, NY 10007
212-788-3191

On Jun 19, 2015, at 9:03 AM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

Per our discussion last night - is it possible for us to join Warren's cause here?

Fight Over New 'Sheriff Of Wall Street' Heats Up As Elizabeth Warren Champions Former Student Loan Watchdog

Sen. Elizabeth Warren, D-Mass., and bane of the big banks, is throwing her weight behind a new campaign: New York's search for a new financial regulator. Alongside more than a dozen consumer advocacy groups, Warren is pushing Gov. Andrew Cuomo to select a Wall Street watchdog with as much bite as the outgoing Benjamin Lawsky.

Cuomo's pick could carry on a regime of unusually fierce state-level financial oversight in the banking capital of the world -- or usher in the more restrained approach favored by industry and some federal regulators.

The coalition of advocacy groups, which includes the state's teachers union, hopes it's the former. They even have a name in mind: Rohit Chopra, who recently stepped down as student-loan ombudsman at the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau (CFBP).

Sen. Warren, who hired Chopra to the fledgling agency in 2011, recently called him "smart as a whip, independent, hard-working and loaded with integrity." The senator has even made calls to Cuomo's office lobbying on Chopra's behalf, the Wall Street Journal reports.

Chopra, 33, would have large shoes to fill. Lawsky turned the newly created position of superintendent of New York's Department of Financial Services into a bank-industry overseer to rival the Securities and Exchange Commission.

With headquarters in Wall Street's own backyard, Lawsky leveled some $6 billion in fines on banking titans in four years and took swipes at federal regulators for what he characterized as "deeply disappointing" oversight. He even earned a new title: the Sheriff of Wall Street.

But some in the banking community grumbled that Lawsky's efforts amounted to prosecutorial overreach and grandstanding. In a controversial practice that became routine, Lawsky twisted banks' arms by threatening to rip up their licenses to operate in a global financial hub. In one case, the tactic won Lawsky a fine that was nearly 30 times what federal regulators had demanded from the miscreant firm.

Though his office lacks the ability to bring criminal charges against individuals, Lawsky pressured banks to fire executives who found themselves in his crosshairs. "To get real deterrence, we need to have individuals who are personally held to account," Lawsky has said.

At the CFPB, Chopra also cultivated a bulldog reputation. He was known for sparring, sometimes heatedly, with companies active in the $1.3-trillion student loan industry. In scathing reports, Chopra's office blasted the industry and pushed for lower interest rates and friendlier loan terms.

"He's really willing to weather criticism from the industry," says Kurt Walters, campaign manager for the advocacy group Rootstrikers, which targets money in politics. "You hear complaints from the student lending industry saying, 'Gee, isn't he being tough on us?'"

Other names that have been floated in the recruiting process have more traditional industry backgrounds. Among them are Jonathan Schwartz, a former JPMorgan Chase executive and Bridget Healy, the chief U.S. lawyer for Dutch bank ING. Two former regulators who have moved into private law are also reportedly on the short list.

Though it's common for regulators to shuttle between government agencies and the private industries they police, that revolving door has come under increasing fire from advocacy groups. Earlier this week Rootstrickers released a 65-page report slamming Securities and Exchange Commission chair Mary Jo White over charges of lax enforcement and conflicts of interest.

White, who carried a tough-on-crime reputation when she joined the SEC, had also served for years as corporate defense lawyer at Debevoise and Plimpton. It's the type of pedigree Walters and others hopes Cuomo avoids in his next pick.

"It would be a shame to take a step back," Walters says.

On June 30, Lawskey will pass his position temporarily to his chief of staff, Anthony Albanese, as Cuomo's search concludes. Lawskey is leaving to form his own legal and consulting firm.

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
To: Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea; "John Del Cecato"; Hinton, Karen
Subject: RE:
Date: Friday, June 19, 2015 3:24:48 PM

Sandy recovery (although there have been some bumps in the road)

Secretary of Labor Tom Perez attended living wage exec order bill signing

FEMA resiliency - Mayor has given strong praise

DACA/DAPA support and and mayors organizing/enrollment mobilization in support of POTUS actions on immigration reform

Medicaid waiver/Brooklyn hospitals

Jay Carney released statement praising us on pre-k when it passed

-----Original Message-----

From: Walzak, Phil
Sent: Friday, June 19, 2015 3:12 PM
To: Hagelgans, Andrea; 'John Del Cecato'; Hinton, Karen
Cc: Gunaratna, Mahen
Subject: RE:

Ebola response?

-----Original Message-----

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
Sent: Friday, June 19, 2015 3:12 PM
To: 'John Del Cecato'; Walzak, Phil; Hinton, Karen
Cc: Gunaratna, Mahen
Subject: RE:

YMI for sure

Tech Talent Pipeline

Immigration, I believe

-----Original Message-----

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Friday, June 19, 2015 3:08 PM
To: Walzak, Phil; Hinton, Karen; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject:

Heads up. Josh at WSJ doing piece on Obama relationship with mayors. Would be good to have a list of what they have worked together on - YMI, transportation, ??

He asked me if Obama was pissed at MBDB over trade and I said I'm not privy to their convos

From: B
To: Hagelgans, Andrea; Hinton, Karen
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Kadushin, Peter; Carey, Michael; Leopold, Elana; Gunaratna, Mahen; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; FLONYC
Subject: Re: CNN
Date: Saturday, June 20, 2015 8:56:02 AM

Oh, I'll go farther than that... Of course it's terrorism. Now we know that about this killer -- we didn't when I spoke on Thurs AM and we didn't know his racist history. The fact is not only is this terrorism, it's also important to note that we are much more endangered by domestic terrorism (based in racism and anti-government ideology -- ie, Oklahoma City bombing) and campus shootings (typically based on mental health problems) than anything from ISIS.

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
Sent: Saturday, June 20, 2015 08:46 AM
To: Hinton, Karen; B
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Kadushin, Peter; Carey, Michael; Leopold, Elana; Gunaratna, Mahen; John Del cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: CNN

Sir,

I want to flag that there is widespread frustration and outrage within the African American community and broader progressive community online that commentators have been calling it a mental health issue rather than domestic terrorism. Given that we described the Paris attacks as terrorism, I think we should consider whether it would apply here as well. Below is yesterday's NYT article on the issue for your consideration

Many Ask, Why Not Call Church Shooting Terrorism?

By RICK GLADSTONE JUNE 18, 2015

The massacre of nine African-Americans in Charleston has been classified as a possible hate crime, apparently carried out by a 21-year-old white man who once wore an apartheid badge and other symbols of white supremacy. But many civil rights advocates are asking why the attack has not officially been called terrorism.

Against the backdrop of rising worries about violent Muslim extremism in the United States, advocates see hypocrisy in the way the attack and the man under arrest in the shooting have been described by law enforcement officials and the news

media.

Assaults like the Boston Marathon bombing in 2013 and the attack on an anti-Islamic gathering in Garland, Tex., last month have been widely portrayed as acts of terrorism carried out by Islamic extremists. Critics say, however, that assaults against African-Americans and Muslim Americans are rarely if ever called terrorism.

Moreover, they argue, assailants who are white are far less likely to be described by the authorities as terrorists.

“We have been conditioned to accept that if the violence is committed by a Muslim, then it is terrorism,” Nihad Awad, executive director of the Council on American-Islamic Relations, a civil rights advocacy group in Washington, said Thursday in a telephone interview.

“If the same violence is committed by a white supremacist or apartheid sympathizer and is not a Muslim, we start to look for excuses — he might be insane, maybe he was pushed too hard,” Mr. Awad said.

Dean Obeidallah, a Muslim American radio show host and commentator, said it should be obvious that the Charleston killer was a terrorist.

“We have a man who intentionally went to a black church, had animus toward black people and assassinated an elected official and eight other people,” he said. “It seems he was motivated by a desire to terrorize and kill black people.”

While Attorney General Loretta E. Lynch and South Carolina officials said the shooting on Wednesday night was under investigation as a hate crime, much of the reaction on social media Thursday was caustic, with commentators saying they saw a double standard in such terminology.

“A white supremacist massacres 9 black people in Charleston. It is a hate crime, it is terrorism, it is America 2015,” Remi Kanazi, a Palestinian-American activist and poet, said on Twitter.

Samuel Sinyangwe, a civil rights activist who has helped chronicle violence against African-Americans, wrote on Twitter: “#CharlestonShooting terrorist wore an Apartheid flag on his jacket. If a Muslim man wore an ISIS flag, he wouldn’t get past mall security.”

The definition of terrorism is a shifting and contentious subject, usually with political overtones. The antagonists in the Syrian war and the Israeli-Palestinian conflict, for example, routinely accuse each other of terrorism. Militant organizations such as Al Qaeda and the Islamic State, which consider themselves liberators, are officially regarded by the United Nations, among others, as terrorist groups.

Webster’s New World College Dictionary defines terrorism as “the use of force or threats to demoralize, intimidate and subjugate, especially such use as a political weapon or policy.” Civil rights advocates said the Charleston attack not only fit the dictionary definition of terrorism but reflected a history of attempts by the Ku Klux Klan and other white supremacist groups to terrorize African-Americans.

“The first antiterrorism law in U.S. history was the Klan Control Act, so really, this has been the definition of terrorism,” William Jelani Cobb, a writer and director of the Africana Studies Institute at the University of Connecticut, said in a Twitter post.

Abraham H. Foxman, national director of the Anti-Defamation League, a venerable civil rights group, said the Charleston massacre looked like terrorism to him.

“While the terrorist label is often applied to attacks, plots and conspiracies carried out on behalf of designated terrorist organizations such as ISIS and Al Qaeda, politically motivated violence is not the sole domain of supporters of designated terrorist groups,” Mr. Foxman said in a statement.

Karen Zraick and Robert Mackey contributed reporting.

A version of this article appears in print on June 19, 2015, on page A18 of t

From: Hinton, Karen

Sent: Saturday, June 20, 2015 8:37 AM

To: B

Cc: Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea; Kadushin, Peter; Carey, Michael; Leopold, Elana; Gunaratna, Mahen

Subject: Re: CNN

Mr. Mayor –We will arrange the CNN interview. Interviewer will be either anchor in Charleston, Poppy

Harlow, (could be different depending on time) or onsite reporter Cristina Alesci. Here are questions/answers we did. We took the multiple causes/strategies line. I will arrange a time for after your remarks.

Questions/Answers

Q: Why did you emphasize mental health in your original statement about the Charleston shootings?

- Ending tragedies will require multiple strategies: fighting intolerance and hate crimes; ending easy access to guns; defending communities from both foreign and domestic terrorism, as well providing mental health resources sorely needed in this country today.

Q: Despite efforts by President Obama, yourself and other leaders -- some of whom are with you today -- race relations don't seem to be improving in this country?

- Made great strides in race relations due to commitment of the civil rights leaders here today -- leaders who have followed in footsteps of those no longer with us today because of hate crimes.
- Must continue to be diligent on all fronts.

Q: You are married to a woman of color, do you fear for her safety, yourself, as well as your children?

- Like any husband and father, I worry about the safety of my family. I'm also fortunate. Best law enforcement protection in the world. People of color, of all races, gender identity and sexual preference must be free of fear.

Q: What was Chirlane's reaction?

- Same as mine. Sadness, concern, outrage.

Q: Did you talk to your kids about it? What did you say?

- Has been part of our family dialogue since they were young.

Q: You mentioned extra security for NYC churches and that PD has a protocol in place already to heighten patrols at synagogues following incidents, tell us more about that.

- First, no reason to consider any associated threats.
- However, due to the high-profile nature of the crime, NYPD instituted "special attention" and "directed" patrols at certain religious-affiliated locations in the city.

Q: You mentioned more security for churches; which ones, how many extra cops, how many churches, is the plan already in place?

- NYPD doesn't reveal the details of any security plans.
- However, on Thursday, as a preliminary precautionary measure, the NYPD deployed extra patrols to certain religious-based locations throughout the city.

- Done pending a further assessment of the investigation into the Charleston incident, as well as to address any concerns over potential "copycat" risks.
- Using Critical Response Vehicles (CRV) from the Counter-Terrorism Bureau (which normally cover high-profile public sites) to provide extra protection to churches.

Q: Does this ever apply to mosques as well?

- Of course

Q: Have there been specific threats?

- No but have complete confidence in NYPD; extensive experience; in place are security protocols; includes directed patrol attention; in some instances, fixed posts.
- Many of our patrol boroughs have dedicated House of Worship (HOW) cars that visit churches during religious holidays and at times of heightened security alerts.

Q: Shootings are up in NYC.

- Lowest number of murders in over 50 years.
- We did that last year while stopping unconstitutional stops and bringing police and community together.
- We have 25% fewer complaints against police.
- And we just unrolled our program - Summer All Out - to combat the gang related shootings we have seen.
- NYPD is doing great work and they will continue to aggressively ensure.
- NYC is one of the safest big cities in the world.

Karen Hinton
Press Secretary
917-246-7692
Follow Me On Twitter @KarenHinton

From: B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Sat, 20 Jun 2015 08:28:07 -0400
To: Karen Hinton <khinton@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: Phil Walzak <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Andrea Hagelgans <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: CNN

I'm willing to do it, and want to get into the same vein as Obama and Hillary: racism + guns + mental health

From: Hinton, Karen

Sent: Friday, June 19, 2015 11:49 PM
To: B
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: CNN

Mr. Mayor, Hello. Great day today for you and your family. I didn't want to bother you earlier but needed to let you know CNN will be covering the AME church event Saturday. They have asked for a few minutes interview LIVE with you about race relations following the Charleston shootings. I recommend you do it. Please let me know. We have developed some Q/As.

Karen

Karen Hinton
Press Secretary
917-246-7692
Follow Me On Twitter @KarenHinton

From: B
To: Hagelgans, Andrea; Hinton, Karen
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Kadushin, Peter; Carey, Michael; Leopold, Elana; Gunaratna, Mahen; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Re: CNN
Date: Saturday, June 20, 2015 8:56:44 AM

Make sure my remarks are sharp on this point. Use the words racism and terrorism clearly

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
Sent: Saturday, June 20, 2015 08:46 AM
To: Hinton, Karen; B
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Kadushin, Peter; Carey, Michael; Leopold, Elana; Gunaratna, Mahen; John Del cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: CNN

Sir,

I want to flag that there is widespread frustration and outrage within the African American community and broader progressive community online that commentators have been calling it a mental health issue rather than domestic terrorism. Given that we described the Paris attacks as terrorism, I think we should consider whether it would apply here as well. Below is yesterday's NYT article on the issue for your consideration

Many Ask, Why Not Call Church Shooting Terrorism?

By RICK GLADSTONE JUNE 18, 2015

The massacre of nine African-Americans in Charleston has been classified as a possible hate crime, apparently carried out by a 21-year-old white man who once wore an apartheid badge and other symbols of white supremacy. But many civil rights advocates are asking why the attack has not officially been called terrorism.

Against the backdrop of rising worries about violent Muslim extremism in the United States, advocates see hypocrisy in the way the attack and the man under arrest in the shooting have been described by law enforcement officials and the news media.

Assaults like the Boston Marathon bombing in 2013 and the attack on an anti-Islamic gathering in Garland, Tex., last month have been widely portrayed as acts of terrorism carried out by Islamic extremists. Critics say, however, that assaults against African-Americans and Muslim Americans are rarely if ever called terrorism.

Moreover, they argue, assailants who are white are far less likely to be described by the authorities as terrorists.

“We have been conditioned to accept that if the violence is committed by a Muslim, then it is terrorism,” Nihad Awad, executive director of the Council on American-Islamic Relations, a civil rights advocacy group in Washington, said Thursday in a telephone interview.

“If the same violence is committed by a white supremacist or apartheid sympathizer and is not a Muslim, we start to look for excuses — he might be insane, maybe he was pushed too hard,” Mr. Awad said.

Dean Obeidallah, a Muslim American radio show host and commentator, said it should be obvious that the Charleston killer was a terrorist.

“We have a man who intentionally went to a black church, had animus toward black people and assassinated an elected official and eight other people,” he said. “It seems he was motivated by a desire to terrorize and kill black people.”

While Attorney General Loretta E. Lynch and South Carolina officials said the shooting on Wednesday night was under investigation as a hate crime, much of the reaction on social media Thursday was caustic, with commentators saying they saw a double standard in such terminology.

“A white supremacist massacres 9 black people in Charleston. It is a hate crime, it is terrorism, it is America 2015,” Remi Kanazi, a Palestinian-American activist and poet, said on Twitter.

Samuel Sinyangwe, a civil rights activist who has helped chronicle violence against African-Americans, wrote on Twitter: “#CharlestonShooting terrorist wore an Apartheid flag on his jacket. If a Muslim man wore an ISIS flag, he wouldn’t get past mall security.”

The definition of terrorism is a shifting and contentious subject, usually with political overtones. The antagonists in the Syrian war and the Israeli-Palestinian conflict, for example, routinely accuse each other of terrorism. Militant organizations such as Al Qaeda and the Islamic State, which consider themselves liberators, are officially regarded by the United Nations, among others, as terrorist groups.

Webster's New World College Dictionary defines terrorism as "the use of force or threats to demoralize, intimidate and subjugate, especially such use as a political weapon or policy." Civil rights advocates said the Charleston attack not only fit the dictionary definition of terrorism but reflected a history of attempts by the Ku Klux Klan and other white supremacist groups to terrorize African-Americans.

"The first antiterrorism law in U.S. history was the Klan Control Act, so really, this has been the definition of terrorism," William Jelani Cobb, a writer and director of the Africana Studies Institute at the University of Connecticut, said in a Twitter post.

Abraham H. Foxman, national director of the Anti-Defamation League, a venerable civil rights group, said the Charleston massacre looked like terrorism to him.

"While the terrorist label is often applied to attacks, plots and conspiracies carried out on behalf of designated terrorist organizations such as ISIS and Al Qaeda, politically motivated violence is not the sole domain of supporters of designated terrorist groups," Mr. Foxman said in a statement.

Karen Zraick and Robert Mackey contributed reporting.

A version of this article appears in print on June 19, 2015, on page A18 of t

From: Hinton, Karen

Sent: Saturday, June 20, 2015 8:37 AM

To: B

Cc: Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea; Kadushin, Peter; Carey, Michael; Leopold, Elana; Gunaratna, Mahen

Subject: Re: CNN

Mr. Mayor –We will arrange the CNN interview. Interviewer will be either anchor in Charleston, Poppy Harlow, (could be different depending on time) or onsite reporter Cristina Alesci. Here are questions/answers we did. We took the multiple causes/strategies line. I will arrange a time for after your remarks.

Questions/Answers

Q: Why did you emphasize mental health in your original statement about the Charleston shootings?

- Ending tragedies will require multiple strategies: fighting intolerance and hate crimes; ending easy access to guns; defending communities from both foreign and domestic terrorism, as well as providing mental health resources sorely needed in this country today.

Q: Despite efforts by President Obama, yourself and other leaders -- some of whom are with you today -- race relations don't seem to be improving in this country?

- Made great strides in race relations due to commitment of the civil rights leaders here today -- leaders who have followed in footsteps of those no longer with us today because of hate crimes.
- Must continue to be diligent on all fronts.

Q: You are married to a woman of color, do you fear for her safety, yourself, as well as your children?

- Like any husband and father, I worry about the safety of my family. I'm also fortunate. Best law enforcement protection in the world. People of color, of all races, gender identity and sexual preference must be free of fear.

Q: What was Chirlane's reaction?

- Same as mine. Sadness, concern, outrage.

Q: Did you talk to your kids about it? What did you say?

- Has been part of our family dialogue since they were young.

Q: You mentioned extra security for NYC churches and that PD has a protocol in place already to heighten patrols at synagogues following incidents, tell us more about that.

- First, no reason to consider any associated threats.
- However, due to the high-profile nature of the crime, NYPD instituted "special attention" and "directed" patrols at certain religious-affiliated locations in the city.

Q: You mentioned more security for churches; which ones, how many extra cops, how many churches, is the plan already in place?

- NYPD doesn't reveal the details of any security plans.
- However, on Thursday, as a preliminary precautionary measure, the NYPD deployed extra patrols to certain religious-based locations throughout the city.
- Done pending a further assessment of the investigation into the Charleston incident, as well as to address any concerns over potential "copycat" risks.
- Using Critical Response Vehicles (CRV) from the Counter-Terrorism Bureau (which normally cover high-profile public sites) to provide extra protection to churches.

Q: Does this ever apply to mosques as well?

- Of course

Q: Have there been specific threats?

- No but have complete confidence in NYPD; extensive experience; in place are security protocols; includes directed patrol attention; in some instances, fixed posts.
- Many of our patrol boroughs have dedicated House of Worship (HOW) cars that visit churches during religious holidays and at times of heightened security alerts.

Q: Shootings are up in NYC.

- Lowest number of murders in over 50 years.
- We did that last year while stopping unconstitutional stops and bringing police and community together.
- We have 25% fewer complaints against police.
- And we just unrolled our program - Summer All Out - to combat the gang related shootings we have seen.
- NYPD is doing great work and they will continue to aggressively ensure.
- NYC is one of the safest big cities in the world.

Karen Hinton
Press Secretary
917-246-7692
Follow Me On Twitter @KarenHinton

From: B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Sat, 20 Jun 2015 08:28:07 -0400
To: Karen Hinton <khinton@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: Phil Walzak <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Andrea Hagelgans <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: CNN

I'm willing to do it, and want to get into the same vein as Obama and Hillary: racism + guns + mental health

From: Hinton, Karen
Sent: Friday, June 19, 2015 11:49 PM
To: B
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: CNN

Mr. Mayor, Hello. Great day today for you and your family. I didn't want to bother you earlier but needed to let you know CNN will be covering the AME church event Saturday. They have asked for a few minutes interview LIVE with you about race relations following the Charleston shootings. I recommend you do it. Please let me know. We have developed some Q/As.

Karen

Karen Hinton
Press Secretary
917-246-7692
Follow Me On Twitter @KarenHinton

From: Hinton, Karen
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Hagelgans, Andrea; Blumm, Kate
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Kadushin, Peter; Carey, Michael; Leopold, Elana; Gunaratna, Mahen; FLONYC
Subject: Re: CNN
Date: Saturday, June 20, 2015 9:23:23 AM

Minus Mayor

Kate/Peter/Mahen — Can one of you look at what Obama and Hillary said to his point?

We need a key sound bite. Kate, what do you think it is based on remarks?

Karen Hinton
Press Secretary
917-246-7692
Follow Me On Twitter @KarenHinton

From: B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Sat, 20 Jun 2015 08:59:38 -0400
To: "'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'" <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, Andrea Hagelgans <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: Karen Hinton <khinton@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Phil Walzak <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Peter Kadushin <pkadushin@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Carey, Michael" <MPCarey@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Leopold, Elana" <LEopold@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Gunaratna, Mahen" <MGunaratna@cityhall.nyc.gov>, FLONYC <FLONYC@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: CNN

John, you missed my point entirely. It is both. And I will say that. This is not time for political correctness -- it is time for blunt truth. Obama and Hillary were outstanding in their sharpness and in the linkages they made. It is racism + guns + mental health. And yes, it is terrorism against black people

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Saturday, June 20, 2015 08:56 AM
To: Hagelgans, Andrea
Cc: Hinton, Karen; B; Walzak, Phil; Kadushin, Peter; Carey, Michael; Leopold, Elana; Gunaratna, Mahen
Subject: Re: CNN

Strongly agree that we shouldn't talk about it as a mental health issue. This was racial hatred, pure and simple.

On Jun 20, 2015, at 8:46 AM, Hagelgans, Andrea <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Sir,

I want to flag that there is widespread frustration and outrage within the African American community and broader progressive community online that commentators have been calling it a mental health issue rather than domestic terrorism. Given that we described the Paris attacks as terrorism, I think we should consider whether it would apply here as well. Below is yesterday's NYT article on the issue for your consideration

Many Ask, Why Not Call Church Shooting Terrorism?

By RICK GLADSTONE JUNE 18, 2015

The massacre of nine African-Americans in Charleston has been classified as a possible hate crime, apparently carried out by a 21-year-old white man who once wore an apartheid badge and other symbols of white supremacy. But many civil rights advocates are asking why the attack has not officially been called terrorism.

Against the backdrop of rising worries about violent Muslim extremism in the United States, advocates see hypocrisy in the way the attack and the man under arrest in the shooting have been described by law enforcement officials and the news media.

Assaults like the Boston Marathon bombing in 2013 and the attack on an anti-Islamic gathering in Garland, Tex., last month have been widely portrayed as acts of terrorism carried out by Islamic extremists. Critics say, however, that assaults against African-Americans and Muslim Americans are rarely if ever called terrorism.

Moreover, they argue, assailants who are white are far less likely to be described by the authorities as terrorists.

“We have been conditioned to accept that if the violence is committed by a Muslim, then it is terrorism,” Nihad Awad, executive director of the Council on American-Islamic Relations, a civil rights advocacy group in Washington, said Thursday in a telephone interview.

“If the same violence is committed by a white supremacist or apartheid sympathizer and is not a Muslim, we start to look for excuses — he might be insane, maybe he was pushed too hard,” Mr. Awad said.

Dean Obeidallah, a Muslim American radio show host and commentator, said it should be obvious that the Charleston killer was a terrorist.

“We have a man who intentionally went to a black church, had animus toward black people and assassinated an elected official and eight other people,” he said. “It seems he was motivated by a desire to terrorize and kill black people.”

While Attorney General Loretta E. Lynch and South Carolina officials said the shooting on Wednesday night was under investigation as a hate crime, much of the reaction on social media Thursday was caustic, with commentators saying they saw a double standard in such terminology.

“A white supremacist massacres 9 black people in Charleston. It is a hate crime, it is terrorism, it is America 2015,” Remi Kanazi, a Palestinian-American activist and poet, said on Twitter.

Samuel Sinyangwe, a civil rights activist who has helped chronicle violence against African-Americans, wrote on Twitter:

“#CharlestonShooting terrorist wore an Apartheid flag on his jacket. If a Muslim man wore an ISIS flag, he wouldn’t get past mall security.”

The definition of terrorism is a shifting and contentious subject, usually with political overtones. The antagonists in the Syrian war and the Israeli-Palestinian conflict, for example, routinely accuse each other of terrorism. Militant organizations such as Al Qaeda and the Islamic State, which consider themselves liberators, are officially regarded by the United Nations, among others, as terrorist groups.

Webster's New World College Dictionary defines terrorism as "the use of force or threats to demoralize, intimidate and subjugate, especially such use as a political weapon or policy."

Civil rights advocates said the Charleston attack not only fit the dictionary definition of terrorism but reflected a history of attempts by the Ku Klux Klan and other white supremacist groups to terrorize African-Americans.

"The first antiterrorism law in U.S. history was the Klan Control Act, so really, this has been the definition of terrorism," William Jelani Cobb, a writer and director of the Africana Studies Institute at the University of Connecticut, said in a Twitter post.

Abraham H. Foxman, national director of the Anti-Defamation League, a venerable civil rights group, said the Charleston massacre looked like terrorism to him.

"While the terrorist label is often applied to attacks, plots and conspiracies carried out on behalf of designated terrorist organizations such as ISIS and Al Qaeda, politically motivated violence is not the sole domain of supporters of designated terrorist groups," Mr. Foxman said in a statement.

Karen Zraick and Robert Mackey contributed reporting.

A version of this article appears in print on June 19, 2015, on page A18 of t

From: Hinton, Karen

Sent: Saturday, June 20, 2015 8:37 AM

To: B

Cc: Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea; Kadushin, Peter; Carey, Michael; Leopold, Elana; Gunaratna, Mahen

Subject: Re: CNN

Mr. Mayor –We will arrange the CNN interview. Interviewer will be either anchor in Charleston, Poppy Harlow, (could be different depending on time) or onsite reporter Cristina Alesci. Here are questions/answers we did. We took the multiple causes/strategies line. I will arrange a time for after your remarks.

Questions/Answers

Q: Why did you emphasize mental health in your original statement about the Charleston shootings?

- Ending tragedies will require multiple strategies: fighting intolerance and hate crimes; ending easy access to guns; defending communities from both foreign and domestic terrorism, aswell providing mental health resources sorely needed in this country today.

Q: Despite efforts by President Obama, yourself and other leaders -- some of whom are with you today -- race relations don't seem to be improving in this country?

- Made great strides in race relations due to commitment of the civil rights leaders here today -- leaders who have followed in footsteps of those no longer with us today because of hate crimes.
- Must continue to be diligent on all fronts.

Q: You are married to a woman of color, do you fear for her safety, yourself, as well as your children?

- Like any husband and father, I worry about the safety of my family. I'm also fortunate. Best law enforcement protection in the world. People of color, of all races, gender identity andsexual preference must be free of fear.

Q: What was Chirlane's reaction?

- Same as mine. Sadness, concern, outrage.

Q: Did you talk to your kids about it? What did you say?

- Has been part of our family dialogue since they were young.

Q: You mentioned extra security for NYC churches and that PD has a protocol in place already to heighten patrols at synagogues following incidents, tell us more about that.

- First, no reason to consider any associated threats.
- However, due to the high-profile nature of the crime, NYPD instituted "special attention" and "directed" patrols at certain religious-affiliated locations in the city.

Q: You mentioned more security for churches; which ones, how many extra cops, how many churches, is the plan already in place?

- NYPD doesn't reveal the details of any security plans.
- However, on Thursday, as a preliminary precautionary measure, the NYPD deployed extra patrols to certain religious-based locations throughout the city.
- Done pending a further assessment of the investigation into the Charleston incident, as well as to address any concerns over potential "copycat" risks.
- Using Critical Response Vehicles (CRV) from the Counter-Terrorism Bureau (which normally cover high-profile public sites) to provide extra protection to churches.

Q: Does this ever apply to mosques as well?

- Of course

Q: Have there been specific threats?

- No but have complete confidence in NYPD; extensive experience; in place are security protocols; includes directed patrol attention; in some instances, fixed posts.
- Many of our patrol boroughs have dedicated House of Worship (HOW) cars that visit churches during religious holidays and at times of heightened security alerts.

Q: Shootings are up in NYC.

- Lowest number of murders in over 50 years.
- We did that last year while stopping unconstitutional stops and bringing police and community together.
- We have 25% fewer complaints against police.
- And we just unrolled our program - Summer All Out - to combat the gang related shootings we have seen.
- NYPD is doing great work and they will continue to aggressively ensure.
- NYC is one of the safest big cities in the world.

Karen Hinton
Press Secretary
917-246-7692
Follow Me On Twitter @KarenHinton

From: B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Sat, 20 Jun 2015 08:28:07 -0400
To: Karen Hinton <khinton@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Cc: Phil Walzak <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Andrea Hagelgans <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Subject: Re: CNN

I'm willing to do it, and want to get into the same vein as Obama and Hillary: racism + guns + mental health

From: Hinton, Karen
Sent: Friday, June 19, 2015 11:49 PM
To: B
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: CNN

Mr. Mayor, Hello. Great day today for you and your family. I didn't want to bother you earlier but needed to let you know CNN will be covering the AME church event Saturday. They have asked for a few minutes interview LIVE with you about race relations following the Charleston shootings. I recommend you do it. Please let me know. We have developed some Q/As.

Karen

Karen Hinton
Press Secretary
917-246-7692
Follow Me On Twitter @KarenHinton

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: B
Cc: jfdc@akpdmedia.com
Subject: Re: UPDATED: MINI Schedule for Saturday, June 20, 2015
Date: Saturday, June 20, 2015 10:43:30 AM

Yes

Sent from my iPad

On Jun 20, 2015, at 8:26 AM, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

No worries. Tom, can you swing into this mtg? And we need to discuss how the team can better plan mtg line-ups, which would start with actually knowing what the mtg is about and what our goal is for it. This has been an area of persistent weakness for our team, and we need to overcome it.

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Saturday, June 20, 2015 08:08 AM
To: B
Subject: Re: UPDATED: MINI Schedule for Saturday, June 20, 2015

Drat - I'm on Long Island today - back in the city late tonight

On Jun 20, 2015, at 7:42 AM, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Can you come to the 3pm mtg at Gracie? Sharpton and other leaders want to talk about, among other things, how they can work with the TPA

From: Carey, Michael
Sent: Friday, June 19, 2015 05:31 PM
To: B; FLONYC
Subject: UPDATED: MINI Schedule for Saturday, June 20, 2015

UPDATED: Added Call on Pre-K Pre-Registration

SCHEDULE FOR MAYOR BILL DE BLASIO
CITY OF NEW YORK
Saturday, June 20, 2015

WEATHER: Hi of 73. Low of 68. Cloudy.

ATTIRE: Business

NOTES: YOU have 30 mins. to change at the gym

8:00 - 8:20 TRAVEL FROM GRACIE MANSION EN ROUTE [REDACTED]

Travel Time: 20 mins.

8:30 - 8:45 [REDACTED]

Location: [REDACTED]

8:50 - 9:15 TRAVEL FROM [REDACTED] E EN ROUTE 357 9TH STREET

Travel Time: 25 mins.

9:15 - 10:15 WORKOUT

Location :357 9th Street

10:30 - 11:00 TRAVEL FROM 357 9TH STREET EN ROUTE
RIDGEWOOD AVE AND SHEPHERD AVE., BROOKLYN //
COMMUNICATIONS CALL

Travel Time: 30 mins.

11:00 - 12:00 REMARKS AT STREET NAMING IN HONOR OF DETECTIVE RAMOS

Location: Ridgewood Ave and Shepherd Ave., Brooklyn

Staff Lead: Jerika Richardson

Press: Open

12:00 - 12:45 TRAVEL FROM RIDGEWOOD AVE AND SHEPHERD AVE., BROOKLYN EN ROUTE MERRICK BLVD BETWEEN LINDEN BLVD &
SAYRES AVE//PICK UP LUNCH

Travel Time: 45 mins.

12:00-12:30 INTERNAL CALL ON PRE-K REGISTRATION

Dial-in Number: ([REDACTED]) Meeting ID [REDACTED]

1:00-2:00 RALLY & RESPONSE FOR CHARLESTON, SC CHURCH
SHOOTING

Location: St Albans Memorial Park Merrick Blvd between Linden
Blvd & Sayres Av

Staff Lead: Marco Carrion

2:00-2:50 TRAVEL FROM MERRICK BLVD BETWEEN LINDEN BLVD &
SAYRES AVE EN ROUTE GRACIE MANSION

Travel Time:50 mins.

2:15-2:45 DAILY BUDGET BRIEF CALL

Dial-in: ([REDACTED]

ID: [REDACTED]

3:00 - 4:00 MEETING WITH CIVIL RIGHTS LEADERS

Location:Gracie Mansion, The Peach Room

4:00 - 5:00 PRESENTATION ON CIVIL RIGHTS MUSEUM BY REVEREND SHARPTON

Location:Gracie Mansion, The Dining Room

5:00 - 5:30 TRAVEL FROM GRACIE MANSION EN ROUTE BROOKLYN, NY

Travel Time:30 mins.

5:00-5:30 PREP FOR DOMINICAN PRESS CONFERENCE

Dial-in Number: [REDACTED] Meeting ID [REDACTED]

5:30 - 6:30 DROP BY PARK SLOPE BLOCK PARTY WITH FLONYC

Location:11th Street, Brooklyn, New York 11215

6:30 - 7:00 TRAVEL FROM BLOCK PARTY EN ROUTE GRACIE
MANSION

Travel Time:30 mins.

CITY HALL STEPS PRESS CONFERENCES

None Scheduled

FLONYC SCHEDULE

5:30 - 6:30 DROP BY PARK SLOPE BLOCK PARTY WITH YOU

Michael Paul Carey
City Hall

New York, New York

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
To: Hinton, Karen; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Hagelgans, Andrea; Blumm, Kate
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Kadushin, Peter; Carey, Michael; Leopold, Elana
Subject: RE: CNN
Date: Saturday, June 20, 2015 11:00:21 AM

Not seeing online transcript of HRC's comments, but these two links capture the essence of what she said, both in her NALEO speech and in Ralston interview:

<http://www.nationaljournal.com/2016-elections/charleston-hillary-clinton-shooting-south-carolina-20150618>

<http://www.breitbart.com/2016-presidential-race/2015/06/19/hillary-clinton-donald-trumps-speech-drives-charleston-like-violence/>

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
Sent: Saturday, June 20, 2015 10:56 AM
To: Hinton, Karen; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; Hagelgans, Andrea; Blumm, Kate
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Kadushin, Peter; Carey, Michael; Leopold, Elana
Subject: RE: CNN

Minus FLONYC.

Here is what POTUS said. I will send HRC's comments shortly:

STATEMENT BY THE PRESIDENT
ON THE SHOOTING IN CHARLESTON, SOUTH CAROLINA

James S. Brady Press Briefing Room

12:20 P.M. EDT

THE PRESIDENT: Good afternoon, everybody. This morning, I spoke with, and Vice President Biden spoke with, Mayor Joe Riley and other leaders of Charleston to express our deep sorrow over the senseless murders that took place last night.

Michelle and I know several members of Emanuel AME Church. We knew their pastor, Reverend Clementa Pinckney, who, along with eight others, gathered in prayer and fellowship and was murdered last night. And to say our thoughts and prayers are with them and their families, and their community doesn't say enough to convey the heartache and the sadness and the anger that we feel.

Any death of this sort is a tragedy. Any shooting involving multiple victims is a tragedy. There is something particularly heartbreaking about the death happening in a place in which we seek solace and we seek peace, in a place of worship.

Mother Emanuel is, in fact, more than a church. This is a place of worship that was founded by African Americans seeking liberty. This is a church that was burned to the ground because its worshipers worked to end slavery. When there were laws banning all-black church gatherings, they conducted services in secret. When there was a nonviolent movement to bring our country closer in line with our highest ideals, some of our brightest leaders spoke and led marches from this church's steps. This is a sacred place in the history of Charleston and in the history of America.

The FBI is now on the scene with local police, and more of the Bureau's best are on the way to join them. The Attorney General has announced plans for the FBI to open a hate crime investigation. We understand that the suspect is in custody. And I'll let the best of law enforcement do its work to make sure that justice is served.

Until the investigation is complete, I'm necessarily constrained in terms of talking about the details of the case. But I don't need to be constrained about the emotions that tragedies like this raise. I've had to make statements like this too many times. Communities like this have had to endure tragedies like this too many times. We don't have all the facts, but we do know that, once again, innocent people were killed in part because someone who wanted to inflict harm had no trouble getting their hands on a gun. Now is the time for mourning and for healing.

But let's be clear: At some point, we as a country will have to reckon with the fact that this type of mass violence does not happen in other advanced countries. It doesn't happen in other places with this kind of frequency. And it is in our power to do something about it. I say that recognizing the politics in this town foreclose a lot of those avenues right now. But it would be wrong for us not to acknowledge it. And at some point it's going to be important for the American people to come to grips with it, and for us to be able to shift how we think about the issue of gun violence collectively.

The fact that this took place in a black church obviously also raises questions about a dark part of our history. This is not the first time that black churches have been attacked. And we know that hatred across races and faiths pose a particular threat to our democracy and our ideals.

The good news is I am confident that the outpouring of unity and strength and fellowship and love across Charleston today, from all races, from all faiths, from all places of worship indicates the degree to which those old vestiges of hatred can be overcome. That, certainly, was Dr. King's hope just over 50 years ago, after four little girls were killed in a bombing in a black church in Birmingham, Alabama.

He said they lived meaningful lives, and they died nobly. "They say to each of us," Dr. King said, "black and white alike, that we must substitute courage for caution. They say to us that we must be concerned not merely with [about] who murdered them, but about the system, the way of life, the philosophy which produced the murderers. Their death says to us that we must work passionately and unrelentingly for the realization of the American Dream.

"And if one will hold on, he will discover that God walks with him, and that God is able to lift you from the fatigue of despair to the buoyancy of hope, and transform dark and desolate valleys into sunlit paths of inner peace."

Reverend Pinckney and his congregation understood that spirit. Their Christian faith compelled them to reach out not just to members of their congregation, or to members of their own communities, but to all in need. They opened their doors to strangers who might enter a church in search of healing or redemption.

Mother Emanuel church and its congregation have risen before -- from flames, from an earthquake, from other dark times -- to give hope to generations of Charlestonians. And with our prayers and our love, and the buoyancy of hope, it will rise again now as a place of peace.

Thank you.

END

12:28

P.M. EDT

From: Hinton, Karen
Sent: Saturday, June 20, 2015 9:23 AM
To: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; Hagelgans, Andrea; Blumm, Kate
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Kadushin, Peter; Carey, Michael; Leopold, Elana; Gunaratna, Mahen; FLONYC
Subject: Re: CNN

Minus Mayor

Kate/Peter/Mahen — Can one of you look at what Obama and Hillary said to his point?

We need a key sound bite. Kate, what do you think it is based on remarks?

Karen Hinton
Press Secretary
917-246-7692
Follow Me On Twitter @KarenHinton

From: B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Sat, 20 Jun 2015 08:59:38 -0400
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com" <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, Andrea Hagelgans <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: Karen Hinton <khinton@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Phil Walzak <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Peter Kadushin <pkadushin@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Carey, Michael" <MPCarey@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Leopold, Elana" <ELeopold@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Gunaratna, Mahen" <MGunaratna@cityhall.nyc.gov>,

FLONYC <FLONYC@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Subject: Re: CNN

John, you missed my point entirely. It is both. And I will say that. This is not time for political correctness -- it is time for blunt truth. Obama and Hillary were outstanding in their sharpness and in the linkages they made. It is racism + guns + mental health. And yes, it is terrorism against black people

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]

Sent: Saturday, June 20, 2015 08:56 AM

To: Hagelgans, Andrea

Cc: Hinton, Karen; B; Walzak, Phil; Kadushin, Peter; Carey, Michael; Leopold, Elana; Gunaratna, Mahen

Subject: Re: CNN

Strongly agree that we shouldn't talk about it as a mental health issue. This was racial hatred, pure and simple.

On Jun 20, 2015, at 8:46 AM, Hagelgans, Andrea <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Sir,

I want to flag that there is widespread frustration and outrage within the African American community and broader progressive community online that commentators have been calling it a mental health issue rather than domestic terrorism. Given that we described the Paris attacks as terrorism, I think we should consider whether it would apply here as well. Below is yesterday's NYT article on the issue for your consideration

Many Ask, Why Not Call Church Shooting Terrorism?

By RICK GLADSTONE JUNE 18, 2015

The massacre of nine African-Americans in Charleston has been classified as a possible hate crime, apparently carried out by a 21-year-old white man who once wore an apartheid badge and other symbols of white supremacy. But many civil rights advocates are asking why the attack has not officially been called terrorism.

Against the backdrop of rising worries about violent

Muslim extremism in the United States, advocates see hypocrisy in the way the attack and the man under arrest in the shooting have been described by law enforcement officials and the news media.

Assaults like the Boston Marathon bombing in 2013 and the attack on an anti-Islamic gathering in Garland, Tex., last month have been widely portrayed as acts of terrorism carried out by Islamic extremists. Critics say, however, that assaults against African-Americans and Muslim Americans are rarely if ever called terrorism.

Moreover, they argue, assailants who are white are far less likely to be described by the authorities as terrorists.

“We have been conditioned to accept that if the violence is committed by a Muslim, then it is terrorism,” Nihad Awad, executive director of the Council on American-Islamic Relations, a civil rights advocacy group in Washington, said Thursday in a telephone interview.

“If the same violence is committed by a white supremacist or apartheid sympathizer and is not a Muslim, we start to look for excuses — he might be insane, maybe he was pushed too hard,” Mr. Awad said.

Dean Obeidallah, a Muslim American radio show host and commentator, said it should be obvious that the Charleston killer was a terrorist.

“We have a man who intentionally went to a black church, had animus toward black people and assassinated an elected official and eight other people,” he said. “It seems he was motivated by a desire to terrorize and kill black people.”

While Attorney General Loretta E. Lynch and South Carolina officials said the shooting on Wednesday night was under investigation as a hate crime, much of the reaction on social media Thursday was caustic, with commentators saying they saw a double standard in such terminology.

“A white supremacist massacres 9 black people in Charleston. It is a hate crime, it is terrorism, it is America 2015,” Remi Kanazi, a Palestinian-American activist and poet, said on Twitter.

Samuel Sinyangwe, a civil rights activist who has helped chronicle violence against African-Americans, wrote on Twitter:

“#CharlestonShooting terrorist wore an Apartheid flag on his jacket. If a Muslim man wore an ISIS flag, he wouldn’t get past mall security.”

The definition of terrorism is a shifting and contentious subject, usually with political overtones. The antagonists in the Syrian war and the Israeli-Palestinian conflict, for example, routinely accuse each other of terrorism. Militant organizations such as Al Qaeda and the Islamic State, which consider themselves liberators, are officially regarded by the United Nations, among others, as terrorist groups.

Webster’s New World College Dictionary defines terrorism as “the use of force or threats to demoralize, intimidate and subjugate, especially such use as a political weapon or policy.”

Civil rights advocates said the Charleston attack not only fit the dictionary definition of terrorism but reflected a history of attempts by the Ku Klux Klan and other white supremacist groups to terrorize African-Americans.

“The first antiterrorism law in U.S. history was the Klan Control Act, so really, this has been the definition of terrorism,” William Jelani Cobb, a writer and director of the Africana Studies Institute at the University of Connecticut, said in a Twitter post.

Abraham H. Foxman, national director of the Anti-Defamation League, a venerable civil rights group, said the Charleston massacre looked like terrorism to him.

“While the terrorist label is often applied to attacks, plots and conspiracies carried out on behalf of designated terrorist organizations such as ISIS and Al Qaeda, politically motivated violence is not the sole domain of supporters of designated terrorist groups,” Mr. Foxman said in a statement.

Karen Zraick and Robert Mackey contributed reporting.

A version of this article appears in print on June 19, 2015, on page A18 of t

From: Hinton, Karen

Sent: Saturday, June 20, 2015 8:37 AM

To: B

Cc: Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea; Kadushin, Peter; Carey, Michael; Leopold, Elana; Gunaratna, Mahen

Subject: Re: CNN

Mr. Mayor –We will arrange the CNN interview. Interviewer will be either anchor in Charleston, Poppy Harlow, (could be different depending on time) or onsite reporter Cristina Alesci. Here are questions/answers we did. We took the multiple causes/strategies line. I will arrange a time for after your remarks.

Questions/Answers

Q: Why did you emphasize mental health in your original statement about the Charleston shootings?

- Ending tragedies will require multiple strategies: fighting intolerance and hate crimes; ending easy access to guns; defending communities from both foreign and domestic terrorism, aswell providing mental health resources sorely needed in this country today.

Q: Despite efforts by President Obama, yourself and other leaders -- some of whom are with you today -- race relations don't seem to be improving in this country?

- Made great strides in race relations due to commitment of the civil rights leaders here today -- leaders who have followed in footsteps of those no longer with us today because of hate crimes.
- Must continue to be diligent on all fronts.

Q: You are married to a woman of color, do you fear for her safety, yourself, as well as your children?

- Like any husband and father, I worry about the safety of my family. I'm also fortunate. Best law enforcement protection in the world. People of color, of all races, gender identity andsexual preference must be free of fear.

Q: What was Chirlane's reaction?

■ Same as mine. Sadness, concern, outrage.

Q: Did you talk to your kids about it? What did you say?

■ Has been part of our family dialogue since they were young.

Q: You mentioned extra security for NYC churches and that PD has a protocol in place already to heighten patrols at synagogues following incidents, tell us more about that.

- First, no reason to consider any associated threats.
- However, due to the high-profile nature of the crime, NYPD instituted "special attention" and "directed" patrols at certain religious-affiliated locations in the city.

Q: You mentioned more security for churches; which ones, how many extra cops, how many churches, is the plan already in place?

- NYPD doesn't reveal the details of any security plans.
- However, on Thursday, as a preliminary precautionary measure, the NYPD deployed extra patrols to certain religious-based locations throughout the city.
- Done pending a further assessment of the investigation into the Charleston incident, as well as to address any concerns over potential "copycat" risks.
- Using Critical Response Vehicles (CRV) from the Counter-Terrorism Bureau (which normally cover high-profile public sites) to provide extra protection to churches.

Q: Does this ever apply to mosques as well?

■ Of course

Q: Have there been specific threats?

- No but have complete confidence in NYPD; extensive experience; in place are security protocols; includes directed patrol attention; in some instances, fixed posts.
- Many of our patrol boroughs have dedicated House of Worship (HOW) cars that visit churches during religious holidays and at times of heightened security alerts.

Q: Shootings are up in NYC.

- Lowest number of murders in over 50 years.
- We did that last year while stopping unconstitutional stops and bringing police and community together.

- We have 25% fewer complaints against police.
- And we just unrolled our program - Summer All Out - to combat the gang related shootings we have seen.
- NYPD is doing great work and they will continue to aggressively ensure.
- NYC is one of the safest big cities in the world.

Karen Hinton
Press Secretary
917-246-7692
Follow Me On Twitter @KarenHinton

From: B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Sat, 20 Jun 2015 08:28:07 -0400
To: Karen Hinton <khinton@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: Phil Walzak <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Andrea Hagelgans <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: CNN

I'm willing to do it, and want to get into the same vein as Obama and Hillary: racism + guns + mental health

From: Hinton, Karen
Sent: Friday, June 19, 2015 11:49 PM
To: B
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: CNN

Mr. Mayor, Hello. Great day today for you and your family. I didn't want to bother you earlier but needed to let you know CNN will be covering the AME church event Saturday. They have asked for a few minutes interview LIVE with you about race relations following the Charleston shootings. I recommend you do it. Please let me know. We have developed some Q/As.

Karen

Karen Hinton
Press Secretary
917-246-7692
Follow Me On Twitter @KarenHinton

From: Hinton, Karen
To: B; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Hagelgans, Andrea; Blumm, Kate
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Kadushin, Peter; Carey, Michael; Leopold, Elana; Gunaratna, Mahen; FLONYC; de Alwis, Ronalie
Subject: Re: CNN
Date: Saturday, June 20, 2015 11:55:18 AM

I'll send MLK quote. Try to figure out printer.

Karen Hinton
Press Secretary
917-246-7692
Follow Me On Twitter @KarenHinton

From: B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Sat, 20 Jun 2015 11:51:28 -0400
To: Karen Hinton <khinton@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'" <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, Andrea Hagelgans <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Kate Blumm <KBlumm@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: Phil Walzak <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Peter Kadushin <pkadushin@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Carey, Michael" <MPCarey@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Leopold, Elana" <ELeopold@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Gunaratna, Mahen" <MGunaratna@cityhall.nyc.gov>, FLONYC <FLONYC@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "de Alwis, Ronalie" <rdealwis@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: CNN

I like that A LOT, Karen. Exactly what I feel, and I believe captures a lot of what Chirlane feels. Need this printed out for my remarks. And ideally need citation for when King said that line

From: Hinton, Karen
Sent: Saturday, June 20, 2015 10:47 AM
To: B; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Hagelgans, Andrea; Blumm, Kate
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Kadushin, Peter; Carey, Michael; Leopold, Elana; Gunaratna, Mahen; FLONYC
Subject: Re: CNN

Building on these thoughts, we should put the focus on how to end the massacres. Quote MLK: "In the end, we will remember not the words of our enemies, but the silence of our friends."

Where are our friends in Congress? Will they end the easy and deadly access to guns? Will they see racism for what it is — terrorism against black people? Will they help us address the mental health crisis we face today?

Where are our friends on Wall Street? They have the power to stop investing in companies that make dangerous weapons and start hiring more people of color in upper management and donating more to mental health facilities.

And, where are we as Americans? What can I do as Mayor of one of the largest cities in America do? First and foremost, I can talk about these problems. My wife, the First Lady, has made mental health her top priority. I've been focusing on income inequality, which hurts blacks and whites alike but has built a wall of bitterness between them.

K

Read more at

http://www.brainyquote.com/quotes/authors/m/martin_luther_king_jr.html#lzXT3ly7pBFkIiaR.99

Karen Hinton

Press Secretary

917-246-7692

Follow Me On Twitter @KarenHinton

From: B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Date: Sat, 20 Jun 2015 08:59:38 -0400

To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com" <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, Andrea Hagelgans <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Cc: Karen Hinton <khinton@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Phil Walzak <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Peter Kadushin <pkadushin@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Carey, Michael" <MPCarey@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Leopold, Elana" <ELeopold@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Gunaratna, Mahen" <MGunaratna@cityhall.nyc.gov>, FLONYC <FLONYC@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Subject: Re: CNN

John, you missed my point entirely. It is both. And I will say that. This is not time for political correctness -- it is time for blunt truth. Obama and Hillary were outstanding in their sharpness and in the linkages they made. It is racism + guns + mental health. And yes, it is terrorism against black people

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]

Sent: Saturday, June 20, 2015 08:56 AM

To: Hagelgans, Andrea

Cc: Hinton, Karen; B; Walzak, Phil; Kadushin, Peter; Carey, Michael; Leopold, Elana; Gunaratna, Mahen

Subject: Re: CNN

Strongly agree that we shouldn't talk about it as a mental health issue. This was racial hatred, pure and simple.

On Jun 20, 2015, at 8:46 AM, Hagelgans, Andrea <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Sir,

I want to flag that there is widespread frustration and outrage within the African American community and broader progressive community online that commentators have been calling it a mental health issue rather than domestic terrorism. Given that we described the Paris attacks as terrorism, I think we should consider whether it would apply here as well. Below is yesterday's NYT article on the issue for your consideration

Many Ask, Why Not Call Church Shooting Terrorism?

By RICK GLADSTONE JUNE 18, 2015

The massacre of nine African-Americans in Charleston has been classified as a possible hate crime, apparently carried out by a 21-year-old white man who once wore an apartheid badge and other symbols of white supremacy. But many civil rights advocates are asking why the attack has not officially been called terrorism.

Against the backdrop of rising worries about violent Muslim extremism in the United States, advocates see hypocrisy in the way the attack and the man under arrest in the shooting have been described by law enforcement officials and the news media.

Assaults like the Boston Marathon bombing in 2013 and the attack on an anti-Islamic gathering in Garland, Tex., last month have been widely portrayed as acts of terrorism carried out by Islamic extremists. Critics say, however, that assaults against African-Americans and Muslim Americans are rarely if ever called terrorism.

Moreover, they argue, assailants who are white are far less likely to be described by the authorities as terrorists.

“We have been conditioned to accept that if the violence is committed by a Muslim, then it is terrorism,” Nihad Awad, executive director of the Council on American-Islamic Relations, a civil rights advocacy group in Washington, said Thursday in a telephone interview.

“If the same violence is committed by a white supremacist or apartheid sympathizer and is not a Muslim, we start to look for excuses — he might be insane, maybe he was pushed too hard,” Mr. Awad said.

Dean Obeidallah, a Muslim American radio show host and commentator, said it should be obvious that the Charleston killer was a terrorist.

“We have a man who intentionally went to a black church, had animus toward black people and assassinated an elected official and eight other people,” he said. “It seems he was motivated by a desire to terrorize and kill black people.”

While Attorney General Loretta E. Lynch and South Carolina officials said the shooting on Wednesday night was under investigation as a hate crime, much of the reaction on social media Thursday was caustic, with commentators saying they saw a double standard in such terminology.

“A white supremacist massacres 9 black people in Charleston. It is a hate crime, it is terrorism, it is America 2015,” Remi Kanazi, a Palestinian-American activist and poet, said on Twitter.

Samuel Sinyangwe, a civil rights activist who has helped chronicle violence against African-Americans, wrote on Twitter:

“#CharlestonShooting terrorist wore an Apartheid flag on his jacket. If a Muslim man wore an ISIS flag, he wouldn’t get past mall security.”

The definition of terrorism is a shifting and contentious subject, usually with political overtones. The antagonists in the Syrian war and the Israeli-Palestinian conflict, for example, routinely accuse each other of terrorism. Militant organizations such as Al Qaeda and the Islamic State, which consider themselves liberators, are officially regarded by the United Nations, among others, as terrorist groups.

Webster's New World College Dictionary defines terrorism as "the use of force or threats to demoralize, intimidate and subjugate, especially such use as a political weapon or policy."

Civil rights advocates said the Charleston attack not only fit the dictionary definition of terrorism but reflected a history of attempts by the Ku Klux Klan and other white supremacist groups to terrorize African-Americans.

"The first antiterrorism law in U.S. history was the Klan Control Act, so really, this has been the definition of terrorism," William Jelani Cobb, a writer and director of the Africana Studies Institute at the University of Connecticut, said in a Twitter post.

Abraham H. Foxman, national director of the Anti-Defamation League, a venerable civil rights group, said the Charleston massacre looked like terrorism to him.

"While the terrorist label is often applied to attacks, plots and conspiracies carried out on behalf of designated terrorist organizations such as ISIS and Al Qaeda, politically motivated violence is not the sole domain of supporters of designated terrorist groups," Mr. Foxman said in a statement.

Karen Zraick and Robert Mackey contributed reporting.

A version of this article appears in print on June 19, 2015, on page A18 of t

From: Hinton, Karen

Sent: Saturday, June 20, 2015 8:37 AM

To: B

Cc: Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea; Kadushin, Peter; Carey, Michael; Leopold, Elana;

Gunaratna, Mahen
Subject: Re: CNN

Mr. Mayor –We will arrange the CNN interview. Interviewer will be either anchor in Charleston, Poppy Harlow, (could be different depending on time) or onsite reporter Cristina Alesci. Here are questions/answers we did. We took the multiple causes/strategies line. I will arrange a time for after your remarks.

Questions/Answers

Q: Why did you emphasize mental health in your original statement about the Charleston shootings?

- Ending tragedies will require multiple strategies: fighting intolerance and hate crimes; ending easy access to guns; defending communities from both foreign and domestic terrorism, aswell providing mental health resources sorely needed in this country today.

Q: Despite efforts by President Obama, yourself and other leaders -- some of whom are with you today -- race relations don't seem to be improving in this country?

- Made great strides in race relations due to commitment of the civil rights leaders here today -- leaders who have followed in footsteps of those no longer with us today because of hate crimes.
- Must continue to be diligent on all fronts.

Q: You are married to a woman of color, do you fear for her safety, yourself, as well as your children?

- Like any husband and father, I worry about the safety of my family. I'm also fortunate. Best law enforcement protection in the world. People of color, of all races, gender identity andsexual preference must be free of fear.

Q: What was Chirlane's reaction?

- Same as mine. Sadness, concern, outrage.

Q: Did you talk to your kids about it? What did you say?

- Has been part of our family dialogue since they were young.

Q: You mentioned extra security for NYC churches and that PD has a protocol in place already to heighten patrols at synagogues following incidents, tell us more about that.

- First, no reason to consider any associated threats.
- However, due to the high-profile nature of the crime, NYPD instituted "special attention" and "directed" patrols at certain religious-affiliated locations in the city.

Q: You mentioned more security for churches; which ones, how many extra cops, how many churches, is the plan already in place?

- NYPD doesn't reveal the details of any security plans.
- However, on Thursday, as a preliminary precautionary measure, the NYPD deployed extra patrols to certain religious-based locations throughout the city.
- Done pending a further assessment of the investigation into the Charleston incident, as well as to address any concerns over potential "copycat" risks.
- Using Critical Response Vehicles (CRV) from the Counter-Terrorism Bureau (which normally cover high-profile public sites) to provide extra protection to churches.

Q: Does this ever apply to mosques as well?

- Of course

Q: Have there been specific threats?

- No but have complete confidence in NYPD; extensive experience; in place are security protocols; includes directed patrol attention; in some instances, fixed posts.
- Many of our patrol boroughs have dedicated House of Worship (HOW) cars that visit churches during religious holidays and at times of heightened security alerts.

Q: Shootings are up in NYC.

- Lowest number of murders in over 50 years.
- We did that last year while stopping unconstitutional stops and bringing police and community together.
- We have 25% fewer complaints against police.
- And we just unrolled our program - Summer All Out - to combat the gang related shootings we have seen.
- NYPD is doing great work and they will continue to aggressively ensure.
- NYC is one of the safest big cities in the world.

Karen Hinton
Press Secretary
917-246-7692
Follow Me On Twitter @KarenHinton

From: B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Sat, 20 Jun 2015 08:28:07 -0400
To: Karen Hinton <khinton@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Cc: Phil Walzak <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Andrea Hagelgans <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Subject: Re: CNN

I'm willing to do it, and want to get into the same vein as Obama and Hillary: racism + guns + mental health

From: Hinton, Karen
Sent: Friday, June 19, 2015 11:49 PM
To: B
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: CNN

Mr. Mayor, Hello. Great day today for you and your family. I didn't want to bother you earlier but needed to let you know CNN will be covering the AME church event Saturday. They have asked for a few minutes interview LIVE with you about race relations following the Charleston shootings. I recommend you do it. Please let me know. We have developed some Q/As.

Karen

Karen Hinton
Press Secretary
917-246-7692
Follow Me On Twitter @KarenHinton

From: Hinton, Karen
To: B; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Hagelgans, Andrea; Blumm, Kate
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Kadushin, Peter; Carey, Michael; Leopold, Elana; Gunaratna, Mahen; FLONYC; de Alwis, Ronalie
Subject: Re: CNN
Date: Saturday, June 20, 2015 11:59:55 AM

Quote from "Loving Your Enemies" speech

Dexter Avenue Baptist Church, Montgomery, Alabama, 17 November 1957

Karen Hinton
Press Secretary
917-246-7692
Follow Me On Twitter @KarenHinton

From: B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Sat, 20 Jun 2015 11:51:28 -0400
To: Karen Hinton <khinton@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "jfdc@akpdmedia.com" <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, Andrea Hagelgans <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Kate Blumm <KBlumm@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: Phil Walzak <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Peter Kadushin <pkadushin@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Carey, Michael" <MPCarey@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Leopold, Elana" <ELeopold@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Gunaratna, Mahen" <MGunaratna@cityhall.nyc.gov>, FLONYC <FLONYC@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "de Alwis, Ronalie" <rdealwis@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: CNN

I like that A LOT, Karen. Exactly what I feel, and I believe captures a lot of what Chirlane feels. Need this printed out for my remarks. And ideally need citation for when King said that line

From: Hinton, Karen
Sent: Saturday, June 20, 2015 10:47 AM
To: B; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Hagelgans, Andrea; Blumm, Kate
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Kadushin, Peter; Carey, Michael; Leopold, Elana; Gunaratna, Mahen; FLONYC
Subject: Re: CNN

Building on these thoughts, we should put the focus on how to end the massacres. Quote MLK:
"In the end, we will remember not the words of our enemies, but the silence of our friends."

Where are our friends in Congress? Will they end the easy and deadly access to guns? Will they see racism for what it is — terrorism against black people? Will they help us address the mental health crisis we face today?

Where are our friends on Wall Street? They have the power to stop investing in companies that make dangerous weapons and start hiring more people of color in upper management and donating more to mental health facilities.

And, where are we as Americans? What can I do as Mayor of one of the largest cities in America do? First and foremost, I can talk about these problems. My wife, the First Lady, has made mental health her top priority. I've been focusing on income inequality, which hurts blacks and whites alike but has built a wall of bitterness between them.

K

Read more at

http://www.brainyquote.com/quotes/authors/m/martin_luther_king_jr.html#lzXT3ly7pBFkIiaR.99

Karen Hinton

Press Secretary

917-246-7692

Follow Me On Twitter @KarenHinton

From: B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Date: Sat, 20 Jun 2015 08:59:38 -0400

To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com" <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, Andrea Hagelgans <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Cc: Karen Hinton <khinton@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Phil Walzak <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Peter Kadushin <pkadushin@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Carey, Michael" <MPCarey@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Leopold, Elana" <ELeopold@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Gunaratna, Mahen" <MGunaratna@cityhall.nyc.gov>, FLONYC <FLONYC@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Subject: Re: CNN

John, you missed my point entirely. It is both. And I will say that. This is not time for political correctness -- it is time for blunt truth. Obama and Hillary were outstanding in their sharpness and in the linkages they made. It is racism + guns + mental health. And yes, it is terrorism against black people

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Saturday, June 20, 2015 08:56 AM
To: Hagelgans, Andrea
Cc: Hinton, Karen; B; Walzak, Phil; Kadushin, Peter; Carey, Michael; Leopold, Elana; Gunaratna, Mahen
Subject: Re: CNN

Strongly agree that we shouldn't talk about it as a mental health issue. This was racial hatred, pure and simple.

On Jun 20, 2015, at 8:46 AM, Hagelgans, Andrea <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Sir,

I want to flag that there is widespread frustration and outrage within the African American community and broader progressive community online that commentators have been calling it a mental health issue rather than domestic terrorism. Given that we described the Paris attacks as terrorism, I think we should consider whether it would apply here as well. Below is yesterday's NYT article on the issue for your consideration

Many Ask, Why Not Call Church Shooting Terrorism?

By RICK GLADSTONE JUNE 18, 2015

The massacre of nine African-Americans in Charleston has been classified as a possible hate crime, apparently carried out by a 21-year-old white man who once wore an apartheid badge and other symbols of white supremacy. But many civil rights advocates are asking why the attack has not officially been called terrorism.

Against the backdrop of rising worries about violent Muslim extremism in the United States, advocates see hypocrisy in the way the attack and the man under arrest in the shooting have been described by law enforcement officials and the news media.

Assaults like the Boston Marathon bombing in 2013 and the attack on an anti-Islamic gathering in Garland, Tex., last month have been widely portrayed as acts of terrorism carried out by Islamic extremists. Critics say, however, that assaults against African-Americans and Muslim Americans are rarely if ever called terrorism.

Moreover, they argue, assailants who are white are far less likely to be described by the authorities as terrorists.

“We have been conditioned to accept that if the violence is committed by a Muslim, then it is terrorism,” Nihad Awad, executive director of the Council on American-Islamic Relations, a civil rights advocacy group in Washington, said Thursday in a telephone interview.

“If the same violence is committed by a white supremacist or apartheid sympathizer and is not a Muslim, we start to look for excuses — he might be insane, maybe he was pushed too hard,” Mr. Awad said.

Dean Obeidallah, a Muslim American radio show host and commentator, said it should be obvious that the Charleston killer was a terrorist.

“We have a man who intentionally went to a black church, had animus toward black people and assassinated an elected official and eight other people,” he said. “It seems he was motivated by a desire to terrorize and kill black people.”

While Attorney General Loretta E. Lynch and South Carolina officials said the shooting on Wednesday night was under investigation as a hate crime, much of the reaction on social media Thursday was caustic, with commentators saying they saw a double standard in such terminology.

“A white supremacist massacres 9 black people in Charleston. It is a hate crime, it is terrorism, it is America 2015,” Remi Kanazi, a Palestinian-American activist and poet, said on Twitter.

Samuel Sinyangwe, a civil rights activist who has helped chronicle violence against African-Americans, wrote on Twitter:

“#CharlestonShooting terrorist wore an Apartheid flag on his jacket. If a Muslim man wore an ISIS flag, he wouldn’t get past mall security.”

The definition of terrorism is a shifting and contentious subject, usually with political overtones. The antagonists in the Syrian war and the Israeli-Palestinian conflict, for example, routinely accuse each other of terrorism. Militant organizations such as Al Qaeda and the Islamic State, which consider themselves liberators, are officially regarded by the United Nations, among others, as terrorist groups.

Webster’s New World College Dictionary defines terrorism as “the use of force or threats to demoralize, intimidate and subjugate, especially such use as a political weapon or policy.”

Civil rights advocates said the Charleston attack not only fit the dictionary definition of terrorism but reflected a history of attempts by the Ku Klux Klan and other white supremacist groups to terrorize African-Americans.

“The first antiterrorism law in U.S. history was the Klan Control Act, so really, this has been the definition of terrorism,” William Jelani Cobb, a writer and director of the Africana Studies Institute at the University of Connecticut, said in a Twitter post.

Abraham H. Foxman, national director of the Anti-Defamation League, a venerable civil rights group, said the Charleston massacre looked like terrorism to him.

“While the terrorist label is often applied to attacks, plots and conspiracies carried out on behalf of designated terrorist organizations such as ISIS and Al Qaeda, politically motivated violence is not the sole domain of supporters of designated terrorist groups,” Mr. Foxman said in a statement.

Karen Zraick and Robert Mackey contributed reporting.

A version of this article appears in print on June 19, 2015, on page A18 of t

From: Hinton, Karen
Sent: Saturday, June 20, 2015 8:37 AM
To: B
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea; Kadushin, Peter; Carey, Michael; Leopold, Elana; Gunaratna, Mahen
Subject: Re: CNN

Mr. Mayor –We will arrange the CNN interview. Interviewer will be either anchor in Charleston, Poppy Harlow, (could be different depending on time) or onsite reporter Cristina Alesci. Here are questions/answers we did. We took the multiple causes/strategies line. I will arrange a time for after your remarks.

Questions/Answers

Q: Why did you emphasize mental health in your original statement about the Charleston shootings?

- Ending tragedies will require multiple strategies: fighting intolerance and hate crimes; ending easy access to guns; defending communities from both foreign and domestic terrorism, aswell providing mental health resources sorely needed in this country today.

Q: Despite efforts by President Obama, yourself and other leaders -- some of whom are with you today -- race relations don't seem to be improving in this country?

- Made great strides in race relations due to commitment of the civil rights leaders here today -- leaders who have followed in footsteps of those no longer with us today because of hate crimes.
- Must continue to be diligent on all fronts.

Q: You are married to a woman of color, do you fear for her safety, yourself, as well as your children?

- Like any husband and father, I worry about the safety of my family. I'm also fortunate. Best law enforcement protection in the world. People of color, of all races, gender identity andsexual preference must be free of fear.

Q: What was Chirlane's reaction?

- Same as mine. Sadness, concern, outrage.

Q: Did you talk to your kids about it? What did you say?

- Has been part of our family dialogue since they were young.

Q: You mentioned extra security for NYC churches and that PD has a protocol in place already to heighten patrols at synagogues following incidents, tell us more about that.

- First, no reason to consider any associated threats.
- However, due to the high-profile nature of the crime, NYPD instituted "special attention" and "directed" patrols at certain religious-affiliated locations in the city.

Q: You mentioned more security for churches; which ones, how many extra cops, how many churches, is the plan already in place?

- NYPD doesn't reveal the details of any security plans.
- However, on Thursday, as a preliminary precautionary measure, the NYPD deployed extra patrols to certain religious-based locations throughout the city.
- Done pending a further assessment of the investigation into the Charleston incident, as well as to address any concerns over potential "copycat" risks.
- Using Critical Response Vehicles (CRV) from the Counter-Terrorism Bureau (which normally cover high-profile public sites) to provide extra protection to churches.

Q: Does this ever apply to mosques as well?

- Of course

Q: Have there been specific threats?

- No but have complete confidence in NYPD; extensive experience; in place are security protocols; includes directed patrol attention; in some instances, fixed posts.
- Many of our patrol boroughs have dedicated House of Worship (HOW) cars that visit churches during religious holidays and at times of heightened security alerts.

Q: Shootings are up in NYC.

- Lowest number of murders in over 50 years.
- We did that last year while stopping unconstitutional stops and bringing police and community together.
- We have 25% fewer complaints against police.
- And we just unrolled our program - Summer All Out - to combat the gang related shootings we have seen.
- NYPD is doing great work and they will continue to aggressively ensure.
- NYC is one of the safest big cities in the world.

Karen Hinton
Press Secretary
917-246-7692

Follow Me On Twitter @KarenHinton

From: B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Sat, 20 Jun 2015 08:28:07 -0400
To: Karen Hinton <khinton@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: Phil Walzak <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Andrea Hagelgans <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: CNN

I'm willing to do it, and want to get into the same vein as Obama and Hillary: racism + guns + mental health

From: Hinton, Karen
Sent: Friday, June 19, 2015 11:49 PM
To: B
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: CNN

Mr. Mayor, Hello. Great day today for you and your family. I didn't want to bother you earlier but needed to let you know CNN will be covering the AME church event Saturday. They have asked for a few minutes interview LIVE with you about race relations following the Charleston shootings. I recommend you do it. Please let me know. We have developed some Q/As.

Karen

Karen Hinton
Press Secretary
917-246-7692
Follow Me On Twitter @KarenHinton

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
To: Walzak, Phil; Wolfe, Emma; Hinton, Karen; Parikh, Ishanee; de Alwis, Ronalie; Coney, Javon
Cc: Spitalnick, Amy \(OMB\); Norvell, Wiley; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: my BB is on the fritz today
Date: Saturday, June 20, 2015 1:06:35 PM

Only if it is with outside people.

From: Walzak, Phil
Sent: Saturday, June 20, 2015 01:04 PM
To: Hagelgans, Andrea; Wolfe, Emma; Hinton, Karen; Parikh, Ishanee; de Alwis, Ronalie; Coney, Javon
Cc: Spitalnick, Amy (OMB); Norvell, Wiley; John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: my BB is on the fritz today

pls email me at [REDACTED] this afternoon

remember the gmail is FOILable....

From: John Del Cecato
To: Leopold, Elana
Subject: Re: UPDATED; MINI Schedule for Sunday, June 21, 2015
Date: Saturday, June 20, 2015 4:10:32 PM

yes

From: <Leopold>, Elana <ELeopold@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Saturday, June 20, 2015 at 3:45 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Fwd: UPDATED; MINI Schedule for Sunday, June 21, 2015

Are you staffing call time tomorrow?

Sent from my iPhone

Begin forwarded message:

From: "Carey, Michael" <MPCarey@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: June 20, 2015 at 2:41:57 PM EDT
To: B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov>, FLONYC <FLONYC@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: UPDATED; MINI Schedule for Sunday, June 21, 2015

UPDATED: Adjusted AM Timing

UPDATED: Elana will meet you at gym

PENDING: Still working on possible legislative meetings although conscious it is Father's Day

SCHEDULE FOR MAYOR BILL DE BLASIO
CITY OF NEW YORK
Sunday, June 21, 2015

WEATHER: Hi of 82. Low of 73. Thunderstorms.

ATTIRE: Business

NOTES: Elana will meet you at gym.

10:30-11:00 TRAVEL FROM GRACIE MANSION EN ROUTE 357 9TH STREET
Travel Time: 30 mins.

11:00-12:00 WORKOUT
Location: 357 9th Street

12:15-1:00 TRAVEL FROM 357 9TH STREET EN ROUTE GRACIE MANSION // OFF
TOPIC PREP WITH KH

Travel Time: 45 Minutes

1:00 - 2:00 DR/HAITIAN PRESS CONFERENCE
Location: Malcom X and Dr. Betty Shabazz Center, 3940
Broadway, New York, NY 10032
Staff Lead: Marco Carrion
Press: Open

2:00 - 2:15 TRAVEL FROM MALCOM X AND DR. BETTY SHABAZZ CENTER EN ROUTE GRACIE MANSION//DAILY COMMS CALL
Travel Time: 15 mins.

3:00 - 4:00 DAILY BUDGET MEETING
Location: Gracie Mansion, The Porch

4:30 - 6:00 TPA CALL TIME
Location: Gracie Mansion, The Porch

6:00 - 6:30 WEEKLY SCHEDULING REVIEW CALL
Dial-in: [REDACTED]
ID: [REDACTED]

7:00 - 9:00 [REDACTED]

CITY HALL STEPS PRESS CONFERENCES

No scheduled press conferences.

FLONYC SCHEDULE

7:00 - 9:00 [REDACTED]

Michael Paul Carey
City Hall
New York, New York

From: B
To: Walzak, Phil
Cc: Hinton, Karen; Hagelqans, Andrea; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Re: Confederate Flag
Date: Saturday, June 20, 2015 8:24:23 PM

I agree entirely, although I always worry about the impact of city slickers telling people what to do. I'm happy to do it and would key it to the Mayor of Charleston Joe Riley's calls for the flag's removal. Do however you see fit

----- Original Message -----

From: Walzak, Phil
Sent: Saturday, June 20, 2015 06:45 PM
To: B
Cc: Hinton, Karen; [REDACTED] <[REDACTED]> Hagelqans, Andrea
Subject: Confederate Flag

I think you should call for the permanent removal of the Confederate flag at the SC statehouse, esp in wake of this horrific racist-motivated assault in Charleston.

We cud set it up in a press q+a, and digital strategy or another method, but

- a) its ridiculous the flag still flies
- b) its an emerging issue in the aftermath of charleston
- c) its a good issue to rally progressives around/cud be some TPA crossover
- d) this is an impt moment and we shud be contributing to the conversation for moving fwd/positive change

Thoughts?

From: B
To: Hinton, Karen; Hagelgans, Andrea; Walzak, Phil
Cc: "ifdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Re: Confederate Flag
Date: Saturday, June 20, 2015 8:26:08 PM

Karen does have you beat!

----- Original Message -----

From: Hinton, Karen
Sent: Saturday, June 20, 2015 07:15 PM
To: Hagelgans, Andrea; Walzak, Phil; B
Cc: [REDACTED] <[REDACTED]>
Subject: Re: Confederate Flag

I gotcha beat. Went to a school with Rebels as mascot, and General Lee showed up on a horse at half time.
Karen Hinton
Press Secretary
917-246-7692
Follow Me On Twitter @KarenHinton

On 6/20/15, 7:07 PM, "Hagelgans, Andrea" <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>As someone who grew up surrounded by that hideous flag, I love the idea.

>

>----- Original Message -----

>From: Walzak, Phil
>Sent: Saturday, June 20, 2015 06:45 PM
>To: B
>Cc: Hinton, Karen; [REDACTED] <[REDACTED]>
>Hagelgans, Andrea
>Subject: Confederate Flag

>

>I think you should call for the permanent removal of the Confederate flag >at the SC statehouse, esp in wake of this horrific racist-motivated >assault in Charleston.

>

>We cud set it up in a press q+a, and digital strategy or another method,
>but

>a) its ridiculous the flag still flies

>b) its an emerging issue in the aftermath of charleston

>c) its a good issue to rally progressives around/cud be some TPA

>crossover

>d) this is an impt moment and we shud be contributing to the conversation >for moving fwd/positive change

>

>Thoughts?

From: Carey, Michael
To: John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: MBDB: TPA Call Time
Date: Saturday, June 20, 2015 9:08:12 PM

Yup
don't take it personally. He cancels on my hourly.

From: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Date: Saturday, June 20, 2015 at 9:07 PM
To: Michael Carey <mpcarey@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: MBDB: TPA Call Time

So I'm canceled again !?

On Jun 20, 2015, at 8:38 PM, Carey, Michael <MPCarey@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Sorry jdc.... We need to do some leg meetings tomorrow

Michael Paul Carey
City Hall
New York, New York

-----Original Appointment-----

From: Carey, Michael
Sent: Friday, June 19, 2015 5:36 AM
To: Carey, Michael; Leopold, Elana; de Alwis, Ronalie; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'
(jfdc@akpdmedia.com)
Subject: MBDB: TPA Call Time
When: Sunday, June 21, 2015 4:30 PM-6:00 PM (UTC-05:00) Eastern Time (US & Canada).
Where: Gracie Mansion, The Porch

From: Hinton, Karen
To: B; Hagelgans, Andrea; Walzak, Phil
Cc: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Republicans on Confederate Flag
Date: Sunday, June 21, 2015 12:11:10 AM

FYI

Other prominent Republicans also commented on South Carolina flying the Confederate flag at the state capitol.

Mitt Romney <<http://topics.wsj.com/person/R/Mitt-Romney/6591>>, the party's presidential nominee in 2012, called for the flag to be removed. To many, it is a symbol of racial hatred,¹ he wrote on Twitter. Remove it now to honor Charleston victims.¹

Two current presidential candidates did not go as far in statements on Saturday.

Jeb Bush, a Republican presidential candidate and former Florida governor, said on Facebook that in Florida, we acted, moving the flag from the state grounds to a museum where it belonged.¹ He did not say how he thought South Carolina should handle the matter but said, Following a period of mourning, there will rightly be a discussion among leaders in the state about how South Carolina should move forward, and I'm confident they will do the right thing.¹

Sen. Lindsey Graham of South Carolina, also a Republican presidential candidate, wrote in a letter Saturday to supporters that there can be no doubt the shooting on Wednesday night was racially motivated and signals to all of us that the scars of our history are with us today.²

Mr. Graham did not address the flag controversy but said: At an appropriate time, we will move forward to have a discussion on a variety of fronts about what will make us stronger as a nation and what solutions need to be found.¹

Scott Walker said South Carolina Gov. <<http://www.wsj.com/articles/tragedy-thrusts-haley-into-national-spotlight-1434756136?KEYWORDS=haley>> Nikki Haley told him in a phone call that state lawmakers will soon begin a debate about whether to remove the Confederate flag from the state house after the nine people killed in Wednesday's church shooting in Charleston are buried.

The Wisconsin governor, who is expected to formally announce his campaign in July for the GOP presidential nomination, declined to offer his own position on whether the Confederate flag should fly in front of Columbia capitol. The resolution to that question would come in the next week or two,² he said.

Also Saturday, Ohio Gov. John Kasich, a Republican, called for removing the flag. If he were a citizen of South Carolina, I'd be for taking it down,² he said in a statement provided by an aide.

Karen Hinton
Press Secretary

917-246-7692
Follow Me On Twitter @KarenHinton

On 6/20/15, 8:26 PM, "B" <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>
>Karen does have you beat!
>
>
>----- Original Message -----
>From: Hinton, Karen
>Sent: Saturday, June 20, 2015 07:15 PM
>To: Hagelgans, Andrea; Walzak, Phil; B
>Cc: [REDACTED] <[REDACTED]>
>Subject: Re: Confederate Flag
>
>I gotcha beat. Went to a school with Rebels as mascot, and General Lee >showed up on a horse at half time.
>Karen Hinton
>Press Secretary
>917-246-7692
>Follow Me On Twitter @KarenHinton

>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>On 6/20/15, 7:07 PM, "Hagelgans, Andrea" <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>
>wrote:

>>As someone who grew up surrounded by that hideous flag, I love the idea.

>>
>>----- Original Message -----
>>From: Walzak, Phil
>>Sent: Saturday, June 20, 2015 06:45 PM
>>To: B
>>Cc: Hinton, Karen; [REDACTED] <[REDACTED]>
>>Hagelgans, Andrea
>>Subject: Confederate Flag

>>
>>I think you should call for the permanent removal of the Confederate flag
>>at the SC statehouse, esp in wake of this horrific racist-motivated >>assault in Charleston.
>>
>>We cud set it up in a press q+a, and digital strategy or another method,
>>but
>>a) its ridiculous the flag still flies
>>b) its an emerging issue in the aftermath of charleston
>>c) its a good issue to rally progressives around/cud be some TPA
>>crossover
>>d) this is an impt moment and we shud be contributing to the conversation >>for moving fwd/positive change
>>
>>Thoughts?

From: Carey, Michael
To: "John Del Cecato"
Subject: RE: need to move Geri
Date: Monday, June 22, 2015 10:34:43 AM

530

Michael Paul Carey
Director of Scheduling and Advance
City Hall
New York, New York 10007
212.341.5396

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Monday, June 22, 2015 10:34 AM
To: Carey, Michael
Subject: Re: need to move Geri

Yes - what time?

From: <Carey>, "Carey, Michael" <MPCarey@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Monday, June 22, 2015 at 9:29 AM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: need to move Geri

Can geri come up on wednesday

Michael Paul Carey
Director of Scheduling and Advance
City Hall
New York, New York 10007
212.341.5396

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Friday, June 19, 2015 10:51 AM
To: Carey, Michael
Subject: Re: need to move Geri

yes

From: <Carey>, "Carey, Michael" <MPCarey@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Friday, June 19, 2015 at 10:47 AM

To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>

Subject: RE: need to move Geri

Is she coming up just for this?

Michael Paul Carey
Director of Scheduling and Advance
City Hall
New York, New York 10007
212.341.5396

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Friday, June 19, 2015 10:41 AM
To: Carey, Michael
Subject: Re: need to move Geri

Tuesday?

From: <Carey>, "Carey, Michael" <MPCarey@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Friday, June 19, 2015 at 10:06 AM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: need to move Geri

Looks like we have budget that evening.
What else does she have avail?

Michael Paul Carey
Director of Scheduling and Advance
City Hall
New York, New York 10007
212.341.5396

From: Perez, Roberto
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Today The Mayor's Community Affairs Unit presents Flushing Town Hall for Businesses
Date: Monday, June 22, 2015 11:19:00 AM

The Mayor's Community Affairs Unit presents Town Hall for Businesses

Learn about City programs and services to help businesses start, operate, and grow.

John Choe, Executive Director, Greater Flushing Chamber of Commerce, will moderate the Town Hall meeting. Speakers include:

- Julie Menin, Commissioner, Department of Consumer Affairs
- Maria Torres-Springer, Commissioner, Department of Small Business Services
- Nicole Garcia, Queens Borough Commissioner, Department of Transportation
- Roberto Perez, Deputy Commissioner, Mayor's Community Affairs Unit
- Sonia Lin, General Counsel, Mayor's Office of Immigrant Affairs
- Jeffrey Lee, Senior Vice President, Strategic Investments Group, NYC Economic Development Corporation
- Charles Sturcken, Director of Environmental Compliance Outreach Unit, Department of Environmental Protection
- John Young, Director of Queens Office, Department of City Planning
- Magda Desdunes, FSE Ombudsperson/Industry Relationship Coordinator, Department of Health and Mental Hygiene
- Jason Chen, Community Affairs Liaison, Department of Sanitation
- Sue Too, Asian Liaison, NYPD Community Affairs Bureau, New Immigrant Outreach Unit
- Anthony Iuliano, Government and Community Affairs Officer, Department of Buildings

Time: 6:00 p.m. – 8:00 p.m.
Date: Monday, June 22, 2015
Place: PS 20
142-30 Barclay Avenue
Flushing, NY 11355

To RSVP: Call (212) 436-0178 or email Townhall@cityhall.nyc.gov.

Honoree Host:
Congresswoman Grace Meng

Cosponsors include:
Queens Borough President Melinda Katz, State Senator Tony Avella, State Senator Toby Ann Stavisky, Assemblymember Ron Kim, Council Member Peter Koo, Greater Flushing Chamber of Commerce, Flushing Chinese Business Association, Asian Americans for Equality, NAACP Northeast Queens Branch, and Flushing Business Improvement District

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: "John Del Cecato"
Subject: RE: <no subject>
Date: Monday, June 22, 2015 12:31:47 PM

yes

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Monday, June 22, 2015 10:37 AM
To: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: <no subject>

Looks like Geri will be meeting with MBDB on Wednesday at 530pm now... Would you be free to sit with her/me earlier that day?

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: "John Del Cecato"
Subject: RE: <no subject>
Date: Monday, June 22, 2015 2:01:48 PM

Correct – but – Hanauer cancelled.

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Monday, June 22, 2015 1:42 PM
To: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: <no subject>

I thought it was last Tuesday the 16th - but maybe it got nixed?

From: <Snyder>, Thomas <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Monday, June 22, 2015 at 1:23 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: <no subject>

Not sure it happened; are you sure it did?

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Monday, June 22, 2015 1:22 PM
To: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: <no subject>

Do you know how MBDB's meeting with Nick Hanauer went last week? I meant to ask him for a read-out

From: Carey, Michael
To: "John Del Cecato"
Subject: RE: <no subject>
Date: Monday, June 22, 2015 2:09:32 PM

Lets do the 14th

Michael Paul Carey
Director of Scheduling and Advance
City Hall
New York, New York 10007
212.341.5396

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Monday, June 22, 2015 2:08 PM
To: Carey, Michael
Subject: FW: <no subject>

Would July 14th work on your end (for MBDB Skyping into Cong Prog Caucus meeting)? I know MBDB is out July 9th - and really wanna get this on the books

From: Mike Darner <[REDACTED]>
Date: Monday, June 22, 2015 at 2:05 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: <no subject>

John,

I hope you're well. Here's a list of our upcoming meeting times:

Wednesday, July 8th, 5:30pm

Tuesday, July 14th, 12pm

Wednesday, July 22nd, 5:30pm

Tuesday, July 28, 12pm

Wednesday, September 9th, 5:30pm

Thursday, September 17th - Time TBD

Tuesday, September 29th, 12pm

Wednesday, October 7th, 5:30pm

Wednesday, October 21st, 5:30pm

Tuesday, October 27th, 12pm

Tuesday, November 3rd, 12pm

Tuesday, November 17th, 12pm

Tuesday, December 1st, 12pm

Tuesday, December 8th, 12pm

Wednesday, December 16th, 5:30pm

On Mon, Jun 22, 2015 at 1:33 PM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:
Hey Mike. Can you remind me the day/time that the CPC generally meets? Trying to figure out a time for MBDB to Skype in & address the CPC re: The Progressive Agenda... Thanks much!

JDC

John F. Del Cecato
Partner/Creative Director
AKPD Message and Media
915 Broadway, Suite 1301
New York, NY 10010
212-529-5775 (office)
212-529-0545 (fax)
917 685 4819 (mobile)

From: John Del Cecato
To: Yazgi, Stephanie
Subject: Re: follow up from conversations...
Date: Monday, June 22, 2015 2:10:45 PM

Not really - but basically someone who can help reach out to groups like Andrew's & figure out how to best integrate their skills/networks/vision with TPA's - to create a national conversation & grassroots action on progressive solutions to combatting income inequality

From: <Yazgi>, Stephanie Yazgi <syazgi@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Monday, June 22, 2015 at 2:01 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: follow up from conversations...

Do you have a job description?

From: John Del Cecato
Sent: Monday, June 22, 2015 1:38 PM
To: Yazgi, Stephanie
Subject: Re: follow up from conversations...

Sigh - the hiring process has been slowwww... But I might have an idea - guy from Wisconsin - unless you have someone you think would be a good fit??

From: <Yazgi>, Stephanie Yazgi <syazgi@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Monday, June 22, 2015 at 12:47 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: follow up from conversations...

I think we should think more broadly about how to integrate their network into our stuff longer term
If the idea is to make victories in the field part of victories of TPA we need to be in their space a bit and figure out a way with them
To get their groups to buy into it. I think for this you need a dedicated organizer on the team... I'm happy to work with that person (weren't you hiring?) or with you to think through that- but I know you have a lot on your plate!

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Monday, June 22, 2015 12:22 PM
To: Yazgi, Stephanie
Subject: Re: follow up from conversations...

For the time being, I think we're going to pour everything we've got into the presidential forum in the fall - probably in Iowa & with CNN as host... Once I get a better handle on that, maybe Andrew can help us drive people/attention to that?

From: <Yazgi>, Stephanie Yazgi <syazgi@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Date: Monday, June 22, 2015 at 8:33 AM

To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>

Subject: follow up from conversations...

Andrew asked if there was anything he could be doing to follow up from the conversation he had with you.

Thoughts?

They'd like to get involved/ help out and have good network on the ground/ as you heard I think

Lerner may have access to the other

Part of a network that would seem good for you.

From: B
To: Snyder, Thomas; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Re: Latest VIP signer for TPA
Date: Monday, June 22, 2015 5:24:20 PM

Although I applaud you, we need to re-double our efforts to get more leaders of color and younger leaders to be a part of this

From: Snyder, Thomas
Sent: Monday, June 22, 2015 05:22 PM
To: 'John Del Cecato' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; B
Subject: RE: Latest VIP signer for TPA

Excellent.

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Monday, June 22, 2015 4:36 PM
To: B; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Latest VIP signer for TPA

Tom Hayden - pretty cool!

We're tweeting a welcome & working to get Hayden on the radio to promote The Progressive Agenda...

From: B
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: Fast Track update
Date: Monday, June 22, 2015 5:25:00 PM

Good. Let us pray

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Monday, June 22, 2015 03:58 PM
To: B; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Fast Track update

Well-placed sources tell me that we may actually WIN on the cloture vote tomorrow...

I've got through the AFLCIO's list of targeted Senators, and I don't believe we have the relationships to influence them directly (from MBDB) - but we are completing a video that we will push out to all of our members/signers & ask them to forward tonight... Given the political leanings of the Senators in question, I don't think a media appearance by MBDB will impact the fence-sitters (most of them are pro-trade & corporate-friendly)...

I also went through list of mayors in our orbit, and I'm afraid none of those really intersect with target list either.

Brainstorming with allies on other ways we can weigh in.

From: Singleton, Jessica
To: "John Del Cecato"
Cc: Hagelgans, Andrea; Walzak, Phil
Subject: RE: should bdb join bridge?
Date: Monday, June 22, 2015 5:44:25 PM

Wednesday is fine. You should download it in the meantime. Let me know if you need an invite.

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Monday, June 22, 2015 1:42 PM
To: Singleton, Jessica
Cc: Hagelgans, Andrea; Walzak, Phil
Subject: Re: should bdb join bridge?

I'll be there on Wed, if that's not too late for you

From: <Singleton>, Jessica <JSingleton@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Monday, June 22, 2015 at 1:27 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: "Hagelgans, Andrea" <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Walzak, Phil" <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: should bdb join bridge?

Could we do this afternoon by phone? Or are you here sometime soon jdc?

On Jun 22, 2015, at 13:23, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

I'm in

From: <Hagelgans>, "Hagelgans, Andrea" <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Friday, June 19, 2015 at 5:33 PM
To: "Singleton, Jessica" <JSingleton@cityhall.nyc.gov>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, "Walzak, Phil" <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: should bdb join bridge?

Sure

From: Singleton, Jessica
Sent: Friday, June 19, 2015 05:32 PM
To: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea Subject: RE: should bdb join bridge?

Can I grab you all for 5 minutes next week to show you how this would work? IT would make a lot of news and be a very exciting and innovative way to promote progressive agenda points.

From: Singleton, Jessica
Sent: Wednesday, June 17, 2015 3:23 PM
To: jfdc@akpdmmedia.com; Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: FW: should bdb join bridge?

A really great way to get the #p2Agenda out there

From: Singleton, Jessica
Sent: Wednesday, June 17, 2015 3:19 PM
To: @NYCDigital; Parikh, Ishanee
Subject: should bdb join bridge?

<https://joinbrigade.wordpress.com/2015/06/17/democracy-starts-when-you-take-a-stand/>

Jessica Singleton
Chief Digital Officer @nycgov
@jessay286

From: Wiley, Maya
To: B; Snyder, Thomas
Cc: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Carter, Zach \(Law\)
Subject: RE: TPA and civil rights leaders meeting
Date: Monday, June 22, 2015 6:14:02 PM

I'm back. ☺

From: B
Sent: Monday, June 22, 2015 5:33 PM
To: Wiley, Maya; Snyder, Thomas
Cc: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; Carter, Zach (Law)
Subject: Re: TPA and civil rights leaders meeting

Good. We want to build out our coalition asap. Pls discuss when you get back

From: Wiley, Maya
Sent: Monday, June 22, 2015 11:20 AM
To: Snyder, Thomas
Cc: John Del Ceccato (jfdc@akpdmedia.com) <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Carter, Zach (Law); B
Subject: Re: TPA and civil rights leaders meeting

Hi Tom-

Thanks for the update. I know Mark and Hilary. As a part of the national racial justice community before joining the administration, I may be able to be helpful on TPA.

Maya

Sent from my iPhone

On Jun 22, 2015, at 10:02 AM, Snyder, Thomas <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Saturday afternoon, mayor met with a handful of African-American leaders (Sharpton, Morial, Shelton of NAACP, Reynolds a businessman from Chicago, Black Women's advocate). Purpose was to hear their ideas about strengthening the progressive cause and specifically comment on TPA. Here are my takeaways:

1. Generally very supportive of TPA and of the Mayor specifically
2. Opinion that TPA should be more explicit in connecting race issues, multi-culturalism with progressive change.
3. Gentle critique that white progressives underplay race factor when advocating policy change
4. Desire to see BdB work to connect white progressives with black leaders.
5. Should be more explicit way to promote opportunities for advancing minority business enterprises; that jobs are key to racial progress; NYC should step up to do more to get business for minority entrepreneurs and professionals (legal, IT, finance, architecture, etc.)

We are tasked with following up with Mark Morial as their point person. Zach and Maya tasked with following up on the Chicago MWBE successes as described by Mr. Reynolds. Lets talk this week on way forward with all this. I have some ideas.

Tom Snyder
Chief of Staff
Office of the Mayor
City Hall
New York, NY 10007
212-341-5050

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: John Del Ceccato \(jfdc@akpdmedia.com\)
Subject: forum
Date: Tuesday, June 23, 2015 9:33:41 AM

Any update about securing a Forum in Iowa? If not, please tell me exactly what we need to get done in order to nail this down.

Tom Snyder
Chief of Staff
Office of the Mayor
City Hall
New York, NY 10007
212-341-5050

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: B; John Del Ceccato \(jfdc@akpdmedia.com\)
Subject: Fast Track
Date: Tuesday, June 23, 2015 10:38:38 AM

Latest intel below:

From: Sevilla, Max
Sent: Tuesday, June 23, 2015 10:37 AM
To: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: RE: TPP

The Senate votes today on TPA. This morning's vote is procedural, to overcome a potential filibuster. Sen Cruz announced he will change his vote to NO, yet the likely whip count shows that just enough Democrats will support the bill to pass it.

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
To: Wolfe, Emma; Walzak, Phil; John Del Cecato \(jfdc@akpdmedia.com\)
Subject: FW: PIX 11: HOT 97's Ebro sounds off on Russell Simmons' apology directed at NYC mayor
Date: Tuesday, June 23, 2015 11:32:33 AM

This is good

Ebro: Nah, I mean, you know, our audience calls it like you see it, you know, I mean he is getting pushed around on some issues and, you know, even when we talk to the Mayor about it, I told him, you know the reason people come at de Blasio is because he's an articulate, patient, polite individual. He's not like Mayors that we've had in the past that get at the podium that scream and yell and call people names.

Krishnan: Alright

Ebro: He's not show boating. He's trying to find solutions. And I personally prefer that in someone who is going to represent our city, but I think the audience doesn't mind somebody holding our leader to task.

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
Sent: Tuesday, June 23, 2015 11:30 AM
To: Wolfe, Emma; Walzak, Phil; Hinton, Karen; Hagelgans, Andrea; Schwartz, Regina; Carrion, Marco A.; Hernandez-Cruz, Arelis; Adams, Marti; Klein, Monica
Subject: RE: PIX 11: HOT 97's Ebro sounds off on Russell Simmons' apology directed at NYC mayor

Sukanya Krishnan: HOT 97 listeners got an earful last weekend when hip-hop executive Russell Simmons put Mayor Bill de Blasio on blast, calling him a punk and other things. Well, Simmons has now apologized and, well, the New York City Mayor accepted his apology, went and called into HOT 97 yesterday. We have Hot 97's Ebro on the phone today to get his take on the matter. So, Ebro thanks for joining us this morning live.

Ebro: Suki, you look amazing in pink.

Krishnan: Thanks. Let's get back to the topic. Ebro, what was your reaction, first of all, when Russell went there and called the Mayor a punk?

Ebro: We were surprised and then we went, and I believe, everyone in the room said, Russell, are you sure you want to call the Mayor the B-word and he was adamant about it. I feel like he was passionate about it, but I don't think they have a bad relationship. But you know — Russell's from House, Queens and, you know, he's from the street and he misses hip-hop and probably just felt comfortable in his environment. You know, we sometimes talk to each other in a comfortable manner. I think that was more of what it was than him trying to, like, call the Mayor out on his name.

Krishnan: Alright, well let's get my viewers up to date on exactly what happened on your morning show. This was the response, so let's — let's listen in.

[Replay of interview]

Russell Simmons: Our police commissioner is bullying our punk Mayor, that we worked so hard to put in office. He knows his kids are at risk, he knows that if a cop shoots his kid — and there is no footage, that cop is not getting charged and that's because there are no special prosecutors. There should be independent...

Krishnan: And I think we should put that in context, because you could see Russell's frustration because this is over the progress of — he really wanted a special prosecutor to be put in place regarding police misconduct and that, that's exactly what he was talking about. That frustration that was boiling over on your air, am I correct about that?

Ebro: Yeah, and when we had the Mayor on yesterday — we're gonna replay the interview here in about five minutes with the Mayor — we asked him specifically about the special prosecutor, in which, the Mayor went on to talk about Cuomo, having the power to do that right now. That was something the Governor felt should happen with these issues, so, I know Rosenberg spoke to Russell Simmons via. email yesterday. Rosenberg, and you said Russell felt like we let the Mayor off the hook yesterday.

Rosenberg: Yeah, he wanted us to hold the Mayor to the fire, as he put it. You know, he said he wasn't trying to personally attack the Mayor. He's said he's been friends with him for years, marched with him, but he thinks that, for Russell Simmons, he feels that if you really believe in the Black Lives Matter movement, the special prosecutor is a necessity.

Krishnan: So what are your listeners saying though, because, obviously he is talking about the whole Black Lives Matter movement — so how do they feel about Russell, his reaction, the apology and what do you guys hearing this morning.

Ebro: I mean, our listeners are very pro finding solutions and making sure people are held accountable whether you work for the police department, whether you work for the state, whatever you work for. Listeners are calling here who are blue collar hard workers.

Krishnan: But, Ebro, is this polarizing to do something like that? You know what I mean?

Ebro: To call the Mayor a Punk?

Krishnan: Yeah

Ebro: Nah, not at all, not for our audience.

Krishnan: Okay

Ebro: Nah, I mean, you know, our audience calls it like you see it, you know, I mean he is getting pushed around on some issues and, you know, even when we talk to the Mayor about it, I told him, you know the reason people come at de Blasio is because he's an articulate, patient, polite individual. He's not like Mayors that we've had in the past that get at the podium that scream and yell and call people names.

Krishnan: Alright

Ebro: He's not show boating. He's trying to find solutions. And I personally prefer that in someone who is going to represent our city, but I think the audience doesn't mind somebody holding our leader to task.

Krishnan: Yeah, well no, we have to hold our leaders accountable and thank you for doing that and, you know, sharing your thoughts on our morning show. Ebro and the team at Hot97, thank you for calling in this morning.

Ebro: Always, no problem.

Krishnan: And we'll let you guys get back to your show.

Ebro: Thank you guys and well Suki you guys look amazing in pink.

Krishnan: Thank you, Ebro, I hope we have lunch sometime soon.

From: Gunaratna, Mahen

Sent: Tuesday, June 23, 2015 8:58 AM

To: Wolfe, Emma; Walzak, Phil; Hinton, Karen; Hagegans, Andrea; Schwartz, Regina; Carrion, Marco A.; Hernandez-Cruz, Arelis; Adams, Marti

Subject: FW: PIX 11: HOT 97's Ebro sounds off on Russell Simmons' apology directed at NYC mayor

FYI, the hosts' reaction to the Mayor's interview yesterday can be found here. Also, one of the hosts mentioned Russell's reaction to yesterday's interview - apparently he told the hosts that they should have pressed BdB more on special prosecutor.

From: Clips

Sent: Tuesday, June 23, 2015 8:55 AM

Subject: PIX 11: HOT 97's Ebro sounds off on Russell Simmons' apology directed at NYC mayor

HOT 97's Ebro sounds off on Russell Simmons' apology directed at NYC mayor

PIX 11 - Staff

<http://pix11.com/2015/06/23/hot-97s-ebro-sounds-off-on-russell-simmons-apology-directed-at-nyc-mayor/>

HOT 97 listeners got an earful last weekend when hip-hop executive Russell Simmons put Mayor Bill de Blasio on blast, calling him a punk. Simmons has since apologized and de Blasio accepted, calling into the radio station to say so.

HOT 97's Ebro shared his take on the matter Tuesday with PIX11 News — and whether he agrees or disagrees with Simmons' initial comments.

From: Carey, Michael
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com" \(jfdc@akpdmedia.com\)
Subject: don't be shocked
Date: Tuesday, June 23, 2015 2:04:56 PM

Need to cancel Geri tomorrow. Got to do a presser with PC now.

Michael Paul Carey
Director of Scheduling and Advance
City Hall
New York, New York 10007
212.341.5396

From: Carey, Michael
To: "John Del Cecato"
Subject: RE: WAIT - KEEP IT ON. DON'T TELL HER YET.
Date: Tuesday, June 23, 2015 2:26:52 PM

Ok
Keep it
You coming in right?

Michael Paul Carey
Director of Scheduling and Advance
City Hall
New York, New York 10007
212.341.5396

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Tuesday, June 23, 2015 2:23 PM
To: Carey, Michael
Subject: Re: WAIT - KEEP IT ON. DON'T TELL HER YET.

ok

From: <Carey>, "Carey, Michael" <MPCarey@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Tuesday, June 23, 2015 at 2:19 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: WAIT - KEEP IT ON. DON'T TELL HER YET.

Michael Paul Carey
Director of Scheduling and Advance
City Hall
New York, New York 10007
212.341.5396

From: B
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Cc: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: Fast Rack...Cloture
Date: Tuesday, June 23, 2015 8:57:43 PM

My gut is the status quo wins the day unless progressives deepen their unity

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Tuesday, June 23, 2015 08:46 PM
To: B
Cc: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: Fast Rack...Cloture

It's possible we could kill TPP (without amendments) in 3 months.

But I trust your gut more than what I hear. What are you feeling??

On Jun 23, 2015, at 8:43 PM, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

So much for the death knell. I could feel in my bones that labor and progressives were celebrating too early. Any chance at all it can be killed up ahead?

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, June 23, 2015 11:59 AM
To: Snyder, Thomas; B
Subject: Re: Fast Rack...Cloture

Missed it by thismuch

From: <Snyder>, Thomas <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Tuesday, June 23, 2015 at 11:56 AM
To: Bill de Blasio <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Fast Rack...Cloture

From: Sevilla, Max
Sent: Tuesday, June 23, 2015 11:55 AM
To: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: RE: TPP

The Senate voted 60 to 37 to end debate on TPA, pretty much ensuring final passage which needs only 51 votes. The vote is expected on Wednesday.

From: Sevilla, Max
Sent: Tuesday, June 23, 2015 10:37 AM
To: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: RE: TPP

The Senate votes today on TPA. This morning's vote is procedural, to overcome a potential filibuster. Sen Cruz announced he will change his vote to NO, yet the likely whip count shows that just enough Democrats will support the bill to pass it.

From: B
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Cc: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: Fast Rack...Cloture
Date: Wednesday, June 24, 2015 7:58:20 AM

Progressives should disrupt that formula

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Wednesday, June 24, 2015 07:54 AM
To: B
Cc: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: Fast Rack...Cloture

That's smart. Depressing for the cause, but probably correct.

From: Bill de Blasio <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Wednesday, June 24, 2015 at 7:38 AM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: "Snyder, Thomas" <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: Fast Rack...Cloture

I also think Hillary will say she's against it and then will let the Congress pass it, and she'll hope to implement it. She'll want to have her cake and eat it too

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Tuesday, June 23, 2015 08:46 PM
To: B
Cc: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: Fast Rack...Cloture

It's possible we could kill TPP (without amendments) in 3 months.

But I trust your gut more than what I hear. What are you feeling??

On Jun 23, 2015, at 8:43 PM, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

So much for the death knell. I could feel in my bones that labor and progressives were celebrating too early. Any chance at all it can be killed up ahead?

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, June 23, 2015 11:59 AM
To: Snyder, Thomas; B
Subject: Re: Fast Rack...Cloture

Missed it by thismuch

From: <Snyder>, Thomas <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Tuesday, June 23, 2015 at 11:56 AM
To: Bill de Blasio <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Fast Rack...Cloture

From: Sevilla, Max
Sent: Tuesday, June 23, 2015 11:55 AM
To: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: RE: TPP

The Senate voted 60 to 37 to end debate on TPA, pretty much ensuring final passage which needs only 51 votes. The vote is expected on Wednesday.

From: Sevilla, Max
Sent: Tuesday, June 23, 2015 10:37 AM
To: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: RE: TPP

The Senate votes today on TPA. This morning's vote is procedural, to overcome a potential filibuster. Sen Cruz announced he will change his vote to NO, yet the likely whip count shows that just enough Democrats will support the bill to pass it.

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: "John Del Cecato"
Subject: RE: TPP
Date: Wednesday, June 24, 2015 11:52:10 AM

Not sure I understand this sentence from your contact:

Now the question is can we use this for the right advantage not only in trying to get the best deal possible, but the best provisions that will advance broadly-shared prosperity.

I thought once fast track is won, then there is no opportunity to change or improve the language.

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Wednesday, June 24, 2015 11:39 AM
To: B; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: TPP

Spoke to my source about what's next, and he was surprisingly upbeat - not that we would kill TPP, but that we've shown unity & influence in a way we haven't before... And he's generally not a glass half-full guy... Comments below..

====

You have asked a very complex question, that could take a book to respond to...

First, as to timing: I believe it will take up to 3 months to finish the agreement. Then, there is the process of legal "scrubbing". As an agreement that will be translated into many different home country languages, the lawyers have to make sure that the words reflect the true intent. What may be clear in English may not be as clear in another language. A lot of that work is already underway (as the Administration has been trying to make sure there are no delays in consideration). But, that still will take a bit of time. Then there is a process for advisory committees, Congressional procedures, etc. Under the quickest of timelines (in my view, extremely optimistic), one might see the first vote in 5 months. But, in my view, this is going to slip into next year.

We can't make this just about the specifics of the TPP, although that will be, of course, at its core. This has been a huge win for labor/progressives is gaining a common voice. Trade has not been a unifying platform in the past. Now the question is can we use this for the right advantage not only in trying to get the best deal possible, but the best provisions that will advance broadly-shared prosperity.

Part of a longer discussion and, in my view, a huge opportunity, if we plan and execute correctly.

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: "John Del Cecato"
Subject: RE: TPP
Date: Wednesday, June 24, 2015 12:06:28 PM

Hmmm? Risky. I wouldn't want him to tell them which network we are talking to? I guess other than that it might work.

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, June 24, 2015 11:56 AM
To: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: TPP

This may be stupid, but I was thinking of having him call Robby or Podesta & floating the idea in the most cordial way possible... If they send a positive signal (even privately), I think we could suggest to Mark Preston (our CNN contact) that she'll be on board, and that will really jump-start the process... What do you think? Stupid?

From: <Snyder>, Thomas <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Wednesday, June 24, 2015 at 11:52 AM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: TPP

Also told B about progress on CNN. He was encouraged. What more can be done to bring it home?

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, June 24, 2015 11:39 AM
To: B; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: TPP

Spoke to my source about what's next, and he was surprisingly upbeat - not that we would kill TPP, but that we've shown unity & influence in a way we haven't before... And he's generally not a glass half-full guy... Comments below..

====

You have asked a very complex question, that could take a book to respond to....

First, as to timing: I believe it will take up to 3 months to finish the agreement. Then, there is the process of legal "scrubbing". As an agreement that will be translated into many different home country languages, the lawyers have to make sure that the words reflect the true intent. What may be clear in English may not be as clear in another language. A lot of that work is already underway (as the Administration has been trying to make sure there are no delays in consideration). But, that still will take a bit of time. Then there is a process for advisory committees, Congressional procedures, etc. Under the quickest of timelines (in my view, extremely optimistic), one might see the first vote in 5 months. But, in my view, this is going to slip into next year.

We can't make this just about the specifics of the TPP, although that will be, of course, at its core.

This has been a huge win for labor/progressives is gaining a common voice. Trade has not been a unifying platform in the past. Now the question is can we use this for the right advantage not only in trying to get the best deal possible, but the best provisions that will advance broadly-shared prosperity.

Part of a longer discussion and, in my view, a huge opportunity, if we plan and execute correctly.

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: "John Del Cecato"
Subject: RE: TPP
Date: Wednesday, June 24, 2015 12:57:58 PM

Is the Prado meeting on for today?

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Wednesday, June 24, 2015 11:39 AM
To: B; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: TPP

Spoke to my source about what's next, and he was surprisingly upbeat - not that we would kill TPP, but that we've shown unity & influence in a way we haven't before... And he's generally not a glass half-full guy... Comments below..

====

You have asked a very complex question, that could take a book to respond to....

First, as to timing: I believe it will take up to 3 months to finish the agreement. Then, there is the process of legal "scrubbing". As an agreement that will be translated into many different home country languages, the lawyers have to make sure that the words reflect the true intent. What may be clear in English may not be as clear in another language. A lot of that work is already underway (as the Administration has been trying to make sure there are no delays in consideration). But, that still will take a bit of time. Then there is a process for advisory committees, Congressional procedures, etc. Under the quickest of timelines (in my view, extremely optimistic), one might see the first vote in 5 months. But, in my view, this is going to slip into next year.

We can't make this just about the specifics of the TPP, although that will be, of course, at its core. This has been a huge win for labor/progressives is gaining a common voice. Trade has not been a unifying platform in the past. Now the question is can we use this for the right advantage not only in trying to get the best deal possible, but the best provisions that will advance broadly-shared prosperity.

Part of a longer discussion and, in my view, a huge opportunity, if we plan and execute correctly.

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: John Del Ceccato \(jfdc@akpdmedia.com\)
Subject: info
Date: Wednesday, June 24, 2015 2:04:25 PM

Looking for some info for potential work here on a few people you might be able to help me track down an initial impression:

[REDACTED]

I figure you might have some contacts that could give you some sense of their work , do they like, not like etc. Hope its not a hassle for you.

Tom Snyder
Chief of Staff
Office of the Mayor
City Hall
New York, NY 10007
212-341-5050

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
To: Hinton, Karen; Walzak, Phil; "John Del Cecato"; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: RE: New Times beat reporter on inequality/the rich
Date: Wednesday, June 24, 2015 3:43:36 PM
Attachments: image001.png
image002.png

Alessandra Stanley Moves to New Beat, Covering Inequality in America

June 24, 2015

New York Times executive editor Dean Baquet announced that Alessandra Stanley is returning to reporting to cover economic inequality in America. The memo to staff is copied below.

“Colleagues:

After a dozen remarkable years as chief television critic, Alessandra Stanley has decided to return to reporting. As part of The Times’s deepening focus on economic inequality in America, she will be creating a new beat: an interdisciplinary look at the way the richest of the rich — the top 1 percent of the 1 percent — are influencing, indeed rewiring, the nation’s institutions, including universities, philanthropies, museums, sports franchises and, of course, political parties and government.

This is a subject both intensely timely and well suited to Alessandra's skills as an observer, reporter and writer — one that has fascinated her, she says, since she wrote about the first generation of Russian oligarchs as a foreign correspondent in the mid-1990s. Now, she'll be reporting on what she describes as the “psychology, rituals, costs and contradictions” of a new generation of American titans. Her work will add to The Times's ongoing reporting on inequality in all its forms. More announcements will come on that front.

There is not enough space here to do justice to Alessandra's exceptional work as TV critic. She covered the globe, whether the subject was Russian television news — an awkward mix of pro-Putin and opposition stories that she described as “a little bit NPR, a little bit North Korea” — or addictive French crime dramas. Closer to home, she weighed in on election-night coverage, Oscar ceremonies, anchor meltdowns and of course the rise of the golden age of cable dramas. If it was on TV, she was game to write about it. Her insights, wit and rich experience as a political reporter and foreign correspondent tracked a once fading medium as it re-emerged as one of the dominant art forms of the moment.”

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
Sent: Wednesday, June 24, 2015 3:34 PM
To: Hinton, Karen; Walzak, Phil; 'John Del Cecato'; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: New Times beat reporter on inequality/the rich

JDC's dream stories!

--

Kate Aurthur Verified account @KateAurthur

Dean Baquet announced Alessandra Stanley is no longer TV critic (she'll be covering "the richest of the rich"). Memo:

Colleagues:

After a dozen remarkable years as chief television critic, Alessandra Stanley has decided to return to reporting. As part of The Times's deepening focus on economic inequality in America, she will be creating a new beat: an interdisciplinary look at the way the richest of the rich -- the top 1 percent of the 1 percent -- are influencing, indeed rewiring, the nation's institutions, including universities, philanthropies, museums, sports franchises and, of course, political parties and government.

This is a subject both intensely timely and well suited to Alessandra's skills as an observer, reporter and writer -- one that has fascinated her, she says, since she wrote about the first generation of Russian oligarchs as a foreign correspondent in the mid-1990s. Now, she'll be reporting on what she describes as the "psychology, rituals, costs and contradictions" of a new generation of American titans. Her work will add to The Times's ongoing reporting on inequality in all its forms. More announcements will come on that front.

There is not enough space here to do justice to Alessandra's exceptional work as TV critic. She covered the globe, whether the subject was Russian television news -- an awkward mix of pro-Putin and opposition stories that she described as "a little bit NPR, a little bit North Korea" -- or addictive French crime dramas. Closer to home, she weighed in on election-night coverage, Oscar ceremonies, anchor meltdowns and of course the rise of the golden age of cable dramas. If it was on TV, she was game to write about it. Her insights, wit and rich experience as a political reporter and foreign correspondent tracked a once fading medium as it re-emerged as one of the dominant art forms of the moment.

3:24 PM - 24 Jun 2015

--

Mahen Gunaratna

Director of Research and Media Analysis

Mayor's Press Office | City Hall

mgunaratna@cityhall.nyc.gov

(212) 676-3154 (o) | (347)-268-4295 (c)

Colleagues:

After a dozen remarkable years as chief television critic, Alessandra Stanley has decided to return to reporting. As part of The Times's deepening focus on economic inequality in America, she will be creating a new beat: an interdisciplinary look at the way the richest of the rich -- the top 1 percent of the 1 percent -- are influencing, indeed rewiring, the nation's institutions, including universities, philanthropies, museums, sports franchises and, of course, political parties and government.

This is a subject both intensely timely and well suited to Alessandra's skills as an observer, reporter and writer -- one that has fascinated her, she says, since she wrote about the first generation of Russian oligarchs as a foreign correspondent in the mid-1990s. Now, she'll be reporting on what she describes as the "psychology, rituals, costs and contradictions" of a new generation of American titans. Her work will add to The Times's ongoing reporting on inequality in all its forms. More announcements will come on that front.

There is not enough space here to do justice to Alessandra's exceptional work as TV critic. She covered the globe, whether the subject was Russian television news -- an awkward mix of pro-Putin and opposition stories that she described as "a little bit NPR, a little bit North Korea" -- or addictive French crime dramas. Closer to home, she weighed in on election-night coverage, Oscar ceremonies, anchor meltdowns and of course the rise of the golden age of cable dramas. If it was on TV, she was game to write about it. Her insights, wit and rich experience as a political reporter and foreign correspondent tracked a once fading medium as it re-emerged as one of the dominant art forms of the moment.

From: John Del Cecato
To: Gunaratna, Mahen; Hinton, Karen; Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: Re: New Times beat reporter on inequality/the rich
Date: Wednesday, June 24, 2015 4:23:01 PM
Attachments: image001.png
image002.png

Having heart palpitations!

From: <Gunaratna>, "Gunaratna, Mahen" <MGunaratna@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Wednesday, June 24, 2015 at 3:34 PM
To: "Hinton, Karen" <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Walzak, Phil" <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmmedia.com>, "Hagelgans, Andrea" <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: New Times beat reporter on inequality/the rich

JDC's dream stories!

--

Kate Aurthur Verified account @KateAurthur

Dean Baquet announced Alessandra Stanley is no longer TV critic (she'll be covering "the richest of the rich"). Memo:

Colleagues:

After a dozen remarkable years as chief television critic, Alessandra Stanley has decided to return to reporting. As part of The Times's deepening focus on economic inequality in America, she will be creating a new beat: an interdisciplinary look at the way the richest of the rich -- the top 1 percent of the 1 percent -- are influencing, indeed rewiring, the nation's institutions, including universities, philanthropies, museums, sports franchises and, of course, political parties and government.

This is a subject both intensely timely and well suited to Alessandra's skills as an observer, reporter and writer -- one that has fascinated her, she says, since she wrote about the first generation of Russian oligarchs as a foreign correspondent in the mid-1990s. Now, she'll be reporting on what she describes as the "psychology, rituals, costs and contradictions" of a new generation of American titans. Her work will add to The Times's ongoing reporting on inequality in all its forms. More announcements will come on that front.

There is not enough space here to do justice to Alessandra's exceptional work as TV critic. She covered the globe, whether the subject was Russian television news -- an awkward mix of pro-Putin and opposition stories that she described as "a little bit NPR, a little bit North Korea" -- or addictive French crime dramas. Closer to home, she weighed in on election-night coverage, Oscar ceremonies, anchor meltdowns and of course the rise of the golden age of cable dramas. If it was on TV, she was game to write about it. Her insights, wit and rich experience as a political reporter and foreign correspondent tracked a once fading medium as it re-emerged as one of the dominant art forms of the moment.

3:24 PM - 24 Jun 2015

--

Mahen Gunaratna

Director of Research and Media Analysis

Mayor's Press Office | City Hall

mgunaratna@cityhall.nyc.gov

(212) 676-3154 (o) | (347)-268-4295 (c)

Colleagues:

After a dozen remarkable years as chief television critic, Alessandra Stanley has decided to return to reporting. As part of The Times's deepening focus on economic inequality in America, she will be creating a new beat: an interdisciplinary look at the way the richest of the rich -- the top 1 percent of the 1 percent -- are influencing, indeed rewiring, the nation's institutions, including universities, philanthropies, museums, sports franchises and, of course, political parties and government.

This is a subject both intensely timely and well suited to Alessandra's skills as an observer, reporter and writer -- one that has fascinated her, she says, since she wrote about the first generation of Russian oligarchs as a foreign correspondent in the mid-1990s. Now, she'll be reporting on what she describes as the "psychology, rituals, costs and contradictions" of a new generation of American titans. Her work will add to The Times's ongoing reporting on inequality in all its forms. More announcements will come on that front.

There is not enough space here to do justice to Alessandra's exceptional work as TV critic. She covered the globe, whether the subject was Russian television news -- an awkward mix of pro-Putin and opposition stories that she described as "a little bit NPR, a little bit North Korea" -- or addictive French crime dramas. Closer to home, she weighed in on election-night coverage, Oscar ceremonies, anchor meltdowns and of course the rise of the golden age of cable dramas. If it was on TV, she was game to write about it. Her insights, wit and rich experience as a political reporter and foreign correspondent tracked a once fading medium as it re-emerged as one of the dominant art forms of the moment.

From: Walzak, Phil
To: "John Del Cecato"; Hinton, Karen; Hagelgans, Andrea Subject: RE: Heads up
Date: Wednesday, June 24, 2015 4:49:39 PM

This is a trap

She'll inevitably say – shes doing it all and why haven't you endorsed??

Mayor has discussed exhaustively

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Wednesday, June 24, 2015 4:48 PM
To: Hinton, Karen; Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea Subject: Heads up

Dana Rubenstein called me to ask what specifically MBDB wants from HRC... I told her to call you, Karen...

As far as the answer - I suppose we say what we've always said - that we're looking for her to lay out a progressive vision to combatting income inequality... Probably could refer back to MBDB quote from avail after HRC Saturday speech

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: John Del Cecato
Cc: B
Subject: Re: Senate passed TPA
Date: Wednesday, June 24, 2015 9:45:13 PM

She's a zillionaire

Sent from my iPhone

On Jun 24, 2015, at 9:44 PM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

If only John Davis had been able to convince his new boss Maria Cantwell to do the right thing!

On Jun 24, 2015, at 8:18 PM, Snyder, Thomas <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Sent from my iPhone

Begin forwarded message:

From: "Sevillia, Max" <msevillia@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: June 24, 2015 at 7:37:21 PM EDT
To: "Snyder, Thomas" <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: Senate passed TPA

Schumer and Gillibrand both voted NO

YEAs ---60

Alexander (R-TN)	Ernst (R-IA)	Moran (R-KS)
Ayotte (R-NH)	Feinstein (D-CA)	Murkowski (R-AK)
Barrasso (R-WY)	Fischer (R-NE)	Murray (D-WA)
Bennet (D-CO)	Flake (R-AZ)	Nelson (D-FL)
Blunt (R-MO)	Gardner (R-CO)	Perdue (R-GA)
Boozman (R-AR)	Graham (R-SC)	Portman (R-OH)
Burr (R-NC)	Grassley (R-IA)	Risch (R-ID)
Cantwell (D-WA)	Hatch (R-UT)	Roberts (R-KS)
Capito (R-WV)	Heitkamp (D-ND)	Rounds (R-SD)
Carper (D-DE)	Heller (R-NV)	Sasse (R-NE)
Cassidy (R-LA)	Hoeven (R-ND)	Scott (R-SC)
Coats (R-IN)	Inhofe (R-OK)	Shaheen (D-NH)
Cochran (R-MS)	Isakson (R-GA)	Sullivan (R-AK)
Coons (D-DE)	Johnson (R-WI)	Thune (R-SD)
Corker (R-TN)	Kaine (D-VA)	Tillis (R-NC)
Cornyn (R-TX)	Kirk (R-IL)	Toomey (R-PA)
Cotton (R-AR)	Lankford (R-OK)	Vitter (R-LA)

Crapo (R-ID) McCain (R-AZ) Warner (D-VA)
Daines (R-MT) McCaskill (D-MO) Wicker (R-MS)
Enzi (R-WY) McConnell (R-KY) Wyden (D-OR)

NAYs ---38

Baldwin (D-WI)	Heinrich (D-NM)	Reed (D-RI)
Blumenthal (D-CT)	Hirono (D-HI)	Reid (D-NV)
Booker (D-NJ)	King (I-ME)	Sanders (I-VT)
Boxer (D-CA)	Klobuchar (D-MN)	Schatz (D-HI)
Brown (D-OH)	Leahy (D-VT)	Schumer (D-NY)
Cardin (D-MD)	Manchin (D-WV)	Sessions (R-AL)
Casey (D-PA)	Markey (D-MA)	Shelby (R-AL)
Collins (R-ME)	Menendez (D-NJ)	Stabenow (D-MI)
Cruz (R-TX)	Merkley (D-OR)	Tester (D-MT)
Donnelly (D-IN)	Mikulski (D-MD)	Udall (D-NM)
Durbin (D-IL)	Murphy (D-CT)	Warren (D-MA)
Franken (D-MN)	Paul (R-KY)	Whitehouse (D-RI)
Gillibrand (D-NY)	Peters (D-MI)

Not Voting - 2

Lee (R-UT) Rubio (R-FL)

http://www.senate.gov/legislative/LIS/roll_call_lists/roll_call_vote_cfm.cfm?congress=114&session=1&vote=00219

Max Sevilla, Esq.
Director
New York City Office of Federal Affairs
1301 Pennsylvania Ave, N.W.
Suite 350
Washington, D.C. 20004
Tel. \(202\) 624-5906
Cell. \(347\) 276-6572
msevillia@cityhall.nyc.gov

On Jun 24, 2015, at 6:50 PM, Snyder, Thomas
<TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Can u send me the member votes?

Sent from my iPhone

On Jun 24, 2015, at 4:57 PM, Sevilla, Max
<msevillia@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Max Sevilla, Esq.
Director
New York City Office of Federal Affairs
1301 Pennsylvania Ave, N.W.

Suite 350
Washington, D.C. 20004
Tel. \(202\) 624-5906
Cell. \(347\) 276-6572
msevillia@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Mehrdad Azemun
To: Snyder, Thomas
Cc: John Del Ceccato \(jfdc@akpdmedia.com\)
Subject: Re: Confirmed meeting-Iowa
Date: Thursday, June 25, 2015 1:13:36 AM

Guys, quick follow-up: I met with staff from the Iowa group in dc today and they're interested in having a conversation with you both if that interest is mutual. I brief them on the "caucus for fairness" idea and they're also interested in influencing the conversation that happens before the caucuses.

John, in answer to your question, their membership is 3200 - and that's a real, hard number (ie not like MoveOn or Greenpeace, which I'm sure count me as a member despite my never having given them money, or at least not for years).

I'll also forward you info on the upcoming fall convention for their c3, which will give you a good flavor of the group and their politics. Mehrdad

On Jun 17, 2015, at 4:48 PM, "Snyder, Thomas" <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Not yet. We can just talk about our concept of what we are thinking about in Iowa and then go from there.

From: Mehrdad Azemun [<mailto:mehrdad@npa-us.org>]
Sent: Wednesday, June 17, 2015 4:34 PM
To: Snyder, Thomas
Cc: John Del Ceccato (jfdc@akpdmedia.com)
Subject: Re: Confirmed meeting-Iowa

Tom, I'm wondering what you'd like to discuss in this meeting. If you want to get deep into details on Iowa, I should get our Iowa member on the phone, Iowa Citizens for Community Improvement. Let me know. Mehrdad

On Fri, Jun 5, 2015 at 9:21 AM, Snyder, Thomas <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

John and Mehrdad – we are confirmed to meet at the Mayor's Office on Friday June 19 at 3:30pm.

Tom Snyder
Chief of Staff
Office of the Mayor
City Hall
New York, NY 10007
212-341-5050

--
Mehrdad Azemun
Campaign Director

National People's Action
National People's Action Campaign
810 N. Milwaukee Ave., Chicago IL 60642
773-220-7929 (mobile)
312-676-2815 (office)
mehrdad@npa-us.org
www.npa-us.org

Twitter:

www.twitter.com/NPAction

Facebook:

www.facebook.org/NationalPeoplesAction

YouTube:

www.youtube.com/movetoaction

From: Mehrddad Azemun
To: John Del Ceccato; Snyder Thomas
Subject: Info on Iowa convention in October
Date: Thursday, June 25, 2015 1:13:43 AM

----- Forwarded message -----
From: Hugh Espey, Iowa CCI <hugh@iowacci.org>
Date: Tue, Jun 23, 2015 at 1:06 PM
Subject: A lot of you have been asking about Convention...

Mehrdad,

Join us October 2nd and 3rd in Des Moines to celebrate 40 years of tackling tough issues and getting things done, and to lift up our bold and progressive People and Planet First agenda (just in time for Iowa's presidential caucus season).

There will be live music and dancing, food, and great people, including some big-name movement doers and thinkers!

We're excited to announce these powerful and fiery speakers (and will announce more soon):

Rev. William Barber

Founder of North Carolina's #MoralMondays movement

Alicia Garza

Co-founder of #BlackLivesMatter

Jim Hightower

"America's #1 Populist"

Sally Kohn

Progressive pundit for MSNBC and CNN, and columnist for The Daily Best

Register Today!

Stay tuned for more details on our 40th Birthday Bash!

I can't wait,

Hugh Espey

Executive Director

Forward to Friends

We're currently at 3,732 Facebook followers.

Help us get to 5,000 fans!

Iowa Citizens for Community Improvement

2001 Forest Ave

Des Moines, IA 50311-3229

515-282-0484 . www.lowacci.org

Contact us, Unsubscribe from this list. To be removed from all emails from us click here.

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: "John Del Cecato"
Subject: RE: TPA tonight
Date: Thursday, June 25, 2015 1:58:13 PM

I wouldn't start with the small group thing but he really liked the civil rights meeting small group so he does see the value in getting feedback and adding to support.

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Thursday, June 25, 2015 12:34 PM
To: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: TPA tonight

Correct - we won't be able to give a definitive answer on Hayley until the crew meets on Sunday...

I like everything you have here... He will probably say that the small group meetings are "low-impact" - but I think they're really important to do...

Geri can write a plan at night/on weekends

In order to fully nail down the Iowa forum, we really need MBDB to make some calls to key TPA members, and then we can follow up with email to the 100 VIPs to get their buy-in...

Tele town hall is a great idea - and he will dig it... Probably would cost $3K...

I'm going to be in CT on Sunday - so would be safer to do call time on Monday - unless he is willing to do without me...

We need to begin the surrogates program - which, again, requires some outreach by him directly...

We should also do some mayor outreach... I've got a list of the top 10 or so we'd like to sign on - but I need to do more research on what each one will respond to... I can do that today...

There's also the "smaller" stuff - the Mike Lux film, the Robert Greenwald short video screening "event" in 5 cities,

From: <Snyder>, Thomas <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Thursday, June 25, 2015 at 11:03 AM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: TPA tonight

Obviously we have a problem in that we will not have had our C4 discussion. Presumably that means we can't say anything definitive about Hayley availability? We have to present something detailed and coherent nevertheless tonight in case he wants it. Some ideas:

1. BdB convene more small groups to talk TPA (like last week's civil rights leaders). July to Labor Day. Latino (Durazo could help convene); Asian Americans; Labor; other?
2. Prado draft a 6 - 9 month comprehensive written plan by mid-late July

3. Nail down Iowa Forum by when? Once firm, hold a press event announcing it with other TPA'ers
4. Teletown hall promoting Iowa Forum and income issue; audience include Iowa caucus goers; other TPA group members
5. Fundraising
6. Call time immediately; possibly time on Sunday?

Thoughts?

Tom Snyder
Chief of Staff
Office of the Mayor
City Hall
New York, NY 10007
212-341-5050

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: "John Del Cecato"
Subject: RE: <no subject>
Date: Thursday, June 25, 2015 5:42:02 PM

Regarding names that would co-sponsor Forum, does Reich or Dean help with CNN? If you think so we should put them in.

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Thursday, June 25, 2015 4:57 PM
To: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: <no subject>

Here's the latest call sheet with notes

From: Wiley Maya
To: John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: TPA
Date: Friday, June 26, 2015 3:04:56 PM

Great. Thx. Will circle back after I've looked with civil rights lens.

Sent from my iPhone

On Jun 26, 2015, at 2:55 PM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

Here's the preamble & the agenda itself, in current form...

About Our Agenda

Income inequality is the crisis of our time, and we need bold, progressive solutions to address it. By harnessing the strength of a national progressive coalition, and using that to achieve success in the three pillars of The Progressive Agenda, we will make sure that the voice of every American is heard – not just those at the very top.

To do this, we must lift the floor for those who are struggling, fight for racial and economic justice, and champion a tax system that rewards work instead of just wealth.

The Progressive Agenda is a set of proposals that build upon the work of dozens of economists, lawmakers and progressive activists, with the aim of addressing income inequality right now.

1 Lift the Floor for Working People »

- Raise the federal minimum wage, so that it reaches $15/hour, while indexing it to inflation.
- Reform the National Labor Relations Act, to enhance workers' right to organize and rebuild the middle class.
- Pass comprehensive immigration reform to grow the economy and protect against exploitation of low-wage workers.
- Oppose trade deals that hand more power to corporations at the expense of American jobs, workers' rights, and the environment.
- Invest in schools, not jails-- and give a second chance to those coming home from prison.

2 Support Working Families »

- Pass national paid sick leave.
- Pass national paid family leave.
- Make Pre-K, after-school programs and childcare universal.
- Expand the Earned Income Tax Credit and protect and expand Social Security.
- Allow students to refinance student loan debt to take advantage of lower interest rates, and support debt-free college.

3 Tax Fairness »

- Close the carried interest loophole.
- End tax breaks for companies that ship jobs overseas.
- Implement the "Buffett Rule" so millionaires pay their fair share.
- Close the CEO tax loophole that allows corporations to take advantage of "performance pay" write-offs.

From: B
To: Carey, Michael; FLONYC; Leopold, Elana
Cc: Snyder, Thomas; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Re: MINI Schedule for Monday, June 29, 2015
Date: Saturday, June 27, 2015 7:38:41 PM

Pls add drink at gracie monday evening for Chirlane and me with Del Cecato

From: Carey, Michael
Sent: Friday, June 26, 2015 05:12 PM
To: B; FLONYC
Subject: MINI Schedule for Monday, June 29, 2015

SCHEDULE FOR MAYOR BILL DE BLASIO
CITY OF NEW YORK
Monday, June 29, 2015

WEATHER: Hi of 84. Low of 69. Mostly Sunny.

ATTIRE: Business

NOTES: - YOU have 30 mins. to change at the gym

7:30 - 8:00 TRAVEL FROM GRACIE MANSION EN ROUTE 357 9TH STREET
Travel Time: 30 mins.

8:00 - 9:00 WORKOUT
Location: 357 9th Street

9:30 - 9:50 TRAVEL FROM 357 9TH STREET EN ROUTE SBMT, 81 39TH STREET, BROOKLYN // ON AND OFF TOPIC PREP WITH KAREN HINTON
Travel Time: 20 mins.

10:00 - 11:30 PRESS CONFERENCE WITH CONGRESSMAN NADLER AND CONGRESSWOMAN
VELAZQUEZ ON PORT

Location: South Brooklyn Marine Terminal, 81 39th Street, Brooklyn, NY
11232

Staff Lead: Michael DeLoach

Press Contact: Karen Hinton

Press: Open

11:30 - 11:50 TRAVEL FROM SBMT, 81 39TH STREET EN ROUTE CITY HALL // COMMUNICATIONS
CALL

Travel Time: 20 Minutes

12:30 - 1:30 INTERNAL MEETING ON MAYORS/TRANSPORTATION NEXT STEPS

Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

2:00 - 3:00 125TH STREET CORRIDOR MEETING WITH SPEAKER MELISSA MARK VIVERITO
Location: City Hall, COW

3:30 - 4:00 PREP FOR BILL HEARING AND SIGNING
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

4:00 - 5:00 BILL HEARING AND SIGNING
Location: City Hall, The Blue Room
Staff Lead: Jon Paul Lupo

5:30 - 6:00 REMARKS TO COMMISSIONERS ON MWBE
Location: City Hall, The Committee of the Whole
Staff Lead: Maya Wiley

6:30 - 7:00 PERSONNEL MEETING WITH JONATHAN SOTO
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's
Office

CITY HALL STEPS PRESS CONFERENCES

To be updated.

FLONYC SCHEDULE

1:45 - 2:30 MAYOR'S FUND BOARD OF DIRECTORS MEETING
3:00 - 5:00 RPC EXECUTIVE COUNCIL MEETING
6:00 - 7:00 QUEENS FEEDBACK SESSION WITH GARY BELKIN

Michael Paul Carey
Director of Scheduling and Advance
City Hall
New York, New York 10007
212.341.5396

From: B
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Re: The New Yorker on Renzi
Date: Sunday, June 28, 2015 8:22:01 PM

Indeed! And I'll explain why it's relevant when I see you tmrw night

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Sunday, June 28, 2015 03:13 PM
To: B
Subject: Re: The New Yorker on Renzi

Fascinating account

From: Bill de Blasio <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Saturday, June 27, 2015 at 6:58 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Fw: The New Yorker on Renzi

Pls read this. I want to discuss this with you before I go on my trip. I see some things to do, and many more NOT to do, in Renzi's approach. Are you around the next few days?

From: Klein, Monica
Sent: Wednesday, June 24, 2015 07:14 PM
To: B
Subject: The New Yorker on Renzi

The New Yorker is now trying to answer our question, with a 10,000 word piece--

The Demolition Man

THE NEW YORKER - Jane Kramer - June 29, 2015 Issue
Matteo Renzi is on a mission to remake Italy.

Early this year, Matteo Renzi invited Angela Merkel to Florence for a tête-à-tête at the Romanesque guild-priory known since the Renaissance as the Palazzo Vecchio and now its city hall. Renzi comes from Florence and, like most Florentines, he is devoted to the city, which in his case elected him mayor in 2009, when he was thirty-four, and nurtured the native Machiavellian wiles that five years later brought him to Rome, at thirty-nine, as the youngest Prime Minister since Italy became Italy, in 1861. In Rome, the art of politics could be described as nets and tridents. Not Renzi's style. In Florence, where the Renaissance charm of the city and the Renaissance stealth of its population still hold sway, Renzi is a master of both, so it isn't surprising that late last year, when Merkel confessed that she'd visited Florence only once, he asked her to come again, this time as his guest. The papers called the invitation the Prime Minister's charm offensive. Renzi, who had hoped for Merkel's blessing on his requests to the European Commission for the time and financial flexibility to rescue the beleaguered economy he inherited, put it this way: "Dostoyevsky wrote that beauty will save the world. Let's see if it can save Europe, too." (Not precisely. It was part of an insolent question posed to the eponymous hero of "The Idiot.")

Renzi and Merkel are the European Union's odd couple. Like Ruth Bader Ginsburg and Antonin Scalia, they get along. They enjoy each other's company, and, if their unlikely friendship includes a large measure of amusement and incredulity, they are well matched when it comes to the steel behind the strategic courtesies that each deploys. Merkel, unflappable and seemingly untouchable after ten years as Chancellor of the Continent's biggest economic power, is Europe's reigning austerity hawk, and pretty much calls the shots in Brussels. Renzi, who at the time of his invitation was entering his eleventh month in office, was still known abroad mainly for his youth, for the jeans and sneakers he wears to meetings, and for the barbed tweets with which he documents his uphill battle to solve Italy's social woes and persistent fiscal crises. He had produced an ambitious package of reforms, and kept the budget deficit at a safe, if hovering, three per cent of the country's G.D.P. (Any E.U. member with a higher deficit risks sanctions from Brussels.) Now he needed to finance the kind of infrastructural, technological, and economic innovations that would create new jobs and generate enough investment and enthusiasm to put Italy, the third-largest economy in the euro zone, back into what he calls the "European conversation." By January, he was well on the way to success: Jean-Claude Juncker, the president of the European Commission, had announced a plan to release some three hundred billion euros to the zone's qualifying states for what was prudently called investment with scrutiny; and Mario Draghi, the president of the European Central Bank (and the former governor of the Bank of Italy), had signed off on another plan, designed to kick-start recovery for those states, with a stimulus package of a trillion euros. Merkel, with a seemingly balanced budget, was resigned, but she did not approve.

Renzi, with his press secretary and diplomatic adviser in tow, pulled up at the gate of a military terminal on the edge of Ciampino, Rome's city airport, to fly to Florence. He was running a couple of hours late, and when I joined him on the small government plane idling on the runway he was still dressed in his work uniform of jeans and a rumpled white shirt, open at the neck. We talked through the flight, or, rather, Renzi talked. He was excited about Merkel's visit, and kept interrupting himself to come back to it. He has what could be called a peripatetic mind and, like any good performer, he uses it to keep you on the edge of your seat, not asking inconvenient questions, and also, perhaps, to impress himself when he's about to confront an obstacle in his path. The obstacle that night was Merkel, and the goal, he told me, was "changing the narrative of Europe through art." Renzi tries out aphorisms the way other men do ties. The last time we had talked, it was "changing the story of Europe through art."

Renzi was still practicing—"The future of Europe is not tomorrow, it is today!"—as the plane began its descent into Florence's airport. He looked at his watch, jumped up, and disappeared into the pilot's bathroom to change into a suit and comb his hair. We got to the Palazzo Vecchio just in time for him to race up four hundred and sixteen ceremonial steps, check out the crowd of notable waiting inside, and race back down to collect the Chancellor when she stepped, smiling, out of a modest consular car, dressed in black trousers and, under a plain black coat, a pretty, off-the-rack yellow jacket—as if to suggest that hers was the beauty of fiscal thrift.

Merkel seemed pleased, if somewhat bemused, by the red-carpet and costumed-honor-guard welcome she received. Renzi escorted her up to the palazzo and introduced her to the assembled locals, and, after a decent Instagram interval, they vanished into a private room for their conversation on the subject of saving Europe. An hour later, they emerged and were joined by a small group of advisers, representing his and her side of the spending divide—after which their talk morphed into a Tuscan feast, served at a table set in solitary splendor in the middle of a vast and otherwise empty hall. At ten, everyone walked next door, to the Uffizi, for an after-hours tour. Renzi, as proud as a new father, expounded on the beauty of Botticelli's "The Birth of Venus." Merkel stole back into the gallery alone, minutes later, and headed for the early Leonardo "Annunciation." The evening ended at eleven, with Merkel leaving for her hotel and Renzi and a few friends disappearing down a small street for an espresso at his favorite Florence hangout. He had officiated at the owner's wedding, to her barista, back in the days when he would bike to city hall and people greeted him on the street with a "Ciao, sindaco!"

The next morning, there was a press conference in the Michelangelo gallery of the Academy of Florence, and the beauty on offer was "David," slingshot at hand—fourteen ravishing feet of marble ready to take on Goliath. Merkel congratulated Renzi on his promise to "turbo-charge" his reforms. She joked that he brought her "progress reports" whenever they met, and said she had "no doubt that what Matteo proposes will be implemented"—all the while reminding him that, from Germany's point of view, it was up to entrepreneurs, not states, to promote jobs. Renzi, for his part, said that while he and the Chancellor "may not always have the same opinions" on the virtue of frugality over growth, "the symbols of compromise are important"—by which he meant that Germany risked isolating itself in Europe by its unbending fiscal rigor. In the end, it was a draw and a gracious goodbye. It has to be said that Merkel flew home to Berlin looking uncommonly reassured that Italy wasn't Greece.

Italians who admire Matteo Renzi call him "our best hope." More skeptical Italians say, "Well, maybe our only hope." The Western press hedges its bets with "brash" but "confident." And his enemies use the term il rottamatore, the demolition man. Renzi agrees with his enemies. "I'm the scrapper," he told me. "I'm cleaning up the swamp." He meant the waste, the deadly bureaucracy, the notoriously padded ranks of Italy's public administration, the unemployment now at forty per cent among the country's youth, the outrageously slow pace of the justice system, the culture of cronyism, political perks and payoffs, tax evasion, casual everyday criminality, and open cheating—not to mention the various mafias, from the Cosa Nostra to the Camorra and the 'Ndrangheta, that still hold much of the economy of the South (and not a little of the North) in thrall. "We love Italy, I think you love Italy, everybody loves Italy," Renzi had told the Council on Foreign Relations one morning last September, during a trip to New York for the opening of the United Nations session. "This is the risk for my country." The risk has been that, for Italians, loving Italy is a way of saying, We're used to the swamp we have, we know our way around in it—why bet on a future that might be worse?

"They love their past, their present, but they need a vision and an explanation of their future—in the possibility of a future," Renzi told me that night, flopping onto a couch in the living room of his hotel suite. It was nearly ten hours since I'd heard him speak at the C.F.R., and he was exhausted from a day of interviews and speeches but waiting up for a call from the French President. "The mentality of Italy has to change, because reforms aren't possible without everybody's participation. We're a young team—we want to invest in the new generation—but we're not simply a young team. Youth is the man of whatever age who risks believing in the possibility of change."

Renzi had moved into the Palazzo Chigi, the Prime Minister's official residence, with a to-do list. "A reform a month," he promised. He was going to radically change the labor market in Italy, with a Jobs Act that would offer financial protection for new, young workers while, at the same time, giving employers the right (a first for Italy) to lay off any workers in cases of economic pressure, with no obligation to rehire them; reduce the maddening ineptness of public administration; reform the justice system to shorten the process for civil cases; remake a parliament swollen to more than a thousand extravagantly paid members; generate foreign investment, then running at half the E.U. average; confront corruption with "values"; rewrite the election laws to produce a majority-rules system; and, of course, wrest "the story of Europe" from Angela Merkel. In January last year, a month before he became Prime Minister—with the hard-core labor wing of his center-left Democratic Party already stonewalling but with much of Italy distracted by his infectious litany of transformation—he struck a deal with Silvio Berlusconi that would help get his reforms passed.

Berlusconi was Italy's Prime Minister three times in the seventeen years between 1994 and 2011. He spent nine of those years in office—thanks in large part to Forza Italia, the party he founded, and funded with his own money, in order to protect a financial empire that had made him Italy's richest man. (His fortune now stands at $7.6 billion.) As Prime Minister, he was also its most legally unaccountable man. He was not solely responsible for the "swamp," but given that, in office, he controlled ninety per cent of the country's media—his own private media monopoly, Mediaset, and RAI, the state radio and television networks—he could celebrate his insouciant immunity and, more to the point, make it glamorous and entertaining. That running joke came to a halt in 2011, when Italy's sovereign debt rose to $2.6 trillion and Berlusconi, losing a vote of confidence in parliament, had to resign from office. Two years later, after dozens of criminal investigations, he was banned from politics when a tax-fraud case, dating from the year of his resignation, became the first of his lower-court convictions to be whisked through the appeals process, and upheld, before the statute of limitations could kick in. (Given the state of Italy's justice system, two years counted as overnight.)

When Renzi took over the government, Berlusconi was about to start serving a suspended sentence that obliged him to devote four hours a week to community service, tending Alzheimer's patients at a nursing home near Milan. Many of his parliamentary deputies had defected by then and formed their own party, the New Center Right—they vote in a coalition with Renzi's party now, and one of them, Angelino Alfano, is his interior minister. But the rest of Forza Italia remained a considerable presence in both houses of parliament, ready to do Berlusconi's bidding.

Renzi's deal with Berlusconi was negotiated at Democratic Party headquarters, on the Largo del Nazareno, with a Democratic deputy named Lorenzo Guerini representing Renzi and Gianni Letta, Berlusconi's longtime éminence grise, representing the other side. It quickly became known as the Nazarene Pact, and though it was never published or even, presumably, written down, no one denied what was in it. Berlusconi pledged Forza Italia's support for two of Renzi's key reforms. One involved transforming the country's chaotic version of a proportional electoral process into what Roberto d'Alimonte, a well-regarded political scientist who had helped draft the reform for Renzi, called a simple "majority-assuring system": the party whose list of candidates won at least forty per cent of the vote would get fifty-four per cent of the seats in parliament, and could form a government of its own; if no party won forty per cent, the two lists with the most votes would compete in a runoff, and the winner would get the government. Renzi put it this way when we last talked: "In Germany, Angela Merkel was forced to have a grand-coalition government. I joke with Angela that, with my electoral law, she could be Chancellor free and clear."

The second reform involved amending Italy's postwar constitution, a document desperately, if understandably, democratic in its intended checks and balances. No new law could be enacted unless or until both the Camera (the chamber of deputies) and the Senate agreed to the same document, with exactly the same wording—one reason that Italy has been left endlessly recycling old Prime Ministers through a series of unstable new alliances. (Renzi's is the sixty-third government in sixty-nine years.) Renzi's idea was to abolish the Senate in its present role, transforming it, greatly reduced in size, into an assembly in some ways similar to the German Bundesrat. It would deal mainly with regional affairs, play no part in the creation (or the collapse) of the country's governments, and leave the important national legislation in the Camera's hands.

In return, Berlusconi expected a say in the selection of the country's next President. The Italian Presidency is a largely ceremonial post, but in times of crisis the President has critically important powers. He (there has never been a she) has the right to dissolve parliament and call for immediate elections or, alternately, to appoint a new Prime Minister to form a government and serve until the current five-year election cycle ends—which, in fact, is how Renzi got the job. The President also has the right to grant pardons and commute sentences, which in Berlusconi's case would possibly lift his ban, at least until the next conviction. (This spring, Berlusconi went on trial again, in Naples, charged with bribery.) Given that in January of 2014 the President, Giorgio Napolitano, was eighty-eight and longing to retire, and that Berlusconi, a surgically youthful seventy-seven, was longing for a comeback, Renzi got his pact.

In one sense, the pact could be seen as an American-style crossing of the aisle, but it amounted to revolution in a country where ideology had long taken precedence over accommodation. Renzi faced the inevitable backlash from the left of his party with a shrug and a few choice words, knowing, perhaps, that in the matter of craftiness he was miles ahead of the man whom no politician in Italy had ever managed to outfox before. ("Whom should I have talked to? Dudù?" he demanded. Dudù is a miniature poodle owned by Berlusconi's girlfriend.)

While the left cried betrayal and Berlusconi cheerfully waited for absolution, Renzi quietly pushed the Presidential candidacy of a Constitutional Court justice named Sergio Mattarella, who, at seventy-four, had spent his life battling Italy's criminal classes and their political allies, Berlusconi among them. (Mattarella's older brother, a reform governor of Sicily, was gunned down by the Sicilian Mob in 1980, at the age of forty-five.) When it was all over, the Democrats' recalcitrant leftists fell in line behind Mattarella, and then it was Berlusconi who cried betrayal. Mattarella became President in January this year. The Nazarene Pact is a thing of the past, but so, it appears, is Berlusconi.

Renzi isn't much of a reader. It's unlikely that he keeps "The Prince" on his night table, but somewhere along the way to the Chigi Palace he learned one lesson from the wiliest Florentine of them all: a leader takes no prisoners where his ambition to rule wisely is at stake. There is no doubt that Renzi wants to save Italy from itself, or that he considers himself the only person who can do that. At home, he goes on the attack. "Plots, secrets, fake scoops, bollocks, and backward thinking: it takes just one night of watching television to understand Italy's talk-show crisis" was one of his tweets at the end of January. A month later, he announced a plan to transform the compromised state media networks into an independent public corporation chartered on the order of the BBC. He reserves his homilies for inspirational speeches and the foreign press.

"I come from two experiences," he told me one afternoon in Rome. One involved the four years he spent refereeing amateur soccer games, in Florence as a young man, and having to think on his feet and "to decide in seconds: this is the foul, this is the red card." The other involved his fifteen years as a Boy Scout, developing a passion for public service—"for the res publica" is how he put it. You would have to add Catholicism to that short, formative list. In Italy, the Boy Scouts are not just tents and trails. They are under the aegis of the Church.

Renzi was born into a devout Catholic family. His father, Tiziano, is a Florence businessman who for years was a Christian Democratic assemblyman, and Matteo himself is a churchgoing Catholic, married to a like-minded schoolteacher and former Girl Scout whose brother is a priest. Roberto Cociancich, a Milan lawyer and Democratic Party senator, met Renzi when he signed up for a Boy Scout leadership-training camp that Cociancich was running in Tuscany. "Matteo was twenty then," he told me. "There were forty people training in the camp, but after a couple of days I knew that this young man was somebody special. He was brilliant, capable—so capable that I asked him to join my training team. In the Scouts, we put a lot of emphasis on becoming good citizens. Our mission is to produce leaders, and we see the political life as an instrument for this. So I urged him to consider that life. In 2013, he called me and said, 'Twenty years ago, you told me to choose a political life. Now it's your turn'—so I ran for the Senate, and here I am."

Renzi likes to quote his mother—an obligatory male ritual in Italy. He says that she used to tell him stories about Robert Kennedy "fighting for justice in the sixties, in America," and that she always ended those stories with the words "Matteo, fight!" His communal spirit as a young leader seems to have done little to dampen that imperative. His easy camaraderie notwithstanding, he grew up with an appetite for the fray and a mean competitive streak. At nineteen, he was a contestant on Italy's version of "Wheel of Fortune." He was a little chubby then, and his getup was provincial (brown suit, big wide-knotted tie), but he won three weeks in a row before being beaten, and took home some thirty thousand euros in prize money. At twenty-seven, he left the small party where he had been provincial secretary to become the local leader of the Daisy, a center-left coalition that in 2007 merged into the fractious ranks of the newly created Democratic Party. At twenty-nine, he was elected president of Florence's provincial council. Five years later, he decided to run for mayor. When he won the Democrats' nomination and then the election, he softened the blow to a friend named Dario Nardella, who had apparently hoped to be mayor himself, by appointing him as his deputy mayor and obvious successor. "Matteo is committed and tough, but it's to lead, not to control,” Cociancich said. Actually, it’s both.

Renzi was the third Prime Minister appointed by Giorgio Napolitano in the years since Berlusconi left office, in 2011. The others were “technocrats,” a euphemism for “experts in another life.” The well-known economist and former European Commissioner Mario Monti was brought in first, to tackle the mounting debt crisis that Berlusconi had failed to manage. Two years later, Monti made the mistake of running in the national elections—with no political base beyond Civic Choice, the small party he had patched together to support him—and was trounced. Enrico Letta came next. He lasted ten months before Napolitano replaced him. Letta was directing a think tank when we first met, in 2007. Eight years later, he described his months at the Chigi to me this way: “I wasn’t a ‘communicator.’ I didn’t run an administration of a hundred-and-forty-character bites.” Renzi’s public assault on Letta began with a condescending tweet: “Stay calm! Nobody wants your job.” The message was clear. The next day, Letta drove to the Quirinale to offer his resignation to Napolitano. By evening, Renzi was Prime Minister.

Renzi’s plan then was to move to general elections quickly. He wanted fresh and appealing faces in his cabinet, to signal the end of those old pols, laundered and recycled through most of the governments that preceded his. Predictably, he opted for youth and women—the obvious appealing things. (Renzi told me that the average age of his cabinet was forty-seven; eight of the sixteen ministers he appointed were women.) It worked. A few months later, riding the wave of Renzi’s popularity, the Democratic Party won forty-one per cent of the vote in Italy’s European parliamentary election. It was a spectacular victory for Renzi—better than any Italian party had done in any election since 1946, and certainly enough of a mandate to free him from the risks of calling general elections at home. He bought the time to negotiate his reforms.

“Renzi is a pure politician, one of the toughest I’ve seen in years,” Franco Bernabe, the chairman of the Italian financial-advisory boutique FB Group and a former head of ENI, the state energy company, and Telecom Italia, told me. “He picks up very quickly on the essence of power. He’s not very deep intellectually, but he has a fantastic ability to take up and absorb good ideas. He had only local experience when he came to Rome, but he already had a European agenda, he understood completely the problems of Italy, and he could get that message across. Monti had failed spectacularly at that, and Letta even worse. I, of course, welcomed a man with the right vision and understanding, and if he didn’t listen to every old pol, so what? He was anxious to get rid of that older generation. They would happily have got rid of him.”

In Florence, Renzi had been immensely popular as mayor. He halved the size of an overstuffed city council, installed free Wi-Fi centers across the town, and increased the budget for social services and preschools. He found patrons for art projects and exhibits like “Sculpture in the Age of Donatello,” which spent this spring at the Museum of Biblical Art, in New York. He also closed Florence’s Renaissance city center to traffic. The tour buses disappeared. It was a change that tapped into the pride that Florentines take in their history. It also meant that the center could be reclaimed, or at least shared, by the natives. (Renzi, who revered Steve Jobs, told me that Jobs liked to compare the two great Renaissances: Florence and Apple.)

But what really made Renzi’s national reputation were the Leopolda, annual public conclaves that he inaugurated a year after his election, on the advice of his deputy mayor for culture, in a converted nineteenth-century railway station of the same name. The Leopolda were all-day happenings on the order of a political human be-in. Thousands of people came to talk and listen. The only rule was that everyone had to say whatever he or she wanted to say in five minutes or less.

Edoardo Nesi, a Tuscan writer and filmmaker who has been a deputy in the Camera for the past two and a half years, got to know Renzi in Florence, after Renzi talked about his book “Story of My People” at the first Leopolda. The book was a memoir, about the small family fabric factory that Nesi ran briefly and had to sell when competition from China began forcing Tuscany’s old fabric-makers out of business; it got a lot of attention in Italy because of its evocation of people fighting for dying local traditions in a global world. Nesi called Renzi to thank him. “Matteo said, ‘Come to the next Leopolda and talk,’ ” Nesi told me. “So I did. Four or five thousand people were there that day, listening and talking, and the idea of something like that, something political, starting from the people—it confirmed my feeling that Matteo was necessary for Italy. It was his idea that Italy had to change, that Italy had been living for years concentrating on its past without connecting to its future, that Italy was in decadence.” I asked Nesi why he’d run for parliament, and he said, “I had this feeling that Italy was up for grabs, this feeling of urgency and fear, so I thought it was good to give a little of my time to public service—and also because this moment, in Italy, this is fantastic material for a writer!”

It’s been said that Renzi’s “Rome” is the elevator between his office on the first floor of the Palazzo Chigi and his official apartment on the third. His wife, Agnese Landini, remains in Florence, where their three children go to public school, and where Landini teaches Latin and Italian in a classical public high school. Most weekends, Renzi flies home to see them. They are rarely together at the Chigi. On the few occasions when the family spends a weekend in Rome, Renzi joins them at a seventeenth-century villa in a tranquil, outlying Roman park which for years has served as one of the Prime Minister’s official retreats.

“It’s fifty minutes on the plane, and I’m home,” Renzi told me, talking about his commute to Florence. “And that way I avoid the risks in bringing my family here. In Florence, they can continue a traditional life. A year ago, I didn’t have secret service. I used my bike. I talked quietly to citizens on the street. Now that’s over for me, but I want that same freedom for them. This job is an incredible responsibility. But this chair I’m sitting in—it isn’t the center of my life, but at this moment I work for my country. I’m focussed on changing my country. I feel the emotion of innovation, of the lab.” A minute later, he was recommending his “innovation video”—highlights from a whirlwind trip he’d made to Silicon Valley in the fall—which in turn reminded him that “Pope Francis decided to speak to the European Parliament on November 23rd, during my presidency of Europe.” (The presidency of the Council of the European Union is a rotating six-month post; Italy gets another turn in fourteen years.) Renzi counts that speech as an endorsement—a reform Pope and a reform Prime Minister in synch in their excoriations of church and state. He is an ardent Francis fan. He said that after the Pope warned Catholics that their “moral responsibility” did not include breeding “like rabbits,” the first thing he did was to call a prolifically procreating friend and tell him, “You can stop now!”]

Renzi, in a widely circulated op-ed in the Times in April, called Triton “dramatically inadequate.” He pleaded with Europe to take on its humanitarian share, pointing out that Triton's budget was a fraction of Mare Nostrum's, and amounted to only forty million euros out of the yearly E.U. budget of a hundred and forty-five billion. Less than a month later, the European Commission proposed a formula involving an emergency refugee-quota system for each of its member states, based on the state's size, solvency, unemployment figures, and pending asylum claims. Its future is uncertain. (Britain, France, and Spain have already refused to participate.) Today, with human trafficking fast becoming one of Libya's only profitable businesses, and refugees still arriving in huge numbers—upward of fifty thousand so far this year, not to mention the more than seventeen hundred and fifty who drowned trying, including eight hundred in a single day—the burden for Italy is undeniable. Last month, the Italian police arrested a Moroccan man who had entered Italy with a boatload of refugees in February and was now wanted for providing “logistical support” to the massacre at a museum in Tunis in March.

At the beginning of this year, Italy's sovereign debt—moneys owed by the state to all public and private lenders—was 2.16 trillion euros. Monti had tried to stem the debt with rigorous “European” measures, and failed. Letta had simply failed. Now it's Renzi's turn. None of his other reforms will mean much unless he can turn around the fiscal and economic crises he inherited. Napolitano is said to have put one condition on appointing him, and that was that Renzi choose a finance minister with international experience and standing. At the time, the most that anyone knew about Renzi's economic views was his belief in what could be called global capitalism as a transformative—which is to say, potentially progressive—force for social and economic change. He was said to be getting economic advice from a Democratic Party deputy named Yoram Gutgeld, a veteran of twenty-four years with the growth-management giant McKinsey, and trying it out on one of his closest friends in Florence, Marco Carrai—a successful young businessman and investor whom, as mayor, he had installed as president of the Florence Airport. Carrai is not an economist. Among other pursuits, he is developing security technology in Israel, and he shares Renzi's strong support for the country in an increasingly dismissive Europe.

Renzi made his decision quickly. The man he tapped for the ministry of finance and the economy was Pier Carlo Padoan, a sixty-five-year-old veteran of the International Monetary Fund and the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development, where he was the chief economist and deputy secretary-general. He came to the job with no political agenda but with a lot of good will from Europe, and a strong sense of the problems he was about to face.

“My view of what needs to be done is to address a combination of three problems that have been rigid impediments to our growth,” Padoan told me. “And we need to do that now. One is boosting growth through tax cuts for both companies and households. Another, of course, is supporting innovation.” (Renzi, returning from his “innovation” trip to California, had promised Italy its own Silicon Valley.) “And the third is introducing the kind of structural reforms that could lead to a new European Code—one that specified that countries implementing sound reforms could benefit from an allowance if the investment involved was seen as promoting incentive and growth.” He said that the budget law under discussion would “change the logic by which public money is used.” And the ongoing tax reforms would not only simplify taxes but “change the taxpayer's relation” to the taxes he has to pay, which is to say that tax evasion—a national pastime that Berlusconi decriminalized in 2002 and Renzi recriminalized this year—has been redefined to include the off-the-books jobs that are said to account for up to twenty per cent of Italy's economy.

Padoan was expected to have a tempering effect on Renzi, but Renzi is a notorious micromanager. "Oops, there's a text from Mr. Renzi, he always texts," Padoan said, a few minutes into our conversation, texting back. Minutes later, he got a second text. He answered it, and not much later his cell phone rang. He took the call, laughing. "It's Mr. Renzi again," he told me. "It's normal. That's Renzi."

Then, too, Padoan's instincts are incremental: first Italy, then the world. Renzi's are the world. In December, he added Andrea Guerra—the former C.E.O. of Luxottica, the global eyewear company that owns Ray-Ban—to his Chigi team of senior economic advisers. The team is led by a like-minded state secretary for international economic affairs named Marco Simoni, whom Renzi met when Simoni, a young professor at the London School of Economics, came to speak at the first Leopolda. "The paradox is that, in the past, Italy passed plenty of economic reforms, but they were badly conceived and badly executed," Simoni told me. "There was no defense of income, no economic protection. We are definitely free market. But unlike Mrs. Thatcher—she's the example we use in England—we want growth and social justice, and the fact is that countries that have externalized more, that have looked to the huge developing markets in India, China, South America, end up with a better, fairer economy at home. Our point? You can't divorce your national and international agenda. It's one single polity now."

Lucia Annunziata, who covered national politics for Corriere della Sera and, in 2012, became the editor of the new Huffington Post Italia, says that Renzi's stories are a constructed life, a way to enforce his image as a gentle knight on a noble crusade, with none of the vices that Italians have come to expect in their politicians. In fact, he has very few. He isn't a womanizer. He isn't corrupt, or even, by all reports, interested in money. One of his first appointments was Raffaele Cantone, a Naples magistrate who had heroically pursued the Camorra for twenty years. Renzi created an anti-corruption authority for Cantone—three hundred men and women working together from Rome to dismantle a system so criminally interconnected that Cantone described their job to me as "an unending process." Renzi gave Cantone carte blanche and his office an independent charter. "I am not a friend," Cantone, who barely knew Renzi when he took the job, told me. "I appreciate him. At the beginning, he asked me only one thing. He said, 'Raffaele, if someone calls you in my name and asks something, or asks for something, don't do it!'"

Renzi's one vice may be his keen interest in controlling what he would call "the narrative" of his entitlement. Annunziata, who admired the Prime Minister at first, now counts herself a Renzi skeptic. "He has that Bill Clinton look," she told me. "The one where he looks deep into your eyes, promising everything, and all of a sudden the look goes over your shoulder to the next person. There was always a mystery to him. He had the sagacity to know that his moment had come. He knew the extent to which Rome was rotten, and he was good at picking up on the old age and bankruptcy of the Democratic Party—that Italy was still all about postwar politics, left and right. He felt accurately the resentment in Italy, the stagnation. So he swooped down." Like a knight? I asked her. "Like the Vandals," she said.

Like any politician, Renzi courts the journalists who praise him and gives wide berth to the ones who don't. But most reporters in Rome will tell you that Renzi has two governments—his official cabinet and house advisers and his Chigi kitchen cabinet of Tuscan strategists, otherwise known as the giglio magico, or magic lily, for the flower on Catherine de' Medici's coat of arms—and that access to the latter is blocked. (It was to me.) The one exception seems to have been a reporter from Il Foglio, a weekly paper with close ties to Berlusconi, who described the after-hours Chigi as a place in glorious disarray, where the young Tuscans are busy running Italy, barefoot in T-shirts, eating takeout pizza.

There is nothing new about politicians trying out their ideas and tactics on friends whose loyalty is first and foremost to them, and whose discretion is a given. Barack Obama installed his Chicago cronies David Axelrod and Valerie Jarrett in the White House. David Cameron gave pride of place at 10 Downing Street to his plummy Eton crowd. The difference, with Renzi, is that his giglio magico remains an open secret, and no one can say for sure whether it is actually "running Italy" with him or simply running errands.

Some of the Tuscans in Renzi's kitchen cabinet are in his government, too—most famously Luca Lotti, a thirty-four-year-old under-secretary of state for publications, otherwise known as the Chigi's most accomplished fixer. (Lotti, whose wife was Renzi's secretary when he was mayor of Florence, was instrumental in arranging the meetings that produced the Nazarene Pact.) Another is Maria Elena Boschi, who studied law in Florence a few years after Renzi and is now, to mixed reviews, his minister for constitutional reform. And a third is said to be Francesco Bonifazi, a Florence lawyer and Democratic Party deputy who, with Lotti, is hoping to revive the defunct Communist daily L'Unita as a center-left "Renziani" newspaper. The others vary, depending on Renzi's enthusiasm and on whom you ask. "In the end, it's the inner circle that counts for Renzi," Franco Bernabe told me. "With the cabinet, 'young' or 'woman' didn't necessarily mean capable. . . . Some ministers performed, some didn't. The difference, with the Chigi group, is that Renzi trusts them"—which is to say, they perform for him.

Last fall, Renzi sent his first foreign minister, Federica Mogherini, to Brussels to become the new European high representative for foreign affairs and security policy, and today she and her replacement at the ministry, Paolo Gentiloni, have the difficult job of garnering European support for the possibility of Italian troops in Libya. ISIS is now a major player in Libya's civil war—which, as Renzi said when he first threatened to intervene, in February, puts terrorists two hours by boat from Italy's shores. During his first year in office, a hundred and seventy thousand refugees from the violence in Africa and the Middle East arrived on southern Italy's islands, most of them plucked from the sea by Italian Navy ships, or from the sinking rubber boats of their Libyan traffickers. The ships were part of a humanitarian patrol-and-rescue mission called Mare Nostrum (Our Sea), which Letta's government initiated in the fall of 2013, and which Renzi had to cancel a year later, under pressure from his coalition and, more significant, from E.U. members who argued that the success of Mare Nostrum's rescue operation was actually encouraging migration: too much, at any rate, for a continent already packed with refugees and migrant workers to handle. The E.U. replaced Mare Nostrum with a much smaller operation called Triton, and confined it to sea and air patrolling—in other words, to deterrence. Whatever refugees it did rescue were deposited in Italy.

Italy's Democratic Party, in its new, "Renziani" incarnation—think Clinton-Blair for the twenty-first century—is a warring clan of former Communists, Socialists, Social Democrats, Christian Democrats, and liberal entrepreneurs, each faction circling the others warily and hoping they will go away. I sat in on the Party's board-of-directors meeting, on the Largo del Nazareno, late last winter. Renzi gave the opening speech. It covered the subjects he wanted to see discussed, from the attacks in Paris to the progress in Brussels, the construction-kickback scandals then surfacing in Milan, the parliamentary chaos that had left one house debating electoral reform and the other public-administration reform, and, finally, the lazy pace of the Party's own discussions about those issues. "This isn't a joke; discussion is not 'optional,'" he said. But the only thing that most of the other speakers wanted to "discuss" was the result of a regional primary election in Liguria that Renzi's handpicked reform candidate had won and his opposition on the left—having forced, and lost, a recount—was still protesting. Some twenty board members stood up, one by one, and presented mind-numbing catalogues of their complaints. Renzi listened for three hours, texting and typing notes, and then he looked over the notes he'd made and responded to each complaint in increasingly exasperated detail. But his closing message was succinct: No more Liguria; Liguria is over. Let's practice being united. Stop blocking my electoral reforms, and let the party that can win this—that's us—govern.

"I keep saying, 'Matteo, you have to run, run, run for the solution, because if you run fast the solution to your problem comes,'" Renzi's friend and arguably most colorful supporter, Oscar Farinetti, the paterfamilias of the Eataly food-emporium empire, told me a few days later. "Matteo and I are both so busy, but in the morning, at six, we text. For six months, it's been about the eighty-euro thing." He was talking about an eighty-euro-a-month tax credit that Renzi started giving to low-paid workers last year, hoping to stimulate spending; by all indications, they were saving the money instead. "Matteo asks, 'How about Eataly? Is business growing?' At first, I had to say 'No!' But suddenly, in December, I could say 'Yes!' People started spending, and they haven't stopped. I tell him, 'Matteo, humans aren't perfect. To manage the imperfection, you have to keep at it.'"

When Renzi talks about his enemies, first among equals is always his own left wing. "My opposition on the left is an ideological one," he once told me. "I don't think it's important to discuss anything with them anymore." He is far more comfortable with his center-left, center-right coalition, perhaps because, in the end, he likes the idea of "center" best. But his enemies list remains long. There are still Berlusconi loyalists in parliament, though by all reports that loyalty is fizzling now. More seriously disruptive are the comedian Beppe Grillo's Five Star Movement, on the populist left, and Matteo Salvini's new "national" Lega party, on the populist right, both competing for the same anti-Europe, anti-immigrant votes. They keep Renzi busy, however undaunted he claims to be.

Grillo founded his gadfly party in 2009, and the fans who had flocked to his standup act now flock to his rallies in the Piazza del Popolo. "I'm a performer, and when there's a strategy I know it," he told me. "Renzi says, 'I did this, we did that,' and people think he's the last chance for Italy, but, no, he's the last chance for the bankers." It was hard to tell whether Grillo was railing against the notion of a transformative capitalism or about the fact that Renzi, who had begun to unblock the country's electoral system by abolishing state subsidies for political parties, was raising money for his own party from investment bankers and financiers (among them James Pallotta, the American hedge-fund manager and now the president of the soccer team A.S. Roma). Grillo's party, which is mainly a volunteer Internet operation, has little or no money. It also happens to be the second-largest party in the Camera, although its power to do anything besides filibuster is nonexistent. Grillo forbids his deputies to enter into a coalition, and even removes the ones who disagree with him. (In a way, Renzi owes his job to Grillo, who refused to form a governing coalition with the Democrats after the parliamentary elections in 2013, when their party leader was the labor-left politician Pier Luigi Bersani.)

David Allegranti, a young journalist in Rome, told me, “Grillo as a threat? Come on! There are Grillo deputies who believe in mermaids; there are deputies who believe that the jet streams you see in the sky are chemical weapons!” Allegranti, who comes from Florence and has written two books about Renzi, said that the Prime Minister cultivates his image as a man beleaguered by crazies because it makes him seem “more essential” to saving Italy. Maybe. Last year, Grillo made the perhaps inevitable mistake of allying his Five Star Movement with Britain’s far-right United Kingdom Independence Party, in an attempt, eventually thwarted, to form a secessionist bloc in the European Parliament. People quickly predicted that he would self-destruct. They were wrong.

Then there is “the other Matteo”—Matteo Salvini—and his “new” Lega. In the days when Lega was the powerful junior partner in Berlusconi’s coalition, it was known as Lega Nord. Its cause was separatism—Italy as a federation of fiscally independent regions—the idea being to free the prosperous North from having to pay the bills of an impoverished and, as Salvini puts it, “culturally different” South. Salvini, who took over Lega Nord in 2013 (a year and a half after its founder, Umberto Bossi, came under investigation for siphoning large amounts of party money to restore his house, an allegation he denied), has a bigger canvas. “I wish all the bad possible for Renzi’s reform plan,” he told me, on a call from Milan. “As for Angela Merkel, I say, ‘Brava!’ for trying to defend the interests of Germany in Europe, but we are not interested in Europe. We are interested in Italy.” To that end, he has dropped the Nord from most of his speeches and has gone national with the Party. He said that the growth of Lega in central Italy had persuaded him to “coördinate all Italy” under an anti-Europe and anti-immigration banner. (“Only qualified immigration” is how he pitched this to me.) He has found a champion in France’s Marine Le Pen and her ur-Nationalist allies in Austria and Holland, and dismisses Grillo as “much too soft on immigration.” (Grillo wants Italy out of Europe more than he wants immigrants out of Italy.)

Renzi’s concern is that terrorists now fighting over Libya could slip into Italy, undetected, in the boatloads of refugees trying to flee them. Salvini’s concern is that anyone arrives at all. He claimed that there were “twenty-five hundred Islamic cultural centers and mosques in Lombardy” alone, and talked about veiled women all over the housing projects and a proliferation of Islamist media and schools. He called it a transformation “such as we have never seen before.” In February—heartened, he says, by the support for Lega in central Italy—he launched his campaign for the South, where xenophobia can be fuelled by ignorance, fear, and racist propaganda in pretty much equal measure.

I went to Strasbourg to speak last year, during my E.U. presidency, and Grillo’s people were shouting ‘Mafia!’ at me, and, when I mentioned Dante Alighieri, Salvini started mocking art,” Renzi told me. He talked about listening to Obama’s State of the Union address, and how much he “appreciated the respect” that the President got. (If he had watched it instead, and seen the Tea Party contingent smirking, he might have thought again.) “This year, I will change Italy or change jobs,” Renzi said, not for the first time. “The far left is not in a position to stop my government, only to vote against it and call strikes. But the people know that this is the moment when Italy must change. The old Democratic Party got twenty-five per cent of the vote in the last national elections, but, remember, my Democratic Party got forty-one per cent in the European elections last year—that's sixteen percentage points in one year."

Renzi complains about the left as often as he dismisses it. For all his bravado, he is easily aggrieved, a quality he shares with Berlusconi and, like Berlusconi, uses to elicit sympathy and support. Sergio Rizzo is an investigative journalist for Corriere della Sera and the co-author of "La Casta," a best-selling book about the extravagant corruption of Italy's political classes. He told me, "I think that Renzi can change the politics here, I really do, but the serious problems are that he's very close to power, and, more important, that he tolerates only people around him who agree with him. He doesn't take well to being crossed. Now when he has an announcement to make he doesn't make it to his party; he goes on television instead."

Carlo Freccero, who once ran Berlusconi's French television channel La Cinq and came home to run a channel for him at RAI, calls Renzi "Berlusconi 2.0"—someone who grasps completely the extent to which, in Italy, politics is theatre and successful politics is a one-man show. It's a tradition as old as the Roman emperors, with their triumphal parades and eviscerating circuses. Mussolini emulated it for twenty years, with dire consequences for the country. Berlusconi turned it into opera buffa, was in office longer than any other Italian Prime Minister, and ended up in court. "In one way, Renzi is a monument to Berlusconi," Freccero told me. "He is a man of spectacle, of entertainment. He knows that 'communications' today is a trompe-l'oeil, and he's embraced the reality of that, and the language of that. It's a ritornello, a continual refrain: 'Be America! Be the future! Take back the narrative of Europe! Compete!' He wants to be every Italian's selfie."

Giuliano Ferrara, who founded Il Foglio and edited the paper until this year, said, "There's something very psychological between Renzi and Berlusconi. Berlusconi has no political heirs, so Renzi is the royal baby. When Renzi was mayor of Florence and Berlusconi was under siege by the magistrates, Renzi went to his home in Milan and had a very human meeting with him. I admired that. And when he became Prime Minister he said, in effect, 'I want to compete with you, not destroy you.' " That, of course, is what he is saying to Angela Merkel now.

Despite the populist filibusters and the grumbling of the ideological Old Guard, Renzi has managed to transform the political landscape of Italy in not much more than a year. On May 4th, his electoral law passed the Camera. The warnings before the voting had been strong. The editor of Corriere, referring to Francisco Franco, called Renzi a "young caudillo." The editor of La Repubblica called his bill "weakness, disguised as a show of strength." And one of the Democrats' rebel-left leaders, Giuseppe Civati, described it as "genetically modified Presidentialism" and promptly quit the Party, with plans to start a new one of his own. Inevitably, more defections followed, and several Democratic deputies let it be known that they would vote against the law. Renzi had turned the electoral vote into a vote of confidence; the balloting was secret. Most of the opposition parties—including, on Berlusconi's orders, Forza Italia—refused to vote or walked out. But the bill passed easily without them. After the votes were counted and the news went out (334 in favor, 61 opposed, 4 abstentions, 235 walkouts), it was clear that most Italians liked the prospect of electing governments that might actually last their five-year term. Corriere announced that Renzi "is today, and probably will be for a long time, unbeatable, unsinkable." The law is due to go into effect at the end of June, 2016, assuming that the Constitutional Court approves it.

Renzi, meanwhile, was making the television circuit. It's now likely that his constitutional-reform bill will go straight to a national referendum later next summer—and the Senate, which he had first planned to overhaul this summer, will be radically transformed by constitutional change. An early election could come next. But Renzi must have expected to take some knocks by then, and it turned out that he got them quickly, when, late last month, seven of Italy's twenty regions held elections.

In Liguria—which definitely wasn't "over"—the Democrats' left-labor wing ran its own, breakaway candidate, splitting the Party's vote, with the result that a coalition of the right took the region. And while the Party did win five of those seven regions, the vote was nowhere close to its benchmark forty-one per cent in Europe last year. The problem for Renzi was in part apathy. Voters in Italy tend to sit out local elections unless there's money or a grudge or a job or old loyalties at stake, but the low turnout also contained a message. Renzi may have promised the country too much, too fast, for any politician to deliver.

Renzi, who left the country on a "surprise visit" to Italian troops in Afghanistan as the election returns came in, called them "very positive," and produced a short statement saying, "We will push forward with even more determination in the process of renewing the Party and changing this country"—after which he ignored them. It wasn't the worst response. Employment was rising; growth projections, which had been negative since Italy's latest recession began, in 2012, were back above the zero line; and consumption, as Renzi put it after the G7 summit in Bavaria this month, was "showing signs of a reawakening." People can admit to being optimistic.

Earlier this year, I had asked Marianna Madia, Renzi's minister for public administration, how he did it, and she said, laughing, "Velocity and rupture!" When I put the question to Graziano Delrio, his former chief of staff at the Chigi (and now, in the wake of the construction scandals in Milan, his minister for infrastructure), he said that the mantra was: Decide, then we'll see. "We wanted to give a violent shock to the Italian system," he told me. "To the psychology, yes, to the culture, yes, but also to the economy, to labor, to business. And most important was that we started. We had a system based on nepotism and seniority. But our duty was to prepare our young people for taking power, and those young people didn't want to wait in line while the old system got worse and worse." A moment later, he added, "It's been quite difficult for us to forge a social contract in a country of so much adventurism and so little clarity in its institutions."

It may be that, in the end, Matteo Renzi's future in Italy depends on his future in Angela Merkel's Europe. Many of the politicians I talked to complained about their frustration in finding common ground with the E.U.'s northern states. "We are not the United States of Europe" is how Delrio put it, talking about the days when Jean Monnet and Robert Schuman, the union's founding fathers, could look to carbon and steel as the way to create unity and address poverty in a devastated continent. Seventy years on, the stakes are different and the battle lines are drawn in cash.

Merkel is a Lutheran pastor's daughter who grew up in East Germany during the Cold War, when thrift was not an option but an order of the Politburo. In West Germany, recovery began early, with the Marshall Plan, and continued under an Allied occupation that lasted ten years. Its bombed-out cities and factories were rebuilt and, slowly, its infrastructure was restored. Konrad Adenauer, who in 1949 became the first postwar Chancellor of the Federal Republic, was a Roman Catholic, but there was also a cool Lutheran frugality lurking inside him. He was in office for fourteen years, when thrift was an option. He took it. So did Helmut Kohl, who was Chancellor in the nineteen-nineties, when the Federal Republic absorbed East Germany. The country got fat and rich during all those years, but in hard economic times its governments followed the dictum “Don’t borrow, don’t spend.”

Italy, at the beginning of the Second World War, was still largely an agrarian country. Most of its contadini were illiterate; its agricultural arrangements in many regions were close to feudal. And “infrastructure” meant the family, the Church, the party, and, in much of the South, the mafias—umbrellas of support, protection, and, of course, jobs, under different names. In that sense, Italy emerged from the war unchanged. You took care of your own, bought into the swamp, and ignored the indicators of collapse. The perimeters of a good life depended on the umbrella under which you sheltered. You built your house there, put your money under the mattress, and did not invest in anything beyond it. The government did that for you. By the seventies, it was spending and spending, spreading a patchwork quilt of employment and subsidy over your mattress. By the mid-nineties, when the reformist Prime Minister Romano Prodi was elected and tried—and failed—to mend it, the country was going broke. When Mario Monti tried, it was broke, and, as for Enrico Letta, he didn’t stand a chance. Today, when Matteo Renzi asks for stimulus money for recovery, he is starting practically from scratch. The one thing his Italy shares with Merkel’s Germany is the reality of a European divide.

Monti told me that, when he was Prime Minister and visited Barack Obama at the White House, Obama admitted to being at a loss to know “how to engage Merkel on matters of economic policy.” Obama asked his advice, and Monti replied, “For Germans, economics is still part of moral philosophy, so don’t even try to suggest that the way to help Europe grow is through public spending. In Germany, growth is the reward for virtuous economics, and the word for ‘guilt’ and ‘debt’ is the same.”

It’s safe to say that guilt is not a problem in a country of Sunday confessional absolution. This is a battle that Renzi has to win. “For me, the point is that Italy has come back into the discussion of ‘What is Europe?’ ” he told me, when we last talked. “In the past, the message was always that ‘Europe’ would teach Italy what to do. The real message now is that we are Europe. The perspective has changed. Politics needs passions. Otherwise, you are not the star, you are just a supporting actor.” I asked how long he was planning to play the leading role, and he said that, if all went well, he would be able to get the country to its next scheduled parliamentary elections, in 2018, and then, if he’d been successful and “the people want it,” he would run again—in which case, “on February 22, 2024, I’ll leave. I’ll study. I’ll become a professor!” ♦

From: Mahen Gunaratna
To: John Del Cecato; Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea; Hinton, Karen; Wolfe, Emma
Subject: Tweet by Joe Pounder on Twitter
Date: Monday, June 29, 2015 10:18:29 AM

Joe Pounder (@PounderFile)

6/29/15, 10:12 AM

From @AmericaRising...Does Clinton Back Cuomo's Executive Minimum Wage Decree? americarisingpac.org/does-clinton-b...

Download the Twitter app

Sent from my iPhone

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: John Del Ceccato \(jfdc@akpdmedia.com\)
Subject: TPA
Date: Monday, June 29, 2015 11:19:00 AM

When can we talk with Hayley? Do you plan to reach closure with Geri this week? If possible I'd like to have a meeting/call with Hayley, Jeannie (or is she also verboten to talk to City?), Phil (on Forum) and you and me, sometime this week.

Tom Snyder
Chief of Staff
Office of the Mayor
City Hall
New York, NY 10007
212-341-5050

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: John Del Ceccato \(jfdc@akpdmedia.com\)
Subject: Call time
Date: Monday, June 29, 2015 11:20:31 AM

Also, B doing TPA calls tomorrow at about 2 or so. Can you be here?

Tom Snyder
Chief of Staff
Office of the Mayor
City Hall
New York, NY 10007
212-341-5050

From: John Del Cecato
To: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: Pester
Date: Monday, June 29, 2015 1:41:16 PM

I found someone who knew all three... Said they were all good, but young... If the question is whether they can take the heat at City Hall - well, you never know... But the First Lady's office was apparently a really tough place to work - so I guess finger on the scale for [REDACTED]

From: "Snyder, Thomas" <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Monday, June 29, 2015 at 1:17 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Pester

Can you get the dope on any of these?

From: Snyder, Thomas
Sent: Wednesday, June 24, 2015 2:04 PM
To: John Del Ceccato (jfdc@akpdmedia.com)
Subject: info

Looking for some info for potential work here on a few people you might be able to help me track down an initial impression:

[REDACTED]

I figure you might have some contacts that could give you some sense of their work , do they like, not like etc. Hope its not a hassle for you.

Tom Snyder
Chief of Staff
Office of the Mayor
City Hall
New York, NY 10007
212-341-5050

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
To: "John Del Cecato"; Jon Fromowitz
Subject: RE: Stats
Date: Monday, June 29, 2015 4:00:52 PM

Good stat to add to the repertoire.

And, yeah, that seems like a typo on page 5.

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Monday, June 29, 2015 3:49 PM
To: Gunaratna, Mahen; Jon Fromowitz
Subject: Stats

New report out on income inequality...

I think our sexiest stat remains "Top 1% got 91% of income gains in the 3 years after the Great Recession ended"...

But I'm also struck by the fact that since the Great Recession ended, through last year, the Top 1% saw their incomes grow 27% - while everybody else saw incomes grow just 4 percent"...

<http://eml.berkeley.edu/~saez/saez-UStopincomes-2014.pdf>

The following section is a typo, I think... I assume they meant 5 years instead of 3 years...

Hence, the top 1%
captured 58% of the income gains in the first three years of the recovery.

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: "John Del Cecato"; B
Subject: RE: TPA update
Date: Monday, June 29, 2015 5:33:45 PM

I think a call to Al Gore makes sense too.

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Monday, June 29, 2015 5:19 PM
To: B; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: TPA update

1. Staffing - will talk to you tonight, but very positive movement.
2. Call time - on the books for tomorrow. I think Podesta should be first call.
3. Forum - want to take one more run at you on something, and I'm prepared to get yelled at. :)
4. Signers - 3320 total signers - with no advertising to date.
5. Cong. Prog Caucus - date is set for 7/14 at noon, when you will Skype in. After which, we'll hopefully get their CPC blessing for TPA (and all those VIP names).
6. Substance - new report on inequality. 99% did a little better last year. 1% did a lot better.
7. Kindergarten Teachers vs. Hedge Funders short film - the screening to be 9/10 at 4pm ET. Working to get other mayors on board.
8. Summits - Latino outreach event should be next.
9. Washington - big win on overtime rules coming soon - next week or so.
10. Digital — Team TPA working with Sen. Merkley's staff on aggressive online petition effort.
11. Ads — Fancy me raising that! More later.

From: John Del Cecato
To: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Latest call sheet (for tomorrow)
Date: Monday, June 29, 2015 5:40:06 PM

Call Sheet – The Progressive Agenda 6/29/15

John Podesta

LATEST: Pushing back on Benghazi nuttiness. Tweeted that this was an important SCOTUS decision that people shouldn't miss.

A Supreme Court ruling last week forcefully reminded state and local governments that the Fair Housing Act of 1968 forbids them from spending federal housing money in ways that perpetuate segregation. Communities across the country have been doing exactly that for decades.

ASK:

* Remind him that we're working on a presidential forum dedicated to solutions to income inequality, get his take.

Elizabeth Warren

LATEST:

Been focused a lot on debt-free college, opposing TPP, and tangling with Jamie Dimon over whether to break up the big banks.

<!--[if !supportLineBreakNewLine]-->

<!--[endif]-->

ASK:

* What did she think of HRC speech?

* What are her latest thoughts about endorsing?

* What does she think about a presidential forum in Iowa re: income inequality?

Tom Harkin

([REDACTED])

LATEST:

We've been trying to publish a joint op-ed with him re: TPA (for Des Moines Register) – but have had trouble getting his sign-off.

ASK:

* What did he think of HRC speech?

* Mention the possibility of having a presidential forum on income inequality in Iowa. Would he be willing to lend his name to that?

* Mention joint op-ed on TPA – perhaps teasing presidential forum.

* Will he be a part of our TPA media surrogates program? Who is best staff-level contact?

Sherrod Brown

Cell Phone: [REDACTED]

LATEST:

He's been pushing back against for-profit colleges, fighting Fast Track, drug abuse reform and pushing for long-term highway bill. He'll be revved up about overtime victory that's coming soon from White House.

ASK:

* What did he think of HRC speech?

* What are his thoughts on endorsing?

Al Gore

LATEST: During a trip to Cannes, said it was too early to endorse HRC.

ASK:

* What did he think of HRC speech?

* What is he waiting to hear from her?

* Possibly do an event linking income inequality to climate change?

Keith Ellison

Personal Line: [REDACTED]

Main Phone: [REDACTED]

Assistant: Dustin J. Brandenburg at [REDACTED].

LATEST:

Stood up to Fast Track in a big way. We are looking at 7/14 at noon for you to address CPC on The Progressive Agenda. Just need Grijalva to sign off – but we think that will happen soon.

ASK:

* What did her think of HRC speech?

* Friendly reminder that we want Congressional Progressive Caucus to endorse The Progressive Agenda.

* Will he be a part of our TPA media surrogates program? Who is best staff-level contact?

Mary Kay Henry

Cell Phone: [REDACTED]

LATEST:

Been helping wage Fight for 15. June 15th was the 25th Anniversary of Janitors for Justice violence in Los Angeles, which sparked the movement. She has been a vocal supporter of SCOTUS ACA decision.

ASK:

- * What did she think of HRC's speech? What's her thought process on endorsing?
- * What does she think we should be doing next to keep the national conversation going re: income inequality/seize the momentum we have?
- * What does she think about doing a presidential forum on income inequality in Iowa in the fall? Would she lend her name to that?
- * Will she be a part of our TPA media surrogates program? Who is best staff-level contact?

Howard Dean

Cell Phone: [REDACTED]

Main Phone: [REDACTED]

Assistant: Amanda McKay

LATEST: Testified on behalf of $15 minimum wage.

ASK:

- * What should we be doing to keep pushing income inequality front and center?
- * What does he think about presidential forum in Iowa?
- * Will he be a part of our TPA media surrogates program? Who is best staff-level contact?

Al Sharpton

LATEST:

Has been a leader in the fight to remove Confederate flags and other imagery for statehouses in SC and beyond. Denounced a painting depicting the Confederate flag in NY State Capitol Building.

ASK:

- * What did he think of HRC speech?
- * What should we be doing to keep The Progressive Agenda going/seize the moment?
- * What does he think about a presidential forum in Iowa? Should it be in DC or NYC instead?
- * What are his thoughts on endorsements as it relates to presidential?

Lily Eskelsen García

John Stocks [REDACTED]

-
LATEST:

She met with HRC a few weeks ago as part of the endorsement process. She/NEA also recently met with Sanders and O'Malley.

-
ASK:

- <!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->What did she think of HRC speech?
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->What should we be doing to keep TPA going?
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Does she anticipate endorsing HRC?
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Thoughts on being part of a presidential forum in Iowa?
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Will she be a part of our TPA media surrogates program? Who is best staff-level contact?

Robert Reich

Main Phone: [REDACTED]

Home Phone: [REDACTED]

LATEST: Pushing to get big money out of politics (latest in his web video series). Wrote a blog post on income inequality, race and housing segregation in which he argued America was living in an "economic apartheid."

ASK:

- * What did he think of Hillary's speech?
- * What should we be doing to keep momentum going?
- * Thoughts on being part of a presidential forum in Iowa?
- * Will he be a part of our TPA media surrogates program? Who is best staff-level contact?

Leo Gerard

[REDACTED]

LATEST:

Fought to keep Dems from flipping on Fast Track. Wrote an article on Huffington Post calling out Republicans for continued attacks on the ACA while providing no alternative ideas.

ASK:

- <!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->What did he think of HRC speech?
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->What can we do to keep TPA going? His thoughts on Iowa presidential forum?
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Will he be a part of our TPA media surrogates program? Who is best staff-level contact?

Mayor Greg Stanton, Phoenix, AZ

Cell: [REDACTED]

LATEST:

Phoenix was one of two cities awarded Mayor's climate protection award for cities that increase energy efficiency and reduce greenhouse gas emissions—they connected this with their fight against inequality. Pushing for higher sales taxes to fund light rail initiative because federal infrastructure funding not there.

<!--[if !supportLineBreakNewLine]-->

<!--[endif]-->

ASK:

Sign onto TPA

Soon-to-be Mayor Jim Kenney, Philadelphia, PA

Cell: [REDACTED]

LATEST:

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Defeated a charter school advocate backed by hedge funds in the primary

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Fought for universal pre-k, raising minimum wage to $15/hour during campaign.

ASK:

Sign onto TPA

Co-Host Kindergarten Teachers VS Hedge Funders event

Mayor Bill Finch, Bridgeport, CT

Cell: [REDACTED]

LATEST:

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Signed a pledge to fight income inequality at U.S.C.M. in August 2014

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Stood with Governor Malloy at minimum wage proposal in Bridgeport

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Launched UPK initiative on 6/16/2015

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Launched new gun buy-back program in the wake of recent shootings.

ASK:

Sign onto TPA

Co-Host Kindergarten Teachers VS Hedge Funders event

Mayor Lovely Warren, Rochester, NY

Cell: [REDACTED]

LATEST:

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->In January she held a forum to discuss income inequality in upstate cities

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Called on NY state to increase minimum wage

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Outspoken on the fact that every three year old child should be enrolled in pre-k by age 3

ASK:

Sign onto TPA

Mayor Kathy Sheehan, Albany, NY

Cell: [REDACTED]

LATEST:

Last August she implemented an equity agenda for Albany and worked to publicize the EITC

-

ASK:

Sign onto TPA

Mayor Eric Garcetti, Los Angeles, CA

Cell: [REDACTED]

LATEST:

Led the fight for increasing minimum wage in LA. His wife, Amy Wakeland, has been an advocate for national paid family leave.

ASK:

Sign onto TPA

Host Kindergarten Teachers vs. Hedge Funders screening

Mayor Sam Liccardo, San Jose, CA

Cell: [REDACTED]

-

LATEST:

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Talked about growing income gap nationally in his SOTC address in January. Mentioned ideas to address this like closing the skills gap through investment in libraries.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Ran on a platform to create living wage jobs for residents of San Jose

-

ASK:

Sign onto TPA

Mayor Mike Duggan, Detroit, MI

Cell: [REDACTED]

LATEST:

No specific income inequality stances lately.

ASK:

Sign onto TPA

Possibly host K Teachers vs. Hedge Funders event

Mayor Bill Peduto, Pittsburgh, PA

Cell: [REDACTED]

LATEST:

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Peduto spoke out against TPP at the end of April

<!--[if !supportLists]-->· <!--[endif]-->Attended World Cities summit hosted by NYC in June 2015 where combating income inequality was a central theme

ASK:

Sign onto TPA

Mayor Francis Slay, St. Louis, MO

Cell: [REDACTED]

LATEST:

Early June came out to push for $15 minimum wage in St Louis

ASK:

Sign onto TPA

Maybe host K Teachers vs. Hedge Funders event.

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
To: John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: American Prospect / Molly Ball profile on MBdB
Date: Monday, June 29, 2015 5:56:28 PM

Yes it's true but Whitaker is actually spelled "Whittaker"

Sent from my iPhone

On Jun 29, 2015, at 5:49 PM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

Does the line below ring true?

From: Phillip Walzak <[REDACTED]>
Date: Monday, June 29, 2015 at 1:30 PM
To: Dan Levitan <dan@berlinrosen.com>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: Jonathan Rosen <jonathan@berlinrosen.com>
Subject: Re: American Prospect / Molly Ball profile on MBdB

+JFC to conduit

On Mon, Jun 29, 2015 at 12:58 PM, Dan Levitan <dan@berlinrosen.com> wrote:

FYI – Dan Cantor called to let me know about a quote he gave about the Mayor to Molly Ball at the American Prospect some months ago for a story that he thinks will run soon:

"His mother was denounced by Whitaker Chambers, his father's career was ruined by McCarthyism. He understands that there is a right wing in America that is not very nice."

He didn't have a great sense of the context of the story...assumed this would appear in bio piece.

If we think that's problematic, he can try to take it back but he's not sure he will be able to.

--
Dan Levitan

BerlinRosen Public Affairs

O: 646.200.5315

C: 201.674.7475

@levitandan

From: John Del Cecato
To: Carey, Michael
Cc: Leopold, Elana
Subject: Re: MBDB: Drinks with FLONYC and JDC
Date: Monday, June 29, 2015 6:57:36 PM

Ok tx

On Jun 29, 2015, at 6:50 PM, Carey, Michael <MPCarey@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Jdc -- this will be prob closer to 8 pm

MBDB: Drinks with FLONYC and JDC

Scheduled: Monday, Jun 29, 2015 from 7:30 PM to 8:30 PM

Location: Gracie Mansion, The Porch

Invitees: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' (jfdc@akpdmedia.com) , Leopold, Elana

Michael Paul Carey
City Hall
New York, New York

From: John Del Cecato
To: B; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: overtime happening officially on Thursday - preview tomorrow
Date: Monday, June 29, 2015 7:30:03 PM

President Obama overtime rule would raise wages for 5 million

AP Photo

President Barack Obama will this week release a long-awaited overtime rule aimed at raising wages for 5 million people as soon as 2016, according to sources familiar with the plans.

The proposed rule will more than double the salary level under which virtually all workers qualify for overtime pay whenever they work more than 40 hours in any given week. That threshold, now $23,660, will rise to $50,440.

Obama will announce the proposed regulation formally on Thursday during a trip to La Crosse, Wisconsin, but details will begin to be released by the White House on Tuesday. Labor Secretary Tom Perez will hold a press call about the proposed rule Tuesday morning.

The regulation would be the most sweeping policy undertaken by the president to assist the middle class, and it would constitute the most ambitious intervention in the wage economy in at least a decade.

The new threshold will not be indexed directly to inflation, as many progressives had hoped. Instead, it will be linked permanently to the 40th percentile of income. That would set it at the level when the overtime rule was first created under President Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

Business groups and congressional Republicans have been gearing up for a fight over the rule. Earlier this month a House Education and the Workforce subcommittee held a hearing largely devoted to excoriating the overtime rule, sight unseen. Republican Rep. Tim Walberg, the subcommittee chairman, pledged to oppose any overtime proposal that “goes too far” or that would “inflict harm on the nation’s workplaces.”

The proposed rule was supposed to be released on a trip to Wisconsin last week, but it was postponed for Obama to travel to Charleston, S.C. to give the eulogy for Rev. Clementa Pinckney. It is being produced now after months of delay and internal debate within the administration: At one point, there had been talk of Obama releasing the rule as part of his State of the Union in January, with some in the West Wing pushing for an indexing to the 37th percentile. That would have encompassed many fewer workers.

The overtime threshold has been updated only once since 1975 and now covers a mere 8 percent of salaried workers, according to a recent analysis by the left-leaning Economic Policy Institute. Raising the threshold to $50,440 would bring it roughly in line with the 1975 threshold, after inflation. Back then, that covered 62 percent of salaried workers. But because of subsequent changes in the economy’s structure, the Obama administration’s proposed rule would cover a smaller percentage — about 40 percent.

The current overtime rules contain a white collar exemption, which excludes “executive, administrative and professional” employees from receiving overtime pay. Advocates for changing the rule say the white collar exemption allows employers to avoid paying lower-wage workers overtime. The proposed rule contains no specific changes to this “duties test,” but instead solicits questions from the public about how best to alter it.

As in the past, the new threshold will not affect teachers, lawyers, doctors and judges, who are all automatically exempt from overtime.

Business groups, including the National Retail Federation, warn that the rule will motivate employers to move their employees from salaried work to hourly work, will reduce workers’ hours and will lead to less employee benefits.

Labor activists and liberal economists acknowledge the rule could reduce workers' hours, but some say the rule could lead to more job creation, since employers will not want to provide employees time-and-a-half pay.

Congressional Republicans will almost certainly attempt to block the overtime rule, as they have tried to do with most of the significant labor-related regulations issued under the Obama administration over the past six months.

Authors:

View Comments

From: John Del Cecato
To: B
Subject: Re: A constructive thought
Date: Tuesday, June 30, 2015 7:37:59 AM

Yes, will do

> On Jun 30, 2015, at 7:07 AM, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>

>

> Could you pls write down what you want us to achieve through the TPA in the next 6 months, before you return to traditional consultantland? I want you to express your positive vision of where this should go. Not your fears or concerns: your hopes and your dreams for this thing

From: John Del Cecato
To: B
Subject: <no subject>
Date: Tuesday, June 30, 2015 8:38:57 AM

Wage theft AND second-chance legislation... Go TPA!

Bill de Blasio signs law to ban employers from asking job candidates about criminal history

BY JOHN SPINA NEW YORK DAILY NEWS Monday, June 29, 2015, 7:43 PM

A A A

1000

21

13

SHARE THIS URL

BRYAN R. SMITH/FOR NEW YORK DAILY NEWS

Mayor de Blasio on Monday signed a law to prohibit employers from asking about a candidate's criminal record before a job offer is made.

In front of emotional supporters, Mayor de Blasio signed legislation Monday that will prohibit employers from inquiring about a candidate's criminal record prior to a job offer.

"Today I see hope for people like me," said Marilyn Scales, 52, of the Bronx, who said she never has had a full-time job because of her record for dealing heroin.

The mayor also signed legislation to step up regulation of the car wash industry. Car washes will have to obtain biannual city licenses as well as a $150,000 bond to cover costs if they are sued for wage theft.

FOLLOW THE DAILY NEWS ON FACEBOOK. CLICK HERE TO "LIKE."

Steve Rotlevi, owner of Zoom Car Spa in Brooklyn and head of Association of Car Washers, said the law was onerous.

"It is putting a gun to small business' head," he said. "It is the highest requirement for any city licensed industry."

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Snyder, Thomas; Wolfe, Emma; Walzak, Phil; Hinton, Karen
Subject: Re: Good stuff
Date: Tuesday, June 30, 2015 8:42:06 AM

Yep, thought you'd like that one

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, June 30, 2015 08:37 AM
To: Snyder, Thomas; Wolfe, Emma; Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea; Hinton, Karen Subject: Good stuff

This covers two planks from TPA - second-chance legislation & wage theft...

<http://www.nydailynews.com/news/politics/bill-de-blasio-signs-don-law-criminal-records-article-1.2275728>

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: John Del Ceccato \(jfdc@akpdmedia.com\)
Subject: Call time
Date: Tuesday, June 30, 2015 12:45:59 PM

Trying to get TPA calls rescheduled for 2 – 3pm. Hold on.

Tom Snyder
Chief of Staff
Office of the Mayor
City Hall
New York, NY 10007
212-341-5050

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: John Del Ceccato \(jfdc@akpdmedia.com\); Hayley Primm \(hayley@progressiveagenda.us\)
Cc: Carey, Michael
Subject: TPA Calls
Date: Tuesday, June 30, 2015 1:00:31 PM

Still on his schedule. Get here by 2:30. He wants to find time between then and 4pm

Tom Snyder
Chief of Staff
Office of the Mayor
City Hall
New York, NY 10007
212-341-5050

From: John Del Cecato
To: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: FW: Some thoughts
Date: Tuesday, June 30, 2015 1:49:54 PM

From: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Date: Tuesday, June 30, 2015 at 12:05 PM
To: Bill de Blasio <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Some thoughts

MEMORANDUM

TO: MBDB
FR: JDC
DA: 6/30/15
RE: TPA Six-Month Vision

Here are my hopes and dreams for what TPA could accomplish over the next six months.

1. In every story where income inequality is mentioned, there is also a mention of progressive taxation – closing loopholes exploited by big corporations and the wealthy, or imposing new taxes to ensure they pay their fair share. This does NOT include a mere rejection of ideas to further rig the system on behalf of those at the top. It means changing the status quo for the better. There is no secret pot of money. If we want to lift up the poor, working class, and middle class, the One Percent has to contribute.
2. TPA operates as a “DLC for the Left.” It serves as a clearinghouse of information on progressive public policy. It connects up-and-coming progressives – or well-established, under-resourced progressives – with the right people and policies, either in your Administration, at like-minded think tanks, or with elected officials doing innovative things.
3. Candidates and office-holders at every level – most notably the presidential frontrunners – firmly embrace progressive remedies to income inequality as both good policy and good politics. (The presidential forum would be one path to achieving this.)
4. 200 VIPs and 10,000 everyday Americans sign onto the Agenda.

5. 25 new “victories” for progressive populism are secured. This could include a progressive candidate winning, a city or state implementing a progressive policy, or a meaningful executive/judicial action at the federal level.
6. A working relationship is established between you and 50 mayors across the country – with a particular emphasis on influential purple states.
7. When stories are written about “national progressive leaders” who are not candidates for office, your name ranks among the top five.
8. A TPA steering committee of 10-12 active, high profile members meets regularly (either in person or by phone), drives progressive economic policies, mobilizes members, and raises money.
9. End-of-year analyses of the political landscape show that progressive populism dominated the discussion in 2015, and will be the foundation for the 2016 elections.
10. People in New York, and across the country, see progressive action – particularly in cities like New York – as the launching pad for a new national progressive movement that will influence who runs for elected office, and what they feel compelled to act upon once they achieve it.
11. TPA is operationalized in such a way that its media surrogates/talkers program works similarly to the DNC’s.

This is an ambitious six-month list, to be sure. In reading about how Grover Norquist built ATR into the ideological powerhouse that it is today, I noted that he founded it in 1985 (at President Reagan’s request), began to get traction in 1993 (fighting against health care reform), and didn’t get achieve the near-universal support of Republican candidates and elected officials until the early-to-mid 2000s.

But while TPA is in its infancy, we can look to Matteo Renzi for inspiration. “We’re a young team—we want to invest in the new generation—but we’re not simply a young team. Youth is the man of whatever age who risks believing in the possibility of change.”

###

From: John Del Cecato
To: Leopold, Elana
Subject: <no subject>
Date: Tuesday, June 30, 2015 2:12:45 PM
Attachments: TPACallSheetMonday.docx

Can you print out for me?

Call Sheet – The Progressive Agenda
6/29/15

John Podesta

LATEST: Pushing back on Benghazi nuttiness. Tweeted that this was an important SCOTUS decision that people shouldn't miss.

A Supreme Court ruling last week forcefully reminded state and local governments that the Fair Housing Act of 1968 forbids them from spending federal housing money in ways that perpetuate segregation. Communities across the country have been doing exactly that for decades.

ASK:

* Remind him that we're working on a presidential forum dedicated to solutions to income inequality, get his take.

Elizabeth Warren LEFT VOICEMAIL

LATEST:

Been focused a lot on debt-free college, opposing TPP, and tangling with Jamie Dimon over whether to break up the big banks.

ASK:

* What did she think of HRC speech?

* What are her latest thoughts about endorsing?

* What does she think about a presidential forum in Iowa re: income inequality?

Tom Harkin LEFT VOICEMAIL

[REDACTED]

LATEST:

We've been trying to publish a joint op-ed with him re: TPA (for Des Moines Register) – but have had trouble getting his sign-off.

ASK:

* What did he think of HRC speech?

* Mention the possibility of having a presidential forum on income inequality in Iowa. Would he be willing to lend his name to that?

* Mention joint op-ed on TPA – perhaps teasing presidential forum.

* Will he be a part of our TPA media surrogates program? Who is best staff-level contact?

Sherrod Brown LEFT VOICEMAIL

Cell Phone: [REDACTED]

LATEST:

He's been pushing back against for-profit colleges, fighting Fast Track, drug abuse reform and pushing for long-term highway bill. He'll be revved up about overtime victory that's coming soon from White House.

ASK:

- * What did he think of HRC speech?
- * What are his thoughts on endorsing?

Al Gore

LATEST: During a trip to Cannes, said it was too early to endorse HRC.

ASK:

- * What did he think of HRC speech?
- * What is he waiting to hear from her?
- * Possibly do an event linking income inequality to climate change?

Keith Ellison

Personal Line: [REDACTED] Main Phone: [REDACTED]
Assistant: Dustin J. Brandenburg at [REDACTED]

LATEST:

Stood up to Fast Track in a big way. We are looking at 7/14 at noon for you to address CPC on The Progressive Agenda. Just need Grijalva to sign off – but we think that will happen soon.

ASK:

- * What did her think of HRC speech?
- * Friendly reminder that we want Congressional Progressive Caucus to endorse The Progressive Agenda.
- * Will he be a part of our TPA media surrogates program? Who is best staff-level contact?

Mary Kay Henry

Cell Phone: [REDACTED]

LATEST:

Been helping wage Fight for 15. June 15th was the 25th Anniversary of Janitors for Justice violence in Los Angeles, which sparked the movement. She has been a vocal supporter of SCOTUS ACA decision.

ASK:

- * What did she think of HRC's speech? What's her thought process on endorsing?

- * What does she think we should be doing next to keep the national conversation going re: income inequality/seize the momentum we have?
- * What does she think about doing a presidential forum on income inequality in Iowa in the fall? Would she lend her name to that?
- * Will she be a part of our TPA media surrogates program? Who is best staff-level contact?

Howard Dean

Cell Phone: [REDACTED] Main Phone: [REDACTED]

Assistant: Amanda McKay

LATEST: Testified on behalf of $15 minimum wage.

ASK:

- * What should we be doing to keep pushing income inequality front and center?
- * What does he think about presidential forum in Iowa?
- * Will he be a part of our TPA media surrogates program? Who is best staff-level contact?

Al Sharpton

LATEST:

Has been a leader in the fight to remove Confederate flags and other imagery for statehouses in SC and beyond. Denounced a painting depicting the Confederate flag in NY State Capitol Building.

ASK:

- * What did he think of HRC speech?
- * What should we be doing to keep The Progressive Agenda going/seize the moment?
- * What does he think about a presidential forum in Iowa? Should it be in DC or NYC instead?
- * What are his thoughts on endorsements as it relates to presidential?

Lily Eskelsen García

John Stocks Cell [REDACTED]

LATEST:

She met with HRC a few weeks ago as part of the endorsement process. She/NEA also recently met with Sanders and O'Malley.

ASK:

- What did she think of HRC speech?
- What should we be doing to keep TPA going?

- Does she anticipate endorsing HRC?
- Thoughts on being part of a presidential forum in Iowa?
- Will she be a part of our TPA media surrogates program? Who is best staff-level contact?

Robert Reich

Main Phone: [REDACTED]

Home Phone: [REDACTED]

LATEST: Pushing to get big money out of politics (latest in his web video series). Wrote a blog post on income inequality, race and housing segregation in which he argued America was living in an “economic apartheid.”

ASK:

- * What did he think of Hillary’s speech?
- * What should we be doing to keep momentum going?
- * Thoughts on being part of a presidential forum in Iowa?
- * Will he be a part of our TPA media surrogates program? Who is best staff-level contact?

Leo Gerard

[REDACTED]

LATEST:

Fought to keep Dems from flipping on Fast Track. Wrote an article on Huffington Post calling out Republicans for continued attacks on the ACA while providing no alternative ideas.

ASK:

- What did he think of HRC speech?
- What can we do to keep TPA going? His thoughts on Iowa presidential forum?
- Will he be a part of our TPA media surrogates program? Who is best staff-level contact?

Mayor Greg Stanton, Phoenix, AZ

Cell: [REDACTED]

LATEST:

Phoenix was one of two cities awarded Mayor’s climate protection award for cities that increase energy efficiency and reduce greenhouse gas emissions—they connected this with their fight against inequality. Pushing for higher sales taxes to fund light rail initiative because federal infrastructure funding not there.

ASK:
Sign onto TPA

Soon-to-be Mayor Jim Kenney, Philadelphia, PA

Cell: [REDACTED]

LATEST:

- Defeated a charter school advocate backed by hedge funds in the primary
- Fought for universal pre-k, raising minimum wage to $15/hour during campaign.

ASK:
Sign onto TPA
Co-Host Kindergarten Teachers VS Hedge Funders event

Mayor Bill Finch, Bridgeport, CT

Cell: [REDACTED]

LATEST:

- Signed a pledge to fight income inequality at U.S.C.M. in August 2014
- Stood with Governor Malloy at minimum wage proposal in Bridgeport
- Launched UPK initiative on 6/16/2015
- Launched new gun buy-back program in the wake of recent shootings.

ASK:
Sign onto TPA
Co-Host Kindergarten Teachers VS Hedge Funders event

Mayor Lovely Warren, Rochester, NY

Cell: [REDACTED]

LATEST:

- In January she held a forum to discuss income inequality in upstate cities
- Called on NY state to increase minimum wage
- Outspoken on the fact that every three year old child should be enrolled in pre-k by age 3

ASK:

Sign onto TPA

Mayor Kathy Sheehan, Albany, NY

Cell: [REDACTED]

LATEST:

Last August she implemented an equity agenda for Albany and worked to publicize the EITC

ASK:

Sign onto TPA

Mayor Eric Garcetti, Los Angeles, CA

Cell: [REDACTED]

LATEST:

Led the fight for increasing minimum wage in LA. His wife, Amy Wakeland, has been an advocate for national paid family leave.

ASK:

Sign onto TPA

Host Kindergarten Teachers vs. Hedge Funders screening

Mayor Sam Liccardo, San Jose, CA

Cell: [REDACTED]

LATEST:

- Talked about growing income gap nationally in his SOTC address in January. Mentioned ideas to address this like closing the skills gap through investment in libraries.
- Ran on a platform to create living wage jobs for residents of San Jose

ASK:

Sign onto TPA

Mayor Mike Duggan, Detroit, MI

Cell: [REDACTED]

LATEST:

No specific income inequality stances lately.

ASK:

Sign onto TPA

Possibly host K Teachers vs. Hedge Funders event

Mayor Bill Peduto, Pittsburgh, PA

Cell: [REDACTED]

LATEST:

- Peduto spoke out against TPP at the end of April
- Attended World Cities summit hosted by NYC in June 2015 where combating income inequality was a central theme

ASK:

Sign onto TPA

Mayor Francis Slay, St. Louis, MO

Cell: [REDACTED]

LATEST:

Early June came out to push for $15 minimum wage in St Louis

ASK:

Sign onto TPA

Maybe host K Teachers vs. Hedge Funders event.

From: John Del Cecato
To: Leopold, Elana
Cc: Da Costa, Ricky
Subject: Re: <no subject>
Date: Tuesday, June 30, 2015 2:15:30 PM
Attachments: TPACallSheetMonday.docx

From: "Leopold, Elana" <ELeopold@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Tuesday, June 30, 2015 at 2:13 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: "Da Costa, Ricky" <RDaCosta@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: <no subject>

In mayors office

+ ricky

Can you help?

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, June 30, 2015 02:12 PM
To: Leopold, Elana
Subject: <no subject>

Can you print out for me?

Call Sheet – The Progressive Agenda
6/29/15

John Podesta

LATEST: Pushing back on Benghazi nuttiness. Tweeted that this was an important SCOTUS decision that people shouldn't miss.

A Supreme Court ruling last week forcefully reminded state and local governments that the Fair Housing Act of 1968 forbids them from spending federal housing money in ways that perpetuate segregation. Communities across the country have been doing exactly that for decades.

ASK:

* Remind him that we're working on a presidential forum dedicated to solutions to income inequality, get his take.

Elizabeth Warren LEFT VOICEMAIL

LATEST:

Been focused a lot on debt-free college, opposing TPP, and tangling with Jamie Dimon over whether to break up the big banks.

ASK:

* What did she think of HRC speech?

* What are her latest thoughts about endorsing?

* What does she think about a presidential forum in Iowa re: income inequality?

Tom Harkin LEFT VOICEMAIL

[REDACTED]

LATEST:

We've been trying to publish a joint op-ed with him re: TPA (for Des Moines Register) – but have had trouble getting his sign-off.

ASK:

* What did he think of HRC speech?

* Mention the possibility of having a presidential forum on income inequality in Iowa. Would he be willing to lend his name to that?

* Mention joint op-ed on TPA – perhaps teasing presidential forum.

* Will he be a part of our TPA media surrogates program? Who is best staff-level contact?

Sherrod Brown LEFT VOICEMAIL

Cell Phone: [REDACTED]

LATEST:

He's been pushing back against for-profit colleges, fighting Fast Track, drug abuse reform and pushing for long-term highway bill. He'll be revved up about overtime victory that's coming soon from White House.

ASK:

- * What did he think of HRC speech?
- * What are his thoughts on endorsing?

Al Gore

LATEST: During a trip to Cannes, said it was too early to endorse HRC.

ASK:

- * What did he think of HRC speech?
- * What is he waiting to hear from her?
- * Possibly do an event linking income inequality to climate change?

Keith Ellison

Personal Line: [REDACTED] Main Phone: [REDACTED]

Assistant: Dustin J. Brandenburg at [REDACTED]

LATEST:

Stood up to Fast Track in a big way. We are looking at 7/14 at noon for you to address CPC on The Progressive Agenda. Just need Grijalva to sign off – but we think that will happen soon.

ASK:

- * What did her think of HRC speech?
- * Friendly reminder that we want Congressional Progressive Caucus to endorse The Progressive Agenda.
- * Will he be a part of our TPA media surrogates program? Who is best staff-level contact?

Mary Kay Henry

Cell Phone: [REDACTED]

LATEST:

Been helping wage Fight for 15. June 15th was the 25th Anniversary of Janitors for Justice violence in Los Angeles, which sparked the movement. She has been a vocal supporter of SCOTUS ACA decision.

ASK:

- * What did she think of HRC's speech? What's her thought process on endorsing?

- * What does she think we should be doing next to keep the national conversation going re: income inequality/seize the momentum we have?
- * What does she think about doing a presidential forum on income inequality in Iowa in the fall? Would she lend her name to that?
- * Will she be a part of our TPA media surrogates program? Who is best staff-level contact?

Howard Dean

Cell Phone: [REDACTED] Main Phone: [REDACTED]

Assistant: Amanda McKay

LATEST: Testified on behalf of $15 minimum wage.

ASK:

- * What should we be doing to keep pushing income inequality front and center?
- * What does he think about presidential forum in Iowa?
- * Will he be a part of our TPA media surrogates program? Who is best staff-level contact?

Al Sharpton

LATEST:

Has been a leader in the fight to remove Confederate flags and other imagery for statehouses in SC and beyond. Denounced a painting depicting the Confederate flag in NY State Capitol Building.

ASK:

- * What did he think of HRC speech?
- * What should we be doing to keep The Progressive Agenda going/seize the moment?
- * What does he think about a presidential forum in Iowa? Should it be in DC or NYC instead?
- * What are his thoughts on endorsements as it relates to presidential?

Lily Eskelsen García

John Stocks Cell: [REDACTED]

LATEST:

She met with HRC a few weeks ago as part of the endorsement process. She/NEA also recently met with Sanders and O'Malley.

ASK:

- What did she think of HRC speech?
- What should we be doing to keep TPA going?

- Does she anticipate endorsing HRC?
- Thoughts on being part of a presidential forum in Iowa?
- Will she be a part of our TPA media surrogates program? Who is best staff-level contact?

Robert Reich

Main Phone: [REDACTED]

Home Phone: [REDACTED]

LATEST: Pushing to get big money out of politics (latest in his web video series). Wrote a blog post on income inequality, race and housing segregation in which he argued America was living in an “economic apartheid.”

ASK:

- * What did he think of Hillary’s speech?
- * What should we be doing to keep momentum going?
- * Thoughts on being part of a presidential forum in Iowa?
- * Will he be a part of our TPA media surrogates program? Who is best staff-level contact?

Leo Gerard

[REDACTED]

LATEST:

Fought to keep Dems from flipping on Fast Track. Wrote an article on Huffington Post calling out Republicans for continued attacks on the ACA while providing no alternative ideas.

ASK:

- What did he think of HRC speech?
- What can we do to keep TPA going? His thoughts on Iowa presidential forum?
- Will he be a part of our TPA media surrogates program? Who is best staff-level contact?

Mayor Greg Stanton, Phoenix, AZ

Cell: [REDACTED]

LATEST:

Phoenix was one of two cities awarded Mayor’s climate protection award for cities that increase energy efficiency and reduce greenhouse gas emissions—they connected this with their fight against inequality. Pushing for higher sales taxes to fund light rail initiative because federal infrastructure funding not there.

ASK:
Sign onto TPA

Soon-to-be Mayor Jim Kenney, Philadelphia, PA

Cell: [REDACTED]

LATEST:

- Defeated a charter school advocate backed by hedge funds in the primary
- Fought for universal pre-k, raising minimum wage to $15/hour during campaign.

ASK:
Sign onto TPA
Co-Host Kindergarten Teachers VS Hedge Funders event

Mayor Bill Finch, Bridgeport, CT

Cell: [REDACTED]

LATEST:

- Signed a pledge to fight income inequality at U.S.C.M. in August 2014
- Stood with Governor Malloy at minimum wage proposal in Bridgeport
- Launched UPK initiative on 6/16/2015
- Launched new gun buy-back program in the wake of recent shootings.

ASK:
Sign onto TPA
Co-Host Kindergarten Teachers VS Hedge Funders event

Mayor Lovely Warren, Rochester, NY

Cell: [REDACTED]

LATEST:

- In January she held a forum to discuss income inequality in upstate cities
- Called on NY state to increase minimum wage
- Outspoken on the fact that every three year old child should be enrolled in pre-k by age 3

ASK:

Sign onto TPA

Mayor Kathy Sheehan, Albany, NY

Cell: [REDACTED]

LATEST:

Last August she implemented an equity agenda for Albany and worked to publicize the EITC

ASK:

Sign onto TPA

Mayor Eric Garcetti, Los Angeles, CA

Cell: [REDACTED]

LATEST:

Led the fight for increasing minimum wage in LA. His wife, Amy Wakeland, has been an advocate for national paid family leave.

ASK:

Sign onto TPA

Host Kindergarten Teachers vs. Hedge Funders screening

Mayor Sam Liccardo, San Jose, CA

Cell: [REDACTED]

LATEST:

- Talked about growing income gap nationally in his SOTC address in January. Mentioned ideas to address this like closing the skills gap through investment in libraries.
- Ran on a platform to create living wage jobs for residents of San Jose

ASK:

Sign onto TPA

Mayor Mike Duggan, Detroit, MI

Cell: [REDACTED]

LATEST:

No specific income inequality stances lately.

ASK:

Sign onto TPA

Possibly host K Teachers vs. Hedge Funders event

Mayor Bill Peduto, Pittsburgh, PA

Cell: [REDACTED]

LATEST:

- Peduto spoke out against TPP at the end of April
- Attended World Cities summit hosted by NYC in June 2015 where combating income inequality was a central theme

ASK:

Sign onto TPA

Mayor Francis Slay, St. Louis, MO

Cell: [REDACTED]

LATEST:

Early June came out to push for $15 minimum wage in St Louis

ASK:

Sign onto TPA

Maybe host K Teachers vs. Hedge Funders event.

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: Hayley Prim
Cc: John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: 1 call made
Date: Tuesday, June 30, 2015 7:42:05 PM

Ok let's talk tomorrow

Sent from my iPhone

> On Jun 30, 2015, at 5:20 PM, Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us> wrote:
>
> Sharpton- likes bi partisan. It has a great virtue because it de-hillaryizes the situation. There are some relative moderates (bush, Rubio) who might bring something to the table.
>
> Tom, said we should download further with you on civil rights mtg and figure out if there is a way to get them deeper involved.
>
> Thinks there might be a way to get some republicans to commit up front. From his last convo with HRC, she gets the fact that people are demanding stronger answers from her.
>
> Said he is probably going to be calling us a lot while he's on vacation, and wants us to speak especially quickly on the civil rights portion.

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: B
Cc: Hagelgans, Andrea; Hinton, Karen; Walzak, Phil; Wolfe, Emma; Fuleihan, Dean \(OMB\); FLONYC; jfdc@akpdmedia.com; Jonathan@berlinrosen.com
Subject: Re: NY OBSERVER: What Does Bill de Blasio Gain by Openly Blasting Andrew Cuomo?
Date: Tuesday, June 30, 2015 7:43:37 PM

Digging foxholes now.

Sent from my iPhone

On Jun 30, 2015, at 7:42 PM, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Timing is everything, my friends. We half-planned, half-stumbled upon the perfect timing. Got the freeze it's moment of glory, then hurt with this. Now brace for the counter-attack

From: Snyder, Thomas
Sent: Tuesday, June 30, 2015 07:37 PM
To: B
Cc: Hagelgans, Andrea; Hinton, Karen; Walzak, Phil; Wolfe, Emma; Fuleihan, Dean \(OMB\); FLONYC; jfdc@akpdmedia.com <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Jonathan@berlinrosen.com <Jonathan@berlinrosen.com>
Subject: Re: NY OBSERVER: What Does Bill de Blasio Gain by Openly Blasting Andrew Cuomo?

That analysis is almost more than we could hope for. Positions Mayor as voice of the dems and eviscerates the gov. Grand slam

Sent from my iPhone

On Jun 30, 2015, at 7:10 PM, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

First of all, when did Ross Barkan get smart and insightful???? And Andrea, I appreciate and agree with your analysis. A great team effort, everyone. Good thinking and good coaching to get me ready. Well done

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
Sent: Tuesday, June 30, 2015 05:31 PM
To: B
Cc: Hinton, Karen; Walzak, Phil; Wolfe, Emma; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Fw: NY OBSERVER: What Does Bill de Blasio Gain by Openly Blasting Andrew Cuomo?

Given all the clips, I would say this interview achieved the goal we discussed of being "foundational".

Range of articles noting your "measured" tone, "calm and deliberate".

From: Clips

Sent: Tuesday, June 30, 2015 05:26 PM

Subject: NY OBSERVER: What Does Bill de Blasio Gain by Openly Blasting Andrew Cuomo?

What Does Bill de Blasio Gain by Openly Blasting Andrew Cuomo?

NY OBSERVER - Ross Barkan

<http://observer.com/2015/06/what-does-bill-de-blasio-gain-by-openly-blasting-andrew-cuomo/#.VZMGti2z8wU.twitter>

When Mayor Bill de Blasio eviscerated Gov. Andrew Cuomo, a fellow Democrat, in an unusually candid press conference earlier today, there was the usual chatter about a vindictive governor readying to punish an unruly mayor who didn't know his place.

But among progressive Democrats frustrated at an executive who they see as antithetical to their values, there was elation. For Democrats in New York City and Albany, Mr. de Blasio's sudden decision to publicly air his grievances at Mr. Cuomo was long-awaited, the equivalent of a come-to-Jesus moment.

"The only way to make progress with Andrew is to attack him. If you attack him effectively, he'll cave. He's a bully," said Bill Samuels, a prominent liberal activist and fundraiser. "The verdict for Cuomo for many of us was decided long ago."

When Mr. de Blasio fumed that he had been "disappointed at every turn" with Mr. Cuomo and admitted he couldn't "tell you that I can place his philosophy at this point," liberals found their conscience given voice in the mayor of New York City.

For Mr. de Blasio and the left, the indignities are stacked high. Last year, Mr. Cuomo denied Mr. de Blasio the tax hike he sought to fund his universal prekindergarten initiative and later rammed through a law that guaranteed new charter schools free space in New York City, punishing the anti-charter teachers' union and the mayor, who was always a charter critic.

"It keeps playing out in ways that I think sometimes are about dealmaking, sometimes about revenge," Mr. de Blasio said today. "I think each situation obviously is different. But it's not about policy. It's not about substance. It's certainly not about the millions of people affected."

Despite Mr. de Blasio's enthusiastic endorsement of Mr. Cuomo's re-election bid in 2014, including a behind-the-scenes push to win him the Working Families Party endorsement, he found only roadblocks and inexplicable slights. There was the time Mr. Cuomo announced a new, controversial Ebola policy with Republican Gov. Chris Christie—and didn't tell the mayor. There was the time, early this year, when Mr. Cuomo ordered the shuttering of the subways to prepare for a snowstorm—and didn't tell the mayor. There was the time, less than a month later, when Mr. de Blasio, as a centerpiece of his State of the City address, announced a plan to build an affordable housing complex on a Queens rail yard—and Mr. Cuomo, within hours, shot it down. There was the time last week when Mr. Cuomo all but admitted he was trashing the mayor anonymously to reporters.

Mr. de Blasio and his Albany team had hoped incremental, tactful negotiation, combined with an appeal to logic and a degree of righteousness would win the day with Mr. Cuomo. But 2015, when mayoral control was extended for a single year and rent laws were barely strengthened, proved Mr. de Blasio's more honeyed approach to handling Mr. Cuomo failed. Mr. Cuomo's reflexive dismissal of almost everything the mayor advocated—from a reform of the 421a tax break to a decision to allow more charter schools in the city—baffled City Hall.

So today, Mr. de Blasio tried something new.

“Enough is enough. This isn't about personalities. It's about one personality playing politics and using 8.5 million people as pawns,” crowed one de Blasio loyalist.

An Albany Democrat was similarly blunt.

“I think what you are seeing is that the governor has no friends and that is because he has no actual beliefs and vision,” the Democrat said. “He just wants to win.”

Mr. de Blasio's new posture—far more pugilistic than passive aggressive—represents a realization that he has more leverage in this fight than many, including himself, might have believed. Yes, Albany wields inordinate power over New York City, determining whether it can raise its minimum wage, control its public schools, or alter the web of its rent regulations. Yes, an irate Mr. Cuomo can continue to thwart much of what Mr. de Blasio hopes to accomplish.

Yet Mr. de Blasio, for all his scuffles at home, is the more popular man, at least with progressive Democrats who make up a primary electorate. Mr. Cuomo's overall popularity continues to plummet, too: just 44 percent of voters gave him a thumbs up earlier this month, and 42 percent didn't.

Among top Democrats in New York, Mr. Cuomo is virtually friendless. He has burned bridges with Sen. Charles Schumer, Attorney General Eric Schneiderman and State Comptroller Thomas DiNapoli. Ditto the rank-and-file party activists motivated more by ideology than Mr. Cuomo's centrist pragmatism.

If Mr. Cuomo enacts payback on Mr. de Blasio, a city of eight million people could suffer, and Mr. de Blasio can point to a scapegoat in the governor. He has the advantage of the largest media market in the world to disseminate his message; Mr. Cuomo, never one for cameras or microphones, has Albany.

Viewed as feckless by at least some politicians, Mr. de Blasio is still a relatively deft campaigner and messenger, a veteran of several tough elections. Mr. Cuomo has mixed it up with the State Legislature, but how adept he can become at a full-scale public relations war with a mayor of his own party remains an open question.

And Assembly and State Senate Democrats, long cowed by the governor, are feeling emboldened to speak out as Mr. de Blasio has done. If Republicans lose their slim majority in 2016—Mr. de Blasio implied today Mr. Cuomo leaned on them to foil him—Mr. de Blasio will only have more weapons in his arsenal.

In Albany, where strength often matters more than reason, Mr. de Blasio could conceivably hold leverage over Mr. Cuomo if he seeks re-election in 2018. An underfunded challenger, law professor Zephyr Teachout, garnered a surprising 34 percent of the vote against Mr. Cuomo last year. Activists are hoping to coax a bigger name, like Mr. Schneiderman, to take on Mr. Cuomo—if Mr. de Blasio lends his clout and fundraising prowess to an influential challenger, or even feints at doing so, Mr. Cuomo could find himself in a very uncomfortable position.

“We’ve seen Cuomo’s standing plummet as more and more people realize he’s not his father and really has a Republican austerity agenda,” Ms. Teachout said. “Increasingly, what the base cares about really matters.”

From: John Del Cecato
To: B
Cc: hayley@progressiveagenda.us
Subject: Re: Video of your presentation at Berkeley, to use as you wish.
Date: Tuesday, June 30, 2015 7:51:56 PM

Got it - thanks - and awesome coverage so far re today!

> On Jun 30, 2015, at 7:46 PM, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>
>
> Fyi
>
> -----Original Message-----
> From: Robert REICH
> To: Bill de Blasio
> Cc: Michael Paul Carey
> Subject: Video of your presentation at Berkeley, to use as you wish.
> Sent: Jun 30, 2015 7:18 PM
>
> [REDACTED] (password: [REDACTED])
>

From: John Del Cecato
To: B
Cc: hayley@progressiveagenda.us; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: Important note
Date: Tuesday, June 30, 2015 8:05:50 PM

Got it

> On Jun 30, 2015, at 7:58 PM, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>
>
> Make sure I reflect further with you re: conversation with Sharpton, which was striking and thought-provoking

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
To: John Del Cecato; Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea; Williams, Dominic; Fuleihan, Dean \(OMB\)
Subject: National Journal: WHO INVITED TERESA GHILARDUCCI TO THE TABLE?
Date: Wednesday, July 01, 2015 12:00:58 AM

http://www.nationaljournal.com/magazine/teresa-ghilarducci-hillary-clinton-adviser-20150626?wpisrc=nl_daily202&wpmm=1

"She has become a go-to expert for states (including Nevada, Maryland, Connecticut, Nebraska, and Minnesota) and cities (most notably New York) that are debating the future of government workers' pensions or trying to create state-run retirement accounts."

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
To: John Del Cecato
Subject: Fwd: STATE OF POLITICS: De Blasio's Friend In WNY
Date: Wednesday, July 01, 2015 9:02:23 AM

Sent from my iPhone

Begin forwarded message:

From: Clips <Clips@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: July 1, 2015 at 8:53:15 AM EDT
Subject: STATE OF POLITICS: De Blasio's Friend In WNY

De Blasio's Friend In WNY
STATE OF POLITICS - Liz Benjamin
<http://www.nystateofpolitics.com/2015/07/de-blasios-friend-in-wny/>

From the Morning Memo:

During a wide-ranging CapTon interview last night, Buffalo Sen. Marc Panepinto unleashed on the governor, saying he had “lined up with the Senate Republicans against the mayor of New York City” during the end of the 2015 session.

“Poor Mayor de Blasio,” Panepinto said. “There wasn’t one thing that the governor agreed with him on, even though they share a party affiliation.”

The senator’s comments echoed the mayor’s very public venting of his frustrations with the governor over the past six months, which included an accusation that the Senate Republicans were under Cuomo’s “control” when it came to thwarting NYC’s agenda.

Panepinto insisted he has a “great deal of respect for the governor, but he wants to rule the Democratic Party with an iron fist.”

“We’re a party of inclusion we’re a party of discussion...and it’s been my impression during my short time in state government that Governor Cuomo often doesn’t like those debates,” the senator said.

“I’ve been on the receiving end of some of those comments in private meetings, and I’m just hoping the governor learns from this legislative process that really we all are public servants..and there are other ideas that are also workable. His aren’t the only right ideas.”

The senator declined to elaborate on any private discussions he has had with the governor, though he did note that he’s a “labor guy” and an “economic populist” doesn’t believe Cuomo has “liked some of the things that I have to say.”

Panepinto was not endorsed by Cuomo last fall, and his victory against now-former GOP Sen. Mark Grisanti was one of the few bright spots for the Senate Democrats in their failed quest to re-take the majority – in which they received considerable assistance from de Blasio, but not much from the governor (despite his promises to the contrary).

Cuomo stayed out of the race because he felt he owed as much to Grisanti, the last of four GOP senators who voted “yes” on gay marriage to still be sitting in the chamber last fall. Grisanti ended up losing the GOP primary, and ran in the general election solely on the Independence Party line.

Grisanti has since been appointed by Cuomo, and confirmed by the Senate, to a judgeship.

“Senator Grisanti did very well,” Panepinto quipped. “He got an $84,000 raise, and he’s got a shorter commute right now...I think that was the governor paying him back...I don’t have a problem with the governor taking care of someone who was loyal to him.”

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
To: "John Del Cecato"; Wolfe, Emma; Williams, Dominic; Walzak, Phil
Subject: RE: <no subject>
Date: Wednesday, July 01, 2015 10:53:19 AM

We are working on it for his return

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Wednesday, July 01, 2015 10:53 AM
To: Wolfe, Emma; Williams, Dominic; Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: <no subject>

This guy deserves some sort of recognition from the City - what a badass!

<http://www.nytimes.com/2015/07/01/nyregion/sanitation-worker-thwarts-robbery-at-a-manhattan-7-eleven.html?ref=todayspaper>

From: Walzak, Phil
To: "John Del Cecato"; Wolfe, Emma; Williams, Dominic; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: RE: <no subject>
Date: Wednesday, July 01, 2015 10:53:27 AM

I know!

We are planning something

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Wednesday, July 01, 2015 10:53 AM
To: Wolfe, Emma; Williams, Dominic; Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: <no subject>

This guy deserves some sort of recognition from the City - what a badass!

<http://www.nytimes.com/2015/07/01/nyregion/sanitation-worker-thwarts-robbery-at-a-manhattan-7-eleven.html?ref=todayspaper>

From: John Del Cecato
To: Hagelgans, Andrea; Walzak, Phil; Snyder, Thomas; Singleton, Jessica
Cc: Hayley Prim
Subject: Re: TPA email
Date: Wednesday, July 01, 2015 11:57:37 AM

Crap, you're right - good catch - will nix that..

From: "Hagelgans, Andrea" <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Wednesday, July 1, 2015 at 11:54 AM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, "Walzak, Phil" <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Snyder, Thomas" <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Singleton, Jessica" <JSingleton@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>
Subject: RE: TPA email

I think Atlanta is also paid family leave, which we are moving towards but have not yet done. Is there another example?

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, July 01, 2015 11:45 AM
To: Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea; Snyder, Thomas; Singleton, Jessica
Cc: Hayley Prim
Subject: Re: TPA email

Adding Jessie too

From: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Date: Wednesday, July 1, 2015 at 11:30 AM
To: "Walzak, Phil" <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Hagelgans, Andrea" <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Snyder, Thomas" <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: TPA email

I try not to bother you guys with these - but since this one is in MBDB's name, wanted you to see/bless

Subject: This week
Sender: Bill de Blasio

Friend—

It's been a big, big week in the fight against income inequality.

There's big news out of New York City, where leaders have taken action to freeze out-of-control rent. I'm also thrilled to have signed legislation to help stop wage theft, and get people returning home from prison a second chance at an economic future.

Meanwhile halfway across the country in Atlanta, city employees have just won paid sick leave.

And there's bigger news still to come from Washington DC, as President Obama is poised to expand overtime to pay to as many as 5 million more Americans.

There's still a lot left to fight for before The Progressive Agenda agenda becomes real policy in all 50 states.

Will you share it online to help bring American workers together in the fight against income inequality?

This week we saw that something different is happening in this country right now. And The Progressive Agenda is part of that change. It's a movement from the grassroots. Voters are adding their names to demand real action on income inequality, as elected officials and community leaders sign the pledge to make it happen.

We can't let up now, when there's so much at stake for American workers.

Share the The Progressive Agenda right now. We've got to get as many people involved in this as we can.

Thanks for the truly important work you're doing.

Bill de Blasio
Mayor, New York City

[Share Button]

From: John Del Cecato
To: Snyder, Thomas; Williams, Dominic
Subject: Politico on TPP/pharma
Date: Wednesday, July 01, 2015 12:07:28 PM

http://www.politico.com/agenda/story/2015/06/tpp-deal-leaked-pharma-000126?hp=t1_r

From: John Del Cecato
To: Wolfe, Emma; Walzak, Phil; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Tweet by Tom Precious on Twitter
Date: Wednesday, July 01, 2015 1:18:51 PM

Tom Precious (@TomPreciousALB)

7/1/15, 1:13 PM

2 Dem Party sources:Cuomo admin calling around today seeking Dems to publicly back Cuomo in fight w/ de Blasio.

Download the Twitter app

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: "John Del Cecato"; Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: RE: TPA email
Date: Thursday, July 02, 2015 9:50:22 AM

"freeze out-of-control rent for the first time in NYC history" Good to go by me.

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Wednesday, July 01, 2015 11:31 AM
To: Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: TPA email

I try not to bother you guys with these - but since this one is in MBDB's name, wanted you to see/bless

Subject: This week
Sender: Bill de Blasio

Friend—

It's been a big, big week in the fight against income inequality.

There's big news out of New York City, where leaders have taken action to freeze out-of-control rent. I'm also thrilled to have signed legislation to help stop wage theft, and get people returning home from prison a second chance at an economic future.

Meanwhile halfway across the country in Atlanta, city employees have just won paid sick leave.

And there's bigger news still to come from Washington DC, as President Obama is poised to expand overtime to pay to as many as 5 million more Americans.

There's still a lot left to fight for before The Progressive Agenda agenda becomes real policy in all 50 states.

Will you share it online to help bring American workers together in the fight against income inequality?

This week we saw that something different is happening in this country right now. And The Progressive Agenda is part of that change. It's a movement from the grassroots. Voters are adding their names to demand real action on income inequality, as elected officials and community leaders sign the pledge to make it happen.

We can't let up now, when there's so much at stake for American workers.

Share the The Progressive Agenda right now. We've got to get as many people involved in this as we can.

Thanks for the truly important work you're doing.

Bill de Blasio
Mayor, New York City

[Share Button]

From: Hayley Prim
To: B
Cc: jfdc@akpdmedia.com
Subject: Re: Fw: WAPO: Opinion: Clinton and Obama are on the wrong side of history
Date: Friday, July 03, 2015 7:41:17 PM

Yes-- great piece!

On Friday, July 3, 2015, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Thought you'd like this

From: Clips
Sent: Friday, July 03, 2015 03:13 PM
Subject: WAPO: Opinion: Clinton and Obama are on the wrong side of history

Opinion: Clinton and Obama are on the wrong side of history

WASHINGTON POST - Dana Milbank

http://www.washingtonpost.com/opinions/clinton-and-obama-are-on-the-wrong-side-of-history/2015/07/03/8e662424-2183-11e5-bf41-c23f5d3face1_story.html

Scenes from an insurrection:

In Madison, Wisc., Wednesday, 10,000 people show up to rally for longshot presidential candidate Bernie Sanders – giving the self-declared “democratic socialist” the largest crowd any candidate has had so far this election cycle. Sanders, running on a shoestring and a prayer, has closed to within single digits of Hillary Clinton in New Hampshire and is surging in Iowa.

In New York on Tuesday, populist Mayor Bill de Blasio lashes out in vitriolic terms at New York Gov. Andrew Cuomo, a Democrat like de Blasio, accusing him of “games” and politically motivated “revenge.” De Blasio and other Democrats blast Cuomo’s handling of housing, immigration, the minimum wage and education.

In Washington last week, an overwhelming majority of Democrats – 158 of 186 in the House and 31 of 44 in the Senate – opposes President Obama on free-trade legislation. Obama prevails in the vote after failing in a similar vote earlier in the month, but the episode leaves the president attempting to repair a deep rift with his fellow Democrats by championing overtime rules this week favored by unions.

These are not isolated events. Together, they show anew how the populist movement is ascendant within the Democratic Party, and they confirm that the balance of power has shifted. Clinton, who reports raising $45 million since launching her campaign in April, will almost certainly beat the upstart 73-year-old with the crazy white hair. Obama won on trade. But Clinton and Obama are, to borrow a favorite phrase of the president, on the wrong side of history. As I’ve noted, the country is trending in a more liberal direction, and a growing proportion of Democrats are hardcore liberals.

There are various causes, but the change is likely in part a reaction to the tea party and to the Republican Party’s swing to the right. Democrats so far have shown less inclination to eat their own, but there is a real possibility that intraparty fratricide will break out if Clinton and the rest of the Democratic establishment don't co-opt the rising populist movement. In New York, for example, there is already talk of a liberal primary challenge to Cuomo if he chooses to run again in 2018.

That the Sanders campaign has caught fire is a surprise to just about everybody, not least the candidate himself, who had his doubts. The Brooklyn-born Vermonter with a didactic style lacks the fire and charisma of Elizabeth Warren, who chose not to run. But his call for huge infrastructure spending and taxing the rich has caught the moment just right, even if Sanders himself is an imperfect vessel.

In May, Clinton had a 31-point lead in New Hampshire over her nearest potential Democratic competitor in the WMUR-CNN poll; now she leads Sanders by only eight points, which because of the poll's methodology is a statistical tie. In Iowa, likewise, Clinton had a 45-point lead over Sanders in May, according to a Quinnipiac University poll. Now her lead has shrunk to 19 points.

The populist pushback that propels Sanders' unexpected success also can be seen in the incendiary remarks of New York's top populist, de Blasio, who took the extraordinary step of calling journalists to City Hall to denounce the governor. He called Cuomo's actions "not anything like acceptable government practice," according to the New York Times.

At the heart of the criticism is a sense that Cuomo, though the son of the late liberal lion Mario Cuomo, was insufficiently pure in his ideology and too willing to strike deals with Republicans. Several New York liberals have begun rumbles of a primary challenge to Cuomo – an effort that would be like the conservative efforts to purge the Republican Party of RINOs (Republicans in Name Only) in recent elections.

Obama, too, has been upended by the populist wave. Though he eventually prevailed in the "fast-track" trade vote, he had nothing like the support Bill Clinton got when he pushed through the North American Free Trade Agreement with half of Senate Democrats and 40 percent of House Democrats. Liberals called that a victory. "This isn't 1993 and this is not Bill Clinton's Democratic Party," Rep. Rosa DeLauro (Conn.) who led Democratic opposition in the House, wrote in the Huffington Post Thursday.

Bill Clinton reshaped the party with moderate "New Democrats," but the new New Democrats look more like the old. Hillary Clinton, notably, sided with liberals on the trade legislation, which is smart: If she doesn't want to get trampled by populists on the march, she'll need to grab a baton and pretend to be the drum major.

From: John Del Cecato
To: B
Cc: hayley@progressiveagenda.us
Subject: Re: WAPO: Opinion: Clinton and Obama are on the wrong side of history
Date: Friday, July 03, 2015 9:42:07 PM

Right on the money

On Jul 3, 2015, at 6:38 PM, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Thought you'd like this

From: Clips
Sent: Friday, July 03, 2015 03:13 PM
Subject: WAPO: Opinion: Clinton and Obama are on the wrong side of history

Opinion: Clinton and Obama are on the wrong side of history

WASHINGTON POST - Dana Milbank

http://www.washingtonpost.com/opinions/clinton-and-obama-are-on-the-wrong-side-of-history/2015/07/03/8e662424-2183-11e5-bf41-c23f5d3face1_story.html

Scenes from an insurrection:

In Madison, Wisc., Wednesday, 10,000 people show up to rally for longshot presidential candidate Bernie Sanders – giving the self-declared “democratic socialist” the largest crowd any candidate has had so far this election cycle. Sanders, running on a shoestring and a prayer, has closed to within single digits of Hillary Clinton in New Hampshire and is surging in Iowa.

In New York on Tuesday, populist Mayor Bill de Blasio lashes out in vitriolic terms at New York Gov. Andrew Cuomo, a Democrat like de Blasio, accusing him of “games” and politically motivated “revenge.” De Blasio and other Democrats blast Cuomo’s handling of housing, immigration, the minimum wage and education.

In Washington last week, an overwhelming majority of Democrats – 158 of 186 in the House and 31 of 44 in the Senate – opposes President Obama on free-trade legislation. Obama prevails in the vote after failing in a similar vote earlier in the month, but the episode leaves the president attempting to repair a deep rift with his fellow Democrats by championing overtime rules this week favored by unions.

These are not isolated events. Together, they show anew how the populist movement is ascendant within the Democratic Party, and they confirm that the balance of power has shifted. Clinton, who reports raising $45 million since launching her campaign in April, will almost certainly beat the upstart 73-year-old with the crazy white hair. Obama won on trade. But Clinton and Obama are, to borrow a favorite phrase of the president, on the wrong side of history. As I've noted, the country is trending in a more liberal direction, and a growing proportion of Democrats are hardcore liberals.

There are various causes, but the change is likely in part a reaction to the tea party and to the Republican Party's swing to the right. Democrats so far have shown less inclination to eat their own, but there is a real possibility that intraparty fratricide will break out if Clinton and the rest of the Democratic establishment don't co-opt the rising populist movement. In New York, for example, there is already talk of a liberal primary challenge to Cuomo if he chooses to run again in 2018.

That the Sanders campaign has caught fire is a surprise to just about everybody, not least the candidate himself, who had his doubts. The Brooklyn-born Vermonter with a didactic style lacks the fire and charisma of Elizabeth Warren, who chose not to run. But his call for huge infrastructure spending and taxing the rich has caught the moment just right, even if Sanders himself is an imperfect vessel.

In May, Clinton had a 31-point lead in New Hampshire over her nearest potential Democratic competitor in the WMUR-CNN poll; now she leads Sanders by only eight points, which because of the poll's methodology is a statistical tie. In Iowa, likewise, Clinton had a 45-point lead over Sanders in May, according to a Quinnipiac University poll. Now her lead has shrunk to 19 points.

The populist pushback that propels Sanders' unexpected success also can be seen in the incendiary remarks of New York's top populist, de Blasio, who took the extraordinary step of calling journalists to City Hall to denounce the governor. He called Cuomo's actions "not anything like acceptable government practice," according to the New York Times.

At the heart of the criticism is a sense that Cuomo, though the son of the late liberal lion Mario Cuomo, was insufficiently pure in his ideology and too willing to strike deals with Republicans. Several New York liberals have begun rumbles of a primary challenge to Cuomo – an effort that would be like the conservative efforts to purge the Republican Party of RINOs (Republicans in Name Only) in recent elections.

Obama, too, has been upended by the populist wave. Though he eventually prevailed in the "fast-track" trade vote, he had nothing like the support Bill Clinton got when he pushed through the North American Free Trade Agreement with half of Senate Democrats and 40 percent of House Democrats. Liberals called that a victory. "This isn't 1993 and this is not Bill Clinton's Democratic Party," Rep. Rosa DeLauro (Conn.) who led Democratic opposition in the House, wrote in the Huffington Post Thursday.

Bill Clinton reshaped the party with moderate "New Democrats," but the new New Democrats look more like the old. Hillary Clinton, notably, sided with liberals on the trade legislation, which is smart: If she doesn't want to get trampled by populists on the march, she'll need to grab a baton and pretend to be the drum major.

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
To: John Del Cecato; jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com; Blumm, Kate
Subject: Tweet by Equitable Growth on Twitter
Date: Sunday, July 05, 2015 7:33:26 AM

Equitable Growth (@equitablegrowth)

7/5/15, 7:30 AM

New analysis by Emmanuel Saez finds U.S. income inequality persists amid growth in 2014 equitablegrowth.org/research/u-s-i... pic.twitter.com/wfNMSp8iq5

Download the Twitter app

Sent from my iPhone

From: John Del Cecato
To: Hinton, Karen
Subject: Re: Tuesdy
Date: Sunday, July 05, 2015 7:27:28 PM

No worries - good luck at the [REDACTED] !

> On Jul 5, 2015, at 5:52 PM, Hinton, Karen <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>

> Hey just learned i have to go with [REDACTED] tuesday so i wont be able to do breakfast. Can we reschedule for the week of 20th? Sorry about this.

>

> Sent from my iPhone

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: John Del Cecato; Hagelgans, Andrea; Walzak, Phil; Hayley Primm \(hayley@progressiveagenda.us\)
Subject: RE: Tweet by Maggie Haberman on Twitter
Date: Monday, July 06, 2015 10:41:12 AM

Just a thought: since we want to get B into at least cable news about TPA in coming weeks, we should consider timing in light of this tweet. Would it be better to get him exposure before or after HRC starts laying out specific policies?

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
Sent: Friday, July 03, 2015 2:52 PM
To: John Del Cecato; Snyder, Thomas; Hagelgans, Andrea; Walzak, Phil
Subject: Tweet by Maggie Haberman on Twitter

Maggie Haberman (@maggieNYT)

7/3/15, 2:48 PM

Clinton says she'll be laying out specific policies "starting in about 10 days"

Download the Twitter app

Sent from my iPhone

From: John Del Cecato
To: Singh, Manvir
Subject: Re: Mayors organizing meeting
Date: Monday, July 06, 2015 12:48:57 PM

Works for me

On Jul 6, 2015, at 12:06 PM, Singh, Manvir <MSingh1@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

All-

We are scheduling a big picture chat on Mayor Organizing. Is everyone available at 11am on Wednesday (7/8)?

Best,
Manvir Singh
Mayor's Office of Intergovernmental Affairs

From: John Del Cecato
To: Hayley Prim
Cc: Snyder, Thomas; Walzak, Phil
Subject: Re: TPA
Date: Monday, July 06, 2015 12:50:11 PM

Wed at 10am would be great

On Jul 6, 2015, at 11:00 AM, Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us> wrote:

Makes sense, I can do any of those times.

On Mon, Jul 6, 2015 at 10:49 AM, Snyder, Thomas
<TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Can we meet at 10 or 11 on Wednesday morning to follow up on TPA issues (alternative time Tuesday 4:30 or 5pm):

1. Status of Forum
2. Status of Latino Constituency meeting
3. Getting B on Cable news or Buzzfeed, etc.
4. Establishment of new 501©4
5. Draft TPA budget
6. Update if any on Prado

Let me know your avail.

Tom Snyder
Chief of Staff
Office of the Mayor
City Hall
New York, NY 10007
212-341-5050

From: John Del Cecato
To: Hinton, Karen
Cc: Banks, Angela
Subject: Re: Breakfast????
Date: Monday, July 06, 2015 2:00:37 PM

Sounds good

> On Jul 6, 2015, at 1:04 PM, Hinton, Karen <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>

> Ok... Is Odeon OK?

>

> Angela, can you put on my calendar, 8 am,

>

> -----Original Message-----

> From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]

> Sent: Monday, July 06, 2015 12:52 PM

> To: Hinton, Karen

> Subject: Re: Breakfast????

>

> Works for me

>

>

>

>> On Jul 6, 2015, at 10:03 AM, Hinton, Karen <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>>

>> How about the 15th?

>>

>> -----Original Message-----

>> From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]

>> Sent: Monday, July 06, 2015 10:00 AM

>> To: Hinton, Karen

>> Subject: Re: Breakfast????

>>

>> Wednesday would be best for me for breakfast

>>

>>

>>

>>> On Jul 6, 2015, at 8:02 AM, Hinton, Karen <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>>>

>>> You available?

>>> <meeting.ics>

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: Singh, Manvir
Cc: Fromberg, Rick; Yazgi, Stephanie; Da Costa, Ricky; Neal; Schwartz, Regina; Seignious, Sandy; jfdc@akpdmedia.com
Subject: Re: Mayors organizing meeting
Date: Monday, July 06, 2015 3:11:19 PM

I have a 10 am so good for just 30 minutes

Sent from my iPhone

On Jul 6, 2015, at 3:04 PM, Singh, Manvir <MSingh1@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Apologies all- we are now looking to move this to 9:30am on Wednesday (7/8). Does that work for everybody?

From: Singh, Manvir
Sent: Monday, July 06, 2015 12:06 PM
To: Fromberg, Rick; Yazgi, Stephanie; Da Costa, Ricky; Neal; Schwartz, Regina; Seignious, Sandy; Snyder, Thomas; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'
Subject: Mayors organizing meeting

All-

We are scheduling a big picture chat on Mayor Organizing. Is everyone available at 11am on Wednesday (7/8)?

Best,
Manvir Singh
Mayor's Office of Intergovernmental Affairs

From: Yazgi, Stephanie
To: Singh, Manvir; Fromberg, Rick; Da Costa, Ricky; Neal; Schwartz, Regina; Seignious, Sandy; Snyder, Thomas; jfdc@akpdmedia.com
Subject: RE: Mayors organizing meeting
Date: Monday, July 06, 2015 3:16:18 PM

yes

From: Singh, Manvir
Sent: Monday, July 06, 2015 3:04 PM
To: Fromberg, Rick; Yazgi, Stephanie; Da Costa, Ricky; Neal; Schwartz, Regina; Seignious, Sandy; Snyder, Thomas; jfdc@akpdmedia.com
Subject: RE: Mayors organizing meeting

Apologies all- we are now looking to move this to 9:30am on Wednesday (7/8). Does that work for everybody?

From: Singh, Manvir
Sent: Monday, July 06, 2015 12:06 PM
To: Fromberg, Rick; Yazgi, Stephanie; Da Costa, Ricky; Neal; Schwartz, Regina; Seignious, Sandy; Snyder, Thomas; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'
Subject: Mayors organizing meeting

All-

We are scheduling a big picture chat on Mayor Organizing. Is everyone available at 11am on Wednesday (7/8)?

Best,
Manvir Singh
Mayor's Office of Intergovernmental Affairs

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
To: Walzak, Phil; John Del Cecato \(jfdc@akpdmedia.com\); Hinton, Karen; Wolfe, Emma
Cc: Adams, Marti
Subject: FW: follow up
Date: Monday, July 06, 2015 4:22:16 PM

I'm going to talk to the producer later this week
But this sounds like a good opportunity for TPA

From: Malter, Jordan [<mailto:jordan.malter@turner.com>]
Sent: Monday, July 06, 2015 4:20 PM
To: Hagelgans, Andrea
Cc: Luhby, Tami
Subject: Re: follow up

Hi Andrea,

Just following up on this.

Tami and I discussed some topics that we thought would be good and we decided housing affordability would be a good one for the mayor to speak on. High rental costs are hitting the wallet of the middle class now and sagging homeownership is hampering future wealth acquisition. It's an issue that NYC is dealing with acutely, but it's also a problem across the country.

Think he'd be interested in coming in to discuss this with us? Let's chat on the phone when you have a few minutes. Thanks!

Jordan
Video Producer, CNNMoney
o 212-275-7926
c 646-263-7812
@jmalt87

From: <Hagelgans>, Andrea <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Thursday, June 18, 2015 4:42 PM
To: Jordan Malter <jordan.malter@turner.com>
Cc: "Luhby, Tami" <Tami.Luhby@turner.com>
Subject: RE: follow up

Thanks for this. My apologies for the delay. I'll get you some thoughts in the coming days. He is interested in doing it.

From: Malter, Jordan [<mailto:jordan.malter@turner.com>]

Sent: Wednesday, June 10, 2015 6:07 PM
To: Hagelgans, Andrea
Cc: Luhby, Tami
Subject: Re: follow up

Hi Andrea,

I'm actually the video producer for this, so I'm focused on the multimedia aspect. Looping in our reporter as well.

What we'd really like to do with the Mayor is a video op-ed, in the style we did with economist Joseph Stiglitz:

<http://money.cnn.com/video/news/economy/2015/06/03/joseph-stiglitz-land-of-opportunity-america-inequality-op-ed.cnnmoney>

Ideally, we would couple that video with an op-ed article that he would write as well.

We would like to narrow the focus of it to something regarding economic opportunity that NYC is dealing with, but has national implications. We would also like it to be something fresh, that he hasn't written or spoken about in depth.

What topics that fit this mold would he like to discuss? We will also think on it and get back to you in a few days. We are thinking a mid-July release.

Thanks!

Jordan
Video Producer, CNNMoney
o 212-275-7926
c 646-263-7812
@jmalt87

From: <Hagelgans>, Andrea <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Date: Wednesday, June 10, 2015 4:22 PM

To: Jordan Malter <jordan.malter@turner.com>

Subject: follow up

Hi Jordan,

Wanted to get a few more details on word length for the op-ed from Mayor de Blasio? Deadline? Please let me know. Thanks!

Andrea Hagelgans
Office of the Mayor
Direct – 212.341.5372

Cell – 718.679.8965

ahagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: Singh, Manvir; John Del Cecato
Cc: Schwartz, Regina
Subject: RE: Mayors organizing meeting
Date: Monday, July 06, 2015 5:34:46 PM

OK I can change my 10 to 10:30

From: Singh, Manvir
Sent: Monday, July 06, 2015 5:24 PM
To: John Del Cecato; Snyder, Thomas
Cc: Schwartz, Regina
Subject: RE: Mayors organizing meeting

+Tom +Regina

Is this 10am flexible at all? Emma has to be in Queens after this meeting and 9:30 works for other folks. If it is not we'll try and find another time

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Monday, July 06, 2015 5:09 PM
To: Singh, Manvir
Subject: Re: Mayors organizing meeting

Ok - i'm in the meeting with tom at 10am though

From: "Singh, Manvir" <MSingh1@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Monday, July 6, 2015 at 3:04 PM
To: "Fromberg, Rick" <RFromberg@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Stephanie Yazgi <syazgi@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Da Costa, Ricky" <RDaCosta@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Neal <[REDACTED]> "Schwartz, Regina" <RSchwartz@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Seignious, Sandy" <sseignious@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Snyder, Thomas" <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: Mayors organizing meeting

Apologies all- we are now looking to move this to 9:30am on Wednesday (7/8). Does that work for everybody?

From: Singh, Manvir
Sent: Monday, July 06, 2015 12:06 PM
To: Fromberg, Rick; Yazgi, Stephanie; Da Costa, Ricky; Neal; Schwartz, Regina; Seignious, Sandy; Snyder, Thomas; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'
Subject: Mayors organizing meeting

All-

We are scheduling a big picture chat on Mayor Organizing. Is everyone available at 11am on Wednesday (7/8)?

Best,
Manvir Singh
Mayor's Office of Intergovernmental Affairs

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: John Del Ceccato \(jfdc@akpdmedia.com\); Hayley Primm \(hayley@progressiveagenda.us\); Walzak, Phil
Subject: RE: TPA
Date: Monday, July 06, 2015 5:41:29 PM

I want to change this meeting time to 10:30am. OK?

From: Snyder, Thomas
Sent: Monday, July 06, 2015 10:49 AM
To: John Del Ceccato (jfdc@akpdmedia.com); Hayley Primm (hayley@progressiveagenda.us); Walzak, Phil
Subject: TPA

Can we meet at 10 or 11 on Wednesday morning to follow up on TPA issues (alternative time Tuesday 4:30 or 5pm):

1. Status of Forum
2. Status of Latino Constituency meeting
3. Getting B on Cable news or Buzzfeed, etc.
4. Establishment of new 501©4
5. Draft TPA budget
6. Update if any on Prado

Let me know your avail.

Tom Snyder
Chief of Staff
Office of the Mayor
City Hall
New York, NY 10007
212-341-5050

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: John Del Ceccato
Subject: Fwd: Pls send
Date: Monday, July 06, 2015 7:29:55 PM

Get call list together, see below

Sent from my iPhone

Begin forwarded message:

From: B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: July 6, 2015 at 7:23:37 PM EDT
To: "Carey, Michael" <MPCarey@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: "Snyder, Thomas" <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Pls send

Thurs and fri as they are now. I'm looking to do a lot of TPA call time asap

From: John Del Cecato
To: B; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: NYT
Date: Tuesday, July 07, 2015 8:24:34 AM

Why a Meaningful Boost for Those at the Bottom Requires Help From the Top

Just about every high-profile politician in the country today says income inequality is a problem. And while those from the center-left to the far right differ on how they would reduce inequality, they tend to agree on one thing: We can do it without affecting the rich.

“Some argue that we can close the income gap by pulling down the top,” New York’s governor, Andrew Cuomo, wrote in an Op-Ed article for The New York Times in May. “I believe we should do it by lifting up the bottom.”

It’s a nice thought. And given that the rich donate enormous sums of money to political campaigns and have outsize influence in the news media and in public policy debates, it would make the politics of fixing income inequality vastly easier. Unfortunately, as just-released data compiled by the economists Thomas Piketty and Emmanuel Saez make clear, there’s little reason to believe it will work.

Consider the idea of significantly raising the minimum wage, the most ambitious policy proposal currently on the table for boosting the incomes of the working poor. Mr. Cuomo made the case that fast-food workers in New York should receive a substantial raise and announced that a state wage board would look into the issue. (The board’s recommendations are due out sometime this month.)

Photo

Even a nationwide minimum wage of $15 an hour would not change the overall pattern of income inequality. Credit Seth Wenig/Associated Press

Let's do him several steps better and imagine increasing the minimum wage to $15 an hour for all workers everywhere in the country paid by the hour. Suppose we'd done that between the post-recession years of 2009 and 2014, when inequality spiked. What would it have accomplished?

The answer is a fair amount, but not enough to undo the escalation in the income gap. According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, about 44 million hourly-paid workers made less than $15 an hour in 2014. In an unpublished table, the bureau then helpfully breaks out the number of workers in each wage increment: under $3; $3 to $3.49; $3.50 to $3.99; and so on up until $12 to $14.99. (The bands get bigger as you move up the wage ladder.)

The amount of income that raising the minimum wage to $15 per hour would have generated for these 44 million people would probably have been between $300 billion and $400 billion. (That calculation depends on what you assume about weekly work hours and the earnings of workers who receive tips, whether it's around the minimum wage once you factor in tips or closer to their sub-minimum base wage. I also based the calculation on the 2014 hourly-paid worker population.)

That's unquestionably a huge increase. For the average family in the bottom 90 percent, actual income growth was only $533 between 2009 and 2014. If we add in $350 billion, average income growth for the bottom 90 percent rises by an additional $2,360.

Still, as a group, the income of the top 10 percent of families rose by much more over the same period, adjusting for population growth: $682 billion, according to the latest Piketty-Saez release, which is based on Americans' tax return data. This works out to $41,300 per family.

So even if we'd raised the minimum wage to $15 an hour, the top 10 percent would still have emerged from the 2009-2014 period with a substantially larger share of the increase in the nation's income than the bottom 90 percent. Inequality would still have increased, just not by as much. (I assume here that raising the minimum wage would not have reduced the income of those in the top 10 percent.)

Of course, policy makers have more options for reducing inequality than simply lifting up the working poor. Though raising pay for middle-income workers is much more complicated than raising the minimum wage, it's certainly a reasonable aspiration for a politician concerned about inequality. Hillary Rodham Clinton, who said in her recent campaign kickoff speech that "we can't stand by while inequality increases," seemed to endorse this approach when she also said, "The middle class needs more growth and more fairness."

But even raising middle-class wages probably wouldn't be enough to offset the recent gains at the top. Since 1970, the best five-year run of income growth for the bottom 90 percent of families came between 1994 and 1999, when the group's income rose by 14.1 percent, adjusting for population growth. If the bottom 90 percent had enjoyed the same run of income gains between 2009 and 2014, they would have collectively earned $683 billion during that time — almost identical to the $682 billion that the top 10 percent pulled in. And that would have been with the best income growth in almost two generations. (The actual increase in income for the bottom 90 percent was $79 billion.)

That almost certainly overstates the effect of increasing income growth for the bottom 90 percent of families. As a practical matter, it's highly unlikely that you could increase income growth for the bottom 90 percent without also lifting income growth for those at the top, thereby increasing inequality.

The 1990s, which Mrs. Clinton approvingly cited in her speech, are a useful data point in this regard. Between 1992, the last full year of George H.W. Bush's presidency, and 2000, the last full year of Bill Clinton's, the average income of families in the bottom 90 percent grew by a seemingly impressive 15.4 percent. But the average income of families in the top 10 percent grew by over 50 percent. (The average income of the top 1 percent nearly doubled.) Inequality between the bottom 90 percent and the top 10 percent increased substantially.

Or, put differently: The Clinton years had very impressive economic growth over all, some of which benefited families in the bottom 90 percent. But a majority of the growth benefited those in the top 10 percent, who took home nearly two-thirds of all the income gains as a group.

All of which suggests that if reducing inequality is the goal, there's simply no alternative to slowing the income growth of the highest earners by, say, raising upper-income tax rates or limiting the favorable tax treatment of pay for corporate executives — a point a variety of economists, like Joseph Stiglitz, have made of late.

They make that argument not just because there's no precedent in the past 45 years for a rate of growth that would raise everyone else's income rapidly enough to narrow the income gap, but also because they believe rapid growth for the very affluent precludes rapid growth for everyone else.

“We should not see this as hitting the top so that the bottom looks good in comparison,” Mr. Saez said in an email. Rather, he said, it's about preventing the rich from vacuuming up the gains that might otherwise go to the rest of the population.

Next in The Upshot

Paying People to Be Healthy Usually Works, if the Public Can Stomach It

From: John Del Cecato
To: Hagelgans, Andrea; Gunaratna, Mahen; Walzak, Phil
Cc: Hinton, Karen
Subject: Re: Another good talking point
Date: Tuesday, July 07, 2015 12:22:34 PM

Yes - we can put that together

From: "Hagelgans, Andrea" <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Tuesday, July 7, 2015 at 10:51 AM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, "Gunaratna, Mahen" <MGunaratna@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Walzak, Phil" <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: "Hinton, Karen" <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: RE: Another good talking point

JDC- Are you all working updated TPA messaging for the Mayor? Imagine we'll need to engage again soon

He'd like tighter messaging and examples, as we discussed previously.

Thanks!

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Monday, July 06, 2015 5:03 PM
To: Gunaratna, Mahen; Jon Fromowitz; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: Another good talking point

<http://www.politifact.com/truth-o-meter/statements/2015/apr/19/bernie-s/bernie-sanders-says-99-percent-new-income-going-to/>

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: "John Del Cecato"
Subject: RE: ????
Date: Tuesday, July 07, 2015 2:26:31 PM

Lemme see it too before fiinal.

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Tuesday, July 07, 2015 2:18 PM
To: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: ????

Yes - I talked to Baldick - will try to get the paperwork filed this week... I just need Geri to bless it, as she'll be one of the names on it... I talked to her about it on Friday & she was game - but wanted to double-check before we file

From: "Snyder, Thomas" <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Tuesday, July 7, 2015 at 1:48 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: ????

Are you getting anywhere on establishment of new C4?

Tom Snyder
Chief of Staff
Office of the Mayor
City Hall
New York, NY 10007
212-341-5050

From: Hinton, Karen
To: "Mahen Gunaratna"
Cc: Andrea Hagelgans; PhilWalzak; [REDACTED] John Del Cecato
Subject: RE: When did he say this about her on TPP?
Date: Tuesday, July 07, 2015 3:44:34 PM

Yes, This is fantastic. Thanks so much!

From: Mahen Gunaratna [mailto:[REDACTED]]
Sent: Tuesday, July 07, 2015 3:33 PM
To: Hinton, Karen
Cc: Andrea Hagelgans; PhilWalzak; [REDACTED] John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: When did he say this about her on TPP?

FYI, this is done (thanks to our interns). They found approx 770 on-record statements from admin spox since the start of the administration (!)

Karen, want me to have someone on my team work with Natalie or Rosemary to add this into the statement bank?

On Sat, Jun 13, 2015 at 11:40 AM, Hinton, Karen <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote: Great idea.

Sent from my iPhone

On Jun 13, 2015, at 11:28 AM, Mahen Gunaratna <[REDACTED]> wrote:

Here's an idea for the statement bank:

What if my team did a Lexis search from 1/1/14 to present (past 18 months) cross-checking "de Blasio" with any of the following terms: Phil Walzak, Peter Ragone, Karen Hinton, Marti Adams, Maibe Ponet, Wiley Norvell, Ishanee Parikh, Monica Klein, Christina Levin, spokesperson, spokeswoman, or spokesman.

Would that capture every single one of our on-record statements since he's been in office? No. But it would get us to a much better place in terms of ensuring the statement bank is robust and useful.

It would be a few days worth of work, but I have interns this summer who could assist. Not rocket science.

Sent from my iPhone

On Jun 13, 2015, at 11:15 AM, Hinton, Karen <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

We've been talking in press office about making it more robust by taking good zingers from mayor and adding them to bank when we read or hear.

Sent from my iPhone

On Jun 13, 2015, at 11:11 AM, Mahen Gunaratna <[REDACTED]> wrote:

My view is that our transcripts easily encompass 90+% of what he says publicly. The remainder (one-on-one interviews for which we typically don't produce transcripts but try to keep audio on file, spox-level statements, etc.) is harder to track systematically. Perhaps we could work together to shore up the statement bank - my understanding is that it is currently not very thorough.

Sent from my iPhone

On Jun 13, 2015, at 11:07 AM, Mahen Gunaratna
<[REDACTED]> wrote:

Not 100% necessary - totally your call. If there's any easy way to do it, sure, but no need if it's cumbersome.

Sent from my iPhone

On Jun 13, 2015, at 10:45 AM, Hinton, Karen
<KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Ok I should send u written statements from him. Will do.

Sent from my iPhone

On Jun 13, 2015, at 10:44 AM, Mahen Gunaratna <[REDACTED]>
wrote:

Ok, got it. Thought I missed it in a transcript!

Sent from my iPhone

On Jun 13, 2015, at 10:37 AM, Hinton, Karen <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov>
wrote:

I gave to politico. He said it to me in briefing earlier.

Sent from my iPhone

On Jun 13, 2015, at 10:24 AM, Mahen Gunaratna
<[REDACTED]>
> wrote:

Karen,
any idea?
I don't have any record of him saying this, but might be overlooking something.

Sent from my iPhone

On Jun
13, 2015, at 7:43
AM,

Andrea
Hagelgans

< [REDACTED] >
> wrote:

Was
it
in the gaggle
?
Karen
would know

Sent from my iPhone

On Jun
13, 2015,
at 12:17
AM,

Mahen
Gunaratna

< [REDACTED] >

>
wrote:

He said
this post-today's vote?

"It
was a missed opportunity,"
said
New York City
mayor
Bill

de Blasio,
the progressive leader who has declined to endorse Clinton several times despite running her 2000
Senate campaign.

<http://www.politico.com/story/2015/06/hillary-clinton-trade-criticized-progressives-118945.html#ixzz3cucjBDxr>

From: John Del Cecato
To: Snyder, Thomas; "Hayley Prim"
Subject: Re: FYI
Date: Tuesday, July 07, 2015 4:06:48 PM

1. They were just pointing it out. We could still do Iowa - it's just that South Carolina has a lot of built-in advantages: AfAm vote, not flooded with interest groups, could be a firewall for Hillary if Sanders DOES keep rising, etc.

2. In the 2008 race, there were two debates in South Carolina in the off-year (2007) - one in April & one in July - so I don't think we need to wait until February, even if we went the South Carolina direction.

From: "Snyder, Thomas" <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Tuesday, July 7, 2015 at 3:05 PM
To: Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: FYI

Feb seems awful late. Let's discuss tomorrow.

John - I couldn't tell from your original note if CNN was merely pointing it out or if CNN was saying no go in Iowa.

From: Hayley Prim [<mailto:hayley@progressiveagenda.us>]
Sent: Tuesday, July 07, 2015 3:01 PM
To: John Del Cecato
Cc: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: FYI

Do you want to push the forum back to February? How likely that we can get candidates to SC before Iowa and New Hampshire happen?

On Tue, Jul 7, 2015 at 12:56 PM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:
Well - it just draws from a lot of the pool in which we working - Drake University, liberals and conservatives together, likely focused on inequality, etc - but I guess it doesn't need to be the only one in that space

From: "Snyder, Thomas" <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Tuesday, July 7, 2015 at 12:48 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>
Subject: RE: FYI

Why do you think this takes Iowa off for a TPA Forum?

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, July 07, 2015 12:30 PM
To: Snyder, Thomas
Cc: Hayley Prim
Subject: FYI

In talking to CNN, they flagged this story from yesterday, which I missed... On the one hand, it takes Iowa off the table for TPA presidential forum, I think.. On the other hand, it gives a precedent for getting around DNC sanctioned debates (although they're breaking the R and D forum into two different dates)...

For first time, GOP involved in organizing 'Brown and Black' presidential candidate forum

B&BPhoto

Iowa Republicans like Governor Terry Branstad are joining with Iowa Democrats to urge presidential candidates to participate in an event sponsored by the Iowa Brown and Black Forum.

“For the first time, the Republican Party of Iowa is joining the Democratic Party in hosting this ‘Brown and Black Forum’ for our candidates,” Branstad says. “This is a great bipartisan effort to maintain Iowa’s leadership position in the nation.” The Iowa Brown and Black Forum has hosted debates featuring Democratic presidential candidates since the 1984 campaign, but Republicans are proposing a forum for their candidates, too, in early December. Wayne Ford of Des Moines, a former state legislator, is a co-founder of the group, and he’s celebrating the move by Iowa Republicans.

“Black and brown, Republicans and Democrats — we do work together,” Ford says.

Critics of the Iowa Caucuses say the state’s voters are predominantly white and issues of importance to minorities don’t get enough attention. Iowa Republican Party Chair Jeff Kaufmann says having GOP candidates attend the forum and speak directly to Iowa’s Latino and African American communities puts issues of concern to minorities at the forefront of the 2016 campaign conversation.

“This will help this particular state to be exactly where it needs to be – and that is leading the pack in this country,” Kaufmann says.

Andy McGuire, the chair of the Iowa Democratic Party, agrees.

“The issues facing minority communities will be front and center in the 2016 election,” McGuire says.

Officials from the two political parties along with Iowa Brown and Black Forum leaders held a statehouse news conference to announce the bipartisan effort this afternoon and Congressman Dave Loebsack – the only Democrat in Iowa’s congressional delegation – was there to tout the proposed candidate conversations.

“I think it’s an event that all Iowans can take pride in,” Loebsack says.

The Iowa Republican Party and the Brown and Black Forum plan to co-host an event for candidates on December 3rd at Drake University. It won’t be a debate and each of the candidates will be given an opportunity to speak individually to the crowd. The forum for Democratic candidates is scheduled for January 11th and will be held in Des Moines, too, but a location hasn’t been announced yet.

From: Malegiannakis, Michael
To: Gunaratna, Mahen; Fink, Avi; Walzak, Phil; Wolfe, Emma; "John Del Cecato"
Subject: RE: sanders on msnbc
Date: Tuesday, July 07, 2015 4:14:00 PM

PoliticsNation with Al Sharpton
07-06-2015

Senator Bernie Sanders: When you look at unemployment in America, you're looking at youth unemployment for young African-American kids at over 50 percent. When you're looking at the ability to go to college, it is harder today for African-American families to send their kids to college. And that's why we have fought for, and are going to implement a program which calls for public colleges and universities to be tuition free. John Conyers and I – John is from Michigan – and I, worked on legislation to put five-and-a-half billion dollars into youth employment programs so our kids get the education and the training they need to be creative and significant member of our society, rather than ending up in jail or doing drugs on street corners. So I think it's not only my record on civil rights, but the economic agenda that we're talking about is going to make sense, I think, to the African American community, the Hispanic community, and virtually the entire country.

Reverend Al Sharpton: Let me bring this up. You called Hillary Clinton the “establishment candidate”. Now Elizabeth Warren has not ruled out endorsing you last week, and neither has Bill de Blasio. And I think those are like the two leading high-profile progressives in the country. What would it – and I remember you and Bill de Blasio sat together at our National Action Network Convention – what would it mean to you to get one or two of their endorsements? Or are their endorsements important to you?

Senator Sanders: They sure are. Look, I think Bill de Blasio is playing a great role in New York City, talking all of the time about a nation in which we have so many people living in poverty while people at the top are doing phenomenally well. Elizabeth Warren is my colleague in the Senate. She has been a breath of fresh air in the senate, being just a stalwart fighter, taking on Wall Street, taking on the money issues. Of course I would welcome either or both of these fine people with their support.

Reverend Sharpton: Well senator, I know you have another big night and I appreciate you taking the time to talk to us live. Senator and Presidential Candidate Bernie Sanders, thank you so much for your time tonight.

Senator Sanders: Thank you, Al.

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
Sent: Tuesday, July 07, 2015 3:15 PM
To: Fink, Avi; Walzak, Phil; Wolfe, Emma; 'John Del Cecato'
Cc: Malegiannakis, Michael
Subject: RE: sanders on msnbc

Mike, can you get one of the interns to produce a transcript of the last bit?

From: Fink, Avi
Sent: Tuesday, July 07, 2015 3:11 PM
To: Gunaratna, Mahen; Walzak, Phil; Wolfe, Emma
Subject: sanders on msnbc

Some really strong pull quotes from this interview last 90 seconds

<https://twitter.com/BKcolin/status/618495184750424064>

From: Abeywardena, Penny
To: "John Del Cecato"
Bcc: Schrenell, Hillary
Subject: RE: Graduate Internship Inquiry - [REDACTED], SIPA MPA '17
Date: Tuesday, July 07, 2015 4:19:57 PM

Cool, I've shared with person managing interns. She'll ask [REDACTED] to apply.

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Tuesday, July 07, 2015 2:48 PM
To: Abeywardena, Penny
Subject: Graduate Internship Inquiry - [REDACTED] SIPA MPA '17

Hey [REDACTED]
... She's really smart & motivated - and would love to intern for you somewhere in your world... See below... Thanks for considering!

###

Penny Abeywardena
Commissioner, Mayor's Office for International Affairs
Two United Nations Plaza, 27th Floor
New York, NY 10017

July 7, 2015

Ms. Abeywardena,

I am a rising MPA candidate at Columbia University's School of International and Public Affairs and am writing express my interest in serving as a graduate intern at the Mayor's Office for International Affairs during the coming academic year.

[REDACTED]

Attached you will find my resume which provides further detail on my professional and academic experience. I greatly look forward to hearing from you or a member of your team regarding this inquiry.

uch for your time and consideration,

[Redacted signature block]

From: Abeywardena, Penny
To: "John Del Cecato"
Subject: RE: UN visit
Date: Tuesday, July 07, 2015 4:22:43 PM

Grazie!

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, July 07, 2015 4:22 PM
To: Abeywardena, Penny
Cc: Wright, Jessica; Graham, Matthew
Subject: Re: UN visit

Drat. Well - the application of IDNYC with the Sec-Gen was a stroke of brilliance

From: "Abeywardena, Penny" <PAbeywardena@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Tuesday, July 7, 2015 at 4:20 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: "Wright, Jessica" <JWright@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Graham, Matthew" <mgraham@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: RE: UN visit

Friday is the last day for IDNYC but you can come anytime and I'll happily give you a tour!

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, July 07, 2015 1:19 PM
To: Abeywardena, Penny
Cc: Wright, Jessica; Graham, Matthew
Subject: Re: UN visit

Saw the coverage - great stuff!

This week is a little nutty for me - but maybe next week?

From: "Abeywardena, Penny" <PAbeywardena@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Monday, July 6, 2015 at 10:56 AM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: "Wright, Jessica" <JWright@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Graham, Matthew" <mgraham@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: UN visit

Hi John,

Hope and trust you are well! If you have some time this week, I'd love for you to come by the UN for a tour and visit to IDNYC's enrollment center (as well as our NYC/UN photo exhibit, which we curated to celebrate the 70th anniversary of the UN). Let me know!

Some coverage of the Mayor and the Secretary General signing up for his ID:

DAILY NEWS - Jennifer Fermino

The head of the United Nations is getting a passport of sorts to the greatest place on Earth — New York City. Mayor de Blasio will enroll Secretary General Ban Ki-moon in the city's municipal ID card program Tuesday.

<http://www.nydailynews.com/new-york/ban-ki-moon-nyc-id-card-article-1.2276337>

NY POST – Michael Gartland

He's a real New Yorker now. UN Secretary General Ban Ki-moon has been a bona-fide international citizen for years, but on Tuesday he obtained his official Gotham credentials at a United Nations pop-up IDNYC sign-up. Ban Ki-moon appeared at the UN event with Mayor de Blasio, who rolled out the IDNYC program in January. Anyone living in NYC is eligible.

<http://nypost.com/2015/06/30/un-secretary-general-ban-ki-moon-is-officially-a-new-yorker/>

Cheers,

Penny

Penny Abeywardena | Commissioner

NYC Mayor's Office for International Affairs

2 United Nations Plaza, 27th Floor, New York, NY 10017

p: \(212\) 319-9300319-9300) | nyc.gov/internationalaffairs

Follow us on Twitter: @GlobalNYC

 Please consider the environment before printing this email.

CONFIDENTIALITY NOTICE: This email and any files transmitted with it are confidential and intended solely for the use of the individual or entity to whom they are addressed. This message contains confidential information and is intended only for the individual named. If you are not the intended recipient you should not disseminate, distribute or copy this e-mail. Please notify the sender immediately by e-mail if you have received this e-mail by mistake and delete this e-mail from your system. If you are not the intended recipient you are notified that disclosing, copying, distributing or taking any action in reliance on the contents of this information is strictly prohibited.

From: John Del Cecato
To: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: ????
Date: Tuesday, July 07, 2015 5:11:27 PM

Lora is part of a compliance shop based in Tennessee... She worked with Baldick a lot in the past (dating back to the Edwards campaigns, I think)... I don't know her personally...

Nick recommends that we use Jim Lamb as lawyer.. He advises CONY right now... But it's up to us...

From: "Snyder, Thomas" <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Tuesday, July 7, 2015 at 4:58 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: ????

Committee name OK by me. Who is Haggard? Who is the lawyer we are using for advice on this? And I do want to see the paperwork. Also, once we file the paperwork, are we good to go in all respects, such as fundraising, paying for people and things, etc...

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, July 07, 2015 4:51 PM
To: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: ????

Okay, Geri is good...

Was thinking The Progressive Agenda Committee (TPAC) for the name...

Geri Prado, Executive Director

Lora Haggard, Treasurer

Good for you?

From: "Snyder, Thomas" <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Tuesday, July 7, 2015 at 1:48 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: ????

Are you getting anywhere on establishment of new C4?

Tom Snyder
Chief of Staff
Office of the Mayor

City Hall
New York, NY 10007
212-341-5050

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
To: John Del Cecato
Subject: Tweet by Noam Scheiber on Twitter
Date: Tuesday, July 07, 2015 10:29:28 PM

Noam Scheiber (@noamscheiber)

7/7/15, 10:16 PM

Completely agree w/@JoyAnnReid--don't get why Hillary won't embrace raising taxes on super-rich. No brainer as policy & politically.

Download the Twitter app

Sent from my iPhone

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: Hayley Primm \(hayley@progressiveagenda.us\); John Del Ceccato \(jfdc@akpdmedia.com\)
Subject: Call time
Date: Wednesday, July 08, 2015 12:24:45 PM

TPA call time scheduled for tomorrow from 3 – 4:30pm. As always check with me ahead of time to verify.

Tom Snyder
Chief of Staff
Office of the Mayor
City Hall
New York, NY 10007
212-341-5050

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: "John Del Cecato"; Hayley Prim; Walzak, Phil
Subject: RE: notes from meeting today
Date: Wednesday, July 08, 2015 3:04:00 PM

+ Phil...I agree

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Wednesday, July 08, 2015 2:34 PM
To: Hayley Prim; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: notes from meeting today

I should point out one other key point... CNN is no ordinary player here... Mark Preston has done all of CNN's debates since 2006... He's the right guy - and he's blunt (in part because he trusts Rebecca)... So if we go another route, we're going to: a) be playing more in the unknown; b) leaving it to chance whether the potential sponsor really wants to do this, or is just stringing us along

From: Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>
Date: Wednesday, July 8, 2015 at 2:12 PM
To: "Snyder, Thomas" <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: notes from meeting today

awesome. thanks! I was just putting together a slightly longer form version of this same thing if that's helpful when updating the boss. Will send over shortly

On Wed, Jul 8, 2015 at 2:09 PM, Snyder, Thomas <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

1. Forum: CNN wants partisan which we can likely close on shortly; CNN putting onus on us to create bipartisan with only 5-10% chance of go ahead from network. Contacted (which outlets? PBS, MSNBC, Local Affiliates) about doing a bipartisan forum
2. Organizing an expanded Latino leader meeting with help from Mariaelena Durazo; plan to do women and labor thereafter.
3. Prado on board to start x date; will produce a rough draft written plan by 7/20
4. Putting BdB on Cable news as soon as we have a news hook.

Tom Snyder
Chief of Staff
Office of the Mayor
City Hall
New York, NY 10007
212-341-5050

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: "John Del Cecato"; Walzak, Phil; Hayley Prim
Subject: RE: CNN
Date: Wednesday, July 08, 2015 3:06:18 PM

I am in agreement about this approach.

Phil: do you agree?

If we are all in agreement on this recommendation, then I think it needs to be presented to B as coming equally from all of us. (Trying to spare JDC the smack down.)

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Wednesday, July 08, 2015 2:43 PM
To: Snyder, Thomas; Walzak, Phil; Hayley Prim
Subject: CNN

The more I think about it, the more I believe we should tell MBDB that we're strongly recommending CNN. I can include the reasoning in my write-up, and if he strongly objects & wants us to go a different direction, we can do so first thing on Friday.

I talked to RKK, and she's nervous about there being multiple requests out there. Preston knows everybody, and I'd hate for him to be basically offering to do everything feasible - and then have him find out we were courting other suitors.

Mark has done every CNN presidential debate since 2006, and is very candid about what will work/not work - so I think we should seize on that bird-in-the-hand rather than risk upsetting him at this stage.

If MBDB is hell-bent on bipartisan & Preston tries & fails to help us make that happen - he'll let us know within a reasonable timeframe - and we can move on. Let's not upset the applecart over a forced deadline just yet.

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: "John Del Cecato"; "Hayley Prim"
Cc: Walzak, Phil
Subject: RE: notes from meeting today
Date: Wednesday, July 08, 2015 6:20:43 PM

What do you think of my comments in RED?

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Wednesday, July 08, 2015 5:23 PM
To: Snyder, Thomas; 'Hayley Prim'
Cc: Walzak, Phil
Subject: Re: notes from meeting today

Cleaned up a little bit. With Phil's blessing, I can make it clear in the final version that the forum recommendation comes from all four of us...

1. Presidential Forum

We have been in additional touch with CNN, and they are still pushing a partisan forum. While CNN has not closed the door completely on a bipartisan forum, they have told us there is only a 5 – 10% chance that they would do it.

The onus would be on us to find a Republican co-sponsor, and push to get the "right" Republicans there. If the eventual lineup doesn't pass muster with CNN brass, they'd have to drop out, leaving us to find another network to sponsor.

It is important to note that Mark Preston, our contact at CNN, has done all of the network's debates since 2006, and has been very honest and blunt with us about what he believes will and won't work. (He has a longstanding friendship with RKK.)

The alternative is to cold-call PBS, or a statewide public broadcasting network in one of the early states, to see if they have the money & the will to do a bipartisan event.

We've held off on doing this for now, since CNN is a respected bird-in-the-hand; has been helpful in thinking this through; and deserves the right of first refusal. Another network (where we don't have a personal relationship) may not offer us the same honest assessment of what will & won't work – and could string us along, with nothing transpiring.

Our collective recommendation is to take advantage of CNN's consistent view and lock down a partisan forum.

If we go this route, we could reach out to an organization like AEI and suggest they sponsor a Republican Forum on Income Inequality on a different date – perhaps announcing plans together. (This is how the recently announced “Black and Brown” Forum, scheduled for this winter in Iowa, is being planned.) This would show an honest effort at doing a bipartisan event, without saddling us with the responsibility of persuading Republicans to come to a “de Blasio event.”

Either way, we are aiming for October or early November for this event.

2. Gracie Confab 2 – A, B, & C

In an effort to keep the drumbeat going around TPA, we are going to host three confabs similar to the original meeting you hosted at Gracie Mansion. We believe it would be more effective to organize these events around constituency groups -- discussing TPA issues that impact them most.

We are planning to host a Latino Leaders confab, spearheaded by Maria Elana Durazo, in August; a second forum with Labor Leaders in September; and a third forum, with Women Leaders, in late September or early October.

3. National Press

While we are moving forward with our smaller events and the larger Presidential Forum, it is important to keep you in the public eye on a regular basis.

With the City Hall press team, we are working to schedule you for national TV shows when “big moments” on income inequality surface in the news – e.g., new reports released, legislation passed, or other milestones. In addition to Cable TV, we are still working with our VIP signers to produce op-eds for major papers, and engage our surrogates in other public efforts.

4. New Signers

We recognize that continuing to build our number of regular signers is important as we engage in these larger efforts. We are working on a Joint Action strategy with Rep. Barbara Lee and Senator Jeff Merkley as a way of building our list. This is likely the first of many Joint Action list-building efforts that we will engage in over the next several months. We are also considering digital advertising to boost our numbers, and are exploring the best way to target likely new signers.

5. TPA Executive Director

Geri Prado will officially begin on or around July 24th. I’m working with Geri on a plan that outlines what TPA will look like moving forward. That will be ready for you by the end of July.

###

From: "Snyder, Thomas" <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Date: Wednesday, July 8, 2015 at 3:20 PM

To: Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>

Cc: "Walzak, Phil" <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Subject: RE: notes from meeting today

I think this works so long as JDC reworks the Forum part, with joint recommendation of all 4 of us. In that vein, I would like what we send/give him comes from all four of us rather than just John. Mayor invited Phil to weigh in on Forum idea so I think its appropriate for Phil to be part of the recommendation, if you (Phil) agree).

From: Hayley Prim [<mailto:hayley@progressiveagenda.us>]
Sent: Wednesday, July 08, 2015 2:49 PM
To: John Del Cecato
Cc: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: notes from meeting today

Ok, how's this? Obviously need to fill in blanks, and JDC-- you can reword the CNN parts to be more convincing.

Progress since last week:

Presidential Forum

We have been in touch with CNN, and they are still pushing a partisan forum. They are open to considering bi-partisan, but are only giving it a 5-10% chance that it will actually happen if that's the route we take, and that it will only happen if we can get HRC to attend. The onus is on us to make all of this work

It is important to note that Mark Preston, our contact at CNN has done all of the network's debate since 2006, and has been very honest and blunt with us, mostly because he trusts Rebecca.

We have reached out to other media outlets including _____, and they have given the following feedback: A. _____ B. _____ C. _____, but each of these is riskier than going with CNN, and harder to determine whether they actually want to host the forum or are just stringing us along.

Our recommendation is to go forward with CNN and do a partisan forum. Similarly to the recently announced Black and Brown Forum scheduled for winter in Iowa, we could reach out to another organization like AEI and suggest they sponsor a Republican Forum on Income Inequality. Either way, we should push ahead in this direction and aim for an October or early November date.

Gracie Confab 2--a,b,c

In an effort to keep the drumbeat going around TPA, we are going to host three confabs in similar format to the original meeting you hosted in April at Gracie Mansion. However, we believe it would be more effective and encompassing to host these based on constituency groups to discuss the issues outlined in the Agenda. We are planning to host a Latino confab with Maria Elana Durazo as the main organizer in August, a second forum around labor issues in September, and a third forum around women's issues and how they relate to income inequality in late September or early October.

National Press

While we are moving forward with our smaller events and the larger Presidential Forum, it is important to keep you in the public eye on a regular basis. We are coming up with a strategy with the City Hall press team to schedule you for national tv shows as news regarding income inequality surfaces, e.g. new reports released, legislation passed, other milestones, etc. In addition to cable tv, we are still working with our VIP signers to produce op-eds for major papers, and engage our surrogates in other public efforts.

New Signers

We recognize that continuing to build our number of regular signers is important as we move forward in these bigger endeavors. We are working on a joint action strategy with Rep. Barbara Lee, Senator Jeff Merkley to build our list. This is likely the first of many joint action list building endeavors that we engage in over the next year. We are also considering digital ad buys to boost our numbers, and are exploring the best way to target likely new signers.

TPA Executive Director

Gerry Prado is coming on board TPA and will officially begin on _____. Her and JDC are working to put together an official plan outlining what TPA will look like moving forward, which will be ready for you by the end of July.

On Wed, Jul 8, 2015 at 2:34 PM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

I should point out one other key point... CNN is no ordinary player here... Mark Preston has done all of CNN's debates since 2006... He's the right guy - and he's blunt (in part because he trusts Rebecca)... So if we go another route, we're going to: a) be playing more in the unknown; b) leaving it to chance whether the potential sponsor really wants to do this, or is just stringing us along

From: Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>

Date: Wednesday, July 8, 2015 at 2:12 PM

To: "Snyder, Thomas" <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Cc: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>

Subject: Re: notes from meeting today

awesome. thanks! I was just putting together a slightly longer form version of this same thing if that's helpful when updating the boss. Will send over shortly

On Wed, Jul 8, 2015 at 2:09 PM, Snyder, Thomas <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

1. Forum: CNN wants partisan which we can likely close on shortly; CNN putting onus on us to create bipartisan with only 5-10% chance of go ahead from network. Contacted (which outlets? PBS, MSNBC, Local Affiliates) about doing a bipartisan forum
2. Organizing an expanded Latino leader meeting with help from Mariaelena Durazo; plan to do women and labor thereafter.
3. Prado on board to start x date; will produce a rough draft written plan by 7/20
4. Putting BdB on Cable news as soon as we have a news hook.

Tom Snyder
Chief of Staff
Office of the Mayor
City Hall
New York, NY 10007
212-341-5050

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: TPA Update
Date: Thursday, July 09, 2015 6:40:43 AM

You should add note to him that this is the rec of all four of us by name

Sent from my iPhone

On Jul 9, 2015, at 6:30 AM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

1. Presidential Forum

We have been in additional touch with CNN, and they are still pushing a partisan forum. While CNN has not closed the door completely on a bipartisan forum, they have told us there is only a 5 – 10% chance that they would do it.

The onus would be on us to find a Republican co-sponsor, and push to get the “right” Republicans there. If the eventual lineup doesn’t pass muster with CNN brass, they’d have to drop out, leaving us to find another network to sponsor.

It is important to note that Mark Preston, our contact at CNN, has done all of the network's debates since 2006, and has been very honest and blunt with us about what he believes will and won’t work. (He has a longstanding friendship with RKK.)

The alternative is to cold-call PBS, or a statewide public broadcasting network in one of the early states, to see if they have the money & the will to do a bipartisan event.

We’ve held off on doing this for now, since CNN is a respected bird-in-the-hand; has been helpful in thinking this through; and deserves the right of first refusal. Another network (where we don’t have a personal relationship) may not offer us the same honest assessment of what will & won't work – and could string us along, with nothing transpiring.

Our collective recommendation is to take advantage of CNN's consistent view and lock down a partisan forum.

If we go this route, we could reach out to an organization like AEI and suggest they sponsor a Republican Forum on Income Inequality on a different date – perhaps announcing plans together. (This is how the recently announced “Black and Brown” Forum, scheduled for this winter in Iowa, is being planned.) This would show an honest effort at doing a bipartisan event, without saddling us with the responsibility of persuading Republicans to come to a “de Blasio event.”

Either way, we are aiming for October or early November for this event.

2. Gracie Confab 2 – A, B, & C

In an effort to keep the drumbeat going around TPA, we are going to host three confabs similar to the original meeting you hosted at Gracie Mansion. We believe it would be more effective to organize these events around constituency groups -- discussing TPA issues that impact them most.

We are planning to host a Latino Leaders confab, spearheaded by Maria Elana Durazo, in August; a second forum with Labor Leaders in September; and a third forum, with Women Leaders, in late September or early October.

3. National Press

While we are moving forward with our smaller events and the larger Presidential Forum, it is important to keep you in the public eye on a regular basis.

With the City Hall press team, we are working to schedule you for national TV shows when “big moments” on income inequality surface in the news – e.g., new reports released, legislation passed, or other milestones. In addition to Cable TV, we are still working with our VIP signers to produce op-eds for major papers, and engage our surrogates in other public efforts.

4. New Signers

We recognize that continuing to build our number of regular signers is important as we engage in these larger efforts. We are working on a Joint Action strategy with Rep. Barbara Lee and Senator Jeff Merkley as a way of building our list. This is likely the first of many Joint Action list-building efforts that we will engage in over the next several months. We are also considering digital advertising to boost our numbers, and are exploring the best way to target likely new signers.

5. TPA Executive Director

Geri Prado will officially begin on or around July 24th. I’m working with Geri on a plan that outlines what TPA will look like moving forward. That will be ready for you by the end of July.

###

From: John Del Cecato
To: B
Cc: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: TPA Update
Date: Thursday, July 09, 2015 6:47:47 AM

Just to be clear, the joint recommendation in #1 comes from Tom, Phil, Hayley, and myself.

On Jul 9, 2015, at 6:30 AM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

1. Presidential Forum

We have been in additional touch with CNN, and they are still pushing a partisan forum. While CNN has not closed the door completely on a bipartisan forum, they have told us there is only a 5 – 10% chance that they would do it.

The onus would be on us to find a Republican co-sponsor, and push to get the “right” Republicans there. If the eventual lineup doesn’t pass muster with CNN brass, they’d have to drop out, leaving us to find another network to sponsor.

It is important to note that Mark Preston, our contact at CNN, has done all of the network's debates since 2006, and has been very honest and blunt with us about what he believes will and won’t work. (He has a longstanding friendship with RKK.)

The alternative is to cold-call PBS, or a statewide public broadcasting network in one of the early states, to see if they have the money & the will to do a bipartisan event.

We’ve held off on doing this for now, since CNN is a respected bird-in-the-hand; has been helpful in thinking this through; and deserves the right of first refusal. Another network (where we don’t have a personal relationship) may not offer us the same honest assessment of what will & won't work – and could string us along, with nothing transpiring.

Our collective recommendation is to take advantage of CNN's consistent view and lock down a partisan forum.

If we go this route, we could reach out to an organization like AEI and suggest they sponsor a Republican Forum on Income Inequality on a different date – perhaps announcing plans together. (This is how the recently announced “Black and Brown” Forum, scheduled for this winter in Iowa, is being planned.) This would show an honest effort at doing a bipartisan event, without saddling us with the responsibility of persuading Republicans to come to a “de Blasio event.”

Either way, we are aiming for October or early November for this event.

2. Gracie Confab 2 – A, B, & C

In an effort to keep the drumbeat going around TPA, we are going to host three confabs similar to the original meeting you hosted at Gracie Mansion. We believe it would be more effective to organize these events around constituency groups -- discussing TPA issues that impact them most.

We are planning to host a Latino Leaders confab, spearheaded by Maria Elana Durazo, in August; a second forum with Labor Leaders in September; and a third forum, with Women Leaders, in late September or early October.

3. National Press

While we are moving forward with our smaller events and the larger Presidential Forum, it is important to keep you in the public eye on a regular basis.

With the City Hall press team, we are working to schedule you for national TV shows when “big moments” on income inequality surface in the news – e.g., new reports released, legislation passed, or other milestones. In addition to Cable TV, we are still working with our VIP signers to produce op-eds for major papers, and engage our surrogates in other public efforts.

4. New Signers

We recognize that continuing to build our number of regular signers is important as we engage in these larger efforts. We are working on a Joint Action strategy with Rep. Barbara Lee and Senator Jeff Merkley as a way of building our list. This is likely the first of many Joint Action list-building efforts that we will engage in over the next several months. We are also considering digital advertising to boost our numbers, and are exploring the best way to target likely new signers.

5. TPA Executive Director

Geri Prado will officially begin on or around July 24th. I’m working with Geri on a plan that outlines what TPA will look like moving forward. That will be ready for you by the end of July.

###

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: "John Del Cecato"; Hayley Primm \(hayley@progressiveagenda.us\)
Subject: RE: TPA Update
Date: Thursday, July 09, 2015 9:37:47 AM

Keep it free today for now. I'll let you know.

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Thursday, July 09, 2015 9:37 AM
To: Snyder, Thomas; Hayley Primm (hayley@progressiveagenda.us)
Subject: Re: TPA Update

That's good - although I was really hoping we'd get some TPA call time today!

From: "Snyder, Thomas" <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Thursday, July 9, 2015 at 9:32 AM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>
Subject: FW: TPA Update

He's focused. Below...

From: B
Sent: Thursday, July 09, 2015 9:12 AM
To: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'
Cc: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: TPA Update

Need TPA call time this weekend. Tom, pls make happen

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Thursday, July 09, 2015 06:30 AM
To: B
Cc: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: TPA Update

1. Presidential Forum

We have been in additional touch with CNN, and they are still pushing a partisan forum. While CNN has not closed the door completely on a bipartisan forum, they have told us there is only a 5 – 10% chance that they would do it.

The onus would be on us to find a Republican co-sponsor, and push to get the “right” Republicans there. If the eventual lineup doesn’t pass muster with CNN brass, they’d have to drop out, leaving us to find another network to sponsor.

It is important to note that Mark Preston, our contact at CNN, has done all of the network's debates since 2006, and has been very honest and blunt with us about what he believes will and won’t work. (He has a longstanding friendship with RKK.)

The alternative is to cold-call PBS, or a statewide public broadcasting network in one of the early states, to see if they have the money & the will to do a bipartisan event.

We’ve held off on doing this for now, since CNN is a respected bird-in-the-hand; has been helpful in thinking this through; and deserves the right of first refusal. Another network (where we don’t have a personal relationship) may not offer us the same honest assessment of what will & won’t work – and could string us along, with nothing transpiring.

Our collective recommendation is to take advantage of CNN’s consistent view and lock down a partisan forum.

If we go this route, we could reach out to an organization like AEI and suggest they sponsor a Republican Forum on Income Inequality on a different date – perhaps announcing plans together. (This is how the recently announced “Black and Brown” Forum, scheduled for this winter in Iowa, is being planned.) This would show an honest effort at doing a bipartisan event, without saddling us with the responsibility of persuading Republicans to come to a “de Blasio event.”

Either way, we are aiming for October or early November for this event.

2. Gracie Confab 2 – A, B, & C

In an effort to keep the drumbeat going around TPA, we are going to host three confabs similar to the original meeting you hosted at Gracie Mansion. We believe it would be more effective to organize these events around constituency groups -- discussing TPA issues that impact them most.

We are planning to host a Latino Leaders confab, spearheaded by Maria Elana Durazo, in August; a second forum with Labor Leaders in September; and a third forum, with Women Leaders, in late September or early October.

3. National Press

While we are moving forward with our smaller events and the larger Presidential Forum, it is important to keep you in the public eye on a regular basis.

With the City Hall press team, we are working to schedule you for national TV shows when “big moments” on income inequality surface in the news – e.g., new reports released, legislation passed, or other milestones. In addition to Cable TV, we are still working with our VIP signers to produce op-eds for major papers, and engage our surrogates in other public efforts.

4. New Signers

We recognize that continuing to build our number of regular signers is important as we engage in these larger efforts. We are working on a Joint Action strategy with Rep. Barbara Lee and Senator Jeff Merkley as a way of building our list. This is likely the first of many Joint Action list-building efforts that we will engage in over the next several months. We are also considering digital advertising to boost our numbers, and are exploring the best way to target likely new signers.

5. TPA Executive Director

Geri Prado will officially begin on or around July 24th. I'm working with Geri on a plan that outlines what TPA will look like moving forward. That will be ready for you by the end of July.

###

From: Hayley Prim
To: Snyder, Thomas
Cc: John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: FW: TPA Update
Date: Thursday, July 09, 2015 9:41:12 AM

Keep it free means you think it will be canceled?

On Thursday, July 9, 2015, Snyder, Thomas <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Keep it free today for now. I'll let you know.

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Thursday, July 09, 2015 9:37 AM
To: Snyder, Thomas; Hayley Primm (hayley@progressiveagenda.us)
Subject: Re: TPA Update

That's good - although I was really hoping we'd get some TPA call time today!

From: "Snyder, Thomas" <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Thursday, July 9, 2015 at 9:32 AM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>
Subject: FW: TPA Update

He's focused. Below...

From: B
Sent: Thursday, July 09, 2015 9:12 AM
To: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'
Cc: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: TPA Update

Need TPA call time this weekend. Tom, pls make happen

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Thursday, July 09, 2015 06:30 AM
To: B
Cc: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: TPA Update

1. Presidential Forum

We have been in additional touch with CNN, and they are still pushing a partisan forum. While CNN has not closed the door completely on a bipartisan forum, they have told us there is only a 5 – 10% chance that they would do it.

The onus would be on us to find a Republican co-sponsor, and push to get the “right” Republicans there. If the eventual lineup doesn’t pass muster with CNN brass, they’d have to drop out, leaving us to find another network to sponsor.

It is important to note that Mark Preston, our contact at CNN, has done all of the network's debates since 2006, and has been very honest and blunt with us about what he believes will and won’t work. (He has a longstanding friendship with RKK.)

The alternative is to cold-call PBS, or a statewide public broadcasting network in one of the early states, to see if they have the money & the will to do a bipartisan event.

We’ve held off on doing this for now, since CNN is a respected bird-in-the-hand; has been helpful in thinking this through; and deserves the right of first refusal. Another network (where we don't have a personal relationship) may not offer us the same honest assessment of what will & won't work – and could string us along, with nothing transpiring.

Our collective recommendation is to take advantage of CNN's consistent view and lock down a partisan forum.

If we go this route, we could reach out to an organization like AEI and suggest they sponsor a Republican Forum on Income Inequality on a different date – perhaps announcing plans together. (This is how the recently announced “Black and Brown” Forum, scheduled for this winter in Iowa, is being planned.) This would show an honest effort at doing a bipartisan event, without saddling us with the responsibility of persuading Republicans to come to a “de Blasio event.”

Either way, we are aiming for October or early November for this event.

2. Gracie Confab 2 – A, B, & C

In an effort to keep the drumbeat going around TPA, we are going to host three confabs similar to the original meeting you hosted at Gracie Mansion. We believe it would be more effective to organize these events around constituency groups -- discussing TPA issues that impact them most.

We are planning to host a Latino Leaders confab, spearheaded by Maria Elana Durazo, in August; a second forum with Labor Leaders in September; and a third forum, with Women Leaders, in late September or early October.

3. National Press

While we are moving forward with our smaller events and the larger Presidential Forum, it is important to keep you in the public eye on a regular basis.

With the City Hall press team, we are working to schedule you for national TV shows when “big moments” on income inequality surface in the news – e.g., new reports released, legislation passed, or other milestones. In addition to Cable TV, we are still working with our VIP signers to produce op-eds for major papers, and engage our surrogates in other public efforts.

4. New Signers

We recognize that continuing to build our number of regular signers is important as we engage in these larger efforts. We are working on a Joint Action strategy with Rep. Barbara Lee and Senator Jeff Merkley as a way of building our list. This is likely the first of many Joint Action list-building efforts that we will engage in over the next several months. We are also considering digital advertising to boost our numbers, and are exploring the best way to target likely new signers.

5. TPA Executive Director

Geri Prado will officially begin on or around July 24th. I’m working with Geri on a plan that outlines what TPA will look like moving forward. That will be ready for you by the end of July.

###

From: John Del Cecato
To: Gunaratna, Mahen; Blumm, Kate; Jon Fromowitz
Subject: Re: Parsing mayors' words, study finds economy most common focus
Date: Thursday, July 09, 2015 11:28:39 AM

Very interesting - thanks

From: "Gunaratna, Mahen" <MGunaratna@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Thursday, July 9, 2015 at 11:18 AM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, "Blumm, Kate" <KBlumm@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Jon Fromowitz <jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: FW: Parsing mayors' words, study finds economy most common focus

From: Clips
Sent: Thursday, July 09, 2015 11:18 AM
Subject: AP: Parsing mayors' words, study finds economy most common focus

Parsing mayors' words, study finds economy most common focus

ASSOCIATED PRESS - Jennifer Peltz

http://www.lebanondailyrecord.com/news/state/article_523499c2-aa7e-5b52-a63a-c4038c426ad0.html

Economic development, infrastructure and public safety were top concerns as U.S. mayors summed up the state of their cities this year, but current events helped frame those longstanding issues in discussions of race and inequality, a new study finds.

Remarks on the economy often included calls for raising the minimum wage, for instance, and talk of public safety often touched on officer-worn body cameras and other measures aimed at building trust between police and citizens, according to a National League of Cities analysis being released Thursday of 100 "state of the city" speeches.

Mayors of cities from Seattle to Philadelphia to Grand Rapids, Michigan, alluded to the racial divide spotlighted by deadly police encounters in New York, Ferguson, Missouri and elsewhere.

"Mayors are responsive to what's happening on the ground now, wanting to make sure they're meeting their citizens' needs," said Brooks Rainwater, one of the study's authors. Last year's speeches evoked similar overall priorities, but the emphasis within them shifted toward addressing race and equity, he said.

The 100-speech sample reflects a range of population sizes and geographic regions. The league, a Washington-based city advocacy group, scrutinized the texts for topics discussed as priorities.

Three-quarters of this year's speeches stressed economic development, in forms ranging from job and business growth to minimum wage increases and revitalizing downtowns. It was the most-covered subject except among cities with fewer than 50,000 residents, where public safety was number one.

Infrastructure also was on mayors' minds. Roads, drinking water and sewers got widespread attention, but broadband and Internet-related initiatives also got a spotlight in some cities and rail service in others.

Housing was a top-five concern in cities of more than 100,000 people — it was the focus of New York Mayor Bill de Blasio's speech on the nation's biggest city — but didn't make the top five in smaller ones.

From: John Del Cecato
To: Gunaratna, Mahen; Jon Fromowitz
Cc: Hayley Prim
Subject: stats
Date: Thursday, July 09, 2015 12:16:57 PM
Attachments: IncomeInequalityStats.docx

Here's an updated list of stats & quotes...

I played a little fast & loose by using the Sanders quote on 99% of new income going to top one percent (which uses 2013 data), and also including the average income for the bottom 99% & top one percent (which is 2014 data from Saez) - but I still think it's defensible...

Let me know if there are any other tidbits that would be juicy to include for MBDB

The Progressive Agenda TALKING POINTS – updated

- In 2014, the top 25 hedge fund managers earned nearly $12 billion. That's more than all of the Kindergarten teachers in American earned – COMBINED. And those hedge funders are often paying a lower tax rate, due to the carried interest loophole.
- The typical American family, in real income terms, is making less today than they were a quarter century ago.
- The wealthiest one percent captured 91% of all the income gains in the first 3 years since the Great Recession ended.
- The average CEO makes about 300 times what the average worker makes.
- 99 percent of all new income is going to the top 1 percent.
- In the US, the top 160 THOUSAND families own as much wealth as the bottom 145 MILLION families.
- In 2014, the average family income for the Bottom 99% was $47,200. The Top 1%, meanwhile, had an average income of $1.3 million.
- There is currently an apartment for sale in Manhattan for $120 million.
- We now have the greatest income disparity since the 1920s.
- The Progressive Agenda is a set of 15 proposals to lift the floor for working people; provide help to working parents and their families; and require big corporations and the wealthy to pay their fair share.
- $15 minimum wage. Opposing trade deals that put corporate profits ahead of workers. Paid sick and paid family leave. Debt-free college. Expanding the Earned Income Tax Credit and Social Security. Universal Pre-K, after-school, and childcare. Closing loopholes that let hedge funders pay a lower rate of taxes than many middle-class people. The Buffett Rule. Closing the CEO pay loophole.
- There's something happening out there. Last year, four RED states passed ballot measures to increase minimum wage increase. 60,000 workers in 200 cities rallied for a $15 minimum wage. Cities across the country are passing paid sick leave. The progressive candidate for mayor in Philadelphia ran on Universal Pre-K – and won.

- New York Times poll:
 - * 66 percent of all Americans believe that money and wealth should be distributed more evenly.
 - * 65 percent believe the income gap must be addressed now.
 - * 68 percent support higher taxes on millionaires.
 - * 80 percent favor paid family leave.
 - * 85 percent back paid sick leave.
- Q-poll (Iowa)
 - * 91 percent of Democratic caucus-goers believe the federal government should tackle income inequality.
- Billionaire investor Nick Hanauer:

"I buy a few pairs of pants and a few shirts a year.... I guess I could have bought 1,000 pairs. But why would I? Instead, I sock my extra money away in savings, where it doesn't do the country much good."

- Former Labor Secretary Robert Reich (paraphrased)

About 70 percent of economic activity derives from consumer spending.

- Goldman Sachs CEO Lloyd Blankfein:

Called income inequality in America "destabilizing." Said if we as a country can't deal with inequality then "you can't drive growth and you can't drive the success of the country."

From: John Del Cecato
To: Snyder, Thomas
Cc: Hayley Prim
Subject: Call sheet
Date: Thursday, July 09, 2015 12:33:51 PM
Attachments: TPACallSheet070915.docx

Here's an updated call sheet... Only new name is Jim Clyburn of SC

Call Sheet – The Progressive Agenda
7/9/15

John Podesta

LATEST: Pushing back on Benghazi nuttiness. Tweeted that this was an important SCOTUS decision that people shouldn't miss.

A recent Supreme Court forcefully reminded state and local governments that the Fair Housing Act of 1968 forbids them from spending federal housing money in ways that perpetuate segregation. Communities across the country have been doing exactly that for decades.

ASK:

- * Get a preview of HRC's Monday speech.
- * Perhaps mention presidential forum plan.

Elizabeth Warren LEFT VOICEMAIL

LATEST:

Been focused a lot on debt-free college, opposing TPP, and tangling with Jamie Dimon over whether to break up the big banks.

With John McCain, recently introduced a bill to revive Glass-Steagall Act to force banks to split investment and commercial banking practices.

ASK:

- * What did she think of HRC speech?
- * What are her latest thoughts about endorsing?
- * What does she think about a presidential forum in Iowa or SC re: income inequality?

Tom Harkin LEFT VOICEMAIL

LATEST:

We've been trying to publish a joint op-ed with him re: TPA (for Des Moines Register) – but have had trouble getting his sign-off. NYC is honoring Harkin and the ADA this month with Disability Pride Month, commemorating the 25th anniversary of the ADA.

ASK:

- * What did he think of HRC speech?
- * Mention the possibility of having a presidential forum on income inequality in Iowa. Would he be willing to lend his name to that?

* Mention joint op-ed on TPA – perhaps teasing presidential forum.

* Will he be a part of our TPA media surrogates program? Who is best staff-level contact?

Sherrod Brown LEFT VOICEMAIL

Cell Phone [REDACTED]

LATEST:

He's been pushing back against for-profit colleges, fighting Fast Track, drug abuse reform and pushing for long-term highway bill. He'll be revved up about overtime victory from White House.

Introducing national charter school reform bill to curb "fraud, abuse, waste, mismanagement and misconduct".

ASK:

* What did he think of HRC speech?

* What are his thoughts on endorsing?

Al Gore SPOKE BRIEFLY

LATEST: During a trip to Cannes, said it was too early to endorse HRC. Framed addressing climate change as a way to help the economy in recent speech in Toronto.

ASK:

* What did he think of HRC speech?

* What is he waiting to hear from her?

* Possibly do an event linking income inequality to climate change – in NYC?

Keith Ellison

Personal Line: [REDACTED] Main Phone: ([REDACTED])

Assistant: Dustin J. Brandenburg at ([REDACTED])

LATEST:

Stood up to Fast Track in a big way. On 7/14 at noon, you will address CPC on The Progressive Agenda.

ASK:

* What did her think of HRC speech?

* Friendly reminder that we want Congressional Progressive Caucus to endorse The Progressive Agenda.

* Will he be a part of our TPA media surrogates program? Who is best staff-level contact?

Mary Kay Henry

Cell Phone: [REDACTED]

LATEST:

Been helping wage Fight for 15. June 15th was the 25th Anniversary of Janitors for Justice violence in Los Angeles, which sparked the movement. She has been a vocal supporter of SCOTUS ACA decision.

ASK:

* What did she think of HRC's speech? What's her thought process on endorsing?

* What does she think we should be doing next to keep the national conversation going re: income inequality/seize the momentum we have?

* What does she think about doing a presidential forum on income inequality in Iowa or SC in the fall? Would she lend her name to that?

* Will she be a part of our TPA media surrogates program? Who is best staff-level contact?

Howard Dean

Cell Phone: [REDACTED] Main Phone: 2 [REDACTED]

Assistant: Amanda McKay

LATEST: Testified on behalf of $15 minimum wage.

ASK:

* What should we be doing to keep pushing income inequality front and center?

* What does he think about presidential forum in Iowa or SC?

* Will he be a part of our TPA media surrogates program? Who is best staff-level contact?

Al Sharpton

LATEST:

Has been a leader in the fight to remove Confederate flags and other imagery for statehouses in SC and beyond. Denounced a painting depicting the Confederate flag in NY State Capitol Building.

ASK:

* What did he think of HRC speech?

* What should we be doing to keep The Progressive Agenda going/seize the moment?

* What does he think about a presidential forum in Iowa or SC? Should it be in DC or NYC instead?

* What are his thoughts on endorsements as it relates to presidential?

Lily Eskelsen García

John Stocks Cell: [REDACTED]

LATEST:

She met with HRC a few weeks ago as part of the endorsement process. She/NEA also recently met with Sanders and O'Malley.

Wrote HuffPo op-ed praising proposed Senate reforms to No Child Left Behind as step in the right direction.

ASK:

- What did she think of HRC speech?
- What should we be doing to keep TPA going?
- Does she anticipate endorsing HRC?
- Thoughts on being part of a presidential forum in Iowa or SC?
- Will she be a part of our TPA media surrogates program? Who is best staff-level contact?

Cong. Jim Clyburn (D-SC)

Leadership office: [REDACTED]

Cell: [REDACTED]

Latest:

Mourning the loss in Charleston. His former aide, Jaime Harrison, is the first AfAm chair of either party in South Carolina (Dem Party, of course).

ASK

- What did he think of HRC's announcement speech?
- What does he think about a presidential forum in South Carolina on income inequality.
- Sign onto TPA.

Robert Reich

Main Phone: [REDACTED]

Home Phone [REDACTED]

LATEST: Pushing to get big money out of politics (latest in his web video series). Wrote a blog post on income inequality, race and housing segregation in which he argued America was living in an "economic apartheid."

Praised WH overtime victory, and called for single payer health insurance in wake of SCOTUS ruling.

ASK:

- * What did he think of Hillary's speech?
- * What should we be doing to keep momentum going?
- * Thoughts on being part of a presidential forum in Iowa or SC?
- * Will he be a part of our TPA media surrogates program? Who is best staff-level contact?

Leo Gerard

[REDACTED]

LATEST:

Fought to keep Dems from flipping on Fast Track. Wrote an article on Huffington Post calling out Republicans for continued attacks on the ACA while providing no alternative ideas.

Celebrated overtime victory as "long overdue."

ASK:

- What did he think of HRC speech?
- What can we do to keep TPA going? His thoughts on Iowa or SC presidential forum?
- Will he be a part of our TPA media surrogates program? Who is best staff-level contact?

Mayor Greg Stanton, Phoenix, AZ

Cell: [REDACTED]

LATEST:

Phoenix was one of two cities awarded Mayor's climate protection award for cities that increase energy efficiency and reduce greenhouse gas emissions—they connected this with their fight against inequality. Pushing for higher sales taxes to fund light rail initiative because federal infrastructure funding not there.

ASK:

Sign onto TPA

Soon-to-be Mayor Jim Kenney, Philadelphia, PA

Cell: [REDACTED]

LATEST:

- Defeated a charter school advocate backed by hedge funds in the primary
- Fought for universal pre-k, raising minimum wage to $15/hour during campaign.

ASK:

Sign onto TPA

Co-Host Kindergarten Teachers VS Hedge Funders event

Mayor Bill Finch, Bridgeport, CT

Cell: [REDACTED]

LATEST:

- Signed a pledge to fight income inequality at U.S.C.M. in August 2014
- Stood with Governor Malloy at minimum wage proposal in Bridgeport
- Launched UPK initiative on 6/16/2015
- Launched new gun buy-back program in the wake of recent shootings
- Kicked off re-election campaign

ASK:

Sign onto TPA

Co-Host Kindergarten Teachers VS Hedge Funders event

Mayor Lovely Warren, Rochester, NY

Cell: [REDACTED]

LATEST:

- In January she held a forum to discuss income inequality in upstate cities
- Called on NY state to increase minimum wage
- Outspoken on the fact that every three year old child should be enrolled in pre-k by age 3

ASK:

Sign onto TPA

Mayor Kathy Sheehan, Albany, NY

Cell: [REDACTED]

LATEST:

Last August she implemented an equity agenda for Albany and worked to publicize the EITC

ASK:

Sign onto TPA

Mayor Eric Garcetti, Los Angeles, CA

Cell: [REDACTED]

LATEST:

Led the fight for increasing minimum wage in LA. His wife, Amy Wakeland, has been an advocate for national paid family leave.

ASK:

Sign onto TPA

Host Kindergarten Teachers vs. Hedge Funders screening

Mayor Sam Liccardo, San Jose, CA

Cell: [REDACTED]

LATEST:

- Talked about growing income gap nationally in his SOTC address in January. Mentioned ideas to address this like closing the skills gap through investment in libraries.
- Ran on a platform to create living wage jobs for residents of San Jose

ASK:

Sign onto TPA

Mayor Mike Duggan, Detroit, MI

Cell: [REDACTED]

LATEST:

No specific income inequality stances lately.

ASK:

Sign onto TPA

Possibly host K Teachers vs. Hedge Funders event

Mayor Bill Peduto, Pittsburgh, PA

Cell: [REDACTED]

LATEST:

- Peduto spoke out against TPP at the end of April
- Attended World Cities summit hosted by NYC in June 2015 where combating income inequality was a central theme

ASK:

Sign onto TPA

Mayor Francis Slay, St. Louis, MO

Cell: [REDACTED]

LATEST:

Early June came out to push for $15 minimum wage in St Louis

ASK:

Sign onto TPA

Maybe host K Teachers vs. Hedge Funders event.

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: Walzak, Phil; "Hayley Prim"
Cc: John Del Cecato
Subject: RE: anything from CNN?
Date: Thursday, July 09, 2015 12:40:08 PM

The big outstanding issue is can we close deal with CNN on partisan vs. bipartisan approach. Is that good to discuss in the meeting? Not sure what else is worth focusing on at this point.
John – what do you think?

From: Walzak, Phil
Sent: Thursday, July 09, 2015 12:35 PM
To: 'Hayley Prim'
Cc: Snyder, Thomas; John Del Cecato
Subject: RE: anything from CNN?

Planning mtg tonight – what do you guys want to make sure we discuss?

From: Hayley Prim [<mailto:hayley@progressiveagenda.us>]
Sent: Monday, July 06, 2015 5:32 PM
To: Walzak, Phil
Cc: Snyder, Thomas; John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: anything from CNN?

This is from RKK:

Talked to Preston. We are old friends so he was candid, but all of these convos are off rec. Here's where we are:

After a back-and-forth, they could be open to a bipartisan forum, but remain cynical that the "standard bearer of liberal politics" will be able to get Rs to come. Told him that's our problem, not his.

I was reminded that it will likely be one hour total on TV, which is 48 minutes with ads. How does that work with all the possible candidates allowed to participate? He wants us to think through this too.

Not 100% against a local affiliate, though they would like us to drill down on what a local host would mean. They think townhall would likely be with one moderator/ don't necessarily want to share that (esp if they are footing the bill).

They would consider a live feed to their 10 Iowa affiliates.

We talked total costs. He said even if Drake (or whichever entity hosts) gives us space for free, production costs on his end will likely be ~$180K and he thinks our costs will likely be between $30 - 50k.

And yes, so much of this hinges on if HRC would participate and they have just been through a very lengthy back-and-forth with her for NetRoots (and she ultimately declined, even by satellite).

He'd be happy to participate in a conference call with our team next week if others have qs.

On Mon, Jul 6, 2015 at 2:38 PM, Walzak, Phil <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
FriendofTrees @JamiaStarheart

Petition: No More "Carried Interest" special tax loophole for Wall Street alfranken.com/landing/afe150

From: John Del Cecato
To: B
Cc: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: NY Times: Hillary Clinton's Economic Agenda Aims at a Party Moving Left
Date: Thursday, July 09, 2015 1:05:24 PM

Copy that

From: Bill de Blasio <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Thursday, July 9, 2015 at 12:50 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: "Snyder, Thomas" <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: NY Times: Hillary Clinton's Economic Agenda Aims at a Party Moving Left

Need to discuss this with you guys this weekend. I need to check in with Robby. She may finally be giving us a context for a different discussion

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Thursday, July 09, 2015 08:19 AM
To: Gunaratna, Mahen
Cc: B; FLONYC; Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: Re: NY Times: Hillary Clinton's Economic Agenda Aims at a Party Moving Left

Meanwhile, her aides say that she will seek to pay for them with higher taxes on wealthy Americans, along with cutbacks and closing loopholes elsewhere; the amounts in play are expected to be substantial.

On Jul 9, 2015, at 8:12 AM, Gunaratna, Mahen <MGunaratna@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Hillary Clinton's Economic Agenda Aims at a Party Moving Left

By PATRICK HEALY and MAGGIE HABERMAN

JULY 9, 2015

Nearly 20 years after President Bill Clinton declared that "the era of big government is over," Hillary Rodham Clinton is proposing muscular federal policies that would require hundreds of billions of dollars in new spending and markedly expand Washington's influence in a host of areas, from universal prekindergarten to Alzheimer's disease research.

Her presidential campaign has said little yet about the costs of her policy ideas or how she would pay for them, but Mrs. Clinton is calling for government activism on a scale that she has not sought since her failed health care initiative in 1993 and 1994. But if her liberalism was seen as out in front of where many Democrats were then, she now seems to be catching up to the mood of the party.

“It’s not that the philosophical fights in the party between the left and the center have been settled in favor of big government,” said the presidential historian Robert Dallek. “It’s that likely Democratic primary voters right now want to see government used to build the economy.”

As ambitious as that may sound, Mrs. Clinton’s agenda may not be enough to satisfy restive liberals, including those supporting Senator Bernie Sanders of Vermont, who still suspect that she is not one of them. Nor is it likely to win many converts among the Republicans who control both houses of Congress and give her ideas (and Mr. Sanders’s) little chance of gaining traction there.

The question is whether the lofty vision she is articulating as a candidate for the Democratic nomination is one that can be turned into a mandate if she is elected president.

“The problem for Hillary is that the country itself isn’t hungering for liberalism,” said Jeremy Mayer, an associate professor of politics at George Mason University. “Republicans will be well-positioned to say to Hillary, ‘Great, and how are you going to pay for that?’”

Large majorities of Americans say in opinion polls that the federal government is too big or too powerful, creating a risk that Mrs. Clinton’s proposals could overreach and turn off some voters.

Mrs. Clinton is expected to begin spelling out details of her policies on Monday in a speech about the economy. Meanwhile, her aides say that she will seek to pay for them with higher taxes on wealthy Americans, along with cutbacks and closing loopholes elsewhere; the amounts in play are expected to be substantial.

Her most ambitious ideas, which her advisers say are designed to help families, include prekindergarten for all 4-year-olds, expanded access to child care, paid sick days and paid family leave, helping to make college students “as debt-free as possible,” a higher minimum wage, company profit-sharing for employees, legal protections for people in the country illegally, and more financing for medical research.

Universal prekindergarten alone could cost tens of billions of dollars over the next decade, according to outside advisers to Mrs. Clinton.

Against the sweep of Democratic Party history, Mrs. Clinton’s proposals reflect a decided return to vibrant liberalism.

The government programs of Franklin D. Roosevelt – whose presidency Mrs. Clinton regularly invokes – and Lyndon B. Johnson aimed to transform the lives of poor and elderly Americans with jobs, health care, and retirement benefits. But the consecutive electoral losses of Jimmy Carter, Walter F. Mondale, and Michael S. Dukakis in the 1980s – as well as President Ronald Reagan’s framing of government as “the problem” – gave rise to centrist Democrats like Bill Clinton who envisioned federal programs as safety nets rather than solutions to every social ill.

Government actions became more robust after the Great Recession, beginning in 2009 with President Obama’s stimulus program, corporate bailouts and the Affordable Care Act. Mrs. Clinton is now moving to build on those programs.

Mr. Dallek said that Democrats were increasingly determined to embrace President Johnson's view that, in the historian's words, "What's the point of being president if you're not going to use the government and its powers to make progress in society?"

Friends and associates say Mrs. Clinton is revealing her natural political self: a blend of progressive and pragmatic, an apostle of government policy as a force for change, and a more left-of-center leader than her husband.

"She's an activist at heart and a liberal at heart, and she finally fits the times because more people want an expansive government than they did in the 1990s," said Al From, the founder of the Democratic Leadership Council, a centrist group, now defunct, that had close ties to President Clinton. "The big challenge for her is, can she offer progressive policies that are constructive and efficient – but are ones that appeal to the liberal base but aren't too hard-left?"

It is also a return to form by Mrs. Clinton, who shifted in the 1990s to supporting more moderate and piecemeal policies after being vilified during the health care battle. She is on safer political ground now, not only because a growing number of Democrats identify as liberal but also because the economic challenges facing the country are more acute today than during her years in the Senate and as a presidential candidate in 2008.

Neera Tanden, the president of the Center for American Progress and Mrs. Clinton's policy director in the 2008 campaign, said that Mrs. Clinton was offering a mix of ideas she has long supported, like prekindergarten and paid sick leave, and newer ones that address problems like income inequality and wage stagnation that have become worse since then.

"She talked about the family and economic issues in 2008, but there wasn't a lot of traction," Ms. Tanden said. "The country has shifted a lot more. There is a lot more debate in the culture today about women's roles and families and trying to make ends meet."

Gene Sperling, a former economic adviser to Mr. Clinton and Mr. Obama, and someone whom Mrs. Clinton has consulted in her current campaign, said that after more than three decades in public life and in her second national campaign, she has made clear that her goal is to have the biggest effect possible if she wins.

"I think the issues of economic inequality and middle class economic insecurity have become more serious and long-standing, and as a result are demanding bigger responses," Mr. Sperling said.

A sizeable portion of Democratic primary voters want even more dramatic changes than Mrs. Clinton is calling for: The dismantling of banks and stricter regulation the financial industry, higher taxes on Wall Street firms and corporate profits, and reduced or even free college tuition.

Several Democrats in Iowa and New Hampshire, the first states to vote for the 2016 presidential nominees, said they remained skeptical that Mrs. Clinton's core beliefs were truly progressive, given her history as a pragmatist who, as a senator, sought common ground with Republicans and voted to authorize the 2003 invasion of Iraq.

"When Bernie Sanders talks about a political revolution, I believe it because that's always been his message. But Hillary? Not so much," said Ellen Shipitalo, a graduate student in political studies at Queen's University in Ontario, who attended a recent rally for Mrs. Clinton in Des Moines. "No Democrat I know really thinks she'll change much as president."

Liberals may feel good about Mr. Sanders's proposals – a breakup of big banks, $1 trillion for public works jobs, a “Medicare-for-all” system of universal health care – but many Democrats in Congress view them as impractical given Republican control.

Mrs. Clinton’s allies said they believed her policies had a far better chance of success.

“If Hillary wins, and/or we take back the Senate, the mainstream conservatives who want to work with us will have the upper hand over their Tea Party members,” said Senator Chuck Schumer of New York. “If they lose three consecutive presidential elections, you’ll have Republicans who will say, ‘We can’t keep following the Tea Party.’”

Find out what you need to know about the 2016 presidential race today, and get politics news updates via Facebook, Twitter and the First Draft newsletter.

From: B
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Cc: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: TPA Update
Date: Thursday, July 09, 2015 1:08:37 PM

Now for the positive: I like #'s 3 + 4 + 5 a lot! Excellent!

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Thursday, July 09, 2015 06:30 AM
To: B
Cc: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: TPA Update

1. Presidential Forum

We have been in additional touch with CNN, and they are still pushing a partisan forum. While CNN has not closed the door completely on a bipartisan forum, they have told us there is only a 5 – 10% chance that they would do it.

The onus would be on us to find a Republican co-sponsor, and push to get the “right” Republicans there. If the eventual lineup doesn’t pass muster with CNN brass, they’d have to drop out, leaving us to find another network to sponsor.

It is important to note that Mark Preston, our contact at CNN, has done all of the network's debates since 2006, and has been very honest and blunt with us about what he believes will and won’t work. (He has a longstanding friendship with RKK.)

The alternative is to cold-call PBS, or a statewide public broadcasting network in one of the early states, to see if they have the money & the will to do a bipartisan event.

We’ve held off on doing this for now, since CNN is a respected bird-in-the-hand; has been helpful in thinking this through; and deserves the right of first refusal. Another network (where we don’t have a personal relationship) may not offer us the same honest assessment of what will & won't work – and could string us along, with nothing transpiring.

Our collective recommendation is to take advantage of CNN's consistent view and lock down a partisan forum.

If we go this route, we could reach out to an organization like AEI and suggest they sponsor a Republican Forum on Income Inequality on a different date – perhaps announcing plans together. (This is how the recently announced “Black and Brown” Forum, scheduled for this winter in Iowa, is being planned.) This would show an honest effort at doing a bipartisan event, without saddling us with the responsibility of persuading Republicans to come to a “de Blasio event.”

Either way, we are aiming for October or early November for this event.

2. Gracie Confab 2 – A, B, & C

In an effort to keep the drumbeat going around TPA, we are going to host three confabs similar to the original meeting you hosted at Gracie Mansion. We believe it would be more effective to organize these events around constituency groups -- discussing TPA issues that impact them most.

We are planning to host a Latino Leaders confab, spearheaded by Maria Elana Durazo, in August; a second forum with Labor Leaders in September; and a third forum, with Women Leaders, in late September or early October.

3. National Press

While we are moving forward with our smaller events and the larger Presidential Forum, it is important to keep you in the public eye on a regular basis.

With the City Hall press team, we are working to schedule you for national TV shows when “big moments” on income inequality surface in the news – e.g., new reports released, legislation passed, or other milestones. In addition to Cable TV, we are still working with our VIP signers to produce op-eds for major papers, and engage our surrogates in other public efforts.

4. New Signers

We recognize that continuing to build our number of regular signers is important as we engage in these larger efforts. We are working on a Joint Action strategy with Rep. Barbara Lee and Senator Jeff Merkley as a way of building our list. This is likely the first of many Joint Action list-building efforts that we will engage in over the next several months. We are also considering digital advertising to boost our numbers, and are exploring the best way to target likely new signers.

5. TPA Executive Director

Geri Prado will officially begin on or around July 24th. I’m working with Geri on a plan that outlines what TPA will look like moving forward. That will be ready for you by the end of July.

###

From: John Del Cecato
To: B
Cc: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: TPA Update
Date: Thursday, July 09, 2015 1:15:15 PM

Roger.

We'll add an AfAm confab to the list. You're right - the meeting with civil rights leaders wasn't comprehensive enough.

Also, I failed to add that I talked to the CNN producer about this stuff myself... Just didn't want you to think I was communicating stuff second-hand..

From: Bill de Blasio <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Thursday, July 9, 2015 at 1:08 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: "Snyder, Thomas" <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: TPA Update

Just saw this

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Thursday, July 09, 2015 06:47 AM
To: B
Cc: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: TPA Update

Just to be clear, the joint recommendation in #1 comes from Tom, Phil, Hayley, and myself.

On Jul 9, 2015, at 6:30 AM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

1. Presidential Forum

We have been in additional touch with CNN, and they are still pushing a partisan forum. While CNN has not closed the door completely on a bipartisan forum, they have told us there is only a 5 – 10% chance that they would do it.

The onus would be on us to find a Republican co-sponsor, and push to get the “right” Republicans there. If the eventual lineup doesn’t pass muster with CNN brass, they’d have to drop out, leaving us to find another network to sponsor.

It is important to note that Mark Preston, our contact at CNN, has done all of the network's debates since 2006, and has been very honest and blunt with us about what he believes will and won’t work. (He has a longstanding friendship with RKK.)

The alternative is to cold-call PBS, or a statewide public broadcasting network in one of the early states, to see if they have the money & the will to do a bipartisan event.

We’ve held off on doing this for now, since CNN is a respected bird-in-the-hand; has been helpful in thinking this through; and deserves the right of first refusal. Another network (where we don’t have a personal relationship) may not offer us the same honest assessment of what will & won’t work – and could string us along, with nothing transpiring.

Our collective recommendation is to take advantage of CNN’s consistent view and lock down a partisan forum.

If we go this route, we could reach out to an organization like AEI and suggest they sponsor a Republican Forum on Income Inequality on a different date – perhaps announcing plans together. (This is how the recently announced “Black and Brown” Forum, scheduled for this winter in Iowa, is being planned.) This would show an honest effort at doing a bipartisan event, without saddling us with the responsibility of persuading Republicans to come to a “de Blasio event.”

Either way, we are aiming for October or early November for this event.

2. Gracie Confab 2 – A, B, & C

In an effort to keep the drumbeat going around TPA, we are going to host three confabs similar to the original meeting you hosted at Gracie Mansion. We believe it would be more effective to organize these events around constituency groups -- discussing TPA issues that impact them most.

We are planning to host a Latino Leaders confab, spearheaded by Maria Elana Durazo, in August; a second forum with Labor Leaders in September; and a third forum, with Women Leaders, in late September or early October.

3. National Press

While we are moving forward with our smaller events and the larger Presidential Forum, it is important to keep you in the public eye on a regular basis.

With the City Hall press team, we are working to schedule you for national TV shows when “big moments” on income inequality surface in the news – e.g., new reports released, legislation passed, or other milestones. In addition to Cable TV, we are still working with our VIP signers to produce op-eds for major papers, and engage our surrogates in other public efforts.

4. New Signers

We recognize that continuing to build our number of regular signers is important as we engage in these larger efforts. We are working on a Joint Action strategy with Rep. Barbara Lee and Senator Jeff Merkley as a way of building our list. This is likely the first of many Joint Action list-building efforts that we will engage in over the next several months. We are also considering digital advertising to boost our numbers, and are exploring the best way to target likely new signers.

5. TPA Executive Director

Geri Prado will officially begin on or around July 24th. I'm working with Geri on a plan that outlines what TPA will look like moving forward. That will be ready for you by the end of July.

###

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
To: "John Del Cecato"; Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: RE: FYI
Date: Thursday, July 09, 2015 1:26:30 PM

Think she's also doing CBC, CHC, CAPAC

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Thursday, July 09, 2015 1:24 PM
To: Gunaratna, Mahen; Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: Re: FYI

interesting

From: "Gunaratna, Mahen" <MGunaratna@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Thursday, July 9, 2015 at 1:19 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, "Walzak, Phil" <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Hagelgans, Andrea" <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: FYI

Alex Seitz-Wald @aseitzwald 50s51 seconds ago

NEW: Hillary Clinton to meet with Congressional Progressive Caucus during Hill visit Tuesday.
msnbc.com/msnbc/hillary-.....

--

Mahen Gunaratna

Director of Research and Media Analysis
Mayor's Press Office | City Hall
mgunaratna@cityhall.nyc.gov
(212) 676-3154 (o) | (347)-268-4295 (c)

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: B; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: RE: TPA Update
Date: Thursday, July 09, 2015 1:34:38 PM

On number 2, I take responsibility for that misstep. John wasn't even there. On number 1, I have made sure that Phil is involved in every discussion about the forum.

From: B
Sent: Thursday, July 09, 2015 1:06 PM
To: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'
Cc: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: TPA Update

1. Although I'm warming to the CNN idea, I need to know if Phil has been a part of these discussions. RKK should not be the arbiter. And I find it laughable that something of this magnitude is being considered through the prism of who has a personal relationship with the network. We are way, way past that.

2. I am astounded that after all we've been through you wouldn't assume we need a mtg with African-American leaders. If you say "well, we already met with sharpston, et al" I would say that wasn't enough because it was private. We need a follow-up more public mtg as part of the TPA if we're doing the others

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Thursday, July 09, 2015 06:30 AM
To: B
Cc: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: TPA Update

1. Presidential Forum

We have been in additional touch with CNN, and they are still pushing a partisan forum. While CNN has not closed the door completely on a bipartisan forum, they have told us there is only a 5 – 10% chance that they would do it.

The onus would be on us to find a Republican co-sponsor, and push to get the "right" Republicans there. If the eventual lineup doesn't pass muster with CNN brass, they'd have to drop out, leaving us to find another network to sponsor.

It is important to note that Mark Preston, our contact at CNN, has done all of the network's debates since 2006, and has been very honest and blunt with us about what he believes will and won't work. (He has a longstanding friendship with RKK.)

The alternative is to cold-call PBS, or a statewide public broadcasting network in one of the early states, to see if they have the money & the will to do a bipartisan event.

We've held off on doing this for now, since CNN is a respected bird-in-the-hand; has been helpful in thinking this through; and deserves the right of first refusal. Another network (where we don't have a personal relationship) may not offer us the same honest assessment of what will & won't work – and could string us along, with nothing transpiring.

Our collective recommendation is to take advantage of CNN's consistent view and lock down a partisan forum.

If we go this route, we could reach out to an organization like AEI and suggest they sponsor a Republican Forum on Income Inequality on a different date – perhaps announcing plans together. (This is how the recently announced “Black and Brown” Forum, scheduled for this winter in Iowa, is being planned.) This would show an honest effort at doing a bipartisan event, without saddling us with the responsibility of persuading Republicans to come to a “de Blasio event.”

Either way, we are aiming for October or early November for this event.

2. Gracie Confab 2 – A, B, & C

In an effort to keep the drumbeat going around TPA, we are going to host three confabs similar to the original meeting you hosted at Gracie Mansion.

We believe it would be more effective to organize these events around constituency groups -- discussing TPA issues that impact them most.

We are planning to host a Latino Leaders confab, spearheaded by Maria Elana Durazo, in August; a second forum with Labor Leaders in September; and a third forum, with Women Leaders, in late September or early October.

3. National Press

While we are moving forward with our smaller events and the larger Presidential Forum, it is important to keep you in the public eye on a regular basis.

With the City Hall press team, we are working to schedule you for national TV shows when “big moments” on income inequality surface in the news – e.g., new reports released, legislation passed, or other milestones. In addition to Cable TV, we are still working with our VIP signers to produce op-eds for major papers, and engage our surrogates in other public efforts.

4. New Signers

We recognize that continuing to build our number of regular signers is important as we engage in these larger efforts. We are working on a Joint Action strategy with Rep. Barbara Lee and Senator Jeff Merkley as a way of building our list. This is likely the first of many Joint Action list-building efforts that we will engage in over the next several months. We are also considering digital advertising to boost our numbers, and are exploring the best way to target likely new signers.

5. TPA Executive Director

Geri Prado will officially begin on or around July 24th. I’m working with Geri on a plan that outlines what TPA will look like moving forward. That will be ready for you by the end of July.

###

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: "Hayley Prim"
Cc: John Del Cecato
Subject: RE: VP Gore
Date: Thursday, July 09, 2015 1:39:32 PM

Or after 5pm. However, I think we would move almost anything to make that connection so try to get the times Michael and I gave you, but in the end if he can't do any of our times get what time from gore that you can and I'll make it happen.

From: Carey, Michael
Sent: Thursday, July 09, 2015 1:08 PM
To: 'Hayley Prim'; Snyder, Thomas
Cc: John Del Cecato
Subject: RE: VP Gore

Monday
1-330 I can move things around

Michael Paul Carey
Director of Scheduling and Advance
City Hall
New York, New York 10007
212.341.5396

From: Hayley Prim [<mailto:hayley@progressiveagenda.us>]
Sent: Thursday, July 9, 2015 12:22 PM
To: Snyder, Thomas; Carey, Michael
Cc: John Del Cecato
Subject: VP Gore

Might be available for a call with the mayor on Monday. Can you tell me what slots we can offer?

From: Carey, Michael
To: "John Del Cecato"; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: RE: TPA call time
Date: Thursday, July 09, 2015 1:39:34 PM

Yeah
We will see.
He may really want his whitespace today. He keeps waffling.

Michael Paul Carey
Director of Scheduling and Advance
City Hall
New York, New York 10007
212.341.5396

-----Original Message-----

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Thursday, July 9, 2015 11:45 AM
To: Carey, Michael; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: TPA call time

yes - still thinking 3pm-430pm at City Hall?

On 7/9/15, 11:43 AM, "Carey, Michael" <MPCarey@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>Are you around for calls today?
>
>
>Michael Paul Carey
>City Hall
>New York, New York

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: "Hayley Prim"; John Del Cecato
Cc: Carey, Michael
Subject: RE: Call sheet
Date: Thursday, July 09, 2015 1:59:37 PM

Still not sure. He is not yet in the building.

From: Hayley Prim [mailto:hayley@progressiveagenda.us]
Sent: Thursday, July 09, 2015 1:55 PM
To: John Del Cecato
Cc: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: Call sheet

Does it look like we're still on for 3pm?

On Thu, Jul 9, 2015 at 12:33 PM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:
Here's an updated call sheet... Only new name is Jim Clyburn of SC

From: John Del Cecato
To: Hagelgans, Andrea; Gunaratna, Mahen; Walzak, Phil
Cc: Hinton, Karen
Subject: Re: Another good talking point
Date: Thursday, July 09, 2015 2:30:16 PM
Attachments: IncomeInequalityStats.docx

Here's a list of stats/quotes...

Let me know if you need more of a narrative - as in, soundbites that MBDB can deliver himself

From: "Hagelgans, Andrea" <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Tuesday, July 7, 2015 at 10:51 AM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, "Gunaratna, Mahen" <MGunaratna@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Walzak, Phil" <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: "Hinton, Karen" <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: RE: Another good talking point

JDC- Are you all working updated TPA messaging for the Mayor? Imagine we'll need to engage again soon

He'd like tighter messaging and examples, as we discussed previously.

Thanks!

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Monday, July 06, 2015 5:03 PM
To: Gunaratna, Mahen; Jon Fromowitz; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: Another good talking point

<http://www.politifact.com/truth-o-meter/statements/2015/apr/19/bernie-s/bernie-sanders-says-99-percent-new-income-going-to/>

The Progressive Agenda TALKING POINTS – updated

- In 2014, the top 25 hedge fund managers earned nearly $12 billion. That's more than all of the Kindergarten teachers in American earned – COMBINED. And those hedge funders are often paying a lower tax rate, due to the carried interest loophole.
- The typical American family, in real income terms, is making less today than they were a quarter century ago.
- The wealthiest one percent captured 91% of all the income gains in the first 3 years since the Great Recession ended.
- The average CEO makes about 300 times what the average worker makes.
- 99 percent of all new income is going to the top 1 percent.
- In the US, the top 160 THOUSAND families own as much wealth as the bottom 145 MILLION families.
- In 2014, the average family income for the Bottom 99% was $47,200. The Top 1%, meanwhile, had an average income of $1.3 million.
- There is currently an apartment for sale in Manhattan for $120 million.
- We now have the greatest income disparity since the 1920s.
- The Progressive Agenda is a set of 15 proposals to lift the floor for working people; provide help to working parents and their families; and require big corporations and the wealthy to pay their fair share.
- $15 minimum wage. Opposing trade deals that put corporate profits ahead of workers. Paid sick and paid family leave. Debt-free college. Expanding the Earned Income Tax Credit and Social Security. Universal Pre-K, after-school, and childcare. Closing loopholes that let hedge funders pay a lower rate of taxes than many middle-class people. The Buffett Rule. Closing the CEO pay loophole.
- There's something happening out there. Last year, four RED states passed ballot measures to increase minimum wage increase. 60,000 workers in 200 cities rallied for a $15 minimum wage. Cities across the country are passing paid sick leave. The progressive candidate for mayor in Philadelphia ran on Universal Pre-K – and won.

- New York Times poll:
 - * 66 percent of all Americans believe that money and wealth should be distributed more evenly.
 - * 65 percent believe the income gap must be addressed now.
 - * 68 percent support higher taxes on millionaires.
 - * 80 percent favor paid family leave.
 - * 85 percent back paid sick leave.
- Q-poll (Iowa)
 - * 91 percent of Democratic caucus-goers believe the federal government should tackle income inequality.
- Billionaire investor Nick Hanauer:

"I buy a few pairs of pants and a few shirts a year.... I guess I could have bought 1,000 pairs. But why would I? Instead, I sock my extra money away in savings, where it doesn't do the country much good."

- Former Labor Secretary Robert Reich (paraphrased)

About 70 percent of economic activity derives from consumer spending.

- Goldman Sachs CEO Lloyd Blankfein:

Called income inequality in America "destabilizing." Said if we as a country can't deal with inequality then "you can't drive growth and you can't drive the success of the country."

From: John Del Cecato
To: Gunaratna, Mahen; Jon Fromowitz
Subject: Tweet by Jim Roberts on Twitter
Date: Thursday, July 09, 2015 4:40:39 PM

Jim Roberts (@nycjim)

7/9/15, 4:35 PM

CEO pay has risen 90 times faster than average worker pay since the 1970s.
fastcoexist.com/3048172/since-... by @btschiller pic.twitter.com/cXHK3WtvHh

Download the Twitter app

From: Carey, Michael
To: B; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Leopold, Elana
Cc: Snyder, Thomas; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Re: Tom Harkin
Date: Thursday, July 09, 2015 10:39:06 PM

Sir,

Spoke to his staff and he appears free after the parade. They were just checking with him.

On 7/9/15, 10:23 PM, "B" <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>

>Priority call for tmrw and would love to have coffee with him as well >before or after his event on Sunday

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
To: John Del Cecato; Jon Fromowitz
Cc: Hayley Prim
Subject: RE: stats
Date: Friday, July 10, 2015 12:53:23 AM

Sorry for the delayed response. This looks strong.

Only comment is for the line "there is currently an apartment for sale in Manhattan for $120 million" - is it a singular apartment or a set of adjacent townhouses?

Fact check fine otherwise.

From: John Del Cecato [jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Thursday, July 09, 2015 12:16 PM
To: Gunaratna, Mahen; Jon Fromowitz
Cc: Hayley Prim
Subject: stats

Here's an updated list of stats & quotes...

I played a little fast & loose by using the Sanders quote on 99% of new income going to top one percent (which uses 2013 data), and also including the average income for the bottom 99% & top one percent (which is 2014 data from Saez) - but I still think it's defensible...

Let me know if there are any other tidbits that would be juicy to include for MBDB

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
To: John Del Cecato; Hagelgans, Andrea; Walzak, Phil
Cc: Hinton, Karen
Subject: RE: Another good talking point
Date: Friday, July 10, 2015 12:54:12 AM

Looks good.

Sent one minor edit/question to JDC on separate thread.

From: John Del Cecato [jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Thursday, July 09, 2015 2:30 PM
To: Hagelgans, Andrea; Gunaratna, Mahen; Walzak, Phil
Cc: Hinton, Karen
Subject: Re: Another good talking point

Here's a list of stats/quotes...

Let me know if you need more of a narrative - as in, soundbites that MBDB can deliver himself

From: "Hagelgans, Andrea" <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Tuesday, July 7, 2015 at 10:51 AM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, "Gunaratna, Mahen" <MGunaratna@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Walzak, Phil" <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: "Hinton, Karen" <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: RE: Another good talking point

JDC- Are you all working updated TPA messaging for the Mayor? Imagine we'll need to engage again soon

He'd like tighter messaging and examples, as we discussed previously.

Thanks!

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Monday, July 06, 2015 5:03 PM
To: Gunaratna, Mahen; Jon Fromowitz; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: Another good talking point

<http://www.politifact.com/truth-o-meter/statements/2015/apr/19/bernie-s/bernie-sanders-says-99-percent-new-income-going-to/>

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: Hayley Primm \(hayley@progressiveagenda.us\); John Del Ceccato \(jfdc@akpdmedia.com\)
Subject: Call time
Date: Friday, July 10, 2015 10:47:28 AM

TPA call time set for Saturday at 2pm at Gracie. Assume Hayley can attend/assist?

Tom Snyder
Chief of Staff
Office of the Mayor
City Hall
New York, NY 10007
212-341-5050

From: Leopold, Elana
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Cc: Snyder, Thomas; jfdc@akpdmedia.com
Subject: Re: Tom Harkin
Date: Friday, July 10, 2015 2:03:12 PM

No need to schedule

Mayor will call when he has a free moment

Sent from my iPhone

> On Jul 10, 2015, at 10:17 AM, Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca <PSalazar-Rodriguez@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>

> Can we get this call done at 230 today

>

> -----Original Message-----

> From: B

> Sent: Thursday, July 09, 2015 10:24 PM

> To: Carey, Michael; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Leopold, Elana

> Cc: Snyder, Thomas; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'

> Subject: Tom Harkin

>

>

> Priority call for tmrw and would love to have coffee with him as well before or after his event on Sunday

From: B
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Cc: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: Harkin
Date: Friday, July 10, 2015 2:03:14 PM

Will do

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Friday, July 10, 2015 02:01 PM
To: B
Cc: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Harkin

If you do talk to Harkin today, you might also float the idea of former Iowa Republican Congressman Fred Grandy (yes, he played Gopher on Love Boat - but he is sensitive about that!) as a potential co-host.

Grandy was an actual moderate Republican back in the day... Since he retired, he's been doing a radio show in DC. Worth hearing what Harkin says.

Here's how I think we're all envisioning it right now...

====

MEMORANDUM

TO: MBDB, TS
FR: JDC
DA: 7/10/15
RE: Presidential forum

CONTEXT:

Right now, New York City is doing everything in its power to tackle the crisis of our times: income inequality. But we need partners OUTSIDE of New York City to have the most meaningful impact on the lives of 8.5 million New Yorkers. The federal government must be first among those partners.

To that end, we need to elevate income inequality as a NATIONAL issue – and demand that candidates and federal office holders offer real solutions to combatting it.

GOAL:

By convening presidential candidates of BOTH political parties to talk about income inequality, we will generate enormous media coverage of the issue, mobilize everyday

Americans to weigh in on it, help shape the 2016 presidential campaign, and put the candidates “on the record” on topics like the minimum wage, paid sick and paid family leave, and progressive taxation.

Influencing the presidential campaign conversation will have a trickle-down effect – sparking questions of candidates for other positions – House, Senate, and perhaps even Governor and State Legislature.

FORMAT:

I recommend a candidate forum, as opposed to a debate.

Participating candidates will have the stage to themselves, appearing in sequential order, by a method to be determined later.

Each candidate will have 5 minutes to offer an opening statement. Then a panel of 2-3 journalists will question the candidate for 20 minutes about income inequality and what they propose to do about it.

The final 20 minutes will consist of questions offered by audience members and social media users, screened by the panel of journalists.

After a 15-minute break, the next candidate will appear, following the same format.

PARTICIPANTS:

The Progressive Agenda, working with CNN, will extend invitations to declared presidential candidates who have spoken publicly about the need to combat income inequality in the past.

To date, that list includes:

Hillary Clinton, Bernie Sanders, Martin O’Malley, Jim Webb, Lincoln Chaffee, Jeb Bush, Marco Rubio, Rand Paul, Chris Christie, and Ted Cruz. Scott Walker, Ben Carson, Carly Fiorina have all dipped their toes in, but nothing says they’re committed to solutions.

HOSTS:

Hosting the event would be CNN, in partnership with The Progressive Agenda and the American Enterprise Institute.

The Co-Chairs of the debate would be former Senator Tom Harkin (D-IA), and former Congressman Fred Grandy (R-IA).

PANELISTS:

Journalists on the panel would be selected by CNN, but would likely be Anderson

Cooper, Jake Tapper, and/or Poppy Harlow.

VENUE:

Drake University – home of the Harkin Institute. We’d seek to have a hall that fit 400-500 people – all Iowans, perhaps skewing younger.

DATES:

We would aim to have the Democratic side on one day, and the Republican side on another day. It would be good to have both the same week, but if that’s not possible, we’d have them the same month.

COST:

TPA and AEI would EACH need to raise $40-50K to cover the cost of events.

VISIBILITY:

TPA and AEI would be responsible for pushing the aforementioned candidates to attend, promoting the event on social media, and doing earned media with VIPs to drum up the public’s interest in advance of the events.

NEXT STEPS:

1. MBDB talks to Harkin about his willingness to be Co-Chair of this forum.
2. Harkin asks Fred Grandy if he’d do the same.
3. MBDB reaches out to Arthur C. Brooks, head of AEI, to gauge his interest. (ALT: We have CNN reach out to AEI.)
4. TPA reaches out to our VIPs and lets them know our plan, with an "opt-out only" request to lend their names to the effort.
5. We settle on the dates for the events (October or early November).
6. TPA reaches out to our VIP signers AND our Regular People email list to solicit sample questions for the candidates on the Democratic side. (AEI does the same with their members.)

###

From: Wolfe, Emma
To: Carey, Michael
Cc: Snyder, Thomas; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Walzak, Phil
Subject: RE: Saturday
Date: Friday, July 10, 2015 3:00:01 PM

BDB off. Excuse ignorance - Monday's development meaning HRC speech, or something else/new?

-----Original Message-----

From: B
Sent: Friday, July 10, 2015 2:59 PM
To: Carey, Michael
Cc: Snyder, Thomas; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; Walzak, Phil; FLONYC; Wolfe, Emma
Subject: Saturday

We need to do TWO things with the TPA time tmrw. 1) need to do some planning and thinking, especially in light of Monday's upcoming development -- and for that piece I'd like Chirlane, Emma and Phil there, or at least on the phone. 2) we need to make a bunch of calls, which can be just me, JDC and Tom. I assume we need at least 2 hours for both combined -- you guys decide how much. Thanks

----- Original Message -----

From: Carey, Michael
Sent: Thursday, July 09, 2015 01:37 PM
To: B
Cc: Snyder, Thomas; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Subject: RE: Pls send

I am adding Ms. Prisca who is here training this week:

Friday

7:00-7:30 Travel from Gracie Mansion En Route 357 9th Street
7:30-8:30 Workout
9:00-9:30 Travel from 357 9th Street En Route 36 Battery Pl, New York, NY 10280 // Communications Call
9:30 - 10:15 Reception with Women's World Cup Soccer Champions with FLONYC
10:20 - 10:30 Move to Parade Floats
11:00 - 12:00 Participate in Ticker Tape Parade for Women's World Soccer Champions
12:00 - 12:45 Hold // Prep // Greet // Lunch
1:00 - 2:00 US Women's Ceremony
2:30 - 4:15 White Space // TPA Call Time
4:30 - 5:00 Travel from City Hall En Route Gracie Mansion
5:00 - 6:00 Meeting with Marty Scheinman and Beth Garrett

Saturday

10:00 - 11:00 [REDACTED]
12:00 - 1:00 Workout
3:00 - 4:30 TPA Call Time

Sunday

9:30 - 10:00 Travel from Gracie Mansion En Route 357 9th Street
10:00 - 11:00 Workout
11:15 - 11:45 Travel from 357 9th Street En Route 23rd and Madison//Off Topic Prep
11:45 - 1:00 Remarks and March in Disability Pride Parade
1:00 - 1:30 Travel from Union Square En Route Gracie Mansion//Communications Call
2:00 - 2:30 Remarks at 43rd Annual Old Timers Stick Ball Game

3:00 - 4:00 Follow Up Meeting on Mental Health and Violence
4:30 - 5:00 Visit from Joel and Janet Solomon
6:00-6:30 Weekly Scheduling Call

Michael Paul Carey
Director of Scheduling and Advance
City Hall
New York, New York 10007
212.341.5396

-----Original Message-----

From: B
Sent: Thursday, July 9, 2015 1:28 PM
To: Carey, Michael
Cc: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Pls send

Fri, Sat + Sun as they are now. And we need a scheduling call this weekend. Thanks

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: John Del Ceccato \(jfdc@akpdmedia.com\)
Subject: RE: Saturday
Date: Friday, July 10, 2015 3:07:58 PM

Are you NOT available tomorrow?

-----Original Message-----

From: B
Sent: Friday, July 10, 2015 2:59 PM
To: Carey, Michael
Cc: Snyder, Thomas; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; Walzak, Phil; FLONYC; Wolfe, Emma
Subject: Saturday

We need to do TWO things with the TPA time tmrw. 1) need to do some planning and thinking, especially in light of Monday's upcoming development -- and for that piece I'd like Chirlane, Emma and Phil there, or at least on the phone. 2) we need to make a bunch of calls, which can be just me, JDC and Tom. I assume we need at least 2 hours for both combined -- you guys decide how much. Thanks

----- Original Message -----

From: Carey, Michael
Sent: Thursday, July 09, 2015 01:37 PM
To: B
Cc: Snyder, Thomas; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Subject: RE: Pls send

I am adding Ms. Prisca who is here training this week:

Friday

7:00-7:30 Travel from Gracie Mansion En Route 357 9th Street
7:30-8:30 Workout
9:00-9:30 Travel from 357 9th Street En Route 36 Battery Pl, New York, NY 10280 // Communications Call
9:30 - 10:15 Reception with Women's World Cup Soccer Champions with FLONYC
10:20 - 10:30 Move to Parade Floats
11:00 - 12:00 Participate in Ticker Tape Parade for Women's World Soccer Champions
12:00 - 12:45 Hold // Prep // Greet // Lunch
1:00 - 2:00 US Women's Ceremony
2:30 - 4:15 White Space // TPA Call Time
4:30 - 5:00 Travel from City Hall En Route Gracie Mansion
5:00 - 6:00 Meeting with Marty Scheinman and Beth Garrett

Saturday

10:00 - 11:00 Dr Pace Appointment
12:00 - 1:00 Workout
3:00 - 4:30 TPA Call Time

Sunday

9:30 - 10:00 Travel from Gracie Mansion En Route 357 9th Street
10:00 - 11:00 Workout
11:15 - 11:45 Travel from 357 9th Street En Route 23rd and Madison//Off Topic Prep
11:45 - 1:00 Remarks and March in Disability Pride Parade
1:00 - 1:30 Travel from Union Square En Route Gracie Mansion//Communications Call
2:00 - 2:30 Remarks at 43rd Annual Old Timers Stick Ball Game
3:00 - 4:00 Follow Up Meeting on Mental Health and Violence

4:30 - 5:00 Visit from Joel and Janet Solomon
6:00-6:30 Weekly Scheduling Call

Michael Paul Carey
Director of Scheduling and Advance
City Hall
New York, New York 10007
212.341.5396

-----Original Message-----

From: B
Sent: Thursday, July 9, 2015 1:28 PM
To: Carey, Michael
Cc: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Pls send

Fri, Sat + Sun as they are now. And we need a scheduling call this weekend. Thanks

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: Carey, Michael; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Walzak, Phil; FLONYC; Wolfe, Emma; Hayley Primm \(hayley@progressiveagenda.us\)
Cc: B
Subject: RE: Saturday
Date: Friday, July 10, 2015 3:14:51 PM

We will do the planning discussion first beginning at 2pm. For those who cannot be in person, a call-in number will be sent out. After the planning discussion, call time will happen until 4pm.

-----Original Message-----

From: B
Sent: Friday, July 10, 2015 2:59 PM
To: Carey, Michael
Cc: Snyder, Thomas; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; Walzak, Phil; FLONYC; Wolfe, Emma
Subject: Saturday

We need to do TWO things with the TPA time tmrw. 1) need to do some planning and thinking, especially in light of Monday's upcoming development -- and for that piece I'd like Chirlane, Emma and Phil there, or at least on the phone. 2) we need to make a bunch of calls, which can be just me, JDC and Tom. I assume we need at least 2 hours for both combined -- you guys decide how much. Thanks

----- Original Message -----

From: Carey, Michael
Sent: Thursday, July 09, 2015 01:37 PM
To: B
Cc: Snyder, Thomas; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Subject: RE: Pls send

I am adding Ms. Prisca who is here training this week:

Friday

7:00-7:30 Travel from Gracie Mansion En Route 357 9th Street
7:30-8:30 Workout
9:00-9:30 Travel from 357 9th Street En Route 36 Battery Pl, New York, NY 10280 // Communications Call
9:30 - 10:15 Reception with Women's World Cup Soccer Champions with FLONYC
10:20 - 10:30 Move to Parade Floats
11:00 - 12:00 Participate in Ticker Tape Parade for Women's World Soccer Champions
12:00 - 12:45 Hold // Prep // Greet // Lunch
1:00 - 2:00 US Women's Ceremony
2:30 - 4:15 White Space // TPA Call Time
4:30 - 5:00 Travel from City Hall En Route Gracie Mansion
5:00 - 6:00 Meeting with Marty Scheinman and Beth Garrett

Saturday

12:00 - 1:00 Workout
3:00 - 4:30 TPA Call Time

Sunday

9:30 - 10:00 Travel from Gracie Mansion En Route 357 9th Street
10:00 - 11:00 Workout
11:15 - 11:45 Travel from 357 9th Street En Route 23rd and Madison//Off Topic Prep
11:45 - 1:00 Remarks and March in Disability Pride Parade

1:00 - 1:30 Travel from Union Square En Route Gracie Mansion//Communications Call
2:00 - 2:30 Remarks at 43rd Annual Old Timers Stick Ball Game
3:00 - 4:00 Follow Up Meeting on Mental Health and Violence
4:30 - 5:00 Visit from Joel and Janet Solomon
6:00-6:30 Weekly Scheduling Call

Michael Paul Carey
Director of Scheduling and Advance
City Hall
New York, New York 10007
212.341.5396

-----Original Message-----

From: B
Sent: Thursday, July 9, 2015 1:28 PM
To: Carey, Michael
Cc: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Pls send

Fri, Sat + Sun as they are now. And we need a scheduling call this weekend. Thanks

From: Carey, Michael
To: B; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Leopold, Elana
Cc: Snyder, Thomas; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: RE: Tom Harkin
Date: Friday, July 10, 2015 3:58:18 PM

Sir,

Senator Harkin is confirmed for Sunday at Gracie Mansion after the parade.

Michael Paul Carey
Director of Scheduling and Advance
City Hall
New York, New York 10007
212.341.5396

-----Original Message-----

From: B
Sent: Thursday, July 9, 2015 10:24 PM
To: Carey, Michael; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Leopold, Elana
Cc: Snyder, Thomas; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'
Subject: Tom Harkin

Priority call for tmrw and would love to have coffee with him as well before or after his event on Sunday

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: John Del Cecato
Cc: Walzak, Phil
Subject: Re: anything we need to prep for in advance of tpa @ 2 pm?
Date: Saturday, July 11, 2015 1:43:22 PM

[REDACTED]
Code: [REDACTED]

Sent from my iPhone

On Jul 11, 2015, at 1:36 PM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

He may want to talk more about forum too

Is there a call-in number?

On Jul 11, 2015, at 1:21 PM, Snyder, Thomas
<TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

I think for sure he wants to game out HRC ENDORSEMENT
NON ENDORSEMENT

Sent from my iPhone

On Jul 11, 2015, at 12:50 PM, Walzak, Phil
<PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

From: Carey, Michael
To: Walzak, Phil
Cc: Wolfe, Emma; Leopold, Elana; Snyder, Thomas; jfdc@akpdmedia.com
Subject: Re: Today's 2 pm
Date: Saturday, July 11, 2015 1:57:09 PM

I suspect closer to 215

Michael Paul Carey
City Hall
New York, New York

> On Jul 11, 2015, at 1:56 PM, Walzak, Phil <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>
> Same
> Brutal today
> What's eta start
>
> ----- Original Message -----
> From: Wolfe, Emma
> Sent: Saturday, July 11, 2015 01:55 PM
> To: Carey, Michael
> Cc: Leopold, Elana; Walzak, Phil; Snyder, Thomas; John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
> Subject: Re: Today's 2 pm
>
> I hit a traffic snare, will be ten-15 late.
>
>
>
>> On Jul 11, 2015, at 1:54 PM, Carey, Michael <MPCarey@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>>
>> Mayor is en route back to GM
>>
>>
>> Michael Paul Carey
>> City Hall
>> New York, New York

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: Hayley Prim
Cc: Leopold, Elana; John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: Prio Call List before Monday
Date: Saturday, July 11, 2015 5:42:25 PM

Taylor ([REDACTED])

Sent from my iPhone

On Jul 11, 2015, at 5:14 PM, Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us> wrote:

Anyone else who we think is important? Also, EL/TS-- do you guys have numbers for the labor guys who i don't have numbers for? Confirming he has RAS, EW, and AG programmed in his phone.

Elizabeth Warren
Al Gore
Al Sharpton
Robert Reich- [REDACTED]
Howard Dean- cell: [REDACTED]
Lily Eskelsen Garcia/ John Stocks- Stock's cell: [REDACTED]
Chris Shelton
D Taylor
Richard Trumka cell: [REDACTED]
Jim Hoffa
Jeff Merkley cell: [REDACTED]
Keith Ellison- [REDACTED]

Have endorsed HRC
Raul Grijalva
Mark Dayton

From: Leopold, Elana
To: Hayley Prim
Cc: Snyder, Thomas; John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: Prio Call List before Monday
Date: Saturday, July 11, 2015 5:45:14 PM

I have d and Chris Shelton

Can you forward me the scripts please

Sent from my iPhone

On Jul 11, 2015, at 5:14 PM, Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us> wrote:

Anyone else who we think is important? Also, EL/TS-- do you guys have numbers for the labor guys who i don't have numbers for? Confirming he has RAS, EW, and AG programmed in his phone.

Elizabeth Warren

Al Gore

Al Sharpton

Robert Reich- [REDACTED]

Howard Dean- cell: [REDACTED]

Lily Eskelsen Garcia/ John Stocks- Stock's cell: [REDACTED]

Chris Shelton

D Taylor

Richard Trumka cell: [REDACTED]

Jim Hoffa

Jeff Merkley cell: [REDACTED]

Keith Ellison- [REDACTED]

Have endorsed HRC

Raul Grijalva

Mark Dayton

From: Hayley Prim
To: John Del Cecato
Cc: Leopold, Elana; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: Prio Call List before Monday
Date: Saturday, July 11, 2015 7:52:24 PM

And need to add Robby and Podesta.

Robby Mook
John Podesta
Elizabeth Warren
Al Gore
Al Sharpton
Robert Reich- [REDACTED]
Howard Dean- cell: [REDACTED]
Lily Eskelsen Garcia/ John Stocks- Stock's cell: [REDACTED]
Chris Shelton
D Taylor
Richard Trumka cell: [REDACTED]
Jim Hoffa
Jeff Merkley cell: [REDACTED]
Keith Ellison- [REDACTED]
Leo Gerard- [REDACTED]

Have endorsed HRC
Raul Grijalva
Mark Dayton

On Sat, Jul 11, 2015 at 7:41 PM, Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us> wrote:

Conversation is just: Hillary, What do they think about the Presidential Forum, Ask them to be surrogates and host.

Is that right Tom?

On Sat, Jul 11, 2015 at 6:44 PM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:
Ok

On Jul 11, 2015, at 6:24 PM, Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us> wrote:

Maybe not rosa. This is the list of people who he wants to call before Monday's speech, but we can add Leo. He said Sherrod never answers or calls him back

On Saturday, July 11, 2015, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:
Sherrod Brown
Rosa DeLauro
Leo Gerard?

On Jul 11, 2015, at 5:14 PM, Hayley Prim
<hayley@progressiveagenda.us> wrote:

Anyone else who we think is important? Also, EL/TS-- do you guys have numbers for the labor guys who i don't have numbers for? Confirming he has RAS, EW, and AG programmed in his phone.

Elizabeth Warren

Al Gore

Al Sharpton

Robert Reich-

Howard Dean- cell:

Lily Eskelsen Garcia/ John Stocks- Stock's cell:

Chris Shelton

D Taylor

Richard Trumka cell:

Jim Hoffa

Jeff Merkley cell:

Keith Ellison-

Have endorsed HRC

Raul Grijalva

Mark Dayton

From: John Del Cecato
To: Hayley Prim
Cc: Leopold, Elana; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: Special Guest Invitation from Congresswoman Barbara Lee
Date: Saturday, July 11, 2015 8:12:18 PM

Agree on NYC. Have asked Emma about doing a CA event - but I feel like that's a real burden and not something I'd do unless he was out there already

On Jul 11, 2015, at 8:06 PM, Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us> wrote:

i think it depends on what the events actually are. Can you get more info? Seems like NYC one might be an easy lift.

On Sat, Jul 11, 2015 at 4:39 PM, Leopold, Elana <ELeopold@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Can you all decide if this is worthwhile?

Sent from my iPhone

Begin forwarded message:

From: Trish Tinitigan <trish@philhour.com>
Date: June 29, 2015 at 3:13:01 PM EDT
To: <eleopold@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: Marjan Philhour <marjan@philhour.com>
Subject: Re: Special Guest Invitation from Congresswoman Barbara Lee

Elana,

I hope you're well! Following up on a phone message I left for you on Thursday, June 25, 2015 regarding Congresswoman Barbara Lee's NYC event on October 5th. We have tentatively scheduled a luncheon and will forward details to you as soon as we confirm. I wanted to make sure that this is on your radar.

Additionally, I am also following up to see if you might have had a moment to take into consideration our invitation for Mayor de Blasio to be our special guest for one of our in-district events. We want to work on a date that is mutually convenient for his schedule. Might you be able to check if he has any availability for an event in October?

Thank you for your assistance!

Best,

Trish

Trish Tinitigan | Associate
Philhour & Associates
381 Bush Street, Suite 503
San Francisco, CA 94104
Work: 415-692-3556

On Fri, May 15, 2015 at 12:18 PM, Trish Tinitigan
<trish@philhour.com> wrote:

Elana,

I hope this email finds you well. I am following up on a phone message I left for you on Tuesday, May 12, 2015. Congresswoman Barbara Lee recently invited Mayor de Blasio to be a special guest to one of her in-district events. We appreciate your consideration of the Congresswoman's request. We would like to work on a mutually agreeable date for a fundraiser but if the Mayor's schedule might permit, we do have a large quarterly event in September. Thank you for your assistance, Elana!

Best,

Trish

Trish Tinitigan | Associate

Philhour & Associates

381 Bush Street, Suite 503

San Francisco, CA 94104

Work: 415-692-3556

Cell: 415-966-9618

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
To: Snyder, Thomas; John Del Cecato; Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: Times on Monday's speech
Date: Saturday, July 11, 2015 11:03:05 PM

"In addition to discussing women and family issues on Monday, Mrs. Clinton is expected to support Mr. Obama's plans to extend overtime pay to workers and strengthen collective bargaining. She will also emphasize policies that would help the largely female members of the A.F.T., including pushing for paid family leave and affordable childcare, according to aides."

Sent from my iPhone

From: Hayley Prim
To: Snyder, Thomas
Cc: John Del Cecato; Leopold, Elana
Subject: Re: Prio Call List before Monday
Date: Sunday, July 12, 2015 8:33:26 AM

Sending this to bdb now

On Saturday, July 11, 2015, Snyder, Thomas <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
On the forum we want to ask them to be part of it, lend name, co-sponsor

Sent from my iPhone

On Jul 11, 2015, at 7:41 PM, Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us> wrote:

Conversation is just: Hillary, What do they think about the Presidential Forum, Ask them to be surrogates and host.

Is that right Tom?

On Sat, Jul 11, 2015 at 6:44 PM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

Ok

On Jul 11, 2015, at 6:24 PM, Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us> wrote:

Maybe not rosa. This is the list of people who he wants to call before Monday's speech, but we can add Leo. He said Sherrod never answers or calls him back

On Saturday, July 11, 2015, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

Sherrod Brown
Rosa DeLauro
Leo Gerard?

On Jul 11, 2015, at 5:14 PM, Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us> wrote:

Anyone else who we think is important? Also, EL/TS-- do you guys have numbers for the labor guys who i don't have numbers for? Confirming he has RAS, EW, and AG programmed in his phone.

Elizabeth Warren

Al Gore

Al Sharpton

Robert Reich-

Howard Dean- cell:

Lily Eskelsen Garcia/ John Stocks- Stock's
cell:

Chris Shelton

D Taylor

Richard Trumka cell:

Jim Hoffa

Jeff Merkley cell:

Keith Ellison-

Have endorsed HRC

Raul Grijalva

Mark Dayton

From: Carey, Michael
To: John Del Cecato
Cc: Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: Progressive caucus
Date: Sunday, July 12, 2015 11:10:21 AM

JDC u are writing tp right??

Michael Paul Carey
City Hall
New York, New York

From: John Del Cecato
To: B
Cc: Snyder, Thomas; Walzak, Phil; Wolfe, Emma; hayley@progressiveagenda.us
Subject: Re: NYT: In Fiery Speeches, Francis Excoriates Global Capitalism
Date: Sunday, July 12, 2015 3:00:18 PM

Workers of the world, unite!!

On Jul 12, 2015, at 2:45 PM, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Well, THIS says it all! :)

From: Klein, Monica
Sent: Sunday, July 12, 2015 01:56 PM
To: B
Subject: NYT: In Fiery Speeches, Francis Excoriates Global Capitalism

In Fiery Speeches, Francis Excoriates Global Capitalism
NEW YORK TIMES - Jim Yardley and Binyamin Appelbaum - July 11, 2015

ASUNCIÓN, Paraguay — His speeches can blend biblical fury with apocalyptic doom. Pope Francis does not just criticize the excesses of global capitalism. He compares them to the “dung of the devil.” He does not simply argue that systemic “greed for money” is a bad thing. He calls it a “subtle dictatorship” that “condemns and enslaves men and women.”

Having returned to his native Latin America, Francis has renewed his left-leaning critiques on the inequalities of capitalism, describing it as an underlying cause of global injustice, and a prime cause of climate change. Francis escalated that line last week when he made a historic apology for the crimes of the Roman Catholic Church during the period of Spanish colonialism — even as he called for a global movement against a “new colonialism” rooted in an inequitable economic order.

The Argentine pope seemed to be asking for a social revolution.

“This is not theology as usual; this is him shouting from the mountaintop,” said Stephen F. Schneck, the director of the Institute for Policy Research and Catholic studies at Catholic University of America in Washington.

The last pope who so boldly placed himself at the center of the global moment was John Paul II, who during the 1980s pushed the church to confront what many saw as the challenge of that era, communism. John Paul II’s anti-Communist messaging dovetailed with the agenda of political conservatives eager for a tougher line against the Soviets and, in turn, aligned part of the church hierarchy with the political right.

Francis has defined the economic challenge of this era as the failure of global capitalism to create fairness, equity and dignified livelihoods for the poor — a social and religious agenda that coincides with a resurgence of the leftist thinking marginalized in the days of John Paul II. Francis' increasingly sharp critique comes as much of humanity has never been so wealthy or well fed — yet rising inequality and repeated financial crises have unsettled voters, policy makers and economists.

Left-wing populism is surging in countries immersed in economic turmoil, such as Spain, and, most notably, Greece. But even in the United States, where the economy has rebounded, widespread concern about inequality and corporate power are propelling the rise of liberals like Senator Bernie Sanders of Vermont and Senator Elizabeth Warren of Massachusetts, who, in turn, have pushed the Democratic Party presidential front-runner, Hillary Rodham Clinton, to the left.

Even some free-market champions are now reassessing the shortcomings of unfettered capitalism. George Soros, who made billions in the markets, and then spent a good part of it promoting the spread of free markets in Eastern Europe, now argues that the pendulum has swung too far the other way.

"I think the pope is singing to the music that's already in the air," said Robert A. Johnson, executive director of the Institute for New Economic Thinking, which was financed with $50 million from Mr. Soros. "And that's a good thing. That's what artists do, and I think the pope is sensitive to the lack of legitimacy of the system."

Many Catholic scholars would argue that Francis is merely continuing a line of Catholic social teaching that has existed for more than a century and was embraced even by his two conservative predecessors, John Paul II and Benedict XVI. Pope Leo XIII first called for economic justice on behalf of workers in 1891, with his encyclical "Rerum Novarum" — or, "On Condition of Labor."

Mr. Schneck, of Catholic University, said it was as if Francis were saying, "We've been talking about these things for more than one hundred years, and nobody is listening."

Francis has such a strong sense of urgency "because he has been on the front lines with real people, not just numbers and abstract ideas," Mr. Schneck said. "That real-life experience of working with the most marginalized in Argentina has been the source of his inspiration as pontiff."

Francis made his speech on Wednesday night, in Santa Cruz, Bolivia, before nearly 2,000 social activists, farmers, trash workers and neighborhood activists. Even as he meets regularly with heads of state, Francis has often said that change must come from the grass roots, whether from poor people or the community organizers who work with them. To Francis, the poor have earned knowledge that is useful and redeeming, even as a "throwaway culture" tosses them aside. He sees them as being at the front edge of economic and environmental crises around the world.

In Bolivia, Francis praised cooperatives and other localized organizations that he said provide productive economies for the poor. "How different this is than the situation that results when those left behind by the formal market are exploited like slaves!" he said on Wednesday night.

It is this Old Testament-like rhetoric that some find jarring, perhaps especially so in the United States, where Francis will visit in September. His environmental encyclical, "Laudato Si'," released last month, drew loud criticism from some American conservatives and from others who found his language deeply pessimistic. His right-leaning critics also argued that he was overreaching and straying dangerously beyond religion — while condemning capitalism with too broad a brush.

"I wish Francis would focus on positives, on how a free-market economy guided by an ethical framework, and the rule of law, can be a part of the solution for the poor — rather than just jumping from the reality of people's misery to the analysis that a market economy is the problem," said the Rev. Robert A. Sirico, president of the Acton Institute for the Study of Religion and Liberty, which advocates free-market economics.

Francis' sharpest critics have accused him of being a Marxist or a Latin American communist, even as he opposed communism during his time in Argentina. His tour last week of Latin America began in Ecuador and Bolivia, two countries with far-left governments. President Evo Morales of Bolivia, who wore a Che Guevara patch on his jacket during Francis' speech, claimed the pope as a kindred spirit — even as Francis seemed startled when Mr. Morales gave him a wooden crucifix shaped like a hammer and sickle as a gift.

Francis' primary agenda last week was to begin renewing Catholicism in Latin America and repositioning it as the church of the poor. His apology for the church's complicity in the colonialist era received an immediate roar from the crowd. In various parts of Latin America, the association between the church and economic power elites remains intact. In Chile, a socially conservative country, some members of the country's corporate elite are also members of Opus Dei, the traditionalist Catholic organization founded in Spain in 1928.

Inevitably, Francis' critique can be read as a broadside against Pax Americana, the period of capitalism regulated by global institutions created largely by the United States. But even pillars of that system are shifting. The World Bank, which long promoted economic growth as an end in itself, is now increasingly focused on the distribution of gains, after the Arab Spring revolts in some countries that the bank had held up as models. The latest generation of international trade agreements includes efforts to increase protections for workers and the environment.

The French economist Thomas Piketty argued last year in a surprising best-seller, "Capital in the Twenty-First Century," that rising wealth inequality is a natural result of free-market policies, a direct challenge to the conventional view that economic inequalities shrink over time. The controversial implication drawn by Mr. Piketty is that governments should raise taxes on the wealthy.

Mr. Piketty roiled the debate among mainstream economists, yet Francis' critique is more unnerving to some because he is not reframing inequality and poverty around a new economic theory but instead defining it in moral terms. "Working for a just distribution of the fruits of the earth and human labor is not mere philanthropy," he said on Wednesday. "It is a moral obligation. For Christians, the responsibility is even greater: It is a commandment."

Nick Hanauer, a Seattle venture capitalist, said he believed Francis was making a nuanced point about capitalism, embodied by his coinage of a "social mortgage" on accumulated wealth — a debt to the society that made its accumulation possible. Mr. Hanauer said that economic elites should embrace the need for change both for moral and pragmatic reasons.

"I'm a believer in capitalism but it comes in as many flavors as pie, and we have a choice about the kind of capitalist system that we have," said Mr. Hanauer, now an outspoken proponent of redistributive government policies like a higher minimum wage.

Yet what remains unclear is whether Francis has a clear vision for a systemic alternative to the status quo that he and others criticize. "All these critiques point toward the incoherence of the simple idea of free market economics, but they don't prescribe a remedy," said Mr. Johnson, of the Institute for New Economic Thinking.

Francis acknowledged as much, conceding on Wednesday that he had no new "recipe" to quickly change the world. Instead, he spoke about a "process of change" undertaken at the grass-roots level.

"What can be done by those students, those young people, those activists, those missionaries who come to my neighborhood with the hearts full of hopes and dreams but without any real solution for my problems?" he asked. "A lot! They can do a lot."

"You, the lowly, the exploited, the poor and underprivileged, can do, and are doing, a lot. I would even say that the future of humanity is in great measure in your own hands."

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: Hayley Prim
Cc: John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: My notes from today- anything missing?
Date: Sunday, July 12, 2015 4:52:39 PM

Add: look for surrogate speaking opportunities

Sent from my iPad

> On Jul 11, 2015, at 7:53 PM, Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us> wrote:
>
> 1. We need to figure out a way to get Gore and Steyer to engage on this from a climate change standpoint.
>
> 2. We need to make sure we celebrate all of the small, local victories, look at the referendums in the early states and see if there is anything we can identify with and pounce on, and work with on the ground troops, or do our own research to determine which local lawmakers could be key to identifying bills in line with TPA-- e.g. raising minimum wage.
>
> 3. Need to move forward quickly with additional confabs, and maybe expand upon the 4. Look from those who we can ask to sign on.
>
> 4. Need to come up with a second comprehensive list, broken down into multiple areas, to see which progressives we can tap next. Academics, Philanthropists, etc.
>
> 5. Need to go through the list of Republicans you sent him who could be involved in the second forum and find out exactly what each of them have said about income inequality.
>
> 6. For the Republican forum, should consider another right center organization who is saying something about income inequality, or consider making Buffett, Blankfein the conveners

From: Hayley Prim
To: John Del Cecato
Cc: Snyder, Thomas; Carey, Michael; Leopold, Elana
Subject: Re: Download harkin
Date: Sunday, July 12, 2015 5:51:40 PM

Ok. Can you guys make sure he dials in with the info below?

██████████ password: ██████████

On Sunday, July 12, 2015, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:
Works for me

On Jul 12, 2015, at 5:40 PM, Snyder, Thomas <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

How about 6:30?

Sent from my iPhone

On Jul 12, 2015, at 5:17 PM, Hayley Prim
<hayley@progressiveagenda.us> wrote:

When can this happen?

----- Forwarded message -----

From: Snyder, Thomas <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Sunday, July 12, 2015
Subject: Download harkin
To: Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>
Cc: B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
<jfdc@akpdmedia.com>

Ready now or whenever

Sent from my iPad

On Jul 12, 2015, at 4:59 PM, Hayley Prim
<hayley@progressiveagenda.us> wrote:

Ok. What time works for you? I can send a dial in around

On Sunday, July 12, 2015, B
<BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

We need to do this tonight. Lots of details

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: John Del Cecato
Cc: hayley@progressiveagenda.us
Subject: Re: Download harkin
Date: Sunday, July 12, 2015 6:35:50 PM

All in flux right now. Not sure tonight or tomorrow

Sent from my iPhone

On Jul 12, 2015, at 6:34 PM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

Minus BDB - Tom - let us know what time you're thinking

From: Bill de Blasio <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Sunday, July 12, 2015 at 6:14 PM
To: "Snyder, Thomas" <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>
Cc: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Download harkin

Tom, I'll figure out a time during the sched call

From: Snyder, Thomas
Sent: Sunday, July 12, 2015 05:07 PM
To: Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>
Cc: B; jfdc@akpdmedia.com <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Download harkin

Ready now or whenever

Sent from my iPad

On Jul 12, 2015, at 4:59 PM, Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us> wrote:

Ok. What time works for you? I can send a dial in around

On Sunday, July 12, 2015, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

We need to do this tonight. Lots of details

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: Hayley Prim
Cc: John Del Cecato; Carey, Michael; Leopold, Elana
Subject: Re: Download harkin
Date: Sunday, July 12, 2015 6:42:16 PM

Correct. Not sure this will happen tonight just check messages and we shall see

Sent from my iPhone

On Jul 12, 2015, at 6:40 PM, Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us> wrote:

Wait did that last email mean we aren't doing right now?

On Sunday, July 12, 2015, Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us> wrote:

Ok. Can you guys make sure he dials in with the info below?

[REDACTED], [REDACTED]

On Sunday, July 12, 2015, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

Works for me

On Jul 12, 2015, at 5:40 PM, Snyder, Thomas <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

How about 6:30?

Sent from my iPhone

On Jul 12, 2015, at 5:17 PM, Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us> wrote:

When can this happen?

----- Forwarded message -----

From: Snyder, Thomas <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Sunday, July 12, 2015
Subject: Download harkin
To: Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>
Cc: B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "jfdc@akpdmedia.com" <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>

Ready now or whenever

Sent from my iPad

On Jul 12, 2015, at 4:59 PM, Hayley Prim
<hayley@progressiveagenda.us> wrote:

Ok. What time works for you? I can send a dial in around

On Sunday, July 12, 2015, B
<BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

We need to do this tonight. Lots of details

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: John Del Ceccato; Hayley Primm
Subject: Fwd: Download harkin
Date: Sunday, July 12, 2015 7:17:23 PM

??? Below

Sent from my iPhone

Begin forwarded message:

From: "Snyder, Thomas" <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: July 12, 2015 at 7:07:23 PM EDT
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com" <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, "hayley@progressiveagenda.us" <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>
Subject: Re: Download harkin

Minus B: can both of you do 9?
Sent from my iPhone

On Jul 12, 2015, at 7:00 PM, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Let's do at 9pm -- whichever of you can. Pls remind at that time

From: Hayley Prim [<mailto:hayley@progressiveagenda.us>]
Sent: Sunday, July 12, 2015 04:59 PM
To: B
Cc: jfdc@akpdmedia.com <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: Download harkin

Ok. What time works for you? I can send a dial in around

On Sunday, July 12, 2015, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

We need to do this tonight. Lots of details

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: B
Cc: hayley@progressiveagenda.us; jfdc@akpdmedia.com
Subject: Re: Download harkin
Date: Sunday, July 12, 2015 7:25:47 PM

Will send u a call in number

Sent from my iPhone

On Jul 12, 2015, at 7:00 PM, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Let's do at 9pm -- whichever of you can. Pls remind at that time

From: Hayley Prim [<mailto:hayley@progressiveagenda.us>]
Sent: Sunday, July 12, 2015 04:59 PM
To: B
Cc: jfdc@akpdmedia.com <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: Download harkin

Ok. What time works for you? I can send a dial in around

On Sunday, July 12, 2015, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

We need to do this tonight. Lots of details

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: Hayley Prim
Cc: jfdc@akpdmedia.com
Subject: Re: Download harkin
Date: Sunday, July 12, 2015 8:42:16 PM

I Probably won't make the call. Email him at 9 and wait for him to say to get on.

Sent from my iPhone

On Jul 12, 2015, at 7:30 PM, Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us> wrote:

Here is the dial in for the 9pm call:

On Sunday, July 12, 2015, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Let's do at 9pm -- whichever of you can. Pls remind at that time

From: Hayley Prim [mailto:hayley@progressiveagenda.us]
Sent: Sunday, July 12, 2015 04:59 PM
To: B
Cc: jfdc@akpdmedia.com <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: Download harkin

Ok. What time works for you? I can send a dial in around

On Sunday, July 12, 2015, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

We need to do this tonight. Lots of details

From: John Del Ciccato
To: B. Snyder; Thomas Walzak; Phil Hagelgans; Andrea Wolfe; Emma Hayley; Prim
Subject: reuters
Date: Sunday, July 12, 2015 8:50:09 PM

NEW YORK (Reuters) - Democratic presidential contender Hillary Clinton will pledge on Monday to close the carried interest tax loophole that allows private equity fund managers to pay a lower tax rate on much of their earnings, according to a draft of a speech seen by an outside adviser.

Clinton, who is seeking her party's nomination to run in the November 2016 election, took a similar stance during her last presidential campaign in 2007, and is expected to reaffirm it in a speech on her economic policy in New York City on Monday.

(Reporting by Jonathan Allen)

» Next Article: Rouhani: In nuclear talks. Advertisement
Iran has 'charmed the world'

From: B
To: "hayley@progressiveagenda.us"
Cc: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: Download harkin
Date: Sunday, July 12, 2015 9:07:01 PM

I'm still not home. Will email you as soon as I'm in the door

From: Hayley Prim [mailto:hayley@progressiveagenda.us]
Sent: Sunday, July 12, 2015 07:30 PM
To: B
Cc: jfdc@akpdmedia.com <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: Download harkin

Here is the dial in for the 9pm call:

██████████, password: ██████████

On Sunday, July 12, 2015, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Let's do at 9pm -- whichever of you can. Pls remind at that time

From: Hayley Prim [mailto:hayley@progressiveagenda.us]
Sent: Sunday, July 12, 2015 04:59 PM
To: B
Cc: jfdc@akpdmedia.com <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: Download harkin

Ok. What time works for you? I can send a dial in around

On Sunday, July 12, 2015, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

We need to do this tonight. Lots of details

From: Hayley Prim
To: B
Cc: jfdc@akpdmedia.com; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: Download harkin
Date: Sunday, July 12, 2015 9:44:09 PM

We're on

On Sunday, July 12, 2015, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Dial in now pls

From: Hayley Prim [mailto:hayley@progressiveagenda.us]
Sent: Sunday, July 12, 2015 08:56 PM
To: B
Cc: jfdc@akpdmedia.com <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: Download harkin

Reminder: dial in in 5 minutes

On Sunday, July 12, 2015, Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us> wrote:
Here is the dial in for the 9pm call:

██████████ password: ██████████

On Sunday, July 12, 2015, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Let's do at 9pm -- whichever of you can. Pls remind at that time

From: Hayley Prim [mailto:hayley@progressiveagenda.us]
Sent: Sunday, July 12, 2015 04:59 PM
To: B
Cc: jfdc@akpdmedia.com <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: Download harkin

Ok. What time works for you? I can send a dial in around

On Sunday, July 12, 2015, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

We need to do this tonight. Lots of details

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: Hayley Prim
Cc: Carey, Michael; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; John Del Ceccato
Subject: Re: TPA time
Date: Sunday, July 12, 2015 10:18:47 PM

Stand by til am to determine. Probably afternoon

Sent from my iPhone

On Jul 12, 2015, at 10:12 PM, Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us> wrote:

When is this happening?

On Sunday, July 12, 2015, Snyder, Thomas <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Mayor wants at least 90 minutes tomorrow for TPA CALLS. You can move Alicia and Maya for sure

Sent from my iPhone

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
To: Walzak, Phil; "John Del Cecato"; Hagelgans, Andrea
Cc: Hinton, Karen; Kadushin, Peter
Subject: RE: HRC speech
Date: Monday, July 13, 2015 10:32:57 AM

Amy Chozick @amychozick 1m1 minute ago Manhattan, NY

Clinton calls for tax reform, Buffett Rule, closing carried interest loophole, strengthening labor unions.

From: Walzak, Phil
Sent: Monday, July 13, 2015 10:32 AM
To: Gunaratna, Mahen; 'John Del Cecato'; Hagelgans, Andrea
Cc: Hinton, Karen; Kadushin, Peter
Subject: RE: HRC speech

++ for offT

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
Sent: Monday, July 13, 2015 10:31 AM
To: 'John Del Cecato'; Hagelgans, Andrea; Walzak, Phil
Subject: RE: HRC speech

Dana Rubinstein @danarubinstein 29s29 seconds ago

Clinton endorses closing the carried interest loophole

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
Sent: Monday, July 13, 2015 10:28 AM
To: 'John Del Cecato'; Hagelgans, Andrea; Walzak, Phil
Subject: HRC speech

I have someone recording and taking notes – will send to him afterwards unless advised otherwise.

–
Mahen Gunaratna
Director of Research and Media Analysis
Mayor's Press Office | City Hall
mgunaratna@cityhall.nyc.gov
(212) 676-3154 (o) | (347)-268-4295 (c)

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: John Del Ceccato \(jfdc@akpdmedia.com\); Hayley Primm \(hayley@progressiveagenda.us\)
Subject: attend
Date: Monday, July 13, 2015 10:47:40 AM

You guys will be here for calls today at 1:30?

Tom Snyder
Chief of Staff
Office of the Mayor
City Hall
New York, NY 10007
212-341-5050

From: Hayley Prim
To: B
Cc: John Del Cecato; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Notes from HRC Speech re: TPA
Date: Monday, July 13, 2015 11:14:08 AM

Totally in line with us on:

- Raising minimum wage
- Comprehensive immigration reform
- Paid Sick Leave
- Paid Family Leave
- Universal Pre-k
- Expanding Social Security-- she technically said "enhance social security"
- Closing the carried interest loophole
- Implement Buffett Rule

Mentioned, but not exactly what we say in TPA about the following:

- Reforming NLRA, though she did say lots of good things about strengthening unions
- "Oppose trade deals that hand more power to corporations at the expense of American jobs, workers' rights, and the environment."-- She said oppose trade deals that don't raise wages, create jobs, enhance national security
- "Allow students to refinance student loan debt to take advantage of lower interest rates, and support debt-free college."-- She said "Make college truly affordable, and help refinance student debt"
- Close CEO tax loophole-- talked about profit sharing, and american workers getting more

Did not mention:

- Investing in schools, not jails
- EITC
- End Tax Breaks for companies that ship jobs overse

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
To: B; FLONYC
Cc: "John Del Cecato"; Hinton, Karen; Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: HRC Speech - Notes
Date: Monday, July 13, 2015 11:18:10 AM

See below rough notes from today's speech:

- Clinton believes the economy is still stacked for the people at top.
- Future hopes: starting small business, going to college without debt, provide for secure retirement
- American Bargain: if you work hard and do your part, you should be able to get ahead
- Republican trickle-down theory does not help, Democratic president has to clean the mess left behind
 - Under President Clinton, America saw the largest peace time expansion in history, a surplus, and incomes rose across the board.
 - President Obama saved the auto industry, placed restrictions on Wall Street, provided healthcare to 16 million Americans, and avoided a depression.
- Growth and Fairness in the Economy
 - Corporate profits have increased, but worker's paychecks have not increased (ex. mother going to community college, grandmother running childcare, young entrepreneur).
 - Out-of-pocket costs
 - Child care
 - Health care
 - Senior care
 - Clinton wants to raise incomes for families so they can sustain a "middle class life".
 - Clinton believes that expanding trade has polarized American jobs by benefiting educated workers and ignoring blue-collared jobs.
 - Americans are making extra money in the "Gig Economy" by renting out spare rooms or embarking on innovative ideas. This has raised the need for worker's rights in a new era.
- Clinton says she will work with "every possible" person to change the tide
 - The economy will work for struggling, striving, and successful
- Agenda to drive income:
 - Strong Growth
 - More jobs will give people more options
 - Employers will increase benefits to attract employees
 - Small businesses create more than 60 percent of new jobs
 - Ease access to capital, tax relief, closing loop holes that reward companies for sending jobs and profits overseas
 - Comprehensive immigration reform will promote strong growth
 - Bring hardworking people into "formal" economy will increase GDP 700 billion over 10 years

- Public Investments
 - Create infrastructure bank to channel public and private funds
 - Funds will channel airports, railways, roads etc
 - Faster broadband networks with greater diversity of providers
 - More investments in cleaner and renewable investments to create jobs and save money in the long run
 - Break down barriers so more people can participate in the workforce – especially women
 - “can’t afford to leave talent on the sidelines”
 - US not responding to family friendly needs:
 - Paid Family leave
 - Wage disparity (M/F)
 - Earned Sick Days
 - Child Care
 - Clinton wants to find a way to provide these without hurting small businesses
- Fair Growth
- Raise the minimum wage & implement Obama’s rules on overtime
 - Crackdown on boss’ who steal wages
 - Protect the Affordable Care Act & Build on it
 - Make prescription drugs more affordable
 - Defend and enhance Social Security
 - Profit sharing
 - Encourage companies to share profits with their employees
 - Studies shows that profit sharing can boost productivity in a company because everyone has a stake
 - Reform tax code
 - Rubio tax plan – cuts taxes for household income of 3 million
 - Tax relief and simplification
 - Supports Buffet Rule
 - Close loop hole that lets financiers pay an artificial rate
 - Close loop holes to people who evade paying taxes
 - Worker’s Rights
 - Evidence shows that the decline of unions may be responsible for one-third in the increase in equality for wages in men
 - Greek Debt Crisis & Chinese Stock Market – trade is important and has linked countries. America needs stronger trade agreements and should be willing to walk away if the agreement is not strong enough.
 - Education
 - Fair chance in life has to begin at birth
 - Early education can raise lifetime salary by 25%
 - Every four –year- old should have access to pre-k to build capacity for learning
 - Invest in students and teachers
 - Refinancing student debt
 - Provide pathways to get skills and credentials for new applications and jobs
 - Create more platforms to connect workers to jobs

- Talent is universal, but opportunity is not
 - Too many young people are not at school or work
 - Create more pathways into the middle class
 - Revive New Markets tax credit to provide incentives to invest in businesses
- Long-Term
 - Private Sector
 - Problem of quarterly capitalism (short-term goals)
 - Biggest companies spend their earnings to buy back their own stocks or pay dividends
 - Companies need to improve wages and training to improve productivity as opposed to cutting wages
 - $1,500 dollar tax credit for every new person they hire
 - Making sure stock buy backs aren't using to immediate boost and empower foreign long-term investors
 - Boost new companies that make America more competitive in the global economy – called for addressing the risks of subprime mortgages
 - Financial institution are too complex and risky
 - Shadow banking system includes hedge funds, non-banked finance companies, high frequency traders
 - Reign in excessive risks on Wall Street
 - Too big to fail is still too big a problem
 - Create a separate trust fund for the public and taxpayers
 - Public Sector
 - Respond to technological change to create jobs
 - Nurture start-ups
 - Washington needs to be more trustworthy and better with tax dollar
 - Make decisions that rely on evidence rather than ideology
 - Ensure the fiscal outlook is sustainable
 - Convene, connect, and collaborate with partnerships that will get stuff done

From: Hayley Prim
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Cc: John Del Ceccato
Subject: Re: TPA time
Date: Monday, July 13, 2015 11:20:21 AM

Yep, we will be there.

On Mon, Jul 13, 2015 at 11:18 AM, Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca <PSalazar-Rodriguez@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

This has been scheduled for 130pm today -
Wasn't sure if anyone looped back to u-

-----Original Message-----

From: Snyder, Thomas
Sent: Sunday, July 12, 2015 7:10 PM
To: Carey, Michael; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Cc: John Del Ceccato; Hayley Primm
Subject: TPA time

Mayor wants at least 90 minutes tomorrow for TPA CALLS. You can move Alicia and Maya for sure

Sent from my iPhone

From: Leopold, Elana
To: [REDACTED]
Cc: Carey, Michael; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: TPA call time
Date: Monday, July 13, 2015 12:15:15 PM

As for as I know- the only call he made was robbly

From: Hayley Prim [mailto:[REDACTED]]
Sent: Monday, July 13, 2015 12:13 PM
To: Leopold, Elana
Cc: Carey, Michael; jfdc@akpdmedia.com <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: TPA call time

Yes-- I will be there. Can you send me any calls he made off of that list I sent over on Saturday night?

On Mon, Jul 13, 2015 at 12:12 PM, Leopold, Elana <ELeopold@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Hayley- you will be coming to ch for this- correct?

----- Original Message -----

From: Carey, Michael
Sent: Monday, July 13, 2015 09:30 AM
To: Leopold, Elana; John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; [REDACTED]
<[REDACTED]> Snyder, Thomas
Subject: TPA call time

Today will be 130-3

Michael Paul Carey
City Hall
New York, New York

--

Hayley Prim
c: [REDACTED]

From: Carey, Michael
To: John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: <no subject>
Date: Monday, July 13, 2015 12:59:22 PM

Need their Skype name and POC

Michael Paul Carey
City Hall
New York, New York

> On Jul 13, 2015, at 12:55 PM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:
>
> Still working on briefing memo for tomorrow's CPC Skype session... Is the technology all set?
Anything that we should test out in advance?
>

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: "John Del Cecato"; Hayley Prim
Subject: forum
Date: Monday, July 13, 2015 1:02:45 PM

The only thing possibly missing that you mentioned to me that harkin responded well to is the idea that there is no single place in America to go when income inequality is the topic and that this is an effort to fill that gap. Does this belong in the memo? In the Context or in the Goals section?

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Monday, July 13, 2015 12:52 PM
To: Hayley Prim
Cc: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: TPA forum

Good catch - tx

From: Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>
Date: Monday, July 13, 2015 at 12:45 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: "Snyder, Thomas" <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: TPA forum

i think this is good for BDB to look at. would just change "debate" to "forum" in this line:

Co-Chairs of the debate would be you and a former Iowa Republican elected official – perhaps Jim Nussle or Tom Tauke.

On Mon, Jul 13, 2015 at 12:38 PM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:
Anything that I've left out of here?

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
To: Walzak, Phil; Hinton, Karen; Hageloans, Andrea; "John Del Cecato"
Subject: Noam Schieber - NY Times
Date: Monday, July 13, 2015 1:05:13 PM

Even though he slammed BdB in that Times op-ed earlier this year, we should probably engage him more aggressively at some point.

His A1 today is right up our alley – and he’s going to continue being one of the most important reporters in the country when it comes to writing about inequality, whether he’s on our side or not. Am hopeful that he could be brought around to our side if he hears more about some of the things we’re doing locally instead of resorting to the caricature/mischaracterization he used in his op-ed on BdB.

Would propose that we add him to our press list – [REDACTED]

Noam Schieber @noamscheiber 2h2 hours ago

Buffett rule, carried interest seem a bit timid as Hillary tax agenda. What abt margnl rates, financial transactions, tax treatmt of CEO pay?

Noam Schieber @noamscheiber 2h2 hours ago

Strong speech by Hillary overall, but wouldn't call it a liberal speech. Very self-consciously positioned b/w the center & the left.

—
Mahen Gunaratna

Director of Research and Media Analysis
Mayor’s Press Office | City Hall
mgunaratna@cityhall.nyc.gov
(212) 676-3154 (o) | (347)-268-4295 (c)

From: Viguers, Jonathan
To: Yazgi, Stephanie; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: RE: screenings
Date: Monday, July 13, 2015 2:36:23 PM

We connected! Thanks!

From: Yazgi, Stephanie
Sent: Monday, July 13, 2015 2:23 PM
To: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; Viguers, Jonathan
Subject: screenings

JDC: reaching out to let you know the JV reached out to Regina from Brave New Films but didn't hear back from her. He is reaching out again to discuss outreach to other cities but this hasn't yet happened. She seemed to be a little confused about what they wanted exactly.

JV has the email you composed and is clear on our end but want to make sure they don't drop ball on theirs. Thanks.

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
To: Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea; Hinton, Karen; Kadushin, Peter; "John Del Cecato"; Williams, Dominic
Subject: Glass-Steagall - BdB's position?
Date: Monday, July 13, 2015 2:43:14 PM

Am a bit surprised that BdB has never been asked (to my knowledge) about his position on Glass-Steagall.

He should be prepped on how to answer if asked.

<http://www.reuters.com/article/2015/07/13/usa-election-clinton-banks-idUSL2N0ZT17R20150713>

Clinton will not propose reinstating bank break-up law - campaign adviser Blinder

WASHINGTON, JULY 13

Democratic presidential candidate Hillary Clinton will not propose reinstating a bank break-up law known as the Glass-Steagall Act, said Alan Blinder, an economist who has been advising Clinton's campaign.

"You're not going to see Glass-Steagall," said Blinder, who was named by the Clinton campaign this weekend as one of 10 outside advisers on economic policy development. He said on Monday he spoke to Clinton directly about Glass-Steagall.

The law separated commercial banks from investment banks. Many liberal activists believe that reinstating it and breaking up the biggest U.S. banks would help prevent financial crises. Clinton's campaign declined to comment on Monday on reinstating Glass-Steagall. (Reporting by Luciana Lopez and Amanda Becker; Writing by Emily Stephenson; Editing by Howard Goller)

--

Mahen Gunaratna

Director of Research and Media Analysis
Mayor's Press Office | City Hall
mgunaratna@cityhall.nyc.gov
(212) 676-3154 (o) | (347)-268-4295 (c)

From: John Del Cecato
To: Snyder, Thomas; Hayley Prim
Cc: Jon Fromowitz
Subject: Latest version
Date: Monday, July 13, 2015 2:54:42 PM

PROPOSAL

TO: Sen. Harkin
FR: John Del Cecato w/ Mayor de Blasio
DA: 7/13/15
RE: Iowa Presidential Forum

CONTEXT:

If you having a national conversation about environmental protection, you might turn to the Sierra Club. If you're talking civil rights, you might go to the NAACP. But right now, there is no organization that focuses exclusively on income inequality. That's where The Progressive Agenda comes in.

The Progressive Agenda (TPA) is a coalition of current and former elected officials at every level of government, labor leaders, economists, civil rights champions, cultural luminaries, and leaders of progressive organizations.

In May, TPA outlined 15 progressive solutions for combatting income inequality – from a $15 minimum wage, to paid sick and paid family leave, to expanding Social Security, to progressive taxation.

As a recent New York Times poll demonstrates, the American people – Republicans, Democrats, and independents alike -- are focused on income inequality like never before, and they are eager to hear from their leaders on how to tackle it.

GOAL:

By convening presidential candidates of both political parties to discuss income inequality, we will generate enormous media coverage of the issue, mobilize everyday Americans to weigh in on it, help shape the 2016 presidential campaign, and put the candidates even more firmly “on the record” on policies designed to lift the floor for working people, help working parents, and ensure that big corporations and the wealthy pay their fair share.

Influencing the presidential campaign conversation will have a trickle-down effect – sparking questions of candidates for other positions – House, Senate, and perhaps even Governor and State Legislature.

FORMAT:

We are seeking to host a presidential forum, as opposed to a traditional debate.

Participating candidates would have the stage to themselves, appearing in sequential order, by a method to be determined later.

Our vision is that each candidate would have 5 minutes to offer an opening statement. Then a panel of 2-3 journalists will question the candidate for 20 minutes about income inequality and their specific proposals for combatting it.

Alternately, we could offer a more robust format -- with an additional 20 minutes given to each candidate's appearance for fielding questions from audience members and social media users, screened by the panel of highly-respected journalists.

After a 15-minute break, the next candidate would appear, following the same format.

PARTICIPANTS:

The Progressive Agenda, working with CNN, will extend invitations to declared presidential candidates who have spoken publicly about the need to combat income inequality in the past.

To date, that list includes:

Hillary Clinton, Bernie Sanders, Martin O'Malley, Jim Webb, Lincoln Chaffee, Jeb Bush, Marco Rubio, Rand Paul, Chris Christie, and Ted Cruz.

HOSTS:

Hosting the event would be CNN, in partnership with The Progressive Agenda. You would be the Co-Chair.

There are several models for how to bring Republican presidential candidates into the fold. One would be to make a former Iowa Republican elected official – perhaps Jim Nussle or Tom Tauke -- your counterpart as Co-Chair. Another option would be partnering with the American Enterprise Institute, which has spoken to income inequality from a conservative vantage point. A third option would be enlisting the help of conservative or business-friendly figures nationally – Nick Hanauer, Lloyd Blankfein, Warren Buffett, or someone else in that vein.

PANELISTS:

Journalists on the panel would be selected by CNN, but would likely be Anderson Cooper, Jake Tapper, and/or Poppy Harlow. They are open to the addition of a veteran, non-CNN journalist like Bill Moyers participating as well.

VENUE:

A respected university setting in Iowa, with an auditorium with suitable space for such a form.

DATES:

Our goal is to hold the events in October or early November of this year. One possibility is to have both Democrats and Republicans appear on a single day – possibly a Saturday, morning to evening. Another option would be to have the Democratic slate go on one day, and the Republican candidates appear on another day – although both would occur the same week.

While it's unlikely that CNN would broadcast this entire event "live" – we believe they could do the following:

- <!--[if !supportLists]-->• <!--[endif]-->Reserve the right to be the exclusive television network filming the forum.
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->• <!--[endif]-->Invite print, radio, and online reporters to cover the event as it happens.
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->• <!--[endif]-->Edit the event down to a single hour, with the 'greatest hits' from the forum – to be broadcast a few days after the event is held.
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->• <!--[endif]-->Publish the full, unedited event online (either as it happens, through a "live-stream," or else after the edited version of the event runs on broadcast, to give the public the chance to see the forum in its entirety.

COST:

We estimate the full cost to TPA and its conservative partner(s) to be $80-100K – a cost that TPA and its partner would fully cover – by targeting groups/individuals who could help underwrite the event. CNN would cover the productions costs that they require – for example, TV-ready lighting.

STAFFING:

Staff from TPA, its conservative partner, and CNN would be assigned to this project. TPA and its partners would fund any additional staffing needed by the university that hosts the event.

VISIBILITY:

TPA, its conservative partner, and CNN would be responsible for pushing the aforementioned candidates to attend, promoting the event on broadcast/social media, and tapping earned media – pushing key members of the respective organizations to gin up the public's interest in the weeks and months leading to the events.

TOPICS:

The presidential forum would focus squarely on income inequality, covering topics like how to improve wages and benefits, enhance retirement security, reduce student loan debt, and reform the tax code, among others.

###

From: Hayley Prim
To: John Del Cecato
Cc: Snyder, Thomas; Jon Fromowitz
Subject: Re: Latest version
Date: Monday, July 13, 2015 3:17:49 PM

fixed a couple of small typos in the body, but otherwise I think this is good.

On Mon, Jul 13, 2015 at 2:54 PM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

PROPOSAL

TO: Sen. Harkin

FR: John Del Cecato w/ Mayor de Blasio

DA: 7/13/15

RE: Iowa Presidential Forum

CONTEXT:

If you're having a national conversation about environmental protection, you might turn to the Sierra Club. If you're talking civil rights, you might go to the NAACP. But right now, there is no organization that focuses exclusively on income inequality. That's where The Progressive Agenda comes in.

The Progressive Agenda (TPA) is a coalition of current and former elected officials at every level of government, labor leaders, economists, civil rights champions, cultural luminaries, and leaders of progressive organizations.

In May, TPA outlined 15 progressive solutions for combatting income inequality – from a $15 minimum wage, to paid sick and paid family leave, to expanding Social Security, to progressive taxation.

As a recent New York Times poll demonstrates, the American people – Republicans, Democrats, and independents alike -- are focused on income inequality like never before, and they are eager to hear from their leaders on how to tackle it.

GOAL:

By convening presidential candidates of both political parties to discuss income inequality, we will generate enormous media coverage of the issue, mobilize everyday Americans to weigh in on it, help shape the 2016 presidential campaign, and put the candidates even more firmly “on the record” on policies designed to lift the floor for working people, help working parents, and ensure that big corporations and the wealthy pay their fair share.

Influencing the presidential campaign conversation will have a trickle-down effect – sparking questions of candidates for other positions – House, Senate, and perhaps even Governor and State Legislature.

FORMAT:

We are seeking to host a presidential forum, as opposed to a traditional debate.

Participating candidates would have the stage to themselves, appearing in sequential order, by a method to be determined later.

Our vision is that each candidate would have 5 minutes to offer an opening statement. Then a panel of 2-3 journalists will question the candidate for 20 minutes about income inequality and their specific proposals for combatting it.

Alternately, we could offer a more robust format -- with an additional 20 minutes given to each candidate's appearance for fielding questions from audience members and social media users, screened by the panel of highly-respected journalists.

After a 15-minute break, the next candidate would appear, following the same format.

PARTICIPANTS:

The Progressive Agenda, working with CNN, will extend invitations to declared presidential candidates who have spoken publicly about the need to combat income inequality in the past.

To date, that list includes:

Hillary Clinton, Bernie Sanders, Martin O'Malley, Jim Webb, Lincoln Chaffee, Jeb Bush, Marco Rubio, Rand Paul, Chris Christie, and Ted Cruz.

HOSTS:

CNN would host the event in partnership with The Progressive Agenda. You would be the Co-Chair.

There are several models for how to bring Republican presidential candidates into the fold. One would be to make a former Iowa Republican elected official – perhaps Jim Nussle or Tom Tauke -- your counterpart as Co-Chair. Another option would be partnering with the American Enterprise Institute, which has spoken to income inequality from a conservative vantage point. A third option would be enlisting the help of conservative or business-friendly figures nationally – Nick Hanauer, Lloyd Blankfein, Warren Buffett, or someone else in that vein.

PANELISTS:

Journalists on the panel would be selected by CNN, but would likely be Anderson Cooper, Jake Tapper, and/or Poppy Harlow. They are open to the addition of a veteran, non-CNN journalist like Bill Moyers participating as well.

VENUE:

A respected university setting in Iowa, with an auditorium that has a suitable space for such a forum.

DATES:

Our goal is to hold the events in October or early November of this year. One possibility is to have both Democrats and Republicans appear on a single day – possibly a Saturday, morning to evening. Another option would be to have the Democratic slate go on one day, and the Republican candidates appear on another day – although both would occur the same week.

While it's unlikely that CNN would broadcast this entire event "live" – we believe they could do the following:

- Reserve the right to be the exclusive television network filming the forum.
- Invite print, radio, and online reporters to cover the event as it happens.
- Edit the event down to a single hour, with the 'greatest hits' from the forum – to be broadcast a few days after the event is held.
- Publish the full, unedited event online (either as it happens, through a "live-stream," or else after the edited version of the event runs on broadcast, to give the public the chance to see the forum in its entirety.)

COST:

We estimate the full cost to TPA and its conservative partner(s) to be $80-100K – a cost that TPA and its partner would fully cover – by targeting groups/individuals who could help underwrite the event. CNN would cover the productions costs that they require – for example, TV-ready lighting.

STAFFING:

Staff from TPA, its conservative partner, and CNN would be assigned to this project. TPA and its partners would fund any additional staffing needed by the university that hosts the event.

VISIBILITY:

TPA, its conservative partner, and CNN would be responsible for pushing the aforementioned candidates to attend, promoting the event on broadcast/social media, and tapping earned media – pushing key members of the respective organizations to gin up the public’s interest in the weeks and months leading to the events.

TOPICS:

The presidential forum would focus squarely on income inequality, covering topics like how to improve wages and benefits, enhance retirement security, reduce student loan debt, and reform the tax code, among others.

###

--

Hayley Prim
Hilltop Public Solutions
(631) 902-5150

From: John Del Cecato
To: B
Subject: <no subject>
Date: Monday, July 13, 2015 3:25:40 PM

How does this look?

PROPOSAL TO: Sen. Harkin
FR: John Del Cecato w/ Mayor de Blasio
DA: 7/13/15
RE: Iowa Presidential Forum -- CONFIDENTIAL

CONTEXT:

If you're having a national conversation about environmental protection, you might turn to the Sierra Club. If you're talking civil rights, you might go to the NAACP. But right now, there is no organization that focuses exclusively on income inequality. That's where The Progressive Agenda comes in.

The Progressive Agenda (TPA) is a coalition of current and former elected officials at every level of government, labor leaders, economists, civil rights champions, cultural luminaries, and leaders of progressive organizations.

In May, TPA outlined 15 progressive solutions for combatting income inequality – from a $15 minimum wage, to paid sick and paid family leave, to expanding Social Security, to progressive taxation.

As a recent New York Times poll demonstrates, the American people – Republicans, Democrats, and independents alike -- are focused on income inequality like never before, and they are eager to hear from their leaders on how to tackle it.

GOAL:

By convening presidential candidates of both political parties to discuss income inequality, we will generate enormous media coverage of the issue, mobilize everyday Americans to weigh in on it, help shape the 2016 presidential campaign, and put the candidates even more firmly “on the record” on policies designed to lift the floor for working people, help working parents, and ensure that big corporations and the wealthy pay their fair share.

Influencing the presidential campaign conversation will have a trickle-down effect – sparking questions of candidates for other positions – House, Senate, and perhaps even Governor and State Legislature.

FORMAT:

We are seeking to host a presidential forum, as opposed to a traditional debate.

Participating candidates would have the stage to themselves, appearing in sequential order, by a method to be determined later.

Our vision is that each candidate would have 5 minutes to offer an opening statement. Then a panel of 2-3 journalists will question the candidate for 20 minutes about income inequality and their specific proposals for combatting it.

Alternately, we could offer a more robust format -- with an additional 20 minutes given to each candidate’s appearance for fielding questions from audience members and social media users, screened by the panel of highly-respected journalists.

After a 15-minute break, the next candidate would appear, following the same format.

PARTICIPANTS:

The Progressive Agenda, working with CNN, will extend invitations to declared presidential candidates who have spoken publicly about the need to combat income inequality in the past.

To date, that list includes:

Hillary Clinton, Bernie Sanders, Martin O’Malley, Jim Webb, Lincoln Chaffee, Jeb Bush, Marco Rubio, Rand Paul, Chris Christie, and Ted Cruz.

HOSTS:

CNN would host the event in partnership with The Progressive Agenda. You would be the Co-Chair.

There are several models for how to bring Republican presidential candidates into the fold. One would be to make a former Iowa Republican elected official – perhaps Jim Nussle or Tom Tauke -- your counterpart as Co-Chair. Another option would be partnering with the American Enterprise Institute, which has spoken to income inequality from a conservative vantage point. A third option would be enlisting the help of conservative or business-friendly figures nationally – Nick Hanauer, Lloyd Blankfein, Warren Buffett, or someone else in that vein.

PANELISTS:

Journalists on the panel would be selected by CNN, but would likely be Anderson Cooper, Jake Tapper, and/or Poppy Harlow. They are open to the addition of a veteran, non-CNN journalist like Bill Moyers participating as well.

VENUE:

A respected university setting in Iowa, with an auditorium that has a suitable space for such a forum.

DATES:

Our goal is to hold the events in October or early November of this year. One possibility is to have both Democrats and Republicans appear on a single day – possibly a Saturday, morning to evening. Another option would be to have the Democratic slate go on one day, and the Republican candidates appear on another day – although both would occur the same week.

While it's unlikely that CNN would broadcast this entire event "live" – we believe they could do the following:

- Reserve the right to be the exclusive television network filming the forum.
- Invite print, radio, and online reporters to cover the event as it happens.
- Edit the event down to a single hour, with the 'greatest hits' from the forum

- to be broadcast a few days after the event is held.
- Publish the full, unedited event online (either as it happens, through a “live-stream,” or else after the edited version of the event runs on broadcast, to give the public the chance to see the forum in its entirety.)

COST:

We estimate the full cost to TPA and its conservative partner(s) to be $80-100K – a cost that TPA and its partner would fully cover – by targeting groups/individuals who could help underwrite the event. CNN would cover the productions costs that they require – for example, TV-ready lighting.

STAFFING:

Staff from TPA, its conservative partner, and CNN would be assigned to this project. TPA and its partners would fund any additional staffing needed by the university that hosts the event.

VISIBILITY:

TPA, its conservative partner, and CNN would be responsible for pushing the aforementioned candidates to attend, promoting the event on broadcast/social media, and tapping earned media – pushing key members of the respective organizations to gin up the public’s interest in the weeks and months leading to the events.

TOPICS:

The presidential forum would focus squarely on income inequality, covering topics like how to improve wages and benefits, enhance retirement security, reduce student loan debt, and reform the tax code, among others.

###

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: Rodriguez, Tobias \(Media\); Wolfe, Emma; John Del Cecato
Cc: Singleton, Jessica; Hagelgans, Andrea; Walzak, Phil
Subject: RE: Can we have official MBDB RT this?
Date: Monday, July 13, 2015 4:34:49 PM

There will be no retweet for now.

-----Original Message-----

From: Tobias Rodriguez [<mailto:tobrodriguez@digital.nyc.gov>]
Sent: Monday, July 13, 2015 4:33 PM
To: Wolfe, Emma; John Del Cecato
Cc: Singleton, Jessica; Hagelgans, Andrea; Walzak, Phil; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: Can we have official MBDB RT this?

Let me know when he signs off, and I'll RT.

On 7/13/15 2:00 PM, "Wolfe, Emma" <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>Bdb should certainly sign off

>

>I'm Fine

>

>

>

>> On Jul 13, 2015, at 1:56 PM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

>>

>> Adding Emma/Tom too - but my read is this: HRC gave a speech that >>specifically discussed two planks of The Progressive Agenda - and >>whether it was Hillary Clinton or Derek Jeter, that person deserves a >>shout-out..

>> But I can ask boss too

>>

>> On 7/13/15, 1:42 PM, "Tobias Rodriguez"

>> <tobrodriguez@digital.nyc.gov>

>> wrote:

>>

>>> This would be the first time (on social at least) that we've >>> mentioned Hillary Clinton on bdb's channels and praised her while >>> she's been a candidate. Just double checking everyone's aware and cool with that.

>>>

>>>

>>> From: <Singleton>, Jessie Singleton
>>> <jsingleton@cityhall.nyc.gov<<mailto:jsingleton@cityhall.nyc.gov>>>

>>> Date: Monday, July 13, 2015 1:29 PM

>>> To: 'John Del Cecato'

>>><jfdc@akpdmedia.com<<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>>>,

>>> "Hagelgans, Andrea"

>>> <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov<<mailto:AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>>>,

>>> "Walzak, Phil"

>>><PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov<<mailto:PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>>>

>>> Cc: Tobias Rodriguez

>>> <tobrodriguez@digital.nyc.gov<<mailto:tobrodriguez@digital.nyc.gov>>>

>>> Subject: RE: Can we have official MBDB RT this?

>>>

>>> + tobias

>>>

>>> From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
>>> Sent: Monday, July 13, 2015 1:28 PM
>>> To: Singleton, Jessica; Hagelgans, Andrea; Walzak, Phil
>>> Subject: Can we have official MBDB RT this?
>>>
>>> <https://twitter.com/TheP2Agenda/status/620641805332119552>
>>>
>>> _____
>>>
>>> This e-mail, including any attachments, may be confidential, >>> privileged or otherwise legally protected. It is intended only for the addressee.
>>> If >>> you received this e-mail in error or from someone who was not >>> authorized to send it to you, do not disseminate, copy or otherwise >>> use this e-mail or its attachments. Please notify the sender >>> immediately by replying to this e-mail and delete the e-mail from >>> your system.
>>

From: John Del Cecato
To: Leopold, Elana; Hayley Prim
Subject: Fwd: Final
Date: Monday, July 13, 2015 4:37:07 PM
Attachments: HarkinMemoFinal.docx
ATT00001.htm

Begin forwarded message:

From: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Date: July 13, 2015 at 3:53:59 PM EDT
To: Bill de Blasio <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Final

PROPOSAL TO: Sen. Harkin
FR: Bill de Blasio
DA: 7/13/15
RE: Iowa Presidential Forum -- CONFIDENTIAL

CONTEXT:

If you're having a national conversation about environmental protection, you might turn to the Sierra Club. If you're talking civil rights, you might go to the NAACP. But right now, there is no organization that focuses exclusively on income inequality. That's where The Progressive Agenda comes in.

The Progressive Agenda (TPA) is a coalition of current and former elected officials at every level of government, labor leaders, economists, civil rights champions, cultural luminaries, and leaders of progressive organizations.

In May, TPA outlined 15 progressive solutions for combatting income inequality – from a $15 minimum wage, to paid sick and paid family leave, to expanding Social Security, to progressive taxation.

As a recent New York Times poll demonstrates, the American people – Republicans, Democrats, and independents alike -- are focused on income inequality like never before, and they are eager to hear from their leaders on how to tackle it.

GOAL:

By convening presidential candidates of both political parties to discuss income inequality, we will generate enormous media coverage of the issue, mobilize everyday Americans to weigh in on it, help shape the 2016 presidential campaign, and put the candidates even more firmly “on the record” on policies designed to lift the floor for working people, help working parents, and ensure that big corporations and the wealthy pay their fair share.

Influencing the presidential campaign conversation will have a trickle-down effect – sparking questions of candidates for other positions – House, Senate, and perhaps even Governor and State Legislature.

FORMAT:

We are seeking to host a presidential forum, as opposed to a traditional debate.

Participating candidates would have the stage to themselves, appearing in sequential order, by a method to be determined later.

Our vision is that each candidate would have 5 minutes to offer an opening statement. Then a panel of 2-3 journalists will question the candidate for 20 minutes about income inequality and their specific proposals for combatting it.

Alternately, we could offer a more robust format -- with an additional 20 minutes given to each candidate’s appearance for fielding questions from audience members and social media users, screened by the panel of highly-respected journalists.

After a 15-minute break, the next candidate would appear, following the same format.

PARTICIPANTS:

The Progressive Agenda, working with CNN, will extend invitations to declared presidential candidates who have spoken publicly about the need to combat income inequality in the past.

To date, that list includes:

Hillary Clinton, Bernie Sanders, Martin O'Malley, Jim Webb, Lincoln Chaffee, Jeb Bush, Marco Rubio, Rand Paul, Chris Christie, and Ted Cruz.

HOSTS:

CNN would host the event in partnership with The Progressive Agenda. You would be the Co-Chair.

There are several models for how to bring Republican presidential candidates into the fold. One would be to make a former Iowa Republican elected official – perhaps Jim Nussle or Tom Tauke -- your counterpart as Co-Chair. Another option would be partnering with the American Enterprise Institute, which has spoken to income inequality from a conservative vantage point. A third option would be enlisting the help of conservative or business-friendly figures nationally – Nick Hanauer, Lloyd Blankfein, Warren Buffett, or someone else in that vein.

PANELISTS:

Journalists on the panel would be selected by CNN, but would likely be Anderson Cooper, Jake Tapper, and/or Poppy Harlow. They are open to the addition of a veteran, non-CNN journalist like Bill Moyers participating as well.

VENUE:

A respected university setting in Iowa, with an auditorium that has a suitable space for such a forum.

DATES:

Our goal is to hold the events in October or early November of this year. One possibility is to have both Democrats and Republicans appear on a single day – possibly a Saturday, morning to evening. Another option would be to have the Democratic slate go on one day, and the Republican candidates appear on another day – although both would occur the same week.

While it's unlikely that CNN would broadcast this entire event "live" – we believe they could do the following:

- Reserve the right to be the exclusive television network filming the forum.
- Invite print, radio, and online reporters to cover the event as it happens.
- Edit the event down to a single hour, with the 'greatest hits' from the forum – to be broadcast a few days after the event is held.
- Publish the full, unedited event online (either as it happens, through a "live-stream," or else after the edited version of the event runs on broadcast, to give the public the chance to see the forum in its entirety.)

COST:

We estimate the full cost to TPA and its conservative partner(s) to be $80-100K – a cost that TPA and its partner would fully cover – by targeting groups/individuals who could help underwrite the event. CNN would cover the productions costs that they require – for example, TV-ready lighting.

STAFFING:

Staff from TPA, its conservative partner, and CNN would be assigned to this project. TPA and its partners would fund any additional staffing needed by the university that hosts the event.

VISIBILITY:

TPA, its conservative partner, and CNN would be responsible for pushing the aforementioned candidates to attend, promoting the event on broadcast/social media, and tapping earned media – pushing key members of the respective organizations to gin up the public’s interest in the weeks and months leading to the events.

TOPICS:

The presidential forum would focus squarely on income inequality, covering topics like how to improve wages and benefits, enhance retirement security, reduce student loan debt, and reform the tax code, among others.

###

PROPOSAL TO : Sen. Harkin
FR: Bill de Blasio
DA: 7/13/15
RE: Iowa Presidential Forum -- CONFIDENTIAL

CONTEXT:

If you're having a national conversation about environmental protection, you might turn to the Sierra Club. If you're talking civil rights, you might go to the NAACP. But right now, there is no organization that focuses exclusively on income inequality. That's where The Progressive Agenda comes in.

The Progressive Agenda (TPA) is a coalition of current and former elected officials at every level of government, labor leaders, economists, civil rights champions, cultural luminaries, and leaders of progressive organizations.

In May, TPA outlined 15 progressive solutions for combatting income inequality – from a $15 minimum wage, to paid sick and paid family leave, to expanding Social Security, to progressive taxation.

As a recent New York Times poll demonstrates, the American people – Republicans, Democrats, and independents alike -- are focused on income inequality like never before, and they are eager to hear from their leaders on how to tackle it.

GOAL:

By convening presidential candidates of both political parties to discuss income inequality, we will generate enormous media coverage of the issue, mobilize everyday Americans to weigh in on it, help shape the 2016 presidential campaign, and put the candidates even more firmly “on the record” on policies designed to lift the floor for working people, help working parents, and ensure that big corporations and the wealthy pay their fair share.

Influencing the presidential campaign conversation will have a trickle-down effect – sparking questions of candidates for other positions – House,

Senate, and perhaps even Governor and State Legislature.

FORMAT:

We are seeking to host a presidential forum, as opposed to a traditional debate.

Participating candidates would have the stage to themselves, appearing in sequential order, by a method to be determined later.

Our vision is that each candidate would have 5 minutes to offer an opening statement. Then a panel of 2-3 journalists will question the candidate for 20 minutes about income inequality and their specific proposals for combatting it.

Alternately, we could offer a more robust format -- with an additional 20 minutes given to each candidate's appearance for fielding questions from audience members and social media users, screened by the panel of highly-respected journalists.

After a 15-minute break, the next candidate would appear, following the same format.

PARTICIPANTS:

The Progressive Agenda, working with CNN, will extend invitations to declared presidential candidates who have spoken publicly about the need to combat income inequality in the past.

To date, that list includes:

Hillary Clinton, Bernie Sanders, Martin O'Malley, Jim Webb, Lincoln Chaffee, Jeb Bush, Marco Rubio, Rand Paul, Chris Christie, and Ted Cruz.

HOSTS:

CNN would host the event in partnership with The Progressive Agenda. You would be the Co-Chair.

There are several models for how to bring Republican presidential candidates into the fold. One would be to make a former Iowa Republican elected official – perhaps Jim Nussle or Tom Tauke -- your counterpart as Co-Chair. Another option would be partnering with the American Enterprise Institute, which has spoken to income inequality from a conservative vantage point. A third option would be enlisting the help of conservative or business-friendly figures nationally – Nick Hanauer, Lloyd Blankfein, Warren Buffett, or someone else in that vein.

PANELISTS:

Journalists on the panel would be selected by CNN, but would likely be Anderson Cooper, Jake Tapper, and/or Poppy Harlow. They are open to the addition of a veteran, non-CNN journalist like Bill Moyers participating as well.

VENUE:

A respected university setting in Iowa, with an auditorium that has a suitable space for such a forum.

DATES:

Our goal is to hold the events in October or early November of this year. One possibility is to have both Democrats and Republicans appear on a single day – possibly a Saturday, morning to evening. Another option would be to have the Democratic slate go on one day, and the Republican candidates appear on another day – although both would occur the same week.

While it's unlikely that CNN would broadcast this entire event "live" – we believe they could do the following:

- Reserve the right to be the exclusive television network filming the forum.
- Invite print, radio, and online reporters to cover the event as it happens.
- Edit the event down to a single hour, with the 'greatest hits' from the forum – to be broadcast a few days after the event is held.
- Publish the full, unedited event online (either as it happens, through a "live-stream," or else after the edited version of the event runs on broadcast, to give the public the chance to see the forum in its entirety.)

COST:

We estimate the full cost to TPA and its conservative partner(s) to be $80-100K – a cost that TPA and its partner would fully cover – by targeting groups/individuals who could help underwrite the event. CNN would cover the productions costs that they require – for example, TV-ready lighting.

STAFFING:

Staff from TPA, its conservative partner, and CNN would be assigned to this project. TPA and its partners would fund any additional staffing needed by the university that hosts the event.

VISIBILITY:

TPA, its conservative partner, and CNN would be responsible for pushing the aforementioned candidates to attend, promoting the event on broadcast/social media, and tapping earned media – pushing key members of the respective organizations to gin up the public's interest in the weeks and months leading to the events.

TOPICS:

The presidential forum would focus squarely on income inequality, covering topics like how to improve wages and benefits, enhance retirement security, reduce student loan debt, and reform the tax code, among others.

###

From: John Del Cecato
To: Leopold, Elana
Cc: Hayley Prim
Subject: Re: Presidential Forum Proposal
Date: Monday, July 13, 2015 4:42:08 PM

He can just say he realizes now that email was cut off, and send my version

On Jul 13, 2015, at 4:37 PM, Leopold, Elana <ELeopold@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Ok- he had this version so he sent the wrong version to Harkin

Sent from my iPhone

On Jul 13, 2015, at 4:36 PM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

I sent Bdb the final - will forward

On Jul 13, 2015, at 4:35 PM, Leopold, Elana <ELeopold@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

+ jdc

Sent from my iPhone

On Jul 13, 2015, at 4:34 PM, Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us> wrote:

what? this is the latest version I have, but not sure if it's the most final. JDC would have

PROPOSAL

TO: Sen. Harkin

FR: Mayor de Blasio

DA: 7/13/15

RE: Iowa Presidential Forum

CONTEXT:

If you're having a national conversation about environmental protection, you might turn to the Sierra Club. If you're talking civil rights, you might go to the NAACP. But right now, there is no organization that focuses exclusively on income inequality. That's where The Progressive Agenda comes in.

The Progressive Agenda (TPA) is a coalition of current and former elected officials at every level of government, labor leaders, economists, civil rights champions, cultural luminaries, and leaders of progressive organizations.

In May, TPA outlined 15 progressive solutions for combatting income inequality – from a $15 minimum wage, to paid sick and paid family leave, to expanding Social Security, to progressive taxation.

As a recent New York Times poll demonstrates, the American people – Republicans, Democrats, and independents alike -- are focused on income inequality like never before, and they are eager to hear from their leaders on how to tackle it.

GOAL:

By convening presidential candidates of both political parties to discuss income inequality, we will generate enormous media coverage of the issue, mobilize everyday Americans to weigh in on it, help shape the 2016 presidential campaign, and put the candidates even more firmly “on the record” on policies designed to lift the floor for working people, help working parents, and ensure that big corporations and the wealthy pay their fair share.

Influencing the presidential campaign conversation will have a trickle-down effect – sparking questions of candidates for other positions – House, Senate, and perhaps even Governor and State Legislature.

FORMAT:

We are seeking to host a presidential forum, as opposed to a traditional debate.

Participating candidates would have the stage to themselves, appearing in sequential order, by a method to be determined later.

Our vision is that each candidate would have 5 minutes to offer an opening statement. Then a panel of 2-3 journalists will question the candidate for 20 minutes about income inequality and their specific proposals for combatting it.

Alternately, we could offer a more robust format - with an additional 20 minutes given to each candidate's appearance for fielding questions from audience members and social media users, screened by the panel of highly-respected journalists.

After a 15-minute break, the next candidate would appear, following the same format.

PARTICIPANTS:

The Progressive Agenda, working with CNN, will extend invitations to declared presidential candidates who have spoken publicly about the need to combat income inequality in the past.

To date, that list includes:

Hillary Clinton, Bernie Sanders, Martin O'Malley, Jim Webb, Lincoln Chaffee, Jeb Bush, Marco Rubio, Rand Paul, Chris Christie, and Ted Cruz.

HOSTS:

CNN would host the event in partnership with The Progressive Agenda. You would be the Co-Chair.

There are several models for how to bring Republican presidential candidates into the fold. One would be to make a former Iowa Republican elected official – perhaps Jim Nussle or Tom Tauke -- your counterpart as Co-Chair. Another option would be partnering with the American Enterprise Institute, which has spoken to income inequality from a conservative vantage point. A third option would be enlisting the help of conservative or business-friendly figures nationally – Nick Hanauer, Lloyd Blankfein, Warren Buffett, or someone else in that vein.

PANELISTS:

Journalists on the panel would be selected by CNN, but would likely be Anderson Cooper, Jake Tapper, and/or Poppy Harlow. They are open to the addition of a veteran, non-CNN journalist like Bill Moyers participating as well.

VENUE:

A respected university setting in Iowa, with an auditorium that has a suitable space for such a forum.

DATES:

Our goal is to hold the events in October or early November of this year. One possibility is to have both Democrats and Republicans appear on a single day – possibly a Saturday, morning to evening. Another option would be to have the Democratic slate go on one day, and the Republican candidates appear on another day – although both would occur the same week.

While it's unlikely that CNN would broadcast this entire event "live" – we believe they could do the following:

- Reserve the right to be the exclusive television network filming the forum.
- Invite print, radio, and online reporters to cover the event as it happens.
- Edit the event down to a single hour, with the 'greatest hits' from the forum – to be broadcast a few days after the event is held.
- Publish the full, unedited event online (either as it happens, through a "live-stream," or else after the edited version of the event runs on broadcast, to give the public the chance to see the forum in its entirety.)

On Mon, Jul 13, 2015 at 4:06 PM,
Leopold, Elana
<ELeopold@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Mayor says you don't have a complete version of the below?

----- Original Message -----

From: Bill de Blasio

[mailto:

Sent: Monday, July 13, 2015 04:04 PM

To: Tom Harkin

< [REDACTED]
Subject: Presidential Forum Proposal

It was great talking with you yesterday, Tom. Chirlane and I were honored to have you in our home. Below, please find a proposal based on our conversation. I'll call you Tuesday to discuss. Thanks - Bill

-----Original Message-----

From: John Del Cecato
To: Bill de Blasio
Subject: Final
Sent: Jul 13, 2015 3:54 PM

PROPOSAL??TO: Sen. Harkin
FR: Bill de Blasio
DA: 7/13/15
RE: Iowa Presidential Forum --
CONFIDENTIAL

CONTEXT:

If you're having a national conversation about environmental protection, you might turn to the Sierra Club. If you're talking civil rights, you might go to the NAACP. But right now, there is no organization that focuses exclusively on income inequality. That's where The Progressive Agenda comes in.

The Progressive Agenda (TPA) is a coalition of current and former elected officials at every level of government, labor leaders, economists, civil rights champions, cultural luminaries, and leaders of progressive organizations.

In May, TPA outlined 15 progressive solutions for combatting income inequality – from a $15 minimum wage, to paid sick and paid family leave, to expanding Social Security, to progressive taxation.

As a recent New York Times poll demonstrates, the American people –

Republicans, Democrats, and independents alike -- are focused on income inequality like never before, and they are eager to hear from their leaders on how to tackle it.

GOAL:

By convening presidential candidates of both political parties to discuss income inequality, we will generate enormous media coverage of the issue, mobilize everyday Americans to weigh in on it, help shape the 2016 presidential campaign, and put the candidates even more firmly "on the record" on policies designed to lift the floor for working people, help working parents, and ensure that big corporations and the wealthy pay their fair share.

Influencing the presidential campaign conversation will have a trickle-down effect – sparking questions of candidates for other positions – House, Senate, and perhaps even Governor and State Legislature.

FORMAT:?

We are seeking to host a presidential forum, as opposed to a traditional debate.

Participating candidates would have the stage to themselves, appearing in sequential order, by a method to be determined later.

Our vision is that each candidate would have 5 minutes to offer an opening statement. Then a panel of 2-3 journalists will question the candidate for 20 minutes about income inequality and their specific proposals for combatting

Sent via BlackBerry by AT&T

From: Carey, Michael
To: "Neale, Courtney"; John Del Cecato; Mike Darner
Subject: RE: time this afternoon?
Date: Monday, July 13, 2015 4:48:27 PM

Super!

Michael Paul Carey
Director of Scheduling and Advance
City Hall
New York, New York 10007
212.341.5396

From: Neale, Courtney [<mailto:Courtney.Neale@mail.house.gov>]
Sent: Monday, July 13, 2015 4:48 PM
To: John Del Cecato; Mike Darner; Carey, Michael
Subject: RE: time this afternoon?

Hi all—

The Progressive Caucus Skype username is: [REDACTED]

I will be able to do a quick test with staff tomorrow before the call if that works for you.

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Monday, July 13, 2015 4:00 PM
To: Mike Darner; Carey, Michael
Cc: Neale, Courtney
Subject: Re: time this afternoon?

Looping Michael in my shop

On Jul 13, 2015, at 1:35 PM, Mike Darner <[REDACTED]> wrote:

Looping in Courtney who will be able to share that shortly.

On Mon, Jul 13, 2015 at 1:33 PM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

Two things our guy will need is the Skype number & the Point of Contact (from the tech shop)

From: Mike Darner <[REDACTED]>
Date: Monday, July 13, 2015 at 1:28 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: time this afternoon?

You can reach me at [REDACTED] Looking forward to it!

On Mon, Jul 13, 2015 at 1:27 PM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:
Great - let's do 315! What number should i call you on?

From: Mike Darner <[REDACTED]>
Date: Monday, July 13, 2015 at 1:25 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: time this afternoon?

John,

I've got some time between now and 2:30pm and then after 3:30pm. Is there a time that works for you?

On Mon, Jul 13, 2015 at 12:54 PM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:
Wanted to touch base for a couple of minutes in advance of MBDB Skyping with CPC tomorrow... What's the best number for you?

From: John Del Cecato
To: Snyder, Thomas
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea; Hinton, Karen; Hayley Primm \(hayley@progressiveagenda.us\)
Subject: Re: Avail?
Date: Monday, July 13, 2015 5:00:37 PM

I think that's totally fair. She's given basically zero policy addresses. She talked about mass incarceration and voter rights and such - but this is the first speech the campaign said was about her economic vision.

On Jul 13, 2015, at 4:58 PM, Snyder, Thomas <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

This is good but is it fair to characterize her speech as first major policy address on "income inequality" Was that the way she defined the speech?

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Monday, July 13, 2015 4:54 PM
To: Snyder, Thomas
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea; Hinton, Karen; Hayley Primm \(hayley@progressiveagenda.us\)
Subject: Re: Avail?

My suggestion for one liner - whenever it happens.

"On Monday, Secretary Clinton gave her boldest, most detailed vision yet for a progressive approach to combatting income inequality.

"I was impressed, but not surprised, by her commitment to requiring the One Percent to step up - from implementing the Buffett Rule to closing the loophole that hedge funders use to game the tax system.

"I won't be talking endorsements today, but I'm delighted to see how she focused her first major policy address on income inequality - and how to do so in a smart, fair way."

On Jul 13, 2015, at 4:42 PM, Snyder, Thomas <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Want to be sure there is no availability for B tomorrow. Am I right about that? Concern about being asked about HRC speech. We are going to need a line for what to say about HRC in light of today's speech.

Tom Snyder
Chief of Staff
Office of the Mayor
City Hall

New York, NY 10007
212-341-5050

From: Brigid Bergin
To: Hinton, Karen
Cc: John Del Cecato \(jfdc@akpdmedia.com\)
Subject: John Del Cecato and Dante ad
Date: Monday, July 13, 2015 5:28:31 PM

Hey Karen,

In addition to booking a segment Friday 7/17 with Mayor de Blasio during Moring Edition, I have also been asked to do a recap piece using archival tape from the mayor over the past year and half. The piece will also bring in some other voices who can add context and analysis.

It will look at how he ran his campaign, the reforms he has been instituting and some of the challenges he's encountered along the way. I reached out to John Del Cecato to talk about the Dante ad. He suggested that I connect with you. I told him we had been in touch about booking the segment with the mayor and about the fact that we will have other stories on our air Friday morning reflecting on this past year.

Any concerns about John and I talking about this?

Thanks,
Brigid

Brigid Bergin
WNYC New York Public Radio
646-829-4345 or 646-829-4020 or 917-723-4719
160 Varick Street, 8th Floor, NY, NY 10013
bbergin@wnyc.org
www.wnyc.org

From: John Del Cecato
To: Hinton, Karen
Subject: Re:
Date: Monday, July 13, 2015 7:36:23 PM

Ok tx

On 7/13/15, 5:51 PM, "Hinton, Karen" <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>I'll get back to her tonight. Asking PW.

>Karen Hinton

>Press Secretary

>917-246-7692

>Follow Me On Twitter @KarenHinton

>

>

>

>

>

>

>On 7/13/15, 5:30 PM, "John Del Cecato" <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

>

>>Bridget from WYNC wants to talk to me. Should I engage or just keep >>sending to you?

>>

>>

>

From: John Del Cecato
To: Carey, Michael
Cc: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Subject: Re: <no subject>
Date: Monday, July 13, 2015 8:46:42 PM

Haha - thanks!

On 7/13/15, 8:31 PM, "Carey, Michael" <MPCarey@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>Prisca lets make sure JDC gets the mini each night. He is eggghausting >if not.

>

>

>Michael Paul Carey

>City Hall

>New York, New York

>

>> On Jul 13, 2015, at 8:12 PM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

>>

>> Can i get the sked? Pretty please?

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
To: John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: For CPC
Date: Monday, July 13, 2015 9:04:37 PM

Just that point from yesterday on whether that was a single apartment selling for $120 million.

Looks good otherwise.

Sent from my iPhone

> On Jul 13, 2015, at 8:52 PM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:
>
> Take a quick look at the attached... May be too long for the kind of briefings to which he's accustomed? I can cut it down if need be > <CPCSkypeEvent.doc>

From: John Del Cecato
To: Carey, Michael; Leopold, Elana
Cc: Hayley Prim
Subject: Prep document for today
Date: Tuesday, July 14, 2015 9:33:36 AM
Attachments: CPCSkypeEvent.doc

Not sure if this made its way to you

Event/Meeting Briefing Information

Staff Contact/Planning Lead: JDC

EVENT: Addressing the Congressional Progressive Caucus
(via Skype)

MISSION/GOAL: Show affinity for, and solidarity with, CPC in fight for progressive change. Ask CPC to officially endorse The Progressive Agenda.

DAY/DATE: Tuesday, July 14, 2015

EVENT TIME: 12:00 PM – 12:30 or 12:45 PM

MBDB TIME: 11:50 AM – 12:30 or 12:45 PM

LOCATION:

CONTACT: JDC

STAFF ASSIGNED TO MBDB: JDC

EVENT SET-UP/PROGRAM:

- YOU will be the main guest for the first part of a meeting of the Congressional Progressive Caucus.

Topics:

- TPA, income inequality, progressive movement

Other people to address CPC:

- Hillary Clinton (two hours after you appear)

Background:

The CPC is a group of 70 House Democrats. It was founded in 1991 by a handful of progressive Democrats, including then-Rep. Bernie Sanders. Early in its existence, it was joined by Nydia Velazquez, Jerry Nadler, and Nancy Pelosi. It's currently chaired by Raul Grijalva (D-AZ) and Keith Ellison (D-MN).

The CPC's policy agenda is rooted in four core principles: (1) fighting for economic justice and security in the U.S. and global economies; (2) protecting and preserving civil rights and civil liberties; (3) promoting global peace and security; and (4) strengthening environmental protection and energy independence.

Their fundamental fairness plan reflects national priorities that are consistent with the values, needs, and hopes of all Americans, not just the powerful and the privileged. They advocate for "universal access to affordable, high quality healthcare", fair trade agreements, living wage laws, the right of all workers to organize into labor unions and engage in collective bargaining, the abolition of the USA PATRIOT Act, the legalization of same-sex marriage, US participation in international treaties such as the climate change related Kyoto Accords, strict campaign finance reform laws, a crackdown on corporate welfare and influence, an increase in income tax rates on upper-middle and upper class households, tax cuts for the poor, and an increase in welfare spending by the federal government.

MAIN POINTS TO LAND:

- The Progressive Agenda comes down to a very simple concept – we need to reward work, not wealth.
 - As a society, as a nation, and as a government, we reward wealth more and more every day, which is just concentrating wealth into fewer and fewer hands. It's not just smart, clever people in the financial industry. It's a set of government policies that continually allow them to concentrate the wealth.
- There's no two ways about it: we have an economic crisis in this country. The issue of income inequality is a profound threat to this country and its future.
- The Progressive Agenda is a movement from the grassroots. It's an urgent call for change. We're hearing the voices of people every day – people all over this country. Recently, we saw demonstrations in 200 cities (60,000 people) across this country for a $15 dollar minimum wage.

- Something is changing in America. It's time to take that energy and crystalize it into an agenda that will make a difference. It's time to put people ahead of profits – value work over wealth. It's as simple as that.
- We are calling upon elected officials and candidates to address these issues, to stiffen their backbones, to be clear, and to champion these progressive policies.
- Cong. Ellison and Cong. Grijalva were on board with TPA from the very beginning. We're also proud to have the support of CPC leaders like Cong. Mark Pocan, Rosa DeLauro, Jim McGovern, Nydia Velazquez, Yvette Clarke, John Conyers, Chaka Fattah, Sheila Jackson-Lee, Barbara Lee, Jan Schakowsky, Jose Serrano, Bonnie Watson Coleman, Dave Loebsack, and Charlie Rangel.
- The CPC is a foundation of The Progressive Agenda effort. Not only have so many of your members already signed on. The fact is, your budget – The People's Budget – was the inspiration for so many planks in TPA. From paid family leave, to expanded child care funding, to expanding the EITC, to ending tax breaks for companies that ship jobs overseas, to closing the CEO pay loophole, to debt-free college, to early childhood education, to comprehensive immigration reform, and on and on – your agenda is The Progressive Agenda.
- Thanks to the help of so many of you, The Progressive Agenda currently has over 3300 signers. We're aiming to get 10,000 by the end of the year – and we WILL meet that goal.
- Our next steps: holding a number of summits in New York City with key parts of the progressive movement – leaders from the African-American and Latino communities, leaders on women's issues, and leaders from the labor movement. We'll be overseeing an aggressive surrogate media effort – and we're asking all of you to be a part of that – to help spread the word about TPA on national TV and radio shows.
- We'll also be hosting a bipartisan presidential forum this fall – and we want and need your help in doing that. This will draw national attention to the progressive cause, and the policy prescriptions we offer for combatting income inequality, and leave a lasting structure in place – not just for 2015, but 2016, 2017, and beyond.
- I know you'll be introducing legislation to raise the minimum wage to $15 next week – and I want to be your partner in shouting that from the mountaintop.

We're fighting for a $15 minimum wage in NYC – and we're helped in so many ways by the national push – from Fight for 15, to the $15 min wages in Seattle and Los Angeles, to what you're fighting for in Congress.

- Very heartened to see Secretary Clinton – whom I know is speaking to you later today – endorse so many items on The Progressive Agenda – from UPK, to The Buffett Rule, to closing the carried interest loophole. We are making a difference in the national debate, and we have to keep pushing and pushing until these policies become the law of the land.

Soundbite

- There's no reason that a billionaire hedge fund manager sitting by the pool at his beach house should be paying a lower rate of taxes than the guy who pilots his private jet.

Key Stats/ Examples

- If you're going to reduce the income gap, you need two things: 1) more investment in programs and policies that lift the floor for working people (paid sick leave, $15 min wage, child care) and 2) more revenue from those at the very top – millionaires, billionaires, and wealthy corporations (close carried interest loophole, close CEO pay loophole, Buffett Rule, end tax breaks for companies that ship jobs overseas).
- In 2014, the top 25 hedge fund managers earned nearly $12 billion. That's more than all of the Kindergarten teachers in American earned – COMBINED. And those hedge funders are often paying a lower tax rate, due to the carried interest loophole.
- In NYC, 46 percent of the people are at or near the poverty level. At the same time, we are home to nearly 400,000 millionaires. Recently, an apartment was sold in Manhattan for $100M.
- Minimum Wage - In 2014, four states passed minimum wage increases by referenda. They were all red states. Something bigger is going on here – with people are more and more demanding real solutions.

- A typical American family, in real income terms, is making less today than they were a quarter century ago.
- The wealthiest one percent captured 91% of all the income gains in the first three years after the Great Recession ended.
- And now we have the greatest income disparity since the 1920s – and it’s getting worse.
- New York Times poll:
 - * 66 percent of all Americans believe that money and wealth should be distributed more evenly.
 - * 65 percent believe the income gap must be addressed now.
 - * 68 percent support higher taxes on millionaires.
 - * 80 percent favor paid family leave.
 - * 85 percent back paid sick leave.
- Q-poll (Iowa)
 - * 91 percent of Democratic caucus-goers believe the federal government should tackle income inequality.
- Billionaire investor Nick Hanauer:

"I buy a few pairs of pants and a few shirts a year.... I guess I could have bought 1,000 pairs. But why would I? Instead, I sock my extra money away in savings, where it doesn't do the country much good."

- Former Labor Secretary Robert Reich (paraphrased)

About 70 percent of economic activity derives from consumer spending.

- Goldman Sachs CEO Lloyd Blankfein:

Called income inequality in America “destabilizing.” Said if we as a country can’t deal with inequality then "you can't drive growth and you can't drive the success of the country.”

From: Jon Fromowitz
To: John Del Cecato
Cc: Hayley Prim; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: remond me...
Date: Tuesday, July 14, 2015 9:38:55 AM

Bush: <http://www.nationaljournal.com/2016-elections/jeb-bush-income-inequality-20150430>

Cruz/Paul/Rubio: <http://www.washingtonpost.com/blogs/post-politics/wp/2015/01/26/ted-cruz-rand-paul-and-marco-rubio-decry-income-inequality-clash-over-foreign-policy/>

Christie: http://www.huffingtonpost.com/2015/05/12/chris-christie-obama_n_7268172.html

On Jul 14, 2015, at 9:12 AM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

you're right Hayley - I'm mistaken

From: Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>
Date: Tuesday, July 14, 2015 at 9:07 AM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: Jon Fromowitz <jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>, "Snyder, Thomas" <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: remond me...

2pm call time today?

I have 3pm call time tomorrow ?

On Tuesday, July 14, 2015, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

Fromo - can you find links to where these GOP types spoke on income inequality - we have 2p call time today

On Jul 14, 2015, at 8:47 AM, Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us> wrote:

Do you think we could find this and show/tell him by call time tomorrow?

On Monday, July 13, 2015, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

I don't have it at my fingertips, but Fromo and I did the research ourselves

From: "Snyder, Thomas" <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Monday, July 13, 2015 at 1:05 PM

To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, Hayley Prim
<hayley@progressiveagenda.us>

Subject: remond me...

Did one of you pledge to show the back-up behind JDC claim that Jeb Bush, Marco Rubio, Rand Paul, Chris Christie, and Ted Cruz have spoken about income inequality?

Tom Snyder

Chief of Staff

Office of the Mayor

City Hall

New York, NY 10007

212-341-5050

From: Leopold, Elana
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Carey, Michael; Snyder, Thomas
Cc: "hayley@progressiveagenda.us"
Subject: Re: <no subject>
Date: Tuesday, July 14, 2015 11:34:02 AM

Yes- coming down shortly

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, July 14, 2015 11:32 AM
To: Carey, Michael; Leopold, Elana; Snyder, Thomas
Cc: Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>
Subject: <no subject>

Are we doing prep for CPC Skype session? Hayley & I are in Tom's office

From: John Del Cecato
To: Leopold, Elana
Subject: <no subject>
Date: Tuesday, July 14, 2015 11:36:03 AM
Attachments: CPCSkypeEvent.doc

Not sure if he needs this printed out again

Event/Meeting Briefing Information

Staff Contact/Planning Lead: JDC

EVENT: Addressing the Congressional Progressive Caucus
(via Skype)

MISSION/GOAL: Show affinity for, and solidarity with, CPC in fight for progressive change. Ask CPC to officially endorse The Progressive Agenda.

DAY/DATE: Tuesday, July 14, 2015

EVENT TIME: 12:00 PM – 12:30 or 12:45 PM

MBDB TIME: 11:50 AM – 12:30 or 12:45 PM

LOCATION:

CONTACT: JDC

STAFF ASSIGNED TO MBDB: JDC

EVENT SET-UP/PROGRAM:

- YOU will be the main guest for the first part of a meeting of the Congressional Progressive Caucus.

Topics:

- TPA, income inequality, progressive movement

Other people to address CPC:

- Hillary Clinton (two hours after you appear)

Background:

The CPC is a group of 70 House Democrats. It was founded in 1991 by a handful of progressive Democrats, including then-Rep. Bernie Sanders. Early in its existence, it was joined by Nydia Velazquez, Jerry Nadler, and Nancy Pelosi. It's currently chaired by Raul Grijalva (D-AZ) and Keith Ellison (D-MN).

The CPC's policy agenda is rooted in four core principles: (1) fighting for economic justice and security in the U.S. and global economies; (2) protecting and preserving civil rights and civil liberties; (3) promoting global peace and security; and (4) strengthening environmental protection and energy independence.

Their fundamental fairness plan reflects national priorities that are consistent with the values, needs, and hopes of all Americans, not just the powerful and the privileged. They advocate for "universal access to affordable, high quality healthcare", fair trade agreements, living wage laws, the right of all workers to organize into labor unions and engage in collective bargaining, the abolition of the USA PATRIOT Act, the legalization of same-sex marriage, US participation in international treaties such as the climate change related Kyoto Accords, strict campaign finance reform laws, a crackdown on corporate welfare and influence, an increase in income tax rates on upper-middle and upper class households, tax cuts for the poor, and an increase in welfare spending by the federal government.

MAIN POINTS TO LAND:

- The Progressive Agenda comes down to a very simple concept – we need to reward work, not wealth.
 - As a society, as a nation, and as a government, we reward wealth more and more every day, which is just concentrating wealth into fewer and fewer hands. It's not just smart, clever people in the financial industry. It's a set of government policies that continually allow them to concentrate the wealth.
- There's no two ways about it: we have an economic crisis in this country. The issue of income inequality is a profound threat to this country and its future.
- The Progressive Agenda is a movement from the grassroots. It's an urgent call for change. We're hearing the voices of people every day – people all over this country. Recently, we saw demonstrations in 200 cities (60,000 people) across this country for a $15 dollar minimum wage.

- Something is changing in America. It's time to take that energy and crystalize it into an agenda that will make a difference. It's time to put people ahead of profits – value work over wealth. It's as simple as that.
- We are calling upon elected officials and candidates to address these issues, to stiffen their backbones, to be clear, and to champion these progressive policies.
- Cong. Ellison and Cong. Grijalva were on board with TPA from the very beginning. We're also proud to have the support of CPC leaders like Cong. Mark Pocan, Rosa DeLauro, Jim McGovern, Nydia Velazquez, Yvette Clarke, John Conyers, Chaka Fattah, Sheila Jackson-Lee, Barbara Lee, Jan Schakowsky, Jose Serrano, Bonnie Watson Coleman, Dave Loebsack, and Charlie Rangel.
- The CPC is a foundation of The Progressive Agenda effort. Not only have so many of your members already signed on. The fact is, your budget – The People's Budget – was the inspiration for so many planks in TPA. From paid family leave, to expanded child care funding, to expanding the EITC, to ending tax breaks for companies that ship jobs overseas, to closing the CEO pay loophole, to debt-free college, to early childhood education, to comprehensive immigration reform, and on and on – your agenda is The Progressive Agenda.
- Thanks to the help of so many of you, The Progressive Agenda currently has over 3300 signers. We're aiming to get 10,000 by the end of the year – and we WILL meet that goal.
- Our next steps: holding a number of summits in New York City with key parts of the progressive movement – leaders from the African-American and Latino communities, leaders on women's issues, and leaders from the labor movement. We'll be overseeing an aggressive surrogate media effort – and we're asking all of you to be a part of that – to help spread the word about TPA on national TV and radio shows.
- We'll also be hosting a bipartisan presidential forum this fall – and we want and need your help in doing that. This will draw national attention to the progressive cause, and the policy prescriptions we offer for combatting income inequality, and leave a lasting structure in place – not just for 2015, but 2016, 2017, and beyond.
- I know you'll be introducing legislation to raise the minimum wage to $15 next week – and I want to be your partner in shouting that from the mountaintop.

We're fighting for a $15 minimum wage in NYC – and we're helped in so many ways by the national push – from Fight for 15, to the $15 min wages in Seattle and Los Angeles, to what you're fighting for in Congress.

- Very heartened to see Secretary Clinton – whom I know is speaking to you later today – endorse so many items on The Progressive Agenda – from UPK, to The Buffett Rule, to closing the carried interest loophole. We are making a difference in the national debate, and we have to keep pushing and pushing until these policies become the law of the land.

Soundbite

- There's no reason that a billionaire hedge fund manager sitting by the pool at his beach house should be paying a lower rate of taxes than the guy who pilots his private jet.

Key Stats/ Examples

- If you're going to reduce the income gap, you need two things: 1) more investment in programs and policies that lift the floor for working people (paid sick leave, $15 min wage, child care) and 2) more revenue from those at the very top – millionaires, billionaires, and wealthy corporations (close carried interest loophole, close CEO pay loophole, Buffett Rule, end tax breaks for companies that ship jobs overseas).
- In 2014, the top 25 hedge fund managers earned nearly $12 billion. That's more than all of the Kindergarten teachers in American earned – COMBINED. And those hedge funders are often paying a lower tax rate, due to the carried interest loophole.
- In NYC, 46 percent of the people are at or near the poverty level. At the same time, we are home to nearly 400,000 millionaires. Recently, an apartment was sold in Manhattan for $100M.
- Minimum Wage - In 2014, four states passed minimum wage increases by referenda. They were all red states. Something bigger is going on here – with people are more and more demanding real solutions.

- A typical American family, in real income terms, is making less today than they were a quarter century ago.
- The wealthiest one percent captured 91% of all the income gains in the first three years after the Great Recession ended.
- And now we have the greatest income disparity since the 1920s – and it’s getting worse.
- New York Times poll:
 - * 66 percent of all Americans believe that money and wealth should be distributed more evenly.
 - * 65 percent believe the income gap must be addressed now.
 - * 68 percent support higher taxes on millionaires.
 - * 80 percent favor paid family leave.
 - * 85 percent back paid sick leave.
- Q-poll (Iowa)
 - * 91 percent of Democratic caucus-goers believe the federal government should tackle income inequality.
- Billionaire investor Nick Hanauer:

"I buy a few pairs of pants and a few shirts a year.... I guess I could have bought 1,000 pairs. But why would I? Instead, I sock my extra money away in savings, where it doesn't do the country much good."

- Former Labor Secretary Robert Reich (paraphrased)

About 70 percent of economic activity derives from consumer spending.

- Goldman Sachs CEO Lloyd Blankfein:

Called income inequality in America “destabilizing.” Said if we as a country can’t deal with inequality then "you can't drive growth and you can't drive the success of the country.”

From: John Del Cecato
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Subject: Re: my email
Date: Tuesday, July 14, 2015 11:38:58 AM
Attachments: CPCSkypeEvent.doc

For printing

From: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Date: Tuesday, July 14, 2015 at 11:38 AM
To: "Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca" <PSalazar-Rodriguez@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: my email

Event/Meeting Briefing Information

Staff Contact/Planning Lead: JDC

EVENT: Addressing the Congressional Progressive Caucus
(via Skype)

MISSION/GOAL: Show affinity for, and solidarity with, CPC in fight for progressive change. Ask CPC to officially endorse The Progressive Agenda.

DAY/DATE: Tuesday, July 14, 2015

EVENT TIME: 12:00 PM – 12:30 or 12:45 PM

MBDB TIME: 11:50 AM – 12:30 or 12:45 PM

LOCATION:

CONTACT: JDC

STAFF ASSIGNED TO MBDB: JDC

EVENT SET-UP/PROGRAM:

- YOU will be the main guest for the first part of a meeting of the Congressional Progressive Caucus.

Topics:

- TPA, income inequality, progressive movement

Other people to address CPC:

- Hillary Clinton (two hours after you appear)

Background:

The CPC is a group of 70 House Democrats. It was founded in 1991 by a handful of progressive Democrats, including then-Rep. Bernie Sanders. Early in its existence, it was joined by Nydia Velazquez, Jerry Nadler, and Nancy Pelosi. It's currently chaired by Raul Grijalva (D-AZ) and Keith Ellison (D-MN).

The CPC's policy agenda is rooted in four core principles: (1) fighting for economic justice and security in the U.S. and global economies; (2) protecting and preserving civil rights and civil liberties; (3) promoting global peace and security; and (4) strengthening environmental protection and energy independence.

Their fundamental fairness plan reflects national priorities that are consistent with the values, needs, and hopes of all Americans, not just the powerful and the privileged. They advocate for "universal access to affordable, high quality healthcare", fair trade agreements, living wage laws, the right of all workers to organize into labor unions and engage in collective bargaining, the abolition of the USA PATRIOT Act, the legalization of same-sex marriage, US participation in international treaties such as the climate change related Kyoto Accords, strict campaign finance reform laws, a crackdown on corporate welfare and influence, an increase in income tax rates on upper-middle and upper class households, tax cuts for the poor, and an increase in welfare spending by the federal government.

MAIN POINTS TO LAND:

- The Progressive Agenda comes down to a very simple concept – we need to reward work, not wealth.
 - As a society, as a nation, and as a government, we reward wealth more and more every day, which is just concentrating wealth into fewer and fewer hands. It's not just smart, clever people in the financial industry. It's a set of government policies that continually allow them to concentrate the wealth.
- There's no two ways about it: we have an economic crisis in this country. The issue of income inequality is a profound threat to this country and its future.
- The Progressive Agenda is a movement from the grassroots. It's an urgent call for change. We're hearing the voices of people every day – people all over this country. Recently, we saw demonstrations in 200 cities (60,000 people) across this country for a $15 dollar minimum wage.

- Something is changing in America. It's time to take that energy and crystalize it into an agenda that will make a difference. It's time to put people ahead of profits – value work over wealth. It's as simple as that.
- We are calling upon elected officials and candidates to address these issues, to stiffen their backbones, to be clear, and to champion these progressive policies.
- Cong. Ellison and Cong. Grijalva were on board with TPA from the very beginning. We're also proud to have the support of CPC leaders like Cong. Mark Pocan, Rosa DeLauro, Jim McGovern, Nydia Velazquez, Yvette Clarke, John Conyers, Chaka Fattah, Sheila Jackson-Lee, Barbara Lee, Jan Schakowsky, Jose Serrano, Bonnie Watson Coleman, Dave Loebsack, and Charlie Rangel.
- The CPC is a foundation of The Progressive Agenda effort. Not only have so many of your members already signed on. The fact is, your budget – The People's Budget – was the inspiration for so many planks in TPA. From paid family leave, to expanded child care funding, to expanding the EITC, to ending tax breaks for companies that ship jobs overseas, to closing the CEO pay loophole, to debt-free college, to early childhood education, to comprehensive immigration reform, and on and on – your agenda is The Progressive Agenda.
- Thanks to the help of so many of you, The Progressive Agenda currently has over 3300 signers. We're aiming to get 10,000 by the end of the year – and we WILL meet that goal.
- Our next steps: holding a number of summits in New York City with key parts of the progressive movement – leaders from the African-American and Latino communities, leaders on women's issues, and leaders from the labor movement. We'll be overseeing an aggressive surrogate media effort – and we're asking all of you to be a part of that – to help spread the word about TPA on national TV and radio shows.
- We'll also be hosting a bipartisan presidential forum this fall – and we want and need your help in doing that. This will draw national attention to the progressive cause, and the policy prescriptions we offer for combatting income inequality, and leave a lasting structure in place – not just for 2015, but 2016, 2017, and beyond.
- I know you'll be introducing legislation to raise the minimum wage to $15 next week – and I want to be your partner in shouting that from the mountaintop.

We're fighting for a $15 minimum wage in NYC – and we're helped in so many ways by the national push – from Fight for 15, to the $15 min wages in Seattle and Los Angeles, to what you're fighting for in Congress.

- Very heartened to see Secretary Clinton – whom I know is speaking to you later today – endorse so many items on The Progressive Agenda – from UPK, to The Buffett Rule, to closing the carried interest loophole. We are making a difference in the national debate, and we have to keep pushing and pushing until these policies become the law of the land.

Soundbite

- There's no reason that a billionaire hedge fund manager sitting by the pool at his beach house should be paying a lower rate of taxes than the guy who pilots his private jet.

Key Stats/ Examples

- If you're going to reduce the income gap, you need two things: 1) more investment in programs and policies that lift the floor for working people (paid sick leave, $15 min wage, child care) and 2) more revenue from those at the very top – millionaires, billionaires, and wealthy corporations (close carried interest loophole, close CEO pay loophole, Buffett Rule, end tax breaks for companies that ship jobs overseas).
- In 2014, the top 25 hedge fund managers earned nearly $12 billion. That's more than all of the Kindergarten teachers in American earned – COMBINED. And those hedge funders are often paying a lower tax rate, due to the carried interest loophole.
- In NYC, 46 percent of the people are at or near the poverty level. At the same time, we are home to nearly 400,000 millionaires. Recently, an apartment was sold in Manhattan for $100M.
- Minimum Wage - In 2014, four states passed minimum wage increases by referenda. They were all red states. Something bigger is going on here – with people are more and more demanding real solutions.

- A typical American family, in real income terms, is making less today than they were a quarter century ago.
- The wealthiest one percent captured 91% of all the income gains in the first three years after the Great Recession ended.
- And now we have the greatest income disparity since the 1920s – and it’s getting worse.
- New York Times poll:
 - * 66 percent of all Americans believe that money and wealth should be distributed more evenly.
 - * 65 percent believe the income gap must be addressed now.
 - * 68 percent support higher taxes on millionaires.
 - * 80 percent favor paid family leave.
 - * 85 percent back paid sick leave.
- Q-poll (Iowa)
 - * 91 percent of Democratic caucus-goers believe the federal government should tackle income inequality.
- Billionaire investor Nick Hanauer:

"I buy a few pairs of pants and a few shirts a year.... I guess I could have bought 1,000 pairs. But why would I? Instead, I sock my extra money away in savings, where it doesn't do the country much good."

- Former Labor Secretary Robert Reich (paraphrased)

About 70 percent of economic activity derives from consumer spending.

- Goldman Sachs CEO Lloyd Blankfein:

Called income inequality in America “destabilizing.” Said if we as a country can’t deal with inequality then "you can't drive growth and you can't drive the success of the country.”

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
To: John Del Cecato
Subject: FW: UPDATED MINI Schedule Tuesday, July 14, 2015
Date: Tuesday, July 14, 2015 11:39:00 AM

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Sent: Monday, July 13, 2015 6:08 PM
To: B; FLONYC
Subject: UPDATED MINI Schedule Tuesday, July 14, 2015

SCHEDULE FOR MAYOR BILL DE BLASIO

CITY OF NEW YORK

Tuesday, July 14, 2015

WEATHER: Hi of 81. Low of 74. PM Thunderstorms.

ATTIRE: Business

NOTES: - YOU have 30 minutes to change at GYM

7:00 - 7:30 TRAVEL FROM GRACIE MANSION EN ROUTE 357 9TH STREET
Travel Time: 30 mins.

7:30 - 8:30 WORKOUT
Location: 357 9th Street

9:00 - 9:30 TRAVEL FROM 357 9TH STREET EN ROUTE CITY HALL // COMMUNICATIONS CALL
Travel Time: 30 mins.

10:00 - 11:00 WEEKLY HOMELESS MEETING
Location: City Hall, Committee of the Whole

11:30 - 12:00 PREP FOR REMARKS TO PROGRESSIVE CAUCUS
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

12:00 - 12:45 SKYPED REMARKS INTO CONGRESSIONAL PROGRESSIVE CAUCUS
Location: City Hall, The Blue Room
Setup: YOU deliver seated remarks live via Skype video. Large screen TV, flags behind.

12:45 - 1:15 MEETING WITH TOM AND ELENA
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

1:15 - 2:15 WEEKLY MEETING WITH THE POLICE COMMISSIONER
Location: City Hall, The Blue Room

2:30 - 3:30 FOLLOW UP MEETING ON MENTAL HEALTH AND VIOLENCE WITH FLONYC

Location: City Hall, The Blue Room

3:30 - 4:00 TRAVEL FROM CITY HALL EN ROUTE [REDACTED]
Travel Time: 30 mins., Train option - R Train to 57th St - 7th Avenue

4:00 - 5:00 MEETING WITH FRANK MCCOURT
Location: [REDACTED]

5:00 - 5:30 TRAVEL FROM [REDACTED] EN ROUTE CITY HALL
Travel Time: 30 mins.

5:45 - 6:15 TOUCHBASE WITH MAYA WILEY
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

6:45 - 7:30 TRAVEL FROM CITY HALL EN ROUTE 16 PIKE ST, STATEN ISLAND
Travel Time: 45 mins.

7:30 - 8:30 REMARKS AT CORL INTERFAITH WORSHIP SERVICE FOR ANNIVERSARY OF ERIC
GARNER'S DEATH
Location: Mount Sinai United Christian Church
16 Pike Street, Staten Island, NY 10301
Staff Lead: Marco Carrion

8:30 - 9:30 TRAVEL FROM 16 PIKE ST. EN ROUTE GRACIE MANSION
Travel Time: 1 hour

CITY HALL STEPS PRESS CONFERENCES

No Scheduled Press Conference

FLONYC SCHEDULE

1:00 - 2:00 HOLD: BOOK RELEASE PREP
2:00 - 2:30 MAYOR'S FUND PREP
2:30 - 3:30 FOLLOW UP MEETING ON MENTAL HEALTH AND VIOLENCE WITH YOU

Director of Scheduling
Office of The Mayor
New York, New York 10007
212-341-5016

From: John Del Cecato
To: Leopold Flana
Subject: can you print out
Date: Tuesday, July 14, 2015 11:54:29 AM

About Our Agenda

Income inequality is the crisis of our time, and we need bold, progressive solutions to address it. By harnessing the strength of a national progressive coalition, and using that to achieve success in the three pillars of The Progressive Agenda, we will make sure that the voice of every American is heard – not just those at the very top.

To do this, we must lift the floor for those who are struggling, fight for racial and economic justice, and champion a tax system that rewards work instead of just wealth.

The Progressive Agenda is a set of proposals that build upon the work of dozens of economists, lawmakers and progressive activists, with the aim of addressing income inequality right now.

From: Leopold, Elana
To: "hayley@progressiveagenda.us"; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Fw: Mayor
Date: Tuesday, July 14, 2015 1:12:54 PM

Fyi

----- Original Message -----

From: Carey, Michael
Sent: Tuesday, July 14, 2015 01:12 PM
To: Leopold, Elana; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Cc: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: RE: Mayor

Call is confirmed for 330 PM
Will send to you what to call

Michael Paul Carey
Director of Scheduling and Advance
City Hall
New York, New York 10007
212.341.5396

-----Original Message-----

From: Leopold, Elana
Sent: Tuesday, July 14, 2015 12:54 PM
To: Carey, Michael; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Cc: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: Mayor

Thanks!

She passed a paid sick leave bill today :)

----- Original Message -----

From: Carey, Michael
Sent: Tuesday, July 14, 2015 12:53 PM
To: Leopold, Elana; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Cc: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: RE: Mayor

Interesting
Ok.
We will do.

Michael Paul Carey
Director of Scheduling and Advance
City Hall
New York, New York 10007
212.341.5396

-----Original Message-----

From: Leopold, Elana
Sent: Tuesday, July 14, 2015 12:53 PM
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Carey, Michael
Cc: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Mayor

Wants a call w gov of oregon scheduled for today

From: Hinton, Karen
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com" (jfdc@akpdmedia.com)
Subject: Wed breakfast?
Date: Tuesday, July 14, 2015 2:47:07 PM

Are you still good for Wed breakfast at 8 am Odeon? Also, you should talk to WNYC. Mayor is going to do an interview Friday. The story is look back at Mayor's term a year after Garner.

Karen Hinton
Press Secretary
917-246-7692
Follow Me On Twitter @KarenHinton

From: Hayley Prim
To: B
Cc: John Del Cecato
Subject: Progress we can highlight from TPA today
Date: Tuesday, July 14, 2015 2:48:33 PM

Already tweeted:
Oregon passed statewide paid sick leave

Will tweet:

Montgomery County, MD passed paid sick leave yesterday. U.S. Secretary Perez was in attendance. will effect more than 100,000 residents.

Conference held in DC yesterday with members of TPA announcing a petition signed by over 2 million Americans in support of expanding Social Security

Hillary, Bernie and O'Malley all for gave remarks at National Council of La Raza in support of immigration reform.

From: Hayley Prim
To: Snyder, Thomas; John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: Rs on Income Inequality-- find to send to Mayor in this form?
Date: Tuesday, July 14, 2015 3:15:01 PM

Circling back on this?

On Tue, Jul 14, 2015 at 11:11 AM, Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us> wrote:

National Journal story from June 2015

Jeb Bush

"I did my best. We had rising income for sure," Bush told National Journal about his time in the statehouse. "And if you're not growing the economy, you're not going to deal with income inequality."

Speaking Thursday at the conservative National Review Institute summit in Washington, Bush once again hit his inequality agenda. "If you're born poor today, you're more likely to stay poor," Bush said. "We need to deal with this."

Bush promised that he would make those ideas a centerpiece of his campaign, should he formally become a candidate. The theme also plays prominently on Bush's Right to Rise political action committee's website:

"While the last eight years have been pretty good ones for top earners, they've been a lost decade for the rest of America," reads a statement on the site's "What We Believe" page. "We believe the income gap is real, but that only conservative principles can solve it by removing the barriers to upward mobility."

But Bush already has offered hints about his economic plan—and so far, they mirror his approach as Florida governor.

"The lack of people moving up, and the fact that people in the middle are disaffected and they don't see the system working for them is what we need to fix," Bush said at the National Automotive Dealers Association convention in San Francisco this year. "And we can do that by tax reform, entitlement reform, regulatory reform."

Speaking to the car dealers, Bush cited the high costs of litigation as one reason that large-scale investments are difficult in today's climate.

"The standing that people have is way too broad," he said, a reference to lawsuits that can slow down or block development projects. "The costs are way too high. The uncertainty is all too clear. And it stifles the investment that creates income increases for the middle class."

Washington Post, January 2015

Ted Cruz

Those who are doing well are "the top one percent, the millionaires and billionaires

the president loves to demagogue, one or two of whom are here with us tonight," Cruz said, adding: "The people who have been hammered for the last six years are working men and women."

Cruz dismissed the economic gains that Obama touted in his recent State of the Union speech as "the description of an alternate reality. I chuckle every time I hear Barack Obama or Hillary Clinton talk about income inequality, because it's increased dramatically under their policies," he said.

Cruz said that Romney's infamous 47 percent comment sent the wrong message about the priority of Republicans. "What the voters heard was we don't have to worry about the 47 percent," said the Texas senator. "And I think Republicans are and should be the party of the 47 percent.... we should be fighting for the little guy."

Rand Paul

"The reason I would say the economy is getting better is despite the president and despite the president's policies," he said, crediting the lift instead to revenues from oil and gas extracted from private land. "This president should take no credit for any kind of recovery we have," he added to hearty applause.

Marco Rubio

Rubio said taxes and regulations have held back the ability of the United States to compete on a global stage, adding that more higher-wage jobs were needed to address income disparity. "The best cure for poverty is a job, a good paying job, and our economy isn't producing enough of them," he said.

Huffington Post, May 2015

Chris Christie

"Under this president, we have a roaring financial markets economy for the wealthy and a weak real economy for the middle class," Christie said, criticizing the U.S. central bank's "easy money" policies.

Christie said he would simplify the tax system, lower tax rates for corporations, and eliminate payroll taxes for those over 62 and under 21.

Christie also pledged to undo what he deemed "anti-growth" actions taken by the Obama administration that he said had led to "severe over-regulation" and "policies that discourage work."

"From its inception this administration has been focused much more on redistribution of wealth than on creating more wealth for middle class citizens in America," Christie said of Obama, a Democrat who cannot seek another term as president.

Havlev Prim

c: [REDACTED]

From: John Del Cecato
To: Gunaratna, Mahen
Cc: Watkins, Ellen
Subject: Re: <no subject>
Date: Tuesday, July 14, 2015 4:56:25 PM

Cool tx

From: "Gunaratna, Mahen" <MGunaratna@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Tuesday, July 14, 2015 at 4:53 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: "Watkins, Ellen" <EWatkins@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: RE: <no subject>

And Josh Robin characterized it as such:

Josh Robin: ... talked to a progressive activist who said that Hillary Clinton really hit all the points that Democrats want, that progressives want. So, she's already getting some high marks on her speech - trying to shore up that left side of her party.

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, July 14, 2015 4:48 PM
To: Gunaratna, Mahen
Cc: Watkins, Ellen
Subject: Re: <no subject>

Thanks much

From: "Gunaratna, Mahen" <MGunaratna@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Tuesday, July 14, 2015 at 4:47 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: "Watkins, Ellen" <EWatkins@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: RE: <no subject>

"The thing that stood out was that she says she was willing to criminally prosecute the banks," said national Democratic consultant Van Jones. "Anybody in the Elizabeth Warren wing of the party has to take up notice now."

-----Original Message-----

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
Sent: Tuesday, July 14, 2015 2:53 PM
To: John Del Cecato
Cc: Watkins, Ellen
Subject: Re: <no subject>

Yep - Ellen will pull

Sent from my iPhone

> On Jul 14, 2015, at 2:32 PM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

>

> Can someone on your team see what Van Jones had to say about HRC speech on NY1 yesterday?

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: "John Del Cecato"
Subject: RE: Call time
Date: Tuesday, July 14, 2015 5:04:21 PM

2 hrs.

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Tuesday, July 14, 2015 4:56 PM
To: Snyder, Thomas; Hayley Primm (hayley@progressiveagenda.us)
Subject: Re: Call time

Yes - do you know for how long?

From: "Snyder, Thomas" <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Tuesday, July 14, 2015 at 4:51 PM
To: Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Call time

Are you aware we have 3pm call time scheduled for tomorrow?

Tom Snyder
Chief of Staff
Office of the Mayor
City Hall
New York, NY 10007
212-341-5050

From: John Del Cecato
To: B
Cc: Hayley Prim; Snyder, Thomas; Walzak, Phil
Subject: CPC/TPA
Date: Tuesday, July 14, 2015 5:31:03 PM

Got blessing to give to press, which Team TPA is doing... Haven't gotten approval for the press release yet, but my thought is we do that tomorrow after hopefully getting an item in a DC publication...

CPC's endorsement doesn't mean the individual members have endorsed TPA unfortunately - but that just means we'll have to go after them one by one... Should be an easier sell now

From: B
To: Snyder, Thomas; "hayley@progressiveagenda.us"
Cc: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Fw: Just talked to the Senator
Date: Tuesday, July 14, 2015 6:08:10 PM

See below

-----Original Message-----

From: Mary Sorteberg
To: Bill de Blasio
Subject: Re: Just talked to the Senator
Sent: Jul 14, 2015 5:39 PM

Bill-

It was a pleasure to speak last night.

I'm sending you specific policy points on both global warming and TPP. Her comments in both areas to date are lacking any policy substance.

By the way, Hillary attended our caucus today; I asked her to get more specific on changes needed in TPP and that that would help produce a better agreement while changes can still be made. She responded that she would look at suggestions and I provided a list to John Podesta similar to the TPP points below.

All my best, Jeff Merkley

Global Warming:

Hillary says that we need more subsidies for renewable energy and more conservation. This is a starting point, but far from serious leadership. Here are several things she should say if she wants to lead on the most pressing issue threatening our planet:

- 1) We need to keep 80% of identified fossil fuels in the ground if we are going to save the planet. To do so will take serious leadership and I am ready to be that leader.
- 2) I will oppose any pipeline designed to accelerate the harvesting of the Canadian tar sands.
- 3) I will block oil drilling in the Arctic.
- 4) We must stop issuing new leases for drilling offshore for gas and oil.
- 5) I will oppose new leases for exploiting coal on public lands

6) We must tackle key issues caused by fracking including the contamination of ground water and the production of fugitive methane. I will champion these reforms.

7) "All of the above" is the wrong policy for our energy future. We must quickly and substantially reduce the burning of fossil fuels. Under my leadership, America will lead the world in this transition.

NOTE: I am planning to introduce a bill that would be based on Bill McKibben's recent letter to President Obama, outlining four specific actions (items 2-5 above) he should take on climate keep fossil fuel reserves in the ground: McKibben also did a public letter to Clinton reiterating these points and adding in a few more.

TPP:

At a meeting with the Senate Democratic caucus last week, President Obama that he has listened carefully to concerns raised by Democrats during the Fast Track debate and that we might be pleasantly surprised by additional efforts he is making.

Clinton has said to date only that more work needs to be done. But she has given no specifics. She could make a big difference in the final stage of the negotiations if she presented several key areas that need to be addressed before a final agreement is presented to Congress.

Here are 8 items from which she could draw:

1. Investor State Dispute Settlement (ISDS): Exempt laws that protect consumers, public health, or the environment from being challenged in the Investor State Dispute Settlement (ISDS) process. (or, alternatively, make adoption of the ISDS an "opt in" option for members of the TPP).
2. Currency Manipulation: Strengthen provisions cracking down on currency manipulation. Currency manipulation has cost American manufacturers and American jobs by essentially acting as an invisible tariff on U.S.-made products and an invisible subsidy for products made in nations that engage in currency manipulation.
3. Making Environmental and Labor Provisions Enforceable: Require countries to conform their laws to a higher standard and implement those laws for 18-24 months before entering into the treaty
4. Minimum Wage: Mandate a minimum wage that must be matched or exceeded by all participating countries and which must rise over time to narrow the wage gap between developed and developing countries. This would help prevent a global race to bottom on wages.
5. Intellectual Property/Generic Drugs: Do not extend intellectual property protections for certain pharmaceutical products in a way that will make it harder to get generic drugs onto the market and otherwise get affordable medication to developing countries. These kinds of special-interest provisions should be excluded from the TPP.
6. Human Rights: Require Malaysia and other potential members to address current serious issues with human trafficking and other human rights violations. We should not be engaging in a major expansion of trade relations with nations that are maintaining gross labor violations. Oppose an effort to downgrade Malaysia's rating on human rights merely so Malaysia can join the TPP.

7. Financial Services: Prevent future administrations from using new trade agreements to weaken Dodd-Frank or other financial regulations and consumer protections. Big banks and European nations are pushing to weaken U.S. financial regulations, such as tougher capital standards for big banks enacted in the wake of the 2008 financial meltdown, in an upcoming round of TTIP trade talks.

8. Manufacturing: Strengthen U.S. manufacturing by making countervailing duty and anti-dumping claims against foreign companies easier to bring and to resolve successfully, helping to level the playing field for American manufacturers in international trade. Moreover, allow companies to pursue anti-dumping claims by counting as illegal subsidies violations of the TPP's labor and environmental standards.

On Mon, Jul 13, 2015 at 7:37 PM, Bill de Blasio <[REDACTED]> wrote:

He agreed to send me some thoughts on the TPP and I wanted him to have my email. Thanks! Bill de Blasio

Sent via BlackBerry by AT&T

From: Leopold, Elana
To: "hayley@progressiveagenda.us"; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Cc: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Fyi
Date: Tuesday, July 14, 2015 7:02:59 PM

Mayor spoke w sharpston briefly- talking again tonight

Tried to reach harkin but all the numbers are wrong- mayor is emailing

Had good convo w gov brown

From: Hayley Prim
To: Yazgi, Stephanie
Cc: Snyder, Thomas; John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: Random
Date: Tuesday, July 14, 2015 10:13:04 PM

I am-- just let me know the details

On Tuesday, July 14, 2015, Yazgi, Stephanie <syazgi@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Let's double check when he met w them- I think he saw them on cali trip and recently. HP can just reach out to staff if she is allowed.

From: Snyder, Thomas
Sent: Tuesday, July 14, 2015 7:04 PM
To: 'John Del Cecato'; Yazgi, Stephanie; Hayley Primm (hayley@progressiveagenda.us)
Subject: RE: Random

But if staff can accomplish without getting mayor involved we should go that way. Stephanie – what would you propose?

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, July 14, 2015 6:59 PM
To: Yazgi, Stephanie
Cc: Snyder, Thomas; Hayley Primm (hayley@progressiveagenda.us)
Subject: Re: Random

I think they are on our call list

On Jul 14, 2015, at 6:56 PM, Yazgi, Stephanie <syazgi@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

I think he already met w them so will likely just require staff follow up

From: Snyder, Thomas
Sent: Tuesday, July 14, 2015 6:18 PM
To: Hayley Primm (hayley@progressiveagenda.us); Yazgi, Stephanie
Cc: John Del Ceccato (jfdc@akpdmedia.com)
Subject: Random

B expressed to me a week ago that he wants the Mayors of Santa Fe and San Jose to sign TPA. Is this something that can be achieved by you two, or does the mayor have to do this?

Tom Snyder

Chief of Staff

Office of the Mayor

City Hall

New York, NY 10007

212-341-5050

--

Hayley Prim

c:

From: John Del Cecato
To: Hinton, Karen
Subject: Re:
Date: Wednesday, July 15, 2015 9:56:57 AM

Yes indeed

On 7/15/15, 8:50 AM, "Hinton, Karen" <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>That Siena poll interesting ...

>

>Sent from my iPhone

>

>> On Jul 15, 2015, at 7:55 AM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

>>

>> Thanks for understanding. If everything goes okay, I'll be at City Hall >> this afternoon & will drop by

>>

>>> On 7/15/15, 7:50 AM, "Hinton, Karen" <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>>>

>>> No worries. Hope all is well.

>>>

>>> Sent from my iPhone

>>>

>>>> On Jul 15, 2015, at 7:31 AM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>

>>>>wrote:

>>>>

>>>>

>>>> Hey Karen. So sorry for the last minute cancelation, but have a >>>>family

>>>> issue to deal with this AM and can't make breakfast. My apologies - >>>> next time it's on me!

>>

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
To: "John Del Cecato"
Subject: RE:
Date: Wednesday, July 15, 2015 12:02:51 PM

Ok will keep you posted
After todays call time

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Wednesday, July 15, 2015 11:56 AM
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re:

Works for me

From: "Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca" <PSalazar-Rodriguez@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Wednesday, July 15, 2015 at 11:46 AM
To: "Snyder, Thomas" <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: <no subject>

Thinking of adding TPA call time on Saturday July 25th
Thoughts?

From: John Del Cecato
To: Walzak, Phil; Hinton, Karen; Wolfe, Emma; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: Source: Mayor Walsh to meet with the pope | Herald Bulldog | First On The Street | Boston Herald
Date: Wednesday, July 15, 2015 12:26:50 PM

Source: Mayor Walsh to meet with the pope | Herald Bulldog | First On The Street | Boston Herald

Download the Twitter app

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
To: Carey, Michael; Leopold, Elana; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com" (jfdc@akpdmedia.com); Hayley Prim (hayley@progressiveagenda.us)
Subject: RE: MBDB: TPA Call Time
Date: Wednesday, July 15, 2015 1:29:04 PM

This call time is now from 4-5pm today

-----Original Appointment-----

From: Carey, Michael
Sent: Monday, July 13, 2015 3:52 PM
To: Carey, Michael; Leopold, Elana; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' (jfdc@akpdmedia.com); Hayley Prim (hayley@progressiveagenda.us)
Subject: MBDB: TPA Call Time
When: Wednesday, July 15, 2015 3:00 PM-5:00 PM (UTC-05:00) Eastern Time (US & Canada).
Where: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
To: John Del Cecato; "Hayley Prim"
Date: Wednesday, July 15, 2015 2:03:57 PM

Your call time is now 4-5pm today

Prisca Salazar-Rodriguez
Director of Scheduling
Office of The Mayor
City Hall
New York, New York 10007
212-341-5016
917-853-3421

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
To: "Hayley Prim"
Cc: John Del Cecato
Subject: RE: Re:
Date: Wednesday, July 15, 2015 2:08:16 PM

tx

From: Hayley Prim [mailto:hayley@progressiveagenda.us]
Sent: Wednesday, July 15, 2015 2:08 PM
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Cc: John Del Cecato
Subject: Re:

Got it, will be there.

On Wed, Jul 15, 2015 at 2:03 PM, Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca <PSalazar-Rodriguez@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
Your call time is now 4-5pm today

Prisca Salazar-Rodriguez
Director of Scheduling
Office of The Mayor
City Hall
New York, New York 10007
212-341-5016
917-853-3421

--

Hayley Prim

c:

From: B
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Pls call
Date: Wednesday, July 15, 2015 5:26:17 PM

From: Hayley Prim
To: B
Cc: Snyder, Thomas; jfdc@akpdmedia.com
Subject: Re: Update since Skype yesterday
Date: Wednesday, July 15, 2015 7:49:20 PM

Definitely. We are seeing you tomorrow mid-day.

On Wednesday, July 15, 2015, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Excellent!! And we must download and get to work on next steps re: gov kate brown. Be aggressive!

From: Snyder, Thomas
Sent: Wednesday, July 15, 2015 06:21 PM
To: 'Hayley Prim' <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>; B
Cc: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: Update since Skype yesterday

Terrific. Good work.

From: Hayley Prim [mailto:hayley@progressiveagenda.us]
Sent: Wednesday, July 15, 2015 2:52 PM
To: B
Cc: Snyder, Thomas; John Del Cecato
Subject: Update since Skype yesterday

Out of all the PC members physically in the room during yesterday's meeting, only 4 had not already signed on to TPA.

I just confirmed that we can add

Mark Takano, Janice Hahn, and Grace Napolitano as endorsers.

David Cicilline was also in the room. I spoke to his staff and I am waiting on confirmation.

Mike Darner, the ED of the Progressive Caucus just sent all of the members a wrap of the meeting a couple of hours ago, so those in the room are just finding out that the Caucus officially endorsed.

I will begin calling each Member's office tomorrow to confirm we can add their name's to the list as well. Tedious process, but in the end should and could yield up to 50 new Members of Congress as Signers.

Will keep you posted.

--

Hayley Prim

c: [REDACTED]

--

Hayley Prim

c: [REDACTED]

From: John Del Cecato
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Cc: Hayley Prim
Subject: Re:
Date: Wednesday, July 15, 2015 8:32:07 PM

We will take it

On Jul 15, 2015, at 7:26 PM, Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca <PSalazar-Rodriguez@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Just got u some call time for tomorrow from 12-1:30pm
Fingers crossed

Prisca Salazar-Rodriguez
Director of Scheduling
Office of The Mayor
City Hall
New York, New York 10007
212-341-5016
917-853-3421

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
To: jfdc@akpdmedia.com; hayley@progressiveagenda.us; Leopold, Elana
Subject: TPA Call Time
Date: Wednesday, July 15, 2015 9:05:04 PM

TPA Call Time

Scheduled: Thursday, Jul 16, 2015 from 12:00 PM to 1:30 PM

Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

Invitees: John Del Cecato , 'Hayley Prim' , Leopold, Elana

Sent from my iPhone

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
To: John Del Cecato; Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: HRC's AFT questionnaire answers
Date: Thursday, July 16, 2015 9:34:42 AM

FYI:

<http://www.aft.org/election2016/candidate-questionnaire-hillary-rodham-clinton>

From: John Del Cecato
To: Hayley Prim; Snyder, Thomas; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Subject: Re: Next Week
Date: Thursday, July 16, 2015 10:15:04 AM

I will be Upstate on Friday thru Sunday - but will be reachable/connected

From: Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>
Date: Thursday, July 16, 2015 at 10:10 AM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, Thomas <tsnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca" <PSalazar-Rodriguez@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Next Week

Flagging for you guys that I will be upstate from Friday morning July 24- Monday afternoon/evening July 27.

--

Hayley Prim

c:

From: Hayley Prim
To: Leopold, Elana; John Del Cecato
Subject: Fwd: Best number to reach you
Date: Thursday, July 16, 2015 11:18:44 AM

245 today-- call with Tom Harkin.

----- Forwarded message -----

From: Senator T Harkin <[REDACTED]>
Date: Thursday, July 16, 2015
Subject: Best number to reach you
To: Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>

Yes, have him call me at 2:45 your time.

Sent from my iPhone

On Jul 16, 2015, at 9:01 AM, Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us> wrote:

2:45 EST would be best for us. Would it be okay if the Mayor calls you at the 202 number? I'm not sure if he will be in his office or if he will be traveling.

Thank you!

On Thu, Jul 16, 2015 at 10:57 AM, Senator T Harkin <[REDACTED]> wrote:

Second thought: how about a call at 12:45, Colorado time, 2:45 your time, with the Mayor? My number is [REDACTED] (c). What number can I call to get the Mayor?

Sent from my iPhone

On Jul 16, 2015, at 8:39 AM, Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us> wrote:

Hi Senator Harkin,

Mayor de Blasio is trying to reach you to follow up on your conversation from over the weekend. Could you let me know the best number?

Thanks so much,
Hayley

--

Hayley Prim

c: [REDACTED]

--
Hayley Prim
c: [REDACTED]

--
Hayley Prim
c: [REDACTED]

From: John Del Cegato
To: Williams, Don rlc; Shorris, Anthony; Wofe, Emma; Waltak, Phl
Subject: <no subject>
Date: Thursday, July 16, 2015 12:41:42 PM

This doesn't sound like something we'd like - right?

Sneak Peek at Clinton's Capital Gains Tax Plan?

Jul 13, 2015 2:46 PM EDT

The Democratic presidential candidate teases an idea for patient investors.

Democratic presidential candidate Hillary Clinton suggested Monday that she may endorse lower capital gains taxes on long-held assets as a way to discourage a quick-profits mentality in the U.S. economy. That could mean a sliding scale of tax rates on investments, offering a tax break to patient investors while continuing to subject the profits from fast trades to the highest marginal tax rates. Today's system, by contrast, features a preferential tax rate on assets held more than a year. But it makes no distinction beyond that. Gains on stocks held for 366 days are taxed at the same rate as those held 36 years.

"I will soon be proposing a new plan to reform capital gains taxes to reward longer-term investments that create jobs, more than just quick trades," Clinton said during an economic policy speech in New York.

Clinton didn't offer further details, and her campaign didn't immediately respond to questions, but Neera Tanden, one of her most prominent outside advisers, last month proposed a sliding-scale capital gains tax in which the rate would decline the longer an asset is held.

"Once an investor holds a share past the one-year mark, the tax code provides no incentives to maintain the position any longer," Tanden and investor Blair Efron of Centerview Partners wrote. "A sliding-scale capital gains tax would involve more time horizons, extend further into the future, and avoid the kinds of kinks in tax schedules that policy wonks hate."

Under current law, the top capital gains tax rate on assets held for less than a year is 43.4 percent. That rate drops to 23.8 percent for assets held more than a year.

If this proposal sounds familiar, it is. President Bill Clinton signed a law in 1997 that would have imposed an 18 percent top capital gains tax rate on assets purchased after 2000 and held for at least five years. The Bush tax cuts of 2003 erased that idea and replaced it with lower rates for all.

It's also unclear how big a practical effect a sliding-scale tax rate would have. Many stocks already aren't subject to taxes at all because they're held by university endowments, retirement accounts and pension funds.

Unlike Republicans who have proposed eliminating the capital gains tax, Clinton has a proposal that would limit how much the wealthiest households could benefit from lower capital gains taxes.

She backs the Buffett Rule, an Obama policy named for billionaire (and Clinton backer) Warren Buffett that calls for a minimum 30 percent tax on the highest-income households. Depending on where she sets the capital gains rates, the Buffett Rule could claw back some of the benefits.

Clinton's reference to "quick trades" is "silly" because the fastest trades are subject to high tax rates already, said Malcolm Salter, a Harvard Business School professor who has proposed a gradually declining tax rate for capital gains that would hit zero after five years. Still, he said, the idea of preferential capital gains tax rates for long-held assets has promise as a way of encouraging companies to change executive compensation practices. And, he said, it could shift the political discussion on capital gains out of the usual back-and-forth debate between the merits of the growth that could be spurred by lower rates and the revenue that would be lost to the Treasury.

But Salter questioned whether Clinton's middle road—offering investors a break on capital gains taxes in return for more long-term investments—is salable in the current political environment. The idea should be raised, he said, in the context of a broader discussion about the "institutional corruption that's eating away at the core" of American capitalism. "The Democrats would have a very difficult time trying to sell this because most people don't understand what's at stake," said Salter, who said he hasn't been in touch with Clinton's team.

That "quick trades" line also drew a quick rebuke from another target of Clinton—the private equity industry. Clinton's move to tax carried interest as ordinary income, not capital gains, is at odds with her stated desire for patient investing, said Steve Judge, president of the Private Equity Growth Capital Council. "Taxing long-term carried interest as anything other than a long-term capital gain would deprive private equity, venture capital, real estate, and many other businesses of the same treatment available to other kinds of businesses that sell a long-term capital asset for a profit," he said.

It's not clear if Clinton will back the changes to capital gains taxation that President Barack Obama proposed earlier this year.

The president wants to raise the top tax rate to 28 percent and change a rule that lets people pass appreciated assets to their heirs at death without paying income taxes on the gains.

—Jennifer Epstein contributed to this story.

CORRECTION An earlier version of this story incorrectly characterized Obama's plan on capital gains.

From: John Del Cecato
To: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: FW: "de Blasio" option on a uber app
Date: Thursday, July 16, 2015 12:42:50 PM
Attachments: IMG_1105.PNG
ATT00001.txt
IMG_1106.PNG
ATT00002.txt

FYI

On 7/16/15, 12:34 PM, "Jon Fromowitz" <jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

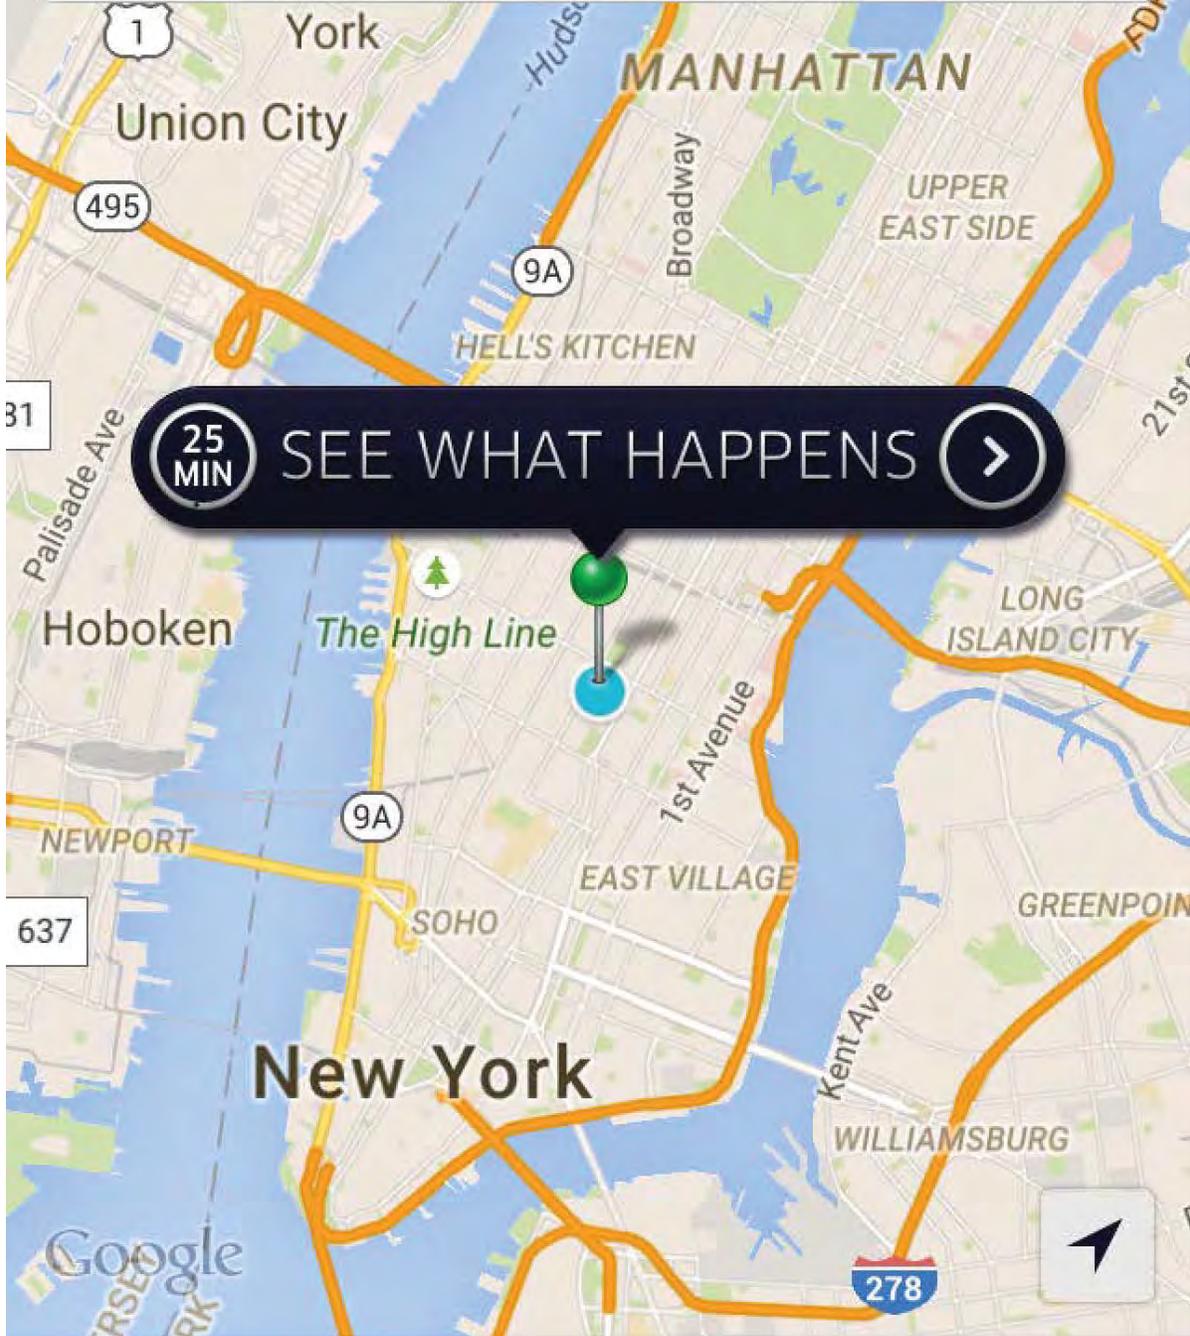

>On mine (see screen grabs below). Assume it's on everyone's.

>

UBER

PICKUP LOCATION
915 Broadway

DE BLASIO

uberT uberPOOL uberX uberBLACK UberRUSH EATS

DE BLASIO'S UBER

TAKE ACTION

This is what Uber will look like in NYC if Mayor de Blasio's Uber cap bill passes.

Email the Mayor and City Council. Say "NO" to de Blasio's Uber!

EMAIL NOW

KEEP NYC MOVING FORWARD

DE BLASIO

uberT uberPOOL uberX uberBLACK UberRUSH EATS

From: B
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; "hayley@progressiveagenda.us"
Subject: RAS
Date: Thursday, July 16, 2015 2:15:24 PM

Create an ultra-convening

10-12 great progressives together

National press club

Candidate forum?

Manifesto?

Get ahead of the Pope and Sept

Frame our demand before Pope and he amplifies it

Push aside Trump as focus

Anniv of march on Washington?

Re: HRC -- want to move others with me if we reach a higher level of agreement

"Rather than bring a single showhorse, bring a whole team of horses"

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: "John Del Cecato"
Subject: RE: <no subject>
Date: Thursday, July 16, 2015 3:27:12 PM

That name does not ring a bell. Should I ask Mehrdad?

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Thursday, July 16, 2015 2:00 PM
To: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: <no subject>

Do you recall Mehrdad bringing up the name Hugh Espy from Iowa - big liberal activist? MBDB just mentioned to me & name rings a bell - can't remember where I heard it though

From: Yazgi, Stephanie
To: "John Del Cecato"
Subject: RE: NEEDED FROM YOU!: Notes for Mayors Organizing Plan
Date: Thursday, July 16, 2015 4:25:57 PM

Thanks John!

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Thursday, July 16, 2015 4:19 PM
To: Yazgi, Stephanie
Subject: Re: NEEDED FROM YOU!: Notes for Mayors Organizing Plan

A few from me:

1. Instead of looking at mayors through the prism of a specific cause we're fighting for, find out what their top priority is, and view NYC as the laboratory/clearinghouse of how to tackle that specific issue in an effective way.
2. Make the goal/mission statement: "making mayors as powerful as possible." Washington doesn't get anything done. Mayors do all kinds of big stuff. Let's feed that notion among the press, the public, and the mayors themselves - creating mayors as the REAL force for change that people can feel in their everyday lives.
3. When people are trying to implement big plans (like Pre-K for Jim Kenney in NYC), offer our experts to guide them through the process.
4. Predictive policing - very big deal - and something that can be replicated elsewhere.

From: Stephanie Yazgi <syazgi@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Thursday, July 16, 2015 at 11:09 AM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, 'Neal Kwatra' <[REDACTED]>, "Schwartz, Regina" <RSchwartz@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Snyder, Thomas" <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Fromberg, Rick" <RFromberg@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Wolfe, Emma" <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Viguers, Jonathan" <JViguers@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: RE: NEEDED FROM YOU!: Notes for Mayors Organizing Plan

Folks:

I have only received input from Gina and Rick. Please send me a couple of bullets with your vision by end of day.

Thanks!

Stephanie

From: Yazgi, Stephanie
Sent: Wednesday, July 08, 2015 1:58 PM
To: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; 'Neal Kwatra'; Schwartz, Regina; Snyder, Thomas; Fromberg, Rick; Wolfe, Emma; Viguers, Jonathan
Subject: NEEDED FROM YOU!: Notes for Mayors Organizing Plan

Folks:

Thanks for the meeting this morning. If you could, by the end of the week, please send me a few key bullets to summarize the pieces you think need to be part of the mayor's organizing plan re: national and local organizing, programmatic pieces, goals and considerations and notes on how to overcome any identified challenges.

I will pull this all together and summarize and circulate a document next week for us to agree upon and then present to MBdB.

Thanks!
Stephanie

p.s. if you'd rather speak by phone you can call me anytime [REDACTED] or we can schedule a time to speak – THANKS!

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
To: Walzak, Phil; Hinton, Karen; "John Del Cecato"
Cc: Clips
Subject: FW: Clinton details profit-sharing tax plan
Date: Thursday, July 16, 2015 6:24:01 PM

Dana is the worst. Look how she uses the word “perhaps” below.

From: Capital Pro [mailto:info@capitalnewyork.com]
Sent: Thursday, July 16, 2015 5:01 PM
To: Gunaratna, Mahen
Subject: Clinton details profit-sharing tax plan

Clinton details profit-sharing tax plan

By Dana Rubinstein

5:00 p.m. | Jul. 16, 2015

On Thursday in New Hampshire, Democratic presidential candidate Hillary Clinton put meat on the bones of a proposal to incentivize profit sharing by creating a new tax credit.

According to her campaign, the idea would work like this:

[C]ompanies that share profits with their employees would receive a two-year tax credit equal to 15 percent of the profits they share—with a higher credit for small businesses. Shared profits eligible for the credit would be capped at 10 percent on top of employees’ current wages. The tax credit would help companies overcome any initial costs of setting up a profit sharing plan. The tax credit would phase out for higher-income workers, and it would only be available to firms that share profits widely among employees. Moreover, the benefit for any single company in a given year would be capped to prevent an excessive credit for very large corporations.

Earlier this week at the New School, Clinton delivered what was billed as her first big economic agenda speech. It was generally short on details but populist in tone.

During that speech, she promised to elaborate on the profit-sharing idea later this week in New Hampshire. And so she did.

"Credible studies prove that profit-sharing with your employees is good for the employees, good for the businesses, and good for the economy," she said in a statement. "I want to incentivize more companies to do just that. It makes good business sense. It increases productivity and it increases loyalty of employees."

Under pressure from the likes of Elizabeth Warren, Bernie Sanders and perhaps also Bill de Blasio, Clinton's campaign has taken pains to address issues surrounding income inequality.

More details on her proposal can be found here: <http://bit.ly/1Kb8bTe>

You've received this Capital Pro content because your customized settings include: Albany (all articles) or one of the following Albany topics: 2016 presidential election, Hillary Clinton.

To change your alert settings, please go to your Pro settings page.

This email alert has been sent for the exclusive use of Capital Pro subscriber mgunaratna@cityhall.nyc.gov. Forwarding or reproducing the alert without the express, written permission of Capital Pro is a violation of federal law and the Capital Pro subscription agreement. Copyright © 2015 by CapNY LLC. To subscribe to Pro, please go to <http://www.capitalnewyork.com/page/why-pro>.

If you believe this has been sent to you in error, please safely unsubscribe.

From: B
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; "hayley@progressiveagenda.us"
Cc: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Fw: UPDATED version -- Presidential Forum Proposal
Date: Thursday, July 16, 2015 6:55:08 PM

Pls download before you talk to Harkin's team

-----Original Message-----

To: Tom Harkin
Subject: Re: UPDATED version -- Presidential Forum Proposal
Sent: Jul 16, 2015 6:54 PM

John Del Cecato and Hayley Prim will be the follow up people for Marcia and her colleagues to talk to

-----Original Message-----

From: Tom Harkin
To: Bill de Blasio
Subject: Re: UPDATED version -- Presidential Forum Proposal
Sent: Jul 16, 2015 6:42 PM

I'm calling Marsha in one hour. After carefully reading your proposal again, I am unsure what the Harkin Institute role is. You have CNN and TPA hosting the event. You suggest me and a Republican as "co-chairs." I thought you wanted the Institute to host it. If CNN and TPA are hosting, why need the Institute?

Sent from my iPhone

> On Jul 16, 2015, at 12:47 PM, Bill de Blasio <[\[REDACTED\]](#)> wrote:

>
>

> Tom, I'm sending you a more complete version of the proposal below. Use this one. Thanks - Bill

>
>

> -----Original Message-----

> From: John Del Cecato
> To: Bill de Blasio
> Subject: Final
> Sent: Jul 13, 2015 3:54 PM

>

> PROPOSAL??TO: Sen. Harkin

> FR: Bill de Blasio

> DA: 7/13/15

> RE: Iowa Presidential Forum -- CONFIDENTIAL

>

>

> CONTEXT:

> If you're having a national conversation about environmental protection, you might turn to the Sierra Club. If you're talking civil rights, you might go to the NAACP. But right now, there is no organization that focuses exclusively on income inequality. That's where The Progressive Agenda comes in.

>

> The Progressive Agenda (TPA) is a coalition of current and former elected officials at every level of government, labor leaders, economists, civil rights champions, cultural luminaries, and leaders of progressive organizations.

>

> In May, TPA outlined 15 progressive solutions for combatting income inequality – from a $15 minimum wage, to paid sick and paid family leave, to expanding Social Security, to progressive taxation.

>

> As a recent New York Times poll demonstrates, the American people – Republicans, Democrats, and independents alike -- are focused on income inequality like never before, and they are eager to hear from their leaders on how to tackle it.

>

> GOAL:

> By convening presidential candidates of both political parties to discuss income inequality, we will generate enormous media coverage of the issue, mobilize everyday Americans to weigh in on it, help shape the 2016 presidential campaign, and put the candidates even more firmly “on the record” on policies designed to lift the floor for working people, help working parents, and ensure that big corporations and the wealthy pay their fair share.

>

> Influencing the presidential campaign conversation will have a trickle-down effect – sparking questions of candidates for other positions – House, Senate, and perhaps even Governor and State Legislature.

>

> FORMAT: ?

> We are seeking to host a presidential forum, as opposed to a traditional debate.

>

> Participating candidates would have the stage to themselves, appearing in sequential order, by a method to be determined later.

>

> Our vision is that each candidate would have 5 minutes to offer an opening statement. Then a panel of 2-3 journalists will question the candidate

From: Hayley Prim
To: B
Cc: jfdc@akpdmedia.com
Subject: Re: Fw: Fwd: Opportunity Nation Forum Invitation
Date: Thursday, July 16, 2015 7:43:48 PM

Robert Putnam is doing a tour of the early states to talk about income inequality. That will be the topic of a bi-partisan candidate forum in November at Des Moines Area Community College planned by Opportunity Nation, a national bipartisan coalition of more than 300 businesses, nonprofits, educators and community leaders working to expand economic mobility.

What we know is that there are lots of organizations trying to organize similar events to this one, and what we are working on. What isn't clear here is whether they have a media sponsor, which is obviously key to actually getting the candidates in the room.

On Thursday, July 16, 2015, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

What do we know about this?

-----Original Message-----

From: Tom Harkin
To: Bill de Blasio
Subject: Fwd: Opportunity Nation Forum Invitation
Sent: Jul 16, 2015 7:12 PM

We may have been beaten to the punch: read the DSM Register editorial, and see note to me from former president Rob Denson. Do you know anything about "Opportunity Nation?" I just looked them up. I had never heard of them, but they seem well established.

Sent from my iPhone
Begin forwarded message:

From: "Denson, Robert J." <rjdenson@dmacc.edu>
Date: July 16, 2015 at 12:22:01 PM MDT
To: "[REDACTED]" <[REDACTED]>
Cc: Melanie Anderson <manderson@opportunitynation.org>, Cara Willis <cwillis@opportunitynation.org>
Subject: Opportunity Nation Forum Invitation

Dear Tom:

Before we went to France we'd emailed you about Opportunity Nation and a Presidential Opportunity Forum we're planning to host. (Those emails are below) We've officially finalized the dates, November 16-17, at DMACC's Campus in Ankeny.

And we're thrilled the Forum was announced by the Editorial team in the Register today:

<http://www.desmoinesregister.com/story/opinion/editorials/2015/07/15/registers-editorial-income-gap-needs-presidential-priority-local-action/30220721/> [Note that the date has been changed to Nov. 16-17]

We'd love to invite you to serve as an Honorary Co-Chair for the event. We have also invited Tom Latham, Andy McGuire and Jeff Kaufmann to also be Co-Chairs. As Honorary Co-Chair, we would be honored to have you speak at the event if you are available, but also be willing to lend your name to the invitations to the Presidential candidates.

Happy to discuss further with you.

Thanks.

Rob Denson

OUR PRIOR EMAILS BELOW:

From: Gmail [mailto: [REDACTED]]

Sent: Thursday, May 07, 2015 1:23 PM

To: Denson, Robert J.

Subject: Re: Opportunity Nation

Rob: likewise looking forward to being with you in France! I cannot meet on June 9 or 10, as Ruth and I are taking two of our grandkids to the Bahamas for a week. Anytime before that date?

Sent from my iPad

On May 6, 2015, at 11:26 AM, Denson, Robert J. < rjdenson@dmacc.edu > wrote:
Tom:

We are looking forward to seeing you and Ruth on the DMACC

--

Hayley Prim

c: [REDACTED]

From: John Del Cecato
To: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Fwd: TPAC Papers
Date: Friday, July 17, 2015 7:40:13 AM
Attachments: Progressive Agenda Committee Articles of Association 20150716-1.pdf
ATT00001.htm
Progressive Agenda Committee Minutes July 15 2015.pdf
ATT00002.htm

Begin forwarded message:

From: Nick Baldick <nbaldick@hilltoppublicsolutions.com>
Date: July 16, 2015 at 10:45:31 PM EDT
To: Geri Prado <[REDACTED]>
Cc: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, Lora Haggard <lora@bluewavepolitics.com>, Jim Lamb <Lamb@sandlerreiff.com>
Subject: TPAC Papers

Geri

I have attached the articles of association and minutes for The Progressive Agenda Committee.

Please sign both and send back to this group.

Lora will create bank account and EIN and we will be done.

Thanks

Nick

Progressive Agenda Committee
Articles of Committee

We agree to organize the Progressive Agenda Committee as an unincorporated non-profit association pursuant to the District of Columbia Uniform Unincorporated Nonprofit Committee Act of 2010, DC ST § 29-1101 et seq., and these Articles of Committee.

ARTICLE I – NAME

The name of the association is the Progressive Agenda Committee (“Committee”).

ARTICLE II – DURATION

The period of duration for the Committee is perpetual or until such time as the members adopt a resolution recommending the dissolution of the Committee.

ARTICLE III – PURPOSE

A. The Committee is a nonprofit organization operated for the purpose of addressing income inequality by advocating for progressive public policies that will strengthen America’s middle class.

B. As a means of accomplishing its purpose, the Committee has all powers granted to a nonprofit association and the power to do all things necessary, proper, and consistent with maintaining its tax-exempt status under section 501(c)(4) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended (the “Code”).

C. The Committee is not organized for the primary purpose of carrying on a trade or business with the general public for profit, nor shall it be operated for pecuniary gain or profit. It does not contemplate the distribution of gains, profits or dividends to any director, employee, or other individual, partnership, estate, trust, or corporation having a personal or private interest in the association and is organized solely as a nonprofit association.

D. Notwithstanding any other provisions of these Articles, the Committee will not carry on any activity not permitted to be carried on by an association exempt from federal income tax under section 501(c)(4) of the Code.

ARTICLE IV – MEMBERS

- A. The Committee has one class of members who may participate in the governance and development of policy of the Committee.
- B. The membership of the Committee will at all times consist of at least two individuals.
- C. New members of the Committee may be admitted by a majority vote of the membership. For good cause, and in the interest of the Committee, the members may terminate the membership of any individual by a vote of the membership.

ARTICLE V – DISSOLUTION

In the event of the liquidation, dissolution, or winding up of the affairs of the Committee, whether voluntary, involuntary, or by operation of law, the members of the Committee will, except as may be otherwise provided by law, transfer all of the assets of the Committee in such manner as the members, in the exercise of their discretion, may by a majority vote determine, provided that any such distribution of assets must be for a permissible purpose under section 501(c)(4).

ARTICLE VI – AMENDMENTS

This Committee reserves the right to amend or repeal, by the affirmative vote of a majority of the members, any of the provisions contained in these Articles of Committee.

The undersigned, consisting of all the members of the Committee as of July 15, 2015 execute these Articles of Committee of the Progressive Agenda Committee.

/s/ _____

Geri Prado

/s/  _____

Lora Haggard

Progressive Agenda Committee

Minutes of Action of Membership

The following action was taken by the membership of the Progressive Agenda Committee ("Committee"), an unincorporated association, by this written consent.

1. Election of Treasurer

RESOLVED, that Lora Haggard is elected the treasurer of the Committee.

2. Banking

RESOLVED, that the treasurer is authorized to open a bank account for the Committee and to execute any documents required by the bank.

The effective date of these resolutions is July 15, 2015.

Agreed to by:

/s/ _____

Geri Prado
Member

/s/  _____

Lora Haggard
Member

5. Banking

RESOLVED, that all of the actions taken by the Association to open a bank or bank accounts and to authorize the Association's Treasurer to sign checks on behalf of the Association and to make disbursements from the bank account(s) are hereby approved, accepted, ratified and adopted.

6. Organizational Costs

RESOLVED, that the Treasurer is authorized to pay or cause to be paid all fees, expenses, or reimbursements incurred by, or on behalf of, the Association in connection with its organization.

7. Authority to Commence Activities

RESOLVED, that, subject to the control and direction of the Board of Directors, the proper officers of the Association are authorized to take such action as they deem necessary or appropriate in order to commence and carry on the activities that the Association was formed to conduct.

8. Offices

RESOLVED, that the principal office of the Association shall initially be located at 450 Old Vine Street, Suite 100, Lexington, Kentucky 40507.

10. Implementation

RESOLVED, that the officers of the Association's Board are hereby severally authorized (a) to sign, execute, certify to, verify, acknowledge, deliver, accept, file, and record any and all instruments and documents, and (b) to take, or cause to be taken, any and all such action, in the name and on behalf of the Association, as (in such officer's judgment) shall be necessary, desirable, or appropriate in order to effect the purposes of the foregoing resolutions.

FURTHER RESOLVED, that any and all action taken by any proper officer of the Association prior to the date stated below taken in effecting the purposes of these resolutions is ratified, approved, confirmed, and adopted in all respects.

This consent may be executed in counterparts and all such counterparts shall constitute one consent. This consent to action is effective as of September 1, 2011.

/s/ _____
Amy Dedman

/s/ _____
Carrie Schuyler

Nick Baldick
Hilltop Public Solutions
The Washington Harbour
3000 K Street NW, Suite 320
Washington, D.C. 20007
Main: 202-298-3232
Fax: 202-298-6115
nbaldick@hilltoppublicsolutions.com

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: "John Del Cecato"
Subject: RE: TPAC Papers
Date: Friday, July 17, 2015 9:51:53 AM

Something screwy in the 2nd attachment called Minutes. First page looks right and the rest looks like its from some other organization. Please clarify.

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Friday, July 17, 2015 7:40 AM
To: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Fwd: TPAC Papers

Begin forwarded message:

From: Nick Baldick <nbaldick@hilltoppublicsolutions.com>
Date: July 16, 2015 at 10:45:31 PM EDT
To: Geri Prado [REDACTED]
Cc: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, Lora Haggard <lora@bluewavepolitics.com>, Jim Lamb <Lamb@sandlerreiff.com>
Subject: TPAC Papers

Geri

I have attached the articles of association and minutes for The Progressive Agenda Committee.

Please sign both and send back to this group.

Lora will create bank account and EIN and we will be done.

Thanks

Nick

From: Spitalnick, Amy \(OMB\)
To: Hagelgans, Andrea; "John Del Cecato"; Walzak, Phil; Hinton, Karen
Subject: RE: interview request from Josh Fox
Date: Friday, July 17, 2015 12:31:24 PM

They're aiming to wrap shooting by the end of the summer and say the film will be broadcast on HBO early next year, with festival screening beginning around then too.

I think we should do this. If everyone is good I can email the Mayor and Prisca.

From: Hagelgans, Andrea [<mailto:AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>]
Sent: Tuesday, July 14, 2015 4:27 PM
To: 'John Del Cecato'; Spitalnick, Amy (OMB); Phillip Walzak; Hinton, Karen
Subject: RE: interview request from Josh Fox

Enviro progressive crowd ☺

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, July 14, 2015 4:27 PM
To: Spitalnick, Amy (OMB); Hagelgans, Andrea; Walzak, Phil; Hinton, Karen
Subject: Re: interview request from Josh Fox

Not exactly TPA - but I'm all for it

From: "Spitalnick, Amy (OMB)" <SpitalnickA@omb.nyc.gov>
Date: Tuesday, July 14, 2015 at 3:22 PM
To: "Hagelgans, Andrea" <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Phillip Walzak <pwalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Hinton, Karen" <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: interview request from Josh Fox

If we're interested, I'll get all the details!

From: Hagelgans, Andrea [<mailto:AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>]
Sent: Tuesday, July 14, 2015 3:22 PM
To: Spitalnick, Amy (OMB); Phillip Walzak; Hinton, Karen
Cc: John Del Cecato (jfdc@akpdmedia.com)
Subject: RE: interview request from Josh Fox

I like this for broader TPA purposes too.

Do we know timeline for when it is likely to air?

From: Spitalnick, Amy (OMB) [<mailto:SpitalnickA@omb.nyc.gov>]
Sent: Tuesday, July 14, 2015 3:07 PM
To: Hagelgans, Andrea; Walzak, Phil; Hinton, Karen
Subject: FW: interview request from Josh Fox

Josh Fox is the filmmaker who helped make fracking a big issue. He's now doing a film on climate change.

I think this would be worth 20 min of the Mayor's time, especially given his personal connection to the issue and the many things we're doing.

I've worked with Josh before and it's always been very positive.

Let me know what you guys think.

Thanks.

From: [REDACTED] [mailto:[REDACTED]] On Behalf Of Deia Schlosberg
Sent: Tuesday, July 14, 2015 2:59 PM
To: NMesa@cityhall.nyc.gov; Spitalnick, Amy (OMB); RRyan@cityhall.nyc.gov
Cc: Josh Fox
Subject: interview request from Josh Fox

Hello Nilda, Amy and RoseAnn--

I'm writing on behalf of Josh Fox, who is interested in interviewing Mayor de Blasio for his new film on climate change and community value systems.

The new film hopes to portray the rollercoaster of emotion that we face as we fight climate change in a world that is already rapidly changing. It is a film that seeks to find a new value system for both dealing with and averting catastrophe.

Like its two predecessors, this film is currently in negotiations to be on HBO in the US and will undoubtedly have a broad international appeal.

The new film has already shot segments all over the world-- looking at solar development in Zambia, coal ship blockades in Australia by representatives from Pacific Island nations, geothermal energy development in Iceland, wildfires in Colorado, the destruction of the national forests in the American West by beetle kill, the tar sands protests, the amazing immediate response to Hurricane Sandy by Occupy Sandy and much more. It currently features interviews with Bill McKibben, Dr. James Hansen, Ella Chou, Van Jones, Lester Brown, Tim DeChristopher and many others.

The Mayor's perspective would be greatly welcomed, particularly with regard to the commendable goal of having 100% of NYC Government operations powered by renewable energy.

We're happy to answer any questions you or Mayor de Blasio might have about the project, either by phone or by email. We look forward to hearing back from you.

Thanks so much for the work you're all doing on this front--it makes me proud to be a New Yorker.

Sincerely,
Deia Schlosberg

Deia Schlosberg

Producer

Untitled Josh Fox Climate Change Film

406.579.5750

From: Walters, Alexis
To: Yazgi, Stephanie; John Del Cecato
Cc: Schnake Mahl, Gabriel; Schwartz, Regina; Viguers, Jonathan; Hayley Prim; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Subject: RE: Call with Mayor Francis Slay of St. Louis 7/20
Date: Friday, July 17, 2015 3:12:07 PM
Attachments: Mayor's Event Briefing- Template.doc

Template attached

From: Yazgi, Stephanie
Sent: Friday, July 17, 2015 3:12 PM
To: John Del Cecato
Cc: Schnake Mahl, Gabriel; Walters, Alexis; Schwartz, Regina; Viguers, Jonathan; Hayley Prim; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Subject: Re: Call with Mayor Francis Slay of St. Louis 7/20

Cool. Can your team do briefing? Prisca or Alexis can get you template

From: John Del Cecato
Sent: Friday, July 17, 2015 2:18 PM
To: Yazgi, Stephanie
Cc: Schnake Mahl, Gabriel; Walters, Alexis; Schwartz, Regina; Viguers, Jonathan; Hayley Prim
Subject: Re: Call with Mayor Francis Slay of St. Louis 7/20

Praising for min wage hike. Asking to sign onto TPA.

On Jul 17, 2015, at 1:49 PM, Yazgi, Stephanie <syazgi@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

What is this call about?

From: Schnake Mahl, Gabriel
Sent: Friday, July 17, 2015 1:29 PM
To: Walters, Alexis
Cc: Schwartz, Regina
Subject: RE: Call with Mayor Francis Slay of St. Louis 7/20

+ SY

From: Walters, Alexis
Sent: Friday, July 17, 2015 1:29 PM
To: Schnake Mahl, Gabriel
Cc: Schwartz, Regina
Subject: Call with Mayor Francis Slay of St. Louis 7/20

Hey Gabe,

Will there be a briefing for this call on Monday?

Alexis Walters

Office of the Mayor
City of New York

Event/Meeting Briefing Information

Staff Contact/Planning Lead: TBD

EVENT: TBD

MISSION/GOAL: TBD

DAY/DATE: Thursday, February 19, 2015

EVENT TIME: 5:00 PM – 6:00 PM

MBDB TIME: 5:15 PM – 5:45 PM

LOCATION:
LOCAL/ONSITE
CONTACT:

PEOPLE ATTENDING: (include # of ppl attending; attach a guest list and say, “see attached guest list” rather than list all names here)

ELECTED/COMMUNITY OFFICIALS ATTENDING (list names of elected officials & their title; if more than 5 – 6, attach list and indicate that list is attached)

STAFF ATTENDING: (List names of Administration officials, staff, or others as appropriate)

STAFF ASSIGNED TO MBDB: Amy Spitalnick, Press

PRESS: Open

EVENT SET-UP:
MBDB ROLE:
MBDB TALKING POINTS:
EVENT PROGRAM:
MBDB INTRODUCED BY:

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION ON THE EVENT:

- (Indicate any attachments being included with briefing form. Also where applicable, include suggested talking points for the Mayor – Communications staff will review and edit as necessary)

- (Include any other pertinent information about the event that the Mayor might need to know that is not included elsewhere on the form or reference other attachments)

BIO INFORMATION ON PARTICIPANTS:

- (Include information about the sponsoring organization if bios not appropriate)

RECENT NEWS ARTICLES RELATED TO GROUP OR GEOGRAPHICAL LOCATION OF EVENT:

- (Include description of articles being included as attachments to the briefing form)

From: Hayley Prim
To: John Del Cecato
Cc: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: UPDATED version -- Presidential Forum Proposal
Date: Friday, July 17, 2015 4:14:09 PM

Also, FYI Blankfein is a Dem

<http://www.businessinsider.com/lloyd-blankfein-told-cnbcnbspm-a-registered-democrat-and-a-rockefeller-republican--where-that-will-get-me--2012-4>

On Fri, Jul 17, 2015 at 4:02 PM, Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us> wrote:

Have you or Jeani made any contact with any of the other schools in the meantime? Going to need to shoot the boss a note at the end of the day with any progress.

On Fri, Jul 17, 2015 at 2:17 PM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:
Ok tx

On Jul 17, 2015, at 2:15 PM, Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us> wrote:

I left a VM on her cell and tracked down an email address for her-- but got her out of office. Will keep you posted.

On Fri, Jul 17, 2015 at 12:57 PM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:
Cool

On Jul 17, 2015, at 12:55 PM, Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us> wrote:

Ok I can call her and try to set up a time for the 3 of us to talk

On Friday, July 17, 2015, Snyder, Thomas <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

If at all possible I think it best if you both do it, only because John has the lengthiest experience of us all getting the TPA Forum going. My two cents.

From: Hayley Prim [mailto:hayley@progressiveagenda.us]
Sent: Friday, July 17, 2015 12:39 PM
To: John Del Cecato
Cc: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: Fw: UPDATED version -- Presidential Forum Proposal

No he wants us to do it

On Friday, July 17, 2015, John Del Cecato
<jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

Marsha's cell is

██████████

Hayley - since you talked to Bdb most recently - do you wanna call? If not, I can. Or was Mbdb saying he wanted to call Marsha himself?

On Jul 17, 2015, at 11:34 AM, Hayley Prim
<hayley@progressiveagenda.us> wrote:

Sure. My cell is ██████████

On Friday, July 17, 2015, Snyder, Thomas
<TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Hayley can u get on the phone right now?

From: John Del Cecato
[mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Friday, July 17, 2015 11:12 AM
To: Snyder, Thomas
Cc: Hayley Prim
Subject: Re: UPDATED version -- Presidential Forum Proposal

You know, if we were willing to go to a neighboring state, I could talk to Axelrod about having University of Chicago Institute of Politics host it.

On Jul 17, 2015, at 10:51 AM, Snyder, Thomas <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>

wrote:

I could talk between now and noon.
Between 2 and 3.

From: Hayley Prim
[mailto:hayley@progressiveagenda.us]
Sent: Friday, July 17, 2015 10:48 AM
To: Snyder, Thomas
Cc: John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: UPDATED version --
Presidential Forum Proposal

I think we need to talk to Harkin's team today as well, to further delve into whether there is any way to make Drake work. I can try to track down contact info for Marcia unless one of you have.

When are you guys free?

On Fri, Jul 17, 2015 at 10:47 AM, Snyder, Thomas <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

There has to be more options than Simpson, right? Any thoughts on where and who we might need to make the connections? Do we need a quick call on this today? And is Drake ruled out just because the Harkin Institute might not want to do it? Why couldn't we still use Drake?

From: Hayley Prim
[mailto:hayley@progressiveagenda.us]
Sent: Friday, July 17, 2015 10:44 AM
To: Snyder, Thomas
Cc: John Del Cecato

Subject: Re: UPDATED version
-- Presidential Forum Proposal

Yes-- he wants us to have a venue locked down in the next few days.

On Fri, Jul 17, 2015 at 10:43 AM, Snyder, Thomas <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Is Plan B exclusively a question of venue?

From: John Del Cecato
[mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Friday, July 17, 2015 10:36 AM
To: Hayley Prim
Cc: Snyder, Thomas

Subject: Re: UPDATED version
-- Presidential Forum Proposal

I'm gonna get a contact for Simpson College

On Jul 17, 2015, at 10:03 AM, Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us> wrote:

BDB off. He wants us to update him on this today. What are our plan B thoughts?

Will try to get full DL from him before we depart today

On Thu, Jul 16, 2015
at 6:55 PM, B
<BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov
> wrote:

Pls download before you talk to Harkin's team

-----Original
Message-----
To: Tom Harkin
Subject: Re:
UPDATED version --
Presidential Forum
Proposal
Sent: Jul 16, 2015
6:54 PM

John Del Cecato and Hayley Prim will be the follow up people for Marcia and her colleagues to talk to

-----Original
Message-----
From: Tom Harkin
To: Bill de Blasio
Subject: Re:
UPDATED version --
Presidential Forum
Proposal
Sent: Jul 16, 2015
6:42 PM

I'm calling Marsha in one hour. After carefully reading
your proposal again,
I am unsure what
the Harkin Institute role is. You have CNN and TPA

hosting the event.
You suggest me and a Republican as "co-chairs." I thought you wanted the
Institute to host it.
If CNN and TPA are hosting, why need
the Institute?

Sent from my iPhone

> On Jul 16, 2015,
at 12:47 PM, Bill de
Blasio

< [REDACTED] >
> wrote:

>

>

> Tom, I'm sending you a more complete version of the proposal below. Use this one. Thanks -
Bill

>

>

> -----Original
Message-----

> From: John Del
Cecato

> To: Bill de Blasio

> Subject: Final

> Sent: Jul 13, 2015
3:54 PM

>

> PROPOSAL??TO:

Sen. Harkin

> FR: Bill de Blasio

> DA: 7/13/15

> RE: Iowa

Presidential Forum --

CONFIDENTIAL

>

>

> CONTEXT:

> If you're having a national conversation about environmental protection, you might turn to the Sierra Club. If you're talking civil rights, you might go to the NAACP. But right now, there is no organization that focuses exclusively on income inequality. That's where The Progressive Agenda comes in.

>

> The Progressive Agenda (TPA) is a coalition of current and former elected officials at every level of government, labor leaders, economists, civil rights champions, cultural luminaries, and leaders of progressive organizations.

>

> In May, TPA outlined 15 progressive solutions for combatting income inequality – from a $15 minimum wage, to paid sick and paid family leave, to expanding Social Security, to progressive taxation.

>

> As a recent New York Times poll demonstrates, the American people – Republicans, Democrats, and independents alike -- are focused on income inequality like never before, and they are eager to hear from their leaders on how to tackle it.

>

> GOAL:

> By convening presidential candidates of both political parties to discuss income inequality, we will generate enormous media coverage of the issue, mobilize everyday Americans to weigh in on it, help shape the 2016 presidential campaign, and put the candidates even more firmly "on the record" on policies designed to lift the floor for working people, help working parents, and ensure that big corporations and the wealthy pay their fair share.

>

> Influencing the presidential campaign conversation will have a trickle-down effect – sparking questions of candidates for other positions – House, Senate, and perhaps even Governor and State Legislature.

>

> FORMAT:?

> We are seeking to host a presidential forum, as opposed to a traditional debate.

>

> Participating candidates would have the stage to themselves, appearing in sequential order, by a method to be determined later.

>
> Our vision is that each candidate
would have 5
minutes to offer an opening statement.
Then a panel of 2-3 journalists will question the candidate

--

Hayley Prim

c: [REDACTED]

--

Hayley Prim

c: [REDACTED]

From: Hayley Prim
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Cc: Walters, Alexis; Yazgi, Stephanie; John Del Cecato; Schnake Mahl, Gabriel; Schwartz, Regina; Viguers, Jonathan
Subject: Re: Call with Mayor Francis Slay of St. Louis 7/20
Date: Friday, July 17, 2015 5:06:34 PM
Attachments: 07-20-15 Slay MW Briefing.doc

Attached is the briefing for the call on Monday. I will send you an update over the weekend if needed.

Do you know when the KC call is going to be scheduled?

On Fri, Jul 17, 2015 at 3:58 PM, Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca <PSalazar-Rodriguez@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

yes

From: Hayley Prim [mailto:hayley@progressiveagenda.us]
Sent: Friday, July 17, 2015 3:51 PM
To: Walters, Alexis
Cc: Yazgi, Stephanie; John Del Cecato; Schnake Mahl, Gabriel; Schwartz, Regina; Viguers, Jonathan; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca

Subject: Re: Call with Mayor Francis Slay of St. Louis 7/20

I will do it. Can you add me to call on Mayor's calendar so I know when it happens?

On Fri, Jul 17, 2015 at 3:12 PM, Walters, Alexis <AWalters@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Template attached

From: Yazgi, Stephanie
Sent: Friday, July 17, 2015 3:12 PM
To: John Del Cecato
Cc: Schnake Mahl, Gabriel; Walters, Alexis; Schwartz, Regina; Viguers, Jonathan; Hayley Prim; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca

Subject: Re: Call with Mayor Francis Slay of St. Louis 7/20

Cool. Can your team do briefing? Prisca or Alexis can get you template

From: John Del Cecato

Sent: Friday, July 17, 2015 2:18 PM

To: Yazgi, Stephanie

Cc: Schnake Mahl, Gabriel; Walters, Alexis; Schwartz, Regina; Viguers, Jonathan; Hayley Prim

Subject: Re: Call with Mayor Francis Slay of St. Louis 7/20

Praising for min wage hike. Asking to sign onto TPA.

On Jul 17, 2015, at 1:49 PM, Yazgi, Stephanie <syazgi@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

What is this call about?

From: Schnake Mahl, Gabriel

Sent: Friday, July 17, 2015 1:29 PM

To: Walters, Alexis

Cc: Schwartz, Regina

Subject: RE: Call with Mayor Francis Slay of St. Louis 7/20

+ SY

From: Walters, Alexis

Sent: Friday, July 17, 2015 1:29 PM

To: Schnake Mahl, Gabriel

Cc: Schwartz, Regina

Subject: Call with Mayor Francis Slay of St. Louis 7/20

Hey Gabe,

Will there be a briefing for this call on Monday?

Alexis Walters
Office of the Mayor
City of New York

--

Hayley Prim

c: [REDACTED]

--

Hayley Prim

c: [REDACTED]

Event/Meeting Briefing Information

Staff Contact/Planning Lead: TBD

EVENT: Call with Francis Slay, Mayor of St. Louis, MO

MISSION/GOAL: Commend Mayor on support for wage hike in St. Louis, and ask him to join TPA

DAY/DATE: Monday, July 20, 2015

EVENT TIME: 12:30 PM- 12:45 PM

MBDB TIME: 12:30 PM- 12:45 PM

LOCATION:

LOCAL/ONSITE

CONTACT:

PEOPLE ATTENDING: 2

ELECTED/COMMUNITY OFFICIALS ATTENDING Mayor Francis Slay

STAFF ATTENDING: N/A

STAFF ASSIGNED TO MBDB: Hayley Prim

PRESS: Closed

EVENT SET-UP:

MBDB ROLE:

MBDB TALKING POINTS:

EVENT PROGRAM:

MBDB INTRODUCED BY:

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION ON THE EVENT:

As of Friday, July 17 the wage hike in St. Louis is currently still being debated.

Original proposal

In June 2015, Mayor Slay unveiled a minimum wage proposal that with his signature would boost the city's minimum wage to $10 per hour, and would top out to $15 per hour in 2020.

The original proposal also called for the minimum wage to be adjusted by the rate of inflation every year after that, though it could never go lower than $15.

Exemptions include small businesses making less than $500,000 per year, or those who employ less than 15 people.

Compromise Proposal

The compromise proposal, which was agreed to on July 9 would immediately boost the minimum wage to $7.95 per hour, with a top rate of $11 by 2020.

It would include the same exemptions as the original proposal, and would additionally exempt certain in-home service workers, and nursing homes, assisted living or residential care centers aid for my Medicaid or Medicare. Hospitals and child care centers that receive funding through certain government programs would also not have to comply with the minimum wage law, and students who work less than 20 hours a week during the school year could be paid at 90 percent of the minimum wage.

Latest

The Board of Alderman considered this compromise bill on Friday July 10th, but took no action and kept the bill alive for future consideration. On Tuesday, July 14 Board of Aldermen President Lewis Reed said he can't support the current bill to institute a citywide minimum wage of $11 an-hour because it falls short of bringing relief to working families, and has expressed intentions to remove many of the exemptions.

The next step is for a special meeting to be called by the Board of Alderdmn President to debate the bill and make any changes.

On July 17, Governor Jay Nixon said that he supports the right of the St. Louis Board of Alderman to raise the minimum wage above the state level of $7.65/hour.

Additional Background

Regional business groups have argued that the cities lack the legal authority to raise the minimum wage for private-sector employees. Gov. Jay Nixon vetoed a bill last week that would bar municipalities from approving a minimum wage higher than the state's if they have not been passed before August 28, but this issue could re-emerge in a veto override session in September.

A state law adopted in 1998 prohibits Missouri's most densely populated counties and cities from enacting minimum wages higher than the state's pay floor. St. Louis voters passed a wage bump for city contractors shortly after that. A circuit court judge struck that pay hike down, but also cast doubt on the 1998 law itself. Today, a bevy of interpretations abound over the constitutionality of local-level pay increases in the state.

BIO INFORMATION ON PARTICIPANTS:

Francis G. Slay made history in 2013 as the City of St. Louis' first mayor to be elected to a fourth, four-year term in office. He became the 45th Mayor of the City in 2001 and was re-elected by large margins in 2005, 2009, and 2013.

His key initiatives include: improving the quality of life in neighborhoods, the revitalization of North St. Louis, better public education, and the efficient and equitable delivery of City services. In May 2007 Downtown St. Louis's revitalization was the subject of a Preserve America Presidential Award, the nation's highest honor for historic preservation.

Prior to being elected Mayor, Francis G. Slay served as a St. Louis Alderman for 10 years, then as President of the St. Louis Board of Aldermen from 1995 to 2001.

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
To: "Hayley Prim"
Cc: Walters, Alexis; Yazgi, Stephanie; John Del Cecato; Schnake Mahl, Gabriel; Schwartz, Regina; Viguers, Jonathan
Subject: RE: Call with Mayor Francis Slay of St. Louis 7/20
Date: Friday, July 17, 2015 5:08:47 PM

I am waiting to hear back – just emailed them again

From: Hayley Prim [mailto:hayley@progressiveagenda.us]
Sent: Friday, July 17, 2015 5:06 PM
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Cc: Walters, Alexis; Yazgi, Stephanie; John Del Cecato; Schnake Mahl, Gabriel; Schwartz, Regina; Viguers, Jonathan
Subject: Re: Call with Mayor Francis Slay of St. Louis 7/20

Attached is the briefing for the call on Monday. I will send you an update over the weekend if needed.

Do you know when the KC call is going to be scheduled?

On Fri, Jul 17, 2015 at 3:58 PM, Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca <PSalazar-Rodriguez@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
yes

From: Hayley Prim [mailto:hayley@progressiveagenda.us]
Sent: Friday, July 17, 2015 3:51 PM
To: Walters, Alexis
Cc: Yazgi, Stephanie; John Del Cecato; Schnake Mahl, Gabriel; Schwartz, Regina; Viguers, Jonathan; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca

Subject: Re: Call with Mayor Francis Slay of St. Louis 7/20

I will do it. Can you add me to call on Mayor's calendar so I know when it happens?

On Fri, Jul 17, 2015 at 3:12 PM, Walters, Alexis <AWalters@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
Template attached

From: Yazgi, Stephanie
Sent: Friday, July 17, 2015 3:12 PM
To: John Del Cecato
Cc: Schnake Mahl, Gabriel; Walters, Alexis; Schwartz, Regina; Viguers, Jonathan; Hayley Prim; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca

Subject: Re: Call with Mayor Francis Slay of St. Louis 7/20

Cool. Can your team do briefing? Prisca or Alexis can get you template

From: John Del Cecato
Sent: Friday, July 17, 2015 2:18 PM
To: Yazgi, Stephanie
Cc: Schnake Mahl, Gabriel; Walters, Alexis; Schwartz, Regina; Viguers, Jonathan; Hayley Prim
Subject: Re: Call with Mayor Francis Slay of St. Louis 7/20

Praising for min wage hike. Asking to sign onto TPA.

On Jul 17, 2015, at 1:49 PM, Yazgi, Stephanie <syazgi@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

What is this call about?

From: Schnake Mahl, Gabriel
Sent: Friday, July 17, 2015 1:29 PM
To: Walters, Alexis
Cc: Schwartz, Regina
Subject: RE: Call with Mayor Francis Slay of St. Louis 7/20

+ SY

From: Walters, Alexis
Sent: Friday, July 17, 2015 1:29 PM
To: Schnake Mahl, Gabriel
Cc: Schwartz, Regina
Subject: Call with Mayor Francis Slay of St. Louis 7/20

Hey Gabe,

Will there be a briefing for this call on Monday?

Alexis Walters
Office of the Mayor
City of New York

--

Hayley Prim

c:

--

Hayley Prim

c:

From: John Del Cecato
To: B
Cc: hayley@progressiveagenda.us; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: Plan B
Date: Friday, July 17, 2015 5:25:20 PM

On it. Talking to Univ of Iowa

> On Jul 17, 2015, at 5:19 PM, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>
>
> Aggressively move to Plan B re: forum in Iowa. Begin immediately. Tell me what I have to do
>

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: B; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; 'hayley@progressiveagenda.us'
Subject: RE: Plan B
Date: Friday, July 17, 2015 5:51:08 PM

On it. Began earlier today making calls.

-----Original Message-----

From: B
Sent: Friday, July 17, 2015 5:20 PM
To: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; 'hayley@progressiveagenda.us'
Cc: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Plan B

Aggressively move to Plan B re: forum in Iowa. Begin immediately. Tell me what I have to do

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: John Del Ceccato \(jfdc@akpdmedia.com\); Hayley Primm \(hayley@progressiveagenda.us\)
Date: Friday, July 17, 2015 5:53:59 PM

Harkin Institute definitely a no - so on to other venues.

Tom Snyder
Chief of Staff
Office of the Mayor
City Hall
New York, NY 10007
212-341-5050

From: Williams, Dominic
To: "BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov"
Cc: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: NY Times: Bernie Sanders Presses Hillary Clinton on Her Views on Banks
Date: Sunday, July 19, 2015 11:08:34 PM

Will work on quickly

From: B
Sent: Sunday, July 19, 2015 10:55 PM
To: Williams, Dominic
Cc: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Fw: NY Times: Bernie Sanders Presses Hillary Clinton on Her Views on Banks

Dom, in your opinion, what should my position be on Glass-Steagall, first as progressive leader and then as mayor of nyc. I want your undiluted view, then want to bring Tony and Alicia into the discussion. I think I can guess Alicia's view already, and suspect I'll disagree. I've cc'ed JDC and Tom S, who will help make sure we adjudicate this issue internally

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
Sent: Saturday, July 18, 2015 12:19 AM
To: B; FLONYC
Cc: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea; Hinton, Karen; Williams, Dominic
Subject: NY Times: Bernie Sanders Presses Hillary Clinton on Her Views on Banks

Bernie Sanders Presses Hillary Clinton on Her Views on Banks

By JONATHAN MARTIN

JULY 17, 2015

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa — Senator Bernie Sanders of Vermont edged closer on Friday to directly attacking Hillary Rodham Clinton, pointedly asking whether the Democratic presidential front-runner would support measures to break up the country's largest financial institutions and reinstate a firewall between commercial and investment banking.

Mr. Sanders, whose campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination has galvanized liberal activists driven by questions of economic fairness, highlighted his efforts to cut down the so-called too big to fail banks and restore Glass-Steagall, the Depression-era banking law repealed under President Bill Clinton. "You'll have to ask Hillary Clinton about her views on whether she thinks we should break up these large financial institutions. I do," Mr. Sanders, an independent, said at a news conference here. "You will have to ask her views on whether we should re-establish Glass-Steagall."

He boasted that he had not received financial contributions from Goldman Sachs, which he said sought “undue influence” in American politics, but stopped short of calling on Mrs. Clinton to reject the nearly $50,000 in donations she has received from employees of the Wall Street firm. “That’s her decision,” Mr. Sanders said, after pausing for a moment to consider the question.

Mr. Sanders spoke the afternoon before the Iowa Democratic Party’s annual fund-raising dinner, the first event this year at which all of the party’s five presidential candidates appeared together. Mrs. Clinton addressed her supporters at an early evening rally before the banquet, but trained her fire entirely on Republicans, making no mention, direct or implied, of Mr. Sanders.

The banquet illustrated the populist fervor coursing through the Democratic base, offering an explanation for Mr. Sanders’ early success. Mrs. Clinton received ovations for her attacks on some of the Republican presidential hopefuls and gender-oriented appeals, but Mr. Sanders and Martin O’Malley, a former Maryland governor, found booming applause for their full-throated attacks on Wall Street and free-trade deals.

Asked whether Mrs. Clinton would seek to break up the country’s largest banks or reinstate Glass-Steagall, an aide to Mrs. Clinton said she would speak in more detail about both issues in the coming weeks. (Alan Blinder, an economist who is advising Mrs. Clinton, said this week that she would not attempt to revive Glass-Steagall.)

While some leading Iowa Democrats believe that Mr. Sanders’s rise will ultimately help Mrs. Clinton restrain expectations here, where she was defeated by Barack Obama in the 2008 caucuses, Mr. Sanders’s growing support in the polls, vast base of small-dollar contributors and sizable crowds have prompted some of Mrs. Clinton’s backers to make not-so-subtle comments about the importance of nominating a candidate who can capture the White House.

“We’ve got to nominate somebody that can win and Hillary is a winner,” Michael Fitzgerald, Iowa’s state treasurer, said at the Clinton rally.

“I don’t have a lot of time to mess around like I used to, I want to win,” said Dale Todd, a Democratic activist from Cedar Rapids, who also spoke before Mrs. Clinton took the stage.

Privately, Mrs. Clinton’s backers are blunter, dismissing the possibility that Mr. Sanders, a 73-year-old self-declared socialist, would be a viable general election candidate. Yet the sheer size of his crowds, in Iowa and beyond, is creating awkwardness for Mrs. Clinton.

She added the rally to her schedule, her campaign said, to give local supporters who had not purchased a ticket for the dinner a chance to see the former secretary of state. She has been doing more such large-scale events in part because they are crucial to organizing. To that end, every attendee was asked to sign a caucus commitment card upon entering the basement hall, one side of which was lined with a surefire crowd builder: boxes of free pizza.

These gatherings also, though, represent an effort to show that Mrs. Clinton is herself capable of luring big audiences. But the rally served to highlight her inability for now to attract crowds on the same scale as Mr. Sanders, whose Iowa events have drawn more people than any other presidential candidate has in either party. Mrs. Clinton drew a few hundred people to her event here — her campaign pegged it at 500 — while Mr. Sanders was met by about 2,500 at an event in Council Bluffs this month. The Vermont senator did not seek to compete with a head-to-head rally, but he joined a group of veterans Friday afternoon upstairs in the same building where Mrs. Clinton spoke.

Standing beneath a giant, Grant Wood-designed stained glass window honoring three centuries of American soldiers, Mr. Sanders recounted his work as chairman of the Senate Veterans' Affairs Committee, solemnly recounting "the cost of war." But he turned notably more energetic when he took questions about his campaign.

"I think that there is a growing frustration all over this country for establishment politics, for establishment economics," he said before inveighing against what he called "a corrupt system."

From: B
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Cc: Snyder, Thomas; "hayley@progressiveagenda.us"; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Leopold, Elana
Subject: Re: Netroots conf
Date: Monday, July 20, 2015 7:11:09 AM

We need to do better in the future. We can sched things like this (if we believe them valuable) and then pull out if sched changes. What we are failing to do is look at the calendar strategically. Hayley, pls compile a list of important strategic gatherings we should consider this year and share with all us. And push for the ones you deem important

----- Original Message -----

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Sunday, July 19, 2015 01:57 PM
To: B
Cc: Snyder, Thomas; hayley@progressiveagenda.us <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Leopold, Elana
Subject: Re: Netroots conf

We tried to schedule a while back, but there was uncertainty re: overseas travel. Once that was resolved, Jessie tried to get at least a Skype appearance, but it was so late in the week, Netroots' schedule was locked in.

> On Jul 19, 2015, at 12:43 PM, B <BCCD @cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>
>
> Did we consider me going? If not, why not?
>

From: B
To: Snyder, Thomas; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; "hayley@progressiveagenda.us"
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea; Hinton, Karen; Wolfe, Emma; FLONYC
Subject: Good advice
Date: Monday, July 20, 2015 7:24:36 AM

I think this is a good and fair admonition. And we should take heed

-----Original Message-----

From: Van Jones
To: Bill de Blasio
Subject: Fwd: Bernie Sanders and Martin O'Malley Failed Their #BlackLivesMatter Test
Sent: Jul 19, 2015 11:53 PM

As we discussed: white populists will see this reaction more and more, if they try to stick with "accept our race-neutral policies and race-neutral rhetoric -- and then just pray for trickle-down justice for the black community." Any sense that we are an afterthought will be combatted; any notion that our pain can be addressed in a color blind, generic fashion (when there is nothing color blind or generic about the attacks on us) will draw fire.

I hope you can help others understand this. The Obama era of black silence on core, survival issues for our young people is over.

Hope you are well! Van

Sent from my Bat Phone (TM)

Begin forwarded message:

From: Colin Holtz <colin@dreamstaff.com>
Date: July 19, 2015 at 5:09:44 PM PDT
To: "dreamstaff@dreamcorps.us" <dreamstaff@dreamcorps.us>
Subject: Bernie Sanders and Martin O'Malley Failed Their #BlackLivesMatter Test

This is a good take on the current state of play among the left, i think

<http://www.newrepublic.com/article/122329/bernie-sanders-and-martin-omalley-failed-their-blacklivesmatter-test>

Bernie Sanders and Martin O'Malley Failed Their #BlackLivesMatter Test

Neither Democratic candidate measured up after being interrupted at Netroots Nation

By David Dayen @ddayen Photo: Charlie Leight/Getty Images

PHOENIX—At the Presidential Town Hall this weekend at Netroots Nation 2015, the largest annual gathering of liberal activists in America, there was a moment of two parallel universes operating simultaneously, signifying the cleavages between racial and economic justice on the progressive left. Democratic presidential candidate Bernie Sanders was moving through his main points about economic inequality and the hijacking of the nation by big money, pointing out statistical analyses on things like student debt and the gains of the one percent. (This came after former Maryland governor Martin O'Malley, the other candidate at the event, had already left the stage). At the same time, on the floor among the crowd, #BlackLivesMatter protesters marched and chanted, "Say her

From: Hayley Prim
To: Shaikh, Michael
Cc: Schwartz, Regina; Sevillia, Max; Viguers, Jonathan; John Del Cecato; Snyder, Thomas; Klein, Monica; Walters, Alexis
Subject: Re: Religious leaders declaration
Date: Monday, July 20, 2015 9:55:34 AM
Attachments: onesheet-progressiveagenda.pdf
07-20-15 Rome Trip Background on Mayors.docx

Hi All--

Attached is background on the Mayors for the Rome trip. Let me know if you need anything else.

Also attached here is the TPA one-pager. Please make sure you print plenty of hard copies to have on hand.

Thanks,
Hayley

On Fri, Jul 17, 2015 at 5:39 PM, Shaikh, Michael <mshaikh@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
Thank you all for your help and incredibly quick responses. Mike

On Jul 17, 2015, at 17:29, Schwartz, Regina <RSchwartz@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Hayley and her team will also send over a short brief with the mayors that MBDB mentioned in the meeting so that is captured with some background and JV will also help with Mayors' background.

From: Hayley Prim [<mailto:hayley@progressiveagenda.us>]

Sent: Friday, July 17, 2015 5:26 PM

To: Schwartz, Regina

Cc: Shaikh, Michael; Sevillia, Max; Viguers, Jonathan

Subject: Re: Religious leaders declaration

Hi Michael--

Attached is the one-pager for The Progressive Agenda, which the Mayor requested copies of for the trip. Monica has this already, but you should become familiar with the content.

He is very well versed in all of these issues.

Let me know if you need anything else from us.

Thanks,

Hayley

On Fri, Jul 17, 2015 at 5:21 PM, Schwartz, Regina
<RSchwartz@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Michael!

Great to meet you!

MS is looking into the resos.

HP cc'ed will get you the TPA information.

JV cc'ed will also help her with Mayors backgrounders.

Thanks!

Gina

From: Shaikh, Michael
Sent: Friday, July 17, 2015 5:14 PM
To: Sevilla, Max; Schwartz, Regina
Subject: Religious leaders declaration

Hi Regina and Max -

First off: Max, thanks for your help this afternoon on the Vatican declaration, and Regina, very nice meeting you today.

That said, a couple things came out of our meeting with the Mayor re the Vatican trip that we should be connecting over.

1. I am sharing the link to a second declaration that the Vatican will be asking the Mayors to sign. It's a doc that has been historically signed by religious leaders but now they want mayors to support it.

Here it is:

<http://www.endslavery.va/content/endslavery/en/events/declaration/signed.html>

Max, could I ask you to check if other US mayors will sign this too? We'll need to have clarity on this by Monday afternoon.

2. This next one is kind of an amorphous request, I admit. But Penny and Monica will be the only people traveling with the Mayor. I have a feeling the Mayor will be relying on PA (and to some extent Monica) to provide him with answers etc re US mayors he'll be interacting with in Italy. Could I kindly ask you to send me any info that they may need to answer his questions. In particular, I am thinking in relation to the mayors of Portland, Birmingham and Boulder, our mayor may engage on TPA stuff.

That's it. I really appreciate the help.

Take care, and let me know what I can do make your lives easier.

Mike

--

Hayley Prim

c: [REDACTED]

--

Hayley Prim

c: [REDACTED]

1 Lift the Floor for Working People

- Raise the federal minimum wage, so that it reaches $15/hour, while indexing it to inflation.
- Reform the National Labor Relations Act, to enhance workers' right to organize and rebuild the middle class.
- Pass comprehensive immigration reform to grow the economy and protect against exploitation of low-wage workers.
- Oppose trade deals that hand more power to corporations at the expense of American jobs, workers' rights, and the environment.
- Invest in schools, not jails – and give a second chance to those coming home from prison.

2 Support Working Families

- Pass national paid sick leave.
- Pass national paid family leave.
- Make Pre-K, after-school programs and childcare universal.
- Expand the Earned Income Tax Credit and protect and expand Social Security.
- Allow students to refinance student loan debt to take advantage of lower interest rates, and support debt-free college.

3 Tax Fairness

- Close the carried interest loophole.
- End tax breaks for companies that ship jobs overseas.
- Implement the “Buffet Rule” so millionaires pay their fair share.
- Close the CEO tax loophole that allows corporations to take advantage of “performance pay” write-offs.

Event/Meeting Briefing Information

Staff Contact/Planning Lead: TBD

EVENT: Interaction with Mayors on Rome Trip

MISSION/GOAL: Ask Mayors to sign onto TPA

DAY/DATE: Monday, July 20, 2015- Wednesday, July 22, 2015

BACKGROUND ON MAYORS

Tier 1

Mayor Charlie Hales (Portland)

- In March 2014, the City of Portland became the 4th city in the U.S. to mandate Paid Sick Leave
- In February 2015, the City of Portland raised it's minimum wage to $15/hour
- Just last week, after POTUS visit to federal prison, announced expansion of Mayor's community center initiative, investing in education, and after school to help keep kids out of trouble.
- Mayor Hales is a member of the Cities of Opportunity Task Force. He joined July's letter on transportation funding, the UPK and minimum wage letters, and participated in both transportation days of action.

Mayor Marty Walsh (Boston)

- Mayor Walsh applauded Gov. Patrick when he raised Massachusetts minimum wage to $11/hour by 2017
- Announced plan to double those enrolled in pre-k program in Boston by 2018
- On May 18, 2015 Mayor Walsh signed an ordinance establishing paid parental leave for City of Boston employees, Boston's first-ever Paid Parental Leave policy.
- Statewide paid sick time requirement when into effect on July 1, 2015, and is being calling one of the strongest paid sick laws in the nation, covering covering approximately 1 million workers who were not currently eligible for paid sick time in their jobs.

- Mayor Walsh is the co-chair of the Cities of Opportunity Task Force. He joined July's letter on transportation funding, the UPK and minimum wage letters, and participated in both transportation days of action.

Mayor Mitch Landrieu (New Orleans)

- In August 2014 Mayor Landrieu raised city employee's minimum wage to $10.10/hour, and is working to broaden this for low-wage workers carrying out contract for the city of New Orleans. He has also been vocal on supporting President Obama's call to Congress to raise the national minimum wage to $10.10 per hour
- In December 2014, the City of New Orleans' Civil Service Commission approved rules that will create a new category of leave for employees during the childbirth and adoption process. The new "Parental Leave," as part of Mayor Landrieu's Great Place to Work Initiative, grants additional weeks of paid leave on top of the employee's accumulated sick and annual leave.
- Mayor Landrieu is the Second Vice President of USCM and member of the Cities of Opportunity Task Force. He joined July's letter on transportation funding, the UPK and minimum wage letters, and participated in both transportation days of action.

Mayor Edwin Lee (San Francisco)

- In November 2014, San Francisco voted to raise the minimum wage to $15/hour by 2018
- In January 2015 Mayor Lee announced investment to make pre-k universal for all four year olds over next 5 years
- Mayor Lee also announced universal afterschool and summer programming for all K-through-8 students, regardless of income by end of 2015
- In 2007, passed paid sick leave ordinance
- Mayor Lee is a member of USCM and the Cities of Opportunity Task Force. He has not joined July's letter on transportation funding. He joined the UPK and minimum wage letters, and participated in May's transportation lobby day.

Tier 2

Mayor Matthew Applebaum (Boulder)

- Mayor Applebaum is not a member of USCM. He has not participated in any of our mayoral initiatives

- Matt serves on two committees of the National League of Cities, as vice-chair of the Energy, Environmental, and Natural Resources Committee; and as vice-chair of the CityFutures Panel on Community and Regional Development

Mayor William Bell (Birmingham)

- Mayor Bell is a member of USCM's Advisory Board. He joined July's letter on transportation funding and participated in May's transportation lobby day.
- Mayor Bell's legislative priority include neighborhood redevelopment, and local education

Mayor Samuel Liccardo (San Jose)

- Mayor Sam Liccardo launches an Initiative Aimed at Closing the K – 3rd Grade Achievement Gap through Extended Learning After the School Day
- Mayor Liccardo is a member of USCM. He joined July's letter on transportation funding and both transportation days of action.
- Mayor Liccardo's legislative priorities include public safety, restoring vital city services, and improving education

Other Mayors attending

Mayor Betsy Hodges (Minneapolis)-- Mayor Hodges was one of the original signers of The Progressive Agenda prior to the May 12, 2015 launch

Mayor Ed Murray (Seattle)-- Mayor Murray was one of the original signers of The Progressive Agenda prior to the May 12, 2015 launch

From: Schwartz, Regina
To: Klein, Monica; Hayley Prim; Shaikh, Michael
Cc: Sevillia, Max; Viguers, Jonathan; John Del Cecato; Snyder, Thomas; Walters, Alexis; Leopold, Elana
Subject: RE: Religious leaders declaration
Date: Monday, July 20, 2015 10:08:34 AM

Correct.

In the meeting on Friday the Mayor asked for this list and briefing so that he can work on TPA in down time.

Thanks!

Gina

From: Klein, Monica
Sent: Monday, July 20, 2015 10:07 AM
To: Hayley Prim; Shaikh, Michael
Cc: Schwartz, Regina; Sevillia, Max; Viguers, Jonathan; John Del Cecato; Snyder, Thomas; Walters, Alexis; Leopold, Elana
Subject: Re: Religious leaders declaration

+ Elana

Hayley – this isn't for a specific event, correct?

Monica Klein |Deputy Press Secretary |Mayor's Press Office
o: (212) 788-2969 |c: (917) 324-3297 | twitter: @monicacklein

From: Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>
Date: Monday, July 20, 2015 at 9:54 AM
To: "Shaikh, Michael" <mshaikh@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: "Schwartz, Regina" <RSchwartz@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Sevillia, Max" <msevillia@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Viguers, Jonathan" <JViguers@cityhall.nyc.gov>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, Thomas Snyder <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Monica Klein <mklein@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Walters, Alexis" <AWalters@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: Religious leaders declaration

Hi All--

Attached is background on the Mayors for the Rome trip. Let me know if you need anything else.

Also attached here is the TPA one-pager. Please make sure you print plenty of hard copies to have on hand.

Thanks,
Hayley

On Fri, Jul 17, 2015 at 5:39 PM, Shaikh, Michael <mshaikh@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
Thank you all for your help and incredibly quick responses. Mike

On Jul 17, 2015, at 17:29, Schwartz, Regina <RSchwartz@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Hayley and her team will also send over a short brief with the mayors that MBDB mentioned in the meeting so that is captured with some background and JV will also help with Mayors' background.

From: Hayley Prim [<mailto:hayley@progressiveagenda.us>]

Sent: Friday, July 17, 2015 5:26 PM

To: Schwartz, Regina

Cc: Shaikh, Michael; Sevillea, Max; Viguers, Jonathan

Subject: Re: Religious leaders declaration

Hi Michael--

Attached is the one-pager for The Progressive Agenda, which the Mayor requested copies of for the trip. Monica has this already, but you should become familiar with the content.

He is very well versed in all of these issues.

Let me know if you need anything else from us.

Thanks,
Hayley

On Fri, Jul 17, 2015 at 5:21 PM, Schwartz, Regina
<RSchwartz@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Michael!

Great to meet you!

MS is looking into the resos.

HP cc'ed will get you the TPA information.

JV cc'ed will also help her with Mayors backgrounders.

Thanks!
Gina

From: Shaikh, Michael
Sent: Friday, July 17, 2015 5:14 PM
To: Sevillea, Max; Schwartz, Regina
Subject: Religious leaders declaration

Hi Regina and Max -

First off: Max, thanks for your help this afternoon on the Vatican declaration, and Regina, very nice meeting you today.

That said, a couple things came out of our meeting with the Mayor re the Vatican trip that we should be connecting over.

1. I am sharing the link to a second declaration that the Vatican will be asking the Mayors to sign. It's a doc that has been historically signed by religious leaders but now they want mayors to support it.

Here it is:

<http://www.endslavery.va/content/endslavery/en/events/declaration/signed.html>

Max, could I ask you to check if other US mayors will sign this too? We'll need to have clarity on this by Monday afternoon.

2. This next one is kind of an amorphous request, I admit. But Penny and Monica will be the only people traveling with the Mayor. I have a feeling the Mayor will be relying on PA (and to some extent Monica) to provide him with answers etc re US mayors he'll be interacting with in Italy. Could I kindly ask you to send me any info that they may need to answer his questions. In particular, I am thinking in relation to the mayors of Portland, Birmingham and Boulder, our mayor may engage on TPA stuff.

That's it. I really appreciate the help.

Take care, and let me know what I can do make your lives easier.

Mike

--

Hayley Prim

c: [REDACTED]

--

Hayley Prim

c: [REDACTED]

From: Shaikh, Michael
To: Schwartz, Regina
Cc: Klein, Monica; Hayley Prim; Sevillia, Max; Viguers, Jonathan; John Del Cecato; Snyder, Thomas; Walters, Alexis; Leopold, Elana; Yazgi, Stephanie; Abeywardena, Penny
Subject: Re: Religious leaders declaration
Date: Monday, July 20, 2015 10:19:30 AM
Attachments: onesheet-progressiveagenda.pdf
07-20-15 Rome Trip Background on Mayors.docx

+ Penny

Hi Hayley - Thanks a lot for doing this.

Mike

Michael Shaikh | Deputy Commissioner for Policy and Communications
NYC Mayor's Office for International Affairs
2 United Nations Plaza, 27th Floor, New York, NY 10017
p: (212) 319-9300 | nyc.gov/internationalaffairs | @GlobalNYC

On Jul 20, 2015, at 10:08 AM, Schwartz, Regina
<RSchwartz@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

+SY

From: Klein, Monica
Sent: Monday, July 20, 2015 10:07 AM
To: Hayley Prim; Shaikh, Michael
Cc: Schwartz, Regina; Sevillia, Max; Viguers, Jonathan; John Del Cecato; Snyder, Thomas; Walters, Alexis; Leopold, Elana
Subject: Re: Religious leaders declaration

+ Elana

Hayley – this isn't for a specific event, correct?

Monica Klein | Deputy Press Secretary | Mayor's Press Office
o: (212) 788-2969 | c: (917) 324-3297 | twitter: @monicacklein

From: Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>
Date: Monday, July 20, 2015 at 9:54 AM
To: "Shaikh, Michael" <mshaikh@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: "Schwartz, Regina" <RSchwartz@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Sevillia, Max" <msevillia@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Viguers, Jonathan" <JViguers@cityhall.nyc.gov>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, Thomas Snyder <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Monica Klein <mklein@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Walters, Alexis" <AWalters@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: Religious leaders declaration

Hi All--

Attached is background on the Mayors for the Rome trip. Let me know if you need anything else.

Also attached here is the TPA one-pager. Please make sure you print plenty of hard copies to have on hand.

Thanks,
Hayley

On Fri, Jul 17, 2015 at 5:39 PM, Shaikh, Michael <mshaikh@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
Thank you all for your help and incredibly quick responses. Mike

On Jul 17, 2015, at 17:29, Schwartz, Regina <RSchwartz@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Hayley and her team will also send over a short brief with the mayors that MBDB mentioned in the meeting so that is captured with some background and JV will also help with Mayors' background.

From: Hayley Prim [<mailto:hayley@progressiveagenda.us>]

Sent: Friday, July 17, 2015 5:26 PM

To: Schwartz, Regina

Cc: Shaikh, Michael; Sevilla, Max; Viguers, Jonathan

Subject: Re: Religious leaders declaration

Hi Michael--

Attached is the one-pager for The Progressive Agenda, which the Mayor requested copies of for the trip. Monica has this already, but you should become familiar with the content.

He is very well versed in all of these issues.

Let me know if you need anything else from us.

Thanks,
Hayley

On Fri, Jul 17, 2015 at 5:21 PM, Schwartz, Regina <RSchwartz@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Michael!

Great to meet you!

MS is looking into the resos.

HP cc'ed will get you the TPA information.

JV cc'ed will also help her with Mayors backgrounders.

Thanks!

Gina

From: Shaikh, Michael
Sent: Friday, July 17, 2015 5:14 PM
To: Sevilla, Max; Schwartz, Regina
Subject: Religious leaders declaration

Hi Regina and Max -

First off: Max, thanks for your help this afternoon on the Vatican declaration, and Regina, very nice meeting you today.

That said, a couple things came out of our meeting with the Mayor re the Vatican trip that we should be connecting over.

1. I am sharing the link to a second declaration that the Vatican will be asking the Mayors to sign. It's a doc that has been historically signed by religious leaders but now they want mayors to support it.

Here it is:

<http://www.endslavery.va/content/endslavery/en/events/declaration/signed.html>

Max, could I ask you to check if other US mayors will sign this too? We'll need to have clarity on this by Monday afternoon.

2. This next one is kind of an amorphous request, I admit. But Penny and Monica will be the only people traveling with the Mayor. I have a feeling the Mayor will be relying on PA (and to some extent Monica) to provide him with answers etc re US mayors he'll be interacting with in Italy. Could I kindly ask you to send me any info that they may need to answer his questions. In particular, I am thinking in relation to the mayors of Portland, Birmingham and Boulder, our mayor may engage on TPA stuff.

That's it. I really appreciate the help.

Take care, and let me know what I can do make your lives easier.

Mike

--

Hayley Prim

c:

--

Hayley Prim

c: [REDACTED]

1 Lift the Floor for Working People

- Raise the federal minimum wage, so that it reaches $15/hour, while indexing it to inflation.
- Reform the National Labor Relations Act, to enhance workers' right to organize and rebuild the middle class.
- Pass comprehensive immigration reform to grow the economy and protect against exploitation of low-wage workers.
- Oppose trade deals that hand more power to corporations at the expense of American jobs, workers' rights, and the environment.
- Invest in schools, not jails – and give a second chance to those coming home from prison.

2 Support Working Families

- Pass national paid sick leave.
- Pass national paid family leave.
- Make Pre-K, after-school programs and childcare universal.
- Expand the Earned Income Tax Credit and protect and expand Social Security.
- Allow students to refinance student loan debt to take advantage of lower interest rates, and support debt-free college.

3 Tax Fairness

- Close the carried interest loophole.
- End tax breaks for companies that ship jobs overseas.
- Implement the “Buffet Rule” so millionaires pay their fair share.
- Close the CEO tax loophole that allows corporations to take advantage of “performance pay” write-offs.

Event/Meeting Briefing Information

Staff Contact/Planning Lead: TBD

EVENT: Interaction with Mayors on Rome Trip

MISSION/GOAL: Ask Mayors to sign onto TPA

DAY/DATE: Monday, July 20, 2015- Wednesday, July 22, 2015

BACKGROUND ON MAYORS

Tier 1

Mayor Charlie Hales (Portland)

- In March 2014, the City of Portland became the 4th city in the U.S. to mandate Paid Sick Leave
- In February 2015, the City of Portland raised it's minimum wage to $15/hour
- Just last week, after POTUS visit to federal prison, announced expansion of Mayor's community center initiative, investing in education, and after school to help keep kids out of trouble.
- Mayor Hales is a member of the Cities of Opportunity Task Force. He joined July's letter on transportation funding, the UPK and minimum wage letters, and participated in both transportation days of action.

Mayor Marty Walsh (Boston)

- Mayor Walsh applauded Gov. Patrick when he raised Massachusetts minimum wage to $11/hour by 2017
- Announced plan to double those enrolled in pre-k program in Boston by 2018
- On May 18, 2015 Mayor Walsh signed an ordinance establishing paid parental leave for City of Boston employees, Boston's first-ever Paid Parental Leave policy.
- Statewide paid sick time requirement when into effect on July 1, 2015, and is being calling one of the strongest paid sick laws in the nation, covering covering approximately 1 million workers who were not currently eligible for paid sick time in their jobs.

- Mayor Walsh is the co-chair of the Cities of Opportunity Task Force. He joined July's letter on transportation funding, the UPK and minimum wage letters, and participated in both transportation days of action.

Mayor Mitch Landrieu (New Orleans)

- In August 2014 Mayor Landrieu raised city employee's minimum wage to $10.10/hour, and is working to broaden this for low-wage workers carrying out contract for the city of New Orleans. He has also been vocal on supporting President Obama's call to Congress to raise the national minimum wage to $10.10 per hour
- In December 2014, the City of New Orleans' Civil Service Commission approved rules that will create a new category of leave for employees during the childbirth and adoption process. The new "Parental Leave," as part of Mayor Landrieu's Great Place to Work Initiative, grants additional weeks of paid leave on top of the employee's accumulated sick and annual leave.
- Mayor Landrieu is the Second Vice President of USCM and member of the Cities of Opportunity Task Force. He joined July's letter on transportation funding, the UPK and minimum wage letters, and participated in both transportation days of action.

Mayor Edwin Lee (San Francisco)

- In November 2014, San Francisco voted to raise the minimum wage to $15/hour by 2018
- In January 2015 Mayor Lee announced investment to make pre-k universal for all four year olds over next 5 years
- Mayor Lee also announced universal afterschool and summer programming for all K-through-8 students, regardless of income by end of 2015
- In 2007, passed paid sick leave ordinance
- Mayor Lee is a member of USCM and the Cities of Opportunity Task Force. He has not joined July's letter on transportation funding. He joined the UPK and minimum wage letters, and participated in May's transportation lobby day.

Tier 2

Mayor Matthew Applebaum (Boulder)

- Mayor Applebaum is not a member of USCM. He has not participated in any of our mayoral initiatives

- Matt serves on two committees of the National League of Cities, as vice-chair of the Energy, Environmental, and Natural Resources Committee; and as vice-chair of the CityFutures Panel on Community and Regional Development

Mayor William Bell (Birmingham)

- Mayor Bell is a member of USCM's Advisory Board. He joined July's letter on transportation funding and participated in May's transportation lobby day.
- Mayor Bell's legislative priority include neighborhood redevelopment, and local education

Mayor Samuel Liccardo (San Jose)

- Mayor Sam Liccardo launches an Initiative Aimed at Closing the K – 3rd Grade Achievement Gap through Extended Learning After the School Day
- Mayor Liccardo is a member of USCM. He joined July's letter on transportation funding and both transportation days of action.
- Mayor Liccardo's legislative priorities include public safety, restoring vital city services, and improving education

Other Mayors attending

Mayor Betsy Hodges (Minneapolis)-- Mayor Hodges was one of the original signers of The Progressive Agenda prior to the May 12, 2015 launch

Mayor Ed Murray (Seattle)-- Mayor Murray was one of the original signers of The Progressive Agenda prior to the May 12, 2015 launch

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: "Hayley Prim"; John Del Cecato
Subject: RE: Re:
Date: Monday, July 20, 2015 10:20:14 AM

Is Iowa City a college venue? Are there any drawbacks to that location?

From: Hayley Prim [mailto:hayley@progressiveagenda.us]
Sent: Monday, July 20, 2015 10:08 AM
To: John Del Cecato
Cc: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re:

Do we have any other options besides Iowa City at this point?

Should we nail down with them, and clue in CNN?

On Fri, Jul 17, 2015 at 5:22 PM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:
Jeni said that if we do it in Iowa City, the lecture center there is interested

--

Hayley Prim

c:

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: "John Del Cecato"; "Hayley Prim"
Subject: RE:
Date: Monday, July 20, 2015 10:33:55 AM

Can we meet tomorrow sometime here at City Hall to go over TPA status?

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Monday, July 20, 2015 10:24 AM
To: Snyder, Thomas; 'Hayley Prim'
Subject: Re:

I've got a call into the Iowa City guy.... Yes, it's a college town - very progressive...

No major drawbacks - except that it's far less important to a GOP caucus than a Dem caucus... But it's still pretty easy to get to, and the GOP can't avoid it if they want to win - particularly with that many people in the race, methinks

From: "Snyder, Thomas" <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Monday, July 20, 2015 at 10:20 AM
To: Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: Re:

Is Iowa City a college venue? Are there any drawbacks to that location?

From: Hayley Prim [mailto:hayley@progressiveagenda.us]
Sent: Monday, July 20, 2015 10:08 AM
To: John Del Cecato
Cc: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re:

Do we have any other options besides Iowa City at this point?

Should we nail down with them, and clue in CNN?

On Fri, Jul 17, 2015 at 5:22 PM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:
Jeni said that if we do it in Iowa City, the lecture center there is interested

--

Hayley Prim

c:

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: "John Del Cecato"; Hayley Prim
Subject: RE: TPA calls
Date: Monday, July 20, 2015 10:35:09 AM

Makes a lot of sense. Can I get a phone number?

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Monday, July 20, 2015 10:34 AM
To: Hayley Prim; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: TPA calls

I would also have him call Cong. Dave Loebsack, who was an early signer to TPA, a member of the Progressive Caucus, and represents Iowa City... Would be good to float the forum by him... He's already a part of the Black and Brown forum, but that's in Des Moines - and Loebsack could be interested in doing something in his own district as well...

He beat Jim Leach to win his seat in 2006, but since Leach now teaches at the University of Iowa, I'm wondering if Loebsack has a relationship there that's civil and maybe even productive - and maybe he could help us get Leach on board...

Leach is seen as a liberal Republican (he endorsed Obama in 2008) - BUT, he might be able to get some GOP'ers to Iowa City anyway... Here's my thinking on that... As Trump goes further & further, embarrassing his party (and himself) while forcing GOP candidates to distance themselves from him, Trump MAY be giving us an opening to attract GOP'ers who are seen as less-than-right-wing... I know that is counterintuitive - but you've got 15 candidates, and remember that non-Republicans can switch over and vote in the GOP caucus - which they might want to do to keep Trump or another crazy from being the GOP nominee...

From: Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>
Date: Monday, July 20, 2015 at 10:16 AM
To: "Snyder, Thomas" <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: TPA calls

Think it would make sense for him to reach out to D Taylor or Chris Shelton re: hillary

Could also lob TPA calls into Jim Kenney and Eric Garcetti

JDC-- Anyone else I'm not thinking of?

On Mon, Jul 20, 2015 at 10:02 AM, Snyder, Thomas <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
If Mayor has any free time today, who would you have him call?

Tom Snyder
Chief of Staff
Office of the Mayor

City Hall
New York, NY 10007
212-341-5050

--

Hayley Prim

c: [REDACTED]

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: "Hayley Prim"
Cc: John Del Ceccato \(jfdc@akpdmedia.com\)
Subject: RE: TPA calls
Date: Monday, July 20, 2015 10:57:30 AM

Hayley – could you write up a short call list with these names and also Loeb sack (from JDC’s message) and I will get to mayor in case opportunity arises.

From: Hayley Prim [mailto:hayley@progressiveagenda.us]
Sent: Monday, July 20, 2015 10:16 AM
To: Snyder, Thomas
Cc: John Del Ceccato (jfdc@akpdmedia.com)
Subject: Re: TPA calls

Think it would make sense for him to reach out to D Taylor or Chris Shelton re: hillary

Could also lob TPA calls into Jim Kenney and Eric Garcetti

JDC-- Anyone else I'm not thinking of?

On Mon, Jul 20, 2015 at 10:02 AM, Snyder, Thomas <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
If Mayor has any free time today, who would you have him call?

Tom Snyder
Chief of Staff
Office of the Mayor
City Hall
New York, NY 10007
212-341-5050

--

Hayley Prim

c:

From: John Del Cecato
To: Snyder, Thomas; Williams, Dominic
Subject: Re: NY Times: Bernie Sanders Presses Hillary Clinton on Her Views on Banks
Date: Monday, July 20, 2015 11:10:57 AM

Also FYI - Reich is for re-instituting...

My two cents: while it probably doesn't do much to solve the problem of Wall Street power run wild, there's a case to be made that it should be put back in place - and some of our progressive allies are supporting it...

And just a random fact - Jim Leach (who we may court to co-host our bipartisan presidential forum) was co-author of the legislation that repealed Glass-Steagall... I don't think that's really a consideration here - just noting

From: "Snyder, Thomas" <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Monday, July 20, 2015 at 11:00 AM
To: Dominic Williams <DWilliams@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: NY Times: Bernie Sanders Presses Hillary Clinton on Her Views on Banks

FWIW – I think Krugman opposed elimination of Glass Steagall; not sure if he thinks it could be returned. Also wonder what Stiglitz position is

From: B
Sent: Sunday, July 19, 2015 10:55 PM
To: Williams, Dominic
Cc: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Fw: NY Times: Bernie Sanders Presses Hillary Clinton on Her Views on Banks

Dom, in your opinion, what should my position be on Glass-Steagall, first as progressive leader and then as mayor of nyc. I want your undiluted view, then want to bring Tony and Alicia into the discussion. I think I can guess Alicia's view already, and suspect I'll disagree. I've cc'ed JDC and Tom S, who will help make sure we adjudicate this issue internally

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
Sent: Saturday, July 18, 2015 12:19 AM
To: B; FLONYC
Cc: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea; Hinton, Karen; Williams, Dominic
Subject: NY Times: Bernie Sanders Presses Hillary Clinton on Her Views on Banks

Bernie Sanders Presses Hillary Clinton on Her Views on Banks

By JONATHAN MARTIN
JULY 17, 2015

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa — Senator Bernie Sanders of Vermont edged closer on Friday to directly attacking Hillary Rodham Clinton, pointedly asking whether the Democratic presidential front-runner would support measures to break up the country's largest financial institutions and reinstate a firewall between commercial and investment banking.

Mr. Sanders, whose campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination has galvanized liberal activists driven by questions of economic fairness, highlighted his efforts to cut down the so-called too big to fail banks and restore Glass-Steagall, the Depression-era banking law repealed under President Bill Clinton. "You'll have to ask Hillary Clinton about her views on whether she thinks we should break up these large financial institutions. I do," Mr. Sanders, an independent, said at a news conference here. "You will have to ask her views on whether we should re-establish Glass-Steagall."

He boasted that he had not received financial contributions from Goldman Sachs, which he said sought "undue influence" in American politics, but stopped short of calling on Mrs. Clinton to reject the nearly $50,000 in donations she has received from employees of the Wall Street firm. "That's her decision," Mr. Sanders said, after pausing for a moment to consider the question.

Mr. Sanders spoke the afternoon before the Iowa Democratic Party's annual fund-raising dinner, the first event this year at which all of the party's five presidential candidates appeared together. Mrs. Clinton addressed her supporters at an early evening rally before the banquet, but trained her fire entirely on Republicans, making no mention, direct or implied, of Mr. Sanders.

The banquet illustrated the populist fervor coursing through the Democratic base, offering an explanation for Mr. Sanders' early success. Mrs. Clinton received ovations for her attacks on some of the Republican presidential hopefuls and gender-oriented appeals, but Mr. Sanders and Martin O'Malley, a former Maryland governor, found booming applause for their full-throated attacks on Wall Street and free-trade deals.

Asked whether Mrs. Clinton would seek to break up the country's largest banks or reinstate Glass-Steagall, an aide to Mrs. Clinton said she would speak in more detail about both issues in the coming weeks. (Alan Blinder, an economist who is advising Mrs. Clinton, said this week that she would not attempt to revive Glass-Steagall.)

While some leading Iowa Democrats believe that Mr. Sanders's rise will ultimately help Mrs. Clinton restrain expectations here, where she was defeated by Barack Obama in the 2008 caucuses, Mr. Sanders's growing support in the polls, vast base of small-dollar contributors and sizable crowds have prompted some of Mrs. Clinton's backers to make not-so-subtle comments about the importance of nominating a candidate who can capture the White House.

“We’ve got to nominate somebody that can win and Hillary is a winner,” Michael Fitzgerald, Iowa’s state treasurer, said at the Clinton rally.

“I don’t have a lot of time to mess around like I used to, I want to win,” said Dale Todd, a Democratic activist from Cedar Rapids, who also spoke before Mrs. Clinton took the stage.

Privately, Mrs. Clinton’s backers are blunter, dismissing the possibility that Mr. Sanders, a 73-year-old self-declared socialist, would be a viable general election candidate. Yet the sheer size of his crowds, in Iowa and beyond, is creating awkwardness for Mrs. Clinton.

She added the rally to her schedule, her campaign said, to give local supporters who had not purchased a ticket for the dinner a chance to see the former secretary of state. She has been doing more such large-scale events in part because they are crucial to organizing. To that end, every attendee was asked to sign a caucus commitment card upon entering the basement hall, one side of which was lined with a surefire crowd builder: boxes of free pizza.

These gatherings also, though, represent an effort to show that Mrs. Clinton is herself capable of luring big audiences. But the rally served to highlight her inability for now to attract crowds on the same scale as Mr. Sanders, whose Iowa events have drawn more people than any other presidential candidate has in either party. Mrs. Clinton drew a few hundred people to her event here — her campaign pegged it at 500 — while Mr. Sanders was met by about 2,500 at an event in Council Bluffs this month. The Vermont senator did not seek to compete with a head-to-head rally, but he joined a group of veterans Friday afternoon upstairs in the same building where Mrs. Clinton spoke.

Standing beneath a giant, Grant Wood-designed stained glass window honoring three centuries of American soldiers, Mr. Sanders recounted his work as chairman of the Senate Veterans’ Affairs Committee, solemnly recounting “the cost of war.” But he turned notably more energetic when he took questions about his campaign.

“I think that there is a growing frustration all over this country for establishment politics, for establishment economics,” he said before inveighing against what he called “a corrupt system.”

From: Hayley Prim
To: Snyder, Thomas
Cc: John Del Ceccato \(jfdc@akpdmedia.com\)
Subject: Re: Oregon
Date: Monday, July 20, 2015 11:38:57 AM

I reached out to her staffer on Friday last week and asked. he is going to get back to me this week with more info-- think she has plans to be in both NYC and DC in the next few months and will send me the specific dates.

On Mon, Jul 20, 2015 at 11:37 AM, Snyder, Thomas <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Not sure why, but B thought you could or would know if the Oregon governor Brown had any plans to be in DC in the near future. Is this anything you can find out?

Tom Snyder

Chief of Staff

Office of the Mayor

City Hall

New York, NY 10007

212-341-5050

--

Hayley Prim

c:

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: "John Del Cecato"; Hayley Prim
Subject: RE: meet?
Date: Monday, July 20, 2015 12:22:30 PM

Confirmed for 10:30am tomorrow.

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Monday, July 20, 2015 12:01 PM
To: Hayley Prim; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: meet?

Me too

From: Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>
Date: Monday, July 20, 2015 at 11:45 AM
To: "Snyder, Thomas" <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: meet?

That works for me

On Mon, Jul 20, 2015 at 11:29 AM, Snyder, Thomas <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
Can the three of us meet tomorrow at 10:30am?

Tom Snyder
Chief of Staff
Office of the Mayor
City Hall
New York, NY 10007
212-341-5050

--

Hayley Prim

c:

From: Yazgi, Stephanie
To: Shaikh, Michael; Schwartz, Regina
Cc: Klein, Monica; Hayley Prim; Sevillia, Max; Viguers, Jonathan; John Del Cecato; Snyder, Thomas; Walters, Alexis; Leopold, Elana; Abeywardena, Penny
Subject: RE: Religious leaders declaration
Date: Monday, July 20, 2015 12:30:21 PM
Attachments: 07-20-15 Rome Trip Background on Mayors w CUIA input.docx

Please use attached briefing here which more broadly reflects all of engagement on mayors organizing.
Thanks.

From: Shaikh, Michael
Sent: Monday, July 20, 2015 10:19 AM
To: Schwartz, Regina
Cc: Klein, Monica; Hayley Prim; Sevillia, Max; Viguers, Jonathan; John Del Cecato; Snyder, Thomas; Walters, Alexis; Leopold, Elana; Yazgi, Stephanie; Abeywardena, Penny
Subject: Re: Religious leaders declaration

+ Penny

Hi Hayley - Thanks a lot for doing this.

Mike

Michael Shaikh | Deputy Commissioner for Policy and Communications
NYC Mayor's Office for International Affairs
2 United Nations Plaza, 27th Floor, New York, NY 10017
p: (212) 319-9300 | nyc.gov/internationalaffairs | @GlobalNYC

On Jul 20, 2015, at 10:08 AM, Schwartz, Regina
<RSchwartz@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

+SY

From: Klein, Monica
Sent: Monday, July 20, 2015 10:07 AM
To: Hayley Prim; Shaikh, Michael
Cc: Schwartz, Regina; Sevillia, Max; Viguers, Jonathan; John Del Cecato; Snyder, Thomas; Walters, Alexis; Leopold, Elana
Subject: Re: Religious leaders declaration

+ Elana

Hayley – this isn't for a specific event, correct?

Monica Klein | Deputy Press Secretary | Mayor's Press Office
o: (212) 788-2969 | c: (917) 324-3297 | twitter: @monicacklein

From: Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>
Date: Monday, July 20, 2015 at 9:54 AM
To: "Shaikh, Michael" <mshaikh@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: "Schwartz, Regina" <RSchwartz@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Sevillia, Max" <msevillia@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Viguers, Jonathan" <JViguers@cityhall.nyc.gov>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, Thomas Snyder <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Monica Klein <mklein@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Walters, Alexis" <AWalters@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: Religious leaders declaration

Hi All--

Attached is background on the Mayors for the Rome trip. Let me know if you need anything else.

Also attached here is the TPA one-pager. Please make sure you print plenty of hard copies to have on hand.

Thanks,
Hayley

On Fri, Jul 17, 2015 at 5:39 PM, Shaikh, Michael <mshaikh@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
Thank you all for your help and incredibly quick responses. Mike

On Jul 17, 2015, at 17:29, Schwartz, Regina <RSchwartz@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Hayley and her team will also send over a short brief with the mayors that MBDB mentioned in the meeting so that is captured with some background and JV will also help with Mayors' background.

From: Hayley Prim [<mailto:hayley@progressiveagenda.us>]

Sent: Friday, July 17, 2015 5:26 PM

To: Schwartz, Regina

Cc: Shaikh, Michael; Sevillia, Max; Viguers, Jonathan

Subject: Re: Religious leaders declaration

Hi Michael--

Attached is the one-pager for The Progressive Agenda, which the Mayor requested copies of for the trip. Monica has this already, but you should become familiar with the content.

He is very well versed in all of these issues.

Let me know if you need anything else from us.

Thanks,
Hayley

On Fri, Jul 17, 2015 at 5:21 PM, Schwartz, Regina
<RSchwartz@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Michael!

Great to meet you!

MS is looking into the resos.

HP cc'ed will get you the TPA information.

JV cc'ed will also help her with Mayors backgrounders.

Thanks!

Gina

From: Shaikh, Michael
Sent: Friday, July 17, 2015 5:14 PM
To: Sevilla, Max; Schwartz, Regina
Subject: Religious leaders declaration

Hi Regina and Max -

First off: Max, thanks for your help this afternoon on the Vatican declaration, and Regina, very nice meeting you today.

That said, a couple things came out of our meeting with the Mayor re the Vatican trip that we should be connecting over.

1. I am sharing the link to a second declaration that the Vatican will be asking the Mayors to sign. It's a doc that has been historically signed by religious leaders but now they want mayors to support it.

Here it is:

<http://www.endslavery.va/content/endslavery/en/events/declaration/signed.html>

Max, could I ask you to check if other US mayors will sign this too? We'll need to have clarity on this by Monday afternoon.

2. This next one is kind of an amorphous request, I admit. But Penny and Monica will be the only people traveling with the Mayor. I have a feeling the Mayor will be relying on PA (and to some extent Monica) to provide him with answers etc re US mayors he'll be interacting with in Italy. Could I kindly ask you to send me any info that they may need to answer his questions. In particular, I am thinking in relation to the mayors of Portland, Birmingham and Boulder, our mayor may engage on TPA stuff.

That's it. I really appreciate the help.

Take care, and let me know what I can do make your lives easier.

Mike

--

Hayley Prim

c: [REDACTED]

--

Hayley Prim

c: [REDACTED]

Event/Meeting Briefing Information

Staff Contact/Planning Lead: TBD

EVENT: Interaction with Mayors on Rome Trip

MISSION/GOAL: Ask Mayors to sign onto TPA

DAY/DATE: Monday, July 20, 2015- Wednesday, July 22, 2015

BACKGROUND ON MAYORS

Tier 1

Mayor Charlie Hales (Portland)

- In March 2014, the City of Portland became the 4th city in the U.S. to mandate Paid Sick Leave
- In February 2015, the City of Portland raised it's minimum wage to $15/hour
- Just last week, after POTUS visit to federal prison, announced expansion of Mayor's community center initiative, investing in education, and after school to help keep kids out of trouble.
- Mayor Hales is a member of the Cities of Opportunity Task Force. He joined July's letter on transportation funding, the UPK and minimum wage letters, and participated in both transportation days of action.
- Cities United for Immigration Action member; participated in the first and second amicus briefs we filed in support of the president's Executive Action

Mayor Marty Walsh (Boston)

- Mayor Walsh applauded Gov. Patrick when he raised Massachusetts minimum wage to $11/hour by 2017
- Announced plan to double those enrolled in pre-k program in Boston by 2018
- On May 18, 2015 Mayor Walsh signed an ordinance establishing paid parental leave for City of Boston employees, Boston's first-ever Paid Parental Leave policy.
- Statewide paid sick time requirement when into effect on July 1, 2015, and is being calling one of the strongest paid sick laws in the nation, covering covering approximately 1 million workers who were not currently eligible for paid sick time in their jobs.

- Mayor Walsh is the co-chair of the Cities of Opportunity Task Force. He joined July's letter on transportation funding, the UPK and minimum wage letters, and participated in both transportation days of action.
- Cities United for Immigration Action member; staffer attended December Summit in NYC; participated in the first and second amicus briefs we filed in support of the president's Executive Action; staffer participated in Municipal ID conference, participated in February 18 & April 17 national days of action

Mayor Mitch Landrieu (New Orleans)

- In August 2014 Mayor Landrieu raised city employee's minimum wage to $10.10/hour, and is working to broaden this for low-wage workers carrying out contract for the city of New Orleans. He has also been vocal on supporting President Obama's call to Congress to raise the national minimum wage to $10.10 per hour
- In December 2014, the City of New Orleans' Civil Service Commission approved rules that will create a new category of leave for employees during the childbirth and adoption process. The new "Parental Leave," as part of Mayor Landrieu's Great Place to Work Initiative, grants additional weeks of paid leave on top of the employee's accumulated sick and annual leave.
- Mayor Landrieu is the Second Vice President of USCM and member of the Cities of Opportunity Task Force. He joined July's letter on transportation funding, the UPK and minimum wage letters, and participated in both transportation days of action.
- Cities United for Immigration Action member; attended December Summit in NYC; participated in the first and second amicus briefs we filed in support of the president's Executive Action; staffers partnered with NYC on Municipal ID conference; participated in February 18 & April 17 national days of action; hosted national convening of Immigrant Affairs Offices on June 18-19.

Mayor Edwin Lee (San Francisco)

- In November 2014, San Francisco voted to raise the minimum wage to $15/hour by 2018
- In January 2015 Mayor Lee announced investment to make pre-k universal for all four year olds over next 5 years

- Mayor Lee also announced universal afterschool and summer programming for all K-through-8 students, regardless of income by end of 2015
- In 2007, passed paid sick leave ordinance
- Mayor Lee is a member of USCM and the Cities of Opportunity Task Force. He has not joined July's letter on transportation funding. He joined the UPK and minimum wage letters, and participated in May's transportation lobby day.

Tier 2

Mayor Matthew Applebaum (Boulder)

- Mayor Applebaum is not a member of USCM. He has not participated in any of our mayoral initiatives
- Matt serves on two committees of the National League of Cities, as vice-chair of the Energy, Environmental, and Natural Resources Committee; and as vice-chair of the CityFutures Panel on Community and Regional Development

Mayor William Bell (Birmingham)

- Mayor Bell is a member of USCM's Advisory Board. He joined July's letter on transportation funding and participated in May's transportation lobby day.
- Mayor Bell's legislative priority include neighborhood redevelopment, and local education

Mayor Samuel Liccardo (San Jose)

- Mayor Sam Liccardo launches an Initiative Aimed at Closing the K – 3rd Grade Achievement Gap through Extended Learning After the School Day
- Mayor Liccardo is a member of USCM. He joined July's letter on transportation funding and both transportation days of action.
- Mayor Liccardo's legislative priorities include public safety, restoring vital city services, and improving education
- Cities United for Immigration Action member; participated in the second amicus brief we filed in support of the president's Executive Action

Other Mayors attending

Mayor Betsy Hodges (Minneapolis)-- Mayor Hodges was one of the original signers of The Progressive Agenda prior to the May 12, 2015 launch; Cities United for Immigration Action member; participated in the first and second amicus briefs we filed in support of the president's Executive Action

Mayor Ed Murray (Seattle)-- Mayor Murray was one of the original signers of The Progressive Agenda prior to the May 12, 2015 launch; Cities United for Immigration Action member; participated in the first and second amicus briefs we filed in support of the president's Executive Action; participated in February 18 & April 17 national days of action

From: Klein, Monica
To: Yazgi, Stephanie; Shaikh, Michael; Schwartz, Regina
Cc: Hayley Prim; Sevillia, Max; Viguers, Jonathan; John Del Cecato; Snyder, Thomas; Walters, Alexis; Leopold, Elana; Abeywardena, Penny
Subject: RE: Religious leaders declaration
Date: Monday, July 20, 2015 12:50:01 PM

Ok ty

Monica Klein |Deputy Press Secretary |Mayor's Press Office
o: (212) 788-2969 |c: (917) 324-3297 | twitter: @monicacklein

From: Yazgi, Stephanie
Sent: Monday, July 20, 2015 12:30 PM
To: Shaikh, Michael; Schwartz, Regina
Cc: Klein, Monica; Hayley Prim; Sevillia, Max; Viguers, Jonathan; John Del Cecato; Snyder, Thomas; Walters, Alexis; Leopold, Elana; Abeywardena, Penny
Subject: RE: Religious leaders declaration

Please use attached briefing here which more broadly reflects all of engagement on mayors organizing.
Thanks.

From: Shaikh, Michael
Sent: Monday, July 20, 2015 10:19 AM
To: Schwartz, Regina
Cc: Klein, Monica; Hayley Prim; Sevillia, Max; Viguers, Jonathan; John Del Cecato; Snyder, Thomas; Walters, Alexis; Leopold, Elana; Yazgi, Stephanie; Abeywardena, Penny
Subject: Re: Religious leaders declaration

+ Penny

Hi Hayley - Thanks a lot for doing this.

Mike

Michael Shaikh | Deputy Commissioner for Policy and Communications
NYC Mayor's Office for International Affairs
2 United Nations Plaza, 27th Floor, New York, NY 10017
p: (212) 319-9300 | nyc.gov/internationalaffairs | @GlobalNYC

On Jul 20, 2015, at 10:08 AM, Schwartz, Regina
<RSchwartz@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

+SY

From: Klein, Monica
Sent: Monday, July 20, 2015 10:07 AM

To: Hayley Prim; Shaikh, Michael
Cc: Schwartz, Regina; Sevilla, Max; Viguers, Jonathan; John Del Cecato; Snyder, Thomas; Walters, Alexis; Leopold, Elana
Subject: Re: Religious leaders declaration

+ Elana

Hayley – this isn't for a specific event, correct?

Monica Klein | Deputy Press Secretary | Mayor's Press Office
o: (212) 788-2969 | c: (917) 324-3297 | twitter: @monicacklein

From: Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>
Date: Monday, July 20, 2015 at 9:54 AM
To: "Shaikh, Michael" <mshaikh@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: "Schwartz, Regina" <RSchwartz@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Sevillia, Max" <msevillia@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Viguers, Jonathan" <JViguers@cityhall.nyc.gov>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, Thomas Snyder <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Monica Klein <mklein@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Walters, Alexis" <AWalters@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: Religious leaders declaration

Hi All--

Attached is background on the Mayors for the Rome trip. Let me know if you need anything else.

Also attached here is the TPA one-pager. Please make sure you print plenty of hard copies to have on hand.

Thanks,
Hayley

On Fri, Jul 17, 2015 at 5:39 PM, Shaikh, Michael <mshaikh@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
Thank you all for your help and incredibly quick responses. Mike

On Jul 17, 2015, at 17:29, Schwartz, Regina <RSchwartz@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Hayley and her team will also send over a short brief with the mayors that MBDB mentioned in the meeting so that is captured with some background and JV will also help with Mayors' background.

From: Hayley Prim [<mailto:hayley@progressiveagenda.us>]

Sent: Friday, July 17, 2015 5:26 PM

To: Schwartz, Regina

Cc: Shaikh, Michael; Sevilla, Max; Viguers, Jonathan

Subject: Re: Religious leaders declaration

Hi Michael--

Attached is the one-pager for The Progressive Agenda, which the Mayor requested copies of for the trip. Monica has this already, but you should become familiar with the content.

He is very well versed in all of these issues.

Let me know if you need anything else from us.

Thanks,
Hayley

On Fri, Jul 17, 2015 at 5:21 PM, Schwartz, Regina
<RSchwartz@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Michael!

Great to meet you!

MS is looking into the resos.

HP cc'ed will get you the TPA information.

JV cc'ed will also help her with Mayors backgrounders.

Thanks!
Gina

From: Shaikh, Michael
Sent: Friday, July 17, 2015 5:14 PM
To: Sevilla, Max; Schwartz, Regina
Subject: Religious leaders declaration

Hi Regina and Max -

First off: Max, thanks for your help this afternoon on the Vatican declaration, and Regina, very nice meeting you today.

That said, a couple things came out of our meeting with the Mayor re the Vatican trip that we should be connecting over.

1. I am sharing the link to a second declaration that the Vatican will be asking the Mayors to sign. It's a doc that has been historically signed by religious leaders but now they want mayors to support it.

Here it is:

<http://www.endslavery.va/content/endslavery/en/events/declaration/signed.html>

Max, could I ask you to check if other US mayors will sign this too? We'll need to have clarity on this by Monday afternoon.

2. This next one is kind of an amorphous request, I admit. But Penny and Monica will be the only people traveling with the Mayor.

I have a feeling the Mayor will be relying on PA (and to some extent Monica) to provide him with answers etc re US mayors he'll be interacting with in Italy. Could I kindly ask you to send me any info that they may need to answer his questions. In particular, I am thinking in relation to the mayors of Portland, Birmingham and Boulder, our mayor may engage on TPA stuff.

That's it. I really appreciate the help.

Take care, and let me know what I can do make your lives easier.

Mike

--

Hayley Prim

c: [REDACTED]

--

Hayley Prim

c: [REDACTED]

From: Leopold, Elana
To: John Del Cecato; Prim, Hayley
Cc: Scott, Ryder
Subject: Mayor Slay
Date: Monday, July 20, 2015 1:13:47 PM

Fyi cell is [REDACTED]

Ryder- for database project!

Sent from my iPhone

From: John Del Cecato
To: Snyder, Thomas; Hayley Primm \(hayley@progressiveagenda.us\)
Cc: Leopold, Elana
Subject: Re: Need a Loeb sack number asap
Date: Monday, July 20, 2015 1:46:04 PM

From: "Snyder, Thomas" <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Monday, July 20, 2015 at 1:43 PM
To: Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: "Leopold, Elana" <ELeopold@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Need a Loeb sack number asap

Tom Snyder
Chief of Staff
Office of the Mayor
City Hall
New York, NY 10007
212-341-5050

From: Leopold, Elana
To: Thornton, Demetrius; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: RE: Can you help me?
Date: Monday, July 20, 2015 1:53:56 PM

Gil- he is there

Thanks

From: Thornton, Demetrius
Sent: Monday, July 20, 2015 1:51 PM
To: Leopold, Elana; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'
Subject: Re: Can you help me?

Chirlane working on it but it will be a few mins.

Who from detail will pick up?

From: Thornton, Demetrius
Sent: Monday, July 20, 2015 01:46 PM
To: Leopold, Elana; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: Can you help me?

Ok, let me see about getting passport...standby

From: Leopold, Elana
Sent: Monday, July 20, 2015 1:46 PM
To: Thornton, Demetrius; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'
Subject: RE: Can you help me?

Set to leave CH at 2

Needs to be at airport by 3:30

From: Thornton, Demetrius
Sent: Monday, July 20, 2015 1:38 PM
To: Leopold, Elana; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'
Subject: Re: Can you help me?

I'm here, Chirlane is hosting a lunch.

What's the timeline that you need passport? What time is he set to leave?

From: Leopold, Elana
Sent: Monday, July 20, 2015 01:33 PM
To: John Del Cecato (jfdc@akpdmedia.com) <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Thornton, Demetrius
Subject: Can you help me?

Hi!

Detail wants to come and get Mayor's passport so they can check him in prior to his arrival to the airport. Are either one of you there? Possible to ask Chirlane? Thanks!

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
To: John Del Cecato; Walzak, Phil; Snyder, Thomas; Hayley Prim
Subject: RE: WSJ: Clinton to Push Revamp of Capital-Gains Tax Rates
Date: Monday, July 20, 2015 3:53:40 PM

Brian Fallon @brianefallon 33s33 seconds ago

In Facebook Q&A, Clinton calls for higher awards for Wall Street whistleblowers to help @TheJusticeDept prosecute financial fraud

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
Sent: Monday, July 20, 2015 3:43 PM
To: John Del Cecato; Walzak, Phil; Snyder, Thomas; Hayley Prim
Subject: RE: WSJ: Clinton to Push Revamp of Capital-Gains Tax Rates

Ian Sams @IanSams 2m2 minutes ago

Ahead of Dodd-Frank's 5th birthday tomorrow, @HillaryClinton spells out more of her ideas for reforming Wall Street.

Korinayo Thompson Hello Hillary! You discussed accountability on Wall Street in last week's speech. It seems like we're constantly seeing stories in the news about misconduct on Wall Street, but no one is ever held accountable. What would you do to change it?

👍 1 · Like · Reply · 52 mins · Edited

Hillary Clinton 🌐 A good - and timely - question. Tomorrow is the 5th anniversary of Dodd-Frank - the law passed to deal with the problems on Wall Street that led to the financial crisis. It's been under constant attack from Republicans in Congress ever since. As president, I'll defend Dodd-Frank - and I'll go beyond. You're right - we have work to do to enhance accountability. We've all heard the shocking stories of misconduct by individuals and institutions in the financial industry. And even though some institutions have paid fines and even admitted guilt, too often it seems like the people responsible get off with limited consequences (or none at all). Even when they've already pocketed the gains. That's wrong and it has to change. Last week, I pledged to prosecute individuals as well as firms when they commit fraud or other criminal wrongdoing - because no one is "too big to jail." I'll be laying out my Wall Street agenda in more detail soon. But here are three more examples of the kinds of things we can do: 1 - Appoint and empower tough, independent-minded regulators and give them the resources they need to do their jobs. 2 - Make sure that good people have real incentives to come forward and report illegal activity by raising the whistleblower caps so they're actually effective. 3 - Make sure that when corporations pay fines to the government for wrongdoing, those fines cut into the bonuses of the executives who should have been accountable or should have caught the problem. Give people a reason to improve the culture of their firms. You'll hear more about these proposals in the next few weeks so stay tuned! -H

👍 1 · Like · 1 min

RETWEET 1

3:38 PM - 20 Jul 2015 · Details

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
Sent: Monday, July 20, 2015 9:40 AM
To: John Del Cecato; Walzak, Phil; Snyder, Thomas; Hayley Prim
Subject: Fwd: WSJ: Clinton to Push Revamp of Capital-Gains Tax Rates

Sent from my iPhone

Begin forwarded message:

From: "McGinn, Isaac" <IMcGinn@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: July 20, 2015 at 9:16:47 AM EDT
To: "Gunaratna, Mahen" <MGunaratna@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: WSJ: Clinton to Push Revamp of Capital-Gains Tax Rates

Clinton to Push Revamp of Capital-Gains Tax Rates

WSJ - Laura Meckler, John McKinnon

<http://www.wsj.com/articles/clinton-to-push-revamp-of-capital-gains-tax-rates-1437365173>

WASHINGTON—Hillary Clinton will propose a revamp of capital-gains taxes that would hit some short-term investors with higher rates, part of a package of measures designed to prod companies to put more emphasis on long-term growth, a campaign official said.

The proposal, to be laid out in a speech later this week, is one of a number of ideas designed to tackle what Mrs. Clinton, some economists and some on Wall Street consider the overly short-term focus of corporate strategy. Other topics will include the risks and benefits of shareholder activism and the role of executive compensation.

At the center is Mrs. Clinton's proposal to change capital-gains tax rates, the details of which are being finalized. The Democratic presidential candidate's plan would create a sliding scale with at least three new rates that change depending on how long an investment is held, the official said.

Investments held for less than a year would continue to be taxed at regular income-tax rates, which can top out at 39.6% or more for the highest earners. For those held just a little longer—likely two or three years—the current capital-gains tax rate of 23.8% for top earners would rise. The Clinton rate, which hasn't been finalized, would be higher than the 28% President Barack Obama proposed earlier this year for the highest earners. The Clinton campaign hasn't ruled out taxing such investments at the regular income-tax rate.

The plan would include additional rates tied to the length that an investment is held, with the lowest rates for investments held the longest.

Under current law, the capital-gains rate for investments held for at least a year is 15% for middle-income investors, and people with the lowest incomes pay no tax on capital gains.

The former senator and secretary of state is diving into an area of significant debate about which policy steps could or should be taken to discourage what Mrs. Clinton calls "quarterly capitalism," meaning overly focused on the next earnings report.

Some economists and many Republicans argue there is little the government can do to change corporate behavior. GOP presidential contenders by and large want to go in the opposite direction by eliminating taxes on investment income or at least reducing them.

Activist investors, who generally take positions in stocks and then push for changes they believe would boost share prices, have in the past few years gained more influence and won more battles with larger companies. These investors, such as Nelson Peltz at Trian Fund Management LP and William Ackman at Pershing Square Capital Management LP, say they hold weak corporate managers accountable and help lift share prices for all holders.

Detractors, including Laurence Fink, chief executive at money manager BlackRock Inc., and Martin Lipton, a leading corporate-defense lawyer, say the typical activist wish list, including share buybacks, dividends and corporate breakups, diverts cash from long-term investments in plants or people to appease investors who want to sell out quickly.

Mrs. Clinton's speech represents part of her effort to distinguish herself on economic policy from GOP candidates, who focus largely on growth, and her Democratic primary challengers who focus on income inequality and are pushing ideas that are popular with the liberal base, such as breaking up large banks. Wall Street regulation and inequality are topics Mrs. Clinton plans to address separately in coming weeks.

Foreshadowing this week's announcement, Mrs. Clinton last week promised to propose "reforms to help CEOs and shareholders alike to focus on the next decade rather than just the next day." This week, Mrs. Clinton will expand on that theme, arguing that companies that invest in their workers and focus on long-term growth are better positioned to succeed, the campaign official said.

Mrs. Clinton also plans to discuss the pros and cons of shareholder activism and call for steps to address "hit-and-run" activists she argues contribute to short-term planning. Still, the campaign official said, she believes that some activism is good in that it holds managers accountable.

Mrs. Clinton will also discuss the dramatic increase in companies' repurchasing their shares, as well as ways to promote long-term considerations in setting executive compensations.

The campaign didn't estimate how much in additional taxes the proposal would raise. The official said the primary goal is to change behavior, not increase revenue.

U.S. companies in the S&P 500 index spent a median 36% of operating cash flow in 2013 on their buybacks and dividends, moves designed to deliver gains to current shareholders, compared with 18% in 2003. Over that same period, those companies cut spending on plants and equipment to 29% of operating cash flow, from 33% in 2003, according to S&P Capital IQ. When the companies have an activist shareholder, the changes are even sharper, the data show.

Those who back the kinds of changes Mrs. Clinton will propose say current tax rules for investment income are a little-noticed part of the problem. Low tax rates on capital gains and dividends, along with a relatively short one-year holding period to qualify for capital-gains treatment, encourage companies to return more profits to shareholders as opposed to investing in long-term growth.

In a recent paper, Clinton adviser Neera Tanden wrote that activist investors are hurting some companies' capital investments. Company spending on buybacks and dividends surges in the five years after shareholders start putting pressure on a company, and capital investments fall, she wrote in a paper for the Center for American Progress, where she is president, along with Blair Effron of Centerview Partners.

Ms. Tanden suggested a sliding scale for capital-gains tax rates, where the longer an investor holds the asset, the lower the rate. Mr. Fink of BlackRock has suggested a similar scale, with a three-year holding period for basic capital-gains treatment, among other changes. Mrs. Clinton appears to be adopting a version of their idea.

It is a matter of debate whether such changes would make much difference to how companies operate. In practice, many corporate shares are held by tax-exempt entities such as pension funds that are largely indifferent to tax changes.

Douglas Holtz-Eakin, a Republican economist, noted in an interview the tax code already requires investments to be held for a year and is skeptical increasing the time period would make much difference. Managers are more swayed by changes to taxes and regulations relating to their core business, not the tax rate paid by investors.

“My gut instinct is this is going to sound good but it’s not going to change very much. It’s just not that powerful,” he said.

U.S. tax law has had multiple holding periods and rates for capital gains in the past. President Bill Clinton signed a law in 1997 that would have created a special low rate for assets held at least five years. That system was eliminated as part of the tax breaks adopted under his successor, President George W. Bush.

Many Republicans running for president want to reduce or eliminate taxes held on investments. Among the arguments: They are a form of double taxation, where the income is taxed first at the company level and then again when it is returned to shareholders.

From: John Del Cecato
To: Hayley Prim; Snyder, Thomas; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Subject: Re: Kindergarten vs Hedgefund Screening
Date: Monday, July 20, 2015 4:07:40 PM

Correct on the time...

From: Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>
Date: Monday, July 20, 2015 at 4:05 PM
To: Thomas Snyder <tsnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca" <PSalazar-Rodriguez@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Kindergarten vs Hedgefund Screening

Hi all,

We are moving forward on the Kindergarten vs Hedgefund screening with Robert Greenwald.

Prisca, could we do the screening at 7:30pm on September 10-- I think hold 7:15pm - 8:45 total for the evening just to be safe... Right JDC?

Tom,

We are going to screen this at Pace University, right by City Hall. They are asking for who will be the signer on the certificate of insurance. Would we list the City of New York as the signer?

--

Hayley Prim

c:

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
To: "Hayley Prim"; Snyder, Thomas
Cc: John Del Cecato
Subject: RE: Kindergarten vs Hedgefund Screening
Date: Monday, July 20, 2015 4:10:05 PM

I can hold 730pm he has Late Night with Seth Meyers at 30 Rock from 6-7pm

From: Hayley Prim [mailto:hayley@progressiveagenda.us]
Sent: Monday, July 20, 2015 4:05 PM
To: Snyder, Thomas; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Cc: John Del Cecato
Subject: Kindergarten vs Hedgefund Screening

Hi all,

We are moving forward on the Kindergarten vs Hedgefunders screening with Robert Greenwald.

Prisca, could we do the screening at 7:30pm on September 10-- I think hold 7:15pm - 8:45 total for the evening just to be safe... Right JDC?

Tom,

We are going to screen this at Pace University, right by City Hall. They are asking for who will be the signer on the certificate of insurance. Would we list the City of New York as the signer?

--

Hayley Prim

c:

From: B
To: Snyder, Thomas; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; "hayley@progressiveagenda.us"; Williams, Dominic
Cc: FLONYC
Subject: Fw: Just talked to the Senator
Date: Tuesday, July 21, 2015 1:18:31 AM

Finally got to read this email from Senator Jeff Merkley -- it's really exceptional, and very helpful for my next discussion with Hillary and/or her team. My focus will be of course on income inequality and trade as a part of addressing it. But I really appreciate his straight-forward demand that she speak boldly and plainly to such urgent matters -- obviously including climate change

-----Original Message-----

From: Senator Jeff Merkley
To: Bill de Blasio
Subject: Re: Just talked to the Senator
Sent: Jul 14, 2015 5:39 PM

Bill-

It was a pleasure to speak last night.

I'm sending you specific policy points on both global warming and TPP. Her comments in both areas to date are lacking any policy substance.

By the way, Hillary attended our caucus today; I asked her to get more specific on changes needed in TPP and that that would help produce a better agreement while changes can still be made. She responded that she would look at suggestions and I provided a list to John Podesta similar to the TPP points below.

All my best, Jeff Merkley

Global Warming:

Hillary says that we need more subsidies for renewable energy and more conservation. This is a starting point, but far from serious leadership. Here are several things she should say if she wants to lead on the most pressing issue threatening our planet:

- 1) We need to keep 80% of identified fossil fuels in the ground if we are going to save the planet. To do so will take serious leadership and I am ready to be that leader.
- 2) I will oppose any pipeline designed to accelerate the harvesting of the Canadian tar sands.
- 3) I will block oil drilling in the Arctic.
- 4) We must stop issuing new leases for drilling offshore for gas and oil.

5) I will oppose new leases for exploiting coal on public lands

6) We must tackle key issues caused by fracking including the contamination of ground water and the production of fugitive methane. I will champion these reforms.

7) "All of the above" is the wrong policy for our energy future. We must quickly and substantially reduce the burning of fossil fuels. Under my leadership, America will lead the world in this transition.

NOTE: I am planning to introduce a bill that would be based on Bill McKibben's recent letter to President Obama, outlining four specific actions (items 2-5 above) he should take on climate keep fossil fuel reserves in the ground: McKibben also did a public letter to Clinton reiterating these points and adding in a few more.

TPP:

At a meeting with the Senate Democratic caucus last week, President Obama that he has listened carefully to concerns raised by Ds during the Fast Track debate and that we might be pleasantly surprised by additional efforts he is making.

Clinton has said to date only that more work needs to be done. But she has given no specifics. She could make a big difference in the final stage of the negotiations if she presented several key areas that need to be addressed before a final agreement is presented to Congress.

Here are 8 items from which she could draw:

1. Investor State Dispute Settlement (ISDS): Exempt laws that protect consumers, public health, or the environment from being challenged in the Investor State Dispute Settlement (ISDS) process. (or, alternatively, make adoption of the ISDS an "opt in" option for members of the TPP).
2. Currency Manipulation: Strengthen provisions cracking down on currency manipulation. Currency manipulation has cost American manufacturers and American jobs by essentially acting as an invisible tariff on U.S.-made products and an invisible subsidy for products made in nations that engage in currency manipulation.
3. Making Environmental and Labor Provisions Enforceable: Require countries to conform their laws to a higher standard and implement those laws for 18-24 months before entering into the treaty
4. Minimum Wage: Mandate a minimum wage that must be matched or exceeded by all participating countries and which must rise over time to narrow the wage gap between developed and developing countries. This would s will help prevent a global race to bottom on wages.
5. Intellectual Property/Generic Drugs: Do not extend intellectual property protections for certain pharmaceutical products in a way that will make it harder to get generic drugs onto the market and otherwise get affordable medication to developing countries. These kinds of special-interest provisions should be excluded from the TPP.

6. Human Rights: Require Malaysia and other potential members to address current serious issues with human trafficking and other human rights violations. We should not be engaging in a major expansion of trade relations with nations that are maintaining gross labor violations. Oppose an effort to downgrade Malaysia's rating on human rights merely so Malaysia can join the TPP.

7. Financial Services: Prevent future administrations from using new trade agreements to weaken Dodd-Frank or other financial regulations and consumer protections. Big banks and European nations are pushing to weaken U.S. financial regulations, such as tougher capital standards for big banks enacted in the wake of the 2008 financial meltdown, in an upcoming round of TTIP trade talks.

8. Manufacturing: Strengthen U.S. manufacturing by making countervailing duty and anti-dumping claims against foreign companies easier to bring and to resolve successfully, helping to level the playing field for American manufacturers in international trade. Moreover, allow companies to pursue anti-dumping claims by counting as illegal subsidies violations of the TPP's labor and environmental standards.

On Mon, Jul 13, 2015 at 7:37 PM, Bill de Blasio <[REDACTED]> wrote:

He agreed to send me some thoughts on the TPP and I wanted him to have my email. Thanks! Bill de Blasio

Sent via BlackBerry by AT&T

From: Hayley Prim
To: B
Cc: Snyder, Thomas; jfdc@akpdmedia.com; Williams, Dominic; FLONYC
Subject: Re: Fw: Just talked to the Senator
Date: Tuesday, July 21, 2015 1:20:30 AM

Definitely-- and I will find a time when he is in NY or DC to get you two together

On Tuesday, July 21, 2015, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Finally got to read this email from Senator Jeff Merkley -- it's really exceptional, and very helpful for my next discussion with Hillary and/or her team. My focus will be of course on income inequality and trade as a part of addressing it. But I really appreciate his straight-forward demand that she speak boldly and plainly to such urgent matters -- obviously including climate change

-----Original Message-----

From: Senator Jeff Merkley
To: Bill de Blasio
Subject: Re: Just talked to the Senator
Sent: Jul 14, 2015 5:39 PM

Bill-

It was a pleasure to speak last night.

I'm sending you specific policy points on both global warming and TPP. Her comments in both areas to date are lacking any policy substance.

By the way, Hillary attended our caucus today; I asked her to get more specific on changes needed in TPP and that that would help produce a better agreement while changes can still be made. She responded that she would look at suggestions and I provided a list to John Podesta similar to the TPP points below.

All my best, Jeff Merkley

Global Warming:

Hillary says that we need more subsidies for renewable energy and more conservation. This is a starting point, but far from serious leadership. Here are several things she should say if she wants to lead on the most pressing issue threatening our planet:

1) We need to keep 80% of identified fossil fuels in the ground if we are going to save the planet. To do so will take serious leadership and I am ready to be that leader.

- 2) I will oppose any pipeline designed to accelerate the harvesting of the Canadian tar sands.
- 3) I will block oil drilling in the Arctic.
- 4) We must stop issuing new leases for drilling offshore for gas and oil.
- 5) I will oppose new leases for exploiting coal on public lands
- 6) We must tackle key issues caused by fracking including the contamination of ground water and the production of fugitive methane. I will champion these reforms.
- 7) "All of the above" is the wrong policy for our energy future. We must quickly and substantially reduce the burning of fossil fuels. Under my leadership, America will lead the world in this transition.

NOTE: I am planning to introduce a bill that would be based on Bill McKibben's recent letter to President Obama, outlining four specific actions (items 2-5 above) he should take on climate keep fossil fuel reserves in the ground: McKibben also did a public letter to Clinton reiterating these points and adding in a few more.

TPP:

At a meeting with the Senate Democratic caucus last week, President Obama that he has listened carefully to concerns raised by Ds during the Fast Track debate and that we might be pleasantly surprised by additional efforts he is making.

Clinton has said to date only that more work needs to be done. But she has given no specifics. She could make a big difference in the final stage of the negotiations if she presented several key areas that need to be addressed before a final agreement is presented to Congress.

Here are 8 items from which she could draw:

1. Investor State Dispute Settlement (ISDS): Exempt laws that protect consumers, public health, or the environment from being challenged in the Investor State Dispute Settlement (ISDS) process. (or, alternatively, make adoption of the ISDS an "opt in" option for members of the TPP).

2. Currency Manipulation: Strengthen provisions cracking down on currency manipulation. Currency manipulation has cost American manufacturers and American jobs by essentially acting as an invisible tariff on U.S.-made products and an invisible subsidy for products made in nations that engage in currency manipulation.
3. Making Environmental and Labor Provisions Enforceable: Require countries to conform their laws to a higher standard and implement those laws for 18-24 months before entering into the treaty
4. Minimum Wage: Mandate a minimum wage that must be matched or exceeded by all participating countries and which must rise over time to narrow the wage gap between developed and developing countries. This would help prevent a global race to bottom on wages.
5. Intellectual Property/Generic Drugs: Do not extend intellectual property protections for certain pharmaceutical products in a way that will make it harder to get generic drugs onto the market and otherwise get affordable medication to developing countries. These kinds of special-interest provisions should be excluded from the TPP.
6. Human Rights: Require Malaysia and other potential members to address current serious issues with human trafficking and other human rights violations. We should not be engaging in a major expansion of trade relations with nations that are maintaining gross labor violations. Oppose an effort to downgrade Malaysia's rating on human rights merely so Malaysia can join the TPP.
7. Financial Services: Prevent future administrations from using new trade agreements to weaken Dodd-Frank or other financial regulations and consumer protections. Big banks and European nations are pushing to weaken U.S. financial regulations, such as tougher capital standards for big banks enacted in the wake of the 2008 financial meltdown, in an upcoming round of TTIP trade talks.
8. Manufacturing: Strengthen U.S. manufacturing by making countervailing duty and anti-dumping claims against foreign companies easier to bring and to resolve successfully, helping to level the playing field for American manufacturers in international trade. Moreover, allow companies to pursue anti-dumping claims by counting as illegal subsidies violations of the TPP's labor and environmental standards.

On Mon, Jul 13, 2015 at 7:37 PM, Bill de Blasio <[REDACTED]>
wrote:

He agreed to send me some thoughts on the TPP and I wanted him to have my email. Thanks! Bill de Blasio

Sent via BlackBerry by AT&T

--

Hayley Prim

c: [REDACTED]

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
To: John Del Cecato
Subject: Fwd: ELLE: I AM NOT MY HAIR
Date: Tuesday, July 21, 2015 7:31:55 AM

Sent from my iPhone

Begin forwarded message:

From: Clips <Clips@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: July 21, 2015 at 7:18:08 AM EDT
Subject: ELLE: I AM NOT MY HAIR

I AM NOT MY HAIR

ELLE - Taiye Selasi

<http://www.elle.com/beauty/hair/news/a29377/i-am-not-my-hair/>

Recently my best friend, Heather McGhee—the president of public-policy think tank Demos—met with Chirlane McCray, the first lady of New York City. There was, for Heather and me, a special thrill in seeing the photographs, which showed not one but two powerful women with brown skin—and natural hair.

Heather and I, besties for life, have accompanied each other on our hair journeys: hers from braids to 'fro to locs, mine from caring to not, and back. Our story has a happy ending—natural hair flowing freely in the halls of power!—but a decidedly more painful beginning.

The daughter of a Nigerian pediatrician and a Ghanaian surgeon, I grew up in Chestnut Hill, a lily-white suburb of Boston. And of all the ways I didn't fit in—a brown immigrant among blond Americans—nothing caused me more anguish than my hair. My friends tucked their hair behind their ears. They twirled their hair into messy buns. They tossed their ponytails over their shoulders. They let their hair air-dry. Everything that was right and good and effortlessly beautiful was embodied in that simple act: leaving home with wet hair.

I could neither tuck nor twirl. My Afro puff would not be tossed. I couldn't trust the elements (wind, rain, humidity) to do with my hair as they pleased. All of this I recounted often in adulthood, but laughingly—describing the affliction with the lightness of the healed. It wasn't until I was asked to write a book of inspirational poems that I recognized my recovery as incomplete.

When Dove approached me to write Love Your Curls, a "poetic tribute to curly hair" aimed at inspiring confidence in girls, I jumped at the chance. Almost all the daughters of my friends—Australian, Cape Verdean, biracial—have curly hair in one form or another. I imagined writing for them: Audriana, Arabella, Angela, Alesha. (Note: These are the children of three different friends. "A" names are having their day.) The greatest challenge I foresaw was finding words to rhyme with "curls." After "girls," the options dwindled. Thesaurus in hand, I started to work.

The true challenge presented itself immediately. To inspire the poems, Dove invited women to submit stories online. Reading about a 10-year-old who longed to do the "ear tuck," I was returned to childhood, to that sense of my worth being tied up in my hair. It's not that the feeling came rushing back, a memory viscerally experienced. No, the emotion came bubbling up. It had always been there. I was writing a book about loving one's hair but hadn't fully made peace with mine. How could a proudly natural-haired woman harbor such angst?

To answer this question, I began to chart the history of natural hair as I'd experienced it personally. All my mother's photos from the '70s feature natural hair, often impressively globular Afros. But by the mid-'80s, when I was dreaming of growing up to become Clair Huxtable, relaxed hair was de rigueur. A 2013 BuzzFeed piece explains what changed. During the Martin Luther King-led civil rights movement, one approach to expediting integration was winning over middle-class whites: "[O]ne technique to win their hearts was to look like them.... But by the '60s, young black activists deemed King's techniques too slow.... And just as with white hippies, hair length became a way for black youth to rebel.... At the height of its popularity—before [what the writer Noliwe] Rooks called 'the backlash of the Jheri curl' during the Reagan '80s—wearing an Afro became a way of differentiating young black Americans."

Ah, the Reagan '80s: home to my young hair discontent. Born too late for the Afro movement and surrounded by blond hair, I begged my mother for a relaxer. But using harsh chemical processors and insisting on swimming sans cap in chlorinated pools left me with problems that Luster's Pink Oil couldn't solve. It was only when I started high school that my mother, fearing for my hairline, allowed me to get extensions. In 1993, the year that Janet Jackson popularized box braids in Poetic Justice, I mastered the ear tuck. Braids were like straight hair—they could be tucked, tossed, messy-bunned, air-dried—and I wore them until college. Then the climate shifted again.

Between Erykah Badu's 1997 debut, Baduizm, and Lauryn Hill's 1998 Miseducation, the Afros of the '70s made their comeback. College was all about an Afrocentric aesthetic: head wraps, cowrie shells, two-strand twists. In 2001, when I moved to Brooklyn's Fort Greene—where Lisa Price (who, coincidentally, worked on the set of The Cosby Show) had launched Carol's Daughter, her line of natural-hair products—everyone was going natural. It was in many ways empowering, this celebration of diasporic beauty. But I found this movement alienating as well.

The idea was to love oneself, free from external judgment and beauty hierarchies. But new forms of judgment had arisen. There was a certain aspersion cast on women—like my twin sister, a doctor—who continued relaxing. I applauded the rejection of European beauty ideals that diminished brown women's self-esteem. But to hold that an aesthetic choice necessarily expressed self-loathing seemed dangerously close to judging a book by its cover. And all covers are not created equal. As a February post about Dove's curly-hair campaign on the blog For Harriet notes: "[B]lack women's hair...is a wonderful spectrum of kinky and curly combinations. However, those of us with more kink than curl are routinely excluded from movements dealing with natural styling. The praise always goes to the ones with looser textures. We see this on hair care products, advertisements, and even in our own subtle biases."

This came out months before my Love Your Curls book was released; this author couldn't have known that I'd include poems expressly written for "kinkier" girls. Still, I took her point. Having survived the effects of mainstream advertising in the '80s and '90s, I was disheartened by the "subtle biases" I found within the natural-hair movement of the 2000s. So many women still pegged their worth to how loose or long their hair grew. There were "hair challenges," "goal lengths": the language of competition.

By 2005 I'd started wearing weaves almost in protest, determined somehow to opt out of the good-hair hustle. Hairdressers would coo, "But your hair's so long! You should flaunt it!" Defiant, I'd insist, "Weaves save time. I have books to write." I loved my Afro but had grown weary of obsessing over—stretching, sealing, twisting, untwisting, finger-combing, fixating on—hair. The idea of "being natural" was for me a proxy for "being free." It wasn't just freedom from chemicals and Kanekalon extensions. I wanted to be free from the cliché that a woman's hair is her glory. I wanted my mind, my heart, and my imagination to be my glory. I didn't want to be judged by my hair.

And so for years I hid it.

It wasn't until I sat down to write those poems that it struck me: I'd never truly escaped the Hair Hegemony. The weaves weren't the problem. I'll always love weaves: the protection, the convenience. The problem was the premise: that my hair was more fundamental to my beauty than my heart was. As a woman, I aspired to know myself as intrinsically worthy of love, not of envy, admiration, or attention. I longed to feel liberated from all the mandates—silky straight hair! long natural hair! squiggly mixed hair!—with which I'd grown up and to wear my hair however I liked. That was the key. However I liked.

So, a few months back, I cut my hair, side shave and all. I loved it. With my chin-length bob, I received less male attention than with my Farrah Fawcett flips. But the comments I heard were gentle, respectful. I found myself dressing differently, less interested in looking sexy than in being me. I resumed my affair with head wraps. I stopped taking my hair so seriously.

Writing poems about hair helped me to enjoy mine, not as an expression of my worth or a measure of my beauty. When I look at my bestie Heather with Chirlane McCray, I rejoice that our culture has come to recognize their hair as beautiful while knowing that their power, their radiant beauty, comes from elsewhere. This is what I wished to tell my friends' little daughters: Love your hair because it's yours, not because it's you. You are already loved, just the way you are.

This article originally appeared in the August 2015 issue of ELLE.

From: John Del Cecato
To: B; Snyder, Thomas; "hayley@progressiveagenda.us"
Cc: FLONYC
Subject: Re: Policy
Date: Tuesday, July 21, 2015 7:35:42 AM

I think it would be good to sit down soon. As you said, things will take a while - but best to get the conversation started while we've got their attention.

On 7/21/15, 1:37 AM, "B" <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>

>See below. One part of me wants to engage him now, one part is happy to >wait a few weeks. Could be helpful to start the conversation since I >doubt all will be resolved quickly. Thoughts?

>

>

>-----Original Message-----

>From: John Podesta

>To: Bill de Blasio

>Subject: Policy

>Sent: Jul 21, 2015 12:48 AM

>

>Bill, Robby said that you might want to sit down again and talk policy. I >could do something Wednesday afternoon, early Thursday afternoon and then >I head out West for a week of vacation and a week of fundraising. If this >week doesn't work for you, we can get together when I'm back or arrange >something with Jake Sullivan and Maya Harris. Let me know if any of that >works. John

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
To: "John Del Cecato"
Subject: RE: <no subject>
Date: Tuesday, July 21, 2015 9:16:02 AM

Ok.

I will send a call in number for both.

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Tuesday, July 21, 2015 9:05 AM
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Subject: <no subject>

FYI, I'm out of town tomorrow morning until Friday night - so I'll need to call-in to Thursday planning meeting & can't be in-person for education speech prep (also - not sure what that is exactly?)

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: John Del Ceccato \(jfdc@akpdmedia.com\)
Subject: FW: Walzak interview/Plouffe interview
Date: Tuesday, July 21, 2015 9:41:39 AM

Thoughts on putting your old friend on the defensive?

From: Hinton, Karen
Sent: Tuesday, July 21, 2015 9:34 AM
To: Walzak, Phil; Wolfe, Emma; Norvell, Wiley; Shorris, Anthony; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: CNN: Walzak interview/Plouffe interview

All – Today Phil is doing an interview today at 10:30 on Uber; Plouffe interviewing at 1 pm. What can we unload in interview to put him on the defensive?

From: Segall, Laurie [<mailto:Laurie.Segall@turner.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, July 21, 2015 8:09 AM
To: Hinton, Karen
Subject: Re: New York City Hall Press contact

After at 1p. Wanted to give you heads up in case it would change who we'd chat with. We are talking with him at 1p today.

Sent from my iPhone

On Jul 21, 2015, at 8:04 AM, Hinton, Karen <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Before or after Phil?

Sent from my iPhone

On Jul 20, 2015, at 10:31 PM, Segall, Laurie <Laurie.Segall@turner.com> wrote:

Looking forward! Also -- wanted to let you know I think we may actually be chatting with David Plouffe from Uber. Just wanted to update.

Sent from my iPhone

On Jul 20, 2015, at 4:05 PM, Hinton, Karen <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Sure. No problem. Angela, who's copied here, can help you guys, if I'm in a meeting.

From: Fink, Erica [<mailto:Erica.Fink@turner.com>]
Sent: Monday, July 20, 2015 4:00 PM
To: Hinton, Karen

Cc: Segall, Laurie
Subject: Re: New York City Hall Press contact

Hey Karen,

Looking forward to this!

Can we plan to arrive at around 9:30am to set up? (We are very quiet and non-invasive).

The crew will be me (producer), Laurie Segall and Bryan Kane, a photojournalist.

Is there some place in particular within City Hall that we should go when we get there?

Thanks so much,
Erica

Erica Fink
Senior Technology Producer | CNNMoney
917.693.6450

Begin forwarded message:

From: "Hinton, Karen" <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: July 20, 2015 at 3:42:02 PM EDT
To: "'Segall, Laurie'" <Laurie.Segall@turner.com>
Cc: "Singleton, Jessica"
<JSingleton@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Walzak, Phil"
<PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Norvell, Wiley"
<WNorvell@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: RE: New York City Hall Press contact

Ok. Sounds good.

From: Segall, Laurie
[<mailto:Laurie.Segall@turner.com>]
Sent: Monday, July 20, 2015 3:34 PM
To: Hinton, Karen
Cc: Singleton, Jessica; Walzak, Phil; Norvell, Wiley
Subject: Re: New York City Hall Press contact

I believe we're speaking to uber's David Plouffe or their NYC GM Josh Mohrer. Should know shortly 10:30a works. Could we lock in 15 mins? Just want to make sure he has the opportunity to get everything in clearly.

Sent from my iPhone

On Jul 20, 2015, at 3:26 PM, Hinton, Karen <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Laurie, Sure. At the office would be great. What 7 to 9 minutes? Who are you interviewing from Uber?

Phil, would 10:30 am work?

From: Segall, Laurie
[<mailto:Laurie.Segall@turner.com>]
Sent: Monday, July 20, 2015 3:13 PM
To: Hinton, Karen
Cc: Singleton, Jessica; Walzak, Phil
Subject: Re: New York City Hall Press contact

Yes - tues! Possible to do this on the earlier side at your office tomorrow?

Sent from my iPhone

On Jul 20, 2015, at 3:12 PM, Hinton, Karen <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Is this for Tuesday or Wednesday? I thought you said Tuesday. Let me know! Thanks, Karen

From: Segall, Laurie
[<mailto:Laurie.Segall@turner.com>]
]

Sent: Monday, July 20, 2015 2:49 PM
To: Singleton, Jessica
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Hinton, Karen
Subject: Re: New York City Hall Press contact

Thanks so much!

Just connected with Karen and working on timing. Looking forward to this!

Phil -- great to meet you. Hope to chat tomorrow.

Best,
Laurie

Sent from my iPhone

On Jul 20, 2015, at 2:47 PM, Singleton, Jessica <JSingleton@cityhall.nyc.gov>
> wrote:

Laurie
–
Please
meet
Karen
Hinton, press
secretary
in City Hall,
and Phil
Walzak,
Senior Advisor to the Mayor.

They'd love to hear more about what you're thinking for Wednesday.

Thanks
all,
Jessie

Jessica
Singleton
Chief
Digital
Officer
@nycgov
@jessay286

From: FLONYC
To: Snyder, Thomas
Cc: B; jfdc@akpdmedia.com; hayley@progressiveagenda.us
Subject: Re: Policy
Date: Tuesday, July 21, 2015 10:25:10 AM

That sounds right to me. Good to engage, but with Tom's caution.

Sent from my iPhone

> On Jul 21, 2015, at 9:13 AM, Snyder, Thomas <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>

> I think its OK to start with Podesta. If he comes on strong desiring an endorsement and you don't yet commit, then there is the chance of more media comment about "why is the Mayor waiting." However must keep uppermost the idea that we want to bring a coalition if possible, and not get too far ahead of our TPA key leaders who have shown themselves to want to wait.

>

> -----Original Message-----

> From: B

> Sent: Tuesday, July 21, 2015 1:38 AM

> To: Snyder, Thomas; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; 'hayley@progressiveagenda.us'

> Cc: FLONYC

> Subject: Fw: Policy

>

>

> See below. One part of me wants to engage him now, one part is happy to wait a few weeks. Could be helpful to start the conversation since I doubt all will be resolved quickly. Thoughts?

>

>

> -----Original Message-----

> From: John Podesta

> To: Bill de Blasio

> Subject: Policy

> Sent: Jul 21, 2015 12:48 AM

>

> Bill, Robby said that you might want to sit down again and talk policy. I could do something Wednesday afternoon, early Thursday afternoon and then I head out West for a week of vacation and a week of fundraising. If this week doesn't work for you, we can get together when I'm back or arrange something with Jake Sullivan and Maya Harris. Let me know if any of that works. John

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: B; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; "hayley@progressiveagenda.us"
Cc: FLONYC
Subject: RE: Policy
Date: Tuesday, July 21, 2015 12:12:34 PM

John, Hayley and my collective recommendation is that you not meet with him in person on Thursday. Too many angles to discuss and you will have just gotten back to office from Rome. We see no harm in delaying a discussion for a week which gives us time to game out demands for Podesta and keep in contact with our key TPA allies.

-----Original Message-----

From: B
Sent: Tuesday, July 21, 2015 1:38 AM
To: Snyder, Thomas; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; 'hayley@progressiveagenda.us'
Cc: FLONYC
Subject: Fw: Policy

See below. One part of me wants to engage him now, one part is happy to wait a few weeks. Could be helpful to start the conversation since I doubt all will be resolved quickly. Thoughts?

-----Original Message-----

From: John Podesta
To: Bill de Blasio
Subject: Policy
Sent: Jul 21, 2015 12:48 AM

Bill, Robby said that you might want to sit down again and talk policy. I could do something Wednesday afternoon, early Thursday afternoon and then I head out West for a week of vacation and a week of fundraising. If this week doesn't work for you, we can get together when I'm back or arrange something with Jake Sullivan and Maya Harris. Let me know if any of that works. John

From: John Del Cecato
To: [B; \"hayley@progressiveagenda.us\"](mailto:B; \)
Cc: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: Hodges can find other progressive mayors in MN and at the mayors innovation project in des moines in august
Date: Tuesday, July 21, 2015 2:00:40 PM

Roger that!

On 7/21/15, 1:13 PM, "B" <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>

From: John Del Cecato
To: Snyder, Thomas; Walzak, Phil
Subject: Re: Thursday night
Date: Tuesday, July 21, 2015 2:29:50 PM

It would be 9pm

From: "Snyder, Thomas" <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Tuesday, July 21, 2015 at 2:26 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, "Walzak, Phil" <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: RE: Thursday night

What time? Planning meeting scheduled for 7-8:30pm

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, July 21, 2015 2:25 PM
To: Snyder, Thomas; Walzak, Phil
Subject: Thursday night

We'd like to put MBDB on Rachel Maddow on Thursday night to talk inequality & the Rome trip... Possible?
Was gonna have RKK reach out

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: John Del Ceccato \(jfdcc@akpdmedia.com\); Hayley Primm \(hayley@progressiveagenda.us\)
Subject: FW: RUSH TRANSCRIPT: MAYOR DE BLASIO DELIVERS REMARKS AT "MODERN SLAVERY AND CLIMATE CHANGE: THE COMMITMENT OF THE CITIES" AT THE PONTIFICAL ACADEMY OF SCIENCES
Date: Tuesday, July 21, 2015 3:34:50 PM
Attachments: image001.png

More Rome rap.

From: Mayor's Press Office
Sent: Tuesday, July 21, 2015 3:19 PM
To: Mayor's Press Office
Subject: RUSH TRANSCRIPT: MAYOR DE BLASIO DELIVERS REMARKS AT "MODERN SLAVERY AND CLIMATE CHANGE: THE COMMITMENT OF THE CITIES" AT THE PONTIFICAL ACADEMY OF SCIENCES

THE CITY OF NEW YORK
OFFICE OF THE MAYOR
NEW YORK, NY 10007

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE: July 21, 2015
CONTACT: pressoffice@cityhall.nyc.gov, (212) 788-2958

RUSH TRANSCRIPT: MAYOR DE BLASIO DELIVERS REMARKS AT "MODERN SLAVERY AND CLIMATE CHANGE: THE COMMITMENT OF THE CITIES" AT THE PONTIFICAL ACADEMY OF SCIENCES

Mayor Bill de Blasio: Buongiorno a tutti

Unknown: Good morning, everybody.

Mayor: Mayors and governor, governors, leaders from cities all over the globe, it is so encouraging – it is so motivating to be with you here today, and to be in your company. I'd like to extend a special acknowledgement and thanks to Mayor Ignazio Marino, a powerful advocate for justice who is doing so much to help the people of his city. And, Mayor, it is a joy for all of us to be in this place where such great history has been made in the past, and I know will be made again, including today.

I humbly give all respect to His Holiness, Pope Francis, who has awakened people across the globe to the dangers we face as a planet. He has brought us together today in that spirit of action. And I think it is fair to say he is the most powerful voice on this earth for those all over the world whose voices are not being heard. And he has brought the issue of inequality to the fore in this world, and has shown how it directly connects to issues of climate change and undermines the stability of all of our societies.

Now, His Holiness did not convene us here to ratify the status quo, but in fact to upend it. The very name of this gathering indicts the resurgent reality of human trafficking and demands that each of our governments act urgently to end this scourge.

But His Holiness chose a harsher and a perfectly just term as part of the title: the words “human slavery.” Those words should jolt us – they should jolt us into a realization that a part of our global history that was supposed to have been in our past is all too alive today, and has simply taken another form.

And I’ll argue that there’s another way to think about this conference’s title, and it’s consistent with the Pope’s recent encyclical, Laudato Si’. His Holiness challenges us. He challenges us not to be captives, not to be slavish to consumerism – as citizens, to rise above it. He also challenges us not to be captive as leaders to powerful corporate interests.

The encyclical is not a call to arms – it is a call to sanity. It’s a reminder that we as leaders have a sworn duty to protect. But how can we protect our people, if we accept a status quo that is slowly killing our earth?

I humbly submit that we were called here not to be congratulated for whatever progress we’ve made, although it is certainly worthy. We were called here to take Laudato Si’ and give it life – to systematically address the danger of climate change with every tool we have. And it’s increasingly clear that we, the local leaders of the world, have many tools – more than we may have in fact realized – and that we must use them boldly, even as our national governments hesitate.

In my city, it has become painfully obvious that we have to set difficult goals for ourselves. The extent of the climate crisis demands it. Any city, any nation, any corporation not straining to reduce emissions simply isn’t doing enough. The facts of this crisis make that self-evident.

Our hope is that each of us – and thousands more like us all over the world – will act boldly, and in doing so, will jolt our national paradigms and the collective global paradigm.

His Holiness has implicitly demanded that we give new meaning to the phrase, “we will do all within our power.” It’s now a matter of survival. Who in their right mind skimps on the things that allow them to sustain life? How do we justify holding back on any effort that may meaningfully improve the trajectory of climate change? Which political allies, or generous financial backers, or vocal constituencies are more important to us than preserving life for future generations? How could any version of business as usual make sense at this moment in history?

We now ask the same question of nations. Is it not the definition of insanity to propagate governmental policies and consumer habits that hasten the destruction of the earth – and yet somehow expect some other result?

Pope Francis’ encyclical burns with urgency and demands answers to these questions. It holds individuals accountable for the fate of our planet, but it rightly asks the most of governments. So we will remember Rome – we’ll remember this moment as a time and a place where we weren't offered soothing, reassuring words, but were, in fact, pushed by the highest moral authority to take the next step, no matter how challenging it appears to be.

It's my honor to be here speaking on behalf of New York City as we take our next steps. Our blueprint for the future, One New York – a Plan for a Strong and Just City, has within it ambitious goals to fight both climate change and poverty. As I announced last September at the United Nations Climate Summit, we are committed to an 80 percent reduction in greenhouse gases by 2050, mirroring the pledge of so many of you represented here today. And we're proud to be the largest city in the world to make that commitment, and hope that the scale of our effort helps to inspire others to go farther and to be even more ambitious.

And today, I'd like to add to all that we are doing in New York. I'd like to announce our next big step. We are committing to 40 by 30, on our way to 80 by 50. A reduction of our emissions levels by 40 percent by the year 2030.

In this, we follow the example of our colleague here today, Governor Jerry Brown. And we thank him for his leadership as the leading voice in our nation who first set this goal for his state. And we're proud to emulate that action, Governor Brown.

[Applause]

And Governor, you don't mind if I say to all our American colleagues – I hope you'll join us in following what the Governor started in California.

We look ahead to Paris, Mayor Hidalgo. The Paris summit is just months away. We need to see it as the finish line of a sprint. Each of us should take every local action we can in the coming months, as quickly as we can, to maximize the chance that our national governments will act boldly when they gather.

Paris has a rich history as a city of revolutions. We'll need another revolutionary moment in December – a revolution of decisiveness. It's not an overstatement to say that Paris may constitute our last best hope. And for that reason, we need to foster the kind of public discourse worthy of such a critical moment. Let's demand of our friends in the media, gathered here and all over the world, that they give the airtime and the column inches to the lead-up to Paris that such a crossing-of-the-Rubicon deserves. It isn't unfair to say that the media gives immeasurably more attention to the results of climate change, meaning our ever more dramatic weather, than to the causes and the solutions. And again, when the issue at hand is our survival, we shouldn't tolerate business as usual, and that includes for those who cover the news.

I'll conclude with the most helpful and hopeful element of this puzzle. The people – the people we all represent. Their wisdom and their perceptions of our new reality may be the thing that saves us. I learned long ago that the people often lead the leaders. And in recent years, I've seen this phenomenon come to life, with respect to the changing climate. I've seen it vividly in my hometown. Nearly three years ago in our city, Hurricane Sandy left 44 dead and thousands lost their homes and their businesses. And this tragedy made the people of New York City understand climate change in a very different way. It became personal. It became real. It was no longer an abstraction.

And the same city that saw such a shock to our assumptions and our complacency in 2012 –

we saw an immense outpouring of focus and determination in 2014. Few thought that the protest march connected to the UN Climate Summit would be that notable. But it ended up being a signal event. Hundreds of thousands marched in the streets of New York and many more in cities around the world. My friends, they weren't deniers. They were demanders – making clear their readiness to act, to sacrifice, to change – and asking the same of us, as leaders. It's our job to be as good as them. Thank you.

###

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: "John Del Cecato"
Subject: RE: RUSH TRANSCRIPT: MAYOR DE BLASIO HOLDS MEDIA AVAILABILITY AT THE VATICAN
Date: Tuesday, July 21, 2015 4:07:16 PM
Attachments: image001.png

Nyet. But he was inside the aura.

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Tuesday, July 21, 2015 4:03 PM
To: Snyder, Thomas; Hayley Primm (hayley@progressiveagenda.us)
Subject: Re: RUSH TRANSCRIPT: MAYOR DE BLASIO HOLDS MEDIA AVAILABILITY AT THE VATICAN

He didn't get to meet the Pope??

From: "Snyder, Thomas" <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Tuesday, July 21, 2015 at 3:33 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>
Subject: FW: RUSH TRANSCRIPT: MAYOR DE BLASIO HOLDS MEDIA AVAILABILITY AT THE VATICAN

His rap on rome.

From: Mayor's Press Office
Sent: Tuesday, July 21, 2015 3:24 PM
To: Mayor's Press Office
Subject: RUSH TRANSCRIPT: MAYOR DE BLASIO HOLDS MEDIA AVAILABILITY AT THE VATICAN

THE CITY OF NEW YORK
OFFICE OF THE MAYOR
NEW YORK, NY 10007

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE: July 21, 2015
CONTACT: pressoffice@cityhall.nyc.gov, (212) 788-2958

RUSH TRANSCRIPT: MAYOR DE BLASIO HOLDS MEDIA AVAILABILITY AT THE VATICAN

Mayor Bill de Blasio: ...And I find it an extraordinarily effective act because a lot of like-minded people in that room are now committed to acting even more quickly to make an impact on these issues. And I think there's always the reality of [inaudible] life – strength in numbers. I think it's a reminder of how many leaders around the world, locally, want to push their national governments to action and want to lead by example. But let's face it, having the support of His Holiness is the most encouraging thing I can think of. It's the most empowering possibility to have the strongest moral voice in the globe today calling us to action. So, for me, it was an absolute privilege to be a part of this. And I immediately started thinking about what more we can do as we look ahead in terms of climate change – we look ahead to the Paris summit. So, it certainly had the desired effect on me of calling me to do more and more quickly.

Question: Mr. Mayor, did you get to meet the Pope and introduce yourself?

Mayor: I did not.

Question: And what sort of document did you sign and the others –

Mayor: The document – we can get you a copy of the – you know, the manifesto coming out of this meeting, talking about the commitment that we’re all making on these issues. I didn’t get to meet them. I had the honor of being in the room as he addressed all of us. And it was fun even to be close to him. But it’s, you know – look, his voice is so inspirational and I think for most of us around the world, we see him on television and we read his writings – that’s what inspires us. It will be a great honor – I hope to you know, spend some real time with him in New York in September. But just listening to him speak today – the power of his voice – and also, you know, to think about the meaning of the encyclical. The encyclical is an extraordinarily powerful document and I hope that any of you covering this have an opportunity to look at the encyclical closely and characterize it so your audiences will pay attention to it – very powerful, very sharp document about the need for change.

Question: Some people say that the attitude of Pope Francis towards climate change is anti-capitalist. As the mayor of New York, what do you think?

Mayor: I think he is calling out both the business world and the government world. But I think it is equal opportunity. I think he is saying that institutions around the world have failed and need to deal with the issue much more forcefully. He’s certainly not afraid to talk about the problems of the capitalist system, and that’s necessary. But he also makes clear that governments must do better. And he also, if you look at the encyclical, it speaks to individual responsibilities as well – to the responsibility of the average citizen to not be so obsessed with consumer culture and recognize this is literally a question of survival. So I think it’s very, very balanced.

Question: Do you think [inaudible] reducing the greenhouse gases by 2030. How much is the cost for the city of New York and what is your plan to [inaudible]?

Mayor: Yeah, we will get you cost estimates and specifics. This was obviously the day we wanted to announce that we are taking a higher level commitment. And obviously, I would like to commend His Holiness for convening us and calling us to action and really demanding action of us. But I also think it’s very important to mention that Governor Jerry Brown of California certainly inspired me by his aggressive action – to know that we can do the same thing. And the minute he made his announcement some weeks ago, we did our analysis. We completed our analysis in anticipation of this meeting and knew we could get it done. We’ll now be able to delineate the steps it would take. But I think what each of us has to do is figure out in each instance how much farther can we go.

Question: Yes, Mayor, if you can speak about the state of preparation underway in New York at this point, and what are your hopes for the visit?

Mayor: I think it's going to be extraordinary. There's tremendous energy in New York City in anticipation of the Pope's visit. Now, it will happen during our annual U.N Week. So, certainly, logistically, there will be a lot going on. And it's going to take a huge effort by the city to accommodate both the papal visit and the U.N Week. But we're ready. We've been in preparation now for months, working very closely with Cardinal Dolan and his team, and of course, Vatican representatives in the United States. So, I think it's going to be an extraordinary moment and I think the emotion of the people of the New York City feel for this Pope is going to manifest itself in the streets of the city anywhere he goes. I think you're going to see a great outpouring of support for him.

Question: Mr. Mayor, can you talk about the symbiosis of climate change, human trafficking, and income inequality. And can you talk about the role of human trafficking in your own city – in New York City – and the impact on the northeast?

Mayor: I think – first of all, I appreciate your use of the word symbiosis.

[Laughter]

You're elevating the discourse, sir. The pope very powerfully spoke to that combination in his remarks here. And I think, if you listen carefully, he was saying that we now set up a cycle that's degrading us because not only have we created a dynamic where our environment is in steady decline, but it's also limiting the economic potential of so many people. And therefore, not only is inequality deepening, but in the absence of opportunity, some of the worst possibilities occur. That's where you see an uptick in trafficking – you see people taken advantage of. You see young people with no other economic opportunities pulled towards the very worst activities, or forced into the worst activities. So I think the Pope very powerfully and elegantly blended those points together. They are all interconnected. If we are not attending to the earth, if we don't have a just economy – if those two realities are based on business decisions and government decisions that don't make sense, unfortunately they deepen the negative trends simultaneously. To the question of New York City, we're very aggressive in our efforts against trafficking. Obviously that means, first and foremost, the enforcement efforts of the NYPD. And they have a very focused effort played to stopping human trafficking. We also spend a lot of energy and resources to try and help those who have been victims of trafficking, by helping them if they have an immigration issue – God forbid, if they've been victims of violence or domestic violence, we have specific efforts to help them. So it's very much on our minds in New York City. But clearly, if anything needs a global solution, it is human trafficking.

Question: [inaudible] What's it been like working with Cardinal Dolan on this papal visit? You're in his house.

Mayor: Yes, yes.

[Laughter]

Cardinal Dolan is a great friend. My last formal meeting with Cardinal Dolan was at a Mets game at Citi Field, so we – we spend time together socially, as well as doing work together. We also were out in Staten Island together for a very powerful service – memorial service for Eric Garner. So he's a tremendous partner. We've been talking about this visit for months. We've checked in a number of times. And I think there's tremendous coordination between the archdiocese and city government – obviously, as part of city government and the [inaudible] – we're very confident about this visit.

Question: Mr. Mayor, you were invited by the Pope to speak at the Vatican and represent New York.

Mayor: Yes.

Question: Certainly a professional highlight. Can you share with us what it means to you?

Mayor: Extraordinary. It's one of the great moments, certainly in my professional life, in my life as a political actor, and – but humanly as well. This is a leader such as we haven't seen before, really. He is saying things so clearly and so powerfully all over the world that need to be said. He's moving people on an extraordinary level. And we have few truly international leaders in any sense. What he is doing is, he's creating an international voice of conscience that I can't think of any previous parallel for. To be in his presence is a joy to begin with – very moving. But I'll tell you why it's such a highlight – a life highlight and so inspiring. It's like an energy boost – it's like seeing what can be possible again. And I think that's part of the power of His Holiness – he is reminding us of what's possible. You never see him saying, well, this would be a good thing to do, if only it was practical. He is literally saying to us, we have to reset our assumptions and think more deeply and more morally about our actions, because our current sense of practicality is digging our graves. And I think his voice is having a very powerful impact.

Question: Mayor, can you speak about what you think the impact will be of having the Pope bring this message to Congress, and to Washington in particular, and how you think it will be received? He –

Mayor: I hope it will have a cleansing effect on the U.S. Congress.

[Laughter]

The Pope's message needs to be heard in Washington. It has been ignored – the very ideas of addressing inequality and creating a more fair economic reality. Obviously, so much of that has been ignored in the Congress. So much of the challenge of global warming has gone unaddressed by the Congress. I think the timing couldn't be better. I think he has the ability to cut through all that, and really be a wakeup call for the Congress. I also think if you look at what's happening with the American people, the consciousness levels are changing so rapidly – and I referred several times to the poll that came out a month ago – CBS-New York Times poll – which showed that the public as a whole, nationwide, was more and more focused on income inequality than ever before. We certainly see a huge uptick in public understanding of climate change and willingness to do something about it. So I think the Pope's visit is particularly timely, and it's going to remind the Congress the world's changing very rapidly – the people are changing. The Congress has to catch up.

Question: Can you – has Wall Street been a good partner in the city's and in your fight against global warming?

Mayor: We haven't really engaged them on the global warming front much yet. We have begun the process, particularly with the real estate community, on the goals that we have to hit for 80 by 50, and now 40 by 30 will be the new topic. I've said to the business community of New York City, we would love to reach these goals together, cooperatively. But, if there's hesitation on the part of the real estate community, the business community, we will mandate action and we will mandate these goals be met, because it's about survival. So it's too soon to tell but I think initially, certainly with the business leaders that we've reached out to, they understand how resolute the city government is and they do want to help us get to the goal.

Question: But do you have any plans to try to engage Wall Street, which is a huge, obviously, employer in the city and –

Mayor: We're going to engage the whole business community in terms of getting to 80 by 50 and to 40 by 30. There's no question about it. But, again, I – my message is clear – we come in peace. We would like to do this cooperatively. If we see a lack of commitment, we'll mandate it and I think that's a very important point and I've said that at the United Nations when I spoke last September. But, I do find, in the business community, more and more people who I think are socially conscious and more people who are conscious about the need to address climate change, so I'm certainly hoping for good results. Last call, yes.

Question: [Inaudible]

Mayor: For us, immigration is a blessing and it makes us stronger – that is, the history of New York City. I remind you, that my own grandparents immigrated from Benevento and Matera to the United States, to New York City. They had that opportunity. It changed the lives of our family. They contribute to our city, just as generations have. So, in New York City, we believe immigration is a good and positive thing. We believe in being inclusive to all people, we're very proud of that. That being said, we have almost half a million undocumented people in New York City, and their issues are not being addressed by our national government. We've created our own municipal ID card to try and help. We've provided some services, we've provided help but we need national, comprehensive immigration reform for the almost 12 million people in the United States of America who don't have documents. The same is true in Europe. The European community must grapple with this issue. And, there needs to be a European solution. And I say, as a proud Italian American, that I'm deeply troubled by the lack of action by the European Union. The way that Italy has been left to fend for itself – very unfair. I appreciate the view of the Italian government, which I think is a humanitarian view, certainly consistent with the history of Italians emigrating all over the world. There is a consistency of understanding of the human reality that is noble. But Europe, in my opinion – I'm not a European obviously so I'm speaking from outside – but Europe can't decide to be unified some of the time and to ignore important issues at other times. This issue is affecting the people of Europe. There needs to be a European Union policy that really addresses the vast amount of immigration that is happening. It's not fair to shoulder – have Italy have to shoulder so much of the burden.

Unknown: Alright, guys, last call.

Question: Mr. Mayor, do you speak to – you spoke to the mayor of Paris, Anne Hidalgo, she told us that she spoke to you about Uber. I don't know what kind of conversation you both had. Paris has a lot of issues with Uber [inaudible].

Mayor: Yes.

Question: I don't know if –

Mayor: She's having very similar experience. I think it's clear that as a corporation – as a multi-billion dollar corporation – Uber thinks it can dictate to government. I remind them that the government represents the people and the people's larger interests and that is more important than any one company's needs. So, I think the situation playing out in Paris in a way is very similar to New York City. I think it's playing out in London in a way that's very similar. And I think, in each case, the people of our cities don't like the notion of those who are particularly wealthy and powerful dictating the terms to a government elected by the people. So I think that is not a wise course and ultimately the people will reject it. Thanks, everyone.

###

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: "John Del Cecato"
Subject: RE: Thursday night
Date: Tuesday, July 21, 2015 5:55:47 PM

I sent him an email about 9pm maddow but have not heard back yet.

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, July 21, 2015 5:54 PM
To: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: Thursday night

RKK thinks we can still get him on Maddow that night, if he's willing/able to do at 9pm...

From: "Snyder, Thomas" <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Tuesday, July 21, 2015 at 5:47 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: Thursday night

He is scheduled to do CBS this Morning on Thursday am...I just learned. Any other Rome type thing he could do?

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, July 21, 2015 5:46 PM
To: Snyder, Thomas; Walzak, Phil
Subject: Re: Thursday night

The producers said they would talk to Maddow about it tomorrow... She's on vacay, but would come in for the interview, if: a) it's locked; and b) it's his first TV interview since returning from Rome... Would that be possible?

From: "Snyder, Thomas" <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Tuesday, July 21, 2015 at 2:26 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, "Walzak, Phil" <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: RE: Thursday night

What time? Planning meeting scheduled for 7-8:30pm

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, July 21, 2015 2:25 PM
To: Snyder, Thomas; Walzak, Phil
Subject: Thursday night

We'd like to put MBDB on Rachel Maddow on Thursday night to talk inequality & the Rome trip... Possible?
Was gonna have RKK reach out

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: John Del Ceccato \(jfd@akpdmedia.com\)
Subject: FW: ABC News Request for Interview
Date: Tuesday, July 21, 2015 6:05:50 PM

fyi

From: Hinton, Karen
Sent: Tuesday, July 21, 2015 6:05 PM
To: Walzak, Phil; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Hagelgans, Andrea; Snyder, Thomas; Shorris, Anthony
Cc: Spitalnick, Amy (OMB); Kadushin, Peter
Subject: ABC News Request for Interview

All – ABC's This Week wants to have Mayor this Sunday. I think it's a good time. How do others feel?
Karen

From: Crowder, Anja R. [<mailto:Anja.R.Crowder@abc.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, July 21, 2015 4:53 PM
To: Hinton, Karen
Subject: ABC News Request for Interview

Hi Karen,

I hope this email finds you well. Andrea Hagelgans and I have been in touch over the past few months to discuss an opportunity for Mayor DeBlasio to come on ABC's This Week with George Stephanopoulos for a live interview. This coming Sunday, July 26th, would be a great time for a national interview, considering the Mayor will be just back from his trip to the Vatican, meeting with Pope Francis and addressing climate change on a global scale. We would love to hear from him on these points, as well as to get an update on his progressive agenda. Please do not to hesitate to call me as you consider our request. My office number is 202-222-7296 and my cell is [REDACTED]. Thank you and I look forward to being in touch.

All my best,
Anja Crowder

Anja Crowder|ABC News| Washington | (W) 202-222-7296 |(C) 646-234-2450

From: John Del Cecato
To: Hinton, Karen
Cc: karen@karenhinton.com
Subject: Re: Hey
Date: Wednesday, July 22, 2015 2:16:13 PM
Attachments: TPAtalkingpoints.docx

I'm in Virginia until Friday, but can do phone-in prep...

Here's the latest on TPA (attached)

I'm in favor of him doing This Week - we should just push them hard as we can to anchor it with income inequality, TPA, Rome, etc... Last time they barely gave us any time for that & spent whole time on policing..

Uber - Just as an FYI, here's the script I wrote (which was never turned into anything)...

VO:

It's a forty BILLION dollar company.

(White type on black screen. $40 Billion Company.)

And Uber thinks the rules don't apply to them.

(Shot of a car with Uber sign in it. CG: Rules Don't Apply?)

They've been sued for wage theft...taking up to THIRTY percent of their drivers' earnings.

(Background of driver getting into car. Headline of lawsuit over it. Second headline with 30% figure.)

They refuse to pay taxes to support New York subways - leaving straphangers with higher fares and less service.

(B-roll of riders swiping their cards, packing into subway car. Pull-quote from Daily News editorial on not paying 50-cent tax.)

And if a driver attacks a rider, Uber's fine print gives the company immunity.

(B-roll of a woman dialing her phone. Headline on Uber immunity clause.)

So when you see their attack ads...remember.

(Image of Uber ad in a TV)

Uber is taking New Yorkers...for a ride.

(TV goes to static. CG comes up over it. CG: Uber is Taking New Yorkers for a Ride.)

From: "Hinton, Karen" <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Wednesday, July 22, 2015 at 12:56 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: "karen@karenhinton.com" <karen@karenhinton.com>
Subject: Hey

We are doing CBS This Morning Thursday. What are your latest tpts on TPA? Can you be part of a prep for this?

Also, This Week has asked him to come on this Sunday. I have put this in front of Mayor as a recommendation. I don't know his answer yet.

Questions are same for both – post Vatican, income inequality, TPA and I'm sure HRC and maybe Uber if this thing doesn't die in next 48 hours.

Let me know. Karen

Karen Hinton
Press Secretary
917-246-7692
Follow Me On Twitter @KarenHinton

The Progressive Agenda TALKING POINTS – updated

- Website: ProgressiveAgenda.us
- Planning a bipartisan presidential forum for this fall, focusing squarely on income inequality. (We can stay silent on where it will be held & obviously don't mention CNN yet.)
- Congressional Progressive Caucus just formally endorsed.
- In 2014, the top 25 hedge fund managers earned nearly $12 billion. That's more than all of the Kindergarten teachers in American earned – COMBINED. And those hedge funders are often paying a lower tax rate, due to the carried interest loophole.
- The typical American family, in real income terms, is making less today than they were a quarter century ago.
- The wealthiest one percent captured 91% of all the income gains in the first 3 years since the Great Recession ended.
- The average CEO makes about 300 times what the average worker makes.
- 99 percent of all new income is going to the top 1 percent.
- In the US, the top 160 THOUSAND families own as much wealth as the bottom 145 MILLION families.
- In 2014, the average family income for the Bottom 99% was $47,200. The Top 1%, meanwhile, had an average income of $1.3 million.
- There is currently an apartment for sale in Manhattan for $120 million.
- We now have the greatest income disparity since the 1920s.
- The Progressive Agenda is a set of 15 proposals to lift the floor for working people; provide help to working parents and their families; and require big corporations and the wealthy to pay their fair share.
- $15 minimum wage. Opposing trade deals that put corporate profits ahead of workers. Paid sick and paid family leave. Debt-free college. Expanding the Earned Income Tax Credit and Social Security. Universal Pre-K, after-school, and childcare. Closing loopholes that let hedge funders pay a lower rate of taxes than many middle-class people. The Buffett Rule. Closing the CEO pay loophole.

- There's something happening out there. Last year, four RED states passed ballot measures to increase minimum wage increase. 60,000 workers in 200 cities rallied for a $15 minimum wage. Cities across the country are passing paid sick leave. The progressive candidate for mayor in Philadelphia ran on Universal Pre-K – and won.
- New York Times poll:
 - * 66 percent of all Americans believe that money and wealth should be distributed more evenly.
 - * 65 percent believe the income gap must be addressed now.
 - * 68 percent support higher taxes on millionaires.
 - * 80 percent favor paid family leave.
 - * 85 percent back paid sick leave.
- Q-poll (Iowa)
 - * 91 percent of Democratic caucus-goers believe the federal government should tackle income inequality.
- Billionaire investor Nick Hanauer:

"I buy a few pairs of pants and a few shirts a year.... I guess I could have bought 1,000 pairs. But why would I? Instead, I sock my extra money away in savings, where it doesn't do the country much good."

- Former Labor Secretary Robert Reich (paraphrased)

About 70 percent of economic activity derives from consumer spending.

- Goldman Sachs CEO Lloyd Blankfein:

Called income inequality in America "destabilizing." Said if we as a country can't deal with inequality then "you can't drive growth and you can't drive the success of the country."

From: Hinton, Karen
To: "John Del Cecato"
Cc: karen@karenhinton.com
Subject: RE: Hey
Date: Wednesday, July 22, 2015 2:17:51 PM

Thanks.

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Wednesday, July 22, 2015 2:16 PM
To: Hinton, Karen
Cc: karen@karenhinton.com
Subject: Re: Hey

I'm in Virginia until Friday, but can do phone-in prep...

Here's the latest on TPA (attached)

I'm in favor of him doing This Week - we should just pus them hard as we can to anchor it with income inequality, TPA, Rome, etc... Last time they barely gave us any time for that & spent whole time on policing..

Uber - Just as an FYI, here's the script I wrote (which was never turned into anything)...

VO:

It's a forty BILLION dollar company.

(White type on black screen. $40 Billion Company.)

And Uber thinks the rules don't apply to them.

(Shot of a car with Uber sign in it. CG: Rules Don't Apply?)

They've been sued for wage theft...taking up to THIRTY percent of their drivers' earnings.

(Background of driver getting into car. Headline of lawsuit over it. Second headline with 30% figure.)

They refuse to pay taxes to support New York subways - leaving straphangers with higher fares and less service.

(B-roll of riders swiping their cards, packing into subway car. Pull-quote from Daily News editorial on not paying 50-cent tax.)

And if a driver attacks a rider, Uber's fine print gives the company immunity.

(B-roll of a woman dialing her phone. Headline on Uber immunity clause.)

So when you see their attack ads...remember.

(Image of Uber ad in a TV)

Uber is taking New Yorkers...for a ride.

(TV goes to static. CG comes up over it. CG: Uber is Taking New Yorkers for a Ride.)

From: "Hinton, Karen" <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Date: Wednesday, July 22, 2015 at 12:56 PM

To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>

Cc: "[REDACTED]" >

Subject: Hey

We are doing CBS This Morning Thursday. What are your latest tpts on TPA? Can you be part of a prep for this?

Also, This Week has asked him to come on this Sunday. I have put this in front of Mayor as a recommendation. I don't know his answer yet.

Questions are same for both – post Vatican, income inequality, TPA and I'm sure HRC and maybe Uber if this thing doesn't die in next 48 hours.

Let me know. Karen

Karen Hinton

Press Secretary

917-246-7692

Follow Me On Twitter @KarenHinton

From: John Del Cecato
To: Snyder, Thomas
Cc: Hayley Prim
Subject: Re: Durazo
Date: Wednesday, July 22, 2015 2:31:12 PM

Yes, will do — and yes, I think him calling Loeb sack is key...

I forgot to mention the best part - Witte says that Loeb sack has a good relationship with Leach, Latham, Young, and even Steve King - and thinks there's actually a chance we could get Steve King to co-host... That may be a little pie-in-the-sky - but would be amazing - ALL of the GOPers would have to be there if it was King

From: "Snyder, Thomas" <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Wednesday, July 22, 2015 at 2:28 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>
Subject: RE: Durazo

Sounds very promising. Assume B should still call Loeb sack? Can one of you rewrite his rap for Loeb sack in light of the staff call notes below? Or should he wait to call him?

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, July 22, 2015 2:26 PM
To: Snyder, Thomas
Cc: Hayley Prim
Subject: Re: Durazo

Loeb sack:

Talked to Eric Witte, his chief of staff. He was very into the idea - and said he thinks Loeb sack will be too. He said that Dave Leshtz, the guy with Univ of Iowa connections, should be helpful in securing a location. Leshtz has already connected with two people who are key to locking down location. Their biggest questions were: a) just "how much" CNN was committed to this; and b) whether we could really make it bipartisan. I said very and yes. They are going to discuss internally on Friday - but both contacts seemed very enthused.

TPA: Hayley - do you still have that description doc we sent around back in April/May? If not, I can keep looking.

From: "Snyder, Thomas" <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Wednesday, July 22, 2015 at 2:10 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: Durazo

When do you think I can get this; also the loesack download. Should that be by phone?

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, July 22, 2015 10:31 AM
To: Snyder, Thomas
Cc: Hayley Primm (hayley@progressiveagenda.us)
Subject: Re: Durazo

Will do. Driving this AM. Had good connects with Loesack re forum

On Jul 22, 2015, at 10:16 AM, Snyder, Thomas <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Mariaelena Durazo has agreed to make calls to a number of latino leaders to get them locked into a specific day for a meeting at Gracie. In order to do that most effectively, can you give me some TPS for her so her calls are effective. Something that includes what is TPA, work so far, expanding the group, Forum, etc.

Tom Snyder
Chief of Staff
Office of the Mayor
City Hall
New York, NY 10007
212-341-5050

From: John Del Cecato
To: Hinton, Karen
Cc: [REDACTED]
Subject: Re: Hey
Date: Wednesday, July 22, 2015 2:35:22 PM

Sorry - one more thing - the Congressional Progressive Caucus introduced legislation for a $15 federal min wage this week — plank number one on our agenda... Now, of course, follow up will be - “well, Hillary hasn’t specifically said $15 - should she?” We’ll have to finesse

From: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Date: Wednesday, July 22, 2015 at 2:33 PM
To: "Hinton, Karen" <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: [REDACTED]
Subject: Re: Hey

Some additional thoughts from RKK

Last time on This Week, ABC fucked us a little. We gave them our first Sunday show sitdown and they gave us very little room to discuss what was the beginning stages of The Progressive Agenda.

If we were to go on again, we should really, really make clear we want a question on X amount of topics, no surprises, etc.

They should be given recent releases, speeches, etc with highlighted parts. Really need to hand hold here.

Boss needs more prep on the show back and forth – he should watch recent presidentials, etc on the show. Doesn’t need to watch more than three interviews, but should be something that relates to his interview and gets his head around the interview/ questions.

We should lean in on the Trump Q and try to make some news on why no contracts and we need a good soundbite on Rome --> what's the progressive version of calling the Pope a feminist? Something like that.

BlackLivesMatter answer needs to be TIGHT.

From: "Hinton, Karen" <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Wednesday, July 22, 2015 at 12:56 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: [REDACTED]
Subject: Hey

We are doing CBS This Morning Thursday. What are your latest tpts on TPA? Can you be part of a prep for this?

Also, This Week has asked him to come on this Sunday. I have put this in front of Mayor as a recommendation. I don't know his answer yet.

Questions are same for both – post Vatican, income inequality, TPA and I'm sure HRC and maybe Uber if this thing doesn't die in next 48 hours.

Let me know. Karen

Karen Hinton
Press Secretary
917-246-7692
Follow Me On Twitter @KarenHinton

From: John Del Cecato
To: Hinton, Karen
Cc: [REDACTED]
Subject: Re: Hey
Date: Wednesday, July 22, 2015 3:00:54 PM
Attachments: TPAtalkingpoints.docx

No worries - other than the attached? I can write some more in a bit - [REDACTED] for the next two days - pray for me

From: "Hinton, Karen" <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Wednesday, July 22, 2015 at 2:45 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: [REDACTED]
Subject: Re: Hey

Yes any talking points you want share please do because I'm also juggling uber today

Sent from my iPhone

On Jul 22, 2015, at 2:33 PM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

Some additional thoughts from RKK

Last time on This Week, ABC fucked us a little. We gave them our first Sunday show sitdown and they gave us very little room to discuss what was the beginning stages of The Progressive Agenda.

If we were to go on again, we should really, really make clear we want a question on X amount of topics, no surprises, etc.

They should be given recent releases, speeches, etc with highlighted parts. Really need to hand hold here.

Boss needs more prep on the show back and forth – he should watch recent presidentials, etc on the show. Doesn't need to watch more than three interviews, but should be something that relates to his interview and gets his head around the interview/ questions.

We should lean in on the Trump Q and try to make some news on why no contracts and we need a good soundbite on Rome --> what's the progressive version of calling the Pope a feminist? Something like that.

BlackLivesMatter answer needs to be TIGHT.

From: "Hinton, Karen" <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Date: Wednesday, July 22, 2015 at 12:56 PM

To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>

Cc: "[REDACTED]"

Subject: Hey

We are doing CBS This Morning Thursday. What are your latest tpts on TPA? Can you be part of a prep for this?

Also, This Week has asked him to come on this Sunday. I have put this in front of Mayor as a recommendation. I don't know his answer yet.

Questions are same for both – post Vatican, income inequality, TPA and I'm sure HRC and maybe Uber if this thing doesn't die in next 48 hours.

Let me know. Karen

Karen Hinton

Press Secretary

917-246-7692

Follow Me On Twitter @KarenHinton

The Progressive Agenda TALKING POINTS – updated

- Website: ProgressiveAgenda.us
- Planning a bipartisan presidential forum for this fall, focusing squarely on income inequality. (We can stay silent on where it will be held & obviously don't mention CNN yet.)
- Congressional Progressive Caucus just formally endorsed.
- In 2014, the top 25 hedge fund managers earned nearly $12 billion. That's more than all of the Kindergarten teachers in American earned – COMBINED. And those hedge funders are often paying a lower tax rate, due to the carried interest loophole.
- The typical American family, in real income terms, is making less today than they were a quarter century ago.
- The wealthiest one percent captured 91% of all the income gains in the first 3 years since the Great Recession ended.
- The average CEO makes about 300 times what the average worker makes.
- 99 percent of all new income is going to the top 1 percent.
- In the US, the top 160 THOUSAND families own as much wealth as the bottom 145 MILLION families.
- In 2014, the average family income for the Bottom 99% was $47,200. The Top 1%, meanwhile, had an average income of $1.3 million.
- There is currently an apartment for sale in Manhattan for $120 million.
- We now have the greatest income disparity since the 1920s.
- The Progressive Agenda is a set of 15 proposals to lift the floor for working people; provide help to working parents and their families; and require big corporations and the wealthy to pay their fair share.
- $15 minimum wage. Opposing trade deals that put corporate profits ahead of workers. Paid sick and paid family leave. Debt-free college. Expanding the Earned Income Tax Credit and Social Security. Universal Pre-K, after-school, and childcare. Closing loopholes that let hedge funders pay a lower rate of taxes than many middle-class people. The Buffett Rule. Closing the CEO pay loophole.

- There's something happening out there. Last year, four RED states passed ballot measures to increase minimum wage increase. 60,000 workers in 200 cities rallied for a $15 minimum wage. Cities across the country are passing paid sick leave. The progressive candidate for mayor in Philadelphia ran on Universal Pre-K – and won.
- New York Times poll:
 - * 66 percent of all Americans believe that money and wealth should be distributed more evenly.
 - * 65 percent believe the income gap must be addressed now.
 - * 68 percent support higher taxes on millionaires.
 - * 80 percent favor paid family leave.
 - * 85 percent back paid sick leave.
- Q-poll (Iowa)
 - * 91 percent of Democratic caucus-goers believe the federal government should tackle income inequality.
- Billionaire investor Nick Hanauer:

"I buy a few pairs of pants and a few shirts a year.... I guess I could have bought 1,000 pairs. But why would I? Instead, I sock my extra money away in savings, where it doesn't do the country much good."

- Former Labor Secretary Robert Reich (paraphrased)

About 70 percent of economic activity derives from consumer spending.

- Goldman Sachs CEO Lloyd Blankfein:

Called income inequality in America "destabilizing." Said if we as a country can't deal with inequality then "you can't drive growth and you can't drive the success of the country."

From: Hinton, Karen
To: "John Del Cecato"
Cc: [REDACTED]
Subject: RE: Hey
Date: Wednesday, July 22, 2015 3:10:59 PM

Oh, didn't see the attached! Thanks! Go back to [REDACTED] And I will pray.

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Wednesday, July 22, 2015 3:01 PM
To: Hinton, Karen
Cc: karen@karenhinton.com
Subject: Re: Hey

No worries - other than the attached? I can write some more in a bit - [REDACTED] for the next two days - pray for me

From: "Hinton, Karen" <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Wednesday, July 22, 2015 at 2:45 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: [REDACTED]
Subject: Re: Hey

Yes any talking points you want share please do because I'm also juggling uber today

Sent from my iPhone

On Jul 22, 2015, at 2:33 PM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

Some additional thoughts from RKK

Last time on This Week, ABC fucked us a little. We gave them our first Sunday show sitdown and they gave us very little room to discuss what was the beginning stages of The Progressive Agenda.

If we were to go on again, we should really, really make clear we want a question on X amount of topics, no surprises, etc.

They should be given recent releases, speeches, etc with highlighted parts. Really need to hand hold here.

Boss needs more prep on the show back and forth – he should watch recent presidentials, etc on the show. Doesn't need to watch more than three interviews, but should be something that relates to his interview and gets his head around the interview/ questions.

We should lean in on the Trump Q and try to make some news on why no contracts and we need a good soundbite on Rome --> what's the progressive version of calling the Pope a feminist? Something like that.

BlackLivesMatter answer needs to be TIGHT.

From: "Hinton, Karen" <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Date: Wednesday, July 22, 2015 at 12:56 PM

To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>

Cc: "[REDACTED]"

Subject: Hey

We are doing CBS This Morning Thursday. What are your latest tpts on TPA? Can you be part of a prep for this?

Also, This Week has asked him to come on this Sunday. I have put this in front of Mayor as a recommendation. I don't know his answer yet.

Questions are same for both – post Vatican, income inequality, TPA and I'm sure HRC and maybe Uber if this thing doesn't die in next 48 hours.

Let me know. Karen

Karen Hinton
Press Secretary
917-246-7692
Follow Me On Twitter @KarenHinton

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: "John Del Cecato"
Subject: RE: <no subject>
Date: Wednesday, July 22, 2015 3:16:20 PM

Yes unless B changes the gameplan when he returns tonight

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Wednesday, July 22, 2015 3:02 PM
To: Snyder, Thomas
Cc: Hayley Prim
Subject: <no subject>

I'm guessing since we're doing CBS this morning tomorrow & This Week on Sunday, we want to save Rachel Maddow for another time?

From: B
To: "hayley@progressiveagenda.us"
Cc: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Many good TPA conversations
Date: Wednesday, July 22, 2015 4:35:02 PM

In Rome. Pls make me download them

From: B
To: "hayley@progressiveagenda.us"
Cc: Snyder, Thomas; "ifdc@akodmedia.com"; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Leopold, Elana
Subject: Fw: Just talked to the Senator
Date: Wednesday, July 22, 2015 4:35:06 PM

This is very good. Definitely want to deepen the relationship with Merkley

-----Original Message-----

From: Senator Jeff Merkley
To: Bill de Blasio
To: Piorkowski, Jennifer (Merkley)
Subject: Re: Just talked to the Senator
Sent: Jul 22, 2015 4:11 AM

Bill --

Glad it was helpful. I look forward to getting together during your next trip here. My Exec. Assistant, JP, (Jennifer Piorkowski) can arrange breakfast or dinner plans. She is at [REDACTED]. But don't hesitate to call or text me directly.

All my best, Jeff

On Mon, Jul 20, 2015 at 10:51 PM, Bill de Blasio <[REDACTED]> wrote:

Jeff, I'm sorry for the slow response. The summary you sent along is extraordinarily helpful and much appreciated. I plan to borrow from it liberally (so to speak) when I meet with Hillary and/or her team. I'd like to follow up with you after that. Also, I'd really like to get together and talk about all this further. I know your schedule's challenging, but I'll reach out when I'm next in DC. Or let me know if you're coming to NYC for any reason. Look forward to seeing you. Thanks - Bill

Sent via BlackBerry by AT&T From: Mary Sorteberg <[REDACTED]> Date: Tue, 14 Jul 2015 17:39:53 -0400 To: <[REDACTED]> Subject: Re: Just talked to the Senator
Bill-

It was a pleasure to speak last night.

I'm sending you specific policy points on both global warming and TPP. Her comments in both areas to date are lacking any policy substance.

By the way, Hillary attended our caucus today; I asked her to get more specific on changes needed in TPP and that that would help produce a better agreement while changes can still be made. She responded that she would look at suggestions and I provided a list to John Podesta similar to the TPP points below.

All my best, Jeff Merkley

Global Warming:

Hillary says that we need more subsidies for renewable energy and more conservation. This is a starting point, but far from serious leadership. Here are several things she should say if she wants to lead on the most pressing issue threatening our planet:

1) We need to keep 80% of identified fossil fuels in the ground if we are going to save the planet. To do so will take serious leadership and I am ready to be that leader.

2) I will oppose any pipeline de

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: Hayley Prim
Cc: John Del Cecato
Subject: Re:
Date: Wednesday, July 22, 2015 9:49:56 PM

thats great, thanks.

Sent from my iPad

On Jul 22, 2015, at 9:48 PM, Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us> wrote:

I've been working on a big list of other national progressive orgs for us to reach out to as well as big events we could send him to. Should have a good draft ready for you guys to look at in the AM.

--

Hayley Prim

c:

From: Shorris, Anthony
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Fwd: Content Outline
Date: Wednesday, July 22, 2015 9:53:14 PM
Attachments: Speech Outline 7.20.15.docx
ATT00001.htm

Del Taxo -

I was hoping we could start to engage you and Fromo on the education speech.

Our folks have taken a crack at a substantive outline of what we think we are up to.

Take a look and then maybe we can sit and chat a bit (maybe even tomorrow evening) about the speech and what I was hoping we could do. We have time with BDB on Friday I believe.

Many thanks.

- Tony (aka Del Taxo II)

Anthony E. Shorris
First Deputy Mayor
City of New York
City Hall
New York, NY 10007
212-788-3191

Education goals - speech outline

- All children have the right to an excellent public education. We believe in and strive for a system that delivers high quality education to all of our students. We will not settle for less.
- Many have said a system cannot effectively close the gap and raise the bar at the same time; we disagree. We are committed to doing both, and believe the goals of excellence and equity can be mutually reinforcing
- Our theory of action relies on the expertise of educators who know what works:
 1. Set a high standard for all our schools, which starts with rich instruction in the skills that will enable children to succeed, by the most effective and well-trained teachers, with strong principals to lead their school communities and select and support the most effective educators.
 2. Address the barriers that keep kids from learning without allowing those barriers to become an excuse for why they cannot succeed
 3. Get kids an earlier start to even the playing field, and reinforce the impact of those early interventions with a system of academic and community supports for kids at all grade levels (Never saying ‘it’s too late’ to provide an excellent education.)
- What does this mean in practice?
 1. Starting early, we set an ambitious goal to enroll every four-year-old in New York City in free, full day pre-k. Today, we have over 70,000 children in these programs. We will continue to make seats available until every family has access to a program that is best suited to their needs, and we are dedicated to ensuring the highest quality pre-kindergarten education for all of our students
 - There are over 20,000 new seats this fall for four-year-olds throughout the city, and especially in neighborhoods with big population growth and high need. The UPK team conducted robust outreach to connect with city families, and created new seats to meet those families’ needs.
 - We are rolling out a high quality set of learning standards, called Building Blocks, to raise the caliber of math instruction in our pre-k classrooms. At least 750 classrooms will receive Building Blocks this fall – covering about a fifth of pre-k students – and the vast majority will implement the curriculum within three years. Building Blocks uses puzzles, games, art projects, and songs to teach early math skills, like number, shape, and pattern recognition. Improving math instruction in pre-k has demonstrated links to later math success.
 - Parent Corps, a program created out of the NYU Center for Early Childhood Health and Development, is also coming to a subset of pre-k classrooms this year. ParentCorps engages families as their children enter pre-k to build strong learning environments inside the classroom and at home. The program – which has been in select NYC DOE schools since 2002 – has had demonstrated impact on student achievement and social-emotional development through the early elementary school years by making parents true partners in early education.

- We are building quality over time by evaluating our program constantly. We released evaluation data this summer showing that our program is starting strong and we are investing in teacher and leadership training to make it even better.
 - We will continue to contribute to the national discussion about universal prekindergarten by demonstrating that quality and impact are possible at scale.
2. We are implementing a community schools model to provide the supports that enable children to enter the classroom ready to learn, including health services, like free vision screenings, and social-emotional supports. And especially in our Renewal Schools, we are working to address the effects of deep poverty while raising our expectations for academic achievement. The two strategies go hand-in-hand
- Each of our 130 community schools – which includes the 94 Renewal Schools – has been matched with a Community Based-Organization that is providing academic, social-emotional, and extracurricular supports before, during, and after the regular school day
 - All of our Renewal Schools have lengthened their schedules to include Extended Learning Time for all students and schools have been supported in designing the high caliber programming that will take place during this extended time, increasing both the quality and quantity of instruction in these 94 schools
 - Additional partnerships – like the recently launched vision screening program, which will provide Warby Parker glasses for all students at community schools who need them – are connecting students to the critical supports they need to learn
 - And, we have launched a comprehensive family engagement strategy to help families become partners in their children’s educations and in the renewal of their schools. This includes X, Y, and Z.
3. Across the system, we are raising the bar for quality in all our classrooms and ensuring all our students are learning the material that will prepare them for their future, taught by effective teachers, who are supported by strong principals
- The implementation of Common Core is raising the standard for all of our students. Common Core is not a curriculum but an approach; designed to teach higher-order and creative thinking
 - Paired with the implementation of rich classroom content for our students is rigorous training for our teachers to continuously improve their practice
 - And we are supporting our principals to lead strong, healthy school communities and continue striving for academic excellence in all 1800 of our schools
 - Finally, we are collaborating across the system to help schools learn from one another and improve more rapidly – through programs like Learning Partners, Learning Partners Plus, and Showcase Schools.
 - Specific examples of our work:
 - Launch of new Scope and Sequence in STEM, social studies, and science, designed to increase student engagement in coursework and provide teachers with the tools to improve their instruction to meet the challenge of Common Core.

- An unprecedented investment in teacher training across the system to help teachers improve their craft and boost student achievement. This includes X, Y, and Z.
 - Common core aligned summer enrichment programs (SUMMER STEM) etc.
 - The new School Quality Snapshot and School Quality Guide provides a comprehensive look at each of our schools that addresses academic rigor, quality of instruction, and the overall health and environment of a school community. This provides rich context for what is happening inside each of our schools for the public and for families – going above and beyond a simple numerical assessment of each school.
 - New HR efforts are ensuring strong teachers stay in the classroom and take on new leadership roles to support and mentor their colleagues. We have rigorous criteria in place to identify these Master and Model teachers, and to build core teams of teacher leaders within school communities
 - We build on this work by helping talented teachers become Assistant Principals and effective Assistant Principals become Principals, through programs such as X, Y, and Z that affect A people each year.
 - Efforts are also underway to remove ineffective teachers who are not supporting classroom improvement, including the Double I initiative and reports on the number of teachers that exited
 - Creation of new dual language programs to support ELLs and the many diverse communities in New York City
 - Continued special education reform, including efforts to more rapidly diagnose the challenges students face and craft robust Independent Education Plans (IEPs) to meet their needs
 - TBD – computer science and CTE – may want to keep out of speech due to separately planned announcements
- We have bold aspirations for our system, which are grounded in the notion that every child has the right to an excellent education. We hold this unwavering belief to be true for the thousands of four-year-olds who joined the inaugural class of universal pre-k, and for the thousands of students who enter our system for the first time from near and far in high school. We will work until:
 1. Every high school student is on track to graduate, ready for college, career, and independent living
 2. Every middle school student is socially, emotionally, and academically ready for high school
 3. Every elementary school student has the academic foundation to succeed
 4. Every child in NYC enters kindergarten ready to learn

- At every level of education, we are preparing students for the next set of hurdles – academically, socially, and emotionally – and are striving for all our students to become inquisitive, thoughtful, productive members of society
- But setting aspirations is not enough to drive excellence. And progress toward our goals is more than just a test score. We have identified key moments in students’ academic and social-emotional growth that will set them up to succeed in the long-term, and we will focus on making progress against these indicators at a system level
- These key moments in our students’ education that we can use data to monitor include:
 1. Are our second graders reading at grade level?
 2. Are our seventh-graders socially and emotionally prepared for the rigors of high school?
 3. Are our tenth-graders earning enough credits to be on-track for graduation and college and career readiness?
- We plan to measure not just the outcomes, but also the immediate effect of the strategies we put into place across the system as we hold ourselves accountable for ensuring both the excellence and the equity of our schools

From: John Del Cecato
To: Shorris, Anthony
Subject: Re: Content Outline
Date: Wednesday, July 22, 2015 10:42:19 PM

Some good stuff in here. I particularly like the end, with the mention of long-range goals...

But I think it may be missing the broad-based theme... I had a talk with an education advocate in California a while back who said "we're not building systems; we're building people" ... That spoke to me on some level... It's a nice contrast with the Bloomberg model/teaching-to-the-test types... It's about numbers, yes - but it's not JUST about numbers... We're not manufacturing widgets... We're not even trying to build a better mousetrap.. We're deeply invest in every single kid succeeding because we care about every child defying the loftiest expectations - and giving them every tool/breaking down every barrier so that becomes the reality...

I think of it as the flip-side to how I always advise candidates on crime stats (esp. murder)... Even when the murder rate plummets, you need to express that even one murder is one too many... In the same way, our failure to do everything in our power to lift up a single child is something we can't/won't accept...

I also like the idea of de Blasio as the first "public school parent" mayor - that public school parents have "one of their own" on the inside - and know he's going to advocate for them with a personal commitment that others just couldn't have...

I know that's a little all over the map - just some initial thoughts... I'm in [REDACTED] until Friday night, so I won't be able to meet in person, but could do a call

From: Anthony Shorris <AShorris@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Wednesday, July 22, 2015 at 9:53 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Fwd: Content Outline

Del Taxo -

I was hoping we could start to engage you and Fromo on the education speech. Our folks have taken a crack at a substantive outline of what we think we are up to. Take a look and then maybe we can sit and chat a bit (maybe even tomorrow evening) about the speech and what I was hoping we could do. We have time with BDB on Friday I believe.

Many thanks.

- Tony (aka Del Taxo II)

Anthony E. Shorris
First Deputy Mayor
City of New York
City Hall
New York, NY 10007
212-788-3191

From: Hayley Prim
To: John Del Cecato; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: NYC and DC Conferences
Date: Thursday, July 23, 2015 8:34:13 AM

So, didn't have a ton of luck finding great events around Latinos, AfAm, Women, over the next couple of months, but listed below are the ones I did find, that seemed like they might draw some important folks.

Think the CHCI event might actually be a good one for us to build around. Tom, do you want to ask Maria Elana what she thinks of the event-- and maybe we do our next confab down in DC?

Congressional Hispanic Caucus Institute
October 6-8, 2015
Walter E. Washington Convention Center
Washington, DC

National Hispanic Caucus of State Legislators- Events
Sept 24-27
NHCSL & NBCSL Promoting Healthy Lifestyles Conference (Invitation only)
New York, NY

Sept 28-29
NALEO 11TH Annual National Summit on the State of Latino Education
Washington, D.C.

S.H.E Summit: The Global Women's Leadership & Lifestyle Event

October 6-7, 2015 | New York, NY

Fortune The Most Powerful Women Conference

October 12-14, 2015 | Washington DC

--

Hayley Prim

c: [REDACTED]

From: Hayley Prim
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Cc: John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: <no subject>
Date: Thursday, July 23, 2015 9:12:19 AM

I will be at call time

On Thu, Jul 23, 2015 at 8:56 AM, Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca <PSalazar-Rodriguez@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Assuming Hailey is doing TPA calls today. You are still away yes?

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Tuesday, July 21, 2015 9:05 AM
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Subject: <no subject>

FYI, I'm out of town tomorrow morning until Friday night - so I'll need to call-in to Thursday planning meeting & can't be in-person for education speech prep (also - not sure what that is exactly?)

--

Hayley Prim

c:

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
To: John Del Cecato; Walzak, Phil; Hinton, Karen
Subject: GOP
Date: Thursday, July 23, 2015 10:27:17 AM

America Rising PAC (@AmericaRising)

7/23/15, 9:05 AM

Bill de Blasio Refuses To Endorse @HillaryClinton Again youtube.com/watch?v=tpejHb...

Download the Twitter app

Sent from my iPhone

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
To: "John Del Cecato"
Subject: RE: <no subject>
Date: Thursday, July 23, 2015 5:16:08 PM

k

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Thursday, July 23, 2015 5:16 PM
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Subject: Re: <no subject>

Yep - got it - Friday at 330

From: "Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca" <PSalazar-Rodriguez@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Thursday, July 23, 2015 at 2:20 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: <no subject>

I never looped back on education speech prep
Mayor is asking for u and rosen to join education speech prep even if via phone
He is giving an education speech in September and wants other eyes and ears on aside from speech writing staff
Let me know if your calendar shows call in #

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Thursday, July 23, 2015 10:24 AM
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Cc: Hayley Prim
Subject: Re: <no subject>

Correct

On Jul 23, 2015, at 8:57 AM, Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca <PSalazar-Rodriguez@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Assuming Hailey is doing TPA calls today. You are still away yes?

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, July 21, 2015 9:05 AM
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Subject: <no subject>

FYI, I'm out of town tomorrow morning until Friday night - so I'll need to call-in to Thursday planning meeting & can't be in-person for education speech prep (also - not sure what that is exactly?)

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
To: John Del Cecato
Date: Thursday, July 23, 2015 7:01:07 PM

R u calling in to Gracie? I will cal in to confirm call number if u r

Sent from my iPhone

From: John Del Cecato
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Subject: Re:
Date: Thursday, July 23, 2015 7:02:04 PM

Yes - on now

> On Jul 23, 2015, at 7:01 PM, Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca <PSalazar-Rodriguez@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>

> R u calling in to Gracie? I will cal in to confirm call number if u r

>

> Sent from my iPhone

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: John Del Cecato
Cc: Hayley Prim
Subject: Re: <no subject>
Date: Thursday, July 23, 2015 7:03:28 PM

Onward! Good news.

Sent from my iPhone

> On Jul 23, 2015, at 6:03 PM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

>

> Had a good talk with the exec director of Culver Center at Simpson - he's really interested - and said Tom Latham used to represent the area (at least for a few years) and they've been eager to get him involved with the Center somehow... Latham would be a decent draw for GOP... And Senator Culver is pretty iconic in the state (and while old & not in great health, is still involved with the Culver Center)...

>

>

From: B
To: Snyder, Thomas; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Leopold, Elana
Cc: "ifdc@akpdmedia.com"; "hayley@progressiveagenda.us"
Subject: Fw: Fw: Policy
Date: Thursday, July 23, 2015 9:32:45 PM

Pls discuss before acting

-----Original Message-----

From: Robby Mook
To: Bill de Blasio
Subject: Re: Fw: Policy
Sent: Jul 23, 2015 8:48 PM

Milia is the one: mfisher@hillaryclinton.com

On Thu, Jul 23, 2015 at 8:46 PM, Bill de Blasio <[REDACTED]> wrote:

Robby, see below for where I left it with Podesta. Look forward to seeing him when he's back. Please let me know who from his staff we should follow up with. Thanks - Bill

Sent via BlackBerry by AT&T From: "Bill de Blasio" <[REDACTED]> Date: Thu, 23 Jul 2015 00:36:14 +0000 To: John Podesta <[REDACTED]> ReplyTo: [REDACTED] Subject: Re: Policy

When you're back is fine. Let's start getting it on our schedules now. Who on your staff should my staff follow up with?

As for the Pope, I concur that everything I'm seeing suggests he's as real as it gets. The strategic creativity in calling together global mayors to amplify the encyclical was impressive in and of itself. And if you want some totally energizing reading while you're on vacation, bring the encyclical with you!

Sent via BlackBerry by AT&T From: John Podesta <[REDACTED]> Date: Wed, 22 Jul 2015 19:28:12 -0400 To: [REDACTED] Subject: Re: Policy
I'm kind of tight. Could you do 2:00 or 2:30? If not, I'll get on your calendar for when I get back. John PS Great work on climate. Impressive event. As all my Jesuit friends say the Pope is the real deal. Are you going to go to LA for the US China cities climate meeting in the fall?

On Wednesday, July 22, 2015, Bill de Blasio <[REDACTED]> wrote:

John, I just got back from Rome. Do you still have some time free tomorrow afternoon? If not, let's get together as soon as you're back.

Sent via BlackBerry by AT&T From: John Podesta <[REDACTED]> Date: Mon, 20 Jul 2015 18:48:47 -0400 To: <[REDACTED]> Subject: Policy
Bill, Robby said that you might want to sit down again and talk policy. I could do something Wednesday afternoon, early Thursday afternoon and then I head out West for a week of vacation and a week of fundraising. If this week doesn't work for you, we can get together when I'm back or arrange something with Jake Sullivan and Maya Harris. Let me know if any of that works. John

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
To: John Del Cecato; Walzak, Phil; Hinton, Karen
Subject: Tweet by The Weekly Standard on Twitter
Date: Thursday, July 23, 2015 10:48:11 PM

The Weekly Standard (@weeklstandard)

7/23/15, 8:55 PM

.@BilldeBlasio still won't endorse his former boss @HillaryClinton. VIDEO:
tws.io/1SEhoTi pic.twitter.com/i6VMEMWXsw

Download the Twitter app

Sent from my iPhone

From: John Del Cecato
To: Williams, Dominic
Subject: FYI
Date: Friday, July 24, 2015 9:08:08 AM

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=ellv4ljR3LU&feature=youtu.be>

From: Hinton, Karen
To: John Del Cecato
Cc: Wolfe, Emma; Walzak, Phil; Shorris, Anthony; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: Guns....
Date: Friday, July 24, 2015 9:24:46 AM

Cerberus owns bushmaster that makes assault rifle used in Newton. Sandy hook families have called on Cerberus founder Steven something to stop manufacturing assault weapon. If he did that it would be a huge sea change. Steven (blanking on last name) lives in Greenwich ct. I represented the families when they filed their lawsuit against bushmaster. I'll send some stuff around about this. He won't do it but good to pressure him. More later.

Sent from my iPhone

> On Jul 24, 2015, at 9:17 AM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:
>

> As Public Advocate, BDB pushed for hedge funds to divest from gun stocks - > and had some success. I obviously like that approach - but open to > anything meaningful we could do to curb gun violence either as part of > Mayors Against Illegal Guns or something else...

>
> <http://momsdemandaction.org/in-the-news/under-pressure-to-divest-eight-financial-firms-dump-all-gun-stocks-14-more-cut-holdings/>
>

>> On 7/24/15, 7:08 AM, "Hinton, Karen" <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>>

>> Charleston Chattanooga now this.... Also we can make sure cuomo isn't off >> the hook

>>
>> Sent from my iPhone

>>
>>> On Jul 24, 2015, at 7:04 AM, Wolfe, Emma <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>
>>> wrote:

>>>
>>> ++

>>>
>>>
>>>

>>>> On Jul 23, 2015, at 11:43 PM, Walzak, Phil <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>
>>>> wrote:

>>>>
>>>> how abt a TPA agenda item? with accopnaying push?
>>>> PD is great and i think our efforts frm what i understand are pretty >>>> decent here in city - we can highligh more
>>>> but this is getting out of control - natl issue, prog issue, i know >>>> its not income inequality but this needs to be said

>>>> _____
>>>> From: Shorris, Anthony
>>>> Sent: Thursday, July 23, 2015 10:41 PM
>>>> To: Wolfe, Emma; Walzak, Phil; Snyder, Thomas
>>>> Subject: RE: Guns....

>>>>
>>>> Right question -- need to process with Liz Glazer and better folks at >>>> NYPD.

>>>> _____
>>>> From: Wolfe, Emma
>>>> Sent: Thursday, July 23, 2015 10:24 PM
>>>> To: Walzak, Phil; Snyder, Thomas; Shorris, Anthony

>>>> Subject: Guns....
>>>>
>>>> I mean...shd we do something more here
>

From: John Del Cecato
To: Snyder, Thomas; Wolfe, Emma
Subject: TPAC outline, budget
Date: Friday, July 24, 2015 11:02:10 AM
Attachments: TPACoutlinePRADO.docx
TPA DRAFT Budget \(7-22-15\).xlsx

For your 1pm with MBDB - attached is Geri's plan outline & draft budget... On the budget, note that there are some things that need to be re-worked (for example - AKPD no longer on payroll after 12/31/15) - but might not reduce overall amount of budget, since we may need additional staff to target Members of Congress, etc...

THE PROGRESSIVE AGENDA COMMITTEE (TPAC)
DRAFT Plan Outline
(July 17, 2015)

Mission

Address Income Inequality by demanding specific policy changes from leaders in government through changing the conversation and accountability measures.

Goals

- ❖ Change the conversation from problems only to finding specific solutions
- ❖ Hold Presidential candidates, the President-elect to be, U.S. Senators, and Members of Congress* accountable to fix broken policies that create income inequality. (Targeting MCs would require additional resources.)

In order to accomplish these goals, there is an additional strategy that needs to be considered: building the credibility of TPAC in order to carry out the plan. For the most part this will happen by doing, but there is an introduction to the press, opinion leaders, donors and key organization that is necessary to get “air time” for communications and political activity.

The strategies are interdependent upon each other and the alignment of resources is crucial to accomplish these goals in a short period of time. For example, maintenance for the Zeitgeist work is going to be the same as maintenance for the Accountability side of the plan. The Digital plan will work to build a list to implement all strategies.

Strategy

1. Zeitgeist- Identify and seize opportunities to insert TPAC into stories surrounding policy, political, business narratives to incite social change
2. Accountability- Build “army” of executives, specifically mayors to put forward demands of presidential candidates to act on income inequality before and after the election. Use current signers, target potential signers to also demand social change to fix inequality.
3. Brand and Build TPAC- The initial May event laid the groundwork to introduce the issue and who is behind TPAC. Moving forward the goal is to broadcast strategy, activity to become a larger player in the presidential election

PLAN OUTLINE

- I. Zeitgeist
 - a. Develop TPAC messaging package to drive creation of echo chamber both internally and externally
 - b. Introduce TPAC, its goals, actions in the upcoming months beyond the initial roll-out to build the brand and lay out the mission for opinion leaders

- c. Identify and seize opportunities- Develop a message calendar to include major policy initiatives, political campaign benchmarks and other relevant events to insert policy demands into ongoing and existing conversations
- d. Messenger development and action- create a “speakers’ bureau” of current signers, potential strategic signers
- e. Coalition and partnerships- partner with organizations to coordinate messaging and communications strategy to build echo chamber and arm signers with latest talking points
- f. Homegrown events- Develop a few large-scale events such as the Presidential Forum in Iowa to highlight TPAC, its goals and create momentum

Needs:

- Research- both message and policy research to provide messaging and ongoing content. Also help build calendar of relevant events and opportunities for inserting message
- Communications- aggressive communications team to pitch stories on all levels of media (national, local), drive message discipline with existing signers and create an ongoing package of materials to arm signers
- Digital- program aimed at communications to echo earned media strategy, push message in social media and develop a list-building plan to drive growth and reach a larger audience
- Political- outreach strategy to target strategic potential signers and to maintain existing signers

II. Accountability

Mayors

- a. Organize key mayors around the country to demand the presidential candidates and president-elect take specific action to fix income inequality in their cities
- b. Gather research on key mayors to determine agenda for their specific city and greatest economic needs
- c. Conduct political outreach to persuade mayors to sign on
- d. Ask mayors to go on the record and sign onto written demands that benefit their cities to give to the presidential candidates

Signers

- e. Use existing signers to hold candidates and government accountable
- f. Use existing signers to help organize mayoral strategy
- g. Create “councils” or small groups of existing signers to focus on specific elements of the policy in the press and with elected, candidates

Individual

- h. Create online list to raise awareness in the digital space
- i. Apply pressure to the presidential candidates

Needs:

- Research- identify important initiatives to targeted mayors to focus their message to presidential candidates specifically focused on what is most important to them and their agenda locally
- Political- operation to identify mayors, signers, conduct outreach and build coalitions
- Digital- build individual list and echo communications strategy on accountability
- Communications- work with mayors, their staff and signers to develop accountability messaging and pitch stories of mayors signing on and their demands of the presidential candidates to fixing income inequality.

III. Brand and build TPAC

- a. Identify co-chairs to serve with Mayor de Blasio to signal national reach and political power and representation of multiple communities
- b. Build a fundraising operation that includes individual, PAC and foundation donors, leverages Mayor de Blasio's, co-chairs and signers "lists"
- c. Develop an aggressive online organizing, communications and fundraising presence
- d. Staff at minimum levels to accomplish organizational goals including communications, political, research and digital staff and or consultants

TIMELINE

This timeline covers May 2015 through May 2017

- Phase 1 (Now through the Presidential primaries/presumptive nominees)
- Phase 2 (Primaries through nominations/conventions)
- Phase 3 (Nomination through the General)
- Phase 4 (General through inauguration)
- Phase 5 (First 100 days in office)

Phase 1 first steps

August

- Plan and budget completed
- RFP process for fundraising operation, search for press, research, digital
- Fundraising firm hired
- Messaging "package" decided for use
- Press staffer hired
- Research underway (political, policy)
- Digital staff/consultants identified
- Leadership structure discussed
- TPAC organization launched (ED, councils/signers structure)

- Message and organization calendar created
- Forum locked in, planning and implementation begins

Next steps (first week):

- Setting up fundraising discussion, draft RFP
- Discuss “leadership needs”, who, why, feasible?
- Develop ongoing communications of brain trust (who is this?)
- Set up call to discuss plan outline, thoughts, edits, etc.
- Start recruiting for press, fundraising, research (maybe contract)
- Set up message call/meeting with AFL-CIO
- Develop prospectus

The Progressive Agenda August 2015-2017		Year One					789,850
		July	August	September	October	November
$	TOTALS	3,777,670
Spent to Date
STAFF & OPERATIONS
Staff	39.93%
Executive Director	$283,500.00	$13,500.00	$13,500.00	$13,500.00	$13,500.00	$13,500.00	$13,500.00
Operations/compliance	$105,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
Finance	$168,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00
Fundraising consultants	$210,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00
Communications	$168,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00
Press Secretary	$114,000.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00
Digital	$160,000.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00
Political	$160,000.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00
Research	$140,000.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00
Subtotal Staff	$1,508,500.00	$44,500.00	$67,500.00	$73,500.00	$73,500.00	$73,500.00	$73,500.00
Benefits	6.67%
ED Cobra	$22,050.00	$1,050.00	$1,050.00	$1,050.00	$1,050.00	$1,050.00	$1,050.00
Health Care	$147,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00
Workers Comp	$42,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00
Taxes	$483,120.00	$22,275.00	$22,275.00	$24,255.00	$24,255.00	$24,255.00	$24,255.00
Subtotal Benefits	$694,170.00	$32,325.00	$34,305.00	$34,305.00	$34,305.00	$34,305.00	$34,305.00
Consultants	25.02%
AKPD	$840,000.00	$40,000.00	$40,000.00	$40,000.00	$40,000.00	$40,000.00	$40,000.00
Dues Fees	$42,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00
Legal	$63,000.00	$3,000.00	$3,000.00	$3,000.00	$3,000.00	$3,000.00	$3,000.00
Subtotal Strategy	$945,000.00	$45,000.00	$45,000.00	$45,000.00	$45,000.00	$45,000.00	$45,000.00
Operations	5.56%
Office	$105,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
IT	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00
Travel	$105,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
Events/Meetings	$21,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00
Printing/Design	$21,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00
Subtotal Operations	$252,000.00	$12,000.00	$12,000.00	$12,000.00	$12,000.00	$12,000.00	$12,000.00
PROGRAM
Digital	5.56%
Acquisition	$105,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
Maintenance	$105,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
Website	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00
Subtotal Website	$210,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00
Comms/Research	3.34%
Booking	$105,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
Events	$21,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00
Subtotal Email	$126,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00
Political	1.11%
Events	$21,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00
Surrogate costs	$21,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00
Subtotal Social Networking	$42,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00
Media	0.00%
	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00
	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00
	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00
	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00
Media	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00
GRAND TOTAL	$3,777,670.00	$106,825.00	$131,805.00	$137,805.00	$137,805.00	$137,805.00	$137,805.00

The Progressive Agenda August 2015-2017

		Year two 2016
		2017
		$2,042,820.00
		TOTALS
		3,777,670
		2015
		2016
		2017
		2018
		2019
		2020
		2021
		2022
		2023
		2024
		2025
		2026
		2027
		2028
		2029
		2030
		2031
		2032
		2033
		2034
		2035
		2036
		2037
		2038
		2039
		2040
		2041
		2042
		2043
		2044
		2045
		2046
		2047
		2048
		2049
		2050
		2051
		2052
		2053
		2054
		2055
		2056
		2057
		2058
		2059
		2060
		2061
		2062
		2063
		2064
		2065
		2066
		2067
		2068
		2069
		2070
		2071
		2072
		2073
		2074
		2075
		2076
		2077
		2078
		2079
		2080
		2081
		2082
		2083
		2084
		2085
		2086
		2087
		2088
		2089
		2090
		2091
		2092
		2093
		2094
		2095
		2096
		2097
		2098
		2099
		2100
		2101
		2102
		2103
		2104
		2105
		2106
		2107
		2108
		2109
		2110
		2111
		2112
		2113
		2114
		2115
		2116
		2117
		2118
		2119
		2120
		2121
		2122
		2123
		2124
		2125
		2126
		2127
		2128
		2129
		2130
		2131
		2132
		2133
		2134
		2135
		2136
		2137
		2138
		2139
		2140
		2141
		2142
		2143
		2144
		2145
		2146
		2147
		2148
		2149
		2150
		2151
		2152
		2153
		2154
		2155
		2156
		2157
		2158
		2159
		2160
		2161
		2162
		2163
		2164
		2165
		2166
		2167
		2168
		2169
		2170
		2171
		2172
		2173
		2174
		2175
		2176
		2177
		2178
		2179
		2180
		2181
		2182
		2183
		2184
		2185
		2186
		2187
		2188
		2189
		2190
		2191
		2192
		2193
		2194
		2195
		2196
		2197
		2198
		2199
		2200
		2201
		2202
		2203
		2204
		2205
		2206
		2207
		2208
		2209
		2210
		2211
		2212
		2213
		2214
		2215
		2216
		2217
		2218
		2219
		2220
		2221
		2222
		2223
		2224
		2225
		2226
		2227
		2228
		2229
		2230
		2231
		2232
		2233
		2234
		2235
		2236
		2237
		2238
		2239
		2240
		2241
		2242
		2243
		2244
		2245
		2246
		2247
		2248
		2249
		2250
		2251
		2252
		2253
		2254
		2255
		2256
		2257
		2258
		2259
		2260
		2261
		2262
		2263
		2264
		2265
		2266
		2267
		2268
		2269
		2270
		2271
		2272
		2273
		2274
		2275
		2276
		2277
		2278
		2279
		2280
		2281
		2282
		2283
		2284
		2285
		2286
		2287
		2288
		2289
		2290
		2291
		2292
		2293
		2294
		2295
		2296
		2297
		2298
		2299
		2300
		2301
		2302
		2303
		2304
		2305
		2306
		2307
		2308
		2309
		2310
		2311
		2312
		2313
		2314
		2315
		2316
		2317
		2318
		2319
		2320
		2321
		2322
		2323
		2324
		2325
		2326
		2327
		2328
		2329
		2330
		2331
		2332
		2333
		2334
		2335
		2336
		2337
		2338
		2339
		2340
		2341
		2342
		2343
		2344
		2345
		2346
		2347
		2348
		2349
		2350
		2351
		2352
		2353
		2354
		2355
		2356
		2357
		2358
		2359
		2360
		2361
		2362
		2363
		2364
		2365
		2366
		2367
		2368
		2369
		2370
		2371
		2372
		2373
		2374
		2375
		2376
		2377
		2378
		2379
		2380
		2381
		2382
		2383
		2384
		2385
		2386
		2387
		2388
		2389
		2390
		2391
		2392
		2393
		2394
		2395
		2396
		2397
		2398
		2399
		2400
		2401
		2402
		2403
		2404
		2405
		2406
		2407
		2408
		2409
		2410
		2411
		2412
		2413
		2414
		2415
		2416
		2417
		2418
		2419
		2420
		2421
		2422
		2423
		2424
		2425
		2426
		2427
		2428
		2429
		2430
		2431

The Progressive Agenda August 2015-2017
3,777,670 TOTALS
Spent to Date	October	November	December	January	February	March
STAFF & OPERATIONS
Staff	39.93%
Executive Director	$283,500.00	$13,500.00	$13,500.00	$13,500.00	$13,500.00	$13,500.00
Operations/compliance	$105,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
Finance	$168,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00
Fundraising consultants	$210,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00
Communications	$168,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00
Press Secretary	$114,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00
Digital	$160,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00
Political	$160,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00
Research	$140,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00
Subtotal Staff	$1,508,500.00	$73,500.00	$73,500.00	$73,500.00	$73,500.00	$73,500.00
Benefits	6.67%
ED Cobra	$22,050.00	$1,050.00	$1,050.00	$1,050.00	$1,050.00	$1,050.00
Health Care	$147,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00
Workers Comp	$42,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00
Taxes	$483,120.00	$24,255.00	$24,255.00	$24,255.00	$24,255.00	$24,255.00
Subtotal Benefits	$694,170.00	$34,305.00	$34,305.00	$34,305.00	$34,305.00	$34,305.00
Consultants	25.02%
AKPD	$840,000.00	$40,000.00	$40,000.00	$40,000.00	$40,000.00	$40,000.00
Dues Fees	$42,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00
Legal	$63,000.00	$3,000.00	$3,000.00	$3,000.00	$3,000.00	$3,000.00
Subtotal Strategy	$945,000.00	$45,000.00	$45,000.00	$45,000.00	$45,000.00	$45,000.00
Operations	5.56%
Office	$105,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
IT	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00
Travel	$105,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
Events/Meetings	$21,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00
Printing/Design	$21,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00
Subtotal Operations	$252,000.00	$12,000.00	$12,000.00	$12,000.00	$12,000.00	$12,000.00
PROGRAM
Digital	5.56%
Acquisition	$105,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
Maintenance	$105,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
Website	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00
Subtotal Website	$210,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00
Comms/Research	3.34%
Booking	$105,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
Events	$21,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00
Subtotal Email	$126,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00
Political	1.11%
Events	$21,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00
Surrogate costs	$21,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00
Subtotal Social Networking	$42,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00
Media	0.00%
	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00
	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00
	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00
	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00
Media	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00
GRAND TOTAL	$3,777,670.00	$137,805.00	$137,805.00	$137,805.00	$137,805.00	$137,805.00
						$113,550.00

The Progressive Agenda August 2015-2017		TOTALS
$	3,777,670	TOTALS
Spent to Date
STAFF & OPERATIONS		39.93%
Staff
Executive Director	$283,500.00
Operations/compliance	$105,000.00
Finance	$168,000.00
Fundraising consultants	$210,000.00
Communications	$168,000.00
Press Secretary	$114,000.00
Digital	$160,000.00
Political	$160,000.00
Research	$140,000.00
Subtotal Staff	$1,508,500.00
Benefits	6.67%
ED Cobra	$22,050.00
Health Care	$147,000.00
Workers Comp	$42,000.00
Taxes	$483,120.00
Subtotal Benefits	$694,170.00
Consultants	25.02%
AKPD	$840,000.00
Dues Fees	$42,000.00
Legal	$63,000.00
Subtotal Strategy	$945,000.00
Operations	5.56%
Office	$105,000.00
IT	$0.00
Travel	$105,000.00
Events/Meetings	$21,000.00
Printing/Design	$21,000.00
Subtotal Operations	$252,000.00
PROGRAM
Digital	5.56%
Acquisition	$105,000.00
Maintenance	$105,000.00
Website	$0.00
Subtotal Website	$210,000.00
Comms/Research	3.34%
Booking	$105,000.00
Events	$21,000.00
Subtotal Email	$126,000.00
Political	1.11%
Events	$21,000.00
Surrogate costs	$21,000.00
Subtotal Social Networking	$42,000.00
Media	0.00%
	$0.00
	$0.00
	$0.00
Media	$0.00
	$0.00
GRAND TOTAL	$3,777,670.00

From: Hinton, Karen
To: Wolfe, Emma; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Shorris, Anthony; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: Guns....
Date: Friday, July 24, 2015 11:03:43 AM
Attachments: Feinbergletterpressrelease.docx

This is the press release I wrote for the families or a version of it.

Mayor could call on Feinberg/Cereberus to do the same. Would take it to a new level. Other mayors could do it.

This hedge fund is the majority owner of Bushmaster/Remington and they manufacture all assault weapons.

Karen Hinton
Press Secretary
917-246-7692
Follow Me On Twitter @KarenHinton

On 7/24/15, 9:18 AM, "Wolfe, Emma" <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>I nominate something real that the city can do plus something larger >national/political

>

>

>

>> On Jul 24, 2015, at 9:17 AM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

>>

>> As Public Advocate, BDB pushed for hedge funds to divest from gun

>>stocks -

>> and had some success. I obviously like that approach - but open to >> anything meaningful we could do to curb gun violence either as part of >> Mayors Against Illegal Guns or something else

>>

>>

>> <http://momsdemandaction.org/in-the-news/under-pressure-to-divest-eight-fi>

>>na

>> ncial-firms-dump-all-gun-stocks-14-more-cut-holdings/

>>

>>> On 7/24/15, 7:08 AM, "Hinton, Karen" <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>>>

>>> Charleston Chattanooga now this.... Also we can make sure cuomo isn't >>>off

>>> the hook

>>>

>>> Sent from my iPhone

>>>

>>>> On Jul 24, 2015, at 7:04 AM, Wolfe, Emma <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>

>>>> wrote:

>>>>

>>>> ++

>>>>

>>>>
>>>>
>>>>> On Jul 23, 2015, at 11:43 PM, Walzak, Phil <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>
>>>>> wrote:
>>>>>
>>>>> how abt a TPA agena item? with accopnaying push?
>>>>> PD is great and i think our efforts frm what i understand are pretty >>>>> decent here in city - we can highligh more
>>>>> but this is getting out of control - natl issue, prog issue, i know >>>>> its not income inequality but this needs to be said
>>>>> _____
>>>>> From: Shorris, Anthony
>>>>> Sent: Thursday, July 23, 2015 10:41 PM
>>>>> To: Wolfe, Emma; Walzak, Phil; Snyder, Thomas
>>>>> Subject: RE: Guns....
>>>>>
>>>>> Right question -- need to process with Liz Glazer and better folks at >>>>> NYPD.
>>>>> _____
>>>>> From: Wolfe, Emma
>>>>> Sent: Thursday, July 23, 2015 10:24 PM
>>>>> To: Walzak, Phil; Snyder, Thomas; Shorris, Anthony
>>>>> Subject: Guns....
>>>>>
>>>>> I mean...shd we do something more here
>>

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

May xx, 2015

Contact: Karen Hinton, karen@hintoncommunications.com, 703-798-3109

Ania Treszczotko, ania@hintoncommunications.com, 703-867-4788

Michael London, [REDACTED] 203-261-1549

Sandy Hook Families Urge Assault Weapon Owner Cerberus Capital Management to Stop Selling Military Weapon to Civilians

Request a Meeting with Cerberus Founder and Connecticut Resident Stephen Feinberg

Newtown, CT – In a letter released today, eight Sandy Hook families urged assault weapon owner and Connecticut resident Stephen Feinberg to stop selling civilians military-type weapons, such as the one Adam Lanza used to kill their loved ones. They also asked Feinberg, founder of Cerberus Capital Management, to meet with them in person.

The families are among the ten families who have sued Freedom Group, which Cerberus owns, for wrongful death and negligent entrustment. (link to earlier press release) Freedom Group is the holding company of Bushmaster and Remington, which manufactures and sells the AR-15 rifle, the assault weapon Lanza used to kill 20 elementary students and 6 educators on December 12, 2012 at the Sandy Hook Elementary School. Other defendants include gun distributor Camfour and Riverview, the Connecticut gun store where Lanza’s mother, Nancy, bought the assault weapon.

“Your ownership of Freedom Group puts you in an unprecedented position to effect change and save lives,” wrote the families.

Freedom Group is one of the largest U.S. firearm manufacturers and boasts it supplies the most AR-15s to American civilians. The families, however, told Feinberg: “We are unable to fathom how that fact can be construed as a point of pride. You have the power, Mr. Feinberg, to shape Freedom Group into a company that does have something to be proud of – a company that leads by example and refuses to sell military assault weapons to the public.

“We urge you to use your considerable influence and business acumen to demand that Freedom Group become a different kind of leader in the firearm industry – one that prioritizes safety and acknowledges that it must be part of the solution to a problem that takes the lives of 30,000 Americans each year.”

In the letter, they asked Feinberg to consider using smart technology and safety measures, such as biometrics and grip pattern detection, that would make all guns in Freedom Group’s arsenal safer – not only to reduce the likelihood of another mass shooting, but also to address the growing number of child deaths from accidental shootings.

The families also praised Feinberg for allowing California teachers to divest their pension funds from Freedom Group. In April, the California Federation of Teachers read a letter (link) from the families at a California State Teachers' Retirement System board meeting, praising the CFT's effort to divest and calling on Cerberus to keep its two-year promise to stop using teacher pension funds to manufacture assault weapons. A month later, Feinberg agreed. (link to NY Times)

In their letter to Feinberg, the families argued Lanza's assault weapon was not designed for home security or hunting. "The AR-15 was designed to inflict mass casualties in combat. It does not belong on the shelves of Wal-Marts and gun stores across this country."

They also argued that both the military and the police have "spoken out" against civilians owning the assault weapon. "Military leaders who have witnessed the AR-15's devastating effects on the human body have declared that it belongs in battle, not in American households."

They wrote, "It is no answer to say, as the CEO of Freedom Group has, that any inanimate object can be used for evil. This truism rings hollow because it fails to grapple honestly with the fact that it takes a uniquely destructive weapon to murder 20 children and 6 educators in 264 seconds."

Freedom Group markets its AR-15s with images of soldiers and SWAT teams; it also dubs various models the "patrolman" and the "adaptive combat rifle" and promises that a person who wields this terrifying weapon will have the power to make "forces of opposition bow down."

"In the wake of Columbine, Aurora, and now Newtown – to name only a few of the most deadly shootings committed with AR-15s – this blatant glorification of violence is not only unethical, it is reckless We implore you to consider the human cost behind Freedom Group's boast that it unleashes more AR-15s into our communities than any other company. The question is not whether there will be another tragic school shooting, but when."

###

Koskoff, Koskoff & Bieder has offices in Bridgeport, New Haven, Danbury, and Stamford. The nationally known law firm has achieved record verdicts for people who suffer serious personal injuries or economic harm from medical malpractice, violation of their civil or constitutional rights, dangerous products, negligence, drunk drivers, corporate or governmental abuse and commercial misconduct. www.koskoff.com.

From: John Del Cecato
To: Singleton, Jessica; Walzak, Phil; Hinton, Karen
Cc: Rodriguez, Tobias \(Media\)
Subject: Re: NYT: Hillary Clinton to Back $15 Fast-Food Minimum Wage in New York
Date: Friday, July 24, 2015 1:00:43 PM

Team TPA will... Up to you whether he singles out HRC in a statement by City Hall

From: "Singleton, Jessica" <JSingleton@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Friday, July 24, 2015 at 11:33 AM
To: "Walzak, Phil" <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, "Hinton, Karen" <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: "Rodriguez, Tobias (Media)" <tobrodriguez@digital.nyc.gov>
Subject: Fwd: NYT: Hillary Clinton to Back $15 Fast-Food Minimum Wage in New York

We praising this?

Begin forwarded message:

From: Clips <Clips@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: July 24, 2015 at 10:59:32 EDT
Subject: NYT: Hillary Clinton to Back $15 Fast-Food Minimum Wage in New York

Hillary Clinton to Back $15 Fast-Food Minimum Wage in New York
NY TIMES - Maggie Haberman
<http://www.nytimes.com/politics/first-draft/2015/07/24/hillary-clinton-to-back-15-fast-food-minimum-wage-in-new-york/? r=0>

Hillary Rodham Clinton on Friday will use a speech focused on growing the economy to endorse a $15-an-hour minimum wage proposal for fast-food workers recommended by a New York panel, a person briefed on her plans said.

The remarks from Mrs. Clinton will come in the city where the fast-food workers' labor effort first started several years ago. A panel created by Gov. Andrew M. Cuomo on Wednesday recommended the change; the increase will occur faster in New York City than other parts of the state because of the higher cost of living there.

Some Democrats are pushing for the federal minimum wage to be raised to $15 an hour, including two other candidates for the party's presidential nomination: Bernie Sanders, the Vermont senator, and Martin O'Malley, the former Maryland governor.

Mrs. Clinton has argued that the national minimum wage of $7.25 an hour needs to be increased, but she has not gone so far as to endorse an increase to $15. Her embrace of the New York recommendation for fast-food workers will be her first endorsement of a $15-per-hour minimum in any context.

In a town hall in New Hampshire, Mrs. Clinton suggested a nuanced view of the national minimum-wage debate, one that is more localized than a uniform change in federal policy.

“I think part of the reason that the Congress and very strong Democratic supporters of increasing the minimum wage are trying to debate and determine what’s the national floor is because there are different economic environments,” Mrs. Clinton said. “And what you can do in L.A. or in New York may not work in other places.”

From: Hinton, Karen
To: Shorris, Anthony
Cc: Wolfe, Emma; jfdc@akpdmedia.com; Walzak, Phil; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: RE: Guns....
Date: Friday, July 24, 2015 1:26:40 PM

What if we recruited other Mayors to call on Cerberus to stop manufacturing assault weapons?

-----Original Message-----

From: Shorris, Anthony
Sent: Friday, July 24, 2015 11:07 AM
To: Hinton, Karen
Cc: Wolfe, Emma; jfdc@akpdmedia.com; Walzak, Phil; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: Guns....

I like some larger national campaign here -- especially including the hedge funds to gunmakers link -- and would like to get MRB folks back on board on this as well in other aspects. Is this worth a Wolfson conversation?

Anthony E. Shorris
First Deputy Mayor
City of New York
City Hall
New York, NY 10007
212-788-3191

> On Jul 24, 2015, at 11:03 AM, Hinton, Karen <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>

> This is the press release I wrote for the families or a version of it.

>

> Mayor could call on Feinberg/Cereberus to do the same. Would take it > to a new level. Other mayors could do it.

>

> This hedge fund is the majority owner of Bushmaster/Remington and they > manufacture all assault weapons.

>

> Karen Hinton
> Press Secretary
> 917-246-7692

> Follow Me On Twitter @KarenHinton

>

>

>

>

>

>

>

>> On 7/24/15, 9:18 AM, "Wolfe, Emma" <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>>

>> I nominate something real that the city can do plus something larger >> national/political

>>

>>

>>

>>

>>> On Jul 24, 2015, at 9:17 AM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

>>>

>>> As Public Advocate, BDB pushed for hedge funds to divest from gun >>> stocks - and had some success. I obviously like that approach - but >>> open to anything meaningful we could do to curb gun violence either >>> as part of Mayors Against Illegal Guns or something elseŠ
>>>
>>>
>>> <http://momsdemandaction.org/in-the-news/under-pressure-to-divest-eig> >>> ht-fi
>>> na
>>> ncial-firms-dump-all-gun-stocks-14-more-cut-holdings/
>>>
>>>> On 7/24/15, 7:08 AM, "Hinton, Karen" <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>>>>
>>>> Charleston Chattanooga now this.... Also we can make sure cuomo >>>> isn't off the hook
>>>>
>>>> Sent from my iPhone
>>>>
>>>>> On Jul 24, 2015, at 7:04 AM, Wolfe, Emma <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>
>>>>> wrote:
>>>>>
>>>>> ++
>>>>>
>>>>>
>>>>>
>>>>>> On Jul 23, 2015, at 11:43 PM, Walzak, Phil
>>>>>> <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>
>>>>>> wrote:
>>>>>>
>>>>>> how abt a TPA agena item? with accopnaying push?
>>>>>> PD is great and i think our efforts frm what i understand are >>>>>> pretty decent here in city - we can highligh more but this is >>>>>> getting out of control - natl issue, prog issue, i know its not >>>>>> income inequality but this needs to be said
>>>>>>
>>>>>> _____
>>>>>> From: Shorris, Anthony
>>>>>> Sent: Thursday, July 23, 2015 10:41 PM
>>>>>> To: Wolfe, Emma; Walzak, Phil; Snyder, Thomas
>>>>>> Subject: RE: Guns....
>>>>>>
>>>>>> Right question -- need to process with Liz Glazer and better >>>>>> folks at NYPD.
>>>>>>
>>>>>> _____
>>>>>> From: Wolfe, Emma
>>>>>> Sent: Thursday, July 23, 2015 10:24 PM
>>>>>> To: Walzak, Phil; Snyder, Thomas; Shorris, Anthony
>>>>>> Subject: Guns....
>>>>>>
>>>>>> I mean...shd we do something more here
>>>>
>
> <Feinbergletterpressrelease.docx>

From: Yazgi, Stephanie
To: "Hayley Prim"
Cc: John Del Cecato; Viguers, Jonathan; Schwartz, Regina
Subject: RE: kenney
Date: Friday, July 24, 2015 1:52:01 PM

Monday works. What time? 11A?

From: Hayley Prim [mailto:hayley@progressiveagenda.us]
Sent: Friday, July 24, 2015 1:46 PM
To: Yazgi, Stephanie
Cc: John Del Cecato; Viguers, Jonathan; Schwartz, Regina
Subject: Re: kenney

He has not talked to Kenney as far as I know-- though I imagine he called and said congrats after the primary.

Also happy to do a call. I'm out of pocket most of this weekend, can it wait until Monday? Or else I will figure out a time

On Friday, July 24, 2015, Yazgi, Stephanie <syazgi@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
Do any of you have record of MBdB talking to Kenney from Philly?
If so, then when and about what?

Thanks!

Also, Hayley- seems like Mayor is talking about mayor's organizing only in terms of TPA these days- I need
To keep these two things separate until we figure out the structure of both- any updates from your end?
Want to keep our lanes and responsibilities clear both for work flow, info sharing, and communication.
Can we do a call with JV and Regina to discuss? JDC happy to have you join but it will be details and silly
Things for logistics so not necessary.

--

Hayley Prim

c:

From: Leopold, Elana
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Hagelgans, Andrea; Blumm, Kate; Walzak, Phil; Shorris, Anthony; Griffith, Chantell; "URamirez@schools.nyc.gov"; Goldmark, Karin; Williams, Dominic; "jonathan@berlinrosen.com"; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Chao, Raymond; "JWallack@schools.nyc.gov"; Thornton, Demetrius; Wolfe, Emma; Schnake Mahl, Gabriel
Subject: MBDB: Education Speech Briefing
Date: Friday, July 24, 2015 3:08:51 PM

All- we expect this meeting to start on time

From: Viguers, Jonathan
To: Yazgi, Stephanie; "Hayley Prim"
Cc: John Del Cecato; Schwartz, Regina
Subject: RE: kenney
Date: Friday, July 24, 2015 3:22:26 PM

Yup, will send

From: Yazgi, Stephanie
Sent: Friday, July 24, 2015 3:21 PM
To: 'Hayley Prim'
Cc: John Del Cecato; Viguers, Jonathan; Schwartz, Regina
Subject: RE: kenney

230 to 3pm

Jv can you send cal invite?

From: Hayley Prim [<mailto:hayley@progressiveagenda.us>]
Sent: Friday, July 24, 2015 2:16 PM
To: Yazgi, Stephanie
Cc: John Del Cecato; Viguers, Jonathan; Schwartz, Regina
Subject: Re: kenney

I think anytime after 2 is good.

On Friday, July 24, 2015, Yazgi, Stephanie <syazgi@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
That sounds lovely.
What time.

From: Hayley Prim [<mailto:hayley@progressiveagenda.us>]
Sent: Friday, July 24, 2015 2:13 PM
To: Yazgi, Stephanie
Cc: John Del Cecato; Viguers, Jonathan; Schwartz, Regina
Subject: Re: kenney

Can we do later? Driving down from upstate Monday AM.

On Friday, July 24, 2015, Yazgi, Stephanie <syazgi@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
Could do 1230 to 1

From: Hayley Prim [<mailto:hayley@progressiveagenda.us>]
Sent: Friday, July 24, 2015 1:56 PM
To: Yazgi, Stephanie
Cc: John Del Cecato; Viguers, Jonathan; Schwartz, Regina
Subject: Re: kenney

Afternoon is better if possible.

On Friday, July 24, 2015, Yazgi, Stephanie <syazgi@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
I don't have any record of him calling to congratulate. Not safe to assume.

From: Hayley Prim [<mailto:hayley@progressiveagenda.us>]

Sent: Friday, July 24, 2015 1:46 PM
To: Yazgi, Stephanie
Cc: John Del Cecato; Viguers, Jonathan; Schwartz, Regina
Subject: Re: kenney

He has not talked to Kenney as far as I know-- though I imagine he called and said congrats after the primary.

Also happy to do a call. I'm out of pocket most of this weekend, can it wait until Monday? Or else I will figure out a time

On Friday, July 24, 2015, Yazgi, Stephanie <syazgi@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
Do any of you have record of MBdB talking to Kenney from Philly?
If so, then when and about what?

Thanks!

Also, Hayley- seems like Mayor is talking about mayor's organizing only in terms of TPA these days- I need
To keep these two things separate until we figure out the structure of both- any updates from your end?
Want to keep our lanes and responsibilities clear both for work flow, info sharing, and communication.
Can we do a call with JV and Regina to discuss? JDC happy to have you join but it will be details and silly
Things for logistics so not necessary.

--
Hayley Prim
c: [REDACTED]

From: Leopold, Elana
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; ifdc@akpdmedia.com; Thornton, Demetrius; Shorris, Anthony; Chao, Raymond; Walzak, Phil; Goldmark, Karin; jonathan@berlinrosen.com; URamirez@schools.nyc.gov; JWallack@schools.nyc.gov; Wolfe, Emma; Williams, Dominic; Schnake Mahl, Gabriel; Griffith, Chantell; Blumm, Kate; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: MBDB: Education Speech Briefing
Date: Friday, July 24, 2015 4:03:53 PM

Waiting for the rest of the team to arrive

Will let you know when to dial in

MBDB: Education Speech Briefing

Scheduled: Friday, Jul 24, 2015 from 4:00 PM to 5:00 PM

Location: Gracie Mansion, The Parlor Room - Call in # [REDACTED] code [REDACTED]

Invitees: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca , John Del Cecato , Thornton, Demetrius , Shorris, Anthony , Chao, Raymond , Walzak, Phil , Goldmark, Karin , 'jonathan@berlinrosen.com' , 'URamirez@schools.nyc.gov' , 'Wallack Josh (JWallack@schools.nyc.gov)' , Wolfe, Emma , Williams, Dominic , Schnake Mahl, Gabriel , Griffith, Chantell , Blumm, Kate , Hagelgans, Andrea

Sent from my iPhone

From: B
To: Walzak, Phil; Hinton, Karen; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; "hayley@progressiveagenda.us"
Cc: Snyder, Thomas; Shorris, Anthony; Williams, Dominic
Subject: Fw: WSJ: Hillary Clinton to Propose Doubling Capital Gains Tax Rate on Short-Term Investments
Date: Friday, July 24, 2015 4:53:58 PM

Praise this to the high heavens when she does this

From: Clips
Sent: Friday, July 24, 2015 03:26 PM
To: Clips
Subject: WSJ: Hillary Clinton to Propose Doubling Capital Gains Tax Rate on Short-Term Investments

Hillary Clinton to Propose Doubling Capital Gains Tax Rate on Short-Term Investments

WSJ - Laura Meckler - 2:37 pm

<http://www.wsj.com/articles/clinton-to-propose-rise-in-capital-gains-taxes-on-short-term-investments-1437747732>

Hillary Clinton will propose a sharp increase in the capital-gains tax rate for the highest earners for investments held only a few years, a campaign official said Friday.

Under the Clinton plan, investments held between one and two years would be taxed at the normal income-tax rate of 39.6%, nearly double the existing 20% capital gains rate. Neither figure counts an extra 3.8% tax on net investment income included as part of the health-care law, a campaign official said.

The campaign's proposal would affect only the top 0.5% of taxpayers. In 2015, the top bracket takes effect above $464,850 of taxable income for married couples filing jointly and $411,500 for single filers.

The rate for top-bracket taxpayers would be set on a sliding scale, with the lowest rate applied to investments held the longest. To qualify for the existing 20% rate, one would have to hold an investment for at least six years.

Mrs. Clinton will lay out the plan in a speech Friday in New York City, where she plans to spotlight what she sees as unhealthy corporate efforts to boost stock prices. She will argue that a focus on short-term results is undercutting longer-term economic growth and hurting American workers.

Mrs. Clinton will also endorse a $15 per hour minimum wage proposal for fast-food workers in New York, a campaign official said. Asked about this on Thursday, she hedged as to whether the minimum wage should be that high nationally but said certain cities can justify higher minimums. "I do recognize that the cost of living in Little Rock is different than the cost of living in Manhattan," she told reporters. Asked if $15 per hour is justified in New York, she said, "That's up to local leaders in New York. They certainly believe it is."

The campaign said she would also call for greater disclosure of stock buybacks by companies, saying that while they may give a quick lift to stock prices, they often come at the expense of research and development spending. She will also call for a review of securities rules related to shareholder activism and rules governing tax treatment of executive compensation.

The capital-gains tax changes are the centerpiece of her proposal. Campaign officials have said that their goal is not to address income inequality or to raise money for the federal treasury, but to change investor behavior.

Under existing law, investments held for less than a year are already taxed at normal income-tax rates, and that wouldn't change under the Clinton plan.

But her plan would affect taxes for the top-tier taxpayers who hold investments for anywhere between two and six years. For instance, investments held for two to three years would be taxed at 36%; those held three to four years would face a tax of 32%. The sliding scale ends at six years.

Her campaign labeled the short-term focus “the tyranny of today’s earnings report” in its preview of the speech. The change in the capital-gains tax rates are meant to focus investors and corporations for the long term.

“Clinton will acknowledge that these changes to the tax code alone will not shift investors’ focus from short-term to long-term overnight,” the campaign said in previewing the speech. “But she believes this reform is a strong first step toward removing some of the incentives pushing us toward short-termism, and aligning investment toward long-term value.”

Some economists and many Republicans argue there is little the government can do to change corporate behavior. Republican presidential contenders by and large want to go in the opposite direction by eliminating taxes on investment income or at least reducing them.

Campaigning in Greenville, S.C., on Thursday, Mrs. Clinton was asked how she thought her ideas on corporate America will be received. She declined to speculate but said: “I’m proposing policies that will make our economy stronger, that will promote both strong growth and fair growth but will do so with a longer-term perspective. That’s what I think is best for the country. I think it’s also best for business whether they agree with it or not.”

Her speech Friday is meant to explain how short-term outlooks helped produce near-record high profits but stagnant wages. The campaign cited studies showing that companies that increase spending on stock buybacks, sometimes in an effort to boost the share price, also cut spending on things such as new plants and equipment.

Mrs. Clinton plans to extol both the virtues and risks of shareholder activism, but it was unclear if her speech would ask for anything beyond a review of securities rules. The campaign said shareholder activists can often push a company to improve its operations, but can also pressure management to embrace measures that boost short-term stock performance at the expense of long-term growth.

On stock buybacks, the campaign noted that some countries require daily disclosures, whereas the U.S. mandates it only on a quarterly basis. She will call for greater disclosure in the U.S.

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: Hayley Prim
Cc: Klein, Monica; John Del Cecato; B
Subject: Re: $15 min wage: from Mayor
Date: Saturday, July 25, 2015 1:27:53 PM

In today's Times she said she supported the NY State wage board decision on food service but avoided supporting a new national 15$ standard

Sent from my iPhone

On Jul 25, 2015, at 1:19 PM, Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us> wrote:

She has never said she is for $15 on a national level, but has showed support for localities who have passed it. She has stated that she is for an increase in minimum wage on a national level, but hasn't specified a dollar amount.

On Saturday, July 25, 2015, Klein, Monica <MKlein@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

As per Mayor, cc'ed – I thought she already came out for $15 min wage national standard. Please clarify.

Ty

Hillary Clinton to Back $15 Fast-Food Minimum Wage in New York

NEW YORK TIMES - Maggie Haberman - July 24, 2015

Hillary Rodham Clinton on Friday will use a speech focused on growing the economy to endorse a $15-an-hour minimum wage proposal for fast-food workers recommended by a New York panel, a person briefed on her plans said.

The remarks from Mrs. Clinton will come in the city where the fast-food workers' labor effort first started several years ago. A panel created by Gov. Andrew M. Cuomo on Wednesday recommended the change; the increase will occur faster in New York City than other parts of the state because of the higher cost of living there.

Some Democrats are pushing for the federal minimum wage to be raised to $15 an hour, including two other candidates for the party's presidential nomination: Bernie Sanders, the Vermont senator, and Martin O'Malley, the former Maryland governor.

Mrs. Clinton has argued that the national minimum wage of $7.25 an hour needs to be increased, but she has not gone so far as to endorse an increase to $15. Her embrace of the New York recommendation for fast-food workers will be her first endorsement of a $15-per-hour minimum in any context.

In a town hall in New Hampshire, Mrs. Clinton suggested a nuanced view of the national minimum-wage debate, one that is more localized than a uniform change in federal policy.

“I think part of the reason that the Congress and very strong Democratic supporters of increasing the minimum wage are trying to debate and determine what’s the national floor is because there are different economic environments,” Mrs. Clinton said. “And what you can do in L.A. or in New York may not work in other places.”

--

Hayley Prim

c:

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: John Del Cecato
Cc: Hayley Prim
Subject: Re:
Date: Saturday, July 25, 2015 4:57:17 PM

good

Sent from my iPad

> On Jul 25, 2015, at 4:56 PM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:
>
> I'm gonna try to get Geri to come to town Wed
>
>

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: John Del Cecato
Cc: Hayley Prim
Subject: Re:
Date: Saturday, July 25, 2015 5:50:51 PM

Now that I looked at my Wednesday its a little crowded for me. Is that day the only option?

Sent from my iPhone

> On Jul 25, 2015, at 4:56 PM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:
>
> I'm gonna try to get Geri to come to town Wed
>
>

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
To: John Del Cecato; Snyder, Thomas; Walzak, Phil; Hinton, Karen
Subject: What May Be Hillary Clinton's Biggest Challenge - ABC News
Date: Saturday, July 25, 2015 7:13:39 PM

See Maggie on BdB:

<http://abcnews.go.com/Politics/hillary-clintons-biggest-challenge/story?id=32674386>

Sent from my iPhone

From: John Del Cecato
To: Hagelgans, Andrea; Walzak, Phil; Hinton, Karen; Snyder, Thomas
Cc: Hayley Prim
Subject: TPA media appearances
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 10:43:48 AM

As you guys put together the media plan for the next few weeks, Team TPA would love to plug MBDB into each of the following. All of them can be taped, to give us maximum scheduling flexibility - with the exception of Rachel Maddow, who's live at 9pm ET on MSNBC...

- Maddow - possibly on Rome, since we didn't do This Week?
- Tavis Smiley - There are now more AfAm children living in poverty than caucasian kids
- Univision -- Family Leave
- CNN Inequality – Poppy HARLOW
- Hayes → MBDB out in the community, taking the 2 from Wall Street to the South Bronx (showing the Tale of Two Cities in NYC)
- Go on CNN to discuss presidential forum when announced

From: John Del Cecato
To: Snyder, Thomas; Walzak, Phil
Cc: Hayley Prim; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Subject: FW: From Brave New Films - 9/10 Event Agenda & Video Script
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 10:53:16 AM
Attachments: HedgufundersVsKindergardenTeachersScript.pdf

Script for film on 9/10 - still being tweaked

From: Regina Clemente <regina@bravenewfilms.org>
Date: Wednesday, July 22, 2015 at 8:47 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: Robert Greenwald <robert@bravenewfilms.org>
Subject: From Brave New Films - 9/10 Event Agenda & Video Script

Hi John -

Below is an overview of the 9/10 Hedge Fund vs Kindergarten Teachers event – and attached is the script for the film.

Look over and let me know if you have any questions/if you want to jump on the phone to discuss more.

Thanks!

Regina

Regina Clemente
Director of Campaigns
Brave New Films
regina@bravenewfilms.org
o: 310-204-0448 x.236
c: 818-239-2070
bravenewfilms.org

Hedge Fund Manager vs Kindergarten Teachers – Who is Taxed More?

Date: Sept. 10th 2016

Time: 4-5pm EST

Locations: TBD

Event Overview: Progressive mayors from throughout the country (5 cities TBD) will participate in a multi-city press and online streaming event to draw attention to the inequality in federal tax policy that hurts the citizens of their cities.

Video Overview: The video will be around 5-10 minutes and be built around interviews with kindergarten teachers discussing the inequity of: 1) All of them in the country making less than the top 25 hedge fund managers in the country and, 2) Them being taxed at a higher rate than hedge fund manager billionaires. You can see the draft script attached.

Event Agenda: See below, once we get mayors confirmed, Regina will work with staff re talking points for each mayor so we get reiteration of overall message, but specific differences re each city.

4:00 Introductions (MBDB)

- Thank you for joining me here today to fight for everyday Americans..
- Connect issue to NYers and The Progressive Agenda's larger work
- NY kindergarten teacher (3 minutes)
- Connect to the federal issue of tax policy being a problem for Americans in cities across the country
- Thank all the mayors joining him today and cut to: (note: none of these mayors are confirmed yet)

4:08 Los Angeles, CA (Eric Garcetti) 5 MINUTE TOTAL FOR EG/ 3 for teacher/ total 8

- Here in Los Angeles we have the largest service sector in the country, the second largest school district, and a whole lot of hard-working creatives struggling to get by. And kindergarten teachers work especially hard.
- LA kindergarten teacher
- NONE of these people should be being taxed at a higher rate than [insert wealthy Los Angelinos]. That's the opposite of fair.
- We just passed an ordinance raising our minimum wage here to $15/hour by 202 – but we did not do that so that the government can wage earners at this level more than they do people making $15,000/hour!

4:16 Dayton, OH (Nan Whayley) 3 minutes for NW, 2 for local teacher/ total 5

- The great city of Dayton has a long, long history of hard working, blue collar Americans who work too much, for too long – and don't see the benefits of it.
- Local kindergarten teacher
- How can we live in a world where Daytonians have to work 7 days a week until they are in their 80s – and tax them MORE than those who haven't worked a real day in their life, but inherited a life of luxury?
- This is not the America any of us were promised.

4:21 Austin, TX (Steve Adler) 3 minutes for SA, 2 for local kindergarten teacher, total 5

- It may be a bit of the wild west out here, but we are certainly civilized enough to know when every day Americans are being short shifted.
- Local Kindergarten teacher
- And there is no other way to explain cattle ranchers and wind farm workers being taxed more than the biggest baddest Texas oil tycoons.

4:26 Baltimore, MD (Stephanie Rawlings-Blake) 3 minutes for SRB, 2 for teacher, total 5

- There were a lot of reasons for the recent riots in my city. And we are working on fixing all of them.
- But one undeniable cause of such civil unrest is income inequality.
- Our families are working themselves to the bone just to survive, to eat, to send their kids to community college.
- So it is heartbreaking to see the federal government strip these families of their hard earned dollars at a higher rate than the billionaires.
- Talk about un-American, that's un-American. What's most American – a a teacher trying to give all kids a strong start in life..
- Local kindergarten teacher

4:31 Question & Answer Session (facilitated by NY teacher) - 15 total

- Thank you for representing so many voices from working cities throughout the nation.
- [If teacher] I am a teacher at ____ school, teaching for __ years – and trying to save that whole time. But it's not easy on a salary of ____ in these times. So it hurts me to know that the government thinks that billionaires deserve a break, but I don't.
- Many of you out there care about this just as much as I do - and have submitted questions to us in advance, so we are going to answer some of those now.
 - Do one question for each mayor.

4:46 Closing (MBDB)

- The passion and pain around this issue is clear.
- Announces call to action (TBD)

Headfunders Vs Kindergarden TeachersScott Marcano/Executive Producer

#	Image	Narration/Dialogue	Citation
1	A Kindergarten teacher standing with a group of kids.	Teacher: "The reason I got into teaching Kindergarten was because of these kids are our future. This is where it all starts. What I get out of it is pure joy."
2	A second teacher	Teacher: "Teaching is the hardest job you'll ever love."
3	A third teacher	Teacher: "It's more than a full time job. I'm on for six hours, and then when I get home I'm planning, organizing, getting my supplies, talking with parents, going over my lessons.
4	Fourth Teacher	Teacher: "It doesn't stop until I go to sleep at night. It's my passion, it has to be because it's not about the money."
5	Graphic showing how much the average Kindergarten Teacher makes. $50,000		http://www1.salary.com/Teacher-Kindergarten-salary.html
	Text: The US pays teachers 60% less than other college grads - one of the lowest rates in the industrialized world!	Graphic showing this.

6	Teacher #1	Is it hard for me to get by on my salary. Yeah, I have to borrow money every month to get by.
7	Teacher #2	It's hard when you have kids of your own. I mean, I'll probably never own a home, not in California.
	What would you say if I told you that the top 25 Hedgfunders earn more than all the Kindergarten teacher's in the country combined. (Could also be a clip of Obama saying this or Newsclip)		http://www.cbsnews.com/news/an-eye-popping-figure-about-hedge-fund-managers/ http://www.vox.com/2014/5/6/5688794/these-four-hedge-fund-guys-out-earned-every-kindergarten-teacher-in
8		Teacher: My reaction would be one of disgust.
9	Graphic showing how much Hedgfunders make as oppose to teachers $12.5 Billion vs. $8 Billion.		http://www.cbsnews.com/news/an-eye-popping-figure-about-hedge-fund-managers/ http://www.vox.com/2014/5/6/5688794/these-four-hedge-fund-guys-out-earned-every-kindergarten-teacher-in
10		Teacher: I can't believe that. Are you serious?!
11	Text: The salary of manager Steve Cohen alone could pay the yearly salary		Data research from Eric Altshuler http://www.forbes.com/hedge-fund-managers/list/#tab:overall

	of 25,000 teachers. Montage of all the hedgefund guys and how much they make.
12		Teacher: I think it shows how out-of-whack our economic policies have gotten.
13	Text: Hedgefunds managers are actually taxed at a lower rate than everyone else.	Teacher: That's amazing!
14	Graphic showing the comparative tax rates.		http://www.forbes.com/sites/russalanprince/2014/11/24/how-hedge-fund-managers-lower-their-tax-bills/ http://www.huffingtonpost.com/dean-baker/the-hedge-fund-managers-t_b_5148468.html http://money.cnn.com/2014/04/04/pi/taxes/top-1-taxes/
	Teacher #1	Teacher: that makes no sense, what-so-ever. They're billionaires.
15	Teacher #2	Teacher: So I pay more in taxes, when I can barely get by, and these guys who own yachts, and mansions, five homes - have a lower tax rate than me?!
16	Teacher #4	Their problem is they only pay the Carried Interest Tax rate for their capital gains, which makes their rate lower than what we pay in taxes on our wages, but it's all income, the rate should be the same.

16	Teacher #2 Audio played under images of teaching. Classrooms in action. Young kids faces.	Teacher: We need to start a serious discussion of income inequality in this country. Because this is just outrageous. How much money is enough? We need to start thinking about the future of our country. Our kids are the future! We need the best people helping them, guiding them, engaging their imaginations. Teaching is the most important job in this country in many ways - and we don't support it.
	Text: The Carried Interest Tax credit costs the US $1.3 Billion in lost revenue each year.	Graphics show this.
17	Teacher #1	Teacher: It's shameless. I can tell you I work every bit as hard as any wall street insider. The fact that 25 guys can earn more than ten of thousands of teachers shows how our values and priorities have drifted. Every teacher in country should be furious about this. We need to do something. For our children.
18	What if we taxed these managers at the same rate as teachers?	Graph shows how much money this would generate over $17 Billion in a decade!	http://www.bloomberg.com/politics/articles/2015-05-19/carried-interest-tax-changes-won-t-come-up-until-2017-ryan-says

19	We could even give everyone in the country a tax break and still come out ahead.	Graph with data shows how eliminating the CIT Rate could lead to an overall tax break.	http://www.salon.com/2013/08/20/why_carried_interest_reform_is_a_no_brainer_partner/
	Teacher #1	Teacher: That money could be put back into education. What a concept? Helping kids instead of billionaires.
	Text: The US leads the industrialized world in kids living in poverty.	Graphic showing this.
20	Teacher #2	Teacher: That's why kindergarten is so important for this kids. It's the one place where we can level the playing field and give these kids a chance.
	Text: The US leads the world in school dropouts rates. Our education system ranks far below other nations.	Graphic showing this.
	Teacher #3	Something needs to be done. We're destroying our future if we don't fund education.
	Teacher #1 ending statement.	We need to think about our kids and the country we're giving them.

18	Want to change this? Sign the petition at Brave New Films
----	---	--	--

From: Hayley Prim
To: Snyder, Thomas
Cc: John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: Loeb sack
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 11:40:02 AM
Attachments: 07-27-15 TPA Call Sheets.docx

Attached are the call sheets I put together for our time last week. As far as I know, he has not made any of these calls.

On Mon, Jul 27, 2015 at 11:36 AM, Snyder, Thomas <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Other than Loeb sack, what are the next 3 – 5 calls he should make and why?

Also, John/Hayley – can you give me the short version of where exactly we stand on forum/CNN process?

Thanks.

From: Hayley Prim [mailto:hayley@progressiveagenda.us]
Sent: Monday, July 27, 2015 7:57 AM
To: John Del Cecato
Cc: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: Loeb sack

Tom-- Did this ever happen? Or can we prioritize it for today?

On Fri, Jul 24, 2015 at 10:55 AM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

Correct - except it's Jim Leach... Other possibilities are Tom Latham and David Young...

From: Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>
Date: Friday, July 24, 2015 at 10:45 AM
To: "Snyder, Thomas" <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Loeb sack

Asking him about hosting the presidential forum at university of Iowa in Iowa city

Ask him about co-hosting and the possibility of him helping secure Robert leach, Steve king or another Republican

On Friday, July 24, 2015, Snyder, Thomas <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

For call with Loeb sack, what exactly is he asking of him?

Tom Snyder

Chief of Staff

Office of the Mayor

City Hall

New York, NY 10007

212-341-5050

--

Hayley Prim

c: [REDACTED]

--

Hayley Prim

c: [REDACTED]

--

Hayley Prim

c: [REDACTED]

D. Taylor, President, Unite HERE!

Cell: [REDACTED]

Ask: What did you think of HRC economic speech? What are your thoughts on endorsing?

Chris Shelton, President, CWA

Cell: [REDACTED]

Ask: What did you think of HRC economic speech? What are your thoughts on endorsing?

Eric Garcetti, Mayor of Los Angeles

Cell: [REDACTED]

Background:

- Led the fight for increasing minimum wage in LA, though has been skeptical that $15/hour is the right number nationwide.
- He also has not taken a solid position on either side of the trade discussions.
- Gave us a speech last week at National Press Club talking about how important immigration reform is for the country.

Ask: Sign on to TPA

Jim Kenney, Mayor of Philadelphia

Cell: [REDACTED]

Background:

- Defeated a charter school advocate backed by hedge funds in the primary
- Advocated for universal pre-k during campaign
- Advocated to raise minimum wage to $15/hour
- Weighing a bail proposal similar to NYC to do away with cash bail for low-level non-violent crimes

Ask: Sign onto TPA

David Loeb sack, Congress Member Iowa's 2nd District

Background:

- Loeb sack is an early signer of TPA, a member of The Progressive Caucus, and represents Iowa City.
- He is already a part of Black and Brown Forum taking place in Des Moines
- He beat Jim Leach to win his seat in 2006, but Leach now teaches at University of Iowa. He might be able to help us build a relationship with Leach or get him on board.
- Leach is seen as a liberal Republican (he endorsed Obama in 08) but he might be able to get some Republican candidates to Iowa City

Latest: On Tuesday, JDC talked to Eric Witte, Loeb sack's chief of staff. He was very into the idea of being involved in a forum in Iowa City - and said he thinks Loeb sack will be too. He said that Dave Leshtz, the guy with Univ of Iowa connections, should be helpful in securing a location. Leshtz has already connected with two people who are key to locking down location.

Witte says that Loeb sack has a good relationship with Leach, Latham, Young, and even Steve King - and thinks there's actually a chance we could get Steve King to co-host, which would be very helpful in getting Republican candidates to attend.

They are going to discuss internally tomorrow.

Ask:

- You should discuss the idea of hosting a Presidential Forum at University of Iowa in Iowa, City.
- Ask for ideas and help in securing a location if he is interested
- If he is on board with the idea, you should ask him to co-host and talk about the possibility of getting Jim Leach, Steve King or another R to co-host as well

From: Yazgi, Stephanie
To: Agarwal, Nisha; Hakim, Omar; Andre, Richard; Viguers, Jonathan; John Del Cecato
Subject: Big Cities Report – 07/27/15
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 12:51:29 PM

Big Cities Report – 07/27/15

Northeast

Washington D.C (Mayor Muriel Bowser)

Public Safety: The Washington D.C. Transit Authority has created a fire/ rescue liaison who will coordinate the flow of information during emergencies and administer extra training for staff. The reform comes after a fatal smoke incident which left many questioning which department was to blame for miscommunications and a delayed response during the event. Six months after a fatal smoke incident that left one person dead and dozens injured, the Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Authority today announced a new hire within its Rail Operations Control Center (ROCC)—effectively the Metro’s traffic-control system—to bolster emergency responses. The fire/rescue liaison position provides WMATA with a fire officer to coordinate the flow of information during emergencies and administer extra emergency training for ROCC staff for 40 hours a week. There was no such position on January 12, when electrical equipment malfunctioned and filled a Yellow Line train with billows of smoke near L’Enfant Plaza station. D.C.’s fire department and Metro quarreled over which agency was primarily responsible for communications failures during the incident response. According to a WMATA press release, the fire liaison was hired July 1 as part of an agreement with the Metropolitan Washington Council of Governments Fire Chiefs Committee. “The fire/rescue liaison position in the ROCC has already provided crucial support to WMATA and Fire Department incident commanders,” said Prince George’s County Fire Chief Marc Bashoor, who chairs the committee. “In the first couple of days, the liaison provided support for more than two dozen fire- and EMS-related incidents affecting multiple jurisdictions’ 911 centers and emergency response operations.” WASHINGTON CITY PAPER, “[Metro Creates New Fire/Rescue Liaison Position to Improve Safety”, 7/20/15]

Trump: Several local leaders have been questioning if Donald Trump’s name should remain over a construction site after his controversial remarks regarding Mexican immigrants and Sen. John McCain’s war record. Several D.C. officials are now questioning if Trump’s name should come off a construction sign that looms over Pennsylvania Avenue. It is the latest headache for Trump after his controversial remarks on undocumented Mexican immigrants and Sen. John McCain’s war record. There is no mistaking who is redeveloping D.C.’s Old Post Office Pavilion. Trump broke ground on the $700 million hotel project last year. Now that he is a presidential candidate, Trump’s fiery remarks have fired up his supporters. But they have also sparked his opponents who say this sign is in effect a political billboard which isn’t allowed on federal property. Now, they want to tear his billboard down. “The point is it’s a sign that has come to be offensive to a large number of people,” said D.C. shadow Sen. Paul Strauss. Strauss has fired off a letter to Secretary of the Interior Sally Jewell demanding that she remove Trump’s sign. “All we’re asking is that the National Park Service be consistent on their articulated policy regarding logos that are insensitive being placed on federal space,” said Strauss. But Trump is soaring in the polls even as his remarks on immigrants and Sen. McCain are giving rise to controversy.MY FOX DC, “[DC officials question if Trump DC hotel signage should come down”, 7/21/15]

Housing: More than 200,000 new residents are expected in D.C even though many district’s

are said to be “full”. Time to get a roommate—Muriel Bowser says the District is set to add nearly 200,000 new residents in coming years. In an appearance this morning on MSNBC's Morning Joe, Bowser aimed to get the District's population, now at around 660,000, to around 800,000 people in a few decades. "We're going to keep growing," Bowser told the panel of Joe Scarborough fill-ins, after one asked her if the District is already "full." Where are all those new people going to go? So far, the mayor's interest in growing the city hasn't translated to supporting things that would increase the housing stock, like raising the height limit. There's not much in the rest of the interview, unless you enjoy commuters hectoring the mayor about traffic.WASHINGTON CITY PAPER, "[On MSNBC Appearance, Bowser Predicts 800,000 D.C. Residents", 7/21/15]

Immigration: Mayor Bowser is among 20 mayors to sign a letter as a part of the Cities United for Immigration Action which is working to maintain local control of public safety policies. Nearly two dozen mayors representing some of the largest U.S. cities are pressing Congress to resist efforts to rein in sanctuary cities, which are under fire since the alleged killing of a young San Francisco woman by an undocumented felon earlier this month. In a letter to the bipartisan leaders of both chambers, the mayors argue that, while the death of Kathryn Steinle was tragic, local officials are better poised than Congress to dictate their public safety policies. "Our cities and counties are home to millions of immigrant residents who live, work, and contribute to the vitality of our communities," the letter reads. "As local leaders, we are uniquely positioned to make the best decisions about serving our residents and ensuring public safety." Spearheaded by Cities United for Immigration Action, a group of advocate lawmakers, the letter was signed by 20 mayors from around the country, including Bill de Blasio (New York City), Rahm Emanuel (Chicago), Michael Nutter (Philadelphia), Muriel Bowser (Washington, D.C.), Ed Murray (Seattle) and William Peduto (Pittsburgh). The campaign arrives a day before House Republicans are expected to pass legislation to withhold certain federal grants from states, cities and law enforcement agencies that refuse to cooperate with federal officials in the detention or transfer of undocumented criminals. Several bills in the Senate, including one sponsored by Judiciary Chairman Charles Grassley (R-Iowa), propose similar prescriptions for eroding so-called "sanctuary" laws. The issue has become a political football following the death of Steinle, who was shot on July 1 while walking with her father along San Francisco's touristy Embarcadero. Police have arrested Juan Francisco Lopez-Sanchez, an illegal immigrant with a history of felony convictions who had been deported to Mexico at least five times. In April, local law enforcers had freed Lopez-Sanchez, despite a request from U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) officials that they be informed of any such release so they could launch deportation proceedings. A local sheriff cited San Francisco's sanctuary status as the reason ICE was not notified. Republicans have pounced, blaming both the local sanctuary laws and the Obama administration for what they say is a failure to enforce existing immigration statutes. THE HILL, "[Mayor's press Congress to oppose sanctuary city bills", 7/22/15]

Philadelphia (Mayor Michael Nutter)

Immigration: Mayor Nutter is among 20 mayors to sign a letter as a part of the Cities United for Immigration Action which is working to maintain local control of public safety policies. Nearly two dozen mayors representing some of the largest U.S. cities are pressing Congress to resist efforts to rein in sanctuary cities, which are under fire since the alleged killing of a young San Francisco woman by an undocumented felon earlier this month. In a letter to the bipartisan leaders of both chambers, the mayors argue that, while the death of Kathryn Steinle was tragic, local officials are better poised than Congress to dictate their public safety policies. "Our cities and counties are home to millions of immigrant residents who live, work, and contribute to the vitality of our communities," the letter reads. "As local leaders, we are uniquely positioned to make the best decisions about serving our residents and ensuring public safety." Spearheaded by Cities United for Immigration Action, a group of advocate lawmakers, the letter was signed by 20 mayors from around the country, including Bill de Blasio (New York City), Rahm Emanuel (Chicago), Michael Nutter (Philadelphia), Muriel Bowser (Washington, D.C.), Ed Murray (Seattle) and William Peduto (Pittsburgh). The campaign arrives a day before House Republicans are expected to pass legislation to withhold certain federal grants from states, cities and law enforcement agencies that refuse to cooperate with federal officials in the detention or transfer of undocumented criminals. Several bills in the Senate, including one sponsored by Judiciary Chairman Charles Grassley (R-Iowa), propose similar prescriptions for eroding so-called "sanctuary" laws. The issue has become a political football following the death of Steinle, who was shot on July 1 while walking with her father along San Francisco's touristy Embarcadero. Police have arrested Juan Francisco Lopez-Sanchez, an illegal immigrant with a history of felony convictions who had been deported to Mexico at least five times. In April, local law enforcers had freed Lopez-Sanchez, despite a request from U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) officials that they be informed of any such release so they could launch deportation proceedings. A local sheriff cited San Francisco's sanctuary status as the reason ICE was not notified. Republicans have pounced, blaming both the local sanctuary laws and the Obama administration for what they say is a failure to enforce existing immigration statutes. THE HILL, "[Mayors press Congress to oppose sanctuary city bills", 7/22/15]

Environment: Philadelphia has released its GreenWorks Report which shows the advancements made by the city in the five core areas of: energy, environment, equity, economy, and engagement. Mayor Michael Nutter has made greening and sustainability one of the hallmarks of the past six years of his administration, and those efforts were highlighted in the recent release of the sixth — and final — GreenWorks report. The 2015 progress report shows the advancements made and work left to be done in five core areas: energy, environment, equity, economy and engagement, and also details progress made on 15 measurable targets and more than 160 specific initiatives. The administration pointed to results it termed "tremendous": a citywide recycling rate that stands at 20 percent, compared to a rate of 6 percent in 2007; an increased amount of waste that is recycled or used to produce energy, from 53 percent to 73 percent; and a reduction in city government greenhouse gas emissions to 15 percent below 1990 levels. The administration said it exceeded targeted expectations in four areas, and is trending in the right direction in four other areas; the report also indicated the city met one target yet did not meet four others. "When I took the oath of office, I said Philadelphia must become the greenest city in America; it was a simple statement ... [a] goal that focused on short-term changes and long-term results for the benefit of Philadelphians, their children and their grandchildren," Nutter said. "As we started, we knew we had the assets, [such as] a city of walkable streets, one of the best regional transit systems in the country, an incredible park system and a rich stock of durable buildings." PHILADELPHIA TRIBUNE, "[City releases sustainability, greening report", 7/23/15]

LGBTQ: The Philadelphia Center City Crime Victim Service will create a full-time advocate position to serve the LGBTQ community. The new advocate will attend community meetings and educate the LGBTQ community about services offered by Crime Victim Services. Philadelphia's Center City Crime Victim Services will create a full-time Victim Advocate position to serve the LGBTQ community within the city, according to phillymag.com. Reports say the advocate will "serve to foster a sense of safety and support for victims that face complex barriers to reporting crime and participating in the criminal justice process." Mayor Michael Nutter said he is "thrilled that Philadelphia will have a full-time victim advocate to address the specific and diverse needs of the LGBT community by providing services to victims," according to reports. The person charged with this new advocate position will attend community meetings and educate the LGBTQ community about the services offered by Crime Victim Services. The advocate will also attend hearings, assist victims in various aspects of the individual case, and maintain a relationship with the District Attorney's and Mayor's office, according to reports. Nutter said in Philadelphia and the nation, LGBT community members are victims all too often, reports said, noting he understands the barriers and is therefore responding to the "unacceptable violence" by instating the Victim

Advocate position. NJ.COM, "[Philly to create victim advocate position for LGBTQ community, reports say", 7/25/15]

Boston (Mayor Marty Walsh)

Uber: Mayor Walsh believes that there should be “some” regulation of ride-hailing companies, but has made little effort to force the issue. When the sharing economy first hit town, there was nothing obviously right-wing about it. Services like Uber and Airbnb catered to people in big cities, blue America’s power base. The repurposing of underused vehicles and apartments promised big environmental benefits. The very phrase “sharing economy” promised less materialism and more “Sesame Street.”...Squeezing the debates over Uber and Airbnb into a similar framework would be a shame. The conveniences that these services offer are genuine advances, but the dilemmas they present are genuinely difficult: Can private actors like Uber and Airbnb be relied on to protect public safety? When the lines between old-fashioned categories — like “job” and “not a job” — begin to break down, what’s the best way of protecting workers? In her speech, Clinton conspicuously avoided calling Uber out by name. Recognizing that the sharing economy isn’t going anywhere, other Democratic pols have proceeded still more carefully. While Boston Mayor Marty Walsh, for instance, supports some regulation of ride-hailing companies, he’s hardly forcing the issue to a conclusion. Caution is never ideologically satisfying, but for now it’s only wise.BOSTON GLOBE, "[Uber, Airbnb become ideological flashpoints", 7/22/15]

Vatican: Mayor Walsh was among many mayors to speak at a conference on Modern Slavery and Climate Change at the Vatican. At the office of the Pontifical Academy of Sciences, the staff is cleaning up, lingering mayors from overseas are packing up, and the organizer of the mayors conference targeting climate change, among other issues, was left to answer the question: now what? Two months before Pope Francis visits New York for the United Nations meeting on climate change, the Vatican is assessing its just concluded conference of Mayors — and its relying on participants like Boston Mayor Marty Walsh to push the climate change agenda forward. Bishop Marcelo Sánchez Sorondo, in halting English, says that the conference succeeded in part because mayors of what he called some of the world’s "most important cities," like Walsh, will be working with Pope Francis to raise awareness of climate change on a local level. "It's an issue that — scientists will back it up — saying that there is a major problem in the globe, with the environment," Walsh said. "I think that industrialized countries in particular need to start paying a lot more attention to this issue." This has become a priority issue for Pope Francis and the Vatican Pontifical Academy of Sciences, Sorondo says. "The crisis of climate, for the first time, the academy says that depends on human activity," he said. WGBH NEWS, "[Marty Walsh Is Back From Pope Francis' Climate Change Conference. Now What?", 7/24/15]

Newark (Mayor Ras Baraka)

Miscellaneous: Councilwoman Gayle Chaneyfield Jenkins is responding to Mayor Baraka’s comments which accuse the City Council of letting politics get in the way of the city’s progress. The councilwoman says that the comments show “disrespect” towards the council. Central Ward Councilwoman Gayle Chaneyfield Jenkins has fired back at Mayor Ras Baraka after he accused the council of letting politics get in the way of the city's progress Tuesday morning. Chaneyfield Jenkins was not present at Tuesday morning's special meeting due to an urgent doctor's appointment, but issued a statement hours later calling the comments disrespectful and untrue. She also echoed complaints from other council members about the mayor's communication, saying the group is often given little notice of his initiatives before they are rolled out. "I am disappointed the council is being accused of playing politics when we have all voted for the majority of the mayor's initiatives - even when they are given to us at the last minute," she said. The statement from Chaneyfield Jenkins, who ran on Baraka's "Believe in Newark" election slate last year, was similar to remarks made by councilors in attendance at the meeting. [NJ.COM,

“Baraka criticisms a show of 'disrespect', Newark councilwoman says”, 7/21/15]

Immigration: Mayor Baraka is among 20 mayors to sign a letter as a part of the Cities United for Immigration Action which is working to maintain local control of public safety policies. Nearly two dozen mayors representing some of the largest U.S. cities are pressing Congress to resist efforts to rein in sanctuary cities, which are under fire since the alleged killing of a young San Francisco woman by an undocumented felon earlier this month. In a letter to the bipartisan leaders of both chambers, the mayors argue that, while the death of Kathryn Steinle was tragic, local officials are better poised than Congress to dictate their public safety policies. "Our cities and counties are home to millions of immigrant residents who live, work, and contribute to the vitality of our communities," the letter reads. "As local leaders, we are uniquely positioned to make the best decisions about serving our residents and ensuring public safety." Spearheaded by Cities United for Immigration Action, a group of advocate lawmakers, the letter was signed by 20 mayors from around the country, including Bill de Blasio (New York City), Rahm Emanuel (Chicago), Michael Nutter (Philadelphia), Muriel Bowser (Washington, D.C.), Ed Murray (Seattle) and William Peduto (Pittsburgh). The campaign arrives a day before House Republicans are expected to pass legislation to withhold certain federal grants from states, cities and law enforcement agencies that refuse to cooperate with federal officials in the detention or transfer of undocumented criminals. Several bills in the Senate, including one sponsored by Judiciary Chairman Charles Grassley (R-Iowa), propose similar prescriptions for eroding so-called "sanctuary" laws. The issue has become a political football following the death of Steinle, who was shot on July 1 while walking with her father along San Francisco's touristy Embarcadero. Police have arrested Juan Francisco Lopez-Sanchez, an illegal immigrant with a history of felony convictions who had been deported to Mexico at least five times. In April, local law enforcers had freed Lopez-Sanchez, despite a request from U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) officials that they be informed of any such release so they could launch deportation proceedings. A local sheriff cited San Francisco's sanctuary status as the reason ICE was not notified. Republicans have pounced, blaming both the local sanctuary laws and the Obama administration for what they say is a failure to enforce existing immigration statutes. THE HILL, "[Mayors press Congress to oppose sanctuary city bills", 7/22/15]

Baltimore (Mayor Stephanie Rawlings-Blake)

Government: Baltimore has a larger women's representation in politics than many other cities. Of the women who are elected officials, a number of them are African American women which many believe is good for the youth as it enhances the "role model effect". Beneath the political jockeying and spin, hidden under the discussions of gift cards and riot response, is something that Baltimore City is doing better than most other metropolitan areas. When it comes to women's representation in politics — particularly African American women — Baltimore City is queen. Take the 2011 Baltimore City mayoral election, where not only was the winner an African American female (then-appointed Mayor Stephanie Rawlings-Blake), so was her closest competitor (state Sen. Catherine Pugh). In the current election cycle, it's Mayor Rawlings-Blake and former Mayor Sheila Dixon vying for the spot, with the entry of Senator Pugh still a real possibility. Further, at the city level there is State's Attorney Marilyn Mosby, Comptroller Joan Pratt, Councilwomen Helen Holton and Sharon Green Middleton, and numerous elected judges. Of the 22 members of the Baltimore City state legislative delegation, 10 of them are women (45 percent), and eight are African American women. Political ambition begets representation. When we talk politics with the young people in our lives — particularly the women — we should mind the message. Opposition to the policy and leadership of our female elected officials should be freely expressed, but with a focus on the politics over the personal. To the women in the Baltimore political class: You are a role model. When little girls learn about politics, they learn about you. Set an example through strong, pragmatic, inspired leadership. Don't let them down. THE BALTIMORE SUN, "[Baltimore is queen", 7/21/15]

Immigration: Mayor Rawlings-Blake is among 20 mayors to sign a letter as a part of the Cities United for Immigration Action which is working to maintain local control of public safety policies. Nearly two dozen mayors representing some of the largest U.S. cities are pressing Congress to resist efforts to rein in sanctuary cities, which are under fire since the alleged killing of a young San Francisco woman by an undocumented felon earlier this month. In a letter to the bipartisan leaders of both chambers, the mayors argue that, while the death of Kathryn Steinle was tragic, local officials are better poised than Congress to dictate their public safety policies. "Our cities and counties are home to millions of immigrant residents who live, work, and contribute to the vitality of our communities," the letter reads. "As local leaders, we are uniquely positioned to make the best decisions about serving our residents and ensuring public safety." Spearheaded by Cities United for Immigration Action, a group of advocate lawmakers, the letter was signed by 20 mayors from around the country, including Bill de Blasio (New York City), Rahm Emanuel (Chicago), Michael Nutter (Philadelphia), Muriel Bowser (Washington, D.C.), Ed Murray (Seattle) and William Peduto (Pittsburgh). The campaign arrives a day before House Republicans are expected to pass legislation to withhold certain federal grants from states, cities and law enforcement agencies that refuse to cooperate with federal officials in the detention or transfer of undocumented criminals. Several bills in the Senate, including one sponsored by Judiciary Chairman Charles Grassley (R-Iowa), propose similar prescriptions for eroding so-called "sanctuary" laws. The issue has become a political football following the death of Steinle, who was shot on July 1 while walking with her father along San Francisco's touristy Embarcadero. Police have arrested Juan Francisco Lopez-Sanchez, an illegal immigrant with a history of felony convictions who had been deported to Mexico at least five times. In April, local law enforcers had freed Lopez-Sanchez, despite a request from U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) officials that they be informed of any such release so they could launch deportation proceedings. A local sheriff cited San Francisco's sanctuary status as the reason ICE was not notified. Republicans have pounced, blaming both the local sanctuary laws and the Obama administration for what they say is a failure to enforce existing immigration statutes. THE HILL, "[Mayors press Congress to oppose sanctuary city bills", 7/22/15]

Homelessness: The city is beginning to close down homeless encampments due to their unhealthy and unsafe environment. Here's a strange thought from several years ago, when Our Daily Bread, perhaps the best-known of Baltimore's soup kitchens, moved from its original location, a rowhouse on Franklin Street, to a new building at the corner of Franklin and Cathedral. I looked at the new place and wondered why it had been built of brick and mortar instead of canvas or cardboard. The brick and mortar seemed so ... permanent. "The poor you will always have with you, but you will not always have me," the Gospel of Matthew quotes Jesus. The brick and mortar of Our Daily Bread seemed to affirm that prophecy when what that prophecy needed — all due respect, Jesus — was a challenge. The city closed down one such encampment of the homeless on Martin Luther King Jr. Boulevard last month, and word spread that soon the same would happen to the small tent village on the Fallsway. Closures of such encampments have occurred before, with the city arguing that they are unhealthy and unsafe. But this time, people who work with and support the homeless demanded that the city stop shutting the camps down. And the board of directors of The Journey Home joined in that plea. "I can't think of a time in recent memory when the homeless providers have been so unified," Antonia Fasanelli, executive director of the Homeless Persons Representation Project, said in an email Thursday. Attached to the email was the following statement: "Baltimore City is destroying homeless encampments without ending the homelessness of their residents. These actions are inhumane and ineffective. Homelessness can only be ended through the provision of permanent housing and supportive services. Until the city is able to provide appropriate housing and services to encampment residents, [we] will not participate in any activities that further displace and disadvantage our homeless neighbors." Fasanelli's organization and more than 30 others, including Catholic Charities and Healthcare for the Homeless, signed the statement. THE BALTIMORE SUN, "[Dan Rodricks: Making"]

homelessness 'rare and brief' a work in progress", 7/24/15]

Crime: Baltimore is targeting crime by hosting clean-up events to bring the value of its communities up. The reduction in grime will hopefully lead to a reduction in crime. Street cleaning is taking on new meaning in Baltimore City as it has become a new crime-fighting strategy. Keeping downtown clean and safe is a constant priority for the city for tourism and the business community, but now the mayor and the police are putting more effort into cleanup in the neighborhoods. A long-time corner barbecue stand is a point of pride in the northwest Baltimore neighborhood where Sheneil Hammonds grew up. Good food is one ingredient in neighborhood pride. Another is how good it looks. "It brings the community value down -- trash, overgrown grass, old houses," Hammonds said. It's that kind of thinking that's at the heart of one of the crime-fighting strategies the city has recently set in motion: If you reduce the grime, the city hopes, eventually, crime follows suit. "I'm very focused on cleaning our communities, and I know -- and communities know -- that sometimes crime and grime go hand-in-hand," Baltimore Mayor Stephanie Rawlings-Blake said. Several times this month, the mayor has led crime-and-grime walks through some neighborhoods with police and city agencies -- like the Department of Public Works, Baltimore Housing and the Department of Transportation -- to identify what kind of cleanup needs to happen where. Interim Baltimore Police Commissioner Kevin Davis also believes the crime-and-grime strategy can help revitalize the relationship police has with the community. Friday morning, Davis helped freshen up the Southeast District station. WBAL TV, "[Baltimore cleanup events target crime", 7/24/15]

Southeast

Miami (Mayor Tomás P. Regalado)

Cuba: With diplomatic ties between the U.S. and Cuba now formally re-established and a Cuban embassy up and running in Washington, many say Cuba's first consulate should go to Miami. However, Miami leaders have lobbied against the idea. With diplomatic ties between the U.S. and Cuba now formally re-established and a Cuban embassy up and running in Washington, the next question is where Cuba's first consulate will go. Not that there's much question where it should go, based on logic alone: With 800,000 or so Cuban-Americans in South Florida, Miami would be the most in-demand locale for consular services with Havana. But logic isn't the only factor in the debate over where to put a consulate. Miami leaders have lobbied against the idea, Tampa's have embraced it and the state government has already said, thanks but no thanks. Cubans in Miami, meanwhile, were lukewarm to the idea yesterday as the Cuban flag rose again over the embassy in D.C. "I left a long time ago, and for most of us, Cuba just means nothing to us," says Armando Gutierrez, who left Cuba 56 years ago. As Cuban and U.S. officials consider the consulate question, they've gotten a seriously mixed message from politicians around the state. The loudest came from the Florida Senate, which unanimously approved a resolution earlier this year against any Cuban consulate in the Sunshine State. Miami Mayor Tomas Regalado echoed that sentiment in an in an NPR interview, "It would harm the safety and the peace of the community," Regalado argued. "It would put a burden and unfounded mandate from Washington in the city of Miami, and I don't think that we want TV cameras live every day showing protests and people engaging in discussions and maybe fistfight or something like that." MIAMI NEW TIMES, "[AS CUBA DEBATES WHERE TO OPEN U.S. CONSULATE, MIAMI SAYS GIVE IT TO TAMPA", 7/21/15]

Development: Soccer player David Beckham has made it apparent to Mayor Regalado that he wants to build a "world-class stadium" next to Marlins Park. The building of said stadium is still being debated. David Beckham told Miami Wednesday he can build a "world-class stadium" next to Marlins Park, formally abandoning past reservations about the area and launching the latest chapter in Major League Soccer's quest to bring a franchise to the city. In a letter to Mayor Tomás Regalado, Beckham and partners Marcelo Claire and Simon Fuller embraced the location next to Marlins Park, which Fuller once described as "spiritually tainted" due to backlash over the Marlins' 2009 stadium-financing deal. Beckham's group has pledged to build their stadium with private dollars, but hope Miami can provide it the land. "We have done a considerable amount of work to understand the requirements of the Site and its potential as the home of our Major League Soccer (MLS) franchise," the trio wrote in the letter. "While there is still work to be done, including completing the land assembly, we firmly believe that we can build a world-class stadium at the Site."

...No timetable for the talks were released Wednesday, but Regalado said earlier this week he's been told MLS gave Beckham 90 days to exercise his option to purchase a league franchise. That deadline has been extended multiple times during Beckham's extended pursuit of a Miami team. MIAMI HERALD, "[Beckham to Miami mayor: Soccer stadium next to Marlins Park can be 'world class'", 7/22/15]

Public Safety: Mayor Regalado met with commissioners to discuss the addition of a bike lane to Key Biscayne after a cyclist was struck and killed earlier this year. Miami Mayor Tomas Regalado met with commissioners, Thursday, to discuss bike safety after a rider was struck and killed earlier in the year, near Key Biscayne. Regalado, along with the victim's wife, Maribel Reyes, requested to add an extra bike lane along Crandon Boulevard. The request is different from the county's plan, which is already underway, and is aimed at narrowing car lanes to add more space for bikers. "The money will be spent," said Reyes. "Let's just spend it on safety. Let's make sure that that is our priority. It is not just for the cyclist, the drivers too will feel safer." WSVN, "[Officials discuss bike lane addition in Key Biscayne," 7/23/15]

Atlanta (Mayor Kasim Reed)

Police: Plans for body cameras for Atlanta's police department are on hold until next year. Mayor Reed and Police Chief George N. Turner explained that the City Council are reviewing the proposed plans and will possibly change them to make sure that everything goes perfectly. Plans by the Mayor and Police Chief to equip all Atlanta police officers with body cameras are on hold so the City Council can review the plans and perhaps change them. The Mayor and Chief had both hoped the city would be able to buy the first batch of body cameras and have about half of the police officers wearing them by this summer. But the City Council is now saying -- not so fast. "We'll look at all the facts" before approving the plans, said Council Member C.T. Martin on Monday.

...The plans were drawn up by Atlanta's Procurement Department, which is asking the Council for permission to hire a company to supply the body cameras and maintain them. The department wants to hire Taser International out of Arizona. Taser already has body camera contracts with other cities across the country. Atlanta likes its track record. The city wants to pay Taser $1.3 Million the first year, with two, one-year renewal options at $1.3 Million each. Taser would supply Atlanta, the first year, with 1,100 body cameras, video storage, and other services. If the City Council had approved the plans on Monday, the Procurement Department would have signed the contract with Taser and the purchase would have begun. 11 ALIVE, "[Atlanta police officers may not have body cameras until next year", 7/21/15]

Wages: The city of Atlanta approved of raises for more than three thousand city workers, but excluded firefighters, police, and jail guards due to a lingering lawsuit between their unions and the city. Monday, the city of Atlanta approved raises for more than three thousand city workers. But firefighters, police and jail guards are specifically excluded -- and they are not happy about it. "Atlanta has shown that it's politics over people," said Stephen Borders, who heads the Atlanta Professional Firefighters union. Borders says the wage freeze and other issues will drive Atlanta firefighters to find jobs elsewhere. Police and firefighters aren't getting raises because of a lingering lawsuit between their unions and the city -- that the mayor says basically disqualifies their members from the raise. "It would be ignorant to provide raises to a group of people who are suing us," Mayor Kasim Reed said Tuesday. In 2013, Atlanta's fire and police unions sued to challenge Mayor Reed's reform of the city's pension system. At that time, Reed said the pension system threatened to bankrupt the city. As long as that suit is active, Reed says sworn police and firefighters won't get raises. 13 WMAZ, "[City raises exclude police, firefighters in Atlanta", 7/21/15]

Law Signing: On July 21st, Mayor Reed and the Atlanta City Council signed multiple laws including one that would increase pay for most city employees and another that authorized the Commissioner of Public Works to make much needed sidewalk repairs. Mayor Kasim Reed has signed into law a 3.5 percent pay raise for nearly 3,000 City of Atlanta employees yesterday, July 21, after a vote by the city council at its July 20 meeting. However, the pay increase wasn't for all city employees. Sworn officers are still waiting on their increases due to ongoing litigation over pension funding. The council is expected to take up additional pay raises in August. The Atlanta City Council unanimously approved an ordinance at its July 20 meeting authorizing the Commissioner of Public Works to create a prioritized list of sidewalk maintenance and repair locations throughout the city. The legislation was introduced by Councilmember Mary Norwood. REPORTER NEWSPAPERS, "[Atlanta City Council: Pay raises; sidewalk repairs; Stone Mountain debate", 7/22/15]

Charlotte (Mayor Daniel G. Clodfelter)

City Council: The Charlotte City Council has begun its evaluation of City Manager Ron Carlee, whose contract expires next year. Mayor Clodfelter believes that they have a good process and will reach a decision swiftly. Charlotte City Council members have started the evaluation process of City Manager Ron Carlee, whose contract is up next year. The council will decide whether to renew the contract or terminate the city manager who has been on the job for about two years. "I haven't made up my mind about changes with management," Mayor Pro Tem Michael Barnes said. "I think - so long as we feel like we are moving in a good direction - we're okay. If we don't feel like we are moving in a good direction, we'll keep talking." Carlee's evaluation comes at a time when top city managers and department heads have left. This includes Charlotte's top cop, Charlotte's Transportation Chief and some other top brass. Some wonder if Carlee's management style drove them away.

..."We'll weigh it all heavily." Charlotte Mayor Dan Clodfelter said. Clodfelter also tells WBTV he believes in the evaluation system. "I think we have a very good process," the mayor said. "We got a lot of good input from the council members and from city organizations." WBTV, "[Council members: Ron Carlee's evaluation 'will be interesting'", 7/20/15]

Police: Mayor Clodfelter spoke at the Cops and Barbers' Arms Around Charlotte unity rally, which will help promote stronger communication between police and communities. On a recent Sunday, hundred of residents, police officers and community leaders, including Charlotte Mayor Dan Clodfelter, gathered in Freedom Park for a unity rally. Since it began in January, the Cops and Barbers Program, a partnership between the N.C. Local Barbershop association and the Charlotte-Mecklenburg Police Department, has hosted six events aimed at bringing officers together for honest, open conversations, said Charlotte-Mecklenburg police detective Garry McFadden. The first event drew more than 250 people. "We met with kids who wouldn't have ever talked to officers before," he said. McFadden, who worked in homicide for more than 20 years, said the program reaches those who have conflicts with police officers, giving them a chance to air their concerns. "We're trying to open communications between us," he said. "The public and other organizations like to keep us apart. We all have the same common goal." The Cops and Barbers program has given police officers the chance to form a relationship with youth and adults, McFadden said. CHARLOTTE OBSERVER, "[Cops and Barbers goal is to breakdown barriers," 7/22/15]

LGBT Rights: The Charlotte City Council is due to consider cutting same-gender couples' domestic partner benefits at their next meeting. The city of Charlotte staff is recommending that City Council eliminate benefits for the same-sex partners of employees who aren't married. Charlotte first offered the benefits to gay and lesbian employees in January 2013. But gay marriage has been legal in North Carolina since last fall, and became legal nationwide earlier this summer. "With the recent (Supreme Court) ruling, same-sex couples now have the option of legally recognized marriage, therefore this change will treat both same-sex couples and opposite-sex couples the same," Human Resources Director Cheryl Brown said in a memo. The city does not offer benefits to the partners of unmarried opposite-sex partners. If the City Council approves cutting the benefits, the change would go into effect in January. Nineteen city employees have coverage for same-sex partners. CHARLOTTE OBSERVER, "[City recommends cutting benefits for same-sex unmarried partners," 7/22/15]

Charleston (Mayor Joseph P. Riley, Jr.)

Charleston Shooting: Dylann Roof, the 21-year-old who gunned down nine people at the Emanuel AME Church last month, has been indicted on federal hate crime charges. When Dylann Roof sat down next to the Rev. Clementa Pinckney last month, the 21-year-old white man wasn't there to listen to the Bible study going on that night. He was there to kill people because of their race, according to federal court documents, and he had chosen their historic Charleston worship hall, Emanuel AME Church, to ensure notoriety for the mass murder he was about to carry out. He revealed a .45-caliber Glock pistol and fired hollow-point rounds that have a particularly deadly mushrooming effect on their targets. He had come carrying eight pistol magazines packed with the bullets that he used to kill nine people, including Pinckney, the documents stated. "The parishioners had Bibles," U.S. Attorney Loretta Lynch said Wednesday. "Dylann Roof had his gun." As a result, a federal indictment alleged Wednesday that Roof carried one of the deadliest racially motivated hate crimes since the Civil Rights era by targeting the 12 black people, including three survivors, and prevented them from freely exercising their religion. The sweeping 33-count indictment by a Columbia-based grand jury, dubbed by legal scholars as unprecedented in modern American history, laid the groundwork for federal prosecutors to seek the death penalty against Roof and marked the government's interest in pursuing justice for the nine people slain June 17 at Emanuel African Methodist Episcopal Church on Calhoun Street. POST & COURIER, "[Dylann Roof indicted on federal hate crime charges in Charleston church shooting", 7/22/15]

Public Safety: The City of Charleston is being honored for three programs that help keep children away from crime. The U.S. Conference of Mayors is honoring Charleston for three programs officials say has made the city safer. Charleston is one of five cities in the United States that received the Outstanding Achievement Livability Award from the U.S. Conference of Mayors last month. "Making our community safer by making it a safer place," Mayor Joe Riley said an afternoon press conference. The U.S. Conference of Mayors recognized three programs run by the city. They are Camp Hope, a summer camp for underserved children, Friday Night Lights, which allows kids and their family members to enjoy safe activities at city parks and the Turning Leaf program that helps incarcerated parents return to the community after their release from jail. "This award is all about these kids that you see in front, that's why we do it," Charleston Police Chief Greg Mullen said. "The only way we're going to stop this cycle of violence that continues to escalate in our communities is to bring families and children together." LIVE 5 NEWS, "[City of Charleston awarded for programs that help steer kids away from crime", 7/22/15]

Race: Two Charleston African Methodist Episcopal churches have reported suspicious activity on their property, prompting the Charleston Police Department and Charleston County Sheriff's Office to investigate. Two Charleston churches in the African Methodist Episcopal denomination and another area church with African-American roots have reported suspicious activity on their property in the past week, according to incident reports filed by the Charleston Police Department and Charleston County Sheriff's Office. On Fri. July 17 at about 6:40 p.m., police were dispatched to St. Phillip AME Church at 2861 Ashley River Road in West Ashley "in reference to suspicious activity," according to an incident report. At the scene, someone from the church told the officers that sometime between Tues. July 14 and that day, someone had tampered with the church's sign that faces the road. The report from St. Phillip AME came on the one-month anniversary of the mass shooting at Emanuel AME Church in downtown Charleston. Predominantly African-American churches in the South have reported numerous security concerns since the shooting, which left nine people dead. Charleston's Morris Brown AME Church received two bomb threats within two days after the shooting, and at least six African-American churches have burned since the shooting, although investigators have ruled out arson in many of the cases. On Wed. July 22 at 11 a.m., police responded to Bethel AME Church at 1827 Central Park Road on James Island in response to a report of vandalism. A man told the officers that when he arrived at the church that morning to turn on the air conditioning, he walked into the sanctuary and saw broken glass on the floor and what appeared to be bullet holes in a window. He said he had previously entered the church on Monday but had not entered the sanctuary, so he was not certain when the window was broken. CHARLESTON CITY PAPER, "[Two Charleston AME churches report suspicious activity within a week", 7/23/15]

Birmingham (Mayor William A. Bell)

Housing: The City Council says it wants to "take back" Birmingham neighborhoods where 16,000 abandoned properties need to be demolished or cleared for vacant lots. There are 16,000 properties in the city of Birmingham where abandoned homes need to be demolished or vacant lots need to be cleared. The city council wants to take back the city's neighborhoods by fixing those lots. They plan to present a budget to Mayor William Bell seeking more money to do that than his original proposal allocated. Council members went to neighborhoods across the city and discussed the proposal with residents, who resoundingly said they wanted to see revitalization in their communities like the changes downtown has undergone.

...Demolition and lot clearing work will fall to city employees, who deserve to be fairly compensated for their efforts, council members said. They are pushing for a 3 percent cost of living increase, 1 percent more than the mayor's proposal. The council also wants to restore Bell's funding cuts for the Board of Education's community schools programs and recommend $665,000 for the programs. The mayor instead wants to fund the national My Brother's Keeper initiative. The council's recommendations require additional use of about $1.7 million from the city's fund balance. They also recommend several cuts from the mayor's proposal, including the mayor's office grant match, Empowerment Week, police overtime and law department claims. THE ALABAMA TIMES, "[Birmingham has a \$4.5 million property demolition problem", 7/20/15]

Budget: The Birmingham City Council has proposed a new budget that they say will help take back the city's neighborhoods. The Birmingham City Council has released a budget proposal they said will help the city take back its neighborhoods. The entire city council gathered together Monday in the Larkway Gardens community for a news conference in support of the proposal. They examined the number of abandoned homes and apartments in the area. The council's budget includes $3.5 million in weed abatement and $3 million to demolish abandoned homes. ...The council will present the budget proposal to Mayor William Bell Tuesday. WIAT, "[Birmingham City Council proposes new budget", 7/21/15]

Human Rights: During his visit to the Vatican, Mayor Bell expressed his determination to end human trafficking. Birmingham Mayor William Bell wants to use conversations about the city's history of segregation and civil rights to spur further human rights victories throughout the world. Bell spoke Tuesday at the Vatican's conference on climate change and human slavery. He was among 60 mayors and local government officials from across the globe and one of three mayors from the U.S. invited to attend. "At the time of my birth, I was born into a society in Birmingham, Alabama, that existed under the close cousin of slavery called segregation," Bell said. "Segregation was designed to exploit individuals and groups based on race and race alone. It was for the economic purpose of cheap labor. It was to control society and to control human beings." Birmingham's role in the civil rights movement is often cited as an inspiration for later movements internationally, and the city has had a universal impact on human rights, Bell said previously. He said he was pleased to heed Pope Francis' call for an end to all forms of modern-day slavery. THE ALABAMA TIMES, "[Birmingham mayor calls for end to human trafficking during Vatican visit", 7/22/15]

Zoning: The community kickoff of the new Thrive BHM project aims to help update the city of Birmingham by getting community members involved and encouraging them to voice their needs. What does Birmingham's future look like? How are the city's neighborhoods being revitalized? What area will developers focus on next? Residents can get answers to those questions and become a part of the conversation about the city's future at the community kickoff of the Thrive BHM project Thursday night. Thrive BHM, a city project funded by the Regional Planning Commission of Greater Birmingham, aims to create vibrant neighborhoods by updating zoning regulations and urban design guidelines.

...People want to see walkable communities with mixed-use buildings that are compatible with Birmingham's historic character. Thrive BHM starts with Birmingham's comprehensive plan, then digs deeper to improve individual neighborhoods by eliminating blight and guiding development. Mayor William Bell said he strongly believes that having a solid plan in place is vital to the city's continued growth and success. "The project will result in improvements to the city's development regulations, which will enhance the livability and vibrancy of the city's neighborhoods and businesses," Bell said. THE ALABAMA TIMES, "[What's next for Birmingham revitalization? Learn about city's future at Thrive BHM event", 7/23/15]

Memphis (Mayor A.C. Wharton)

Employment: A C Wharton's administration presented a proposal to the Memphis City Council to amend a controversial program which allowed employees to postpone retirement and salary. The A C Wharton administration presented a proposal to the Memphis City Council to amend the DROP Program, or Deferred Retirement Option Plan, which allowed employees to postpone retirement and a salary. Quintin Robinson, who was with Human Resources, proposed the City allow employees who are currently in the DROP Program to freeze their participation and pursue it again whenever they choose. "Once they freeze their participation, the dollars that have gone into their drop account will sit; it affects the active employee again into the pension plan and when they decide to retire, they can retire or they can go back and resume their place in the drop," he said. Robinson said many employees, especially those with public safety decided to enter the program because of uncertainty about changes to pension and health care benefits. WREG, "[City seeking to halt retirement procedures for city employees in DROP Program", 7/21/15]

Police Involved Shooting: Mayor Wharton has asked the Memphis Police Department to review their policy on detaining passengers after a 19-year-old was fatally shot by an officer during a traffic stop. Memphis Mayor A C Wharton said Wednesday that he's instructed Police Director Toney Armstrong to review the division's policy — if it has one — on searching and detaining passengers like Darrius Stewart, a 19-year-old black man who was fatally shot by a white officer during a traffic stop Friday. Wharton said the discussion about changing or installing a policy would be separate from the investigation into the shooting, which the city handed to the Tennessee Bureau of Investigation. The administration has come under fire for the handoff because TBI's records are sealed from public review by state law. Wharton said he has "not gotten a clear answer" to his questions about whether Memphis has a policy, and what it is. "I have asked Director Armstrong to do a thorough review and make sure we immediately get a clearly understood policy as to when it is standard operating procedure or permissible to question, detain and search a passenger. Police stops are made every day and officers need to know this.” COMMERCIAL APPEAL, "[Wharton asks MPD for review of passenger policy", 7/22/15]

Police Involved Shooting: In the wake of 19-year-old Darrius Stewart's death, organizers have reminded everyone that the rally for the teenager will be peaceful. Tuesday night, friends and family held a quiet candlelight vigil for Darrius Stewart, praying for his family when a group of men in purple came with a more aggressive message about the incident. “There were agitators who were not a part of or invited to the vigil. They weren’t with the group and had a message they wanted us to hear. We chose to ignore it,” said Tami Sawyer, who helped organize the event. Police watched too, and then organizers said they started getting phone calls from officers asking questions about Friday’s rally. “They received phone calls and messages accusing them of inciting a riot or saying there would be a riot,” said Sawyer. Police told WREG an officer did reach out but they weren’t trying to intimidate or accuse anyone. Officers said it has always been standard procedure anytime someone plans a large rally to make sure laws are followed ahead of time. Mayor A C Wharton even sent a letter to friends and family of Stewart promising police wouldn’t interfere at the rally. WREG, "[Organizers remind all that rally for Darrius Stewart will be peaceful", 7/23/15]

Midwest

St. Louis (Mayor Francis G. Slay)

Veterans: A program managed by a local non profit and funded by federal housing dollars running through the city's human services department, put 51 veterans in homes for free for a year, and the report on their status is in.

Last summer, homeless veterans gathered with dignitaries at Soldiers Memorial where 51 of them were chosen for free housing for up to one year. Then, with vans pulling up to take them to their apartments, there was a brief glitch. Organizers played the funeral song Taps over a loudspeaker instead of Reveille, the morning bugle call for which the highly publicized pilot program was named. No matter. The homeless people were mesmerized, not to mention a bit skeptical, by a government program that was supposed to get them off the streets and into their own homes in one day. One year later, the program — managed by a local nonprofit but funded with federal housing dollars running through the city’s human services department — offered a glimpse at the challenges and successes of a popular homeless eradication model called “rapid rehousing.” The premise is get homeless people into homes and address their needs from there. Reveille included a particularly risky population of people considered chronically homeless. There was hope that the vets would be weaned from assistance as they became self-sufficient during the program. ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH, "[51 homeless veterans were given free apartments. How have they done?" 7/27/15]

Uber: A vote on Wednesday will decide whether St. Louis Metropolitan Taxicab Commission will allow UberX to operate here, but UberX could bail due to strings attached.

The stage is set for a vote Wednesday of the St. Louis Metropolitan Taxicab Commission on allowing ride-hailing services including UberX to operate here.

One possible scenario is that the commission gives the green light, but Uber balks at the strings attached, which has happened elsewhere. Or the commission could take the recommendation of a newly released report by the University of Missouri-St. Louis Center for Transportation Studies and impose a “limited trial” for the first year of operation. A limited-trial first run in the St. Louis area would allow the legal actions against so-called “transportation network services” like Uber to play out in the courts, the UMSL report said. Lyft, a rival of Uber, said recently it had no plans to enter the St. Louis market. The report, which was commissioned by the taxi commission, said a limit could be set of no more than 500 such drivers and warned that the initial wave of new drivers will create significant unemployment among cabdrivers. ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH, "[If UberX gets the go-ahead, is that enough to get it here?" 7/27/15]

Minneapolis (Mayor Betsy Hodges)

Healthcare/ Inequality: Study shows there are alternatives to expensive chronic pain treatment used widely by traditional medical providers, yet those struggling financially do not seek these cheaper options.

Chronic pain plays no favorites — it crosses all cultural and socioeconomic circles — but the same is not true for getting that pain treated, educators gathered at Northwestern Health Sciences University in Bloomington said Saturday. Access to help for chronic pain is improving for people with limited financial resources, but it continues to come mostly from traditional medical providers rather than through more cost-effective treatments, Alejandra Estrin Dashe, director of Northwestern's Office of Diversity and Inclusion, told a symposium audience. Researchers and practitioners in such fields as acupuncture, nutrition, chiropractic care and massage therapy want to spread the message to needy Minnesotans that there are alternatives to expensive pain medications or surgery. STAR TRIBUNE, "[Poverty limits therapies for patients with chronic pain" 7/27/15]

Environment: Shopkeepers will most likely push back as Minneapolis City Council looks to ban plastic shopping bags

A proposed ban on plastic bags headed to the Minneapolis City Council this summer could face pushback from retailers who say it should be the responsibility of shopkeepers and customers — not the government — to be more responsible about cutting waste. Council Member Cam Gordon said he intends to introduce the plan, which grew out of recommendations from a citizen environmental advisory group, at the council's Aug. 7 meeting. It would prohibit stores from packing up purchases in plastic bags, require retailers to impose a 5-cent fee for paper bags and, according to Gordon, provide an important step in reaching the city's zero-waste goals. Gordon said he expects the move will have support from the council, which has already approved a ban on foam take-out containers, but now wants to open the conversation to the rest of the city. STAR TRIBUNE, "[Plastic bag ban proposal heads to Minneapolis council, could face criticism" 7/24/15]

Milwaukee (Mayor Tom Barrett)

Transportation: A report finds that 46% of major roads in Milwaukee are in poor condition, costing motorist $753 a year. These numbers lead Milwaukee ranked the 13th worst among the nation's urban areas. (Sidenote: New York is ranked the 7th worst in the same report)

Forty-six percent of major roads in the Milwaukee urban area are in poor condition and are costing local motorists $753 a year in additional maintenance and fuel, according to a report by a transportation research group. That percentage is the 13th worst among the nation's urban areas with populations greater than 500,000. Additional costs to motorists in the Milwaukee urban area are the 21st worst in the country, according to the report by Washington-based The Road Information Program, or TRIP. "Poor road conditions in Wisconsin's cities and villages harm economic development, cost residents money on vehicle repairs and contribute to neighborhood blight that makes communities less attractive," said Jerry Deschane, executive director of the League of Wisconsin Municipalities. The report — released days after Gov. Scott Walker signed a state budget that delays a lasting solution for funding highways and as Congress in the coming week continues to struggle with a long-term federal transportation bill — found that nearly 30% of the nation's major urban roads are in poor condition. MILWAUKEE JOURNAL SENTINEL, "[Report finds 46% of area roads in poor condition" 7/26/15]

Public Safety: Two men are shot dead, bringing homicides in 2015 to 89 which has already surpassed the number of homicides in the entire 2014 year.

Two small girls and a woman escaped injury Thursday afternoon when a gunman opened fire in Milwaukee's Harambee neighborhood, killing a 26-year-old man, police said. The victim was one of two young men to die from gunfire Thursday as the number of killings in the city, which has already surpassed the total for all of 2014, reached 89. The latest killing occurred about 2:30 p.m. when the 26-year-old man was shot in the 400 block of E. Burleigh St., according to Milwaukee Police Capt. Aaron Raap. According to Raap, two girls younger than 10 and a woman were directly in the line of fire between the shooter and the victim, to whom the three were related. MILWAUKEE JOURNAL SENTINEL, "[Two men die from gunfire, as city's homicide toll continues to rise" 7/23/15]

Chicago (Rahm Emanuel)

Public Safety: Two Chicago Alderman plan to make a request of the Chicago City Council to investigate the whether there is a backlog of unprocessed rape kits involving Chicago sexual assault

Two Chicago aldermen plan to ask a City Council committee to investigate if there is a backlog of unprocessed rape kits involving Chicago sexual assaults. Chicago Alderman Edward Burke and Chicago Alderman Carrie Austin say they plan to make the request of the Chicago City Council's Committee on Finance on Monday morning. The aldermen say they want information from the Chicago Police Department about how many rape kits have been tested and certified over the past decade. The kits would have been sent to the Illinois State Police Crime Laboratory for testing. State law mandates that police departments send sexual assault evidence to the state crime lab within 10 days. The crime lab is required to analyze the evidence within six months. CHICAGO SUN-TIMES, "[Chicago aldermen to ask police for information on rape kits" 7/27/15]

Education: Chicago's newly constituted Board of Education voted unanimously to authorize up to $1.2 billion in long term bonds, on top of the $1.1 billion the board approved last month in short term lines of credit

Chicago's newly constituted Board of Education voted unanimously Wednesday to authorize up to $1.2 billion in long-term bonds so the district can pay for ongoing capital projects, fees on past borrowing and some costs of refinancing old debt. That's on top of the $1.1 billion the board approved last month in short-term lines of credit — and it won't stave off about $200 million in cuts and 1,000-plus layoffs the district already announced. Ginger Ostro, CPS' chief financial officer, said the $1.2 billion would consist of about $600 million to pay for ongoing capital projects. It also includes about $250 million to replace variable rate debt with fixed rates and to pay swap termination fees, and an additional $100 million to refinance old debt, she said. Actual bond sales will need further approval in coming months, Ostro said. CHICAGO SUN-TIMES, "[Chicago Board of Ed votes to approve \$1.2 billion in borrowing" 7/22/15]

Southwest

Houston (Mayor Annise Parker)

Vatican Conference: As leader of the Mayors National Climate Change Agenda, Mayor Annise Parker vocally supports Pope Francis' message on climate change. Gov. Jerry Brown, speaking Tuesday at a conference hosted by Pope Francis, accused climate change skeptics of trying to "bamboozle" local leaders trying to cut emissions and said he had no faith that Congress would act on global warming. "It's up to you guys," the governor told more than 60 mayors from around the world who were invited to the climate conference at the Vatican. The governor reprimanded a message he has delivered in Sacramento and elsewhere, including a recent Toronto conference on the environment: Climate change skeptics are “troglodytes.” The former Jesuit seminarian threw his weight behind Francis’ recent encyclical, Laudato Si, a powerful document in which the pope spells out his belief that creeping climate change is contributing to global poverty.

... Garcetti and Mayor Annise Parker of Houston, who helped launch the Mayors National Climate Change Agenda, put out a statement endorsing the declaration issued at the Vatican and calling on world leaders “to think like mayors and share our sense of urgency.” LA TIMES, “[Gov. Jerry Brown, at Vatican, tells mayors to 'light a fire' on climate change,” 7/22/15]

Discrimination: The Texas Supreme Court has overturned a lower court ruling, effectively suspending Houston's anti-discrimination ordinance. The Texas Supreme Court granted a victory to the opponents of Houston’s Equal Right Ordinance (HERO) on Friday, ruling that the Houston City Council must either repeal the ordinance outright or put it on the ballot in the November elections, the Houston Chronicle’s Rebecca Elliott and Mike Morris report. In April, a lower court agreed with Mayor Annise Parker and City Attorney David Feldman’s determination that many of the signatures included on a petition to recall the ordinance were either forged or otherwise invalid. The Supreme Court disagreed, arguing that as soon as City Secretary Anna Russell determined that the petitioners had collected enough signatures — which she did before being overruled by the mayor and city attorney — it was “the City Council’s ministerial duty to reconsider and repeal the ordinance or submit it to popular vote.” HERO expanded the city’s anti-discrimination code to include protection for sexual orientation and gender identity, essentially bringing it in line with current federal standards. SALON, “[Victory for anti-gay and trans bigotry: Texas Supreme Court suspends Houston’s anti-discrimination ordinance,” 7/24/15]

Transportation: Mayor Annise Parker supports the prospective high-speed rail that could connect Dallas and Houston. Plans for a high-speed train connecting Dallas and Houston narrowly avoided a death blow in this year’s legislative session, but rural Texans opposed to the project say they’ll continue fighting developers. And their eyes are already on the 2017 legislative session. Meanwhile, project developers Texas Central Partners continue pushing forward with what could be the nation’s first high-speed rail line. The company announced Wednesday that it has raised $75 million in private funds from Texas investors and has named a new CEO.

... Urban Texans, meanwhile, are largely excited about the project. Texas Central officials hope to carry passengers between Dallas and Houston, with a stop near College Station, in 90 minutes by 2021. Dallas Mayor Mike Rawlings and Houston Mayor Annise Parker released statements Wednesday heralding the project. DALLAS MORNING NEWS, “[As high-speed train developer moves forward, rural opponents stand firm,” 7/23/15]

Housing: To help make Houston more affordable as housing costs spike, one firm is taking a new approach to create a more affordable market. As Houston's Near Northside braces for redevelopment, a new affordable housing development is offering relief for those who might otherwise be priced out of the city's housing boom. And it's doing so in a colorful fashion. Avenue Place will eventually include 95 funky, brightly colored homes in shades of pink, blue and green that conjure up images of a beach scene. Priced at $161,000 to $254,000, the homes are a steal, but there's a catch: most of them come with income limits. Those that don't are selling out faster than the non-profit Avenue Community Development Corp. can build them. The homes have an unusual aesthetic that resembles nothing else in Houston. They're part of an effort to keep houses in the area affordable, even when the Near Northside is poised to change, largely due to its proximity to downtown. HOUSTON CHRONICLE, “[The most interesting affordable housing in Houston,” 7/24/15]

Dallas (Mayor Mike Rawlings)

Immigration: Citizens and activists are encouraging Mayor Mike Rawlings to take action against the landlord who is evicting tenants based on unofficial immigration checks that he conducts. Immigration is often discussed in terms of government policy and official enforcement efforts – or lack thereof, depending on whom you ask. But when citizens take actions into their own hands, the dimensions of the discussion get more complicated. In Dallas, one landlord is reportedly checking the immigration status of tenants and rejecting lease renewals of those who don't have social security numbers. Now some people are urging Dallas Mayor Mike Rawlings and the Dallas City Council to step in and stop these unofficial immigration checks. TEXAS PUBLIC RADIO, "[These Dallas Apartments Are Evicting Tenants Without Social Security Numbers," 7/22/15]

Housing: Many are still upset with Mayor Mike Rawlings and HUD Secretary Julian Castro for the re-segregation of housing in Dallas. Hey, Julian Castro. Thanks a ton. That was sarcastic. You're the Obama administration's new secretary of Housing and Urban Development. First thing you did when you took office nine months ago was yank the rug from under a major housing segregation investigation of Dallas. Before you took over, HUD had invested four years in that investigation. Your staff had come to the conclusion that Dallas had carried out a secret City Hall agenda of racial segregation for more than a decade. You shut the whole thing down after visiting with our mayor, Mike Rawlings, a fellow Democrat and a very persuasive guy. ... We're not talking about voluntary settlement patterns. This isn't about free choice. That's not the issue. This is about Dallas deliberately using deseg money to steer black and Hispanic poor people back into neighborhoods that are already heavily segregated. In this instance, city leaders gave a full court press for a project called the Gateway on Clarendon in Oak Cliff. In a letter (copy below) to the state board making the decision, Mayor Mike Rawlings warned the board they might hear some negative talk about the location proposed for the project being in a census tract that "exhibits high poverty." DALLAS OBSERVER, "[Dee-Seg, Ree-Seg. Dallas Skipped School the Day they Taught the Difference," 7/21/15]

Austin (Mayor Steve Adler)

Taxis: Controversy is brewing in the Austin cab industry over an amendment to the city's ground transportation code that could potentially limit the freedom of drivers. Cab drivers concerned about an addition to the city's ground transportation code have retained a lawyer and called for a revocation, according to a letter delivered to Mayor Steve Adler and City Manager Marc Ott's office on Friday, July 17. The amendment – part 14 of the updated code – stipulates that all in-service taxi drivers (independent contractors by trade, not employees of the franchises they drive for) must accept service requests from their service provider's dispatch system should dispatch determine them to be the closest taxicab to the specific pickup location. There are certain workarounds for the requirement: Cabbies can notify dispatch in advance that they are on a personal request (i.e., "special") or are waiting for a pickup at the airport, but if they're available, they're expected to accept the ride request. Failing to do so will result in a report filed from the franchise to the city, and a citation for a Class C misdemeanor (punishable by a fine of up to $500 per offense) delivered from the city to the driver. Accumulation of two offenses on a driver's record will result in a 60-day suspension. The change is part of a massive overhaul to the ground transportation code taking place while the city's contracts with the three cab franchises – Yellow Cab, Austin Cab, and Lone Star Cab – are up for renewal. Drivers will now hold their chauffeur's permits (as opposed to leasing them out from the franchises); franchise permits (the city-governed determination of how many vehicles one franchise may put out on the road) will be distributed based on an as-yet-undetermined set of performance metrics instead of population; and drivers will receive due process reviews for disciplinary actions. The city is also expected to introduce a driver-owned co-op within the next two years, among other, more minute changes.AUSTIN CHRONICLE, "[Drivers Are Pissed," 7/24/15]

Volunteerism: Mayor Steve Adler is working to improve volunteerism in Austin with a new partnership with a startup company. Mayor Steve Adler believes that volunteering is the way forward for Austin. Flanked at a Sunday press conference by volunteers of various groups – some holding adorable ready-to-adopt chihuahuas from Austin Animal Center – Adler challenged city residents to volunteer at least one hour during the month of August. The challenge is part of an effort to promote a new partnership between the city and GivePulse, a local startup company that helps nonprofits connect with volunteers. “I firmly believe that Austin, Texas, is a magical place,” said Adler. “And it’s magical in part because of initiatives and startups like the one we’re here talking about today.” Saying that Austin is home to legions of “ultra-talented people who work hard but give back,” the mayor stressed that the city needed even more volunteerism because its public resources are strained. AUSTIN MONITOR, “[Adler announces volunteering partnership with Austin startup company,” 7/27/15]

San Antonio (Mayor Ivy R. Taylor)

Police Contract: The debate continues between the City of San Antonio and the SA Police Officers Association over a new collective bargaining agreement. The inability of the City of San Antonio and the San Antonio Police Officers Association to hammer out a new collective bargaining agreement has provoked union officials to question the motives of City Manager Sheryl Sculley. However, San Antonio Mayor Ivy Taylor made it clear on Tuesday that the debate should be about the long-term fiscal health of the nation’s seventh largest city rather than an exercise in personal attacks. SAPOA President Mike Helle sent a letter to Taylor on Monday raising concerns about the negotiation process. In the missive, obtained by the Business Journal, Helle stated, “We believe it will be next to impossible to negotiate a fair deal with Sheryl Sculley, but we will keep trying.” Helle added, “The City Manager works for you. Let’s not let one person’s personal agenda or political bias take precedence over what is good for all of the people of San Antonio.” Taylor responded to Helle with her own letter on Tuesday. “As I have repeatedly stated since assuming the role of Mayor one year ago, these negotiations are not and have never been about the City Manager,” Taylor wrote. “I urge you to reassess your position ... because there are no changes foreseen with our management or bargaining team.” SAN ANTONIO BUSINESS JOURNAL, “[Negotiations between City of San Antonio, police union heat up,” 7/22/15]

Uber: For-hire vehicles may soon be driving the streets of San Antonio, depending on whether a deal between companies like Uber and Lyft and the City of San Antonio is settled. Uber and Lyft could be headed back to San Antonio — if they can finalize a deal with the city for a pilot program that would undo some of the regulations that drove the companies from town earlier this year. Councilman Roberto Treviño said Thursday that he’s confident he’ll have a deal to bring to the City Council on Aug. 13, when the body is expected to vote on the proposal. The firms haven’t operated in San Antonio since April 1, when a city ordinance took effect, requiring, among other things, that TNC drivers pass fingerprint background checks before picking up fares. Last month, Mayor Ivy Taylor directed City Manager Sheryl Sculley and her staff to devise a pilot program for TNCs. She appointed Treviño, the District 1 councilman, to oversee the work. Deputy City Manager Erik Walsh and interim Police Chief Anthony Treviño and the councilman have had several meetings and telephone conversations with Uber and Lyft representatives since Taylor’s directive. SAN ANTONIO EXPRESS-NEWS, “[City closing in on deal for pilot program that would bring Uber, Lyft back to San Antonio,” 7/23/15]

City-State Relations: State lawmakers are encouraging Mayor Ivy Taylor to take action against Governor Abbott’s veto on a restoration project for the city. State Rep. Trey Martinez Fischer is imploring San Antonio Mayor Ivy Taylor and the City Council to consider challenging Gov. Greg Abbott’s axing of $132 million in state funding earmarked to rehab the G.J. Sutton complex after questions arose this week about the validity of Abbott’s line-item budget veto. Calling it an act to save taxpayer money, Abbott last month vetoed more than $230 million in spending approved by the Legislature as part of the state’s $209 billion, two-year budget that’s set to take effect Sept. 1. Included in the list of budget-slashing moves was the veto of a $132 million infusion to rehabilitate the abandoned G.J. Sutton building, a project city leaders have cast as a vital component of restoration efforts on the near East Side. SAN ANTONIO EXPRESS-NEWS, "[Lawmaker urges San Antonio to challenge Abbott veto on East Side project," 7/24/15]

Phoenix (Mayor Greg Stanton)

Summer Meals: Arizona, Phoenix in particular, is working to increase the number of children who have access to free meals over the summer. Arizona had the nation's biggest drop in kids getting free summer meals between 2013 and 2014, a time when most states saw increases in the number of children reached, a recent report says. The Food Research and Action Center report said the average daily number of kids in the summer meal program in Arizona fell from 68,743 in 2013 to 56,131 last year, an 18.3 percent drop. At that level, experts say, just 12 percent of children who qualified for free or reduced-price meals during the school year were getting meals last summer. "When school's not in session, it's when child hunger increases," said David Martinez, advocacy and outreach specialist for St. Mary's Food Bank. Despite the drop, Arizona was still doing better than some states, ranking 34th overall for the portion of needy children reached by its summer meals program. Nationally, 16.2 percent of needy kids were served last summer, with the District of Columbia leading the pack at 59 percent reached and Oklahoma finishing last at 6.7 percent. Arizona officials and nutrition advocates could not explain last year's drop, but said they are working hard to reverse the trend this summer. ARIZONA DAILY SUN, "[School's out, but kids still going hungry," 7/21/15]

Pensions: A superior court in Arizona has reversed the work of Mayor Stanton to prevent pension spiking in his city. Phoenix's effort to prevent city employees from spiking their pensions with unused sick leave received a major setback Tuesday after a Maricopa County judge ruled that the city had wrongly changed how it calculates some retirement benefits. The decision could have broad implications, potentially forcing the city to pay numerous retirees larger pension benefits, and ultimately increasing the system's cost to taxpayers. Superior Court Judge Mark Brain found that Phoenix did not have the legal authority to unilaterally change its formula for determining general employees' retirement payments. Brain cited a previous Arizona Supreme Court ruling that said the state Constitution protects public employees from changes to the pension calculation that reduce benefits after they are hired.

... "I strongly disagree with the superior court's decision to block some of the actions Phoenix has taken to end pension spiking." Mayor Greg Stanton said in a statement. "We will appeal." ARIZONA REPUBLIC, "[Ruling is setback for Phoenix stop to pension spiking," Dustin Gardiner]

Mayoral Leadership: As the mayoral election nears, Phoenix reassesses its current mayor's first term. If Greg Stanton is indeed a "meh" kind of mayor — a top executive who never seems comfortable seizing a moment or leading a meaningful parade — a lot of it reflects the nature of the times. As mayor, Stanton faced the greatest financial crisis in Phoenix history, a crisis whose aftershocks the city continues to feel today. Stabilizing city finances has consumed the lion's share of the mayor and City Council's attention since the 2011 elections. There's been scant opportunity to pursue sweeping visions. Stanton will be re-elected in the Aug. 25 election, unless his two unknown challengers manage to force a runoff. That seems highly unlikely, as neither poses a serious challenge nor is qualified to be mayor. So the election serves best as a time to review the mayor's performance and look forward to his second term. THE ARIZONA REPUBLIC, "[Greg Stanton era: Mostly 'meh' but with bright spots," 7/27/15]

Denver (Mayor Michael Hancock)

Housing: At the beginning of his second term, Mayor Michael Hancock announces a $15 million budget for new affordable housing. Denver Mayor Michael Hancock said at the start of his second term Monday that his administration would aim to generate $15 million a year for affordable housing efforts. Such a sum would expand upon the city's current reliance on a loan fund and other piecemeal programs, taking a cue from cities such as Seattle that have established large recurring sources of cash to encourage the building of more affordable apartments. Hancock did not specify whether he would seek a tax, development fee or another avenue, saying all options still were under consideration. "In the months ahead, we will refine a plan to generate at least $15 million a year — every year — to produce nearly 6,000 units of affordable housing" overall, Hancock said. DENVER POST, "[Denver's Hancock says \$15M is goal for new affordable housing funding," 7/20/15]

Housing: Mayor Hancock has launched a new initiative to provide affordable housing, especially for women and military veterans. With rent still going up in Denver, finding a place to live is no easy task. So Mayor Michael Hancock is making affordable housing a priority -- with a new facility offering an oasis for female veterans and their families. "For thousands for female veterans, leaving military service means leaving a life of stability and community," said Women's Veterans of Colorado member and retired United States Air Force Lt. Col. Kathryn Wirkus. "They fall into terrible homelessness or at risk," Wirkus said. But now there is a new community called Odyssey Family Residences, and it's giving women -- including military veterans and their children -- a second chance and a new home. 7NEWS DENVER, "[36 affordable housing units open for women, including military veterans and their children," 7/27/15]

West Coast

San Francisco (Mayor Ed Lee)

Housing: The number of Airbnb properties available in San Francisco has increased by 13.8% in a year, rising to 5,459 properties listed. Critics of are saying that Airbnb are taking valuable properties off the scarce San Francisco housing market, while proponents say it is allowing regular people to afford to live in San Francisco and is encouraging tourism. Those are among the findings from a data dive into the three companies' websites. It's not the thousands of illegal hotels that critics allege have sprung up thanks to Airbnb and its rivals. But in a city wracked by a housing crisis, where a typical year sees just 2,000 new units added, a few hundred units off the market makes a significant dent. Using houses as hotels ranks among San Francisco's most-contentious issues, debated fiercely by lawmakers, residents, advocates and corporations, and now likely headed for a ballot-box showdown. SF CHRONICLE, "[The Airbnb effect," 07/12/15]

Housing: San Francisco Mayor Ed Lee and three members of the Board of Supervisors have come out in opposition of a ballot initiative to curb rentals in private homes on the site. San Francisco Mayor Ed Lee and three other elected officials on Monday will announce their opposition to a ballot initiative that would curb vacation rentals in private homes. "We should give the current law time to work," said Assemblyman David Chiu, Supervisor Mark Farrell and Supervisor Scott Wiener in a joint statement. As a supervisor, Chiu spearheaded the "Airbnb law" that took effect Feb. 1 and was modified by the supervisors this month. "You mean the new law they just passed that weakened the old law?" asked Dale Carlson, a leader of the anti-Airbnb ballot measure. He said the measure just picked up endorsements from the Coalition for San Francisco Neighborhoods and the Harvey Milk LGBT Democratic Club. SF CHRONICLE, "[S.F. mayor, 3 officials to fight curb on Airbnb rentals," 07/27/15]

Housing: As the homelessness problem has continued to get worse over the last several years, many San Franciscans have not seen anything being done to help these people. It is now being revealed that a bold new plan is being fleshed out. The new plan entails transforming homeless shelters into actual housing rather than a place homeless people can only go for one night. New York has similar housing for the homeless and the many problems that come along with it; but it is being presented as a better alternative than living on the streets. The other day, Tenderloin community activist Randy Shaw had a chance to watch San Francisco's homeless outreach program in action. Shaw, executive director of the Tenderloin Housing Clinic, says a homeless man was passed out in a chair at a sandwich shop. As he watched a fire truck pull up, the firefighters got the man to his feet and steered him over to the street corner. Then they left. "All they did was move him 20 feet," Shaw said. "How much does that cost? And isn't that a problem?" Absolutely. Anyone in San Francisco who walks by homeless people sprawled on the street wonders why something isn't being done to get them off the street. SF CHRONICLE, "[The bold new idea to get S.F. homeless off the streets." 07/22/15]

Sheriff: Vicki Hennessy would be the first elected female sheriff if she were to beat incumbent Ross Mirkarimi in November. Hennessy is already counted as the first woman sheriff of San Francisco when she became acting sheriff after current Sheriff, Sheriff Mirkarimi, was suspended following a domestic violence incident involving his wife and son. Everything I know about women's prisons I learned watching the Netflix hit "Orange is the New Black." So it was tempting to ask Vicki Hennessy — a candidate for sheriff who began her career in 1975 guarding the women's jail in San Bruno — how real the show is. "A lot of it rings true. Inmate Red is a compilation of many characters I saw in the old days at the jail," said Hennessy, who binge-watches like the rest of us. "Everything is just condensed for entertainment value. It's the same with 'Game of Thrones,' but I like to think San Francisco politics are not quite that bad." Hennessy's assessment is technically correct. We don't chop heads and display them on sticks at City Hall. Yet alleged crimes, attempted political assassinations and high drama have defined the sheriff's office in recent years. Days after taking office in 2012, Sheriff Ross Mirkarimi was charged with domestic violence battery for bruising his wife's arm. When Mirkarimi pled guilty to a misdemeanor of false imprisonment, Mayor Ed Lee suspended him without pay and made Hennessy the acting sheriff. SF EXAMINER, "[The woman who would be sheriff." 07/19/15]

San Jose (Mayor Sam Liccardo)

Police: San Jose Police Chief Larry Esquivel is retiring after three decades of serving as a police officer in San Jose. His retirement comes after one of the most difficult periods in the department's history and as there is a changing of the guard in city hall. Chief Larry Esquivel, who provided steady leadership to the San Jose police during one of the most challenging periods in department history, is retiring after spending three decades protecting his hometown. The top cop in the country's 10th largest city made the announcement to his staff Wednesday afternoon. It's a decision that had been expected this summer, and generally corresponds with a changing of the guard at City Hall and the police union. After Esquivel formally retires on Jan. 16, the interim role will be filled by Assistant Chief Eddie Garcia, who credited Esquivel with "providing stability to what had been a rudderless ship" and "getting us to the starting blocks" of a rebuilding effort. SAN JOSE MERCURY NEWS, "[San Jose Police Chief Larry Esquivel to retire after leading force during trying times." 07/22/15]

California Drought: In an effort to encourage people not to waste water, the state has attempted to increase water bills. However, the State Supreme Court has ruled that this water bill increase is unconstitutional and that they cannot make people pay more for their water than it costs the state to provide them the service. Rejecting the pleas of California officials worried about water conservation, the state Supreme Court on Wednesday left intact a lower court ruling that makes it tougher for cities and water districts to impose punishing higher rates on water wasters. In its weekly closed-door conference, the Supreme Court refused to soften the statewide impact of an April appeals court ruling that found the city of San Juan Capistrano's tiered water rates -- common in the Bay Area and elsewhere in California -- were unconstitutional because they charged more for water than it cost the city to provide the service. The appeals court, in finding the city's approach violated voter-approved Proposition 218's restrictions on such fees, "published" the decision, giving it legal weight across the state and prompting Gov. Jerry Brown to warn it placed a "straitjacket" on his mandates to lower water use. SAN JOSE MERCURY NEWS, ["California drought: High court hands setback to water conservation fight," 7/23/15]

Los Angeles (Mayor Eric Garcetti)

Uber: California is worried that Uber is not providing enough vehicles for lower income areas and people with disabilities. This appears to be a problem in Los Angeles. Uber released a study showing that Uber cost less and took less time to arrive than a standard taxi in low-income areas, however, LA Weekly points out that the lower income areas they mention in the study are quickly gentrifying and are not the best representations of Los Angeles low-income communities and they do not even include how people with disabilities are being served. When a state administrative judge moved earlier this month to suspend UberX, the reason cited was that the company that runs the rideshare service hasn't been keeping California Public Utilities Commission officials up to date on its efforts to serve lower-income and disabled people. As part of the PUC's 2013 approval of such "transportation network companies," they were required to file data on pickups in certain neighborhoods. Service to the physically challenged also was supposed to be detailed. The judge said Uber did not fulfill these requirements. Uber is appealing, which will stave off suspension. The company argues that it sees the requirements differently. Concerns about serving the underserved are reasonable. LA WEEKLY, ["UBER SAYS IT'S NOT IGNORING L.A.'S INNER CITY," 07/22/15]

Police-Involved Violence: A Los Angeles police officer, Mary O'Callaghan, was sentenced to 36 months in prison after assaulting a woman who later died. The whole incident was caught on tape by a police cruiser camera. A Los Angeles police officer was sentenced Thursday to 36 months in jail for assaulting a South L.A. woman in an incident that was caught on video by a police cruiser camera. A downtown L.A. jury last month convicted O'Callaghan, 50, of assault under color of authority after a prosecutor argued that the video recording showed the officer used unnecessary force during the 2012 arrest of Alesia Thomas. In the video, O'Callaghan jabbed at Thomas' throat with an open hand and threatened to kick her in the crotch. O'Callaghan then raised her boot and struck Thomas, whose body shook in response. The recording captured Thomas — who asked officers for an ambulance more than 30 minutes before one was called — breathing heavily and repeatedly saying, "I can't." Mary O'Callaghan sentencing comes among a time of intense scrutiny and criticism nationwide of police use of force. With the last 20 months of her sentence suspended, she could be out of jail in about four and a half months with good behavior, her attorney Robert Rico said. They plan to appeal, he added. LA TIMES, ["LAPD officer gets 36 months in jail in assault caught on video," 07/23/15]

Transportation: Los Angeles is looking to transform the Metro's Rosa Parks Station in Willowbrook, along with the surrounding area, including a community hospital, in order to reduce crime and make much needed and deserved improvements for the community. For years, Metro's Rosa Parks Station in Willowbrook has been one of the busiest, dreariest and most crime-ridden light-rail stops in Los Angeles County. Much of the Blue Line platform squats under the noisy 105 Freeway, its vast expanse of gray concrete amplifying the station's drabness. Transit riders have complained about safety, crowded platforms, poor lighting, broken elevators and limited access to Wilmington Avenue. As the 50th anniversary approaches of the riots that began in nearby Watts and highlighted L.A.'s stark socioeconomic disparities, county leaders and transportation officials say the community deserves better. They are undertaking an ambitious plan to transform the facility and develop adjacent properties to create a more attractive link to local businesses, county services and a rebuilt Martin Luther King Jr. Community Hospital, which reopened this month. Public and private investments of up to $1 billion are being made around the station, including $650 million to expand and remodel the medical complex two blocks away. LA TIMES, [“Metro's dreary, dangerous Rosa Parks Station in Willowbrook to get a major makeover,” 07/23/15]

San Diego (Mayor Kevin Faulconer)

California Drought: San Diego is proposing a 9.8% water rate increase to cover the costs of importing water and the reduction in water sales as customers reduce their water use in the drought. This increase in water costs is not aimed to encourage people to reduce water usage, as the city utilities director says, “San Diegans have done a great job with reducing the water use,” but it is necessary to keep water distribution running smoothly. San Diego water customers could see their bills climb about 17 percent in the next year under a proposal that would raise rates. A proposal that city utility officials presented Monday to the Independent Rates Oversight Committee called for overall rate increases of 9.8 percent on Jan. 1, 2016, and another 6.9 percent on July 1, 2016. The increases will cover costs including the increasing price of imported water, and lower sales expected as customers slash water use 16 percent. “I’m really happy that San Diegans have done a great job with reducing the water use, but now it’s impacting the system, and we have to raise rates to compensate for that,” said city utilities director Halla Razak. “It’s painful. Drought is painful. This is the reality that we’re all dealing with, and we have to manage.” The proposed rate increase will bring the typical home’s average monthly bill to $77.27, instead of $70.81 without the increase, under the proposal. Countywide, the average monthly bill is $78.06. SAN DIEGO U-T, [“City proposes water rate hikes,” 07/20/15]

Education: In San Diego county a summer reading program is encouraging young students to read this summer. The program helps students improve their reading skills and reading comprehension with Accelerated Reader software. Students can pass tests and get some credit that will flow over into the school year. Most of the students participating in this program are from Spanish-speaking households and it is not only helping them, but also improving family literacy. Fernando Nater, 11, already has read more than 5.2 million words this summer. Or, as he says while pushing up the glasses on the bridge of his nose, “five million, two-hundred thousand something — I don’t know how many exactly.” The sixth-grader is among 200 kids — most from Spanish-speaking households — who are taking part in a summer reading program offered through the Vista Unified School District. The program gives students a boost on their reading skills and allows them to test their reading comprehension using the district’s Accelerated Reader software. Some teachers allow tests passed during the summer to be credited to students when the school year begins. SAN DIEGO, [“Summer reading program ignites young minds,” 07/23/15]

Seattle (Mayor Ed Murray)

Sheriff: Two King County sheriff’s deputies could be fired after it was revealed that they lied during an internal affairs investigation. They said an African-American bus driver used profanity in a heated conversation they and with him last year. However, the footage from the driver’s personal body camera shows that their assertions were not true. Two King County sheriff’s deputies are facing possible termination for dishonesty after an internal investigation found they falsely accused an African-American bus driver of using a profanity during a heated conversation last year. The investigation turned on a startling twist: The Metro Transit driver was wearing his own personal body camera he later used to assert the accusation was a lie. Sheriff John Urquhart said Wednesday he will decide next week whether to uphold recommendations to fire the deputies, Sgt. Lou Caballero and Deputy Amy Shoblom. Beyond the dishonesty findings, the deputies cast the Sheriff’s Office in a damaging light at a time of widespread distrust of police in African-American communities nationwide, another top-ranking sheriff’s official concluded in a report. SEATTLE TIMES, [“Video from bus driver’s body camera

could cost 2 deputies their jobs.” 07/22/15]

Housing: Rent control is being debated in Seattle. A law was written in Washington State banning rent control, but if city legislators decide rent control is the way to go about fixing the housing problem in Seattle, they will ask state legislators to repeal the law. Proponents of rent control in Seattle argue it will allow low- and middle-income earners to live more easily in the city, while opponents of rent control think it would stifle development and lead to a bigger housing shortage in the long run. A feisty Town Hall debate Monday evening over rent control for Seattle circled the central question of whether such controls would solve the housing crisis or make it worse. Seattle City Council members Kshama Sawant and Nick Licata debated with state Rep. Matt Manweller, R-Ellensburg, and Roger Valdez, of the group Smart Growth Seattle, around major questions about rent control. Sawant and Licata are pushing for a resolution in the council that would ask state legislators to repeal a 1981 law that banned rent controls in Washington state. SEATTLE P-I, [“Rent control or not? Debate focuses on whether controls would help or make things worse.” 07/20/15]

Gun-Violence: Shootings in Seattle are up 24% over last year and 40% over 2013; there have been 227 shootings so far this year. On the street where Donnie Chin died, bullet holes pock the walls and windows near where his car came to a final rest. The small crowd that gathered the other night gaped at these holes, trying to read them like tea leaves. It’s shocking, people said. It’s the worst thing to happen in Seattle this year. A bolt out of the blue. A man showed cellphone pictures of Chin’s damaged car. It looked to have been riddled by multiple bullets. SEATTLE TIMES, [“We’re now a city where gunfire is mere background noise.” 07/24/15]

Salt Lake City (Mayor Ralph Becker)

Taxes: Salt Lake County is proposing a higher sales tax with an increase of a penny for every $4 in purchases. This new tax revenue would go to the Utah Transit Authority for rail and bus services and to local cities and counties to help repair roads. Anthony Martinez’s eyes grew wide when he saw how one group is fighting a proposed sales tax hike for transportation. It handed him a $50 gift card as he was about to enter a Ream’s grocery store with his grandson. “Really? Wow,” he said as he took the card, not quite believing it. Martinez then listened a little more closely as Evelyn Everton, state director of Americans for Prosperity, talked to him about how the tax hike would cost an estimated $50 a person per year in Salt Lake County. “So we’re giving $50 gift cards so people can get an idea of how much that can buy.” “I hadn’t heard anything about that tax increase,” Martinez said afterward. SALT LAKE TRIBUNE, [“Attention grabber for sales tax hike fight: free money.” 07/23/15]

Public Safety: Utah High Patrol troopers are using new training implemented last year to help children in who are in unsafe situations. This training has taught troopers to take a closer look when a traffic stop involves children. This training has been paying off as troopers have already helped many children out of dangerous situations. In the last week, Utah Highway Patrol troopers have helped six children who were likely in dangerous situations while on busy roadways. A trooper on Monday found three children walking on a Interstate 215 who were determined to go to South Dakota to escape an abusive situation. A day later, another trooper found three children riding with a trucker, who police believe was hitting one of the kids. Officials said Thursday that specialized training implemented just last year helps UHP troopers identify children in unsafe situations. While on a traffic stop or helping a motorist, a trooper is now taught to look closer at the situation when children are involved and to ask more questions. SALT LAKE TRIBUNE, [“New training helping UHP troopers identify abused or endangered Utah kids.” 07/23/15]

From: John Del Cecato
To: Hayley Prim
Cc: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: Loeb sack
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 1:52:54 PM

On the forum - we have two irons in the fire. I feel pretty good about both. One is Simpson College. John Culver would be Dem. Would need to work on Latham as R. Other choice is Univ of Iowa. Loeb sack sounds like he's in - but need boss to call him to make it real. Then I'd need Loeb sack to reel in Steve King or one of the other GOP members.

We should also pick a date. I'm gonna throw out November 1st - which is a Sunday. Something feels good about it to me.

On Jul 27, 2015, at 11:40 AM, Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us> wrote:

Attached are the call sheets I put together for our time last week. As far as I know, he has not made any of these calls.

On Mon, Jul 27, 2015 at 11:36 AM, Snyder, Thomas <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Other than Loeb sack, what are the next 3 – 5 calls he should make and why?

Also, John/Hayley – can you give me the short version of where exactly we stand on forum/CNN process?

Thanks.

From: Hayley Prim [mailto:hayley@progressiveagenda.us]
Sent: Monday, July 27, 2015 7:57 AM
To: John Del Cecato
Cc: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: Loeb sack

Tom-- Did this ever happen? Or can we prioritize it for today?

On Fri, Jul 24, 2015 at 10:55 AM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmmedia.com> wrote:

Correct - except it's Jim Leach... Other possibilities are Tom Latham and David Young...

From: Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>

Date: Friday, July 24, 2015 at 10:45 AM

To: "Snyder, Thomas" <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Cc: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>

Subject: Re: Loeb sack

Asking him about hosting the presidential forum at university of Iowa in Iowa city

Ask him about co-hosting and the possibility of him helping secure Robert leach, Steve king or another Republican

On Friday, July 24, 2015, Snyder, Thomas <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

For call with Loeb sack, what exactly is he asking of him?

Tom Snyder

Chief of Staff

Office of the Mayor

City Hall

New York, NY 10007

212-341-5050

--

Hayley Prim

c: [REDACTED]

--

Hayley Prim

c: [REDACTED]

--

Hayley Prim

c: [REDACTED]

<07-27-15 TPA Call Sheets.docx>

From: John Del Cecato
To: Yazqi, Stephanie; Hagelkans, Andrea
Subject: FW: Update & Opportunities w/ the Mayor's office
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 5:33:37 PM
Attachments: [REDACTED]'s Resume.pdf

FYI - [REDACTED] comes highly recommended by Randy Siegel (who used to be the publisher of Parade magazine & now has a company that does all the local news websites)...

From: [REDACTED]
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 at 4:36 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Update & Opportunities w/ the Mayor's office

Hi John,

I hope all is well. I'm just writing to let you know about my latest progress in public service. I was recently appointed by the Brooklyn Borough President as a [REDACTED]. I'm very excited, but still hope to serve the mayor in any available full-time capacity. I've attached my resume for your review. Please let me know if there are any opportunities to work in our current administration.

Again, thanks in advance for your time and consideration.

Best,

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

From: John Del Cecato
To: Regina Clemente; Robert Greenwald
Cc: Hayley Prim; Viguers, Jonathan
Subject: Re: From Brave New Films - 9/10 Event Agenda & Video Script
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 6:13:30 PM

We are still working to get MBDB to call Garcetti - hopefully soon

From: Regina Clemente <regina@bravenewfilms.org>
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 at 12:52 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, Robert Greenwald <robert@bravenewfilms.org>
Cc: Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>, "Viguers, Jonathan" <JViguers@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: From Brave New Films - 9/10 Event Agenda & Video Script

Great – if you can confirm the time and get me the contact of the people we can talk to directly about tech needs, that would be great.

Also, looping in Jonathan here – who is talking to Garcetti’s office (I think it was going to be MBDB directly, correct?) and when we will have an answer on that by?

Thanks!
Regina

From: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 at 7:44 AM
To: Robert Greenwald <robert@bravenewfilms.org>, Regina Clemente <regina@bravenewfilms.org>
Cc: Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>
Subject: Re: From Brave New Films - 9/10 Event Agenda & Video Script

Pace is locked down... Just getting them a certificate of insurance... Time is 730, is that right Hayley?

From: Robert Greenwald <robert@bravenewfilms.org>
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 at 10:39 AM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, Regina Clemente <regina@bravenewfilms.org>
Subject: RE: From Brave New Films - 9/10 Event Agenda & Video Script

Glad to hear it.
Re messaging/numbers/ etc. to be clear-----you guys hve final word on that. Let regina know how you want it worded and best fac ts

Can we lock down pace?
And lock down both MBDB and well as Garcetti? Then regina can really make this happen!

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]

Sent: Monday, July 27, 2015 6:49 AM
To: Regina Clemente
Cc: Robert Greenwald
Subject: Re: From Brave New Films - 9/10 Event Agenda & Video Script

Sorry for the delay - I think this is fantastic...

Couple of things to check... There are some estimates (NYT columnist) that say closing the carried interest loophole could be worth far, far more than the CBO estimates...

Gotta be careful in saying hedge funders pay a lower tax rate than everyone.. It's actually more like a lower tax rate than most middle-class people (the poor pay a lower rate)...

Not that MBDB is the decider on this - but he's mostly talked about raising taxes on the rich to pay for other priorities (like teachers' salaries, etc) - as opposed to returning that money to people in the form of tax cuts - just flagging

From: Regina Clemente <regina@bravenewfilms.org>
Date: Wednesday, July 22, 2015 at 8:47 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: Robert Greenwald <robert@bravenewfilms.org>
Subject: From Brave New Films - 9/10 Event Agenda & Video Script

Hi John -

Below is an overview of the 9/10 Hedge Fund vs Kindergarten Teachers event – and attached is the script for the film.

Look over and let me know if you have any questions/if you want to jump on the phone to discuss more.

Thanks!
Regina

Regina Clemente
Director of Campaigns
Brave New Films
regina@bravenewfilms.org
o: 310-204-0448 x.236
c: 818-239-2070
bravenewfilms.org

Hedge Fund Manager vs Kindergarten Teachers – Who is Taxed More?

Date: Sept. 10th 2016

Time: 4-5pm EST

Locations: TBD

Event Overview: Progressive mayors from throughout the country (5 cities TBD) will participate in a multi-city press and online streaming event to draw attention to the inequality in federal tax policy that hurts the citizens of their cities.

Video Overview: The video will be around 5- 10 minutes and be built around interviews with kindergarten teachers discussing the inequity of: 1) All of them in the country making less than the top 25 hedge fund managers in the country and, 2) Them being taxed at a higher rate than hedge fund manager billionaires. You can see the draft script attached.

Event Agenda: See below, once we get mayors confirmed, Regina will work with staff re talking points for each mayor so we get reiteration of overall message, but specific differences re each city.

4:00 Introductions (MBDB)

- Thank you for joining me here today to fight for everyday Americans..
- Connect issue to NYers and The Progressive Agenda's larger work
- NY kindergarten teacher (3 minutes)
- Connect to the federal issue of tax policy being a problem for Americans in cities across the country
- Thank all the mayors joining him today and cut to: (note: none of these mayors are confirmed yet)

4:08 Los Angeles, CA (Eric Garcetti) 5 MINUTE TOTAL FOR EG/ 3 for teacher/ total 8

- Here in Los Angeles we have the largest service sector in the country, the second largest school district, and a whole lot of hard-working creatives struggling to get by. And kindergarten teachers work especially hard.
- LA kindergarten teacher
- NONE of these people should be being taxed at a higher rate than [insert wealthy Los Angelinos]. That's the opposite of fair.
- We just passed an ordinance raising our minimum wage here to $15/hour by 202 – but we did not do that so that the government can wage earners at this level more than they do people making $15,000/hour!

4:16 Dayton, OH (Nan Whayley) 3 minutes for NW, 2 for local teacher/ total 5

- The great city of Dayton has a long, long history of hard working, blue collar Americans who work too much, for too long – and don't see the benefits of it.
- Local kindergarten teacher

- How can we live in a world where Daytonians have to work 7 days a week until they are in their 80s – and tax them MORE than those who haven't worked a real day in their life, but inherited a life of luxury?
- This is not the America any of us were promised.

4:21 Austin, TX (Steve Adler) 3 minutes for SA, 2 for local kindergarten teacher, total 5

- It may be a bit of the wild west out here, but we are certainly civilized enough to know when everyday Americans are being short shifted.
- Local Kindergarten teacher
- And there is no other way to explain cattle ranchers and wind farm workers being taxed more than the biggest baddest Texas oil tycoons.

4:26 Baltimore, MD (Stephanie Rawlings-Blake) 3 minutes for SRB, 2 for teacher, total 5

- There were a lot of reasons for the recent riots in my city. And we are working on fixing all of them.
- But one undeniable cause of such civil unrest is income inequality.
- Our families are working themselves to the bone just to survive, to eat, to send their kids to community college.
- So it is heartbreaking to see the federal government strip these families of their hard earned dollars at a higher rate than the billionaires.
- Talk about un-American, that's un-American. What's most American – a a teacher trying to give all kids a strong start in life..
- Local kindergarten teacher

4:31 Question & Answer Session (facilitated by NY teacher) - 15 total

- Thank you for representing so many voices from working cities throughout the nation.
- [If teacher] I am a teacher at ____ school, teaching for __ years – and trying to save that whole time. But it's not easy on a salary of ____ in these times. So it hurts me to know that the government thinks that billionaires deserve a break, but I don't.
- Many of you out there care about this just as much as I do - and have submitted questions to us in advance, so we are going to answer some of those now.
 - Do one question for each mayor.

4:46 Closing (MBDB)

- The passion and pain around this issue is clear.
- Announces call to action (TBD)

From: Hinton, Karen
To: Wolfe, Emma
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Shorris, Anthony; Snyder, Thomas; John Del Cecato; Fink, Avi
Subject: Re: Letitia James: NYC pension fund should divest from gun shops - NY Daily News
Date: Tuesday, July 28, 2015 6:55:38 AM

Shoot we should have done this. Maybe we can do more with her.

Sent from my iPhone

> On Jul 28, 2015, at 6:17 AM, Wolfe, Emma <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>
> If we agree with this would be a nice thing to amen/retweet
>
> <http://m.nydailynews.com/new-york/letitia-james-nyc-pension-fund-divest-gun-shops-article-1.2306033>
>
>
>

From: John Del Cecato
To: Wolfe, Emma
Cc: Hinton, Karen; Walzak, Phil; Shorris, Anthony; Snyder, Thomas; Fink, Avi
Subject: Re: Letitia James: NYC pension fund should divest from gun shops - NY Daily News
Date: Tuesday, July 28, 2015 7:27:20 AM

I like amen'ing her and turning attack to Cerberus.

FYI -

<http://mobile.reuters.com/article/idUSKBN0MS5IF20150401>

On Jul 28, 2015, at 6:13 AM, Wolfe, Emma <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

We could ask her alone and/or her and other pension fund reps
(comptroller, borough presidents)

On Jul 28, 2015, at 7:12 AM, Hinton, Karen
<KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

No I mean taking on Walmart right now on the heels of uber.
Would rather give corporate attacks a break.

Woukd rather do Something with her on the main investor in the assault weapon, a private equity fund called cerebus whose owner resides in Greenwich ct miles from Newton. He owns bushmaster which makes the assault weapon.

Sent from my iPhone

On Jul 28, 2015, at 7:00 AM, Wolfe, Emma <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

She was good on uber - is that what you mean?

On Jul 28, 2015, at 7:00 AM, Hinton,
Karen <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov>
wrote:

Well would be good to do if not on the tail end of uber

Sent from my iPhone

On Jul 28, 2015, at 6:17 AM,
Wolfe, Emma
<EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>
wrote:

If we agree with this would be a nice thing to amen/retweet

<http://m.nydailynews.com/new-york/letitia-james-nyc-pension-fund-divest-gun-shops-article-1.2306033>

From: Wolfe, Emma
To: Hinton, Karen
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Shorris, Anthony; Snyder, Thomas; John Del Cecato; Fink, Avi
Subject: Re: Letitia James: NYC pension fund should divest from gun shops - NY Daily News
Date: Tuesday, July 28, 2015 7:59:57 AM

Me too - we can think about other actions connected to our agenda upcoming in which we are more coalition oriented as well rather than solo-leading...

> On Jul 28, 2015, at 7:22 AM, Hinton, Karen <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>

> More coalition building the better.

>

> Sent from my iPhone

>

>> On Jul 28, 2015, at 7:13 AM, Wolfe, Emma <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>>

>> We could ask her alone and/or her and other pension fund reps (comptroller, borough presidents)

>>

>>

>>

>>> On Jul 28, 2015, at 7:12 AM, Hinton, Karen <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>>>

>>> No I mean taking on Walmart right now on the heels of uber. Would rather give corporate attacks a break.

>>>

>>> Woukd rather do Something with her on the main investor in the assault weapon, a private equity fund called cerebus whose owner resides in Greenwich ct miles from Newton. He owns bushmaster which makes the assault weapon.

>>>

>>> Sent from my iPhone

>>>

>>>> On Jul 28, 2015, at 7:00 AM, Wolfe, Emma <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>>>>

>>>> She was good on uber - is that what you mean?

>>>>

>>>>

>>>>

>>>>> On Jul 28, 2015, at 7:00 AM, Hinton, Karen <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>>>>>

>>>>> Well would be good to do if not on the tail end of uber

>>>>>

>>>>> Sent from my iPhone

>>>>>

>>>>>> On Jul 28, 2015, at 6:17 AM, Wolfe, Emma <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>>>>>>

>>>>>> If we agree with this would be a nice thing to amen/retweet

>>>>>>

>>>>>>> <http://m.nydailynews.com/new-york/letitia-james-nyc-pension-fund-divest-gun-shops-article-1.2306033>

>>>>>>>

>>>>>>>

>>>>>>>

From: Boeglin, Rosemary
To: John Del Cecato
Subject: Re:
Date: Tuesday, July 28, 2015 8:51:24 AM

Thank you!

From: John Del Cecato
Sent: Tuesday, July 28, 2015 7:52 AM
To: Boeglin, Rosemary
Subject:

Thanks for doing the income inequality clips.
Here's one for your next batch.

<http://www.wsj.com/articles/sec-poised-complete-ceo-pay-ratio-rule-1438032327>

From: John Del Cecato
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; "Hayley Prim"
Subject: Re:
Date: Tuesday, July 28, 2015 11:00:00 AM

I'm in minneapolis for an all-day retreat

From: "Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca" <PSalazar-Rodriguez@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Tuesday, July 28, 2015 at 10:43 AM
To: Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>
Cc: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: <no subject>

Can you come by at 2pm for calls?

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
To: "Hayley Prim"; John Del Cecato
Subject: RE: Re:
Date: Tuesday, July 28, 2015 11:07:11 AM

2 hours

From: Hayley Prim [mailto:hayley@progressiveagenda.us]
Sent: Tuesday, July 28, 2015 11:01 AM
To: John Del Cecato
Cc: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Subject: Re:

I can. How much time do we have?

On Tue, Jul 28, 2015 at 10:59 AM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:
I'm in minneapolis for an all-day retreat

From: "Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca" <PSalazar-Rodriguez@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Tuesday, July 28, 2015 at 10:43 AM
To: Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>
Cc: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: <no subject>

Can you come by at 2pm for calls?

--

Hayley Prim

c:

From: Schwartz, Regina
To: Yazgi, Stephanie; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; "Neal Kwatra"; Snyder, Thomas; Fromberg, Rick; Wolfe, Emma; Viguers, Jonathan
Cc: Schnake Mahl, Gabriel
Subject: Mayors Organizing Plan
Date: Tuesday, July 28, 2015 12:09:17 PM
Attachments: mayors_organizing_vision7.28.docx

Based on our meeting from two weeks ago, attached is the start of a vision document for the Mayor's Organizing initiative.

Please read and provide comments, big picture questions, and edits.

We will get a call on the books to talk through it on Friday- gsm please schedule.

From: Yazgi, Stephanie
Sent: Thursday, July 16, 2015 11:10 AM
To: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; 'Neal Kwatra'; Schwartz, Regina; Snyder, Thomas; Fromberg, Rick; Wolfe, Emma; Viguers, Jonathan
Subject: RE: NEEDED FROM YOU!: Notes for Mayors Organizing Plan

Folks:

I have only received input from Gina and Rick. Please send me a couple of bullets with your vision by end of day.

Thanks!

Stephanie

From: Yazgi, Stephanie
Sent: Wednesday, July 08, 2015 1:58 PM
To: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; 'Neal Kwatra'; Schwartz, Regina; Snyder, Thomas; Fromberg, Rick; Wolfe, Emma; Viguers, Jonathan
Subject: NEEDED FROM YOU!: Notes for Mayors Organizing Plan

Folks:

Thanks for the meeting this morning. If you could, by the end of the week, please send me a few key bullets to summarize the pieces you think need to be part of the mayor's organizing plan re: national and local organizing, programmatic pieces, goals and considerations and notes on how to overcome any identified challenges.

I will pull this all together and summarize and circulate a document next week for us to agree upon and then present to MBdB.

Thanks!

Stephanie

p.s. if you'd rather speak by phone you can call me anytime [REDACTED] or we can schedule a time to speak – THANKS!

MEMORANDUM

TO: Mayor de Blasio

RE: Mayor's Organizing Program

Vision: To Advance the an Urban Agenda on the National Level by making Mayors' Voices as Powerful as Possible

1) Select issue areas with high value to cities across the country that can be won at a national level through influencing:

- a. Federal Policy – Unifying unlikely allies and targeting Members of Congress OR Presidential Legacy Initiatives
 - b. Presidential Discourse – Direct targeting of candidates and increasing overall issue salience to lead to eventual presidential action.
 - c. Individual City or State to Action- Waterfall of city action on issues to create imperative for change on a Federal level.
- Next Step: Identify issues that we can win at a national level: Transportation, Immigration, Civil Rights, Environment, Education, Economic Inequality, Predictive Policing, Housing, Jobs etc.

2) Organize Mayors by:

- a. Crafting strategic campaigns and lobbying efforts around selected issues
 - i. AND taking advantage of organic local Mayoral wins within issue areas
- b. Executing a communications strategy which influences the national dialogue with a local, programmatic angle
 - i. Engaging strange bed-fellows to partner with Mayors to increase power (CEOs, local allies, Farmers)
- c. Developing leaders among mayoral allies
- d. Sharing municipal best practices to create Mayoral successes and build relationships

3) Build a sustainable Mayors Organizing team in NYC:

- a. Director of Mayors Organizing
- b. 2 Organizing Staff
- c. Researcher
- d. Press Staff

Outstanding issues:

1. TPA vs. Mayors Organizing- These should be aware of eachother's outreach, but a bright line drawn so that we don't cannibalize our own organizing. So far a cornerstone of Mayors Organizing has been its bi-partisan credibility.
2. Issue selection
3. Aggressive recruitment with broad base OR a plan to focus and grow deep relationships with largest population cities
4. NYC as leader and laboratory for all cutting edge work OR other leaders with us on variety of organic issues that we help amplify
5. Mayors Database creation

Context of Current Mayors Organizing work:

There are five main buckets of organizing work that currently touch mayors:

- 1) Cities United for Immigration Action: There are nearly 100 cities that have taken action with this coalition in one way or another. The coalition is staffed and run by MOIA, and they work with national advocacy groups and labor and community based organizational partners when it serves to further the coalition's mission.
- 2) USCM and Cities of Opportunity Task Force: Working with USCM, the only national organization that convenes mayors exclusively, provides us access to their 1400 members nationwide. Chairing the Cities of Opportunity Task Force allows us to participate and provide formal programming and a space for organizing around issues of inequality, which are central to our platform. It can serve as a springboard to deeper organizing on a number of issues with mayors as well as opportunity to meet and building with bi-partisan group of mayors.
- 3) The Progressive Agenda: We seek mayors to sign on in support of this and engage in this organizing in order to move forward a progressive issue agenda nationwide.
- 4) NYS State Affairs work: We engage with mayors- mostly Democratic allies- across the state in order to move our Albany agenda forward.
- 5) OneNYC regional work: We engage bi-partisan coalition of mayors and other officials, as well as agencies, across the region on key issues.

This past year we have had gatherings of mayors around COO in person in NYC and Boston and at USCM meetings, we have had one immigration summit with mayors and at least two gatherings of staff (hosted by NYC and SF), made progress on immigration with two amici filed in support of president's executive actions and 5 national days of action.

COO has held two national days of action on transportation- one of which included a Lobby day in Washington DC.

Through Cities of Opportunity Task force, the issues areas around which we will organize are: 1) Early childhood education, 2) Income inequality (minimum wage), 3) Broadband Access, 4) Transportation, 5) Housing.

Thus far, this work has been siloed, which is confusing and causes work flow problems. In order to unify our mayors organizing initiatives, we propose that we unite it under one banner we call CITIES FOR ACTION. (See accompanying style guide for this brand).

THEORY OF CHANGE

While there are organizations that convene mayors, our vision to create a space for mayors to collaborate and advocate without being mediated by third parties. This means an effort that allows for the strong and united voice of mayors to be heard by engaging collectively at the local, state and federal levels.

Meeting mayors where they are at, identifying themes and areas of collaboration, and bringing them together with progressive thinkers, advocates and funders in order to share, publish, and promote best practices in innovative policy and programs is a key programmatic piece to the organizing; but the potential politically to activate the various subsets of mayors (regionally or constituency-based) to organize and push in various arenas is the driving force behind this effort.

From: B
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Pls call me or hayley asap
Date: Tuesday, July 28, 2015 1:53:17 PM

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: "Hayley Prim"; John Del Cecato; B
Subject: RE: LA minimum wage
Date: Tuesday, July 28, 2015 1:57:16 PM

I'm super familiar with this issue.

The opt out exemption has been pioneered to great effect by UNITE HERE's CA Locals; contributed to large scale union growth.

Permits union to reach collective bargaining agreement with wages, health insurance and pension way in excess of the minimum wage level, even if the workers decide to accept lower wage in return for the benefits.

That said, SEIU adamantly opposes this approach.

I do not think it compromises minimum wage effort nationally.

Nor does it create problem for TPA.

Durazo would not let opt out issue get in way of promoting a straight $15 national min. wage.

From: Hayley Prim [mailto:hayley@progressiveagenda.us]
Sent: Tuesday, July 28, 2015 1:25 PM
To: Snyder, Thomas; John Del Cecato
Subject: LA minimum wage

tom-- just brought this to the boss attention. He asked you to be looped since you're close to durazo-- think about impact it has on MW efforts nationally, how it affects TPA, etc.

<http://www.latimes.com/local/cityhall/la-me-union-exemption-20150726-story.html#page=1>

--

Hayley Prim

c:

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
To: Walzak, Phil; Hinton, Karen; Hagelgans, Andrea; "John Del Cecato"; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: RE: Keystone
Date: Tuesday, July 28, 2015 2:02:38 PM

Just asked team to do a sweep and didn't find any past statements on Keystone specifically.

I can check myself later today.

From: Walzak, Phil
Sent: Tuesday, July 28, 2015 2:00 PM
To: Gunaratna, Mahen; Hinton, Karen; Hagelgans, Andrea; 'John Del Cecato'; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: RE: Keystone

Perhaps after obama move, applauding him
We've really said nothing, even in early camp?

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
Sent: Tuesday, July 28, 2015 1:41 PM
To: Hinton, Karen; Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea; 'John Del Cecato'; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Keystone

Flagging that BdB hasn't yet chimed in on Keystone.

We should throw a marker down opposing before there's policy movement (even it's just a tweet or something):

Alex Seitz-Wald @aseitzwald 2m2 minutes ago

News from the future: Obama will kill Keystone, Clinton will applaud decision.

—
Mahen Gunaratna

Director of Research and Media Analysis
Mayor's Press Office | City Hall
mgunaratna@cityhall.nyc.gov
(212) 676-3154 (o) | (347)-268-4295 (c)

From: Geri Prado
To: John Del Cecato; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Plan outline and budget- USE THIS
Date: Tuesday, July 28, 2015 3:31:58 PM
Attachments: TPAC Draft Outline \(7-28-15\).docx
TPA DRAFT Budget \(7-28-15\).xlsx

apologies I attached the wrong docs.

THE PROGRESSIVE AGENDA COMMITTEE (TPAC)
DRAFT Plan Outline
(July 17, 2015)

Mission

Address Income Inequality by demanding specific policy changes from leaders in government through changing the conversation and accountability measures.

Goals

- ❖ Change the conversation from problems only to finding specific solutions
- ❖ Hold Presidential candidates, the President-elect to be, U.S. Senators, and Members of Congress accountable to fix broken policies that create income inequality

In order to accomplish these goals, there is an additional strategy that needs to be considered: building the credibility of TPAC in order to carry out the plan. For the most part this will happen by doing, but there is an introduction to the press, opinion leaders, donors and key organization that is necessary to get “air time” for communications and political activity.

The strategies are interdependent upon each other and the alignment of resources is crucial to accomplish these goals in a short period of time. For example, maintenance for the Zeitgeist work is going to be the same as maintenance for the Accountability side of the plan. The Digital plan will work to build a list to implement all strategies.

Strategy

1. Zeitgeist- Identify and seize opportunities to insert TPAC into stories surrounding policy, political, business narratives to incite social change. Also target specific stories and people who can move specific candidates.
2. Accountability- Build “army” of executives, specifically mayors to put forward demands of presidential candidates to act on income inequality before and after the election. Use current signers, target potential signers to also demand social change to fix inequality. There is an inside game to be played here as well with candidates. Who does, can and will influence specific candidates?
3. Coalition- TPAC will work within or build a coalition to both share resources and create the largest echo chamber possible around solving income inequality.
4. Brand and Build TPAC- The initial May event laid the groundwork to introduce the issue and who is behind TPAC. Moving forward the goal is to broadcast strategy, activity to become a larger player in the presidential election

PLAN OUTLINE

- I. Zeitgeist

- a. Signers, leadership- TPAC's seriousness will be demonstrated by the type of signers on board. In order to show the press, candidates what TPAC is, a power analysis on the issue and the targeted candidates with an outreach plan signals sophistication and dedication to getting its mission across. While quantity is important on the individual, "grassroots" front, quality (who is influential on a national level) and strategy is important to roll out
- b. Develop TPAC messaging package to drive creation of echo chamber both internally and externally
- c. Introduce TPAC, its goals, actions in the upcoming months beyond the initial roll-out to build the brand and lay out the mission for opinion leaders
- d. Identify and seize opportunities- Develop a message calendar to include major policy initiatives, political campaign benchmarks and other relevant events to insert policy demands into ongoing and existing conversations
- e. Messenger development and action- create a "speakers' bureau" of current signers, potential strategic signers
- f. Coalition and partnerships- partner with organizations to coordinate messaging and communications strategy to build echo chamber and arm signers with latest talking points
- g. Homegrown events- Develop a few large-scale events such as the Presidential Forum in Iowa to highlight TPAC, its goals and create momentum
- h. Unexpected- who are the signers who can talk about issues they wouldn't necessarily talk about? Showing strength and unity on solving income inequality, enough to look past disagreements and see all are a part of solutions.

Needs:

- Political power analysis of candidates, elected and opinion leaders
- Research- both message and policy research to provide messaging and ongoing content. Also help build calendar of relevant events and opportunities for inserting message
- Communications- aggressive communications team to pitch stories on all levels of media (national, local), drive message discipline with existing signers and create an ongoing package of materials to arm signers
- Digital- program aimed at communications to echo earned media strategy, push message in social media and develop a list-building plan to drive growth and reach a larger audience
- Political- outreach and ongoing maintenance (talking points, briefing, asks)

II. Accountability

Mayors

- a. Organize key mayors around the country to demand the presidential candidates and president-elect take specific action to fix income inequality in their cities
- b. Gather research on key mayors to determine agenda for their specific city and greatest economic needs
- c. Conduct political outreach to persuade mayors to sign on

- d. Ask mayors to go on the record and sign onto written demands that benefit their cities to give to the presidential candidates

Signers

- e. Use existing signers to hold candidates and government accountable
- f. Use existing signers to help organize mayoral strategy
- g. Create “councils” or small groups of existing signers to focus on specific elements of the policy in the press and with elected, candidates

Individual

- h. Create online list to raise awareness in the digital space
- i. Apply pressure to the presidential candidates

Needs:

- Research- identify important initiatives to targeted mayors to focus their message to presidential candidates specifically focused on what is most important to them and their agenda locally
- Political- operation to identify mayors, signers, conduct outreach and build coalitions
- Digital- build individual list and echo communications strategy on accountability
- Communications- work with mayors, their staff and signers to develop accountability messaging and pitch stories of mayors signing on and their demands of the presidential candidates to fixing income inequality.

III. Brand and build TPAC

- a. Identify co-chairs to serve with Mayor de Blasio to signal national reach and political power and representation of multiple communities
- b. Build a fundraising operation that includes individual, PAC and foundation donors, leverages Mayor de Blasio’s, co-chairs and signers “lists”
- c. Develop an aggressive online organizing, communications and fundraising presence
- d. Staff at minimum levels to accomplish organizational goals including communications, political, research and digital staff and or consultants

TIMELINE

This timeline covers May 2015 through May 2017

- Phase 1 (Now through the Presidential primaries/presumptive nominees)
- Phase 2 (Primaries through nominations/conventions)
- Phase 3 (Nomination through the General)
- Phase 4 (General through inauguration)
- Phase 5 (First 100 days in office)

Phase 1 first steps

August

- Plan and budget completed
- RFP process for fundraising operation, search for press, research, digital
- Fundraising firm hired
- Messaging “package” decided for use
- Press staffer hired
- Research underway (political, policy)
- Digital staff/consultants identified
- Leadership structure discussed
- TPAC organization launched (ED, councils/signers structure)
- Message and organization calendar created
- Forum locked in, planning and implementation begins

Next steps (first week):

- Setting up fundraising discussion, draft RFP
- Determine immediate target focus
- Power analysis of targets
- Discuss “leadership needs”, who, why, feasible?
- Develop ongoing communications of brain trust (who is this?)
- Set up call to discuss plan outline, thoughts, edits, etc.
- Start recruiting for press, fundraising, research (maybe contract)
- Set up message call/meeting with AFL-CIO analytics staff to get download of message research
- Develop prospectus

The Progressive Agenda August 2015-2017		Year One					773,950
		July	August	September	October	November
$	$	3,972,290	TOTALS
Spent to Date
STAFF & OPERATIONS
Staff	35.56%
Executive Director	$283,500.00	$13,500.00	$13,500.00	$13,500.00	$13,500.00	$13,500.00	$13,500.00
Operations/compliance	$105,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
Finance Director	$168,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00
Communications	$168,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00
Press Secretary	$114,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00
Digital	$160,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00
Political Director	$160,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00
Deputy Political Director	$114,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00
Research	$140,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00
Subtotal Staff	$1,412,500.00	$34,500.00	$57,500.00	$69,500.00	$69,500.00	$69,500.00	$69,500.00
Benefits	6.34%
ED Cobra	$22,050.00	$1,050.00	$1,050.00	$1,050.00	$1,050.00	$1,050.00	$1,050.00
Health Care	$147,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00
Workers Comp	$42,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00
Taxes	$454,740.00	$22,935.00	$22,935.00	$22,935.00	$22,935.00	$22,935.00	$22,935.00
Subtotal Benefits	$665,790.00	$29,025.00	$32,985.00	$32,985.00	$32,985.00	$32,985.00	$32,985.00
Consultants	29.18%
AKPD	$840,000.00	$40,000.00	$40,000.00	$40,000.00	$40,000.00	$40,000.00	$40,000.00
Fundraising consultants	$210,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00
Dues Fees	$42,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00
Legal	$67,000.00	$3,000.00	$3,000.00	$3,000.00	$3,000.00	$3,000.00	$3,000.00
Subtotal Strategy	$1,159,000.00	$55,000.00	$55,000.00	$55,000.00	$55,000.00	$55,000.00	$55,000.00
Operations	7.93%
Office	$105,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
IT	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00
Travel	$105,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
Events/Meetings	$21,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00
Printing/Design	$21,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00
Subtotal Operations	$252,000.00	$12,000.00	$12,000.00	$12,000.00	$12,000.00	$12,000.00	$12,000.00
PROGRAM
Digital	7.93%
Acquisition	$105,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
Maintenance	$105,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
Website and tools	$105,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
Subtotal Website	$315,000.00	$15,000.00	$15,000.00	$15,000.00	$15,000.00	$15,000.00	$15,000.00
Comms/Research	3.17%
Booking	$105,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
Events	$21,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00
Subtotal Email	$126,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00
Political	1.06%
Events	$21,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00
Surrogate costs	$21,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00
Subtotal Social Networking	$42,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00
Media	0.00%
	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00
	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00
	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00
	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00
Media	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00
GRAND TOTAL	$3,972,290.00	$98,525.00	$125,485.00	$137,485.00	$137,485.00	$137,485.00	$137,485.00

The Progressive Agenda August 2015-2017

3,972,290 TOTALS $2,039,340.00

Spent to Date	Year two
	Jan	Feb	Mar	Apr	May	June	July	August	September
STAFF & OPERATIONS
Staff
Executive Director	$283,500.00	$13,500.00	$13,500.00	$13,500.00	$13,500.00	$13,500.00	$13,500.00	$13,500.00	$13,500.00	$13,500.00	$13,500.00	$13,500.00
Operations/compliance	$105,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
Finance Director	$168,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00
Communications	$168,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00
Press Secretary	$114,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00
Digital	$160,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00
Political Director	$160,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00
Deputy Political Director	$114,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00
Research	$140,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00
Subtotal Staff	$1,412,500.00	$69,500.00
Benefits
ED Cobra	$22,050.00	$1,050.00	$1,050.00	$1,050.00	$1,050.00	$1,050.00	$1,050.00	$1,050.00	$1,050.00	$1,050.00	$1,050.00	$1,050.00
Health Care	$147,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00
Workers Comp	$42,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00
Taxes	$484,740.00	$22,935.00	$22,935.00	$22,935.00	$22,935.00	$22,935.00	$22,935.00	$22,935.00	$22,935.00	$22,935.00	$22,935.00	$22,935.00
Subtotal Benefits	$665,790.00	$32,985.00
Consultants
AKPD	$840,000.00	$40,000.00	$40,000.00	$40,000.00	$40,000.00	$40,000.00	$40,000.00	$40,000.00	$40,000.00	$40,000.00	$40,000.00	$40,000.00
Fundraising consultants	$210,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00
Dues	$42,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00
Fees	$67,000.00	$3,000.00	$3,000.00	$3,000.00	$3,000.00	$3,000.00	$3,000.00	$3,000.00	$3,000.00	$3,000.00	$3,000.00	$3,000.00
Legal	$1,159,000.00	$55,000.00	$55,000.00	$55,000.00	$55,000.00	$55,000.00	$55,000.00	$55,000.00	$55,000.00	$55,000.00	$55,000.00	$55,000.00
Subtotal Strategy	$1,159,000.00	$55,000.00
Operations
Office	$105,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
IT	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00
Travel	$105,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
Events/Meetings	$21,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00
Printing/design	$21,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00
Subtotal Operations	$252,000.00	$12,000.00
PROGRAM
Digital
Acquisition	$105,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
Maintenance	$105,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
Website and tools	$105,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
Subtotal Website	$315,000.00	$15,000.00
Comms/Research
Booking	$105,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
Events	$21,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00
Subtotal Email	$126,000.00	$6,000.00
Political
Events	$21,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00
Surrogate costs	$21,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00
Subtotal Social Networking	$42,000.00	$2,000.00
Media
Media	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00
Media	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00
Media	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00
Media	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00
Media	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00
GRAND TOTAL	$3,972,290.00	$137,485.00

The Progressive Agenda August 2015-2017
3,972,290
TOTALS
Spent to Date	October	November	December	January	February	March
STAFF & OPERATIONS
Staff
Executive Director	$283,500.00	$13,500.00	$13,500.00	$13,500.00	$13,500.00	$13,500.00
Operations/compliance	$105,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
Finance Director	$168,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00
Communications	$168,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00
Press Secretary	$114,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00
Digital	$160,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00
Political Director	$160,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00
Deputy Political Director	$114,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00
Research	$140,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00
Subtotal Staff	$1,412,500.00	$69,500.00	$69,500.00	$69,500.00	$69,500.00	$69,500.00
Benefits	6.34%
ED Cobra	$22,050.00	$1,050.00	$1,050.00	$1,050.00	$1,050.00	$1,050.00
Health Care	$147,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00
Workers Comp	$42,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00
Taxes	$484,740.00	$22,935.00	$22,935.00	$22,935.00	$22,935.00	$22,935.00
Subtotal Benefits	$665,790.00	$32,985.00	$32,985.00	$32,985.00	$32,985.00	$32,985.00
Consultants	29.18%
AKPD	$840,000.00	$40,000.00	$40,000.00	$40,000.00	$40,000.00	$40,000.00
Fundraising consultants	$210,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00
Dues Fees	$42,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00
Legal	$67,000.00	$3,000.00	$3,000.00	$3,000.00	$3,000.00	$3,000.00
Subtotal Strategy	$1,159,000.00	$55,000.00	$55,000.00	$55,000.00	$55,000.00	$55,000.00
Operations	7.93%
Office	$105,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
IT	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00
Travel	$105,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
Events/Meetings	$21,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00
Printing/design	$21,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00
Subtotal Operations	$252,000.00	$12,000.00	$12,000.00	$12,000.00	$12,000.00	$12,000.00
PROGRAM	7.93%
Digital
Acquisition	$105,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
Maintenance	$105,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
Website and tools	$105,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
Subtotal Website	$315,000.00	$15,000.00	$15,000.00	$15,000.00	$15,000.00	$15,000.00
Comms/Research
Booking	$105,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
Events	$21,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00
Subtotal Email	$126,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00
Political
Events	$21,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00
Surrogate costs	$21,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00
Subtotal Social Networking	$42,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00
Media
	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00
	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00
	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00
	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00
Media	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00
GRAND TOTAL	$3,972,290.00	$137,485.00	$137,485.00	$137,485.00	$137,485.00	$137,485.00

The Progressive Agenda
August 2015-2017
$	TOTALS
Spent to Date
STAFF & OPERATIONS	35.56%
Staff	$283,500.00
Executive Director	$105,000.00
Operations/compliance	$168,000.00
Finance Director	$168,000.00
Communications	$114,000.00
Press Secretary	$160,000.00
Digital	$160,000.00
Political Director	$114,000.00
Deputy Political Director	$114,000.00
Research	$140,000.00
Subtotal Staff	$1,412,500.00
Benefits	6.34%
ED Cobra	$22,050.00
Health Care	$147,000.00
Workers Comp	$42,000.00
Taxes	$454,740.00
Subtotal Benefits	$665,790.00
Consultants	29.18%
AKPD	$840,000.00
Fundraising consultants	$210,000.00
Dues Fees	$42,000.00
Legal	$67,000.00
Subtotal Strategy	$1,159,000.00
Operations	7.93%
Office	$105,000.00
IT	$0.00
Travel	$105,000.00
Events/Meetings	$21,000.00
Printing/Design	$21,000.00
Subtotal Operations	$252,000.00
PROGRAM	7.93%
Digital	$105,000.00
Acquisition	$105,000.00
Maintenance	$105,000.00
Website and tools	$105,000.00
Subtotal Website	$315,000.00
Comms/Research	3.17%
Booking	$105,000.00
Events	$21,000.00
Subtotal Email	$126,000.00
Political	1.06%
Events	$21,000.00
Surrogate costs	$21,000.00
Subtotal Social Networking	$42,000.00
Media	0.00%
	$0.00
	$0.00
	$0.00
	$0.00
Media	$0.00
GRAND TOTAL	$3,972,290.00

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: "Hayley Prim"; Geri Prado
Cc: John Del Cecato
Subject: RE: Tomorrow's planning mtg
Date: Tuesday, July 28, 2015 3:33:32 PM

Geri – I can give you a ride unless you are travelling with your usual chauffer.

From: Hayley Prim [mailto:hayley@progressiveagenda.us]
Sent: Tuesday, July 28, 2015 3:32 PM
To: Geri Prado
Cc: Snyder, Thomas; John Del Cecato
Subject: Tomorrow's planning mtg

Geri-- the Mayor would like you to attend part of tomorrow's weekly planning meeting with senior staff if your schedule permits. It is scheduled to start at 7pm and is at Gracie Mansion, East End Avenue and 88th street on the upper east side.

Does this work for you? I'm told it could be pushed back to 730, but currently the start is at 7. You wouldn't have to stay more than half an hour or so, I would imagine.

--

Hayley Prim

c:

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: "Geri Prado"; Hayley Prim
Cc: John Del Cecato
Subject: RE: Tomorrow's planning mtg
Date: Tuesday, July 28, 2015 3:36:54 PM

Green Room.

From: Geri Prado [mailto:████████████████████]
Sent: Tuesday, July 28, 2015 3:33 PM
To: Hayley Prim
Cc: Snyder, Thomas; John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: Tomorrow's planning mtg

Yes sounds good. Thank you Hayley.

And how about we all meet at 1:30? Where should we meet?

On Jul 28, 2015, at 3:32 PM, Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us> wrote:

Geri-- the Mayor would like you to attend part of tomorrow's weekly planning meeting with senior staff if your schedule permits. It is scheduled to start at 7pm and is at Gracie Mansion, East End Avenue and 88th street on the upper east side.

Does this work for you? I'm told it could be pushed back to 730, but currently the start is at 7. You wouldn't have to stay more than half an hour or so, I would imagine.

--

Hayley Prim

c: ██████████

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: "John Del Cecato"; Geri Prado; Hayley Prim
Subject: RE: Following up
Date: Tuesday, July 28, 2015 3:59:59 PM

Am I correct that the Simpson option is different from the Loeb sack option? Can't have our cake and eat it too?

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Tuesday, July 28, 2015 3:57 PM
To: Snyder, Thomas; Geri Prado; Hayley Prim
Subject: Fwd: Following up

Begin forwarded message:

From: "Seth Andersen" <seth.andersen@simpson.edu>
To: "John Del Cecato" <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: Following up

John,

Thanks again for your call and email last Thursday. We're very excited to pursue this opportunity to work with TPA, CNN, and a conservative partner organization to hold a candidate forum at Simpson College this fall.

Coincidentally, I will be in New York City on vacation with my family from August 7 through 11. If you are available on Monday morning, August 10, I would welcome the opportunity to meet with you.

As I mentioned during our brief conversation, Simpson has two primary function spaces that would work well for a televised candidate forum:

- 1) The new, state-of-the-art Kent Campus Center features Hubbell Hall, a ballroom that can accommodate 300+ audience members, TV crew, moderators, and a stage for candidates. We hosted two live-televised US Senate and US House debates in Hubbell Hall last fall. I have attached four photos of the US Senate debate to give you a sense of how the space accommodates a televised forum. More information on Hubbell Hall is available on the Simpson website at: <http://simpson.edu/facilities/kent-campus-center/hubbell-hall/>
*Kent Campus Center also includes the Principal Black Box Theater, a two-story multi-media space that worked very well as a media HQ and spin room. The forum can be simulcast live on a giant projection screen inside the Black Box Theater for media and campaign staff to watch during the event. Kent Campus Center also has several conference and meeting rooms that can serve as green rooms for candidates.
- 2) Pote Theatre in the Blank Performing Arts Center offers a larger, more traditional auditorium set-up with tiered seating that can accommodate 450+ audience members, plus TV crew and a full-size performance stage for candidates and moderators. David Axelrod delivered the Fifth Annual Culver Lecture to a full house in Pote Theatre this April. I have attached three photos of the Axelrod lecture to give you a sense of how the theatre works for an event like this. For a televised forum, I would suggest placing the candidates and moderators on stage instead of in the "playing circle," where Mr. Axelrod's podium was placed. The Blank Performing Arts Center does not have as many meeting rooms to serve as candidate green rooms, but we could possibly utilize classrooms for this purpose. It also does not have the large ancillary space for media and spin room that Kent Campus Center has in the form of the Principal Black Box Theater.

Pote Theatre is usually in high demand for theatrical productions, so it would be helpful to start exploring potential dates sooner rather than later.

More information on Pote Theatre is available on the Simpson website at: <http://simpson.edu/facilities/blank-performing-arts-center/pote-theatre/>

Bottom line: If the priority is to maximize audience capacity, Pote Theatre is the better choice. If the priority is convenience for candidates and media in a multi-purpose, hi-tech setting, Kent Campus Center is the better choice.

Please let me know when you'd like to talk again, and if you're available to meet in NYC on Monday morning, August 10.

Best regards,
Seth

Seth Andersen
Director, Culver Public Policy Center
Simpson College
701 North C Street
Indianola, IA 50125
Office: 515-961-1354
Mobile: 515-306-1696
seth.andersen@simpson.edu

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Thursday, July 23, 2015 5:02 PM
To: Seth Andersen
Subject: Following up

Thanks again for the talk!

Here's my info - and a little background... Talk soon...

Best,
JDC

John F. Del Cecato
Partner/Creative Director
AKPD Message and Media
915 Broadway, Suite 1301
New York, NY 10010
212-529-5775 (office)
212-529-0545 (fax)
917 685 4819 (mobile)

Here's a link to The Progressive Agenda:
<http://progressiveagenda.us/agenda>

Here's the list of our "VIP" signers, including Cong. Loeb sack, Sen. Harkin, Robert Reich, Howard Dean, Toni Morrison, and so many more!
<http://progressiveagenda.us/signers>

And here's the gist of what we're looking to do:

CONTEXT:

If you're having a national conversation about environmental protection, you might turn to the Sierra Club. If you're talking civil rights, you might go to the NAACP. But right now, there is no organization that focuses exclusively on income inequality. That's where The Progressive Agenda comes in.

The Progressive Agenda (TPA) is a coalition of current and former elected officials at every level of government, labor leaders, economists, civil rights champions, cultural luminaries, and leaders of progressive organizations.

In May, TPA outlined 15 progressive solutions for combatting income inequality – from a $15 minimum wage, to paid sick and paid family leave, to expanding Social Security, to progressive taxation.

As a recent New York Times poll demonstrates, the American people – Republicans, Democrats, and independents alike -- are focused on income inequality like never before, and they are eager to hear from their leaders on how to tackle it.

GOAL:

By convening presidential candidates of both political parties to discuss income inequality, we will generate enormous media coverage of the issue, mobilize everyday Americans to weigh in on it, help shape the 2016 presidential campaign, and put the candidates even more firmly "on the record" on policies designed to lift the floor for working people, help working parents, and ensure that big corporations and the wealthy pay their fair share.

Influencing the presidential campaign conversation will have a trickle-down effect – sparking questions of candidates for other positions – House, Senate, and perhaps even Governor and State Legislature.

FORMAT:

We are seeking to host a presidential forum, as opposed to a traditional debate.

Participating candidates would have the stage to themselves, appearing in sequential order, by a method to be determined later.

Our vision is that each candidate would have 5 minutes to offer an opening statement. Then a panel of 2-3 journalists will question the candidate for 20 minutes about income inequality and their specific proposals for combatting it.

Alternately, we could offer a more robust format -- with an additional 20 minutes given to each candidate's appearance for fielding questions from audience members and social media users, screened by the panel of highly-respected journalists.

After a 15-minute break, the next candidate would appear, following the same format.

PARTICIPANTS:

The Progressive Agenda, working with CNN, will extend invitations to declared presidential candidates who have spoken publicly about the need to combat income inequality in the past.

To date, that list includes:

Hillary Clinton, Bernie Sanders, Martin O'Malley, Jim Webb, Lincoln Chaffee, Jeb Bush, Marco Rubio, Rand Paul, Chris Christie, and Ted Cruz.

HOSTS:

CNN would host the event in partnership with The Progressive Agenda. We're aiming to have a conservative group co-chair with us - and have been reaching out to folks like American Enterprise Institute.

PANELISTS:

Journalists on the panel would be selected by CNN, but would likely be Anderson Cooper, Jake Tapper, and/or Poppy Harlow. They are open to the addition of a veteran, non-CNN journalist like Bill Moyers participating as well.

VENUE:

A respected college setting in Iowa, with an auditorium that has a suitable space for such a forum.

DATES:

Our goal is to hold the events in October or early November of this year. One possibility is to have both Democrats and Republicans appear on a single day – possibly a Saturday, morning to evening. Another option would be to have the Democratic slate go on one day, and the Republican candidates appear on another day – although both would occur the same week.

While it's unlikely that CNN would broadcast this entire event "live" – we believe they could do the following:

- Reserve the right to be the exclusive television network filming the forum.
- Invite print, radio, and online reporters to cover the event as it happens.
- Edit the event down to a single hour, with the 'greatest hits' from the forum – to be broadcast a few days after the event is held.
- Publish the full, unedited event online (either as it happens, through a "live-stream," or else after the edited version of the event runs on broadcast, to give the public the chance to see the forum in its entirety.)

COST:

We estimate the full cost to TPA and its conservative partner(s) to be $80-100K – a cost that TPA would fully cover – by targeting groups/individuals who could help underwrite the event. CNN would cover the productions costs that they require – for example, TV-ready lighting.

STAFFING:

Staff from TPA and CNN would be assigned to this project. TPA and its partners would fund any additional staffing needed by the college that hosts the event.

VISIBILITY:

TPA and CNN would be responsible for pushing the aforementioned candidates to attend, promoting the event on broadcast/social media, and tapping earned media – pushing key members of the respective organizations to gin up the public’s interest in the weeks and months leading to the events.

TOPICS:

The presidential forum would focus squarely on income inequality, covering topics like how to improve wages and benefits, enhance retirement security, reduce student loan debt, and reform the tax code, among others.

###

From: John Del Cecato
To: B
Subject: Re: Are you in nyc? Are you free tonight?
Date: Tuesday, July 28, 2015 4:17:10 PM

Got a connection thru Philly, so probably 1030 or 11

> On Jul 28, 2015, at 3:06 PM, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>

>

> What time do you land?

>

>

> ----- Original Message -----

> From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]

> Sent: Tuesday, July 28, 2015 03:55 PM

> To: B

> Subject: Re: Are you in nyc? Are you free tonight?

>

> Heading back from Minneapolis at 4CT - so not back until late - but around tomorrow

>

>

>

>> On Jul 28, 2015, at 2:47 PM, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>>

>>

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: "Hayley Prim"; John Del Cecato
Cc: Geri Prado
Subject: RE: Meeting Tomorrow
Date: Tuesday, July 28, 2015 6:49:36 PM

Green room at CH

From: Hayley Prim [mailto:hayley@progressiveagenda.us]
Sent: Tuesday, July 28, 2015 6:42 PM
To: John Del Cecato
Cc: Snyder, Thomas; Geri Prado
Subject: Re: Meeting Tomorrow

City hall?

On Tuesday, July 28, 2015, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:
I gotta drop at 230 but that works

On Jul 28, 2015, at 1:19 PM, Snyder, Thomas <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

I could do 1:30 – 3.

From: Geri Prado [mailto:geri.prado@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Tuesday, July 28, 2015 1:59 PM
To: John Del Cecato
Cc: Hayley Prim; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: Meeting Tomorrow

I get in around noon. Would I work? Tom?

On Jul 28, 2015, at 12:36 PM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

I'm pretty open

On Jul 28, 2015, at 11:04 AM, Hayley Prim
<hayley@progressiveagenda.us> wrote:

Hi there--

I think the four of us were trying to get together tomorrow. What time works for you guys?

--

Hayley Prim

c: [\[REDACTED\]](#)

--

Hayley Prim

c: [REDACTED]

From: Walzak, Phil
To: "John Del Cecato"; Hagelgans, Andrea; Snyder, Thomas; Hinton, Karen; Wolfe, Emma
Subject: RE: Minimum wage increase
Date: Wednesday, July 29, 2015 1:19:11 PM

Sounds good

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, July 29, 2015 1:19 PM
To: Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea; Snyder, Thomas; Hinton, Karen; Wolfe, Emma
Subject: Re: Minimum wage increase

Cool - should I run by MBDB & then have Tom get on sked?

From: "Walzak, Phil" <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Wednesday, July 29, 2015 at 1:08 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, "Hagelgans, Andrea" <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Snyder, Thomas" <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Hinton, Karen" <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Wolfe, Emma" <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: RE: Minimum wage increase

Like this

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, July 29, 2015 11:43 AM
To: Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea; Snyder, Thomas; Hinton, Karen; Wolfe, Emma
Subject: Minimum wage increase

Team TPA had an idea - although you guys may already have something like this in motion.

We wanted to have MBDB do a follow-up phone interview with Dan Balz of the Washington Post. As you'll remember, Balz wrote the first piece on TPA - got the scoop on what we were trying to do prior to the original Gracie Confab.

http://www.washingtonpost.com/politics/nys-de-blasio-gathers-progressives-to-kick-start-debate-on-income-inequality/2015/04/01/15c992de-d8b4-11e4-8103-fa84725dbf9d_story.html

The theme we'd be pushing is this. For all of the talk about how national politics is broken (as seen by Washington) - and how mayors (not just BDB) pushing a national agenda must somehow be in conflict with doing their "day jobs" - the opposite is true.

1. For nearly 18 months, we've been pushing for a min wage hike. Cuomo/Albany originally said "non-starter" and said "we just did one - not going to do it again." Then, when GOP won the Senate, we were told we REALLY couldn't get a min wage hike.

2. De Blasio and members of TPA made min wage hike the first plank in our agenda and pushed it nationally. BDB talked about it in Iowa, Wisconsin, California. Fight for $15 spanned 200 cities. Cities/counties in LA, Seattle, Washington, St. Louis, Kansas City, other places pushed through min wage hikes.

3. Albany saw the writing on the wall & wage board had the pressure/support/national conversation (from the grassroots - not the big shots in Washington) needed to get a $15 min wage for fast food workers here in New York.

4. It's an example of how mayors are: a) doing everything in their power locally to address income inequality; b) also banding together/speaking for the grassroots as we tackle big progressive issues - and getting results. Now even the presidential contest is focused on whether or not to have a $15 min wage - something you'd have thought was impossible in 2012.

Thoughts?

From: John Del Cecato
To: B
Subject: FW: Minimum wage increase
Date: Wednesday, July 29, 2015 1:25:32 PM

Whaddya think?

From: "Walzak, Phil" <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Wednesday, July 29, 2015 at 1:08 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, "Hagelgans, Andrea" <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Snyder, Thomas" <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Hinton, Karen" <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Wolfe, Emma" <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: RE: Minimum wage increase

Like this

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, July 29, 2015 11:43 AM
To: Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea; Snyder, Thomas; Hinton, Karen; Wolfe, Emma
Subject: Minimum wage increase

Team TPA had an idea - although you guys may already have something like this in motion.

We wanted to have MBDB do a follow-up phone interview with Dan Balz of the Washington Post. As you'll remember, Balz wrote the first piece on TPA - got the scoop on what we were trying to do prior to the original Gracie Confab.

http://www.washingtonpost.com/politics/nys-de-blasio-gathers-progressives-to-kick-start-debate-on-income-inequality/2015/04/01/15c992de-d8b4-11e4-8103-fa84725dbf9d_story.html

The theme we'd be pushing is this. For all of the talk about how national politics is broken (as seen by Washington) - and how mayors (not just BDB) pushing a national agenda must somehow be in conflict with doing their "day jobs" - the opposite is true.

1. For nearly 18 months, we've been pushing for a min wage hike. Cuomo/Albany originally said "non-starter" and said "we just did one - not going to do it again." Then, when GOP won the Senate, we were told we REALLY couldn't get a min wage hike.
2. De Blasio and members of TPA made min wage hike the first plank in our agenda and pushed it nationally. BDB talked about it in Iowa, Wisconsin, California. Fight for $15 spanned 200 cities. Cities/counties in LA, Seattle, Washington, St. Louis, Kansas City, other places pushed through min wage hikes.
3. Albany saw the writing on the wall & wage board had the pressure/support/national conversation (from the grassroots - not the big shots in Washington) needed to get a $15 min wage for fast food workers here in New York.

4. It's an example of how mayors are: a) doing everything in their power locally to address income inequality; b) also banding together/speaking for the grassroots as we tackle big progressive issues - and getting results. Now even the presidential contest is focused on whether or not to have a $15 min wage - something you'd have thought was impossible in 2012.

Thoughts?

From: Walzak, Phil
To: B
Cc: Snyder, Thomas; John Del Cecato \(ifdc@akpdmedia.com\); Hayley Primm \(hayley@progressiveagenda.us\)
 \(hayley@progressiveagenda.us\); Hagelqans, Andrea; Wolfe, Emma
Subject: FYI
Date: Wednesday, July 29, 2015 2:00:08 PM

From Ben White – POLITICO Chief Economic Correspondent and Morning Money columnist, CNBC contributor,

The central tenet of "Warrenism" is full throated support for major Wall Street reform and bank breakups. Hillary Clinton isn't there.

Original Tweet: <https://twitter.com/morningmoneyben/status/626450510145585152>

Sent via TweetDeck

From: Walzak, Phil
To: "John Del Cecato"; Wolfe, Emma; Snyder, Thomas; Hagelgans, Andrea; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Subject: RE: Pelosi
Date: Wednesday, July 29, 2015 3:31:33 PM

Cant hurt right?

-----Original Message-----

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, July 29, 2015 3:31 PM
To: Walzak, Phil; Wolfe, Emma; Snyder, Thomas; Hagelgans, Andrea; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Subject: Pelosi

She endorsed $15 federal minimum wage yesterday. Does it makes sense for MBDB to call her today and thank her - maybe make another run at getting her to sign onto TPA?

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: "John Del Cecato"; Geri Prado; Hayley Prim
Subject: RE: <no subject>
Date: Wednesday, July 29, 2015 4:26:11 PM

Well done. I always suspected you could play both sides of the street!

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Wednesday, July 29, 2015 4:19 PM
To: Snyder, Thomas; Geri Prado; Hayley Prim
Subject: <no subject>

While it pained me to do it, I produced a document for Loeb sack to get GOP Cong. Dave Young on board - just FYI...

PRESIDENTIAL FORUM PROPOSAL 7/29/15

CONTEXT:

Right now, the issue of income inequality is front and center in the national conversation.

As a recent New York Times poll demonstrates, the American people – Republicans, Democrats, and independents alike -- are focused on income inequality like never before, and they are eager to hear from their leaders on how to tackle it.

What's been lacking is a set of proposals to actually address it.

On the left, progressives are coalescing behind an agenda that includes a $15 minimum wage, paid sick and paid family leave, Universal Pre-K, expanding Social Security, and closing tax loopholes that benefit the wealthy.

On the right, conservatives have discussed expanding the Earned Income Tax Credit, reducing spending and government bureaucracy, reining in the national debt, means-testing entitlements, and a combination of broadening the tax base while lowering tax rates.

Tackling the issue of income inequality – which has grown since the Great Recession ended – will be a central part of the presidential campaign debate.

GOAL:

By convening presidential candidates of both political parties to discuss income inequality, we will generate enormous media coverage of the issue, mobilize everyday Americans to weigh in on it, help shape the 2016 presidential campaign, and put the candidates even more firmly “on the record” on policies dedicated to combatting inequality.

Influencing the presidential campaign conversation will have a trickle-down effect – sparking questions of candidates for other positions – House, Senate, and perhaps even Governor and State Legislature.

FORMAT:

We are seeking to host a presidential forum, as opposed to a traditional debate.

Participating candidates would have the stage to themselves, appearing in sequential order, by a method to be determined later.

Our vision is that each candidate would have 5 minutes to offer an opening statement. Then a panel of 2-3 journalists will question the candidate for 20 minutes about income inequality and their specific proposals for combatting it.

Alternately, we could offer a more robust format -- with an additional 20 minutes given to each candidate’s appearance for fielding questions from audience members and social media users, screened by the panel of highly-respected journalists.

After a 15-minute break, the next candidate would appear, following the same format.

PARTICIPANTS:

On the left, there is The Progressive Agenda – a coalition of elected officials, labor leaders, civil rights activists, and cultural luminaries. On the right, there are groups like the American Enterprise Institute (whom we hope to secure for this event) – which has discussed solutions for inequality from a smaller government, conservative perspective.

Working with CNN, will extend invitations to declared presidential candidates who have spoken publicly about the need to combat income inequality in the past.

To date, that list includes:

Hillary Clinton, Jeb Bush, Bernie Sanders, Marco Rubio, Martin O'Malley, Rand Paul, Jim Webb, Chris Christie, Lincoln Chaffee, and Ted Cruz.

HOSTS:

CNN would host the event in partnership with The Progressive Agenda and AEI. We would love to have Cong. Loeb sack and Cong. Young as the co-hosts.

PANELISTS:

Journalists on the panel would be selected by CNN, but would likely be Anderson Cooper, Jake Tapper, and/or Poppy Harlow. They are open to the addition of a veteran, non-CNN journalists like Bill Moyers and Stephen Moore participating as well.

VENUE:

A respected setting in Iowa - preferably Simpson College in Indianola, with an auditorium that has a suitable space for such a forum. Warren County is a decidedly “purple” county – an excellent location for a high-minded discussion from both political points of view.

DATES:

Our goal is to hold the events in October or early November of this year. One possibility is to have both Democrats and Republicans appear on a single day – possibly a Saturday, morning to evening. Another option would be to have the Democratic slate go on one day, and the Republican candidates appear on another day – although both would occur the same week.

While it’s unlikely that CNN would broadcast this entire event “live” – we believe they could do the following:

- Reserve the right to be the exclusive television network filming the forum.
- Invite print, radio, and online reporters to cover the event as it happens.
- Edit the event down to a single hour, with the ‘greatest hits’ from the forum – to be broadcast a few days after the event is held.
- Publish the full, unedited event online (either as it happens, through a “live-stream,” or else after the edited version of the event runs on broadcast, to give the public the chance to see the forum in its entirety.)

COST:

We estimate the full cost to TPA and AEI to be $80-100K – a cost that the groups would fully cover – by targeting groups/individuals who could help underwrite the event. CNN would cover the productions costs that they require – for example, TV-ready lighting.

STAFFING:

Staff from TPA, AEI, and CNN would be assigned to this project. TPA and AEI would fund any additional staffing needed by the university that hosts the event.

VISIBILITY:

TPA, AEI, and CNN would be responsible for pushing the aforementioned candidates to attend, promoting the event on broadcast/social media, and tapping earned media – pushing key members of the respective organizations to gin up the public's interest in the weeks and months leading to the events.

TOPICS:

The presidential forum would focus squarely on income inequality, covering topics like how to improve wages and benefits, enhance retirement security, reform the tax code, and reshape the size and scope of government, among others.

###

From: Hayley Prim
To: B
Cc: Snyder, Thomas; John Del Cecato; Leopold, Elana
Subject: Dem leader Pelosi backs $15 minimum wage
Date: Wednesday, July 29, 2015 4:49:43 PM

Nancy Pelosi came out in support of $15 national MW today. You should call her if possible before house goes out of session tonight.

Best number to call is [REDACTED] and ask for Bina, who will connect to the Leader.

<http://thehill.com/homenews/house/249422-dem-leader-pelosi-backs-15-minimum-wage>

House Minority Leader Nancy Pelosi (D-Calif.) is throwing her weight behind the $15 minimum wage, joining a growing chorus of liberals on and off Capitol Hill who support more than doubling the current $7.25 rate.

The move aligns Pelosi with Sen. Bernie Sanders (I-Vt.) and the most liberal members of her left-leaning caucus but sets her apart from other top Democrats, including President Obama — who is endorsing a $12 level — and Hillary Clinton, who supports a wage hike but hasn't named a figure.

ADVERTISEMENT

Pelosi's endorsement is also something of a departure from an earlier strategy by Democratic leaders to unify around a lesser rate. In April, top Democrats — including Pelosi, Senate Minority Leader Harry Reid (Nev.) and Labor Secretary Thomas Perez — had rallied behind legislation hiking the wage to $12 per hour.

But since then, liberals in both chambers — including Sanders, a 2016 presidential hopeful, and the leaders of the Progressive Caucus — have introduced legislation pushing the rate to the $15 level by 2020.

Additionally, a number of local governments, including in Pelosi's hometown of San Francisco, have moved to adopt that figure.

Amid the building momentum, Pelosi said Tuesday morning that she supports the higher national standard, even while suggesting it's a long shot in a Republican-led Congress.

"Twelve dollars may be what can pass, but I'm for $15 per hour," Pelosi said as she headed into the weekly Democratic Caucus meeting in the Capitol, according to her office.

Her statement came the same day The Hill ran a story highlighting the diverging views of leading Democrats on the target figure for the minimum wage, an issue they've long championed.

From a practical standpoint, Pelosi's endorsement will likely change little on Capitol Hill. Republican leaders oppose any hike in the minimum wage and control both chambers.

But in terms of messaging, her support for the $15 rate further highlights the stark differences between the parties when it comes to the government's role in dealing with wage stagnation. It's a message the Democrats are hoping to take into the long August recess.

“Folks here are AWOL on the Republican side on helping American workers,” Rep. Xavier Becerra (Calif.), chairman of the House Democratic Caucus, said Tuesday. “We’re talking about making it a living wage.”

Pressed on whether Democrats are agreed on a wage level, Becerra said, “Many of us — locally at least — are going to continue to push very hard for a $15 minimum wage.”

Pelosi’s support for the $15 figure also puts pressure on other leading Democrats, including Obama and Clinton, to embrace a benchmark that’s quickly catching on with the party’s liberal base.

Betsey Stevenson, a member of the White House Council of Economic Advisers, said Tuesday that Obama’s position on the minimum wage — which has shifted from $9 to $10.10 to $12 during his presidency — remains unchanged. She did not specifically address the question of the $15 rate.

“The White House has been pretty clear that we support raising the minimum wage for the nation. ... We haven’t shifted our position on that,” Stevenson told reporters on a conference call.

Clinton, meanwhile, has endorsed New York’s recent push to adopt the $15 rate for fast food workers, but has not said how high she’d like to raise the federal rate.

The silence has not been overlooked by Sanders, who has repeatedly trumpeted his support for the dramatic wage hike in an effort to draw distinctions between his economic policies and those of Clinton.

--

Hayley Prim
c: (631) 902-5150

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
To: "John Del Cecato"
Subject: RE:
Date: Wednesday, July 29, 2015 6:08:02 PM

yes

-----Original Message-----

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, July 29, 2015 6:08 PM
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Subject:

Just to be clear - planning meeting at 730 tonight right?

From: Geri Prado
To: John Del Cecato; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Spitballing- co chairs
Date: Wednesday, July 29, 2015 11:38:58 PM

Some politically volatile. Covers a spectrum.

From: John Del Cecato
To: Hinton, Karen
Subject: Re: bfast?
Date: Thursday, July 30, 2015 1:19:30 PM

Sure, that works

From: "Hinton, Karen" <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Thursday, July 30, 2015 at 1:18 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: bfast?

Is 8 ok

Sent from my iPhone

On Jul 30, 2015, at 1:15 PM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

How about Wed, August 5?

From: "Hinton, Karen" <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Thursday, July 30, 2015 at 12:52 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: bfast?

What to send me some bfast dates? K

Karen Hinton
Press Secretary
917-246-7692
Follow Me On Twitter @KarenHinton

From: John Del Cecato
To: Hinton, Karen
Subject: Re: bfast?
Date: Thursday, July 30, 2015 1:22:09 PM

Cool

From: "Hinton, Karen" <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Thursday, July 30, 2015 at 1:18 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: bfast?

Yep sounds good! Tiny restaurant on west Broadway?

Sent from my iPhone

On Jul 30, 2015, at 1:15 PM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

How about Wed, August 5?

From: "Hinton, Karen" <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Thursday, July 30, 2015 at 12:52 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: bfast?

What to send me some bfast dates? K

Karen Hinton
Press Secretary
917-246-7692
Follow Me On Twitter @KarenHinton

From: Greg Wasserstrom
To: Geri Prado
Cc: John Del Cecato; Rebecca Katz \(hilltoppublicsolutions.com\); Hayley Prim; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: Message Research on Income Inequality
Date: Thursday, July 30, 2015 5:56:56 PM

Sounds very interesting. Looking forward to it.

Best,

G

On Thu, Jul 30, 2015 at 1:48 PM, Geri Prado [REDACTED] wrote:

Hi folks:

here is my first group email to team TPA.

The AFL-CIO has recently commissioned a body of message research around income inequality and how to frame the economic state of play. It's polling, focus groups, dial testing and also based on activist linguistics (I know, it sounds like witchcraft but trust me it's not).

I asked Mike Podhorzer who lead this work with me and a team of people to present this to us next Wednesday or Thursday at 11am.

I can find another time but I thought I'd piggy back on an existing call time.

Anyone else I'm forgetting? We can invite on whomever you think this would benefit.

Let me know

gp

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
To: John Del Cecato; Snyder, Thomas; Walzak, Phil
Subject: TPA - $15 vs $12 minimum wage
Date: Thursday, July 30, 2015 9:31:43 PM

LABOR LOVE: HILLARY CLINTON was in Silver Spring, Md., today courting support at a meeting of the AFL-CIO. Per The Associated Press, Clinton "offered some support for a proposal in the Senate that would raise the federal minimum wage to $12 an hour." She pegged her decision to Washington Sen. Patty Murray. "Whatever (Murray) advocates, I pay a lot of attention to ... Let's not just do it for the sake of having a higher number out there." <http://abcn.ws/1OEdA3B>

Sent from my iPhone

From: Hinton, Karen
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Walzak, Phil; Wolfe, Emma; Hagelgans, Andrea Subject: Annie Karni
Date: Friday, July 31, 2015 5:39:43 AM

FYI— Annie Karni of Politico has touched base with me a few times asking about the HRC endorsement. She and I spoke off record about how BdB has done HRC a favor by pushing a more public progressive agenda. We should think about her around the rollout of whatever we end up doing. Karen

Karen Hinton
Press Secretary
917-246-7692
Follow Me On Twitter @KarenHinton

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
To: John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: MINI SCHEDULE - FRIDAY, JULY 31, 2015
Date: Friday, July 31, 2015 7:34:38 AM

That one came from Tom directly. Odd.

Sent from my iPhone

On Jul 31, 2015, at 7:25 AM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

I don't think I got that either?

From: "Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca" <PSalazar-Rodriguez@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Friday, July 31, 2015 at 7:22 AM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: MINI SCHEDULE - FRIDAY, JULY 31, 2015

Hi. Ok. Will let Tom know. Assuming u got the invite to the group mtg without mayor before hand...

Sent from my iPhone

On Jul 31, 2015, at 7:19 AM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

Heya.. I didn't know about the 10:45am meeting ... I'm out of town today, but could try to call in for a bit - but I will have limited battery life

From: "Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca" <PSalazar-Rodriguez@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Thursday, July 30, 2015 at 6:49 PM
To: Bill de Blasio <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov>, FLONYC <FLONYC@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: MINI SCHEDULE - FRIDAY, JULY 31, 2015

SCHEDULE FOR MAYOR BILL DE BLASIO
CITY OF NEW YORK
Friday, July 31, 2015

WEATHER: Hi of 92. Low of 74. Sunny.
ATTIRE: Business
NOTES: - YOU have 30 mins. to change at the gym

7:45 - 8:15 TRAVEL FROM GRACIE MANSION TO 357 9TH STREET
Travel Time: 30 mins.

8:15 - 9:15 WORKOUT
Location: 357 9th Street

9:45 - 10:00 TRAVEL TIME FROM 357 9TH AVENUE TO [REDACTED]
[REDACTED] COMMUNICATIONS CALL
Travel Time: 15 mins. on foot

10:00 - 10:15 [REDACTED]
Location: [REDACTED]

10:15 - 10:45 TRAVEL TIME FROM [REDACTED] TO 15
MAIDEN LANE
Travel Time: 30 mins.

10:45 – 11:45 STRATEGIC PLANNING MEETING WITH – Henry,
Gabrielle, Elana, Ross, Hailey, John Del Cecato, Nathan, Emma, and Tom
Location: 15 Maiden Lane

11:45 - 4:45 CALL TIME
Location: 15 Maiden Lane

4:45 - 5:15 TRAVEL FROM 15 MAIDEN LANE EN ROUTE GRACIE
MANSION
Travel Time: 30 mins.

5:15 - 5:45 COFFEE WITH CHANCELLOR FARINA
Location: Gracie Mansion, the Porch

7:00 - 7:30 TRAVEL FROM GRACIE MANSION EN ROUTE RICHARD
ROGERS THEATRE
Travel Time: 30 mins.

8:00 - 11:00 ATTEND HAMILTON WITH FLONYC
Location: Richard Rogers Theater, 226 West 46th
Street
After the show you and FLONYC will go backstage for a
photo-op.
CH Photographer will be present to take photo after the show with Lin Manuel.

CITY HALL STEPS PRESS CONFERENCES

No Scheduled Press Conferences

FLONYC SCHEDULE

9:15 - 10:00	PRIVATE APPOINTMENT
2:00 - 2:30	MEETING WITH COMMISSIONER FINKELPEARL
3:30 - 4:30	MEETING WITH DARREN WALKER, FORD FOUNDATION
8:00 - 11:00	ATTEND HAMILTON WITH YOU

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
To: John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: MINI SCHEDULE - FRIDAY, JULY 31, 2015
Date: Friday, July 31, 2015 7:34:47 AM

Ok.

Sent from my iPhone

On Jul 31, 2015, at 7:25 AM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

I was at the meeting at Berlin-Rosen yesterday tho

From: "Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca" <PSalazar-Rodriguez@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Friday, July 31, 2015 at 7:22 AM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: MINI SCHEDULE - FRIDAY, JULY 31, 2015

Hi. Ok. Will let Tom know. Assuming u got the invite to the group mtg without mayor before hand...

Sent from my iPhone

On Jul 31, 2015, at 7:19 AM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

Heya.. I didn't know about the 10:45am meeting ... I'm out of town today, but could try to call in for a bit - but I will have limited battery life

From: "Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca" <PSalazar-Rodriguez@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Thursday, July 30, 2015 at 6:49 PM
To: Bill de Blasio <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov>, FLONYC <FLONYC@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: MINI SCHEDULE - FRIDAY, JULY 31, 2015

SCHEDULE FOR MAYOR BILL DE BLASIO
CITY OF NEW YORK
Friday, July 31, 2015

WEATHER: Hi of 92. Low of 74. Sunny.
ATTIRE: Business
NOTES: - YOU have 30 mins. to change at the gym

7:45 - 8:15 TRAVEL FROM GRACIE MANSION TO 357 9TH STREET
Travel Time: 30 mins.

8:15 - 9:15 WORKOUT
Location: 357 9th Street

9:45 - 10:00 TRAVEL TIME FROM 357 9TH AVENUE TO [REDACTED]
[REDACTED] // COMMUNICATIONS CALL
Travel Time: 15 mins. on foot

10:00 - 10:15 [REDACTED]
Location: [REDACTED]

10:15 - 10:45 TRAVEL TIME FROM [REDACTED] TO 15
MAIDEN LANE
Travel Time: 30 mins.

10:45 – 11:45 STRATEGIC PLANNING MEETING WITH – Henry,
Gabrielle, Elana, Ross, Hailey, John Del Cecato, Nathan, Emma, and Tom
Location: 15 Maiden Lane

11:45 - 4:45 CALL TIME
Location: 15 Maiden Lane

4:45 - 5:15 TRAVEL FROM 15 MAIDEN LANE EN ROUTE GRACIE
MANSION
Travel Time: 30 mins.

5:15 - 5:45 COFFEE WITH CHANCELLOR FARINA
Location: Gracie Mansion, the Porch

7:00 - 7:30 TRAVEL FROM GRACIE MANSION EN ROUTE RICHARD
ROGERS THEATRE
Travel Time: 30 mins.

8:00 - 11:00 ATTEND HAMILTON WITH FLONYC
Location: Richard Rogers Theater, 226 West 46th
Street
After the show you and FLONYC will go backstage for a
photo-op.
CH Photographer will be present to take photo after the show with Lin Manuel.

CITY HALL STEPS PRESS CONFERENCES

No Scheduled Press Conferences

FLONYC SCHEDULE

9:15 - 10:00 PRIVATE APPOINTMENT
2:00 - 2:30 MEETING WITH COMMISSIONER FINKELPEARL
3:30 - 4:30 MEETING WITH DARREN WALKER, FORD FOUNDATION
8:00 - 11:00 ATTEND HAMILTON WITH YOU

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
To: John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: MINI SCHEDULE - FRIDAY, JULY 31, 2015
Date: Friday, July 31, 2015 7:36:08 AM

Either way will let Tom know.

Sent from my iPhone

On Jul 31, 2015, at 7:25 AM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

I was at the meeting at Berlin-Rosen yesterday tho

From: "Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca" <PSalazar-Rodriguez@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Friday, July 31, 2015 at 7:22 AM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: MINI SCHEDULE - FRIDAY, JULY 31, 2015

Hi. Ok. Will let Tom know. Assuming u got the invite to the group mtg without mayor before hand...

Sent from my iPhone

On Jul 31, 2015, at 7:19 AM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

Heya.. I didn't know about the 10:45am meeting ... I'm out of town today, but could try to call in for a bit - but I will have limited battery life

From: "Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca" <PSalazar-Rodriguez@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Thursday, July 30, 2015 at 6:49 PM
To: Bill de Blasio <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov>, FLONYC <FLONYC@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: MINI SCHEDULE - FRIDAY, JULY 31, 2015

SCHEDULE FOR MAYOR BILL DE BLASIO
CITY OF NEW YORK
Friday, July 31, 2015

WEATHER: Hi of 92. Low of 74. Sunny.
ATTIRE: Business
NOTES: - YOU have 30 mins. to change at the gym

7:45 - 8:15 TRAVEL FROM GRACIE MANSION TO 357 9TH STREET
Travel Time: 30 mins.

8:15 - 9:15 WORKOUT
Location: 357 9th Street

9:45 - 10:00 TRAVEL TIME FROM 357 9TH AVENUE TO [REDACTED]
[REDACTED] // COMMUNICATIONS CALL
Travel Time: 15 mins. on foot

10:00 - 10:15 [REDACTED]
Location: [REDACTED]

10:15 - 10:45 TRAVEL TIME FROM [REDACTED] TO 15
MAIDEN LANE
Travel Time: 30 mins.

10:45 – 11:45 STRATEGIC PLANNING MEETING WITH – Henry,
Gabrielle, Elana, Ross, Hailey, John Del Cecato, Nathan, Emma, and Tom
Location: 15 Maiden Lane

11:45 - 4:45 CALL TIME
Location: 15 Maiden Lane

4:45 - 5:15 TRAVEL FROM 15 MAIDEN LANE EN ROUTE GRACIE
MANSION
Travel Time: 30 mins.

5:15 - 5:45 COFFEE WITH CHANCELLOR FARINA
Location: Gracie Mansion, the Porch

7:00 - 7:30 TRAVEL FROM GRACIE MANSION EN ROUTE RICHARD
ROGERS THEATRE
Travel Time: 30 mins.

8:00 - 11:00 ATTEND HAMILTON WITH FLONYC
Location: Richard Rogers Theater, 226 West 46th
Street
After the show you and FLONYC will go backstage for a
photo-op.
CH Photographer will be present to take photo after the show with Lin Manuel.

CITY HALL STEPS PRESS CONFERENCES

No Scheduled Press Conferences

FLONYC SCHEDULE

9:15 - 10:00	PRIVATE APPOINTMENT
2:00 - 2:30	MEETING WITH COMMISSIONER FINKELPEARL
3:30 - 4:30	MEETING WITH DARREN WALKER, FORD FOUNDATION
8:00 - 11:00	ATTEND HAMILTON WITH YOU

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
To: Hinton, Karen; "John Del Cecato"
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: RE: Minimum wage increase/Balz interview
Date: Friday, July 31, 2015 12:22:29 PM

Have to re-work sched to find 40 minutes
Will loop back

From: Hinton, Karen
Sent: Friday, July 31, 2015 12:18 PM
To: 'John Del Cecato'; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: RE: Minimum wage increase/Balz interview

John, I would like you to be in the room with him and me.

Prisca, John wants Mayor to do 20 minute interview with Wash Post reporter Dan Balz on Tuesday. He would need 20 minutes to prep and 20 minutes for the interview. Is there time for this before 3 pm?

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Friday, July 31, 2015 11:20 AM
To: Hinton, Karen
Subject: Re: Minimum wage increase

I can send something tomorrow, but I won't be there in person. Should we do Tuesday instead, when I can staff him in person?

On Jul 31, 2015, at 10:44 AM, Hinton, Karen <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

You prepping him with briefing materials, too???

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Friday, July 31, 2015 9:24 AM
To: Walzak, Phil
Cc: Hagelgans, Andrea; Snyder, Thomas; Hinton, Karen; Wolfe, Emma
Subject: Re: Minimum wage increase

Tom - is there 20 minutes for MBDB to call Balz on Monday?

On Jul 29, 2015, at 1:08 PM, Walzak, Phil <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Like this

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, July 29, 2015 11:43 AM
To: Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea; Snyder, Thomas; Hinton, Karen; Wolfe, Emma
Subject: Minimum wage increase

Team TPA had an idea - although you guys may already have something like this in motion.

We wanted to have MBDB do a follow-up phone interview with Dan Balz of the Washington Post. As you'll remember, Balz wrote the first piece on TPA - got the scoop on what we were trying to do prior to the original Gracie Confab.

http://www.washingtonpost.com/politics/nys-de-blasio-gathers-progressives-to-kick-start-debate-on-income-inequality/2015/04/01/15c992de-d8b4-11e4-8103-fa84725dbf9d_story.html

The theme we'd be pushing is this. For all of the talk about how national politics is broken (as seen by Washington) - and how mayors (not just BDB) pushing a national agenda must somehow be in conflict with doing their "day jobs" - the opposite is true.

1. For nearly 18 months, we've been pushing for a min wage hike. Cuomo/Albany originally said "non-starter" and said "we just did one - not going to do it again." Then, when GOP won the Senate, we were told we REALLY couldn't get a min wage hike.
2. De Blasio and members of TPA made min wage hike the first plank in our agenda and pushed it nationally. BDB talked about it in Iowa, Wisconsin, California. Fight for $15 spanned 200 cities. Cities/counties in LA, Seattle, Washington, St. Louis, Kansas City, other places pushed through min wage hikes.
3. Albany saw the writing on the wall & wage board had the pressure/support/national conversation (from the grassroots - not the big shots in Washington) needed to get a $15 min wage for fast food workers here in New York.
4. It's an example of how mayors are: a) doing everything in their power locally to address income inequality; b) also banding together/speaking for the grassroots as we tackle big progressive issues - and getting results. Now even the presidential contest is focused on whether or not to have a $15 min wage - something you'd have thought was impossible in 2012.

Thoughts?

From: Hayley Prim
To: B
Cc: Snyder, Thomas; John Del Cecato; Geri Prado
Subject: Meeting Unions, Clinton Offers Support for $12 Minimum Wage
Date: Friday, July 31, 2015 12:43:12 PM

FYI:

Hillary Rodham Clinton on Thursday offered some support for a proposal in the Senate that would raise the federal minimum wage to $12 an hour, hinting that the higher rate sought by labor unions doesn't have enough support.

Congressional Democratic leaders have backed legislation sponsored by Washington Sen. Patty Murray that would increase the rate to $12 an hour by 2020, which is several dollars less than the $15 backed by labor and anti-poverty activists.

"Whatever (Murray) advocates I pay a lot of attention to, because she knows how to get it through the Congress," Clinton said after meeting with labor leaders on Thursday. "Let's not just do it for the sake of having a higher number out there, but let's actually get behind a proposal that has a chance of succeeding."

<http://abcnews.go.com/Politics/wireStory/meeting-unions-clinton-offers-support-12-minimum-wage-32789133>

--

Hayley Prim

c:

From: Hayley Prim
To: Snyder, Thomas
Cc: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: Kindergarten vs Hedgefund Screening
Date: Friday, July 31, 2015 1:20:37 PM

Prisca-- let's move this hold up to 4:15pm - 5:30pm for this day, and then we will get him out so that he can go to Seth Myers.

On Tue, Jul 28, 2015 at 10:58 AM, Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us> wrote:

Can you guys confirm the time is being help on BDB's calendar for the 10th?

Trying to get the cert of insurance form from Pace, and will send along when I have it.

On Mon, Jul 20, 2015 at 4:32 PM, Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us> wrote:

It's something we are doing together. He is screening his film, and then having a discussion with BDB after in front of audience

On Mon, Jul 20, 2015 at 4:10 PM, Snyder, Thomas <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Not sure I understand the insurance issue. Is it a City event? Or the filmmakers event?

From: Hayley Prim [mailto:hayley@progressiveagenda.us]
Sent: Monday, July 20, 2015 4:05 PM
To: Snyder, Thomas; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Cc: John Del Cecato
Subject: Kindergarten vs Hedgefund Screening

Hi all,

We are moving forward on the Kindergarten vs Hedgefund screening with Robert Greenwald.

Prisca, could we do the screening at 7:30pm on September 10-- I think hold 7:15pm - 8:45 total for the evening just to be safe... Right JDC?

Tom,

We are going to screen this at Pace University, right by City Hall. They are asking for who will be the signer on the certificate of insurance. Would we list the City of New York as the signer?

--

Hayley Prim

c: [REDACTED]

From: Schwartz, Regina
To: John Del Cecato \(jfdc@akpdmedia.com\)
Subject: are you planning on joining the 1:30?
Date: Friday, July 31, 2015 1:22:24 PM

From: Schwartz, Regina
To: Yazgi, Stephanie; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; "Neal Kwatra"; Snyder, Thomas; Fromberg, Rick; Wolfe, Emma; Viguers, Jonathan
Cc: Schnake Mahl, Gabriel
Subject: RE: Mayors Organizing Plan
Date: Friday, July 31, 2015 1:26:44 PM
Attachments: mayors_organizing_vision7.28.docx

Team-

We need to postpone this until next week.

GSM will find a time next week for us. Sorry for the late cancel.

In the meantime please look at the revised document and make comments/edits.

Thank you

Gina

From: Schwartz, Regina
Sent: Tuesday, July 28, 2015 12:09 PM
To: Yazgi, Stephanie; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; 'Neal Kwatra'; Snyder, Thomas; Fromberg, Rick; Wolfe, Emma; Viguers, Jonathan
Cc: Schnake Mahl, Gabriel
Subject: Mayors Organizing Plan

Based on our meeting from two weeks ago, attached is the start of a vision document for the Mayor's Organizing initiative.

Please read and provide comments, big picture questions, and edits.

We will get a call on the books to talk through it on Friday- gsm please schedule.

From: Yazgi, Stephanie
Sent: Thursday, July 16, 2015 11:10 AM
To: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; 'Neal Kwatra'; Schwartz, Regina; Snyder, Thomas; Fromberg, Rick; Wolfe, Emma; Viguers, Jonathan
Subject: RE: NEEDED FROM YOU!: Notes for Mayors Organizing Plan

Folks:

I have only received input from Gina and Rick. Please send me a couple of bullets with your vision by end of day.

Thanks!

Stephanie

From: Yazgi, Stephanie
Sent: Wednesday, July 08, 2015 1:58 PM
To: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; 'Neal Kwatra'; Schwartz, Regina; Snyder, Thomas; Fromberg, Rick; Wolfe, Emma; Viguers, Jonathan
Subject: NEEDED FROM YOU!: Notes for Mayors Organizing Plan

Folks:

Thanks for the meeting this morning. If you could, by the end of the week, please send me a few key bullets to summarize the pieces you think need to be part of the mayor's organizing plan re: national and local organizing, programmatic pieces, goals and considerations and notes on how to overcome any identified challenges.

I will pull this all together and summarize and circulate a document next week for us to agree upon and then present to MBdB.

Thanks!
Stephanie

p.s. if you'd rather speak by phone you can call me anytime [REDACTED] or we can schedule a time to speak – THANKS!

MEMORANDUM

TO: Mayor de Blasio

RE: Mayor's Organizing Program

Vision: To Advance the an Urban Agenda on the National Level by making Mayors' Voices as Powerful as Possible

1) Select issue areas with high value to cities across the country that can be won at a national level through influencing:

- a. Federal Policy – Unifying unlikely allies and targeting Members of Congress OR Presidential Legacy Initiatives
 - b. Presidential Discourse – Direct targeting of candidates and increasing overall issue salience to lead to eventual presidential action.
 - c. Individual City or State to Action- Waterfall of city action on issues to create imperative for change on a Federal level.
- Next Step: Identify issues that we can win at a national level: Transportation, Immigration, Civil Rights, Environment, Education, Economic Inequality, Predictive Policing, Housing, Jobs etc.

2) Organize Mayors by:

- a. Crafting strategic campaigns and lobbying efforts around selected issues
 - i. AND taking advantage of organic local Mayoral wins within issue areas
- b. Executing a communications strategy which influences the national dialogue with a local, programmatic angle
 - i. Engaging strange bed-fellows to partner with Mayors to increase power (CEOs, local allies, Farmers)
- c. Developing leaders among mayoral allies
- d. Sharing municipal best practices to create Mayoral successes and build relationships

3) Build a sustainable Mayors Organizing team in NYC:

- a. Director of Mayors Organizing
- b. 2 Organizing Staff
- c. Researcher
- d. Press Staff

Outstanding issues:

1. TPA vs. Mayors Organizing- These should be aware of eachother's outreach, but a bright line drawn so that we don't cannibalize our own organizing. So far a cornerstone of Mayors Organizing has been its bi-partisan credibility.
2. Issue selection
3. Aggressive recruitment with broad base OR a plan to focus and grow deep relationships with largest population cities
4. NYC as leader and laboratory for all cutting edge work OR other leaders with us on variety of organic issues that we help amplify
5. Mayors Database creation

Context of Current Mayors Organizing work:

There are five main buckets of organizing work that currently touch mayors:

- 1) Cities United for Immigration Action: There are nearly 100 cities that have taken action with this coalition in one way or another. The coalition is staffed and run by MOIA, and they work with national advocacy groups and labor and community based organizational partners when it serves to further the coalition's mission.
- 2) USCM and Cities of Opportunity Task Force: Working with USCM, the only national organization that convenes mayors exclusively, provides us access to their 1400 members nationwide. Chairing the Cities of Opportunity Task Force allows us to participate and provide formal programming and a space for organizing around issues of inequality, which are central to our platform. It can serve as a springboard to deeper organizing on a number of issues with mayors as well as opportunity to meet and building with bi-partisan group of mayors.
- 3) The Progressive Agenda: We seek mayors to sign on in support of this and engage in this organizing in order to move forward a progressive issue agenda nationwide.
- 4) NYS State Affairs work: We engage with mayors- mostly Democratic allies- across the state in order to move our Albany agenda forward.
- 5) OneNYC regional work: We engage bi-partisan coalition of mayors and other officials, as well as agencies, across the region on key issues.

This past year we have had gatherings of mayors around COO in person in NYC and Boston and at USCM meetings, we have had one immigration summit with mayors and at least two gatherings of staff (hosted by NYC and SF), made progress on immigration with two amici filed in support of president's executive actions and 5 national days of action.

COO has held two national days of action on transportation- one of which included a Lobby day in Washington DC.

Through Cities of Opportunity Task force, the issues areas around which we will organize are: 1) Early childhood education, 2) Income inequality (minimum wage), 3) Broadband Access, 4) Transportation, 5) Housing.

Thus far, this work has been siloed, which is confusing and causes work flow problems. In order to unify our mayors organizing initiatives, we propose that we unite it under one banner we call CITIES FOR ACTION. (See accompanying style guide for this brand).

THEORY OF CHANGE

While there are organizations that convene mayors, our vision to create a space for mayors to collaborate and advocate without being mediated by third parties. This means an effort that allows for the strong and united voice of mayors to be heard by engaging collectively at the local, state and federal levels.

Meeting mayors where they are at, identifying themes and areas of collaboration, and bringing them together with progressive thinkers, advocates and funders in order to share, publish, and promote best practices in innovative policy and programs is a key programmatic piece to the organizing; but the potential politically to activate the various subsets of mayors (regionally or constituency-based) to organize and push in various arenas is the driving force behind this effort.

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: John Del Cecato; Walzak, Phil
Cc: Hagelgans, Andrea; Hinton, Karen; Wolfe, Emma
Subject: Re: Minimum wage increase
Date: Friday, July 31, 2015 1:54:03 PM

Why Monday rather than another day next week?

From: John Del Ceccato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Date: Friday, July 31, 2015 at 9:23 AM
To: "Walzak, Phil" <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: Andrea Hagelgans <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Tom Snyder <tsnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Karen Hinton <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Emma Wolfe <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: Minimum wage increase

Tom - is there 20 minutes for MBDB to call Balz on Monday?

On Jul 29, 2015, at 1:08 PM, Walzak, Phil <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Like this

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, July 29, 2015 11:43 AM
To: Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea; Snyder, Thomas; Hinton, Karen; Wolfe, Emma
Subject: Minimum wage increase

Team TPA had an idea - although you guys may already have something like this in motion.

We wanted to have MBDB do a follow-up phone interview with Dan Balz of the Washington Post. As you'll remember, Balz wrote the first piece on TPA - got the scoop on what we were trying to do prior to the original Gracie Confab.

http://www.washingtonpost.com/politics/nys-de-blasio-gathers-progressives-to-kick-start-debate-on-income-inequality/2015/04/01/15c992de-d8b4-11e4-8103-fa84725dbf9d_story.html

The theme we'd be pushing is this. For all of the talk about how national politics is broken (as seen by Washington) - and how mayors (not just BDB) pushing a national agenda must somehow be in conflict with doing their "day jobs" - the opposite is true.

1. For nearly 18 months, we've been pushing for a min wage hike. Cuomo/Albany originally said "non-starter" and said "we just did one - not going to do it again." Then, when GOP won the Senate, we were told we REALLY couldn't get a min wage hike.

2. De Blasio and members of TPA made min wage hike the first plank in our agenda and pushed it nationally. BDB talked about it in Iowa, Wisconsin, California. Fight for $15 spanned 200 cities. Cities/counties in LA, Seattle, Washington, St. Louis, Kansas City, other places pushed through min wage hikes.

3. Albany saw the writing on the wall & wage board had the pressure/support/national conversation (from the grassroots - not the big shots in Washington) needed to get a $15 min wage for fast food workers here in New York.

4. It's an example of how mayors are: a) doing everything in their power locally to address income inequality; b) also banding together/speaking for the grassroots as we tackle big progressive issues - and getting results. Now even the presidential contest is focused on whether or not to have a $15 min wage - something you'd have thought was impossible in 2012.

Thoughts?

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
To: "John Del Cecato"; Hinton, Karen
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: RE: Minimum wage increase/Balz interview
Date: Friday, July 31, 2015 1:59:19 PM

k

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Friday, July 31, 2015 1:57 PM
To: Hinton, Karen
Cc: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: Re: Minimum wage increase/Balz interview

Works for me

On Jul 31, 2015, at 12:57 PM, Hinton, Karen <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

John?

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Sent: Friday, July 31, 2015 12:26 PM
To: Hinton, Karen; 'John Del Cecato'
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: RE: Minimum wage increase/Balz interview

Anyway this is possible Wednesday at 5pm
Just asking

From: Hinton, Karen
Sent: Friday, July 31, 2015 12:18 PM
To: 'John Del Cecato'; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: RE: Minimum wage increase/Balz interview

John, I would like you to be in the room with him and me.

Prisca, John wants Mayor to do 20 minute interview with Wash Post reporter Dan Balz on Tuesday. He would need 20 minutes to prep and 20 minutes for the interview. Is there time for this before 3 pm?

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Friday, July 31, 2015 11:20 AM

To: Hinton, Karen
Subject: Re: Minimum wage increase

I can send something tomorrow, but I won't be there in person. Should we do Tuesday instead, when I can staff him in person?

On Jul 31, 2015, at 10:44 AM, Hinton, Karen <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

You prepping him with briefing materials, too???

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Friday, July 31, 2015 9:24 AM
To: Walzak, Phil
Cc: Hagelgans, Andrea; Snyder, Thomas; Hinton, Karen; Wolfe, Emma
Subject: Re: Minimum wage increase

Tom - is there 20 minutes for MBDB to call Balz on Monday?

On Jul 29, 2015, at 1:08 PM, Walzak, Phil
<PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Like this

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, July 29, 2015 11:43 AM
To: Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea; Snyder, Thomas; Hinton, Karen; Wolfe, Emma
Subject: Minimum wage increase

Team TPA had an idea - although you guys may already have something like this in motion.

We wanted to have MBDB do a follow-up phone interview with Dan Balz of the Washington Post. As you'll remember, Balz wrote the first piece on TPA - got the scoop on what we were trying to do prior to the original Gracie Confab.
http://www.washingtonpost.com/politics/nys-de-blasio-gathers-progressives-to-kick-start-debate-on-income-inequality/2015/04/01/15c992de-d8b4-11e4-8103-fa84725dbf9d_story.html

The theme we'd be pushing is this. For all of the talk about how national politics is broken (as seen by Washington) - and how mayors (not just BDB) pushing a national agenda must somehow be in conflict with doing their "day jobs" - the opposite is true.

1. For nearly 18 months, we've been pushing for a min wage hike. Cuomo/Albany originally said “non-starter” and said “we just did one - not going to do it again.” Then, when GOP won the Senate, we were told we REALLY couldn’t get a min wage hike.

2. De Blasio and members of TPA made min wage hike the first plank in our agenda and pushed it nationally. BDB talked about it in Iowa, Wisconsin, California. Fight for $15 spanned 200 cities. Cities/counties in LA, Seattle, Washington, St. Louis, Kansas City, other places pushed through min wage hikes.

3. Albany saw the writing on the wall & wage board had the pressure/support/national conversation (from the grassroots - not the big shots in Washington) needed to get a $15 min wage for fast food workers here in New York.

4. It’s an example of how mayors are: a) doing everything in their power locally to address income inequality; b) also banding together/speaking for the grassroots as we tackle big progressive issues - and getting results. Now even the presidential contest is focused on whether or not to have a $15 min wage - something you’d have thought was impossible in 2012.

Thoughts?

From: Leopold, Elana
To: "hayley@progressiveagenda.us"
Cc: Snyder, Thomas; [REDACTED] "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Subject: RE: Governor Jay Inslee - Washington State
Date: Friday, July 31, 2015 3:35:50 PM

- mayor

+ prisca

From: B
Sent: Friday, July 31, 2015 3:33 PM
To: 'hayley@progressiveagenda.us'
Cc: Snyder, Thomas; Leopold, Elana; [REDACTED] "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Governor Jay Inslee - Washington State

Just heard from my brother, [REDACTED] that Inslee did something bold on climate change. Pls sched a call with him for monday or tues so I can start to develop a relationship. And I need background on the action he took. Thanks

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: "hayley@progressiveagenda.us"
Cc: Leopold, Elana; [REDACTED] "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Re: Governor Jay Inslee - Washington State
Date: Friday, July 31, 2015 3:41:39 PM

Hayley - can you get the background info the mayor is seeking before Monday and send it to him directly but cc me and prisca. Also need a phone number for Inslee.

On 7/31/15, 3:33 PM, "B" <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>

>Just heard from my brother, [REDACTED], that Inslee did something >bold on climate change. Pls sched a call with him for monday or tues so I >can start to develop a relationship. And I need background on the action >he took. Thanks

From: Geri Prado
To: B
Cc: hayley@progressiveagenda.us; Snyder, Thomas; Leopold, Elana; jfdc@akpdmedia.com
Subject: Re: Governor Jay Inslee - Washington State
Date: Friday, July 31, 2015 3:42:42 PM

It was around carbon cap emissions.

I believe the boldness was that he took executive action and went around the legislature completely to avoid tagging on something that would have weakened the regulations he's pushing per the GOP.

Will send an article that might clarify.

> On Jul 31, 2015, at 3:33 PM, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>

>

> Just heard from my brother, [REDACTED], that Inslee did something bold on climate change. Pls sched a call with him for monday or tues so I can start to develop a relationship. And I need background on the action he took. Thanks

From: B
To: Snyder, Thomas; [REDACTED]
Cc: "hayley@progressiveagenda.us"; Leopold, Elana; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Re: Governor Jay Inslee - Washington State
Date: Friday, July 31, 2015 4:01:02 PM

Pls get me one or more article re: what he achieved

----- Original Message -----

From: Snyder, Thomas
Sent: Friday, July 31, 2015 03:43 PM
To: Geri Prado [REDACTED] B
Cc: hayley@progressiveagenda.us <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>; Leopold, Elana; jfdc@akpdmedia.com <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Governor Jay Inslee - Washington State

Just need a short one paragraph description of the action he took.

On 7/31/15, 3:42 PM, "Geri Prado" [REDACTED] wrote:

>It was around carbon cap emissions.
>
>I believe the boldness was that he took executive action and went around >the legislature completely to avoid tagging on something that would have >weakened the regulations he's pushing per the GOP.
>
>Will send an article that might clarify.
>
>
>
>
>> On Jul 31, 2015, at 3:33 PM, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>>
>>
>> Just heard from my brother, [REDACTED], that Inslee did something >>bold on climate change. Pls sched a call with him for monday or tues so >>I can start to develop a relationship. And I need background on the >>action he took. Thanks

From: Klein, Monica
To: B
Cc: Hayley Prim \(hayley@progressiveagenda.us\); John Del Cecato
Subject: HRC & $15
Date: Friday, July 31, 2015 4:03:09 PM

HRC has not supported a $15 min wage nationally.

HRC has supported NYC raising the minimum wage to $15/hour for fast food workers

She described the federal minimum wage as a floor and said cities such as LA - which recently voted to adopt a $15-an-hour minimum wage - should be free to set higher ones.

She spoke favorably about legislation to raise the minimum wage to $12/hour nationally.

From: Hayley Prim
To: B
Cc: Snyder, Thomas; Leopold, Elana; jfdc@akpdmmedia.com
Subject: Re: Governor Jay Inslee - Washington State
Date: Friday, July 31, 2015 4:17:26 PM

This article does a good job in outlining it. Working on scheduling a call for monday or tuesday.

<http://www.bellinghamherald.com/news/state/washington/article29273878.html>

Bypassing Legislature, Inslee turns to executive action on climate change

Taking a page from President Barack Obama, Gov. Jay Inslee is bypassing reluctant lawmakers to combat climate change through regulation.

The Democratic governor told his administration Tuesday to develop a cap on emissions of greenhouse gases so Washington can meet its commitment to cut 1990-level emissions in half by 2050.

But he opted against pursuing a clean fuel standard because that would have triggered a Republican-sponsored "poison pill" jeopardizing mass-transit funding.

Regulations are needed to meet clean-air standards already in place, Inslee argued.

"We have limits that the state is supposed to meet for total emissions, and nothing on the books to force reductions so we can meet those standards," Inslee spokesman David Postman said.

The Legislature set the standards in 2008 but never followed with restrictions. In this year's legislative sessions totaling a marathon 176 days, neither the Democratic House nor the Republican Senate passed a proposal by Inslee to tax large sources of emissions.

Inslee still prefers that plan, a cap-and-trade program that would have raised $1 billion a year for the state and set up a market for polluters to buy and sell credits. He said Tuesday it was still an option but that he couldn't wait any longer.

So Inslee is shifting to executive action, just as the Obama administration did after Congress wouldn't enact a cap-and-trade system.

The state's version of the Clean Air Act allows the Department of Ecology to set emissions standards, and Inslee directed the agency to use that authority on carbon emissions. The authority doesn't extend to raising revenue or auctioning off credits, although emitters might still be able to trade credits in some way, his office said.

Still to be decided is who would be covered under the plan. Inslee's original legislative proposal covered about 130 large facilities and fuel distributors that cause the release of more than 25,000 metric tons of heat-trapping gases in a year. It would have made exceptions for industries such as agriculture.

Inslee's rule must go through a year or more of development and vetting, and it will face a skeptical reception from business groups.

"We're disappointed that he's chosen to take yet another route that doesn't include business-oriented solutions," said Brandon Houskeeper, a lobbyist with the Association of Washington Business.

Houskeeper said the AWB supports a plan advanced by Sen. Doug Ericksen, R-Ferndale, that passed the Senate. It would have given electrical utilities that currently are required to buy wind power and other renewable energy a way to avoid that voter-imposed mandate by reducing emissions.

Environmentalists cheered Inslee for what they said was a bold move to combat climate change.

"This summer's fire, drought and heat are really showing us what's at stake," said Becky Kelley, president of the Washington Environmental Council.

In settling on his strategy, Inslee decided not to pursue a clean-fuels regulation that would encourage alternative transportation fuels.

In so doing, he avoided what some have called a "poison pill" in the $16 billion transportation spending package that the Legislature passed this month. Added at the behest of the Republican-majority Senate, the provision would have canceled bike, trail and mass-transit funding if a governor started work on a clean-fuels standard.

Read more here:

<http://www.bellinghamherald.com/news/state/washington/article29273878.html#storylink=cpy>

On Fri, Jul 31, 2015 at 4:00 PM, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Pls get me one or more article re: what he achieved

----- Original Message -----

From: Snyder, Thomas

Sent: Friday, July 31, 2015 03:43 PM

To: Geri Prado [REDACTED] B

Cc: hayley@progressiveagenda.us <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>; Leopold, Elana; jfdc@akpdmedia.com <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>

Subject: Re: Governor Jay Inslee - Washington State

Just need a short one paragraph description of the action he took.

On 7/31/15, 3:42 PM, "Geri Prado" [REDACTED] wrote:

>It was around carbon cap emissions.

>

>I believe the boldness was that he took executive action and went around >the legislature completely to avoid tagging on something that would have >weakened the regulations he's pushing per the GOP.

>

>Will send an article that might clarify.

>

>

>

>

>

>> On Jul 31, 2015, at 3:33 PM, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>>

>>

>> Just heard from my brother, [REDACTED] that Inslee did something >>bold on climate change. Pls sched a call with him for monday or tues so

>>I can start to develop a relationship. And I need background on the >>action he took. Thanks

--

Hayley Prim

c:

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
To: "Hayley Prim"
Cc: Leopold, Elana; Snyder, Thomas; [REDACTED] jfdc@akpdmedia.com
Subject: RE: Governor Jay Inslee - Washington State
Date: Friday, July 31, 2015 4:51:55 PM

Confirmed

The Governor will call the Mayor on his cell.

From: Hayley Prim [mailto:hayley@progressiveagenda.us]
Sent: Friday, July 31, 2015 4:41 PM
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Cc: Leopold, Elana; Snyder, Thomas; [REDACTED] jfdc@akpdmedia.com
Subject: Re: Governor Jay Inslee - Washington State

Awesome. Can you reach out to Stacey and schedule it?

On Fri, Jul 31, 2015 at 4:37 PM, Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca <PSalazar-Rodriguez@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
I can make 7pm work

From: Hayley Prim [mailto:hayley@progressiveagenda.us]
Sent: Friday, July 31, 2015 4:09 PM
To: Leopold, Elana
Cc: Snyder, Thomas; [REDACTED] jfdc@akpdmedia.com; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Subject: Re: Governor Jay Inslee - Washington State

Just talked to Inslee's asst. Could we make 7pm EST work on Monday for a call? or 3pm EST on Tuesday?

Prisca, Stacey is his EA, and her number is [REDACTED] for your records.

On Fri, Jul 31, 2015 at 3:35 PM, Leopold, Elana <ELeopold@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
- mayor

+ prisca

From: B
Sent: Friday, July 31, 2015 3:33 PM
To: 'hayley@progressiveagenda.us'
Cc: Snyder, Thomas; Leopold, Elana; [REDACTED] jfdc@akpdmedia.com
Subject: Governor Jay Inslee - Washington State

Just heard from my brother, [REDACTED] that Inslee did something bold on climate change. Pls sched a call with him for monday or tues so I can start to develop a relationship. And I need background on the action he took. Thanks

--

Hayley Prim

c: [REDACTED]

--

Hayley Prim

c: [REDACTED]

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
To: "Hayley Prim"
Cc: Leopold, Elana; Snyder, Thomas; [REDACTED] jfdc@akpdmedia.com
Subject: RE: Governor Jay Inslee - Washington State
Date: Friday, July 31, 2015 4:51:55 PM

Confirmed

The Governor will call the Mayor on his cell.

From: Hayley Prim [mailto:hayley@progressiveagenda.us]
Sent: Friday, July 31, 2015 4:41 PM
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Cc: Leopold, Elana; Snyder, Thomas; [REDACTED] jfdc@akpdmedia.com
Subject: Re: Governor Jay Inslee - Washington State

Awesome. Can you reach out to Stacey and schedule it?

On Fri, Jul 31, 2015 at 4:37 PM, Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca <PSalazar-Rodriguez@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
I can make 7pm work

From: Hayley Prim [mailto:hayley@progressiveagenda.us]
Sent: Friday, July 31, 2015 4:09 PM
To: Leopold, Elana
Cc: Snyder, Thomas; [REDACTED] jfdc@akpdmedia.com; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Subject: Re: Governor Jay Inslee - Washington State

Just talked to Inslee's asst. Could we make 7pm EST work on Monday for a call? or 3pm EST on Tuesday?

Prisca, Stacey is his EA, and her number is [REDACTED] for your records.

On Fri, Jul 31, 2015 at 3:35 PM, Leopold, Elana <ELeopold@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
- mayor

+ prisca

From: B
Sent: Friday, July 31, 2015 3:33 PM
To: 'hayley@progressiveagenda.us'
Cc: Snyder, Thomas; Leopold, Elana; [REDACTED] jfdc@akpdmedia.com
Subject: Governor Jay Inslee - Washington State

Just heard from my brother, [REDACTED] that Inslee did something bold on climate change. Pls sched a call with him for monday or tues so I can start to develop a relationship. And I need background on the action he took. Thanks

--

Hayley Prim

c: [REDACTED]

--

Hayley Prim

c: [REDACTED]

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: B
Cc: jfdc@akpdmedia.com; [REDACTED] hayley@progressiveagenda.us; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Subject: Re: Vision
Date: Saturday, August 01, 2015 2:24:08 PM

I will aim for within the next week

Sent from my iPhone

> On Aug 1, 2015, at 2:23 PM, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>
>
> Good. But when do we meet as a group? I'm honestly not sure my larger vision for this being fully heard and I need to weigh in soon
>

>
> ----- Original Message -----
> From: Snyder, Thomas
> Sent: Saturday, August 01, 2015 02:17 PM
> To: B
> Cc: jfdc@akpdmedia.com <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; [REDACTED]
hayley@progressiveagenda.us <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
> Subject: Re: Vision

>
> We expect to meet as a staff group next week in prep for what you ask.

>
> Sent from my iPhone

>
>> On Aug 1, 2015, at 2:13 PM, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>>
>>
>> I really want to make sure we all get aligned for our vision for the TPA. Mine is expansive and, I believe, correct. When do we all get to sit in the same place, without interruption, and work this through? Will require a whole evening or a substantial part of a weekend day. A mini-retreat, in effect. Let's do soon. Pls keep me posted

From: Hayley Prim
To: Snyder, Thomas
Cc: jfdc@akpdmmedia.com; [REDACTED]
Subject: Re: Vision
Date: Saturday, August 01, 2015 2:32:39 PM

Working on it. Geri let us know when you're here.

On Saturday, August 1, 2015, Snyder, Thomas <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
Hayley - need to schedule meeting with the 4 of us asap.

Sent from my iPhone

> On Aug 1, 2015, at 2:13 PM, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>

>

> I really want to make sure we all get aligned for our vision for the TPA. Mine is expansive and, I believe, correct. When do we all get to sit in the same place, without interruption, and work this through? Will require a whole evening or a substantial part of a weekend day. A mini-retreat, in effect. Let's do soon. Pls keep me posted

--

Hayley Prim

c: [REDACTED]

From: John Del Cecato
To: B
Subject: Re: You around today?
Date: Saturday, August 01, 2015 3:53:38 PM

Sounds good

> On Aug 1, 2015, at 3:32 PM, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>
>
> Ok. Will get you tonight or tmrw
>
>
>
> ----- Original Message -----
> From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
> Sent: Saturday, August 01, 2015 03:08 PM
> To: B
> Subject: Re: You around today?
>
> I'm traveling to STL for [REDACTED] but can do quick phoned before flight departs at 4p - or else > could do tonight
>
>
>
>> On Aug 1, 2015, at 2:23 PM, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>>
>>
>> Either in person or by phone?
>>

From: Hayley Prim
To: B; Snyder, Thomas; John Del Cecato; Geri Prado
Subject: San Antonio proposal to increase MW
Date: Saturday, August 01, 2015 3:55:27 PM

The Council still has to vote to approve it, but we can add Mayor Ivy Taylor to call list.

City Manager Recommends Raising Minimum Wage For City Employees to $13 Per Hour
by Michael Marks July 31, 2015 at 3:16 PM

Michael Marks

SEIU members rally at City Hall in June to increase wages for city employees.

Update: Friday, July 31, 2015, 3:50 p.m.:

This story has been updated with comments from Buddy Villejo, SEIU Texas vice president of public sector.

Our post continues below:

San Antonio City Manager Sheryl Sculley announced recommendations today to raise the minimum wage for all city employees to $13 per hour starting next fiscal year.

"We have proposed a minimum of $13 per hour entry wage in the FY 2016 Proposed Budget, and if the City Council adopts it, it will be effective Jan. 1," Sculley said in a news release.

The increase is a victory advocacy groups such as the COPS/Metro Alliance, which has lobbied the City of San Antonio to increase minimum wages for its workers for over a year.

Robert Cruz, a COPS/Metro leader, said he was "elated" when he heard of the wage increase.

"It was because of our concerted effort. We've communicated with all the council members, and I think Mayor [Ivy] Taylor saw that the budget would sustain the rate increase," Cruz told the San Antonio Current. "Everything came together. We've been very methodical, we've been very patient and we've been very persistent."

COPS/Metro representatives will meet with Sculley next week to discuss other concerns with the budget, which will be presented to the City Council on Thursday, Aug. 6.

The group will continue to push for additional one dollar wage bumps over the next two years to bring the minimum wage for city employees up to $15 per hour.

That's the amount that another group, Service Employees International Union Texas, has pushed for. SEIU members rallied at City Hall this afternoon as part of the effort.

Over 3,000 city employees — roughly 40 percent of its total workforce — earn less than $15 per hour, according to SEIU.

"We've been joining together with residents to advocate for the kind of jobs and services our communities need to thrive. While we were not expecting to have such an immediate response, we are happy to see the city is listening," Buddy Villejo, SEIU Texas vice president of public sector, said in a statement to the Current. "People who work hard should be paid enough to live a decent life. That's why the Fight for $15 movement is gaining momentum in cities across the country and here in Texas. It's encouraging to see the city take this step forward."

The wage increase could bring city employees in line with Bexar County employees. The Bexar County Commissioners' Court agreed in June to look into raising pay for County employees to $13 per hour.

"If you're willing to pay them a decent a wage, it's easier to find good talent," Bexar County Judge Nelson Wolff said to the Current in June.

--

Hayley Prim

c:

From: Geri Prado
To: Snyder, Thomas
Cc: John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: Vision
Date: Saturday, August 01, 2015 5:08:28 PM

I have an outline but based on what I understand from the fundraising plan things might be changing.
If I can talk to Emma, Ross and Hyers about money it should be before the meeting with the mayor.

> On Aug 1, 2015, at 5:00 PM, Snyder, Thomas <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>
> Then let's do Wednesday afternoon and if needed you all can continue developing plan before that. I will figure a time later in week for discussion with Mayor
>
> Sent from my iPhone
>
>> On Aug 1, 2015, at 4:57 PM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:
>>
>> I'm not back until Monday afternoon - so Wed/Thu prob better
>>> On 8/1/15, 4:53 PM, "Geri Prado" <[REDACTED]> wrote:
>>>
>>> You guys think it would be better for me to come Monday, Tuesday or >>> Wednesday, Thursday?
>>>
>>>
>>>
>>>
>>>
>>>> On Aug 1, 2015, at 4:38 PM, Snyder, Thomas <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>
>>>> wrote:
>>>>
>>>> When can you be in NY this week?
>>>>
>>>> Sent from my iPhone
>>>>
>>>>> On Aug 1, 2015, at 4:34 PM, Geri Prado <[REDACTED]> wrote:
>>>>>
>>>>> Yes but I wasn't a part of the fundraising conversations so I need to >>>>> understand more about what and strategy.
>>>>>
>>>>> Re Iowa that takes us into a strategically different direction and >>>>> changes the goals. I will put a draft together on that but I think the >>>>> three of us need to have a discussion on where we are on that and if we >>>>> are suggesting that a change in him.
>>>>>
>>>>>
>>>>> Right now there are a series of ideas being implemented, some help us >>>>> get to the larger goals, some are different.
>>>>>
>>>>> I want to understand more if we are aligned on the goals. Any thoughts >>>>> on what I sent?
>>>>>
>>>>>

From: John Del Cecato
To: Klein, Monica; "Hayley Prim"
Subject: Re: $15
Date: Saturday, August 01, 2015 6:33:11 PM

This is an opinion piece, but is a good summary. And note that the columnist believes reforming 162(m) - aka the CEO Pay Loophole, aka TPA item #15 - would be a better idea...

Hillary Clinton's Capital Gains Tax Change Misses the Mark

Photo

Hillary Clinton called out "hit-and-run activists whose goal is to force an immediate payout," in a speech last week. Credit Mary Altaffer/Associated Press

Continue reading the main story

Hillary Rodham Clinton's proposal to increase capital gains taxes for well-off individuals who hold investments for less than six years has a certain appeal. The plan is likely to raise effective tax rates on the top 1 percent of taxpayers, and some might wish to support it for that reason.

But it seems more show horse than workhorse: It would do little to accomplish its stated goal of aiming at what Mrs. Clinton called "the tyranny of today's earnings report."

Under current law, gains from assets held for more than a year often qualify as long-term capital gains, which are taxed at a top rate of 20 percent. Under Mrs. Clinton's proposal, for individuals in the top bracket, the tax would start at 39.6 percent for investments that taxpayers maintained for two years or less, then gradually decrease after that, back to the 20 percent rate only for assets held for more than six years. Taxpayers outside the top bracket, which starts at about $465,000 for married filers, would see no change.

Mrs. Clinton tied the tax proposal to her concern about short-termism. Short-termism refers to the idea that some investors looking for short-term profits may push corporate managers to increase share buybacks, split up companies, sell off ancillary assets and generally use whatever techniques are necessary to increase a stock's price.

I'm skeptical of this line of argument. Shareholders who receive cash from share buybacks typically reinvest in other companies, thus making the overall allocation of economic resources more efficient. Some companies should be split up. Investors should not be myopic, but movements in the stock price relative to industry peers provide a useful way to monitor and evaluate the performance of top executives.

It is true that corporate executives are often overly focused on quarterly earnings. Earnings reports often drive stock price movements in the short run. Too much focus on quarterly earnings invites earnings management, where executives change the real or paper timing of transactions to strengthen earnings in a particular quarter, sometimes at the expense of the long-term stability and profitability of the firm.

The left wing of the Democratic Party may find Mrs. Clinton's narrative about corporate executives appealing. And because Mrs. Clinton's proposal would raise the top rate on capital gains relative to current law, it has the effect of making the tax system a bit more burdensome on some rich people.

The problem with Mrs. Clinton's proposal is that it slides over some important institutional details about how people invest. As a result, the proposed changes would do little to shape the behavior of corporate managers.

Top corporate executives receive substantial equity compensation in the form of restricted stock grants or similar arrangements. Executives often manage earnings to try to bolster them in periods when they can sell off shares. But changing the capital gains tax rate will not discourage this destructive behavior.

Consider the following example, which demonstrates why Mrs. Clinton's plan misses the mark.

When stock vests, an executive recognizes ordinary income for the fair-market value of the shares, taking that amount as the tax basis in the shares.

Suppose an executive received 50,000 shares of restricted stock in 2012, when the stock was worth $1 million, or $20 a share. Suppose the restrictions lapse in 2016 when the stock is worth $2 million, or $40 a share. Under either current law or Mrs. Clinton's plan, the executive would recognize $2 million of ordinary income and pay about $800,000 in income taxes. The executive would then have a basis in the shares of $2 million. This result does not depend on whether the executive sells the stock immediately or holds on to it after it vests.

Under Mrs. Clinton's proposal, if the executive sold the stock 18 months later for $42 a share, he or she would recognize $100,000 of short-term capital gain, paying tax of about $40,000. Under current law, the executive would pay tax of $20,000.

But raising the rate on tax gains also raises the value of tax losses. If the stock price declined to $38 a share, the executive would recognize a short-term capital loss of $100,000, worth about $40,000. Under current law, he or she would have a long-term capital loss of $100,000, worth about $20,000.

And whatever happens to the stock price after the stock vests, the amount of tax is likely to be small compared with the tax on the stock award itself, which is taxed at ordinary income rates. As a general matter, the stock price of a publicly traded company is about as likely to go down as it is up, and so broadly speaking, corporate executives care more about the top rate on ordinary income than the top rate on capital gains.

Executives of start-ups and other privately held firms often make an election under section 83(b) of the tax code that results in stock appreciation being taxed at capital gains rates. Those executives would not be affected much by Mrs. Clinton's proposal. They typically hold shares for longer periods, and, as a general matter, do not engage in the sort of short-term earnings management that Mrs. Clinton is focusing on.

A better approach would be to pressure firms to change executive compensation practices. I would suggest an overhaul of Section 162(m), which disallows corporate deductions for pay above $1 million unless it is based on meeting performance goals. Instead, Section 162(m) could be rewritten to allow a deduction for compensation paid to any employee in excess of $1 million only if the compensation is paid in cash, deferred for at least five years and unsecured (meaning that if the company goes bankrupt, the executive would not have a priority over other creditors). This approach would encourage corporate executives to act more like long-term bondholders and obsess less about short-term stock price movements.

In the speech on Friday, Mrs. Clinton expressed preliminary interest in changing the tax incentives for executive pay. Her campaign aides indicated that there was more to come.

“Hillary Clinton’s speech last week focused on just a few specific proposals to combat short-termism,” said Jake Sullivan, a senior policy adviser to the campaign. “She will have more to say about tax fairness related to capital gains, as well as specific reforms to ensure executive compensation aligns with long-term value and rising pay for workers.”

From: "Klein, Monica" <MKlein@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Date: Saturday, August 1, 2015 at 6:13 PM

To: Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>

Cc: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>

Subject: Re: $15

Mayor wants to know exactly what HRC did or did not do on capital gains tax
Danke!

Monica Klein | Deputy Press Secretary | Mayor’s Press Office
o: (212) 788-2969 | c: (917) 324-3297 | twitter: @monicacklein

From: <Klein>, Monica Klein <mklein@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Friday, July 31, 2015 at 4:02 PM
To: Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>
Cc: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: $15

Kew thx. sending to bdb ill cc yall

Monica Klein |Deputy Press Secretary |Mayor's Press Office
o: (212) 788-2969 |c: (917) 565-0715 | twitter: @monicacklein

From: Hayley Prim [<mailto:hayley@progressiveagenda.us>]
Sent: Friday, July 31, 2015 4:00 PM
To: Klein, Monica
Cc: John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: $15

HRC has supported NYC raising the minimum wage to $15/hour for fast food workers

She described the federal minimum wage as a floor and said cities such as Los Angeles - which recently voted to adopt a $15-an-hour minimum - should be free to set higher ones.

She spoke favorably about legislation to raise the minimum wage to $12/hour nationally.

On Fri, Jul 31, 2015 at 3:36 PM, Klein, Monica <MKlein@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
To simplify so I don't give him wrong or incomplete info:

What has HRC supported exactly in NYC and LA?
What has HRC supported in any other city or state?
And what has she supported nationally?
tx

Monica Klein |Deputy Press Secretary |Mayor's Press Office
o: \(212\) 788-2969 |c: \(917\) 565-0715 | twitter: @monicacklein

From: Hayley Prim [<mailto:hayley@progressiveagenda.us>]
Sent: Friday, July 31, 2015 3:32 PM

To: Klein, Monica
Cc: John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: $15

She endorsed for fast food workers. She hasn't said anything about raising the wage for everyone in NYC to $15/hour.

On Fri, Jul 31, 2015 at 3:29 PM, Klein, Monica <MKlein@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
She has endorsed $15 an hour as min wage for all in NYC or just fast food?

Monica Klein |Deputy Press Secretary |Mayor's Press Office
o: \(212\) 788-2969 |c: \(917\) 565-0715 | twitter: @monicacklein

From: Hayley Prim [mailto:hayley@progressiveagenda.us]
Sent: Friday, July 31, 2015 3:28 PM
To: Klein, Monica
Cc: John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: $15

I sent the below to him earlier. I think this is as good as we've got so far. She has supported $15/hour in localities like NYC and LA, but hasn't endorsed federally.

Yesterday, she said what I pasted below, and that's the most specific she has gotten on a federal level:

FYI:

Hillary Rodham Clinton on Thursday offered some support for a proposal in the Senate that would raise the federal minimum wage to $12 an hour, hinting that the higher rate sought by labor unions doesn't have enough support. Congressional Democratic leaders have backed legislation sponsored by Washington Sen. Patty Murray that would increase the rate to $12 an hour by 2020, which is several dollars less than the $15 backed by labor and anti-poverty activists.

"Whatever (Murray) advocates I pay a lot of attention to, because she knows how to get it through the Congress," Clinton said after meeting with labor leaders on Thursday. "Let's not just do it for the sake of having a higher number out there, but let's actually get behind a proposal that has a chance of succeeding."

<http://abcnews.go.com/Politics/wireStory/meeting-unions-clinton-offers-support-12-minimum-wage-32789133>

On Fri, Jul 31, 2015 at 3:25 PM, Klein, Monica <MKlein@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
Mayor again said he wants "a single agreement on HRC's stance on national $15 min wage" from yall.

Can you share pls

Ty

Monica Klein |Deputy Press Secretary |Mayor's Press Office
o: \(212\) 788-2969788-2969) |c: \(917\) 565-0715565-0715) | twitter: @monicacklein

--

Hayley Prim

c:

--

Hayley Prim

c: [REDACTED]

--

Hayley Prim

c: [REDACTED]

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: Geri Prado; John Del Ceccato; Hayley Primm
Subject: meeting confirm
Date: Sunday, August 02, 2015 11:33:03 AM

Can we confirm a meeting among the four of us this Wednesday at 1pm for a couple hours? RSVP please. I will know by end of day when we will get a couple hours with Mayor...probably on weekend at Gracie.

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: Geri Prado; John Del Ceccato
Subject: Re: meeting confirm
Date: Sunday, August 02, 2015 11:48:46 AM

OK - let's see if John can confirm avail for Wednesday and we'll figure out timing from there. Just know that the Mayor has a great deal of confidence in Hayley.

On 8/2/15, 11:45 AM, "Geri Prado" <[REDACTED]> wrote:

>There are going to be many conversations I am going to have that staff i >manage won't be a part of particularly if it concerns sensitive topics.
>
>I have not had a conversation with you and John yet about how we will >work together. Reporting, parameters around how we work together etc. or >sensitive conversations.
>
>I don't want to have that conversation in front of staff.

>
>
>
>> On Aug 2, 2015, at 11:41 AM, Snyder, Thomas <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>
>>wrote:
>>
>> No problem but I don't understand the meaning of not having Hayley in >>same >> chat?

>>> On 8/2/15, 11:40 AM, "Geri Prado" <[REDACTED]> wrote:
>>>
>>> As long as there is time for me to talk to you and John beforehand.
>>>
>>>

>>>> On Aug 2, 2015, at 11:33 AM, Snyder, Thomas <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>
>>>> wrote:
>>>>
>>>> Can we confirm a meeting among the four of us this Wednesday at 1pm
>>>>for >>>> a couple hours? RSVP please. I will know by end of day when we will >>>>get >>>> a couple hours with MayorŠprobably on weekend at Gracie.
>>

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
To: John Del Cecato; Walzak, Phil; Hinton, Karen; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Tweet by Ben Jacobs on Twitter
Date: Sunday, August 02, 2015 8:52:55 PM

Ben Jacobs (@Bencjacobs)

8/2/15, 8:26 PM

Bush references "DeBlasio, Clinton and any of the most exotic progressives on the planet"

Download the Twitter app

Sent from my iPhone

From: Geri Prado
To: geri@progressiveagenda.us
Cc: John Del Cecato; Hayley Prim; Greg Wasserstrom; PhilWalzak [REDACTED] Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Economic Messaging re: Income Inequality Call, THIS Wednesday @ 11:00am
Date: Monday, August 03, 2015 9:00:13 AM

Hi Everyone:

This Wednesday at 11:00am, Mike Podhorzer, the AFL-CIO Political Director who also oversees analytics and polling, message research and data will be reviewing the findings of a project they commissioned. The goal was to figure how to talk about economic issues, specifically dealing with income inequality. Affiliated unions and the AFL-CIO are looking at how to change language around these issues that best motivate people to action.

This research is also being shared with other movements in hopes of having those in other movements adopt similar language.

This presentation will be a webinar, call in information below.

Link - www.connectmeeting.att.com

Meeting number - [REDACTED]

Participant code - [REDACTED]

Once people are logged in via their computer they can select how they'd like to log in for the audio version. There will be a pop up menu to choose from. If they choose to call in they can use the below number:

Dial in - [REDACTED]

Access code - [REDACTED]

Phil I'm inviting you if you're interested in jumping on as well.

If you have any questions, please let me know.

Geri

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: Geri Prado; John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: meeting confirm
Date: Monday, August 03, 2015 9:56:35 AM

OK.

From: Geri Prado <[REDACTED]>
Date: Sunday, August 2, 2015 at 11:33 PM
To: John Del Ceccato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: Tom Snyder <tsnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: meeting confirm

That works for me. Tom?

Thanks

On Aug 2, 2015, at 9:25 PM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

How about 3pm Wed?

On Aug 2, 2015, at 7:42 PM, Geri Prado <[REDACTED]> wrote:

So when can I talk to the two of you on Wednesday?

Also I am reaching out to schedule 15 mins with the Mayor to understand his expectations of me, reporting etc now that I am on board.

I will copy you both. Thanks.

On Aug 2, 2015, at 2:41 PM, Snyder, Thomas <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Confirmed Wednesday Noon to 1:30 (with possibility of continuing after 2:30)

From: John Del Ceccato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>

Date: Sunday, August 2, 2015 at 2:33 PM
To: Tom Snyder <tsnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: Hayley Primm <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>, Geri Prado <[REDACTED]>
Subject: Re: meeting confirm

Sounds good

On Aug 2, 2015, at 12:43 PM, Snyder, Thomas <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Can we start at Noon and go to 1:30pm, then regroup if need be after JDC call ends?

From: John Del Ceccato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Date: Sunday, August 2, 2015 at 12:12 PM
To: Tom Snyder <tsnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Hayley Primm <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>
Cc: Geri Prado <[REDACTED]>
Subject: Re: meeting confirm

Probably an hour?

From: "Snyder, Thomas" <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Sunday, August 2, 2015 at 12:11 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>
Cc: Geri Prado <[REDACTED]>
Subject: Re: meeting confirm

How long is your 1:30 call?

From: John Del Ceccato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Date: Sunday, August 2, 2015 at 12:10 PM
To: Hayley Primm <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>, Tom Snyder <tsnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: Geri Prado <[REDACTED]>
Subject: Re: meeting confirm

Can we do a little bit earlier? I have a 130pm call that I really need to be on

From: Hayley Prim
<hayley@progressiveagenda.us>
Date: Sunday, August 2, 2015 at 11:34 AM
To: "Snyder, Thomas"
<TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: Geri Prado [REDACTED] John
Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: meeting confirm

That works for me

On Sunday, August 2, 2015, Snyder, Thomas
<TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Can we confirm a meeting among the four of us this Wednesday at 1pm for a couple hours? RSVP please. I will know by end of day when we will get a couple hours with Mayor...probably on weekend at Gracie.

--
Hayley Prim

c: [REDACTED]

From: Geri Prado
 To: Snyder, Thomas; John Del Cecato
 Subject: potential Field budget
 Date: Monday, August 03, 2015 12:40:34 PM

These states are largely relevant in primaries, less in general and even less in daily governing and policy creation so the goal would be that we believe TPA can affect the outcome of the primary on the ground OR that we can insert the message on the ground in a way that other candidates and organizations cannot.

This budget is on top of the 3.7 I have projected and only considers two organizers plus a state director per state. For comparison, major issue organizations and unions have anywhere from 10-100 people on staff in each state. Candidate campaigns have well over 50, at least the major candidates)

The hard part about field is that the operations is roughly the same if you have two people or 100 people. for example, VAN access, printing, operations are the same. But it would also increase our overall operating costs which you don't see on here. For example, legal, compliance, press as we'd need press capacity in states as well.

If the goal is to have income inequality in conversations, Sanders and now Clinton are doing that. If they are to get candidates on the record, we can see if we can partner with established groups to get them to do it.

Here is my first stab though only two organizers means they cover one town or city. Also, at this late stage it's going to be hard.

total- 1.225 from August to February

EARLY STATES VOTER CONTACT		TOTALS	August	September	October	November	December	Jan	Feb
$-	Staff	$1,225,000.00
	Field Director	$56,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00
	Field operations (desk)	$35,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
	Iowa State Director	$49,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00
	IA Field Organizer	$35,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
	IA Field Organizer	$35,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
	New Hampshire State Director	$49,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00
	NH Field Organizer	$35,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
	NH Field Organizer	$35,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
	South Carolina State Director	$49,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00
	SC Field Organizer	$35,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
	SC Field Organizer	$35,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
	Nevada State Director	$49,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00
	NV Field Organizer (LV)	$35,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
	NV Field Organizer (Reno)	$35,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
	Travel	$56,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00
	Event and Meetings Costs	$70,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00
	Materials	$68,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$8,000.00
	Health Care, Taxes, etc (25% of salary)	$324,000.00	$46,285.71	$46,285.71	$46,285.71	$46,285.71	$46,285.71	$46,285.71	$46,285.71
	Voter File	$140,000.00	$20,000.00	$20,000.00	$20,000.00	$20,000.00	$20,000.00	$20,000.00	$20,000.00
	Subtotal Staff	$1,225,000.00	$175,285.71	$175,285.71	$175,285.71	$175,285.71	$175,285.71	$175,285.71	$173,285.71

From: Walzak, Phil
To: Hinton, Karen; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Snyder, Thomas; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Cc: "hayley@progressiveagenda.us"
Subject: Re: <no subject>
Date: Monday, August 03, 2015 3:21:13 PM

She's all HRC all the time...wud devolve into when will u endorse nonsense

From: Hinton, Karen
Sent: Monday, August 03, 2015 03:20 PM
To: 'John Del Cecato' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Walzak, Phil; Snyder, Thomas; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Cc: Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>
Subject: RE: <no subject>

What about Anne Karni of Politico? She might be interested in this angle. K

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Monday, August 03, 2015 3:14 PM
To: Hinton, Karen; Walzak, Phil; Snyder, Thomas; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Cc: Hayley Prim
Subject: <no subject>

Dan Balz hasn't responded to outreach re: min wage story... Will let you know if/when we hear back

From: John Del Cecato
To: Hayley Prim; B
Cc: Geri Prado
Subject: Re: Charlie Hales
Date: Monday, August 03, 2015 4:33:17 PM

Right on!

From: Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>
Date: Monday, August 3, 2015 at 4:31 PM
To: Bill de Blasio <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: Geri Prado <geri@progressiveagenda.us>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Charlie Hales

Mayor of Portland, OR just signed onto TPA. Will follow up with this COS on more things we would like him to do as a signer.

--

Hayley Prim

c:

From: Geri Prado
To: Hayley Prim
Cc: B; John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: Charlie Hales
Date: Monday, August 03, 2015 4:33:46 PM

Fantastic.

On Mon, Aug 3, 2015 at 4:31 PM, Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us> wrote:

Mayor of Portland, OR just signed onto TPA. Will follow up with this COS on more things we would like him to do as a signer.

--

Hayley Prim

c:

From: John Del Cecato
To: B
Cc: Snyder, Thomas; Hayley Prim
Subject: For Gov. Inslee call tonight
Date: Monday, August 03, 2015 5:14:42 PM

Some asks that Geri suggested:

1. Do a joint email, asking people to sign onto a petition.
2. Do a joint press event when the time is right (either conference, TV, etc)
3. Which other governors does he have a good relationship with?
4. Of big high tech folks- CEOs, etc in Seattle, who is a proponent of this issue and can he connect us with?

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: Hayley Prim
Cc: John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: Durazo
Date: Monday, August 03, 2015 5:28:32 PM

Yes she made calls will download Wednesday

Sent from my iPhone

On Aug 3, 2015, at 1:08 PM, Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us> wrote:

Tom, have you had any luck moving forward with scheduling the Latino confab with Maria Elana?

Do you need anything else from us at this point?

On Mon, Jul 27, 2015 at 10:06 AM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmmedia.com> wrote:

Not sure if I got you what you needed here, Tom. Here are the top 8 points. We're still good to use Gracie, right?

1. Income inequality is the crisis of our time. There are more Hispanic children living in poverty in the U.S. than white, black, or Asian children. Latino kids are three times more likely to live in poverty than white kids in America.

<http://www.washingtonpost.com/news/post-nation/wp/2015/07/14/black-children-are-nearly-four-times-as-likely-as-white-children-to-live-in-poverty-report-says/>

2. Meanwhile, 99 percent of all new income is going to the top 1 percent. In 2014, the top 25 hedge fund managers earned nearly $12 billion. That's more than all of the Kindergarten teachers in American earned – COMBINED.

3. We need bold, progressive solutions to combat income inequality. The Progressive Agenda is a set of proposals that build upon the work of dozens of economists, lawmakers, and progressive activists, with the aim of addressing income inequality right now.

4. The Progressive Agenda seeks to lift the floor for those who are struggling, addresses racial and economic justice, and champions a tax system that rewards work instead of wealth.

5. The proposals include a $15 minimum wage, Universal Pre-K and after-school programs, paid sick and paid family leave, comprehensive immigration reform to protect against the exploitation of low-wage workers, and closing corporate loopholes exploited by big corporations and Wall Street.

6. Currently, more than four thousand people across the country have signed on to The Progressive Agenda - including former Governor Howard Dean, National Council of La Raza President Janet Murguia, National Education Association President Lily Eskelsen Garcia, SEIU President Mary Kay Henry, Congressional Progressive Caucus Co-Chair Raul Grijalva, and Congressman Jose Serrano.

7. We are seeking to elevate the discussion of income inequality in a number of ways, including a bipartisan presidential forum this fall.

8. We'd like YOU to be a part of a small group of national Hispanic leaders to discuss strategies for elevating the discussion of income inequality and how best to combat it. The meeting will be a dozen or so leading progressive figures, and will be held at Gracie Mansion — home of Mayor Bill de Blasio in New York City.

From: "Snyder, Thomas" <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Date: Wednesday, July 22, 2015 at 10:16 AM

To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>

Cc: Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>

Subject: Durazo

Mariaelena Durazo has agreed to make calls to a number of latino leaders to get them locked into a specific day for a meeting at Gracie. In order to do that most effectively, can you give me some TPS for her so her calls are effective. Something that includes what is TPA, work so far, expanding the group, Forum, etc.

Tom Snyder

Chief of Staff

Office of the Mayor

City Hall

New York, NY 10007

212-341-5050

--
Hayley Prim
c: [REDACTED]

From: Hayley Prim
To: John Del Cecato; Snyder, Thomas; Geri Prado
Subject: National Progressive Events
Date: Monday, August 03, 2015 9:29:01 PM

A couple of weeks ago the Mayor asked me to put together a list of national events to send him to, and this is what I have come up with so far, but would love your input. I don't think it would be wise to send him to more than a few of these, and obviously the DC ones would be the easiest so we could build a day around it.

I know there are others I am missing here, but was curious as to which constituency/issue area would be the most important.

Name	Location	Date	Year
Social Enterprise Alliance Conference	Denver, CO	September 16-18	2015
Fighting Bob Fest 2015	Madison, WI	September 19th	2015
RootsCamp— New Organizing Institute	Washington, DC	December 11-13	2015
Leading Change Summit	Washington, DC	September 13-16	2015
Human Rights Campaign Gala	Washington, DC	October 3rd	2015
Aspen Ideas Festival	Aspen, Colorado	June	2016
NAACP Convention	Baltimore, MD	June/July	2016
National Council of La Raza Annual Conference	Orlando, FL	July 23-26	2016
National Association of Latino Elected Officials	TBD	June	2016
Democracy Alliance	TBD	April	2016
National Urban League Conference	TBD	July	2016
Netroots Nation June 2016	TBD	June	2016
AFSCME Next Wave Conference	TBD	June	2016
Jobs with Justice National Conference	Washington, DC	February 12-16	2016
Planned Parenthood Gala	Washington, DC	March	2016
America Votes Summit	Washington, DC	February	2016
AFL CIO Young Leaders Conference	TBD	TBD	TBD

--

Hayley Prim

c:

From: Geri Prado
To: Hayley Prim
Cc: John Del Cecato; Snyder Thomas
Subject: Re: National Progressive Events
Date: Monday, August 03, 2015 9:49:13 PM

Some of these are next year so it's hard to commit but it's a good start. Also some, like AFSCME and AFLCIO are invitation only but we can figure out if it makes sense based on agenda and depending on what Emma et al think. next wave is young members.

Is this DA principles, staff or both? If principles based on content, he should definitely go. I could talk to John but Tom might already know.

Netroots- yes if there is a role for him. Good intro to this crowd if he hasn't done it already. A lot of online folks who would report out him being there and the agenda.

Leading Change- non-profits it seems but I don't know of them from the coalition world so I'm not sure what their focus is but maybe one of you do. It reads a little like organization development.

Aspen Ideas- if there is a clear fundraising push for him. we wouldn't want to be too public I don't think as the optics of going to Aspen and hanging with the Aspen Institute crowd is something to be considered.

Urban League, NAACP. NCLR, NALEO if there is a role for him. If not, we should talk through and I'd want to have the NYC politics down with those groups. I assume there aren't any problems, but to check.

For this year- We need to check NOI politics. There is a lot going on internally and with the progressive community so we'd need to see if some issues have cleared up. Also, that's mainly staff, unless is invited to be key note. Same as AV but it's largely electoral strategy focused.

Planned Parenthood- yes, does he usually go?

Solid starting list. As we start reaching out to the community and other groups we'll have more come up as well.

Thank you Hayley

On Mon, Aug 3, 2015 at 9:28 PM, Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us> wrote:

A couple of weeks ago the Mayor asked me to put together a list of national events to send him to, and this is what I have come up with so far, but would love your input. I don't think it would be wise to send him to more than a few of these, and obviously the DC ones would be the easiest so we could build a day around it.

I know there are others I am missing here, but was curious as to which constituency/issue area would be the most important.

Name	Location	Date	Year
Social Enterprise Alliance Conference	Denver, CO	September 16-18	2015
Fighting Bob Fest 2015	Madison, WI	September 19th	2015
RootsCamp— New Organizing Institute	Washington, DC	December 11-13	2015
Leading Change Summt	Washington, DC	September 13-16	2015
Human Rights Campaign Gala	Washington, DC	October 3rd	2015
Aspen Ideas Festival	Aspen, Colorado	June	2016
NAACP Convention	Baltimore, MD	June/July	2016
National Council of La Raza Annual Conference	Orlando, FL	July 23-26	2016

National Association of Latino Elected Officials	TBD	June	2016
Democracy Alliance	TBD	April	2016
National Urban League Conference	TBD	July	2016
Netroots Nation June 2016	TBD	June	2016
AFSCME Next Wave Conference	TBD	June	2016
Jobs with Justice National Conference	Washington, DC	February 12-16	2016
Planned Parenthood Gala	Washington, DC	March	2016
America Votes Summit	Washington, DC	February	2016
AFL CIO Young Leaders Conference	TBD	TBD	TBD

--
Hayley Prim
c: [REDACTED]

From: Geri Prado
To: Boeglin, Rosemary
Cc: John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: Income Inequality in the News -- Monday, August 3, 2015
Date: Monday, August 03, 2015 10:20:22 PM

Thank you Rosemary!

Can you use geri@progressiveagenda.us please?

On Aug 3, 2015, at 10:17 PM, Boeglin, Rosemary <RBoeglin@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

You got it.

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Monday, August 03, 2015 10:17 PM
To: Boeglin, Rosemary; Geri Prado
Subject: Re: Income Inequality in the News -- Monday, August 3, 2015

RM - Could you add Geri Prado, the new director of TPA, to these?

On Aug 3, 2015, at 10:13 PM, Boeglin, Rosemary <RBoeglin@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Income Inequality in the News — Monday, August 3, 2015

HRC Policy Proposals

Today's Headlines:

Hillary Clinton Comes Out in Support of Planned Parenthood

POLITICO - Eliza Collins - [8/3]

Hillary Clinton's Popularity Drops Sharply in NBC/WSJ Poll

NBC - Mark Murray - [8/3]

Jeb Bush Unveils Border Security, Immigration Reform Plan

ASSOCIATED PRESS - Sergio Bustos - [8/3]

Chris Christie Softens Tone on Minimum Wage Increases

NEW YORK TIMES - Alan Rappeport - [8/3]

Christie Stirs Outrage From an Old Enemy, Teachers' Unions

ASSOCIATED PRESS - [8/3]

Unhappy Voters Shake Up Presidential Race

WALL STREET JOURNAL - Janet Hook - [8/3]

Lawmakers to Unveil Criminal Justice Reform Bill in September

THE HILL - Julian Hattem - [8/3]

State Officials Ask For Criminal Justice Analysis

BOSTON GLOBE - Joshua Miller - [8/3]

Pittsburgh City Council Approves Paid Sick Leave Legislation

ASSOCIATED PRESS - [8/3]

Income Inequality in the News:

Hillary Clinton Comes Out in Support of Planned Parenthood

POLITICO - Eliza Collins - [8/3]

Hillary Clinton is making her position on Planned Parenthood very clear: She is in full support of the organization.

“I’m proud to stand with Planned Parenthood, I’ll never stop fighting to protect the ability and right of every woman in this country to make her own health decisions,” Clinton said in a video released Monday.

The video is the strongest statement on the organization to date from the 2016 Democratic front-runner.

Planned Parenthood has been under fire since a series of undercover videos were released by an anti-abortion advocacy group over the past few weeks.

The videos show doctors and Planned Parenthood executives discussing fetal tissue donation. The Center for Medical Progress, the organization behind the videos, says the footage proves the organization illegally sells body parts; Planned Parenthood insists everything it does is legal.

Last week, Clinton called the videos “disturbing” but declined to elaborate, saying Planned Parenthood does “a lot of really good work for women.”

Planned Parenthood receives more than $500 million a year from the federal government and directs it to community health centers. On Monday, the Senate is scheduled to have a test vote to defund the organization. Many Republican candidates and lawmakers have come out against the organization.

“If this feels like a full-on assault on women’s health, that’s because it is,” Clinton said in the video. “When politicians talk about defunding Planned Parenthood, they’re talking about blocking millions of women, men and young people from live-saving preventive care.”

In the video, Clinton targets three GOP candidates by name: Wisconsin Gov. Scott Walker and former Govs. Jeb Bush of Florida and Rick Perry of Texas.

“Unfortunately, these attacks aren’t new, they’re more of the same, we’ve seen them in Wisconsin where Gov. Walker defunded Planned Parenthood and left women across the state stranded with nowhere else to turn,” Clinton said. “We’ve seen them in Florida where Jeb Bush funneled millions of taxpayer dollars into abstinence-only programs while gutting funds for crucial family planning programs. And we’ve seen them in Texas where Gov. Perry drastically cut funding for breast and cervical cancer screenings and then signed legislation that forced health centers across the state to close their doors.

“When they attack women’s health, they attack America’s health and it’s wrong and we’re not going to let them get away with it,” she said.

The Center for Medical Progress could not immediately be reached for comment.

Hillary Clinton's Popularity Drops Sharply in NBC/WSJ Poll

NBC - Mark Murray - [8/3]

The bad news for Hillary Clinton in the new NBC News/Wall Street Journal poll: More Americans view her negatively than they did a month ago, revealing potential vulnerabilities for a general-election presidential contest more than a year away.

The good news for her in the poll: Clinton continues to lead the Democratic field by more than 30 points, and the favorability numbers for two of the top Republicans are even worse than hers.

Just 37 percent of all Americans have a positive view of Clinton, versus 48 percent who have a negative view (-11).

That's a sharp drop since June, when the NBC/WSJ poll showed her with a 44 percent positive, 40 negative rating (+4) - so an overall 15-point swing.

Republican pollster Bill McInturff, who conducted this survey with Democratic pollsters Peter Hart and Fred Yang, equates Clinton and her campaign to a battleship that can't sink from just one torpedo.

"But there has been a torpedo that has hit something, and there are some leaks," McInturff says.

McInturff adds that the poll doesn't reveal what that actual torpedo was. But the NBC/WSJ poll was conducted July 26-30 - right after the New York Times and other outlets (including NBC News) originally reported that Clinton was facing the possibility of a criminal inquiry over her use of email while secretary of state.

Those stories were later corrected to reflect that Clinton herself wasn't the direct focus, and that the referral wasn't criminal in nature. The revised headlines centered on whether Clinton's email contained classified information.

(The poll also was conducted before the increased speculation that Vice President Joe Biden might make his own White House bid, and he wasn't included in the poll.)

Indeed, there are two ways to view Clinton's declining popularity numbers: On the one hand, President Barack Obama during his presidency has never held favorable/unfavorable numbers as low as Clinton's right now.

On the other hand, husband Bill Clinton's fav/unfav score in the April 1992 NBC/WSJ poll was 32 percent positive, 43 percent negative (-11) - and he went on to win the presidency that year.

Not surprisingly, political scientists caution that these ratings - at least at this stage of the race - don't predict the eventual presidential winner. "Candidate perceptions are not a good predictor of the ultimate election outcome, especially this early," Dartmouth government professor Brendan Nyhan recently wrote.

Hillary leads Democratic race by 34 points

Despite Clinton's sinking favorability rating, she continues to lead the Democratic horserace by a wide margin.

She's the top choice of 59 percent of national Democratic primary voters, while 25 percent pick Sen. Bernie Sanders, I-Vt. They're followed by former Sen. Jim Webb, D-Va., and former Maryland Gov. Martin O'Malley, who are tied at 3 percent each.

That margin, however, is smaller than her 60-point national advantage over Sanders a month ago, 75 percent to 15 percent.

What's more, Clinton's fav/unfav numbers among Democratic primary voters - 73 percent positive, 13 percent negative - remains strong.

Clinton is still more popular than Trump and Jeb Bush

Then there's this silver lining for the Democratic frontrunner: She's still more popular than two of the leading Republican presidential candidates.

In the NBC/WSJ poll, Jeb Bush's fav/unfav rating among all Americans is 26 percent positive, 40 percent negative (-14).

And Donald Trump, who leads the GOP horserace, is at 26 percent positive, 56 percent negative (-30).

Ratings for other Republicans: New Jersey Gov. Chris Christie (-13); Sen. Ted Cruz, R-Texas (-12); Sen. Rand Paul, R-Ky. (-10); former Arkansas Gov. Mike Huckabee (-8); Wisconsin Gov. Scott Walker (-1); and Sen. Marco Rubio, R-Fla. (+1).

"To be sure, the trends for this survey are not favorable for the Democrats, but neither can it be said that the Republicans have the upper hand," says Democratic pollster Fred Yang.

Still, Republicans hold a two-point lead over Democrats, 39 percent to 37 percent, among registered voters preferring a generic GOP or Democratic president in 2016. Democrats had a three-point advantage on this question in June.

And President Obama's overall job-approval rating in the poll stands at 45 percent - down three points from last month.

The NBC/WSJ poll was conducted July 26-30 of 1,000 adults (including nearly 400 via cell phone), and it has an overall margin of error of plus-minus 3.1 percentage points.

Chris Christie Softens Tone on Minimum Wage Increases

NEW YORK TIMES - Alan Rappeport - [8/3]

Gov. Chris Christie of New Jersey has ardently opposed raising the minimum wage in New Jersey, but on Monday he hinted that his opposition might not be absolute.

The Republican presidential candidate reiterated why he thought increasing the pay floor was a bad idea, arguing that it did not help move poor people into the middle class. He also said it was bad for businesses.

Asked by CNBC about his position on the minimum wage, he said that he opposed raising the wage to $15 an hour, but he did not rule out an increase to $10.

“We’d have to talk about it,” Mr. Christie said. “But $15, it’s gonna destroy jobs.”

New Jersey residents circumvented Mr. Christie, voting to raise the state’s minimum wage to $8.25 last year and allowing for subsequent annual increases tied to inflation.

Republicans have largely resisted the idea as being bad for business, while Democrats contend that incomes are not keeping pace with the cost of living in the United States. The Obama administration has called for raising the minimum wage to $10.10 an hour.

Mr. Christie’s suggestion that he might consider a higher minimum wage comes as he is struggling to gain traction in polls and is facing questions about his economic record in New Jersey. The state’s credit rating has been downgraded multiple times and job creation has lagged the rest of the country.

“There’s been no miracle in New Jersey,” Mr. Christie said, suggesting that the state will have to grind out its economic progress. “New Jersey is three yards and a cloud of dust.”

Jeb Bush Unveils Border Security, Immigration Reform Plan

ASSOCIATED PRESS - Sergio Bustos - [8/3]

Jeb Bush outlined plans Monday to improve security of the nation's borders and enforcement of its existing immigration laws, calling both a requirement before any president could begin to address the status of the estimated 11 million people living in the country illegally.

"Finding a practical solution to the status of the people who are here illegally today is a nonstarter if our borders are not secure against future illegal immigration," the former Republican governor of Florida said in a statement, released ahead of Monday night's GOP candidate forum in New Hampshire and the party's first presidential primary debate later in the week.

A focus on border security as a pre-condition of any overhaul of the nation's immigration laws has become a common policy point among many of the Republican candidates for president.

But Bush's focus on this aspect of the debate is notable, given the months he has spent defending his support for creating a path to permanent legal status for those in the country illegally — a position that is deeply unpopular among the party's most passionate primary voters.

Many aspects of Bush's border security proposal, from creating "forward-operating bases" to increasing the use of drones and other technology to watch for drug and human traffickers, are not new. Several are already employed by federal authorities and they largely mirror those Bush suggested in his 2013 book "Immigration Wars," which he co-wrote with former U.S. attorney Clint Bolick.

Bush, who is fluent in Spanish, married to a Mexican immigrant and refers to his children as Hispanic, has largely taken a softer tone than most in the GOP field on immigration.

He has said those who come to the U.S. illegally do so as "an act of love" to make a better life for their families. Bush has also argued that resolving the nation's immigration debate is key to boosting the nation's economic growth, saying the country's legal immigration process should focus more on letting in workers the country needs rather than reuniting families.

Last week, he again rejected the idea that a resolution of the immigration debate should begin with the mass deportation of people who are now in the country illegally.

"The idea of self-deportation, of rounding people up, is not an American value," Bush said at a campaign stop in Florida. "Americans reject that idea."

Beyond the border, Bush said in his Monday proposal that the federal government must keep better track of foreign visitors, citing a 2006 report from the Pew Hispanic Center that found up to half the number of people here illegally have overstayed their visas.

"While we need to find a practical solution to the status of people who are here illegally today, as we secure the border going forward, we need to identify and send home the people who enter the country legally but overstay their visas or otherwise violate the terms of their admission," he said.

Such a reliable entry-exit visa system has so far proven elusive for Homeland Security officials.

U.S. Customs and Border Protection, the agency that secures the country's ports of entry, last month launched a pilot program to test handheld devices that scan the fingerprints of some foreign travelers as they leave the country from Atlanta's airport.

The tests will be expanded to airports in eight additional cities later this year. To run through next June, the tests are part of a congressional mandate to create a biometric exit system for foreign visitors. Such a program has been repeatedly delayed, with Homeland Security officials citing its exorbitant cost.

Bush's statement Monday also broadly discussed how he would deal with people currently living in the country illegally, requiring them to pass a criminal background check, pay fines and taxes, learn English, obtain "a provisional work permit" and get a job in order to obtain legal status.

The Democratic National Committee slammed Bush's plan. It is part of "the same Republicans playbook that divides families and hurts our economy," said Pablo Manriquez, the party's Hispanic Media Director, in a statement.

Christie Stirs Outrage From an Old Enemy, Teachers' Unions

ASSOCIATED PRESS - [8/3]

More than any single Democrat, New Jersey Gov. Chris Christie's greatest rival has been the biggest teachers union in his home state.

Running for the Republican presidential nomination, Christie is now taking on teachers unions nationally. When was asked Sunday in an interview on CNN who deserved to be punched in the face, he didn't hesitate: "Oh, the national teachers union."

Here's a look at Christie's history of entanglements with teachers unions.

—

WHAT CHRISTIE SAID

On the CNN program "State of the Union," host Jake Tapper pointed out that Christie has previously said there are two ways to deal with bullies — sidling up to them or punching them in the face. He asked Christie, "At the national level, who deserves a punch in the face?"

Christie answered the teachers union, explaining, "They're not for educating our children. They're for greater membership, greater benefits, greater pay for their members, and they are the single most destructive force in public education in America. I've been saying that since 2009. I've got the scars to show it."

He noted that one national union representing teachers has already endorsed Democrat Hillary Rodham Clinton for president. The American Federation of Teachers endorsed Clinton last month, but the larger National Education Association has not yet made an endorsement.

THE ROOTS OF THE DISUPTE

When Christie took office in New Jersey in 2010, he quickly antagonized the state's teachers unions, which strongly supported his Democratic opponent.

His first budget, adopted amid a fiscal crisis, included cuts to state aid for schools, which led to layoffs in many of the state's school districts. He frequently bashed the New Jersey Education Association and its leadership during the budget process and campaigned for voters to reject local school budget proposals in districts where educators hadn't agreed to concessions.

The NJEA fired back, spending $17.5 million on lobbying in 2010 and 2011 — a record for lobbying spending in New Jersey each year — almost all of it on ads going after Christie. The union spent another $3 million in 2013 as a rare voice against Christie as he coasted to re-election.

IT GETS PERSONAL

In 2010, Christie called for the head of the Bergen County Education Association to be fired after he included this line in a memo to members:

"Dear Lord this year you have taken away my favorite actor, Patrick Swayze, my favorite actress, Farrah Fawcett, my favorite singer, Michael Jackson, and my favorite salesman, Billy Mays. I just wanted to let you know that Chris Christie is my favorite governor."

The Bergen County local's president, Joseph Coppola Jr., apologized, but refused to step down. He still holds the position.

THE COOPERATION

Christie and teachers unions have occasionally found some common ground. Christie and NJEA were both parties to a compromise that resulted in a major overhaul of the state's teacher tenure protections in 2012.

The same year, Christie approved of an innovative contract for teachers in Newark, the state's largest school district, that paid teachers in part for their performance — something he had pushed for and teachers unions generally oppose.

Earlier this year, Christie announced the NJEA was the one major public employees' union that was working with him on a plan to overhaul the state pension system. The union later backed out of the discussions.

—

THE FALLOUT

It's too soon to tell if Christie's comment will help him in the crowded Republican primary field for president, but teachers unions are not happy with him — as usual.

NJEA President Wendell Steinhauer said in a statement that Christie should resign as governor, chiding him: "He is a terrible role model to the children that our members work so hard to protect, nurture and educate."

AFT President Randi Weingarten lambasted Christie in a statement issued Monday, saying his comment "promotes a culture of violence and underscores why he lacks the temperament and emotional skills to be president, or serve in any leadership capacity."

A spokeswoman for Christie declined to comment on the criticism.

Unhappy Voters Shake Up Presidential Race

WALL STREET JOURNAL - Janet Hook - [8/3]

An unhappy and unsettled electorate is giving a lift to antiestablishment candidates and changing the dynamics of the 2016 presidential contest for both parties, a new Wall Street Journal/NBC News poll finds.

Amid a rise in Americans saying the country is on the wrong track, Donald Trump has moved to the top of the Republican field while liberal long-shot Bernie Sanders has gained ground among Democrats.

But Americans are taking an unusually sour view of the leading candidates of both parties. Jeb Bush is losing ground among the most conservative Republican voters; Hillary Clinton is viewed more negatively now than at almost any time in her political career. While Mr. Trump leads the pack of GOP contenders, he inspires more negative feelings than any other major candidate.

"We don't much like our candidates," said Bill McInturff, a Republican pollster who helped conduct the survey with Democrat Fred Yang.

Among Democrats, Mrs. Clinton's lead remains substantial but is eroding amid a series of controversies about her email practices and fundraising by her family foundation, as well as rising interest in Mr. Sanders and signs that Vice President Joe Biden may be considering a run.

Mrs. Clinton led Mr. Sanders by 34 percentage points among Democratic primary voters in the new survey—59% to 25%—down from the 60-point lead she held in June.

Among Republicans, public opinion remains fluid, with no one in the field of 17 candidates building a substantial lead ahead of Thursday's nationally televised debate. Four GOP contenders had double-digit support—Messrs. Trump and Bush, as well as Gov. Scott Walker of Wisconsin and retired physician Ben Carson—but none had broken above 20% backing.

“The 2016 election is closer and so much less defined than it appeared to be at the beginning of the year,” said Democratic pollster Peter Hart, who is also part of the polling team. “It is an electorate that is very scared, scared about their own economic stability.”

The new poll of 1,000 adults was conducted July 26-30. It found Americans in a darker mood than when the last Journal/NBC News poll was conducted in mid-June. In the weeks since then, Mr. Trump launched his headline-grabbing presidential campaign, the Iran nuclear deal was sealed, more police shootings shook American cities and continuing instability in the Middle East sowed anxiety.

On a benchmark measure of Americans' unease, 65% of those surveyed said the country is on the wrong track. That is the highest level of unease since November 2014, and nears the levels seen at other historical moments of voter discontent.

In May 1992, after H. Ross Perot had launched his populist independent run for president, 71% said the country was on the wrong track. In September 2007, when frustration with President George W. Bush was peaking, wrong-track sentiment was 63%.

The new poll also found increased pessimism about the economy: 24% said they thought the economy would get worse over the next year, up from 17% in December.

Two-thirds of Americans want the next president to take a different tack from President Barack Obama, but the country remains split over which party would be better for the country: 39% want a Republican in the White House while 37% want a Democrat.

“This poll finds the nation in the summer doldrums, querulous with both parties, and perhaps the one obvious answer is the decline in economic confidence after about a year of rising optimism,” said Mr. Yang.

In considering the candidates, a majority of voters—53% of people who said they would vote in the Democratic primary and 54% of Republican primary voters—said the most important thing was to find a candidate who agrees with them on the issues. But about a third of each party said it is more important to find a candidate with “the right personal style and strong leadership qualities.”

Those strands of public opinion could help explain how a brash, antiestablishment candidate like Mr. Trump has jumped to the front of the pack, with 19% of GOP primary voters naming him as their first choice. The poll found that Mr. Trump does particularly well among Republican voters who say leadership qualities matter more than particular issues.

“The course we’ve been on in the past several years has been a downhill slope,” said John Myers, a 45-year-old poll respondent in Texas who supports Mr. Trump. “We voted a lot of the Republicans back in, and they are not fixing things. If I had my way I’d clean out all of Washington.”

Amid Mr. Trump’s appeal among that breed of Republican, the poll found he brings heavy baggage to the race. Nearly half of Republican primary voters said they couldn’t see themselves backing Mr. Trump, a substantial number, but a smaller share than the 74% who said in March they wouldn’t consider supporting Mr. Trump.

Among the broader electorate, more than half of adults in the survey said they have a negative view of Mr. Trump; a separate poll of Hispanic voters, a key voting bloc, found that 75% had a negative view of him. An outspoken opponent of illegal immigration, Mr. Trump drew wide criticism for suggesting that Mexico is sending migrants to the U.S. who are rapists, criminals or otherwise undesirable.

More than 60% of all poll participants said Mr. Trump was hurting the GOP’s image, including nearly half the Republican respondents.

Another candidate building his campaign around an antiestablishment message is Sen. Ted Cruz of Texas, who has been almost alone in the GOP field in refraining from criticizing Mr. Trump. He was about the only major candidate who didn’t see support drop among GOP voters from the June poll; those naming him their first choice rose to 9%, from 4%.

By contrast, Mr. Bush, who led the field in the June Journal/NBC News survey, with 22% support among Republicans, dropped to third place in the July poll, with 14% naming the former Florida governor as their top choice.

Mr. Bush remained in a strong position by another measure of broad acceptability to Republicans: 57% said they could see themselves supporting him. But that was down from 75% in June. The biggest drop in acceptability came among conservatives, a core GOP voting bloc.

The poll also found a dramatic rise in negative feelings toward Mrs. Clinton: the 48% of all respondents who viewed her negatively is near to being the highest recorded since she was elected to the Senate in 2000.

The shift reflects more than Republican opposition to Mrs. Clinton: Core Democratic constituencies also moved away from her. More of all women respondents view her negatively than positively, by 45% to 41%; positive feelings toward her among African-Americans dropped to 66% from 81%.

Mrs. Clinton remains a formidable candidate with clear front-runner status, as 59% of Democratic primary voters still pick her as their first choice. But that is down from 75% in the June poll.

Support for Mr. Sanders among Democratic primary voters jumped to 25%, from 15% in June. On the campaign trail, the Vermont senator has drawn large crowds of restless liberals by calling for a more dramatic change in political leadership and economic policy than has Mrs. Clinton.

“He clearly has the revolutionary thinking that I think is the direction we need to be going in,” said David Dorian Granruth, a 34-year-old poll respondent in North Carolina, who is supporting Mr. Sanders. “She seems to be more of the same at this point.”

Lawmakers to Unveil Criminal Justice Reform Bill in September

THE HILL - Julian Hattem - [8/3]

Bipartisan lawmakers in the House are planning to write legislation this summer to overhaul the nation’s criminal justice system and introduce it in September, they said on Monday.

The top Republican and Democrat on the House Judiciary Committee indicated that their effort will take a sweeping view of the current system and propose multiple changes.

“Together, we will pursue responsible, common sense criminal justice reforms to make sure our federal laws and regulations effectively and appropriately punish wrongdoers, protect individual freedom, safeguard civil liberties, work as efficiently and fairly as possible, do not impede state efforts and do not waste taxpayer dollars,” Reps. Bob Goodlatte (R-Va.) and John Conyers (D-Mich.) said in a joint statement.

“We plan to introduce bipartisan legislation this September so that our criminal justice system better achieves justice and reflects core American values.”

In June, the House Judiciary Committee began a review of the current criminal justice system, in order to pinpoint areas of possible collaboration for reform.

At a June 25 listening session, the panel heard suggestions from more than a dozen members of Congress. Among other areas, lawmakers suggested focusing on exceedingly lengthy mandatory minimum sentences and restoring voting rights for convicted felons.

The move comes amid increasing focus on criminal justice issues, and after months of scrutiny on relations between police officers and African-Americans across the country.

The issue has united figures as diverse as President Obama, conservative activist Grover Norquist and presidential candidates from former Secretary of State Hillary Clinton, the Democratic front-runner, to Sens. Ted Cruz (R-Texas) and Rand Paul (R-Ky.).

That political cohesion has given rise to speculation that the time might be right for Congress to structurally reform the system for arresting, prosecuting and jailing criminals, in a major break from years of “tough on crime” rhetoric.

Releasing bipartisan legislation this autumn would put the issue in the congressional spotlight just as the presidential race enters an important stage, building up to the early primary contests in Iowa and New Hampshire at the beginning of 2016.

Last year, the Judiciary Committee held multiple hearings on criminal justice issues, but failed to produce any major legislation.

State Officials Ask For Criminal Justice Analysis

BOSTON GLOBE - Joshua Miller - [8/3]

With an eye toward trimming prison and jail populations and reducing recidivism rates, the top officials in Massachusetts government are asking for an independent review of the state’s criminal justice system.

Governor Charlie Baker, Senate President Stanley C. Rosenberg, House Speaker Robert A. DeLeo, and Ralph D. Gants, the chief justice of the state’s highest court, sent a letter to the US Department of Justice and the Pew Charitable Trusts, requesting help crunching state data and seeking policy recommendations to get the best public safety outcomes for each dollar spent.

The Council of State Governments, a non-profit group that aids state officials in crafting public policy, is set to conduct the analysis and the DOJ and Pew are poised to fund the effort, which has received conditional approval and is expected to take up to nine months before policy recommendations are delivered.

Many other states have already engaged in similar analysis — what’s billed as a “justice reinvestment” approach — and, as a result, worked to cut some criminal justice costs and use that money improve outcomes, for example, reducing the number of people coming out of incarceration who end up back in the criminal justice system.

Marc Pelka, deputy director of state initiatives at the Council's Justice Center, said the group is expecting to do a deep dive on tens of thousands of records including those about crime and arrests, prison populations, and parole decisions.

"It's a soup-to-nuts analyses that we'll be carrying out," Pelka said, emphasizing it would take a hard look at information — "everything under the sun" — from across the whole criminal justice in Massachusetts. And, he said, there would be about four full-time analysts, traveling in and out of the state, cranking away on the effort

"It's a non-partisan, data-driven process not influenced by anecdotes or perceptions about the criminal justice system," Pelka said. He said policymakers could expect recommendations that, if implemented, could "generate savings that could be plowed into public safety priorities" from helping people struggling with drug addiction to grants to local police departments.

The letter requesting the review is notably bipartisan and represents all three branches of state government — Baker is a Republican, the legislative leaders are Democrats, and Gants was appointed to his post on the Supreme Judicial Court by former governor Deval Patrick, a Democrat.

But Senate leaders, including Rosenberg, have been particularly vocal in already pressing for big changes to the state's criminal justice system, including consideration of a repeal of mandatory minimum sentences for drug offenders.

Asked whether this effort paves the way for a major criminal justice overhaul in Massachusetts, Rosenberg said in a telephone interview, "It should pave the way for change. How major it is will depend upon what the data and the analysis shows."

But, the Senate president said, all efforts at reform will not necessarily wait until after the report is issued. One example he gave of legislation that could move sooner: ending the practice of taking away driver's licenses from some people convicted of non-driving related drug crimes — with an eye toward making it easier for them to get jobs after they have served their time.

The letter from Massachusetts leaders, dated July 30, notes that the state has one of the lowest per capita rates of incarceration in the United States and has seen an overall decline in prison and jail population in the past decade. But, it says, "despite this success in reducing the overall rate of incarceration, our three-year recidivism rate has remained at approximately 40 percent for a number of years."

It asks for help in developing policy options, including enabling "successful re-entry" for people coming back into their communities from time spent in prison and jail. And the letter asks to help policymakers understand whether they can reduce prison and jail populations through an early release program "while ensuring appropriate punishment and preserving public safety.”

Baker he looks forward to the effort bringing “new ideas to the table to reduce recidivism and improve our criminal justice system,” in a news release.

Attorney General Maura Healey also applauded the effort in a separate statement.

Carl Williams, staff attorney with the ACLU of Massachusetts, said it’s great that this effort is underway.

And he said his group hopes it will take a look at the way the war on drugs plays out in Massachusetts, the impact that mandatory minimums have on people in the criminal justice system and the how police practices could be reformed.

Senator William N. Brownsberger, Senate Chairman of the Joint Committee on the Judiciary, said the request is a solid effort to get more data in an area where the state needs to make progress, “which is how to do we get people safely back out onto the street in a way in a way they can succeed and not return to being incarcerated.”

The Belmont Democrat said the state’s recidivism rate is not bad relative to other states. But on an absolute scale, he said, it needs to be reduced.

Serving time in jail or state prison, Brownsberger said, “we want that to be an experience that people only have once” in their lives.

Pittsburgh City Council Approves Paid Sick Leave Legislation

ASSOCIATED PRESS - [8/3]

Pittsburgh City Council on Monday approved an ordinance requiring employers in the city to provide paid sick leave to employees in the face of opposition from business owners who threatened a lawsuit over the legislation.

Council members and advocacy groups heralded the bill, which was passed 7-1, as a measure that will keep 50,000 workers who lack paid sick leave from choosing between working while ill and losing a day’s pay.

Under the legislation, employers with at least 15 workers are required to offer as many as five paid sick days per year to each worker. Those with fewer than 15 employees must offer three unpaid days off. Employees would accrue one hour of sick time for every 35 hours worked. Seasonal employees are exempt from the law.

The benefit can be used for an employee’s illness or that of a family member.

Business owners, however, said they will oppose the ordinance in court.

Kevin Joyce, owner of The Carlton restaurant, said council can't force mandates on private businesses. Business groups will form a coalition to block the ordinance, he said.

Councilwoman Darlene Harris, who abstained from votes on the law, said she sought an opinion from the city's law department and was told it exceeded their authority.

"If this is passed and successfully challenged in court, it's going to be a costly mistake that the taxpayers will have to fund," Harris said.

Mayor Bill Peduto intends to sign the bill.

###

From: B
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; "hayley@progressiveagenda.us"
Subject: Fw: Just talked to the Senator
Date: Tuesday, August 04, 2015 7:03:12 AM

We have to discuss my mtg next week. Pls make sure we do at planning mtg

-----Original Message-----

From: Senator Jeff Merkley
To: Bill de Blasio
Subject: Re: Just talked to the Senator
Sent: Jul 14, 2015 5:39 PM

Bill-

It was a pleasure to speak last night.

I'm sending you specific policy points on both global warming and TPP. Her comments in both areas to date are lacking any policy substance.

By the way, Hillary attended our caucus today; I asked her to get more specific on changes needed in TPP and that that would help produce a better agreement while changes can still be made. She responded that she would look at suggestions and I provided a list to John Podesta similar to the TPP points below.

All my best, Jeff Merkley

Global Warming:

Hillary says that we need more subsidies for renewable energy and more conservation. This is a starting point, but far from serious leadership. Here are several things she should say if she wants to lead on the most pressing issue threatening our planet:

- 1) We need to keep 80% of identified fossil fuels in the ground if we are going to save the planet. To do so will take serious leadership and I am ready to be that leader.
- 2) I will oppose any pipeline designed to accelerate the harvesting of the Canadian tar sands.
- 3) I will block oil drilling in the Arctic.
- 4) We must stop issuing new leases for drilling offshore for gas and oil.
- 5) I will oppose new leases for exploiting coal on public lands

6) We must tackle key issues caused by fracking including the contamination of ground water and the production of fugitive methane. I will champion these reforms.

7) "All of the above" is the wrong policy for our energy future. We must quickly and substantially reduce the burning of fossil fuels. Under my leadership, America will lead the world in this transition.

NOTE: I am planning to introduce a bill that would be based on Bill McKibben's recent letter to President Obama, outlining four specific actions (items 2-5 above) he should take on climate keep fossil fuel reserves in the ground: McKibben also did a public letter to Clinton reiterating these points and adding in a few more.

TPP:

At a meeting with the Senate Democratic caucus last week, President Obama that he has listened carefully to concerns raised by Ds during the Fast Track debate and that we might be pleasantly surprised by additional efforts he is making.

Clinton has said to date only that more work needs to be done. But she has given no specifics. She could make a big difference in the final stage of the negotiations if she presented several key areas that need to be addressed before a final agreement is presented to Congress.

Here are 8 items from which she could draw:

1. Investor State Dispute Settlement (ISDS): Exempt laws that protect consumers, public health, or the environment from being challenged in the Investor State Dispute Settlement (ISDS) process. (or, alternatively, make adoption of the ISDS an "opt in" option for members of the TPP).
2. Currency Manipulation: Strengthen provisions cracking down on currency manipulation. Currency manipulation has cost American manufacturers and American jobs by essentially acting as an invisible tariff on U.S.-made products and an invisible subsidy for products made in nations that engage in currency manipulation.
3. Making Environmental and Labor Provisions Enforceable: Require countries to conform their laws to a higher standard and implement those laws for 18-24 months before entering into the treaty
4. Minimum Wage: Mandate a minimum wage that must be matched or exceeded by all participating countries and which must rise over time to narrow the wage gap between developed and developing countries. This would s will help prevent a global race to bottom on wages.
5. Intellectual Property/Generic Drugs: Do not extend intellectual property protections for certain pharmaceutical products in a way that will make it harder to get generic drugs onto the market and otherwise get affordable medication to developing countries. These kinds of special-interest provisions should be excluded from the TPP.
6. Human Rights: Require Malaysia and other potential members to address current serious issues with human trafficking and other human rights violations. We should not be engaging in a major expansion of trade relations with nations that are maintaining gross labor violations. Oppose an effort to downgrade Malaysia's rating on human rights merely so Malaysia can join the TPP.

7. Financial Services: Prevent future administrations from using new trade agreements to weaken Dodd-Frank or other financial regulations and consumer protections. Big banks and European nations are pushing to weaken U.S. financial regulations, such as tougher capital standards for big banks enacted in the wake of the 2008 financial meltdown, in an upcoming round of TTIP trade talks.

8. Manufacturing: Strengthen U.S. manufacturing by making countervailing duty and anti-dumping claims against foreign companies easier to bring and to resolve successfully, helping to level the playing field for American manufacturers in international trade. Moreover, allow companies to pursue anti-dumping claims by counting as illegal subsidies violations of the TPP's labor and environmental standards.

On Mon, Jul 13, 2015 at 7:37 PM, Bill de Blasio <[REDACTED]> wrote:

He agreed to send me some thoughts on the TPP and I wanted him to have my email. Thanks! Bill de Blasio

Sent via BlackBerry by AT&T

From: B
To: "hayley@progressiveagenda.us"
Cc: "geri@progressiveagenda.us"; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Re: Charlie Hales
Date: Tuesday, August 04, 2015 7:15:32 AM

Excellent!! We want him to recruit other Oregon mayors! Make me call if needed.

From: Hayley Prim [mailto:hayley@progressiveagenda.us]
Sent: Monday, August 03, 2015 04:31 PM
To: B
Cc: Geri Prado <geri@progressiveagenda.us>; John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Charlie Hales

Mayor of Portland, OR just signed onto TPA. Will follow up with this COS on more things we would like him to do as a signer.

--

Hayley Prim

c:

From: Klein, Monica
To: John Del Cecato; B
Cc: "hayley@progressiveagenda.us"
Subject: Re: Steve Rattner
Date: Tuesday, August 04, 2015 8:48:21 AM

Yep - research team is working on transcript now

On 8/4/15, 8:47 AM, "John Del Cecato" <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

>Fascinating!

>

>On 8/4/15, 8:33 AM, "B" <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>

>>

>>Just now on "Market Makers" (not sure which cable network that is) saying >>he agrees with Eliz Warren on college debt. Pls get transcript of that >>brief section

>

From: Geri Prado
To: B
Cc: jfdc@akpdmedia.com; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: Meeting with you
Date: Tuesday, August 04, 2015 9:33:26 AM

Great thank you. I'm in town Wednesday and Thursday so I will work with Tom to see what works for this group.

On Tue, Aug 4, 2015 at 7:17 AM, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Very much look forward to sitting down, Geri. Let's do this week if at all humanly possible. And pls note that I get so many emails that my responses are sometimes slow or I may miss some. Call me too if ever urgent - [REDACTED]. Don't hesitate -- your work means a lot to me!

From: Geri Prado [mailto:geri@progressiveagenda.us]
Sent: Monday, August 03, 2015 09:31 AM
To: B
Cc: jfdc@akpdmedia.com <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Meeting with you

Good Morning Mayor:

With my first few days under my belt, I would like to see if I could sit down with you for 15 minutes to discuss the following:

- Expectations
- Communications
- Reporting
- Managing
- Other important things for me to know

I will have an agenda/list that I don't want to take too much of your time on but I think it's important to discuss now that I am on board.

Thank you and please let me know how to proceed.

Geri Prado

From: Geri Prado
To: John Del Cecato; Snyder, Thomas; Hayley Prim
Subject: Updated outline
Date: Tuesday, August 04, 2015 10:40:14 AM
Attachments: TPA DRAFT Outline \(8-3-15\).docx

For our meeting tomorrow I'll have an agenda/POP to review and go over next steps after Tom's portion of the agenda.

If you have any changes to the last outline I sent, please send me and I'll incorporate.

Thanks.

THE PROGRESSIVE AGENDA COMMITTEE (TPA)
DRAFT Plan Outline
(August 3, 2015)

Mission

Address Income Inequality by demanding specific policy changes from leaders in government by changing the conversation locally and nationally as well as holding policy makers accountable to pushing economic policy changes.

In 2017, the new president will take office. One of the overarching goals to achieve TPAs mission is holding the new President accountable to fix income inequality through any means at their disposal.

To do this TPA will have to build an organization that can affect the narrative now but employ a strategy that best utilizes Mayor de Blasio and other TPA supporters. TPA will also have to build a robust operation including a strong cross-movement coalition and prestigious group of individual supporters to show strength and lasting power.

Goals

- ❖ ZEITGEIST- Change the conversation to specific policy solutions leaders can take to solve income inequality through finding and creating opportunities to enter the public debate
- ❖ ACCOUNTABILITY- Hold elected leaders and policy makers accountable to adopt and push policy prescriptions by illustrating the necessity for the federal government to act

These two goals are not mutually exclusive and the infrastructure of TPA will be used for both and the strategies of one Goal will help reach the other.

Branding/Rolling Out TPA

In May a tremendous job was done in rolling out the idea of and the need for TPA. Now there is an organization built by the Mayor and those who have signed on to accomplish specific goals that will address income inequality in a tangible way.

Therefore, it is important that the goals of the organization are clear, the strategy is built and the tactics are in line in a smart and effective way to build the credibility of TPA.

For the most part this will happen by doing, but there is an introduction to the press, opinion leaders, donors and key organization that is necessary to get “air time” for communications and political activity.

Strategy

1. Zeitgeist
 - Message specific policy prescriptions under economic messaging that mobilizes opinion leaders, individuals and policy makers
 - Build a coalition around income inequality to create an echo chamber nationally
 - Arm individuals, the coalition with messaging and content for their constituents in the states
 - Insert solutions into public debate at all levels through all forms of media
2. Accountability
 - Employ mayors to highlight effects of income inequality, needs to improve their cities and ask candidates to pledge solutions during the campaign AND when in office
 - Dispatch the coalition to apply direct and indirect pressure on candidates and policy makers
3. Brand and Build TPA
 - Define the organization based on the idea, mission formed in May which includes goals, strategy and the supporters on board
 - Create materials and information to be used with donors, funders, press, online and in the field
 - Brand by doing- rolling out successes, endorsements

PLAN

If we don't plan, we plan to fail. When sign off of the goals are line, it's important with both the quick timeline and smallness of TPA that we are disciplined and employ tactics that get us to those goals. They should also be tactics that we can employ. One of those tactics are partnering with organizations that have either broader, deeper or specific reaches into various communities.

ZEITGEIST

Developing Partnerships

TPA hopes to coalesce a movement of other movements and campaigns to accomplish its goals. There are plenty of organizations and campaigns that are focused on income inequality or crucial aspects of how to fix it. But in order for TPA to last and have the gravitas needed to hold leaders accountable, it will need to play in the movement space, not only electoral focused activities. It is important for TPA to run an analysis on which groups are best and what type of resources they each bring to the fight against income inequality.

Building an organizing campaign of these groups to work together, use similar message, sharing content and research will create a choir of voices nationally and locally and through various methods to influence those in power (or who will be in power).

In developing the list, it must also be noted that a cross coalition- business working with labor, women working with Catholics, etc. is a powerful tool in that income inequality unites those who aren't typically aligned on other things and TPA is the uniting entity.

1. Identify Key Potential Partners

Staff will work to do a power analysis and review of organizations that influence, create content, mobilize with similar goals to TPA. Based on this an outreach effort will build on what has already been done to start building these relationships. Some will be sufficient for staff to reach out to. Some will take a principal reaching out. The categories are as follows though they are not mutually exclusive:

- Policy and Content- organizations that produce white papers, policies, research on the economy, people or places that can be shared;
- Issue-based organizations- this can include faith, immigration, choice as examples but also groups that tend to cover more than one issue. For example, unions and NAACP would fall under that category but could also fall under the next
- Movement based organizations- unions, civil rights groups, community organizations tend to cover multiple issues and work in coalition with other progressive groups. TPA is uniquely positioned to be at the center of a movement but also join other issue groups together based on this issue
- Electoral groups- groups and organizations that focus on elections such as PACs, committees and c4s/IEs will play a central role in helping with candidate outreach and accountability.

Example of asks:

- Stand with TPA and other signers by advocating for the policy solutions
- Use content and messaging in communications to their members or constituencies
- Share content and messaging with TPA and other signers
- Be a part of crafting events and press opportunities around the TPA

2. Coordination

One of the more valuable tools TPA can provide on income inequality is the coordination of information, materials and communication. There are groups that do this, Americans United and Democracy Partners, and TPA can work with them but be singularly focused on income inequality. One major partner will be unions as they are resourcing multiple projects on the issue including messaging and modeling.

In order to begin this outreach and coordination beyond who has signed on we will need materials to provide groups and also a plan on what type of materials we will coordinate which means "cataloguing" what each group brings to the table.

TPA will put together a consistent and useful calendar including scheduling regular dissemination of talking points and setting up a talkers call on the issues and current events to coordinate signers, surrogates and build the echo chamber.

Influential Individuals

One area TPA is unique is that a large part of the strategy is to influence influencers with influencers not on one election, not on one piece of legislation only, but in finding a cure for a host of issues that make up the greatest problem of our time. With more and more money flooding into our electoral and legislative process, progressive groups need to find more and more ways to have their voices heard.

TPA is going to focus on targeting opinion makers and leaders through online, earned media and by having those who are most influential to particular individuals reach out. Influentials can be reporters, economists, legislators, donors, movement leaders, community leaders.

Based on goals of TPA, there will be a power analysis to quickly see who can move the targeted influentials.

The asks of these influential will be several:

- Reach out to ask a targeted candidate or elected to commit to certain policies and take action
- Talk to their constituencies about the importance of specific policy solutions and to take action
- Tell the story about how income inequality affects them, their constituencies and communities through online and earned media

Needs

- a. Develop TPA messaging package to drive creation of echo chamber both internally and externally
- b. Introduce TPA, its goals, actions in the upcoming months beyond the initial roll-out to build the brand and lay out the mission for opinion leaders
- c. Identify and seize opportunities- Develop a message calendar to include major policy initiatives, political campaign benchmarks and other relevant events to insert policy demands into ongoing and existing conversations
- d. Messenger development and action- create a “speakers’ bureau” of current signers, potential strategic signers
- e. Coalition and partnerships- partner with organizations to coordinate messaging and communications strategy to build echo chamber and arm signers with latest talking points

- f. Homegrown events- Develop a few large-scale events such as the Presidential Forum in Iowa to highlight TPA, its goals and create momentum
- g. Unexpected- who are the signers who can talk about issues they wouldn't necessarily talk about? Showing strength and unity on solving income inequality, enough to look past disagreements and see all are a part of solutions.

Immediate To Dos:

- Political- Political power analysis of candidates, elected and opinion leaders
- Research- both message and policy research to provide messaging and ongoing content. Also help build calendar of relevant events and opportunities for inserting message
- Communications- aggressive communications team to pitch stories on all levels of media (national, local), drive message discipline with existing signers and create an ongoing package of materials to arm signers
- Digital- program aimed at communications to echo earned media strategy, push message in social media and develop a list-building plan to drive growth and reach a larger audience. This also means having an intentional program to build the list of online supporters

ACCOUNTABILITY

TPA will leverage supporters, signers to hold specific candidates accountable. This is also the opportunity to tell a story about income inequality. How it affects people, communities and how mayors are doing what they can within their power, but it's not enough. Local economies are one thing but they are clearly tied to national policies that are broken.

To hold presidential and federal candidates responsible to take action, one avenue is by having those in executive offices highlight what their needs are, what they've done, and what specifically they need done by Washington DC in order to better the situation by getting public sentiment on the side of right.

Mayors

Telling a tale of a city- starting with NYC and highlighting what Mayor de Blasio has done to combat income inequality to the press is a powerful tool. It also is a natural platform and both struggles and victories can be highlighted in this story. This narrative coupled with an ask of potential Presidents-elect to take specific action while in office will be what TPA holds them to.

Therefore the story must be seen, the problem and ask for solution clear and it must resonate with the candidates. Throughout and after the election there will be a list of signed on mayors who will pledge to remind and stay on the president-elect to fix the problems in their cities with them.

TPA will provide the targeting and prioritization of mayors, the content, the press briefing and materials mayors need to carry this out throughout the election and beyond. Mayors in battleground states and large cities will be a focal point of organizing the mayors.

Needs

- a. Organize key mayors around the country to demand the presidential candidates and president-elect take specific action to fix income inequality in their cities
- b. Gather research on key mayors to determine agenda for their specific city and greatest economic needs
- c. Conduct political outreach to persuade mayors to sign on
- d. Ask mayors to go on the record and sign onto written demands that benefit their cities to give to the presidential candidates

Immediate To Do

- Research- identify important initiatives to targeted mayors to focus their message to presidential candidates specifically focused on what is most important to them and their agenda locally
- Political- operation to identify mayors, signers, conduct outreach and build coalitions
- Digital- build individual list and echo communications strategy on accountability
- Communications- work with mayors, their staff and signers to develop accountability messaging and pitch stories of mayors signing on and their demands of the presidential candidates to fixing income inequality.

Signers/Supporters

For the purpose of this outline, “signers” are those who are being signed through political outreach, “supporters” are those who sign on through online, digital grassroots means. Both who sign onto TPA will be asked to be an active participation in moving out the message around income inequality. These signers and supporters will come on board in one of two ways: through digital means or through political avenues (call time, word of mouth, being asked by another supporter)

As TPA builds its brand and more importantly builds the ability to influence, those brought on first will help define who TPA is, what it hopes to accomplish and why it’s mission importance. Much will be conveyed to the powers that be by having high profile, strong leaders of various communities sign on. That coupled with size of a growing online list will telegraph a strong, growing movement to hold leaders accountable.

Both will be used to

- Communicate message around policy to various audiences through a variety of means
- Help recruit targeted signers

- Help with mayors strategy through helping recruit and providing a flank in their cities
- Launch a “behind the scenes” lobbying effort of presidential candidates

Maintenance

In order to keep the muscle around the supporters and signers strong, TPA must consistently provide content around message. This will come in the form of talking points, online communications and phone conversations for the most part.

- TPA will build a “speakers bureau” like structure for signers to become surrogates for all media outlets
- TPA will partner with organizations to generate and gather content around income inequality issues to turn into talking points and message points as well research to find new, important data and stories about the issue
- TPA will have a regularly scheduled forum to provide staff of signers and signers themselves with the “message of the week” or to help build leading into large events
- TPA will build a special digital program for our supporters to arm the grassroots with talking points and action items. This should include infographics, toolkits (sample emails, tweets, FB posts, etc)
- TPA will also partner with grassroots organizations to share content to be carried in the field around existing candidate efforts

The content will change based on the message calendar over the next two years. Therefore TPA will need to have staff dedicated to producing content, making it user friendly and helping put in the hands of organizations and individuals.

BRAND AND BUILD TPA

Currently TPA is an idea brought to life by the vision and passion of Mayor de Blasio. In May a group of prestigious signers came together to push the idea of TPA and show that the time is now to act on solving income inequality. Now the time has come to show that TPA is an organization that has goals, is operationalizing them and is going to have staying power to hold the candidates accountable after they’re elected.

Co-Chairs

Because this is a national organization and because Mayor de Blasio is Mayor of New York, TPA should consider several adopted chairs who work with the Mayor to help lift this organization. This is a different type of investment than typical signers. These will be a small, movement leading group of individuals who under Mayor de Blasio’s lead will “own” building it and making sure it succeeds. Co-Chairs would need to be those most invested in seeing their constituency (or themselves) at the forefront of fixing income inequality. They should also show strength in the national media, with national opinion leaders and have influence on, for example, presidential candidates.

The ask would be:

- Become a co-chair of The Progressive Agenda with Founding Chair, Mayor Bill de Blasio
- Co-chair means
 - o Lend name to the organization, communications
 - o Be part of the long term strategic direction
 - o Raise $250,000 over the next 2 years
 - o Be a frequent media spokesperson
 - o Engage constituencies through digital, other communications
 - o Help build TPAs online list, Twitter following

While not every co-chair could raise, the gravitas and credibility they lend to TPA might be enough but not ideal. These co-chairs should also highlight a coming together of different communities who may agree on little else, but the policy platform TPA is advocating. The idea would also be to keep it small and prestigious. Some ideas:

- ✓ Business community- Warren Buffett, Nick Haunauer, Bill and Melinda Gates
- ✓ Labor/Working People- Maria Elena Durazo, AFL-CIO Sect Treas Liz Shuler, Randi Weingarten
- ✓ Faith- Reverend William Barber II, Catholic leader (if poss)
- ✓ Economists/Policy- Robert Reich
- ✓ Online/grassroots reach- Elizabeth Warren

The cross coalition and movement gives TPA a wide reach into various communities.

Roll Out and plan kickoff...

The next roll out will be about the organization. Many progressives have ideas, but can they take them, build a coalition and operationalize to reach goals? This is the question opinion makers and policy makers will want answered. In September, pre- Iowa forum, TPA will launch the organization which will include:

- Leadership structure (co-chairs, E.D.)
- Key staff and advisors
- Goals
- Signers

TBD on how to best roll out. When this happens, the plan for TPA will be rolling. Once TPA kicks off, there is no ability to go dark or have a lull in communicating with the supporters, signers or the press. Working backwards from this date, the Mayor and the team need to have a signed off plan so the staff can begin preparing strategy and tactics to reach those goals for at least

Phase 1 and 2 with the end goal in mind. This also includes producing standard electronic and printed materials to put into the hands of individuals and organizations across the country.

TIMELINE

This timeline covers May 2015 through May 2017

- Phase 1 (Now through the Presidential primaries/presumptive nominees)
- Phase 2 (Primaries through nominations/conventions)
- Phase 3 (Nomination through the General)
- Phase 4 (General through inauguration)
- Phase 5 (First 100 days in office)

Phase 1 first steps

August

- Plan and budget completed
- RFP process for fundraising operation, search for press, research, digital
- Fundraising firm hired
- Messaging “package” decided for use
- Press staffer hired
- Research underway (political, policy)
- Digital staff/consultants identified
- Leadership structure discussed
- TPA organization launched (ED, councils/signers structure)
- Message and organization calendar created
- Forum locked in, planning and implementation begins

Next steps (first week):

- Setting up fundraising discussion, draft RFP
- Determine immediate target focus
- Power analysis of targets
- Discuss “leadership needs”, who, why, feasible?
- Develop ongoing communications of brain trust (who is this?)
- Set up call to discuss plan outline, thoughts, edits, etc.
- Start recruiting for press, fundraising, research (maybe contract)
- Set up message call/meeting with AFL-CIO analytics staff to get download of message research
- Develop prospectus

From: Klein, Monica
To: B
Cc: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; "hayley@progressiveagenda.us"
Subject: RE: Steve Rattner
Date: Tuesday, August 04, 2015 11:00:21 AM

Question: I did a college tour specifically talking to college students about entitlement reform – and that they really need to care about it because it's going to affect their future. And I don't want to say it fell on deaf ears, but it definitely wasn't a priority. It seemed that they didn't care.

Steve Rattner: I think entitlement reform, which is part of their problem – that they're going to have to live with the burden of social security and Medicare. They're going to pay for my social security and Medicare, and then they're not going to have the money to pay for their own. That is really far out there and it's probably hard for them to completely process. But there is other stuff that is happening in the here and now. If you take for example student debt – college tuition has gone up 234 percent over the last 20 years, compared to 63 percent for the overall price [inaudible]. And the result of that is 71 percent –

Question: I want to pull this chart out. We have this. Millennials mired in debt – it's massive.

Steve Rattner: 71 percent – that's the college tuition chart, which shows how much college tuition has gone up above inflation, but if you have the other chart, which shows their debt levels – 71 percent of millennials today graduate with debt versus 46 percent 20 years ago. The average debt is $35,000 compared to $15,000 even when you adjust for inflation.

Question: How do we fix it? And who is to blame?

Steve Rattner: Who's to blame broadly speaking is my generation, which are the baby boomers. We followed the greatest generation – my parents were part of the greatest generation. I think we may be the most selfish generation, in that we haven't been willing to pay for anything. We run up big government budget deficits, and that is part of why college tuition has gone up so much; part of why millennials can't afford to buy houses – home ownership has been dropping. And, of course, you have the entitlement problem sitting out there. We have not funded entitlements for my generation. So, I think you can mostly blame the policy makers who have been in charge for the last 20 years who have failed to put in place policies that will solve this. Now, of course, we had a recession; we had a financial crisis; we've had globalization; we have technological change. These are all major forces.

Question: Wait, hold on. Is it because these millennials were two years old – five years old – nine years old, and they don't vote; and their parents aren't thinking about that. It's senior citizens who go out and vote.

Steve Rattner: Well, all that is absolutely true, but in every other generation people have said to themselves 'I have my kids coming' – policy makers – 'the kids are coming. We have to make sure we take care of them. We have to make sure we leave them a fiscally sound policy. We need to make sure we leave them a strong economy', and that's not been happening. We've left them a really, really weak situation.

Question: What would you say to people who may look at some of the data and say 2009 to 2013 is the period after the worst economic crisis in 70 years. So, income levels are going to be depressed. And then they'll pull up a chart showing unemployment among 25 to 24 year olds, which some people may call millennials versus the national unemployment rate – and it's pretty much the same.

Steve Rattner: Sure, but if you go back in history I think you find that millennials are still doing worst in unemployment relative to their – people the same age they were in the past.

Question: What needs to be done?

Steve Rattner: We need to deal with the student loan problem. It's a very simple issue. We let these kids leave college with these huge amounts of debt. And this is why I'm with Elizabeth Warren. We should be doing something about student debt levels, and about the interest rate we charge these children.

Question: They should get the same interest rates that banks get?

Steve Rattner: Yes.

Monica Klein |Deputy Press Secretary |Mayor's Press Office
o: (212) 788-2969 |c: (917) 565-0715 | twitter: @monicacklein

-----Original Message-----

From: B

Sent: Tuesday, August 04, 2015 8:34 AM

To: Klein, Monica

Cc: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; 'hayley@progressiveagenda.us'

Subject: Steve Rattner

Just now on "Market Makers" (not sure which cable network that is) saying he agrees with Eliz Warren on college debt. Pls get transcript of that brief section

From: Klein, Monica
To: "John Del Cecato"; "Hayley Prim"
Subject: RE: $15
Date: Tuesday, August 04, 2015 11:45:45 AM

gracias

Monica Klein | Deputy Press Secretary | Mayor's Press Office
o: (212) 788-2969 | c: (917) 565-0715 | twitter: @monicacklein

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, August 04, 2015 11:42 AM
To: Klein, Monica; 'Hayley Prim'
Subject: Re: $15

I can talk to him about it tomorrow night at planning mtg

From: "Klein, Monica" <MKlein@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Tuesday, August 4, 2015 at 11:24 AM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>
Subject: RE: $15

I'm not v fluent in this. Will Mayor understand below or is there a more simple way to explain to him?

Monica Klein | Deputy Press Secretary | Mayor's Press Office
o: (212) 788-2969 | c: (917) 565-0715 | twitter: @monicacklein

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Saturday, August 01, 2015 6:33 PM
To: Klein, Monica; 'Hayley Prim'
Subject: Re: $15

This is an opinion piece, but is a good summary. And note that the columnist believes reforming 162(m) - aka the CEO Pay Loophole, aka TPA item #15 - would be a better idea...

Hillary Clinton's Capital Gains Tax Change Misses the Mark

Photo

| |

Hillary Clinton called out “hit-and-run activists whose goal is to force an immediate payout,” in a speech last week. Credit Mary Altaffer/Associated Press

Continue reading the main story

Hillary Rodham Clinton’s proposal to increase capital gains taxes for well-off individuals who hold investments for less than six years has a certain appeal. The plan is likely to raise effective tax rates on the top 1 percent of taxpayers, and some might wish to support it for that reason.

But it seems more show horse than workhorse: It would do little to accomplish its stated goal of aiming at what Mrs. Clinton called “the tyranny of today’s earnings report.”

Under current law, gains from assets held for more than a year often qualify as long-term capital gains, which are taxed at a top rate of 20 percent.

Under Mrs. Clinton’s proposal, for individuals in the top bracket, the tax would start at 39.6 percent for investments that taxpayers maintained for two years or less, then gradually decrease after that, back to the 20 percent rate only for assets held for more than six years. Taxpayers outside the top bracket, which starts at about $465,000 for married filers, would see no change.

Mrs. Clinton tied the tax proposal to her concern about short-termism. Short-termism refers to the idea that some investors looking for short-term profits may push corporate managers to increase share buybacks, split up companies, sell off ancillary assets and generally use whatever techniques are necessary to increase a stock’s price.

I’m skeptical of this line of argument. Shareholders who receive cash from share buybacks typically reinvest in other companies, thus making the overall allocation of economic resources more efficient. Some companies should be split up. Investors should not be myopic, but movements in the stock price relative to industry peers provide a useful way to monitor and evaluate the performance of top executives.

It is true that corporate executives are often overly focused on quarterly earnings. Earnings reports often drive stock price movements in the short run. Too much focus on quarterly earnings invites earnings management, where executives change the real or paper timing of transactions to strengthen earnings in a particular quarter, sometimes at the expense of the long-term stability and profitability of the firm.

The left wing of the Democratic Party may find Mrs. Clinton's narrative about corporate executives appealing. And because Mrs. Clinton's proposal would raise the top rate on capital gains relative to current law, it has the effect of making the tax system a bit more burdensome on some rich people.

The problem with Mrs. Clinton's proposal is that it slides over some important institutional details about how people invest. As a result, the proposed changes would do little to shape the behavior of corporate managers.

Top corporate executives receive substantial equity compensation in the form of restricted stock grants or similar arrangements. Executives often manage earnings to try to bolster them in periods when they can sell off shares. But changing the capital gains tax rate will not discourage this destructive behavior.

Consider the following example, which demonstrates why Mrs. Clinton's plan misses the mark.

When stock vests, an executive recognizes ordinary income for the fair-market value of the shares, taking that amount as the tax basis in the shares.

Suppose an executive received 50,000 shares of restricted stock in 2012, when the stock was worth $1 million, or $20 a share. Suppose the restrictions lapse in 2016 when the stock is worth $2 million, or $40 a share. Under either current law or Mrs. Clinton's plan, the executive would recognize $2 million of ordinary income and pay about $800,000 in income taxes. The executive would then have a basis in the shares of $2 million.

This result does not depend on whether the executive sells the stock immediately or holds on to it after it vests.

Under Mrs. Clinton's proposal, if the executive sold the stock 18 months later for $42 a share, he or she would recognize $100,000 of short-term capital gain, paying tax of about $40,000. Under current law, the executive would pay tax of $20,000.

But raising the rate on tax gains also raises the value of tax losses. If the stock price declined to $38 a share, the executive would recognize a short-term capital loss of $100,000, worth about $40,000. Under current law, he or she would have a long-term capital loss of $100,000, worth about $20,000.

And whatever happens to the stock price after the stock vests, the amount of tax is likely to be small compared with the tax on the stock award itself, which is taxed at ordinary income rates. As a general matter, the stock price of a publicly traded company is about as likely to go down as it is up, and so broadly speaking, corporate executives care more about the top rate on ordinary income than the top rate on capital gains.

Executives of start-ups and other privately held firms often make an election under section 83(b) of the tax code that results in stock appreciation being taxed at capital gains rates. Those executives would not be affected much by Mrs. Clinton's proposal. They typically hold shares for longer periods, and, as a general matter, do not engage in the sort of short-term earnings management that Mrs. Clinton is focusing on.

A better approach would be to pressure firms to change executive compensation practices. I would suggest an overhaul of Section 162(m), which disallows corporate deductions for pay above $1 million unless it is based on meeting performance goals. Instead, Section 162(m) could be rewritten to allow a deduction for compensation paid to any employee in excess of $1 million only if the compensation is paid in cash, deferred for at least five years and unsecured (meaning that if the company goes bankrupt, the executive would not have a priority over other creditors). This approach would encourage corporate executives to act more like long-term bondholders and obsess less about short-term stock price movements.

In the speech on Friday, Mrs. Clinton expressed preliminary interest in changing the tax incentives for executive pay. Her campaign aides indicated that there was more to come.

“Hillary Clinton’s speech last week focused on just a few specific proposals to combat short-termism,” said Jake Sullivan, a senior policy adviser to the campaign. “She will have more to say about tax fairness related to capital gains, as well as specific reforms to ensure executive compensation aligns with long-term value and rising pay for workers.”

From: "Klein, Monica" <MKlein@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Saturday, August 1, 2015 at 6:13 PM
To: Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>
Cc: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: $15

Mayor wants to know exactly what HRC did or did not do on capital gains tax
Danke!

Monica Klein | Deputy Press Secretary | Mayor’s Press Office
o: (212) 788-2969 | c: (917) 324-3297 | twitter: @monicacklein

From: <Klein>, Monica Klein <mklein@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Friday, July 31, 2015 at 4:02 PM
To: Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>
Cc: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: $15

Kew thx. sending to bdb ill cc yall

Monica Klein | Deputy Press Secretary | Mayor’s Press Office
o: (212) 788-2969 | c: (917) 565-0715 | twitter: @monicacklein

From: Hayley Prim [<mailto:hayley@progressiveagenda.us>]
Sent: Friday, July 31, 2015 4:00 PM

To: Klein, Monica
Cc: John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: $15

HRC has supported NYC raising the minimum wage to $15/hour for fast food workers

She described the federal minimum wage as a floor and said cities such as Los Angeles - which recently voted to adopt a $15-an-hour minimum - should be free to set higher ones.

She spoke favorably about legislation to raise the minimum wage to $12/hour nationally.

On Fri, Jul 31, 2015 at 3:36 PM, Klein, Monica <MKlein@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
To simplify so I don't give him wrong or incomplete info:

What has HRC supported exactly in NYC and LA?
What has HRC supported in any other city or state?
And what has she supported nationally?
tx

Monica Klein | Deputy Press Secretary | Mayor's Press Office
o: \(212\) 788-2969 | c: \(917\) 565-0715 | twitter: @monicacklein

From: Hayley Prim [mailto:hayley@progressiveagenda.us]
Sent: Friday, July 31, 2015 3:32 PM

To: Klein, Monica
Cc: John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: $15

She endorsed for fast food workers. She hasn't said anything about raising the wage for everyone in NYC to $15/hour.

On Fri, Jul 31, 2015 at 3:29 PM, Klein, Monica <MKlein@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
She has endorsed $15 an hour as min wage for all in NYC or just fast food?

Monica Klein | Deputy Press Secretary | Mayor's Press Office
o: \(212\) 788-2969 | c: \(917\) 565-0715 | twitter: @monicacklein

From: Hayley Prim [mailto:hayley@progressiveagenda.us]
Sent: Friday, July 31, 2015 3:28 PM
To: Klein, Monica
Cc: John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: $15

I sent the below to him earlier. I think this is as good as we've got so far. She has supported $15/hour in localities like NYC and LA, but hasn't endorsed federally.

Yesterday, she said what I pasted below, and that's the most specific she has gotten on a federal level:

FYI:

Hillary Rodham Clinton on Thursday offered some support for a proposal in the Senate that would raise the federal minimum wage to $12 an hour, hinting that the higher rate sought by labor unions doesn't have enough support. Congressional Democratic leaders have backed legislation sponsored by Washington Sen. Patty Murray that would increase the rate to $12 an hour by 2020, which is several dollars less than the $15 backed by labor and anti-poverty activists.

"Whatever (Murray) advocates I pay a lot of attention to, because she knows how to get it through the Congress," Clinton said after meeting with labor leaders on Thursday. "Let's not just do it for the sake of having a higher number out there, but let's actually get behind a proposal that has a chance of succeeding."

<http://abcnews.go.com/Politics/wireStory/meeting-unions-clinton-offers-support-12-minimum-wage-32789133>

On Fri, Jul 31, 2015 at 3:25 PM, Klein, Monica <MKlein@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
Mayor again said he wants "a single agreement on HRC's stance on national $15 min wage" from yall.

Can you share pls

Ty

Monica Klein |Deputy Press Secretary |Mayor's Press Office
o: \(212\) 788-2969788-2969) |c: \(917\) 565-0715565-0715) | twitter: @monicacklein

--

Hayley Prim

c: [REDACTED]

--

Hayley Prim

c: [REDACTED]

--

Hayley Prim

c: [REDACTED]

From: Geri Prado
To: Snyder, Thomas; John Del Cecato
Subject: Asks memo- thoughts
Date: Tuesday, August 04, 2015 1:13:35 PM
Attachments: MEMO re TPA Asks \(8-3-15\).docx

Tom and John:

The team gave me a good basis of these asks. I think it's important to use the Mayor's time effectively when he makes calls AND for us to be able to operationalize those asks. Based on that, here is a memo that outlines what asks are (if they aren't already being asked).

Please let me know what you think and if there is anything to work with the political crew at City Hall on.

Also, Gina Schwartz had reached out to me from AFLCIO days and we're catching up tomorrow after our meetings.

Let me know if you have any thoughts on this.

gp

August 3, 2015

TO: MAYOR BILL de BLASIO
FR: GERI PRADO, HAYLEY PRIM, GREG WASSERSTROM
CC: JOHN DEL CECATO, TOM SNYDER
RE: ASKS FOR POTENTIAL SIGNERS

Below are potential asks for signers to support The Progressive Agenda for your review. Groups:

- Individual signers
- Mayors

These are asks that can be operationalized to forward the strategy of TPA. It also allows the signers to understand that their name is valuable as is the organization but in return we need their commitment in order for TPA to reach its goals.

ALL SIGNERS

MESSAGE/COMMUNICATIONS

- ✓ Share content provided by TPA around income inequality and economic messaging via Twitter, Facebook, Email and at press events (conferences, appearances, events)
- ✓ Agree to be a spokesperson in the press based on their preferred mode (radio, TV, etc)
- ✓ Agree to put out a timed release on their endorsement

POLITICAL

- ✓ Agree to participate in a TPA event (day of action, rallies, press events)
- ✓ Help recruit 5 targets to TPA (work with staff on list)

DIGITAL/ONLINE

- ✓ Agree to participate in a joint action online petition twice per year.
- ✓ Tweet, Facebook, Email alongside TPA to help magnify issues

MAYORS

In addition to the above list, TPA accountability strategy rests on mayors both highlighting their cities' problems due to income inequality, what they have done to fix and what their needs of the federal government. Based on that, the asks might look as follows to get in their words (we provide research for targets before calls as well):

- What is the number one issue around income inequality that is most important to YOU and YOUR city
- Could TPA highlight YOU, what YOU'VE done under your administration to combat income inequality
- What do YOU need from the federal government to be successful locally?
- Would YOU make a personal ask of the presidential candidate to pledge to fill that need when in office?

We look forward to your thoughts.

From: John Del Cecato
To: BdB
Cc: FLONYC
Subject: Re: <no subject>
Date: Tuesday, August 04, 2015 3:48:45 PM

Blessing given!

On Aug 4, 2015, at 3:46 PM, Bill de Blasio <[REDACTED]> wrote:

Excellent thoughts. With your blessing, I want to start talking to Tom and Phil/Andrea about how to make these things work

Sent via BlackBerry by AT&T

From: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmmedia.com>
Date: Tue, 4 Aug 2015 16:16:42 +0000
To: Bill de Blasio <[REDACTED]>
Subject: <no subject>

Following up from last night...

1. Bring in a senior aide (perhaps without that title) to focus on the bigger narrative - either at CH, or as part of the outside team. Could be a Chris Smith type, or an Eric Alterman type. This person could do a weekly wrap-up for the NYC blog (or some other place) to tell the story from a big-picture perspective. Think "West Wing Week" in the White House realm.
2. Hold a regular meeting of your "kitchen cabinet" - separate and apart from the planning meetings - every two weeks. This group would focus strictly on the larger vision - what we've done in that two week period to accomplish it, where we've fallen short, what we should do in the next two weeks, and what we should be doing in the next 4-6 months.
3. Have a regular off-the-record conversation with liberal thinkers/writers/operatives - Katrina, Chris Hayes, Jonathan Soros, Jonathan Rosen, Rev. Sharpton - some core group that shoots the breeze in a very informal context - drinks at Gracie, etc.

From: Geri Prado
To: John Del Cecato; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Budget
Date: Tuesday, August 04, 2015 7:38:57 PM
Attachments: TPA DRAFT Budget \(8-3-15\).xlsx

It's at 4 million (a formula wasn't working) but at this point I can shed costs since I'm still not sure of the fundraising path.

I will flag for you that in the first year (now through December) we're looking at 900k roughly.

Also remember that fundraising and digital costs are assumed up front- investment for later gain.

I want to talk about budget, but I would like to talk in the meeting the three of us are having as there are salaries and staff discussions to be had as well.

The Progressive Agenda August 2015-2017		Year One					909,505
		July	August	September	October	November
$	$	4,080,245	TOTALS
Spent to Date
STAFF & OPERATIONS
Staff	31.78%
Executive Director	$283,500.00	$13,500.00	$13,500.00	$13,500.00	$13,500.00	$13,500.00	$13,500.00
Compliance	$63,000.00	$3,000.00	$3,000.00	$3,000.00	$3,000.00	$3,000.00	$3,000.00
Operations	$102,000.00	$0.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
Finance Director	$160,000.00	$0.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00
Communications Director (HPS)	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00
Press Secretary	$114,000.00	$0.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00
Digital	$160,000.00	$0.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00
Political Director	$160,000.00	$0.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00
Political Assistant	$114,000.00	$0.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00
Research	$140,000.00	$0.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00
Subtotal Staff	$1,296,500.00	$16,500.00	$55,500.00	$65,500.00	$64,500.00	$64,500.00	$64,500.00
Benefits	6.11%
ED Cobra	$21,000.00	$0.00	$1,050.00	$1,050.00	$1,050.00	$1,050.00	$1,050.00
Health Care	$140,000.00	$0.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00
Workers Comp	$40,000.00	$0.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00
Taxes	$404,745.00	$0.00	$21,285.00	$21,285.00	$21,285.00	$21,285.00	$21,285.00
Subtotal Benefits	$605,745.00	$0.00	$31,665.00	$31,335.00	$31,335.00	$31,335.00	$31,335.00
Consultants	13.04%
AKPD	$465,000.00	$40,000.00	$40,000.00	$40,000.00	$40,000.00	$40,000.00	$40,000.00
Legal	$67,000.00	$3,000.00	$3,000.00	$3,000.00	$3,000.00	$3,000.00	$3,000.00
Subtotal Strategy	$532,000.00	$43,000.00	$43,000.00	$43,000.00	$43,000.00	$43,000.00	$43,000.00
Operations	9.86%
Office	$100,000.00	$0.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
Phones	$9,500.00	$0.00	$500.00	$500.00	$500.00	$500.00	$500.00
IT	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00
Travel	$100,000.00	$0.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
Events/Meetings	$20,000.00	$0.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00
Printing/Design	$20,000.00	$0.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00
Subtotal Operations	$249,500.00	$0.00	$12,000.00	$12,500.00	$12,500.00	$12,500.00	$12,500.00
PROGRAM
Digital	9.86%
Sherrylville	$102,500.00	$2,500.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
Acquisition	$100,000.00	$0.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
Maintenance	$100,000.00	$0.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
Website and tools	$100,000.00	$0.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
Subtotal Website	$402,500.00	$2,500.00	$20,000.00	$20,000.00	$20,000.00	$20,000.00	$20,000.00
Comms/Research	8.21%
Hiltop Public Solutions	$315,000.00	$15,000.00	$15,000.00	$15,000.00	$15,000.00	$15,000.00	$15,000.00
Events	$20,000.00	$0.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00
Subtotal Email	$335,000.00	$15,000.00	$16,000.00	$16,000.00	$16,000.00	$16,000.00	$16,000.00
Political	1.69%
Materials/Design	$29,000.00	$0.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00
Events	$20,000.00	$0.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00
Surrogate costs	$20,000.00	$0.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00
Subtotal Social Networking	$69,000.00	$0.00	$12,000.00	$12,000.00	$12,000.00	$12,000.00	$12,000.00
Fundraising	14.46%
National Fundraising Consultant	$200,000.00	$0.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00
Event PR consultants (city base)	$190,000.00	$0.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00
Event Costs	$100,000.00	$0.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
Materials	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00
Travel	$100,000.00	$0.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
Media	$590,000.00	$0.00	$20,000.00	$30,000.00	$30,000.00	$30,000.00	$30,000.00
GRAND TOTAL	$4,080,245.00	$34,000.00	$165,165.00	$178,335.00	$177,335.00	$177,335.00	$177,335.00

The Progressive Agenda August 2015-2017

4,080,245 TOTALS $2,638,740.00

	Jan	Feb	Mar	Apr	May	June	July	August	September
Spent to Date
STAFF & OPERATIONS
Staff	31.78%
Executive Director	$283,500.00	$13,500.00	$13,500.00	$13,500.00	$13,500.00	$13,500.00	$13,500.00	$13,500.00	$13,500.00
Compliance	$63,000.00	$3,000.00	$3,000.00	$3,000.00	$3,000.00	$3,000.00	$3,000.00	$3,000.00	$3,000.00
Operations	$102,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
Finance Director	$160,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00
Communications Director (HPS)	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00
Press Secretary	$114,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00
Digital	$160,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00
Political Director	$160,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00
Political Assistant	$114,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00
Research	$140,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00
Subtotal Staff	$1,296,500.00	$64,500.00
Benefits	6.11%
ED Cobra	$21,000.00	$1,050.00	$1,050.00	$1,050.00	$1,050.00	$1,050.00	$1,050.00	$1,050.00	$1,050.00
Health Care	$140,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00
Workers Comp	$40,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00
Taxes	$404,745.00	$21,285.00	$21,285.00	$21,285.00	$21,285.00	$21,285.00	$21,285.00	$21,285.00	$21,285.00
Subtotal Benefits	$605,745.00	$31,335.00
Consultants	13.04%
AKPD	$465,000.00	$15,000.00	$15,000.00	$15,000.00	$15,000.00	$15,000.00	$15,000.00	$15,000.00	$15,000.00
Legal	$67,000.00	$3,000.00	$3,000.00	$3,000.00	$3,000.00	$3,000.00	$3,000.00	$3,000.00	$3,000.00
Subtotal Strategy	$532,000.00	$18,000.00
Operations	9.86%
Office	$100,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
Phones	$9,500.00	$500.00	$500.00	$500.00	$500.00	$500.00	$500.00	$500.00	$500.00
IT	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00
Travel	$100,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
Events/Meetings	$20,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00
Printing/Design	$20,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00
Subtotal Operations	$249,500.00	$12,500.00
PROGRAM	9.86%
Digital	$102,500.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
Sherryville	$102,500.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
Acquisition	$100,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
Maintenance	$100,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
Website and tools	$100,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
Subtotal Website	$402,500.00	$20,000.00
Comms/Research	8.21%
Hilltop Public Solutions	$315,000.00	$15,000.00	$15,000.00	$15,000.00	$15,000.00	$15,000.00	$15,000.00	$15,000.00	$15,000.00
Events	$20,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00
Subtotal Email	$335,000.00	$16,000.00
Political	1.69%
Materials/Design	$29,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00
Events	$20,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00
Surrogate costs	$20,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00
Subtotal Social Networking	$69,000.00	$3,000.00
Fundraising	14.46%
National Fundraising Consultant	$200,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00
Event PR consultants (city base)	$190,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00
Event Costs	$100,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
Materials	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00
Travel	$100,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
Media	$590,000.00	$30,000.00
GRAND TOTAL	$4,080,245.00	$177,335.00

The Progressive Agenda August 2015-2017
$	4,080,245	TOTALS	October	November	December	January	February	March
Spent to Date
STAFF & OPERATIONS		31.78%
Staff
Executive Director	$283,500.00		$13,500.00	$13,500.00	$13,500.00	$13,500.00	$13,500.00	$13,500.00
Compliance	$63,000.00		$3,000.00	$3,000.00	$3,000.00	$3,000.00	$3,000.00	$3,000.00
Operations	$102,000.00		$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
Finance Director	$160,000.00		$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00
Communications Director (HPS)	$0.00		$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00
Press Secretary	$114,000.00		$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00
Digital	$160,000.00		$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00
Political Director	$160,000.00		$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00	$8,000.00
Political Assistant	$114,000.00		$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00	$6,000.00
Research	$140,000.00		$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00
Subtotal Staff	$1,296,500.00		$64,500.00	$64,500.00	$64,500.00	$64,500.00	$64,500.00	$64,500.00
Benefits	6.11%
ED Cobra	$21,000.00		$1,050.00	$1,050.00	$1,050.00	$1,050.00	$1,050.00	$1,050.00
Health Care	$140,000.00		$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00	$7,000.00
Workers Comp	$40,000.00		$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00	$2,000.00
Taxes	$404,745.00		$21,285.00	$21,285.00	$21,285.00	$21,285.00	$21,285.00	$21,285.00
Subtotal Benefits	$605,745.00		$31,335.00	$31,335.00	$31,335.00	$31,335.00	$31,335.00	$31,335.00
Consultants	13.04%
AKPD	$465,000.00		$15,000.00	$15,000.00	$15,000.00	$15,000.00	$15,000.00	$15,000.00
Legal	$67,000.00		$3,000.00	$3,000.00	$3,000.00	$3,000.00	$3,000.00	$3,000.00
Subtotal Strategy	$532,000.00		$18,000.00	$18,000.00	$18,000.00	$18,000.00	$18,000.00	$18,000.00
Operations	9.86%
Office	$100,000.00		$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
Phones	$9,500.00		$500.00	$500.00	$500.00	$500.00	$500.00	$500.00
IT	$0.00		$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00
Travel	$100,000.00		$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
Events/Meetings	$20,000.00		$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00
Printing/Design	$20,000.00		$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00
Subtotal Operations	$249,500.00		$12,500.00	$12,500.00	$12,500.00	$12,500.00	$12,500.00	$12,500.00
PROGRAM	9.86%
Digital
Sherryville	$102,500.00		$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
Acquisition	$100,000.00		$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
Maintenance	$100,000.00		$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
Website and tools	$100,000.00		$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
Subtotal Website	$402,500.00		$20,000.00	$20,000.00	$20,000.00	$20,000.00	$20,000.00	$20,000.00
Comms/Research	8.21%
Hilltop Public Solutions	$315,000.00		$15,000.00	$15,000.00	$15,000.00	$15,000.00	$15,000.00	$15,000.00
Events	$20,000.00		$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00
Subtotal Email	$335,000.00		$16,000.00	$16,000.00	$16,000.00	$16,000.00	$16,000.00	$16,000.00
Political	1.69%
Materials/Design	$29,000.00		$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00
Events	$20,000.00		$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00
Surrogate costs	$20,000.00		$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00	$1,000.00
Subtotal Social Networking	$69,000.00		$3,000.00	$3,000.00	$3,000.00	$3,000.00	$3,000.00	$3,000.00
Fundraising	14.46%
National Fundraising Consultant	$200,000.00		$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00
Event PR consultants (city base)	$190,000.00		$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00	$10,000.00
Event Costs	$100,000.00		$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
Materials	$0.00		$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00
Travel	$100,000.00		$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00	$5,000.00
Media	$590,000.00		$30,000.00	$30,000.00	$30,000.00	$30,000.00	$30,000.00	$30,000.00
GRAND TOTAL	$4,080,245.00		$177,335.00	$177,335.00	$177,335.00	$177,335.00	$177,335.00	$177,335.00

The Progressive Agenda August 2015-2017
$	TOTALS
Spent to Date
STAFF & OPERATIONS	31.78%
Staff	$283,500.00
Executive Director	$63,000.00
Compliance	$102,000.00
Operations	$160,000.00
Finance Director	$0.00
Communications Director (HPS)	$114,000.00
Press Secretary	$160,000.00
Digital	$160,000.00
Political Director	$114,000.00
Political Assistant	$140,000.00
Research	$1,296,500.00
Subtotal Staff	$1,296,500.00
Benefits	6.11%
ED Cobra	$21,000.00
Health Care	$140,000.00
Workers Comp	$40,000.00
Taxes	$404,745.00
Subtotal Benefits	$605,745.00
Consultants	13.04%
AKPD	$465,000.00
Legal	$67,000.00
Subtotal Strategy	$532,000.00
Operations	9.86%
Office	$100,000.00
Phones	$9,500.00
IT	$0.00
Travel	$100,000.00
Events/Meetings	$20,000.00
Printing/Design	$20,000.00
Subtotal Operations	$249,500.00
PROGRAM	9.86%
Digital	$102,500.00
Sperryville	$100,000.00
Acquisition	$100,000.00
Maintenance	$100,000.00
Website and tools	$100,000.00
Subtotal Website	$402,500.00
Comms/Research	8.21%
Hilltop Public Solutions	$315,000.00
Events	$20,000.00
Subtotal Email	$335,000.00
Political	1.69%
Materials/Design	$29,000.00
Events	$20,000.00
Surrogate costs	$20,000.00
Subtotal Social Networking	$69,000.00
Fundraising	14.46%
National Fundraising Consultant	$200,000.00
Event PR consultants (city base)	$190,000.00
Event Costs	$100,000.00
Materials	$0.00
Travel	$100,000.00
Media	$590,000.00
GRAND TOTAL	$4,080,245.00

From: John Del Cecato
To: Hinton, Karen
Subject: Re: Me this time
Date: Wednesday, August 05, 2015 7:18:39 AM

No worries.

I think Phil is right about Annie. She's all HRC all the time. That said - we should consider working an HRC angle - either something that she hasn't yet done ($15 min wage) or something she has done (carried interest loophole). But it's a little tricky, so need to chat about it.

Balz said that he's only doing the GOP debates this week, so we are trying to figure out an alternative

> On Aug 4, 2015, at 11:51 PM, Hinton, Karen <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>
> Sorry I have to reschedule. Crazy day at city hall and have to start bright and early. What do you think of engaging Annie karni of politico on tpa? Did balz call u back?
>
> Sent from my iPhone

From: FLONYC
To: John Del Cecato
Cc: BdB
Subject: Re: <no subject>
Date: Wednesday, August 05, 2015 9:21:13 AM

And you are right John in #2 about having the right mix of people in the room. We should discuss.

> On Aug 4, 2015, at 5:00 PM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

- >
- > 1. You're right that we've discussed a "chronicler" before, but I guess I
 - > have always thought we were trying to just get a reporter to write about
 - > us - as opposed to putting someone on the payroll. To make the latter a
 - > reality, we'll need to find resources - but we can begin collecting names.
 - >
 - > 2. Good point. I guess we could do at the planning meetings - but keep
 - > in mind that there are people at those meeting who are not political or
 - > big picture by nature - and that's fine/good - but I think we'll want a
 - > separate group thinking about the longer term narrative. That said, I'm
 - > sensitive to stretching the staff (and you guys!) by adding yet another
 - > meeting. We should discuss.
 - >
 - > 3. Will do. I'm meeting with Rosen before our planning meeting tomorrow
 - > & will raise on how best to execute.
 - >

>> On 8/4/15, 4:26 PM, "FLONYC" <FLONYC@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

- >>
- >> I like #1 very much. Please note that this idea has been presented
 - >> multiple times. Next step?
 - >> #2 is a good concept, but stretches a very stretched team even more. I
 - >> would prefer tighter, more efficient planning meetings that are actually
 - >> about planning. And NOT another meeting.
 - >> One-third of the time should be looking back on the week, checking
 - >> timelines, etc., but the rest of the time should be spent looking ahead.
 - >> #3. Another idea that has been discussed. Refine it and make it happen.
 - >> We need meetings with more decisive outcomes and someone has to make them
 - >> happen.

>>

>>

>>

>>

>>

>>> On Aug 4, 2015, at 3:46 PM, Bill de Blasio

>>> <[REDACTED]> wrote:

>>>

- >>> 2. Hold a regular meeting of your "kitchen cabinet" - separate and
- >>> apart from the planning meetings - every two weeks. This group would
- >>> focus strictly on the larger vision - what we've done in that two week
- >>> period to accomplish it, where we've fallen short, what we should do in
- >>> the next two weeks, and what we should be doing in the next 4-6 months.

>

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
To: "John Del Cecato"; [REDACTED] "Hayley Prim"
Subject: RE: today -
Date: Wednesday, August 05, 2015 9:40:35 AM

Ok. lets do 230pm in the Mayors office.
Thanks.

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Wednesday, August 05, 2015 9:10 AM
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; [REDACTED] 'Hayley Prim'
Subject: Re: today -

I have a 130 - 230pm poll call - but was planning on doing it from city hall - so i can pop in after

From: "Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca" <PSalazar-Rodriguez@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Wednesday, August 5, 2015 at 9:08 AM
To: [REDACTED] <[REDACTED]> John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>
Subject: today -

Mayor would like to meet with the team – can you guys come to CH at 130pm today-
Thanks!

Prisca Salazar-Rodriguez
Office of The Mayor
212-341-5016
917-853-3421

From: Geri Prado
To: B; Snyder, Thomas; John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: Meeting with you
Date: Wednesday, August 05, 2015 10:46:01 AM

I just talked to Prisca and she said it might not happen as it's been replaced by the larger meeting. It's important to me that we have an opportunity to talk though I know you're incredibly busy.

I had 15 minutes tomorrow at 2:30pm that worked but was cancelled. If there is time today or tomorrow please let me know.

Thank you.

On Tue, Aug 4, 2015 at 7:17 AM, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Very much look forward to sitting down, Geri. Let's do this week if at all humanly possible. And pls note that I get so many emails that my responses are sometimes slow or I may miss some. Call me too if ever urgent - [REDACTED]. Don't hesitate -- your work means a lot to me!

From: Geri Prado [mailto:geri@progressiveagenda.us]
Sent: Monday, August 03, 2015 09:31 AM
To: B
Cc: jfdc@akpdmedia.com <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Meeting with you

Good Morning Mayor:

With my first few days under my belt, I would like to see if I could sit down with you for 15 minutes to discuss the following:

- Expectations
- Communications
- Reporting
- Managing
- Other important things for me to know

I will have an agenda/list that I don't want to take too much of your time on but I think it's important to discuss now that I am on board.

Thank you and please let me know how to proceed.

Geri Prado

From: Klein, Monica
To: "John Del Cecato"; Williams, Dominic
Subject: frequent power cord borrowers
Date: Wednesday, August 05, 2015 12:41:24 PM

Either of you seen my/Karen's mac charger?
Last spotted in the Blue Room
tx

From: Geri Prado
To: John Del Cecato; Snyder, Thomas; Hayley Prim
Subject: ppt
Date: Wednesday, August 05, 2015 12:59:32 PM
Attachments: TPA Planning Presentation \(8-5-15\).pptx

THE PROGRESSIVE AGENDA

6494

GOALS

THE
PROGRESSIVE
AGENDA

- What is considered “winning”?
- Concrete for an issue advocacy organization
- Aim for short term with eye on the long term
- Realistic about what can deliver

GOALS (con't)

THE
PROGRESSIVE
AGENDA

- Long Term
 - Incomes more equitable
 - Regulations and oversights to sustain equality
- Mid Term
 - Policies being pushed for change (TPA agenda)

GOALS (con't)

THE
PROGRESSIVE
AGENDA

- Short Term
 - Change narrative to specific (TPA agenda) solutions
 - Build a coalition to pressure policy makers
 - Pressure policy makers (and potential p.m.) to pledge to make change

Targets

THE
PROGRESSIVE
AGENDA

Targets	Influencers
Control policy/can change policies	Can influence targets- based on power
Presidential candidates	Policy makers
President-elect	Key Electeds
Policy makers	Coalition/Powerful orgs
	Donors
	Reporters
	Grassroots- enough voters to win

STRATEGY

THE
PROGRESSIVE
AGENDA

- Organize a coalition
- Become the national message hub for income inequality
- Pressure through influencers

STRATEGY (con't)

THE
PROGRESSIVE
AGENDA

- Organize a coalition
- Movement Leaders
- Organizations- coverage and reach
- Signers- Influencers
- Supporters- grassroots/online

STRATEGY (con't)

THE
PROGRESSIVE
AGENDA

- National Message Hub- Go To for Income Inequality
 - Construct an effective message
 - Train coalition on message
 - Cities & Mayors
 - New York as example

STRATEGY (con't)

THE
PROGRESSIVE
AGENDA

- Pressure through influencers
- Create a pledge
- Organize targeted mayors and signers to carry pledge with specific needs
- Arm coalition with pledge, messaging

“SIDE” STRATEGY

- Build TPA brand
- Elite Co-Chairs

THE
PROGRESSIVE
AGENDA

TARGETING

THE
PROGRESSIVE
AGENDA

PRIORITIZING SIGNER OUTREACH

Swing States (relevant pre/post election)	Large Cities (non- swing)	Fighting income inequality- mayors, parnters
Colorado	San Francisco
Florida	Los Angeles
Iowa*	Chicago
Nevada*	Miami
New Hampshire*	Houston
North Carolina	New York
Ohio	Boston
Pennsylvania
Virginia
Wisconsin
New Mexico*
Michigan

TARGETING (con't)

THE
PROGRESSIVE
AGENDA

- Movement Politics
- Grassroots reach- field, online
- Gravitase to issue

TIMELINE

THE
PROGRESSIVE
AGENDA

- Phase 1 (Now through the Presidential primaries/presumptive nominees)
- Phase 2 (Primaries through nominations/conventions)
- Phase 3 (Nomination through the General)
- Phase 4 (General through inauguration)
- Phase 5 (First 100 days in office)

OPERATION

- Research and Policy
- Political
- Organizing/Coalition building
- Messaging and Communications
- Digital
- Fundraising

THE
PROGRESSIVE
AGENDA

BUDGET

THE
PROGRESSIVE
AGENDA

- TOTAL rough estimate: $3.9 million
- 2015- $1-1.5 million
- 2015 Cash on Hand- $500,000

IMMEDIATE TO DOS

THE
PROGRESSIVE
AGENDA

- Fundraising and Operating Expenses, Plan
- Message/Campaign Calendar
- Gather and pull together research
- Develop TPA messaging, pledge
- Create TPA materials
- Plan roll-out, organize signers
- Forum

From: Hayley Prim
To: Snyder Thomas; John Del Cecato
Subject: Fwd: Certificate of Self Insurance
Date: Wednesday, August 05, 2015 2:26:18 PM
Attachments: .msg

Tom--

See attached letter from the Law Department acting as a certificate of insurance for the Pace University event on September 10.

I am going to forward along to Pace today-- but let me know if you have any issue.

Thanks!

----- Forwarded message -----

From: Friedman, Howard (Law) <HFriedma@law.nyc.gov>
Date: Wed, Aug 5, 2015 at 1:48 PM
Subject: RE: Certificate of Self Insurance
To: Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>
Cc: "Berger, Henry" <HBerger@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Here you go. Please pass this along to Pace and Tom Snyder. Thanks

Howard Friedman

Chief, Contracts and Real Estate

New York City Law Department

100 Church Street, Room 5-194

New York, New York 10007

Tel: \(212\) 356-2050356-2050)

hfriedma@law.nyc.gov

From: Hayley Prim [mailto:hayley@progressiveagenda.us]
Sent: Tuesday, August 04, 2015 10:56 AM

To: Friedman, Howard (Law)
Subject: Re: Certificate of Self Insurance

Joy Besozzi

Director of Theatre Operations

Michael Schimmel Center for the Arts

Pace University

One Pace Plaza

New York, NY 10038

212-346-1091 Phone

914-989-8317 Fax

On Tue, Aug 4, 2015 at 10:33 AM, Friedman, Howard (Law) <HFriedma@law.nyc.gov> wrote:

Do you have an address for Joy Besozzi? Thanks

From: Hayley Prim [mailto:hayley@progressiveagenda.us]
Sent: Tuesday, August 04, 2015 9:50 AM
To: Friedman, Howard (Law)
Cc: Berger, Henry

Subject: Re: Certificate of Self Insurance

Hi Howard, It is going to be screened at the Schimmel Theater at Pace University, and the contact is Joy Besozzi: jbesozzi@pace.edu. Tom Snyder has been looped into this event, so I would put him as the contact or "Office of the Mayor" in general.

Let me know if you need anything else. Thanks!

On Tue, Aug 4, 2015 at 9:08 AM, Friedman, Howard (Law) <HFriedma@law.nyc.gov> wrote:

Hayley, I just need a few more details: contact info for the person at Pace I should write to, the space within Pace where the screening will take place, and which office of the Mayor's Office is the main City office involved (it could just be the Mayor's Office in general). Thanks

Howard Friedman

Chief, Contracts and Real Estate

New York City Law Department

100 Church Street, Room 5-194

New York, New York 10007

Tel: \(212\) 356-2050

hfriedma@law.nyc.gov

From: Hayley Prim [mailto:hayley@progressiveagenda.us]
Sent: Monday, August 03, 2015 10:16 AM
To: Friedman, Howard (Law)
Subject: Re: Certificate of Self Insurance

Hi Howard,

I know you are out of town, but just wanted to resend this so it was fresh in your inbox. Thanks!

Hayley

On Wed, Jul 29, 2015 at 1:06 PM, Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us> wrote:

Hi Howard,

I got your contact information from Henry Berger.

I am working with folks from the City in the Mayor's office for an event in the coming weeks. We are doing a screening of a movie at Pace University on September 10, but need a letter saying that the City of New York is self insured.

Is this something you could help with? Please let me know what other details you need.

Thanks,

Hayley

Hayley Prim

C: [REDACTED]

--

Hayley Prim

C: [REDACTED]

--

Hayley Prim

C: [REDACTED]

--

Hayley Prim

c: [REDACTED]

--

Hayley Prim

c: [REDACTED]

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
To: "John Del Cecato"
Subject: RE: Sked
Date: Wednesday, August 05, 2015 3:28:05 PM

ok

-----Original Message-----

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, August 05, 2015 3:27 PM
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Subject: Re: Sked

I think you should invite her although she may not come

On 8/4/15, 10:06 AM, "Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca"
<PSalazar-Rodriguez@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>Am inviting Geri to TPA call time?

>

>

>-----Original Message-----

>From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
>Sent: Monday, August 03, 2015 10:54 PM
>To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
>Cc: Snyder, Thomas
>Subject: Re: Sked

>

>Tx

>

>

>

>> On Aug 3, 2015, at 10:47 PM, Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca

>><PSalazar-Rodriguez@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>>

>> Yes.

>>

>> Sent from my iPhone

>>

>>> On Aug 3, 2015, at 10:36 PM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>

>>>wrote:

>>>

>>> Can we add Geri Prado (new executive director of TPA) to the >>>circulation list for MBDB sked?

>>> [REDACTED]

>>>

>>>

From: John Del Cecato
To: Wallack Josh; Goldmark, Karin; Jonathan Rosen
Subject: Re: policies to test
Date: Wednesday, August 05, 2015 5:14:26 PM

Ok cool - really appreciate it

From: Wallack Josh <JWallack@schools.nyc.gov>
Date: Wednesday, August 5, 2015 at 5:12 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, "KGoldmark@cityhall.nyc.gov" <KGoldmark@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Jonathan Rosen <jonathan@berlinrosen.com>
Subject: RE: policies to test

I just don't know the substance there – but Karin and I are working on getting to the right people.

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, August 05, 2015 5:10 PM
To: Wallack Josh <JWallack@schools.nyc.gov>; KGoldmark@cityhall.nyc.gov; Jonathan Rosen <jonathan@berlinrosen.com>
Subject: Re: policies to test

Okay thanks... Also need some guidance on the college stuff

From: Wallack Josh <JWallack@schools.nyc.gov>
Date: Wednesday, August 5, 2015 at 4:26 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, "KGoldmark@cityhall.nyc.gov" <KGoldmark@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Jonathan Rosen <jonathan@berlinrosen.com>
Subject: RE: policies to test

On the PK-12 goals, I think these are directionally right. We are doing some work to size them based on other cities' goals and their success in meeting them.

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, August 05, 2015 3:06 PM
To: KGoldmark@cityhall.nyc.gov; Jonathan Rosen <jonathan@berlinrosen.com>; Wallack Josh <JWallack@schools.nyc.gov>
Subject: policies to test

What do you think of this list - which I took from menu you gave plus some stuff we discussed in mtg last week? I made up some of the dates/stats - just looking for broad strokes to test...

1. Doubling the number of NYC students who graduate from college by 2025
2. Cutting the high school dropout rate in half.
3. Doubling the percentage of students who graduate from NYC public schools who are deemed college-ready.

4. NYC signs a pledge with public school families that says every child who is capable of going to college will get the instruction/resources they need to get to college.
5. Every Second Grader will read on grade level.
6. Double the number of students who are reading successfully within 10 years.
7. 200,000 more NYC students entering college by 2025.
8. Add XX community schools, offering mental health services, career counseling, eye exams, and nutrition assistance to all students, by 2020.
9. All 8th Graders will have the math skills they need to succeed in high school.
10. Every student who graduates from NYC public school with a B average will get City support to cut their rate of student loan repayment in half.
11. (ALT) Every student who graduates from NYC public school with a B average will get City support to cut their rate of student loan repayment in half - at whatever New York State college they choose - public, private, or community college.
12. Double funding for 0 to 3 learning by 2020.
13. Double the size of Tuition Assistance Program grants from $5K to $10K.
14. (ALT) Double the size of Tuition Assistance Program grants from $5K to $10K, paid for by putting a 1% tax on currently tax-free university endowments larger than $100 million.

From: Klein, Monica
To: "John Del Cecato"
Subject: reminder to talk to bdb about HRC & capital gains taxes
Date: Wednesday, August 05, 2015 7:09:29 PM

Tx!

Monica Klein | Deputy Press Secretary | Mayor's Press Office
o: (212) 788-2969 | c: (917) 565-0715 | twitter: @monicacklein

From: John Del Cecato
To: B
Subject: NYT
Date: Thursday, August 06, 2015 7:54:48 AM

Obama Drafts Order on Paid Sick Leave for Federal Contractors

Photo

President Obama at a meeting in the Oval Office on Tuesday. The administration has drafted an executive order addressing paid sick leave for companies that contract with the federal government. Credit Zach Gibson/The New York Times

WASHINGTON — Stymied by Republicans in Congress, President Obama has drafted an executive order to force any company that contracts with the federal government to issue paid leave to employees who are sick, are seeking medical attention or need to care for a sick relative.

The draft order, obtained by The New York Times on Wednesday, could affect hundreds of thousands of workers, because it would apply to federal contractors and their subcontractors. It would be the latest in a string of executive orders that seek to impose requirements on companies doing business with the government that the president and Democrats want applied nationally. The Labor Department was to approve the order and send it to the White House by Wednesday afternoon, according to internal communications viewed by The Times.

Mr. Obama has issued executive orders requiring federal contractors to recognize same-sex marriages, not discriminate against homosexual employees and pay required overtime. Last year, he raised the minimum wage for federal contract employees to $10.10 an hour.

Photo

Labor Secretary Thomas E. Perez, in Washington last month, has said that the lack of paid sick leave in the private sector is “bad news for a rebounding economy and a growing job

Mr. Obama even considered — then dropped — a requirement that federal contractors disclose political contributions.

market.”Credit Chip Somodevilla/Getty Images

A Labor Department spokesman acknowledged that “in the absence of action from Congress” on the issue of paid sick leave, “we continue to explore ways to expand access.” The official added that no final decisions had been made.

But the president had signaled the initiative in his State of the Union address in January when he told lawmakers: “Send me a bill that gives every worker in America the opportunity to earn seven days of paid sick leave. It’s the right thing to do.”

The timing of the order was not clear. The confidential draft was marked “pre-decisional and deliberative.” But emails show that Labor Department lawyers were seeking final approval by 2 p.m. Wednesday, making it clear the agency considered the matter as urgent. Senate Democrats said they understood executive action was in the works.

The order would set a minimum of 56 hours a year of paid sick leave, about seven days, but it is broad in scope. It covers not just an employee’s illness but also caring for a child, parent, spouse, domestic partner “or any other individual related by blood or affinity whose close association with the employee is the equivalent of a family relationship.”

It would apply to absences from work resulting from domestic violence, sexual assault or stalking, if that time was used to seek medical attention, obtain counseling, seek relocation assistance from victim services organizations or prepare civil or criminal proceedings.

Employers would be ordered to allow unused paid leave to accrue, year after year.

The issue of paid sick leave has been percolating since last year, when Democrats in states like Oregon began pushing legislation in statehouses. This spring, a bipartisan majority voted to include paid sick leave in the Senate’s version of a budget blueprint, but that vote was nonbinding.

“No worker should have to sacrifice a day’s pay, or their job altogether, just to take care of themselves or their sick child,” Senator Patty Murray, Democrat of Washington, said in a statement in April after 61 senators voted for her paid-leave amendment. “Today’s vote was an important step forward for families in need of paid sick days, and I’m going to fight to get this done.”

Since then, no legislation has even received a hearing. Last month, in a Labor Department blog post, Labor Secretary Thomas E. Perez said 39 percent of the private sector work force — or 44 million people — had no paid sick leave.

Continue reading the main story

Document: Draft of an Executive Order for Paid Sick Leave

“Seventy-eight percent of private sector workers earning under $9.00 an hour cannot earn paid sick days, making illness not merely inconvenient but economically catastrophic,” he wrote. “This is bad news for a rebounding economy and a growing job market.”

Paid sick leave is a benefit that shows the divide in American labor markets. Among the highest 10 percent of earners, 86 percent of earners have it, while among the lowest 10 percent, just 22 percent have it, said Elise Gould, a senior economist at the liberal Economic Policy Institute. Thirty-nine percent of service workers have paid sick leave, according to Labor Department data.

Jim Ryan, a labor and employment lawyer at the New York firm Cullen and Dykman, said major federal contractors like Boeing and McDonnell Douglas had better-than-average benefits. Many federal contracts allow companies to rebid terms if federal policy changes, meaning higher benefit costs will be passed on to the taxpayer.

But the effect of the order, if issued, would be broad. More than 300,000 small-business contractors were hit by the president’s increase in the minimum wage, and the Small Business Administration has reported widespread complaints about the financial burden.

Fast-food franchises on military bases requested an exemption from the wage hike, but were rejected.

Randel K. Johnson, the senior vice president for labor, immigration and employee benefits at the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, said he believed that the president could not use his power over contracting policy to set social policy, that he has to show that an executive order on contracting promotes greater efficiency in government procurement.

“At some point, the contracting community is going to cry uncle, and we’re going to go to court,” Mr. Johnson said.

While the order is still in draft, the details show how much deliberation went into it. The draft order states that an employer cannot make paid leave contingent on asking a worker to find a replacement. It also says the implementation of the order would have no effect on longstanding requirements that federal contractors pay the “prevailing wage” of the area where the work is being done.

Detailed regulations would be issued by the Labor secretary by Sept. 30, 2016.

White House officials refused to comment on the document. But email traffic obtained by The Times states that Labor Department and White House lawyers were involved in the executive order’s drafting. That makes clear that the Labor Department — the government’s labor policy advocate — is not operating on its own.

Supporters and opponents of the order suggested the effect could extend beyond contractors.

“You can build an expectation that paid sick leave comes with a job,” Ms. Gould said. “Changes in cultural norms matter.”

From: John Del Cecato
To: B
Subject: Crain's
Date: Thursday, August 06, 2015 8:58:53 AM

It's not just Netflix and Microsoft: These New York-area employers offer new parents paid time off, too

Netflix and Microsoft aren't the only companies that offer new parents paid-time off.

First Netflix. Now Microsoft. America's largest corporations are in a race to keep their most talented employees by offering more paid time off, not only for new mothers but fathers as well.

Netflix on Aug. 4 announced that it would give up to one year of paid time off to new parents. A day later, Microsoft said it would give mothers 20 weeks off, up from 12; new fathers would get 12 weeks off, instead of four paid and eight unpaid days.

The changes are coming from the West Coast, where tech companies are battling for talented workers who widely see parenting as a shared responsibility. Still, New York workers stand to benefit from the cultural shift in workplace standards.

But which New York employers are on the vanguard? Crain's turned to Working Mother magazine for some answers. Using data from the publication's 100 Best Companies list, we compiled a list of large multistate employers that have a presence in the New York area and offer family and parental benefits. The list below shows the variety of benefits companies are offering and can be sorted to identify the firms with the most generous parental-leave policies.

Deutsche Bank and the law firm of Arnold & Porter offers new moms the most paid time off, an average of 18 weeks, while Bank of America offers new dads the most, an average of 12 weeks.

Sadly for new moms and dads, though, Netflix is not in New York. Microsoft, however, has a big presence here, and in 2013 Crain's named the tech giant one of the Best Places to Work in New York.

To sort by column click on a specific header.

Source: Working Mother

Crain's Recommends

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
To: B; FLONYC
Cc: John Del Cecato \(jfdc@akpdmedia.com\); Wolfe, Emma; Walzak, Phil; Hinton, Karen; Snyder, Thomas; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Subject: FW: THE HILL: Dems announce debate schedule
Date: Thursday, August 06, 2015 12:26:00 PM

The first debate will take place in Nevada on Oct. 13th in partnership with CNN.

From: Clips
Sent: Thursday, August 06, 2015 12:14 PM
Subject: THE HILL: Dems announce debate schedule

Dems announce debate schedule

THE HILL – Jonathan Easley

<http://thehill.com/blogs/ballot-box/presidential-races/250420-dems-announce-six-debates-beginning-this-fall>

The Democratic National Committee (DNC) set its presidential debate schedule on Thursday, announcing six debates spanning from October to March.

The first debate will take place in Nevada on Oct. 13th in partnership with CNN.

Following that, the DNC has scheduled debates for November in Iowa, December in New Hampshire, and January in South Carolina. The final two debates will take place in Florida and Wisconsin in either February or March.

“We are thrilled to announce the schedule and locations for our Democratic primary debates,” DNC Chairwoman Debbie Wasserman Schultz said in a statement. “These six debates will not only give caucus goers and primary voters ample opportunity to hear from our candidates about their vision for our country’s future, they will highlight the clear contrast between the values of the Democratic Party which is focused on strengthening the middle class versus Republicans who want to pursue out of touch and out of date policies.”

The announcement comes on the day Republicans are holding their first presidential debate, and a day after Democratic presidential candidate Martin O’Malley ripped the national party for seeking to limit the number of debates.

In an exclusive interview with The Hill on Wednesday, O’Malley said he had expressed his frustration with Wasserman Schultz.

“There’s an effort by a few insiders to try to limit the number of debates that we have and I’ve shared with the chair — Debbie Wasserman Schultz — that I think that’s a grave mistake and I think it’s undemocratic,” O’Malley said.

O’Malley, who barely registers in nationwide polling, accused the national party of tilting the playing field in favor of Hillary Clinton, who is the prohibitive favorite to win the party’s nomination.

““It’s all about trying to pre-ordain the outcome, circle the wagons and close off debate,” O’Malley said. “If they could actually accelerate the date of the Iowa caucuses and hold them tomorrow — they’d like to do that. Then there’d be no campaign at all. That’s what they’d really like.”

A spokesperson for the DNC said the six debates “will give plenty of opportunity for the candidates to be seen side-by-side.”

“I’m sure there will be lots of other forums for the candidates to make their case to voters, and that they will make the most out of every opportunity,” DNC spokeswoman Holly Shulman said.

At this point in the 2008 presidential cycle, Democrats had already held five debates. Democratic strategist Anita Dunn told The Daily Beast that this year’s schedule was pushed back because there were no announced candidates until May.

The Daily Beast also reports that the Clinton campaign lobbied the DNC for fewer than six debates, while the campaigns for O’Malley and Vermont Sen. Bernie Sanders (I) have been pushing for more.

Republicans are holding nine debates beginning on Thursday and stretching into March.

The GOP has far larger and more fluid field than the Democrats.

There are 17 Republicans running for president, while so far only six Democrats have announced. Vice President Biden is still considering entering the race, and would be the seventh Democrat.

Clinton is the heavy favorite, although Sanders has emerged as serious threat to her from the left.

From: Hinton, Karen
To: John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: <no subject>
Date: Thursday, August 06, 2015 1:26:51 PM

Ok sounds good

Sent from my iPhone

On Aug 6, 2015, at 12:43 PM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

No prob... Doesn't have a huge audience, but in the spirit of doing outside the box stuff (like we talked about last night), it would be nice to just get on the books as an in-depth TPA discussion... You can hold for now - I'm going to include Poppy as part of a TPA press request plan that I'll CC you on today

From: "Hinton, Karen" <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Thursday, August 6, 2015 at 12:00 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: <no subject>

Yes, I have spoken to her several times, but we haven't schedule. Should I push Mayor on this? Some here don't think she has enough audience???

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Thursday, August 06, 2015 11:59 AM
To: Hinton, Karen
Subject: <no subject>

Did you ever connect with Poppy Harlow from CNN? She was gonna call you a while back - not sure if she did

From: John Del Cecato
To: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: FW: TPA presidential forum
Date: Thursday, August 06, 2015 1:53:07 PM

If for some reason you wanted to come

From: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Date: Thursday, August 6, 2015 at 1:51 PM
To: Rebecca Katz <rkatz@hilltoppublicsolutions.com>, Hayley Prim
<hayley@progressiveagenda.us>, Geri Prado [REDACTED] Jon Fromowitz <jfromowitz@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: TPA presidential forum

Meeting with Seth Andersen from Simpson College on Monday at 9am at AKPD NYC, if anyone cares to join...

John F. Del Cecato
Partner/Creative Director
AKPD Message and Media
915 Broadway, Suite 1301
New York, NY 10010
212-529-5775 (office)
212-529-0545 (fax)
917 685 4819 (mobile)

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Sent: Monday, September 21, 2015 7:17 PM
To: B; FLONYC
Subject: MINI SCHEUDLE - TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 22, 2015

SCHEDULE FOR MAYOR BILL DE BLASIO
CITY OF NEW YORK
Tuesday, September 22, 2015

WEATHER: Hi of 74. Low of 61. Cloudy
ATTIRE: Business
NOTES: -YOU have 30 mins. to change at the gym
-YOM KIPPUR BEGINS AT SUN DOWN

6:30 - 7:00 TRAVEL FROM GRACIE MANSION TO CNN
Location: Time Warner Center, West 58th between 8th and 9th Avenue - 7th Floor Greenroom
Travel Time: 30 Mins.
Car: MBdB

7:00 - 8:00 LIVE INTERVIEW WITH CNN
Location: Time Warner Center, West 58th between 8th and 9th Avenue - 7th Floor Greenroom
Staff Contact: Karen Hinton, [REDACTED]
Press Contact: Monica Klein, [REDACTED]

8:00 - 8:30 TRAVEL FROM TIME WARNER TO 357 9TH STREET//DAILY COMMUNICATIONS CALL
Travel Time: 30 Mins.
Car: MBdB

9:00 - 10:00 WORKOUT
Location: 357 9th Street

10:30 - 10:45 CALL WITH REP. YVETTE CLARKE [A ROOM AT THE YMCA IS RESERVED][KAYLA WILL MEET YOU AT THE Y]
YOU CALL CELL [REDACTED]

11:00 - 2:00 CALL TIME
Location: Bar Toto, 411 11th Street, Brooklyn, NY 11215

2:00 - 2:30 TRAVEL FROM BAR TOTO TO CITY HALL
Travel Time: 30 Mins.
Car: MBdB, Kayla Arslanian

2:30 - 3:00 MEETING WITH MAYA WILEY
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

3:00 - 4:00 NYNY IV BRIEFING

Location: City Hall, The Blue Room

4:00 - 5:00

VISION ZERO DECISION MEMO

Location: City Hall, The Blue Room

5:00 - 6:00

MEETING WITH RACHEL LAUTER

Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

6:00 - 7:00

MEETING WITH THE CHANCELLOR CARMEN FARIÑA

Location: City Hall, The Blue Room

8:00 – 10:00

DINNER WITH AR BERNARD

Location: TBD

CITY HALL STEPS PRESS CONFERENCES

9:00 Education from Inside Out “Education In New York Jails”
50 people

11:00 Coalition for Educational Justice “Community Schools”
75 people

FLONYC SCHEDULE

No schedule

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Sent: Tuesday, July 14, 2015 6:11 PM
To: B; FLONYC
Subject: MINI Schedule Wednesday July 15, 2015

SCHEDULE FOR MAYOR BILL DE BLASIO
CITY OF NEW YORK
Wednesday, July 15, 2015

WEATHER: Hi of 81. Low of 65. Scattered Thunderstorms.
ATTIRE: Business
NOTES: - YOU have 30 minutes to change at the gym

7:00 - 7:30 TRAVEL FROM GRACIE MANSION EN ROUTE 357 9TH STREET
Travel Time: 30 mins.

7:30 - 8:30 WORKOUT
Location: 357 9th Street

9:00 - 9:30 TRAVEL FROM 357 9TH STREET EN ROUTE CITY HALL // COMMUNICATIONS CALL
Travel Time: 30 mins.

9:30 - 10:00 AM MEETING WITH ALICIA GLEN
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

10:00 - 10:30 MEETING WITH COMMISSIONER LOPEZ AND DEPUTY MAYOR GLEN
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

10:30 - 11:00 MEETING WITH MAYOR STEPHANIE MINOR
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

11:00 - 11:45 TRAVEL FROM CITY HALL TO CARDINAL SPELLMAN HIGH SCHOOL, 1 CARDINAL SPELLMAN PLACE, BRONX
// OFF-TOPIC PREP
Travel Time: 45 minutes

11:45 - 2:00 POLICE/COMMUNITY EVENT: SUMMER ALL OUT
Location: Cardinal Spellman High School, 1 Cardinal Spellman Place, Bronx, NY 10466

2:00 - 3:00 TRAVEL TIME FROM CARDINAL SPELLMAN TO CITY HALL // HIGHWAY BILL CALL
Travel Time: 1 hour
Dial In: [REDACTED]
Code: [REDACTED]

3:00 - 5:00 TPA CALL TIME
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

5:30 - 6:00 MEETING WITH RACHEL LAUTER AND TOM SNYDER RE: APPOINTMENTS
Location: City Hall, the Mayor's Office

6:15 - 6:45 TRAVEL FROM CITY HALL EN ROUTE 39 EAST 79TH ST.
Travel Time: 30 mins, Train option - 6 train to 77th Street

6:45 - 8:00 REMARKS AT RECEPTION HOSTED BY EFFRONS WITH FLONYC
Location: 39 E 79th Street, 8th Floor

8:00 - 8:30 TRAVEL FROM 39 E 79TH STREET EN ROUTE 238 THOMPSON STREET
Travel Time: 30 mins.

8:30 - 10:00 REMARKS & DINNER AT RAMADAN (IFTAR) DINNER WITH FLONYC
Location: NYU Global Center for Academic and Spiritual Life, 2nd floor, Classroom 262
Press: Closed

10:00 - 10:30 TRAVEL FROM NYU EN ROUTE GRACIE MANSION
Travel Time: 30 mins.

CITY HALL STEPS PRESS CONFERENCES

12pm – CM Lander “Deregulation of Telecommunications” 20 people

FLONYC SCHEDULE

9:55 - 10:00 INTERVIEW WITH NY1 REPORTER LINDSEY CHRIST
10:00 - 10:30 TALK TO YOUR BABY BOOK TOUR WITH DEPUTY MAYOR BUERY - BROOKLYN
11:30 - 12:00 TALK TO YOUR BABY BOOK TOUR WITH DEPUTY MAYOR BUERY – QUEENS
12:30 - 1:00 LUNCH
1:00 - 1:30 TALK TO YOUR BABY BOOK TOUR WITH DEPUTY MAYOR BUERY - HARLEM
1:30 - 1:45 TAPE SCHOLASTIC VIDEO
6:45 - 8:00 RECEPTION HOSTED BY EFFRONS WITH YOU
8:30 - 10:00 MAYOR'S IFTAR DINNER WITH YOU

Prisca Salazar-Rodriguez
Director of Scheduling
Office of The Mayor
New York, New York 10007
212-341-5016

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Sent: Tuesday, July 14, 2015 6:56 PM
To: B; FLONYC
Subject: UPDATED: MINI Schedule Wednesday July 15, 2015

SCHEDULE FOR MAYOR BILL DE BLASIO
CITY OF NEW YORK
Wednesday, July 15, 2015

WEATHER: Hi of 81. Low of 65. Scattered Thunderstorms.
ATTIRE: Business
NOTES: - YOU have 30 minutes to change at the gym

7:00 - 7:30 TRAVEL FROM GRACIE MANSION EN ROUTE 357 9TH STREET
Travel Time: 30 mins.

7:30 - 8:30 WORKOUT
Location: 357 9th Street

9:00 - 9:30 TRAVEL FROM 357 9TH STREET EN ROUTE CITY HALL // COMMUNICATIONS CALL
Travel Time: 30 mins.

9:30 - 10:00 MEETING WITH ALICIA GLEN
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

10:00 - 10:30 MEETING WITH COMMISSIONER LOPEZ AND DEPUTY MAYOR GLEN
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

10:30 - 11:00 MEETING WITH MAYOR STEPHANIE MINOR
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

11:00 - 11:45 TRAVEL FROM CITY HALL TO CARDINAL SPELLMAN HIGH SCHOOL // OFF-TOPIC PREP
Location: 1 Cardinal Spellman Place, Bronx
Travel Time: 45 minutes

11:45 - 2:00 POLICE/COMMUNITY EVENT: SUMMER ALL OUT
Location: Cardinal Spellman High School, 1 Cardinal Spellman Place, Bronx, NY 10466

2:00 - 3:00 TRAVEL TIME FROM CARDINAL SPELLMAN TO CITY HALL // HIGHWAY BILL CALL
Travel Time: 1 hour
Dial In: [REDACTED]
Code: [REDACTED]

3:00 - 5:00 TPA CALL TIME
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

5:00 - 5:30 HUD/NYCHA Prep
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

5:30 - 6:00 MEETING WITH RACHEL LAUTER AND TOM SNYDER RE: APPOINTMENTS
Location: City Hall, the Mayor's Office

6:15 - 6:45 TRAVEL FROM CITY HALL EN ROUTE [REDACTED]
Travel Time: 30 mins, Train option - 6 train to 77th Street

6:45 - 8:30 REMARKS AT RECEPTION HOSTED BY EFFRONS WITH FLONYC
Location: [REDACTED]

8:30- 8:50 TRAVEL FROM [REDACTED] EN ROUTE 238 THOMPSON STREET
Travel Time: 30 mins.

8:50 - 10:00 REMARKS & DINNER AT RAMADAN (IFTAR) DINNER WITH FLONYC
Location: NYU Global Center for Academic and Spiritual Life, 2nd floor, Classroom 262
Press: Closed

10:00 - 10:30 TRAVEL FROM NYU EN ROUTE GRACIE MANSION
Travel Time: 30 mins.

CITY HALL STEPS PRESS CONFERENCES

12pm – CM Lander “Deregulation of Telecommunications” 20 people

FLONYC SCHEDULE

9:55 - 10:00 INTERVIEW WITH NY1 REPORTER LINDSEY CHRIST
10:00 - 10:30 TALK TO YOUR BABY BOOK TOUR WITH DEPUTY MAYOR BUERY - BROOKLYN
11:30 - 12:00 TALK TO YOUR BABY BOOK TOUR WITH DEPUTY MAYOR BUERY – QUEENS
12:30 - 1:00 LUNCH
1:00 - 1:30 TALK TO YOUR BABY BOOK TOUR WITH DEPUTY MAYOR BUERY - HARLEM
1:30 - 1:45 TAPE SCHOLASTIC VIDEO
6:45 - 8:00 RECEPTION HOSTED BY EFFRONS WITH YOU
8:30 - 10:00 MAYOR'S IFTAR DINNER WITH YOU

Prisca Salazar-Rodriguez
Director of Scheduling
Office of The Mayor
New York, New York 10007
212-341-5016

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Sent: Wednesday, July 15, 2015 6:14 PM
To: B; FLONYC
Subject: MINI Schedule, Thursday, July 16, 2016

SCHEDULE FOR MAYOR BILL DE BLASIO
CITY OF NEW YORK
Thursday, July 16, 2015

WEATHER: Hi of 82. Low of 67. Sunny.

ATTIRE: Business

NOTES: - YOU have 30 minutes to change at the gym

6:00 - 6:30 TRAVEL FROM GRACIE MANSION EN ROUTE 357 9TH STREET
Travel Time: 30 mins.

6:30 - 7:30 WORKOUT
Location: 357 9th Street

8:00 - 9:00 TRAVEL FROM 357 9TH STREET EN ROUTE TO 375 EAST 143RD STREET, BRONX // COMMUNICATIONS
CALL
Travel Time: 1 hour

9:00 - 10:15 HUD/NYCHA EVENT WITH SECRETARY CASTRO
Location: Mott Haven | 375 East 143rd Street | Bronx, NY 10454
Staff Lead: Michael DeLoach
Press: Open
Notes: No Off Topic Q&A
You will do a pull aside with Castro regarding Build it Back

10:15 - 11:00 TRAVEL FROM MOTT HAVEN TO CITY HALL
Travel Time: 45 mins.

11:00 - 12:00 WHITE SPACE
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

12:00 - 1:30 CALL TIME WITH EMMA
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

2:00 - 2:30 WEEKLY MEETING WITH MAYA WILEY
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

2:30 - 3:30 WEEKLY MEETING WITH THE CHANCELLOR
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

3:30 - 3:50 PREP // 10 MINUTE TAPED INTERVIEW WITH WNYC MORNING EDITION HOST SOTERIOS JOHNSON
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

4:00 - 5:00 BUILD IT BACK MEETING
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

5:00 - 5:30 TRAVEL FROM CITY HALL TO GRACIE MANSION
Travel Time: 30 mins.

5:30 - 7:00 WEEKLY PLANNING MEETING WITH FLONYC
Location: Gracie Mansion, The Library

7:00 - 7:30 TRAVEL FROM GRACIE MANSION TO MARINA DEL REY, 1 MARINA DRIVE, BRONX
Travel Time: 30 mins.

7:30 - 8:00 REMARKS AT 2015 BRONX DEMOCRATIC COUNTY COMMITTEE ANNUAL DINNER
Location: 1 Marina Drive, Bronx, NY 10465
Staff Lead: Elvin Garcia
Press: Open
Notes: YOU speak at approximately 7:45 PM. Program continues after YOU depart.

8:00 - 8:30 TRAVEL FROM 1 MARINA DRIVE TO GRACIE MANSION
Travel Time: 30 mins.

CITY HALL STEPS PRESS CONFERENCES

9am NYC Class "Against Horse Carriages" 20 people

FLONYC SCHEDULE

11:00 - 1:00 MAYOR'S FUND CALL TIME
1:45 - 2:15 CALL TIME WITH JACKIE BRAY AND ERIN WHITE
2:15 - 3:15 STAFF DEBRIEF
3:15 - 4:15 ROADMAP PREP
5:30 - 7:00 WEEKLY PLANNING MEETING

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Sent: Wednesday, July 15, 2015 6:36 PM
To: B; FLONYC
Subject: UPDATED MINI Schedule, Thursday, July 16, 2016

SCHEDULE FOR MAYOR BILL DE BLASIO
CITY OF NEW YORK
Thursday, July 16, 2015

WEATHER: Hi of 82. Low of 67. Sunny.

ATTIRE: Business

NOTES: - YOU have 30 minutes to change at the gym

6:00 - 6:30 TRAVEL FROM GRACIE MANSION EN ROUTE 357 9TH STREET
Travel Time: 30 mins.

6:30 - 7:30 WORKOUT
Location: 357 9th Street

8:00 - 9:00 TRAVEL FROM 357 9TH STREET EN ROUTE TO 375 EAST 143RD STREET, BRONX // COMMUNICATIONS
CALL
Travel Time: 1 hour

9:00 - 10:15 HUD/NYCHA EVENT WITH SECRETARY CASTRO
Location: Mott Haven | 375 East 143rd Street | Bronx, NY 10454
Staff Lead: Michael DeLoach
Press: Open
Notes: No Off Topic Q&A
You will do a pull aside with Castro regarding Build it Back

10:15 - 11:00 TRAVEL FROM MOTT HAVEN TO CITY HALL
Travel Time: 45 mins.

11:00 - 12:00 WHITE SPACE
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

12:00 - 1:30 TPA Call Time
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

2:00 - 2:30 WEEKLY MEETING WITH MAYA WILEY
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

2:30 - 3:30 WEEKLY MEETING WITH THE CHANCELLOR
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

4:00 - 5:00 BUILD IT BACK MEETING
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

5:00 - 5:30 TRAVEL FROM CITY HALL TO GRACIE MANSION
Travel Time: 30 mins.

5:30 - 7:00 WEEKLY PLANNING MEETING WITH FLONYC
Location: Gracie Mansion, The Library

7:00 - 7:30 TRAVEL FROM GRACIE MANSION TO MARINA DEL REY, 1 MARINA DRIVE, BRONX
Travel Time: 30 mins.

7:30 - 8:00 REMARKS AT 2015 BRONX DEMOCRATIC COUNTY COMMITTEE ANNUAL DINNER
Location: 1 Marina Drive, Bronx, NY 10465
Staff Lead: Elvin Garcia
Press: Open
Notes: YOU speak at approximately 7:45 PM. Program continues after YOU depart.

8:00 - 8:30 TRAVEL FROM 1 MARINA DRIVE TO GRACIE MANSION
Travel Time: 30 mins.

CITY HALL STEPS PRESS CONFERENCES

9am NYC Class "Against Horse Carriages" 20 people

FLONYC SCHEDULE

11:00 - 1:00 MAYOR'S FUND CALL TIME
1:45 - 2:15 CALL TIME WITH JACKIE BRAY AND ERIN WHITE
2:15 - 3:15 STAFF DEBRIEF
3:15 - 4:15 ROADMAP PREP
5:30 - 7:00 WEEKLY PLANNING MEETING

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Sent: Thursday, July 16, 2015 3:59 PM
To: B; FLONYC
Subject: MINI SCHEDULE JULY 17, 2015

SCHEDULE FOR MAYOR BILL DE BLASIO
CITY OF NEW YORK
Friday, July 17, 2015

WEATHER: Hi of 79. Low of 71. Mostly Sunny.
ATTIRE: Business
NOTES: - YOU have 30 minutes to change at the gym

6:30 - 7:00 TRAVEL FROM GRACIE MANSION EN ROUTE 357 9TH STREET
Travel Time: 30 mins.

7:00 - 8:00 WORKOUT
Location: 357 9th Street

8:30 - 9:00 TRAVEL FROM 357 9TH STREET EN ROUTE 15 MAIDEN LANE // COMMUNICATIONS CALL
Travel Time: 30 mins.

9:00 - 11:30 CALL TIME
Location: 15 Maiden Lane

11:30 - 11:45 TRAVEL TIME FROM MAIDEN LANE TO CITY HALL ON FOOT
Travel Time: 15 mins. on foot

12:00 - 12:30 MEETING ON MENTAL HEALTH WITH FLONYC, TONY, DEAN, AND RICHARD
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office
Attendees: FLONYC, Tony Shorris, Dean Fuleihan, Richard Buery

12:30 - 1:00 MEETING WITH TOM SNYDER
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

1:00 - 2:00 BI WEEKLY PRE-K MEETING
Location: City Hall, The Blue Room

2:00 - 2:30 TOUCHBASE WITH DEPUTY MAYOR BARRIOS-PAOLI
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

2:45 - 3:00 MEETING WITH MARTI ADAMS TO SIGN HER MARRIAGE CERTIFICATE
Location: City Hall, the Mayor's Office

3:15 - 3:45 IN PERSON BRIEFING ON ROME TRIP
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

4:00 - 4:30 MEETING WITH IZZY MIRANDA

Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

4:30 - 5:00 TRAVEL FROM CITY HALL EN ROUTE GRACIE MANSION
Travel Time: 30 mins.

5:00 - 6:00 DRINKS WITH CONGRESSMAN CROWLEY
Location: Gracie Mansion, The Porch
Staff Lead: Emma Wolfe

7:30 - 9:00 [REDACTED]

CITY HALL STEPS PRESS CONFERENCES

To be updated.

FLONYC SCHEDULE

9:00 - 9:30 PRIVATE MEETING
10:45 - 12:00 TEACHER RECRUITMENT MEETING WITH RICHARD BUERY
12:00 - 12:30 MEETING ON MENTAL HEALTH WITH MBDB, TONY, DEAN, AND RICHARD
12:30 - 1:00 CORRESPONDENCE MEETING WITH JACKIE AND ANDREW
1:00 - 1:20 MEETING WITH HENRY STREET SETTLEMENT EXECUTIVE STAFF
1:30 - 2:00 TOUR/VISIT HENRY STREET SETTLEMENT PROGRAM SITE
2:45 - 3:45 GRACIE MANSION CONSEREVANCY MEETING WITH GABRIELLE FIALKOFF

Prisca Salazar-Rodriguez
Director of Scheduling
Office of The Mayor
City Hall
New York, New York 10007
212-341-5016
[REDACTED]

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Sent: Friday, July 17, 2015 8:33 AM
To: B; FLONYC
Subject: UPDATED MINI SCHEDULE - FRIDAY, JULY 17, 2015
Attachments: RENEWAL OF MARRIAGE VOWS.docx

SCHEDULE FOR MAYOR BILL DE BLASIO
CITY OF NEW YORK
Friday, July 17, 2015

WEATHER: Hi of 79. Low of 71. Mostly Sunny.

ATTIRE: Business

NOTES: - YOU have 30 minutes to change at the gym

6:30 - 7:00 TRAVEL FROM GRACIE MANSION EN ROUTE 357 9TH STREET
Travel Time: 30 mins.

7:00 - 8:00 WORKOUT
Location: 357 9th Street

8:30 - 9:00 TRAVEL FROM 357 9TH STREET EN ROUTE 15 MAIDEN LANE // COMMUNICATIONS CALL
Travel Time: 30 mins.

9:00 - 11:00 CALL TIME
Location: 15 Maiden Lane

11:00 – 11:20 TRAVEL TIME TO SLOAN KETTERING
Location: 1275 York Avenue @ 67th Street

11:40 – 12:00 TRAVEL TIME FROM 1275 YORK AVENUE TO CITY HALL

12:00 - 12:30 MEETING ON MENTAL HEALTH WITH FLONYC, TONY, DEAN, AND RICHARD
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office
Attendees: FLONYC, Tony Shorris, Dean Fuleihan, Richard Buery

12:30 - 1:00 MEETING WITH TOM SNYDER
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

1:00 - 2:00 BI WEEKLY PRE-K MEETING
Location: City Hall, The Blue Room

2:00 - 2:30 TOUCHBASE WITH DEPUTY MAYOR BARRIOS-PAOLI
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

2:45 - 3:00 MEETING WITH [REDACTED] TO SIGN HER MARRIAGE CERTIFICATE
Location: City Hall, the Mayor's Office

3:15 - 3:45 IN PERSON BRIEFING ON ROME TRIP
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

4:00 - 4:30 MEETING WITH IZZY MIRANDA
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

4:30 - 5:00 TRAVEL FROM CITY HALL EN ROUTE GRACIE MANSION
Travel Time: 30 mins.
Car: MBDB, FLONYC

5:00 - 6:00 DRINKS WITH CONGRESSMAN CROWLEY
Location: Gracie Mansion, The Porch
Staff Lead: Emma Wolfe

7:30 - 9:00 [REDACTED]

CITY HALL STEPS PRESS CONFERENCES

2 pm – Congresswoman Maloney “New Legislation For Gun Background” 40 people

FLONYC SCHEDULE

9:00 - 9:30 PRIVATE MEETING

10:45 - 12:00 TEACHER RECRUITMENT MEETING WITH RICHARD BUERY

12:00 - 12:30 MEETING ON MENTAL HEALTH WITH MBDB, TONY, DEAN, AND RICHARD

12:30 - 1:00 CORRESPONDENCE MEETING WITH JACKIE AND ANDREW

1:00 - 1:20 MEETING WITH HENRY STREET SETTLEMENT EXECUTIVE STAFF

1:30 - 2:00 TOUR/VISIT HENRY STREET SETTLEMENT PROGRAM SITE

2:45 - 3:45 GRACIE MANSION CONSEREVANCY MEETING WITH GABRIELLE FIALKOFF

Prisca Salazar-Rodriguez
Director of Scheduling
Office of The Mayor
City Hall
New York, New York 10007
212-341-5016
[REDACTED]

RENEWAL OF MARRIAGE VOWS

We are gathered here today to witness the renewal of marriage vows of [REDACTED] and [REDACTED].

Do you _____ solemnly declare that you take _____ to be your spouse?

Do you promise to love, honor, cherish, and keep (her/him) for as long as you both shall live?

As a symbol of your promise to _____, please place the ring on (her/his) finger.

Do you _____ solemnly declare that you take _____ to be your spouse?

Do you promise to love, honor, cherish, and keep (her/him) for as long as you both shall live?

As a symbol of your promise to _____, please place the ring on (her/his) finger.

Inasmuch as you have consented to be united in the bonds of matrimony, and you have renewed your wedding vows before all those present today, therefore, by the powers vested in me by the State of New York, I pronounce you married.

You may seal your vows with a kiss.

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Sent: Friday, July 17, 2015 6:59 PM
To: B; FLONYC
Subject: MINI SCHEDULE - SATURDAY JULY 18, 2015

SCHEDULE FOR MAYOR BILL DE BLASIO
CITY OF NEW YORK
Saturday, July 18, 2015

WEATHER: Hi of 84. Low of 75. Scattered Thunderstorms.
ATTIRE: Business
NOTES: - YOU have 30 minutes to change at the gym

9:15 - 10:00 TRAVEL FROM GRACIE MANSION TO FIRST BAPTIST MANSION CHURCH OF CROWN HEIGHTS, 450 EASTERN PARKWAY
Travel Time: 45 minutes
Car: MBDB, FLONYC

10:00 - 12:00 REMARKS AT FUNERAL SERVICE FOR CLARENCE NORMAN SR.
Location: First Baptist Mansion Church of Crown Heights, 450 Eastern Parkway, Brooklyn, NY 11225
Staff Lead: Marco Carrion

12:00 - 12:10 TRAVEL TIME FROM 450 EASTERN PARKWAY TO TO 357 9TH STREET
Travel Time: 10 mins.

12:15 - 1:15 WORKOUT
Location: 357 9th Street

1:30 - 2:00 TRAVEL FROM 357 9TH STREET EN ROUTE [REDACTED] // COMMUNICATIONS CALL
Travel Time: 30 mins.

2:00 - 3:00 [REDACTED]
Location: 2 Astor Place

3:00 - 3:30 TRAVEL FROM [REDACTED] EN ROUTE GRACIE MANSION
Travel Time: 30 mins.

4:00 - 6:00 CLEAN UP TIME
Location: Gracie Mansion

CITY HALL STEPS PRESS CONFERENCES

None scheduled.

FLONYC SCHEDULE

10:00 - 12:00 ATTEND FUNERAL SERVICE FOR CLARENCE NORMAN SR. WITH YOU
2:00 - 3:30 ATTEND HARLEM BOOK FAIR WITH DANTE
4:00 - 5:00 CLEAN UP TIME

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Sent: Friday, July 17, 2015 7:04 PM
To: B; FLONYC
Subject: MINI SCHEDULE - SUNDAY, JULY 19, 2015

SCHEDULE FOR MAYOR BILL DE BLASIO
CITY OF NEW YORK
Sunday, July 19, 2015

WEATHER: Hi of 92. Low of 78. Mostly Sunny.
ATTIRE: Business Casual, Sunscreen for outdoor event
NOTES: - YOU have 30 minutes to change at the gym
- Ricky will staff YOU today

9:30 - 10:00 TRAVEL FROM GRACIE MANSION EN ROUTE 357 9TH STREET
Travel Time: 30 mins.

10:00 - 11:00 WORKOUT
Location: 357 9th Street

11:30 - 12:00 TRAVEL FROM 357 9TH STREET EN ROUTE TO GRACIE MANSION // COMMUNICATIONS CALL
Travel Time: 30 mins.

2:30 - 3:15 TRAVEL TIME FROM GRACIE MANSION TO ROY WILKENS PARK, 177-01 BAISLEY BLVD, QUEENS, NY
(CORNER OF MERRICK AND BAISLEY BLVDS.)
Travel Time: 45 mins.

3:15 - 4:15 ATTEND JAMAICA JERK FESTIVAL WITH FLONYC
Location: Roy Wilkins Park, 17701 Baisley Blvd. Jamaica NY 11434
Press: Open

4:15 - 5:00 TRAVEL FROM ROY WILKENS PARK TO GRACIE MANSION
Travel Time: 45 mins.

5:30 - 6:00 WEEKLY SCHEDULING CALL
Dial in: [REDACTED]
Code: [REDACTED]

6:00 - 6:30 VISION ZERO PREP CALL
Dial in: [REDACTED]
Code: [REDACTED]

7:00 - 9:00 [REDACTED]

CITY HALL STEPS PRESS CONFERENCES

None scheduled.

FLONYC SCHEDULE

3:15 - 4:15 ATTEND JAMAICA JERK FESTIVAL WITH YOU

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Sent: Friday, July 17, 2015 7:09 PM
To: B; FLONYC
Subject: MINI SCHEDULE - MONDAY, JULY 20, 2015

SCHEDULE FOR MAYOR BILL DE BLASIO
CITY OF NEW YORK
Monday, July 20, 2015

WEATHER: Hi of 89. Low of 73. PM Thunderstorms.

ATTIRE: Business

NOTES: - YOU have 30 minutes to change at the gym

6:30 - 7:00 TRAVEL FROM GRACIE MANSION EN ROUTE 357 9TH STREET
Travel Time: 30 mins.

7:00 - 8:00 WORKOUT
Location: 357 9th Street

8:30 - 9:00 TRAVEL FROM 357 9TH STREET TO VISION ZERO EVENT // COMMUNICATIONS CALL
Travel Time: 30 mins.

9:00 - 11:00 VISION ZERO MESSAGE EVENT
Location: 64th Street & Queens Blvd.
Staff Lead: Michael DeLoach

11:00 - 11:30 TRAVEL TIME FROM VISION ZERO EVENT TO CITY HALL
Travel Time: 30 mins.

12:30 - 12:45 CALL WITH MAYOR FRANCIS SLAY OF ST. LOUIS
Contact: YOU dial [REDACTED]

1:00 - 2:00 FOLLOW UP MEETING ON 125 STREET CORRIDOR WITH SPEAKER MELISSA MARK VIVERITO
Location: City Hall, The Blue Room

2:00 - 2:30 TRAVEL FROM CITY HALL EN ROUTE GRACIE MANSION
Travel Time: 30 mins.

3:00 - 3:45 TRAVEL FROM GRACIE MANSION EN ROUTE JFK AIRPORT
Travel Time: 45 mins.

4:45 - 7:30 CEST ----AMERICAN AIRLINES FLIGHT 236 FROM JFK EN ROUTE ROME
Flight Time: 8 hours 30 mins.

CITY HALL STEPS PRESS CONFERENCES

12 PM Council Member Rodriguez - "Pending Legislation" - 30 people
1 PM NY Taxi Workers Alliance - "Support F.H.V. " - 200 people

FLONYC SCHEDULE

No public schedule.

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Sent: Sunday, July 19, 2015 7:47 PM
To: B; FLONYC
Subject: UPDATED MINI SCHEDULE - MONDAY JULY, 20 2015

SCHEDULE FOR MAYOR BILL DE BLASIO
CITY OF NEW YORK
Monday, July 20, 2015

WEATHER: Hi of 92. Low of 76. Partly Cloudy.

ATTIRE: Business

NOTES: - YOU have 30 minutes to change at the gym
- YOU depart for Rome TONIGHT

6:30 - 7:00 TRAVEL FROM GRACIE MANSION EN ROUTE 357 9TH STREET
Travel Time: 30 mins.

7:00 - 8:00 WORKOUT
Location: 357 9th Street

8:30 - 9:00 TRAVEL FROM 357 9TH STREET TO CITY HALL // COMMUNICATINS CALL
Travel Time: 30 mins.

9:30 - 10:00 CALL TIME WITH EMMA WOLFE
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

10:15 - 10:30 TRAVEL FROM CITY HALL TO OEM, 165 CADMAN PLAZA E, BROOKLYN
Travel Time: 15 mins.

10:30-12:00 EXTREME HEAT PRESS CONFERENCE AT OEM
Location: 165 Cadman Plaza E –
1st Floor Briefing Room, Brooklyn
Press Lead: Karen Hinton

12:00 – 12:15 Travel Time from 165 Cadman Plaza E. to City Hall

12:30 - 12:45 CALL WITH MAYOR FRANCIS SLAY OF ST. LOUIS
YOU Call [REDACTED]

1:00 - 2:00 FOLLOW UP MEETING ON 125 STREET CORRIDER WITH SPEAKER MELISSA MARK VIVERITO
Location: City Hall, The Blue Room

2:00 - 2:30 TRAVEL TIME FROM CITY HALL TO GRACIE MANSION
Travel Time: 30 mins.

2:30 - 2:45 CALL WITH MAYOR SLY JAMES OF KC

3:00 - 3:45 TRAVEL FROM GRACIE MANSION EN ROUTE JFK AIRPORT
Travel Time: 45 mins.

4:45 - 7:30 AMERICAN AIRLINES FLIGHT 236 FROM JFK EN ROUTE ROME
Travel Time: 8 hours 30 mins.

CITY HALL STEPS PRESS CONFERENCES

12 PM - Council Member Rodriguez - "Pending Legislation" - 30 people

1 PM - NY Taxi Workers Alliance - "Support F.H.V. " - 200 people

FLONYC SCHEDULE

No public schedule.

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Sent: Monday, July 20, 2015 3:43 PM
To: B; FLONYC
Subject: MINI SCHEDULE - TUESDAY, JULY 21, 2015

SCHEDULE FOR MAYOR BILL DE BLASIO
CITY OF NEW YORK
Tuesday, July 21, 2015

WEATHER: Hi of 92. Low of 76. Partly Cloudy.
ATTIRE: Business
NOTES: - Rome, Italy is 6 hours ahead of NYC

7:30 - 7:45 ARRIVE FCO

8:00 - 8:30 TRAVEL FROM FCO EN ROUTE VIA DELLA CONCILIAZIONE, 51, 00193 ROMA, ITALY
Travel Time: 30 mins.

8:30 - 9:15 HOLD // SHOWER // CHANGE
Location: Via della Conciliazione, 51, 00193 Roma, Italy

9:15 - 9:30 TRAVEL FROM VIA DELLA CONCILIAZIONE, 51, 00193 ROMA, ITALY EN ROUTE THE PONTIFICAL
ACADEMY OF SCIENCES
Travel Time: 15 mins.

9:45 - 10:00 ATTEND REMARKS BY MAYOR OF ROME
Location: Auditorium, The Pontifical Academy of Sciences

10:00 - 10:15 REMARKS AT THE PONTIFICAL ACADEMY OF SCIENCES
Location: Auditorium, The Pontifical Academy of Sciences
Staff Lead: Penny Abeywardena
Press: Open

10:15 - 10:30 ATTEND REMARKS BY THE MAYOR OF PARIS
Location: Auditorium, The Pontifical Academy of Sciences

10:30 - 10:45 ATTEND REMARKS BY MAYOR OF STOCKHOLM
Location: Auditorium, The Pontifical Academy of Sciences

10:45 - 11:00 ATTEND REMARKS BY GOVERNOR JERRY BROWN
Location: Auditorium, The Pontifical Academy of Sciences

11:15 - 11:45 ATTEND PAPAL AUDIENCE
Location: Auditorium, The Pontifical Academy of Sciences

11:45 - 12:00 MEDIA AVAIL

Location: Room 6, The Pontifical Academy of Sciences

12:00 - 12:10 TRAVEL FROM THE PONTIFICAL ACADEMY OF SCIENCES EN ROUTE PALAZZO CARDINAL CESI, VIA DELLA CONCILIAZIONE 51, ROME

Travel Time: 10 mins.

12:30 - 1:30 [REDACTED] WITH ROBERTA MONGILLO

Location: Via della Conciliazione, 51, 00193 Roma, Italy

1:30 - 2:30 DOWN TIME

Location: Via della Conciliazione, 51, 00193 Roma, Italy

2:40 - 2:50 TRAVEL FROM PALAZZO CARDINAL CESI, VIA DELLA CONCILIAZIONE 51, ROME EN ROUTE THE PONTIFICAL ACADEMY OF SCIENCES

Travel Time: 10 mins.

3:00 - 3:15 MEETING WITH MAYOR HIDALGO

Location: Private Room, The Pontifical Academy of Sciences

3:15 - 3:30 HOLD: JOINT INTERVIEW WITH MAYOR HIDALGO

Location: Private Room, The Pontifical Academy of Sciences

3:30 - 4:00 IN PERSON INTERVIEW WITH MICHAEL GRYNBAUM

Location: Private Room, The Pontifical Academy of Sciences

4:00 - 4:30 DOWN TIME

Location: Private Room, The Pontifical Academy of Sciences

4:30 - 5:00 MEETING WITH MAYOR MARINO

Location: Private Room, The Pontifical Academy of Sciences

5:00 - 5:30 ATTEND AUDIENCE OF THE POPE

5:30 - 5:45 TRAVEL FROM THE PONTIFICAL ACADEMY OF SCIENCES EN ROUTE VIA DELLA CONCILIAZIONE, 51, 00193 ROMA, ITALY

Travel Time: 15 mins.

5:45 - 7:00 DOWN TIME/[REDACTED]

7:00 - 7:30 TRAVEL FROM VIA DELLA CONCILIAZIONE, 51, 00193 ROMA EN ROUTE TBD

7:30 - 8:15 OFFICAL DINNER

8:30 - 10:00 [REDACTED]

10:00 - 10:30 TRAVEL FROM TBD EN ROUTE VIA DELLA CONCILIAZIONE, 51, 00193 ROMA, ITALY

CITY HALL STEPS PRESS CONFERENCES

To be updated.

FLONYC SCHEDULE

10:30 - 11:00	PREP
11:00 - 12:00	MEETING WITH ASSEMBLYMAN ANDREW HEVESI
12:00 - 1:00	VANITY FAIR PREP
4:30 - 5:30	MEETING WITH JENNIFER JONES AUSTIN

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Sent: Monday, July 20, 2015 3:54 PM
To: B; FLONYC
Subject: MINI SCHEDULE - WEDNESDAY, JULY 22, 2015

DRAFT SCHEDULE FOR MAYOR BILL DE BLASIO
CITY OF NEW YORK
Wednesday, July 22, 2015

WEATHER: Hi of 99. Low of 75. PM Thunderstorms
ATTIRE: Business
NOTES: - Rome, Italy is 6 hours ahead of NYC

8:00 - 9:30 AM

9:30 - 9:40 AM TRAVEL FROM PALAZZO CARDINAL CESI, VIA DELLA CONCILIAZIONE 51, ROME EN ROUTE THE PONTIFICAL ACADEMY OF SCIENCES

9:45 - 10:15 AM KEYNOTE REMARKS AT SYMPOSIUM ON CITIES AND SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT

Location: Casina Pio IV - Pontifical Academy of Sciences

10:30 - 11:00 AM TRAVEL FROM CASINA PIO IV - PONTIFICAL ACADEMY OF SCIENCES EN ROUTE AIRPORT

12:50 - 4:39 PM DELTA AIRLINES FLIGHT 245 FROM ROME EN ROUTE JFK

5:00 - 5:45 PM TRAVEL FROM JFK EN ROUTE GRACIE MANSION

6:30 - 7:00 PM NYCHA MEESAGE PREP//OFF TOPIC PREP CALL

7:00 - 9:00 PM SOFTBALL PRACTICE

Location: Gracie Mansion

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Sent: Tuesday, July 21, 2015 4:44 PM
To: B; FLONYC
Subject: MINI SCHEDULE - WEDNESDAY JULY 22, 2015

SCHEDULE FOR MAYOR BILL DE BLASIO
CITY OF NEW YORK
Wednesday, July 22, 2015

WEATHER - ROME: Hi of 99. Low of 75. Sunny.
ATTIRE: Business
NOTES: - Rome, Italy is 6 hours ahead of NYC

7:15 - 7:45 MEETING WITH IGNAZIO MARINO
Location: Piazza del Campidoglio 1

8:00 - 9:30 [REDACTED]

9:30 - 9:40 TRAVEL FROM PALAZZO CARDINAL CESI, VIA DELLA CONCILIAZIONE 51, ROME EN ROUTE THE PONTIFICAL ACADEMY OF SCIENCES
Travel Time: 10 mins.

9:45 - 10:15 KEYNOTE REMARKS AT SYMPOSIUM ON CITIES AND SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT
Location: Casina Pio IV - Pontifical Academy of Sciences
Staff Lead: Penny Abeywardena

10:30 - 11:00 TRAVEL FROM CASINA PIO IV - PONTIFICAL ACADEMY OF SCIENCES EN ROUTE AIRPORT
Travel Time: 30 mins.

12:50 - 4:39 DELTA AIRLINES FLIGHT 245 FROM ROME EN ROUTE JFK
Travel Time: 9 hours 15 mins.

5:00 - 5:45 TRAVEL FROM JFK EN ROUTE GRACIE MANSION
Travel Time: 45 mins.

6:00 - 6:30 ON TOPIC PREP CALL
Contact: [REDACTED] code [REDACTED]

6:30 - 7:00 OFF TOPIC PREP CALL (VISION ZERO)
Contact: [REDACTED] code [REDACTED]

7:00 - 9:00 SOFTBALL PRACTICE
Location: Gracie Mansion

CITY HALL STEPS PRESS CONFERENCES

To be updated.

FLONYC SCHEDULE

9:45 - 10:15	PREP
10:30 - 11:15	VANITY FAIR INTERVIEW
11:15 - 12:15	CGE MEETING
1:00 - 2:00	MEETING WITH FIRST DEPUTY COMMISSIONER BEN TUCKER AND THERESA SHORTELL

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Sent: Wednesday, July 22, 2015 6:10 PM
To: B; FLONYC
Subject: UPDATED MINI SCHEDULE - THURSDAY, JULY 23, 2015

SCHEDULE FOR MAYOR BILL DE BLASIO
CITY OF NEW YORK
Thursday, July 23, 2015

WEATHER: Hi of 86. Low of 68. Sunny.

ATTIRE: Business

NOTES: - Wear sunscreen for outdoor press conference

7:00 - 7:30 TRAVEL FROM GRACIE MANSION EN ROUTE CBS STUDIOS

Travel Time: 30 mins.

Car: MBDB, EL

7:30 - 8:30 LIVE INTERVIEW - CBS THIS MORNING NEWS

Location: CBS Broadcast Center | 524 W 57 ST (between 10th & 11th Ave)

Press Lead: Karen Hinton

8:30 - 9:00 COMMUNICATIONS CALL

9:00 - 9:30 TRAVEL FROM CBS STUDIOS EN ROUTE 64TH STREET AND QUEENS BLVD

Travel Time: 30 mins.

9:30 - 11:30 VISION ZERO/QUEENS BOULEVARD GREAT STREETS CONSTRUCTION UPDATE PRESS CONFERENCE

Drop Off: 64th Street & Queens Blvd.

Staff Lead: Michael DeLoach

11:30 - 12:00 TRAVEL FROM QUEENS BLVD. TO CITY HALL

Travel Time: 30 mins.

12:00 - 12:30 MEETING WITH NILDA MESA

Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

12:30 - 1:00 MEETING REGARDING HELICOPTERS

Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

1:00 - 2:00 WHITESPACE

2:00 - 3:00 TPA CALL TIME

Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

3:00 - 3:30 MEETING WITH SPEECHWRITING STAFF

Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

3:30 - 3:45 PREP // 10 MINUTE TAPED INTERVIEW WITH CNN ANCHOR CAROL COSTELLO REGARDING ROME TRIP
Location: City Hall, Blue Room

4:00 - 4:30 WEEKLY MEETING WITH RICHARD BUERY
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

4:30 - 5:30 WEEKLY MEETING WITH THE POLICE COMMISSIONER
Location: City Hall, Blue Room

5:30 - 6:00 TRAVEL TIME FROM CITY HALL TO GRACIE MANSION
Travel Time: 30 mins.

6:00 - 7:00 DRINKS WITH SENATOR ALFONSE D'AMATO
Location: Gracie Mansion, The Porch
Notes: Emma will staff

7:00 - 8:30 WEEKLY PLANNING MEETING WITH FLONYC
Location: Gracie Mansion, The Library

CITY HALL STEPS PRESS CONFERENCES

10am CM Rosenthal "Helicopters" 100 people

FLONYC SCHEDULE

2:00 - 3:00 AOL TOUR VISIT
3:15 - 4:00 MENTAL HEALTH MEETING
6:45 - 7:00 COMMUNITY CONVERSATION ABOUT MENTAL HEALTH BY DR. SIDNEY HANKERSON
7:15 - 8:30 WEEKLY PLANNING MEETING WITH YOU

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Sent: Thursday, July 23, 2015 6:16 PM
To: B; FLONYC
Subject: MINI SCHEDULE - FRIDAY JULY 24, 2015

SCHEDULE FOR MAYOR BILL DE BLASIO
CITY OF NEW YORK
Friday, July 24, 2015

WEATHER: Hi of 86. Low of 68. Sunny.
ATTIRE: Business
NOTES:

8:00 - 8:30 TRAVEL FROM GRACIE MANSION TO 357TH 9TH STREET
Travel Time: 30 mins.

8:30 - 9:30 WORKOUT
Location: 357 9th Street

10:00 - 10:30 TRAVEL FROM 357 9TH STREET TO CITY HALL // DAILY COMMUNICATIONS CALL
Travel Time: 30 mins.

11:00 - 12:00 WEEKLY HOMELESS MEETING
Location: City Hall, The Blue Room

12:00 - 12:30 PHONE INTERVIEW WITH NYT REGARDING ROME
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office
Notes: Monica connects YOU to call.

12:30 - 12:40 MEETING WITH HENRY BURGER
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

1:00 - 1:30 MEETING WITH TOM AND EMMA RE: C4
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

1:30 - 2:00 TRAVEL FROM CITY HALL TO GRACIE MANSION
Travel Time: 30 mins.

2:00 - 3:00 MEETING WITH FLONYC, ROXANNE, TOM, AND AMANDA
Location: Gracie Mansion, The Parlor

3:30 - 4:30 EDUCATION SPEECH BRIEFING
Location: Gracie Mansion, Dining Room

5:00 - 5:30 MEETING WITH MARK PETERS
Location: Gracie Mansion, The Porch

6:00 - 8:00

CITY HALL STEPS PRESS CONFERENCES

No press conferences.

FLONYC SCHEDULE

2:00 - 3:00 MEETING WITH YOU, ROXANNE, TOM, AND AMANDA

3:00 - 4:00 MEETING WITH JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR AND LEE LLAMBELIS

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Sent: Friday, July 24, 2015 6:07 PM
To: B; FLONYC
Subject: MINI SCHEDULE - SATURDAY JULY 25, 2015

SCHEDULE FOR MAYOR BILL DE BLASIO
CITY OF NEW YORK
Saturday, July 25, 2015

WEATHER: Hi of 86. Low of 68. Sunny.
ATTIRE: Business
NOTES:

11:00 - 11:30 TRAVEL FROM GRACIE MANSION TO 88 HANSON PLACE, BROOKLYN // COMMUNICATIONS CALL
Travel Time: 15 mins.

11:30 - 12:00 REMARKS AT NORTHERN CARIBBEAN UNIVERSITY ALUMNI ASSOCIATION HOME COMING WITH FLONYC
Location: Hanson Place Seventh-Day Adventists Church, 88 Hanson Place, Brooklyn, NY 11217
Staff Lead: Harold Miller
Press: Open

Notes: YOU are presented an "Outstanding Community Service Award for Pre-K" and FLONYC receives a token of appreciation (basket of flowers/fruit)

12:00 - 12:30 TRAVEL FROM 88 HANSON PLACE EN ROUTE 300 FATHER CAPODANNO BLVD.
Travel Time: 30 mins.

12:30 - 1:00 REMARKS AT THE STATEN ISLAND DEMS BOARDWALK BASH
Location: The South Fin Grill, 300 Father Capodanno Boulevard, Staten Island, NY 10305
Staff Contact: Charles Fall
Notes: Casual reception

1:00 - 1:30 TRAVEL FROM 300 FATHER CAPODANNO BLVD, STATEN ISLAND TO 357 9TH STREET, BROOKLYN
Travel Time: 30 mins.

1:30 - 2:30 WORKOUT
Location: 357 9th Street

3:00 - 3:30 TRAVEL FROM 357 9TH STREET TO GRACIE MANSION
Travel Time: 30 mins.

4:00 - 4:30 VANITY FAIR BRIEFING CALL
CALL IN NUMBER [REDACTED]
CODE [REDACTED]

CITY HALL STEPS PRESS CONFERENCES

No Scheduled Press Conferences

FLONYC SCHEDULE

11:30 - 12:00 ATTENDS NORTHERN CARIBBEAN UNIVERSITY ALUMNI ASSOCIATION HOME COMING WITH YOU

12:30 - 1:00 (T) ATTENDS THE STATEN ISLAND DEMS BOARDWALK BASH WITH YOU

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Sent: Friday, July 24, 2015 6:09 PM
To: B; FLONYC
Subject: MINI SCHEDULE - SUNDAY, JULY 26, 2015

SCHEDULE FOR MAYOR BILL DE BLASIO
CITY OF NEW YORK
Sunday, July 26, 2015

WEATHER: Hi of 86. Low of 68. Sunny.
ATTIRE: Business
NOTES:

10:00 - 10:30 TRAVEL FROM GRACIE MANSION TO 357 9TH STREET
Travel Time: 30 mins.

11:00 - 12:00 WORKOUT
Location: 357 9th St.

12:30 - 1:30 TRAVEL FROM 357 9TH STREET TO GRAND CONCOURSE AND EAST TREMONT AVENUE // COMMUNICATIONS CALL
Travel Time: 1 hour

1:30 - 2:15 MARCH IN GRAN PARADA DOMINICANA DEL BRONX
Parade Route: 176th Street & Grand Concourse to 167th street and Grand Concourse
Staff Lead: Marco Carrion
Notes: YOU will march with Bx Borough President and AM Marcos Crespo

2:20 - 2:30 TRAVEL FROM 167TH STREET & GRAND CONCOURSE EN ROUTE YANKEE STADIUM
Travel Time: 10 mins.

2:30 - 4:30 ATTEND NYFC GAME WITH DANTE
Location: Yankee Stadium, 1 East 161st Street, Bronx, NY 10451

4:30 - 5:00 MEET AND GREET WITH ANDREA PIRLO, NYCFC

5:00 - 5:30 TRAVEL FROM YANKEE STADIUM EN ROUTE GRACIE MANSION
Travel Time: 15 mins.

5:30 - 6:00 WEEKLY SCHEDULING REVIEW CALL
Location: Gracie Mansion

6:00 - 7:00 DRINKS WITH SENATOR SCHUMER AND STEVE ROSS
Location: Gracie Mansion, the Porch

7:00 - 9:00 [REDACTED]

CITY HALL STEPS PRESS CONFERENCES

No Scheduled Press Conferences.

FLONYC SCHEDULE

No public schedule.

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Sent: Friday, July 24, 2015 6:09 PM
To: B; FLONYC
Subject: MINI SCHEDULE - MONDAY, JULY 27, 2015

SCHEDULE FOR MAYOR BILL DE BLASIO
CITY OF NEW YORK
Monday, July 27, 2015

WEATHER: Hi of 87. Low of 75. AM Thunderstorms.
ATTIRE: Business
NOTES: - YOU will be shadowed by a Vanity Fair reporter today

- 7:00 - 7:30 TRAVEL FROM GRACIE MANSION TO 357 9TH STREET
Travel Time: 30 mins.
- 7:30 - 8:30 WORKOUT
Location: 357 9th Street
- 9:00 - 9:30 TRAVEL FROM 357 9TH AVENUE TO CITY HALL // COMMUNICATIONS CALL
Travel Time: 30 mins.
- 9:30 - 10:00 WEEKLY SCHEDULING REVIEW
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office
- 10:00 - 10:30 IDNYC PREP TIME
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office
- 11:30 - 12:00 TRAVEL FROM CITY HALL TO MUSEUM OF NATURAL HISTORY
Travel Time: 30 mins. - Train option, C train to 81st Street stop
Traveling : MBdB, EL
- 12:00 - 2:00 IDNYC MESSAGE EVENT
Location: Museum of Natural History - Central Park W & 79th Street
- 2:00 - 2:30 TRAVEL TIME FROM MUSEUM OF NATURAL HISTORY TO CITY HALL
Travel Time: 30 mins. - Subway option, C Train to Chambers Street
Traveling : MBdB, EL
- 2:30 - 3:15 BI-WEEKLY PRE-K MEETING
Location: City Hall, The Blue Room
- 3:15 - 3:45 PREP FOR MWBE DEVELOPERS MEETING
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office
- 4:00 - 5:00 REMARKS AT MWBE DEVELOPERS MEETING

Location: City Hall, The Blue Room

5:30 - 6:15 INTERVIEW WITH BRYAN BURROUGHS, VANITY FAIR PROFILER
Location: City Hall, the Mayor's Office

6:30 - 7:00 TRAVEL FROM CITY HALL EN ROUTE TO GRACIE

7:00 - 8:00 DRINKS WITH PETER MADONIA
Location: Gracie Mansion

CITY HALL STEPS PRESS CONFERENCES

No Scheduled Press Conferences

FLONYC SCHEDULE

9:30 - 10:15 PRIVATE APPOINTMENT

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Sent: Saturday, July 25, 2015 11:48 PM
To: B; FLONYC
Subject: UPDATED MINI - SUNDAY, JULY 26, 2015

SCHEDULE FOR MAYOR BILL DE BLASIO
CITY OF NEW YORK
Sunday, July 26, 2015

WEATHER: Hi of 86. Low of 68. Sunny.
ATTIRE: Business Casual
NOTES:

10:00 - 10:30 TRAVEL FROM GRACIE MANSION TO 357 9TH STREET // DAILY COMMUNICATONS CALL
Travel Time: 30 mins.

11:00 - 12:00 WORKOUT
Location: 357 9th St.

12:30 - 1:30 TRAVEL FROM 357 9TH STREET TO GRAND CONCOURSE AND EAST TREMONT AVENUE
Travel Time: 1 hour

1:30 - 2:15 MARCH IN GRAN PARADA DOMINICANA DEL BRONX
Parade Route: 176th Street & Grand Concourse to 167th street and Grand Concourse
Staff Lead: Marco Carrion

2:15 - 2:25 TRAVEL FROM 167TH STREET & GRAND CONCOURSE EN ROUTE YANKEE STADIUM
Travel Time: 10 mins.

2:30 - 4:30 ATTEND NYFC GAME WITH DANTE
Location: Yankee Stadium, 1 East 161st Street, Bronx, NY 10451

4:30 - 4:45 MEET AND GREET WITH ANDREA PIRLO, NYFCFC

4:45 - 5:00 TRAVEL FROM YANKEE STADIUM EN ROUTE GRACIE MANSION
Travel Time: 15 mins.

5:00 - 5:30 WEEKLY SCHEDULING REVIEW CALL
CONFERENCE CALL NUMBER: [REDACTED]
CODE [REDACTED]

7:00 - 9:00 [REDACTED]

9:00-10:00 DRINKS WITH SENATOR SCHUMER AND STEVE ROSS
Location: Gracie Mansion, the Porch

CITY HALL STEPS PRESS CONFERENCES

To be updated.

FLONYC SCHEDULE

No public schedule.

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Sent: Monday, July 27, 2015 8:58 AM
To: B; FLONYC
Subject: UPDATED MINI SCHEDULE - MONDAY JULY 27, 2015

SCHEDULE FOR MAYOR BILL DE BLASIO
CITY OF NEW YORK
Monday, July 27, 2015

WEATHER: Hi of 82. Low of 73. Scattered Thunderstorms.
ATTIRE: Business
NOTES: - Today YOU will be shadowed by Bryan Burroughs of Vanity Fair

7:00 - 7:30 TRAVEL FROM GRACIE MANSION TO 357 9TH STREET
Travel Time: 30 mins.

7:30 - 8:30 WORKOUT
Location: 357 9th Street

9:00 - 9:30 TRAVEL FROM 357 9TH AVENUE TO CITY HALL // COMMUNICATIONS CALL
Travel Time: 30 mins.

10:00 - 10:30 IDNYC PREP TIME
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office
Notes: Bryan Burroughs shadowing

11:15 - 11:45 TRAVEL FROM CITY HALL TO MUSEUM OF NATURAL HISTORY , Central Park W & 79th Street
Travel Time: 30 mins. - Train option, C train to 81st Street stop
Notes: Bryan Burroughs shadowing

12:00 - 2:00 IDNYC MESSAGE EVENT
Location: Museum of Natural History, Arthur Ross Terrace, Central Park W & 79th Street
Staff Lead: Nisha Agarwal
Notes: YOU participate in Univision interview after press conference.

2:00 - 2:30 TRAVEL TIME FROM MUSEUM OF NATURAL HISTORY TO CITY HALL
Travel Time: 30 mins. - Subway option, C Train to Chambers Street

2:30 - 3:15 BI-WEEKLY PRE-K MEETING
Location: City Hall, The Blue Room
Notes: Bryan Burroughs shadowing

3:15 - 3:45 PREP FOR MWBE DEVELOPERS MEETING
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

4:00 - 5:00 REMARKS AT MWBE DEVELOPERS MEETING

Location: City Hall, The Blue Room
Notes: Bryan Burroughs shadowing

5:00 - 5:30 TRAVEL FROM CITY HALL TO GRACIE MANSION
Travel Time: 30 mins.

5:30 - 6:15 DRINKS WITH BRYAN BURROUGHS, VANITY FAIR PROFILER
Location: Gracie Mansion, The Porch

7:00 - 8:00 DRINKS WITH PETER MADONIA
Location: Gracie Mansion, The Porch

CITY HALL STEPS PRESS CONFERENCES

No scheduled press conferences.

FLONYC SCHEDULE

9:30 - 10:15 PRIVATE APPOINTMENT
12:45 - 1:00 MEETING WITH JACKIE BRAY
1:00 - 2:00 SIF AWARDS PREP

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Sent: Monday, July 27, 2015 6:49 PM
To: B; FLONYC
Subject: MINI SCHEDULE - TUESDAY, JULY 28, 2015

SCHEDULE FOR MAYOR BILL DE BLASIO
CITY OF NEW YORK
Tuesday, July 28, 2015

WEATHER: Hi of 88. Low of 75. Mostly Sunny.

ATTIRE: Business

NOTES: - YOU have 30 mins. to change at the gym

6:30 - 7:00 TRAVEL FROM GRACIE MANSION TO 357 9TH STREET

Travel Time: 30 mins.

7:00 - 8:00 WORKOUT

Location: 357 9th Street

8:30 - 9:00 TRAVEL FROM 357 9TH AVENUE TO GRACIE MANSION // Prep call with Emma re: D'amato Mtg.

Travel Time: 30 mins.

9:30 - 10:30 MEETING WITH ALFONSE D'AMATO

Location: Gracie Mansion, the Porch

Notes: Sharif will staff

10:30 - 11:00 TRAVEL TIME FROM GRACIE MANSION TO CITY HALL // Daily Communications Call

Travel Time: 30 mins.

11:30 - 12:00 REMARKS AT PUERTO RICO UNITY PRESS CONFERENCE

Location: City Hall Steps

Notes: YOU are inserted in speaking order upon arrival, Luis Garden Acosta introduces YOU.

12:00 - 12:30 MANDATORY INCLUSIONARY PREP

Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

12:45 - 1:00 CALL WITH VALERIE JARRETT

Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

Notes: YOU dial [REDACTED]

1:30 - 2:30 MEETING WITH TOM SNYDER

Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

2:30 - 2:40 CALL WITH US DEPARTMENT OF HOMELAND SECURITY SECRETARY JEH C. JOHNSON REGARDING GRANTS

Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

Notes: Secretary dials YOUR cell.

2:45 - 3:45

WHITESPACE

Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

3:45 - 3:50

TAPE VIDEO MESSAGE WELCOMING POPE FRANCIS TO NEW YORK CITY

Location: City Hall, The Blue Room

3:50 - 4:00

TAPE VIDEO PROMO FOR MANHATTAN DOMINICAN DAY PARADE

Location: City Hall, The Blue Room

4:30 - 5:30

MEETING WITH SPEAKER MARK-VIVERITO AND STAFF REGARDING MANDATORY INCLUSIONARY

Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

5:30 - 6:30

UBER PREP

Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

6:30 - 6:35

TRAVEL FROM CITY HALL TO TWEED ON FOOT

Travel Time: 5 mins.

6:40 - 8:00

DINNER FOR SENATE DEMOCRATS

Location: Tweed Courthouse, 52 Chambers St.

Press: Closed

Notes: YOU give casual remarks seated at head table.

8:00 - 8:30

TRAVEL FROM TWEED TO GRACIE MANSION

Travel Time: 30 mins.

Car : MBdB

CITY HALL STEPS PRESS CONFERENCES

11:30 AM

Topic: Puerto Rico Unity Press Conference

Host: Hispanic Federation

Attendees: 50

FLONYC SCHEDULE

9:15 - 10:00

PRIVATE APPOINTMENT

2:00 - 2:30

PREP FOR DR. ROSS

2:30 - 3:30

INTERVIEW WITH DR. ROSS

3:30 - 4:15

COFFEE WITH VERONICA BARROW

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Sent: Tuesday, July 28, 2015 6:11 PM
To: B; FLONYC
Subject: MINI SCHEDULE - WEDENSDAY, JULY 29, 2015

SCHEDULE FOR MAYOR BILL DE BLASIO
CITY OF NEW YORK
Wednesday, July 29, 2015

WEATHER: Hi of 92. Low of 76. Partly Cloudy.
ATTIRE: Business
NOTES: - YOU have 30 mins. to change at the gym

7:00 - 7:30 TRAVEL FROM GRACIE MANSION TO 357 9TH STREET
Travel Time: 30 mins.

7:30 - 8:30 WORKOUT
Location: 357 9th Street

9:00 - 9:30 TRAVEL FRO 357 9TH ST. TO CITY HALL // COMMUNICATIONS CALL
Travel Time: 30 mins.

10:00 - 11:00 SENIOR STAFF MEETING
Location: City Hall, The COW

11:00 - 11:30 OFF TOPIC PREP
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

11:30 - 12:00 PREP FOR HEAT ADVISORY MESSAGE
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

12:00 - 1:00 HEAT ADVISORY MESSAGE
Location: City Hall, The Blue Room

1:00 - 2:00 WHITESPACE
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

2:00 - 3:00 FOLLOW UP MEETING ON MENTAL HEALTH AND VIOLENCE WITH FLONYC
Location: City Hall, Blue Room

3:10 - 3:15 TRAVEL FROM CITY HALL EN ROUTE TWEED ON FOOT
Travel Time: 5 mins.

3:15 - 3:45 REMARKS AT OPENING OF AGENCY RETREAT
Location: Tweed Courthouse - 2nd Floor
Press: Closed

Notes: YOU speak upon arrival and sit for portion of presentations.

3:45 - 3:50 TRAVEL FROM TWEED EN ROUTE CITY HALL ON FOOT
Travel Time: 5 mins.

4:00 - 4:30 BRIEFING REGARDING THE TENANT SUPPORT UNIT
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

4:30 - 5:00 MEETING WITH DENNIS TRAINOR, NEW VICE PRESIDENT OF CWA DISTRICT 1 AND BOB MASTER
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

5:00 - 6:00 ON THE RECORD WITH BRYAN BURROUGHS, VANITY FAIR PROFILER
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

6:00 - 6:30 TRAVEL FROM CITY HALL TO GRACIE MANSION
Travel Time: 30 mins.

6:30 - 7:30 MEETING WITH EMMA, TOM, AND NATHAN
Location: Gracie Mansion, The Porch

7:30 - 9:00 WEEKLY PLANNING MEETING WITH FLONYC
Location: Gracie Mansion, The Library

CITY HALL STEPS PRESS CONFERENCES

10am – C/M Lander “Planned Parenthood”

11am – Public Advocate Letitia James “New Traffic Technology” 20 people

FLONYC SCHEDULE

9:30 - 9:50 PREP FOR WOMEN WRITERS

10:00 - 11:00 MEETING WITH WOMEN WRITERS

1:40 - 2:00 MEETING WITH ANDREA HAGELGANS

2:00 - 3:00 FOLLOW UP MEETING ON MENTAL HEALTH AND VIOLENCE WITH YOU

3:10 - 3:25 PREP FOR AM RICHARD N. GOTTFRIED

3:30 - 4:15 MEETING WITH ASSEMBLYMAN RICHARD N. GOTTFRIED

7:30 - 9:00 WEEKLY PLANNING MEETING WITH YOU

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Sent: Wednesday, July 29, 2015 6:23 PM
To: B; FLONYC
Subject: MINI SCHEDULE - THURSDAY JULY 30, 2015

SCHEDULE FOR MAYOR BILL DE BLASIO
CITY OF NEW YORK
Thursday, July 30, 2015

WEATHER: Hi of 88. Low of 74. Scattered Thunderstorms.
ATTIRE: Business
NOTES: - YOU have 30 mins. to change at the gym

6:50 - 7:00 TRAVEL FROM GRACIE MANSION TO [REDACTED]
Travel Time: 10 mins.

7:00 - 7:15 [REDACTED]
Location: [REDACTED]

7:15 - 7:45 TRAVEL FROM [REDACTED] TO 357 9TH STREET
Travel Time: 30 mins.

7:45 - 8:45 WORKOUT
Location: 357 9th Street

9:00 - 9:30 TRAVEL TIME FROM 357 9TH ST TO CITY HALL // COMMUNICATIONS CALL
Travel Time: 30 mins.

9:30 - 10:00 PREP FOR HOMELESS ROUNDTABLE
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

10:00 - 11:00 HOMELESS ROUNDTABLE WITH ADVOCATES & CLERGY
Location: City Hall, The Blue Room

11:30 - 12:00 MEETING WITH CELI KHANYILE-LYNCH
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

12:00 - 1:00 CONTRACT BRIEFING
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

1:00 - 1:30 MEETING WITH TONY AND MINDY REGARDING HONORING MAYOR DINKINS
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

1:30 - 2:00 WEEKLY MEETING WITH ALICIA GLEN
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

2:00-2:30 BRIEFING WITH EMMA REGARDING TENANT SUPPORT UNIT
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

2:30 - 3:30 BI-WEEKLY CORRECTIONS MEETING
Location: City Hall, The Blue Room

3:30 - 5:30 WHITESPACE
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

5:30 - 6:00 TRAVEL FROM CITY HALL EN ROUTE 264 CYPRESS AVE.
Travel Time: 30 mins. - Train option, 4/5 to 125th St, then 6 to Cypress Av.

6:00 - 8:00 DINNER WITH SPEAKER MARK-VIVERITO
Location: Pio Pio Restaurant – Upstairs, 264 Cypress Avenue btw 138th & 139th Street, Bronx

8:00 - 8:15 TRAVEL FROM 264 CYPRESS AVE. EN ROUTE GRACIE MANSION
Travel Time: 15 mins.

CITY HALL STEPS PRESS CONFERENCES

11am C/M Garodnick "Tour Buses" 50 people
1pm Foundation Progressive Advocacy (FPA) "Foster Care" 15 people
2pm C/M Levin "A.S.A. Graduation" 50 people

FLONYC SCHEDULE

8:30 - 8:45 BLACK GIRLS LEAD 2015 CONFERENCE
8:45 - 8:50 PHOTO OP WITH BLACK GIRLS ROCK!
9:30 - 10:30 PRIVATE APPOINTMENT
12:40 - 1:00 MEETING WITH WENDY SPENCER
1:00 - 2:00 SIF AWARDS ANNOUNCEMENT
2:15 - 3:15 STAFF DEBRIEF
4:30 - 5:15 PRIVATE APPOINTMENT

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Sent: Thursday, July 30, 2015 10:31 AM
To: B; FLONYC
Subject: UPDATED MINI SCHEDULE THURSDAY, JULY 30, 2015

SCHEDULE FOR MAYOR BILL DE BLASIO
CITY OF NEW YORK - Thursday, July 30, 2015

WEATHER: Hi of 88. Low of 74. Scattered Thunderstorms.
ATTIRE: Business
NOTES: - YOU have 30 mins. to change at the gym

6:50 - 7:00 AM TRAVEL FROM GRACIE MANSION TO [REDACTED], 4TH FLOOR
Travel Time: 10 mins.

7:00 - 7:15 AM [REDACTED]
Location: [REDACTED]

7:15 - 7:45 AM TRAVEL FROM [REDACTED] TO 357 9TH STREET
Travel Time: 30 mins.

7:45 - 8:45 AM WORKOUT
Location: 357 9th Street

9:00 - 9:30 AM TRAVEL TIME FROM 357 9TH STREET TO CITY HALL // COMMUNICATIONS CALL
Travel Time: 30 mins.

9:30 - 10:00 AM PREP FOR HOMELESS ROUNDTABLE
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

10:00 - 11:00 AM HOMELESS ROUNDTABLE WITH ADVOCATES & CLERGY
Location: City Hall, The Blue Room

11:30 - 12:00 PM MEETING WITH CELI KHANYILE-LYNCH
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

12:00 - 1:00 PM CONTRACT BRIEFING
Location: City Hall

1:00 - 1:30 PM MEETING WITH TONY AND MINDY REGARDING HONORING MAYOR DINKINS
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

1:30 - 2:00 PM WEEKLY MEETING WITH ALICIA GLEN
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

2:30 - 3:30 PM BI-WEEKLY CORRECTIONS MEETING
Location: City Hall, The Blue Room

3:30 - 4:30 PM REMARKS AT PRESS CONFERENCE REGARDING LEGIONNAIRES
Location: City Hall, Blue Room

4:30 – 4:45 PM TRAVEL TIME FROM GRACIE MANSION TO 15 MAIDEN
LANE

4:45 - 5:30 PM MEETING WITH TOM, EMMA, AND NATHAN
Location: 15 Maiden Lane

5:30 - 6:00 PM TRAVEL FROM 15 MAIDEN LANE TO 264 CYPRESS AVE. BTW 138TH & 139TH STREET - BRONX
Travel Time: 30 mins. - Train option, 4/5 to 125th St, then 6 to Cypress Av.

6:00 - 8:00 PM DINNER WITH SPEAKER MMV
Location: Pio Pio Restaurant - 264 Cypress Avenue btw 138th & 139th Street (UPSTAIRS)
Bronx

8:00 - 8:15 PM TRAVEL FROM 264 CYPRESS AVE. EN ROUTE GRACIE MANSION
Travel Time: 15 mins.

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Sent: Thursday, July 30, 2015 6:49 PM
To: B; FLONYC
Subject: MINI SCHEDULE - FRIDAY, JULY 31, 2015

SCHEDULE FOR MAYOR BILL DE BLASIO
CITY OF NEW YORK
Friday, July 31, 2015

WEATHER: Hi of 92. Low of 74. Sunny.
ATTIRE: Business
NOTES: - YOU have 30 mins. to change at the gym

7:45 - 8:15 TRAVEL FROM GRACIE MANSION TO 357 9TH STREET
Travel Time: 30 mins.

8:15 - 9:15 WORKOUT
Location: 357 9th Street

9:45 - 10:00 TRAVEL TIME FROM 357 9TH AVENUE TO [REDACTED] // COMMUNICATIONS CALL
Travel Time: 15 mins. on foot

10:00 - 10:15 [REDACTED]
Location: [REDACTED]

10:15 - 10:45 TRAVEL TIME FROM [REDACTED] TO 15 MAIDEN LANE
Travel Time: 30 mins.

10:45 – 11:45 STRATEGIC PLANNING MEETING WITH – Henry, Gabrielle, Elana, Ross, Hailey, John Del Cecato, Nathan, Emma, and Tom
Location: 15 Maiden Lane

11:45 - 4:45 CALL TIME
Location: 15 Maiden Lane

4:45 - 5:15 TRAVEL FROM 15 MAIDEN LANE EN ROUTE GRACIE MANSION
Travel Time: 30 mins.

5:15 - 5:45 COFFEE WITH CHANCELLOR FARINA
Location: Gracie Mansion, the Porch

7:00 - 7:30 TRAVEL FROM GRACIE MANSION EN ROUTE RICHARD ROGERS THEATRE
Travel Time: 30 mins.

8:00 - 11:00 ATTEND HAMILTON WITH FLONYC
Location: Richard Rogers Theater, 226 West 46th Street

After the show you and FLONYC will go backstage for a photo-op.
CH Photographer will be present to take photo after the show with Lin Manuel.

CITY HALL STEPS PRESS CONFERENCES

No Scheduled Press Conferences

FLONYC SCHEDULE

9:15 - 10:00	PRIVATE APPOINTMENT
2:00 - 2:30	MEETING WITH COMMISSIONER FINKELPEARL
3:30 - 4:30	MEETING WITH DARREN WALKER, FORD FOUNDATION
8:00 - 11:00	ATTEND HAMILTON WITH YOU

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Sent: Friday, July 31, 2015 6:13 PM
To: B; FLONYC
Subject: MINI SCHEDULE - SATURDAY, AUGUST 1, 2015

SCHEDULE FOR MAYOR BILL DE BLASIO
CITY OF NEW YORK
Saturday, August 1, 2015

WEATHER: Hi of 90. Low of 71. Mostly Sunny.
ATTIRE: Casual
NOTES: - Down day
- Summer Streets taking place 7 AM – 1 PM (Park Avenue closed from 72nd Street to Brooklyn Bridge)

10:00 - 10:30 TRAVEL FROM GRACIE MANSION TO 357 9TH STREET
Travel Time: 30 mins.

10:30 - 11:30 WORKOUT
Location: 357 9th Street

12:00 - 12:30 TRAVEL FROM 357 9TH STREET TO GRACIE MANSION // COMMUNICATIONS CALL
Travel Time: 30 mins.

8:30 - 11:00 FYI: REBECCA KATZ [REDACTED]
Location: Alma, 187 Columbia St, Brooklyn

CITY HALL STEPS PRESS CONFERENCES

No scheduled press conferences.

FLONYC SCHEDULE

No public schedule.

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Sent: Friday, July 31, 2015 6:19 PM
To: B; FLONYC
Subject: MINI SCHEDULE - SUNDAY, AUGUST 2, 2015

SCHEDULE FOR MAYOR BILL DE BLASIO
CITY OF NEW YORK
Sunday, August 2, 2015

WEATHER: Hi of 89. Low of 74. Sunny.
ATTIRE: Business casual
NOTES: - Wear sunscreen for outdoor events today
- Elana is off weekends, Stefan and Javon will body YOU at each respective event

8:30 - 9:00 TRAVEL FROM GRACIE MANSION TO 357 9TH STREET
Travel Time: 30 mins.

9:00 - 10:00 WORKOUT
Location: 357 9th St

10:30 - 11:15 TRAVEL FROM 357 9TH STREET TO JAX INN DINER, 72-12 NORTHERN BOULEVARD, QUEENS // COMMUNICATIONS CALL
Travel Time: 45 mins.

11:15 - 11:50 REMARKS AT THE ECUADORIAN PARADE BREAKFAST
Location: Jax Inn Diner, 72-12 Northern Blvd, Jackson Heights, Queens
Staff Lead: Roberto Perez
Body: Stephan Grybauskas

11:50 - 12:00 TRAVEL FROM JAX INN DINER EN ROUTE 69TH ST AND NORTHERN BLVD ON FOOT
Travel Time: 5 mins.

12:00 - 1:00 MARCH IN NEW YORK ECUADORIAN PARADE
Parade route: 69th St. and Northern Blvd to 87th St. and Northern Blvd.
Staff Lead: Helen Ho
Press: Open

1:30 - 2:00 TRAVEL FROM 87TH ST. AND NORTHERN BLVD EN ROUTE 2144 BRONX PARK E, BRONX
Travel Time: 25 mins.

2:00 - 2:30 REMARKS AT PAKISTAN'S 68TH INDEPENDENCE DAY BRONX MELA 2015
Location: Ben Abrams Playground Field, Corner of Bronx Park East and Lydig Avenue, Bronx NY 10462
Staff Lead: Charles Fall
Body: Javon
Press: Open

Notes: Mr. Omar Saeed Butt presents YOU with an award on behalf of the Pakistani Bronx Community Council and the citywide Pakistani community

2:30 - 2:55 TRAVEL FROM 2144 BRONX PARK E, BRONX EN ROUTE GRACIE MANSION
Travel Time: 25 mins.

3:30 - 4:00 WEEKLY SCHEDULING REVIEW CALL
Dial in: [REDACTED]
Code: [REDACTED]

4:30 - 5:00 TRAVEL FROM GRACIE MANSION EN ROUTE PROSPECT PARK (ENTRANCE AT CORNER OF PROSPECT PARK WEST AND 15th ST. // PROSPECT PARK SOUTHWEST)
Travel Time: 30 mins.

5:00 - 6:30 SOFTBALL PRACTICE
Location: Prospect Park Long Meadow Softball Field #5 (Enter at Prospect Park West and 15th St. // Prospect Park Southwest, Across from Pavilion Theatre)

6:30 - 7:00 TRAVEL FROM PROSPECT PARK EN ROUTE GRACIE MANSION
Travel Time: 30 mins.

7:00 - 9:00 [REDACTED]

CITY HALL STEPS PRESS CONFERENCES

No scheduled press conferences.

FLONYC SCHEDULE

No public schedule.

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Sent: Friday, July 31, 2015 6:22 PM
To: B; FLONYC
Subject: MINI SCHEDULE - MONDAY, AUGUST 3, 2015

SCHEDULE FOR MAYOR BILL DE BLASIO
CITY OF NEW YORK
Monday, August 3, 2015

WEATHER: Hi of 91. Low of 73. Mostly Sunny.

ATTIRE: Business.

Event: Rolled up sleeves, no tie or jacket, and sunscreen.

NOTES: - YOU have 30 mins. to change at the gym

7:00 - 7:30 TRAVEL FROM GRACIE TO 357 9TH STREET
Travel Time: 30 mins.

7:30 - 8:30 WORKOUT
Location: 357 9th St.

9:00 - 9:30 TRAVEL FROM 357 9TH STREET TO CITY HALL // COMMUNICATIONS CALL
Travel Time: 30 mins.

10:00 - 10:30 PREP FOR MESSAGE
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

10:30 - 10:50 TRAVEL FROM CITY HALL EN ROUTE VERDI SQUARE AT 72ND STREET VIA SUBWAY
Travel Time: 20 mins. via 2/3 train to 72nd Street

11:00 - 1:00 HOMELESS OUTREACH MESSAGE WITH DHS/NYPD
Location: Verdi Square at 72nd and Broadway

1:00 - 1:20 TRAVEL FROM VERDI SQUARE EN ROUTE CITY HALL
Travel Time: 20 mins. via subway

1:30 - 2:00 MEETING WITH RACHEL LAUTER
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

2:00 - 2:30 PREP FOR HBO/VICE DOCUMENTARY
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

2:30 - 3:00 TAPE HBO/VICE DOCUMENTARY ON CRIMINAL JUSTICE REFORMERS
Location: City Hall, The Blue Room

3:00 - 3:30 SPEECH REVIEW FOR FINANCIAL CONTROL BOARD
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

3:30 - 4:00 TRAVEL FROM CITY HALL TO GRACIE MANSION
Travel Time: 30 mins.

4:00 - 5:00 VANITY FAIR FAMILY PORTRAIT
Location: Gracie Mansion

5:30 - 6:30 EDUCATION SPEECH BRIEFING
Location: Gracie Mansion, The Library

6:30 - 7:00 MEETING WITH TOM SNYDER
Location: Gracie Mansion, The Porch

7:00 - 7:30 CALL WITH GOVERNOR JAY INSLEE
Contact: Governor calls YOU on YOUR cell

CITY HALL STEPS PRESS CONFERENCES

No scheduled press conferences.

FLONYC SCHEDULE

4:00 - 5:00 VANITY FAIR FAMILY PORTRAIT

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Sent: Sunday, August 02, 2015 9:18 PM
To: B; FLONYC
Subject: UPDATED MINI SCHEDULE - MONDAY, AUGUST 3, 2015

SCHEDULE FOR MAYOR BILL DE BLASIO
CITY OF NEW YORK
Monday, August 3, 2015

WEATHER: Hi of 90. Low of 75. Mostly Sunny.
ATTIRE: Navy suit and solid, bold tie for photo shoot.
NOTES: - YOU have 30 mins. to change.

7:00 - 7:30 TRAVEL FROM GRACIE TO 357 9TH STREET
Travel Time: 30 mins.

7:30 - 8:30 WORKOUT
Location: 357 9th St.

9:00 - 9:30 TRAVEL FROM 357 9TH STREET TO CITY HALL // COMMUNICATIONS CALL
Travel Time: 30 mins.

10:30 – 10:40 Call with Secretary Jeh C. Johnson. YOU call [REDACTED]

10:40 - 1:30 WHITE SPACE
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

1:30 - 2:00 MEETING WITH RACHEL LAUTER
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

2:00 - 2:30 PREP FOR HBO/VICE DOCUMENTARY
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

2:30 - 3:00 TAPE HBO/VICE DOCUMENTARY ON CRIMINAL JUSTICE REFORMERS
Location: City Hall, The Blue Room

3:00 - 3:30 SPEECH REVIEW FOR FINANCIAL CONTROL BOARD
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

3:30 - 4:00 TRAVEL FROM CITY HALL TO GRACIE MANSION
Travel Time: 30 mins.

4:00 - 5:00 VANITY FAIR FAMILY PORTRAIT
Location: Gracie Mansion

5:30 - 6:30 EDUCATION SPEECH BRIEFING

Location: Gracie Mansion, The Library

6:30 - 7:00

MEETING WITH TOM SNYDER

Location: Gracie Mansion, The Porch

7:00 - 7:30

CALL WITH GOVERNOR JAY INSLEE

Contact: Governor calls YOU on YOUR cell

CITY HALL STEPS PRESS CONFERENCES

No scheduled press conferences.

FLONYC SCHEDULE

4:00 - 5:00

VANITY FAIR FAMILY PORTRAIT

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Sent: Monday, August 03, 2015 7:29 PM
To: B; FLONYC
Subject: MINI SCHEDULE - TUESDAY, AUGUST 4, 2015

SCHEDULE FOR MAYOR BILL DE BLASIO
CITY OF NEW YORK
Tuesday, August 4, 2015

WEATHER: Hi of 90. Low of 72. Partly Cloudy.
ATTIRE: Business, sunscreen
NOTES: - YOU have 30 mins. to change at the gym

7:00 - 7:30 TRAVEL FROM GRACIE TO 347 9TH STREET
Travel Time: 30 mins.

7:30 - 8:30 WORKOUT
Location: 357 9th St.

9:00 - 9:45 TRAVEL FROM 347 9TH STREET TO LINCOLN MEDICAL CENTER, 234 EAST 149TH STREET // OFF-TOPIC
PREP
Call In Number: [REDACTED]
Access Code: [REDACTED]
Travel Time: 45 mins.

9:45 - 11:00 PRESS CONFERENCE WITH CITY OFFICIALS ON LEGIONNAIRE'S DISEASE
Location: Lincoln Medical Center - Auditorium Lobby, 234 East 149th Street, Bronx, NY 10451
Press Lead: Karen Hinton

11:00 - 11:30 TRAVEL FROM LINCOLN MEDICAL CENTER EN ROUTE CITY HALL // COMMUNICATIONS CALL
Travel Time: 30 mins.

11:30 - 12:30 WEEKLY MEETING WITH POLICE COMMISSIONER
Location: City Hall, Blue Room

12:30 - 1:30 PREP FOR FINANCIAL CONTROL BOARD
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

1:30 - 1:50 TRAVEL FROM CITY HALL EN ROUTE 633 3RD AVE.
Travel Time: 20 mins. - Train option 4/5 to Grand Central

2:00 - 4:00 REMARKS BEFORE THE FINANCIAL CONTROL BOARD ANNUAL MEETING WITH FIRST DEPUTY MAYOR
SHORRIS AND DIRECTOR DEAN FULEIHAN
Location: Office of the Governor, 633 3rd Avenue - 38th Floor, NY, NY, 10017
Staff Leads: Tony Shorris & Dean Fuleihan
Press: Open

4:00 - 4:20 TRAVEL FROM 633 3RD AVE. EN ROUTE CITY HALL
Travel Time: 20 mins.

CITY HALL STEPS PRESS CONFERENCES

10 AM

Bronx Clergy & Criminal Justice Roundtable
"Human Trafficking & Domestic Violence"
100 people

FLONYC SCHEDULE

12:15 - 12:40 PREP FOR PARENTING BYTES
12:40 - 1:00 PARENTING BYTES INTERVIEW
1:30 - 2:00 COMMUNITY SCHOOL PARENT LEADERSHIP TRAINING
2:00 - 2:05 TV INTERVIEW WITH WNBC
2:30 - 4:00 PREP FOR VIOLENCE AND MENTAL ILLNESS MESSAGE
4:00 - 4:15 CALL WITH JOAN DAVIDSON

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Sent: Monday, August 03, 2015 10:51 PM
To: B; FLONYC
Subject: UPDATED - MINI SCHEDULE - TUESDAY, AUGUST 4, 2015

UPDATED – Press Conference Details
UPDATED – National Night Out Details

SCHEDULE FOR MAYOR BILL DE BLASIO
CITY OF NEW YORK
Tuesday, August 4, 2015

WEATHER: Hi of 90. Low of 72. Partly Cloudy.

ATTIRE: Business, sunscreen

NOTES: - YOU have 30 mins. to change at the gym

7:00 - 7:30 TRAVEL FROM GRACIE TO 347 9TH STREET
Travel Time: 30 mins.

7:30 - 8:30 WORKOUT
Location: 357 9th St.

9:00 - 9:45 TRAVEL FROM 347 9TH STREET TO LINCOLN MEDICAL CENTER, 234 EAST 149TH STREET // OFF-TOPIC
PREP

Call In Number: [REDACTED]

Access Code: [REDACTED]

Travel Time: 45 mins.

9:45 - 11:00 PRESS CONFERENCE WITH CITY OFFICIALS ON LEGIONNAIRE'S DISEASE
Location: Lincoln Medical Center - Auditorium Lobby, 234 East 149th Street, Bronx, NY 10451
Press Lead: Karen Hinton

9:45am - You arrive

9:45 -Tabletop with Commissioners

11am -Tour

11:30am - Press Conference

12:15- 12:45 TRAVEL FROM LINCOLN MEDICAL CENTER EN ROUTE CITY HALL // COMMUNICATIONS CALL
Travel Time: 30 mins.

12:45 - 1:30 PREP FOR FINANCIAL CONTROL BOARD
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

1:30 - 1:50 TRAVEL FROM CITY HALL EN ROUTE 633 3RD AVE.
Travel Time: 20 mins. - Train option 4/5 to Grand Central

2:00 - 4:00 REMARKS BEFORE THE FINANCIAL CONTROL BOARD ANNUAL MEETING WITH FIRST DEPUTY MAYOR SHORRIS AND DIRECTOR DEAN FULEIHAN

Location: Office of the Governor, 633 3rd Avenue - 38th Floor, NY, NY, 10017
Staff Leads: Tony Shorris & Dean Fuleihan
Press: Open

4:00 - 4:20 TRAVEL FROM 633 3RD AVE. EN ROUTE CITY HALL
Travel Time: 20 mins.

4:20 – 5:45 Whitespace
Location: City Hall

5:45-6:30 Travel Time from City Hall to 73rd Precinct, Betsy Head Park, Thomas S. Boyland & Blake Avenues
Travel Time: 45

6:30 – 7:15 Remarks at 73rd Precinct National Night Out with Police Commissioner Bratton
Location: Betsy Head Park, Thomas S. Boyland & Blake Avenues

CITY HALL STEPS PRESS CONFERENCE

10 AM

Bronx Clergy & Criminal Justice Roundtable

“Human Trafficking & Domestic Violence”

100 people

FLONYC SCHEDULE

12:15 - 12:40 PREP FOR PARENTING BYTES
12:40 - 1:00 PARENTING BYTES INTERVIEW
1:30 - 2:00 COMMUNITY SCHOOL PARENT LEADERSHIP TRAINING
2:00 - 2:05 TV INTERVIEW WITH WNBC
2:30 - 4:00 PREP FOR VIOLENCE AND MENTAL ILLNESS MESSAGE
4:00 - 4:15 CALL WITH JOAN DAVIDSON

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Sent: Tuesday, August 04, 2015 9:10 AM
To: B; FLONYC
Subject: UPDATED MINI SCHEDULE - TUESDAY, AUGUST 4, 2015

UPDATED – FCB PREP LOCATION TO GRACIE MANSION

SCHEDULE FOR MAYOR BILL DE BLASIO
CITY OF NEW YORK
Tuesday, August 4, 2015

WEATHER: Hi of 90. Low of 72. Partly Cloudy.
ATTIRE: Business, sunscreen
NOTES: - YOU have 30 mins. to change at the gym

7:00 - 7:30 TRAVEL FROM GRACIE TO 347 9TH STREET
Travel Time: 30 mins.

7:30 - 8:30 WORKOUT
Location: 357 9th St.

9:00 - 9:45 TRAVEL FROM 347 9TH STREET TO LINCOLN MEDICAL CENTER, 234 EAST 149TH STREET // OFF-TOPIC
PREP
Travel Time: 45 mins.
Call In: [REDACTED]
Access Code: [REDACTED]

9:45 - 10:45 DISCUSSION/TABLETOP ON LEGIONNAIRE'S DISEASE WITH CITY OFFICIALS
Location: Lincoln Medical Center - Conference Room
Staff Lead: Tony Shorris
Press: Closed

10:45 - 11:15 TOUR WATER COOLING TOWERS
Location: Lincoln Medical Center - Roof
Setup: YOU, commissioners, and elected officials tour the cooling towers at Lincoln Medical Center, led by (T) hospital rep, and observe masked workers taking samples
Press: Open

11:30 - 12:45 PRESS CONFERENCE WITH CITY OFFICIALS ON LEGIONNAIRE'S DISEASE
Location: Lincoln Medical Center - Auditorium Foyer

12:45 - 1:00 TRAVEL FROM LINCOLN MEDICAL CENTER EN ROUTE GRACIE MANSION
Travel Time: 15 mins.

1:00 - 1:45 PREP FOR FINANCIAL CONTROL BOARD WITH TONY AND DEAN
Location: Gracie Mansion, the Dining Room

1:45 - 2:00 TRAVEL FROM GRACIE MANSION EN ROUTE 633 3RD AVE.
Travel Time: 15 mins.

2:00 - 4:00 REMARKS BEFORE THE FINANCIAL CONTROL BOARD ANNUAL MEETING WITH FIRST DEPUTY MAYOR SHORRIS AND DIRECTOR DEAN FULEIHAN
Location: Office of the Governor
633 3rd Avenue - 38th Floor
Staff Lead: Tony Shorris and Dean Fuleihan
Press: Open

4:00 - 4:20 TRAVEL FROM 633 3RD AVE. EN ROUTE CITY HALL
Travel Time: 20 mins.

4:30 - 6:00 WHITE SPACE
Location: City Hall, the Mayor's Office

6:00 - 6:30 TRAVEL FROM CITY HALL EN ROUTE BETSY HEAD PARK, THOMAS S BOYLAND AND BLAKE AVENUE BROOKLYN, NY 11212
Travel Time: 30 mins.

6:30 - 7:00 DELIVER REMARKS AT 2015 NATIONAL NIGHT OUT - 73RD POLICE PRECINCT
Location: Betsy Head Park, Thomas S Boyland and Blake Avenue
Press: Open

7:00 - 7:30 TRAVEL FROM BETSY HEAD PARK THOMAS S BOYLAND AND BLAKE AVENUE BROOKLYN, NY 11212 EN ROUTE GRACIE MANSION
Travel Time: 30 mins.

CITY HALL STEPS PRESS CONFERENCES

10 AM
Bronx Clergy & Criminal Justice Roundtable
"Human Trafficking & Domestic Violence"
100 people

FLONYC SCHEDULE

12:15 - 12:40 PREP FOR PARENTING BYTES
12:40 - 1:00 PARENTING BYTES INTERVIEW
1:30 - 2:00 COMMUNITY SCHOOL PARENT LEADERSHIP TRAINING
2:00 - 2:05 TV INTERVIEW WITH WNBC
2:30 - 4:00 PREP FOR VIOLENCE AND MENTAL ILLNESS MESSAGE
4:00 - 4:15 CALL WITH JOAN DAVIDSON

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Sent: Tuesday, August 04, 2015 6:23 PM
To: B; FLONYC
Subject: MINI SCHEDULE - WEDNESDAY AUGUST 5, 2015

SCHEDULE FOR MAYOR BILL DE BLASIO
CITY OF NEW YORK
Wednesday, August 5, 2015

WEATHER: Hi of 88. Low of 67. Mostly Sunny.
ATTIRE: Business
NOTES: - YOU have 30 mins. to change at the gym

8:30 - 9:00 TRAVEL FROM 357 9TH STREET
Travel Time: 30 mins.

9:00 - 10:00 WORKOUT
Location: 357 9th Street

10:30 - 10:55 TRAVEL FROM 357 9TH STREET TO MOST PRECIOUS BLOOD CHURCH, 70 BAY 47TH STREET - BROOKLYN
// COMMUNICATIONS CALL
Travel Time: 25 mins.

11:00 - 12:30 REMARKS AT THE FUNERAL OF DSNY SGT. FRANK MUSELLA
Location: Most Precious Blood Church, 70 Bay 47th Street, Brooklyn NY 11214
Press: Open

12:30 - 1:00 TRAVEL FROM 70 BAY 47TH STREET - BROOKLYN TO CITY HALL
Travel Time: 30 mins.

1:00 - 2:00 QUADRENNIAL COMMISSION BRIEFING
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

2:00 - 4:00 PRESS ROUNDTABLE ON HOMELESS/MENTAL HEALTH WITH FLONYC
Location: City Hall, Blue Room

4:00 - 5:00 WHITESPACE
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

5:00 - 5:30 WEEKLY MEETING WITH TONY SHORRIS
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

5:45 - 6:30 TRAVEL FROM CITY HALL EN ROUTE BRONX ZOO
Travel Time: 45 mins.

6:30 - 7:00
ANNIVERSARY

REMARKS AT 2015 SAPOLIN AWARDS IN HONOR OF AMERICANS WITH DISABILITIES ACT 25TH

Location: Bronx Zoo, Wildlife Conservation Society, 2300 Southern Boulevard, Bronx NY 10460
Press: Open

7:00 - 7:30

TRAVEL FROM BRONX ZOO EN ROUTE GRACIE MANSION

Travel Time: 30 mins.

7:30 - 9:00

WEEKLY PLANNING MEETING

Location: Gracie Mansion, the Library

CITY HALL STEPS PRESS CONFERENCES

No Scheduled Press Conference

FLONYC SCHEDULE

2:00 - 4:00

PRESS ROUNDTABLE ON HOMELESS/MENTAL HEALTH WITH YOU

5:00 - 10:00

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Sent: Wednesday, August 05, 2015 6:52 PM
To: FLONYC; B
Subject: MINI SCHEDULE, THURSDAY, AUGUST 6, 2015

SCHEDULE FOR MAYOR BILL DE BLASIO
CITY OF NEW YORK
Thursday, August 6, 2015

WEATHER: Hi of 85. Low of 69. Partly Cloudy.

ATTIRE: Business

NOTES: - YOU have 30 mins. to change at Gracie
- Final episode of "The Daily Show with Jon Stewart" airs TONIGHT @ 11PM on Comedy Central

7:00 - 7:30 TRAVEL FROM GRACIE MANSION TO 357 9TH STREET
Travel Time: 30 mins.

7:30 - 8:30 WORKOUT
Location: 357 9th Street

9:00 - 9:30 TRAVEL FROM 357 9TH STREET TO GRACIE MANSION // COMMUNICATIONS CALL
Travel Time: 30 mins.

11:00 - 11:30 TRAVEL FROM GRACIE MANSION TO QUEENS COLLEGE
Travel Time: 30 mins.

11:30 - 12:00 REMARKS AT DOC RECRUITMENT EVENT
Location: Queens College - Colden Auditorium, 65-30 Kissena Boulevard, Flushing, NY 11367
Press: Open

12:00 - 12:30 TRAVEL FROM QUEENS COLLEGE EN ROUTE CITY HALL
Travel Time: 30 mins.

12:30 - 1:00 MENTAL HEALTH PREP WITH FLONYC
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

1:00 - 3:00 ROUNDTABLE MESSAGE ON HOMELESS/MENTAL HEALTH WITH DOC AND FLONYC
Location: City Hall, Blue Room
Staff Lead: Jackie Bray
Setup: YOU, FLONYC, and commissioners sit at tables at front of room. Microphones at table. Press seated on risers.
Press: Open

3:00 - 5:00 TPA CALLS
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

5:00 - 5:30 WEEKLY MEETING WITH RICHARD BUERY
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

5:30 - 6:30 WEEKLY MEETING WITH COMMISSIONER BRATTON
Location: City Hall, Blue Room

6:50 - 6:55 TRAVEL FROM CITY HALL EN ROUTE SUPREME COURTHOUSE ON FOOT WITH FLONYC
Travel Time: 5 mins. on foot

7:00 - 8:00 REMARKS AT MAYOR'S OFFICE DOMINICAN HERITAGE EVENT WITH FLONYC
Location: New York County Supreme Court House, 60 Centre Street, NY NY 10007
Staff Lead: Roberto Perez
Press: Open

8:00 - 8:30 TRAVEL FROM SUPREME COURT EN ROUTE BAR TOTO
Travel Time: 30 mins.

8:30 - 9:30 DRINKS WITH WENDELL JAMIESON
Location: Bar Toto, 411 11th St

9:30 - 10:00 TRAVEL FROM BAR TOTO EN ROUTE GRACIE MANSION
Travel Time: 30 mins.
Car : MBdB

11:00 - 11:30 FYI - FINAL EPISODE OF "THE DAILY SHOW WITH JON STEWART"

CITY HALL STEPS PRESS CONFERENCES

10 AM
Alliance for Quality Education
"Education Funding"
50 people

11 AM
MINKWON Center For Community Action
"50th Anniversary of Voting Rights Act"
30 people

1 PM
Senator Squadron
"Legislation"
25 people

FLONYC SCHEDULE

12:30 - 1:00 PREP FOR ROUNDTABLE MESSAGE WITH YOU
1:00 - 2:00 ROUNDTABLE MESSAGE WITH YOU
2:15 - 2:45 (T) MEETING WITH COUNCILWOMAN VANESSA GIBSON
5:00 - 5:30 PREP FOR DOMINICAN RECEPTION
5:35 - 6:35 STAFF DEBRIEF // WOMEN'S RIGHTS IN CITY GOVT EXHIBIT
7:00 - 8:00 REMARKS AT MAYOR'S OFFICE DOMINICAN HERITAGE EVENT WITH YOU

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Sent: Thursday, August 06, 2015 6:21 PM
To: B; FLONYC
Subject: MINI SCHEDULE - FRIDAY, AUGUST 7, 2015

SCHEDULE FOR MAYOR BILL DE BLASIO
CITY OF NEW YORK
Friday, August 7, 2015

WEATHER: Hi of 83. Low of 68. Partly Cloudy.
ATTIRE: Business
NOTES: - YOU have 30 mins. to change at the gym

7:30 - 8:00 TRAVEL FROM GRACIE TO 357 9TH STREET
Travel Time: 30 mins.

8:00 - 9:00 WORKOUT
Location: 357 9th Street

9:30 - 10:00 TRAVEL FROM 357 9TH STREET TO 15 MAIDEN LANE // COMMUNICATIONS CALL
Travel Time: 30 mins.

10:00 - 5:00 CALL TIME
Location: 15 Maiden Lane

11:15 - 11:30 PHONE CALL WITH HARTFORD MAYOR PEDRO SEGARRA
Contact: YOU call Mayor's cell [REDACTED]

4:00 - 4:15 PHONE CALL WITH BALTIMORE MAYOR RAWLINGS-BLAKE
Contact: YOU call Mayor's cell [REDACTED]

4:30 - 5:00 CALL WITH ALICIA GLEN
Contact: YOU call Alicia's cell, [REDACTED]

5:00 - 5:30 TRAVEL TIME FROM 15 MAIDEN LANE TO GRACIE MANSION
Travel Time: 30 mins.

7:00 - 9:00 [REDACTED]

CITY HALL STEPS PRESS CONFERENCES

11am – State Senator Kruger “Breast Feeding Caravan” 200 people

FLONYC SCHEDULE

3:30 - 3:45 CALL WITH AMBASSADOR SHABAZZ
5:30 - 7:00 PRIVATE APPOINTMENT IN BROOKLYN

From: Ramirez Ursulina
To: Goldmark, Karin; Walzak, Phil; John Del Cecato \(jfdc@akpdmedia.com\); Blumm, Kate; Shorris, Anthony; Wallack Josh; Hagelgans, Andrea; Snyder, Thomas
Cc: Liss Emmy
Subject: RE: latest ed speech notes?
Date: Thursday, August 06, 2015 2:04:13 PM
Attachments: Framing document UR 8.6.docx

Per our meeting yesterday, attached is a framing document that can help inform the speech outline. Please let us know if you have any questions. There are some numbers we still need to fill in.

Ursulina

From: Goldmark, Karin [mailto:KGoldmark@cityhall.nyc.gov]
Sent: Wednesday, August 05, 2015 11:49 AM
To: Walzak, Phil <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>; John Del Cecato (jfdc@akpdmedia.com) <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Blumm, Kate <KBlumm@cityhall.nyc.gov>; Shorris, Anthony <AShorris@cityhall.nyc.gov>; Wallack Josh <JWallack@schools.nyc.gov>; Ramirez Ursulina <URamirez@schools.nyc.gov>; Hagelgans, Andrea <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>; Snyder, Thomas <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: RE: latest ed speech notes?

- 1) Path to a system fixated on and dedicated to college completion for every student who possibly can
- 2) Comparison—cities, states, global cities—has anyone tried, done, if so what
- 3) How we are working with families to get kids to and through college

A little more bground:

How what we are doing aligns to college completion

What we do/will do at every point if someone falls off path to college

What is the right goal? (What percent just won't make it, where are we starting from)

Research on the goals, actions, and family involvement piece

Contract ("K") w every family

At preK/at birth/at key points

Agree w each parent to a K: we will see their child through college; they will join w us in that commitment

Every year assessing what needs to happen

+ a goal for kids who physically cannot

For every child who chooses to go, at least some commty college

Our obligation to get them there

For them

For sake of whole city (OK I added those two rhetorical flourishes)

Next steps:

- Josh drafting goals and synthesizing research
- Team will get back together Thurs to present to MBdB Friday

From: Walzak, Phil

Sent: Wednesday, August 05, 2015 11:22 AM

To: John Del Cecato (jfdc@akpdmedia.com); Blumm, Kate; Goldmark, Karin; Shorris, Anthony; Wallack Josh (JWallack@schools.nyc.gov) (JWallack@schools.nyc.gov); Ramirez Ursulina (URamirez@schools.nyc.gov); Hagelgans, Andrea; Snyder, Thomas

Subject: latest ed speech notes?

Who has, or is drafting, from last Gracie mtg?

Equity and Excellence, at every step of the way.

Speech Goal - To illustrate a progressive vision on education that focuses on the need for equity and excellence at every key milestone in a student's life. We will focus on an individual child's pathway to college and career, and shift our education system to ensure that every student reaches their full potential. Our relentless focus on equity and excellence will lead our kids to, and through college.

Target 1- Substantially increase our 4 year graduation rate

(75% four-year graduation by 2020 – an additional 5,000 graduates every year)¹

How will we get there?

Reach children as early as possible.

- We will offer a pre-K seat to the family of every 4-year-old that wants one.
 - We will offer the best pre-k program in the country.
 - Program quality highest in the country within X years as measured by national program assessment tool
- All 2nd graders will read successfully, giving them the skills they need to excel in every other subject
 - We will provide targeted reading interventions in 2nd grade for students falling behind
 - 100% of parents of students in K-2 will be aware of their child's reading level by 2017
- Every elementary school child will have access to challenging summer programming because summer learning loss is a serious issue for our students.
 - Increase summer programming for students by 50% by 2018

Ensure every middle school student is socially, emotionally, and academically ready for high school.

- We will eliminate chronic absence and truancy in 6th grade
 - Annual improvement until we reach 100%
- All 7th graders will exhibit the Academic and Personal Behaviors needed to succeed.
 - Add research-based social-emotional learning programs to all middle schools by X
 - Expand afterschool programs for all middle school students, this provides nurturing and academic focus that middle school students need
- All 8th graders will have the math skills they need to succeed in high school
 - Double the percent of students achieving proficiency within 5 years (from 22% (2014) to 44%)

¹ This is based on August graduation. There is typically 4% boost between June and August

- Algebra is often called the gateway to higher level math coursework. We will substantially increase the number of Algebra courses offered to our 8th graders, and maintain a high pass rate for our 8th grade students taking the Algebra Regents
- Target supports for struggling 8th grade students
 - Increase our 8Plus Programs, which targets struggling 8th graders and builds an academic bridge for high school
- Provide middle school students with more arts and sports opportunities
 - Increase by XX

Every student will have a Graduation Plan when they enter 9th Grade

- Increase the number of CTE programs, because CTE students are more likely to graduate high school than their non CTE student counterparts
- Invest in technologies that can improve individual graduation plans
 - Show $ for new visions and grad tracker

Target 2- Make sure our High School Graduates are College Ready

(Double the percent of college- and career-ready graduates by 2025)

How will we get there?

Every high school student will be on track to graduate ready for college, career, and independent living.

- Every 10th grader will have the credits and Regents needed to keep them on track to graduating on-time and college/career-ready
 - X times the number of students on track within Y years

Every high school student will have access to the rigorous coursework that will prepare them to succeed

- Increase access to AP and other advanced courses in traditionally underserved schools
- Increase access to CUNY College Now and other programs that will expose students to college-level material and enable them to begin earning credits
 - In 350 high schools today; grow to X by Y

Target 3- Get our students through college

(20,000 college degrees by 2025)

How will we get there?

We will not allow finances to be a barrier to education

- Initiative to address college affordability could include any of the following:
 - Saving programs – a college savings account for every Pre-K student to support and encourage family savings for college from a young age

- Promise Program – a last-dollar scholarship to ensure no student faces a gap in scholarship funding that prevents them from pursuing their studies. A last-dollar scholarship would grant every graduating senior with a min. 2.5 GPA, 90% high school attendance, and clean disciplinary record with up to $X to close a tuition gap at a CUNY or SUNY institution
- Breaking down barriers citywide – we will identify the oft-forgotten financial challenges that impact many of our students and serve as a major barrier, and implement systemic solutions (e.g., providing all CUNY students with a free MetroCard, like NYC DOE students)

Provide supports to students throughout college

- CUNY ASAP: Students who complete ASAP are more likely to graduate on time and with less debt than their peers. We have committed to expanding ASAP to serve 13,000 students over the next three years, and will continue to support its growth as more and more students graduate

Initiatives that will address students at all grade levels

- We have set targets for interventions at key grade levels to ensure we meet our ultimate goal. Meeting our ultimate goal and these interim targets will be possible when we have built up the capacity of our schools
 - We will make sure that all of our schools have great leaders and teachers and quality curriculum.
 - We will have a relentless focus on our most struggling schools
- To support every student on the path to high school and college graduation, we make a vow to our students:
 - BY 20XX we will create a Personalized Student Success Plan for every child in our education system
 - This will be a living contract between our students, families, teachers, and school leaders that outlines how each student will reach the goal of graduating high school and succeeding to and through college
 - With this contract, every student will be held accountable for driving their own learning, and every teacher, principal, and parent will be accountable for enabling that success

From: Bennett, Rob
To: John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: NON STRESS ACTIVITY - only read this when you need to get away from "it all" - VIP Crowdsourcing
Date: Thursday, August 06, 2015 3:14:56 PM

Yes! Thank you!

Rob Bennett
Chief Photographer
Mayoral Photography Office
The City of New York
C: (347) 583-9470

On Aug 6, 2015, at 3:10 PM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

One thing - his first or second date with Chirlane was at Cafe Mogodor in the East Village

From: "Bennett, Rob" <RobBennett@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Wednesday, August 5, 2015 at 8:03 PM
To: "Walzak, Phil" <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Jonathan Rosen <jonathan@berlinrosen.com>, "Wolfe, Emma" <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Hagelgans, Andrea" <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, Rebecca Katz <[REDACTED]> Peter Ragone <[REDACTED]> "Leopold, Elana" <ELeopold@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Carey, Michael" <MPCarey@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: "Gindler, Maria (Media)" <mgindler@digital.nyc.gov>
Subject: NON STRESS ACTIVITY - only read this when you need to get away from "it all" - VIP Crowdsourcing

Need off-the-top-of-your-head BdB favorite dining/drinking spot intel.

We're cooking up a post for the Mayor/Fam (TBD) on The Infatuation, a food app with a sizable audience. All part of our quest to make Mayor "real" in the digital realm.

I've included you BdB-world VIPs/Park Slope Mafia types b/c you're the most likely to know where the Mayor (& fam) most likes to eat and drink.

I know places like: Bar Toto, Di Fara's, Colson's

Please share whatever places come to mind for you folks. Would be great to get outside of Park Slope too.

We have a wide berth here. Some categories to trigger ideas...

- Authentic Ethnic Eats
- Best Burger Ever
- Date Night
- Impressing Out of Towners
- Late Night Eats
- Quick Eats
- Special Occasions
- Sports on TV
- Unique Dining Experience
- Vegetarians

I am certain you have more important cases on your docket than this one. Please feel free to disregard.

Peace.

R

—

Rob Bennett
Chief Photographer
Director, Mayoral Photography Office
The City of New York
M: (347) 583-9470
O: (212) 341-5095

See our latest work here: NYC.gov/photo

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
To: Snyder, Thomas; Zuniga, Andrea; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Adams Baker, Marti; John Del Cecato \(jfdc@akpdmedia.com\)
Subject: Communications proposal, week of August 10
Date: Thursday, August 06, 2015 4:27:57 PM

COMMUNICATION PROPOSAL: WEEK OF AUGUST 10

-

-

MONDAY, AUGUST 10

Event Title: NYCHA Roof Repairs (PROACTIVE PRESS ON NYCHA!)
Location and why: Queensbridge Houses – the first development undergoing roof replacement as part of NYCHA NextGen. It is the largest public housing development in North America

Headline/Main Message: City begins construction on the first of 66 buildings in Year One to address mold at NYCHA developments by replacing roofs and parapets (the protective wall along roofs).

Showing momentum following the May 9, 2015 announcement of $300 million for NYCHA roof replacement over the next three years.

Participants: Mayor de Blasio, NYCHA Chair Shola Olatoye. NYCHA partners, residents, etc

-

-

-

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 12

Event Title: Announcement ELA and Math Scores in New York City Public Schools

Location and why: TBD High School (ideally a renewal school) with improved test scores – to showcase the accomplishments of that particular institution and others citywide.

Headline/Main Message: New York City public schools continue to make gains; improves across the board in English, math, arts and has most gains of any district in the state.

Highlight the de Blasio Administration’s comprehensive approach to better prepare New York City children for life and careers ahead. Precursor to education speech

Participants: Mayor de Blasio, Schools Chancellor Carmen Fariña, Parents, teachers, principals

-

-

-

-

THURSDAY, AUGUST 13

Event Title: Affordable Housing

Location and why: The Glenmore, Brownsville – this new construction project (mixed use building) will have 161 affordable units, including 96 units reserved for chronically homeless families or families at serious risk of becoming chronically homeless, in which the head of the household suffers from a substance abuse disorder, a disabling medical condition or HIV/AIDS.

Headline/Main Message: De Blasio Administration continues to fight the affordability crisis in New York City and make unprecedented progress towards goal of create or preserve 200k affordable housing units.

Amplify NYC Safe and show movement on providing a pathway out of homelessness for New Yorkers in need of supportive services.

Participants: Mayor de Blasio, Deputy Mayor Alicia Glenn, HPD Commissioner Vicki Been, community voices

ANYTIME THIS WEEK BUT FRIDAY

Event Title: Interview with Rachel Maddow on MSNBC

Location and why: In-Studio (30 Rockefeller)

Headline/Main Message: TPA momentum. A wrap-up of what's been happening since May 12th—not taking credit, but showing the momentum of progressive policies in action, particularly following GOP debate. Minimum wage, paid family leave, paid sick leave (Obama), CEO pay transparency, Rikers Reform

Participants: Mayor de Blasio, Rachel Maddow

Andrea Hagelgans

Office of the Mayor

Direct – 212.341.5372

Cell – 718.679.8965

ahagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
To: B; FLONYC
Cc: Snyder, Thomas; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Walzak, Phil; Spitalnick, Amy \(OMB\); Leopold, Elana; Hinton, Karen; White, Erin; Klein, Monica
Subject: RE: Jon Stewart tweet
Date: Friday, August 07, 2015 10:49:27 AM

Will absolutely do that

From: B
Sent: Friday, August 07, 2015 10:48 AM
To: Hagelgans, Andrea; FLONYC
Cc: Snyder, Thomas; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; Walzak, Phil; Spitalnick, Amy (OMB); Leopold, Elana; Hinton, Karen; White, Erin; Klein, Monica
Subject: Re: Jon Stewart tweet

Cool! And well done. But honestly not by me -- although very much reflects my views. Would really, really help me to regularly get updated as to the words you guys are putting in my mouth. Thanks

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
Sent: Friday, August 07, 2015 10:43 AM
To: B; FLONYC
Cc: Snyder, Thomas; John Del Cecato (jfdc@akpdmedia.com) <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Walzak, Phil; Spitalnick, Amy (OMB); Leopold, Elana; Hinton, Karen; White, Erin
Subject: Jon Stewart tweet

Sir, Ma'am

Wanted to flag for your awareness that this tweet by you on Jon Stewart's last show. It's getting great buzz (retweet of 628, typical retweets under 100 for a post).

Thanks,
Andrea

Bill de Blasio Verified account @BilldeBlasio

Now the only comic relief left on TV is Fox News. #JonVoyage

Andrea Hagelgans
Office of the Mayor
Direct – 212.341.5372
Cell – 718.679.8965
ahagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: Hagelgans, Andrea; B; FLONYC
Cc: John Del Cecato \(jfdc@akpdmedia.com\); Walzak, Phil; Spitalnick, Amy \(OMB\); Leopold, Elana; Hinton, Karen; White, Erin
Subject: Re: Jon Stewart tweet
Date: Friday, August 07, 2015 10:50:18 AM

Very nice!

From: Andrea Hagelgans <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Friday, August 7, 2015 at 10:43 AM
To: Bill de Blasio <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Chirlane McCray <FLONYC@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: Tom Snyder <tsnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>, John Del Ceccato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, "Walzak, Phil" <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Spitalnick, Amy (OMB)" <SpitalnickA@omb.nyc.gov>, Elana Leopold <ELeopold@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Karen Hinton <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "White, Erin" <EWhite@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Jon Stewart tweet

Sir, Ma'am

Wanted to flag for your awareness that this tweet by you on Jon Stewart's last show. It's getting great buzz (retweet of 628, typical retweets under 100 for a post).

Thanks,
Andrea

Bill de Blasio Verified account @BilldeBlasio

Now the only comic relief left on TV is Fox News. #JonVoyage

Andrea Hagelgans
Office of the Mayor
Direct – 212.341.5372
Cell – 718.679.8965
ahagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Klein, Monica
To: B
Cc: [FLONYC; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; \[REDACTED\] "hayley@progressiveagenda.us"](#)
Subject: Re: Tweet
Date: Sunday, August 09, 2015 11:14:35 AM

He wrote:

It's over. Not one word about economic inequality, climate change, Citizens United or student debt. That's why the Rs are so out of touch.

On 8/9/15, 11:13 AM, "B" <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>

>By Bernie Sanders re: what was wrong with R debate. Pls send us all

>

From: B
To: Snyder, Thomas; Leopold, Elana; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Need protected time tmrw
Date: Sunday, August 09, 2015 1:50:36 PM

To prep for Podesta

From: John Del Cecato
To: B; FLONYC; Wolfe, Emma; Fuleihan, Dean \(OMB\)
Subject: Re: Del taxo
Date: Monday, August 10, 2015 9:59:42 AM

I love it (of course!)... We had actually talked about this many months ago
- and I recall that it piqued your interest then... Let's discuss!

On 8/10/15, 9:35 AM, "B" <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>
>Our counter-move: we propose a tax on those making over $500,000 a year >to fund the MTA... :)
>

From: Goldmark, Karin
To: "John Del Cecato"; Wallack Josh; Jonathan Rosen
Subject: RE: policies to test
Date: Monday, August 10, 2015 10:32:05 AM

Sorry for v slow response.

I changed some of these dates because the 2025 date is sooner than it seems—ppl who would graduate college then are already halfway through their journey (7th grade) .

I think for today we need to just have a placeholder and not get into the specifics bc (a) we are still crafting the options here and (b) it would help a lot if we could get aligned on direction and then go hammer this part out.

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, August 05, 2015 3:06 PM
To: KGoldmark@cityhall.nyc.gov; Jonathan Rosen <jonathan@berlinrosen.com>; Wallack Josh <JWallack@schools.nyc.gov>
Subject: policies to test

What do you think of this list - which I took from menu you gave plus some stuff we discussed in mtg last week? I made up some of the dates/stats - just looking for broad strokes to test...

1. Doubling the number of NYC students who graduate from college by 2030
2. Cutting the high school dropout rate in half.
3. Doubling the percentage of students who graduate from NYC public schools who are deemed college-ready.
4. NYC signs a pledge with public school families that says every child who is capable of going to college will get the instruction/resources they need to get to college.
5. Every Second Grader will read on grade level.
6. Double the number of students who are reading successfully within 10 years.
7. 200,000 more NYC students entering college by 2025.
 - Double # of college graduates by 2030
 - 50,000 more college graduates by 2030
8. Add XX community schools, offering mental health services, career counseling, eye exams, and nutrition assistance to all students, by 2020.
9. All 8th Graders will have the math skills they need to succeed in high school.
10. Every student who graduates from NYC public school with a B average will get City support to cut their rate of student loan repayment in half.
11. (ALT) Every student who graduates from NYC public school with a B average will get City support to cut their rate of student loan repayment in half - at whatever New York State college they choose - public, private, or community college.
12. Double funding for 0 to 3 learning by 2020.

13. Double the size of Tuition Assistance Program grants from $5K to $10K.
14. (ALT) Double the size of Tuition Assistance Program grants from $5K to $10K, paid for by putting a 1% tax on currently tax-free university endowments larger than $100 million.
15. New York Promise: up to $5K towards college for every NYC kid.
16. Every kid who graduates college ready will get up to $5K towards college.
17. 529NYC—a college fund for every New York City student, funded by every New Yorker, up to $2500 per student
18. 529NYC—a college fund for every New York City student, funded by every New Yorker, up to $5K per student

From: John Del Cecato
To: Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: Re: maddow
Date: Monday, August 10, 2015 11:31:19 AM

Lemme see if Chris Hayes is around

From: "Hagelgans, Andrea" <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Monday, August 10, 2015 at 11:24 AM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: maddow

I think we should wait for Rachel. He won't see it as worthwhile. Other intvw options?

Sent from my BlackBerry 10 smartphone.

From: John Del Cecato
Sent: Monday, August 10, 2015 11:23 AM
To: Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: Re: maddow

Rachel is off this week - so it would be Ari Melber filling in... What do you think? On the negative side, he won't have the same draw at Rachel/wouldn't build our relationship with her... But on the other hand, substitute hosts tend to play things pretty straight - maybe it would give us more time to engage on pure TPA message?

From: "Hagelgans, Andrea" <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Monday, August 10, 2015 at 10:24 AM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: FW: maddow

From: Zuniga, Andrea
Sent: Monday, August 10, 2015 10:24 AM
To: Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: maddow

What time does she tape?

Andrea Zuniga
Deputy Chief of Staff
Office of the Mayor
azuniga@cityhall.nyc.gov
Office: 212-341-9085
Cell: 917-847-6593

From: John Del Cecato
To: Andrew Friedman; Geri Prado
Subject: Re: Circling back
Date: Monday, August 10, 2015 1:42:05 PM

Hey Andrew... Wanted to connect you with Geri Prado, who is heading up our newly-formed committee vis a vis The Progressive Agenda... You guys should chat!

From: Andrew Friedman <AFriedman@populardemocracy.org>
Date: Monday, August 10, 2015 at 10:59 AM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, Stephanie Yazgi <syazgi@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Circling back

Friends,

I hope all are well.

I just wanted to check-in to see if there are any actionable ideas about connecting Mayor de Blasio and CPD, Local Progress and/or the Putting Families First Campaign. We have a range of exciting campaigns moving – paid sick passing in Pittsburgh, a package of workers bills moving in Minneapolis, as well as the big multi-state push on child care, minimum wage and scheduling issues.

Please let me know if you have any thoughts coming out of our meeting, as things have evolved over there.

Best, -Andrew

Andrew Friedman
Co-Executive Director
Center for Popular Democracy
+ Action for the Common Good
449 Troutman Street, Suite A | Brooklyn, NY 11237
T: 347.915.1753 | F: 718.228.9165

populardemocracy.org | commongoodaction.org

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, May 27, 2015 1:14 PM
To: Andrew Friedman; Yazgi, Stephanie Subject: Re: Meeting!

Same here!

From: Andrew Friedman <AFriedman@populardemocracy.org>
Date: Wednesday, May 27, 2015 at 6:40 AM
To: Stephanie Yazgi <syazgi@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: Meeting!

Thanks, Stephanie!

John, I look forward to getting together.

Best, -Andrew

Andrew Friedman

Co-Executive Director

Center for Popular Democracy

+ Action for the Common Good

449 Troutman Street, Suite A | Brooklyn, NY 11237

T: 347.915.1753 | F: 718.228.9165

populardemocracy.org | commongoodaction.org

From: Yazgi, Stephanie [<mailto:syazgi@cityhall.nyc.gov>]

Sent: Tuesday, May 26, 2015 6:02 PM

To: Andrew Friedman

Cc: John Del Cecato

Subject: Meeting!

Hi folks:

Just wanted to make sure you all had this on your calendars

12PM

Monday

June 1, 2015

253 Broadway, 14th Floor

Just text me when you get to 14, need ID to sign into building

I'm excited to introduce you two!

Thanks,

Stephanie

From: Blumm, Kate
To: Hagelgans, Andrea; Goldmark, Karin; "JWallack@schools.nyc.gov"
Cc: "URamirez@schools.nyc.gov"; Williams, Dominic; John Del Cecato \(jfdc@akpdmedia.com\) (jfdc@akpdmedia.com); Walzak, Phil; Snyder, Thomas; Buery, Richard; Wolfe, Emma
Subject: RE: UPDATED SPEECH DOC
Date: Monday, August 10, 2015 2:53:00 PM

As you'll see, speech structure (for now!) is built around individual moments of a school day – capturing students at every age level. Will update/modify/complete these vignettes—need to make some tougher—challenging moments in a student's life, not just triumphs. Look forward to brainstorming.

Also, will have updated for 3:15 huddle.

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
Sent: Monday, August 10, 2015 2:46 PM
To: Goldmark, Karin; Blumm, Kate; 'JWallack@schools.nyc.gov'
Cc: 'URamirez@schools.nyc.gov'; Williams, Dominic; John Del Cecato (jfdc@akpdmedia.com) (jfdc@akpdmedia.com); Walzak, Phil; Snyder, Thomas; Buery, Richard; Wolfe, Emma
Subject: RE: UPDATED SPEECH DOC

For awareness, Prisca has marked off Tuesday, September 15th for the speech with Monday, September 14th as a down day. This is the week after school has started

From: Goldmark, Karin
Sent: Monday, August 10, 2015 2:45 PM
To: Blumm, Kate; 'JWallack@schools.nyc.gov'
Cc: 'URamirez@schools.nyc.gov'; Williams, Dominic; John Del Cecato (jfdc@akpdmedia.com) (jfdc@akpdmedia.com); Hagelgans, Andrea; Walzak, Phil; Snyder, Thomas; Buery, Richard; Wolfe, Emma
Subject: RE: UPDATED SPEECH DOC

For edu speech prep meeting:

<< File: Meeting ambitious graduation goals.docx >> << File: EDUCATION VISION 2015.docx >>

MBdB asked for three things:

1. Path to and through college for every child who possibly can get there
2. Comparison to cities/states/other global cities
3. Research on: existing/new research on what resonates wrt education/college access

What you see here:

1. Speech outline based on orienting around the north star of every child who possibly can get to college going—we will stop at nothing to make that a reality
 - a. With some placeholders for some of the interventions, including transition to college and a “college money thing” that is not baked yet
 - b. Introducing notion of Personalized Student Success Plan, a new idea discussed in our last meeting and just getting underway in a few states
2. Release about HRC’s proposal to make college more affordable

What else we should be prepared to discuss:

- Other cities/states/other global cities: JW and KG ready to discuss using document (attached) as a guide plus additional info
- Research: What we’ve found out there already, what research we will be doing (JDC?)

Overall, we’d like to propose to MBdB the overarching goal and the format of how we present it, and continue to plug in numbers as we develop them.

If you can huddle at 3:15 we can walk through these together. If not, I nominate Dom to do the intro.

From: Blumm, Kate
Sent: Monday, August 10, 2015 2:31 PM
To: Goldmark, Karin; 'JWallack@schools.nyc.gov'
Cc: 'URamirez@schools.nyc.gov'; Williams, Dominic
Subject: UPDATED SPEECH DOC

See attached. Coming together. Need help on some highlighted stuff. Still working but want you to see.

<< File: EDUCATION VISION 2015.docx >>

EDUCATION VISION 2015: Update August 10, 2:20pm

Speech notes:

- Anti-bureaucratic: child-centered, not system/government-centered
- Anti-status quo – willingness to break down – undercut perceptions we are perpetuating status quo
- Coherence

- Resoluteness
- Historic shifts balanced with deliverables people will notice
- Positive frame, rigorous vision
- All of us are agents of excellence and equity for each child
- Call to arms – our kids can do it; it will take us all (contract)
- Cannot fulfill our destiny unless every child who wants to go to college
CAN

EQUITY AND EXCELLENCE

Every Day, Every Step of The Way

What we believe:

- Every school can and should deliver an excellent education for every child.
- Every child can grow into a successful adult—ready for college, ready for life—if their education gives them the right tools.
- There is no one-size-fits-all approach for either schools or students.
- NYC’s success as a global 21st century city depends on the success of our education system.

What we will do:

- We will address the needs of the whole child.
- We will make parents our partners.
- We will set goals. We will hold ourselves accountable for meeting them.
- We will honor DOE’s commitment to make education free for all students until they are ready for college.

Our vision: A community of teachers, staff, and families grows around every student, supporting them at every turn, academically and personally, to and through college and/or a living wage job.

Our endgame goals:

- 75% four-year graduation by 2020 – an additional 5,000 graduates every year (up from 68%)

- Double the number of college- and career-ready graduates to 50,000 a year 66% by 2025
- Additional XXk college graduates by 2030

Our pledge to get there:

By 20XX, each student that enters the City’s education system will be guided by a Personalized Student Success Plan as guidance through this journey.

This will be a living contract between our students, families, teachers, and school leaders that outlines how each student will reach the goal of graduating high school and succeeding to and through college.

With this contract, every student will be held accountable for driving their own learning, and every teacher, principal, and parent will be accountable for enabling that success

Our vision, come to life:

I. 8am: A four year-old intently focused on building a tower of blocks, as her classmates play behind her – singing with a teacher, drawing early masterpieces, gazing at beginner books.

[THEMES: EARLY LEARNING, HIGH-QUALITY TEACHING]

Goal: Kickstart lifetime of learning by ensuring every four year-old is exposed to a high-quality early learning environment.

What we’ve done towards this (proof we are undercutting status quo):

- Equity: offer a free, high-quality pre-K seat to the family of every 4-year-old that wants one.
- Excellence: Trained, certified teachers in every pre-k classroom

What more we will do:

- Equity:
- Excellence: offer the best pre-k program in the country within X years as measured by national program assessment tool

II. 8:30am: A second grader rides the bus to school with a parent, proudly showing off the book the class has been reading—explaining what it’s about and which character her teacher chose her to play in a class activity yesterday.

[THEMES: READING, PARENT ENGAGEMENT, EXCELLENT TEACHERS, RENEWAL SCHOOLS]

Goal: Every second grader will read, giving them tools to excel in every other subject.

What we've done towards this (proof we are undercutting status quo):

- Equity: Making sure that all of our schools have great teachers and quality curriculum: Reading/writing workshops in Renewal Schools, following the model used at high-performing schools

- Excellence:

What more we will do:

- Equity:

- 100% of parents of students in K-2 will be aware of their child's reading level by 2017

- [What do we do if a kid is off track, struggling to learn to read? What are the "targeted reading interventions"?)

- Excellence:

- Every elementary school child will have access to challenging summer programming because summer learning loss is a serious issue for our students.

- Increase summer programming for students by 50% by 2018 – NEED HARD #s

III. Noon: An eighth grader hunched over an algebra book in the library finally solves $A^2 + B^2 = C^2$, then glanced up at the clock to see how many minutes are left till her guidance counseling session.

[THEMES: COMMUNITY SCHOOL, SOCIAL/EMOTIONAL WORK]

Goal: Every middle school student is socially, emotionally, and academically ready for high school. In 7th grade, show:

- Academic milestones:

- Reading and writing at grade level

- Completion of algebra OR proficiency in 8th grade math

- Knowing how to manage a multi-stage assignment

- Personal milestones:

- Resilience/persistence in dealing with setbacks and challenges

- Conflict resolution: able to overcome conflicts and have healthy relationships with peers
- Healthy management of emotions
- Strong connection to a caring adult

What we've done towards this (proof we are undercutting status quo)

- Equity: Community schools model (color/examples TK from KG) – eye exams
- Excellence: Expand afterschool programs for all middle school students, this provides nurturing and academic focus that middle school students need

What more we will do:

- Equity:
 - Target supports for struggling 8th grade students: improve and increase our 8Plus Programs, which builds an academic bridge for high school – KG to provide data
 - Algebra is often called the gateway to higher level math coursework. We will substantially increase the number of Algebra courses offered to our 8th graders – introducing algebra to XX traditionally underserved schools that do not offer it— and maintain a high pass rate for our 8th grade students taking the Algebra Regents

Excellence:

- We will eliminate chronic absence and truancy in 6th grade – annual improvement from current XX% until we reach 100%
- Add research-based social-emotional learning programs to all middle schools by X – NEED REAL-LIFE DETAILS HERE
- Continue investments to cultivate interests and passions in middle school students with by increasing arts and sports opportunities by XX – IN WHAT SCHOOLS? IS THIS AN EQUITY PLAY? WHAT IS CURRENT INVESTMENT?

IV. 4pm: A tenth grader [in an extended learning period. . .fill in]

[THEMES: RENEWAL SCHOOLS, GREAT PRINCIPALS]

Goal:

- Every high school student will be on track to graduate ready for college, career, and independent living.
- Increase # of 10th graders will credits and Regents needed to keep them on track to graduating on-time and college/career-ready – X times the number of students on track within Y years

- 75% four-year graduation by 2020 – an additional 5,000 graduates every year – up from WHAT?
- Double the percent of college- and career-ready graduates by 2025

What we've done towards this (proof we are undercutting status quo):

Equity:

- As part of relentless focus on our most struggling schools at all levels of education: created Renewal Schools
- Ensuring the best instruction for Renewal and other schools by restaffing administrators and teachers who shouldn't be in a learning environment
- Extending the school day
- Tracking every renewal school student – HOW DOES THIS PLAY AGAINST NEW PERSONAL PLANS
- Knocking down personal barriers: waiving testing fees, WHAT ELSE
- Excellence: ?

What more we will do:

- Equity:
 - Ensure access to rigorous coursework necessary for success : increase # of AP and other advanced courses in traditionally underserved schools – NEED HARD #s HERE
 - Increase the number of CTE programs, because CTE students are more likely to graduate high school than their non CTE student counterparts – and have better outcomes for young male students of color
- Excellence:
 - Increase access to CUNY College Now and other programs that will expose students to college-level material and enable them to begin earning credits
 - In 350 high schools today; grow to X by Y
 - [If a student is off track – what will we do?]

V. 5pm: A college freshman [in an ASAP class – fill in]

Goals:

What we've done towards this (proof we are undercutting status quo)

- Equity: CUNY ASAP: Students who complete ASAP are more likely to graduate on time and with less debt than their peers. We have committed to expanding ASAP to serve 13,000 students over the next three years, and will continue to support its growth as more and more students graduate
- Excellence: Working to improve college advising at CUNY

What more we will do (Raising the bar higher):

- Equity: We will not allow finances to be a barrier to education
 - Saving programs – a college savings account for every student to support and encourage family savings for college from a young age
 - Promise Program – a last-dollar scholarship to ensure no student faces a gap in scholarship funding that prevents them from pursuing their studies
 - Tackling hidden financial barriers – we will identify the oft-forgotten financial challenges that impact many of our students and serve as a major barrier, and implement systemic solutions (e.g., providing all CUNY students with a free MetroCard, like NYC DOE students)
- Excellence:

VI. 8 a.m., the next day: a college senior/recent grad prepares for a job interview.

Goal: 20,000 college degrees by 2025.

See: everything we've just revealed.

From: Blumm, Kate
Sent: Monday, August 10, 2015 12:44 PM
To: Goldmark, Karin; 'JWallack@schools.nyc.gov'
Cc: 'URamirez@schools.nyc.gov'; Williams, Dominic
Subject: FYI RE: Ed speec prep--small chain

Hillary Clinton to Offer Plan on Paying College Tuition Without Needing Loans

By PATRICK HEALY AUG. 10, 2015

With Americans shouldering $1.2 trillion in student loan debt, and about eight million of them in default, Hillary Rodham Clinton on Monday will propose major new spending by the federal government that would help undergraduates pay tuition at public colleges without needing loans.

Mrs. Clinton does not go as far as her Democratic presidential opponents in promising to end tuition debt altogether, since her plan would still require a family contribution that could involve parents taking out loans to cover some tuition.

But her proposals, which would cost $350 billion over 10 years and include new refinancing options for those already struggling with debt, are an aggressive response to what many Americans — Democrats and Republicans alike — see as a worsening crisis forcing young adults to move back home with their parents and struggle to get out from under repayment bills.

Under the plan, which was outlined by Clinton advisers on Sunday, about $175 billion in grants would go to states that guarantee that students would not have to take out loans to cover tuition at four-year public colleges and universities. In return for the money, states would have to end budget cuts to increase spending over time on higher education, while also working to slow the growth of tuition, though the plan does not require states to cap it.

Many states have reduced college spending sharply since the recession; one of Mrs. Clinton's Republican rivals in the presidential race, Gov. Scott Walker of Wisconsin, signed a two-year budget last month that cuts spending for the University of Wisconsin system by $250 million. Tuition and fees for in-state residents at public colleges nationwide have increased by more than 40 percent since 2004 after adjusting for inflation.

Mrs. Clinton would pay for the plan by capping the value of itemized deductions that wealthy families can take on their tax returns. The tax and spending elements of her proposal would need support from Congress — a tall order, since it is now run by Republicans — while the plan's goals would depend on support from state governors and legislators, more and more of whom have been Republicans recently.

But some education analysts said they believed her debt relief ideas would have a chance in a Republican-led House and Senate because anxieties about high tuition cross party lines.

“There is a lot of bipartisan interest in issues of college affordability, and bipartisan support for Pell Grants, student loans and other federal programs,” said Robert Shireman, who advised President Obama and President Bill Clinton on education issues, and who offered input on the plan to the Clinton campaign. “The compact proposed by Hillary Clinton is a strong starting point for a discussion that zeros in on the issues that are in the public mind and have been raised by leaders in both parties: accountability, outcomes, college costs, and manageable loan repayment.”

Mrs. Clinton, who will officially announce the plan at a campaign event on Monday in Exeter, N.H., would also allow Americans to refinance private loans at lower interest rates; let students use their Pell Grants fully for living expenses; expand the AmeriCorps national service program, which provides an education benefit and was started by President Clinton, to 250,000 members from 75,000 members; and impose penalties on colleges whose graduates cannot repay their loans.

The Clinton proposals might fare better than those offered by her two main opponents for the Democratic nomination, Senator Bernie Sanders of Vermont and former Gov. Martin O'Malley of Maryland, because unlike them, she is not relying mostly on the government to deal with student debt. Colleges would have to hold down costs and show improvements on graduation rates, for instance. Mr. Sanders has proposed spending about $47 billion a year to end public college tuition, with another $23 billion a year coming from states; Mr. O'Malley has proposed his own debt-free plan, though a campaign spokeswoman said there was no cost estimate yet.

Sandy Baum, an independent higher education policy analyst who advised the Clinton campaign on the plan, said it "doesn't pretend that the federal government can wave a magic wand and fix everything."

Yet her plan does not go as far as some liberal advocacy groups would like, because she still expects families to make a "realistic" contribution to cover some tuition costs — through savings or loans — while students would contribute based on wages from 10 hours of work per week. In contrast Mr. O'Malley proposed "an aggressive goal — to give every student and their family the opportunity to go to college debt-free," said Lis Smith, his deputy campaign manager.

Rohit Chopra, a former student loan ombudsman at the federal Consumer Financial Protection Bureau, said that the plan would "clean up much of the chaos" in the college loan industry by overhauling subsidies for student loan companies and for-profit colleges, helping students refinance loans at lower interest rates, penalizing schools that defraud veterans using their G.I. Bill benefits, and making it easier for more students to tie their monthly loan repayment amount to their income.

"As a regulator, I spotted manipulation of payments to maximize fees, steering into repayment plans that were not in the best interest of borrowers, and illegal mistreatment of military families," Mr. Chopra said. "The plan helps to fix all of these problems."

From: John Del Cecato
To: Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: Re: maddow
Date: Monday, August 10, 2015 3:12:08 PM

Chris Hayes is in... Is there a day that works best - or should we just plan on Thursday? Hayes can do live at 8pm - or live to tape whenever

From: "Hagelgans, Andrea" <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Monday, August 10, 2015 at 11:24 AM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: maddow

I think we should wait for Rachel. He won't see it as worthwhile. Other intvw options?

Sent from my BlackBerry 10 smartphone.

From: John Del Cecato
Sent: Monday, August 10, 2015 11:23 AM
To: Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: Re: maddow

Rachel is off this week - so it would be Ari Melber filling in... What do you think? On the negative side, he won't have the same draw at Rachel/wouldn't build our relationship with her... But on the other hand, substitute hosts tend to play things pretty straight - maybe it would give us more time to engage on pure TPA message?

From: "Hagelgans, Andrea" <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Monday, August 10, 2015 at 10:24 AM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: FW: maddow

From: Zuniga, Andrea
Sent: Monday, August 10, 2015 10:24 AM
To: Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: maddow

What time does she tape?

Andrea Zuniga
Deputy Chief of Staff
Office of the Mayor
azuniga@cityhall.nyc.gov
Office: 212-341-9085
Cell: 917-847-6593

From: Ramirez Ursulina
To: Blumm, Kate
Cc: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Hagelgans, Andrea; Walzak, Phil; Shorris, Anthony; Griffith, Chantell; Goldmark, Karin; Williams, Dominic; jonathan@berlinrosen.com; John Del Cecato; Leopold, Elana; Chao, Raymond; Devora Kaye; Wallack Josh; Thornton, Demetrius; Wolfe, Emma; Schnake Mahl, Gabriel; Cutler, Dorothy; Buery, Richard; Confer, Alexis
Subject: Re: MBDB: Education Speech Prep
Date: Monday, August 10, 2015 3:42:55 PM

Yes. We are here outside press office.

Sent from my iPhone

On Aug 10, 2015, at 3:40 PM, "Blumm, Kate"
<KBlumm@cityhall.nyc.gov<<mailto:KBlumm@cityhall.nyc.gov>>> wrote:

OK

Team DOE – if you are here, can we huddle?

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Sent: Monday, August 10, 2015 3:40 PM
To: Hagelgans, Andrea; Blumm, Kate; Walzak, Phil; Shorris, Anthony; Griffith, Chantell; 'URamirez@schools.nyc.gov<<mailto:URamirez@schools.nyc.gov>>'; Goldmark, Karin; Williams, Dominic; 'jonathan@berlinrosen.com<<mailto:jonathan@berlinrosen.com>>'; John Del Cecato; Leopold, Elana; Chao, Raymond; Devora Kaye; 'Wallack Josh (JWallack@schools.nyc.gov<<mailto:JWallack@schools.nyc.gov>>)'; Thornton, Demetrius; Wolfe, Emma; Schnake Mahl, Gabriel
Cc: Cutler, Dorothy; Buery, Richard; Confer, Alexis
Subject: RE: MBDB: Education Speech Prep

We are delayed

-----Original Appointment-----

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Sent: Thursday, August 06, 2015 11:59 AM
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Hagelgans, Andrea; Blumm, Kate; Walzak, Phil; Shorris, Anthony; Griffith, Chantell; 'URamirez@schools.nyc.gov<<mailto:URamirez@schools.nyc.gov>>'; Goldmark, Karin; Williams, Dominic; 'jonathan@berlinrosen.com<<mailto:jonathan@berlinrosen.com>>'; John Del Cecato; Leopold, Elana; Chao, Raymond; Devora Kaye; 'Wallack Josh (JWallack@schools.nyc.gov<<mailto:JWallack@schools.nyc.gov>>)'; Thornton, Demetrius; Wolfe, Emma; Schnake Mahl, Gabriel
Cc: Cutler, Dorothy; Buery, Richard; Confer, Alexis
Subject: MBDB: Education Speech Prep
When: Monday, August 10, 2015 3:30 PM-4:30 PM (UTC-05:00) Eastern Time (US & Canada).
Where: City Hall, The Blue Room

From: Blumm, Kate
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com" (jfdc@akpdmedia.com)
Subject: are you here? FW: MBDB: Education Speech Prep
Date: Monday, August 10, 2015 3:45:00 PM

Want to come up??

From: Blumm, Kate
Sent: Monday, August 10, 2015 3:41 PM
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Hagelgans, Andrea; Walzak, Phil; Shorris, Anthony; Griffith, Chantell; 'URamirez@schools.nyc.gov'; Goldmark, Karin; Williams, Dominic; 'jonathan@berlinrosen.com'; John Del Cecato; Leopold, Elana; Chao, Raymond; Devora Kaye; 'Wallack Josh (JWallack@schools.nyc.gov)'; Thornton, Demetrius; Wolfe, Emma; Schnake Mahl, Gabriel
Cc: Cutler, Dorothy; Buery, Richard; Confer, Alexis
Subject: RE: MBDB: Education Speech Prep

OK

Team DOE – if you are here, can we huddle?

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Sent: Monday, August 10, 2015 3:40 PM
To: Hagelgans, Andrea; Blumm, Kate; Walzak, Phil; Shorris, Anthony; Griffith, Chantell; 'URamirez@schools.nyc.gov'; Goldmark, Karin; Williams, Dominic; 'jonathan@berlinrosen.com'; John Del Cecato; Leopold, Elana; Chao, Raymond; Devora Kaye; 'Wallack Josh (JWallack@schools.nyc.gov)'; Thornton, Demetrius; Wolfe, Emma; Schnake Mahl, Gabriel
Cc: Cutler, Dorothy; Buery, Richard; Confer, Alexis
Subject: RE: MBDB: Education Speech Prep

We are delayed

-----Original Appointment-----

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Sent: Thursday, August 06, 2015 11:59 AM
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Hagelgans, Andrea; Blumm, Kate; Walzak, Phil; Shorris, Anthony; Griffith, Chantell; 'URamirez@schools.nyc.gov'; Goldmark, Karin; Williams, Dominic; 'jonathan@berlinrosen.com'; John Del Cecato; Leopold, Elana; Chao, Raymond; Devora Kaye; 'Wallack Josh (JWallack@schools.nyc.gov)'; Thornton, Demetrius; Wolfe, Emma; Schnake Mahl, Gabriel
Cc: Cutler, Dorothy; Buery, Richard; Confer, Alexis
Subject: MBDB: Education Speech Prep
When: Monday, August 10, 2015 3:30 PM-4:30 PM (UTC-05:00) Eastern Time (US & Canada).
Where: City Hall, The Blue Room

From: Geri Prado
To: B
Cc: John Del Cecato
Subject: Request for your thoughts- follow up on Co-Chairs for TPA
Date: Monday, August 10, 2015 4:47:12 PM
Attachments: Memo re Co Chairs MBDB \(8-8-15\).docx

Mayor:

To follow up on our conversation, specifically re: co-chairs of TPA I'm suggesting initial suggestions for your consideration. If we could attract this group it would beget other high level organizations and individuals in addition to the work you are doing.

Suggestions:

Business leader- Warren Buffett*, Bill Gates*, Nick Hanauer

Faith community- Reverend William Barber, Catholic leader (need to reconcile c3 here)

Working People- National AFL-CIO officer, Maria Elena Durazo

Policy experts- Robert Reich, Joseph Stiglitz

Online/Grassroots- Senator Elizabeth Warren, economic "conservative"

Civil Rights (?)- Congressman John Lewis, Dolores Huerta

*(unlikely but worth asking),  need to explain rationale

Reason/Criteria:

Represent a sector of the advocacy world or certain targeted audiences, policy makers. Therefore, the person should have a wide reach and be largely respected nationally by not only progressives but those in that field/sector;

Help elevate the prominence, seriousness of the issue. Unexpected bedfellows of high profile people who represent various interests AND have national reach are good targets. Examples- members of the business community and those who represent poverty issues or working people/labor issues. Think movement leadership;

Help raise money for TPA- while not all will be able to help or have inroads into donor communities, most should. Or they should add to the strategic and focused nature and lend credibility among donor circles. Each would need to commit to raise $250,000 over two years (with the exception of faith);

Represent the New American Majority- having women, Latino, African American and those who appeal to millennial and those on the cusp of Generation X show diversity but also a strength in partnerships to fight income inequality

Lastly, they should be able to sign on more support through online, political outreach and other methods based on the credibility of their work in their area of expertise.

August 8, 2015

TO: MAYOR BILL de BLASIO

FR: GERI PRADO

CC: TOM SNYDER, JOHN DEL CECATO

RE: ELITE CO-CHAIRS FOR THE PROGRESSIVE AGENDA

As the Mayor of the largest city, the unique and powerful platform allows for a springboard into the media and to raise initial money. However, as Mayor of the largest city, it's imperative you are flanked with elites in different advocacy movements to help bring TPA to the next level and are able to reach into different communities, demographics and geographic areas in order to continue the work in the city but also to show that you can gather a group of elites around the most important issue of our day.

Reasons, criteria:

- Represent a sector of the advocacy world or certain targeted audiences, policy makers. Therefore, the person should have a wide reach and be largely respected nationally by not only progressives but those in that field/sector;
- Help elevate the prominence, seriousness of the issue. Unexpected bedfellows of high profile people who represent various interests AND have national reach are good targets. Examples- members of the business community and those who represent poverty issues or working people/labor issues. Think movement leadership;
- Help raise money for TPA- while not all will be able to help or have inroads into donor communities, most should. Or they should add to the strategic and focused nature and lend credibility among donor circles. Each would need to commit to raise $250,000 over two years (with the exception of faith);
- Represent the New American Majority- having women, Latino, African American and those who appeal to millennial and those on the cusp of Generation X show diversity but also a strength in partnerships to fight income inequality
- Lastly, they should be able to sign on more support through online, political outreach and other methods based on the credibility of their work in their area of expertise.

Locking down co-chairs quick would allow us to work with them on fundraising, press and outreach strategies. They would be rolled out with you as founding chair.

Suggestions:

- Business leader- Warren Buffett*, Bill Gates*, Nick Hanauer
- Faith community- Reverend William Barber, Catholic leader
- Working People- Dolores Huerta, Liz Shuler (ST of the national AFL-CIO)
- Policy experts- Robert Reich, Joseph Stiglitz
- Activist- Senator Elizabeth Warren, economic "conservative"
- Civil Rights (?)- Congressman John Lewis

*(unlikely but worth asking),  need to explain rationale

Timeline: commitments by September 1; Needs: Prospectus to give them and expectations to lay out

From: John Del Cecato
To: Snyder, Thomas
Cc: Hinton, Karen; Hagelgans, Andrea; Walzak, Phil
Subject: TPA press time request
Date: Monday, August 10, 2015 6:11:31 PM

THURSDAY, AUGUST 13TH

Event Title: Live or Live-to-Tape interview with Chris Hayes of MSNBC

Location and why: In-studio at MSNBC. Would be an interview to discuss all the positive developments re: TPA items. We would not be taking credit for all of these developments, but rather showing the momentum of progressive policies in action. Min wage hikes, paid family leave, paid sick leave (Obama), CEO pay transparency, Rikers reform, student loan debt (HRC).

Headline/Main Message: Income inequality is the crisis of our time, and there is a progressive movement for real change out there. From the Fight for 15, to paid sick and family leave initiatives, to a new focus on closing corporate tax loopholes - this is where the American people are - and it's where candidates and elected officials need to be.

Participants: Mayor de Blasio, Chris Hayes

From: Geri Prado
To: John Del Cecato
Cc: B
Subject: Re: Just talked to the Senator
Date: Monday, August 10, 2015 8:11:46 PM

Trumkas speech on TPP

Home > Press Room > Speeches > U.S. Trade Policy and Ameri...

U.S. Trade Policy and American Workers: Finding the Elusive Win-Win Solution - Peterson Institute for International Economics

Share 0 Facebook 0

Richard L. Trumka • March 18, 2015 • Washington, D.C.

Thank you, Adam, for your kind words, and I'd like to thank you and the Peterson Institute for inviting me to speak today. It's good to be here.

We spend a lot of time talking about trade, all of us. If you read the newspapers, it doesn't take long to pick up the battle lines, the main theories and talking points. But at the end of the day, the partisan battles are just so much noise. For me, it's all got to come back to one simple question: Is our trade policy working for America's workers and for our nation as a whole?

The simple answer is no. It isn't. I don't think anyone can credibly argue that America's trade policies are working for American workers, for our friends from the neighborhood, for our kids or our home towns.

And nor do I think the macroeconomic numbers support an argument that our current trade policy is working—whether you look at our chronic current account deficits, our net international debt position, or the broader labor market data on wage stagnation and growing inequality.

So I say again—I simply don't believe that argument can credibly be made.

Jeb Bush, Florida's former governor and now a presidential hopeful, recently said economic immobility and America's struggling middle class are the defining issues of our time. Trade policy as it has been pursued since NAFTA, and as it is currently conceived in fast track and existing drafts of the TPP, is a significant contributor to those problems.

We all heard President Obama in his most recent State of the Union when he said we must make sure everybody in our country has the tools to succeed. Pope Francis has made it his global mission to see that humanity is served by wealth, not ruled by it.

Those goals should be shared by all of us when we talk about the next big steps in our global economy. I spend a lot of time talking to working people, the people who elected me and pay my salary—and the vast majority of them are far from Wall Street and Washington, D.C. These are people who have seen jobs go away, and the numbers on pay stubs remain stubbornly flat or even fall.

Trade needs to work for all of us, every one of us, and that's why we need a real debate in America about what we are trying to do when we make trade deals. Because the right answer can never be the sole purview of corporate America.

The question we should start with is: How can our trade deals help us reach our shared goals?

For more than 20 years, we have looked at trade through the very narrow lens of corporate interests. In truth, our trade deals were not really trade deals—they were investment deals. Their goal was not to promote America's exports—it was to make it easier for global corporations to move capital offshore and ship goods back to America. The logical outcome was trade deficits and falling wages—and that's exactly what we got.

Now it's time to adopt a broader lens that prompts a national conversation, rather than one that pushes trade as a corporate entitlement.

You see, our trade deals must do more than increase next-quarter returns on Wall Street. Our trade agreements should advance an economy that creates good jobs in America, and that enables regular working people to succeed by working hard to get ahead.

The American labor movement has long said, loud and clear, that good trade agreements must improve wages and working conditions for workers around the globe, not just here in the United States. We have insisted, and will continue to insist, that has to be the yardstick we use to measure trade deals.

We live, shop, work, and play in a globalized economy. That's the way the world is. Yet that doesn't mean working people are destined to suffer. Our trade agreements should advance the United States' interests, and at the same time contribute to the overall development of the world's economy and rising living standards for all.

I'm asking you to visualize how trade policy can shape economic activity throughout global supply chains differently than it does today – not by greasing the skids for a global race to the bottom, but by incentivizing and rewarding innovation and creating good jobs. That's how we can begin to shape the competitive strategies we want to encourage here in the United States and among our trading partners. That is how trade policy can help to balance the world economy and stabilize global financial markets. And that is how we lay the groundwork for working people to earn a fair share of the value we create, rather than simply lining the pockets of a tiny global elite while setting our financial system up for future crises.

Today, as we discuss Fast Track, as well as the Trans-Pacific Partnership—we should focus on the issues of what is our national interest, and how can our trade policies advance it?

I'll spell out my positions on these two important questions, and in doing so I'll make the case against passing Fast Track for TPP.

First, the goal of our trade policies should be for the United States and the people who live here to have a fair chance to compete for investment and jobs in the world economy. Our goal should be a world economy that is structured around a virtuous cycle of broad-based rising incomes and rising living standards, rather than a vicious cycle of falling incomes and financial instability.

Some of what I'm going to say is pointed, because, you see, working people have been pretty badly burned by existing trade deals.

One basic problem is that much of the trade debate is actually a debate about whether we should debate trade policy—or just accept what we are handed by unaccountable elites. That's plain wrong. Every single thing in our trade deals should be openly discussed and subject to public oversight and the full legislative process. There should be no question about that. Fast track is wrong and undemocratic, it's a rotten process, and the American labor movement intends to kill it.

If the American people understood all the devices in these deals that can be used to fight policies to make our food and workplaces safe, keep our air and water clean, and even just provide simple labels for consumers, they would be up in arms.

I am one-hundred percent confident that the average person doesn't want American trade law to give global corporations the most favorable possible investment terms while threatening our own democratic decision-making institutions and feeding global economic imbalances. I don't think that'll sell.

We in the labor movement are not buying. "Democracy" should be the way we decide. People should not be made to accept more trade policies negotiated in secret by corporate interests that destroy jobs, exert downward pressure on American living standards, cause us to run accelerating current account deficits, place us in a vulnerable financial position, and contribute to the imbalances that led to the economic crisis that began in 2007.

That's how it's been done for the last thirty years. The evidence is on the table and the verdict is clear. Trade policy has not worked for working people nor for our country as a whole and it's time to change and move forward.

Washington's old corporate approach to trade policy is directly contrary to our overall national policy objectives, especially in areas of profound strategic importance to the United States, such as Central and South America and East Asia. This is because our trade policy has been designed to suppress wage growth in these economies and to stunt the development of governments capable of regulating their own economies and labor markets in their own national interest.

So where does TPP stand in my estimation? It's hard to say because nobody I know has seen the whole thing. That's problematic in itself. But what I am aware of tells me this: It simply isn't a high-standards agreement in relation either to TPP member countries or to China. And it is especially poorly conceived regarding key areas that will have strategic importance to the United States in a multi-polar 21st century.

Let me break that down:

The public portions of TPP include no meaningful language addressing currency manipulation, and no language addressing how member countries commit to reducing carbon emissions.

In the critical area of labor rights, there is no reason to believe TPP's labor rights provisions will ensure that workers in all 12 TPP countries will be able to organize and bargain for a fair share of the wealth they produce. The labor framework of prior trade agreements has been wholly ineffective at dealing with labor rights violations in small countries like Guatemala and Honduras. And, while the "May 10" agreement between President Bush and House Democrats was a significant step forward, even this advance has been unable to address the serious labor rights violations in Colombia, even in the context of a U.S. administration committed to labor rights enforcement.

According to press accounts and USTR statements, one thing TPP does include is Investor-State Dispute Settlement. ISDS is just a fancy way to give corporations a special legal system that circumvents democratically accountable laws and courts.

ISDS allows corporations to directly challenge almost any law or regulation based on ill-defined concepts such as "fair and equitable treatment." In contrast, all provisions for enforcing labor rights in TPP require action by member governments—neither workers nor unions can enforce the labor rights provisions on their own even by suing in national courts.

I'm not just talking theory here. In the first three years of the Labor Action Plan in Colombia, 73 trade unionists were murdered for trying to organize workers. These are men and women just like you and me who were killed for trying to exercise their rights under the law and speak in a collective voice. That's terrible, and yet these trade deals have been completely ineffective in addressing this injustice. And the U.S. government has taken no official "trade" action in response. Anyone with a lick of common sense can tell you that not only are these killings a human rights catastrophe, they are driving down wages and workplace standards in Colombia—and in every country that trades with Colombia.

But here's the thing: unlike the clunky labor provisions, which require workers to wait for government action, these ISDS provisions can be used immediately by multinational firms to challenge efforts by TPP member countries to develop a modern regulatory state in key areas. ISDS tilts the playing field away from democracy, from workers and consumers, and toward big business and multinational investors.

Now, sometimes we are told that TPP's key objective is to allow U.S. firms to keep control of global supply chains. We're told that will benefit us here in America.

Forgive me if I pour a little cold water on those claims. No one has been able to explain how an agreement that seems focused on helping U.S. companies use their control over supply chains to move work to low-wage countries will help the United States or the people who live and work here. Frankly, after what happened with NAFTA, and China PNTR, and the Korea Trade Agreement, I don't understand how anyone can make these arguments with a straight face.

The TPP as described by USTR just isn't consistent with the promises being made about how it will solve our problems with China. If anything, TPP gives China improved access to our market (via weak rules of origin), undermines existing understandings with China in the area of carbon emissions, and paves the way for China to enjoy the full benefits of TPP without addressing its use of currency policies to subsidize its exports.

Quite frankly, TPP would be a step backward. But it is not too late to address these problems.

For example, ISDS could be deleted from the trade deal. Scratch. It's gone. Most everybody outside the United States would be delighted to see it go, so happy in fact that they might agree to strong language on currency manipulation. Making those two changes would also be popular here in America – on both sides of the aisle.

And while the negotiators are at it, they could fix the holes that have allowed the Honduras labor rights case to languish for three years and the Guatemala case for six. Fix the weak rules of origin that China will exploit to its benefit. Add in provisions to address climate change and rebalance the pro-Wall Street tilt in the financial services, procurement, and food safety chapters. Then we can talk about it being a step forward instead of back.

Don't let anyone tell you the labor movement is opposed to trade agreements. The labor movement is opposed to bad trade agreements.

Bad provisions like ISDS continue to have life only because they remain largely unknown, hidden in the dark. In the sunlight, they'll vanish. I'm sure of it. That's why Congress should reject Fast Track.

How many more ugly, unpopular, undemocratic provisions will be locked in by fast track? I don't know. None of us do. That's why Fast Track is so destructive.

But what if Fast Track is rejected? What should be the nuts-and-bolts of a new trade deal? Our trade policy should have the explicit goal of eliminating our trade deficit and restoring the U.S. to balanced trade.

Our greatest priority in trade negotiations should be to create a level playing field for the people who live in America to compete, not to create special deals for corporations that happen to be incorporated here.

And in tandem with that principle, our government should provide help to companies based on whether they are creating good jobs in the United States, not whether they are incorporated in the United States. That should be the test for import-export financing, for tax policy and, most of all, for entrée to the discussions about framing our trade policy.

Special legislative procedures like Fast Track should be used only when Congress has complete confidence that our government is pursuing the right policies.

After this country's experience with corporate-dominated trade policies—the millions of lost jobs, the massive structural trade deficits, decades of falling wages—neither Congress nor the American people have that kind of confidence in those who lead our trade policy. It's time to change the paradigm.

Let's move forward as a nation. We have an agenda in the American labor movement—Raising Wages. We're working on it at every level and in every corner of the country. We support fast food workers in the Fight for $15 an hour. We support Walmart workers, who recently fought for and won a raise—not enough of a raise but Walmart workers showed that the way to raise wages is to stand up and fight. And this year, 5 million union members are negotiating for higher wages, better benefits and safer working conditions.

The wages of working people have basically not gone up a dime since 1997 (when inflation is taken into account). Since then, all of the gains from increased productivity, not some, not most, but all, have gone to the people who need it least.

We know that our trade policy is a critical part of the structure of our economy—a structure that either is about raising wages or pushing wages down. We need a trade policy that supports raising wages, just like we need to invest in 21st century infrastructure and education and a skilled work force, to raise the minimum wage, to reform our labor laws, to ensure our tax policies are consistent with supporting good jobs and raising wages, and to deliver full employment. by ensuring that our macroeconomic policy doesn't cut off recovery before it happens.

We know that raising wages will be good for our families, for local businesses and our communities, and for America as a whole. We're going to lay the groundwork for raising wages by rejecting Fast Track and, if it isn't fixed, by rejecting the TPP. And then we will pursue a productive and balanced trade deal in the Pacific. We know we can only accomplish this by welcoming and engaging in a vigorous and open debate over trade policy.

That, my friends, is how we'll find the elusive win-win trade agreement.

On Aug 10, 2015, at 7:40 PM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

On 7/22/15, 4:35 PM, "B" <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

This is very good. Definitely want to deepen the relationship with Merkley

-----Original Message-----

From: Senator Jeff Merkley

To: Bill de Blasio

To: Piorkowski, Jennifer (Merkley)

Subject: Re: Just talked to the Senator

Sent: Jul 22, 2015 4:11 AM

Bill --

Glad it was helpful. I look forward to getting together during your next trip here.

My Exec. Assistant, JP, (Jennifer Piorkowski) can arrange breakfast or dinner plans.

She is at [REDACTED]

But don't hesitate to call or text me directly.

All my best, Jeff

On Mon, Jul 20, 2015 at 10:51 PM, Bill de Blasio

<[REDACTED] wrote:

Jeff, I'm sorry for the slow response. The summary you sent along is extraordinarily helpful and much appreciated. I plan to borrow from it liberally (so to speak) when I meet with Hillary and/or her team. I'd like to follow up with you after that. Also, I'd really like to get together and talk about all this further. I know your schedule's challenging, but I'll reach out when I'm next in DC. Or let me know if you're coming to NYC for any reason. Look forward to seeing you. Thanks -
Bill

Sent via BlackBerry by AT&T From: Mary Sorteberg

<[REDACTED] Date: Tue, 14 Jul 2015 17:39:53 -0400 To:

<[REDACTED] Subject: Re: Just talked to the Senator

Bill-

It was a pleasure to speak last night.

I'm sending you specific policy points on both global warming and TPP. Her comments in both areas to date are lacking any policy substance.

By the way, Hillary attended our caucus today; I asked her to get more specific on changes needed in TPP and that that would help produce a better agreement while changes can still be made. She responded that she would look at suggestions and I provided a list to John Podesta similar to the TPP points below.

All my best, Jeff Merkley

Global Warming:

Hillary says that we need more subsidies for renewable energy and more conservation. This is a starting point, but far from serious leadership. Here are several things she should say if she wants to lead on the most pressing issue threatening our planet:

1) We need to keep 80% of identified fossil fuels in the ground if we are going to save the planet. To do so will take serious leadership and I am ready to be that leader.

2) I will oppose any pipeline de

From: John Del Cecato
To: B
Subject: NYT poll
Date: Monday, August 10, 2015 8:43:53 PM

Link:

http://www.nytimes.com/interactive/2015/06/03/business/income-inequality-workers-rights-international-trade-poll.html?_r=0

Among the findings (JDC summary):

- <!--[if !supportLists]--> <!--[endif]-->66 percent of all Americans believe that money and wealth should be distributed more evenly.
- <!--[if !supportLists]--> <!--[endif]-->65 percent believe the income gap must be addressed now.
- <!--[if !supportLists]--> <!--[endif]-->68 percent support higher taxes on millionaires.
- <!--[if !supportLists]--> <!--[endif]-->80 percent favor paid family leave.
- <!--[if !supportLists]--> <!--[endif]-->85 percent back paid sick leave.

NYT story:

Inequality Troubles Americans Across Party Lines, Times/CBS Poll Finds

Photo

A protest in Los Angeles. Workers at fast-food restaurants are seeking higher wages and have demonstrated in support. Credit Paul Buck/European Pressphoto Agency

Americans are broadly concerned about inequality of wealth and income despite an economy that has improved by most measures, a sentiment that is already driving the 2016 presidential contest, according to a New York Times/CBS News poll.

The poll found that a strong majority say that wealth should be more evenly divided and that it is a problem that should be addressed urgently. Nearly six in 10 Americans said government should do more to reduce the gap between the rich and the poor, but they split sharply along partisan lines.

Only one-third of Republicans supported a more active government role, versus eight in 10 of Democrats.

These findings help explain the populist appeals from politicians of both parties, but particularly Democrats, who are seeking to capitalize on the sense among Americans that the economic recovery is benefiting only a handful at the very top.

Far from a strictly partisan issue, inequality looms large in the minds of almost half of Republicans and two-thirds of independents, suggesting that it will outlive the presidential primary contests and become a central theme in next year's general election campaign.

Graphic

Americans' Views on Income Inequality and Workers' Rights

Americans overwhelmingly favor a variety of proposals aimed at strengthening workers' rights, including paid sick leave and paid family leave, the latest New York Times/CBS News poll finds. A majority, moreover, continues to support raising the federal minimum wage to $10.10.

Continue reading the main story

“There is a small group of people in our country who own or control a vast majority of the wealth,” Stephanie Altoneder, 28, a Democrat and a high school teacher from Los Angeles, said in a follow-up interview. “There are a lot of systems set up so that the people who have money get to make more of it.”

The percentage of Americans who say everyone has a fair chance to get ahead in today's economy has fallen 17 percentage points since early 2014. Six in 10 Americans now say that only a few people at the top have an opportunity to advance.

OPEN Graphic

The nationwide telephone poll, conducted on landlines and cellphones May 28-31 with 1,022 adults, has a margin of sampling error of plus or minus three percentage points.

The survey touched on several issues relating to the economy and the workplace, showing that four in five Americans support requiring employers to offer paid parental leave, and even more support paid sick leave. A majority also favors requiring chain stores and fast-food restaurants to inform workers of scheduling changes two weeks in advance or to compensate them with additional pay if they fail to do so.

Seven in 10 Americans support an increase in the federal minimum wage to $10.10 from $7.25 an hour, although Republicans are about evenly divided on the question.

Americans were also skeptical of free trade. Nearly two-thirds favored some form of trade restrictions, and more than half opposed giving the president authority to negotiate trade agreements that Congress could only vote up or down without amending, a White House priority.

Document

A New York Times/CBS News Poll on Income Inequality and Workers' Rights

Nearly six in 10 Americans said government should do more to reduce the gap between the rich and the poor, but they split sharply along partisan lines, according to a New York Times/CBS News poll.

Continue reading the main story

Still, it was Americans' views on the distribution of money and opportunity in the country that were most striking. More than half of higher-income Americans said that money and wealth should be more evenly distributed. Across party lines, most Americans said the chance to get ahead was mainly a luxury for those at the top.

 OPEN Document

“People have to get a high school education and they have to go to college as well, and then they go out there and can only get a low-paying job,” said Betty Burgess, 70, a retired textile worker from Lincolnton, N.C., who is a Republican.

Almost three-quarters of respondents say that large corporations have too much influence in the country, about double the amount that said the same of unions. However, a majority of Americans said that workers who did not want to join a union at their workplace should be able to opt out of paying union fees, even as they benefit from the union's protection and bargaining efforts. Unions generally oppose these right-to-work measures.

The phenomenon of public frustration about inequality rising several years into a recovery is not unprecedented. According to data that Leslie McCall, a professor at Northwestern University, has culled from the General Social Survey, a biennial survey by the National Opinion Research Center at the University of Chicago, some measures of concern about inequality rose steadily after the 1990-91 recession and did not peak until 1996, after which they fell for several years.

The source of the resentment, Professor McCall said, was that "people think the returns to economic growth should be going to people like them as much as they should be going to people at the top."

The poll also included a variety of intriguing findings about what Americans think should be done to reduce inequality.

Six in 10 Americans opposed requiring fast-food chains and other employers of hourly workers to raise wages to at least $15 an hour, the aim of a two-and-a-half year nationwide campaign led in part by a major union. (On Tuesday, Francis Slay, the mayor of St. Louis, threw his weight behind an effort to gradually raise the minimum wage there to $15 an hour by 2020, following similar moves in Los Angeles, San Francisco and Seattle in recent years.)

When asked about the other end of the income spectrum, two-thirds of Americans favored raising taxes on people with annual salaries exceeding $1 million. By 50 to 45 percent, they favored capping the income of top executives at large corporations, a measure that more than one-third of Republicans supported as well.

From: John Del Cecato
To: Hayley Prim
Cc: Da Costa, Ricky; Leopold, Elana
Subject: Re: TPA
Date: Tuesday, August 11, 2015 9:14:27 AM

Yes - gave it to him yesterday and discussed with him last night. But honestly I didn't realize meeting was this morning either!

On Aug 11, 2015, at 8:41 AM, Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us> wrote:

Sorry-- + del cecato.

On Tue, Aug 11, 2015 at 8:40 AM, Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us> wrote:
Please use the version attached here.

JDC-- did you send BDB the scorecard you put together? Didn't realize this meeting was happening this AM.

On Tue, Aug 11, 2015 at 8:33 AM, Da Costa, Ricky <RDaCosta@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
Yeah will do

Sent from my iPhone

On Aug 11, 2015, at 8:28 AM, Leopold, Elana <ELeopold@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

At 10am

Ricky- can you have Ryder at Berlin Rosen at 9:45 to hand to mayor please?

Sent from my iPhone

On Aug 11, 2015, at 7:38 AM, Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us> wrote:

When are they meeting?

On Tuesday, August 11, 2015, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Need 2 copies of the document and signatories given to me right before podesta mtg pls

--
Hayley Prim

c: [REDACTED]

--
Hayley Prim

c: [REDACTED]

--
Hayley Prim

c: [REDACTED]

From: Da Costa, Ricky
To: John Del Cecato
Cc: Hayley Prim; Leopold, Elana
Subject: Re:
Date: Tuesday, August 11, 2015 9:17:29 AM

Will do

Sent from my iPhone

On Aug 11, 2015, at 9:16 AM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

http://www.nytimes.com/interactive/2015/06/03/business/income-inequality-workers-rights-international-trade-poll.html?_r=0

On Aug 11, 2015, at 9:16 AM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

Can you also print out NYT poll from June on inequality for mbdb?

From: Fuleihan, Dean \(OMB\)
To: John Del Cecato; Williams, Dominic; Gunaratna, Mahen
Cc: Jon Fromowitz
Subject: RE:
Date: Tuesday, August 11, 2015 12:40:19 PM

Just as a note, the Fiscal Policy Institute proposal for NYC -- State Legislation to tax carried interest under the NYC Unincorporated Business Tax, which would tax residents and non-residents.

-----Original Message-----

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, August 11, 2015 12:03 PM
To: Fuleihan, Dean (OMB); Dominic Williams; Mahen Gunaratna
Cc: Jon Fromowitz
Subject: Re:

Gotcha - thanks Dean

On 8/11/15, 11:57 AM, "Fuleihan, Dean (OMB)" <FuleihanD@omb.nyc.gov> wrote:

>Two separate answers:

>

>1. In general an expansion of the definition of AGI would benefit NY

>State and NY City personal income tax base.

>2. But neither NYS nor NYC separate capital gain from ordinary income.

>Therefore, this based broadening at the federal level will not increase

>NYS or NYC taxes.

>

>-----Original Message-----

>From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
>Sent: Tuesday, August 11, 2015 10:03 AM
>To: Dominic Williams; Mahen Gunaratna; Fuleihan, Dean (OMB)
>Cc: Jon Fromowitz
>Subject:

>

>This may be a stupid question, but am I right in thinking that if rich >people pay higher federal taxes, they are also paying higher local NYC >taxes? If your AGI goes up, you pay more to state and city right - >since those taxes are based on AGI? I realize that if state raises >taxes, you can deduct some of that from federal taxes - but that's not >operative here. I'm trying to make the case that closing carried >interest loophole means more money for NYC

>

>

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
To: "John Del Cecato"
Subject: FYI
Date: Tuesday, August 11, 2015 2:28:42 PM

GONNA HABE Maggie Haberman @maggieNYT Aug 10

Adam Green of Warren-allied PCCC, who has been wary of Clinton and whose group championed debt-free college, praises her plan in a statement

2 retweets 2 favorites

Reply

Retweet

2

--

Mahen Gunaratna

Director of Research and Media Analysis

Mayor's Press Office | City Hall

mgunaratna@cityhall.nyc.gov

(212) 676-3154 (o) | (347)-268-4295 (c)

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
To: [John Del Cecato; "Hayley Prim"; \[REDACTED\]](#)
Subject: RE: MBDB: TPA CALLS
Date: Tuesday, August 11, 2015 2:48:45 PM

Sorry guys –

Taking this OFF for today-

-----Original Appointment-----

From:
Sent: Friday, July 31, 2015 1:03 PM
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; John Del Cecato; 'Hayley Prim'; [REDACTED]
Subject: MBDB: TPA CALLS
When: Tuesday, August 11, 2015 4:30 PM-5:30 PM (UTC-05:00) Eastern Time (US & Canada).
Where: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

From: Walzak, Phil
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Devora Kaye
Cc: Blumm, Kate; Hagelgans, Andrea; "URamirez@schools.nyc.gov"; "JWallack@schools.nyc.gov"
Subject: Re: official thread to rename
Date: Tuesday, August 11, 2015 2:51:30 PM

That's nice

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, August 11, 2015 02:45 PM
To: Devora Kaye
Cc: Blumm, Kate; Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea; Ramirez Ursulina <URamirez@schools.nyc.gov>; Wallack Josh <JWallack@schools.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: official thread to rename

I like Progress Pact

On Aug 11, 2015, at 1:37 PM, Kaye Devora <DKaye6@schools.nyc.gov> wrote:

+ DOE team

From: Blumm, Kate [<mailto:KBlumm@cityhall.nyc.gov>]
Sent: Tuesday, August 11, 2015 12:58 PM
To: Kaye Devora <DKaye6@schools.nyc.gov>; Walzak, Phil <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>; Hagelgans, Andrea <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' (jfdc@akpdmedia.com) <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: official thread to rename

+ JDC

From: Blumm, Kate
Sent: Tuesday, August 11, 2015 12:58 PM
To: Devora Kaye (DKaye6@schools.nyc.gov); Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: official thread to rename

"Personalized Student Success Plan" (vis a vis education speech)

Every student in our education system will have a _____ guiding them through their journey.

Words:

Covenant
Contract
Pact (I like)

Bond
Deal

Success

Graduation

Achievement (meh)

Progress (I like bc we can do double entendre with "Progressive")

Advancement

GO!

From: John Del Cecato
To: Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: Re: Chris Hayes Thursday
Date: Tuesday, August 11, 2015 3:37:39 PM

I thought you were on board? It was on comms calendar

> On Aug 11, 2015, at 3:32 PM, Hagelgans, Andrea <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>
> Again- comms does not recommend for this week given today
>
> Sent from my BlackBerry 10 smartphone.
> Original Message
> From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
> Sent: Tuesday, August 11, 2015 3:30 PM
> To: 'John Del Cecato'
> Cc: Snyder, Thomas; Hagelgans, Andrea
> Subject: RE: Chris Hayes Thursday
>
>
> Like after weekly mtg? because that's late-
> Im sure you mean earlier?
>
>
> -----Original Message-----
> From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
> Sent: Tuesday, August 11, 2015 3:29 PM
> To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
> Cc: Snyder, Thomas; Hagelgans, Andrea
> Subject: Re: Chris Hayes Thursday
>
> Usually flexible as long as it's in the evening
>
>
>
>> On Aug 11, 2015, at 3:26 PM, Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca <PSalazar-Rodriguez@cityhall.nyc.gov>
wrote:
>>
>> What time do they tape?
>>
>>
>> -----Original Message-----
>> From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
>> Sent: Monday, August 10, 2015 7:24 PM
>> To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Snyder, Thomas
>> Subject: Chris Hayes Thursday
>>
>> Probably better to make it in the evening if possible
>>
>>

From: John Del Cecato
To: Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: Re: Chris Hayes Thursday
Date: Tuesday, August 11, 2015 3:39:03 PM

Oh - just saw this. Won't any press avail cover legionnaires? And next week it will just be something else?

> On Aug 11, 2015, at 3:30 PM, Hagelgans, Andrea <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>

> Phil and I do not think this should happen this week given legionnaires

>

> Sent from my BlackBerry 10 smartphone.

> Original Message

> From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca

> Sent: Tuesday, August 11, 2015 3:26 PM

> To: 'John Del Cecato'; Snyder, Thomas

> Cc: Hagelgans, Andrea

> Subject: RE: Chris Hayes Thursday

>

>

> What time do they tape?

>

>

> -----Original Message-----

> From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]

> Sent: Monday, August 10, 2015 7:24 PM

> To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Snyder, Thomas

> Subject: Chris Hayes Thursday

>

> Probably better to make it in the evening if possible

>

>

From: John Del Cecato
To: Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: Re: Chris Hayes Thursday
Date: Tuesday, August 11, 2015 3:39:16 PM

No ! I'm in C-bus

> On Aug 11, 2015, at 3:38 PM, Hagelgans, Andrea <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>

> You didn't see his meltdown today apparently.

>

> Sent from my BlackBerry 10 smartphone.

> Original Message

> From: John Del Cecato

> Sent: Tuesday, August 11, 2015 3:37 PM

> To: Hagelgans, Andrea

> Subject: Re: Chris Hayes Thursday

>

>

> I thought you were on board? It was on comms calendar

>

>

>

>> On Aug 11, 2015, at 3:32 PM, Hagelgans, Andrea <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>>

>> Again- comms does not recommend for this week given today

>>

>> Sent from my BlackBerry 10 smartphone.

>> Original Message

>> From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca

>> Sent: Tuesday, August 11, 2015 3:30 PM

>> To: 'John Del Cecato'

>> Cc: Snyder, Thomas; Hagelgans, Andrea

>> Subject: RE: Chris Hayes Thursday

>>

>>

>> Like after weekly mtg? because that's late-

>> Im sure you mean earlier?

>>

>>

>> -----Original Message-----

>> From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]

>> Sent: Tuesday, August 11, 2015 3:29 PM

>> To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca

>> Cc: Snyder, Thomas; Hagelgans, Andrea

>> Subject: Re: Chris Hayes Thursday

>>

>> Usually flexible as long as it's in the evening

>>

>>

>>

>>> On Aug 11, 2015, at 3:26 PM, Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca <PSalazar-Rodriguez@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>>>

>>> What time do they tape?

>>>

>>>
>>> -----Original Message-----
>>> From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
>>> Sent: Monday, August 10, 2015 7:24 PM
>>> To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Snyder, Thomas
>>> Subject: Chris Hayes Thursday
>>>
>>> Probably better to make it in the evening if possible
>>>
>>>

From: John Del Cecato
To: Blumm, Kate
Subject: Re: official thread to rename
Date: Tuesday, August 11, 2015 3:39:30 PM

Sure!

On Aug 11, 2015, at 3:38 PM, Blumm, Kate <KBlumm@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

:)

How about coffee/lunch soon btw?

From: John Del Cecato
Sent: Tuesday, August 11, 2015 3:36 PM
To: Blumm, Kate
Subject: Re: official thread to rename

Sureeeee

On Aug 11, 2015, at 2:46 PM, Blumm, Kate <KBlumm@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

THAT'S THE ONE I THOUGHT OF TOO!
Just saying.

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, August 11, 2015 2:45 PM
To: Devora Kaye
Cc: Blumm, Kate; Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea; Ramirez Ursulina; Wallack Josh
Subject: Re: official thread to rename

I like Progress Pact

On Aug 11, 2015, at 1:37 PM, Kaye Devora <DKaye6@schools.nyc.gov> wrote:

+ DOE team

From: Blumm, Kate [<mailto:KBlumm@cityhall.nyc.gov>]
Sent: Tuesday, August 11, 2015 12:58 PM
To: Kaye Devora <DKaye6@schools.nyc.gov>; Walzak, Phil <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>; Hagelgans, Andrea <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' (jfdc@akpdmedia.com) <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: official thread to rename

+ JDC

From: Blumm, Kate
Sent: Tuesday, August 11, 2015 12:58 PM
To: Devora Kaye (DKaye6@schools.nyc.gov); Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: official thread to rename

“Personalized Student Success Plan” (vis a vis education speech)

Every student in our education system will have a _____ guiding them through their journey.

Words:

Covenant
Contract
Pact (I like)
Bond
Deal

Success
Graduation
Achievement (meh)
Progress (I like bc we can do double entendre with “Progressive”) Advancement

GO!

From: John Del Cecato
To: Walzak, Phil
Cc: Hagelgans, Andrea; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: Chris Hayes Thursday
Date: Tuesday, August 11, 2015 3:43:12 PM

Ok

> On Aug 11, 2015, at 3:39 PM, Walzak, Phil <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>

> Punt this pls

>

> -----Original Message-----

> From: Hagelgans, Andrea

> Sent: Tuesday, August 11, 2015 3:32 PM

> To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; 'John Del Cecato'

> Cc: Snyder, Thomas; Walzak, Phil

> Subject: Re: Chris Hayes Thursday

>

> Again- comms does not recommend for this week given today

>

> Sent from my BlackBerry 10 smartphone.

> Original Message

> From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca

> Sent: Tuesday, August 11, 2015 3:30 PM

> To: 'John Del Cecato'

> Cc: Snyder, Thomas; Hagelgans, Andrea

> Subject: RE: Chris Hayes Thursday

>

>

> Like after weekly mtg? because that's late- Im sure you mean earlier?

>

>

> -----Original Message-----

> From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]

> Sent: Tuesday, August 11, 2015 3:29 PM

> To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca

> Cc: Snyder, Thomas; Hagelgans, Andrea

> Subject: Re: Chris Hayes Thursday

>

> Usually flexible as long as it's in the evening

>

>

>

>> On Aug 11, 2015, at 3:26 PM, Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca <PSalazar-Rodriguez@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>>

>> What time do they tape?

>>

>>

>> -----Original Message-----

>> From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]

>> Sent: Monday, August 10, 2015 7:24 PM

>> To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Snyder, Thomas

>> Subject: Chris Hayes Thursday

>>

>> Probably better to make it in the evening if possible
>>
>>

From: Geri Prado
To: John Del Cecato
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: Chris Hayes Thursday
Date: Tuesday, August 11, 2015 4:48:34 PM

Great thanks.

> On Aug 11, 2015, at 4:04 PM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

>

> Update - Phil and I just spoke. Phil said this is still alive. Stand by.

>

>

>

>> On Aug 11, 2015, at 3:39 PM, Walzak, Phil <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>>

>> Punt this pls

>>

>> -----Original Message-----

>> From: Hagelgans, Andrea

>> Sent: Tuesday, August 11, 2015 3:32 PM

>> To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; 'John Del Cecato'

>> Cc: Snyder, Thomas; Walzak, Phil

>> Subject: Re: Chris Hayes Thursday

>>

>> Again- comms does not recommend for this week given today

>>

>> Sent from my BlackBerry 10 smartphone.

>> Original Message

>> From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca

>> Sent: Tuesday, August 11, 2015 3:30 PM

>> To: 'John Del Cecato'

>> Cc: Snyder, Thomas; Hagelgans, Andrea

>> Subject: RE: Chris Hayes Thursday

>>

>>

>> Like after weekly mtg? because that's late- Im sure you mean earlier?

>>

>>

>> -----Original Message-----

>> From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]

>> Sent: Tuesday, August 11, 2015 3:29 PM

>> To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca

>> Cc: Snyder, Thomas; Hagelgans, Andrea

>> Subject: Re: Chris Hayes Thursday

>>

>> Usually flexible as long as it's in the evening

>>

>>

>>

>>> On Aug 11, 2015, at 3:26 PM, Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca <PSalazar-Rodriguez@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>>>

>>> What time do they tape?

>>>

>>>

>>> -----Original Message-----
>>> From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
>>> Sent: Monday, August 10, 2015 7:24 PM
>>> To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Snyder, Thomas
>>> Subject: Chris Hayes Thursday
>>>
>>> Probably better to make it in the evening if possible
>>>
>>>

From: Geri Prado
To: John Del Cecato; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Subject: Re: Chris Hayes Thursday
Date: Tuesday, August 11, 2015 4:51:55 PM

Sparing others on email since I'm not on sight but from Hayes:

Spoke to Hayes's producer. They prefer live, but they can tape at the :10 after the hours, so they could tape at 3:10, 4:10, 6:10, 7:10 or live after 8.

Will be on progressive agenda and progress being made on these issues around the country.

On Aug 11, 2015, at 4:04 PM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmmedia.com> wrote:

Update - Phil and I just spoke. Phil said this is still alive. Stand by.

On Aug 11, 2015, at 3:39 PM, Walzak, Phil
<PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Punt this pls

-----Original Message-----

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
Sent: Tuesday, August 11, 2015 3:32 PM
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; 'John Del Cecato'
Cc: Snyder, Thomas; Walzak, Phil
Subject: Re: Chris Hayes Thursday

Again- comms does not recommend for this week given today

Sent from my BlackBerry 10 smartphone.

Original Message

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Sent: Tuesday, August 11, 2015 3:30 PM
To: 'John Del Cecato'
Cc: Snyder, Thomas; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: RE: Chris Hayes Thursday

Like after weekly mtg? because that's late- Im sure you mean earlier?

-----Original Message-----

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Tuesday, August 11, 2015 3:29 PM
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Cc: Snyder, Thomas; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: Re: Chris Hayes Thursday

Usually flexible as long as it's in the evening

On Aug 11, 2015, at 3:26 PM, Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca <PSalazar-Rodriguez@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

What time do they tape?

-----Original Message-----

From: John Del Cecato
[<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]

Sent: Monday, August 10, 2015 7:24 PM

To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Snyder, Thomas

Subject: Chris Hayes Thursday

Probably better to make it in the evening if possible

From: John Del Cecato
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Cc: Hagelgans, Andrea; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: Chris Hayes Thursday
Date: Tuesday, August 11, 2015 6:58:13 PM

Phil and I spoke and he agreed to let us do it

> On Aug 11, 2015, at 6:53 PM, Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca <PSalazar-Rodriguez@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>

> Are we still trying to do this Thursday? Thought we were holding off-

>

> -----Original Message-----

> From: Hagelgans, Andrea

> Sent: Tuesday, August 11, 2015 6:45 PM

> To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; 'John Del Cecato'

> Cc: Snyder, Thomas

> Subject: RE: Chris Hayes Thursday

>

> Here's what they sent me:

> ideally we broadcast live 8-9pm This segment would likely be at 8:15 or 8:30pm (requested arrival half hour before segment)

>

> Alternatively we can pretape best at 7:10 pm otherwise at 6:10. Could also try 4:10pm in a pinch!

>

>

> -----Original Message-----

> From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca

> Sent: Tuesday, August 11, 2015 3:31 PM

> To: 'John Del Cecato'

> Cc: Snyder, Thomas; Hagelgans, Andrea

> Subject: RE: Chris Hayes Thursday

>

> Like after weekly mtg? because that's late- Im sure you mean earlier?

>

>

> -----Original Message-----

> From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]

> Sent: Tuesday, August 11, 2015 3:29 PM

> To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca

> Cc: Snyder, Thomas; Hagelgans, Andrea

> Subject: Re: Chris Hayes Thursday

>

> Usually flexible as long as it's in the evening

>

>

>

>> On Aug 11, 2015, at 3:26 PM, Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca <PSalazar-Rodriguez@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>>

>> What time do they tape?

>>

>>

>> -----Original Message-----

>> From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]

>> Sent: Monday, August 10, 2015 7:24 PM
>> To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Snyder, Thomas
>> Subject: Chris Hayes Thursday
>>
>> Probably better to make it in the evening if possible
>>
>>

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: Chris Hayes Thursday
Date: Tuesday, August 11, 2015 8:45:12 PM

Dig? You're a beatnik.

Sent from my iPhone

> On Aug 11, 2015, at 6:58 PM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

>
> I dig
>
>
>

>> On Aug 11, 2015, at 6:45 PM, Hagelgans, Andrea <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>>
>> Here's what they sent me:
>> ideally we broadcast live 8-9pm This segment would likely be at 8:15 or 8:30pm (requested arrival half hour before segment)

>>
>> Alternatively we can pretape best at 7:10 pm otherwise at 6:10. Could also try 4:10pm in a pinch!

>>
>> -----Original Message-----
>> From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
>> Sent: Tuesday, August 11, 2015 3:31 PM
>> To: 'John Del Cecato'
>> Cc: Snyder, Thomas; Hagelgans, Andrea
>> Subject: RE: Chris Hayes Thursday
>>
>> Like after weekly mtg? because that's late- Im sure you mean earlier?

>>
>> -----Original Message-----
>> From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
>> Sent: Tuesday, August 11, 2015 3:29 PM
>> To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
>> Cc: Snyder, Thomas; Hagelgans, Andrea
>> Subject: Re: Chris Hayes Thursday

>>
>> Usually flexible as long as it's in the evening

>>
>>
>>
>>> On Aug 11, 2015, at 3:26 PM, Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca <PSalazar-Rodriguez@cityhall.nyc.gov>
wrote:

>>>
>>> What time do they tape?

>>>
>>> -----Original Message-----
>>> From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
>>> Sent: Monday, August 10, 2015 7:24 PM
>>> To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Snyder, Thomas
>>> Subject: Chris Hayes Thursday

>>>
>>> Probably better to make it in the evening if possible

>>>
>>>

From: John Del Cecato
To: Geri Prado
Cc: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: Podesta
Date: Tuesday, August 11, 2015 8:52:45 PM

I'm just now boarding plane to NYC

> On Aug 11, 2015, at 7:57 PM, Geri Prado [REDACTED] wrote:
>
> 10-4
>
>
>
>> On Aug 11, 2015, at 7:49 PM, Snyder, Thomas <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>>
>> he's going to download with John hopefully tonight by phone.
>>
>>> On 8/11/15, 4:46 PM, "Geri Prado" <[REDACTED]> wrote:
>>>
>>> How did meeting go?
>>

From: John Del Cecato
To: Hagelgans, Andrea
Cc: Hinton, Karen; Wolfe, Emma; Walzak, Phil
Subject: Re: Dawsey/WSJ
Date: Tuesday, August 11, 2015 11:22:03 PM

Ha!

On Aug 11, 2015, at 11:17 PM, Hagelgans, Andrea <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

He screamed across the CH lobby last week that I am "no fun" because I refused to give him dirt on Louis CK. I ain't been fun for years; not sure why he thought that was an insult.

Sent from my BlackBerry 10 smartphone.

From: John Del Cecato
Sent: Tuesday, August 11, 2015 11:09 PM
To: Hinton, Karen
Cc: Wolfe, Emma; Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: Re: Dawsey/WSJ

He's also so whiny when you don't give him anything

On Aug 11, 2015, at 10:57 PM, Hinton, Karen <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

He's the hardest working reporter in Room 9.
Karen Hinton
Press Secretary
917-246-7692
Follow Me On Twitter @KarenHinton

From: Emma Wolfe <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Tue, 11 Aug 2015 22:54:34 -0400
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com" <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: Karen Hinton <khinton@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Phil Walzak <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Andrea Hagelgans <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Subject: Re: Dawsey/WSJ

He's been texting and calling me for the last three days

On Aug 11, 2015, at 10:36 PM, John Del Cecato
<jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

He called me and I didn't give him anything.
Ragone talked to him.

This is coming from AMC. Let's see what BDB says came out of meeting today

On Aug 11, 2015, at 9:50 PM, Hinton, Karen
<KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Dawsey is writing Wed afternoon a
Mayor/HRC story with HRC sources
saying they are tired of the BdB endorsement episode and once they get the endorsement they will be glad to move on. He says Cuomo and Bill Clinton speak weekly; that Cuomo has no relationship with Hillary. Will get more details in the morning. Karen

Karen Hinton
Press Secretary
917-246-7692
Follow Me On Twitter @KarenHinton

From: John Del Cecato
To: Hinton, Karen
Cc: Hagelgans, Andrea; Wolfe, Emma; Walzak, Phil
Subject: Re: Dawsey/WSJ
Date: Tuesday, August 11, 2015 11:30:24 PM

Yes!

In other news - FYI -

http://www.bostonherald.com/news_opinion/us_politics/2015/08/hillary_clinton_fails_to_thrill

On Aug 11, 2015, at 11:29 PM, Hinton, Karen <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

He's very clever that way. "I hear you said, "blah blah" (he's totally guessing but waits to see your reaction.)

Karen Hinton

Press Secretary

917-246-7692

Follow Me On Twitter @KarenHinton

From: "jfdc@akpdmedia. com" <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Date: Wed, 12 Aug 2015 03:24:32 +0000
To: Andrea Hagelgans <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: Karen Hinton <khinton@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Emma Wolfe <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Phil Walzak <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: Dawsey/WSJ

Give him credit for saying things like "I figured you were in the loop - I guess not"

On Aug 11, 2015, at 11:17 PM, Hagelgans, Andrea <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

He screamed across the CH lobby last week that I am " no fun" because I refused to give him dirt on Louis CK. I ain't been fun for years; not sure why he thought that was an insult.

Sent from my BlackBerry 10 smartphone.

From: John Del Cecato
Sent: Tuesday, August 11, 2015 11:09 PM
To: Hinton, Karen
Cc: Wolfe, Emma; Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: Re: Dawsey/WSJ

He's also so whiny when you don't give him anything

On Aug 11, 2015, at 10:57 PM, Hinton, Karen
<KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

He's the hardest working reporter in Room 9.
Karen Hinton
Press Secretary
917-246-7692
Follow Me On Twitter @KarenHinton

From: Emma Wolfe <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Tue, 11 Aug 2015 22:54:34 -0400
To: "'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'" <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: Karen Hinton <khinton@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Phil Walzak
<PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Andrea Hagelgans
<AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: Dawsey/WSJ

He's been texting and calling me for the last three days

On Aug 11, 2015, at 10:36 PM, John Del Cecato
<jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

He called me and I didn't give him anything.
Ragone talked to him.

This is coming from AMC. Let's see what BDB says came out of meeting today

On Aug 11, 2015, at 9:50 PM, Hinton, Karen
<KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Dawsey is writing Wed afternoon a
Mayor/HRC story with HRC sources
saying they are tired of the BdB
endorsement episode and once they get the endorsement they will be glad to move on. He says
Cuomo and Bill Clinton speak weekly; that Cuomo has no relationship with Hillary. Will get more details in the morning. Karen

Karen Hinton
Press Secretary
917-246-7692
Follow Me On Twitter @KarenHinton

From: Hinton, Karen
To: John Del Cecato
Cc: Hagelgans, Andrea; Wolfe, Emma; Walzak, Phil
Subject: Re: Dawsey/WSJ
Date: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 6:42:27 AM

Andrea, u r fun

Sent from my iPhone
On Aug 11, 2015, at 11:24 PM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmmedia.com> wrote:

Give him credit for saying things like "I figured you were in the loop - I guess not"

On Aug 11, 2015, at 11:17 PM, Hagelgans, Andrea <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

He screamed across the CH lobby last week that I am "no fun" because I refused to give him dirt on Louis CK. I ain't been fun for years; not sure why he thought that was an insult.

Sent from my BlackBerry 10 smartphone.

From: John Del Cecato
Sent: Tuesday, August 11, 2015 11:09 PM
To: Hinton, Karen
Cc: Wolfe, Emma; Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: Re: Dawsey/WSJ

He's also so whiny when you don't give him anything

On Aug 11, 2015, at 10:57 PM, Hinton, Karen
<KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

He's the hardest working reporter in Room 9.
Karen Hinton
Press Secretary
917-246-7692
Follow Me On Twitter @KarenHinton

From: Emma Wolfe <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Tue, 11 Aug 2015 22:54:34 -0400

To: ""jfdc@akpdmedia. com"" <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: Karen Hinton <khinton@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Phil Walzak
<PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Andrea Hagelgans
<AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: Dawsey/WSJ

He's been texting and calling me for the last three days

On Aug 11, 2015, at 10:36 PM, John Del Cecato
<jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

He called me and I didn't give him anything. Ragone talked to him.

This is coming from AMC. Let's see what BDB says came out of meeting today

On Aug 11, 2015, at 9:50 PM, Hinton, Karen <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Dawsey is writing Wed afternoon a Mayor/HRC story with HRC sources saying they are tired of the BdB endorsement episode and once they get the endorsement they will be glad to move on. He says Cuomo and Bill Clinton speak weekly; that Cuomo has no relationship with Hillary. Will get more details in the morning. Karen

Karen Hinton
Press Secretary
917-246-7692
Follow Me On Twitter
@KarenHinton

From: Geri Prado
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Cc: Snyder, Thomas; Hayley Prim; John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: Potential DC Trip
Date: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 11:30:59 AM

Thank you

On Wed, Aug 12, 2015 at 11:28 AM, Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca <PSalazar-Rodriguez@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Am working on getting a day in September –

From: Geri Prado [mailto:[\[REDACTED\]](#)]
Sent: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 11:27 AM
To: Snyder, Thomas; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Cc: Hayley Prim; John Del Cecato
Subject: Potential DC Trip

Purpose of trip:

- Meet with current supporters to discuss signing on other high level supporters and organizations
- Meet with potential key funders, leaders of targeted organizations

When:

- August, early to mid September, 1 full day

What:

Meetings

- Senator Elizabeth Warren- purpose: to move to sign on to TPA and be co-chair
- Senator Jeff Merkley- Purpose: discuss issues and work to organize other high level signers
- President of AFSCME, board member of Priorities USA, America Votes, Working America Lee Saunders, senior advisor Paul Booth. Purpose: to ask to be a major participant in TPA, help sign on other organizations, provide support
- Democracy Alliance, Board Chair John Stocks- to discuss DA involvement in TPA,

NEA contributions

- LGBT prospecting- meeting with key FR in the LGBT community
- Potential AFL-CIO Pres meeting- Tom for you and I to discuss.

Matching up these schedules will be tough so if we could have 2 options as far as days and see which would work best that would be most helpful.

If I need to write up a memo with more information let me know.

Geri

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; "John Del Cecato"; Snyder, Thomas
Cc: Geri Prado
Subject: RE: <no subject>
Date: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 11:48:59 AM

Guys you need to tell me as well. I haven't even confirmed with the producer that is doable.

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Sent: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 11:36 AM
To: 'John Del Cecato'; Hagelgans, Andrea; Snyder, Thomas
Cc: Geri Prado
Subject: RE: <no subject>

We are doing it tomorrow -
Re-working schedule to do 6:10 taping
Have to work in prep time for it in the office before -
What time would he have to arrive in studio?

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 11:34 AM
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Hagelgans, Andrea; Snyder, Thomas
Cc: Geri Prado
Subject: <no subject>

Sorry guys - catching up on email - where did we land on Chris Hayes?

From: John Del Cecato
To: Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: Re: education speech
Date: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 12:08:29 PM

I dig

On Aug 12, 2015, at 11:59 AM, Hagelgans, Andrea <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Hey John,

Mayor wants you “heavily” involved in education speech, so Kate is going to send you working drafts. Expect one coming your way in next few days

Andrea Hagelgans
Office of the Mayor
Direct – 212.341.5372
Cell – 718.679.8965
ahagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
To: Walzak, Phil; "John Del Cecato"
Cc: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Snyder, Thomas; Geri Prado
Subject: RE: <no subject>
Date: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 12:09:22 PM

I am. I have initial agreement in email confirmation from producer. Will reiterate again this afternoon once she drills down with Chris

From: Walzak, Phil
Sent: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 12:09 PM
To: 'John Del Cecato'
Cc: Hagelgans, Andrea; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Snyder, Thomas; Geri Prado
Subject: RE: <no subject>

Who is negotiating this?

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 12:05 PM
To: Walzak, Phil
Cc: Hagelgans, Andrea; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Snyder, Thomas; Geri Prado
Subject: Re: <no subject>

Agree - no Uber!

On Aug 12, 2015, at 11:59 AM, Walzak, Phil <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

No Uber

This is abt TPA or nothing

There is no point in doing these interviews if its abtout all the shit
,

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
Sent: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 11:58 AM
To: 'John Del Cecato'; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Snyder, Thomas
Cc: Geri Prado; Walzak, Phil
Subject: RE: <no subject>

I just spoke to producer. Going to reiterate my concerns about pulling this together so last minute. In addition, they've thrown uber into the topic list.

They propose as little as 5 minute taping to 15-20 minute taping if he desires, Rockefeller Center

Can tape at 7:10 PM, but are looking to see if 6:10 pm is ready

Topics producer referenced:

- Bernie Sanders candidacy – why is it skyrocketing/ crowds, etc
- Long view on TPA- Mayor's vision
- Inequality and GOP views
- Uber and shared economy, workers rights balance

JDC- would your team prep him and pull together materials?

I've asked the producer to go back to Chris and drill down more on actual questions and topics. We are supposed to check in this afternoon.

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 11:34 AM
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Hagelgans, Andrea; Snyder, Thomas
Cc: Geri Prado
Subject: <no subject>

Sorry guys - catching up on email - where did we land on Chris Hayes?

From: Hinton, Karen
To: John Del Cecato
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea; Wolfe, Emma
Subject: Re: could you please give me a call?
Date: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 2:27:02 PM

Ok email him tho and say that

Sent from my iPhone

> On Aug 12, 2015, at 2:26 PM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:
>
> Karen - I'm going to send him to you unless you guys tell me otherwise
>
> On 8/12/15, 11:28 AM, "Henry Goldman (BLOOMBERG/ NEWSROOM:)"
> <hgoldman@bloomberg.net> wrote:
>
>> The polls, the feud, the tabloids, the perceptions...Do you think you >> could give me a call to discuss the other side of the AP story today?
>> <http://bigstory.ap.org/article/21b3c9bb35af4974a6406201aa881d8a/new-york-citys-mayor-fighting-bad-ol-days-perception#overlay-context=article/e010c000333d485fbfa6da4f7915de1d/pennsylvania-beauty-queen-jailed-fake-cancer-charges> >> rges
>>
>> I'd be interested in your observations as to what's happening, and what >> we could expect in the future...You can reach me at [REDACTED] or >> [REDACTED]. Thanks, Henry
>

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
To: Geri Prado; Walzak, Phil
Cc: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; John Del Cecato; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: <no subject>
Date: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 3:13:57 PM

Pls hold.

Sent from my BlackBerry 10 smartphone.

From: Geri Prado
Sent: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 3:12 PM
To: Walzak, Phil
Cc: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Hagelgans, Andrea; John Del Cecato; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: <no subject>

We will have a paper briefing soon and JDC and I will talk re in person prep.

On Aug 12, 2015, at 3:06 PM, Walzak, Phil <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Ok
PSR – make sure we have the prep time – he said he feels rusty on TPA stuff

From: Geri Prado [<mailto:> [REDACTED]]
Sent: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 3:06 PM
To: Walzak, Phil
Cc: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Hagelgans, Andrea; John Del Cecato; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: <no subject>

Yes. We are doing it. We are preparing for it.

Is there time on the schedule for prep in addition to the time for the iview? If so, when and how much?

On Aug 12, 2015, at 3:02 PM, Walzak, Phil <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

TPA ppl? We will get Bernie qs, etc we will need some prep for this

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Sent: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 3:01 PM
To: Hagelgans, Andrea; 'John Del Cecato'; Walzak, Phil
Cc: Snyder, Thomas; Geri Prado
Subject: RE: <no subject>

Any word if we are doing this tomorrow-

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
Sent: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 12:06 PM
To: 'John Del Cecato'; Walzak, Phil
Cc: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Snyder, Thomas; Geri Prado

Subject: RE: <no subject>

I've conveyed and received an "absolutely" in response from producer.

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 12:05 PM
To: Walzak, Phil
Cc: Hagelgans, Andrea; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Snyder, Thomas; Geri Prado
Subject: Re: <no subject>

Agree - no Uber!

On Aug 12, 2015, at 11:59 AM, Walzak, Phil
<PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

No Uber

This is abt TPA or nothing

There is no point in doing these interviews if its about all the shit
,

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
Sent: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 11:58 AM
To: 'John Del Cecato'; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Snyder, Thomas
Cc: Geri Prado; Walzak, Phil
Subject: RE: <no subject>

I just spoke to producer. Going to reiterate my concerns about pulling this together so last minute. In addition, they've thrown uber into the topic list.

They propose as little as 5 minute taping to 15-20 minute taping if he desires, Rockefeller Center

Can tape at 7:10 PM, but are looking to see if 6:10 pm is ready

Topics producer referenced:

- Bernie Sanders candidacy – why is it skyrocketing/ crowds, etc
- Long view on TPA- Mayor's vision

- Inequality and GOP views
- Uber and shared economy, workers rights balance

JDC- would your team prep him and pull together materials?

I've asked the producer to go back to Chris and drill down more on actual questions and topics. We are supposed to check in this afternoon.

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 11:34 AM
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Hagelgans, Andrea; Snyder, Thomas
Cc: Geri Prado
Subject: <no subject>

Sorry guys - catching up on email - where did we land on Chris Hayes?

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
To: "Geri Prado"; Walzak, Phil
Cc: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; John Del Cecato; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: RE: <no subject>
Date: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 3:19:06 PM

Hi,

It doesn't sound like we have enough prep time available to get to the level we need for this particularly since the topics they discussed were very granular (weigh in on Bernie sanders, what GOP candidates are saying about inequality). I am going to recommend to him that we look at next week instead.

From: Geri Prado [mailto:████████████████████]
Sent: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 3:13 PM
To: Walzak, Phil
Cc: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Hagelgans, Andrea; John Del Cecato; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: <no subject>

We will have a paper briefing soon and JDC and I will talk re in person prep.

On Aug 12, 2015, at 3:06 PM, Walzak, Phil <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Ok
PSR – make sure we have the prep time – he said he feels rusty on TPA stuff

From: Geri Prado [mailto:████████████████████]
Sent: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 3:06 PM
To: Walzak, Phil
Cc: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Hagelgans, Andrea; John Del Cecato; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: <no subject>

Yes. We are doing it. We are preparing for it.

Is there time on the schedule for prep in addition to the time for the iview? If so, when and how much?

On Aug 12, 2015, at 3:02 PM, Walzak, Phil <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

TPA ppl? We will get Bernie qs, etc we will need some prep for this

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Sent: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 3:01 PM
To: Hagelgans, Andrea; 'John Del Cecato'; Walzak, Phil
Cc: Snyder, Thomas; Geri Prado
Subject: RE: <no subject>

Any word if we are doing this tomorrow-

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
Sent: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 12:06 PM
To: 'John Del Cecato'; Walzak, Phil
Cc: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Snyder, Thomas; Geri Prado
Subject: RE: <no subject>

I've conveyed and received an "absolutely" in response from producer.

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 12:05 PM
To: Walzak, Phil
Cc: Hagelgans, Andrea; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Snyder, Thomas; Geri Prado
Subject: Re: <no subject>

Agree - no Uber!

On Aug 12, 2015, at 11:59 AM, Walzak, Phil
<PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

No Uber

This is abt TPA or nothing

There is no point in doing these interviews if its abtout all the shit
,

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
Sent: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 11:58 AM
To: 'John Del Cecato'; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Snyder, Thomas
Cc: Geri Prado; Walzak, Phil
Subject: RE: <no subject>

I just spoke to producer. Going to reiterate my concerns about pulling this together so last minute. In addition, they've thrown uber into the topic list.

They propose as little as 5 minute taping to 15-20 minute taping if he desires, Rockefeller Center

Can tape at 7:10 PM, but are looking to see if 6:10 pm is ready

Topics producer referenced:

- Bernie Sanders candidacy – why is it skyrocketing/ crowds, etc
- Long view on TPA- Mayor's vision
- Inequality and GOP views
- Uber and shared economy, workers rights balance

JDC- would your team prep him and pull together materials?

I've asked the producer to go back to Chris and drill down more on actual questions and topics. We are supposed to check in this afternoon.

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 11:34 AM
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Hagelgans, Andrea; Snyder, Thomas
Cc: Geri Prado
Subject: <no subject>

Sorry guys - catching up on email - where did we land on Chris Hayes?

From: B
To: Hagelgans, Andrea
Cc: Snyder, Thomas; Leopold, Elana; Walzak, Phil; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Hinton, Karen
Subject: Re: Chris Hayes
Date: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 4:13:56 PM

Agreed

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
Sent: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 03:31 PM
To: B
Cc: Snyder, Thomas; Leopold, Elana; Walzak, Phil; John Del Cecato (jfdc@akpdmedia.com)
<jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Hinton, Karen
Subject: Chris Hayes

Sir,

I've been in conversation with Chris Hayes show about tentatively appearing tomorrow night and I recommend that we move this to another week. Given the limited available prep time and the granular level of questions that they are currently discussing (weigh in on Bernie Sanders v. HRC), I believe we need more time for your prep and to hone them in on TPA big vision.

They also mentioned Uber which I told them was a non-starter for this interview. I take them at their word given how eager they are to have you, but would still need to prep for possible curve balls if they tried to equate it to inequality and get around my mandate that way.

With your approval, I'd like to tell them we can't make it tomorrow and are looking at other dates in the near future.

Thanks,
Andrea

Andrea Hagelgans
Office of the Mayor
Direct – 212.341.5372
Cell – 718.679.8965
ahagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov

From: John Del Cecato
To: Regina Clemente; Viguers, Jonathan
Cc: Hayley Prim; Greg Wasserstrom; Geri Prado; Rebecca Katz \(hilltoppublicsolutions.com\); Robert Greenwald
Subject: Re: Hedge Fund/Teachers Event Next Steps
Date: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 4:40:12 PM

Call didn't happen, i'm sorry to report... Believe me - we are really trying to get this call made - but Legionaires & so many other things keep taking our schedule hostage

From: Regina Clemente <regina@bravenewfilms.org>
Date: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 at 4:33 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, "Viguers, Jonathan" <JViguers@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>, Greg Wasserstrom <greg@spearheaddigital.co>, Geri Prado [REDACTED] Rebecca Katz <rkatz@hilltoppublicsolutions.com>, Robert Greenwald <robert@bravenewfilms.org>
Subject: Re: Hedge Fund/Teachers Event Next Steps

Great – will work on specific messaging around that and loop back to you on it.

Any word on Garcetti? Jonathan thought there was a call scheduled for last Thursday with him.

Thanks!

From: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Date: Wed, 12 Aug 2015 11:10:35 -0700
To: Regina Clemente <regina@bravenewfilms.org>, "Viguers, Jonathan" <JViguers@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>, Greg Wasserstrom <greg@spearheaddigital.co>, Geri Prado [REDACTED] Rebecca Katz <rkatz@hilltoppublicsolutions.com>
Subject: Re: Hedge Fund/Teachers Event Next Steps

I'm thinking the ask should be signing a petition to tell Washington to close the carried interest loophole and invest in early education..

From: Regina Clemente <regina@bravenewfilms.org>
Date: Monday, August 10, 2015 at 1:59 PM
To: "Viguers, Jonathan" <JViguers@cityhall.nyc.gov>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Hedge Fund/Teachers Event Next Steps

Hi there -

Any updates on Garcetti? Or other mayors?

Also, we need to finalize the specifics of the ask around tax policy reform. Let me know who to talk to about the messaging around that.

Thanks!
Regina

From: "Viguers, Jonathan" <JViguers@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Tue, 4 Aug 2015 22:10:47 +0000
To: Regina Clemente <regina@bravenewfilms.org>
Subject: Re: Hedge Fund/Teachers Event Next Steps

No new updates yet, but it looks like were gonna try for the garcetti call on thursday!

sent from a mobile device.

From: Regina Clemente [<mailto:regina@bravenewfilms.org>]
Sent: Monday, August 03, 2015 08:27 PM
To: Viguers, Jonathan
Subject: Re: Hedge Fund/Teachers Event Next Steps

Hey there. Just following up with my call from Friday. Any updates from other mayors (I am assuming not!)?

And any word on when the Garcetti ask will be made?

Thanks!
Regina

From: Viguers, Jonathan <JViguers@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Sent: Tuesday, July 14, 2015 5:40 PM
To: Regina Clemente
Subject: RE: Hedge Fund/Teachers Event Next Steps

Yes tomorrow! Will call you then!

From: Regina Clemente [<mailto:regina@bravenewfilms.org>]
Sent: Tuesday, July 14, 2015 8:40 PM
To: Viguers, Jonathan
Subject: Re: Hedge Fund/Teachers Event Next Steps

Great – tomorrow? Just call my cell: [REDACTED]

Thanks!

From: <Viguers>, Jonathan <JViguers@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Tuesday, July 14, 2015 at 5:37 PM
To: Regina Clemente <regina@bravenewfilms.org>
Subject: RE: Hedge Fund/Teachers Event Next Steps

How about 9AM PST / 12PM EST?

From: Regina Clemente [<mailto:regina@bravenewfilms.org>]
Sent: Tuesday, July 14, 2015 8:31 PM
To: Viguers, Jonathan
Subject: Re: Hedge Fund/Teachers Event Next Steps

Hi there -

Got your message – can we schedule a time to talk tomorrow or Thurs?

Tomorrow I can do between 8:30-9:30PST/11:30-12:30EST or after 2PST/5EST. Either of those windows work?

If not, can do Thurs between 8:30-11PST/11:30-2EST.

From: Regina Clemente <regina@bravenewfilms.org>
Date: Thursday, July 9, 2015 at 3:28 PM
To: "Viguers, Jonathan" <JViguers@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Hedge Fund/Teachers Event Next Steps

Hi Jonathan -

Robert and John (in your office) seem to be confident that the Sept. 10th event in NY will happen, so we can start to move forward with reaching out to other mayors' offices to participate.

Here is the background info/ask (written by John, with some edits):

Robert Greenwald, founder and President of Brave New Films, is a strong supporter of The Progressive Agenda. After a career of making dozens of feature films - he turned his efforts to progressive documentary filmmaking - including Outfoxed: Rupert Murdoch's War on Journalism; Wal-Mart: The High Cost of Low Price; and Koch Brothers Exposed. Robert recently produced the short film Racism Is Real, which has been a viral sensation.

Now, in concert with The Progressive Agenda, Robert is in the process of making a short (5-10 minute) film that shines a light on the fact that the top 25 hedge fund managers earned more money last year than all of the Kindergarten teachers in America COMBINED and that teachers are taxed at a higher rate than hedge fund managers as part of a larger campaign to highlight and fight income inequality.

Robert is hoping to film kindergarten teachers in various cities around the country, including New York City and (YOUR CITY). The plan is to have a coordinated film/campaign launch the week of Sept 7th (whether in-person, or virtual) in a half-dozen cities across the country.

He'd like your office's participation and help in planning for the launch, as well as any assistance you can provide in connecting them with teachers/unions in your city for casting in the film.

The launch will include a national day of screenings and discussions about this issue and how it relates to our fight to combat income inequality.

Does that work? Let me know if you need more info than this – and I can get it to you. I don't think we need to be more specific at this point, as I can work with the offices once we have connections and know their offices are interested.

Also, note that we want to make sure we have a diversity of mayors in terms of gender, POC, and areas of the country. And that we won't want anyone to publicly announce that this is happening until later in the process.

Let me know if you want to jump back on the phone before reaching out (although I don't have many more details than this!).

Thanks so much,
Regina

Regina Clemente
Director of Campaigns
Brave New Films
regina@bravenewfilms.org
o: 310-204-0448 x.236
c: 818-239-2070
bravenewfilms.org

From: John Del Cecato
To: Regina Clemente; Viguers, Jonathan
Cc: Hayley Prim; Greg Wasserstrom; Geri Prado; Rebecca Katz \(hilltoppublicsolutions.com\); Robert Greenwald
Subject: Re: Hedge Fund/Teachers Event Next Steps
Date: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 4:40:12 PM

Call didn't happen, i'm sorry to report... Believe me - we are really trying to get this call made - but Legionaires & so many other things keep taking our schedule hostage

From: Regina Clemente <regina@bravenewfilms.org>
Date: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 at 4:33 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, "Viguers, Jonathan" <JViguers@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>, Greg Wasserstrom <greg@spearheaddigital.co>, Geri Prado <[REDACTED]>, Rebecca Katz <rkatz@hilltoppublicsolutions.com>, Robert Greenwald <robert@bravenewfilms.org>
Subject: Re: Hedge Fund/Teachers Event Next Steps

Great – will work on specific messaging around that and loop back to you on it.

Any word on Garcetti? Jonathan thought there was a call scheduled for last Thursday with him.

Thanks!

From: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Date: Wed, 12 Aug 2015 11:10:35 -0700
To: Regina Clemente <regina@bravenewfilms.org>, "Viguers, Jonathan" <JViguers@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>, Greg Wasserstrom <greg@spearheaddigital.co>, Geri Prado <[REDACTED]>, Rebecca Katz <rkatz@hilltoppublicsolutions.com>
Subject: Re: Hedge Fund/Teachers Event Next Steps

I'm thinking the ask should be signing a petition to tell Washington to close the carried interest loophole and invest in early education..

From: Regina Clemente <regina@bravenewfilms.org>
Date: Monday, August 10, 2015 at 1:59 PM
To: "Viguers, Jonathan" <JViguers@cityhall.nyc.gov>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Hedge Fund/Teachers Event Next Steps

Hi there -

Any updates on Garcetti? Or other mayors?

Also, we need to finalize the specifics of the ask around tax policy reform. Let me know who to talk to about the messaging around that.

Thanks!
Regina

From: "Viguers, Jonathan" <JViguers@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Tue, 4 Aug 2015 22:10:47 +0000
To: Regina Clemente <regina@bravenewfilms.org>
Subject: Re: Hedge Fund/Teachers Event Next Steps

No new updates yet, but it looks like were gonna try for the garcetti call on thursday!

sent from a mobile device.

From: Regina Clemente [<mailto:regina@bravenewfilms.org>]
Sent: Monday, August 03, 2015 08:27 PM
To: Viguers, Jonathan
Subject: Re: Hedge Fund/Teachers Event Next Steps

Hey there. Just following up with my call from Friday. Any updates from other mayors (I am assuming not!)?

And any word on when the Garcetti ask will be made?

Thanks!
Regina

From: Viguers, Jonathan <JViguers@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Sent: Tuesday, July 14, 2015 5:40 PM
To: Regina Clemente
Subject: RE: Hedge Fund/Teachers Event Next Steps

Yes tomorrow! Will call you then!

From: Regina Clemente [<mailto:regina@bravenewfilms.org>]
Sent: Tuesday, July 14, 2015 8:40 PM
To: Viguers, Jonathan
Subject: Re: Hedge Fund/Teachers Event Next Steps

Great – tomorrow? Just call my cell: [REDACTED]

Thanks!

From: <Viguers>, Jonathan <JViguers@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Tuesday, July 14, 2015 at 5:37 PM
To: Regina Clemente <regina@bravenewfilms.org>
Subject: RE: Hedge Fund/Teachers Event Next Steps

How about 9AM PST / 12PM EST?

From: Regina Clemente [<mailto:regina@bravenewfilms.org>]
Sent: Tuesday, July 14, 2015 8:31 PM
To: Viguers, Jonathan
Subject: Re: Hedge Fund/Teachers Event Next Steps

Hi there -

Got your message – can we schedule a time to talk tomorrow or Thurs?

Tomorrow I can do between 8:30-9:30PST/11:30-12:30EST or after 2PST/5EST. Either of those windows work?

If not, can do Thurs between 8:30-11PST/11:30-2EST.

From: Regina Clemente <regina@bravenewfilms.org>
Date: Thursday, July 9, 2015 at 3:28 PM
To: "Viguers, Jonathan" <JViguers@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Hedge Fund/Teachers Event Next Steps

Hi Jonathan -

Robert and John (in your office) seem to be confident that the Sept. 10th event in NY will happen, so we can start to move forward with reaching out to other mayors' offices to participate.

Here is the background info/ask (written by John, with some edits):

Robert Greenwald, founder and President of Brave New Films, is a strong supporter of The Progressive Agenda. After a career of making dozens of feature films - he turned his efforts to progressive documentary filmmaking - including Outfoxed: Rupert Murdoch's War on Journalism; Wal-Mart: The High Cost of Low Price; and Koch Brothers Exposed. Robert recently produced the short film Racism Is Real, which has been a viral sensation.

Now, in concert with The Progressive Agenda, Robert is in the process of making a short (5-10 minute) film that shines a light on the fact that the top 25 hedge fund managers earned more money last year than all of the Kindergarten teachers in America COMBINED and that teachers are taxed at a higher rate than hedge fund managers as part of a larger campaign to highlight and fight income inequality.

Robert is hoping to film kindergarten teachers in various cities around the country, including New York City and (YOUR CITY). The plan is to have a coordinated film/campaign launch the week of Sept 7th (whether in-person, or virtual) in a half-dozen cities across the country.

He'd like your office's participation and help in planning for the launch, as well as any assistance you can provide in connecting them with teachers/unions in your city for casting in the film.

The launch will include a national day of screenings and discussions about this issue and how it relates to our fight to combat income inequality.

Does that work? Let me know if you need more info than this – and I can get it to you. I don't think we need to be more specific at this point, as I can work with the offices once we have connections and know their offices are interested.

Also, note that we want to make sure we have a diversity of mayors in terms of gender, POC, and areas of the country. And that we won't want anyone to publicly announce that this is happening until later in the process.

Let me know if you want to jump back on the phone before reaching out (although I don't have many more details than this!).

Thanks so much,
Regina

Regina Clemente
Director of Campaigns
Brave New Films
regina@bravenewfilms.org
o: 310-204-0448 x.236
c: 818-239-2070
bravenewfilms.org

From: Robert Greenwald
To: John Del Cecato; Regina Clemente; Viguers, Jonathan
Cc: Hayley Prim; Greg Wasserstrom; Geri Prado; Rebecca Katz \(hilltoppublicsolutions.com\)
Subject: RE: Hedge Fund/Teachers Event Next Steps
Date: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 4:45:08 PM

How about some of the other mayors? Can others reachout to them?

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 1:40 PM
To: Regina Clemente; Viguers, Jonathan
Cc: Hayley Prim; Greg Wasserstrom; Geri Prado; Rebecca Katz; Robert Greenwald
Subject: Re: Hedge Fund/Teachers Event Next Steps

Call didn't happen, i'm sorry to report... Believe me - we are really trying to get this call made - but Legionairres & so many other things keep taking our schedule hostage

From: Regina Clemente <regina@bravenewfilms.org>
Date: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 at 4:33 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, "Viguers, Jonathan" <JViguers@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>, Greg Wasserstrom <greg@spearheaddigital.co>, Geri Prado [REDACTED] Rebecca Katz <rkatz@hilltoppublicsolutions.com>, Robert Greenwald <robert@bravenewfilms.org>
Subject: Re: Hedge Fund/Teachers Event Next Steps

Great – will work on specific messaging around that and loop back to you on it.

Any word on Garcetti? Jonathan thought there was a call scheduled for last Thursday with him.

Thanks!

From: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Date: Wed, 12 Aug 2015 11:10:35 -0700
To: Regina Clemente <regina@bravenewfilms.org>, "Viguers, Jonathan" <JViguers@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>, Greg Wasserstrom <greg@spearheaddigital.co>, Geri Prado [REDACTED] Rebecca Katz <rkatz@hilltoppublicsolutions.com>
Subject: Re: Hedge Fund/Teachers Event Next Steps

I'm thinking the ask should be signing a petition to tell Washington to close the carried interest loophole and invest in early education..

From: Regina Clemente <regina@bravenewfilms.org>
Date: Monday, August 10, 2015 at 1:59 PM
To: "Viguers, Jonathan" <JViguers@cityhall.nyc.gov>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Hedge Fund/Teachers Event Next Steps

Hi there -

Any updates on Garcetti? Or other mayors?

Also, we need to finalize the specifics of the ask around tax policy reform. Let me know who to talk to about the messaging around that.

Thanks!
Regina

From: "Viguers, Jonathan" <JViguers@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Tue, 4 Aug 2015 22:10:47 +0000
To: Regina Clemente <regina@bravenewfilms.org>
Subject: Re: Hedge Fund/Teachers Event Next Steps

No new updates yet, but it looks like were gonna try for the garcetti call on thursday!

sent from a mobile device.

From: Regina Clemente [<mailto:regina@bravenewfilms.org>]
Sent: Monday, August 03, 2015 08:27 PM
To: Viguers, Jonathan
Subject: Re: Hedge Fund/Teachers Event Next Steps

Hey there. Just following up with my call from Friday. Any updates from other mayors (I am assuming not!)?

And any word on when the Garcetti ask will be made?

Thanks!
Regina

From: Viguers, Jonathan <JViguers@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Sent: Tuesday, July 14, 2015 5:40 PM
To: Regina Clemente
Subject: RE: Hedge Fund/Teachers Event Next Steps

Yes tomorrow! Will call you then!

From: Regina Clemente [<mailto:regina@bravenewfilms.org>]
Sent: Tuesday, July 14, 2015 8:40 PM
To: Viguers, Jonathan
Subject: Re: Hedge Fund/Teachers Event Next Steps

Great – tomorrow? Just call my cell: [REDACTED]

Thanks!

From: <Viguers>, Jonathan <JViguers@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Tuesday, July 14, 2015 at 5:37 PM
To: Regina Clemente <regina@bravenewfilms.org>
Subject: RE: Hedge Fund/Teachers Event Next Steps

How about 9AM PST / 12PM EST?

From: Regina Clemente [<mailto:regina@bravenewfilms.org>]
Sent: Tuesday, July 14, 2015 8:31 PM
To: Viguers, Jonathan
Subject: Re: Hedge Fund/Teachers Event Next Steps

Hi there -

Got your message – can we schedule a time to talk tomorrow or Thurs?

Tomorrow I can do between 8:30-9:30PST/11:30-12:30EST or after 2PST/5EST. Either of those windows work?

If not, can do Thurs between 8:30-11PST/11:30-2EST.

From: Regina Clemente <regina@bravenewfilms.org>
Date: Thursday, July 9, 2015 at 3:28 PM
To: "Viguers, Jonathan" <JViguers@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Hedge Fund/Teachers Event Next Steps

Hi Jonathan -

Robert and John (in your office) seem to be confident that the Sept. 10th event in NY will happen, so we can start to move forward with reaching out to other mayors' offices to participate.

Here is the background info/ask (written by John, with some edits):

Robert Greenwald, founder and President of Brave New Films, is a strong supporter of The Progressive Agenda. After a career of making dozens of feature films - he turned his efforts to progressive documentary filmmaking - including Outfoxed: Rupert Murdoch's War on Journalism; Wal-Mart: The High Cost of Low Price; and Koch Brothers Exposed. Robert recently produced the short film Racism Is Real, which has been a viral sensation.

Now, in concert with The Progressive Agenda, Robert is in the process of making a short (5-10 minute) film that shines a light on the fact that the top 25 hedge fund managers earned more money last year than all of the Kindergarten teachers in America COMBINED and that teachers are taxed at a higher rate than hedge fund managers as part of a larger campaign to highlight and fight income inequality.

Robert is hoping to film kindergarten teachers in various cities around the country, including New York City and (YOUR CITY). The plan is to have a coordinated film/campaign launch the week of Sept 7th (whether in-person, or virtual) in a half-dozen cities across the country.

He'd like your office's participation and help in planning for the launch, as well as any assistance you can provide in connecting them with teachers/unions in your city for casting in the film.

The launch will include a national day of screenings and discussions about this issue and how it relates to our fight to combat income inequality.

Does that work? Let me know if you need more info than this – and I can get it to you. I don't think we need to be more specific at this point, as I can work with the offices once we have connections and know their offices are interested.

Also, note that we want to make sure we have a diversity of mayors in terms of gender, POC, and areas of the country. And that we won't want anyone to publicly announce that this is happening until later in the process.

Let me know if you want to jump back on the phone before reaching out (although I don't have many more details than this!).

Thanks so much,
Regina

Regina Clemente
Director of Campaigns
Brave New Films
regina@bravenewfilms.org
o: 310-204-0448 x.236
c: 818-239-2070
bravenewfilms.org

From: John Del Cecato
To: B
Cc: Leopold, Elana
Subject: Re: <no subject>
Date: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 4:58:24 PM

Yes, copy that

From: Bill de Blasio <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 at 4:57 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: "Leopold, Elana" <ELeopold@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: <no subject>

Will do on the car ride to gracie or sooner -- and need to download podesta from a private place

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 04:39 PM
To: B
Subject: <no subject>

Can you give me a buzz when you get a moment re: last night, and a couple of small TPA things?

I have an event tonight at 7 - but free for the next couple of hours... Don't need a lot of time

From: Walzak, Phil
To: Hinton, Karen; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Cc: Hagelgans, Andrea; Wolfe, Emma
Subject: Re: Dawsey
Date: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 5:14:34 PM

Chen did this in 2013!

From: Hinton, Karen
Sent: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 05:03 PM
To: 'John Del Cecato' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea; Wolfe, Emma
Subject: RE: Dawsey

Well that's one way to get rid of it; if it's already been published.

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 4:45 PM
To: Hinton, Karen
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea; Wolfe, Emma
Subject: Re: Dawsey

What a cheap bit of probably bogus oppo for someone to drop - and for Dawsey to consider news. The NYT did this story on Bdb as manager of Hrc campaign back in 2013.

As far as pushback, I'm not sure who all would come to our defense - maybe Katie Allison, who worked on that race? Neera? She's been kinda mad at us lately.

On Aug 12, 2015, at 4:39 PM, Hinton, Karen <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

So Dawsey tells me his story about the intersection of Cuomo, de Blasio and HRC. Cuomo talking to Bill Clinton regularly, how can he be helpful in NY? HRC people saying they are sick and tired of Mayor's litmus test. Someone told the story that during HRC Senate campaign, everyone would jump on a call in morning with Mayor to discuss the day, then after the call, jump on another call to talk about they would actually do that day with Wolfson. Dawsey says he doesn't have a source right now to confirm but if he finds one, he will use this in his story.

Serious pushback needed here. Is there a Clinton person who will deny this and say something positive?

Karen Hinton
Press Secretary
917-246-7692
Follow Me On Twitter @KarenHinton

From: Tobias Rodriguez
To: Hagelgans, Andrea
Cc: Leopold, Elana; Bray, Jackie; Walzak, Phil; John Del Cecato
Subject: RE: jimmy carter/cancer
Date: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 7:21:35 PM

I'm at a loss for words on this one. Here are a few that would be linked to the first one. Let me know if you all think any of these are going in the right direction.

Visiting him last year with [REDACTED] we both could sense his strength. May the peace he's brought to our world carry him through this time.

Our mere gratitude is not sufficient for the work he's done to make our world more peaceful and more humane. Speedy recovery, Mr. President.

He's among my heroes -- a true leader whose passion helps all. The peace he's emitted throughout his life will be his greatest strength.

From: Hagelgans, Andrea [AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov]
Sent: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 6:24 PM
To: Tobias Rodriguez
Cc: Leopold, Elana; Bray, Jackie; Walzak, Phil; John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: jimmy carter/cancer

Jdc- ideas?

Sent from my BlackBerry 10 smartphone.

Original Message

From: Tobias Rodriguez
Sent: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 6:23 PM
To: Hagelgans, Andrea
Cc: Leopold, Elana; Bray, Jackie; Walzak, Phil
Subject: Re: jimmy carter/cancer

On bike almost home. Will send in 15. Thoughts on anything you think he'd want to include?

Sent from my iPhone

> On Aug 12, 2015, at 6:19 PM, Hagelgans, Andrea <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>

> Let's do that. Send mayor new tweet to review. Copy us

>

> Sent from my BlackBerry 10 smartphone.

> Original Message

> From: Tobias Rodriguez
> Sent: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 6:19 PM
> To: Hagelgans, Andrea
> Cc: Leopold, Elana; Bray, Jackie; Walzak, Phil
> Subject: Re: jimmy carter/cancer

>

>

> Can't update once it's been posted but can send another.

>

> Sent from my iPhone

>
>> On Aug 12, 2015, at 6:18 PM, Hagelgans, Andrea <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>>
>> Can we just update? Or send another tweet?
>>
>> Sent from my BlackBerry 10 smartphone.
>> Original Message
>> From: Tobias Rodriguez
>> Sent: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 6:16 PM
>> To: Leopold, Elana
>> Cc: Hagelgans, Andrea; Bray, Jackie; Walzak, Phil
>> Subject: Re: jimmy carter/cancer
>>
>>
>> I'm not on other thread and just tweeted. Either I take down ASAP or it stays
>>
>> Sent from my iPhone
>>
>>> On Aug 12, 2015, at 6:15 PM, Leopold, Elana <ELeopold@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>>>
>>> Whoops- apparently not anymore
>>>
>>> See feedback in other thread
>>>
>>> -----Original Message-----
>>> From: Leopold, Elana
>>> Sent: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 6:14 PM
>>> To: Hagelgans, Andrea; Rodriguez, Tobias (Media); Bray, Jackie
>>> Cc: Walzak, Phil
>>> Subject: Re: jimmy carter/cancer
>>>
>>> Yes he's good
>>>
>>> ----- Original Message -----
>>> From: Hagelgans, Andrea
>>> Sent: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 06:12 PM
>>> To: Rodriguez, Tobias (Media); Bray, Jackie
>>> Cc: Walzak, Phil; Leopold, Elana
>>> Subject: Re: jimmy carter/cancer
>>>
>>> Yes. EL- can you tell mbdb we are posting?
>>>
>>> Sent from my BlackBerry 10 smartphone.
>>> Original Message
>>> From: Tobias Rodriguez
>>> Sent: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 6:11 PM
>>> To: Hagelgans, Andrea; Bray, Jackie
>>> Subject: Fwd: jimmy carter/cancer
>>>
>>>
>>> Good to post both? Bdb and flonyc
>>>
>>> Sent from my iPhone
>>>
>>> Begin forwarded message:
>>>
>>> From: FLONYC <FLONYC@cityhall.nyc.gov<<mailto:FLONYC@cityhall.nyc.gov>>>
>>> Date: August 12, 2015 at 6:08:12 PM EDT
>>> To: "Bray, Jackie" <JBray@cityhall.nyc.gov<<mailto:JBray@cityhall.nyc.gov>>>
>>> Cc: "Hagelgans, Andrea" <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov<<mailto:AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>>>,>

"Rodriguez, Tobias (Media)" <tobrodriguez@digital.nyc.gov<<mailto:tobrodriguez@digital.nyc.gov>>>, "Gindler, Maria (Media)" <mgindler@digital.nyc.gov<<mailto:mgindler@digital.nyc.gov>>>, "White, Erin" <EWhite@cityhall.nyc.gov<<mailto:EWhite@cityhall.nyc.gov>>>

>>> Subject: Re: jimmy carter/cancer

>>>

>>>

>>> I am saddened to hear of President Carter's cancer diagnosis. My love to his family in this difficult time.

>>>

>>>

>>>

>>> On Aug 12, 2015, at 5:42 PM, Bray, Jackie

<JBray@cityhall.nyc.gov<<mailto:JBray@cityhall.nyc.gov>>> wrote:

>>>

>>> It hurts my heart to hear of President Carter's cancer diagnosis. My love to his family in this difficult time.

>>>

>>> _____

>>>

>>> This e-mail, including any attachments, may be confidential, privileged or otherwise legally protected. It is intended only for the addressee. If you received this e-mail in error or from someone who was not authorized to send it to you, do not disseminate, copy or otherwise use this e-mail or its attachments. Please notify the sender immediately by replying to this e-mail and delete the e-mail from your system.

From: John Del Cecato
To: Hagelgans, Andrea
Cc: Rodriguez, Tobias \(Media\); Leopold, Elana; Bray, Jackie; Walzak, Phil
Subject: Re: jimmy carter/cancer
Date: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 7:23:24 PM

Something about good values and understand that the whole world must work together on promoting peace and tackling poverty? Or we could reference Habitat for humanity - a guy who understood what homes mean to people

> On Aug 12, 2015, at 6:24 PM, Hagelgans, Andrea <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>

> Jdc- ideas?

>

> Sent from my BlackBerry 10 smartphone.

> Original Message

> From: Tobias Rodriguez

> Sent: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 6:23 PM

> To: Hagelgans, Andrea

> Cc: Leopold, Elana; Bray, Jackie; Walzak, Phil

> Subject: Re: jimmy carter/cancer

>

>

> On bike almost home. Will send in 15. Thoughts on anything you think he'd want to include?

>

> Sent from my iPhone

>

>> On Aug 12, 2015, at 6:19 PM, Hagelgans, Andrea <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>>

>> Let's do that. Send mayor new tweet to review. Copy us

>>

>> Sent from my BlackBerry 10 smartphone.

>> Original Message

>> From: Tobias Rodriguez

>> Sent: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 6:19 PM

>> To: Hagelgans, Andrea

>> Cc: Leopold, Elana; Bray, Jackie; Walzak, Phil

>> Subject: Re: jimmy carter/cancer

>>

>>

>> Can't update once it's been posted but can send another.

>>

>> Sent from my iPhone

>>

>>> On Aug 12, 2015, at 6:18 PM, Hagelgans, Andrea <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>>>

>>> Can we just update? Or send another tweet?

>>>

>>> Sent from my BlackBerry 10 smartphone.

>>> Original Message

>>> From: Tobias Rodriguez

>>> Sent: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 6:16 PM

>>> To: Leopold, Elana

>>> Cc: Hagelgans, Andrea; Bray, Jackie; Walzak, Phil

>>> Subject: Re: jimmy carter/cancer

>>>

>>>

>>> I'm not on other thread and just tweeted. Either I take down ASAP or it stays
>>>
>>> Sent from my iPhone
>>>
>>>> On Aug 12, 2015, at 6:15 PM, Leopold, Elana <ELeopold@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>>>>
>>>> Whoops- apparently not anymore
>>>>
>>>> See feedback in other thread
>>>>
>>>> -----Original Message-----
>>>> From: Leopold, Elana
>>>> Sent: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 6:14 PM
>>>> To: Hagelgans, Andrea; Rodriguez, Tobias (Media); Bray, Jackie
>>>> Cc: Walzak, Phil
>>>> Subject: Re: jimmy carter/cancer
>>>>
>>>> Yes he's good
>>>>
>>>> ----- Original Message -----
>>>> From: Hagelgans, Andrea
>>>> Sent: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 06:12 PM
>>>> To: Rodriguez, Tobias (Media); Bray, Jackie
>>>> Cc: Walzak, Phil; Leopold, Elana
>>>> Subject: Re: jimmy carter/cancer
>>>>
>>>> Yes. EL- can you tell mbdb we are posting?
>>>>
>>>> Sent from my BlackBerry 10 smartphone.
>>>> Original Message
>>>> From: Tobias Rodriguez
>>>> Sent: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 6:11 PM
>>>> To: Hagelgans, Andrea; Bray, Jackie
>>>> Subject: Fwd: jimmy carter/cancer
>>>>
>>>>
>>>> Good to post both? Bdb and flonyc
>>>>
>>>> Sent from my iPhone
>>>>
>>>> Begin forwarded message:
>>>>
>>>> From: FLONYC <FLONYC@cityhall.nyc.gov<<mailto:FLONYC@cityhall.nyc.gov>>>
>>>> Date: August 12, 2015 at 6:08:12 PM EDT
>>>> To: "Bray, Jackie" <JBray@cityhall.nyc.gov<<mailto:JBray@cityhall.nyc.gov>>>
>>>> Cc: "Hagelgans, Andrea" <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov<<mailto:AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>>>, "Rodriguez, Tobias (Media)" <tobrodriguez@digital.nyc.gov<<mailto:tobrodriguez@digital.nyc.gov>>>, "Gindler, Maria (Media)" <mgindler@digital.nyc.gov<<mailto:mgindler@digital.nyc.gov>>>, "White, Erin" <EWhite@cityhall.nyc.gov<<mailto:EWhite@cityhall.nyc.gov>>>
>>>> Subject: Re: jimmy carter/cancer
>>>>
>>>>
>>>> I am saddened to hear of President Carter's cancer diagnosis. My love to his family in this difficult time.
>>>>
>>>>
>>>>
>>>> On Aug 12, 2015, at 5:42 PM, Bray, Jackie
<JBray@cityhall.nyc.gov<<mailto:JBray@cityhall.nyc.gov>>> wrote:
>>>>

>>>> It hurts my heart to hear of President Carter's cancer diagnosis. My love to his family in this difficult time.

>>>>

>>>> _____

>>>>

>>>> This e-mail, including any attachments, may be confidential, privileged or otherwise legally protected. It is intended only for the addressee. If you received this e-mail in error or from someone who was not authorized to send it to you, do not disseminate, copy or otherwise use this e-mail or its attachments. Please notify the sender immediately by replying to this e-mail and delete the e-mail from your system.

From: John Del Cecato
To: B
Subject: Re: <no subject>
Date: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 7:24:35 PM

I'm at a concert at Barclay Center so hard to find a quiet spot. Talk late tonight or early tomorrow?

On Aug 12, 2015, at 6:55 PM, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Just tried u. Call when u can

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 04:39 PM
To: B
Subject: <no subject>

Can you give me a buzz when you get a moment re: last night, and a couple of small TPA things?

I have an event tonight at 7 - but free for the next couple of hours...
Don't need a lot of time

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
To: Bray, Jackie; Rodriguez, Tobias \(Media\)
Cc: Leopold, Elana; Walzak, Phil; John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: jimmy carter/cancer
Date: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 7:31:12 PM

Me too. Send him the options

Sent from my BlackBerry 10 smartphone.

Original Message

From: Bray, Jackie
Sent: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 7:23 PM
To: Rodriguez, Tobias (Media)
Cc: Hagelgans, Andrea; Leopold, Elana; Walzak, Phil; John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: jimmy carter/cancer

I think all three are good Tobias. I like the first one the best.

Sent from my iPhone

> On Aug 12, 2015, at 7:21 PM, Tobias Rodriguez <tobrodriguez@digital.nyc.gov> wrote:
>
> I'm at a loss for words on this one. Here are a few that would be linked to the first one. Let me know if you all think any of these are going in the right direction.
>
> Visiting him last year [REDACTED] we both could sense his strength. May the peace he's brought to our world carry him through this time.
>
> Our mere gratitude is not sufficient for the work he's done to make our world more peaceful and more humane. Speedy recovery, Mr. President.
>
> He's among my heroes -- a true leader whose passion helps all. The peace he's emitted throughout his life will be his greatest strength.
>
>
>
>

From: Hagelgans, Andrea [AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov]
> Sent: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 6:24 PM
> To: Tobias Rodriguez
> Cc: Leopold, Elana; Bray, Jackie; Walzak, Phil; John Del Cecato
> Subject: Re: jimmy carter/cancer
>
> Jdc- ideas?
>
> Sent from my BlackBerry 10 smartphone.
> Original Message
> From: Tobias Rodriguez
> Sent: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 6:23 PM
> To: Hagelgans, Andrea
> Cc: Leopold, Elana; Bray, Jackie; Walzak, Phil
> Subject: Re: jimmy carter/cancer
>
>
> On bike almost home. Will send in 15. Thoughts on anything you think he'd want to include?
>
> Sent from my iPhone

>
>> On Aug 12, 2015, at 6:19 PM, Hagelgans, Andrea <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>>
>> Let's do that. Send mayor new tweet to review. Copy us
>>
>> Sent from my BlackBerry 10 smartphone.
>> Original Message
>> From: Tobias Rodriguez
>> Sent: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 6:19 PM
>> To: Hagelgans, Andrea
>> Cc: Leopold, Elana; Bray, Jackie; Walzak, Phil
>> Subject: Re: jimmy carter/cancer
>>
>>
>> Can't update once it's been posted but can send another.
>>
>> Sent from my iPhone
>>
>>> On Aug 12, 2015, at 6:18 PM, Hagelgans, Andrea <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>>>
>>> Can we just update? Or send another tweet?
>>>
>>> Sent from my BlackBerry 10 smartphone.
>>> Original Message
>>> From: Tobias Rodriguez
>>> Sent: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 6:16 PM
>>> To: Leopold, Elana
>>> Cc: Hagelgans, Andrea; Bray, Jackie; Walzak, Phil
>>> Subject: Re: jimmy carter/cancer
>>>
>>>
>>> I'm not on other thread and just tweeted. Either I take down ASAP or it stays
>>>
>>> Sent from my iPhone
>>>
>>>> On Aug 12, 2015, at 6:15 PM, Leopold, Elana <ELeopold@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>>>>
>>>> Whoops- apparently not anymore
>>>>
>>>> See feedback in other thread
>>>>
>>>> -----Original Message-----
>>>> From: Leopold, Elana
>>>> Sent: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 6:14 PM
>>>> To: Hagelgans, Andrea; Rodriguez, Tobias (Media); Bray, Jackie
>>>> Cc: Walzak, Phil
>>>> Subject: Re: jimmy carter/cancer
>>>>
>>>> Yes he's good
>>>>
>>>> ----- Original Message -----
>>>> From: Hagelgans, Andrea
>>>> Sent: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 06:12 PM
>>>> To: Rodriguez, Tobias (Media); Bray, Jackie
>>>> Cc: Walzak, Phil; Leopold, Elana
>>>> Subject: Re: jimmy carter/cancer
>>>>
>>>> Yes. EL- can you tell mbdb we are posting?
>>>>
>>>> Sent from my BlackBerry 10 smartphone.

>>>> Original Message
>>>> From: Tobias Rodriguez
>>>> Sent: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 6:11 PM
>>>> To: Hagelgans, Andrea; Bray, Jackie
>>>> Subject: Fwd: jimmy carter/cancer
>>>>
>>>>
>>>> Good to post both? Bdb and flonyc
>>>>
>>>> Sent from my iPhone
>>>>
>>>> Begin forwarded message:
>>>>
>>>> From: FLONYC <FLONYC@cityhall.nyc.gov<<mailto:FLONYC@cityhall.nyc.gov>>>
>>>> Date: August 12, 2015 at 6:08:12 PM EDT
>>>> To: "Bray, Jackie" <JBray@cityhall.nyc.gov<<mailto:JBray@cityhall.nyc.gov>>>
>>>> Cc: "Hagelgans, Andrea" <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov<<mailto:AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>>>, "Rodriguez, Tobias (Media)" <tobrodriguez@digital.nyc.gov<<mailto:tobrodriguez@digital.nyc.gov>>>, "Gindler, Maria (Media)" <mgindler@digital.nyc.gov<<mailto:mgindler@digital.nyc.gov>>>, "White, Erin" <EWhite@cityhall.nyc.gov<<mailto:EWhite@cityhall.nyc.gov>>>
>>>> Subject: Re: jimmy carter/cancer
>>>>
>>>>
>>>> I am saddened to hear of President Carter's cancer diagnosis. My love to his family in this difficult time.
>>>>
>>>>
>>>>
>>>> On Aug 12, 2015, at 5:42 PM, Bray, Jackie <JBray@cityhall.nyc.gov<<mailto:JBray@cityhall.nyc.gov>>> wrote:
>>>>
>>>> It hurts my heart to hear of President Carter's cancer diagnosis. My love to his family in this difficult time.
>>>>
>>>> _____
>>>>
>>>> This e-mail, including any attachments, may be confidential, privileged or otherwise legally protected. It is intended only for the addressee. If you received this e-mail in error or from someone who was not authorized to send it to you, do not disseminate, copy or otherwise use this e-mail or its attachments. Please notify the sender immediately by replying to this e-mail and delete the e-mail from your system.

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
To: Rodriguez, Tobias \(Media\); John Del Cecato
Cc: Leopold, Elana; Bray, Jackie; Walzak, Phil
Subject: Re: jimmy carter/cancer
Date: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 7:31:40 PM

Jdc- take a look

Sent from my BlackBerry 10 smartphone.

Original Message

From: Tobias Rodriguez
Sent: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 7:30 PM
To: John Del Cecato; Hagelgans, Andrea
Cc: Leopold, Elana; Bray, Jackie; Walzak, Phil
Subject: RE: jimmy carter/cancer

JDC, did you see email i just sent?

From: John Del Cecato [jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 7:23 PM
To: Hagelgans, Andrea
Cc: Tobias Rodriguez; Leopold, Elana; Bray, Jackie; Walzak, Phil
Subject: Re: jimmy carter/cancer

Something about good values and understand that the whole world must work together on promoting peace and tackling poverty? Or we could reference Habitat for humanity - a guy who understood what homes mean to people

> On Aug 12, 2015, at 6:24 PM, Hagelgans, Andrea <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>
> Jdc- ideas?
>
> Sent from my BlackBerry 10 smartphone.
> Original Message
> From: Tobias Rodriguez
> Sent: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 6:23 PM
> To: Hagelgans, Andrea
> Cc: Leopold, Elana; Bray, Jackie; Walzak, Phil
> Subject: Re: jimmy carter/cancer
>
>
> On bike almost home. Will send in 15. Thoughts on anything you think he'd want to include?
>
> Sent from my iPhone
>
>> On Aug 12, 2015, at 6:19 PM, Hagelgans, Andrea <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>>
>> Let's do that. Send mayor new tweet to review. Copy us
>>
>> Sent from my BlackBerry 10 smartphone.
>> Original Message
>> From: Tobias Rodriguez
>> Sent: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 6:19 PM
>> To: Hagelgans, Andrea
>> Cc: Leopold, Elana; Bray, Jackie; Walzak, Phil

>> Subject: Re: jimmy carter/cancer
>>
>>
>> Can't update once it's been posted but can send another.
>>
>> Sent from my iPhone
>>
>>> On Aug 12, 2015, at 6:18 PM, Hagelgans, Andrea <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>>>
>>> Can we just update? Or send another tweet?
>>>
>>> Sent from my BlackBerry 10 smartphone.
>>> Original Message
>>> From: Tobias Rodriguez
>>> Sent: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 6:16 PM
>>> To: Leopold, Elana
>>> Cc: Hagelgans, Andrea; Bray, Jackie; Walzak, Phil
>>> Subject: Re: jimmy carter/cancer
>>>
>>>
>>> I'm not on other thread and just tweeted. Either I take down ASAP or it stays
>>>
>>> Sent from my iPhone
>>>
>>>> On Aug 12, 2015, at 6:15 PM, Leopold, Elana <ELeopold@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>>>>
>>>> Whoops- apparently not anymore
>>>>
>>>> See feedback in other thread
>>>>
>>>> -----Original Message-----
>>>> From: Leopold, Elana
>>>> Sent: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 6:14 PM
>>>> To: Hagelgans, Andrea; Rodriguez, Tobias (Media); Bray, Jackie
>>>> Cc: Walzak, Phil
>>>> Subject: Re: jimmy carter/cancer
>>>>
>>>> Yes he's good
>>>>
>>>> ----- Original Message -----
>>>> From: Hagelgans, Andrea
>>>> Sent: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 06:12 PM
>>>> To: Rodriguez, Tobias (Media); Bray, Jackie
>>>> Cc: Walzak, Phil; Leopold, Elana
>>>> Subject: Re: jimmy carter/cancer
>>>>
>>>> Yes. EL- can you tell mbdb we are posting?
>>>>
>>>> Sent from my BlackBerry 10 smartphone.
>>>> Original Message
>>>> From: Tobias Rodriguez
>>>> Sent: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 6:11 PM
>>>> To: Hagelgans, Andrea; Bray, Jackie
>>>> Subject: Fwd: jimmy carter/cancer
>>>>
>>>>
>>>> Good to post both? Bdb and flonyc
>>>>
>>>> Sent from my iPhone
>>>>

>>>> Begin forwarded message:

>>>>

>>>> From: FLONYC <FLONYC@cityhall.nyc.gov<<mailto:FLONYC@cityhall.nyc.gov>>>

>>>> Date: August 12, 2015 at 6:08:12 PM EDT

>>>> To: "Bray, Jackie" <JBray@cityhall.nyc.gov<<mailto:JBray@cityhall.nyc.gov>>>

>>>> Cc: "Hagelgans, Andrea" <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov<<mailto:AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>>>, "Rodriguez, Tobias (Media)" <tobrodriguez@digital.nyc.gov<<mailto:tobrodriguez@digital.nyc.gov>>>, "Gindler, Maria (Media)" <mgindler@digital.nyc.gov<<mailto:mgindler@digital.nyc.gov>>>, "White, Erin" <EWhite@cityhall.nyc.gov<<mailto:EWhite@cityhall.nyc.gov>>>

>>>> Subject: Re: jimmy carter/cancer

>>>>

>>>>

>>>> I am saddened to hear of President Carter's cancer diagnosis. My love to his family in this difficult time.

>>>>

>>>>

>>>>

>>>> On Aug 12, 2015, at 5:42 PM, Bray, Jackie <JBray@cityhall.nyc.gov<<mailto:JBray@cityhall.nyc.gov>>> wrote:

>>>>

>>>> It hurts my heart to hear of President Carter's cancer diagnosis. My love to his family in this difficult time.

>>>>

>>>> _____

>>>>

>>>> This e-mail, including any attachments, may be confidential, privileged or otherwise legally protected. It is intended only for the addressee. If you received this e-mail in error or from someone who was not authorized to send it to you, do not disseminate, copy or otherwise use this e-mail or its attachments. Please notify the sender immediately by replying to this e-mail and delete the e-mail from your system.

From: Tobias Rodriguez
To: John Del Cecato
Cc: Hagelgans, Andrea; Leopold, Elana; Bray, Jackie; Walzak, Phil
Subject: RE: jimmy carter/cancer
Date: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 7:35:57 PM

thanks all. sent him the options.

From: John Del Cecato [jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 7:34 PM
To: Tobias Rodriguez
Cc: Hagelgans, Andrea; Leopold, Elana; Bray, Jackie; Walzak, Phil
Subject: Re: jimmy carter/cancer

Yes that works for me - good job

> On Aug 12, 2015, at 7:30 PM, Tobias Rodriguez <tobrodriguez@digital.nyc.gov> wrote:

>
> JDC, did you see email i just sent?
>
>

> From: John Del Cecato [jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
> Sent: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 7:23 PM
> To: Hagelgans, Andrea
> Cc: Tobias Rodriguez; Leopold, Elana; Bray, Jackie; Walzak, Phil
> Subject: Re: jimmy carter/cancer

>
> Something about good values and understand that the whole world must work together on promoting peace and tackling poverty? Or we could reference Habitat for humanity - a guy who understood what homes mean to people

>
>
>> On Aug 12, 2015, at 6:24 PM, Hagelgans, Andrea <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>>
>> Jdc- ideas?
>>
>> Sent from my BlackBerry 10 smartphone.
>> Original Message
>> From: Tobias Rodriguez
>> Sent: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 6:23 PM
>> To: Hagelgans, Andrea
>> Cc: Leopold, Elana; Bray, Jackie; Walzak, Phil
>> Subject: Re: jimmy carter/cancer

>>
>>
>> On bike almost home. Will send in 15. Thoughts on anything you think he'd want to include?

>>
>> Sent from my iPhone
>>
>>> On Aug 12, 2015, at 6:19 PM, Hagelgans, Andrea <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>>>
>>> Let's do that. Send mayor new tweet to review. Copy us
>>>
>>> Sent from my BlackBerry 10 smartphone.
>>> Original Message

>>> From: Tobias Rodriguez
>>> Sent: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 6:19 PM
>>> To: Hagelgans, Andrea
>>> Cc: Leopold, Elana; Bray, Jackie; Walzak, Phil
>>> Subject: Re: jimmy carter/cancer
>>>
>>>
>>> Can't update once it's been posted but can send another.
>>>
>>> Sent from my iPhone
>>>
>>>> On Aug 12, 2015, at 6:18 PM, Hagelgans, Andrea <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>>>>
>>>> Can we just update? Or send another tweet?
>>>>
>>>> Sent from my BlackBerry 10 smartphone.
>>>> Original Message
>>>> From: Tobias Rodriguez
>>>> Sent: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 6:16 PM
>>>> To: Leopold, Elana
>>>> Cc: Hagelgans, Andrea; Bray, Jackie; Walzak, Phil
>>>> Subject: Re: jimmy carter/cancer
>>>>
>>>>
>>>> I'm not on other thread and just tweeted. Either I take down ASAP or it stays
>>>>
>>>> Sent from my iPhone
>>>>
>>>>> On Aug 12, 2015, at 6:15 PM, Leopold, Elana <ELEopold@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>>>>>
>>>>> Whoops- apparently not anymore
>>>>>
>>>>> See feedback in other thread
>>>>>
>>>>> -----Original Message-----
>>>>> From: Leopold, Elana
>>>>> Sent: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 6:14 PM
>>>>> To: Hagelgans, Andrea; Rodriguez, Tobias (Media); Bray, Jackie
>>>>> Cc: Walzak, Phil
>>>>> Subject: Re: jimmy carter/cancer
>>>>>
>>>>> Yes he's good
>>>>>
>>>>> ----- Original Message -----
>>>>> From: Hagelgans, Andrea
>>>>> Sent: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 06:12 PM
>>>>> To: Rodriguez, Tobias (Media); Bray, Jackie
>>>>> Cc: Walzak, Phil; Leopold, Elana
>>>>> Subject: Re: jimmy carter/cancer
>>>>>
>>>>> Yes. EL- can you tell mbdb we are posting?
>>>>>
>>>>> Sent from my BlackBerry 10 smartphone.
>>>>> Original Message
>>>>> From: Tobias Rodriguez
>>>>> Sent: Wednesday, August 12, 2015 6:11 PM
>>>>> To: Hagelgans, Andrea; Bray, Jackie
>>>>> Subject: Fwd: jimmy carter/cancer
>>>>>
>>>>>

>>>> Good to post both? Bdb and flonyc

>>>>

>>>> Sent from my iPhone

>>>>

>>>> Begin forwarded message:

>>>>

>>>> From: FLONYC <FLONYC@cityhall.nyc.gov<<mailto:FLONYC@cityhall.nyc.gov>>>

>>>> Date: August 12, 2015 at 6:08:12 PM EDT

>>>> To: "Bray, Jackie" <JBray@cityhall.nyc.gov<<mailto:JBray@cityhall.nyc.gov>>>

>>>> Cc: "Hagelgans, Andrea"

<AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov<<mailto:AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>>>, "Rodriguez, Tobias (Media)"

<tobrodriguez@digital.nyc.gov<<mailto:tobrodriguez@digital.nyc.gov>>>, "Gindler, Maria (Media)"

<mgindler@digital.nyc.gov<<mailto:mgindler@digital.nyc.gov>>>, "White, Erin"

<EWhite@cityhall.nyc.gov<<mailto:EWhite@cityhall.nyc.gov>>>

>>>> Subject: Re: jimmy carter/cancer

>>>>

>>>>

>>>> I am saddened to hear of President Carter's cancer diagnosis. My love to his family in this difficult time.

>>>>

>>>>

>>>>

>>>> On Aug 12, 2015, at 5:42 PM, Bray, Jackie

<JBray@cityhall.nyc.gov<<mailto:JBray@cityhall.nyc.gov>>> wrote:

>>>>

>>>> It hurts my heart to hear of President Carter's cancer diagnosis. My love to his family in this difficult time.

>>>>

>>>> _____

>>>>

>>>> This e-mail, including any attachments, may be confidential, privileged or otherwise legally protected. It is intended only for the addressee. If you received this e-mail in error or from someone who was not authorized to send it to you, do not disseminate, copy or otherwise use this e-mail or its attachments. Please notify the sender immediately by replying to this e-mail and delete the e-mail from your system.

From: Blumm, Kate
To: B; "uramirez@schools.nyc.gov"; "Jwallack@schools.nyc.gov"; Goldmark, Karin
Cc: Fialkoff, Gabrielle; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Re: Progress!
Date: Thursday, August 13, 2015 8:12:03 AM

Excellent! Thank you. Will work with this and get something for you to sink your teeth into soon.

Original Message

From: B
Sent: Thursday, August 13, 2015 7:45 AM
To: 'uramirez@schools.nyc.gov'; 'Jwallack@schools.nyc.gov'; Goldmark, Karin; Blumm, Kate
Cc: Fialkoff, Gabrielle; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'
Subject: Progress!

I'm starting to feel this educ speech. College is the right fulcrum here. I think we go heavy into:

EVERY middle and high school having a business partner

Huge numbers of kids in internships/mentorships/summer jobs

EVERY middle/high school student is taking on college tours in nyc multiple times

College savings accounts

City's new vision of how to get kids to college and help them succeed there/afford it

Then all the things we are doing k-12 are shown to be supporting that

From: Fialkoff, Gabrielle
To: "bccd@cityhall.nyc.gov"; "uramirez@schools.nyc.gov"; "Jwallack@schools.nyc.gov"; Goldmark, Karin; Blumm, Kate
Cc: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Re: Progress!
Date: Thursday, August 13, 2015 8:37:10 AM

Fwiw: we talk about a path to college or a good job as the results of our summer jobs/internships/mentorships work.

I've been tying in the computer science for all initiative to youth employment and skills building for our middle/ and high school students (center for youth employment efforts) to initiatives like the tech talent pipeline-- a continuum to well paying 21st century jobs...

Also of course CTEs as part of that path.

----- Original Message -----

From: B
Sent: Thursday, August 13, 2015 07:45 AM
To: 'uramirez@schools.nyc.gov' <uramirez@schools.nyc.gov>; 'Jwallack@schools.nyc.gov' <Jwallack@schools.nyc.gov>; Goldmark, Karin; Blumm, Kate
Cc: Fialkoff, Gabrielle; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Progress!

I'm starting to feel this educ speech. College is the right fulcrum here. I think we go heavy into:

EVERY middle and high school having a business partner

Huge numbers of kids in internships/mentorships/summer jobs

EVERY middle/high school student is taking on college tours in nyc multiple times

College savings accounts

City's new vision of how to get kids to college and help them succeed there/afford it

Then all the things we are doing k-12 are shown to be supporting that

From: Geri Prado
To: B
Cc: jfdc@akpdmedia.com; hayley@progressiveagenda.us; FLONYC; Wolfe, Emma; Walzak, Phil; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: Income Inequality in the News -- Monday, August 10, 2015
Date: Thursday, August 13, 2015 9:06:26 AM

We have recent message research a lot of progressive groups have worked on together. As well. Unions and Americans United have come together for a second installment of Hart conducted research on how candidates should talk about the issue. I'm hoping they brief us soon.

On Aug 13, 2015, at 8:58 AM, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Everyone read this carefully and think deeply about the ramifications. This is a recipe for all we need to do going forward

From: Geri Prado [mailto:]
Sent: Thursday, August 13, 2015 08:10 AM
To: B
Cc: jfdc@akpdmedia.com <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; hayley@progressiveagenda.us <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>
Subject: Re: Income Inequality in the News -- Monday, August 10, 2015

I believe it's from May. Still looking.

Americans Continue to Say U S Wealth Distribution Is Unfair

PRINCETON, N J -- Despite the growing focus on inequality in recent years, the 63% of Americans who say that money and wealth should be more evenly distributed among a larger percentage of the people is almost the same as the 60% who said this in 1984

Americans' agreement that money and wealth need to be more evenly distributed reached a high point of 68% in April 2008, in the last year of the George W Bush administration, and just before the full effects of the Great Recession began to take hold. Americans became slightly less likely to agree with the idea later that year and in surveys conducted in 2009, 2011 and 2013. This year's increase to 63% is close to the average of 62% agreement across the 13 times Gallup has asked the question since 1984. The latest data are from Gallup's April 9-12 Economy and Personal Finance survey.

Americans' views on how money and wealth should be distributed in the country are strongly correlated with their partisanship and ideology. Agreement ranges from 86% among Democrats and 85% among liberals, down to 34% and 42% among Republicans and conservatives, respectively.

Income is also a factor. Those with annual household incomes of at least $75,000 (54%) are considerably less likely than those with incomes below $30,000 (74%) to agree that wealth should be more evenly distributed. Attitudes vary little by age.

The question on the fairness of money and wealth distribution does not include explicit assumptions about the causes of the current unequal distribution of income and wealth, nor does it discuss or imply any particular course of action designed to remedy the situation. Addressing the problem is a moot issue for many Republicans, a majority of whom say the distribution is fair as it is. Most Democrats, on the other hand, presumably endorse some mechanism by which the distribution of wealth and income could be made less unequal.

More than 75 years ago, at the tail end of the Great Depression, the Roper research organization and Fortune magazine asked Americans about "heavy taxes on the rich" as one method of redistributing wealth, and found one-third (35%) agreeing that the government should do this. Gallup began asking this question again in 1998, and found Americans' agreement at 45%. Since then, Americans' support for this idea has fluctuated, but has reached a high point of 52% in Gallup's most recent two surveys, conducted in April 2013 and April of this year.

As was the case with the basic fairness question, agreement that the government should impose heavy taxes on the rich to redistribute wealth is highly related to partisanship and ideology. Additionally, younger Americans and those with lower incomes are above average in their agreement.

About Half of Americans Are Strong Redistributionists

Analyzing how Americans respond to both questions about inequality shows that nearly half of Americans (46%) are strong redistributionists -- in the sense that they believe the distribution of wealth and income is not fair, and endorse heavy taxes on the rich as a way of redistributing wealth. One in four are in essence free-market advocates -- sanguine about the distribution of wealth and income and not supporting heavy taxes on the rich. Another 16% say the income and wealth distribution is not fair, but don't endorse heavy taxes as a remedy. A small percentage have the somewhat contradictory views of believing that the distribution is fair but favoring heavy taxes on the rich.

Implications

Surveys conducted over the past 30 years have consistently shown that about six in 10 Americans fundamentally believe that the way income and wealth are distributed in the U S is unfair. Democrats are much more likely to hold this view than Republicans, helping explain why inequality has been a major focus for President Barack Obama, a core part of the presidential campaign of Hillary Clinton, and a primary talking point when Sen Bernie Sanders of Vermont recently announced his candidacy.

Although well less than half of Republicans believe that income and wealth distribution in the U S is unfair and that wealth needs to be more evenly distributed, GOP presidential candidates have also begun to address the issue, most likely realizing that the issue has currency with independents, Hispanics and other voter groups that could decide the 2016 election. Additionally, the issue has been more of a talking point in discussions of government policy as many news reports have focused on data showing that income and wealth are becoming less equally distributed across the population than was the case in the past

One way presidential and other political candidates will attempt to differentiate themselves from their competitors concerning inequality will likely be their proposed remedies for it. Democrats have generally been more likely to endorse government policies designed to reduce the wealth at the top end of the socioeconomic spectrum and help increase it at the bottom. Republicans have been more likely to endorse mechanisms that would make it easier for those at the bottom to move up the economic ladder by their own initiative. Still, given that a not insubstantial 29% of Republicans agree with the idea of heavy taxes on the rich, and that a Republican presidential candidate has to assemble some votes from outside of Republican ranks to win a general election, candidates from both parties will most likely consider a wide spectrum of choices or ways of addressing inequality.

Survey Methods

Results for this Gallup poll are based on telephone interviews conducted April 9-12, 2015, with a random sample of 1,015 adults, aged 18 and older, living in all 50 U.S. states and the District of Columbia. For results based on the total sample of national adults, the margin of sampling error is ± 4 percentage points at the 95% confidence level. All reported margins of sampling error include computed design effects for weighting.

Each sample of national adults includes a minimum quota of 50% cellphone respondents and 50% landline respondents, with additional minimum quotas by time zone within region. Landline and cellular telephone numbers are selected using random-digit-dial methods.

View survey methodology, complete question responses, and trends

Learn more about how Gallup Poll Social Series works

On Aug 13, 2015, at 8:02 AM, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Need to know more about the recent Gallup poll referenced below in the article re: R's struggling with the income inequality issue. Also, I hope you all get these daily compendia -- I find them helpful

From: Boeglin, Rosemary
Sent: Monday, August 10, 2015 11:21 PM
To: Boeglin, Rosemary
Subject: Income Inequality in the News -- Monday, August 10, 2015

Income Inequality in the News — Monday, August 10, 2015

HRC Policy Proposals:

- <!--[if !supportLists]-->• <!--[endif]--> Clinton on Monday unveiled a $350 billion plan aimed at making college more affordable. The proposal centers on a $200 billion federal incentive system aimed at encouraging states to expand their investments in higher education and cut student costs. States that guarantee "no-loan" tuition at four-year public schools and free tuition at community colleges will be eligible to receive federal funds. [New York Times]
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->• <!--[endif]--> While military veterans and lower-income students, etc. would go to school for free in the Clinton plan, others would incur costs for their schooling and living expenses at four-year public universities. For most students, their families will still be expected to make a "realistic" contribution. [New York Times]
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->• <!--[endif]--> The cost of Clinton's plan would be offset by capping itemized tax deductions for wealthy families at 28 percent, like those taken by high-income taxpayers for charitable contributions and mortgage interest. [New York Times]

Today's Headlines:

Clinton Proposes \$350 Billion College Affordability Plan
ASSOCIATED PRESS - [8/10]
Bernie Sanders Rolls Out Racial Justice Plan
MSNBC - Alex Seitz-Wald - [8/10]
Bernie Sanders Draws Biggest Crowd at Portland Rally
CNN - Dan Merica - [8/10]
From Iowa Labor, Joe Biden Love But Scant Momentum
BLOOMBERG - Josh Eidelson - [8/10]
GOP Struggles on Income Equality
THE HILL - Tim Devaney - [8/10]
What Would John Kasich Do With Immigration Policy?
CBS NEWS - Jake Miller - [8/10]
Opinion: How Rand Paul Defines 'Income Inequality'
MSNBC - Steve Benen - [8/10]
Push For Higher Minimum Wage Sparks New Concerns Over Enforcement
ASSOCIATED PRESS - [8/10]
Following Netflix, Adobe Bumps Up Parental Leave Benefits
WALL STREET JOURNAL - Rachel Feintzeig - [8/10]
Netflix Still Facing Questions Over its New Parental Leave Policy
NPR - Sam Sanders - [8/10]

Income Inequality in the News:

Clinton Proposes \$350 Billion College Affordability Plan
ASSOCIATED PRESS - [8/10]

Calling for a "new college compact," Hillary Rodham Clinton on Monday unveiled a $350 billion plan aimed at making college more affordable and reducing the crushing burden of student debt.

At a town hall meeting in New Hampshire, the state with the highest average student debt in the country, Clinton proposed steps to reduce the cost of four-year public schools, make two-year community colleges tuition-free and cut student loan interest rates, according to campaign aides

She pitched her plan as a public-private partnership, requiring a contribution from the federal government and states, the colleges and universities and students themselves

"Americans will have to work hard to put themselves through school to out-learn and out-hustle our competitors, just like we always have," she told voters gathered at a high school in Exeter, New Hampshire

The college affordability plan, a main plank of her policy platform, is an effort to address a major financial stress for many American families and satisfy a central demand of the Democratic party's liberal wing

The proposal centers on a $200 billion federal incentive system aimed at encouraging states to expand their investments in higher education and cut student costs. States that guarantee "no-loan" tuition at four-year public schools and free tuition at community colleges will be eligible to receive federal funds

But Clinton doesn't go quite as far as some of her primary challengers. In May, Vermont Sen. Bernie Sanders released his own plan that would eliminate tuition and fees for public universities. The $70 billion annual proposal would be funded by imposing a tax on transactions by hedge funds, investment houses and other Wall Street firms. Former Maryland Gov. Martin O'Malley has proposed giving all students access to debt-free college at in-state universities within five years.

Although she didn't mention her rivals by name, Clinton said simply asking the federal government to pay for tuition is not an appropriate way to lower the burden on students.

"We can't expect the federal government just to pay the bill for free, that's not how America works," she said.

While military veterans, lower-income students and those who complete a national service program, like AmeriCorps, would go to school for free in the Clinton plan, others would incur costs for their schooling and living expenses at four-year public universities. "For many students, it would translate into debt-free tuition," said Carmel Martin, executive vice president for policy at the Center for American Progress, who advised Clinton on that plan. "It will depend on the student circumstances and the institution they are going to."

For most students, their families will still be expected to make a "realistic" contribution, say Clinton's aides, and students will contribute wages from ten hours of work per week.

Those currently repaying loans would be able to refinance their outstanding debt at lower rates, a change Clinton's aides say will save an average of $2,000 for 25 million borrowers over the life of the loan — an amount equal to just about $17 per month over a 10-year repayment period. She would also expand income-based repayment programs, allowing every student borrower to enroll in a plan that would cap their payments at 10 percent of their income with remaining debt forgiven after 20 years.

The cost of Clinton's plan would be offset by capping itemized tax deductions for wealthy families at 28 percent, like those taken by high-income taxpayers for charitable contributions and mortgage interest. That proposal, which has long been included in President Barack Obama's annual budget, would raise more than $600 billion in the next decade, according to the Treasury Department.

Clinton's plan would likely face a steep climb in Congress: A $60 billion Obama administration initiative for free community college has gotten little traction.

Republican presidential candidates criticized the costs of Clinton's proposal on Monday morning.

"Every time you add more money and financial aid, (traditional colleges) raise their tuition rates," Florida Sen. Marco Rubio said in an interview on Fox News. "That's what's going to happen here again unless they have competition."

Former Florida Gov. Jeb Bush released a statement saying the proposal would "raise the cost of college even further and shift the burden to hardworking taxpayers."

College affordability has emerged as a major issue on the presidential campaign trail, as families face the highest debt burden in generations. National student debt is near $1.3 trillion dollars and the average price for in-state students at public four-year universities is 42 percent higher than it was a decade ago, according to the College Board.

Clinton aides believe their plan will help build enthusiasm for her candidacy with younger voters — whose support twice helped catapult Obama into the White House. The policy roll-out is timed for when students return to college campuses. Clinton organizers plan to promote the plan at registration events and other gatherings kicking off the school year, according to a campaign aide, in an effort to galvanize college students.

Adam Green, co-founder of the Progressive Change Campaign Committee, which has advocated to elevate college affordability to a top political issue, praised Clinton's "bold proposal."

"It represents a sea change in this conversation in just a year or so," he said.

Bernie Sanders Rolls Out Racial Justice Plan
MSNBC - Alex Seitz-Wald - [8/10]

After facing protests from black activists, Democratic presidential candidate Bernie Sanders unveiled a comprehensive racial and criminal justice plan Monday.

Sanders, who has often spoken about running a police department as mayor of Burlington, promises to "reinvent how we police America" and packaged his criminal justice plan with proposals to preserve voting rights and protect against racial violence.

That means overhauling the way police are trained to downplay the use of force and emphasize community policing. Police officers would also be required to wear body cameras, paid for by the federal government.

The senator also calls for demilitarizing police forces, "so they don't look and act like invading armies." And he proposes including a wide swath of community leaders in re-imagining police forces, including leaders from the Black Lives Matter movement.

"It is an outrage that in these early years of the 21st century we are seeing intolerable acts of violence being perpetuated by police," Sanders said in a fact sheet released by his campaign. "We need a societal transformation to make it clear that black lives matter, and racism cannot be accepted in a civilized country."

The senator has a long record working in the civil rights movement. But he hails from a state whose population is barely more than 1% black, and has struggled to connect to African-American voters, a key voting block in the Democratic Party.

But he's stepped up efforts since Black Lives Matters activists interrupted his speech at the liberal Netroots Nation conference in Phoenix in late July. He was the only major presidential candidate to speak to the annual conference of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference in Louisiana last month, and recently hired a racial justice activist as his new press secretary.

Even so, his speech to a Social Security rally in Seattle Saturday was shutdown by activists with the Black Lives Matter movement, who said they need to hold Sanders accountable.

Sanders' plan also goes after what he calls the "failed 'War on Drugs,'" condemning "racially-biased mandatory minimums that punish people of color unfairly."

"It is an obscenity that we stigmatize so many young Americans with a criminal record for smoking marijuana, but not one major Wall Street executive has been prosecuted for causing the near collapse of our entire economy. This must change," states the Sanders campaign fact sheet.

The candidate's plan shares some common planks with that of Democratic front-runner Hillary Clinton, who used the first policy speech of her campaign to call for criminal justice reform, but would go farther in some areas.

Former Maryland Gov. Martin O'Malley, the third leading Democratic candidate, has rolled out his own comprehensive criminal justice reform plan, which includes some similar positions and pushes for greater fairness and transparency in sentencing and police work.

Unlike his rivals, Sanders' framed the issue of criminal justice reform in a larger issue of racial violence. He includes white supremacist violence, like the shooting at a black church in Charleston, South Carolina, this summer. And it also includes protections for African-American voting rights.

"The 'violence' framing in the initial draft of the Sanders Racial Justice platform is powerful & I look forward to seeing him expand this," said Deray McKesson, a prominent activist with the Black Lives Matter movement.

For years, Democrats feared criminal justice reform was a political liability that would get them labeled as "soft on crime." Recently, however, President Obama has called for a sweeping overhaul of the criminal justice system and became the first president to visit a prison last month.

Bernie Sanders Draws Biggest Crowd at Portland Rally CNN - Dan Merica - [8/10]

Vermont Sen. Bernie Sanders drew more than 19,000 people to an NBA arena on Sunday night in Portland, Oregon, setting the record for the largest political event of the 2016 presidential contest.

The Democratic candidate has drawn large crowds nearly everywhere he has gone, so much so that Sanders' campaign has started to be defined by their turnout figures. Sanders' staff has also proudly touted the numbers as proof that their campaign is catching fire nationally, though Sanders' largest rallies have typically been in liberal enclaves such as Madison, Wisconsin, and Sunday's Pacific Northwest events fit that description.

"Whoa," Sanders said as he walked on stage in Portland. "This is an unbelievable turnout."

According to Michael Lewellen, vice president of corporate communications for the arena, there were over 19,000 people in the arena and an estimated 9,000 people who lined up outside but were unable to get in. Lewellen said a total of 28,000 people tried to attend the event.

Of late, the Sanders campaign has been dogged by Black Lives Matter protestors. The senator's first event Saturday in Seattle was ended after two protestors stormed the stage and refused to leave.

And on Sunday night it was clear that the campaign remains worried about protests, despite trying to address what has been a nagging blind spot for the senator.

Sanders' aides said before the event that they were planning for a "disturbance" from Black Lives Matters protestors. The senator's new press secretary, Symone Sanders, told the audience that if a protest were to break out, the audience should chant "We Stand Together."

The arena broke out into the chant after Sanders said it.

This is the first time Sanders' campaign has rolled out a shout down chant for dealing with protests and was a clear attempt to avoid what happened Saturday, when Sanders supporters booed the Black Lives Matters protestors.

Sanders told the audience that his campaign was about "bringing people together," not dividing voters. And as he did on Saturday night in Seattle, he spoke about issues that Black Lives Matter wants to hear more about: criminal justice, education and prison reform.

Three women gained access to the press area on Sunday night and held a banner that read "Don't Shoot PDX," an abbreviation for Portland. When Sanders wasn't speaking, attendees could hear the women chanting faintly, but the protest did not serve as much of a disruption and the arena did not break out into chants.

After the event, Sanders told CNN that he wasn't worry about protests. "Great night. Huge turnout. Very good," he said as he worked the ropeline.

One new addition to Sunday's event: Security.

Six guards stood around the stage on the floor of the Moda Arena, ensuring that if a protest were to break out, it would be unlikely the stage would be seized. Sanders' campaign declined to talk about security after Saturday's protest, but the senator has yet to travel with a visible security detail.

Since protestors first hit a Sanders event in July, the campaign has tried to address the candidate's issues with Black Lives Matters protestors.

After Saturday's protests the campaign added a "Racial Justice" tab to their campaign issues page.

"We must pursue policies that transform this country into a nation that affirms the value of its people of color. That starts with addressing the four central types of violence waged against black and brown Americans: physical, political, legal and economic," the website reads.

The audience at Sunday's event was primarily white and expressed a lot of anti-Clinton sentiment.

"He listens I think more than she does," said Claire Met, who came out with three friends to attend the event "She seems more out of touch "

Grace Rubenstein, a 19-year old from Oregon, said she respected Clinton but felt it was "time for new opinions to be brought into the race "

And Brian Foren, who brought his son Liam to the event, said he was backing Sanders because he was concerned Clinton's "baggage" would hurt her in the general election

"I appreciate his honesty and his frankness," he said "She has a lot of baggage and I worry that her baggage might cost us the election "

As for Liam, he said he is supporting Sanders because "mommy and daddy told me "

From Iowa Labor, Joe Biden Love But Scant Momentum

BLOOMBERG - Josh Eidelson - [8/10]

If Joe Biden ever heeds the close friends urging that he run for president, he'll need a groundswell of support from friendly constituencies At last week's Iowa AFL-CIO summit in Altoona, no such Joe-mentum was apparent

"I haven't heard anybody talking about Joe Biden from labor," says South Central Iowa Federation of Labor President Mark Cooper, who like many Iowa labor leaders said he's not aware of any meaningful union efforts to drag Biden into the race, or to line up union support on his behalf, despite recent signals that Biden has not ruled out a third presidential run That inaction underscores the daunting challenge that would face a late entrant—even a sitting vice president—with scant infrastructure behind him "I haven't heard anything from anybody," says Iowa AFL-CIO President Ken Sagar "A lot of people have asked questions "

But labor officials say potential Biden supporters are currently weighing how long it's worth waiting before bolting to someone else, not pounding the pavement to build a pro-Biden movement

It's not that Iowa union leaders aren't fans "How can you not like him?" says International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers Iowa State Conference President Bill Hanes, echoing several others Most focused on his personal style or biography more than any policy position "He just seems like a regular person, even though he's the vice president," says Dan Prymek, the director of the Iowa affiliate of the Laborers International Union of North America's labor-management group "When you ask him a question, he'll give you his honest opinion " Most said a Biden bid would deserve a serious look

But union leaders are doubtful Biden will join the race, and some are skeptical he could pose much threat to front-runner Hillary Clinton And for many of those most frustrated with Clinton's stance on trade, or most eager for a further-left alternative, lifelong pro-labor stalwart Bernie Sanders offers a more natural vehicle to channel their discontent and challenge the frontrunner Biden, says Bruce Clark, president of the American Postal Workers Union's Iowa division, is "part of this administration, hasn't said anything critical of what is going on with this administration " Plus, Sanders is actually in the race (As is Martin O'Malley, another rival running to Clinton's left who impressed delegates at the federation's Thursday cattle call)

Things will change if Biden takes the plunge, says state Representative Bruce Hunter, the ranking Democrat on the Iowa House Labor Committee, who's committed to back Biden if he has the chance Hunter says he's not aware of much effort by labor in Iowa to get the vice president in the race, or to line up supporters in the meantime But he says people are holding back out of respect for Biden—who's still grieving the death of his son—not lack of enthusiasm "I think if Joe gets in in the next month or so," he says, "that there will be an infrastructure there that's going to be pretty easily put together "

National AFL-CIO President Richard Trumka, who calls Biden "one of the best human beings I know," isn't holding his breath "If Hillary would significantly stumble and it looked like she was hurt or wounded mortally in the campaign, then I think you would see not just Joe Biden but others coming on the stage," says Trumka "I don't see that happening right now And Joe isn't doing any of the things that a candidate needs to do at this point in time to get into the game "

GOP Struggles on Income Equality

THE HILL - Tim Devaney - [8/10]

Republicans are struggling to address income inequality on the campaign trail as they look to connect with middle class voters

Democratic presidential candidates Hillary Clinton and Bernie Sanders are hammering Republicans over what they say is a growing gap between the rich and the poor Polls show their calls to raise the minimum wage and improve working conditions seem to resonate with voters By contrast, many of the top GOP presidential candidates are finding it difficult to gain traction with a broader message of economic growth and job creation, strategists say

This disconnect could make Republican presidential candidates vulnerable to attacks from the left over income inequality that place them at odds with the average worker, according to a GOP strategist

"Politically, the sounds bites on the Democratic side are better," acknowledged GOP strategist Ford O'Connell "It's something that sounds good to a lot of voters "

The GOP's struggle to connect with working-class voters is not for a lack of trying

Sen Marco Rubio (R-Fla) took a stab at it Thursday during the first GOP presidential debate

"If I'm our nominee, how is Hillary Clinton going to lecture me about living paycheck to paycheck?" Rubio asked "I was raised paycheck to paycheck "

Ohio Gov John Kasich (R) also made an effort to level with working-class voters during the GOP debate, describing his humble upbringing with a father who was a mailman "So I understand the concerns of all the folks across the country," he said

But promising to raise the minimum wage is typically more popular with middle class voters than talking more broadly about economic growth, O'Connell explained That's why the message from Sanders and Clinton is appealing to many workers

Sanders, the Vermont senator who describes himself as a Democratic socialist, is backing a $15 an hour minimum wage that is popular with many low-wage workers While Clinton also has thrown her support behind raising the minimum wage, but hasn't named a figure

Most Republicans, meanwhile, vigorously oppose such steep hikes in the minimum wage, which they argue would cost hundreds of thousands of jobs They call for fewer regulations and lower taxes, which they argue will create jobs and naturally push wages higher

But that message is a tougher sell to working-class voters, O'Connell said

"What Republicans tell you over and over is, 'If we increase economic growth, we will increase jobs,' but what they should be talking about is wages," he explained

The strategy for addressing income inequality and connecting with middle class voters is still evolving in many Republican campaigns

Kasich is touting his record of balancing the budget in Ohio while creating some 350,000 jobs

"Economic growth is the key to everything," Kasich said "Once you have economic growth, it is important that you reach out to people who live in the shadows, people who don't feel they ever get a fair shot "

Other Republican presidential candidates are taking a more aggressive approach in an attempt to turn the tables on Democrats

During the GOP debate, former Florida Gov Jeb Bush (R) pointed out "there are 6 million people living in poverty today — more than when Barack Obama got elected "

"I'm very glad anytime President Obama or Hillary Clinton brings up income inequality, because income inequality has increased dramatically under their policies," Sen Ted Cruz (R-Texas) told The Hill

"No one has been hurt more under the Obama economy than young people, than Hispanics, than African Americans, than single moms," he added

Republican front-runner Donald Trump last month attacked Clinton on income inequality

"I laugh when see it," Trump told Fox News "I was watching her talk about income inequality That can be beaten All you have to do is take a look at her donor list "

Of course, Republican gaffes don't help

Last month, Bush made headlines for claiming "people need to work longer hours," which didn't sit well with working-class voters

Sanders was quick to come to the defense of workers, saying they need better wages, not longer hours

He attacked Republicans again Thursday following the GOP debate

"It's over," Sanders tweeted "Not one word about economic inequality...That's why the Rs are so out of touch "

The issue of income inequality typically resurfaces ahead of major elections Last fall, a Gallup poll found that Democrats are the "clear favorites" to handle income and wealth distribution across the U S

In fact, about 49 percent of voters said Democrats are better equipped to address income inequality — compared to the 39 percent who sided with Republicans

"Democrats are the clear favorites to handle wealth and income distribution," Gallup wrote

A year later, the debate over income inequality isn't going away as Democrats continue to press the issue

Another more recent Gallup poll found that 63 percent of voters believe that money and wealth distribution in this country is unfair, while two-thirds of voters say they are concerned the gap between the rich and poor is only growing larger, in a recent New York Times-CBS poll

But Republicans have found it difficult to connect with average middle class workers who care more about their wages and less about economic growth

"I don't think you can become president in 2016 without having a real plan to increase people's wages — and, right now, Republicans are allergic to that topic," Sen Chris Murphy (D-Conn) told The Hill

What Would John Kasich Do With Immigration Policy?

CBS NEWS - Jake Miller - [8/10]

Ohio Gov John Kasich said Sunday that he backs a path to legal status for undocumented immigrants in the U S , stating that many of the roughly 11 million undocumented immigrants living in America "contribute a lot" to the country

The "11 or 12 million who are here, we ought to find out who they are," Kasich, a Republican presidential candidate, told CNN "If they've been law-abiding over a period of time, they ought to be legalized, and they ought to be able to stay here "

He also called for the completion of a fence along the U S -Mexico border, and the establishment of a guest worker program that would allow foreign laborers into the country to meet the needs of businesses

Kasich once supported a bill that would eliminate birthright citizenship - citizenship that is automatically granted to babies born in the U S , even if they are born to undocumented parents - but he backed away from that position on Sunday, saying, "I don't think we need to go there "

Some GOP candidates, like South Carolina Sen Lindsey Graham, have gone a step further, calling for a path to citizenship - not just residency - for undocumented immigrants

"You would have a long, hard path to citizenship," Graham told USA Today in May, "but I want to create that path because I don't like the idea of millions of people living in America for the rest of their lives being the hired help That's not who we are "

Democratic frontrunner Hillary Clinton has staked out a similar position, arguing that granting residency but not citizenship to undocumented immigrants would give them "second-class status "

Florida Sen Marco Rubio, another GOP presidential candidate, co-sponsored a comprehensive immigration bill in 2013 that included a path to citizenship, but that bill was stalled by conservative opposition in the House, and Rubio has since distanced himself from the effort

Other GOP candidates like Wisconsin Gov Scott Walker and Ted Cruz, have struck a more staunchly conservative tone on the issue, refusing any "amnesty" to people who are in the U S illegally and insisting the focus of any immigration policy should be on border security and law enforcement

And in a class of his own is billionaire businessman Donald Trump, who has written off many Mexican immigrants as criminals and "rapists" and called for Mexican government to pay for the completion of a border fence

Kasich's position aims to strike a middle ground amid the crowded spectrum of GOP opinions on the issue, and it places him on roughly the same ground as former Florida Gov. Jeb Bush

Still, the Ohio governor hasn't explicitly ruled out a path to citizenship, suggesting he'd like to keep his options open to ensure more negotiating freedom. "The debate is about whether they should become citizens," he told a town hall in New Hampshire last month. "I wouldn't favor that, but I got to tell you we got to get this fixed. And if you're gonna get it fixed, you're going to need Republicans and Democrats. I'm not taking any options off the table on that issue right now."

Opinion: How Rand Paul Defines 'Income Inequality'
MSNBC - Steve Benen - [8/10]

Sen. Rand Paul's (R-Ky.) tax plan is impossible to take seriously. The Republican presidential candidate intends to eliminate the deficit, approve trillions of dollars in new tax breaks, and impose a regressive flat-tax system, all at the same time. It'd be funny if it weren't so sad. But the proposal isn't just arithmetically challenged. On "Fox News Sunday" yesterday, host Chris Wallace asked Paul about "fairness."

WALLACE: [Talking about the Tax Foundation and what they say. Under your plan, a family making from $50,000 to $75,000 a year would get a 3 percent rise in income. Sounds pretty good. But a family making more than $1 million a year would get a 13 percent rise in income. Question, doesn't your plan massively increase income inequality?

PAUL: Well, the thing is income inequality is due to some people working harder and selling more things. If people voluntarily buy more of your stuff, you'll have more money. And it's a fallacious notion to say, 'Oh, rich people get more money back in a tax cut.' If you cut taxes 10 percent, 10 percent of $1 million is more than 10 percent of $1,000. So, obviously, people who paid more in taxes will get more back.

The Democratic National Committee liked the exchange so much, the party quickly posted a video of it online. And it's not hard to understand why. Let's unwrap this a bit.

First, I don't think Rand Paul fully understands what "fallacious notion" means.

Second, and more important, is the fact that the Republican senator seems to think income inequality isn't driven by public policy, but rather, is just a natural economic occurrence. Some Americans "work harder" and sell more stuff, therefore they have more money than everyone else. See how easy it is to understand economics?

Reality paints a very different picture. Obviously, there have always been wealthier people, but income inequality has reached levels unseen in generations for a variety of quantifiable reasons – related to economics, taxes, labor policy, etc. – that have literally nothing to do with "some people working harder."

Paul no doubt finds his version of reality ideologically satisfying, but it's also ridiculous. By his reasoning, as David Atkins noted yesterday at the Washington Monthly, when economic inequality was less severe a generation ago, the elites must have been lazier: "Does Rand Paul believe that the rich just didn't work as hard in 1940 or 1970? Does he have a theory on why the problem is so much worse today than it used to be?"

And finally, the GOP presidential hopeful remains committed to the idea that economic vitality is built on a foundation of giving rich people tax breaks, which will eventually lead to prosperity trickling down to everyone else. The failure of this model in practice has apparently done little to shake Rand Paul's confidence in the theory.

My follow-up question for the senator is straightforward enough: after President Obama raised taxes on the wealthy, U.S. job creation reached a 15-year high. How do you explain that?

Push For Higher Minimum Wage Sparks New Concerns Over Enforcement
ASSOCIATED PRESS - [8/10]

As a campaign to raise the minimum wage as high as $15 has achieved victories in such places as Seattle, Los Angeles and New York, it has bumped up against a harsh reality: Plenty of scofflaw businesses don't pay the legal minimum now and probably won't pay the new, higher wages either.

Some economists, labor activists and regulators predict that without stronger enforcement, the number of workers getting cheated out of a legal wage is bound to increase in places where wages rise.

Estimates on the size of the problem vary, but the Bureau of Labor Statistics said that in 2014, roughly 1.7 million U.S. workers – two thirds of whom were women – were illegally paid less than the federal minimum of $7.25 per hour.

Other studies put the number higher. A report by the Department of Labor in December estimated that in New York and California alone, there are 560,000 violations of the law every week, representing $33 million in lost income.

Those figures represent workers like Celina Alvarez, who came to the U.S. from Michoacan, Mexico, four years ago and took a series of poorly paying jobs as a cook after settling in New York City.

At the first two restaurants, Alvarez worked 12 hours per day, six days a week for a flat weekly wage of $350. That comes out to about $4.86 per hour. There were no tips and no overtime pay. Some weeks, Alvarez said, she and other women in the restaurant didn't get paid at all. Managers didn't care if they quit. They'd just hire someone else.

"We were dispensable to them," she said.

The U.S. Labor Department investigates those types of violations and is already doing a brisk business in enforcement cases. During the last federal fiscal year, it said it recovered $270 million in back wages for 270,000 workers.

But the agency's roughly 1,000 investigators, who police 7.3 million businesses employing 135 million workers, don't enforce state and local wage laws, for the most part. That means that cities and states that hike their minimum wage above the federal rate of $7.25 are on their own.

That's causing some concern that, without a robust enforcement mechanism, many workers could wind up being left behind.

"A lot of states are facing that challenge now," said David Weil, administrator of the U.S. Labor Department's Wage and Hour Division. "It is very important to pass those minimum wage increases. Then, how do we make sure workers really receive them?"

Twenty-nine states now have a minimum wage higher than the federal rate, but anti-poverty activists have been campaigning hard for municipal lawmakers to bypass both Congress and their state legislatures and set wages much higher.

Seattle, Los Angeles, and San Francisco and its Bay Area brethren, Oakland and Berkeley, have all begun phasing in a minimum wage that will hit $15 per hour within the next few years. Labor groups in California are trying to get a measure on the ballot increasing the rate to $15 statewide.

A regulatory board in New York took the unorthodox step last month of hiking the minimum to $15 for many fast food workers

Other, less expensive cities have been shooting slightly lower Chicago and Kansas City, Missouri, are both raising the rate to $13 Albuquerque, New Mexico, and, Portland, Maine, are both raising rates to just under $11 Most of these raises are being phased in gradually over several years

Those measures have been strenuously opposed by many corporations and entrepreneurs, who say that many businesses with thin profit margins will be forced out of business or fire workers to stay afloat

Tia Koonse, a researcher at the UCLA Labor Center, said there is no question that some employers doing things legally now might be tempted to start breaking rules

"If there is not a credible threat of a compliance check, then what happens?" she said

Some municipalities that have raised wages have talked about following the example of San Francisco, which created its own labor standards enforcement division

One Seattle Eatery's Early Move to $15 Minimum Wage Is a Rousing Success

The head of that unit, Donna Levitt, said the number of complaints about wage violations did not go up when the minimum wage stepped up to $12.25 in May But she said that doesn't necessarily reflect what is really happening

"There are a lot of reasons that people are fearful of coming forward and asserting their rights, even if they know the minimum wage has increased," Levitt said

Seattle's Office of Labor Standards says that in the three months after the city's minimum wage law took effect in April, it opened 25 investigations into complaints that companies weren't complying

Celina Alvarez, 51, said that when she first came to New York, she knew that she was being paid less than the legal minimum, but felt she had no option but to take whatever work was offered She's uneducated and doesn't speak English, and a job paying the New York state hourly minimum of $8.75 seemed impossible to find

"Nobody pays that salary," she said Most workers like her, she added, are unlikely to complain "They are scared of losing their jobs "

Manuel Santiago, a Mexican laborer in New York City, said when he had a wage dispute a few years ago at a deli that was paying him $300 per week, for 78 hours of work, the boss threatened to call immigration officials and have him deported

Instead, Santiago filed a labor law complaint and eventually recovered all the money he was owed, plus penalties

Cheated workers also have the option of filing a civil lawsuit Michael Faillace, an attorney who helps underpaid workers file lawsuits to recover back wages, said there were more than enough potential clients to go around

"Pick any street in Brooklyn and any street in Queens Go into any restaurant And there are no documented workers None of the delivery guys are documented Probably none of the kitchen staff are documented And they are all getting less than minimum wage "

Following Netflix, Adobe Bumps Up Parental Leave Benefits

WALL STREET JOURNAL - Rachel Feintzeig - [8/10]

Less than a week after Netflix and Microsoft announced generous new maternity and paternity leave policies, another tech firm has a special delivery for new parents This time, it's Adobe Systems Inc., the San Jose, Calif., maker of software like Photoshop, which said Monday that it will expand paid time off for new birth mothers to 26 weeks

The change, which goes into effect on Nov. 1, adds 17 weeks of paid time off for new mothers Fathers who aren't primary caregivers will get four weeks of leave at full pay, up from two currently

"We join an industry movement to better support our employees while striving toward increased workforce diversity," Donna Morris, a human resources executive at the company, wrote on the company's blog Monday

The technology industry attracts some of the nation's top talent, especially in Silicon Valley, where the sector is booming, and pay for recent engineering grads can be well into six figures But even as firms woo hires with promises of free food, hip offices and prestigious work, some wonder if the long hours that tech companies often demand are compatible with parenthood

The question has become more pressing as tech companies grapple with their own lack of gender and racial diversity Breakdowns released last year by companies like Twitter Inc., Facebook Inc. and Yahoo Inc. revealed a workforce that's predominantly male and white or Asian, with very few women and people of color in leadership roles

Meanwhile, the U.S. remains an outlier among developed nations for not guaranteeing some paid leave for new mothers In her blog post, Ms. Morris noted that "government mandates for paid leave are currently slim to nonexistent" in the U.S.

"That means companies must navigate the tough balance between supporting employees during major life events and meeting business goals," she wrote "Too often, employees have not had the support they need "

Adobe's new policy includes 10 weeks of paid medical leave for childbirth, surgery, medical emergency or illness plus 16 weeks of paid time for primary caregivers, intended to allow parents—including those who adopt—to bond with their children Adobe is also offering employees up to four paid weeks to care for a sick family member

Netflix Still Facing Questions Over its New Parental Leave Policy

NPR - Sam Sanders - [8/10]

Last Tuesday, Netflix announced it would begin offering employees who are new parents unlimited paid leave for a year, allowing them to take off as much time as they want during the first twelve months after a child's birth or adoption

The news drew praise from people who said it would be good for working parents, and would help America catch up to most other developed nations, where paid time off for a new child is mandatory

But soon, questions arose Would "unlimited leave" not be as effective as defined time off, if workers felt pressured to take off as little time as possible, to prove they weren't slackers or taking advantage of the generous policy? And how many Netflix employees would really take a full year off, considering that most of its workforce affected by the new policy are men?

There's also criticism over who the new policy leaves out. As we reported last week, the policy only applies to "salaried streaming employees," and doesn't cover workers in the company's DVD distribution centers, where the work is usually lower-paid and more physically demanding. NPR estimates that distinction will ultimately leave out between 400 and 500 Netflix employees.

In response, one Netflix fan launched an online petition urging Netflix to extend its new leave policy to all employees. "It's wrong for Netflix to create two classes of employees," Shannon Murphy wrote. "Already, there's a divide between higher income earners (especially in the tech industry) and low wage workers in terms of access to important benefits like parental leave."

As of Monday afternoon, the petition at coworker.org was just a few hundred signatures short of its 6,000 signature goal.

Tim Newman, campaigns director at coworker.org, told NPR that 20 signers of the online petition identified themselves as Netflix employees. Several of them indicated that Netflix's new leave policy also excludes employees in the corporation's customer service department, not just the DVD distribution center. An employee who works for Netflix in one of their call centers told NPR that she is in fact excluded from the company's new year-long unlimited leave policy, though she wished to remain anonymous.

Netflix has declined multiple inquiries into the details of its leave policy for new parents, and which employees are left out.

Joan Williams, director of the University of California Hastings Center for WorkLife Law, tells NPR that when it comes to Netflix's leave policy and who it excludes, they may be getting too much criticism. "This is the drawback of handling parental leave at an enterprise [business] level, which by the way, no other industrialized economy does," she told NPR. "If you handle parental leave at the enterprise level, the incentives for the enterprise are to give a rich benefits package to highly valued, high human capital workers and not give it to hourly workers."

"I wouldn't necessarily fault [Netflix]," she continued. "That's just a structural reality, if you don't have what every civilized, industrialized country in the world has, which is parental leave financed at the national level. The reality of relying on the market to deliver what should be a basic benefit of citizenship is that hourly workers end up on the short end of the stick."

Williams also pointed out that people who are blasting the new policy because of how it treats lower-income Netflix employees might be hurting progress for professional women. "I think it's problematic to say you can never do anything that enhances the chances for professional women, unless you address the entire structure of income inequality at the same time," Williams said. "That is a recipe for never doing anything to help professional women."

###

From: Goldmark, Karin
To: Fialkoff, Gabrielle; "BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov"; "URamirez@schools.nyc.gov"; "JWallack@schools.nyc.gov";
Blumm, Kate
Cc: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Re: Progress!
Date: Thursday, August 13, 2015 9:07:05 AM

Yes we have tons of college ready/college access stuff private sector can do!

----- Original Message -----

From: Fialkoff, Gabrielle
Sent: Thursday, August 13, 2015 08:46 AM
To: B; 'uramirez@schools.nyc.gov' <uramirez@schools.nyc.gov>; 'Jwallack@schools.nyc.gov' <Jwallack@schools.nyc.gov>; Goldmark, Karin; Blumm, Kate
Cc: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: Progress!

I'll also mention the 3 initiatives I just mentioned, CS for all, Center for youth employment and tech talent are all public private partnerships; we are working with employers to both get our kids ready for successful careers and provide the necessary workforce. Its also a call to action to the private sector (instead of funding charter) I think a call to action should be part of vision, I am asked all the time if not charters then what can private sector do?
Ok that's my 2 cents.

----- Original Message -----

From: B
Sent: Thursday, August 13, 2015 07:45 AM
To: 'uramirez@schools.nyc.gov' <uramirez@schools.nyc.gov>; 'Jwallack@schools.nyc.gov' <Jwallack@schools.nyc.gov>; Goldmark, Karin; Blumm, Kate
Cc: Fialkoff, Gabrielle; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Progress!

I'm starting to feel this educ speech. College is the right fulcrum here. I think we go heavy into:

EVERY middle and high school having a business partner

Huge numbers of kids in internships/mentorships/summer jobs

EVERY middle/high school student is taking on college tours in nyc multiple times

College savings accounts

City's new vision of how to get kids to college and help them succeed there/afford it

Then all the things we are doing k-12 are shown to be supporting that

From: Yazgi, Stephanie
To: John Del Cecato; "Hayley Prim"; Viguers, Jonathan
Subject: NYT: What a $15 Minimum Wage Would Mean for Your City
Date: Thursday, August 13, 2015 9:35:52 AM

What a $15 Minimum Wage Would Mean for Your City

NY TIMES – Noam Scheiber

<http://www.nytimes.com/2015/08/13/upshot/what-a-15-minimum-wage-would-mean-for-your-city.html?ref=todayspaper&abt=0002&abg=1&r=0>

As the campaign for a $15 minimum wage has gained strength this year, even supporters of large minimum-wage increases have wondered how high the wage floor can rise before it reduces employment and hurts the economy.

The recent recommendation of a wage board in New York State to establish a $15-an-hour minimum wage for workers at fast-food chains provided a case in point. Paying fast-food workers at least $15 an hour in New York City, with its relatively high wages and high cost of living, may be one thing. But mandating wages that high in less economically vibrant cities like Utica and Binghamton may be quite another. (The wage board, aware of the disparity, recommended that the increase not kick in until mid-2021 elsewhere in the state, versus late 2018 for New York City.)

Fortunately, economists have a handy tool for gauging the likely impact of minimum-wage increases: the ratio of the minimum wage to the wage of workers in the very middle of the income distribution, known as the median wage. The higher the ratio of the minimum to the median, the greater the boost to workers.

But the higher that ratio, the greater risk of job losses, too. Where is the point at which job loss risk exceeds the benefit to workers? There is some evidence that cities and states have managed to absorb increases when the minimum wage is in the neighborhood of 50 percent of the median, even a bit higher. But economists have very few historical examples of increases that go beyond 60 percent. And even some economists who are at ease with moderate increases in the minimum wage worry that a minimum wage in that 60 percent range or higher could produce significant job losses.

Michael Reich, a professor of economics at the University of California, Berkeley, whose work has bolstered the case for minimum wage increases, said in a recent interview that it would be disingenuous to suggest that the potential costs of raising the minimum could never outweigh the economic benefits. “We don’t know at what point that kicks in,” he said. “We know that hasn’t happened at 50 percent or 55 percent.” (Other minimum-wage scholars, like David Neumark of the University of California, Irvine, believe this happens much sooner.)

Mr. Reich said that a handful of affluent European countries had or would soon have minimum-to-median ratios in the 50s and low 60s and did not appear to show many ill effects. (Some of them, like France, have significantly higher unemployment rates than the United States, but others, like Germany, do not.)

With that in mind, I decided to figure out the minimum-to-median ratio for 25 cities if the minimum wage were to rise to $15 an hour in 2020, as Bernie Sanders, the Vermont senator and candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, proposes in a recent bill. The exercise revealed a fair amount about the relative ability of each city to withstand a $15-an-hour minimum wage.

Some of the results are what you'd expect: The San Francisco area, thanks in part to its booming tech industry, has the highest median wage on our list ($25.27), and a resilient minimum-to-median ratio of 0.47. Washington at 0.49, Boston at 0.50, Seattle at 0.54 and New York at 0.55 round out the top metro areas that could sustain a $15-an-hour minimum wage without much fallout. If anything, my calculations may overstate the ratios we'd observe in these areas in 2020, because wages could rise significantly faster there than the 2 percent per year I assumed.

Not surprisingly, two of these cities, San Francisco and Seattle, already have $15-an-hour minimum wage laws, and Washington may well join them next year.

But some of the other numbers are worrying. For example, Los Angeles, which recently approved a $15-an-hour wage bill of its own, may have more trouble handling the change, even though we sometimes mentally lump it in with booming cities like San Francisco and Seattle. The city's median wage is actually relatively low — $18.32 in the metro area versus $21.73 in New York and $24.58 in Washington — leading to an estimated minimum-to-median ratio of 0.65. This puts it behind Minneapolis (0.61), Philadelphia (0.63) and Detroit (0.64), and roughly in line with Chicago (0.66).

Granted, there are other reasons to believe that Los Angeles will be able to weather its minimum-wage increase better than some less glamorous cities. For example, the relatively high cost of real estate there means wages are generally a smaller percentage of employers' overall costs than in other cities (certainly Detroit), so wage increases there have a relatively smaller impact on the bottom line. Businesses in cities with a lot of transient customers, like tourists and business travelers, may also have an easier time increasing prices to offset minimum-wage increases.

And, as Arindrajit Dube, an associate professor of economics at UMass Amherst, pointed out, Detroit's figure may be somewhat misleading. Its relatively high median wage and low minimum-to-median ratio may mask high unemployment or low labor force participation among people who want low-wage jobs but can't get them. Those jobs would drive down the local median wage if they existed, but they don't. "Detroit is not a prosperous area, so there's not demand for low-wage service-sector jobs," he said. "As a result, the jobs they do have tend to pay higher. Think of it more as the 'missing jobs.'"

(Alternatively, the explanation may be that most of the median-wage numbers are only available at the metro-area level rather than the city level. According to government data, the Detroit metro area, which includes a ring of more affluent suburbs, has had higher economic growth in recent years than the Los Angeles metro area and the same level of unemployment. But this may mask a much weaker economy in Detroit proper.)

Finally, there are a handful of cities that appear to be distinctly ill-equipped for a $15-an-hour minimum. Wages are so low that $15 is fairly close to the median wage there. The minimum-to-median ratio in Las Vegas and New Orleans — big service-economy and tourism hubs — comes to 0.75 and 0.76. Oklahoma City would come to 0.75. Miami, the only city on the list where the most recent median-wage reading is actually under $15 ($14.93), has a minimum-to-median ratio at a staggering 0.8.

The wide variation in minimum-to-median ratios does seem to recommend some variation when raising the minimum wage. A number of the cities that have recently passed minimum-wage laws — like Albuquerque, Louisville and Portland, Me. — have stopped far short of $15 an hour. If Las Vegas and Miami are considering raising their local minimum wages, they might be advised to follow suit. (Oklahoma City may be in a better position to absorb a minimum-wage increase because it has enjoyed very low unemployment and very rapid economic growth in recent years.)

Still, as a general rule, this list is filled with prosperous cities — places it might make sense to single out with high-impact minimum-wage increases. It's their affluence that fuels the demand for low-wage jobs, exacerbating inequality.

“The demand is essentially either driven by higher-income consumers in that area, or by tourism,” Mr. Dube said. These are the very people, he added, who can afford to subsidize a higher minimum wage by paying more at restaurants and clothing stores.

A note about my methodology:

My approach to picking the cities was highly unscientific—I chose 25 interesting cities among the 50 largest in the country, with the caveat that each region of the country needed some representation. The calculations are a bit crude; I calculated what the median wage would look like if it grew by 2 percent a year between 2014 and 2020. As a rule, I used the smallest geographic area available, but it's typically larger than the city proper.

One final adjustment: When calculating and comparing minimum-to-median wage ratios, economists typically use the median wage for all fulltime workers, rather than the median wage for all workers. On average over the past decade, fulltime workers have made about 11 percent more than workers overall. So for the purposes of calculating my ratios, I took the median wage for each city and boosted it by 11 percent.

From: Geri Prado
To: B
Cc: John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: Request for your thoughts- follow up on Co-Chairs for TPA
Date: Thursday, August 13, 2015 11:22:11 AM

Good morning Mayor:

I'm lifting this in hopes of getting your thoughts and if you're in agreement, discussing the list of potential co-chairs in more detail to move on fundraising, roll-outs plans.

Thank you

On Mon, Aug 10, 2015 at 4:46 PM, Geri Prado <geri@progressiveagenda.us> wrote:
Mayor:

To follow up on our conversation, specifically re: co-chairs of TPA I'm suggesting initial suggestions for your consideration. If we could attract this group it would beget other high level organizations and individuals in addition to the work you are doing.

Suggestions:

- Business leader- Warren Buffett*, Bill Gates*, Nick Hanauer
- Faith community- Reverend William Barber, Catholic leader (need to reconcile c3 here)
- Working People- National AFL-CIO officer, Maria Elena Durazo
- Policy experts- Robert Reich, Joseph Stiglitz
- Online/Grassroots- Senator Elizabeth Warren, economic "conservative"
- Civil Rights (?)- Congressman John Lewis, Dolores Huerta

*(unlikely but worth asking),  need to explain rationale

Reason/Criteria:

Represent a sector of the advocacy world or certain targeted audiences, policy makers. Therefore, the person should have a wide reach and be largely respected nationally by not only progressives but those in that field/sector;

- Help elevate the prominence, seriousness of the issue. Unexpected bedfellows of high profile people who represent various interests AND have national reach are good targets. Examples- members of the business community and those who represent poverty issues or working people/labor issues. Think movement leadership;

- Help raise money for TPA- while not all will be able to help or have inroads into donor communities, most should. Or they should add to the strategic and focused nature and lend credibility among donor circles. Each would need to commit to raise $250,000 over two years (with the exception of faith);
- Represent the New American Majority- having women, Latino, African American and those who appeal to millennial and those on the cusp of Generation X show diversity but also a strength in partnerships to fight income inequality
- Lastly, they should be able to sign on more support through online, political outreach and other methods based on the credibility of their work in their area of expertise.

From: John Del Cecato
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Leopold, Elana
Cc: Snyder, Thomas; Geri Prado; Hayley Prim
Subject: Re: Gov Inslee off - will resch for during the week.
Date: Thursday, August 13, 2015 12:11:51 PM

Adding Geri/Hayley for knowledge

From: "Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca" <PSalazar-Rodriguez@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Thursday, August 13, 2015 at 12:07 PM
To: "Leopold, Elana" <ELeopold@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: "Snyder, Thomas" <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: Gov Inslee off - will resch for during the week.

This call has been scheduled for Monday at 1130am

From: Leopold, Elana
Sent: Monday, August 03, 2015 6:57 PM
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Cc: Snyder, Thomas; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'
Subject: Re: Gov Inslee off - will resch for during the week.

Thanks!

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Sent: Monday, August 03, 2015 06:55 PM
To: Leopold, Elana
Subject: Gov Inslee off - will resch for during the week.

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
To: "Hayley Prim"; "Geri Prado"
Cc: Snyder, Thomas; "John Del Cecato"
Subject: RE: DC Meetings for Mayor
Date: Thursday, August 13, 2015 1:47:39 PM

I think what works best here is for a proposal of what a day in DC would look like. If we can present this to the Mayor for approval, without making commitments, that would great.

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Sent: Thursday, August 13, 2015 1:33 PM
To: 'Hayley Prim'
Cc: Geri Prado; Snyder, Thomas; John Del Cecato
Subject: RE: DC Meetings for Mayor

We can do DC on Tuesday, September 22nd

From: Hayley Prim [<mailto:hayley@progressiveagenda.us>]
Sent: Tuesday, August 11, 2015 6:08 PM
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Cc: Geri Prado; Snyder, Thomas; John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: DC Meetings for Mayor

Can you give me another date we can offer for DC?

On Tuesday, August 11, 2015, Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca <PSalazar-Rodriguez@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
No- he may be giving his ed speech on this day-

From: Hayley Prim [<mailto:hayley@progressiveagenda.us>]
Sent: Tuesday, August 11, 2015 3:53 PM
To: Geri Prado
Cc: Snyder, Thomas; John Del Cecato; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Subject: Re: DC Meetings for Mayor

Is this date still confirmed for him to be in DC? Dayton and Merkley are holding time on their calendars right now

On Mon, Aug 10, 2015 at 1:54 PM, Geri Prado <geri@progressiveagenda.us> wrote:
How much time do we have?

I'd like to schedule other meetings with key organizations.

On Aug 10, 2015, at 1:48 PM, Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us> wrote:

He has specifically requested in person meetings with Mark Dayton, Jeff Merkley, Kate Brown, and EW in NY or DC.

I have confirmed that Dayton and Merkley could both do a meeting in DC on September 16th. Can we lock this in?

We could try to build more TPA meetings around this trip, or you could offer to federal affairs office/IGA. Not sure what the process is to get this in stone.

Let me know!

Thanks,
Hayley

--

Hayley Prim

c: [REDACTED]

--

Hayley Prim

c: [REDACTED]

--

Hayley Prim

c: [REDACTED]

From: Geri Prado
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Snyder, Thomas; John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: Next week: Meeting with Mayor
Date: Thursday, August 13, 2015 2:19:57 PM

Sorry- Tom too.

On Thu, Aug 13, 2015 at 2:15 PM, Geri Prado [REDACTED] wrote:
Can I schedule time for me and John to sit with the Mayor re: TPA for 15 mins?

I was planning on being there Wednesday, Thursday but clearly can schedule when he can do it.

Thanks.

From: Leopold, Elana
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Re: MBDB: Travel Time from Lincoln Hospital to City Hall // Weekly TPA Strategy Call
Date: Thursday, August 13, 2015 2:36:17 PM

Ok- were just getting ready to leave the press conference

----- Original Message -----

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Thursday, August 13, 2015 02:35 PM
To: Leopold, Elana
Subject: Re: MBDB: Travel Time from Lincoln Hospital to City Hall // Weekly TPA Strategy Call

i'm on a different call so may be late in joining

On 8/13/15, 1:58 PM, "Leopold, Elana" <ELeopold@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>We are delayed. Will let you know when to dial in

From: Leopold, Elana
To: [REDACTED]
Cc: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; "jfdc@akodmedia.com"; "hayley@progressiveagenda.us"; Snyder, Thomas; Da Costa, Ricky
Subject: Re: MBDB: Travel Time from Lincoln Hospital to City Hall // Weekly TPA Strategy Call
Date: Thursday, August 13, 2015 2:50:58 PM

Back in the car

Mayor needs a couple min before we start

From: Geri Prado [mailto:[REDACTED]]
Sent: Thursday, August 13, 2015 02:12 PM
To: Leopold, Elana
Cc: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; jfdc@akpdmedia.com <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; hayley@progressiveagenda.us <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>; Snyder, Thomas; Da Costa, Ricky
Subject: Re: MBDB: Travel Time from Lincoln Hospital to City Hall // Weekly TPA Strategy Call

Agenda:

1. Plan, "mini-retreat"
2. Co-Chair follow up
3. Forum update
4. Calls- fundraising, political

On Thu, Aug 13, 2015 at 1:58 PM, Leopold, Elana <ELeopold@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

| We are delayed. Will let you know when to dial in

From: Leopold, Elana
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; "ifdc@akpdmedia.com" [REDACTED]; "hayley@progressiveagenda.us";
Snyder, Thomas; Da Costa, Ricky
Subject: MBDB: Travel Time from Lincoln Hospital to City Hall // Weekly TPA Strategy Call
Date: Thursday, August 13, 2015 2:55:03 PM

Pls dial in now

From: Geri Prado
To: Leopold, Elana
Cc: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; jfdc@akpdmedia.com; hayley@progressiveagenda.us; Snyder, Thomas; Da Costa, Ricky
Subject: Re: MBDB: Travel Time from Lincoln Hospital to City Hall // Weekly TPA Strategy Call
Date: Thursday, August 13, 2015 2:57:34 PM

I am on.

On Thu, Aug 13, 2015 at 2:55 PM, Leopold, Elana <ELeopold@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
| Pls dial in now

From: Boeglin, Rosemary
To: "John Del Cecato"
Subject: RE: Clinton is open to raising Social Security taxes on six-figure earners - The Washington Post
Date: Thursday, August 13, 2015 5:36:48 PM

FAB. Will make sure to include.

-----Original Message-----

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Thursday, August 13, 2015 5:35 PM
To: Boeglin, Rosemary
Subject: Re: Clinton is open to raising Social Security taxes on six-figure earners - The Washington Post

There's a new AARP poll that backs up her position - and TPA's position!

> On Aug 13, 2015, at 5:09 PM, Boeglin, Rosemary <RBoeglin@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>
> Thanks!
>
> -----Original Message-----
> From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
> Sent: Thursday, August 13, 2015 5:09 PM
> To: Boeglin, Rosemary
> Subject: Clinton is open to raising Social Security taxes on six-figure earners - The Washington Post
>
>
> <http://www.washingtonpost.com/news/wonkblog/wp/2015/08/12/clinton-is-open-to-raising-social-security-taxes-on-six-figure-earners/>
>
>
>

From: Boeglin, Rosemary
To: "John Del Cecato"
Subject: RE:
Date: Thursday, August 13, 2015 7:27:54 PM

Let the games begin!

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Thursday, August 13, 2015 6:03 PM
To: Boeglin, Rosemary
Subject:

<http://www.buzzfeed.com/andrewkaczynski/al-gore-insiders-figuring-out-if-theres-a-path-for-him-to-ru>

Shared via the Google app

From: John Del Cecato
To: Boeglin, Rosemary
Subject: Re: RE:
Date: Thursday, August 13, 2015 7:32:04 PM

:)

On Aug 13, 2015, at 7:28 PM, Boeglin, Rosemary <RBoeglin@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Let the games begin!

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Thursday, August 13, 2015 6:03 PM
To: Boeglin, Rosemary
Subject:

<http://www.buzzfeed.com/andrewkaczynski/al-gore-insiders-figuring-out-if-theres-a-path-for-him-to-ru>

Shared via the Google app

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
To: Walzak, Phil; Snyder, Thomas; Hinton, Karen; Hagelgans, Andrea; John Del Cecato
Subject: Tweet by Michael Howard Saul on Twitter
Date: Thursday, August 13, 2015 7:52:05 PM

Michael Howard Saul (@MichaelHwrdsaul)

8/13/15, 7:50 PM

Hillary Clinton. Bill de Blasio. Andrew Cuomo. What's going on with NY's top power brokers and the prez hopeful? wsj.com/articles/for-c...

Download the Twitter app

Sent from my iPhone

From: John Del Cecato
To: Walzak, Phil
Cc: Hinton, Karen; Wolfe, Emma; Hagelgans, Andrea; jonathan@berlinrosen.com
Subject: Re: WSJ
Date: Thursday, August 13, 2015 10:28:37 PM

Happy to do it. Just let me know when I start

> On Aug 13, 2015, at 10:23 PM, Walzak, Phil <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>

> Yeah I like that

> You can be outside ratfucker on twitter

>

> ----- Original Message -----

> From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]

> Sent: Thursday, August 13, 2015 10:19 PM

> To: Walzak, Phil

> Cc: Hinton, Karen; Wolfe, Emma; Hagelgans, Andrea; jonathan@berlinrosen.com

<jonathan@berlinrosen.com>

> Subject: Re: WSJ

>

> Yes. Lots of "it wasn't a bad story" and "I treated you fairly" and "when can we get coffee".

>

> I told him I guess I wasn't that interesting to him, since I gave him a minimum wage story and he didn't do it - and that I had seen story after story that I didn't like. I said I just didn't have time for reporters when it's not my skill set, and was gonna leave the reporter contacts to the professionals.

>

> That said, I think his colleague also worked Ragone over - and while Peter thought he was helping, his comments weren't helping I this context.

>

> Maybe I'm channeling Louis CK here, but I feel like people on the outside (like me) should be assigned a duty - like going after our opponents - and just delivering that via Twitter. That way, reporters don't get to pick and choose how they use information.

>

>

>

>

>> On Aug 13, 2015, at 10:12 PM, Walzak, Phil <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>>

>> He respond to u?

>>

>> ----- Original Message -----

>> From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]

>> Sent: Thursday, August 13, 2015 09:58 PM

>> To: Walzak, Phil

>> Cc: Hinton, Karen; Wolfe, Emma; Hagelgans, Andrea; jonathan@berlinrosen.com

<jonathan@berlinrosen.com>

>> Subject: Re: WSJ

>>

>> I bitches to him already and told him I was done talking to him. But probably means more coming from Karen.

>>

>>

>>

>>

>>

>>> On Aug 13, 2015, at 9:54 PM, Walzak, Phil <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>>>

>>> KH want to shoot him a note?

>>>

>>> ----- Original Message -----

>>> From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]

>>> Sent: Thursday, August 13, 2015 09:50 PM

>>> To: Walzak, Phil; Hinton, Karen; Wolfe, Emma; Hagelgans, Andrea; Jonathan Rosen
<jonathan@berlinrosen.com>

>>> Subject: WSJ

>>>

>>> I gave Dawsey the prez forum piece - and reminded him that it had been said dozens of times since 4/2/15. He made it sound like it was a new thing. Also, Bdb obviously didn't "take to TV" on HRC announcement video day. We had that planned for days before she leaked that she'd be releasing video.

>>>

>>>

From: John Del Cecato
To: Walzak, Phil; Wolfe, Emma; Hinton, Karen
Cc: Hagelgans, Andrea; "jonathan@berlinrosen.com"
Subject: Re: WSJ
Date: Friday, August 14, 2015 8:37:19 AM

For my part, though - it was sloppy... I shouldn't have gotten pressured into giving Josh the presidential forum piece without thinking through the strategy... I screwed up

On 8/13/15, 11:09 PM, "Walzak, Phil" <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>Won't make an impact

>

>

>----- Original Message -----

>From: Wolfe, Emma

>Sent: Thursday, August 13, 2015 11:06 PM

>To: Hinton, Karen

>Cc: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans,

>Andrea; jonathan@berlinrosen.com <jonathan@berlinrosen.com>

>Subject: Re: WSJ

>

>True

>

>

>

>> On Aug 13, 2015, at 11:05 PM, Hinton, Karen <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov>

>>wrote:

>>

>> It was a nothing story.

>>

>> Sent from my iPhone

>>

>>> On Aug 13, 2015, at 10:28 PM, Wolfe, Emma <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>

>>>wrote:

>>>

>>> That was a bad story

>>>

>>>

>>>

>>>> On Aug 13, 2015, at 10:25 PM, Hinton, Karen

>>>><KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>>>>

>>>> Let me read the story.

>>>> Sent from my iPhone

>>>>

>>>>> On Aug 13, 2015, at 10:19 PM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>

>>>>>wrote:

>>>>>

>>>>> Yes. Lots of "it wasn't a bad story" and "I treated you fairly" and

>>>>>"when can we get coffee".

>>>>>

>>>>> I told him I guess I wasn't that interesting to him, since I gave >>>>>him a minimum wage story and he didn't do it - and that I had seen >>>>>story after story that I didn't like. I said I just didn't have time >>>>>for reporters when it's not my skill set, and was gonna leave the >>>>>reporter contacts to the professionals.

>>>>>
>>>>> That said, I think his colleague also worked Ragone over - and while >>>>>Peter thought he was helping, his comments weren't helping I this >>>>>context.
>>>>>
>>>>> Maybe I'm channeling Louis CK here, but I feel like people on the >>>>>outside (like me) should be assigned a duty - like going after our >>>>>opponents - and just delivering that via Twitter. That way, >>>>>reporters don't get to pick and choose how they use information.
>>>>>
>>>>>
>>>>>
>>>>>
>>>>>> On Aug 13, 2015, at 10:12 PM, Walzak, Phil
>>>>>><PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>>>>>>
>>>>>> He respond to u?
>>>>>>
>>>>>> ----- Original Message -----
>>>>>> From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
>>>>>> Sent: Thursday, August 13, 2015 09:58 PM
>>>>>> To: Walzak, Phil
>>>>>> Cc: Hinton, Karen; Wolfe, Emma; Hagelgans, Andrea;
>>>>>>jonathan@berlinrosen.com <jonathan@berlinrosen.com>
>>>>>> Subject: Re: WSJ
>>>>>>
>>>>>> I bitches to him already and told him I was done talking to him.
>>>>>>But probably means more coming from Karen.
>>>>>>
>>>>>>
>>>>>>
>>>>>>
>>>>>>
>>>>>>> On Aug 13, 2015, at 9:54 PM, Walzak, Phil
>>>>>>><PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>>>>>>>
>>>>>>> KH want to shoot him a note?
>>>>>>>
>>>>>>> ----- Original Message -----
>>>>>>> From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
>>>>>>> Sent: Thursday, August 13, 2015 09:50 PM
>>>>>>> To: Walzak, Phil; Hinton, Karen; Wolfe, Emma; Hagelgans, Andrea;
>>>>>>>Jonathan Rosen <jonathan@berlinrosen.com>
>>>>>>> Subject: WSJ
>>>>>>>
>>>>>>> I gave Dawsey the prez forum piece - and reminded him that it had >>>>>>>been said dozens of times since 4/2/15. He made it sound like it >>>>>>>was a new thing. Also, Bdb obviously didn't "take to TV" on HRC >>>>>>>announcement video day. We had that planned for days before she >>>>>>>leaked that she'd be releasing video.
>>>>>>>
>>>>>>>

From: John Del Cecato
To: Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: Re: WSJ
Date: Friday, August 14, 2015 8:44:26 AM

:)

> On Aug 14, 2015, at 8:43 AM, Hagelgans, Andrea <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>

> I have yet to be quoted in this job.

>

> Sent from my BlackBerry 10 smartphone.

> Original Message

> From: John Del Cecato

> Sent: Friday, August 14, 2015 8:42 AM

> To: Hagelgans, Andrea

> Subject: Re: WSJ

>

>

> I really do!!

>

> On 8/14/15, 8:41 AM, "Hagelgans, Andrea" <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>

> wrote:

>

>> You hate talking to reporters as much as me!

>>

>> Sent from my BlackBerry 10 smartphone.

>> Original Message

>> From: John Del Cecato

>> Sent: Friday, August 14, 2015 8:37 AM

>> To: Walzak, Phil; Wolfe, Emma; Hinton, Karen

>> Cc: Hagelgans, Andrea; 'jonathan@berlinrosen.com'

>> Subject: Re: WSJ

>>

>>

>> For my part, though - it was sloppy... I shouldn't have gotten pressured >> into giving Josh the presidential forum piece without thinking through the >> strategy... I screwed up

>>

>>> On 8/13/15, 11:09 PM, "Walzak, Phil" <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>>>

>>> Won't make an impact

>>>

>>>

>>> ----- Original Message -----

>>> From: Wolfe, Emma

>>> Sent: Thursday, August 13, 2015 11:06 PM

>>> To: Hinton, Karen

>>> Cc: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans,

>>> Andrea; jonathan@berlinrosen.com <jonathan@berlinrosen.com>

>>> Subject: Re: WSJ

>>>

>>> True

>>>

>>>

>>>

>>>> On Aug 13, 2015, at 11:05 PM, Hinton, Karen <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov>
>>>> wrote:
>>>>
>>>> It was a nothing story.
>>>>
>>>> Sent from my iPhone
>>>>
>>>>> On Aug 13, 2015, at 10:28 PM, Wolfe, Emma <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>
>>>>> wrote:
>>>>>
>>>>> That was a bad story
>>>>>
>>>>>
>>>>>
>>>>>> On Aug 13, 2015, at 10:25 PM, Hinton, Karen
>>>>>> <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>>>>>>
>>>>>> Let me read the story.
>>>>>> Sent from my iPhone
>>>>>>
>>>>>>> On Aug 13, 2015, at 10:19 PM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
>>>>>>> wrote:
>>>>>>>
>>>>>>> Yes. Lots of "it wasn't a bad story" and "I treated you fairly" and
>>>>>>> "when can we get coffee".
>>>>>>>
>>>>>>> I told him I guess I wasn't that interesting to him, since I gave >>>>>>> him a minimum wage story and he didn't do it - and that I had seen >>>>>>> story after story that I didn't like. I said I just didn't have time >>>>>>> for reporters when it's not my skill set, and was gonna leave the >>>>>>> reporter contacts to the professionals.
>>>>>>>
>>>>>>> That said, I think his colleague also worked Ragone over - and while >>>>>>> Peter thought he was helping, his comments weren't helping I this >>>>>>> context.
>>>>>>>
>>>>>>> Maybe I'm channeling Louis CK here, but I feel like people on the >>>>>>> outside (like me) should be assigned a duty - like going after our >>>>>>> opponents - and just delivering that via Twitter. That way, >>>>>>> reporters don't get to pick and choose how they use information.
>>>>>>>
>>>>>>>
>>>>>>>
>>>>>>>> On Aug 13, 2015, at 10:12 PM, Walzak, Phil
>>>>>>>> <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>>>>>>>>
>>>>>>>> He respond to u?
>>>>>>>>
>>>>>>>> ----- Original Message -----
>>>>>>>>> From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
>>>>>>>>> Sent: Thursday, August 13, 2015 09:58 PM
>>>>>>>>> To: Walzak, Phil
>>>>>>>>> Cc: Hinton, Karen; Wolfe, Emma; Hagelgans, Andrea;
>>>>>>>>> jonathan@berlinrosen.com <jonathan@berlinrosen.com>
>>>>>>>>> Subject: Re: WSJ
>>>>>>>>>
>>>>>>>>>> I bitches to him already and told him I was done talking to him.
>>>>>>>>>> But probably means more coming from Karen.
>>>>>>>>>>>

>>>>>>>>
>>>>>>>>
>>>>>>>>
>>>>>>>>
>>>>>>>> On Aug 13, 2015, at 9:54 PM, Walzak, Phil
>>>>>>>> <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>>>>>>>>
>>>>>>>> KH want to shoot him a note?
>>>>>>>>
>>>>>>>> ----- Original Message -----
>>>>>>>> From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
>>>>>>>> Sent: Thursday, August 13, 2015 09:50 PM
>>>>>>>> To: Walzak, Phil; Hinton, Karen; Wolfe, Emma; Hagelgans, Andrea;
>>>>>>>> Jonathan Rosen <jonathan@berlinrosen.com>
>>>>>>>> Subject: WSJ
>>>>>>>>
>>>>>>>> I gave Dawsey the prez forum piece - and reminded him that it had >>>>>>>> been said dozens of times since 4/2/15. He made it sound like it >>>>>>>> was a new thing. Also, Bdb obviously didn't "take to TV" on HRC >>>>>>>> announcement video day. We had that planned for days before she >>>>>>>> leaked that she'd be releasing video.
>

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
To: John Del Cecato
Subject: FYI
Date: Friday, August 14, 2015 9:40:08 AM

10:25 a.m. -- WNYC's "Brian Lehrer Show": Heather McGhee, president of Demos Action, "talks about Trump, women, and how they are impacted by the Republican Party's policies."

Sent from my iPhone

From: John Del Cecato
To: Yazgi, Stephanie
Subject: Re: time to chat?
Date: Friday, August 14, 2015 10:01:27 AM
Attachments: image001.png
image002.png
image003.png
image004.png
image001.png
image003.png

Argh - I have a call then - how about 1p?

On Aug 14, 2015, at 9:27 AM, Yazgi, Stephanie <syazgi@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Have mtg right now
1030 work?

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Friday, August 14, 2015 9:14 AM
To: Yazgi, Stephanie
Subject: Re: time to chat?

Sure - i'm free now - [REDACTED]

From: Stephanie Yazgi <syazgi@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Friday, August 14, 2015 at 9:11 AM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: time to chat?

Let me know if you have any time today.
Thanks!

STEPHANIE YAZGI
National Organizing Director
Mayor's Office of Immigrant Affairs
syazgi@cityhall.nyc.gov
(o) 212 676 3153 |(m) 917 374 8235 | nyc.gov/immigrants

<image002.png>

<image004.png>

Subscribe to the MOIA Bulletin for monthly updates.

CONFIDENTIALITY NOTICE: This email and any files transmitted with it are confidential and intended solely for the use of the individual or entity to whom they are addressed. This message contains confidential information and is intended only for the individual named. If you are not the intended recipient you should not disseminate, distribute or copy this e-mail. Please notify the sender immediately by e-mail if you have received this e-mail by mistake and delete this e-mail from your system. If you are not the intended recipient you are notified that disclosing, copying, distributing or taking any action in reliance on the contents of this information is strictly prohibited.

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: John Del Ceccato
Cc: Geri Prado
Subject: Re: Follow-up on June meeting about Iowa
Date: Friday, August 14, 2015 10:55:50 AM

My very thought.

From: John Del Ceccato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Date: Friday, August 14, 2015 at 10:44 AM
To: Tom Snyder <tsnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: Geri Prado <geri@progressiveagenda.us>
Subject: Re: Follow-up on June meeting about Iowa

Yes - good point. Maybe mbdb would be satisfied with a little direct action. Still would cost money but wouldn't break the bank like a full on field program

On Aug 14, 2015, at 10:40 AM, Snyder, Thomas <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

In light of early states interest by Mayor, can you brief Geri on this prior conversation. Whether it has any meaning for us...

From: Mehrdad Azemun <mehrdad@npa-us.org>
Date: Friday, August 14, 2015 at 9:46 AM
To: Tom Snyder <tsnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: John Del Ceccato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Follow-up on June meeting about Iowa

Tom and John, I'm coming back to this to see what direction you may be going in. Our group in Iowa was wondering. Mehrdad

On Wed, Jun 24, 2015 at 6:32 PM, Mehrdad Azemun <mehrdad@npa-us.org> wrote:

Guys, quick follow-up: I met with staff from the Iowa group in dc today and they're interested in having a conversation with you both if that interest is mutual. I brief them on the "caucus for fairness" idea and they're also interested in influencing the conversation that happens before the caucuses.

John, in answer to your question, their membership is 3200 - and that's a real, hard number (ie not like MoveOn or Greenpeace, which I'm sure count me as a member despite my never having given them money, or at least not for years).

I'll also forward you info on the upcoming fall convention for their c3, which will give you a good flavor of the group and their politics. Mehrdad

On Jun 17, 2015, at 4:48 PM, "Snyder, Thomas" <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Not yet. We can just talk about our concept of what we are thinking about in Iowa and then go from there.

From: Mehrdad Azemun [<mailto:mehrdad@npa-us.org>]
Sent: Wednesday, June 17, 2015 4:34 PM
To: Snyder, Thomas
Cc: John Del Ceccato (jfdc@akpdmedia.com)
Subject: Re: Confirmed meeting-Iowa

Tom, I'm wondering what you'd like to discuss in this meeting. If you want to get deep into details on Iowa, I should get our Iowa member on the phone, Iowa Citizens for Community Improvement. Let me know. Mehrdad

On Fri, Jun 5, 2015 at 9:21 AM, Snyder, Thomas <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

John and Mehrdad – we are confirmed to meet at the Mayor's Office on Friday June 19 at 3:30pm.

Tom Snyder
Chief of Staff
Office of the Mayor
City Hall
New York, NY 10007
212-341-5050

--

Mehrdad Azemun
Campaign Director
National People's Action
National People's Action Campaign
810 N. Milwaukee Ave., Chicago IL 60642
773-220-7929 (mobile)
312-676-2815 (office)
mehrdad@npa-us.org
www.npa-us.org

Twitter:
www.twitter.com/NPAction
Facebook:
www.facebook.org/NationalPeoplesAction
YouTube:
www.youtube.com/movetoaction

--

Mehrdad Azemun
Campaign Director
National People's Action
National People's Action Campaign
810 N. Milwaukee Ave., Chicago IL 60642
773-220-7929 (mobile)
312-676-2815 (office)
mehrdad@npa-us.org
www.npa-us.org
Twitter:
www.twitter.com/NPAction
Facebook:
www.facebook.org/NationalPeoplesAction
YouTube:
www.youtube.com/movetoaction

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: Geri Prado; John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: Follow-up on June meeting about Iowa
Date: Friday, August 14, 2015 11:52:52 AM

Doubtful. Why would you want that?

From: Geri Prado <geri@progressiveagenda.us>
Date: Friday, August 14, 2015 at 11:34 AM
To: John Del Ceccato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: Tom Snyder <tsnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: Follow-up on June meeting about Iowa

This is on one of my proposals- I have three. I didn't have NPA on but that's a side point.

When you do strategic planning or similar meetings do you have outside facilitators? Would he be open to that for the retreat?

On Fri, Aug 14, 2015 at 10:44 AM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

Yes - good point. Maybe mbdb would be satisfied with a little direct action. Still would cost money but wouldn't break the bank like a full on field program

On Aug 14, 2015, at 10:40 AM, Snyder, Thomas <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

In light of early states interest by Mayor, can you brief Geri on this prior conversation. Whether it has any meaning for us...

From: Mehrdad Azemun <mehrdad@npa-us.org>
Date: Friday, August 14, 2015 at 9:46 AM
To: Tom Snyder <tsnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: John Del Ceccato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Follow-up on June meeting about Iowa

Tom and John, I'm coming back to this to see what direction you may be going in. Our group in Iowa was wondering. Mehrdad

On Wed, Jun 24, 2015 at 6:32 PM, Mehrdad Azemun <mehrdad@npa-us.org> wrote:

Guys, quick follow-up: I met with staff from the Iowa group in dc today and they're interested in having a conversation with you both if that interest is mutual. I brief them on the "caucus for fairness" idea and they're also interested in influencing the conversation that happens before the caucuses.

John, in answer to your question, their membership is 3200 - and that's a real, hard number (ie not like MoveOn or Greenpeace, which I'm sure count me as a member despite my never having given them money, or at least not for years).

I'll also forward you info on the upcoming fall convention for their c3, which will give you a good flavor of the group and their politics. Mehrdad

On Jun 17, 2015, at 4:48 PM, "Snyder, Thomas" <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Not yet. We can just talk about our concept of what we are thinking about in Iowa and then go from there.

From: Mehrdad Azemun [<mailto:mehrdad@npa-us.org>]
Sent: Wednesday, June 17, 2015 4:34 PM
To: Snyder, Thomas
Cc: John Del Ceccato (jfdc@akpdmedia.com)
Subject: Re: Confirmed meeting-Iowa

Tom, I'm wondering what you'd like to discuss in this meeting. If you want to get deep into details on Iowa, I should get our Iowa member on the phone, Iowa Citizens for Community Improvement. Let me know.
Mehrdad

On Fri, Jun 5, 2015 at 9:21 AM, Snyder, Thomas
<TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

John and Mehrdad – we are confirmed to meet at the Mayor's Office on Friday June 19 at 3:30pm.

Tom Snyder

Chief of Staff

Office of the Mayor

City Hall

New York, NY 10007

212-341-5050

--

Mehrdad Azemun

Campaign Director

National People's Action

National People's Action Campaign

810 N. Milwaukee Ave., Chicago IL 60642

773-220-7929 (mobile)

312-676-2815 (office)

mehrdad@npa-us.org

www.npa-us.org

Twitter:

www.twitter.com/NPAction

Facebook:

www.facebook.org/NationalPeoplesAction

YouTube:

www.youtube.com/movetoaction

--

Mehrdad Azemun

Campaign Director

National People's Action

National People's Action Campaign

810 N. Milwaukee Ave., Chicago IL 60642

773-220-7929 (mobile)

312-676-2815 (office)

mehrdad@npa-us.org

www.npa-us.org

Twitter:

www.twitter.com/NPAction

Facebook:

www.facebook.org/NationalPeoplesAction

YouTube:
www.youtube.com/movetoaction

From: TPA
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Snyder, Thomas
Cc: John Del Cecato; PhilWalzak \(gmail.com\)
Subject: Sirius Interview follow up
Date: Friday, August 14, 2015 12:57:59 PM

Hi Prisca and Tom:

To follow up from the list John sent over last week, can we get a date and time for the Mayor to do the Rabin Havt town hall/interview on Sirius in October?

Please let me know what you need beyond what we sent over.

Thank you.

Geri

From: John Del Cecato
To: Yazgi, Stephanie
Subject: Re:
Date: Friday, August 14, 2015 1:44:19 PM

No sweat

From: Stephanie Yazgi <syazgi@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Friday, August 14, 2015 at 1:41 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: <no subject>

Sorry caught up
Call u soon!

From: Mehrdad Azemun
To: John Del Cecato
Cc: Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: Follow-up on June meeting about Iowa
Date: Friday, August 14, 2015 3:49:17 PM

Great. In case you come back pretty soon, you may want to get in touch with Iowa Citizens for Community Improvement directly. I have to take care of some family issues in Iran, leaving tomorrow and back at work on 8/25.

Hugh Espey is the head of the group in Iowa; he's at <hugh@iowacci.org>.

If you'd rather talk with another national NPA staff person while I'm gone, you can try Ryan Greenwood, our electoral director, at ryan@npa-us.org.

On Fri, Aug 14, 2015 at 11:17 AM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:
Hey Mehrdad... I have some thoughts here - will get back with you soon - thanks!

From: Mehrdad Azemun <mehrdad@npa-us.org>
Date: Friday, August 14, 2015 at 9:46 AM
To: "Snyder, Thomas" <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Follow-up on June meeting about Iowa

Tom and John, I'm coming back to this to see what direction you may be going in. Our group in Iowa was wondering. Mehrdad

On Wed, Jun 24, 2015 at 6:32 PM, Mehrdad Azemun <mehrdad@npa-us.org> wrote:

Guys, quick follow-up: I met with staff from the Iowa group in dc today and they're interested in having a conversation with you both if that interest is mutual. I brief them on the "caucus for fairness" idea and they're also interested in influencing the conversation that happens before the caucuses.

John, in answer to your question, their membership is 3200 - and that's a real, hard number (ie not like MoveOn or Greenpeace, which I'm sure count me as a member despite my never having given them money, or at least not for years).

I'll also forward you info on the upcoming fall convention for their c3, which will give you a good flavor of the group and their politics. Mehrdad

On Jun 17, 2015, at 4:48 PM, "Snyder, Thomas" <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Not yet. We can just talk about our concept of what we are thinking about in Iowa and then go from there.

From: Mehrdad Azemun [mailto:mehrdad@npa-us.org]

Sent: Wednesday, June 17, 2015 4:34 PM
To: Snyder, Thomas
Cc: John Del Ceccato (jfdc@akpdmedia.com)
Subject: Re: Confirmed meeting-Iowa

Tom, I'm wondering what you'd like to discuss in this meeting. If you want to get deep into details on Iowa, I should get our Iowa member on the phone, Iowa Citizens for Community Improvement. Let me know. Mehrdad

On Fri, Jun 5, 2015 at 9:21 AM, Snyder, Thomas <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

John and Mehrdad – we are confirmed to meet at the Mayor’s Office on Friday June 19 at 3:30pm.

Tom Snyder

Chief of Staff

Office of the Mayor

City Hall

New York, NY 10007

212-341-5050

--

Mehrdad Azemun

Campaign Director

National People's Action

National People's Action Campaign

810 N. Milwaukee Ave., Chicago IL 60642

773-220-7929 (mobile)

312-676-2815 (office)

mehrdad@npa-us.org

www.npa-us.org

Twitter:

www.twitter.com/NPAction

Facebook:

www.facebook.org/NationalPeoplesAction

YouTube:

www.youtube.com/movetoaction

--

Mehrdad Azemun
Campaign Director
National People's Action
National People's Action Campaign
810 N. Milwaukee Ave., Chicago IL 60642
773-220-7929 (mobile)
312-676-2815 (office)
mehrdad@npa-us.org
www.npa-us.org

Twitter:

www.twitter.com/NPAction

Facebook:

www.facebook.org/NationalPeoplesAction

YouTube:

www.youtube.com/movetoaction

--

Mehrdad Azemun
Campaign Director
National People's Action
National People's Action Campaign
810 N. Milwaukee Ave., Chicago IL 60642
773-220-7929 (mobile)
312-676-2815 (office)
mehrdad@npa-us.org
www.npa-us.org

Twitter:

www.twitter.com/NPAction

Facebook:

www.facebook.org/NationalPeoplesAction

YouTube:

www.youtube.com/movetoaction

From: B
To: Hagelgans, Andrea; Williams, Dominic; Walzak, Phil; Hinton, Karen; Snyder, Thomas; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Leopold, Elana; Wolfe, Emma
Cc: FLONYC; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; "Jonathan@berlinrosen.com"; Klein, Monica
Subject: Re: SI ADVANCE: Firefighter shot responding to house fire on Staten Island
Date: Friday, August 14, 2015 4:32:57 PM

Sometimes miracles do occur...

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
Sent: Friday, August 14, 2015 04:31 PM
To: B; Williams, Dominic; Walzak, Phil; Hinton, Karen; Snyder, Thomas; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Leopold, Elana; Wolfe, Emma
Cc: FLONYC; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; 'Jonathan@berlinrosen.com' <Jonathan@berlinrosen.com>; Klein, Monica
Subject: RE: SI ADVANCE: Firefighter shot responding to house fire on Staten Island

Politico/Cap reported this:

State Senator Diane Savino, who also attended the press conference, told POLITICO New York that the mayor's whereabouts during the morning was a non-issue. "Elected officials don't belong at a crime scene," she said.

From: B
Sent: Friday, August 14, 2015 3:59 PM
To: Williams, Dominic; Walzak, Phil; Hinton, Karen; Snyder, Thomas; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Leopold, Elana; Wolfe, Emma; Hagelgans, Andrea
Cc: FLONYC; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; 'Jonathan@berlinrosen.com'; Klein, Monica
Subject: Re: SI ADVANCE: Firefighter shot responding to house fire on Staten Island

I just spoke to Jake Lemonda [REDACTED], president of the UFOA which represents to fire officers -- including lieutenants. He says he has already issued a positive statement re: being present at my visit with Hayes and how much it was appreciated. He also says (I can't verify) that he's spoken to Cassidy (not his member, keep in mind) and Steve says he will not comment -- fwiw. Make sure Lemonda's statement gets out there -- I told him I needed him to stand up here and speak the positive truth, and he agreed. He says other union leaders will attack me -- I assume he means mullins and lynch. I need a scorecard tmrw re: who was a friend and who was cheap. Fwiw, the electeds at the presser (Savino, Cusick and Rose) all told me they thought the attack was outrageous -- see if you can get them on record. Rose was in the hospital room with me. Ironically, the firefighters and officers I encountered were overwhelmingly warm and appreciative, including the members of Engine 158 who I spoke with at the hospital. I know this too shall pass, but let's deal with these bastards.

From: B
Sent: Friday, August 14, 2015 03:18 PM
To: Williams, Dominic; Walzak, Phil; Hinton, Karen; Snyder, Thomas; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Leopold, Elana; Wolfe, Emma; Hagelgans, Andrea
Cc: FLONYC; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; 'Jonathan@berlinrosen.com' <Jonathan@berlinrosen.com>

Subject: Re: SI ADVANCE: Firefighter shot responding to house fire on Staten Island

First of all, the news media is pitiful and it's sad for our city and nation.

Second, we keep getting new scenarios to add to our database. Here's what we know: the media wants to focus on death in all its forms and wants me to be present wherever death or grievous injury is involved. Today's controversy about when exactly I should be at the hospital or an active shooter situation and what I'm "allowed" to do if I'm not there is a case in point.

We can make a conscience decision to surrender to them and just go to fires, crime scenes and memorials all day every day -- or we can govern. Now, that being said, it is worth having a team discussion re: whether we no longer believe we have the firepower to fight back in these situations. If we instead believe the media environment has metastasized, we can then institute a protocol that says that I will go immediately to whatever crisis location exists as the default position. Granted, this attack line today would have been harder to promote if I was at CH -- but then the line could have been I took too long to go visit the hospital. If by now you're thinking this is a lose-lose equation and a trap, you may be right.

Third, this is always an attack on us and what we represent. Only we can decide the template we believe in. Only we can choose to either give in (which might be a logical choice) to this part of the tabloid culture, or to blow by it. But we need a template that is sharper. We've had a basic one before but there's still a long pause and lots of internal discussion typically before we act. We need to have a clearer playbook and faster execution.

Fourth, one person in charge -- the only thing that ever works. From now on, Tom will be responsible for immediately convening all key personnel to decide how and when I go to the scene of a crisis. It must start immediately upon info coming in. And I expect the fastest possible decision. Until we decide otherwise, when Tom is not available, Phil will run this process. And when Phil is not available, Dom will run this process.

They will never defeat us. Only we can do that. Let's get tighter, clearer, faster, better.

From: B

Sent: Friday, August 14, 2015 09:11 AM

To: Williams, Dominic; Walzak, Phil; Hinton, Karen; Snyder, Thomas; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Leopold, Elana; Wolfe, Emma; Hagelgans, Andrea

Subject: Re: SI ADVANCE: Firefighter shot responding to house fire on Staten Island

Just spoke with Nigro again. He says the lieutenant will be held overnight at the hospital as a precaution. So I can visit whenever we think makes sense

From: B

Sent: Friday, August 14, 2015 09:08 AM

To: Williams, Dominic; Walzak, Phil; Hinton, Karen; Snyder, Thomas; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Leopold, Elana; Wolfe, Emma; Hagelgans, Andrea

Subject: Re: SI ADVANCE: Firefighter shot responding to house fire on Staten Island

Just spoke with BB. Situation is not over but is contained. Suspect holed up in a basement apt -- surrounding area evacuated. PD is flying the suspect's mom up from DE by helicopter -- suspect has asked to speak with her, hopefully as part of surrender. BB will brief the media now. He suggests I go out after the situation is resolved to be part of the post-incident presser and to thank first responders. Then could visit the wounded lieutenant in hospital or at home if he's been released.

From: Williams, Dominic
Sent: Friday, August 14, 2015 08:35 AM
To: B; Walzak, Phil; Hinton, Karen; Snyder, Thomas; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Leopold, Elana; Wolfe, Emma; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: Re: SI ADVANCE: Firefighter shot responding to house fire on Staten Island

Re: Going — Think we need to let this play out more, but plan on having to make a SI trip later today.

Think should read visiting the firefighter after Nigro connects you.

Think we shouldn't be anywhere near the scene now or any time soon. Think we call that once the scene is no longer active, and would underline that that could be a different trip to hospital, not necessarily to scene.

Emma is talking to electeds and Cassidy and that readout will be helpful as well.

From: Bill De Blasio <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Friday, August 14, 2015 at 8:30 AM
To: "Walzak, Phil" <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Hinton, Karen" <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Dominic Williams <dwilliams@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Snyder, Thomas" <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca" <PSalazar-Rodriguez@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Leopold, Elana" <LEopold@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: SI ADVANCE: Firefighter shot responding to house fire on Staten Island

Pls advise what you guys think next steps should be

From: B
Sent: Friday, August 14, 2015 08:16 AM
To: Walzak, Phil; Hinton, Karen; Williams, Dominic; Snyder, Thomas; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Leopold, Elana
Subject: Fw: SI ADVANCE: Firefighter shot responding to house fire on Staten Island

Just spoke with Nigro and Bratton. Nigro's at the hospital with the lieutenant -- thankfully he's in good condition. BB's going to the site where the shooter is, and says this could be a prolonged stand-off. Shooter is well-armed. BB will update me when he's out there. Nigro will put me on the phone with the lieutenant shortly most likely. BB held open the possibility that I should go to the site of the standoff. Need you guys to evaluate next steps and prepare to make schedule changes. I would put the guy I'm seeing for my first mtg on alert that we may need to re-sched

From: Clips

Sent: Friday, August 14, 2015 07:42 AM

Subject: SI ADVANCE: Firefighter shot responding to house fire on Staten Island

Firefighter shot responding to house fire on Staten Island

SI ADVANCE - Maura Grunlund

http://www.silive.com/northshore/index.ssf/2015/08/firefighter_shot_as_suspect_se.html#incart_river

An explosive situation unfolded early Friday morning in Mariners Harbor when U.S. Marshal's attempted to serve a warrant to an individual and the person set fire to his home and began shooting, according to police and a law enforcement source at the scene.

One of the bullets struck a firefighter in the ankle, according to a spokesman for the NYPD. The shooter is still believed to be inside the home and the situation active.

Firefighters responded to the blaze at 5:58 a.m. at 15 Destiny Court, just around the corner from St. Clement and St. Michael R.C. Church.

An enormous number of emergency officials are on the scene -- including heavily-armed Emergency Service Unit cops, Haz-Mat officers and about 60 firefighters.

At least three helicopters are flying over the area and there is a heavy smell of smoke in the air.

From: John Del Cecato
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Snyder, Thomas; Hagelgans, Andrea; Geri Prado
Subject: Re-sending
Date: Friday, August 14, 2015 4:34:18 PM
Attachments: 1.docx

Here's the list that Andrea & her team are trying to find slots for over the next couple months

1. Rachel Maddow with MSNBC. Next week. Do a wrap-up of what's been happening since May 12th – not taking credit, but showing the momentum of progressive policies in action. Min wage hikes, paid family leave, paid sick leave (Obama), CEO pay transparency, Rikers reform, student loan debt.
2. Poppy Harlow with CNN. Do an interview at a diner in East New York. Show her a Pre-K program. This is what we need everywhere in America. Lead-up to first day of school. Cite some report (one of our TPA partners write it?) that shows the huge impact that Pre-K has on combatting income inequality. Hook her up with a parent of a Pre-K child.
3. Vice TV. Take them on a ride on the 2-train, from low-income neighborhood to high-income neighborhood. Reference New School speech. Doesn't happen overnight. Need the state. Need the federal government. I'm doing everything I can.
4. Tavis Smiley. Sometime this summer. Late August? Talk about the report that said for the first time, AfAm kids in poverty outnumber white kids. Mass incarceration/Rikers, marijuana reform, stop-and-frisk reform.
5. Reich event September 29th. Joint discussion on income inequality – maybe at a college. Maybe re-rollout Move On videos. Roll out Geri & co-chairs of TPA.
6. TeleTown Hall in October with TPA VIPs representing states where there will be minimum wage referenda this November. Call on people to be sure to vote and push their friends, family, coworkers to vote.
7. Presidential forum watch party. Late October. MBDB makes opening remarks from NYC.
8. Do event with Roosevelt Institute around income inequality poll they will be releasing in September. Roosevelt or another group releases (or re-releases) a white paper to go along with it (something on inequality by the numbers).
9. Student Debt. Facebook town hall around September education vision speech. Big plank in TPA. Highlight what other cities and states are doing to make higher education more affordable. Need Washington to get serious about debt-free college.
10. Univision. Do an interview with Jorge Ramos on immigration reform/wage theft. Do it as a joint with Hector Figueroa. Talk about in context of TPA.
11. Maria Bartiromo with FOX Business. Talk about tax fairness – specifically closing the CEO pay loophole. Need to rewrite the rules and make tax code more progressive.

12. Do an op-ed for Huffington Post on the one year anniversary of our last one? Democrats Need To Stiffen Our Backbones: Part II? Do it as a joint op-ed with Jeff Merkley? Year in review of what's happened since the first op-ed.

13. Sirius town hall in October. In NYC – to all 27 million subscribers. Progressive host. Put 100 people in the studio to ask questions about various planks of TPA.

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: John Del Cecato; Geri Prado
Subject: Re: Re-sending
Date: Friday, August 14, 2015 4:52:36 PM

Have either of you ever noticed the once a week opinion writer for the Washington Post named Harold Meyerson. Aligned with TPA, left wing, very pro-labor. Big into policy change and moving country to the left. Likes Durazo (and me a little). I think you should be able to come up with some angle that would interest him. He's also an editor at American Prospect.

From: John Del Ceccato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Date: Friday, August 14, 2015 at 4:34 PM
To: Prisca Salazar <psalazar-rodriquez@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Tom Snyder <tsnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Andrea Hagelgans <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Geri Prado <[REDACTED]>
Subject: Re-sending

Here's the list that Andrea & her team are trying to find slots for over the next couple months

From: John Del Cecato
To: Klein, Monica
Cc: Hinton, Karen; Hagelgans, Andrea; Walzak, Phil
Subject: Re: WSJ on Clinton
Date: Saturday, August 15, 2015 11:50:27 AM

I'm thinking it was Ragone - who gave me a heads-up after he talked to the woman reporter for this piece. He told me he talked generally about the HRC side of things

On Aug 15, 2015, at 11:46 AM, Klein, Monica <MKlein@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Mayor wants to know who handled the article/who is "person close to the Mayor"?

Ty

Mr. de Blasio's aides say they have been heartened by some of Mrs. Clinton's recent speeches, though an endorsement isn't expected soon. They made a calculated decision not to endorse early in the race, hoping to leverage more power to push liberal ideas, a person close to the mayor said.

<http://www.wsj.com/articles/for-clinton-sharply-different-ties-to-cuomo-and-de-blasio-camps-1439509152>

From: Goldmark, Karin
To: "JWallack@schools.nyc.gov"; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; "jonathan@berlinrosen.com"
Subject: Re: education policies
Date: Saturday, August 15, 2015 1:25:54 PM

So it turns out NYC already has a college grad goal--to double # of grads coming out of CUNY by 2020 (from 2010).

Would like to broaden so I propose adding following:
Beat the national college completion rate (it's 46%) by 2030
NY produces 75,000 additional college grads by 2030 (cumulative)

Requires adding, on average, 5K grads per year--obviously targets would be lower initially.

Josh's #s will be based on a better spreadsheet so we should use his.

Also I think we can take off the $10K for college that's outside realm of possibility.
That's 500M/yr just at today's grad rates for something state should pay for.

From: Wallack Josh [mailto:JWallack@schools.nyc.gov]
Sent: Friday, August 14, 2015 12:19 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>; Goldmark, Karin; Jonathan Rosen <jonathan@berlinrosen.com>
Subject: RE: education policies

I'll get back to you later today – sorry for delay.

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Friday, August 14, 2015 11:29 AM
To: Wallack Josh <JWallack@schools.nyc.gov>; KGoldmark@cityhall.nyc.gov; Jonathan Rosen <jonathan@berlinrosen.com>
Subject: Re: education policies

Just following up on whether I've got my facts right here

From: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Date: Thursday, August 13, 2015 at 1:55 PM
To: Wallack Josh <JWallack@schools.nyc.gov>, "KGoldmark@cityhall.nyc.gov" <KGoldmark@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Jonathan Rosen <jonathan@berlinrosen.com>
Subject: education policies

Wanted to check in & see if this is the best/most accurate/most up-to-date list of items that we're thinking of doing in the education speech... Feel free to edit at will - or add/subtract

Doubling the number of New York City public school students who graduate from college
Helping 50 thousand more New York City students graduate from college
Making sure every second grader can read on grade level
Doubling the number of elementary school students who can read on grade level
Cutting the high school dropout rate in half
Adding more community schools which offering mental health services, career counseling, eye exams, and nutrition assistance
Doubling the funding for pre-kindergarten programs
Providing up to five thousand dollars to all high school graduates for college tuition.
Providing up to ten thousand dollars to all high school graduates for college tuition.
Doubling the percentage of students who graduate from New York City public schools who are college-ready

From: Blumm, Kate
To: Goldmark, Karin
Cc: Hagelgans, Andrea; JWallack@schools.nyc.gov; URamirez@schools.nyc.gov; Williams, Dominic; ifdc@akpdmmedia.com; Walzak, Phil; Snyder, Thomas; Buey, Richard; Wolfe, Emma; Fuleihan, Dean \(OMB\); jonathan@berlinrosen.com
Subject: Re: Speech--next steps
Date: Sunday, August 16, 2015 11:35:01 AM

Karin-- sent around some thoughts/updates and realize I forgot to cc you and several others on this chain. Looping you all now. Captures much of what's here and but open questions below would be very good to resolve.

FROM MOBILE KATE

- > On Aug 16, 2015, at 10:58 AM, Goldmark, Karin <KGoldmark@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
- >
- > Checking in on where we are with speech and putting us all on a thread so we can get coordinated for Weds meeting:
- >
- >
- > 1. Email from B last week:
- >
- > I'm starting to feel this educ speech. College is the right fulcrum here. I think we go heavy into:
- >
- > EVERY middle and high school having a business partner
- >
- > Huge numbers of kids in internships/mentorships/summer jobs
- >
- > EVERY middle/high school student is taking on college tours in nyc multiple times
- >
- > College savings accounts
- >
- > City's new vision of how to get kids to college and help them succeed there/afford it
- >
- > Then all the things we are doing k-12 are shown to be supporting that
- >
- > 2. On college visits piece--this came out of mtg w new State Ed Commissioner--wants college tours/visits specifically mentioned in speech
- >
- > 3. For us to contend with: in 2010 NYC (CUNY and DOE) announced GradNYC, initiative w goal of doubling number of college grads coming out of CUNY by 2020. Now halfway through, we are on track to meet that goal. The number goal isn't overwhelming--I think it's from 7000 to 14,000.
- > I think we should do three things:
- > A. Push timeline to 2030 and include the GradNYC goal in the bigger goal
- > B. Frame the goal as all New Yorkers, not just CUNY or even DOE grads, with special emphasis on DOE grads for the initiatives that get us there.
- > C. Add equity goals for first generation college students.
- >
- > 4. We need to figure out if we are making a "call on state to _____" statement (about increasing TAP or anything else).
- > Any insight on why NYS has not joined Complete College America? (36 states signed up for goals and policy moves on college completion, NY and not among them)
- >
- >

From: John Del Cecato
To: Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: Re:
Date: Sunday, August 16, 2015 6:06:42 PM

Roger. Definitely won't be more work for her imo

> On Aug 16, 2015, at 5:33 PM, Hagelgans, Andrea <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>
> Btw Kate wasn't keen on the idea b/c she thinks it will mean same work for her. But I think she doesn't realize his experience level
>
> Sent from my BlackBerry 10 smartphone.
> Original Message
> From: John Del Cecato
> Sent: Sunday, August 16, 2015 5:25 PM
> To: Hagelgans, Andrea
> Subject:
>
>
> Gonna have breakfast with Kevin Bleyer tomorrow AM and pitch him on doing contract speeches for MBDB
>
>

From: John Del Cecato
To: B
Cc: geri@progressiveagenda.us; hayley@progressiveagenda.us
Subject: Re: Steyer
Date: Sunday, August 16, 2015 10:10:20 PM

Outstanding. And will do.

> On Aug 16, 2015, at 9:34 PM, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>
>
> Pls keep me posted every step of the way. And let's discuss george and alex soros, jay eisenhofer and robert kraft, all of whom I saw this weekend
>
>
> ----- Original Message -----
> From: Geri Prado [<mailto:geri@progressiveagenda.us>]
> Sent: Saturday, August 15, 2015 11:52 AM
> To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
> Cc: B; hayley@progressiveagenda.us <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>
> Subject: Re: Steyer
>
> I'm going to talk Josh's colleague who handles all political work.
>
>
>
>> On Aug 15, 2015, at 11:46 AM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:
>>
>> I called Josh and he emailed back asking if we could talk Monday.
>>
>> Geri and I are going to brainstorm on ways to make our partnership real.
>>
>>
>>
>>
>>
>>> On Aug 15, 2015, at 11:37 AM, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>>>
>>>
>>> Pls update us all now re: follow-up

From: B
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Pls call when you can
Date: Monday, August 17, 2015 8:48:18 AM

From: John Del Cecato
To: Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: <no subject>
Date: Monday, August 17, 2015 10:57:27 AM

Had breakfast with Kevin Bleyer... He's been pitching a TV comedy he wrote, but is waiting to hear back from some big star - and apparently that takes forever - so he's got time on his hands & is very eager to do some freelance speechwriting for MBDB... We didn't talk money in specifics - but he proposed a small monthly retainer & then a per-speech fee... I know you said you had to look at your budget & find the bread - but he's willing/able - we just need to make him an offer

From: John Del Cecato
To: B
Subject: FW: NyT story
Date: Monday, August 17, 2015 11:25:25 AM

FYI

----- Forwarded message -----

From: Katrina vanden Heuvel <kat@thenation.com>
Date: Mon, Aug 17, 2015 at 11:04 AM
Subject: NyT story
To: Rebecca Katz <>
Cc: Katrina Cell <kat@thenation.com>

Thought it was okay-- regrets I couldn't talk to one of Times' reporters, Good to see ED hired for Progressive Agenda and hope to be in loop as that develops, heading toward presidential forum,kvh

From: Hayley Prim
To: Leopold, Elana
Cc: John Del Cecato \(jfdc@akpdmedia.com\)
Subject: Re: FW: CALL SHEET: Call with Gov Inslee at 11:30am- HE WILL CALL YOUR CELL
Date: Monday, August 17, 2015 1:28:18 PM

He did not download to me

On Mon, Aug 17, 2015 at 1:27 PM, Leopold, Elana <ELeopold@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Did he download to either of you?

From: B
Sent: Monday, August 17, 2015 10:19 AM
To: Leopold, Elana
Subject: Re: CALL SHEET: Call with Gov Inslee at 11:30am- HE WILL CALL YOUR CELL

Got it

From: Leopold, Elana
Sent: Monday, August 17, 2015 10:15 AM
To: B
Subject: CALL SHEET: Call with Gov Inslee at 11:30am- HE WILL CALL YOUR CELL

EVENT: Call with Jay Inslee, Governor of Washington State

MISSION/GOAL: Talk to Governor Inslee about his recent efforts on Climate Change, discuss what you are doing with TPA

DAY/DATE: Monday, August 17, 2015

EVENT TIME: 11:30AM- 11:45AM

MBDB TIME: 11:30AM- 11:45AM

LOCATION:

LOCAL/ONSITE CONTACT: Governor Inslee will call your cell phone

PEOPLE ATTENDING: 2

ELECTED/COMMUNITY OFFICIALS ATTENDING Governor Jay Inslee

STAFF ATTENDING: N/A

STAFF ASSIGNED TO MBDB: Hayley Prim

PRESS: Closed

BACKGROUND ON CLIMATE CHANGE MEASURE:

At the end of July, Governor Inslee issued an Executive Order, bi-passing the legislature to combat climate change in his state through regulation.

The Executive Order dictates a cap on a cap on emissions of greenhouse gases so Washington can meet its commitment to cut 1990-level emissions in half by 2050.

Inslee's original legislative proposal covered about 130 large facilities and fuel distributors that cause the release of more than 25,000 metric tons of heat-trapping gases in a year. It would have made exceptions for industries such as agriculture.

The businesses, which emit at least 25,000 metric tons of carbon a year, would have been required to bid for a limited number of carbon credits to continue operating. The number of credits available would gradually be cut in half by 2050.

There is concern that the measure will have a lop-sided impact on rural residents, farmers and ag processors, the bread-and-butter of the economy in east side communities.

Inslee's rule must go through a year or more of development and vetting before going into effect.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION:

In Washington, Governor Inslee has already championed many of our Progressive Agenda principles. You should use this opportunity to bring TPA up for discussion and talk about what you are doing. How his policies cross with TPA:

- Pre-K— In his state of the state address, Governor Inslee advocated for increased early education opportunities. Specifically, he focused on the need for more high-quality preschools for low-income children. Additionally, he proposed funding for all-day kindergarten state-wide.
 - College Debt: In July 2015 Governor Inslee signed the College Affordability Program that would cut tuition at all of Washington's public colleges and universities.
 - Minimum Wage— In 2014, when Washington had the highest minimum wage in the country, Governor Inslee proposed raising it even higher - stating "There are tens of thousands of jobs that people depend on that don't provide a living wage in our state. An increase in minimum wage means more money being spent in our economy."
 - Immigration Reform— repeatedly urged Congress to pass comprehensive immigration reform
 - Earned Income Tax Credit— Inslee's budget funds the Working Families tax rebate, which creates an additional tax credit for families,

based on the Federal Earned Income Tax Credit

- Tax Loopholes— In an attempt to help fully fund K-12 education— which he called a “moral commitment”—while also closing the $1.3 billion budget shortfall for the 2013-15 biennium, Gov. Jay Inslee proposed closing $565 million in tax preferences in March 2013. In January 2014 proposed ending seven tax exemptions to raise an extra $200 million in the next fiscal year for public schools.
- Paid Sick Leave -- Governor Inslee supports paid sick leave

--

Hayley Prim

c: [REDACTED]

From: John Del Cecato
To: Hayley Prim; Leopold, Elana
Subject: Re: CALL SHEET: Call with Gov Inslee at 11:30am- HE WILL CALL YOUR CELL
Date: Monday, August 17, 2015 1:40:33 PM

Me neither

From: Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>
Date: Monday, August 17, 2015 at 1:27 PM
To: "Leopold, Elana" <ELeopold@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: FW: CALL SHEET: Call with Gov Inslee at 11:30am- HE WILL CALL YOUR CELL

He did not download to me

On Mon, Aug 17, 2015 at 1:27 PM, Leopold, Elana <ELeopold@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Did he download to either of you?

From: B
Sent: Monday, August 17, 2015 10:19 AM
To: Leopold, Elana
Subject: Re: CALL SHEET: Call with Gov Inslee at 11:30am- HE WILL CALL YOUR CELL

Got it

From: Leopold, Elana
Sent: Monday, August 17, 2015 10:15 AM
To: B
Subject: CALL SHEET: Call with Gov Inslee at 11:30am- HE WILL CALL YOUR CELL

EVENT: Call with Jay Inslee, Governor of Washington State

MISSION/GOAL: Talk to Governor Inslee about his recent efforts on Climate Change, discuss what you are doing with TPA

DAY/DATE: Monday, August 17, 2015

EVENT TIME: 11:30AM- 11:45AM

MBDB TIME: 11:30AM- 11:45AM

LOCATION:

LOCAL/ONSITE CONTACT: Governor Inslee will call your cell phone

PEOPLE ATTENDING: 2

ELECTED/COMMUNITY OFFICIALS ATTENDING: Governor Jay Inslee

STAFF ATTENDING: N/A

STAFF ASSIGNED TO MBDB: Hayley Prim

PRESS: Closed

BACKGROUND ON CLIMATE CHANGE MEASURE:

At the end of July, Governor Inslee issued an Executive Order, bi-passing the legislature to combat climate change in his state through regulation.

The Executive Order dictates a cap on a cap on emissions of greenhouse gases so Washington can meet its commitment to cut 1990-level emissions in half by 2050.

Inslee's original legislative proposal covered about 130 large facilities and fuel distributors that cause the release of more than 25,000 metric tons of heat-trapping gases in a year. It would have made exceptions for industries such as agriculture.

The businesses, which emit at least 25,000 metric tons of carbon a year, would have been required to bid for a limited number of carbon credits to continue operating. The number of credits available would gradually be cut in half by 2050.

There is concern that the measure will have a lop-sided impact on rural residents, farmers and ag processors, the bread-and-butter of the economy in east side communities.

Inslee's rule must go through a year or more of development and vetting before going into effect.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION:

In Washington, Governor Inslee has already championed many of our Progressive Agenda principles. You should use this opportunity to bring TPA up for discussion and talk about what you are doing. How his policies cross with TPA:

- Pre-K— In his state of the state address, Governor Inslee advocated for increased early education opportunities. Specifically, he focused on the need for more high-quality preschools for low-income children. Additionally, he proposed funding for all-day kindergarten state-wide.
 - College Debt: In July 2015 Governor Inslee signed the College Affordability Program that would cut tuition at all of Washington's public colleges and universities.
 - Minimum Wage— In 2014, when Washington had the highest minimum wage in the country, Governor Inslee proposed raising it even higher - stating "There are tens of thousands of jobs that people depend on that don't provide a living wage in our state. An increase in minimum wage means more money being spent in our economy."
 - Immigration Reform— repeatedly urged Congress to pass comprehensive immigration reform
 - Earned Income Tax Credit— Inslee's budget funds the Working Families tax rebate, which creates an additional tax credit for families, based on the Federal Earned Income Tax Credit
 - Tax Loopholes— In an attempt to help fully fund K-12 education—which he called a "moral commitment”—while also closing the $1.3 billion budget shortfall for the 2013-15 biennium, Gov. Jay Inslee proposed closing $565 million in tax preferences in March 2013. In January 2014 proposed ending seven tax exemptions to raise an extra $200 million in the next fiscal year for public schools.

- Paid Sick Leave -- Governor Inslee supports paid sick leave

--

Hayley Prim

c: [REDACTED]

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
To: "Hayley Prim"
Cc: Leopold, Elana; John Del Cecato; [REDACTED]
Subject: RE: MBDB: TPA Calls
Date: Monday, August 17, 2015 2:46:45 PM

Elana can do with Mayor – can you send her the calls that need to be made?
Thanks!

From: Hayley Prim [mailto:hayley@progressiveagenda.us]
Sent: Monday, August 17, 2015 1:26 PM
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Cc: Leopold, Elana; John Del Cecato; [REDACTED]
Subject: Re: MBDB: TPA Calls

Hey I have a long standing appt on Wednesday afternoon that is going to be really touch to get out of. Could someone else do this, or could we get some time on Thursday instead?

On Mon, Aug 17, 2015 at 1:21 PM, Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca <PSalazar-Rodriguez@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

--

Hayley Prim
c: [REDACTED]

From: Leopold, Elana
To: B
Cc: "hayley@progressiveagenda.us" (hayley@progressiveagenda.us); John Del Cecato \(jfdc@akpdmedia.com\)
Subject: RE: CALL SHEET: Call with Gov Inslee at 11:30am- HE WILL CALL YOUR CELL
Date: Monday, August 17, 2015 3:08:54 PM

Reminding you to download this call

Looping Hayley and JDC

From: B
Sent: Monday, August 17, 2015 10:19 AM
To: Leopold, Elana
Subject: Re: CALL SHEET: Call with Gov Inslee at 11:30am- HE WILL CALL YOUR CELL

Got it

From: Leopold, Elana
Sent: Monday, August 17, 2015 10:15 AM
To: B
Subject: CALL SHEET: Call with Gov Inslee at 11:30am- HE WILL CALL YOUR CELL

EVENT: Call with Jay Inslee, Governor of Washington State

MISSION/GOAL: Talk to Governor Inslee about his recent efforts on Climate Change, discuss what you are doing with TPA

DAY/DATE: Monday, August 17, 2015

EVENT TIME: 11:30AM- 11:45AM

MBDB TIME: 11:30AM- 11:45AM

LOCATION:
LOCAL/ONSITE CONTACT: Governor Inslee will call your cell phone

PEOPLE ATTENDING: 2

ELECTED/COMMUNITY OFFICIALS ATTENDING: Governor Jay Inslee

STAFF ATTENDING: N/A

STAFF ASSIGNED TO MBDB: Hayley Prim

PRESS: Closed

BACKGROUND ON CLIMATE CHANGE MEASURE:

At the end of July, Governor Inslee issued an Executive Order, bi-passing the legislature to combat climate change in his state through regulation.

The Executive Order dictates a cap on a cap on emissions of greenhouse gases so Washington can meet its commitment to cut 1990-level emissions in half by 2050.

Inslee's original legislative proposal covered about 130 large facilities and fuel distributors that cause the release of more than 25,000 metric tons of heat-trapping gases in a year. It would have made exceptions for industries such as agriculture.

The businesses, which emit at least 25,000 metric tons of carbon a year, would have been required to bid for a limited number of carbon credits to continue operating. The number of credits available would gradually be cut in half by 2050.

There is concern that the measure will have a lop-sided impact on rural residents, farmers and ag processors, the bread-and-butter of the economy in east side communities.

Inslee's rule must go through a year or more of development and vetting before going into effect.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION:

In Washington, Governor Inslee has already championed many of our Progressive Agenda principles. You should use this opportunity to bring TPA up for discussion and talk about what you are doing. How his policies cross with TPA:

- Pre-K— In his state of the state address, Governor Inslee advocated for increased early education opportunities. Specifically, he focused on the need for more high-quality preschools for low-income children. Additionally, he proposed funding for all-day kindergarten state-wide.
- College Debt: In July 2015 Governor Inslee signed the College Affordability Program that would cut tuition at all of Washington's public colleges and universities.
- Minimum Wage— In 2014, when Washington had the highest minimum wage in the country, Governor Inslee proposed raising it even higher - stating "There are tens of thousands of jobs that people depend on that don't provide a living wage in our state. An increase in minimum wage means more money being spent in our economy."
- Immigration Reform— repeatedly urged Congress to pass comprehensive immigration reform
- Earned Income Tax Credit— Inslee's budget funds the Working Families tax rebate, which creates an additional tax credit for families, based on the Federal Earned Income Tax Credit

- Tax Loopholes— In an attempt to help fully fund K-12 education—which he called a “moral commitment”—while also closing the $1.3 billion budget shortfall for the 2013-15 biennium, Gov. Jay Inslee proposed closing $565 million in tax preferences in March 2013. In January 2014 proposed ending seven tax exemptions to raise an extra $200 million in the next fiscal year for public schools.
- Paid Sick Leave -- Governor Inslee supports paid sick leave

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
To: "Geri Prado"
Cc: Hayley Prim; Snyder, Thomas; John Del Cecato
Subject: RE: DC Meetings for Mayor
Date: Monday, August 17, 2015 3:10:50 PM

I think one document with all suggestions is what he is looking for-

From: Geri Prado [mailto:geri@progressiveagenda.us]
Sent: Monday, August 17, 2015 2:51 PM
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Cc: Hayley Prim; Snyder, Thomas; John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: DC Meetings for Mayor

I sent that last week. Should I time out? I'm not sure if you're looking for a tick tock with that or if ok as is.

On Mon, Aug 17, 2015 at 2:50 PM, Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca <PSalazar-Rodriguez@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

We need to know what an entire day would look like. I know Tom has asked for a sample of a day in DC. Perhaps it is something that you can present at TPA mini-retreat over the weekend.

From: Hayley Prim [mailto:hayley@progressiveagenda.us]
Sent: Monday, August 17, 2015 2:46 PM
To: Geri Prado
Cc: Snyder, Thomas; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; John Del Cecato

Subject: Re: DC Meetings for Mayor

Can we put a hold for dinner with Jeff Merkley on the evening of 9/22 approx 630-8?

On Thu, Aug 13, 2015 at 2:06 PM, Geri Prado <geri@progressiveagenda.us> wrote:
I did that and sent to you but part of this depends on how long we have and how many meetings we can book so I'm trying to get an idea. If he leaves NYC at 6am that's different than if he leaves at 9.

On Thu, Aug 13, 2015 at 1:59 PM, Snyder, Thomas <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
I don't know. Key is just to come up with a a plan for what he could do for most of a day in Dc and we'll go from there.

From: Geri Prado <geri@progressiveagenda.us>
Date: Thursday, August 13, 2015 at 1:55 PM
To: Tom Snyder <tsnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: Prisca Salazar <psalazar-rodriquez@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Hayley Primm <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>, John Del Ceccato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>

Subject: Re: DC Meetings for Mayor

OK what is earliest he would get on train?

On Thu, Aug 13, 2015 at 1:50 PM, Snyder, Thomas <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
Same day no overnight

From: Geri Prado <geri@progressiveagenda.us>
Date: Thursday, August 13, 2015 at 1:49 PM
To: Prisca Salazar <psalazar-rodriguez@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: Hayley Primm <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>, Tom Snyder <tsnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>, John Del Ceccato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>

Subject: Re: DC Meetings for Mayor

First thing in AM- train down and back or fly? Or does he go up the night before?

On Thu, Aug 13, 2015 at 1:33 PM, Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca <PSalazar-Rodriguez@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
We can do DC on Tuesday, September 22nd

From: Hayley Prim [mailto:hayley@progressiveagenda.us]
Sent: Tuesday, August 11, 2015 6:08 PM
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Cc: Geri Prado; Snyder, Thomas; John Del Cecato

Subject: Re: DC Meetings for Mayor

Can you give me another date we can offer for DC?

On Tuesday, August 11, 2015, Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca <PSalazar-Rodriguez@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
No- he may be giving his ed speech on this day-

From: Hayley Prim [mailto:hayley@progressiveagenda.us]
Sent: Tuesday, August 11, 2015 3:53 PM
To: Geri Prado
Cc: Snyder, Thomas; John Del Cecato; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Subject: Re: DC Meetings for Mayor

Is this date still confirmed for him to be in DC? Dayton and Merkley are holding time on their calendars right now

On Mon, Aug 10, 2015 at 1:54 PM, Geri Prado <geri@progressiveagenda.us> wrote:
How much time do we have?

I'd like to schedule other meetings with key organizations.

On Aug 10, 2015, at 1:48 PM, Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us> wrote:

He has specifically requested in person meetings with Mark Dayton, Jeff Merkley, Kate Brown, and EW in NY or DC.

I have confirmed that Dayton and Merkley could both do a meeting in DC on September 16th. Can we lock this in?

We could try to build more TPA meetings around this trip, or you could offer to federal affairs office/IGA. Not sure what the process is to get this in stone.

Let me know!

Thanks,
Hayley

--

Hayley Prim

c: [REDACTED]

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
To: "Geri Prado"; Snyder, Thomas
Cc: Hayley Prim; John Del Cecato
Subject: RE: Potential DC Trip
Date: Monday, August 17, 2015 3:11:49 PM

Works

From: Geri Prado [mailto:████████████████████]
Sent: Monday, August 17, 2015 2:53 PM
To: Snyder, Thomas; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Cc: Hayley Prim; John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: Potential DC Trip

re-upping. What more would you like?

On Wed, Aug 12, 2015 at 11:26 AM, Geri Prado <████████████████████> wrote:
Purpose of trip:

- Meet with current supporters to discuss signing on other high level supporters and organizations
- Meet with potential key funders, leaders of targeted organizations

When:

- August, early to mid September, 1 full day

What:

Meetings

- Senator Elizabeth Warren- purpose: to move to sign on to TPA and be co-chair
- Senator Jeff Merkley- Purpose: discuss issues and work to organize other high level signers
- President of AFSCME, board member of Priorities USA, America Votes, Working America Lee Saunders, senior advisor Paul Booth. Purpose: to ask to be a major participant in TPA, help sign on other organizations, provide support
- Democracy Alliance, Board Chair John Stocks- to discuss DA involvement in TPA, NEA contributions
- LGBT prospecting- meeting with key FR in the LGBT community
- Potential AFL-CIO Pres meeting- Tom for you and I to discuss.

Matching up these schedules will be tough so if we could have 2 options as far as days and see which would work best that would be most helpful.

If I need to write up a memo with more information let me know.

Geri

From: Klein, Monica
To: Walzak, Phil; Hinton, Karen; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: Re: WSJ on Clinton
Date: Monday, August 17, 2015 6:09:46 PM

kk Just wanted to cross off list that someone discussed w him
Tx

Monica Klein | Deputy Press Secretary | Mayor's Press Office
o: (212) 788-2969 | c: (917) 324-3297 | twitter: @monicacklein

From: <Walzak>, Phil <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Monday, August 17, 2015 at 6:08 PM
To: Monica Klein <mklein@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov" <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, "Hagelgans, Andrea" <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: RE: WSJ on Clinton

I did yest
He didn't want speculkation on timetable of endorsement

I didn't know who the source is

From: Klein, Monica
Sent: Monday, August 17, 2015 6:06 PM
To: Hinton, Karen; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; Hagelgans, Andrea; Walzak, Phil
Subject: RE: WSJ on Clinton

Checking in – did anyone discuss this one w/ Mayor yet?
Ty

Monica Klein | Deputy Press Secretary | Mayor's Press Office
o: (212) 788-2969 | c: (917) 565-0715 | twitter: @monicacklein

From: Hinton, Karen
Sent: Saturday, August 15, 2015 11:51 AM
To: Klein, Monica; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; Hagelgans, Andrea; Walzak, Phil
Subject: Re: WSJ on Clinton

Don't know.
Karen Hinton
Press Secretary
917-246-7692
Follow Me On Twitter @KarenHinton

From: Monica Klein <MKlein@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Date: Sat, 15 Aug 2015 11:46:43 -0400

To: ""jfdc@akpdmedia.com"" <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, Karen Hinton <khinton@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Andrea Hagelgans <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Phil Walzak <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>

Subject: WSJ on Clinton

Mayor wants to know who handled the article/who is "person close to the Mayor"?

Ty

Mr. de Blasio's aides say they have been heartened by some of Mrs. Clinton's recent speeches, though an endorsement isn't expected soon. They made a calculated decision not to endorse early in the race, hoping to leverage more power to push liberal ideas, a person close to the mayor said.

<http://www.wsj.com/articles/for-clinton-sharply-different-ties-to-cuomo-and-de-blasio-camps-1439509152>

From: Hinton, Karen
To: Klein, Monica; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; Hagelgans, Andrea; Walzak, Phil
Subject: RE: WSJ on Clinton
Date: Monday, August 17, 2015 6:12:46 PM

Not me. Can tonight.

From: Klein, Monica
Sent: Monday, August 17, 2015 6:06 PM
To: Hinton, Karen; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; Hagelgans, Andrea; Walzak, Phil
Subject: RE: WSJ on Clinton

Checking in – did anyone discuss this one w/ Mayor yet?

Ty

Monica Klein | Deputy Press Secretary | Mayor's Press Office
o: (212) 788-2969 | c: (917) 565-0715 | twitter: @monicacklein

From: Hinton, Karen
Sent: Saturday, August 15, 2015 11:51 AM
To: Klein, Monica; 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'; Hagelgans, Andrea; Walzak, Phil
Subject: Re: WSJ on Clinton

Don't know.

Karen Hinton

Press Secretary

917-246-7692

Follow Me On Twitter @KarenHinton

From: Monica Klein <MKlein@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Sat, 15 Aug 2015 11:46:43 -0400
To: "'jfdc@akpdmedia.com'" <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, Karen Hinton <khinton@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Andrea Hagelgans <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Phil Walzak <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: WSJ on Clinton

Mayor wants to know who handled the article/who is "person close to the Mayor"?

Ty

Mr. de Blasio's aides say they have been heartened by some of Mrs. Clinton's recent speeches, though an endorsement isn't expected soon. They made a calculated decision not to endorse early in the race, hoping to leverage more power to push liberal ideas, a person close to the mayor said.

<http://www.wsj.com/articles/for-clinton-sharply-different-ties-to-cuomo-and-de-blasio-camps-1439509152>

From: Hinton, Karen
To: John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: bfast
Date: Monday, August 17, 2015 9:30:35 PM

Thursday yes that's good

Sent from my iPhone

On Aug 17, 2015, at 8:38 PM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

Can't tomorrow. Got an all day retreat with another client. Maybe Thurs?

On Aug 17, 2015, at 6:27 PM, Hinton, Karen <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Can you do breakfast 7:30? Odeon?

Karen Hinton
Press Secretary
917-246-7692
Follow Me On Twitter @KarenHinton

From: B
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Subject: Pls discuss
Date: Monday, August 17, 2015 11:47:26 PM

Brief email I got from podesta

From: Boeglin, Rosemary
To: Boeglin, Rosemary
Bcc: Leopold, Elana; hayley@progressiveagenda.us; jfdc@akpdmedia.com; Gunaratna, Mahen; McGinn, Isaac; Klein, Monica; Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea; Grybauskas, Natalie; Jacobs, Eva; bccd@cityhall.nyc.gov; McCray, Chirlane; Hinton, Karen; Adams Baker, Marti; Abeywardena, Penny; Beggs, Joyce; Hardy, Travis; Jackson, Marissa; Nabizada, Mina; Schrenell, Hillary; Wright, Jessica; Shaikh, Michael; geri@progressiveagenda.us
Subject: Income Inequality in the News – Monday, August 17, 2015
Date: Tuesday, August 18, 2015 12:02:47 AM

Income Inequality in the News – Monday, August 17, 2015

Today's Headlines:

Bernie Sanders rails against establishment politics during Chicago stop

CHICAGO TRIBUNE - Kim Greiger

Carly Fiorina: Raising the Minimum Wage Will Lead to 'Less Opportunity'

NATIONAL JOURNAL - Emma Roller

Why the Rich Stay Rich and the Poor Stay Poor

NEWSWEEK - Maya Wesby

Minimum-Wage Waivers for Union Members Stir Standoff

WALL STREET JOURNAL - Eric Morath, Alejandro Lazo

Full-day pre-K should be priority in Emanuel's 2nd term: panel

CHICAGO SUN TIMES - Jon Seidel

Americans Are Becoming More Pro-Union

HUFFINGTON POST - Janie Velencia

Income Inequality in the News:

Bernie Sanders rails against establishment politics during Chicago stop

CHICAGO TRIBUNE - Kim Greiger

Vermont U.S. Sen. Bernie Sanders took his upstart campaign to the home state of his front-running rival Monday night, packing a boutique Chicago theater to capacity as he made his pitch for the Democratic presidential nomination.

A crowd sipping beers and cocktails under the glow of a disco ball chanted and cheered as the liberal firebrand railed against "establishment politics ... establishment economics and establishment media."

Sanders is riding an unlikely wave of popularity in the early days of the Democrats' presidential nominating contest, which many have considered a lock for Park Ridge native Hillary Rodham Clinton.

The veteran senator has packed stadiums on the West Coast and drawn hordes at the Iowa State Fair. By comparison, Monday's event was a low-key affair — a $50-per-person fundraiser that drew more than 600 people.

But attendees still got the Sanders experience that has come to define his campaign: a nearly hourlong speech punctuated by repeated references to the country's growing wealth divide. Appeals to the crowd as "brothers and sisters." Pledges to provide tuition-free college, enact a $15-an-hour federal minimum wage and go after corporations that avoid paying taxes by parking money overseas.

"When we talk and use words like greed, fraud, dishonesty and arrogance, these are just a few of the adjectives to describe Wall Street," Sanders said. "I find it very interesting that some kid who gets picked up for smoking marijuana can have an arrest record, but the crooks who destroyed our economy don't."

While he made no mention of Clinton by name, Sanders sought to differentiate himself from the former secretary of state, asserting that he was one of the few candidates in the race who had refused to establish a super PAC — a much-maligned campaign finance vehicle that allows for the collection of unlimited contributions from corporations, unions, associations and individuals.

"I don't believe in the agenda of corporate America, I don't believe in the agenda of the billionaire class, and I don't want their money," Sanders said.

Sanders' focus on economic issues has drawn criticism recently from activists who argue that it ignores problems of institutional racism. Earlier this month, a Sanders rally in Seattle was interrupted when members of Black Lives Matter stormed the stage and took over his microphone. The incident sparked a wave of chatter on social media over Sanders' platform and its appeal to minorities.

In Chicago, Sanders devoted a portion of his speech to the issue, saying he was "appalled and outraged" by police shootings of unarmed African-Americans.

"I know you do not want to see any more of those videos of a black woman thrown out of her car," Sanders said, a reference to a Naperville woman who was found dead in a Texas jail cell after she was arrested during a traffic stop.

"What's her name, Bernie?" someone in the crowd shouted. Reciting the names of victims of police violence is a hallmark of the Black Lives Matter movement.

"Her name is Sandra Bland," Sanders said.

Carly Fiorina: Raising the Minimum Wage Will Lead to 'Less Opportunity'

NATIONAL JOURNAL - Emma Roller

Carly Fiorina didn't want to give a speech on Monday when she took the stage at the Des Moines Register soapbox at the Iowa State Fair. Instead, she proceeded quickly to the question-and-answer portion, fielding questions on everything from abortion ("Planned Parenthood must be defunded") to U.S. energy production ("a single nation acting alone will make no difference at all" on climate change).

The first question Fiorina fielded was about the minimum wage, and how she thinks raising the wage would affect the U.S. economy. Fiorina, a former CEO of Hewlett-Packard, answered as she had before, but included an interesting argument against raising the wage.

"First, I believe that minimum wage should be a state decision, not a federal decision. Why? Because it makes no sense to say that the minimum wage in New York City is the same as the minimum wage in Mason City, Iowa," Fiorina said.

"Secondly, we have to remember that a lot of minimum-wage jobs are jobs where people start, and in those jobs they learn skills to move forward. So we need to be honest about the consequences of raising a minimum wage too high. One of the consequences is that young people who are trapped in poor neighborhoods will have less opportunities to learn skills and move forward."

The idea that you can draw a line between higher minimum wage and fewer opportunities in poor neighborhoods is an alluring hypothesis for Republican primary voters, and one that is very hard to bear out in empirical research. Economists can't even agree whether raising the wage would lead to job stagnation or not, much less the social capital affected by it.

Real job growth, Fiorina continued, is not created by the federal government mandating higher wages, but by allowing smaller businesses to thrive. Forcing smaller businesses to pay higher wages, Fiorina argued, would price them out of the market.

"We are crushing them under the weight, the complexity, the cost, the power of a federal government that frankly advantages the big, the powerful, the wealthy and the well-connected, and is crushing the small and the powerless," she said. "Every time we destroy a small business or we destroy a community bank, we are destroying the opportunity for someone to get that first job, learn skills, and get a better job."

So, is raising the minimum wage actually a job killer? It's hard to say conclusively, and has led to some infighting among U.S. economists. A 2007 literature review from the Federal Reserve Board of Governors concluded that minimum-wage increases reduced employment. More recently, a study found little correlation between metro areas raising their minimum wages and their job-growth rate, suggesting that raising the minimum wage does not impact employment.

While raising the federal minimum wage to $15 an hour—an idea Sen. Bernie Sanders and former Maryland Gov. Martin O'Malley have backed—would definitely increase individual employee income, that could come at the cost of jobs. A 2014 report from the Congressional Budget Office projected that raising the minimum wage from $7.25 to $10.10 an hour would lead to a reduction in 500,000 jobs nationally, but roughly 16.5 million workers would see their weekly earnings increase.

With not enough research to definitively say which side is right, voters will have to decide which side they trust more. And on Monday in Iowa, Fiorina made a good sales pitch that she's the person voters should trust.

Why the Rich Stay Rich and the Poor Stay Poor

NEWSWEEK - Maya Wesby

This article first appeared on the Wilson Quarterly.

Income inequality is rising in the United States, and the gap between the wealthiest 1 percent of Americans compared to the majority of income earners is now at unprecedented heights.

While the growing disparity may be attributed to a multitude of factors (race and gender, to name a couple), the environment that one is raised in bears the most impact, for better or worse.

A study from Harvard's Equality of Opportunity Project, led by professors Raj Chetty and Nathaniel Hendren, found that among subjects who were studied through adolescence to adulthood in the nation's 100 largest counties, the average annual income at 26 years old was $26,000.

Inevitably, there were deviations from that mean; the average household in Dupage, Illinois, a wealthy Chicago suburb, makes about 15 percent more than the national average. At the other end of the spectrum, natives of Baltimore take home nearly 17 percent less than the average national income.

The study's takeaway, according to Chetty and Hendren, is the environment one is raised in determines his or her economic mobility.

A similar analysis by John Hopkins University focused solely on Baltimore. Tracking about 800 students from the first grade through their late-20s, the study found that only 4 percent of children from low-income families achieved a college education, compared to 45 percent of children from higher-income families. Cultural environment and surroundings undoubtedly impact the eventual success of a child, as they determine available opportunities and govern how a child will perceive their social standing.

One of the study's subjects, Monica Jaundoo, told her story to NPR in 2014, describing her upbringing: "I remember being so immune to death, so immune to shootings, killings," she said. "I just remember wanting them to rush, like, get the body out the way so we can get back to playing hopscotch or dodgeball."

An entirely different reality exists for the nation's wealthiest minors, evidenced by social media accounts that flaunt their lifestyles. Naturally, a child born into a high-income earning family has easy access to luxurious resources. Yet this environment has set them up with an unfair advantage compared to low-income children, as wealthy kids without fiscal responsibility are likely to stay wealthy at about the same rate as poor kids who work hard are likely to stay poor.

In other words, the rich are likely to stay rich and the poor are likely to stay poor.

The cycle is unlikely to end soon. Researchers based in Sweden (which possesses a lack of social mobility similar to the United States) found that the rate at which Swedish children of wealthy, biological parents were likely to become wealthy was a significant correlation of 0.33 (with 0 meaning no correlation and 1 being exact). A positive correlation also exists for adopted Swedish children of wealthy parents.

Naturally, as wealth is passed from one generation to the other in the form of inheritance and gifts, the children of rich parents become rich, too. Rich parents breed rich kids. But there's more to the passing of wealth than inheritance.

From the moment a child is born into a wealthy family, their parents' spending habits determine if they, too, will be in a high income bracket as an adult. It stems from how wealthy parents spend money compared to their low-income counterparts: Where low-income families focus on immediate needs, such as food and transportation, rich families invest more on future-oriented purchases that will ensure their well-being.

Growing up with affluence even impacts the college major a wealthy student is likely to choose. Kim Weeden, a Cornell sociologist, spoke with The Atlantic about National Center for Education Statistics data on the correlation between family wealth and choice in college major.

She found that, for students with affluent backgrounds, the choice in college major tends to be in the humanities such as English, history and the arts. Meanwhile their lower-income peers seek majors in math, physics and computer science. As low-income students may choose their majors based on financial necessity and marketability, more affluent students experience the luxury of their families' safety nets, and can explore majors that are less marketable:

The gap continues upon graduation, when more affluent students are substantially more likely to enter the workforce with little to no student debt. For less-affluent graduates, chains of student loan debt weigh down any chance of wealth accumulation. As their paths diverge, and the college graduates age and have families of their own, the cycle perpetuates. To fix a problem that starts so early in life, it is necessary to start in early childhood. Chetty and Hendren, after finding that the chance of upward mobility is increased if young children are exposed to resources usually reserved for the rich (such as better schooling and safer neighborhoods), recommend housing voucher programs to enable lower-income families to move to better neighborhoods with quality pre-school programs.

Otherwise, leaving such traps of inequality unanswered means another generation of children blocked from success.

Minimum-Wage Waivers for Union Members Stir Standoff

WALL STREET JOURNAL - Eric Morath, Alejandro Lazo

Unions have been a driving force behind the wave of municipal minimum-wage increases sweeping the country. But some unions want their own members exempt from coverage under those laws.

More than 20 U.S. cities and counties, recently including Los Angeles and Kansas City, Mo., have set minimum wages above state and federal levels. Some will eventually reach more than twice the federal rate of $7.25 an hour.

In at least a half-dozen of those communities, the pay-floor ordinances include a provision allowing unions to waive the wage mandates as part of a collective-bargaining agreement.

Labor groups often seek the exemptions because they say they provide the flexibility to negotiate better benefits for all union members or raises for more senior workers making more than the minimum. Unions also say such exemptions afford cities and employers protection against potential lawsuits if a conflict arises between local ordinances and union agreements, protected by federal labor law.

The carve-outs are increasingly drawing the ire of business groups representing the hotel and tourism industries, among others. They say such exemptions are a way for unions to organize or gain negotiating power by using the ability to opt out of the wage law as leverage to achieve other goals.

For instance, business groups say, unions could advise companies that if they agree to labor representation, they can avoid paying the minimum wage, spending less on wages overall. The strategy could let unions bolster their ranks at a time when union membership is falling, business groups say.

Unions, which have pledged to push forward on minimum-wage increases at the local, state and federal levels, now face a choice: seek to include clauses that could strengthen their bargaining power or drop them in the name of advocating for all workers, union members or otherwise.

The exemptions garnered widespread attention after Los Angeles labor leaders in May advocated for a waiver to be included in the city's minimum-wage proposal, days before the City Council approved it. The exemption was left out of the law's final version after criticism from the local chamber of commerce and business groups. But similar exemptions are included in at least three other Los Angeles laws, including a minimum wage for hotel workers approved last year.

The waiver remains a flash point in Los Angeles—the largest city in the country to pass a $15 minimum wage—with the City Council expected this fall to revisit the possibility of including the exemption.

Other cities have taken a different approach. When the Kansas City council last month approved a $13 hourly minimum by 2020, it left out any waivers for unions. Behind the scenes, labor leaders who worked with lawmakers on the provision were divided, said Pat “Duke” Dujakovich, president of Greater Kansas City AFL-CIO.

Some unions sought to include the clause because they felt it could be an organizing tool and provide some flexibility in contract negotiations, he said. But ultimately his union wouldn't back it. “There shouldn't be an exemption,” he said. “If it's the right thing to do, it's the right thing to do for all working people.”

Other unions, including the hotel-workers union United Here, say the clauses are necessary to protect local minimum-wage laws from potential court challenges. Such conflicts haven't arisen in the past because union wages are often higher than applicable minimum-wage laws. Nationally, union members' median wages were 27% higher last year than nonunion workers, according to the Labor Department.

But with local minimum-wage ordinances calling for increasingly higher increases in base pay, an employer could argue that local mandates conflict with union agreements. “If you leave it up for chance, you are setting yourself up for unnecessary litigation,” said Maria Elena Durazo, a national official with Unite Here based in Los Angeles.

The exemptions have also helped provide flexibility in negotiations for unions, in particular when representing a low-wage, immigrant workforce that often puts a premium on employer-funded health-care plans they couldn't get anywhere else, she said.

“In collective bargaining, the employees should retain the right to negotiate what they consider to be the priority,” Ms. Durazo said. “I have been through so many strikes, where workers will do anything and everything to protect their health insurance.”

Similar clauses exist in laws passed in several California cities, including San Francisco and San Jose, as well as Chicago and Milwaukee. “This is, I would say, an established practice,” she said.

Business groups, however, say the clauses are intended to give unions an advantage.

They point to the unionization in 2013 of two Hyatt hotels in Long Beach, Calif.—the Hyatt Regency Long Beach and the Pike Long Beach—following the passage of a living-wage ordinance in that city that raised base pay for hotel workers to $13 an hour, while union workers could be exempted from the minimum. Workers elected to be represented by Unite Here Local 11 following a long and contentious campaign against those two hotels by that union, which included a boycott.

Randy Gordon, president of the Long Beach Area Chamber of Commerce, said the ordinance was pushed hard by hotel unions to gain leverage over management at those hotels. Current and former managers of the hotels declined to comment.

“It was a terrible ordinance,” Mr. Gordon said. “It was written as a backdoor ploy to unionize hotels in Long Beach.”

Ms. Durazo dismissed that notion. “If that was true, why wouldn’t all the nonunion hotels be union today?” she asked.

Rusty Hicks, head of the Los Angeles County AFL-CIO, supported an exemption in the Los Angeles citywide law. But he rejects the contention it was an underhanded move. “This is about the preservation of collective bargaining, which is governed by federal law,” he said, adding that he expects local laws that don’t include such clauses to be challenged in court.

Chicago’s law, which will set a $13-an-hour minimum by 2019, also includes such a clause.

John Bouman, co-chairman of Mayor Rahm Emanuel’s minimum-wage working group, said the exemption wasn’t controversial in his city. The president of the Sargent Shriver National Center on Poverty Law met with business and union leaders when helping craft the law last year.

He said there were significant squabbles over the wage level and phase-in schedule, but the clause was a “moot point” because most union workers in Chicago earn far more than the minimum wage.

“Labor, as matter of policy, wanted to keep control over a bargainable issue,” he said. “The employers didn’t care that much one way or the other.”

The U.S. Chamber of Commerce expects unions to pursue similar clauses when advocating for minimum-wage increases in other parts of the country. New York and St. Louis are among the cities exploring local wage moves.

“Unions hope these exemptions will pressure employers into welcoming an organizing effort,” said Glenn Spencer, vice president of the Chamber’s Workforce Freedom Initiative. “But there’s no legal need for these carve-outs.”

A carve-out doesn’t exist in Washington, D.C., which has set a wage above the federal level since 1993, or in Louisville, Ky., which passed a local ordinance last year.

Full-day pre-K should be priority in Emanuel's 2nd term: panel

CHICAGO SUN TIMES - Jon Seidel

A team tasked with examining Mayor Rahm Emanuel’s second-term priorities wants him to put together a plan to offer full-day pre-kindergarten for every low-income 4-year-old in Chicago.

It’s not clear how the financially strained Chicago Public Schools might pay for that expansion, which is estimated in the group’s new report to cost as much as $174 million in programming per year.

But Sarah Pang, the mayor’s second-term transition chair, said the concept is crucial to Chicagoans looking for pre-K programs, quality jobs and everything in between.

Pang, who co-chaired the transition team Emanuel assembled when he first took office, led the second-term priorities committee he appointed about a week after securing his re-election in April. She said she plans to deliver the group’s final product to the mayor during a cabinet meeting Monday.

The panel’s report examines three main areas of focus for the mayor in his second term: expanding public engagement, fostering economic growth in the neighborhoods and moving toward universal pre-K. Pang said voters’ comments during this year’s mayoral campaign reinforced those priorities.

“They were very blunt with their feedback and very constructive and very passionate,” Pang said, “and it was a big benefit to the mayor.”

The committee said City Hall should increase its presence in the neighborhoods; build a neighborhood ambassador network; and strengthen its engagement with Chicago youth.

On the economic front, the committee said the city should re-imagine its planned manufacturing districts for modern development; increase transparency of tax-increment financing; and make sure those TIF dollars are invested in the neighborhoods.

Meanwhile, the panel said there are 39,000 government-subsidized pre-K seats in Chicago, 54 percent of which are half-day programs. The city’s programs reach 70 percent of children living at 185 percent of the federal poverty level, it said. But it exists as a fragmented system overseen by two departments that should instead focus on creating parent-centric policies and processes, according to the committee.

Only one-third of low-income 4-year-olds receive a full-day of pre-K, including programs that include or coordinate with child care services, the committee said.

Americans Are Becoming More Pro-Union

HUFFINGTON POST - Janie Velencia

Public perception of unions took a hit during the Great Recession, but is now at its highest point in six years.

Americans have grown more supportive of labor unions in recent years, according to a Gallup poll released Monday. The poll found that nearly 6 in 10 Americans say they approve of labor unions, the highest approval rate since 2008.

Gallup has been surveying American opinion on organized labor since 1936. Approval has jumped five percentage points in the last year alone, and 10 percentage points since 2008. Desire for more union influence is also up. Thirty-seven percent of Americans say they want unions to have more influence, while 35 percent want to see unions wield less influence. By comparison, in 2009, only 25 percent of respondents said they wanted more influence, and 42 percent wanted less.

Americans' overall perception of unions has declined over the past several years, and reached its lowest point in 2009, in the wake of the Great Recession. Gallup suggests that views on labor suffered as a result of the government bailout of the two of the Big Three auto companies: General Motors and Chrysler. However, the latest poll results indicate that perception of unions has been mostly restored to where it was prior to the recession.

Respondents who identified as Democrats were almost twice as likely as self-identified Republicans to approve of labor unions, the poll found, and more than three times more likely to want unions to have more influence. Millennials, defined as those between the ages of 18 and 34, are more pro-union than any other age group.

Although a majority of Americans support organized labor, most remain pessimistic about its future. Fifty-three percent predict unions will become weaker in the future, and only 21 percent predict they will become stronger. Twenty-three percent said they think unions' influence will remain unchanged.

Union membership has been declining for decades. A 2013 analysis by Economic Policy Institute, a think tank that supports workers' rights, found a strong correlation between the decline in union membership and growing income inequality.

The Gallup poll surveyed 1,011 American adults via live interviews over landline and cell phone from Aug. 5-9.

CORRECTION: This article previously misstated that all of the Big Three auto companies took a government bailout. Ford did not

###

From: John Del Cecato
To: B
Subject: Re: You awake?
Date: Tuesday, August 18, 2015 8:10:57 AM

Yes - sorry - cramming for a presentation - what's shakin?

On 8/18/15, 7:21 AM, "B" <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>

From: Leopold, Elana
To: John Del Cecato \(jfdc@akpdmedia.com\)
Subject: RE: George Stephanopoulos
Date: Tuesday, August 18, 2015 10:00:03 AM

Making sure you saw this

From: Leopold, Elana
Sent: Monday, August 17, 2015 4:58 PM
To: John Del Cecato (jfdc@akpdmedia.com)
Cc: B
Subject: George Stephanopoulos

John-

Mayor- cc'd here- would like to know the latest. Thanks!

From: John Del Cecato
To: Leopold, Elana
Cc: B
Subject: Re: George Stephanopoulos
Date: Tuesday, August 18, 2015 10:23:15 AM

Still discussing with team - but I don't think this is the Sunday to do George - will explain

On Aug 17, 2015, at 4:57 PM, Leopold, Elana <ELeopold@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

John-

Mayor- cc'd here- would like to know the latest. Thanks!

From: John Del Cecato
To: Blumm, Kate
Date: Tuesday, August 18, 2015 1:00:56 PM

Can you meet earlier? I finished early and am heading to CH

From: John Del Cecato
To: Yazgi, Stephanie
Subject: Re: pls call
Date: Tuesday, August 18, 2015 1:29:04 PM
Attachments: image001.png
image002.png
image003.png
image004.png

I can do better than that - I'm in Tom's office! Wanna come down?

From: Stephanie Yazgi <syazgi@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Tuesday, August 18, 2015 at 12:05 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmmedia.com>
Subject: pls call

When you gte a chance!

STEPHANIE YAZGI
National Organizing Director
Mayor's Office of Immigrant Affairs
syazgi@cityhall.nyc.gov
(o) 212 676 3153 |(m) 917 374 8235 | nyc.gov/immigrants

Subscribe to the MOIA Bulletin for monthly updates.

CONFIDENTIALITY NOTICE: This email and any files transmitted with it are confidential and intended solely for the use of the individual or entity to whom they are addressed. This message contains confidential information and is intended only for the individual named. If you are not the intended recipient you should not disseminate, distribute or copy this e-mail. Please notify the sender immediately by e-mail if you have received this e-mail by mistake and delete this e-mail from your system. If you are not the intended recipient you are notified that disclosing, copying, distributing or taking any action in reliance on the contents of this information is strictly prohibited.

From: Geri Prado
To: John Del Cecato
Cc: B; hayley@progressiveagenda.us
Subject: Re: Steyer
Date: Tuesday, August 18, 2015 2:55:00 PM

Yes we need to present our plan and shared asks. What I have is clearly not final as we are going over this weekend for your input and sign off.

We are going to talk about what solves income inequality and trade as you know is a big one we agree on and can push together. They will have some requests too I'm familiar with and I will report back.

> On Aug 18, 2015, at 2:22 PM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

>

> I don't think that would speed things up. We need to present them with a > plan for partnering. Geri and I believe that trade is probably the > cleanest hit - although there are some others.

>

> After that, Geri will talk to Sky (Steyer's political person) to see how > we can get the check.

>

>> On 8/18/15, 2:20 PM, "B" <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>>

>>

>> How do we speed this up? Should I call Josh?

>>

>>

>> ----- Original Message -----

>> From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]

>> Sent: Tuesday, August 18, 2015 02:18 PM

>> To: B; 'geri@progressiveagenda.us' <geri@progressiveagenda.us>

>> Cc: 'hayley@progressiveagenda.us' <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>

>> Subject: Re: Steyer

>>

>> I spoke with Josh briefly yesterday... He was going into a meeting and said >> he'd call me back - but in the meantime, Geri & I are continuing to >> brainstorm on ways to make the partnership real

>>

>>> On 8/16/15, 9:34 PM, "B" <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>>>

>>>

>>> Pls keep me posted every step of the way. And let's discuss george and >>> alex soros, jay eisenhofer and robert kraft, all of whom I saw this >>> weekend

>>>

>>>

>>> ----- Original Message -----

>>> From: Geri Prado [<mailto:geri@progressiveagenda.us>]

>>> Sent: Saturday, August 15, 2015 11:52 AM

>>> To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>

>>> Cc: B; hayley@progressiveagenda.us <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>

>>> Subject: Re: Steyer

>>>

>>> I'm going to talk Josh's colleague who handles all political work.

>>>

>>>

>>>
>>>> On Aug 15, 2015, at 11:46 AM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
>>>> wrote:
>>>>
>>>> I called Josh and he emailed back asking if we could talk Monday.
>>>>
>>>> Geri and I are going to brainstorm on ways to make our partnership >>>> real.
>>>>
>>>>
>>>>
>>>>
>>>>
>>>>> On Aug 15, 2015, at 11:37 AM, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>>>>>
>>>>>
>>>>> Pls update us all now re: follow-up
>

From: Hinton, Karen
To: B; Hagelgans, Andrea
Cc: Walzak, Phil; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; "Jonathan@berlinrosen.com"
Subject: Re: NY Times: After Friction, Renewed Zen for de Blasio
Date: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 8:09:07 AM

It's the de Blasio News Service. Brought to you by BdB.

Karen Hinton
Press Secretary
917-246-7692
Follow Me On Twitter @KarenHinton

From: B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Wed, 19 Aug 2015 08:05:16 -0400
To: Andrea Hagelgans <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Karen Hinton <khinton@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: Phil Walzak <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "jfdc@akpdmedia.com" <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, "Jonathan@berlinrosen.com" <Jonathan@berlinrosen.com>
Subject: Re: NY Times: After Friction, Renewed Zen for de Blasio

New idea from Chirlane: create our own click-bait. Our own topical, lively, unconventional, sometimes fun, sometimes controversial content. Pls discuss at mtg tonite

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
Sent: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 07:45 AM
To: B; Hinton, Karen
Cc: Walzak, Phil
Subject: Re: NY Times: After Friction, Renewed Zen for de Blasio

Think we all believe it is idiotic. And a staggering reminder of the sad state of media that this is how they choose to use space that could be better spent covering real problems for nyers. But we keep the high road and push on!

Sent from my BlackBerry 10 smartphone.

From: B
Sent: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 7:41 AM
To: Hinton, Karen
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: Re: Fwd: NY Times: After Friction, Renewed Zen for de Blasio

I agree with you on strategy. I disagree with you on this article, which I think is idiotic

From: Hinton, Karen
Sent: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 05:19 AM
To: B
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: Fwd: NY Times: After Friction, Renewed Zen for de Blasio

A lot of subjective reflection here, to say the least, but a way to move forward. My advice is to let us play good cop/bad cop with room 9. Yesterday was a top shelf performance that I've seen plenty of times before. Keep doing what you did yesterday. And I promise to not get ahead of the team again.

http://www.nytimes.com/2015/08/19/nyregion/after-friction-renewed-zen-for-de-blasio.html?_r=0

After Friction, Renewed Zen for de Blasio

By MICHAEL M. GRYNBAUM and MATT FLEGENHEIMER AUG. 18, 2015

He was the mayor of populist messages, pledging to crack down on toplessness in Times Square, a recent pet cause of the New York City tabloids, whose campaigns he typically ignores.

He was the mayor of good deeds, promoting his efforts to end an outbreak of Legionnaires' disease in the Bronx.

And, notably, Bill de Blasio was the mayor of magnanimity, demurring when invited to complain about the news media, and calmly fielding a query about his gym habits, which he had sternly dismissed as "not a serious question" just days ago.

Mr. de Blasio, in a news conference at City Hall on Tuesday, showcased a side of his personality that New Yorkers have seen little of lately: crankiness replaced by comity, defiance replaced by evenhandedness.

When his press secretary, Karen Hinton, signaled that it was time to go, Mr. de Blasio, a former campaign manager who has a habit of overruling aides, collected his papers and walked off.

The appearance was a sign, preliminary to be sure, that Mr. de Blasio may be starting to heed the concerns of allies and advisers who are worried that a pileup of political headaches and public-relations bungles have dimmed views of his administration.

A Quinnipiac poll this month showed that more New Yorkers disapprove of the mayor's performance than at any other time in his tenure, in the wake of a feud with Gov. Andrew M. Cuomo and scraps over homelessness and taxicabs. The mayor has also faced questions about patronage — a $150,000-a-year position went to the companion of a top aide — and his populist image, after his wife told court officials that she was too busy to perform jury duty.

After a family trip on Monday to Rhode Island, Mr. de Blasio was back at City Hall on Tuesday. And there were subtle, but perceptible, shifts in his words.

The mayor was frustrated last week by a question about why he had exercised at a gym during a police standoff with a gunman on Staten Island. On Tuesday, he responded, taking pains to underscore his devotion to the job.

“There is no such thing in this job as being off duty,” Mr. de Blasio said. (He also suggested that exercise helped him “be as effective as I can be.”)

Criticized by some on quality-of-life concerns, Mr. de Blasio on Tuesday issued a stern warning when asked about the trend of topless women in Times Square who wear body paint, a novelty that caught the ire of The New York Post in April and The Daily News.

“It’s wrong, it’s wrong,” the mayor said, pledging to address the issue “in a very aggressive manner.”

The mayor’s shift in tone came after several days of unflattering headlines, including an article in The New York Times on Sunday about his difficulties controlling perception of City Hall.

In an interview with The Times for that article on Saturday, Mr. de Blasio expressed deep frustration with how the news media has covered his administration. He began by saying: “Let’s be straightforward here: You’re going to write a piece about how it’s been a bad summer, and you’re not going to talk about our achievements. So I’m really interested in why you’re going to do that.”

The mayor also said that political challenges were a “constant part of the reality of being mayor of New York,” and he asserted that the news media had reported on his predecessor, Michael R. Bloomberg, with “a kid-glove sensibility.”

Privately, some allies of the mayor said this week that they were surprised by the tenor of some of Mr. de Blasio’s comments.

On Tuesday, Mr. de Blasio took a different tack. When a reporter broached the subject of news media coverage, Mr. de Blasio’s reply was calm and unwavering.

“I don’t really have anything to say on that right now,” the mayor said. “Let’s stay on the substance of the day.” He moved on to the next question.

On Wednesday morning, Mr. de Blasio is set to appear on WNYC for an interview. The mayor rarely takes listener call-in questions, but he plans to do so on Wednesday.

On a WNYC show Tuesday, a man identifying himself as “Louis in the Village” called in to defend the mayor, and the station’s producers and listeners said he was almost certainly the comedian Louis C.K.

“I really like this mayor,” Louis in the Village said on air. “And I think he deserves a better chance than he’s getting.”

A version of this article appears in print on August 19, 2015, on page A19 of the New York edition with the headline: After Friction, Renewed Zen For de Blasio . Order Reprints | Today's Paper | Subscribe

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
To: John Del Cecato
Subject: Re: NY Times: After Friction, Renewed Zen for de Blasio
Date: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 8:21:18 AM

Our own version of the onion? Maybe Kevin Bleyer assist?

Sent from my BlackBerry 10 smartphone.

From: John Del Cecato
Sent: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 8:16 AM
To: B
Cc: Hagelgans, Andrea; Hinton, Karen; Walzak, Phil; Jonathan@berlinrosen.com
Subject: Re: NY Times: After Friction, Renewed Zen for de Blasio

I have an idea. Prepare to mock it, and I will prepare to defend it tonight

On Aug 19, 2015, at 8:05 AM, B <BCCD@.nyc.gov> wrote:

New idea from Chirlane: create our own click-bait. Our own topical, lively, unconventional, sometimes fun, sometimes controversial content. Pls discuss at mtg tonite

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
Sent: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 07:45 AM
To: B; Hinton, Karen
Cc: Walzak, Phil
Subject: Re: NY Times: After Friction, Renewed Zen for de Blasio

Think we all believe it is idiotic. And a staggering reminder of the sad state of media that this is how they choose to use space that could be better spent covering real problems for nyers. But we keep the high road and push on!

Sent from my BlackBerry 10 smartphone.

From: B
Sent: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 7:41 AM
To: Hinton, Karen
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: Re: Fwd: NY Times: After Friction, Renewed Zen for de Blasio

I agree with you on strategy. I disagree with you on this article, which I think is idiotic

From: Hinton, Karen
Sent: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 05:19 AM
To: B
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: Fwd: NY Times: After Friction, Renewed Zen for de Blasio

A lot of subjective reflection here, to say the least, but a way to move forward. My advice is to let us play good cop/bad cop with room 9. Yesterday was a top shelf performance that I've seen plenty of times before. Keep doing what you did yesterday. And I promise to not get ahead of the team again.

After Friction, Renewed Zen for de Blasio

By MICHAEL M. GRYNBAUM and MATT FLEGENHEIMERAUG.

18, 2015

He was the mayor of populist messages, pledging to crack down on toplessness in Times Square, a recent pet cause of the New York City tabloids, whose campaigns he typically ignores.

He was the mayor of good deeds, promoting his efforts to end an outbreak of Legionnaires' disease in the Bronx.

And, notably, Bill de Blasio was the mayor of magnanimity, demurring when invited to complain about the news media, and calmly fielding a query about his gym habits, which he had sternly dismissed as “not a serious question” just days ago.

Mr. de Blasio, in a news conference at City Hall on Tuesday, showcased a side of his personality that New Yorkers have seen little of lately: crankiness replaced by comity, defiance replaced by evenhandedness.

When his press secretary, Karen Hinton, signaled that it was time to go, Mr. de Blasio, a former campaign manager who has a habit of overruling aides, collected his papers and walked off.

The appearance was a sign, preliminary to be sure, that Mr. de Blasio may be starting to heed the concerns of allies and advisers who are worried that a pileup of political headaches and public-relations bungles have dimmed views of his administration.

A Quinnipiac poll this month showed that more New Yorkers disapprove of the mayor's performance than at any other time in his tenure, in the wake of a feud with Gov. Andrew M. Cuomo and scraps over homelessness and taxicabs. The mayor has also faced questions about patronage — a $150,000-a-year position went to the companion of a top aide — and his populist image, after his wife told court officials that she was too busy to perform jury duty.

After a family trip on Monday to Rhode Island, Mr. de Blasio was back at City Hall on Tuesday. And there were subtle, but perceptible, shifts in his words.

The mayor was frustrated last week by a question about why he had exercised at a gym during a police standoff with a gunman on Staten Island. On Tuesday, he responded, taking pains to underscore his devotion to the job.

“There is no such thing in this job as being off duty,” Mr. de Blasio said. (He also suggested that exercise helped him “be as effective as I can be.”)

Criticized by some on quality-of-life concerns, Mr. de Blasio on Tuesday issued a stern warning when asked about the trend of topless women in Times Square who wear body paint, a novelty that caught the ire of The New York Post in April and The Daily News.

“It’s wrong, it’s wrong,” the mayor said, pledging to address the issue “in a very aggressive manner.”

The mayor’s shift in tone came after several days of unflattering headlines, including an article in The New York Times on Sunday about his difficulties controlling perception of City Hall.

In an interview with The Times for that article on Saturday, Mr. de Blasio expressed deep frustration with how the news media has covered his administration. He began by saying: “Let’s be straightforward here: You’re going to write a piece about how it’s been a bad summer, and you’re not going to talk about our achievements. So I’m really interested in why you’re going to do that.”

The mayor also said that political challenges were a “constant part of the reality of being mayor of New York,” and he asserted that the news media had reported on his predecessor, Michael R. Bloomberg, with “a kid-glove sensibility.”

Privately, some allies of the mayor said this week that they were surprised by the tenor of some of Mr. de Blasio’s comments.

On Tuesday, Mr. de Blasio took a different tack. When a reporter broached the subject of news media coverage, Mr. de Blasio’s reply was calm and unwavering.

“I don’t really have anything to say on that right now,” the mayor said. “Let’s stay on the substance of the day.” He moved on to the next question.

On Wednesday morning, Mr. de Blasio is set to appear on WNYC for an interview. The mayor rarely takes listener call-in questions, but he plans to do so on Wednesday.

On a WNYC show Tuesday, a man identifying himself as “Louis in the Village” called in to defend the mayor, and the station’s producers and listeners said he was almost certainly the comedian Louis C.K.

“I really like this mayor,” Louis in the Village said on air. “And I think he deserves a better chance than he’s getting.”

A version of this article appears in print on August 19, 2015, on page A19 of the New York edition with the headline: After Friction, Renewed Zen For de Blasio .
Order Reprints | Today's Paper | Subscribe

From: B
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"
Cc: Hagelgans, Andrea; Hinton, Karen; Walzak, Phil; "Jonathan@berlinrosen.com"; FLONYC
Subject: Re: NY Times: After Friction, Renewed Zen for de Blasio
Date: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 8:23:07 AM

Those are often the best ideas, John

From: John Del Cecato [mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com]
Sent: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 08:16 AM
To: B
Cc: Hagelgans, Andrea; Hinton, Karen; Walzak, Phil; Jonathan@berlinrosen.com <Jonathan@berlinrosen.com>
Subject: Re: NY Times: After Friction, Renewed Zen for de Blasio

I have an idea. Prepare to mock it, and I will prepare to defend it tonight

On Aug 19, 2015, at 8:05 AM, B <BCCD@nyc.gov> wrote:

New idea from Chirlane: create our own click-bait. Our own topical, lively, unconventional, sometimes fun, sometimes controversial content. Pls discuss at mtg tonite

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
Sent: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 07:45 AM
To: B; Hinton, Karen
Cc: Walzak, Phil
Subject: Re: NY Times: After Friction, Renewed Zen for de Blasio

Think we all believe it is idiotic. And a staggering reminder of the sad state of media that this is how they choose to use space that could be better spent covering real problems for nyers. But we keep the high road and push on!

Sent from my BlackBerry 10 smartphone.

From: B
Sent: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 7:41 AM
To: Hinton, Karen
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: Re: Fwd: NY Times: After Friction, Renewed Zen for de Blasio

I agree with you on strategy. I disagree with you on this article, which I think is idiotic

From: Hinton, Karen
Sent: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 05:19 AM
To: B
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: Fwd: NY Times: After Friction, Renewed Zen for de Blasio

A lot of subjective reflection here, to say the least, but a way to move forward. My advice is to let us play good cop/bad cop with room 9. Yesterday was a top shelf performance that I've seen plenty of times before. Keep doing what you did yesterday. And I promise to not get ahead of the team again.

After Friction, Renewed Zen for de Blasio

By MICHAEL M. GRYNBAUM and MATT FLEGENHEIMERAUG. 18, 2015

He was the mayor of populist messages, pledging to crack down on toplessness in Times Square, a recent pet cause of the New York City tabloids, whose campaigns he typically ignores.

He was the mayor of good deeds, promoting his efforts to end an outbreak of Legionnaires' disease in the Bronx.

And, notably, Bill de Blasio was the mayor of magnanimity, demurring when invited to complain about the news media, and calmly fielding a query about his gym habits, which he had sternly dismissed as “not a serious question” just days ago.

Mr. de Blasio, in a news conference at City Hall on Tuesday, showcased a side of his personality that New Yorkers have seen little of lately: crankiness replaced by comity, defiance replaced by evenhandedness.

When his press secretary, Karen Hinton, signaled that it was time to go, Mr. de Blasio, a former campaign manager who has a habit of overruling aides, collected his papers and walked off.

The appearance was a sign, preliminary to be sure, that Mr. de Blasio may be starting to heed the concerns of allies and advisers who are worried that a pileup of political headaches and public-relations bungles have dimmed views of his administration.

A Quinnipiac poll this month showed that more New Yorkers disapprove of the mayor's performance than at any other time in his tenure, in the wake of a feud with Gov. Andrew M. Cuomo and scraps over homelessness and taxicabs. The mayor has also faced questions about patronage — a $150,000-a-year position went to the companion of a top aide — and his populist image, after his wife told court officials that she was too busy to perform jury duty.

After a family trip on Monday to Rhode Island, Mr. de Blasio was back at City Hall on Tuesday. And there were subtle, but perceptible, shifts in his words.

The mayor was frustrated last week by a question about why he had exercised at a gym during a police standoff with a gunman on Staten Island. On Tuesday, he responded, taking pains to underscore his devotion to the job.

“There is no such thing in this job as being off duty,” Mr. de Blasio said. (He also suggested that exercise helped him “be as effective as I can be.”)

Criticized by some on quality-of-life concerns, Mr. de Blasio on Tuesday issued a stern warning when asked about the trend of topless women in Times Square who wear body paint, a novelty that caught the ire of The

New York Post in April and The Daily News.

“It’s wrong, it’s wrong,” the mayor said, pledging to address the issue “in a very aggressive manner.”

The mayor’s shift in tone came after several days of unflattering headlines, including an article in The New York Times on Sunday about his difficulties controlling perception of City Hall.

In an interview with The Times for that article on Saturday, Mr. de Blasio expressed deep frustration with how the news media has covered his administration. He began by saying: “Let’s be straightforward here: You’re going to write a piece about how it’s been a bad summer, and you’re not going to talk about our achievements. So I’m really interested in why you’re going to do that.”

The mayor also said that political challenges were a “constant part of the reality of being mayor of New York,” and he asserted that the news media had reported on his predecessor, Michael R. Bloomberg, with “a kid-glove sensibility.”

Privately, some allies of the mayor said this week that they were surprised by the tenor of some of Mr. de Blasio’s comments.

On Tuesday, Mr. de Blasio took a different tack. When a reporter broached the subject of news media coverage, Mr. de Blasio’s reply was calm and unwavering.

“I don’t really have anything to say on that right now,” the mayor said. “Let’s stay on the substance of the day.” He moved on to the next question.

On Wednesday morning, Mr. de Blasio is set to appear on WNYC for an interview. The mayor rarely takes listener call-in questions, but he plans to do so on Wednesday.

On a WNYC show Tuesday, a man identifying himself as “Louis in the Village” called in to defend the mayor, and the station’s producers and listeners said he was almost certainly the comedian Louis C.K.

“I really like this mayor,” Louis in the Village said on air. “And I think he deserves a better chance than he’s getting.”

A version of this article appears in print on August 19, 2015, on page A19 of the New York edition with the headline: After Friction, Renewed Zen For de Blasio .
Order Reprints | Today's Paper | Subscribe

From: John Del Cecato
To: Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: Re: NY Times: After Friction, Renewed Zen for de Blasio
Date: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 9:28:20 AM

Hahaha

Actually - it's dog poop!

From: "Hagelgans, Andrea" <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 at 8:21 AM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmmedia.com>
Subject: Re: NY Times: After Friction, Renewed Zen for de Blasio

Our own version of the onion? Maybe kevin bleyer assist?

Sent from my BlackBerry 10 smartphone.

From: John Del Cecato
Sent: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 8:16 AM
To: B
Cc: Hagelgans, Andrea; Hinton, Karen; Walzak, Phil; Jonathan@berlinrosen.com
Subject: Re: NY Times: After Friction, Renewed Zen for de Blasio

I have an idea. Prepare to mock it, and I will prepare to defend it tonight

On Aug 19, 2015, at 8:05 AM, B <BCCD@nyc.gov> wrote:

New idea from Chirlane: create our own click-bait. Our own topical, lively, unconventional, sometimes fun, sometimes controversial content. Pls discuss at mtg tonite

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
Sent: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 07:45 AM
To: B; Hinton, Karen
Cc: Walzak, Phil
Subject: Re: NY Times: After Friction, Renewed Zen for de Blasio

Think we all believe it is idiotic. And a staggering reminder of the sad state of media that this is how they choose to use space that could be better spent covering real problems for nyers. But we keep the high road and push on!

Sent from my BlackBerry 10 smartphone.

From: B
Sent: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 7:41 AM
To: Hinton, Karen
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: Re: Fwd: NY Times: After Friction, Renewed Zen for de Blasio

I agree with you on strategy. I disagree with you on this article, which I think is idiotic

From: Hinton, Karen

Sent: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 05:19 AM
To: B
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: Fwd: NY Times: After Friction, Renewed Zen for de Blasio

A lot of subjective reflection here, to say the least, but a way to move forward. My advice is to let us play good cop/bad cop with room 9. Yesterday was a top shelf performance that I've seen plenty of times before. Keep doing what you did yesterday. And I promise to not get ahead of the team again.

http://www.nytimes.com/2015/08/19/nyregion/after-friction-renewed-zen-for-de-blasio.html?_r=0

After Friction, Renewed Zen for de Blasio

By MICHAEL M. GRYNBAUM and MATT FLEGENHEIMERAUG.
18, 2015

He was the mayor of populist messages, pledging to crack down on toplessness in Times Square, a recent pet cause of the New York City tabloids, whose campaigns he typically ignores.

He was the mayor of good deeds, promoting his efforts to end an outbreak of Legionnaires' disease in the Bronx.

And, notably, Bill de Blasio was the mayor of magnanimity, demurring when invited to complain about the news media, and calmly fielding a query about his gym habits, which he had sternly dismissed as "not a serious question" just days ago.

Mr. de Blasio, in a news conference at City Hall on Tuesday, showcased a side of his personality that New Yorkers have seen little of lately: crankiness replaced by comity, defiance replaced by evenhandedness.

When his press secretary, Karen Hinton, signaled that it was time to go, Mr. de Blasio, a former campaign manager who has a habit of overruling aides, collected his papers and walked off.

The appearance was a sign, preliminary to be sure, that Mr. de Blasio may be starting to heed the concerns of allies and advisers who are worried that a pileup of political headaches and public-relations bungles have dimmed views of his administration.

A Quinnipiac poll this month showed that more New Yorkers disapprove of the mayor's performance than at any other time in his tenure, in the wake of a feud with Gov. Andrew M. Cuomo and scraps over homelessness and taxicabs. The mayor has also faced questions about patronage — a $150,000-a-year position went to the companion of a top aide — and his populist image, after his wife told court officials that she was too busy to perform jury duty.

After a family trip on Monday to Rhode Island, Mr. de Blasio was back at City Hall on Tuesday. And there were subtle, but perceptible, shifts in his words.

The mayor was frustrated last week by a question about why he had exercised at a gym during a police standoff with a gunman on Staten Island. On Tuesday, he responded, taking pains to underscore his devotion to the job.

“There is no such thing in this job as being off duty,” Mr. de Blasio said. (He also suggested that exercise helped him “be as effective as I can be.”)

Criticized by some on quality-of-life concerns, Mr. de Blasio on Tuesday issued a stern warning when asked about the trend of topless women in Times Square who wear body paint, a novelty that caught the ire of The New York Post in April and The Daily News.

“It’s wrong, it’s wrong,” the mayor said, pledging to address the issue “in a very aggressive manner.”

The mayor’s shift in tone came after several days of unflattering headlines, including an article in The New York Times on Sunday about his difficulties controlling perception of City Hall.

In an interview with The Times for that article on Saturday, Mr. de Blasio expressed deep frustration with how the news media has covered his administration. He began by saying: “Let’s be straightforward here: You’re going to write a piece about how it’s been a bad summer, and you’re not going to talk about our achievements. So I’m really interested in why you’re going to do that.”

The mayor also said that political challenges were a “constant part of the reality of being mayor of New York,” and he asserted that the news media had reported on his predecessor, Michael R. Bloomberg, with “a kid-glove sensibility.”

Privately, some allies of the mayor said this week that they were surprised by the tenor of some of Mr. de Blasio’s comments.

On Tuesday, Mr. de Blasio took a different tack. When a reporter broached the subject of news media coverage, Mr. de Blasio’s reply was calm and unwavering.

“I don’t really have anything to say on that right now,” the mayor said.

“Let’s stay on the substance of the day.” He moved on to the next question.

On Wednesday morning, Mr. de Blasio is set to appear on WNYC for an interview. The mayor rarely takes listener call-in questions, but he plans to do so on Wednesday.

On a WNYC show Tuesday, a man identifying himself as “Louis in the Village” called in to defend the mayor, and the station’s producers and listeners said he was almost certainly the comedian Louis C.K.

“I really like this mayor,” Louis in the Village said on air. “And I think he deserves a better chance than he’s getting.”

A version of this article appears in print on August 19, 2015, on page A19 of the New York edition with the headline: After Friction, Renewed Zen For de Blasio .
Order Reprints | Today's Paper | Subscribe

From: Blumm, Kate
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Hagelgans, Andrea; Walzak, Phil; Shorris, Anthony; "URamirez@schools.nyc.gov"; Goldmark, Karin; Williams, Dominic; "jonathan@berlinrosen.com"; John Del Cecato; Leopold, Elana; Devora Kaye; "Wallack Josh \(JWallack@schools.nyc.gov\)"; Wolfe, Emma; Schnake Mahl, Gabriel; Buery, Richard; Confer, Alexis; Fuleihan, Dean \(OMB\)
Subject: the plan for today's Education Speech Prep
Date: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 10:04:00 AM

Hi, all—I've connected variously with a bunch of you in the past day for some excellent feedback and updates. Right now I'm in the process of revising three documents to have available at the speech prep later:

- 1- Overall education vision and goals doc (with speech planning/goals too)
- 2- Vignettes doc (the student portraits we're painting in the speech to communicate the vision)
- 3- Pull quotes/soundbites doc

I'll send these around to you all as soon as they're ready for feedback so we're all on the same page heading into 5:30. Thanks very much.

-----Original Appointment-----

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Sent: Tuesday, August 11, 2015 7:11 PM
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Hagelgans, Andrea; Blumm, Kate; Walzak, Phil; Shorris, Anthony; Griffith, Chantell; 'URamirez@schools.nyc.gov'; Goldmark, Karin; Williams, Dominic; 'jonathan@berlinrosen.com'; John Del Cecato; Leopold, Elana; Chao, Raymond; Devora Kaye; 'Wallack Josh (JWallack@schools.nyc.gov)'; Thornton, Demetrius; Wolfe, Emma; Schnake Mahl, Gabriel; Cutler, Dorothy; Buery, Richard; Confer, Alexis; Fuleihan, Dean (OMB)
Subject: MBDB: Education Speech Prep
When: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 5:30 PM-6:30 PM (UTC-05:00) Eastern Time (US & Canada).
Where: City Hall, The Blue Room

From: John Del Cecato
To: Hinton, Karen
Subject: Re: bfast
Date: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 11:30:11 AM

Let's book it!

From: "Hinton, Karen" <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 at 7:02 AM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: bfast

Thursday is good. Let me know if that works. See you tonight. Karen

Karen Hinton
Press Secretary
917-246-7692
Follow Me On Twitter @KarenHinton

From: "jfdc@akpdmedia. com" <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Date: Tue, 18 Aug 2015 00:38:16 +0000
To: Karen Hinton <khinton@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: bfast

Can't tomorrow. Got an all day retreat with another client. Maybe Thurs?

On Aug 17, 2015, at 6:27 PM, Hinton, Karen <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

Can you do breakfast 7:30? Odeon?

Karen Hinton
Press Secretary
917-246-7692
Follow Me On Twitter @KarenHinton

From: John Del Cecato
To: Hinton, Karen; Hagelgans, Andrea; Walzak, Phil; Adams Baker, Marti; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: Media Requests
Date: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 11:31:56 AM
Attachments: 1.docx

I'm good with all of these...

Just so everyone has - here's the list that Team TPA gave to Andrea on our TPA Wish List for the next couple of months (attached)

From: "Hinton, Karen" <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 at 9:59 AM
To: "Hagelgans, Andrea" <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Walzak, Phil" <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Adams Baker, Marti" <MAdams@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca" <PSalazar-Rodriguez@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Snyder, Thomas" <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Media Requests

Here are some media requests that I need to approve or decline. I would recommend we do all of these and give them dates. Let me now next steps.

WNBC wants to sponsor a quarterly Interview with the Mayor; they will work with us on how we want to design. Mayor told Phil and me he wanted to consider.

Sam Roberts' Close Up — keeps asking for interview with Mayor and First Lady

CNN's Poppy Harlow on income inequality

WABC management meeting — Proposed September 1 or 2 dates. We did WNBC and want to do the others.

NY Daily News Editorial Board

Should we do other ed boards? — Newsday, AMNY
Community papers — Amsterdam News, El Diario

Karen Hinton
Press Secretary
917-246-7692
Follow Me On Twitter @KarenHinton

1. Rachel Maddow with MSNBC. Next week. Do a wrap-up of what's been happening since May 12th – not taking credit, but showing the momentum of progressive policies in action. Min wage hikes, paid family leave, paid sick leave (Obama), CEO pay transparency, Rikers reform, student loan debt.
2. Poppy Harlow with CNN. Do an interview at a diner in East New York. Show her a Pre-K program. This is what we need everywhere in America. Lead-up to first day of school. Cite some report (one of our TPA partners write it?) that shows the huge impact that Pre-K has on combatting income inequality. Hook her up with a parent of a Pre-K child.
3. Vice TV. Take them on a ride on the 2-train, from low-income neighborhood to high-income neighborhood. Reference New School speech. Doesn't happen overnight. Need the state. Need the federal government. I'm doing everything I can.
4. Tavis Smiley. Sometime this summer. Late August? Talk about the report that said for the first time, AfAm kids in poverty outnumber white kids. Mass incarceration/Rikers, marijuana reform, stop-and-frisk reform.
5. Reich event September 29th. Joint discussion on income inequality – maybe at a college. Maybe re-rollout Move On videos. Roll out Geri & co-chairs of TPA.
6. TeleTown Hall in October with TPA VIPs representing states where there will be minimum wage referenda this November. Call on people to be sure to vote and push their friends, family, coworkers to vote.
7. Presidential forum watch party. Late October. MBDB makes opening remarks from NYC.
8. Do event with Roosevelt Institute around income inequality poll they will be releasing in September. Roosevelt or another group releases (or re-releases) a white paper to go along with it (something on inequality by the numbers).
9. Student Debt. Facebook town hall around September education vision speech. Big plank in TPA. Highlight what other cities and states are doing to make higher education more affordable. Need Washington to get serious about debt-free college.
10. Univision. Do an interview with Jorge Ramos on immigration reform/wage theft. Do it as a joint with Hector Figueroa. Talk about in context of TPA.
11. Maria Bartiromo with FOX Business. Talk about tax fairness – specifically closing the CEO pay loophole. Need to rewrite the rules and make tax code more progressive.

12. Do an op-ed for Huffington Post on the one year anniversary of our last one? Democrats Need To Stiffen Our Backbones: Part II? Do it as a joint op-ed with Jeff Merkley? Year in review of what's happened since the first op-ed.

13. Sirius town hall in October. In NYC – to all 27 million subscribers. Progressive host. Put 100 people in the studio to ask questions about various planks of TPA.

From: B
To: Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea; Hinton, Karen
Cc: FLONYC; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com"; "Jonathan@berlinrosen.com"
Subject: Calling the question tonite
Date: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 11:45:39 AM

I want to go on brian lehrer every week from now on. Look forward to discussing :)

From: John Del Cecato
To: Hayley Prim; Walzak, Phil
Cc: Andrea Hagelgans; Snyder, Thomas; Wolfe, Emma
Subject: Re: Sept 10 Mayor's Event
Date: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 11:47:04 AM

Thanks Hayley - let's rock and roll

From: Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>
Date: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 at 11:41 AM
To: "Walzak, Phil" <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: Andrea Hagelgans <[REDACTED]> John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, "Snyder, Thomas" <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Wolfe, Emma" <EWolfe@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Re: Sept 10 Mayor's Event

I am going reach out to Elyn to get rolling on this and so we can start putting the word out. If there is anything specific you guys want as far as audience, etc. just let me know

On Mon, Aug 17, 2015 at 2:56 PM, Walzak, Phil <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

+EW

Great event idea

Id say lefty chattering class types, traditional allies we can reinvigorate, lefty press and think leaders, columnists, etc

From: Hayley Prim [mailto:hayley@progressiveagenda.us]
Sent: Monday, August 17, 2015 2:54 PM
To: Walzak, Phil; Andrea Hagelgans
Cc: John Del Cecato; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Sept 10 Mayor's Event

Hi All--

Wanted to touch base with you regarding a Mayoral event coming up in a few weeks to make sure it is on everyone's radar.

On September 10 at 4:30PM the Mayor is hosting a screening of a Robert Greenwald movie about how the top 25 hedgefunders in the country make more than all of the kindergarten teachers combined, and teachers are also being taxed at a higher rate than hedgefund billionaires.

The movie is short (5-10 minutes) and the format though not set yet, will likely be opening remarks by BDB who intros the movie, screen the movie, then conversation with BDB (tbd) Robert Greenwald, others-- maybe a teacher, Carmen, etc.

We also need to get audience there for the screening. Not sure who else we need to loop in to make all of this happen, but wanted to get the conversation started.

JDC and I have been working with Greenwald so far, and have booked the space with PACE, but since it is a Mayoral event, i assume we need to loop in other agency folks, staff who can help crowdbuild, etc.

Would love to hear your thoughts on who else should be involved, next steps, etc.

Thanks,

Hayley

--

Hayley Prim

c: [REDACTED]

--

Hayley Prim

c: [REDACTED]

From: John Del Cecato
To: Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: Re: NY Times: After Friction, Renewed Zen for de Blasio
Date: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 11:47:25 AM

I like !

Let's talk Bleyer & comms budget tonight pre-planning meeting

From: "Hagelgans, Andrea" <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 at 11:41 AM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: NY Times: After Friction, Renewed Zen for de Blasio

I actually was serious.

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 11:37 AM
To: Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: Re: NY Times: After Friction, Renewed Zen for de Blasio

More details - stepping up the war on un-picked-up dog droppings... Double the number of summons or something...

On The Onion idea - I at first didn't think you were serious (and maybe you weren't) - but I think it's worth considering... Kevin would do an awesome job with it if we gave him some direction... It could be a funny weekly summary of our accomplishments that week - with a whole lot of satire where we needle the NYPost, Fox News, The Upper East Side Lady from Inner Circle, Donald Trump, etc... The stories would be fake, but they could be centered around a truth - with a hyperlink to our web page on the "real" story... Example... "Scott Walker 'Appalled' by Record Number of NYC Jobs; Promises to Make NYC More Like Wisconsin" - with links to NYC job numbers & Wisconsin unemployment rate...

From: "Hagelgans, Andrea" <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 at 8:21 AM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Re: NY Times: After Friction, Renewed Zen for de Blasio

Our own version of the onion? Maybe Kevin Bleyer assist?

Sent from my BlackBerry 10 smartphone.

From: John Del Cecato
Sent: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 8:16 AM
To: B
Cc: Hagelgans, Andrea; Hinton, Karen; Walzak, Phil; Jonathan@berlinrosen.com
Subject: Re: NY Times: After Friction, Renewed Zen for de Blasio

I have an idea. Prepare to mock it, and I will prepare to defend it tonight

On Aug 19, 2015, at 8:05 AM, B <BCCD@.nyc.gov> wrote:

New idea from Chirlane: create our own click-bait. Our own topical, lively, unconventional, sometimes fun, sometimes controversial content. Pls discuss at mtg tonite

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
Sent: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 07:45 AM
To: B; Hinton, Karen
Cc: Walzak, Phil
Subject: Re: NY Times: After Friction, Renewed Zen for de Blasio

Think we all believe it is idiotic. And a staggering reminder of the sad state of media that this is how they choose to use space that could be better spent covering real problems for nyers. But we keep the high road and push on!

Sent from my BlackBerry 10 smartphone.

From: B
Sent: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 7:41 AM
To: Hinton, Karen
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: Re: Fwd: NY Times: After Friction, Renewed Zen for de Blasio

I agree with you on strategy. I disagree with you on this article, which I think is idiotic

From: Hinton, Karen
Sent: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 05:19 AM
To: B
Cc: Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: Fwd: NY Times: After Friction, Renewed Zen for de Blasio

A lot of subjective reflection here, to say the least, but a way to move forward. My advice is to let us play good cop/bad cop with room 9. Yesterday was a top shelf performance that I've seen plenty of times before. Keep doing what you did yesterday. And I promise to not get ahead of the team again.

http://www.nytimes.com/2015/08/19/nyregion/after-friction-renewed-zen-for-de-blasio.html?_r=0

After Friction, Renewed Zen for de Blasio

By MICHAEL M. GRYNBAUM and MATT FLEGENHEIMER AUG. 18, 2015

He was the mayor of populist messages, pledging to crack down on toplessness in Times Square, a recent pet cause of the New York City tabloids, whose campaigns he typically ignores.

He was the mayor of good deeds, promoting his efforts to end an outbreak of Legionnaires' disease in the Bronx.

And, notably, Bill de Blasio was the mayor of magnanimity, demurring when invited to complain about the news media, and calmly fielding a query about his gym habits, which he had sternly dismissed as “not a serious question” just days ago.

Mr. de Blasio, in a news conference at City Hall on Tuesday, showcased a side of his personality that New Yorkers have seen little of lately: crankiness replaced by comity, defiance replaced by evenhandedness.

When his press secretary, Karen Hinton, signaled that it was time to go, Mr. de Blasio, a former campaign manager who has a habit of overruling aides, collected his papers and walked off.

The appearance was a sign, preliminary to be sure, that Mr. de Blasio may be starting to heed the concerns of allies and advisers who are worried that a pileup of political headaches and public-relations bungles have dimmed views of his administration.

A Quinnipiac poll this month showed that more New Yorkers disapprove of the mayor's performance than at any other time in his tenure, in the wake of a feud with Gov. Andrew M. Cuomo and scraps over homelessness and taxicabs. The mayor has also faced questions about patronage — a $150,000-a-year position went to the companion of a top aide — and his populist image, after his wife told court officials that she was too busy to perform jury duty.

After a family trip on Monday to Rhode Island, Mr. de Blasio was back at City Hall on Tuesday. And there were subtle, but perceptible, shifts in his words.

The mayor was frustrated last week by a question about why he had exercised at a gym during a police standoff with a gunman on Staten Island. On Tuesday, he responded, taking pains to underscore his devotion to the job.

“There is no such thing in this job as being off duty,” Mr. de Blasio said. (He also suggested that exercise helped him “be as effective as I can be.”)

Criticized by some on quality-of-life concerns, Mr. de Blasio on Tuesday issued a stern warning when asked about the trend of topless women in Times Square who wear body paint, a novelty that caught the ire of The New York Post in April and The Daily News.

“It's wrong, it's wrong,” the mayor said, pledging to address the issue “in a very aggressive manner.”

The mayor's shift in tone came after several days of unflattering headlines, including an article in The New York Times on Sunday about his difficulties controlling perception of City Hall.

In an interview with The Times for that article on Saturday, Mr. de Blasio expressed deep frustration with how the news media has covered his administration. He began by saying: “Let’s be straightforward here: You’re going to write a piece about how it’s been a bad summer, and you’re not going to talk about our achievements. So I’m really interested in why you’re going to do that.”

The
mayor Advertisement
also said that Continue reading the main story
political challenges

Advertisement

Continue reading the main story

were a “constant part of the reality of being mayor of New York,” and he asserted that the news media had reported on his predecessor, Michael R. Bloomberg, with “a kid-glove sensibility.”

Privately, some allies of the mayor said this week that they were surprised by the tenor of some of Mr. de Blasio’s comments.

On Tuesday, Mr. de Blasio took a different tack. When a reporter broached the subject of news media coverage, Mr. de Blasio’s reply was calm and unwavering.

“I don’t really have anything to say on that right now,” the mayor said. “Let’s stay on the substance of the day.” He moved on to the next question.

On Wednesday morning, Mr. de Blasio is set to appear on WNYC for an interview. The mayor rarely takes listener call-in questions, but he plans to do so on Wednesday.

On a WNYC show Tuesday, a man identifying himself as “Louis in the Village” called in to defend the mayor, and the station’s producers and listeners said he was almost certainly the comedian Louis C.K.

“I really like this mayor,” Louis in the Village said on air. “And I think he deserves a better chance than he’s getting.”

A version of this article appears in print on August 19, 2015, on page A19 of the New York edition with the headline: After Friction, Renewed Zen For de Blasio . Order Reprints | Today's Paper | Subscribe

From: John Del Cecato
To: Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: Re: <no subject>
Date: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 11:47:45 AM

Ok thanks

From: "Hagelgans, Andrea" <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 at 11:32 AM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: RE: <no subject>

First week of September

Marti can give you a readout

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 11:29 AM
To: Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: <no subject>

Any idea when Vanity Fair profile is coming out?

From: Blumm, Kate
To: "jfdc@akpdmedia.com" (jfdc@akpdmedia.com)
Subject: FW: college completion docs
Date: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 11:52:00 AM
Attachments: Draft Outline for college completion initiative 8-18-15.docx
College completion in other cities 8-18-15.docx
To and Through College Persistence Programs 2 5 15.docx

Some of this is GREAT

From: Klein, Matthew
Sent: Tuesday, August 18, 2015 1:39 PM
To: Blumm, Kate
Cc: Goldmark, Karin; Sharp, Edie
Subject: college completion docs

Hi Kate – Sorry I didn't get you these earlier today. I wanted to synthesize these a bit more but I keep getting pulled into things, so I figure better to share what I have with you know and happy to go deeper where there is interest. Also, I didn't articulate yet the vantage point of the student – but I think most of these ideas should be relatively straightforward in terms of what that would be, and am happy to provide that in a next version if helpful.

Attached are:

- “Creating a continuum of support for college and career success” – this is an outline framing the opportunity, some ideas for how NYC's effort can be unique, and a series of potential actions the City can take along the lifetime continuum to boost college graduation rates.
- A short review of some college persistence initiatives happening in other cities
- A review of some promising nonprofit and City-funded models that could be incorporated into a plan.

Let me know if it would be helpful to talk through any of this prior to tomorrow's meeting or if there are additional ways I can be helpful. Cc'ing Karin and Edie with whom I've also been discussing this topic.

Thanks,
Matt

Matthew Klein
Mayor's Office of Operations, New York City
Senior Advisor for Service Innovation &
Executive Director, Center for Economic Opportunity

Desk: (212) 676-6355 | Cell: (718) 710-8425
mklein1@cityhall.nyc.gov | @mattklein_

Creating a continuum of support for college and career success

The intention is to set ambitious targets, select a few high-impact initiatives and drive at very large scale, and put in place enablers (e.g., data analytics across systems, capability building, project management, rigorous tracking of effectiveness, and processes for learning & continuous improvement), all while taking a life time approach to achievement that starts early and supports students at each stage of their lives.

I. The opportunity: College completion is one of the most powerful ways to improve equality and equitable access to opportunity in NYC

- 1) Economic opportunity
 - a) An adult with only a high school diploma is almost three times as likely to be in poverty in New York City as an individual with a bachelor's or more advanced degree (25.1 percent versus 8.7 percent).
 - b) Associate degree holders have lifetime earnings of $440K more, and bachelor's degree holders earn $1.1 million more, than those with a high school diploma
 - c) Of the 2.9 million "good jobs" gained nationally in the recovery, 2.8 million have gone to college graduates. (Good Jobs Are Back: College Graduates Are First in Line. "Good jobs" paid more than $53,000, tended to be full time and provided health insurance and retirement plans. In addition to the 2.9 million good jobs created, the economy also created 1.9 million middle-wage jobs and 1.8 million low-wage jobs.)
- 2) Additional benefits
 - a) Bachelor's degree holders are 18 percentage points more likely to exercise, 17 percentage points less likely to smoke, and 11 percentage points less likely to be obese than high school graduates
- 3) New York City economy needs 60% more college graduates by 2020 in order to continue growing at its full potential
 - a) By 2020, 65% of NYC jobs are projected to require some college
 - b) Only 41% of New Yorkers had such qualifications in 2011
 - c) Vicious cycle of inequality: nationally, only 9% of students coming from bottom income quartile families attain a bachelor's degree by the age of 24 and can thus participate in this opportunity (vs. 77 percent of students in the top income quartile)
- 4) In order to improve equality, equitable access to opportunity and grow the NYC economy at its full potential, NYC is setting a bold, ambitious goal to improve the college persistence and graduation rates of its young people.

II. How NYC's approach can be unique

- a) Problems with traditional strategies on college completion
 - i) Insufficient attention paid to student mindsets:
 - (1) Mindset interventions and the development of “noncognitive skills” (perseverance, etc.) can improve college-going and completion rates
 - (2) Recent McKinsey research shows that student mindsets and the resultant engagement with their institution account for >50% of a student's risk
 - (3) Conventional wisdom risk factors such as race and first-time college go-er status are no longer predictive once mindsets are accounted for
 - ii) Insufficient attention paid to the ROI of interventions:
 - (1) While many interventions have data on effectiveness, few have evidence of cost-effectiveness
 - (2) Among the few that do, there is a huge variation in ROI (i.e., dollars invested per student retained) – meaning we are spending too much on things that make a small difference and not enough on things that are high impact. (McKinsey estimates the variation at 70-fold among the 75 interventions it has identified.)
 - (3) There are many very high ROI interventions (e.g., mindsets-based, nudges) that are not yet widely deployed
 - iii) Too many small, uncoordinated efforts
 - (1) Many demonstration projects, but few examples of delivering at scale
 - (2) Efforts are not always organized within an overarching strategy so that they can have cumulative or complementary impact.
- b) Principles for our plan
 - i) Lifetime approach: start early and support students at each stage of their lives
 - ii) Prioritize high ROI interventions with strong evidence, with special attention to low-cost, universal models
 - iii) Enabled by data, advanced analytics and behavioral insights to deliver the right info at the right time

III. Components of the continuum

1) Build aspirations and college going expectations early

- a) Universal Pre-K to College Savings Accounts
 - i) Planning under way at OFE/DCA supported by private funding

- ii) Students with a college savings account 4X more likely to enroll and 5X more likely to graduate. (Elliott, Children and Youth Services Review, 2013). City of San Francisco launched a kindergarten-to-college savings program in 2010.
- iii) Behavioral nudges can help optimize, e.g. putting the account in the name of the student could be as important as the matching level of funds to create college-going mindset.
- b) “Non-cognitive” skill building (e.g., critical thinking skills, problem solving skills, social skills, perseverance, creativity, and self-control).
 - i) These are skill sets that afterschool and youth programs are well-equipped to bolster, and tie our investments in universal middle-school afterschool to a college going focus.
 - ii) Non-cognitive skills are important in their own right and tied to college persistence
- c) College visits

2) Help students navigate the pathway into college

- a) Choose the right high school
 - i) Help families of 8th graders factor college going and completion rates of high schools into school selection criteria
- b) Build college-going culture within high schools
 - i) Train students, and teachers to serve as peer and near-peer advisers and counselors.
 - (1) Existing models: College Summit, OneGoal, College Advising Corps (advisees are 40 percent more likely to take the ACT or SAT, 98 percent more likely to take college workshops, and 67 percent more likely to be accepted to college)
 - ii) Expand mentoring aimed at supporting mentees with college-going and persistence
 - (1) Consistent with YMI expansion plans
 - (2) Existing models: iMentor
 - iii) Continue to increase full-time guidance counselors
 - (1) One additional counselor in a high school correlated with a 10 percentage-point increase in college attendance; only 39 percent of public high schools reported having recommended ASCA ratio of 250:1 vs. 89 percent of private high schools.
 - iv) Build on the partnerships with Goddard Riverside Community Center to run the Options Institute to train college counselors
- c) Support Course planning / selection
 - i) Analyze data to ensure students are on track for completing college-readiness coursework
 - (1) Consistent with our Community Schools and Renewal Schools partnership with New Visions

- (2) Continue to expand early-college models that let high school students take CUNY courses
- d) SAT/ACT prep.
 - i) Individual organizations have some evidence of impact (e.g., CollegeSpring).
- e) FAFSA advising, pre-college and for current college students already enrolled as retention strategy.
 - i) NYC students leave approx. $50M in FAFSA on the table; FAFSA behavioral nudge created 14% boost in FAFSA renewal (Castleman and Page, EdPolicyWorks working paper, 2014A). H&R Block experiment showing 29% greater likelihood of attending college. (Bettinger, Long, Oreopolous, and Sanbonmatsu, Quarterly Journal of Economics, 2012)
 - ii) In 2007-08 and 2008-09, 86.2% of CUNY's entering associate students and 88% of entering baccalaureate students completed FAFSA. Year 2 re-application rates are significantly lower—only 61% of associate students and 71% of baccalaureate students re-apply. Of those students that did not re-apply, only half return to bachelor's programs and less than one-third return to associate's programs http://www.cuny.edu/about/administration/offices/ira/opr/briefs/FAFSA_Brief.pdf.
- f) Improve high school to college transition
 - i) Early college orientation / advisement the summer before students start to reduce summer melt
 - (1) Evidence: N.B.: evidence here is mixed, but an RCT with Boston Public School high school graduates found offering students 2-3 hours of support during the summer months increases on-time enrollment rates by five percentage points.
 - (2) Low-cost behavioral interventions around plan-making, reminders, social norms, framing, and hassle factors to close “summer melt” and boost college enrollment. Castleman study showing 5-7% boost in some instances at $7 per student. (Castleman and Page, EdPolicyWorks working paper, 2014B)
- g) Universal access for all appropriate students to CUNY Start, CUNY ASAP, and Opening Doors
 - i) CUNY Start
 - (1) CUNY Start has demonstrated effectiveness, but is small relative to the scale of needs (since fall 2009 the program has served only 6,441 students)
 - (2) Cost to make CUNY Start available to all CUNY community college students = $35mn/yr (if included 4-year students as well, cost = $50mn/yr)
 - ii) CUNY ASAP expansion – City supporting historic growth to nationally leading model
 - iii) Kingsborough Community College's Opening Doors Learning Community

- (1) One semester linked of courses taken in a small cohort. While the program is only one semester, it has been demonstrated to raise six-year graduation rates by 4.6 percentage points and lowered the cost per degree by 2.6%. This learning community model is only currently at Kingsborough and could be replicated at other community colleges. Cost to make available to all first-time freshman community college students = $40mn/year (if included 4-year students as well = $107mn/yr)

3) Support CUNY students with broad scale, low-cost, evidence-based intervention

- a) Timely reminders: mobile text, email, paper (e.g., re-enrollment task reminders, FAFSA reapplication)
- b) Mindset interventions proven to be high impact
 - i) Belongingness: randomized controlled study of a brief, 1-time, 1-hour intervention with freshmen showed a 52% reduction in the GPA gap between African-American and European-American students, sustained for the following 3 years (Walton and Cohen, Science, 2011)
 - ii) Grit: a brief, 1-time, 1-hour intervention with freshmen led to an 0.3 increase in GPA and significant reduction in likelihood of dropping out (Wilson and Linville, J Person and Social Pysch, 1982 and 1985)
 - iii) Relevance: randomized controlled study in which high schoolers wrote essays on the usefulness of course materials in their own lives led to a 0.8 increase in course GPA (Hulleman and Harackiewicz, Science, 2009)
 - iv) Identity priming: laboratory experiment showed that priming Asian women with their ethnic identity compared to their gender identity led to an 11 percentage point improvement in math test scores (Shih, Pittinsky, and Ambady, Psychological Science, 1999)Peer mentorship (Seneca) and peer-led supplemental instruction (Georgia State University)
- c) Digitally-enabled course suggestion and program planning tools (e.g., Degree Compass)

4) Support CUNY students with data-driven advisement

- a) Predictive analytics model that combines academic, administrative, mindsets and engagement data to identify students at risk.
- b) Individualized coaching: Coaching combines many of the strategies outlined above—working with students on characteristics like grit and persistence—while also utilizing analytics to help coaches monitor students and keep them on track. Results of coaching models vary, but consistently demonstrate increases in college persistence. This model should be reserved only for the most at-risk students with the need for the most intensive intervention.
 - i) InsideTrack found a 3-5% increase in persistence for coached students through RCTs; Bottom Line found that students participating in their coaching model in high school and through college were nearly 30 percentage points more likely to earn a bachelor's degree in six years; 87% of students using Beyond 12 (current participant in the Robin Hood College Success Prize) persist to the third year.

- c) Data-driven standardized advising: Re-organize and unify advising function to ensure standardized processes, sharing of best practices, improved professional development through training programs and workshops, including embedding the use of predictive data analytics; result has been an increase in 1.1 percentage point in persistence rate at Georgia State University
- d) Term-long orientation program: Deliver a consistent source of guidance and support for students throughout their first year in school; at ~$800 per student, it has led to results of 6-17 percentage point increases in persistence
- e) Data-based automated early warning system: RioPACE allows instructors to predict with 70-80% accuracy which students are at-risk of not being successful in a course which resulted in 40% decline in drop rates; similar program at Georgia State raised grad rates 22% over ten years while doubling number of students with Pell Grants.
- f) Reach out to students who drop out but are close to graduation and help them re-enroll and complete

5) Reduce financial obstacles

- a) Support the expansion of Single Stop to all CUNY campuses: Single Stop provides comprehensive financial support services to help students avoid drop-out due to financial constraints. Single Stop is undergoing evaluation now; preliminary data is promising.
- b) Consider eliminating fees and certain tuition expenses
 - i) Make first semester free for NYC grads
 - ii) Pay for all remediation courses so students retain financial aid for credit-bearing courses
- c) Call for state to expand tax credits for tuition

6) Engage broader community of private philanthropy and nonprofits focused on college success

- a) Solicit “commitments” in advance of speech of additional mentors, funding, etc.
- b) Establish cross-sector “board” for management, monitoring, and evaluation of progress of City Hall, DOE, CUNY, philanthropy and nonprofit representatives
 - i) Oversee processes for learning and continuous improvement (e.g., tracking indicators, feedback loops, sharing from high performers, etc.)

7) Explore more innovations

- a) Technology – mix of online and in-person courses to support students with lower-cost classes
- b) Incentives – research results based funding tied to graduation, not just enrollment of students (E.g., state of Ohio funds higher ed institutions based on ability to retain and graduate students)

Background on college completion initiatives in other cities

There are significant “to and through” projects underway in many big cities across the country. In a good number of cities, these are being done by non-profits without any direct involvement from the city. These are some in which cities, or units of cities, are directly involved:

Los Angeles – “Project Grad Los Angeles” has been working since 1999 to raise college graduation rates. The program is based on long-term student/advisor relationships and one-on-one mentoring. It is specifically designed to help first-generation, low-income Latino students. Project Grad advisors are embedded in seven high schools, promoting college aspirations with workshops and individual counseling.

Project Grad is a City initiative, in that the Los Angeles Unified School District is one of the participating partners. It also has funding from major foundations and corporations, and partnerships with several colleges and universities.

The project’s College Success Initiative is aimed at what research indicates are the four greatest obstacles to first generation college students graduating: (1) academic preparedness; (2) accessing resources; (3) connection to campus life; and (4) affordability.

The program includes: scholarships; one-on-one meetings with advisors; and a peer mentoring program in which upperclass college students who have been through the program support freshmen.

Boston: The “Success Boston” College Completion Initiative is a plan to increase college graduation rates of Boston Public School graduates, launched in 2008 by Mayor Menino. It provides additional advising and academic programming at the high school level. And it works with Boston area colleges and universities to help ensure that public school graduates get the support they need.

In 2010, 38 Massachusetts colleges and universities joined the Success Boston College Completion Initiative, which aims to double the number of Boston Public Schools (BPS) graduates earning college degrees, beginning with the Class of 2011. Of these, 25 schools developed individual campus plans to improve achievement and success of BPS graduates that they enroll.

The program is being supported by a $5 million grant over five years from the Boston Foundation. The funds are being used to support the first district-wide Director of College Readiness Initiatives, and staff at six nonprofit organizations to assist BPS graduates attending local institutions to successfully navigate their first two years of college.

Long Beach, California – The Long Beach College Promise is an initiative that helps graduates of the Long Beach Unified School District to enter and graduate from college. The program, which won an award at a meeting of the U.S. Conference of Mayors this year, is a partnership among the City and three educational institutions: Long Beach City College, California State University-Long Beach, and the Long Beach Unified School District.

The Long Beach College promise provides an array of educational services and benefits designed to help students attend and complete college. It offers a tuition-free first semester at Long Beach Community College for all incoming students. It also conducts outreach services to students in the city on college admissions and financing starting in the 6th grade, and continuing through college transition.

Grand Rapids, Michigan – Grand Rapids’ “To College, Through College” initiative also won an award at this year’s U.S. Conference of Mayors meeting. The effort is led by “Our Community’s Children,” a public/private partnership between the City of Grand Rapids, the public school system, and various community partners, businesses, and faith-based organizations. Grand Rapids’ mayor convened a “To College, Through College” summit earlier this year to work on the issue. The initiative’s goal is to increase college completion rates from 18 percent to 40 percent in the next few years.

Denver – The Denver Education Compact, launched by Mayor Hancock in October 2011, is the third program to win an award at the U.S. Conference of Mayors this year. It is a collaboration among more than 20 Denver institutions to help provide opportunity to Denver youth from cradle to career. In addition to trying to improve graduation rates, it has a significant emphasis on career preparation and obtaining employment.

Newark – In June, 2015 the Newark City of Learning Collaborative got a $1.5 million grant from the Foundation for Newark’s Future for its work in increasing the number of Newark residents with postsecondary degrees. The goal is to increase the percentage of the city’s population that are college graduates from 17 percent to 25 percent.

The City of Newark is a member of the Newark City of Learning Collaborative. The Foundation for Newark’s Future, which is funding the effort, is the educational foundation that received $100 million from Facebook founder Mark Zuckerberg.

The Newark City of Learning Collaborative partners with over 25 college readiness and success programs including College Summit, which helps low-income students to make better decisions about which colleges to attend, and American Needs You –New Jersey, which mentors low-income students on college and career.

District of Columbia: Capital Partners for Education is a nonprofit mentoring program for low-income students in the Washington, D.C. area. It is a City project in that it is formally partnered with three Washington, D.C. public high schools.

Capital Partners for Education says that 70% of its participants who enroll in college graduate – well above the average for low-income students. It has three programs:

- Trailblazers works with students starting in 9th grade, providing one-on-one mentoring, both in personal meetings and through an online platform called iMentor; college preparation; and financial support
- Navigators is an intensive mentoring program for students in 11th and 12th grades, which pairs students with college-educated volunteer mentors, and provides individual support through school visits, report card reviews, teacher consultations, and other interventions

- Transformers works with Trailblazer and Navigator alumni when they enter college, and helps with mentoring, staff support, and financial assistance

Getting To and Through: Supporting College Completion in New York City and Beyond

Research and Potential Preliminary Focus Areas

Table of Contents

OVERVIEW	3
MODELS OF COLLEGE PERSISTENCE	4
COLLEGE ACCESS	4
A. Academic Preparation	4
i. CUNY Early College Initiative.....	4
ii. College Summit	4
iii. College Spring.....	5
iv. Blue Engine.....	5
B. Guidance and Mentorship	5
i. Options Institute	5
ii. CARA College Bridge.....	5
iii. College Advising Corps	6
C. Alleviating Financial Barriers	6
i. San Francisco Kindergarten to College Savings Accounts	6
COLLEGE PERSISTENCE.....	7
A. Building Academic Capabilities	7
i. CUNY Start.....	7
ii. University Skills Immersion Program (USIP).....	7
B. Self-Regulation and “Nudges”	7
ii. Robin Hood Foundation & ideas42	7
C. Guidance and Mentorship	9
i. CUNY community college peer mentorship.....	9
ii. InsideTrack	9
iii. CARA Strive for Success.....	9

D. Alleviating Financial Barriers	9
i. Single Stop USA	9
E. Structured Schedules and Cohort Based Learning	10
i. CUNY ASAP	10
ii. Structured Learning Communities	10
iii. Opening Doors Learning Communities	10
HYBRID MODELS	11
A. Academic Preparation	11
i. CUNY At Home in College.....	11
ii. Promise Pathways	12
iii. KIPP Through College	12
B. Guidance and Mentorship	12
i. Bottom Line.....	12
ii. iMentor.....	13
iii. One Goal.....	13
C. Cohorts	14
i. Posse Foundation.....	14
PROGRAMS FOR YOUNG MEN OF COLOR.....	14
A. CUNY Black Male Initiative	14
B. Adelante Performance Award Program at Pima Community College (AZ)	14
C. LUCERO at Lansing Community College (MI)	15
D. North Carolina Community Colleges Minority Male Mentoring Program (3MP)	15
POTENTIAL PRELIMINARY FOCUS AREAS	16

OVERVIEW

Completing college offers a pathway out of poverty and into the middle class. An adult with only a high school diploma is almost three times as likely to be in poverty in New York City as an individual with a bachelor's or more advanced degree (25.1 percent against 8.7 percent).¹ In the United States a full-time worker with a bachelor's degree earns 56 percent more than an individual with only a high school diploma and a full-time worker with an associate's degree earns 21 percent more.² Expanding the array of programs that help students persist through college—either toward an Associate's or Bachelor's degree—will open up new job opportunities to and increase the earnings potential of thousands of New Yorkers while simultaneously lifting people out of poverty.

The potential scope of any college persistence program is vast. In 2013 alone nearly 27,000 New York City public school students entered the CUNY system. NYC public school students represent 74.4 percent of CUNY's overall population. But CUNY students often take a long time to graduate, or often don't graduate at all. The three-year graduation rate at CUNY community colleges for freshman, full-time students was only 13.6 percent last year; at CUNY senior colleges the six-year graduation rate was only 52.6 percent. Many of those who enter college never finish, despite the clear gains from earning a diploma—10 years after entering CUNY only 35.5 percent of students have either an associate's or bachelor's degree.

There has been extensive research on why students may not persist through graduation or drop-out altogether. While any one explanation may oversimplify or generalize, most research finds that some combination of student preparation, outside commitments, financial strain, and the student experience in college contribute to drop-out. Half of all CUNY community college students have an annual family income of less than $20,000 and are the first generation of their family to attend college. Three in ten work more than 20 hours each week, and four in ten attend school part-time. CUNY finds that these demographic features closely correlate with risk factors for drop-out nationally.³ Compounding these risk factors is the lack of academic preparation for college. Nearly three-quarters of CUNY community college students need remedial coursework, which costs the same as regular courses but is not taken for credits toward graduation. Financial aid is used up on remedial courses, and nearly 40 percent of community college students do not reapply for financial aid for a second year, and less than one-third of those students return.⁴

¹ NYC Center for Economic Opportunity. The CEO Poverty Measure, 2005-2012: An Annual Report from the Office of the Mayor. (New York, N.Y.: Center for Economic Opportunity: 2014): 24.

² Jaison R. Abel and Richard Deitz. "Do the Benefits of College Still Outweigh the Costs?" Current Issues in Economics and Finance 20, no. 3 (2014): 3.

³ Tom Hiliard. "Mobility Makers." Center for an Urban Future. November 2011. https://nycfuture.org/pdf/Mobility_Makers.pdf.

⁴ CUNY Office of Policy Research. "Opportunity Lost: Failure to Complete Financial Aid Applications." http://www.cuny.edu/about/administration/offices/ira/opr/briefs/FAFSA_Brief.pdf.

MODELS OF COLLEGE PERSISTENCE

It is crucial to create pathways for New York City students to access both four-year and community colleges, but it is just as important to create programs that help them sustain momentum to finish college and get a degree. This memo describes programs that promote college access, persistence, and models that integrate both. The programs described here are far from all the models of college access and persistence, but rather a selection of noteworthy programs. This memo also includes a section highlighting programs focusing on young Black and Latino males, the groups with the lowest degree attainment rates in CUNY. The programs listed in this memo are grouped in general categories such as “guidance and mentorship,” or “academic preparation,” but should not be seen as mutually exclusive interventions. Many of the listed interventions could fit under several categories and seek to address multiple problems within in a single program. In fact, some of the most effective programs work to overcome multiple barriers simultaneously.

COLLEGE ACCESS

A. Academic Preparation

i. CUNY Early College Initiative

1. CUNY colleges partner with DOE to create early college high schools that offer two years of college courses at no cost to students while still in high school.
2. There are currently 17 CUNY early college high schools, partnering with 12 CUNY campuses
3. Schools implement multiple models: grades 6-12, 9-12, 9-13, 9-14, Career and Technical Education schools (CTE)
4. ECI schools serve traditionally underrepresented groups in higher education and does not take prior academic achievement into account for admission
5. In the 2011 cohort 89% of students graduated and had an average of 20 college credits upon graduation. 77% of those graduates enrolled in college that fall, 44% at CUNY—and 65% of those students at CUNY senior colleges
6. Funded in part by a grant from the Gates Foundation—$6.75M to create 10 early college high schools

ii. College Summit

1. Provides educators at partner schools with the following resources:
 - a. School Year Curriculum for 9-12 Grade
 - b. Common Core State Standards Alignment Guides
 - c. Milestone Tracking Tools
 - d. Professional Development Opportunities and Support

2. An independent analysis found that students participating in College Summit increased their high school's college enrollment rates by an average of 20 percent. Additional analysis has found College Summit's impact is greatest in schools where college enrollments are lowest, helping achieve an improvement on average of more than 25%.

iii. College Spring

1. Based in Los Angeles, the Bay Area, and New York
2. Partners with schools and community organizations to offer SAT prep to help students raise their scores
3. Courses are taught by professional staff, but current undergraduate students meet with small groups of 3-5 students to help review the material
4. 100 hour program—80 hours of coursework and SAT preparation and 20 hours of college readiness support to help students understand the college application process

iv. Blue Engine

1. AmeriCorps program
2. Partners with New York City public high schools serving low-income students to put Blue Engine Teaching Assistants (BETAs) into classrooms for the school year to supplement instruction
3. BETAs work with small groups of students and offer extended learning time to support students
4. During the 2013-14 school year BETAs helped increase students scoring in college readiness range on standardized tests by 55 percent and decreased the number of students failing those tests by 21 percent.

B. Guidance and Mentorship

i. Options Institute

1. Partnership between DOE and Goddard Riverside Community Center to help train high school guidance counselors as effective college advisors. This takes counselors step by step through the college admissions process and gives them specialized knowledge to help students with applications, financial aid, and making appropriate postsecondary choices.
2. Goal of training one college advisor per 35 college seniors
3. Launched in 2012, the program has already trained 470 counselors who work in 53 percent of NYC public high schools.

ii. CARA College Bridge

1. Supports first-generation college-bound students in the summer between high school graduation and college matriculation
2. Coaches are current college students who attended the same high school as the student they are coaching
3. Coaches conduct workshops in the school during the 2nd semester of senior year, and then work one-on-one with students over the summer, helping students to complete final financial aid forms, figure out how to pay for textbooks, arrange transportation to college, and register for classes.
4. Impact:
 - a. 24% increase in FAFSA completion
 - b. 28% increase in TAP submission
 - c. 35% increase in deposits paid to colleges

iii. College Advising Corps

1. Places recent college graduates from partner universities as full-time college advisers in America's underserved high schools. Advisers work to foster a college-going culture within the schools they serve, which is one of the best predictors of whether students will pursue higher education.
2. In 2014-2015, over 450 advisers will be working in more than 500 high schools in 14 states.
3. An external evaluation by Stanford University found that Compared to seniors who have not met with the College Advising Corps adviser, students who have met with the College Advising Corps adviser are
 - e. 23% more likely to apply to a college or university
 - f. 23% more likely to submit the FAFSA
 - g. 18% more likely to have heard of Pell Grants
 - h. 18% more likely to take the ACT
 - i. 14% more likely to take the SAT

C. Alleviating Financial Barriers

i. San Francisco Kindergarten to College Savings Accounts

1. First municipally funded college savings account in the nation
2. Every child entering kindergarten in the City's public schools is automatically given a College Savings Account (CSA) containing a $50 deposit from the City and County of San Francisco. Children enrolled in the National Student Lunch Program will receive an additional $50 deposit.
3. 13,000 CSAs opened since 2010

COLLEGE PERSISTENCE

A. Building Academic Capabilities

i. CUNY Start

1. Program for high school or HSE graduates who have been admitted to a CUNY college but whose scores on CUNY Assessment Tests demonstrate a need for remediation
2. Students put off beginning college in favor of CUNY Start courses to avoid spending financial aid dollars on remedial courses
3. Both part time and full time students in CUNY Start showed significant improvement and reduced need for remediation; at the end of CUNY Start 50% of full-time students needed no remediation, and 31% needed only one remedial course, compared with 100% who entered the program needing 2-3 remedial courses.

ii. University Skills Immersion Program (USIP)

1. Similar to CUNY Start, USIP provides free, intensive academic intervention programs in reading, writing, and mathematics during the summer or winter so that students have an opportunity to complete some or all their remedial education requirements before enrolling in regular college courses.

B. Self-Regulation and “Nudges”

- i. Low cost, low touch strategies that are meant to “nudge” the student into better academic habits that help them stay in school longer. Often utilizes technology.
- ii. Robin Hood Foundation & ideas42 has a $5M competition for using technology and behavioral science currently underway to increase community college graduation rates in NYC. 12 semi-finalists were selected in August 2014 and given support to refine their model. 3 finalists were selected in January 2015.
 1. 2 semifinalists finalists are focused on CUNY:
 - a. MARI: College Champion will address common college freshman obstacles (e.g., time management, scheduling priorities), provide a clear channel of ongoing support and encouragement, deliver self-motivating prompts, and link communities of students to encourage connectedness at CUNY.
 - b. Limespring: LimeSpring provides a developmental (remedial) math solution that can be used to create a blended learning environment. Using LimeSpring CUNY students have passed developmental math at a rate of 87% (as compared to the national average of ~30%) and reported increases in interest and confidence in the field of mathematics.

2. 3 finalists were announced in January 2015 with a final winner to be selected for a $3.5M prize in October 2018:
 - a. Beyond12: The Beyond 12 "MyCoach" app helps students keep track of deadlines and milestones, and, based on the college students are attending, provides them with personalized tools and tips to help navigate their college experience. Students receive automated alerts (mimicking the nudges from a live coach) on their mobile devices that include links to the campus resources available to help them complete certain tasks. In addition, the app allows students to record completion of tasks; motivates students, in the form of points and badges, for skill and knowledge mastery; and encourages students to share their experiences with peers.
 - b. Education Advisory Board: Recognizing that each student has unique academic, career, and life goals, the Education Advisory Board developed a direct-to-student platform that places—and keeps—students on a personalized path to completion.
 - c. Kininvolved: Kininvolved is improving graduation rates of community college students with an app to increase attendance and real-time communication among student support networks.
- iii. A 2014 randomized control trial testing the impact of texting students and parents over the summer before entering college reminding them to complete the key college related tasks necessary to matriculate in the fall. The texts also offered follow-up services with a guidance counselor.
 1. Students in the treatment group were 8 percentage points more likely to enroll at a community college in the fall
 2. Relatively inexpensive intervention—only $7/student
 3. While this experiment was only examining the phenomenon of “summer melt” (students being admitted to college and not enrolling in the fall), this experiment demonstrates the impact of small nudges to influence behavior when reminders are directed at particular tasks.
- iv. iMentor Text for College Success Campaign
 1. Targeted at iMentor students (iMentor is discussed in the “Hybrid Models” section of this memo) to reduce summer melt
 2. Campaign delivered 10 weekly text messages about summer matriculation tasks, similar to RCT referenced above
 3. 79 percent of participants responded to at least one text message; 47 percent responded to three or more text messages

C. Guidance and Mentorship

- i. CUNY community college peer mentorship programs at Guttman, Hostos, BMCC, LaGuardia, Kingsborough
 1. Guttman has three types of mentorships:
 - a. Academic Success Peer Mentors (ASPM)
 - b. Admissions & Access Peer Mentors (AAPM)
 - c. Leadership & Service Peer Mentors (LSPM)
 - ii. InsideTrack
 1. Partners with universities to provide a combination of in-person coaching and online platforms to help keep students on track to graduation
 2. InsideTrack conducted 17 randomized control trials at different college campuses over the 2003-04 and 2007-08 school years.
 - a. After six months, students in the coached group were 5.2 percentage points more likely to still be enrolled than students in the non-coached group (63.2 percent vs. 58.0 percent).
 - b. At the end of 12 months, the effect was 5.3 percentage points. The effects persisted for at least one more year after the coaching had concluded.
 - c. After 18 months, there was a 4.3 percentage point increase in college retention and after 24 months, there was still a 3.4 percentage point treatment effect from the coaching.
 3. InsideTrack costs roughly $500 per student per semester
 - iii. CARA Strive for Success
 1. Students who have successfully completed one year of college, called “Student Success Leaders,” are trained to work in partnership with campus-based and community-based organization staff to address the critical obstacles to student persistence through college, usually by connecting peers to resources on and off campus. CARA provides on campus training for student success leaders and works with on campus staff to integrate these leaders into existing retention programming.

D. Alleviating Financial Barriers

- i. Single Stop USA
 1. One-stop shop to help connect low-income individuals to government benefits and other social and legal services to help overcome financial barriers that make it difficult to persist in college.

2. 113 locations in eight states, including in 6 CUNY community colleges
3. Early evaluations in LaGuardia and Kingsborough Community Colleges show that retention of students using Single Stop was more than 30 points higher—98 percent compared with 67 percent—than that of other community college students.
4. Cost varies across campuses, but BMCC reportedly invested $400K in creating its Single Stop center
5. The average cost for Single Stop to serve a student is close to $250 a year

E. Structured Schedules and Cohort Based Learning

i. CUNY ASAP

1. ASAP seeks to increase 3-year Associates' Degree completion rates to 50 percent at CUNY community colleges by creating a structured full-time program with limited majors and alleviating many of the financial burdens faced by community college students.
2. Alleviating financial barriers
 - a. Covers gap between financial aid and tuition and books
 - b. Provides Metrocard
3. Advisement, mentorship, academic support services, and career counseling
4. Consolidated course schedule to allow for full-time scheduling
 - a. Students must be full-time
 - b. ASAP only offers selected majors based on college campus—based on ability to complete in 3 years, projected job growth, and transferability to 4-year colleges.
5. First-year classes taken in cohorts

ii. Structured Learning Communities

1. Limited course offerings to Tennessee community college students to help condense scheduling and assist students in graduating on time
2. Block schedule (3 week, 7 week sessions/mini-mesters) and all students in cohort take same courses
3. 75% of SLC students either graduated or re-enrolled for the following semester compared with 50% of regular community college students
4. Funded by Lumina Foundation grant of $1M over three years

iii. Opening Doors Learning Communities

1. New CUNY Kingsborough Community College students with no more than three credits join a small group, or cohort, of about 25 students. Together, they take three “linked” courses: an English course; a course that satisfies a

- college requirement; and a one-credit student success seminar. Professors collaborate to connect and align course material. Learning Community is only for one semester, but has demonstrated positive long-term gains.
2. Similar programs also offered to returning students (Integrative Studies Program) and ESL students
 3. An MDRC demonstration found that:
 - a. The program increased the proportion of students who earned a degree by 4.6 percentage points after six years
 - b. The cost per degree earned was lower per program group member than it was per control group member.
 - c. Opening Doors students substantially outperformed control group students during their first semester at Kingsborough, achieving higher course pass rates, particularly in English.
 - d. One year after enrollment, Opening Doors students were more likely to have completed their remedial English requirements.
 4. While the upfront cost ($1,600/student) is substantial, the cost per degree earned makes the program cost effective
 - a. When program costs are compared with program impacts on degrees earned, the program appears less expensive than the usual college services without the program. Specifically, the cost per degree earned for the program group is $2,480 (2.6 percent) less costly than the cost per degree earned for the control group.

HYBRID MODELS

A. Academic Preparation

- i. CUNY At Home in College
 1. Program for high school and community college students to help prepare for and adjust to college.
 2. 3 components:
 - a. Pre-college courses in English, Math, and College Success strategies
 - b. Summer Bridge guidance program that pairs post-high school students with a current college student (1-2 years into college) who went to the same high school
 - c. While in college students receive intensive academic advisement from a designated AHC advisor as well as a paid on-campus internship through CUNY Works

3. AHC students have demonstrated gains on CUNY Placement Test, reducing the need for remediation
4. In FY13 CUNY requested $500K to expand the program to 15 additional schools and provide first year advisement.

ii. Promise Pathways

1. Partnerships between Long Beach City College (LBCC) and the Long Beach Unified School District (LBUSD) to use high school grades to determine placement into credit-bearing or remedial courses.
2. Based on research from Columbia University demonstrating that using multiple measurements to determine placement into remedial courses at urban community colleges instead of just a single standardized test could reduce remediation by up to 12 points.
3. LBCC and LBUSD partner to better align K-12 curriculum to college expectations and then uses high school grades rather than a standardized test to determine placement into credit bearing courses
4. So far has shown remarkable results: a 200% increase in completion of college level (non-remedial) math and a 500% increase in completion of college level English

iii. KIPP Through College

1. KIPP network of charter schools provides services to guide students toward college and then support them through college
2. Middle School services: high school placement and transition, financial literacy, college knowledge, career awareness, mentoring
3. High School services: academic support, college placement, financial literacy, college knowledge, career awareness, SAT/ACT prep, college tours and college application prep
4. In College services: mentorship, college advisement, financial aid, career awareness, resume building

B. Guidance and Mentorship

i. Bottom Line

1. A two-tier program for low-income high school students who would be first generation college students, providing them with a mentor to help guide them through the college application process and through college.
2. Access Program: begins junior year of high school to help high school students through full application process

3. Success Program: begins the summer after high school graduation to prevent “summer melt”—the gap between college acceptance and enrollment. Once in college, Bottom Line serves as their financial aid advocate, academic advisor, career counselor, mentor, and more. The model is designed to help students in four areas, which we call DEAL: Degree, Employability, Aid, Life
4. Program began in Boston, but has since spread to New York and Illinois, including 11 campuses in New York City (8 at CUNY campuses)
5. A 2010 evaluation found that 45 percent of students who participated in the Access and Success Programs obtained a college degree in four years and 73 percent obtained a college degree in six years, compared to 27 and 45 percent, respectively, of Access-only students.
6. Program services in 2013 were $3.24M for programs in New York and Massachusetts. During that time there were 2,330 students in the Access and Success programs—averaging just under $1,400 per student.

ii. iMentor

1. iMentor assists public high schools that face critical challenges preparing students for college by providing every student in the school with a mentor. We integrate this community of mentors with existing supports in a school to create a college-going culture.
2. College Ready Program: Mentors matched with students from 9th-12th grade to help prepare them for college and assist them through the college application process
3. College Transition Program: Mentors matched with students from 11th grade-freshman year of college. Mentors assist in the college application process and help them through the first year of college
4. In 2013 75 percent of iMentor graduates enrolled in college
5. In the fall of 2011, iMentor began a 2,000-participant, six-year independent study of its mentoring model. This evaluation will be one of the largest and most comprehensive studies ever published on school-based mentoring

iii. One Goal

1. Working in Chicago, Houston, and New York public schools with under-performing students to help them get to and graduate from college
2. Teacher based model—identifies, recruits, and trains teachers in public schools to serve as One Goal Program Directors who then recruit 15-25 students to be One Goal Fellows

3. Three year program beginning in junior year of high school to support students through SAT/ACT prep, the college application and selection process, and the first year of college
4. 87 percent of OneGoal fellows who graduate high school enroll in college, and 83 percent of those persist

C. Cohorts

i. Posse Foundation

1. Posse identifies students through a rigorous interview process that finds students that may be overlooked in the traditional college application process. The process is extremely competitive: Posse received more than 16,000 nominations for 680 scholarship slots
2. Posse scholars receive a full tuition scholarship at a Posse partner university—since 1989 Posse partner institutions have awarded more than $800M in scholarships
3. Once selected students are grouped in “Posses” that stay together throughout their four years of college. Students meet weekly before going to college and again once arriving on campus and through their time in college.
4. Located in 9 cities, including NYC, with 51 partner universities—a tenth site in San Francisco is opening in 2015.
5. 90 percent of Posse students graduate from college.

PROGRAMS FOR YOUNG MEN OF COLOR

A. CUNY Black Male Initiative

- i. Program to fund projects to improve outcomes for black males at CUNY
- ii. Funded by New York City Council grant; FY15 grant for $3M, up from $2.5M in FY13
- iii. 32 funded projects in the 2014-15 academic year across all five boroughs of New York City and at all the CUNY senior, comprehensive, and community colleges, as well as the CUNY Graduate Center and the CUNY Law School to support the enrollment and retention of students from underrepresented groups

B. Adelante Performance Award Program at Pima Community College (AZ)

- i. Low-income Latino males at Pima Community College could receive up to $4,500 in total over three semesters. Payments were contingent on their meeting academic benchmarks throughout the semester and participating in student support services such as advising, tutoring, and workshops.

- ii. The program had a small but positive effect on retention. Students' second semester in the program saw a small, 4.6 percentage-point increase in registration (a 6 percent increase over a control group registration rate of 74.0 percent).
- iii. The program increased full-time enrollment in students' second semester. In their second semester in the program, students in the program group were 13.2 percentage points more likely to enroll full time compared with a control group mean of 48.8 percent (a 27 percent increase).

C. LUCERO at Lansing Community College (MI)

- i. Support services program designed to assist in the recruitment, retention, graduation and transfer of Latino Lansing Community College students.
- ii. LUCERO provides intensive academic counseling, career counseling, personal counseling, and personalized tutoring
- iii. Retention rate for LUCERO males was 68 percent, compared with 50 percent of the general Latino Lansing CC population

D. North Carolina Community Colleges Minority Male Mentoring Program (3MP)

- i. A student coaching program designed to support the educational and professional aspirations of minority male students enrolled in North Carolina community colleges.
- ii. Operating at 46 of the state's 58 community colleges through funding from the federal College Access Challenge Grant (3MP is one part of the $4M grant for North Carolina)
- iii. Participating colleges are required to:
 1. Provide at least one leadership position, "coach," to coordinate the program
 2. Identify a cohort of students
 3. Provide a structured relationship between each student participant and a member of the campus community
 4. Provide college transfer transition workshops (along with four-year campus visitations)
 5. Require study skills (ACA) course during first semester
 6. Provide career counseling and academic advising
 7. Recommend students' enrollment in at least 12-credit hours per semester (with a focus on core courses)
 8. Provide a written academic plan
 9. Provide service learning opportunities each semester
- iv. 78% retention rate from fall to spring compared to 68% for males of color not in 3MP; 51% retention from fall to following fall compared to 49% for males of color not in 3MP

POTENTIAL PRELIMINARY FOCUS AREAS

- I. Support the expansion of Single Stop to all CUNY campuses, prioritizing community colleges, and evaluate the impact
 - A. Chancellor Milken cited expanding Single Stop to all CUNY campuses as a priority in the 2015-16 CUNY Budget Request; requesting $1.25M to expand to senior colleges ($500K) and support continuing operations and expand capacity at existing community college sites ($750K).
 - B. A preliminary evaluation at one college indicates that students who received Single Stop services are 17 percent more likely to persist. CEO should evaluate the program's impact across multiple colleges
 - i. Budget dependent on evaluation design

- II. Test the potential impact of the InsideTrack coaching model on college persistence through a multi-year random assignment evaluation focusing on Black and Latino males at CUNY community colleges
 - A. CUNY could contract InsideTrack to do coaching for a sample of Black and Latino males at community colleges
 - B. Evaluators can track the impact of coaching services in comparison to a control group who do not receive services
 - C. Budget dependent on scale; but coaching services are approximately $500/student and then evaluation costs would be layered on top of that (evaluation cost dependent on design and scale).
 - i. 500 students: $250,000 + evaluation cost
 - ii. 1,000 students: $500,000 + evaluation cost
 - iii. 5,000 students: $2.5M + evaluation cost

- III. Expand the Opening Doors Learning Communities model to other CUNY community colleges
 - A. MDRC has found this model to be effective and cost efficient and should be expanded beyond Kingsborough Community College
 - B. Budget is dependent on scale:
 - i. $1.6M for 1,000 students
 - ii. $8M for 5,000 students

- IV. Work with organizations like ideas42 to use text message nudges to encourage CUNY students to complete activities that help them succeed and move toward graduation
 - A. Utilize the CUNY Alert system to send text messages reminding students to complete various tasks to help them stay on track to graduation and direct them to resources to receive help completing those tasks
 - B. If this initiative can utilize the infrastructure of CUNY Alert then costs should be minimal.

- C. If a new system would need to be created, based on the 2014 texting RCT referenced in the “Nudges” section of this memo, costs should be approximately $7/student.
 - i. All undergraduates (239,497): $1.68M
 - ii. Only community college students(97,751): $684K
- D. FAFSA/TAP Completion
 - i. While 90 percent of CUNY freshmen apply for FAFSA, only 61 percent of associate students and 77 percent of baccalaureate students re-apply. Associate students who did not re-apply are 65.2 percent less likely to re-enroll and baccalaureate students are 45.4 percent less likely.⁵
 - ii. While it is unclear exactly why students do not re-apply for financial aid, some research suggests that so much energy has gone toward assisting high school students fill out the first time that there is no support for students once in college. Behavioral economics literature also hypothesizes that even small barriers will lead individuals to forgo long-term benefits, such as the relatively low barrier of filling out FAFSA compared with the financial benefits of grants and loans to pay for college.⁶
- E. Course Selection
 - i. Text messages can be sent in advance of a student’s registration date encouraging them to look up available courses and direct them to advising staff at their college to help them create a schedule that will keep them on track to graduation
- F. File for Graduation
 - i. Once students have registered for enough credits to graduate they should receive text notifications in advance of the filing deadline to remind them to turn in paperwork to file for graduation

⁵ CUNY Office of Policy Research. “Opportunity Lost: Failure to Complete Financial Aid Applications.”

⁶ Kelli Bird and Benjamin L. Castleman. “Here Today, Gone Tomorrow? Investigating Rates and Patterns of Financial Aid Renewal Among College Freshman.” University of Virginia EdPolicy Working Paper Series No. 25 (May 2014).
http://curry.virginia.edu/uploads/resourceLibrary/25_Bird_Financial_Aid_Renewal.pdf.

From: Gunaratna, Mahen
To: "John Del Cecato"
Subject: FYI
Date: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 11:55:31 AM

Michael Barbaro @mikiebarb 14s14 seconds ago

Mayor de Blasio sure sounds like he's warming to HRC: praises her "increasingly compelling vision"

--

Mahen Gunaratna

Director of Research and Media Analysis
Mayor's Press Office | City Hall
mgunaratna@cityhall.nyc.gov
(212) 676-3154 (o) | (347)-268-4295 (c)

From: John Del Cecato
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Subject: <no subject>
Date: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 12:06:51 PM

Can you send me today's sked - don't think I got it?

From: John Del Cecato
To: Geri Prado; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Cc: Snyder, Thomas; Hagelgans, Andrea
Subject: Re: Re-sending
Date: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 12:12:47 PM

Yeah - and I don't think we need to have a big discussion about it - we can just block off a time for the town hall & Team TPA can report back on the where & who & how

On 8/19/15, 11:52 AM, "Geri Prado" [REDACTED] wrote:

>We only have a few hours so discussion will be big picture, plan and >budget sign off. That will take a lot of time.

>
>
>

>> On Aug 19, 2015, at 11:22 AM, Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca

>><PSalazar-Rodriguez@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>>

>> Nothing scheduled yet - but should be discussed at mini-retreat

>>

>>

>> -----Original Message-----

>> From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]

>> Sent: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 11:19 AM

>> To: Geri Prado

>> Cc: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Snyder, Thomas; Hagelgans, Andrea

>> Subject: Re: Re-sending

>>

>> What's the latest on the Sirius town hall - do we have a day?

>>

>>> On 8/14/15, 4:43 PM, "Geri Prado" [REDACTED] wrote:

>>>

>>> Prisca this has the Sirius town hall.

>>> Thanks all

>>>

>>>

>>>

>>>> On Aug 14, 2015, at 4:34 PM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>

>>>>wrote:

>>>>

>>>> Here's the list that Andrea & her team are trying to find slots for >>>> over the next couple months

>>>>

>>>>

>>>> <1.docx>

>>

From: John Del Cecato
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Subject: Re: MINI SCHEDULE - WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 19, 2015
Date: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 12:13:48 PM

Thank you!

From: "Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca" <PSalazar-Rodriguez@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 at 12:11 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: MINI SCHEDULE - WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 19, 2015

SCHEDULE FOR MAYOR BILL DE BLASIO
CITY OF NEW YORK
Tuesday, August 19, 2015

WEATHER: Hi of 83. Low of 74. Partly Cloudy.
ATTIRE: Business
NOTES: - YOU have 30 mins. to change at the gym

- 7:00 - 7:30 TRAVEL FROM GRACIE MANSION TO 357 9TH STREET
Travel Time: 30 mins.
- 8:00 - 9:00 WORKOUT
Location: 357 9th Street
- 9:30 - 10:00 TRAVEL FROM 357 9TH STREET TO CITY HALL /
DAILY COMMUNICATIONS CALL
Travel Time: 30 mins.
- 10:00 - 11:00 WEEKLY HOMELESS MEETING
Location: City Hall, The Blue Room
- 11:00 - 11:15 PREP FOR BRIAN LEHRER RADIO SHOW
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office
- 11:15 - 11:45 CALL IN TO BRIAN LEHRER SHOW
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office
Contact: YOU Call [REDACTED]
- 12:00 - 12:30 PHOTO-OP WITH CITY HALL DRAGON BOAT TEAM
Location: City Hall, The Blue Room
Notes: Dragon Boat team will have jerseys and paddles for photo.
- 12:30 - 1:00 PREP FOR MEETING WITH ISRAELI AMBASSADOR RON DERMER
Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office
- 1:30 - 2:00 TRAVEL TIME TO [REDACTED]
Travel Time: 30 mins.

2:00 - 2:30 [REDACTED]
 Location: [REDACTED]

2:30 - 3:00 TRAVEL FROM [REDACTED]
 Travel Time: 30 mins.

3:00 - 3:30 MEETING WITH ISRAELI AMBASSADOR RON DERMER
 Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

4:00 - 5:00 SENIOR STAFF
 Location: City Hall, The COW

5:00 - 5:30 MEETING WITH JAKE LEMONDA, PRESIDENT OF UFOA
 Location: City Hall, The Mayor's Office

5:30 - 6:30 EDUCATION SPEECH PREP
 Location: City Hall, The Blue Room

6:30 - 7:00 TRAVEL FROM CITY HALL TO GRACIE MANSION
 Travel Time: 30 mins.

7:00 - 8:30 WEEKLY PLANNING MEETING
 Location: Gracie Mansion

8:30 - 9:00 LEGIONNAIRES CALL WITH DOM

9:00 - 9:30 EVENING COMMS DEBRIEF CALL
 DIAL IN: [REDACTED]
 Code: [REDACTED]

CITY HALL STEPS PRESS CONFERENCES

None Scheduled

FLONYC SCHEDULE

11:30-12:30 Meeting with Gayle King // Lunch
 3:15-4:00 Meeting with Mariela Salgado, Univision
 6:30-6:40 Borough Meeting with Renewal School Parents – Bronx
 7:00-8:30 Weekly Planning Meeting with YOU

From: Hinton, Karen
To: Walzak, Phil; Wolfe, Emma; Jonathan@berlinrosen.com; "jfdc@akpdmedia.com" (jfdc@akpdmedia.com)
Subject: FW: Don Peebles
Date: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 1:22:50 PM

FYI>>>>

From: Carl Campanile [<mailto:ccampanile@nypost.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 1:22 PM
To: Hinton, Karen
Subject: Re: Don Peebles

Ok.

On Wed, Aug 19, 2015 at 1:17 PM, Hinton, Karen <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
No.

From: Carl Campanile [<mailto:ccampanile@nypost.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 12:09 PM
To: Hinton, Karen
Subject: Don Peebles

Karen:
Hey there. Carl Campanile of the NY Post here.
Is the mayor responding to the comments made by Don Peebles in today's Post? His criticisms and talk about running for mayor?
Thanks. CC

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
To: "URamirez@schools.nyc.gov"; Chao, Raymond; Fuleihan, Dean \(OMB\); Schnake Mahl, Gabriel; Shorris, Anthony; Buery, Richard; Thornton, Demetrius; Hagelgans, Andrea; "Wallack Josh \(JWallack@schools.nyc.gov\)"; Devora Kaye; Goldmark, Karin; Confer, Alexis; Blumm, Kate; Griffith, Chantell; "jonathan@berlinrosen.com"; John Del Cecato; Williams, Dominic; Wolfe, Emma; Leopold, Elana; Cutler, Dorothy; Walzak, Phil; Zuniga, Andrea
Subject: RE: MBDB: Education Speech Prep
Date: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 1:47:35 PM

This meeting is cancelled for today – will be re-scheduled for another time this week.

-----Original Appointment-----

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Sent: Thursday, August 06, 2015 11:55 AM
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; 'URamirez@schools.nyc.gov'; Chao, Raymond; Fuleihan, Dean (OMB); Schnake Mahl, Gabriel; Shorris, Anthony; Buery, Richard; Thornton, Demetrius; Hagelgans, Andrea; 'Wallack Josh (JWallack@schools.nyc.gov)'; Devora Kaye; Goldmark, Karin; Confer, Alexis; Blumm, Kate; Griffith, Chantell; 'jonathan@berlinrosen.com'; John Del Cecato; Williams, Dominic; Wolfe, Emma; Leopold, Elana; Cutler, Dorothy; Walzak, Phil; Zuniga, Andrea
Subject: MBDB: Education Speech Prep
When: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 5:30 PM-6:30 PM (UTC-05:00) Eastern Time (US & Canada).
Where: City Hall, The Blue Room

From: Blumm, Kate
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Hagelgans, Andrea; Walzak, Phil; Shorris, Anthony; "URamirez@schools.nyc.gov"; Goldmark, Karin; Williams, Dominic; "jonathan@berlinrosen.com"; John Del Cecato; Leopold, Elana; Devora Kaye; "Wallack Josh (JWallack@schools.nyc.gov)"; Wolfe, Emma; Schnake Mahl, Gabriel; Buery, Richard; Confer, Alexis; Fuleihan, Dean \(OMB\); Zuniga, Andrea
Subject: first doc here RE: the plan for today's Education Speech Prep
Date: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 2:45:00 PM
Attachments: EDUCATION VISION 2015 v3.docx

Adding Andie. Here's the first doc, attached. There's a lot to sift through so this is meant to bring some order to the proceedings. Note that this doesn't really detail the work underway—the HOW—of how our ideas are animated (e.g. we are Aiming High by increasing # of AP classes in underserved schools by X). The vignettes will have more of this sort of HOW.

Please let me know of concerns/thoughts/feelings/edits ASAP. Even though our meeting is canceled, I'd like to ship these docs to the Mayor tonight or ASAP.

From: Blumm, Kate
Sent: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 10:05 AM
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Hagelgans, Andrea; Walzak, Phil; Shorris, Anthony; 'URamirez@schools.nyc.gov'; Goldmark, Karin; Williams, Dominic; 'jonathan@berlinrosen.com'; John Del Cecato; Leopold, Elana; Devora Kaye; 'Wallack Josh (JWallack@schools.nyc.gov)'; Wolfe, Emma; Schnake Mahl, Gabriel; Buery, Richard; Confer, Alexis; Fuleihan, Dean (OMB)
Subject: the plan for today's Education Speech Prep

Hi, all—I've connected variously with a bunch of you in the past day for some excellent feedback and updates. Right now I'm in the process of revising three documents to have available at the speech prep later:

- 1- Overall education vision and goals doc (with speech planning/goals too)
- 2- Vignettes doc (the student portraits we're painting in the speech to communicate the vision)
- 3- Pull quotes/soundbites doc

I'll send these around to you all as soon as they're ready for feedback so we're all on the same page heading into 5:30. Thanks very much.

-----Original Appointment-----

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca
Sent: Tuesday, August 11, 2015 7:11 PM
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Hagelgans, Andrea; Blumm, Kate; Walzak, Phil; Shorris, Anthony; Griffith, Chantell; 'URamirez@schools.nyc.gov'; Goldmark, Karin; Williams, Dominic; 'jonathan@berlinrosen.com'; John Del Cecato; Leopold, Elana; Chao, Raymond; Devora Kaye; 'Wallack Josh (JWallack@schools.nyc.gov)'; Thornton, Demetrius; Wolfe, Emma; Schnake Mahl, Gabriel; Cutler, Dorothy; Buery, Richard; Confer, Alexis; Fuleihan, Dean (OMB)

Subject: MBDB: Education Speech Prep

When: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 5:30 PM-6:30 PM (UTC-05:00) Eastern Time (US & Canada).

Where: City Hall, The Blue Room

EQUITY AND EXCELLENCE

Every Day, Every Step of the Way

Speech notes:

- College is the fulcrum
 - We cannot fulfill our destiny unless every child who wants to go to college CANcan
 - What is City's new vision of how to get kids to college, how to succeed there, how to afford it, and everything K-12 that supports that?

- APPROACH:
 - Anti-bureaucratic: child-centered, not system/government-centered
 - Anti-status quo – willingness to break it down – undercut perceptions we are perpetuating status quo
 - Historic shifts balanced with deliverables people will notice
 -

- TONE: Positive, resolute, rallying (call to arms – our kids can do it; it will take us all), expansive: we are battling for the soul of public education

Formatted: Underline

Formatted: Bulleted + Level: 2 + Aligned at: 0.75" + Indent at: 1"

Formatted: Normal, Indent: Left: 0"

Formatted: Space Before: 0 pt, After: 0 pt

Why we are driven to action:

- The status quo is unacceptable.
- Education determines economic destiny more now than at any point in human history.
- NYC's success as a 21st century global city depends on the success of our education system.

Formatted

Values behind our action:

- Every school can and should deliver an excellent education for every child.
- Every child can grow into a successful adult—ready for college, ready for life—if their education gives them the right tools.

Simple set of ideas that express/execute these values:

- Start educating children earlier so all children begin kindergarten ready to succeed.
- Make parents, the first and last teachers of children, our partners.
 - 40 minutes of parent-teacher time each week
 - Community schools
- No-Treat each school and each student individually. No two schools and no two children need the same support in order to excel.

Formatted: Font: Bold

- To fulfill their potential, each child will travel their own academic, social, and emotional journey
- To become great, each school needs different amounts of support in the six key areas that comprise our Framework for Great Schools
- ~~The majority of our investments are going to schools most in need~~
- ~~Parents, the first and last teachers of children, are our partners.~~
 - ~~40 mins of parent teacher time each week~~
 - ~~Community schools~~
- ~~We will address the needs of the whole child. Break down all barriers to learning so children come to school ready to succeed.~~
 - ~~Mental and physical health matter.~~
 - Mental and physical health: community schools (social services, glasses, etc.)
 - Affordability: College savings accounts, testing waivers
 -
- Aiming high matters.
 - Don't force kids to dream about college, a living wage job and a career: show them
 - ~~EVERY~~ Every middle and high school will have a business partner
 - Huge numbers of kids in internships/mentorships/summer jobs
 - ~~EVERY~~ Every middle/high school student is taken on NYC college tours multiple times
 - Most rigorous curriculum/toughest tests in the nation
- ~~Accountability matters~~ Be accountable for both the process and the result.
 - ~~We—City leaders, school leaders, teachers, parents—are all accountable to our students. Progress Pact.-~~
 - Schools are accountable to us not just for test scores and grad rates, but for the rigorous instruction, collaborative teachers, supportive environments, strong family-community ties, effective school leaders, and trust that improve those scores and rates. This is the Framework for Great Schools. Research shows it works.
 - We (gov't) are accountable to New Yorkers for our schools' successes and difficulties alike.
 - We are giving more information for parents and all NYers on how schools are doing, where they need help, what that help looks like.
 - ~~[need to flesh out]~~
- Spread what works. Connect the whole system.
 - Veteran educators will help fellow teachers and principals improve, spreading success throughout the system.
 - Conduct bold experiments (PROSE) and spread what works.
- Treat tests as an important thing, not THE important thing.
 - They only tell you that you need to improve and where that improvement is needed—not how to get it done.
- Make the change that's necessary.

Formatted

Formatted: Font: Bold

Formatted

Formatted: Font: Bold

Formatted

Formatted: Font: Bold

Formatted: Font: Bold

Formatted

Formatted: Font: Bold

Formatted: Plain Text, Bulleted + Level: 2 + Aligned at: 0.75" + Indent at: 1"

Formatted: Font: Bold

Formatted

Formatted: Font: Bold

o If schools cannot improve with our tailored and targeted support, we will change the personnel, the leadership, or the school itself. But we believe most schools can and will improve, and in fact that is the only route to true citywide improvement.

Formatted: List Paragraph

• Don't stop at graduation.

Formatted: Font: Bold

o [academic and personal/mindset interventions to get kids to enroll, persist, and complete]

Formatted: List Paragraph

Formatted: List Paragraph

Formatted: Font: Bold

Formatted: Indent: Left: 0"

Our vision:

We are building people, not systems. A community of teachers, staff, and families grows around every student, supporting them at every turn, academically and personally, to and through college and/or a living wage job.

Our endgame goals:

- 75% four-year graduation rate – an additional 5,000 graduates – by 2020 2020 – an additional 5,000 graduates every year (up from 68%) – no school below X% graduation rate
- Double the number of college- and career-ready graduates to 50,000 a year (66%) by 2025. – can we bring in line with 2020?
- We will increase the number of DOE graduates completing college by 50% by 2020.

Formatted: Not Highlight

Formatted: Highlight

Additional XXX college graduates by 2030 – measuring graduation rates for the first time

Formatted: Normal, No bullets or numbering over Our goals on the way, and the ways we'll know our progress towards achieving them:

Formatted: Normal, No bullets or numbering, Don't adjust space between Latin and Asian text

1. Every child in NYC enters kindergarten ready to learn

Formatted: Underline

- Are all eligible 4-year-olds enrolled in full-day, high-quality Pre-K? (Goal: 100%)

2. Every elementary school student has the academic foundation to succeed

- How many 2nd graders are reading on grade level? (Goal: 100%)
- How many parents of students K-2 are aware of their child's reading level (Goal: 100%)
- How many 3rd graders are proficient in ELA?
- How many 5th graders can control impulses, manage stress, motivate themselves, and set and work towards goals?
- How many 5th graders are proficient in math (measured by the State test)?

Formatted: Superscript

Formatted: Superscript

3. Every middle school student is socially, emotionally, and academically ready for high school

- Are we reducing the number of 6th graders who are chronically absent?
- How many 7th graders show resilience in dealing with setbacks and challenges, can manage their emotions, overcome conflict, and successfully manage complex projects?

- Conflict resolution: able to overcome conflicts and have healthy relationships with peers
- How many 8th graders are proficient in math (as measured by the State test and Algebra Regents)?
- Are all our middle schoolers exposed to the arts and performance? (Note: this is an SED requirement)

Formatted: Space Before: Auto

4. Every high school student is on track to graduate, ready for college, career, and independent living

- Are all our 9th and 10th graders accumulating the right number and nature of credits to be on track to graduate? (Goal: 100%)
- How many high schoolers are taking AP or other college-level coursework? (Goal: ?)
- How many of our graduates do not need remedial coursework in college?
- How many high schoolers are graduating in 4 years? (Goal: 75% by 2020)
- How many graduates enroll in college? (Goal: increase enrollment rates in CUNY2, CUNY 4, non-CUNY by 25% respectively by 2020)
- Persistence

Formatted: Highlight

Formatted: Highlight

Formatted: Normal, No bullets or numbering

Our pledge to get there:

By 2022~~XX~~, ~~each student~~ every middle and high school student that enters the City's education system will be guided through this journey by a ~~Personalized Student Success Plan~~ Progress Pact

Formatted: Not Highlight

Formatted: Not Highlight

This will be a living contract between our students, families, teachers, and school leaders that outlines how each student will reach the goal of graduating high school, ~~and succeeding making~~ to college, and succeeding all the way ~~and through college~~.

With this contract, every student will be held accountable for driving their own learning, and every teacher, principal, and parent will be accountable for enabling that success.

~~Our vision, come to life:~~

~~I. Sam: A four year old is intently focused on building a tower of blocks, as her classmates play behind her—singing with a teacher, drawing early masterpieces, gazing at beginner books.~~

Formatted: Font: Italic

~~[THEMES: EARLY LEARNING, HIGH QUALITY TEACHING]~~

Goal: Kickstart lifetime of learning by ensuring every four year old is exposed to a high quality early learning environment.

What we've done towards this (proof we are undercutting status quo):

- Equity: offer a free, high quality pre K seat to the family of every 4 year old that wants one.
- Excellence: Trained teachers in every pre k classroom (prof dev)

What more we will do:

- Excellence: offer the best pre k program in the country within X years as measured by national program assessment tool

II. 8:30am: A second grader rides the bus to school with a parent, proudly showing off the book the class has been reading—explaining what it's about and which character she was chosen to play in a class activity yesterday.

Formatted: Font: Italic

[THEMES: READING, PARENT ENGAGEMENT, EXCELLENT TEACHERS, RENEWAL SCHOOLS, SPECIAL NEEDS ED (to be added in)]

Goal: Every second grader will read, giving them tools to excel in every other subject.

What we've done towards this (proof we are undercutting status quo):

- Equity: Making sure that all of our schools have great teachers and quality curriculum: Reading/writing workshops in Renewal Schools, following the model used at high-performing schools

What more we will do:

- Equity:
 - 100% of parents of students in K-2 will be aware of their child's reading level by 2017
 - [What do we do if a kid is off track, struggling to learn to read? What are the "targeted reading interventions"??]
- Excellence:
 - Every elementary school child will have access to challenging summer programming because summer learning loss is a serious issue for our students.
 - Increase summer programming for students by 50% by 2018 —NEED HARD #s

III. Noon: An eighth grader hunched over an algebra book in the library finally solves $A^2 + B^2 = C^2$, and sits back in wonder. She glances up at the clock to see how many minutes are left till her advisory session, when she can tell her adviser how hard it was—and how it feels to finally get it.

[THEMES: COMMUNITY SCHOOL, SOCIAL/EMOTIONAL LEARNING]

Goal: Every middle school student is socially, emotionally, and academically ready for high school. In 7th grade, show:

- Academic milestones:
 - Reading and writing at grade level
 - Completion of algebra OR proficiency in 8th grade math
 - Knowing how to manage a multi-stage assignment
- Personal milestones:
 - Resilience/persistence in dealing with setbacks and challenges
 - Conflict resolution: able to overcome conflicts and have healthy relationships with peers
 - Healthy management of emotions
 - Strong connection to a caring adult

What we've done towards this (proof we are undercutting status quo):

- Equity: Community schools model (color/examples TK from KG) — eye exams
- Excellence: Expand afterschool programs for all middle school students, this provides nurturing and academic focus that middle school students need

What more we will do:

- Equity:
 - Target supports for struggling 8th grade students: improve and increase our 8Plus Programs, which builds an academic bridge for high school — KG to provide data
 - Algebra is often called the gateway to higher level math coursework. We will substantially increase the number of Algebra courses offered to our 8th graders — introducing algebra to XX traditionally underserved schools that do not offer it — and maintain a high pass rate for our 8th grade students taking the Algebra Regents

Excellence:

- We will eliminate chronic absence and truancy in 6th grade — annual improvement from current XX% until we reach 100%
- Add research-based social-emotional learning programs to all middle schools by X — NEED REAL LIFE DETAILS HERE
- Continue investments to cultivate interests and passions in middle school students with by increasing arts and sports opportunities by XX — IN WHAT SCHOOLS? IS THIS AN EQUITY PLAY? WHAT IS CURRENT INVESTMENT?

IV. 4pm: A tenth grader runs her fingers over the pages of her ELA workbook. As a recent immigrant, she needs to pass the English Regents to graduate — so her school staff have created this extended learning period for her and the 15 other English Language Learners in the class.

{THEMES: RENEWAL SCHOOLS, ENGLISH LANGUAGE LEARNERS, GREAT PRINCIPALS}

Note: 20,000 students who begin high school don't finish.

Goal:

- Get every high school student on track to graduate ready for college, career, and independent living.
 - Increase # of 10th graders with credits and Regents needed to keep them on track to graduating on time and college/career ready \times times the number of students on track within Y years
- 75% four year graduation by 2020— an additional 5,000 graduates every year (up from 68%)
- Double the percent of college and career ready graduates by 2025

What we've done towards this (proof we are undercutting status quo):

Equity:

- As part of relentless focus on our most struggling schools at all levels of education: created Renewal Schools
- Ensuring the best instruction for Renewal and other schools by restaffing administrators and teachers who shouldn't be in a learning environment
- Extending the school day
- Tracking every Renewal School student— HOW DOES THIS PLAY AGAINST NEW PERSONAL PLANS
- Knocking down personal barriers: waiving testing fees, WHAT ELSE

What more we will do:

- Equity:
 - Ensure access to rigorous coursework necessary for success : increase # of AP and other advanced courses in traditionally underserved schools— NEED HARD #s HERE
 - Increase the number of CTE programs, because CTE students are more likely to graduate high school than their non CTE student counterparts —and have better outcomes for young male students of color
- Excellence:
 - Increase access to CUNY College Now and other programs that will expose students to college level material and enable them to begin earning credits
 - In 350 high schools today; grow to X by Y
 - [If a student is off track— what will we do?]

V. 5pm: A recent graduate comes home from her summer job cleaning hotel rooms to a letter from her [community?] college. It's her fall semester reading list. Total price of textbooks: $600.

[THEMES: TACKLING "SUMMER MELT," COLLEGE AFFORDABILITY FOR ALL]

- Note: 20,000 students who graduate high school do not enter college.
- Equity: We will not allow finances to be a barrier to education
 - Saving programs—a college savings account for every student to support and encourage family savings for college from a young age
 - Promise Program—a last dollar scholarship to ensure no student faces a gap in scholarship funding that prevents them from pursuing their studies
 - Tackling hidden barriers—identifying the oft forgotten financial challenges that impact many of our students and serve as a major barrier, and implement systemic solutions (e.g., providing all CUNY students with a free MetroCard, like NYC DOE students)

VI. 8:30pm: After a morning spent at a part time job and classes all afternoon and into the evening, college freshman enters the subway and carefully puts away her Metrocard. At the right stop, she runs up the stairs and greets her study group inside a public library. At stations all over the City, they each swiped a Metrocard provided by CUNY in order to be able to meet in one place and study for the next day's exam.

[THEMES: CUNY ASAP, AFFORDABILITY, PERSONAL SUPPORT FOR COLLEGE GRADUATION]

Note: 17,000 students who begin college do not finish.

- Equity: CUNY ASAP: Students who complete ASAP are more likely to graduate on time and with less debt than their peers. We have committed to expanding ASAP to serve 13,000 students over the next three years, and will continue to support its growth as more and more students graduate
- Excellence: Working to improve college advising at CUNY

VII. It's 8 a.m., the next day: a college senior/recent grad faces her reflection in a mirror, takes a deep breath, and locks the door behind her: on the way out the door for a job interview.

Goal: 20,000 more college degrees by 2025.

See: everything we've just revealed.

###

From: John Del Cecato
To: Hagelgans, Andrea; Hinton, Karen; Walzak, Phil; Adams Baker, Marti; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: Media Requests
Date: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 2:52:20 PM
Attachments: TPA Media Wish List.docx

Here's a more updated version with projected dates - sorry, sent the rough draft earlier

From: "Hagelgans, Andrea" <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 at 11:32 AM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, "Hinton, Karen" <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Walzak, Phil" <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Adams Baker, Marti" <MAdams@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca" <PSalazar-Rodriguez@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Snyder, Thomas" <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: RE: Media Requests

Yes, we've been looking at it within context of the calendar

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 11:31 AM
To: Hinton, Karen; Hagelgans, Andrea; Walzak, Phil; Adams Baker, Marti; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Snyder, Thomas
Subject: Re: Media Requests

I'm good with all of these...

Just so everyone has - here's the list that Team TPA gave to Andrea on our TPA Wish List for the next couple of months (attached)

From: "Hinton, Karen" <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 at 9:59 AM
To: "Hagelgans, Andrea" <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Walzak, Phil" <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Adams Baker, Marti" <MAdams@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca" <PSalazar-Rodriguez@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Snyder, Thomas" <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Cc: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Subject: Media Requests

Here are some media requests that I need to approve or decline. I would recommend we do all of these and give them dates. Let me now next steps.

WNBC wants to sponsor a quarterly Interview with the Mayor; they will work with us on how we want to design. Mayor told Phil and me he wanted to consider.

Sam Roberts' Close Up — keeps asking for interview with Mayor and First Lady

CNN's Poppy Harlow on income inequality

WABC management meeting – Proposed September 1 or 2 dates. We did WNBC and want to do the others.

NY Daily News Editorial Board

Should we do other ed boards? — Newsday, AMNY
Community papers — Amsterdam News, El Diario

Karen Hinton
Press Secretary
917-246-7692
Follow Me On Twitter @KarenHinton

TPA WISH LIST

PRIORITY FOR NEXT WEEK: Rachel Maddow

1. Rachel Maddow with MSNBC. Next week. Do a wrap-up of what's been happening since May 12th – not taking credit, but showing the momentum of progressive policies in action. Min wage hikes, paid family leave, paid sick leave (Obama), CEO pay transparency, Rikers reform. (Week of August 10)
2. Tavis Smiley. Sometime this summer. Talk about the report that said for the first time, AfAm kids in poverty outnumber white kids. Mass incarceration/Rikers, marijuana reform, stop-and-frisk reform. (Late August)
3. Student Debt. Facebook town hall around September education vision speech. Big plank in TPA. Highlight what other cities and states are doing to make higher education more affordable. Need Washington to get serious about debt-free college. (1st/2nd week of September?)
4. Poppy Harlow with CNN. Do an interview at a diner in East New York. Show her a Pre-K program. This is what we need everywhere in America. Lead-up to first day of school. Cite some report (one of our TPA partners write it?) that shows the huge impact that Pre-K has on combatting income inequality. Hook her up with a parent of a Pre-K child. (First day of school)
5. Vice TV. Take them on a ride on the 2-train, from low-income neighborhood to high-income neighborhood. Reference New School speech. Doesn't happen overnight. Need the state. Need the federal government. I'm doing everything I can. (Ideally 2nd week of September)
6. Do event with Roosevelt Institute around income inequality poll they will be releasing in September. Roosevelt or another group releases (or re-releases) a white paper to go along with it (something on inequality by the numbers). (Work around release date-- late September)
7. Reich event September 29th. Joint discussion on income inequality – maybe at a college. Maybe re-rollout Move On videos. Roll out Geri & co-chairs of TPA. (September 29)
8. Do an op-ed for Huffington Post on the one year anniversary of our last one? Democrats Need To Stiffen Our Backbones: Part II? Do it as a joint op-ed with Jeff Merkley? Year in review of what's happened since the first op-ed. (October 4)
9. Sirius town hall in October. In NYC – to all 27 million subscribers. Progressive host. Put 100 people in the studio to ask questions about various planks of

TPA. (First week of October)

10. Univision. Do an interview with Jorge Ramos on immigration reform/wage theft. Do it as a joint with Hector Figueroa. Talk about in context of TPA. (2nd week of October)

11. Presidential forum watch party. Late October. MBDB makes opening remarks from NYC. (Date TBD, late October)

12. TeleTown Hall in October with TPA VIPs representing states where there will be minimum wage referenda this November. Call on people to be sure to vote and push their friends, family, coworkers to vote. (last week of October)

13. Maria Bartiromo with FOX Business. Talk about tax fairness – specifically closing the CEO pay loophole. Need to rewrite the rules and make tax code more progressive. (TBD, October)

From: Blumm, Kate
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Hagelgans, Andrea; Walzak, Phil; Shorris, Anthony; "URamirez@schools.nyc.gov"; Goldmark, Karin; Williams, Dominic; "jonathan@berlinrosen.com"; John Del Cecato; Leopold, Elana; Devora Kaye; "Wallack Josh \(JWallack@schools.nyc.gov\)"; Wolfe, Emma; Schnake Mahl, Gabriel; Buery, Richard; Confer, Alexis; Fuleihan, Dean \(OMB\); Zuniga, Andrea
Subject: use clean version attached RE: the plan for today's Education Speech Prep
Date: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 3:19:00 PM
Attachments: EDUCATION VISION 2015_v3_clean.docx

Sent marked-up before, sorry!

From: Blumm, Kate
Sent: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 2:45 PM
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Hagelgans, Andrea; Walzak, Phil; Shorris, Anthony; 'URamirez@schools.nyc.gov'; Goldmark, Karin; Williams, Dominic; 'jonathan@berlinrosen.com'; 'John Del Cecato'; Leopold, Elana; Devora Kaye; 'Wallack Josh (JWallack@schools.nyc.gov)'; Wolfe, Emma; Schnake Mahl, Gabriel; Buery, Richard; Confer, Alexis; Fuleihan, Dean (OMB); Zuniga, Andrea
Subject: first doc here RE: the plan for today's Education Speech Prep

Adding Andie. Here's the first doc, attached. There's a lot to sift through so this is meant to bring some order to the proceedings. Note that this doesn't really detail the work underway—the HOW—of how our ideas are animated (e.g. we are Aiming High by increasing # of AP classes in underserved schools by X). The vignettes will have more of this sort of HOW.

Please let me know of concerns/thoughts/feelings/edits ASAP. Even though our meeting is canceled, I'd like to ship these docs to the Mayor tonight or ASAP.

<< File: EDUCATION VISION 2015_v3.docx >>

From: Blumm, Kate
Sent: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 10:05 AM
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Hagelgans, Andrea; Walzak, Phil; Shorris, Anthony; 'URamirez@schools.nyc.gov'; Goldmark, Karin; Williams, Dominic; 'jonathan@berlinrosen.com'; John Del Cecato; Leopold, Elana; Devora Kaye; 'Wallack Josh (JWallack@schools.nyc.gov)'; Wolfe, Emma; Schnake Mahl, Gabriel; Buery, Richard; Confer, Alexis; Fuleihan, Dean (OMB)
Subject: the plan for today's Education Speech Prep

Hi, all—I've connected variously with a bunch of you in the past day for some excellent feedback and updates. Right now I'm in the process of revising three documents to have available at the speech prep later:

- 1- Overall education vision and goals doc (with speech planning/goals too)
- 2- Vignettes doc (the student portraits we're painting in the speech to communicate the vision)
- 3- Pull quotes/soundbites doc

I'll send these around to you all as soon as they're ready for feedback so we're all on the same page heading into 5:30. Thanks very much.

-----Original Appointment-----

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca

Sent: Tuesday, August 11, 2015 7:11 PM

To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Hagelgans, Andrea; Blumm, Kate; Walzak, Phil; Shorris, Anthony; Griffith, Chantell; 'URamirez@schools.nyc.gov'; Goldmark, Karin; Williams, Dominic; 'jonathan@berlinrosen.com'; John Del Cecato; Leopold, Elana; Chao, Raymond; Devora Kaye; 'Wallack Josh (JWallack@schools.nyc.gov)'; Thornton, Demetrius; Wolfe, Emma; Schnake Mahl, Gabriel; Cutler, Dorothy; Buery, Richard; Confer, Alexis; Fuleihan, Dean (OMB)

Subject: MBDB: Education Speech Prep

When: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 5:30 PM-6:30 PM (UTC-05:00) Eastern Time (US & Canada).

Where: City Hall, The Blue Room

EQUITY AND EXCELLENCE

Every Day, Every Step of the Way

Speech notes:

- College is the fulcrum
 - We cannot fulfill our destiny unless every child who wants to go to college can
 - What is City's new vision of how to get kids to college, how to succeed there, how to afford it, and everything K-12 that supports that?
- APPROACH:
 - Anti-bureaucratic: child-centered, not system/government-centered
 - Anti-status quo – willingness to break it down – undercut perceptions we are perpetuating status quo
 - Historic shifts balanced with deliverables people will notice
- TONE: Positive, resolute, rallying (call to arms – our kids can do it; it will take us all), expansive: we are battling for the soul of public education

Why we are driven to action:

- The status quo is unacceptable.
- Education determines economic destiny more now than at any point in human history.
- NYC's success as a 21st century global city depends on the success of our education system.

Values behind our action:

- Every school can and should deliver an excellent education for every child.
- Every child can grow into a successful adult—ready for college, ready for life—if their education gives them the right tools.

Simple set of ideas that express/execute these values:

- Start educating children earlier so all children begin kindergarten ready to succeed.
- Make parents, the first and last teachers of children, our partners.
 - 40 minutes of parent-teacher time each week
 - Community schools
- Treat each school and each student individually. No two schools and no two children need the same support in order to excel.
 - To fulfill their potential, each child will travel their own academic, social, and emotional journey

- To become great, each school needs different amounts of support in the six key areas that comprise our Framework for Great Schools
- Break down all barriers to learning so children come to school ready to succeed.
 - Mental and physical health: community schools (social services, glasses, etc.)
 - Affordability: college savings accounts, testing waivers
- Aim high.
 - Don't force kids to dream about college, a living wage job and a career: show them
 - Every middle and high school will have a business partner
 - Huge numbers of kids in internships/mentorships/summer jobs
 - Every middle/high school student is taken on NYC college tours multiple times
 - Most rigorous curriculum/toughest tests in the nation
- Be accountable for both the process and the result.
 - We—City leaders, school leaders, teachers, parents—are all accountable to our students. Progress Pact.
 - Schools are accountable to us not just for test scores and grad rates, but for the rigorous instruction, collaborative teachers, supportive environments, strong family-community ties, effective school leaders, and trust that improve those scores and rates. This is the Framework for Great Schools. Research shows it works.
 - We (gov't) are accountable to New Yorkers for our schools' successes and difficulties alike.
 - We are giving more information for parents and all NYers on how schools are doing, where they need help, what that help looks like.
- Spread what works. Connect the whole system.
 - Veteran educators will help fellow teachers and principals improve, spreading success throughout the system.
 - Conduct bold experiments (PROSE) and spread what works.
- Treat tests as an important thing, not THE important thing.
 - They only tell you that you need to improve and where that improvement is needed—not how to get it done.
- Make the change that's necessary.
 - If schools cannot improve with our tailored and targeted support, we will change the personnel, the leadership, or the school itself. But we believe most schools can and will improve, and in fact that is the only route to true citywide improvement.
- Don't stop at graduation.
 - [academic and personal/mindset interventions to get kids to enroll, persist, and complete]

Our vision:

We are building people, not systems. A community of teachers, staff, and families grows around every student, supporting them at every turn, academically and personally, to and through college and/or a living wage job.

Our endgame goals:

- 75% four-year graduation rate – an additional 5,000 graduates – by 2020 (up from 68%)
- Double the number of college- and career-ready graduates to 50,000 a year (66%) by 2025 – can we bring in line with 2020?
- We will increase the number of DOE graduates completing college by 50% by 2020.

Our goals on the way, and the ways we'll know our progress towards achieving them:

- 1. Every child in NYC enters kindergarten ready to learn
 - Are all eligible 4-year-olds enrolled in full-day, high-quality Pre-K? (Goal: 100%)
- 2. Every elementary school student has the academic foundation to succeed
 - How many 2nd graders are reading on grade level? (Goal: 100%)
 - How many parents of students K-2 are aware of their child's reading level (Goal: 100%)
 - How many 3rd graders are proficient in ELA?
 - How many 5th graders can control impulses, manage stress, motivate themselves, and set and work towards goals?
 - How many 5th graders are proficient in math (measured by the State test)?
- 3. Every middle school student is socially, emotionally, and academically ready for high school
 - Are we reducing the number of 6th graders who are chronically absent?
 - How many 7th graders show resilience in dealing with setbacks and challenges, can manage their emotions, overcome conflict, and successfully manage complex projects?
 - Conflict resolution: able to overcome conflicts and have healthy relationships with peers
 - How many 8th graders are proficient in math (as measured by the State test and Algebra Regents)?
 - Are all our middle schoolers exposed to the arts and performance? (Note: this is an SED requirement)
- 4. Every high school student is on track to graduate, ready for college, career, and independent living
 - Are all our 9th and 10th graders accumulating the right number and nature of credits to be on track to graduate? (Goal: 100%)
 - How many high schoolers are taking AP or other college-level coursework? (Goal: ?)
 - How many of our graduates do not need remedial coursework in college?
 - How many high schoolers are graduating in 4 years? (Goal: 75% by 2020)
 - How many graduates enroll in college? (Goal: increase enrollment rates in CUNY2, CUNY 4, non-CUNY by 25% respectively by 2020)

- Persistence

Our pledge to get there:

By 2022, every middle and high school student that enters the City's education system will be guided through this journey by a Progress Pact.

This will be a living contract between our students, families, teachers, and school leaders that outlines how each student will reach the goal of graduating high school, making to college, and succeeding all the way through.

With this contract, every student will be held accountable for driving their own learning, and every teacher, principal, and parent will be accountable for enabling that success.

###

From: John Del Cecato
To: Viguers, Jonathan; Hayley Prim
Cc: Geri Prado
Subject: Re: Sept 10 Mayor's Event
Date: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 4:24:36 PM

Roger that - thanks

From: "Viguers, Jonathan" <JViguers@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 at 3:16 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>
Cc: Geri Prado <geri@progressiveagenda.us>
Subject: RE: Sept 10 Mayor's Event

I think those are good choices. I have tried both at the staff level but haven't received a response.

FYI - I did get a no's from Boston and Baltimore.

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 2:54 PM
To: Viguers, Jonathan; Hayley Prim
Cc: Geri Prado
Subject: FW: Sept 10 Mayor's Event

Hey Jonathan... We were going to have MBDB call Mayor Garcetti as a possible host of a similar event to what we're doing on 9/10 (see below) in Los Angeles... Also thinking he might ask Betsy Hodges & Ed Murray... Do you think those are good choices?

From: Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>
Date: Monday, August 17, 2015 at 2:53 PM
To: "Walzak, Phil" <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Andrea Hagelgans <[REDACTED]>
Cc: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, Thomas Snyder <TSnyder@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: Sept 10 Mayor's Event

Hi All--

Wanted to touch base with you regarding a Mayoral event coming up in a few weeks to make sure it is on everyone's radar.

On September 10 at 4:30PM the Mayor is hosting a screening of a Robert Greenwald movie about how the top 25 hedgefunders in the country make more than all of the kindergarten teachers combined, and teachers are also being taxed at a higher rate than hedgefund billionaires.

The movie is short (5-10 minutes) and the format though not set yet, will likely be opening remarks by BDB who intros the movie, screen the movie, then conversation with BDB (tbd) Robert Greenwald, others-- maybe a teacher, Carmen, etc.

We also need to get audience there for the screening. Not sure who else we need to loop in to make all of this happen, but wanted to get the conversation started.

JDC and I have been working with Greenwald so far, and have booked the space with PACE, but since it is a Mayoral event, i assume we need to loop in other agency folks, staff who can help crowdbuild, etc.

Would love to hear your thoughts on who else should be involved, next steps, etc.

Thanks,
Hayley

--

Hayley Prim

c: [REDACTED]

From: Viguers, Jonathan
To: "Hayley Prim"; John Del Cecato
Cc: Geri Prado
Subject: RE: Mayors Event - Cancel?
Date: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 6:14:34 PM

I don't know – I think it's still a good option. she didn't mention anything like that when I was on the phone with her nor did she seem concerned.

From: Hayley Prim [mailto:hayley@progressiveagenda.us]
Sent: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 5:59 PM
To: John Del Cecato
Cc: Viguers, Jonathan; Geri Prado
Subject: Re: Mayors Event - Cancel?

Minus outsiders.

I think this is a great event even if BDB is the only Mayor doing it. Aligns with back to school messaging, TPA, etc. Why do we feel we have to cancel it if it's jus him?

On Wed, Aug 19, 2015 at 5:56 PM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:
Give us another day or so. MBDB has call time tomorrow, and we're going to have him call Garcetti, as well as the mayors of MSP and Seattle... Not sure what the answer will be, but we'll do our best...

If they all say no, and you think that just doing it in NYC isn't worthwhile, we can & should have a call to discuss

From: Regina Clemente <regina@bravenewfilms.org>
Date: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 at 5:19 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: "Viguers, Jonathan" <JViguers@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Robert Greenwald <robert@bravenewfilms.org>
Subject: Mayors Event - Cancel?

Hi there -

I just spoke with Jonathan and found out that the only other Mayor potentially on board is Dayton, Ohio.

We can't do an event with just NY & Dayton – so it seems like this may be falling apart.

Do you want to cancel the event?

Let us know and we are happy to jump on a call to discuss.

Thanks,
Regina

--

Hayley Prim

c: [REDACTED]

From: John Del Cecato
To: Hayley Prim
Cc: Viguers, Jonathan; Geri Prado
Subject: Re: Mayors Event - Cancel?
Date: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 6:17:02 PM

I have no idea... They may be trying to push us harder by suggesting cancelation... Or maybe they don't think NYC is a big enough platform???? :)

From: Hayley Prim <hayley@progressiveagenda.us>
Date: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 at 5:58 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: "Viguers, Jonathan" <JViguers@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Geri Prado <geri@progressiveagenda.us>
Subject: Re: Mayors Event - Cancel?

Minus outsiders.

I think this is a great event even if BDB is the only Mayor doing it. Aligns with back to school messaging, TPA, etc. Why do we feel we have to cancel it if it's jus him?

On Wed, Aug 19, 2015 at 5:56 PM, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

Give us another day or so. MBDB has call time tomorrow, and we're going to have him call Garcetti, as well as the mayors of MSP and Seattle... Not sure what the answer will be, but we'll do our best...

If they all say no, and you think that just doing it in NYC isn't worthwhile, we can & should have a call to discuss

From: Regina Clemente <regina@bravenewfilms.org>
Date: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 at 5:19 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
Cc: "Viguers, Jonathan" <JViguers@cityhall.nyc.gov>, Robert Greenwald <robert@bravenewfilms.org>
Subject: Mayors Event - Cancel?

Hi there -

I just spoke with Jonathan and found out that the only other Mayor potentially on board is Dayton, Ohio.

We can't do an event with just NY & Dayton – so it seems like this may be falling apart.

Do you want to cancel the event?

Let us know and we are happy to jump on a call to discuss.

Thanks,
Regina

--

Hayley Prim

c: [REDACTED]

From: Blumm, Kate
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Hagelgans, Andrea; Walzak, Phil; Shorris, Anthony; "URamirez@schools.nyc.gov"; Goldmark, Karin; Williams, Dominic; "jonathan@berlinrosen.com"; John Del Cecato; Leopold, Elana; Devora Kaye; "Wallack Josh (JWallack@schools.nyc.gov)"; Wolfe, Emma; Schnake Mahl, Gabriel; Buery, Richard; Confer, Alexis; Fuleihan, Dean \(OMB\); Zuniga, Andrea
Subject: please send thoughts
Date: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 6:37:00 PM
Attachments: EDUCATION VISION 2015_v3_clean.docx

I'm using extra time to keep working on vignettes etc., but please send thoughts on the foundational document sent earlier and reattached here. Thanks very much.

From: Blumm, Kate
Sent: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 3:20 PM
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Hagelgans, Andrea; Walzak, Phil; Shorris, Anthony; 'URamirez@schools.nyc.gov'; Goldmark, Karin; Williams, Dominic; 'jonathan@berlinrosen.com'; 'John Del Cecato'; Leopold, Elana; Devora Kaye; 'Wallack Josh (JWallack@schools.nyc.gov)'; Wolfe, Emma; Schnake Mahl, Gabriel; Buery, Richard; Confer, Alexis; Fuleihan, Dean (OMB); Zuniga, Andrea
Subject: use clean version attached RE: the plan for today's Education Speech Prep

Sent marked-up before, sorry!

<< File: EDUCATION VISION 2015_v3_clean.docx >>

From: Blumm, Kate
Sent: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 2:45 PM
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Hagelgans, Andrea; Walzak, Phil; Shorris, Anthony; 'URamirez@schools.nyc.gov'; Goldmark, Karin; Williams, Dominic; 'jonathan@berlinrosen.com'; 'John Del Cecato'; Leopold, Elana; Devora Kaye; 'Wallack Josh (JWallack@schools.nyc.gov)'; Wolfe, Emma; Schnake Mahl, Gabriel; Buery, Richard; Confer, Alexis; Fuleihan, Dean (OMB); Zuniga, Andrea
Subject: first doc here RE: the plan for today's Education Speech Prep

Adding Andie. Here's the first doc, attached. There's a lot to sift through so this is meant to bring some order to the proceedings. Note that this doesn't really detail the work underway—the HOW—of how our ideas are animated (e.g. we are Aiming High by increasing # of AP classes in underserved schools by X). The vignettes will have more of this sort of HOW.

Please let me know of concerns/thoughts/feelings/edits ASAP. Even though our meeting is canceled, I'd like to ship these docs to the Mayor tonight or ASAP.

<< File: EDUCATION VISION 2015_v3.docx >>

From: Blumm, Kate
Sent: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 10:05 AM
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Hagelgans, Andrea; Walzak, Phil; Shorris, Anthony; 'URamirez@schools.nyc.gov'; Goldmark, Karin; Williams, Dominic; 'jonathan@berlinrosen.com'; John Del Cecato; Leopold, Elana; Devora Kaye; 'Wallack Josh (JWallack@schools.nyc.gov)'; Wolfe, Emma; Schnake Mahl, Gabriel; Buery, Richard; Confer, Alexis; Fuleihan, Dean (OMB)

Subject: the plan for today's Education Speech Prep

Hi, all—I've connected variously with a bunch of you in the past day for some excellent feedback and updates. Right now I'm in the process of revising three documents to have available at the speech prep later:

- 1- Overall education vision and goals doc (with speech planning/goals too)
- 2- Vignettes doc (the student portraits we're painting in the speech to communicate the vision)
- 3- Pull quotes/soundbites doc

I'll send these around to you all as soon as they're ready for feedback so we're all on the same page heading into 5:30. Thanks very much.

-----Original Appointment-----

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca

Sent: Tuesday, August 11, 2015 7:11 PM

To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Hagelgans, Andrea; Blumm, Kate; Walzak, Phil; Shorris, Anthony; Griffith, Chantell; 'URamirez@schools.nyc.gov'; Goldmark, Karin; Williams, Dominic; 'jonathan@berlinrosen.com'; John Del Cecato; Leopold, Elana; Chao, Raymond; Devora Kaye; 'Wallack Josh (JWallack@schools.nyc.gov)'; Thornton, Demetrius; Wolfe, Emma; Schnake Mahl, Gabriel; Cutler, Dorothy; Buery, Richard; Confer, Alexis; Fuleihan, Dean (OMB)

Subject: MBDB: Education Speech Prep

When: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 5:30 PM-6:30 PM (UTC-05:00) Eastern Time (US & Canada).

Where: City Hall, The Blue Room

EQUITY AND EXCELLENCE

Every Day, Every Step of the Way

Speech notes:

- College is the fulcrum
 - We cannot fulfill our destiny unless every child who wants to go to college can
 - What is City's new vision of how to get kids to college, how to succeed there, how to afford it, and everything K-12 that supports that?
- APPROACH:
 - Anti-bureaucratic: child-centered, not system/government-centered
 - Anti-status quo – willingness to break it down – undercut perceptions we are perpetuating status quo
 - Historic shifts balanced with deliverables people will notice
- TONE: Positive, resolute, rallying (call to arms – our kids can do it; it will take us all), expansive: we are battling for the soul of public education

Why we are driven to action:

- The status quo is unacceptable.
- Education determines economic destiny more now than at any point in human history.
- NYC's success as a 21st century global city depends on the success of our education system.

Values behind our action:

- Every school can and should deliver an excellent education for every child.
- Every child can grow into a successful adult—ready for college, ready for life—if their education gives them the right tools.

Simple set of ideas that express/execute these values:

- Start educating children earlier so all children begin kindergarten ready to succeed.
- Make parents, the first and last teachers of children, our partners.
 - 40 minutes of parent-teacher time each week
 - Community schools
- Treat each school and each student individually. No two schools and no two children need the same support in order to excel.
 - To fulfill their potential, each child will travel their own academic, social, and emotional journey

- To become great, each school needs different amounts of support in the six key areas that comprise our Framework for Great Schools
- Break down all barriers to learning so children come to school ready to succeed.
 - Mental and physical health: community schools (social services, glasses, etc.)
 - Affordability: college savings accounts, testing waivers
- Aim high.
 - Don't force kids to dream about college, a living wage job and a career: show them
 - Every middle and high school will have a business partner
 - Huge numbers of kids in internships/mentorships/summer jobs
 - Every middle/high school student is taken on NYC college tours multiple times
 - Most rigorous curriculum/toughest tests in the nation
- Be accountable for both the process and the result.
 - We—City leaders, school leaders, teachers, parents—are all accountable to our students. Progress Pact.
 - Schools are accountable to us not just for test scores and grad rates, but for the rigorous instruction, collaborative teachers, supportive environments, strong family-community ties, effective school leaders, and trust that improve those scores and rates. This is the Framework for Great Schools. Research shows it works.
 - We (gov't) are accountable to New Yorkers for our schools' successes and difficulties alike.
 - We are giving more information for parents and all NYers on how schools are doing, where they need help, what that help looks like.
- Spread what works. Connect the whole system.
 - Veteran educators will help fellow teachers and principals improve, spreading success throughout the system.
 - Conduct bold experiments (PROSE) and spread what works.
- Treat tests as an important thing, not THE important thing.
 - They only tell you that you need to improve and where that improvement is needed—not how to get it done.
- Make the change that's necessary.
 - If schools cannot improve with our tailored and targeted support, we will change the personnel, the leadership, or the school itself. But we believe most schools can and will improve, and in fact that is the only route to true citywide improvement.
- Don't stop at graduation.
 - [academic and personal/mindset interventions to get kids to enroll, persist, and complete]

Our vision:

We are building people, not systems. A community of teachers, staff, and families grows around every student, supporting them at every turn, academically and personally, to and through college and/or a living wage job.

Our endgame goals:

- 75% four-year graduation rate – an additional 5,000 graduates – by 2020 (up from 68%)
- Double the number of college- and career-ready graduates to 50,000 a year (66%) by 2025 – can we bring in line with 2020?
- We will increase the number of DOE graduates completing college by 50% by 2020.

Our goals on the way, and the ways we'll know our progress towards achieving them:

- 1. Every child in NYC enters kindergarten ready to learn
 - Are all eligible 4-year-olds enrolled in full-day, high-quality Pre-K? (Goal: 100%)
- 2. Every elementary school student has the academic foundation to succeed
 - How many 2nd graders are reading on grade level? (Goal: 100%)
 - How many parents of students K-2 are aware of their child's reading level (Goal: 100%)
 - How many 3rd graders are proficient in ELA?
 - How many 5th graders can control impulses, manage stress, motivate themselves, and set and work towards goals?
 - How many 5th graders are proficient in math (measured by the State test)?
- 3. Every middle school student is socially, emotionally, and academically ready for high school
 - Are we reducing the number of 6th graders who are chronically absent?
 - How many 7th graders show resilience in dealing with setbacks and challenges, can manage their emotions, overcome conflict, and successfully manage complex projects?
 - Conflict resolution: able to overcome conflicts and have healthy relationships with peers
 - How many 8th graders are proficient in math (as measured by the State test and Algebra Regents)?
 - Are all our middle schoolers exposed to the arts and performance? (Note: this is an SED requirement)
- 4. Every high school student is on track to graduate, ready for college, career, and independent living
 - Are all our 9th and 10th graders accumulating the right number and nature of credits to be on track to graduate? (Goal: 100%)
 - How many high schoolers are taking AP or other college-level coursework? (Goal: ?)
 - How many of our graduates do not need remedial coursework in college?
 - How many high schoolers are graduating in 4 years? (Goal: 75% by 2020)
 - How many graduates enroll in college? (Goal: increase enrollment rates in CUNY2, CUNY 4, non-CUNY by 25% respectively by 2020)

- Persistence

Our pledge to get there:

By 2022, every middle and high school student that enters the City's education system will be guided through this journey by a Progress Pact.

This will be a living contract between our students, families, teachers, and school leaders that outlines how each student will reach the goal of graduating high school, making to college, and succeeding all the way through.

With this contract, every student will be held accountable for driving their own learning, and every teacher, principal, and parent will be accountable for enabling that success.

###

From: Goldmark, Karin
To: Blumm, Kate; Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Hagelgans, Andrea; Walzak, Phil; Shorris, Anthony; "URamirez@schools.nyc.gov"; Williams, Dominic; "jonathan@berlinrosen.com"; John Del Cecato; Leopold. Elana; Devora Kaye; "Wallack Josh \(JWallack@schools.nyc.gov\)"; Wolfe, Emma; Schnake Mahl, Gabriel; Bury, Richard; Confer, Alexis; Fuleihan, Dean \(OMB\); Zuniga, Andrea
Subject: RE: please send thoughts
Date: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 7:35:56 PM
Attachments: EDUCATION VISION 2015 v3 kg edits.docx

Kate,

I think this is coming together nicely. A few thoughts, mostly for us to provide more to you...

Changes tracked in this document.

1. Starting from 5th grade onward, we make absolutely no mention of literacy. I think this is bad signaling and we should include literacy development past 2nd grade.
2. In response to your question, hard to make 2020 the college goal bc (a) that's only 5 years away and we need a longer runway to hit target and (b) City already has a 2020 college completion target—double # of grads coming out of CUNY—a goal I think we should name, embrace, and build on in the college graduation part. Relevant section on goals pasted below with suggested changes.
3. We still need to provide a lot more “how.” We say we will make sure all 2nd graders are reading, but no talk of how we will do that. Same for the graduation rate goals. So, either we need to be super clear and committed to our message that every kid is different and every school's needs are different, or we need to have some way of answering this question—professional development, strong curriculum, constant communication with parents, or, even better, more specific. Maybe this all goes in the Phil Walzak Plan of Action companion book, not in the speech—but I think we have to have it somewhere.
4. Where are we on getting to actual numbers for the college attainment part? Are these the actual target numbers in here, vetted by DOE?

From: Blumm, Kate
Sent: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 6:37 PM
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Hagelgans, Andrea; Walzak, Phil; Shorris, Anthony; 'URamirez@schools.nyc.gov'; Goldmark, Karin; Williams, Dominic; 'jonathan@berlinrosen.com'; John Del

Cecato; Leopold, Elana; Devora Kaye; 'Wallack Josh (JWallack@schools.nyc.gov)'; Wolfe, Emma; Schnake Mahl, Gabriel; Buery, Richard; Confer, Alexis; Fuleihan, Dean (OMB); Zuniga, Andrea
Subject: please send thoughts

I'm using extra time to keep working on vignettes etc., but please send thoughts on the foundational document sent earlier and reattached here. Thanks very much.

<< File: EDUCATION VISION 2015_v3_clean.docx >>

From: Blumm, Kate
Sent: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 3:20 PM
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Hagelgans, Andrea; Walzak, Phil; Shorris, Anthony; 'URamirez@schools.nyc.gov'; Goldmark, Karin; Williams, Dominic; 'jonathan@berlinrosen.com'; 'John Del Cecato'; Leopold, Elana; Devora Kaye; 'Wallack Josh (JWallack@schools.nyc.gov)'; Wolfe, Emma; Schnake Mahl, Gabriel; Buery, Richard; Confer, Alexis; Fuleihan, Dean (OMB); Zuniga, Andrea
Subject: use clean version attached RE: the plan for today's Education Speech Prep

Sent marked-up before, sorry!

<< File: EDUCATION VISION 2015_v3_clean.docx >>

From: Blumm, Kate
Sent: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 2:45 PM
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Hagelgans, Andrea; Walzak, Phil; Shorris, Anthony; 'URamirez@schools.nyc.gov'; Goldmark, Karin; Williams, Dominic; 'jonathan@berlinrosen.com'; 'John Del Cecato'; Leopold, Elana; Devora Kaye; 'Wallack Josh (JWallack@schools.nyc.gov)'; Wolfe, Emma; Schnake Mahl, Gabriel; Buery, Richard; Confer, Alexis; Fuleihan, Dean (OMB); Zuniga, Andrea
Subject: first doc here RE: the plan for today's Education Speech Prep

Adding Andie. Here's the first doc, attached. There's a lot to sift through so this is meant to bring some order to the proceedings. Note that this doesn't really detail the work underway—the HOW—of how our ideas are animated (e.g. we are Aiming High by increasing # of AP classes in underserved schools by X). The vignettes will have more of this sort of HOW.

Please let me know of concerns/thoughts/feelings/edits ASAP. Even though our meeting is canceled, I'd like to ship these docs to the Mayor tonight or ASAP.

<< File: EDUCATION VISION 2015_v3.docx >>

From: Blumm, Kate
Sent: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 10:05 AM
To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Hagelgans, Andrea; Walzak, Phil; Shorris, Anthony; 'URamirez@schools.nyc.gov'; Goldmark, Karin; Williams, Dominic; 'jonathan@berlinrosen.com'; John Del Cecato; Leopold, Elana; Devora Kaye; 'Wallack Josh (JWallack@schools.nyc.gov)'; Wolfe, Emma; Schnake Mahl, Gabriel; Buery, Richard; Confer, Alexis; Fuleihan, Dean (OMB)
Subject: the plan for today's Education Speech Prep

Hi, all—I've connected variously with a bunch of you in the past day for some excellent feedback and updates. Right now I'm in the process of revising three documents to have available at the speech prep later:

- 1- Overall education vision and goals doc (with speech planning/goals too)
- 2- Vignettes doc (the student portraits we're painting in the speech to communicate the vision)
- 3- Pull quotes/soundbites doc

I'll send these around to you all as soon as they're ready for feedback so we're all on the same page heading into 5:30. Thanks very much.

-----Original Appointment-----

From: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca

Sent: Tuesday, August 11, 2015 7:11 PM

To: Salazar-Rodriguez, Prisca; Hagelgans, Andrea; Blumm, Kate; Walzak, Phil; Shorris, Anthony; Griffith, Chantell; 'URamirez@schools.nyc.gov'; Goldmark, Karin; Williams, Dominic; 'jonathan@berlinrosen.com'; John Del Cecato; Leopold, Elana; Chao, Raymond; Devora Kaye; 'Wallack Josh

(JWallack@schools.nyc.gov); Thornton, Demetrius; Wolfe, Emma; Schnake Mahl, Gabriel; Cutler, Dorothy; Buery, Richard; Confer, Alexis; Fuleihan, Dean (OMB)

Subject: MBDB: Education Speech Prep

When: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 5:30 PM-6:30 PM (UTC-05:00) Eastern Time (US & Canada).

Where: City Hall, The Blue Room

EDUCATION VISION 2015: Update August 19, 2:35pm

EQUITY AND EXCELLENCE

Every Day, Every Step of the Way

Speech notes:

- College is the fulcrum
 - We cannot fulfill our destiny unless every child who wants to go to college can
 - What is City's new vision of how to get kids to college, how to succeed there, how to afford it, and everything K-12 that supports that?
- APPROACH:
 - Anti-bureaucratic: child-centered, not system/government-centered
 - Anti-status quo – willingness to break it down – undercut perceptions we are perpetuating status quo
 - Historic shifts balanced with deliverables people will notice
- TONE: Positive, resolute, rallying (call to arms – our kids can do it; it will take us all), expansive: we are battling for the soul of public education

Why we are driven to action:

- The status quo is unacceptable.
- Education determines economic destiny more now than at any point in human history.
- NYC's success as a 21st century global city depends on the success of our education system.

Values behind our action:

- Every school can and should deliver an excellent education for every child.
- Every child can grow into a successful adult—ready for college, ready for life—if their education gives them the right tools.

Simple set of ideas that express/execute these values:

- Start educating children earlier so all children begin kindergarten ready to succeed.
- Make parents, the first and last teachers of children, our partners.
 - 40 minutes of parent-teacher time each week
 - Community schools
- Treat each school and each student individually. No two schools and no two children need the same support in order to excel.
 - To fulfill their potential, each child will travel their own academic, social, and emotional journey

- To become great, each school needs different amounts of support in the six key areas that comprise our Framework for Great Schools
- Break down all barriers to learning so children come to school ready to succeed.
 - Mental and physical health: community schools (social services, glasses, etc.)
 - Affordability: college savings accounts, testing waivers
- Aim high.
 - Don't force kids to dream about college, a living wage job and a career: show them
 - Every middle and high school will have a business partner
 - Huge numbers of kids in internships/mentorships/summer jobs
 - Every middle/high school student is taken on NYC college tours multiple times
 - Most rigorous curriculum/toughest tests in the nation
- Be accountable for both the process and the result.
 - We—City leaders, school leaders, teachers, parents—are all accountable to our students. Progress Pact.
 - Schools are accountable to us not just for test scores and grad rates, but for the rigorous instruction, collaborative teachers, supportive environments, strong family-community ties, effective school leaders, and trust that improve those scores and rates. This is the Framework for Great Schools. Research shows it works.
 - We (gov't) are accountable to New Yorkers for our schools' successes and difficulties alike.
 - We are giving more information for parents and all NYers on how schools are doing, where they need help, what that help looks like.
- Spread what works. Connect the whole system.
 - Veteran educators will help fellow teachers and principals improve, spreading success throughout the system.
 - Conduct bold experiments (PROSE) and spread what works.
- Treat tests as an important thing, not THE important thing.
 - They only tell you that you need to improve and where that improvement is needed—not how to get it done.
- Make the change that's necessary.
 - If schools cannot improve with our tailored and targeted support, we will change the personnel, the leadership, or the school itself. But we believe most schools can and will improve, and in fact that is the only route to true citywide improvement.
- Don't stop at graduation.
 - [academic and personal/mindset interventions to get kids to enroll, persist, and complete]
 - College Savings Accounts
 - Scale ASAP to help more students make it through community college

Formatted: Font: Bold

Formatted: Font: Bold

Our vision:

We are building people, not systems. A community of teachers, staff, and families grows around every student, supporting them at every turn, academically and personally, to and through college and/or a living wage job.

Our endgame goals:

- 75% four-year graduation rate – an additional 5,000 graduates – by 2020 (up from 68%)
- Double the number of college- and career-ready graduates to 50,000 a year (66%) by 2025 ~~—can we bring in line with 2020?~~
- We will increase the number of DOE graduates completing college by 50% by ~~2020~~2030.
- CHANGE TO ONE OF FOLLOWING:
 - Increase college graduation rate by 50% (= if 15K now, will go to 22.5K)
 - Double college graduation rate (from 15K to 30K)
 - Already on track to double the number of college grads coming out of CUNY by 2020—need to do even more—will need to reach XX,000 college graduates per year by 2030.
 - This will represent XX,000 additional college graduates.

Comment [GK1]: Need to give ourselves a runway here, 2020 kids are in 8th grade now Doubling college readiness while the standards continue to get higher for HS kids is a big, big lift

Formatted

Our goals on the way, and the ways we'll know our progress towards achieving them:

1. Every child in NYC enters kindergarten ready to learn
 - Are all eligible 4-year-olds enrolled in full-day, high-quality Pre-K? (Goal: 100%)
2. Every elementary school student has the academic foundation to succeed
 - How many 2nd graders are reading on grade level? (Goal: 100%)
 - How many parents of students K-2 are aware of their child's reading level (Goal: 100%)
 - How many 3rd graders are proficient in ELA reading and writing?
 - How many 5th graders can control impulses, manage stress, motivate themselves, and set and work towards goals?
 - How many 5th graders are proficient in math (measured by the State test)?
3. Every middle school student is socially, emotionally, and academically ready for high school
 - Are we reducing the number of 6th graders who are chronically absent?
 - How many 7th graders show resilience in dealing with setbacks and challenges, can manage their emotions, overcome conflict, and successfully manage complex projects?
 - Conflict resolution: able to overcome conflicts and have healthy relationships with peers
 - How many 8th graders are proficient in math (as measured by the State test and Algebra Regents)?

- Are all our middle schoolers exposed to the arts and performance? (Note: this is an SED requirement)

4. Every high school student is on track to graduate, ready for college, career, and independent living

- Are all our 9th and 10th graders accumulating the right number and ~~nature~~ kind of credits to be on track to graduate? (Goal: 100%)
- Can our students manage and successfully complete a multi-stage assignment such as a research project—assignments they will get in college from day one and that cannot be assessed through a standardized test?
- How many high schoolers are taking AP or other college-level coursework? (Goal: ?)
- How many of our graduates do not need remedial coursework in college?
- How many high schoolers are graduating in 4 years? (Goal: 75% by 2020)
- How many graduates enroll in college? (Goal: increase enrollment rates in CUNY2, CUNY 4, non-CUNY by 25% respectively by 2020)
- Persistence

Our pledge to get there:

By ~~2022~~2018, every middle and high school student that enters the City’s education system will be guided through this journey by a Progress Pact.

This will be a living contract between our students, families, teachers, and school leaders that outlines how each student will reach the goal of graduating high school, making to college, and succeeding all the way through.

With this contract, every student will be held accountable for driving their own learning, and every teacher, principal, and parent will be accountable for enabling that success.

###

Comment [GK2]: Between sounds better but is technically not correct, shld be among Grammar cop in me has to say it but I get it if it has to stay this way

From: John Del Cecato
To: Hinton, Karen
Subject: Re:
Date: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 11:12:58 PM

I think I agree with you

> On Aug 19, 2015, at 11:12 PM, Hinton, Karen <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:

>

> That's why he mentioned it — as a reason NOT to do Lehrer. The argument > being the call-ins generate stories we don't want — an unknown risk.

>

> Karen Hinton
> Press Secretary
> 917-246-7692
> Follow Me On Twitter @KarenHinton

>

>

>

>

>

>

>> On 8/19/15, 11:08 PM, "John Del Cecato" <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

>>

>> Cool. 8am is good.

>>

>> The story in NYT. Phil mentioned headline in the meeting - but story >> itself isn't great.

>>

>>

>>> On Aug 19, 2015, at 11:00 PM, Hinton, Karen <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov>
>>> wrote:

>>>

>>> Breakfast is good. See you at 8 am. I can work out the other thing. Then >>> we have a 1 pm event, so can't do lunch.

>>>

>>> Which story do you mean?

>>>

>>>

>>>

>>> Karen Hinton
>>> Press Secretary
>>> 917-246-7692
>>> Follow Me On Twitter @KarenHinton

>>>

>>>

>>>

>>>

>>>

>>>

>>>> On 8/19/15, 10:55 PM, "John Del Cecato" <jfdc@akpdmedia.com> wrote:

>>>>

>>>> Not the best story. Not sure why Phil mentioned. Maybe he hadn't >>>> read

>>>> it yet.

>>>>

>>>> Anyway - what are your thoughts on tomorrow? If breakfast isn't >>>> workable
>>>> - could we do lunch?
>

From: John Del Cecato
To: B
Subject: Re: Tonite
Date: Thursday, August 20, 2015 7:11:48 AM

Argh - sorry - the heat must have melted my memory - I can talk this AM

> On Aug 20, 2015, at 7:11 AM, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>
>
> Ok, I'm not going to ask you to remember to bring up topics at the planning mtg anymore... See below
>
>
> ----- Original Message -----
> From: B
> Sent: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 10:00 AM
> To: 'jfdc@akpdmedia.com' <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>
> Subject: Re: Tonite
>
>
> And discuss pebbles tonite
>
>
> ----- Original Message -----
> From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
> Sent: Wednesday, August 19, 2015 09:50 AM
> To: B
> Subject: Re: Tonite
>
> Ok
>
>
>
>> On Aug 19, 2015, at 9:47 AM, B <BCCD@cityhall.nyc.gov> wrote:
>>
>>
>> Pls raise the example of trump and christie before and authenticity

From: John Del Cecato
To: Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea; Hinton, Karen
Subject: Re: <no subject>
Date: Thursday, August 20, 2015 1:58:21 PM

I'm with you guys - just reporting back!

From: "Walzak, Phil" <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Thursday, August 20, 2015 at 1:55 PM
To: "Hagelgans, Andrea" <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>, John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, "Hinton, Karen" <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: RE: <no subject>

Thank you andrea

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
Sent: Thursday, August 20, 2015 1:54 PM
To: 'John Del Cecato'; Walzak, Phil; Hinton, Karen
Subject: RE: <no subject>

Umm, we have email, he has a comms person. That is a BS reason

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Thursday, August 20, 2015 1:53 PM
To: Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea; Hinton, Karen
Subject: Re: <no subject>

The report I heard was that Commissioner Chong didn't get a return call from City Hall - but that's third-hand

From: "Walzak, Phil" <PWalzak@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Date: Thursday, August 20, 2015 at 1:41 PM
To: John Del Cecato <jfdc@akpdmedia.com>, "Hagelgans, Andrea" <AHagelgans@cityhall.nyc.gov>, "Hinton, Karen" <KHinton@cityhall.nyc.gov>
Subject: RE: <no subject>

Will confirm – wish ppl would fucking share that

From: John Del Cecato [<mailto:jfdc@akpdmedia.com>]
Sent: Thursday, August 20, 2015 1:39 PM
To: Walzak, Phil; Hagelgans, Andrea; Hinton, Karen
Subject: <no subject>

I heard through the grapevine that NYC has had the most sign-ups ever for our Summer Youth Program... Something we can trumpet?

From: Snyder, Thomas
To: B; John Del Ceccato; Geri Prado; Hayley Primm
Subject: FW: NYT: Birmingham Bounce: Raising the Minimum Wage in the South
Date: Thursday, August 20, 2015 2:40:56 PM

Birmingham Bounce: Raising the Minimum Wage in the South

NY TIMES - Teresa Tritch

<http://takingnote.blogs.nytimes.com/2015/08/20/birmingham-bounce-raising-the-minimum-wage-in-the-south/>

By a vote of 7 to 0 with one abstention, the city council of Birmingham, Ala. adopted a citywide minimum wage this week of $10.10 by 2017, with increases for inflation every year after that.

The vote is remarkable in several ways. Alabama is one of only five states that do not have a state minimum wage. (The others are Louisiana, Mississippi, South Carolina and Tennessee.) Employers in those states have to pay at least the federal minimum of $7.25 an hour, but not in all professions, including tipped work like waitressing and home care for the aged.

The absence of state minimums reflects a tolerance for poverty-level wages that is, in turn, a vestige of slavery in the South. By instituting a city minimum, Birmingham is taking a step away from all that.

The size of the increase is also noteworthy. At $10.10 an hour, the minimum in Birmingham will be equal to or greater than state minimums being phased in currently in California, New York, Michigan, Minnesota, Connecticut, Hawaii and Maryland, to name just a few places where minimums exceed the federal level.

One of the arguments conservatives make against increasing the federal minimum is that raises that seem practical in one area may be impractical in another. That becomes a harder argument to make if Birmingham is paying as much or more than, say, Honolulu or New York City.

It is also significant that Birmingham is not the only southern or mid-size city to pay more. Louisville, Ky. and Kansas City, Mo. are also raising their minimums, to $9 by mid-2017 and to $13 by 2020, respectively.

Importantly, higher minimum wages on state and local levels help to pave the way for a higher federal minimum wage. Congressional Democrats have called for phasing in a higher minimum by 2020, to either $12 or $15, depending on the proposal. State and local minimums that are set to exceed $10 in the next year or so will already be at or closing in on $12 in 2020, assuming modest upward adjustments for wage and price inflation. A $15 federal minimum is more ambitious, but plausible, especially if a higher minimum is paired with policies to boost middle-class wages as well.

The minimum wage in Birmingham, which still has to be approved by the city attorney, could benefit up to 40,000 workers, or nearly 20 percent of the city's population, according to the National Employment Law Project, a research and advocacy group. In voting for the raise, city council members noted that the benefit of higher wages would extend beyond low-wage workers to local businesses that would get a boost from workers' increased purchasing power.

That is some of the same enlightened reasoning that led to the passage of the first federal minimum wage law in 1938. It is as valid now as it was then.

From: Hagelgans, Andrea
To: Cahan, Aaron \(Media\) \(acahan@media.nyc.gov\); Bennett, Rob; Tobias Rodriguez \(tobrodriguez@media.nyc.gov\)
Cc: Singleton, Jessica; John Del Cecato \(jfdc@akpdmedia.com\); Blumm, Kate; Seignious, Sandy
Subject: Education Speech
Date: Thursday, August 20, 2015 2:49:59 PM
Attachments: EDUCATION VISION 2015 v4.docx

Hi team,

On September 16, the Mayor will announce his education vision in a speech. The outline attached is his working draft that continues to be fleshed out. I'd love to meet to discuss the roll-in, roll-out and visual collaterals to create high impact

Here's additional info

- A white paper is being produced to accompany the speech (I haven't seen a draft yet).
- Mayor's hoping for video and email (Shorris loved today's video)

We're still working on the catch-phrase/slogan that crystallizes the vision.

Could we meet next week?

Thanks

EDUCATION VISION 2015: Update August 20, 1:45pm

EQUITY AND EXCELLENCE

Every Day, Every Step of the Way

Speech notes:

- College is the fulcrum
 - We cannot fulfill our destiny unless every child who wants to go to college can
 - What is City's new vision of how to get kids to college, how to succeed there, how to afford it, and everything K-12 that supports that?
- APPROACH:
