In lieu of the shooting on the school bus this morning near CUMC -- should I be worried about putting my daughter on a bus tomorrow? Was this random?

 NYPD 34th Police Precinct That was actually the 33rd Pct. But I spoke to the Commander of that Pct, and the shots fired had nothing to do with the school bus. The bus was not the intended target.

Good afternoon, The 34th Precinct has been informed of an incident that occurred on West 215 Street Steps last week. We have reviewed video provided by a resident of Park Terrace. Although the person was not assaulted, it is a troubling and unfortunate situation. However, I'm glad to inform you that earlier today we apprehended this individual and he is currently receiving medical attention. We have also contacted our Homeless Outreach Unit to ensure this individual receives the proper services needed and that we can move forward on correcting this troubling situation and improving the quality of life of our residents. Thank you for bringing this to my attention and I look forward to seeing you at our next meeting. Have a Blessed day.

A fine NYC moment. I was taken with this picture. I watched as an NYPD cop spent several minutes patiently walking a tourist through her MetroCard purchase. His name is Daniel Gorga.

Lynne Bottone-Garguilo Yes this is a beautiful thing...he is just being human to another human which we all should be doing....what about all the BS how humans r these days...no manners, courtesies, regard or compassion not to mention the foul language...why does no one speak of them..it's ok that police have to be accosted daily by these nitwits....everyone just stop judging and let these people do their jobs.
